EDEN APPOINTMENT ALARMS ITALY

Great Britain Moves to Tighten Mediterranean Loopholes

'Preparedness' Is Keynote As Anthony Eden Takes Position

Young Secretary Must Extricate England From Most Critical Problems Since War

LONDON, Dec. 23 (AP)—Anthony Eden formally took up the duties of foreign secretary as Great Britain forged ahead today to tighten all loopholes in the Mediterranean against the danger of an Italian attack.

A policy of preparedness was enunciated in authoritative quarters, after King George formally entrusted to Eden the formidable task of extricating Britain from its most critical international problems since the World war.

Delayed by a heavy fog, Eden arrived half an hour late at Sandringham house for an audience with King George and a meeting of the privy council.

Talk of further sanctions against Italy was suppressed for the time being, but the government proceeded with defense measures.

With the disclosure that the British and French general military and naval staffs have concluded "satisfactory" conversations, it was learned similar contacts are being made in other important capitals.

Britain's purpose is designed to get the present abstract status of mutual support under the league covenant down to stern and practical lines.

Further information on the readiness of various countries to act is being sought through the military and naval attaches in various capitals.

The 35-year-old Eden, whose charm and persuasiveness are combined with a strong belief in the League of Nations, is expected to move cautiously for the next month or so in order to avoid throwing the situation into new turmoil.

No definite action for further sanctions, therefore, is expected at least until well into January.

At that time, there is a growing feeling in responsible quarters. Premier Mussolini will be forced to act by the pressure of sanctions and the approaching rainy season.

NRA Officially Killed by F. R.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23 (AP)—The NRA, paralyzed by court decision since last May, was killed today by President Roosevelt.

In a brief executive order, Mr. Roosevelt said: "The national recovery administration and the office of administrator thereof are hereby terminated."

About 1,400 employees still on the active payroll for Jan. 1 are to go into the commerce department to complete code histories, industrial studies and file consolidation that have been the NRA's chores since the supreme court stripped it of code making and enforcement powers by the Schechter decision.

They were being brought back to prison after having appeared in Dedham superior court to receive additional sentences for burglary. The guard and the two convicts were handcuffed together.

Italians Report 600 Ethiopians Dead in Battle

ASMARA, Eritrea, Dec. 23 (AP)—The death of more than 600 Ethiopians and the wounding of 1,000 more was reported by the Italian high command tonight as a result of yesterday's fighting in the Tembien mountain region which ended with an Ethiopian flight up the Tonqua valley.

An official communique said only five white Italian officers were killed and three officers and 100 native troops wounded, although the Italians were pitted against 5,000 enemy warriors entrenched on a mountain ridge behind the two of Mariam Quorar.

The main body of Ethiopians, holding the bridge back of a Coptic church and a collection of mud huts forming the town, were commanded by Degiac Ali Chebbede, an uncle of the traitorous Ras Gugsa.

Supreme Court To Decide On New Deal Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23 (AP)—The supreme court again indicated its willingness to cooperate in speeding rulings on the constitutionality of new deal laws today by agreeing to pass on the Guffey act.

This action was taken at a brief session in which the court handed down four decisions and then recessed until Jan. 6 when it may render opinions on validity of the agricultural adjustment, Tennessee valley and Bankhead cotton control laws.

In all, six new deal acts are now before the court, including the AAA amendments and the PWA housing case, involving the right to condemn land.

On one of the four decisions today the justices upheld the federal district court for eastern Wisconsin in quashing mail fraud indictments against Halsey, Stuart and Company, Inc., Chicago investment bankers.

In agreeing to rule on the Guffey act, intended to stabilize the soft coal industry through a code embodying price-fixing and labor standards, the nine justices granted a request of the government and coal operators for a "short cut" in judicial procedure.

Two cases were before circuit courts of appeal, but both sides asked the supreme court to make jurisdiction at once instead of waiting for the circuit court decisions.

Solicitor General Stanley Reed, who has borne the brunt of the administration's defense of new deal laws, will ask the high tribunal Jan. 6 to set a date in late February or early March for arguments.

A case involving the right of the public works administration to condemn land for slum clearance projects will be argued before that time.

Two Convicts Shoot Guard, Then Escape

BOSTON, Dec. 23 (AP)—Two desperate convicts overpowered and shot a prison guard tonight, tossed him into the street and, after ejecting the driver, fled in a taxi in which they were being taken back to prison.

The guard, Walter Doucette, 45, father of six children, was expected to die at a city hospital. A bullet had passed through his abdomen.

The convicts, Edward Guaraneili, 26, and Antonio Repucci, 25, serving long terms for burglary after careers of crime that started in boyhood, lost themselves, temporarily at least, in Boston's congested north end Italian colony.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 23 (AP)—A "marvelous romance" of Thelma Todd and an unnamed San Francisco business man was projected tonight into the investigation of the comely film actress' mysterious death.

District Attorney Buron Fitts announced he had been told of the romance by Ida Lupino and Margaret Lindsay, actresses, who also related that Pasquale Di Cicco, Miss Todd's divorced husband had two engagements with her in the week before she died.

Miss Lupino, host at a night club party attended by Miss Todd two days before her body was found in her automobile Dec. 16, testified today before the grand jury which opened an investigation. Miss Lindsay also was a witness.

"Miss Todd asked me how my love life was coming along," Fitts quoted Miss Lupino. "I told her it was terrible, my hours at the studio were so long I had not been having any leisure time for romance."

"Then I asked her 'how's your love life coming along?' " "Just wonderful," she replied. "I'm having a marvelous romance with a San Francisco business man. He's just the grandest sort of a person. She didn't give his name."

"I believe Thelma was so gay and so happy at the party that night because she was so terribly in love," Miss Lupino continued. "She said to me: 'You know what gentlemen those San Franciscans are.' She and I had slipped away from the dance for a brief moment for a confidential chat. I just didn't think to ask her for the name of her new love."

The prosecutor said the actresses gave him the information while waiting to be called before the grand jury which began its investigation today.

Havner Ends Opening Talk; Defense to Begin This Morning

SIOUX CITY, Dec. 23 (AP)—The opening argument in the case of Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor charged with conspiracy to violate gambling laws, was completed by H. M. Havner, special prosecutor, Monday afternoon in district court. The defense will begin its argument tomorrow morning.

Whether Fred Free of T. E. Diamond, both attorneys for the defense, will speak first, was not disclosed.

After the defense has completed its arguments, Havner will make a closing argument, and the case will go to the jury following instructions by the judge. The state took a day and a half for its opening argument. Granting about the same time for the defense and allowing for the intervention of Christmas, the case would reach the jury Friday afternoon or Saturday morning.

Police Identify Bus Victims

HOPEWELL, Va., Dec. 23 (AP)—Police believed tonight they knew the identity of 12 victims of a bus accident here yesterday and had tentative identifications of two others. The 14 were killed when a Greyhound bus plunged through a drawspan into the Appomattox river early Sunday morning.

Police thought one body was that of Alma Davis, 363 W. 119th street, New York City. They found that name in a purse and later received a message from Mrs. Oliver Nance, Lumberton, N. C., with a description of Miss Parham. It fitted the body. A ticket and a baggage check to Lumberton were in the purse.

The second body is thought that of a Laura Davis, address unknown. The name was announced after a Christmas card addressed to her and signed "J. Jones" was found in a purse she carried.

Woman Shot During Happy Dinner Party

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 23 (AP)—A discharged kitchen helper, police said, shot and killed Mrs. Mary L. Ginder, housekeeper of Founder's hall at Haverford college, as she sat at a happy, holiday dinner party tonight.

Investigators said the slayer walked silently into a small first floor dining room in the hall, placed a double-barrelled shot gun almost at Mrs. Ginder's head, and fired.

A few minutes later a Negro identified as Roy Crittendon of suburban Ardmore, surrendered.

He was quoted as stating: "Here, take this shotgun. I just shot a woman at Haverford college."

Turkey Seeks To Strengthen "Dardanelles"

PARIS, Dec. 23—Turkey was represented in informed Parisian quarters tonight to be seeking France's consent to the fortification of the strategic Dardanelles in preparation for a mutual assistance pact against any Italian attack.

Today's visit to Premier Pierre Laval by Tefvik Rustu Aras, Turkish foreign minister, was considered highly important by diplomatic on-lookers. Officials said, however, as far as they knew, the question of fortifications was not raised.

Fernand de Brinon, friend of M. Laval, wrote in the newspaper, L'Information, that Turkey's "price for complete cooperation is not only the abolition of the freedom of the straits under the treaty of Lausanne, but eventually the return of Rhodes to Turkey of a special regime for that island."

Localities Must Care for Own Unemployed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23 (AP)—Full responsibility for caring for all needy unemployed beyond the 3,500,000 on federal work relief was placed squarely upon local governments and private charity today by President Roosevelt.

The $4,000,000,000 work relief fund, the president said at his press conference, was calculated to take care of only 3,500,000 persons. He said he had to stick to that limitation, and that any other needy persons, either employable or unemployable, must be cared for locally.

Follows Hopkins His statement followed by a few days a report from Harry L. Hopkins, WPA chief, that the relief situation had been affected "adversely" by winter conditions, and attributing the small decrease in big-city relief rolls to the fact that many now were seeking aid for the first time.

Responsibility for the unemployed already has been handed back to the states. The chief executive further expressed confidence today that the 3,500,000 estimate of the nation's needy and jobless employables was an accurate one.

Asked about estimates that there were 11,000,000 unemployed in the nation, the president answered by asking for a definition of "unemployed."

He asserted a census of the jobless was impossible because of the difficulty in finding such a definition.

The president nevertheless said government figures showed 5,000,000 persons had found work since the spring of 1933 in those industries which report employment. Undoubtedly, he added, others had gotten jobs in agriculture and in the industries which do not report.

Fascists See Secretary As 'Chief Enemy' Of Mussolini

ROME, Dec. 23 (AP)—Many fascists said tonight Great Britain had chosen Italy's "chief enemy" to tighten sanctions, after wrecking plans for peace.

That was the open reaction to the appointment of Anthony Eden as foreign secretary. Officials, themselves, were cautious, but the blackshirt on the street took the appointment as a challenging blow in the face.

The contention of Sir Samuel Hoare, Eden's predecessor, that Premier Mussolini intended to attack England if all sanctions were adopted brought no denial.

It fitted in with Il Duce's many defiant speeches.

The editor Virginio Gayda, in his supposedly inspired Giornale d'Italia editorial, wrote: "Europe is foundering in disorder. The only clear signs are those of destruction."

Xmas Spirit Felt Even in Makale

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMY AT MAKALE (AP)—The Christmas spirit it has reached the war zone and hovers over the barbed wire entanglements behind which thousands of Italian troops are massed.

Many boats have arrived from Italy, jammed with gaily wrapped packages. By degrees these filtered to the front, where many soldiers are spending their first Christmas away from home.

Four airplane flights have been arranged for the transmission of gifts and holiday greetings. Making speedy flights, the planes are leaving Asmara one day and arriving in Rome the next day.

Part of the Italian troops in the lowlands near ports will be able to celebrate Christmas even in the traditional southern Italian way—by eating eels.

The troops have sent thousands of presents home, chiefly little gold Coptic crosses and other gold-plated ornaments the Ethiopians wear.

What's What At a Glance

By CHARLES STEWART (Central Press Staff Writer) WASHINGTON—New deal members of both houses of congress are arriving in Washington, in a much perturbed frame of mind over the growth of tax consciousness throughout the country.

It isn't so much that taxes are high. What worries new deal politicians is the fact that the newer forms of taxes are so plainly visible to ordinary folk, with millions of votes to cast.

Income taxation is painful, but to comparatively few. Tariff taxation is a load on everyone, but not many realize that they are helping to carry it.

Sales levies not only hurt, but great numbers know what is hurting them. Taxes becoming noticeable.

To be sure, sales taxation, as yet, is mainly a state, not a federal, method of raising government money.

On a few commodities the buyer does, indeed, pay an impost to Uncle Sam. Such a collection is represented by the revenue stamp on a package of cigars, for example.

That's the report, anyway, which returning legislators bring in from the "hinterland."

States Annoy Most

Experienced politicians agree that, in the course of time, the public doubtless will become accustomed to general sales levies and submit to them as indifferently as it submits now to the federal cigarette tax.

In the course of time, no new dealer dares to hope that the public will have arrived at this acquiescent frame of mind between now and next November—with its election day.

It is true that the most annoying forms of sales taxation thus far have been of state creation. Uncle Sam isn't responsible for the system which calls for the making of change for a five cent drink, illustratively, inclusion of a handful of one or two mill tokens.

But national politicians do not believe that the average citizen will distinguish between the state and federal governments.

What Others Think

ITALY DISAPPOINTED

That Italian hopes ran high when the Anglo-French proposals were made public, and that a spirit of gloom settled upon the Italian people when the plan broke down, dispatches from Rome passed by the censor have freely admitted.

There is apparently a feeling in Italy that the government missed a fine opportunity. If it had at once pronounced the Anglo-French offers entirely satisfactory, the issue might have been closed quickly.

But Mussolini felt it necessary to protest that the terms of the settlement did not give him enough, and to demand that certain points be "clarified" before he could accept the scheme as a basis for negotiations.

While he was delaying, the bottom dropped out. France and Great Britain abandoned their project and the League of Nations rejected it as wholly inadmissible.

Now, however, some one speaking in Rome for the government intimates that the peace treaty is still alive. It was offered to the Italian government, which still has it under consideration.

Until Rome speaks, the fate of the treaty is uncertain, though its authors have officially stated that it is dead and buried.

The legalistic or metaphysical view of the Italian spokesman will probably not prevail with the fascist grand council, which is expected to adopt a resolution asserting that the war in Africa must be pressed with new vigor.

In the Italian defection over the dimming of their bright expectations there is one element which must seem peculiarly ironic and bitter for the fascist regime. It was defeated in this instance by a democratic movement, finding expression in a free press and free parliaments.

But democracy and all its works have long been a subject of denunciation and ridicule in Italy. Mussolini has more than once made a mock of it. Italians would have no more of it. As for freedom of opinion, no one should be allowed to think or say anything of which the government did not approve.

Yet it was these despised instruments of the popular will which in France and in Great Britain and at Geneva were made use of to cut the life out of the Anglo-French peace treaty and to turn Italian hopes into despondency.

Fascist Italy must now think worse of democracy than ever.—New York Times.

Scott's Scrapbook by R. J. SCOTT

A Washington Bystander

WASHINGTON—There was one aspect of the republican gathering to name the next convention city which invited considerable attention.

That was a small-sized flare-up of "independence" of "old guard" leadership. A younger and largely western wing of the committee under the plotting National Committeeman John Hamilton of Kansas, comparatively a newcomer, mustered an almost two-to-one strength against certain proposals by eastern veterans.

The actual points involved were probably not very important as indicated which way the convention cat will jump when a real conservative-liberal test comes as to platform or ticket. The fact that there is a surge of independence in the committee might be very important.

Wadsworth Mentioned

To many onlookers with memories of the republican deadlock of 1920, the situation has seemed to point toward a similar set-up at Cleveland next year. There have been those willing to wager even now that the up-shot will be a negotiated ticket headed by an eastern conservative with a midwestern tail to it. Representative Wadsworth of New York is repeatedly mentioned as the probable presidential nominee by those who think that is the way the convention will go. They say a Wadsworth-and-Landon ticket would be a good guess.

With Hamilton of Kansas leading the successful move to reject eastern old guard suggestions as to how the convention should be made up, obviously the idea that Governor Landon might accept second place gets a setback. The governor's college classmate friends, the first Landon routing section, insist that he would have nothing to do with any such proposal. Hamilton's activity seems to confirm that.

The specific question involved at the committee meeting was whether states, which enjoyed in 1932 the convention vote "bonus" in representation that came of having gone republican in 1928, were to retain those extra votes even though they went democratic in 1932. Old guard party leaders like Charles D. Hilles of New York wanted to ignore the 1932 defections. The Hamilton led wing rolled 'em under.

Spirit of Independence

Checking over the 34 states that lost their former "bonus" convention votes by that committee action, it is difficult to see that any very material change in the relative voting strength between east and west will result in the June convention although an aggregate of some 150 votes was involved. In some degree the east does lose out; but not enough, presumably, to make that a highly important factor. What looms as actually important, therefore, is that spirit of independence among the younger party leaders on the committee.

There was a time in 1912 when old guard republican leadership deliberately sacrificed a virtual certainty of electing Theodore Roosevelt rather than relinquish to him control of the party organization.

Chubb explained he was too old to change his allegiance and preferred "to stay on the side of my birth."

Reinforcements were coming up when the Ethiopians attempted to turn the Italian flank.

Extremely high Ethiopian losses resulted from an "exceptional" Italian aerial bombardment, the commander said.

A squadron of planes machine gunned the ranks of defenders, returning time after time to spectacular attack.

Meanwhile the Italian troops climbed the precipitous slopes, from bush to bush and rock to rock, to engage the Ethiopians in battle.

The tribesmen concentrated their fire on the white officers, the high command said.

For the first time in the campaign, the Ethiopians left not only arms but quantities of ammunition as they fled, the communique continued.

After the battle the native Eritrean troops, who bore the brunt of the day-long fighting, spread their canvas tents on the field to form the word "graze," signifying their thanks for the assistance of the war planes.

The battle was considered significant because the Ethiopians were strongly entrenched on a mountain ridge and controlled a fertile 30-mile square plain where much corn and other food is raised.

The Italian high command expected the seizure of this source of supply would hamper the enemy greatly and possibly force them to quit the Tembien mountain region for good.

Desperate Fire

They have put up a desperate fight for this area. Officers said the Italian artillery achieved its first importance of the campaign, covering the Italian counter attack effectively with a barrage reminiscent of the World war.

The battle was said to have involved about 5,000 Ethiopians and an entire Italian division, the Ethiopians retreating after the Italians had met them in hand-to-hand fighting and had used heavy guns and airplanes against them.

Eritrean Askaris pursued the fleeing warriors into the valley of the Tonqua, about 10 miles to the west of the scene of conflict.

At first the Ethiopians sought to take advantage of the rugged terrain and turn the left Italian flank, but they were driven off after a four hour attack and were in full flight by nightfall.

DRAWN INTO THELMA TODD PROBE

Margaret Lindsay and Pat Di Cicco

Another Hollywood figure drawn into the official probe of the death of Thelma Todd is Margaret Lindsay, screen actress, who is reported engaged to Pat Di Cicco, former husband of Thelma. Miss Lindsay and Di Cicco are above. Miss Lindsay, who was with Di Cicco at the same night club the evening Thelma was feted by a party in her honor, was subpoenaed by the grand jury as a witness in the case.

Meanwhile, Di Cicco, who took an airplane flight to New York "to spend the holidays with my family," said he would return to Hollywood to aid authorities in their searching investigation of the mysterious death of the blonde actress.

A New Yorker

At Large

NEW YORK — Few Broadway feuds come to such a happy ending as the one between George Jessel, the comic, and Samuel Raphaelson, the playwright. George is back from Hollywood and is thundering away these evenings at the Versailles club on Fifty-seventh street.

Raphaelson is also in town and he tells me the story. It all happened in 1925, when both were a little younger and less certain about the future. Sam had written a play called "The Jazz Singer," and George was playing the lead.

It was a happy combination, this, or so it seemed from the dark side of the footlights. Each evening the house thundered, and each evening George would take his bows and then venture a little speech. These were innocent speeches, but Mr. Raphaelson thought Mr. Jessel was taking too much credit for the success of the show. The more he thought about this, the angrier he became.

When he reached the boiling point he sat down and wrote a play—a play about Mr. Jessel, about a kid who came from the lower east side and found fame on Broadway.

Mr. Raphaelson wasn't very subtle about this play. He was writing everyone to know it. Neither did he conceal his feeling for Mr. Jessel. He called the play "The Magnificent Heel."

The late Horace Liveright was tempted to produce it, but gave up the idea. Then Crosby Gage, torn with a production of it, but it fell through and the script bounced back to its original home. By this time it looked pretty silly to Raphaelson.

Since everyone who ever had the lead in his high school play is in Hollywood now, it was inevitable that George and Sam should meet one day, as they did. Soon everything was all patched up and George was asking Sam if he didn't have a play for him.

Then Raphaelson dug out "The Magnificent Heel." George said he liked it. Raphaelson said he wouldn't when he knew who it was written about; but Raphaelson was wrong about this.

Jessel still likes it and will appear in it sometime in January with Alex Yokol as the producer.

Wisconsin Goes Down to First Defeat at Hands of DePaul

Badgers Fall To Chi Quintet By 27-22 Score

Winners Choke Off Late Wisconsin Rally in Chicago Stadium

CHICAGO, Dec. 23 (AP)—DePaul choked off a late Wisconsin rally tonight to hand the Badgers their first basketball defeat in six starts this season, 27 to 22, before 2,500 spectators in the Chicago stadium.

DePaul, led by Ray Adams and Nick Yost, worked up a 17 to 12 lead at the half, and about midway of the second period had a 22 to 14 margin. At that point, Fritz Wegner, Badger guard, went on a rampage, dropping in four field goals to cut the Demons' edge to three points—22 to 20.

DePaul tightened up in the last eight minutes, and on two threats, worked Fred Knez and Yost loose for baskets. Ed Stege's under-the-basket shot produced the last Badger points. Wisconsin failed to make good on a free throw in five attempts, while DePaul connected on only three out of nine.

Concentrate On Air Game For Stanford

Running Game Proves Strong as Wilson Shows Ability

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 23 (AP)—Southern Methodist is ready for Stanford with daring forwards, baffling laterals and a running game as solid as iron.

This was demonstrated today as Coaches Matty Bell, Vic Hurt and Charlie Trigg sent their Rose-Bowl-bound football squad through a stiff dummy scrimmage.

The workout gave Bobby Wilson, all-American halfback, Johnny Sprague, Shelby Burt, Harry Shuford, J. R. Smith and Bob Finley opportunities to run formations that will be used against Stanford.

Coach Bell refused to predict the outcome in the Rose Bowl, but he said:

"I'll give one guarantee—that the Mustangs will show California a sky full of footballs and gridiron turf covered with flying cleats."

S.M.U. Gets Rockne Memorial Trophy

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 23 (AP)—The Knute K. Rockne memorial trophy that is emblematic of the highest ranking football team in the United States, today was awarded the Southern Methodist Mustangs.

The Methodists, champions of the Southwest conference and foes of Stanford in the Tournament of Roses classic at Pasadena, Cal., New Year's day, finished a nose ahead of the Minnesota Gophers in ratings compiled by Frank G. Dickinson, professor of the University of Illinois.

Dickinson, who admitted his wife "does most of the work" on the complicated system of rating 110 of the nation's outstanding football teams, said it was not until the eleventh hour that Southern Methodist copped the trophy.

The Methodists finished several percentage points ahead of Minnesota, chiefly because of the all-around brilliant record of the Southwest conference, said Dickinson.

See Increase In Production Of Pigs in '35

AAA Officials Forecast This Will Prevent Return of Top Price

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23 (AP)—An estimate of a 31 per cent increase in the 1935 fall pig crop brought a forecast from AAA officials today that this would prevent a return to the peak pork prices of several months ago.

One official said, however, that prices for the entire crop year—Oct. 1, 1935, to Sept. 30, 1936—might be slightly above the average for the previous crop year.

Gerald B. Thorne, director of the division of feed grains and livestock, said the increase over last year's crop followed estimates made when the AAA was drafting the 1936-37 corn-hog program.

The agriculture department reported that the combined spring and fall pig crop for 1935 would be about five per cent below the total for 1934, but that there was a prospective increase of 24 per cent in the number of sows to farrow in the spring of 1935.

The estimate that 8,220,000 sows would farrow next spring, however, represented a decrease of four per cent from the 1934 spring figure and 29.2 per cent from averages for the springs of 1932 and 1933.

Aldermen Supervise Clearing of Streets

Supervised by Aldermen George Bouck and Earl Kurtz, a gang of men last night removed closely packed snow from loop curbs. Parking in the district was prohibited after 11:30 p.m. and the men, aided by a motor plow, scooped the snow to the center of the street. The work started at 11:45 p.m. and lasted until the small hours of the morning.

Blue Christmas In Iowa City — Green Lights Not Wanted

Fresh green and flaming red have always been associated with Christmas, but this year it's different—at least in Iowa City—and blue is the color of the season.

So great has been the demand for blue Christmas tree lights here that every afternoon has seen the electric shops, department stores, five-and-tens and drug stores placing hurry calls for more and more lights. Even the jobbers are hard put to supply the demand.

Along with this preference for blue has come a strange aversion for the green illuminations—traditionally a Christmas color.

Yes, it's a blue Christmas.

P. L. Monical Escapes Death

Local Man Overcome By Monoxide Gas In Missouri Town

P. L. Monical, 702 Myrtle avenue, was brought back from the brink of death Sunday, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Kirksville, Mo., which reported that Monical and a companion were overcome by carbon monoxide fumes and revived nearly one-half hour later. The driver of a car in which Monical and Genevieve Strye of Ottumwa were riding thought the pair had fallen asleep, and did not discover their condition until he stopped at a filling station between Queen City and Lancaster, Mo.

Dr. O. P. Grow of Queen City was summoned. Realizing that action was necessary, the doctor picked up a hitch hiker and instructed him in artificial respiration. Both applied respiration successfully and three hours later the couple was fully revived.

Monical and Miss Strye were en route to Kirksville for a family reunion. The local man is expected to return home today, having remained in Ottumwa under a doctor's care.

American Missionary Physician Is Seeking New Antidote in Effort To Stamp Out Malaria Fever in India

By Central Press

TOLEDO, Ohio — An American missionary physician to India, back in the United States on leave, is determined to find a new means of combatting malaria. Malaria has killed thousands in the near east this year. He believes a new antidote can be discovered.

Dr. Virgil E. Zigler, a native of Bryan, Ohio, who was graduated from the University of Cincinnati, tells of fighting disease against almost insurmountable odds in India.

Following six and a half years in the interior of India, Dr. Zigler is home with his wife, who was a graduate nurse in Cincinnati. Dr. Zigler will return with the most modern equipment and the latest knowledge. It not only is the people of India he desires to relieve, but he hopes to help in preventing disease originating there from spreading throughout the world.

Aided by Minister To assist Dr. Zigler to achieve his ambition, the Rev. Dr. Alvin E. Bell, of Toledo, author of a weekly Sunday school lesson that has gained great prominence, is beginning a campaign for a unique motor truck to be sent to India when Dr. Zigler returns in 1936.

The truck will be a miniature mobile hospital containing operating table, sterilizing plant, water tank, medicine chests, instrument cases, tents, cooking utensils and sleeping quarters.

On the side of the truck there will be lettered in the dialect of the province this message: "Good Will Motor Hospital. An expression of good will from the newspaper readers of America to the people of India."

The truck will include even rifles to be used against tiger and panther.

Not only has Dr. Zigler had to fight all the diseases infesting the tropics, but he has had to kill wild beasts also to protect his patients.

Chief "Foes"

But ignorance and medicine men (or witch doctors) are his chief adversaries.

And there are no conveniences—no running water, no electricity, no gas.

Yet Dr. Zigler and his young wife have thrived there. Their two-year-old child, born in tropical India, speaks an Indian dialect with the same facility as English.

Dr. Bell, as a Lutheran minister, was instrumental in having Dr. Zigler give up practice in Cincinnati in order to become a medical missionary in this region of India, where medical aid is sorely needed.

Sale of Book to Aid

Dr. Bell hopes to provide the "Good Will Motor Hospital" through offering a special edition of his Bible study book, "The Gist of the Bible Book by Book," and devoting the proceeds to the purchase of the truck and its equipment.

Dr. Bell believes that the provision of a fleet of such "Good Will Motor Hospitals" engaged in the relief of human misery in such nations as India, China and Japan would be an effective contribution toward the cause of international good will. The next field he hopes to supply with a similar hospital unit is in the Shantung province of the now troubled section of North China.

In the meantime, Dr. Zigler plans to go to Tulane university, New Orleans, for a special study of tropic diseases. He believes that for certain types of malaria a new antidote other than quinine will have to be found—and his study will be to that end.

Give Exams Thursday

Equitable Insurance Company Files Suit In District Court

The Equitable Life Insurance company of Iowa yesterday filed suit in district court for a judgment of $22,492.92 against Johnson county property owned by the Joseph Skriver estate.

portant for control of the Ottoman coast." The island has been under Italian sovereignty since 1923.

(The Dardanelles, famous since Xerxes' army crossed on a bridge of boats to enter Europe in 480 B.C., with the more easterly Bosphorus Straits provided the first gateway between Europe and Asia.

(About 40 miles long and from one to four miles wide, the narrow Dardanelles passage unites the Sea of Marmora and the Aegean sea. Rhodes lies in the latter.

(Under the treaty of Lausanne the Dardanelles and Bosphorus regions were demilitarized. Prior to the World war, under a treaty with the great power, Turkey could bar the passage to any non-Turkish ship. It's military and naval importance was proved conclusively in 1915 when the allies attempted, with complete failure, to force the Dardanelles.)

There was a feeling in official circles that France would get inclined to support the fortification request because it would, necessarily, involve treaty revision.

De Brinon also asserted that Spain, because of internal complications, has delayed her reply to Britain's "feeler" on the question of aid in case of a Mediterranean attack.

M. Laval also discussed Mediterranean aid plans with Nicholas Socrates Politis of Greece, and saw Vittorio Cerruti, the Italian ambassador.

He was understood to have told Cerruti that he could not undertake to negotiate new peace terms.

In usually informed quarters a French hope that Ethiopian rains soon will halt Italy's war, obviating the necessity for League of Nations oil sanctions, was disclosed.

Other sources disclosed that the Soviet Union is seeking a 1,000,000,000 (about $65,000,000) loan in this country to finance Soviet purchases from French factories.

Whether or not the proposed purchases involve war materials was not made known.

Funeral For Ed Koser Will Be at 2 P.M.

Funeral service for Ed Koser, 65, for the last 34 years mayor of Coralville, will be conducted at the Hohenshuh chapel today at 2 p.m. The Rev. Sylvester E. Ellis, pastor of the Methodist church, will be in charge. Burial will be in the Coralville cemetery.

Mr. Koser died Saturday evening at his Coralville grocery store following a heart attack.

The Johnson county district court and the clerk of district court's office will be closed during the hour of the funeral today, courthouse officials announced yesterday. Court-house flags were at half staff yesterday in memory of Mr. Koser.

wood sources that the family's decision to seek safety in England was hastened by the recent activity of Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey in the case of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted of the kidnap-killing of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., in 1932.

Even as the news of their departure became known, Hauptmann's appeal for clemency was given to the New Jersey board of pardons. He is under sentence to die the week of Jan. 13.

The actual departure of the Lindbergh family was as secret as it was unexpected and dramatic.

They boarded the American Importer of the American Merchant lines in New York Saturday night, putting to sea after midnight.

The freighter, of 7,500 gross tons, has only a limited passenger accommodation. All other passenger reservations were cancelled at the last minute and bookings transferred to another ship. When the vessel sailed, Colonel Lindbergh and his family traveled alone. Radio information from the American Importer today stated the Lindberghs were not aboard, but this was believed to be in line with their desire for secrecy.

The freighter is "due in Cobb," Ireland, Dec. 29, and Liverpool the next day. This means that Christmas will be observed by the Lindberghs alone at sea.

Alabama is the only state in the union in which the legislature meets only once in four years. All others meet either annually or bi-annually.
