Ottumwa Grand Jury Indicts 6

Names Will Be Withheld As Officers Arrest Those Indicted

Believe Federal Agents Will Make Arrests And Arraign All In Davenport at Once

By RICHARD EVERETT
(Daily Iowan City Editor)

OTTUMWA, Jan. 23 (Special)—Six Iowa City persons were indicted by a federal grand jury here on charges of conspiracy to evade federal alcohol tax, it has been learned on good authority by The Daily Iowan.

Names of those indicted will be withheld until arrests in the case are made, although the grand jury's report and the indictments will be filed at Davenport. It was also learned that the trial, which probably will be held within a few weeks, is likely to be heard in the Davenport federal court room before Judge Charles A. Dewey.

It is believed that the six indicted will at once be arrested by federal agents and arraigned in Davenport, at which time the names will be made public.

Speculation was rife both here and in Iowa City as to the names of the six, and whether or not all are men. A possibility exists, it was said here on unofficial authority, that several additional indictments may be returned before the investigation is closed.

Although no official statement was forthcoming from those in charge here, it was understood that the six indictments were against Iowa Citizens, while any others returned may include persons from surrounding territory.

Undercover Work
Eight federal agents who were said to have done extensive undercover work in Iowa City last summer were in constant attendance outside the grand jury rooms at the federal building here throughout the day. Most of the agents had been called in at various times during the investigation.

Several additional local witnesses appeared on the scene today, but apparently were excused after only a short interview. Two women were included in the latter group.

It was explained here today that the government is "interested only in those making, peddling, or possibly consuming bootleg alcohol, not in those dealing in 'Spirits of Peoria.'" The latter, brought in from Illinois, is tax-paid alcohol, although illegal in Iowa.

Interest in the case has now shifted to Davenport, where watch will be kept for the grand jury report, along with any indictments filed.

Temperatures Slowly Rising Toward Zero

DES MOINES, Jan. 23 (AP)—Slowly but surely Iowa's shriveling temperatures climbed upward today and the weatherman said they would probably reach near zero readings early tomorrow.

After that, he said, they'll continue back toward normal.

The low readings tonight, he said, undoubtedly will be the highs for the last 24 hours, predicting a minimum of 10 below in the northwest with zero in other sections.

As night fell temperatures ranged from zero to 15 degrees below, the warmest it has been since the cold wave lashed the state early yesterday morning with a frigid wind that sent temperatures toppling to a low of -36 at Emmetsburg.

The upward climb averaged 10 to 20 degrees from last night's lows when the mercury hit 30 at Cedar Rapids and ranged down from 20 to 50 over most of the state.

Iowa Citizens Emerge From Sub-zero Wave

Remember 'way back when 10 degrees below zero used to be cold weather?

Iowa Citizens last night were emerging from an almost two-day hibernation as the thermometer crept upward from a low of 22 degrees on the wrong side of the zero mark.

With the present trend toward weather just below the zero mark, and with the knife-like wind abating a trifle, local affairs last night assumed more of a normal air.

All highways were reported open to at least one-way traffic yesterday, and across-state transportation again began moving after a virtual paralysis because of cold and drifts. Trains and busses moved on schedule, while all west-bound air traffic landed here instead of Des Moines, due to dangerous condition of the Capital City landing field.

"In several sectors, our troops occupied new and important positions, repulsing counter-attacks by the enemy. The losses of the enemy amounted to several thousand men killed."

An official Italian communique today said "there have been sharp combats on the Eritrean front."

NEW KING SHATTERS TRADITION BY FLYING

Husband Slays 5 Children, Wife; Commits Suicide as Posse Nears

Slayer Burns Home, Bodies

DANVILLE, Ill., Jan. 23 (AP)—The seven members of the William A. Albers family were found shot and bludgeoned to death today in a flaming farm home.

A posse of Edgar county officials and residents who trudged to the snowbound house in 20 below zero weather made the gruesome discovery.

Reconstruct Tragedy
A hasty reconstruction of the tragedy led them to believe Albers had killed his wife and five children in a demented rampage a week or 10 days ago, and had lived in the grisly household until investigators approached today. They reasoned he then made pyres for each of his victims—mattresses soaked in kerosene—set them afire and slew himself.

Slays Family in Sleep
Apparently the woman, four boys and a girl—all clad in night gowns—had been slain in their sleep.

Posse leaders asserted the belief John, 17, Wilford, 14, and Forrest, 16, had been beaten to death. A bloodstained baseball bat was found in their room. Rifle bullets had ended the lives of Mrs. Augusta Albers, 45, Gene, 4, Shirley Anne, 2, and Albers, 54. All had been shot through the head.

Albers' body was sprawled on the floor (See No. ONE, Page 8)

Charges Japan, Germany, Italy Threaten Peace

GENEVA, Jan. 23 (AP)—Bitter debate broke out in the "family of nations" today when Soviet Russia's delegate charged by implication before the league council that Japan, Germany and Italy have policies of aggression constituting "the utmost danger to world peace."

Maxim Litvinoff, Moscow's commissar for foreign affairs, made the attack upon the three.

He was discussing the soviet's appeal to the league against Uruguay's recent action in breaking off diplomatic relations with her. This report was virtually postponed until the May meeting of the council of Spain and Munch of Denmark was appointed to investigate the possibility of conciliation.

Report Fire's Out In Hell's Kitchen

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio, Jan. 23 (AP)—Hell's Kitchen, tiny Belmont county settlement, froze up today.

Twenty six below zero temperatures exhausted the coal supply and trucks were unable to reach the settlement of half a dozen houses.

Residents abandoned their homes and trudged through the snow to stay at nearby Barton.

Edward VIII Prays Before Father's Bier

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Britain's King Edward VIII stood in silent prayer today before the body of his father, George V, borne in death to lie in a catafalque of state in medieval Westminster hall.

Haggard and apparently weary, he prayed with all England as the body of King George was placed in its black and gold resting place amid simple ceremonies, at the end of a 100-mile journey from rustic Sandringham where the monarch died peacefully Monday night.

Tonight stalwart yeomen and household troops, their brilliant uniforms partly hidden by cloaks of sombre black, stood watch over the body as it lay in its oaken casket, beneath the royal standard.

Eight persons were all who stood there through the night. At each of the four corners of the purple based catafalque was a life-guard, head bowed and immobile, resting on his sword.

Recommended by the committee on courses of study, the resolution adopted reads: "That all graduates of approved four year high schools be admitted, upon certification, and without conditions, to the college of liberal arts."

Under the new ruling Iowa high schools whose courses previously conformed to strict entrance requirements will now be free to plan their curricula as their faculties see fit.

Congress Plans New Taxes To Pay Farmers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—New taxes to finance continued federal payments to farmers were definitely projected today as a fresh congressional storm sent the administration's AAA substitute bill to drydock for repairs.

Sharply conflicting reports over what happened at a secret meeting of Secretary Wallace with a senate agriculture subcommittee left in doubt the extent to which the bill—introduced yesterday—will be amended.

New AAA Farm Bill Arouses Storm In Congress Circles

Everyone agreed that there would be immediate changes, including one suggested by Wallace to provide that subsidies after two years would be granted only to states which cooperate in a permanent program not yet worked out, but based on the idea of "little AAA's" in the 48 states.

As Wallace left the committee with instructions to prepare tentative amendments, Attorney General Cummings told his press conference new tax legislation was "in progress" of formation by the justice department and the treasury.

Asked if this would include retroactive enactment of the invalidated AAA processing levies, Cummings said "you might of course, take that as your conclusion." He declined to comment on whether this would be done or whether he believed such a law would be constitutional.

Protect Killer Convict Confesses To Shooting of 14-Year-Old Girl

FRESNO, Cal., Jan. 23 (AP)—Thick prison walls protected Elton Stone, 30, paroled convict, tonight from possible mob action while authorities moved for swift judgment on his alleged confession that he fatally shot and disrobed Mary Stammer, 14, here last Nov. 24.

District Attorney Dan Conway said Stone admitted shooting through a window to kill the daughter of a prominent Fresno attorney as she sat reading in her room.

Sheriff George J. Overholt discounted Stone's statement that he killed her because he wanted to "get" a member of the Stammer family.

Walter H. Stammer, the girl's father, asserted he never had heard of Stone before.

Standards Of L.A. College Won't Demand Mathematics

A resolution permitting graduates of approved four year high schools to enter the University of Iowa college of liberal arts without condition was passed by the faculty of the college at a meeting Wednesday, Dean George F. Kay announced last night.

This action will become effective when it has been approved by the committee on secondary school relationships and by the faculties of Iowa State college and Iowa State Teachers college.

Reads
Recommended by the committee on courses of study, the resolution adopted reads: "That all graduates of approved four year high schools be admitted, upon certification, and without conditions, to the college of liberal arts."

Pending the adoption of this resolution by Iowa State college and Iowa State Teachers college the following changes in entrance requirements, already accepted by the committee and the other colleges, will go into effect at once.

Although 15 units of work are still required, mathematics courses pass from the prescribed group to the optional, making nine prescribed units and six optional. Maximum limits are removed from the study of English, the physical and biological sciences, and the history, civics, economics, and sociology group.

Unclassified students 21 or over in this college need not fulfill any entrance requirements if their first 30 hours and freshman tests show an average scholarship record of C or better. Other minor changes are made.

Seventy "Isle" Convicts Strike

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23 (AP)—Some 70 of the 259 convicts in the federal "Devil's Isle" prison on San Francisco bay's Alcatraz island remained in solitary confinement tonight because of refusal to work.

Warden James Johnston said, however, the "strike" in the prison laundry, in which about 100 convicts participated Monday, was ended.

The convicts were being released from "solitary and bread and water" as they consented to resume work, and Warden Johnston said he did not look for further trouble.

Hoffman to Approve Lie Test for Bruno But Doubts Legality

TRENTON, N.J., Jan. 23 (AP)—Governor Harold C. Hoffman gave his support today to a proposed lie detector test for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, but expressed doubt it could be made without the approval of Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, the trial judge.

The possibilities of the test were explained to the governor by Dr. William Moulton Marston of New York City, one of the originators, who said it was "highly probable" a confession could be obtained from Hauptmann, if guilty. Dr. Marston said the test detects deception by "blood pressure symptoms."

SIoux CITY, Ia., Jan. 23 (AP)—After reading a published statement from Des Moines in which H. M. Havner, former special prosecutor in the trial of Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor on a conspiracy charge accused him of violating an agreement in connection with the disposal of the O'Connor case, County Attorney M. E. Rawlings said: "Not as a matter of reply to Mr. Havner, but rather as an explanation to those who may be misled by his statement relative to the O'Connor case—it would appear that Mr. Havner is misinformed. I simply asked the court to dismiss the indictment and Mr. O'Connor's attorney thereupon requested the court to direct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty. This request the court granted. Further, I do not recall ever having made any promise to Mr. Havner relative to the disposition of any of the so called graft indictments."

Complex Legal Battle Looms Over AAA Processing Taxes

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—One of the most complex legal tangles on record was foreseen in legal circles today as a result of the supreme court's order for return of $200,000,000 in impounded AAA processing taxes.

Reimbursement of the funds, it was stated, promises to touch off a barrage of lawsuits because of the conflict of interests involved processing taxes in motion disbursement of the impounded funds.

Processors of cotton, wheat, corn and meat constitute the principal focal points on which the legal battles will be fought.

As explained in legal quarters, the issue is what is to be done with the money returned as well as to whom it shall be returned.

Conflicting interests are the corporations receiving the funds, the corporations' customers (most of them retail dealers), the stockholders and the ultimate consumers.

The position of the consumers, it is stressed, presents a paradox inasmuch as in most instances they were believed to have borne the cost of the processing taxes in terms of higher prices paid for bread, meat, overalls and such staples.

Legal experts agree, nevertheless, that an equitable reimbursement to the consumer is hedged with insurmountable practical difficulties.

This leaves the corporation, the retail distributors and the corporation's shareholders as the remaining practical contestants.

NUMBER THREE

liberal policy presented by the committee on courses of study to the faculty may be summarized as follows:

Summarization

- Discarding specific entrance requirements weeds into a unit secondary and higher education.

2. This proposal concedes to high schools complete control over their own curricula, for which they are fitted as specialists in that field. It is the judgment of the committee that this policy will not lower standards, when all factors are considered. It will make for a closer articulation of high school and college programs rather than a barrier between them.

3. The plan in operation until this time, requiring units in certain fields, has never led to satisfactory accomplishment in these fields as preparation for university work.

Thorough Knowledge

- Both the high school and the college will be expected to encourage a well-rounded curriculum. This involves a thorough knowledge of the student's aptitudes and interests, as well as steady guidance.

5. Since 1919 the three Iowa state institutions for higher education have admitted all graduates of four-year public high schools regardless of deficiencies, which were made up in college.

Steps have already been taken by the college of liberal arts to insure closer cooperation with the high schools by supplying them with information about the work being done here and about the needs of higher education.

Siegel Gives Extra Surety On His Bond

SIoux CITY, Jan. 23 (AP)—Additional surety on his $5,000 bond was given here Thursday afternoon by Joe Siegel, whose conviction on a charge of manslaughter was affirmed by the supreme court, Thursday.

Siegel has 30 days in which to file an application for a rehearing by the supreme court.

As soon as M. E. Rawlings, county attorney, had confirmed the newspaper report that the conviction had been affirmed, he filed with Judge Robert H. Munger, who presided at the Siegel trial, an application asking that the amount of Siegel's bond be increased to $7,500 and an additional surety be ordered.

Maurice Levich, professional bondsman, had been the sole surety on the bond.

Judge Munger did not increase the amount of the bond but did grant the county attorney's request that Siegel be recommitted to jail until additional surety was furnished.

F. F. Faville and George Yeaman, attorneys for Siegel, opposed the request for additional surety but the court overruled their motion to set aside his previous order. A. L. Stein, also a professional bondsman, then was accepted with Levich as surety.

Following his indictment on a charge of murder May 7, 1934, Siegel was required to post a bond of $15,000, with Levich and Sol Kronick as sureties. After his conviction for manslaughter, the court reduced the bond to $5,000 and Levich was accepted as sole surety.

Winter Turns Toward East

Freezing Temperatures Hit New York City, Four Persons Die

CHICAGO, Jan. 23 (AP)—Winter turned its attention from the middle west tonight and with its weapons of ice and cold laid siege to the eastern United States.

New York and the New England states bore the brunt of the latest assault.

While sub-zero temperatures remained in many areas of the middle west, the weather bureau promised warmer weather tomorrow for Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. For these states the bureau promised a taste of snow.

Four died in New York City as the mercury retreated to 2 below and threatened to go lower. In Ohio, fatalities caused by the cold rose to 18, and the national count was at least 82.

As New York experienced its coldest Jan. 23 in its history, Boston was preparing for 10 below during the night.

During the day, sub-zero temperatures in the midwest ranged from -56 on the bridge over the Rattay river between International Falls, Minn., and Ft. Francis, Ont., to zero, the highest in Chicago where schools will reopen tomorrow.

Wings of the cold wave penetrated the Ohio valley and the southland, bringing threats of damage to Florida's citrus fruits. Nashville's minimum of zero marked the coldest day in more than five years.

Drama

The weather brought drama to nearly every community affected. A baby was born in a snowbound auto at Brookport, N.Y. Frozen trolley brakes forced commuters to hitchhike in zero temperatures at Marietta, a suburb of Atlanta, Ga.

Fire added to the hazards. Three villages in upstate New York were virtually burned out, the flames being carried by high winds.

A train making one trip daily between Findlay, Ohio, and Deshler, Ohio, 20 miles away, was eight hours late today. Only the crew was aboard when it ran into a snowdrift and then waited for an extra locomotive.

Sentence Negro To 75 Years

DECATUR, Ala., Jan. 23 (AP)—Heywood Patterson, first of the nine Negro defendants in the Scottsboro case to face retrial, was convicted today and sentenced to 75 years imprisonment.

Accused of attacking Mrs. Victoria Price, a white woman, aboard a freight train approximately five years ago, Patterson, 33, had heard himself sentenced to death, but each time he won a new trial.

Kipling Ashes Laid to Rest

Beloved English Bard Put Between Hardy, Charles Dickens

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The majestic strains of Rudyard Kipling's "recessional" struck the only note of pomp and splendor when the ashes of the great poet were laid among Britain's immortal writers today in the poet's corner of Westminster abbey.

A marble urn containing his ashes was lowered into a small, purple-lined cavity between the graves of Charles Dickens and Thomas Hardy.

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, a cousin of the poet, and a host of celebrities, including representatives of King Edward and the Duke of York, stood behind the weeping Mrs. Kipling during the service.

Kipling was the third person in this century to be buried in the poet's corner. The others were Thomas Hardy and Sir Henry Irving.

Kipling, one of the most widely read English writers in history, died in a hospital here last Friday after an emergency operation for a perforated stomach ulcer. He was 70 years old.

Whither Agriculture Today?

What Effective Means Can Be Adopted in U. S. To Prevent Huge Farm Product Surpluses?

This is the third in a series of four articles by Richard H. Roberts, research assistant in the University of Iowa political science department, discussing possible roads open to American and Iowa agriculture now that the AAA has fallen.

By RICHARD H. ROBERTS
In the first two articles it has been said (1) that an export subsidy does not point the way to reopening foreign markets for our farm products and (2) that the plans for maintaining prices of farm products in the United States above world market prices would subsidize an over-expansion of our agricultural production.

What effective means can be adopted in the United States to prevent the repeated accumulation of huge surpluses of farm products in the domestic markets and the consequent breakdown of farm income?

Would Break Prices
Yesterday's article pointed out that an early re-expansion of cotton production to the pre-depression level would bring price-breaking surpluses into existence, even with the most effective export subsidy.

An abnormally large acreage of winter wheat is already in the ground. With normal growing weather and unrestricted production of spring wheat an excess of 200 million bushels above domestic consumption would be produced. Even unreasonably low export prices could not be expected to make the sale of more than a fourth of this surplus probable.

Causes Shortage
The 1934 drought and possibly also the AAA have created an unprecedented shortage of livestock in the United States. The AAA and individual producers have bent every effort to restore livestock production to the level of domestic demand. By the end of 1935 hog production will probably be up to the desired level, but about two years more will be required to restore beef production.

This shortage of livestock and the release of controls over corn acreage make a 500 million bushel surplus of corn at the end of 1936 not at all improbable unless effective steps are taken to limit acreage. That would mean cheap corn in 1937. And every livestock man knows that it was cheap corn in 1932 that ruined the livestock industry.

See Over-Production
Hog production would react almost immediately to the low feed prices and by 1938 might be far beyond domestic and foreign demand for pork. Cattle over-production would be apt to follow the over-production of pork by about a year.

Agricultural production cannot be left entirely to itself during the next few years if unbearable economic oppression of the farming industry is to be prevented. The welfare of all industry and commerce in the United States depends in part upon reasonable incomes to farmers. Some authorities have convincingly said that it was largely the extended depression in agriculture from 1929 to 1933 that forced the collapse of all industry and commerce in the country.

Present Best Plan
By far the best plan that has been presented for maintaining an effective balance in agricultural production and prices is the soil conservation idea. Is there a real need for conservation of American crop soils?

It is obvious to the agriculturalist that the soils of most eastern states are no longer good for intensive crop production methods used in the middlewest. In the eastern states the top soil, where the fertility lies, has gone down the furrows of their fields into their creeks and rivers and so to the sea.

Soil Faces Dangers
Here in the middlewest the soils are deeper and the contours of the land, for the most part, not so rolling. Still the soil experts estimate that only 20 to 40 years of present farming methods will be required to reduce most of the richest and deepest soils to the barrenness of the worn-out soils of the east.

Corn is the worst soil waster of middlewestern farm crops. Its over-intensive production mines the rich top soil of organic matter. The rain comes in deluges and easily carries with it the depleted and loosened soils of the fields as it rushes off the rolling hills of cultivated lands.

Others Injure Land
But corn is only just worse than wheat in this respect, and probably not so bad as cotton and tobacco, raised on the light soils of the south and in markedly hilly country. Even in Iowa, with the richest land in the nation, there are one million acres of plow land from which all the top soil has been washed away. And there are two million acres more that have lost 50 per cent or more of their top soil.

The deepening gullies on our farms and the muddy waters in our flooded and overflowing streams are tangible evidence of the approaching soil crisis. The declining yields in our neighboring states of Missouri and South Dakota, where rains sweep off visible tons of rich top soil, forewarn the fate that threatens richer areas. The unwanted tons of silt blown from the fields of states southwest of Iowa fairly choked us in the dust storms of 1934 with

Show Hoover As Conqueror Of Depression

Professor and Secretary Declare Hoover Had Depression Whipped

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover was pictured today as the world leader who contributed most to the victory over economic chaos, only to see his efforts frustrated by the incoming Roosevelt administration.

In a detailed, day by day account of the Hoover regime, Prof. William Starr Myers of Princeton university, and Walter H. Newton, Mr. Hoover's White House secretary, contend the battle against the depression was won in the summer of 1932.

New Deal Responsibility
They hold the coming of the new deal directly responsible for the banking crisis of February, 1933. In a book called "The Hoover Administration," published by Charles Scribner's Sons, they say: "History now records that the great depression reached its low point in June and July, 1932. Recovery began all over the world and has continued in greater or less measure in other countries until today. And President Hoover was the world leader who had contributed most to this victory over chaos. The battle against the depression had been fought."

Asks Cooperation
In November, 1932, Mr. Hoover asked the incoming administration for cooperation, the authors say, but failed to receive it. "Within 30 days policies were adopted by the incoming administration and its adherents in congress," they write, "which totally reversed the economic recovery then in progress and, through a complete breakdown of confidence, drove the country into a banking panic by the day of the inauguration."

Show Letter from Hoover
Among the numerous documents in the book is a letter from Mr. Hoover to a "nationally prominent manufacturer," otherwise unidentified, who had quoted Prof. Rexford G. Tugwell as saying: "We should not worry about anything except rehabilitating the country after March 4th."

"When I consider this statement of Professor Tugwell's in connection with the recommendations we have made to the incoming administration," Mr. Hoover wrote, "I can say emphatically that he breathes with infamous politics devoid of every atom of patriotism. Mr. Tugwell would project millions of people into hideous losses for a Roman holiday."

Meets Most Requirements
This combination of the soil conservation plan and the ever-normal granary idea seems to meet most of the requirements for keeping agricultural production and prices in a proper balance. But still the problem remains, can foreign markets be reopened for agricultural exports from the United States? The problem will be discussed in the last article in this series tomorrow.

Court Hears Hewitt Case

Ann Cooper Hewitt Is Called Upon Stand in Municipal Court

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23 (AP)—Ann Cooper Hewitt, diminutive heiress, said on the witness stand today she was duped into a sterilization operation by her mother.

The 21-year-old girl testified at a municipal court hearing called to determine whether criminal charges are to be filed against the mother, Mrs. Marvyn Hewitt McCarter, and two physicians, Dr. Tilton E. Tillman and Dr. Samuel G. Boyd.

Charges Plot
In a civil suit, Miss Hewitt charged the operation was part of a plot by her mother to obtain control of Miss Hewitt's wealth.

The heiress testified she experienced severe abdominal pains 10 days prior to the operation here Aug. 18, 1934.

"The pain was so intense I could not stand it," she added.

The girl related that her mother and her aunt, Mrs. Hattie Easton, introduced her to Dr. Tillman and Dr. Boyd.

Diagnose Case
The physicians diagnosed her case as appendicitis but gave her no physical examination, she testified.

Mrs. Mary Scally, city psychiatrist, interviewed her.

"I asked her why she was asking such asinine questions," the heiress said, "and she did not answer."

Miss Hewitt said she went to a sanitarium where she submitted to an operation, understanding it was to be an appendectomy.

Files Suit
The heiress, whose fortune is estimated as high as $10,000,000, recently filed the civil suit against her mother, the physicians and Mrs. Scally, asking $500,000.

Police started an investigation. Eventually they offered to proceed with mayhem charges against Mrs. McCarter and the physicians if Miss Hewitt would sign a criminal complaint. The girl's attorney, Russell P. Tyler, vetoed this.

District Attorney Matthew A. Brady decided to present the case before a magistrate, who may order criminal proceedings after hearing testimony.

J. Culbertson Will Teach During 1936 Summer Session

Prof. James B. Culbertson of Cornell college has been appointed to the summer session staff of the chemistry department, it was announced yesterday.

Beginning June 8, Professor Culbertson will teach courses in organic chemistry.

After receiving his Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago, he taught for eight years at Iowa Wesleyan college and at Cornell college.

Who Paid That Tax?

AS THE PROSPECT of paying back money which the federal government derived from the processing tax nears, the question as to whom the money rightfully belongs is bound to arise.

When the tax was first levied, the processors naturally passed it on to the consumer, thus the only result of the tax to those upon whom it was levied was a slight increase in prices.

A Course On War

STUDENTS OF Northwestern university recently expressed a desire for a course in the study of war. Faculty members were favorable to this scientific classroom probe of military encounters of the past and their future possibilities.

The value of such an objective study of war in any school is hardly questionable. One way to aid in eventual world peace is to educate the people to the horrors and the price of the tribute to Mars, god of battle.

Backed by the approval of the board of trustees and the faculty committee on education, the students of Northwestern are circulating petitions asking a re-consideration of the decision of those who handle the finances of the school.

Establishing a Code For Sportsmanship

THE STUDENT body of the University of Illinois has established a new tradition, which we Iowans might well study, and even better, imitate.

Courtesy to visiting teams, the ability to lose gracefully, and many other points are touched upon in the code. All the honorary societies of the school, Illinois union, Schem, the Interfraternity council, the Independent council, the student council, and the Daily Illini, school paper, cooperated in financing and conducting the campaign for better sportsmanship.

Students were allowed to comment pro and con in the editorial pages of the school paper, and several codes were considered, the final one being drafted and chosen by the vote of the student body.

Boeing of players and officials at athletic events was once commonplace. It might be well to avoid any such conduct in future by following the lead of the neighboring state.

Lurking Around the Corner

A STRANGE, terrifying monster has been troubling university students vaguely all year. He has a habit of looming menacingly in the distance before students who are cutting classes, neglecting assignments and flunking quizzes.

But this week he is upon us. He is viewed at close range. Freshmen wake with fear and tremble from awful nightmares in which his face has figured. Sophomores sit far into the night pouring over plans with which to conquer this heinous thing.

Looking over the pages of financial history, it is interesting to note that the entire public debt of all the civilized nations of the world in 1714 totaled only $1,500,000.

Edward VIII Bachelor English King Boosted Trade, Set Many New Styles

This is the second in a series of three daily articles about King Edward VIII, who succeeded to the throne of Great Britain upon the death of his father, King George V. Monday night.

By JAMES B. HATCHER (Associated Press Staff Writer)

As a style-maker, horseman, golfer and dancer, H. R. H. Edward, Prince of Wales, set the pace for England's younger set in the decade following the World War.

He started his extended trips about the world as "super-salesman of the British Empire" with his visit to Canada and the United States in 1919.

Still ambassador of goodwill and trade booster, he traveled during the '20's to New Zealand and Australia, India, Hongkong, Japan, Borneo, west, east and south Africa, and made three trips to Canada where he bought a ranch in the foothills of the Rockies.

"Edward, P." as he signed himself, made popular a series of sartorial novelties. Bright jerseys, plus-fours, the butterfly evening tie, berets—whatever he donned became the fashion.

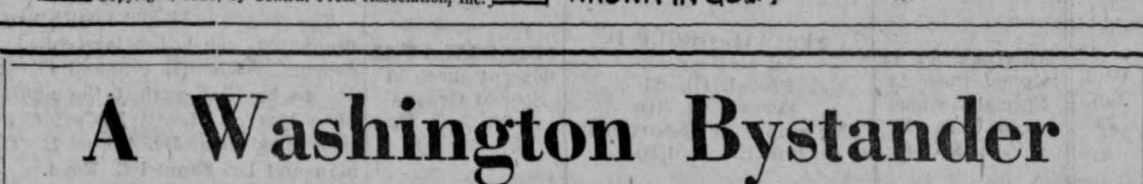

Motorboating and aviation next claimed his attention. He bought several planes and in 1922 he flew his own plane across the channel to France.

He enjoys golf thoroughly. In 1931, he made a hole in one at Windsor. If he can't be playing, he likes nothing better than joining a gallery to trail a championship match.

A Washington Bystander

WASHINGTON — Among the I-told-you-so's of his political sovereigns, "General" Jim Farley might include his prophecy that the campaign of 1936 was to be a rough-and-tumble affair, with no holds barred.

President Roosevelt, certainly, is an old and tried campaigner. He has smiled his way through some tough spots, intra- as well as inter-party. His smile and his blythe voice have been major party assets.

That Roosevelt "charm" is the most difficult thing for his political foes to plan against. If the president should be driven at this early stage into angry instead of lightly mocking tones to repel his critics, they would certainly have gained something.

NUMBER TWO

Wallace made only this comment: "While there had been some preliminary differences on emphasis of various phases of the bill, I was much pleased to discover there was a meeting of minds in the committee. The committee was unanimous in agreeing on changes to be made and requested the department to work with drafting clerks to prepare the necessary amendments."

Decide to Scrap Bill Senator Smith (D-SC), who earlier in the day reluctantly accepted chairmanship of the five-member subcommittee on which republicans refused to serve, said it decided virtually to scrap the Jones-Bankhead bill in favor of a system of little AAA's. He added that Wallace was instructed to prepare a completely new bill.

Senator Bankhead (D-Ala), a member of the subcommittee who introduced the bill, disagreed, saying that aside from the state-aid amendment advanced by Wallace to form a framework for a permanent law, the only changes the secretary was asked to make were clarifying.

"The bill in its present form is still the basis of discussion," Bankhead said. He explained that the Wallace amendment, to be submitted tomorrow, would declare that after two years grants shall be made only to states which come under a "permanent program to be formulated later by congress."

Bolstering Smith's forecast of drastic changes, Senator Murphy (D-Ia), another subcommittee member, went so far as to say Secretary Wallace stated opposition to the principle of the bill which would grant him the broadest kind of powers to pay out treasury funds to farmers for conserving their soil and limiting crop production for domestic consumption.

Other subcommittee members differed with Murphy on this point, saying that Wallace did not oppose the bill.

"The whole subcommittee thinks the Bankhead bill begs the question," Murphy said. "It seeks to do by indirection what the supreme court said could not be done by direction."

"The sentiment of the group was that it couldn't cooperate with legislation to that effect, but would undertake to draft a bill that would conform to the supreme court decision."

Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY HOLLYWOOD—in every studio there is a man who has the ambiguous title of "construction department head." When the C. D. H. gets a cold, executives go into a worried huddle and a doctor hovers in his wake with pills and muffer extended.

He is an important person, for no searching of the records reveals a similar attention paid the stars, who are supposed to be tops in movie work.

The C. D. H. is one of those unpublicized heroes who makes the picture-making business run smoothly and his absence for even two days with a common cold would slow up the process of work in his studio.

Trouble Shooter De Luxe Van Lew McFadden is one of these executives, but actually he is a trouble shooter de luxe. In his mind are designs for 50 sets to be erected within a week. He is a chiseler of no mean ability, and he admits it.

He can buy lumber at the lowest possible rates, spot two cents off an estimate in the wink of an eye and set exactly how many carpenters and plumbers and painters he's going to need to build either a shack or a castle.

McFadden recently went to Yuma, Ariz., to start the ball rolling for a large desert location, where the picture, "Under Two Flags," will be filmed. He found he had to build a road a mile long and he consulted eight contractors. He thought their prices were too high, so he consulted a couple of Indian chiefs, who were just waiting for the winter to pass.

"You Have To Chisel" "I got the chiefs to round up a few hundred Indians to build my road," says McFadden, proudly adding that he saved $3,000. "I suppose 'cutting corners' is the main part of my work, often, when you go on location. The local merchants and hotel men think you have a million dollars to spend, just because you're with a movie company. You have to chisel."

Registration for Second Semester Set to Begin Tomorrow

Will Continue Till Feb. 3 In Three Colleges

Registrar Dorcas Asks Students to Help Avoid Any Jams

Both examinations and registration for University of Iowa students will get underway tomorrow.

Registration in the colleges of liberal arts and commerce and the graduate college will continue until Feb. 3, the last day being used only for the registration of those students whose schedules must be considerably revised as a result of the outcome of the first semester's work.

Both those examinations have made it impracticable for them to register at the time indicated on the registration schedule. This schedule is included in the official bulletin on page 4 of The Daily Iowan.

Cooperation

Releasing the schedule yesterday, H. C. Dorcas, university registrar, said: "Every student on the campus is most earnestly requested to do his bit in preventing the recurrence of such a jam as occurred during nearly the whole of the first Monday of the second semester last year."

Registration in the college of law will begin Jan. 27 and end Feb. 1; students in the college of medicine will register from Feb. 3 to Feb. 5. School of nursing registration will continue from Jan. 25 to Feb. 1.

Till Feb 1

College of pharmacy students will register from Jan. 31 to Feb. 1, and in the college of dentistry students will register from Jan. 30 to Feb. 1. College of engineering students must register before Feb. 1. Classes in these professional colleges (but not including the colleges of liberal arts and commerce and the graduate college) will meet for the second semester on Feb. 3 at 8 a.m.

Second semester classes in the colleges of liberal arts and commerce and the graduate college will begin Tuesday, Feb. 4, at 8 a.m.

Convocation

At the mid-year Convocation, Feb. 4, in Iowa Union, Orville O. Latham, president of Iowa State Teachers college, will address candidates for degrees. One hundred thirty-eight persons have applied for degrees, 83 of which are first awards, and 55 advanced.

First degrees have been applied for in the colleges of liberal arts, law, dentistry, pharmacy and engineering.

A dinner in the river-room of Iowa Union in honor of the candidates for degrees will precede the convocation.

In the colleges of commerce, liberal arts and education, and the graduate college, registration will commence tomorrow morning at 8:15, and will be in the order of initial letters of last names, as indicated in the schedule in the official bulletin.

Forenoon registration will be between 8:15 and noon, and afternoon registration will continue from 1:30 to 5 p.m. Students who find it impossible to complete registration within the half-day assigned to them, may register during the following half-day.

Feb. 3

In these colleges, Monday, Feb. 3, will be reserved for registration of students who have been unable to register during the periods indicated in the schedule, or who must make considerable changes in their schedules because of results of first semester work.

In a statement issued yesterday, Registrar Dorcas said: "We are confident that if every student will complete his registration (except as actually prevented by his examination

O'Brien Places Whitehand In '36 Anthology

Book Features Works Of Iowa Graduate Student Playwright

Yesterday marked another milestone in the literary career of Robert Whitehand, now living in graduate work under a Rockefeller fellowship in play writing at the University of Iowa.

It was announced that Edward J. O'Brien, noted short story critic, is dedicating his annual anthology for this year, "The Best American Short Stories: 1936," to this young author from Tulsa, Okla.

Mr. O'Brien, now living in Oxford, England, recently selected Whitehand's "American Nocturne," which appeared in the December American Prefaces, for his anthology. This volume will appear early next fall.

Whitehand majored in journalism at the University of Oklahoma at Norman, where, in 1933, his "Dericks on the Hill" and "Dumb Bunnies" were presented. The former was also produced at Southern Methodist university, Dallas, Tex., in 1933, and here this fall.

This play won third place in the Zeta Phi dramatic fraternity, national play writing contest, and appeared in the first issue of American Prefaces this fall.

Tulsa World

Following graduation, he worked for a year on space assignments for The Tulsa World, writing features and book reviews. In the fall of 1934 he began his work here.

Other short stories by Whitehand are: "The Strength of a Faun" and "Among These Dericks," appearing in the Literary Workshop and the Dubuque Dial, respectively; and "The Rotaries Are Constant" which appeared simultaneously in the fall number of Prairie Schooner and "The College Writer" Warren Bowler's first volume of short stories.

American Prefaces

In addition to his drama work, Mr. Whitehand is also associate editor of American Prefaces, University of Iowa literary magazine. His latest play, "Precious Land" will be produced here this spring.

Previous dedications made by Mr. O'Brien include Whit Burnett, editor of "Story," Jose Garcia Villa, A.E. Coppard, Oliver Herford, Erna Hemmingsway, Richard Mattheus Hallet, Wilbert Daniel Steele, Charles Chaplin, Manuel Komroff, Alfred Kreymborg, Anzia Zezierska, and Sherwood Anderson.

might be compared to the seasonal migration of the Asiatic tribes from highlands in the summer to lowlands in winter.

Air conditioning is at a premium in Iowa City, where temperatures blister one day and freeze the next, but the Turks and Mongols of central Asia are not bothered by such inclemencies, since their yurts, which are made of sticks bound by circular hoops at the top and covered with felt, provide adequate ventilation, and are described by Mr. Murray as a primitive type of air conditioning.

Life of the Party

Everyone in central Asia is the life of the party, since it is incumbent upon one when greeting another to drink three bowls of fermented mare's milk which results in slight intoxication, Mr. Murray points out.

A fraternity pin or an engagement ring is a mere pittance beside the dowry which a young nomad has to pay for his bride. Some brides bring as high as 40 horses and 1,000 sheep, and the prospective groom must sometimes work for many years before the engagement can be terminated in marriage.

Iowa students, irked by the tardiness of deans to sign permissions, or wearisome delay in registration, would find such inconveniences mere petty annoyances as compared with the five month delay of Mr. Murray while he waited for permission from the Russian and Chinese governments to pass on homeward. Prefers to Walk

Edward Murray Says Trekking Iowa Campus At 10 Below Beats Riding in Asia

Riding all day through the mountains and valleys of central Asia and fearing to walk lest it challenge your social status is much more laborious than long treks through the University of Iowa campus, even at 22 below.

This is the opinion of Edward Murray, M2 of Cedar Rapids, who spent a rollicking summer among the Turks and Mongols on the Russo-Chinese border while en route home from Robert college, Constantinople, Turkey, where he taught English and mathematics for three years after his graduation from Coe college in 1930.

SEEN From OLD CAPITOL

By JESS GORKIN

We take it that persons connected with University hospital are continually wondering what those two senior interns, Dr. Ellis Flax and Dr. William M. Lewis, will be up to next. It seems that Dr. Flax keeps challenging Dr. Lewis to compete with him in all kinds of contests, but is unable to finish on the long end in the scoring.

First they engaged in ping pong, then cribbage, and most recently they both organized basketball teams comprised of hospital personnel. At the basketball game, held at the fieldhouse, wives of the players and scores of nurses and doctors turned out to witness the quibbles in action. Both teams battled vigorously for a few hours and quit the fieldhouse by request, leaving the score deadlocked at 13 all.

The Flax team consisted of Dorrner, Garinghouse, Matthes, Jarvis, Ingalls, Moon, E. Smith, and Wray. On the Lewis quintet were Dean, Hamilton, Peters, Samuelson, Mitchell, and Howard. Referee was Dr. Vern Petersen.

Now we learn that Dr. Flax has challenged his invincible foe to a squash contest. It seems there is no stopping Dr. Flax unless he wins. How 'bout a snowball fight to the finish boys?

The cold weather inspired Prof. John McGalliard of the English department to turn humorist while calling the roll. When he asked whether Mr. Brooks was present and received no answer, he said, "One is tempted to ask if Mr. Brooks is frozen over."

It might be that Robert Conrad, A1 of St. Joseph, Mo., is unusually interested in mathematical calculations but we doubt whether that is the reason for his frequent visits at the Chittenden residence.

Here is the answer to yesterday's puzzle:

Horizontal
1. Cats do it—Bite
2. Dogs do it—Bite
3. Lions do it—Bite
4. Suckers do it—Bite

Vertical
1. Insects—E's (Bees)
2. Organs of sight—I's (Eyes)
3. Aggravate—T's (Tease)
4. Comfort—E's (Ease)

Now fill in the squares and see the result.

Now that the above puzzle is gold, which few westerners ever see.

An article by Mr. Murray concerning his wanderings in central Asia appears in the current issue of the National Geographic magazine.

Iowa Literary Magazine Will Feature Poem

A poem by Prof. Edwin Ford Piper of the English department will be a special feature of the February issue of American Prefaces, University of Iowa literary magazine, to be out next week.

Prof. Piper is president of the Iowa Authors club, author of three books of verse, and a collector of ballads.

A second feature of this issue will be "Definitions of Poetry" by Jose Garcia Villa of Manila, Philippine islands, who has been in this country since 1930.

Edward J. O'Brien, noted short story critic, dedicated his 1932 anthology to Villa.

"Comfort Me With Apples," a story, is by Donald MacRae, who took his doctorate at the University of Iowa in 1934, and is now teaching at Washington State Teachers college, Ellensburg, Wash. Mr. MacRae has also had stories published in the Frontier and Midland.

Two poems in this issue are, "Poem" by Paul Bowers, an American who lived in Europe for a number of years, and "Caduceus" by Sonia Raizis, a young Philadelphia woman.

A symposium on "Whither American Literature" is included and "The Literary Criticism of T. S. Eliot" by John A. Bovey of Minneapolis, graduate of Harvard in 1934. Eliot is one of the greatest critics of today, and has had much influence on American poetry of the last decade.

Barko Ranks As 1st 4-Letter Hawk Cager

John Barko, the University of Iowa's first semester basketball captain whose career ended with the Michigan game last Monday, will become the first four-letter Hawkeye basketball player in history.
The Muscatine forward, who started play in February, 1935, won a letter in the latter half of that season and has qualified for one during the first half of this season. He also won the major "I" for his full season's play in 1933-34 and 1934-35.

Hawklets Entertain Dubuque

Smiles Belie Their Feelings

The smiles the three lads above are wearing belie the feelings down inside them. From left to right are, Kenny Jones, Jimmy Jones, and Ed Brees, veteran Little Hawk cagers who will be flying the Red and White colors tonight for the last time in Iowa City's hardcourt contest with Dubuque. Kenny and Ed play in the back court, while Jimmy plays a forward position. The trio started in school together, and tonight marks their closing semester of school. Kenny was chosen all-city signal-caller on The Daily Iowan's annual honor gridiron team. Jimmy manned a reserve flank on the last fall's great Hawklet football machine. Brees has devoted his athletic competition strictly to the middle floor, but he also served as equipment manager of the football squad.

Love of Ring Sport Motivates Joe; Van Seibert's a Lefty

By SEYMOUR ZUBALSKY
GOLDEN Gloves sketches: Joe Magrini, 147, black haired Italian lad from New York... Unlike many of his contemporary Italian boxers he does not contend that he is a personal friend of Il Duce's and that if he accomplishes his mission of winning boxing glory great wealth and riches will be his... On the contrary the only motive that moves Joe to box is that he loves the boxing game.

In 1934 he was crowned king of the welterweights in the all-university tournament... Last year he lost his chance to win the Gloves title through an unfortunate misunderstanding... When his scheduled opponent failed to show up a substitute was brought in and won a very close decision...

By all right of the rules Magrini was entitled to the championship as the rule book specifically says that if a boxer fails to show up his opponent shall win on a forfeit... Joe bears no grudge, however, and is back again this year... His main weapons are a stinging left jab and a straight right that rocks his opponents to sleep.

Van Seibert, 160, 6 foot center for middleweight honors... This Gloves tournament will be his first here in Iowa City, but he is by no means a stranger to the ring... Entered the Golden Gloves tournament in Des Moines in 1934... Only weighed 147 at the time... Advanced to the finals before being eliminated in a close embroglio.

Van is one of those rare of rarities in the ring, a southpaw... A lefty does everything inverted... He defies all laws of ring warfare by fighting with the wrong foot forward and leading with the right hand... It is very confusing to fight a boxer using this unorthodox style, and Van hopes to prove a puzzle to his adversaries.

BOB Rush, boxing adviser for the Golden Gloves, is besieged daily by many inquiries about the ring... Two of the things he stresses most when advising new boxers are never to show off in the ring or to relax vigilance for a second, no matter what the circumstances.

There are many precedents in the annals of ring history to bear him out... Years ago Sam Langford was fighting Joe Jeanette, two of the greatest fighters to ever draw on gloves and both Negroes... Joe was very fond of his ability to take it and trained by letting his sparring mates hit him in the stomach.

As soon as the fight began Joe raised his guard and allowed Langford to whale away at his solar plexus without any visible effect... As the fight progressed Joe did this again and again due to the pleasure of the crowd, which went wild with glee.

With the end of the battle drawing to a close, Jeanette once more raised his guard to show the spectators how tough his stomach muscles were... Quick as a flash Langford leaped in with a crushing blow to the chin all but knocking out the tough Jeanette... Showing that Rush isn't wrong when he tells embryonic Glovers never to relax vigilance or show off inside of the ring.

Lewis Will Defend Title Against Britain

Doctor's Edict Puts Delaney Out 3 Months

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 23 (AP)—A physician's verdict today ended Bill Delaney's hopes of returning to baseball before June and pushed a 22-year-old rookie catcher to the forefront in the St. Louis Cardinals' pennant picture.

Delaney, a hospital patient since last October with pleurisy and complications, was ordered by Dr. Robert F. Hyland, club physician, to Phoenix, Ariz., for at least a three months' rest.

His decision came as the Cardinals announced the signing of Brusie Odrogowski, recruit from Columbus, whom General Manager Branch Rickey regards as a "splendid prospect."

"Delaney should rest at least three months in Arizona," Dr. Hyland said. "If he regains his strength by that time, he may be able to return to the Cardinals some time in June."

"Some time in June" means the catcher will miss about half the season.

Davis to Carry Brunt
The brunt of the catching, of course, will fall on Virgil Davis, who shared the work with Delaney last season, but, even barring slumps and accidents, he can't handle them all.

Odrogowski will receive a great deal of serious attention in spring training," Rickey said. "I think it's possible he may develop into one of the best catchers in the major leagues. He is a splendid receiver, has a fine throwing arm and is a fairly good hitter."

With the deadline for entries set with Jan. 31, signed blanks began to pour in from near and far as deadline hour draws closer and closer for those good old Golden Gloves matches, packed to the brim with thrills, dynamic punches, and graceful falls to the good old "terra firma," in this case the mat.

To date entries have been received from two states and 13 cities which fact shows that this year's round of festivities, to use a more or less social phrase, is proving more popular than even last season's hectic tournament. Blanks have been received from Shenandoah, Muscatine, Washington, Mechanicsville, Mt. Vernon, West Liberty, West Branch (I don't think it's Hoover, although the training might put him in shape for the coming battle he might have to conquer Cedar Rapids, Marysville, Me., Lenox, Coralville, and of course, Iowa City. Then we even have representatives from the U. S. Army coming here to show us how the protectors of the nation really act in the pinches. Oh, you don't believe it! Well, we have a host of entries from the Salton CCC camp, and that is a pretty big army.

What hot! What hot! And here we have the first challenge. The Haskell Indians boxing team has challenged our Golden Gloves team to a battle, win, lose, or draw. And that is really on the level. OK, Mr. Rush get your outfit ready, here come the Injuns!

I've been losin' lots of sleep lately and all cause some pranksters have been sending in fictitious names on entry blanks. I've got to check the names so help me Hannah, but Mr. Bowman likes it cuz he says it sure sells the stamps for him.

Helen Moody Beats Net Pro

Displays Strength In Taking Straight Sets From Feron

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Helen Willis Moody donned her tennis togs today and went out and trimmed the professional of one of New York's ultra-exclusive private clubs. Playing indoors on a clay composition court with a glass dome keeping out the biting cold air, Mrs. Moody took Dave Feron over in straight sets, 7-5, 6-4, and then hurriedly went off on other business leaving Feron to give expert testimony on the improvement in her game.

Says She's Playing Better
When she arrived from the Pacific coast yesterday Mrs. Moody asserted she is playing stronger and better. Feron found that out and, as the party of the second part, he sees no reason why he should feel embarrassed. As a matter of fact he isn't.

"I hadn't played against her in two years," said Feron. "And the improvement in her game is remarkable. She has the most powerful wrist snap I've ever seen in a woman player."

Reticent About Plans
Although she was obviously pleased with Feron's appraisal of her game, Mrs. Moody continued to be reticent regarding her competitive plans this year. She'd like to return to Wimbledon as well as play in the U. S. nationals at Forest Hills next September, but, as she says, "You know how I am—I make up my mind at the last minute."

Norway's Ski Men Dominate Olympic Drill

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Jan. 23 (AP)—It was the same old story today when Norway's ski jumpers in general and Birger Ruud in particular dominated formal Olympic practice competition in which representatives from the United States, Canada, Japan, Italy and Germany also participated.

The Norwegians swept the first five places as Ruud, the Olympic champion, hurled himself through the air 71 and 69 meters (232.88 and 226.32 feet), in his two chances and won first place. His first leap shattered the record for the course by two meters.

Against the Norwegians' fine performance the Americans could do no better than seventh. Walter Bitcha, an alternate on the team from Ishpeming, Mich., landed in that position with two flights of 64 meters (209.92 feet) each. The next best American performance was turned in by Dick Durance, Dartmouth student who learned his skiing on nearby courses. His best jump was 60 meters (196.80 feet), which was good for eleventh place.

GARDEN SIGNS JOCK McAVOY FOR LEWIS GO

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Jock McAvoy, the British battler who came to America three months ago swearing he'd take both the middle and light-heavyweight titles back to Illinois, was awarded a technical knockout victory over Paul Lee of Indianapolis, after 1 minute and 10 seconds of the tenth round in a scheduled 15-round bout here tonight. Each scaled 125½.

After Rightmire had assumed command of the situation from the third round on, a low right as Lee leaped to throw a left hook caught the Hoosier champion low and he was unable to continue after a long rest.

Larry Udell, 174, Aberdeen, and Lou Saxx, 205, Sioux City, Ia., fought to a six round draw. Both Zack and Udell tired after the third round and it was a slow contest.

Max Kalbrener, 146½, Moorhead, Minn., won a six round decision over Lloyd Weaver, 146½, Sioux City. Walsh McCormick, 174, Moorhead, and Fred Kelly, 165, International Falls, Minn., drew in four rounds.

More Fights! Chief Welterweight Looks for $100,000 Bankroll

CHICAGO, Jan. 23 (AP)—Black eyed Barney Ross, king of the welterweights, wants to roll up a $100,000 bankroll in 1936 by boxing as often as opponents can be dug up for him.

The Chicagoan earned about $90,000 in 1935 in winning back the 147-pound crown from Jimmy McLarin and also engaging in seven other bouts.

"The faster they dig up opponents for me, the better I'll be satisfied," said Ross today.

The welterweight champion will make his first start of the year, meeting the rough, tough Lou Halper, a 148-pounder, in a 10 round non-title battle in Philadelphia Monday night. Ross will be spotting the battler from Newark about seven pounds, as he will not weigh more than 141 after two and a half weeks of training. He left for Philadelphia tonight, along with his co-managers, Sam Pian and Art Winch.

Five Sign Contracts

CHICAGO, (AP)—The signed contracts of five more members of the Chicago Cubs squad, including three who were around last season, were received today. They were Fabian, Kowalki and Clyde Shoun, pitchers, and Walter Stephenson, catcher.

U. High Meets Mt. Vernon Here; Marians at Cedar Rapids

Invaders Rule Favorites In Little 8 Clash

Rivermen at Peak For Game; All Men In Good Shape

Coach Jox Kistler will pit his quietest against Mt. Vernon tonight in the University high gymnasium. With small hope of seeing his team emerge victorious against the powerful Vernonites, the local mentor still believes his team will play its best ball of the year.

Mt. Vernon has perhaps the strongest team in the "Little Eight" league, year in and year out. Only on rare occasions do the Blues gain a victory over this opponent, but the players think they have a chance to break the chain tonight.

Hope to Clinch Crown
Only once has the Mt. Vernon team tasted defeat this season. And this was not a conference game, being played against the powerful Marian five. Vernonites will be striving to protect a perfect conference record tonight and at the same time clinch a conference crown. No other team in the conference is unbeaten in league competition.

While the Vernonites have been building their imposing record, University high has been about breaking even. The Rivermen have won a single league game from West Branch and lost one to Monticello. In non-conference competition they won from St. Patrick's only to drop a contest to St. Mary's.

Team Should be at Peak
Tonight's game should see the River team at the peak of its ability. The men are working smoothly together and all are due to report for the game. Last week, when they lost to Monticello, Coach Dave Forrester was out with flu. Added to this the players arrived for the contest in a semi-frozen condition. Tonight's game will be played in familiar territory, with the opponents at a disadvantage, and the Blues at full strength.

No Postponement
There was a slight chance yesterday that the game might be called off because of the cold weather, but chances are nothing of the kind will occur. Unless an unforeseen cold wave arrives during the day the game will go on.

3 Bouts End In Technical Knockouts

Approximately 75 minutes and less than 14 full rounds of boxing were all that was needed last night to start, run off, and complete the American Legion amateur mitt show at the Legion building.

Three of the six bouts ended in technical kayoes, while the others went by Judges' decisions. The fastest bout was the mix between "Al" Brender and Roger Hargreaves. Brender shot out of his corner at the bell and threw so much leather at Hargreaves that the latter folded up his tent halfway through the first stanza and sulked slyly away. Both scaled around 150 pounds.

Other results were: Dick Nance, 160, won from Bob McNabb, 100, TKO, (3); "Phoosy" Neubauer, 143, TKO, (2); "Fluff" Wambacher, 129, won from John Wyjack, 140, decision; (3); Ronald McNabb, 130, won from "Butch" O'Connor, 128, decision; (3); and Tommy Griffith, 150, won from Andy Duros, 140, TKO, (3).

NUMBER TEN

Early last year under Coach George Wells but due to the fact that they were to leave at mid-season, Coach Francis Merten, in his first year as Hawklet cage mentor, has built a starting combination for which these boys were relegated to replacement berths.

Iowa City is enjoying a passable season to date, and the Hawklets figure on winning their eighth game of the season tonight, relying for the most part on the home court to afford them a working advantage. The Little Hawks are second in city standings with seven victories out of 10 starts. None of the Red and White defeats have been by a margin greater than five points.

Merten Works on Offense
Coach Merten, satisfied with his defense for the most part, has thrown offensive maneuvers to his charges for this past week's drill. The old sports axiom, "A good offense is a good defense," is not going to catch City high napping.

Despite the frigid temperature and blocked highways, the evening's bill is scheduled to get under way at 7 o'clock when Coach Herb Cormack's City high sophomores tangle with the Key City lightweights in a curtain-raiser. Cormack's crew has suffered only one setback this year, that to the powerful undefeated Davenport secondaries.

Encounter St. Wenceslaus On Foreign Court

Henderson to Replace Sick J. Alberhasky; Reserves to Play

PROBABLE STARTING LINEUPS

Adrian	RF RF	Skala
Henderson	LF LF	Oujiri
Keller	C C	Sedlak
Schlenk	RG RG	Blazek
Grimm	LG LG	Kopecky

St. Wenceslaus of Cedar Rapids will be the object of revenge tonight as the determined St. Mary's basketball team hopes to again defeat its early season rivals. Irieked by their last two reversals, the Rambler intend to continue their winning habit tonight as the two teams battle at the Parlor City court at 8 o'clock.

Coach Francis Suplepp's aggregation has played eight games this year, winning five and dropping three. One of its early season victories was over the Ahrenmen by a 32 to 18 score.

Locals Favored
Coach Adolph Ahren's eagres suffer the loss this year of two sterling performers, Jaund and Severs, who was an all-state guard last season. As a result the Cedar Rapids crew will be doped to lose tonight.

Two spark plugs for the Ramblers are Bebo Schlenk, and Jack Keller. These two men have helped bear the burden of the Marian attack thus far and are expected to repeat tonight.

Skala, Oujiri, and Sedlak looked good for the St. Wenceslaus team in the last game and they are anticipated to lead the attack tonight. Skala rang up 13 points in the preceding contest.

Alberhasky Still Out
John Alberhasky is still bedfast with the scarlet fever and will be replaced in the Rambler starting lineup by Henderson, who has played steadily all since his chance at the forward post.

Reserves always play an important part in the Suplepp's attack. Those who will figure prominently tonight are Hennessy, Fay, Stralby, Gerber, Haloubek, and Knoedel.

Wells May Be New Line Coach at Yale

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 23 (AP)—Marshall Wells of Minneapolis, star tackle of the University of Minnesota football teams of 1930, 1931 and 1932, is being seriously considered for the position of line coach at Yale university, according to reports here today.

Cornell Wrestlers Win
T. VERNON, Ia. (AP)—The Cornell college wrestling team won its fourteenth consecutive dual meet here last night defeating Iowa State Teachers college 1-2 to 14 1-2.

49 kneeling of Elliott, and 50's (the highest score possible) sitting and prone by Feddersen, and prone by Mills. Niemann for the university and Higbee for the high school each scored a 47 kneeling.

The second of this series of shoulder-to-shoulder meets is scheduled for the week following examinations. Out of four such matches last year, the university teams won three times.

Hagen Recommends Edward VIII As A "Studious Golfer"

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23 (AP)—The British Empire's young monarch, Edward VIII, was described today by Walter Hagen, king-emeritus of American professional golf's royal family, as "a very apt pupil and a studious golfer."

"The Haig" and the former Prince of Wales first met in 1922 when the veteran Detroit shotmaker scored the first of four victories in the British open championship. Thereafter Edward seldom passed up an opportunity to see Hagen play when he was in England.

"During one round I played he watched every shot I made," Hagen recalled. "On some particularly difficult shot he would inquire as to how it was played and why a certain club and stance were necessary."

"As to his own game, when I played with him, if he would get off a bad shot he would immediately ask to have his flaws pointed out. He has excellent spirit and never lets poor shots discourage him.

"His majesty plays a strong game. I know a lot of players considered pretty good who would be mighty surprised at his ability. We will miss him in sports. He never failed to be present at the Ryder cup matches. His democratic attitude is a byword with the American players."

Delta Chi's Defeat Sig Eps To Win Crown in Section III

Delta Chi's class A fraternity basketball team became the first section champions of the year by downing a hard driving Sigma Phi Epsilon quintet, 32 to 18 and maintaining a clean slate in the four game schedule.

The championships of the three other sections are still undecided. An undefeated Psi Omega five has the inside track in Section III but must defeat the Phi Chi's before establishing a clear title.

Pi Kappa Alpha and the S.A.E.'s will meet to decide the winners of Section II, both having lost but one game, and an undefeated and powerful Phi Delt quintet must meet two more opponents before claiming the trophy in the first division.

Besides the Delta Chi's, the Pi K.A.'s and the Sig Alphas took victories in last night's play at the fields, the Pi K.A.'s downing the Deltas, 48 to 31, and S.A.E. nosing out Triangles, 82 to 30. Alpha Sigma Phi defeated Phi Kappa Psi by a forfeit.

Farm Leaders Hope to Gain Business Aid

Long Range Permanent Agricultural Plan Is Nearly Complete

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Farm organization leaders expressed hope tonight that business executives would throw their support behind a new, long range permanent agricultural program.

On the eve of the meeting tomorrow of the agricultural committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Edward O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, said "We farm leaders will ask endorsement of our program."

To Meet Jointly

The committee will meet jointly with farm organization heads and processors' representatives. Harper Sibley, chamber president, called the conference to evolve a "non-political, long range" program to replace AAA.

Chamber officials today said those attending the meeting will "look over the situation and may discuss recommendations." No indication was given of the committee's attitude toward the administration-favored Bankhead-Jones bill.

Will Approve Bill

Farm group leaders said the pending bill, with some new amendments, would find approval with them as a temporary plan, but insisted that congress should begin pointing toward a permanent program.

In some quarters, it was indicated that the business leaders might favor some form of plan to stimulate exports rather than to control production. However, it was reported that there might be no disagreement with administration aims toward conserving soil fertility.

Request Appointments

In connection with interest of the chamber in the farm problem, it was recalled that the National Association of Manufacturers in December was requested by the Congress of American Industry to appoint a committee to study possibility of building a "constructive agricultural program."

The Congress of Industry adopted a resolution explaining interdependence of industry and agriculture and requesting farmers to join business in halting unlimited and unnecessary government spending.

Fear Causes Delay

It was said today that the manufacturers' committee has not been appointed. The delay was said to have been caused by fear of some officials that such action after the supreme court's AAA decision might be misunderstood by farmers.

The eight fraternities were: Alpha Tau Omega, Beta Theta Pi, Delta Tau Delta, Delta Upsilon, Nu Sigma Nu, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Chi, and Sigma Nu.

Police last night were searching for Edgar McKinney, 16, of Ottumwa, who escaped from a guard at University hospital yesterday noon, stealing a car to make good his escape. McKinney, an inmate of the state reformatory at Eldora, had been brought here for eye treatment.

The boy stole a car belonging to Elsie Blocker, 22 W. Bloomington street. It was said he was left alone in a side room for a few moments by an Eldora attendant, and either escaped through a window or managed to walk out of the door without being noticed.

Schwellenbach Knocks Smith

Former Governor To Speak at Liberty League Dinner Saturday

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—A democratic castigation of the American Liberty league as controlled by "rascals and crooks" late today afforded a rousing prelude to the league's dinner Alfred E. Smith will address Saturday.

In words that held many in the crowded senate galleries breathless, Senator Schwellenbach (D-Wash.) said "leeches and bloodsuckers" surround Smith in the organization.

Speculation Increases
Speculation whether the former New York governor is about to burn his bridges behind him in opposition to the new deal had increased through the day.

"No man can successfully turn his back on a friend," Schwellenbach admonished caustically. He recalled President Roosevelt's past support of Smith for the presidency.

In 1928, he said, the "happy warrior" requested Roosevelt to run for governor in New York, although "it involved risking the life of his very best friend."

Roosevelt Wins
Roosevelt ran and won but Smith lost the state to Herbert Hoover. The senator attacked particularly John J. Raskob, former democratic chairman, and Pierre Dupont. Both participated with Smith in setting up a league a year and a half ago.

Schwellenbach also hit in passing at Edward F. Hutton, author of the suggestion that business "gang up" to protect its interests. He referred to testimony in senate hearings showing Hutton's participation in market deals, which he called "crooked and dishonest stock manipulation."

Schwellenbach's declared purpose was to discredit the league before the dinner.

It was the absence of John and Wilford from Sidell high school that led to the formation of the posse. Principal W. J. Gorehan and three other men traveled to the home 25 miles southwest of Danville and six miles south of Sidell through yesterday's blizzard. Albers opened the door a bare inch. Asked why the boys had not returned from Christmas vacation, he muttered:

Appears Wild Eyed
"The whole family is quarantined in Champaign." Gorehan said Albers appeared "wild eyed and haggard." The quarantine story could not be substantiated. So the investigating party bucked back through the snowdrifts today.

Races Into House
Albers raced into his house as they approached. He apparently saturated the bodies with coal oil, covered them with torn mattresses soaked in the same fuel and set the blazes. A shot was heard as officials broke in through boarded windows.

After gaining entrance, the investigators stamped out the fires.

Des Moines Firm Purchases Johnson County Bond Issue

There were five open and two sealed bids submitted at the sale yesterday morning in the board of supervisors' office at the court-house.

Chicago Firm Files Petition

Judgment for $1,737.50 is asked by Lucas and Luick company, an engineering firm of Chicago, against the City of Iowa City in a petition filed yesterday in district court.

The plaintiffs allege that the city has refused payment on its share of half the cost for appraisals made on the electric and gas departments of the Iowa City Light and Power company. The petition is part of the formal process in which the city council will include the appropriation in the budget to be drafted in March.

Alderman T. A. Foote pointed out that the former council had money on hand for the appraisals but failed to include the amounts in the budget. The present council has deferred payment until appropriations can be budgeted, he said.

Attorney William R. Hart represents the engineering company.

Pupils who have demonstrated special talent and who are recommended by school officials will comprise the all-state groups, which will receive intensive individual and ensemble training.

In 1935, 84 were enrolled in the chorus and orchestra, and the band numbered nearly 50.

City Rotarians Hear 'Cellist, Bass Sextet

Iowa City Rotarians were musically entertained by Hans Witschell, cellist, and the Iowa City high school brass sextet at a noon meeting of the club yesterday at the Jefferson hotel.

Mr. Witschell was accompanied by Jean Rohlf of Waterloo. The brass sextet included Richard Cambridge, first cornet; Charles Beckman, second cornet; Ralph Dunlap, French horn; Floyd Mann, trombone; William Swisher, baritone; and Donald Graham, bass horn. The sextet played "Morning Song," by Mendelssohn and "Hunting Party," by Lang.

A report of the inter-city meeting at Cedar Rapids Monday, attended by 18 Iowa City Rotarians, was given by Vern W. Bales. Mr. Bales recounted several interesting statements made by J. C. Newman of St. Louis, director of "G" men for this area, who was the principal speaker.

See Struggle Between Two Union Groups

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 23 (AP)—Dis-solution of the John L. Lewis committee for industrial unionism was ordered here today by the American Federation of Labor's executive council, and some observers foresee a showdown in the struggle between craft and industrial unionists.

In the bold move—although President William Green declined to call it an "ultimatum"—to scotch the committee before it gains further strength, the council recognized the "growing conviction" that its activities constitute "a challenge to the supremacy of the American Federation of Labor."

Gives Reply
Lewis, informed at Washington of the council's action, reported: "The mountain has labored and brought forth a mouse."

Indicating the committee which popularly bears his name would continue its program, the mine workers' chief said: "After all the rumblings and convulsions at Miami for the week past, the unorganized workers of the country had a right to expect that the A. F. of L., in its own interests, would extend a sympathetic hand of assistance rather than a churchly denunciation of these organizations in the federation which are trying constructively to help in the cause of labor and the common people in this country."

Refusal to accede might mean expulsion of the eight international union presidents comprising this "organization within an organization" and the opening of a great schism, labor observers said.
