Whiskey Popular

DES MOINES, Feb. 3 (AP)—Whiskey led as the most popular beverage sold in Iowa state liquor stores in 1935, a report of the Iowa liquor control commission said today. The report noted an increase in wine consumption over last year. Total sales for 1935 were $6,091,712.22, the report said. Whiskey brought in $4,653,111 and hard liquor as a whole $5,842,395.46. Sales of wines totalled $195,591.18 and malt beverages, ale and stout, $19,484.88.

Deliberate?

JOLIET, Ill., Feb. (AP) — A Will county grand jury today was ordered to sift the sensational stories evoked by the razor slaying of college-trained convict Richard Loeb. Circuit Judge E. L. Wilson set Feb. 17 for the impanelling of a jury to ascertain whether Loeb was executed in a "deliberate murder plot" engineered by inmate enemies or was hacked to death in a private quarrel with Prisoner James Day.

Accuses Olson

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 3 (AP) — The meager endurance of Mrs. Walter Liggett cracked under the strain today, the small, slight widow collapsing after accusing Gov. Floyd B. Olson from a district court witness stand of "permitting" the murder of her husband.

Bedfellow!

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (AP)—George Sloan was sleeping quietly in his second floor bedroom this morning when suddenly: A terrific explosion jarred the house. Bricks and plaster showered down upon him. A huge disc plummeted into his bed. He opened his eyes cautiously and discovered he was sharing his cot with a big manhole cover.

Scram, Bum!

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3 (AP) — A border war on hoboes, hitchhikers and other migratory hangers was declared today by the Los Angeles police department. Launching a program carefully mapped since last November, officers will be sent tomorrow to railway and highway entrances along the southern border from Oregon to Arizona and east to Nevada.

Meatless

LONDON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Meatless menus faced much of southern England tonight because of a strike by Southfield market's 16,000 workers, that large army of burly men who for some reason wear straw summer hats all the year-round. Practically none of the 3,000 tons of meat that is daily supplied to London from this market, the world's largest, moved today. The strike, it was believed, might even spread to dock and railway workers.

Temperamental

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (AP) — A polar bear wedding at the Lincoln Park zoo was postponed today—on account of the cold! Icicle, imported from Germany as a mate for the widowed Snowflake, arrived at the menagerie today. He immediately retired to the warmest recess of his den. He declined to come out to meet the prospective bride.

New Styles

PARIS, Feb. 3 (AP)—The waistline plunged downward when Molyneux launched his version of spring fashions today in the second week of the Paris style shows. Wide swath belts, ending just above the hip bones, marked day frocks, which were designed in the lightest and most curvaceous silhouette seen this season. Cotton jackets and short, hip-bone length coats topped street frocks, and three-quarter coats accompanied afternoon dresses.

A New Senator Long

Mrs. Huey P. Long, widow of the late Senator Long, was appointed by Gov. James A. Noe to serve at least part of her husband's unexpired senate term. She will serve in the upper house until a general election in April fills the seat for the remainder of Long's term expiring next January. It was believed, however, that the Louisiana democratic state committee would also designate Mrs. Long for the remainder of the unexpired term at its Feb. 5 meeting.

Council Shies At Establishing Haircut Price

The Iowa City council yesterday afternoon shied away from price fixing in connection with the local barbers' price war, turning down a petition presented by barbers asking that a minimum price for haircutting be established.

Turns Down Barbers' Petition for Fixing Minimum Price

More than 15 barbers and lawyers presented their side of the case to the council, but a report of the ordinance committee, prepared Sunday afternoon in informal session, refused to take action on the petition and was approved by a vote of five to one.

The report of the committee said in part: "The city council appreciates the unfortunate situation in which the barbers of Iowa City find themselves at the present time, and very much regrets that it cannot support the passage of an ordinance such as the one suggested as a means of ending the ruffous price cutting war now in progress."

Alderman George Bouck was the only one of the six council members present to vote "no" on the ordinance committee report. Following the special meeting of the council yesterday afternoon, Mayor Thomas E. Martin said, "To my mind the view of the ordinance committee is correct."

Dewey Arraigns 10 Of 11 He Named As New York Bosses

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (AP)—Moving with the same speed that marked his spectacular raids on a chain of New York bordellos, racket-fighting Thomas Dewey tonight arraigned 10 of the 11 men he named as overlords of the city's vice syndicate. Supreme Court Justice Philip McCook promptly fixed bail amounting to $435,000 and set Thursday afternoon for hearings. The man Dewey named as "a real big shot" awaited extradition from Philadelphia. He is Peter Baltzer, alias Pete Harris, reputedly with a million dollar annual income.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3 (AP)—Seven of 90 workmen sleeping in a dormitory at the Parker dam construction camp perished today in fire that trapped them in their bunks. Two other workmen suffered critical burns and 16 more were given hospital treatment. The bodies were placed in a temporary morgue. Four were identified as Harold Herman, Joe Peterson, Otton Doran, and Albert Johnson. All doctors and nurses in Needles, Cal., a railway division point, were summoned there. The dormitory and a mess hall, also destroyed, were operated by Anderson Brothers, sub-contractors for the six companies, builders of the dam, it was said by Los Angeles officials of the metropolitan water district of Southern California. The water district let the contract for the dam construction. A night watchman discovered the blaze at 3:30 a.m. in the recreation hall of the two-story dormitory. A strong wind whipped the blaze through the structure, dried by the desert sun.

Gas Hearing At Davenport Will Continue

J. F. Porter Jr., manager of the Iowa City Light and Power company, and Richard Henneman, light company construction engineer, took the stand yesterday afternoon in Davenport federal court, testifying in the utility's fight to permit the introduction of natural gas into Iowa City. Mr. Porter, in both direct testimony and cross examination, told of the company's efforts to obtain a permit for the introduction of the gas. Mr. Henneman told A. A. Herick of Des Moines, the master hearing the case for Judge Charles A. Dewey, of the physical possibilities of the project. The testimony of the two men, after opening statements by opposing lawyers, occupied the entire afternoon. Other light company witnesses are expected to testify today as court convenes at 10 a.m. In refusing a permit for the introduction of natural gas, the city administration contends that the voters must approve the change. Leaders Act To Remove 3 AAA Statutes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Congressional leaders moved quickly tonight to carry out President Roosevelt's recommendation for removal from the statute books of three of the four remaining phases of AAA crop control. As new farm legislation advanced on several fronts, the executive forwarded an eight-line special message to congress urging "prompt repeal" of the Bankhead cotton control, Kerr-Smith tobacco and potato control laws. He did not mention the Jones-Costigan sugar control act. "This recommendation is made," Mr. Roosevelt said, "because of the termination of the program of agricultural production adjustment under the act of May 12, 1933, as amended, known as the 'agricultural adjustment act,' to which the three acts mentioned were auxiliary."

When it was not forthcoming, there was renewed speculation whether the nine justices had found difficulty in reconciling divergent views.

Congress Waits F.R.'s Words On Tax Plans

Understanding Prevails That President Will Call Conference

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Congressional leaders with an eye to growing demands for inflation, looked directly toward the White House tonight for signs of an official presidential pronouncement on tax plans for the session.

Word Circulated

Secondly, word was circulated that Mr. Roosevelt had reached no final decision as to whether new taxes to liquidate the bonus would be asked at this time, and that such a request might be deferred.

Understanding Prevailed

The understanding prevailed among leaders that no move would be made at either the White House or Capitol until Chairman Doughton of the house ways and means committee returns Wednesday from his North Carolina home.

On another inflation front it became apparent that a forced vote on the Frazier-Lemke bill to refinance farm mortgages with $3,000,000,000 of new currency was impossible before Feb. 24 at the earliest.

Paris, Feb. 3 (AP)—Unwritten agreements were sought by France in further diplomatic conversations today to aid in keeping Germany's reinforced army from stepping over her frontiers, particularly toward Austria.

Not Alarmed

Speaker Byrns told newspapermen he was not alarmed by the growing sentiment for inflation rather than taxes unless an "understanding" was reached between the Patman and Frazier-Lemke forces.

Il Duce to Make Sure Italy Ready For European War

ROME, Feb. 3 (AP)—Premier Mussolini summoned his all-supreme defense commission to meet with him tomorrow to make sure Italy is ready in the event of a European war.

War plans showing what the 1,000,000-man military machine could do to protect Italy's 44,000,000 population if League of Nations sanctions result in war will be gone over.

The commission will meet a few hours before the second February session of the fascist grand council to map Italy's immediate military program, chiefly in Africa.

SEEN From OLD CAPITOL

By JESS GORKIN

A plea for University of Iowa codes was issued last night by one university organization, it seems that the Social Dancing club, designed to teach Hawkeye men the rudiments involved in stepping the light fantastic, is in uncertain circumstances because of the great shortage of women interested in giving instruction.

We understand there are 50 men enrolled for the course, and hardly anywhere near this number of women have evinced their willingness to become instructresses. We send out a challenge to all Hawkeye women—Are you going to leave these men in the lurch? Here is an opportunity to demonstrate true University of Iowa spirit.

Cyndie

I loved you first in dark of night I changed my mind in broad daylight.

New I'm not exactly complaining

I guess I've had my fun, But 'twas crowded into one hour And now the hangover's begun.

She had eyes that dazzled

And a sweet smile that thrilled, But I didn't play my cards just right And now my milk is spilled

When we danced, I soared to heaven

Where else do angels dwell? But that was yesterday at Eleven— Now, I'm alone today at Twelve.

So along with my other failures

I'll get an Fd. in love; But I'm going to do better this semester BECAUSE I'M THROUGH WITH LOVE.

DES MOINES, Feb. 3 (AP)—A driving snow storm, that was developing a blizzard's viciousness, swept over Iowa tonight.

Although city funds for the purpose are nearly gone, Aldermen George Bouck and Earl Kurtz, members of the streets and alleys committee of the city council, last night were making plans to clear local streets of their thick blankets of snow.

Defense Makes Last Argument Regarding Discharges Tuesday

SIoux CITY, Feb. 3 (AP)—The closing argument in the case of the Iowa Manufacturing company of Cedar Rapids against the national labor relations board for a preliminary injunction to restrain the board from conducting a hearing regarding the discharge of three employees will be made before Judge George C. Scott Tuesday morning in federal court by H. A. Cranfield, Chicago attorney, who represents the Regional Director and the members of the board.

Crushed Rock

The company manufactures crushed-rock road machinery and employs about 80 persons. The men who were discharged were Vern Lingard, W. H. Backman and Róvert Van Ness. The International Association of Machinists, which filed the complaint with the labor board, alleged that they were discharged because of their activity in labor organizations work and their refusal to join a company union. It also alleged that the company has indulged in unfair labor practices by financially supporting the company union.

Sufficient Injury

The firm's counsel argues that the expense of defending itself at a labor board hearing would be sufficient injury to justify the court in issuing an injunction. It also attacks the validity of the law. It charges that the hearing would force the company to reveal trade secrets and alleged that if the firm was required to take the men back that, having won, their insubordination would be greater than ever and would disrupt the morale of other employees. The counsel also argued that the hearing before the labor board's regional director would not be fair because the director and attorney compose prosecutor, judge and jury.

A Profitable Government Bureau

OCCASIONALLY a governmental bureau will surprise everyone by turning up unexpectedly with a profit. The national credit corporation, emergency financing agency later supplanted by the reconstruction finance corporation, took inventory after its demise by court order, and announced a return of 3.4 per cent on invested capital.

Much commendable rescue work was done by this agency in aiding banks by buying questionable assets. Thus it is surprising that these investments produced a profit. One of the significant points to notice is that the favorable return of the corporation marks one more merit on the list of governmental aids to business.

A Regional Form of Government

UNIQUE WOULD best describe the proposal of a regional form of government for the nation made recently by Dr. J. W. Manning of the University of Kentucky. Ten regions would be formed in the New England, the middle Atlantic, central, north central, west central, upper south Atlantic, south central, lower south, Rocky mountain and the Pacific districts.

Dr. Manning declared that on all major issues the country will usually be divided in sentiment according to these regions, and it would simplify legislative and executive duties to establish them under law. He would abolish state lines.

Not mentioned in the proposal was the fact that this would undoubtedly reduce governmental expenditures through decrease in "red tape" and consolidation of many offices now filled by about five times the number of men.

The unity of these regions along common cultural, traditional and economic lines can be easily shown by a study of the different states in each. Complete destruction of state lines has long been recognized by political scientists as desirable from the standpoint of economy.

Temporary Kings

A Campus Mystery CLASS OFFICERS are gradually becoming one of those institutions that exist only in the memory of those went to school in the dim past. At least that statement can be made in reference to Big Ten schools. The truth of this was demonstrated time and again, but a very recent illustration can be found in the survey conducted by the Ohio State Lantern, school paper for that university. Out of every 100 students questioned only four could name their class presidents.

Although all the 10,000 students were not queried, the report showed that a very representative group, in the light of their interests at least, were contacted. Campus buildings, restaurants, and other popular student places were polled, and an equal number in all colleges and classes.

An interesting sidelight was that every student who named the four presidents were fraternity men, the students who are always interested in class elections.

The survey, together with past experience of other schools, convinces us that the present student governments are virtually useless. Some forms might be evolved which would render them useful to universities, but when no powers are delegated to the executives by their own followers, it is time to throw over such a system.

Abolish Conflicts On University Calendar

THE UNIVERSITY of Iowa calendar this week will be full of interesting events. Included on the schedule will be the midyear convocation this evening, the history conference Friday and Saturday, and a university lecture by John Mason Brown, New York dramatic critic, on Friday.

This schedule, however, is marred by the conflict of the university lecture and an address by William Lingelbach of the University of Pennsylvania, as part of the history conference. Both of these lectures will occur at 8 o'clock Friday evening.

Time and again in these columns we have pointed out the need for cooperation in scheduling university events and how simple it is to avoid such complications. The president's office keeps a schedule of university events that may be checked with that office.

In this instance the university lecture was scheduled before the beginning of the present academic year. It is not fair, either to the events or the university family, to commit this error. Many persons would like to attend both of these events. Let's have greater care exercised in scheduling, and avoid such occurrences this semester.

The face of Edward VIII will be on new coins minted in Great Britain but most of Edward's loyal subjects will be perfectly content if they can get their hands on the coins.

Within the last few years we have seen experiments in economies beyond the wildest flights of imagination 10 years ago. We have seen new plans, such as the NRA, AAA, CWA and many others rise and fall. A great deal of economic planning has been tried, and has failed. All of which has drawn much criticism, and not entirely undeserved.

However, almost all of these experiments have at least had the excuse of being more or less new, and without past experience by which to judge them.

A Washington Bystander

WASHINGTON — Aside from the amusement he undoubtedly derived from matching wits with the press over what he was going to do about the bonus payment bill, President Roosevelt very possibly was cooking an eye also at the impending Liberty league dinner when he sent in his novel veto message.

One of Those Gestures To bear out that idea of why the veto was sent just when it was, it should be recalled that the senate was in recess that Friday and not to reconvene until Monday.

S.U.I. Geology Dept. Receives New Specimens

The geology department recently received some interesting specimens of hairy elephant remains to add to its collection of several hundred specimens of mammals of the glacial period. Dean George P. Kay of the college of liberal arts said yesterday.

New Specimens

The new specimens, sent in by L. M. Martin, district engineer of the Iowa state highway commission at Council Bluffs, were described by Dean Kay as follows:

"From many points of view they are the finest hairy elephant remains that we have in our collection. Some of our mammoths are larger and some more nearly complete, but the new specimens supplement rather than duplicate those that we have. Most of the mammoth specimens found in Iowa come from gravels and appear to have been considerably worn before they were buried, but this young mammoth must have been buried immediately after death. Perhaps the animal was mired in a stream or swamp and drowned. At any rate the specimens are excellently preserved."

Glacial Period

Among the animals of the glacial period in Iowa whose remains are in the geology department's collection are camels, musk-oxen, horses, hairy elephants and giant beavers more than nine feet in length. According to the present average more than 75 per cent of the mammalian life of that period is now extinct.

The most important mammoth fossils have been found near Rock Rapids and near Amama, where further excavation is expected to yield significant finds.

Dean Kay is former state geologist, a position now held by Prof. Arthur C. Trowbridge, head of the geology department.

Prof. Blackstone To Address Oklahoma Educational Group

Prof. Earl G. Blackstone of the college of commerce will leave Iowa City today for Oklahoma City, where he will address members of the commerce department of the Oklahoma Educational Association, at their state convention Friday.

"New Concepts of Consumer Education" will be his topic. He will discuss coordination of the 15 or 20 national agencies set up by the federal government and private agencies to educate the American consumer.

The public is afraid of everything from pink toothbrush to athlete's foot. Professor Blackstone asserts, because it has not been given a dependable standard for judging quality and quantity in the products it buys. To coordinate all efforts at consumer education into one general plan, and to provide a unified program of research, are the first steps Professor Blackstone will recommend.

LABOR SECRETARY STOPS FOR CHAT

After charging the American Federation of Labor executive council of being a "dog in a manger" in a bitter speech at the United Mine Workers' convention in Washington, President John L. Lewis stops to chat with Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, who also addressed the assembly. In their fight for industrial rather than craft unionism, the U.M.W. empowered Lewis and his executive board to withdraw the 600,000 miners from the A. F. of L. whenever "circumstances warrant."

Funke Records Now Available

Five speech records in German by Prof. Erich Funke, acting head of the German department, are now available, according to the 1936 Linguaphone language courses catalog.

The series of artistic records, "Dr. Funke's Readings in German," were made in New York. They are accompanied by three text pamphlets.

The records contain hitherto unrecorded portions of Faust and contain representative selections from famous German writers. A three part arrangement includes German lyrical poetry, Goethe's Faust and modern German prose.

Designed as a model for advanced German students, the course may also serve as a review of German literature.

In 1929 Professor Funke made a number of conversational records in Berlin in collaboration with Professor Siebs of the University of Breslau, Dr. Drach of the University of Berlin and Professor Menzerath of the University of Bonn.

Iowa Cagers Drub Drake Quintet, 35 to 22

Hawkeyes Rush to Early Lead To Smother Impotent Bulldog Offense With Close Guarding

Capt. Sid Rosenthal Dazzles Drake Guards By Flashy Floor Play, Fast Set-up Shots; Wally Gaddis Makes One Field Goal During Tilt

By HAROLD REED
(Assistant Sports Editor)

Iowa's Big Ten cagers, flashing an airtight defense that held Drake's Missouri Valley contenders to three field goals in the last half, marched to a convincing 35 to 22 triumph over their intra-state rivals, more than atoning for a defeat at the hands of the Bulldogs last year.

Led by Capt. Sid Rosenthal, whose lightning fakes made Drake's defense look absurd at times, the Hawks rapidly gained unstoppable momentum, holding a comfortable margin at every stage in the game.

In the second period, Drake staged a six point scoring spree to pull up to a 29-20 count on the Old Gold, but the rally was soon stemmed by an alert Iowa defense.

Gaddis Plays Wally Gaddis, sophomore forward hope, played approximately half the game, contributing one basket and some dazzling floor work.

Joe Van Ysselidy took matters in his own hands soon after the opening tip-off, coming in fast with a one hand push shot from the foul circle to open the Old Gold scoring. Jack Parisho, Drake's wild-shooting forward who headed the Bulldog's scoring with seven points, capitalized when fouled by Van Ysselidy to put his team in the count column.

From then on the Iowa offense started clicking, with quick baskets by Schwartz, Suesens and Rosenthal carrying the total to 9 before Xanders was able to put Drake in the running with two gift shots on a foul by Rosenthal. Van Ysselidy again contributed, this time with a long, arching shot from the center of the court, and DeHeer added a foul counter. Swan, dangerous Drake center, came through with two baskets, interspersed with a goal by Xanders.

From here on the Bulldog offense ceased to function, not registering a field goal until more than five minutes of the final period had been played. Wally Gaddis no sooner stepped out on the floor than he was fouled by Orebaugh, made it, and immediately added a rebound shot. Rosenthal's sensational pivot, set-up shot from directly under the basket, brought the score to 19 to 11, with an orgy of gift shots ending the scoring for the half at 22 to 13.

Determined Spree In the last stanza the Old Gold put on a determined scoring spree and marched to a 29 to 14 lead before the Bulldogs were able to connect. From here on, Coach Rollie Williams sent a stream of substitutes into the fray, ending with a complete new team in the closing minutes.

Ken Suesens demonstrated to the cynics that he can also make field goals, taking more shots than in any other game this year and connecting with two of them. Big Floyd DeHeer outdwarfed Swan, rival center, to control rebound shots with ease during his stay in the game. Van Ysselidy turned in his usual cool, unburied piece of work before giving way to reserves in the final half.

The Hawks swing into Big Ten action again Saturday, meeting Purdue's steamroller quintet in a tilt in Iowa fieldhouse.

Cunningham Plans Another Crack At Rival Conquerors

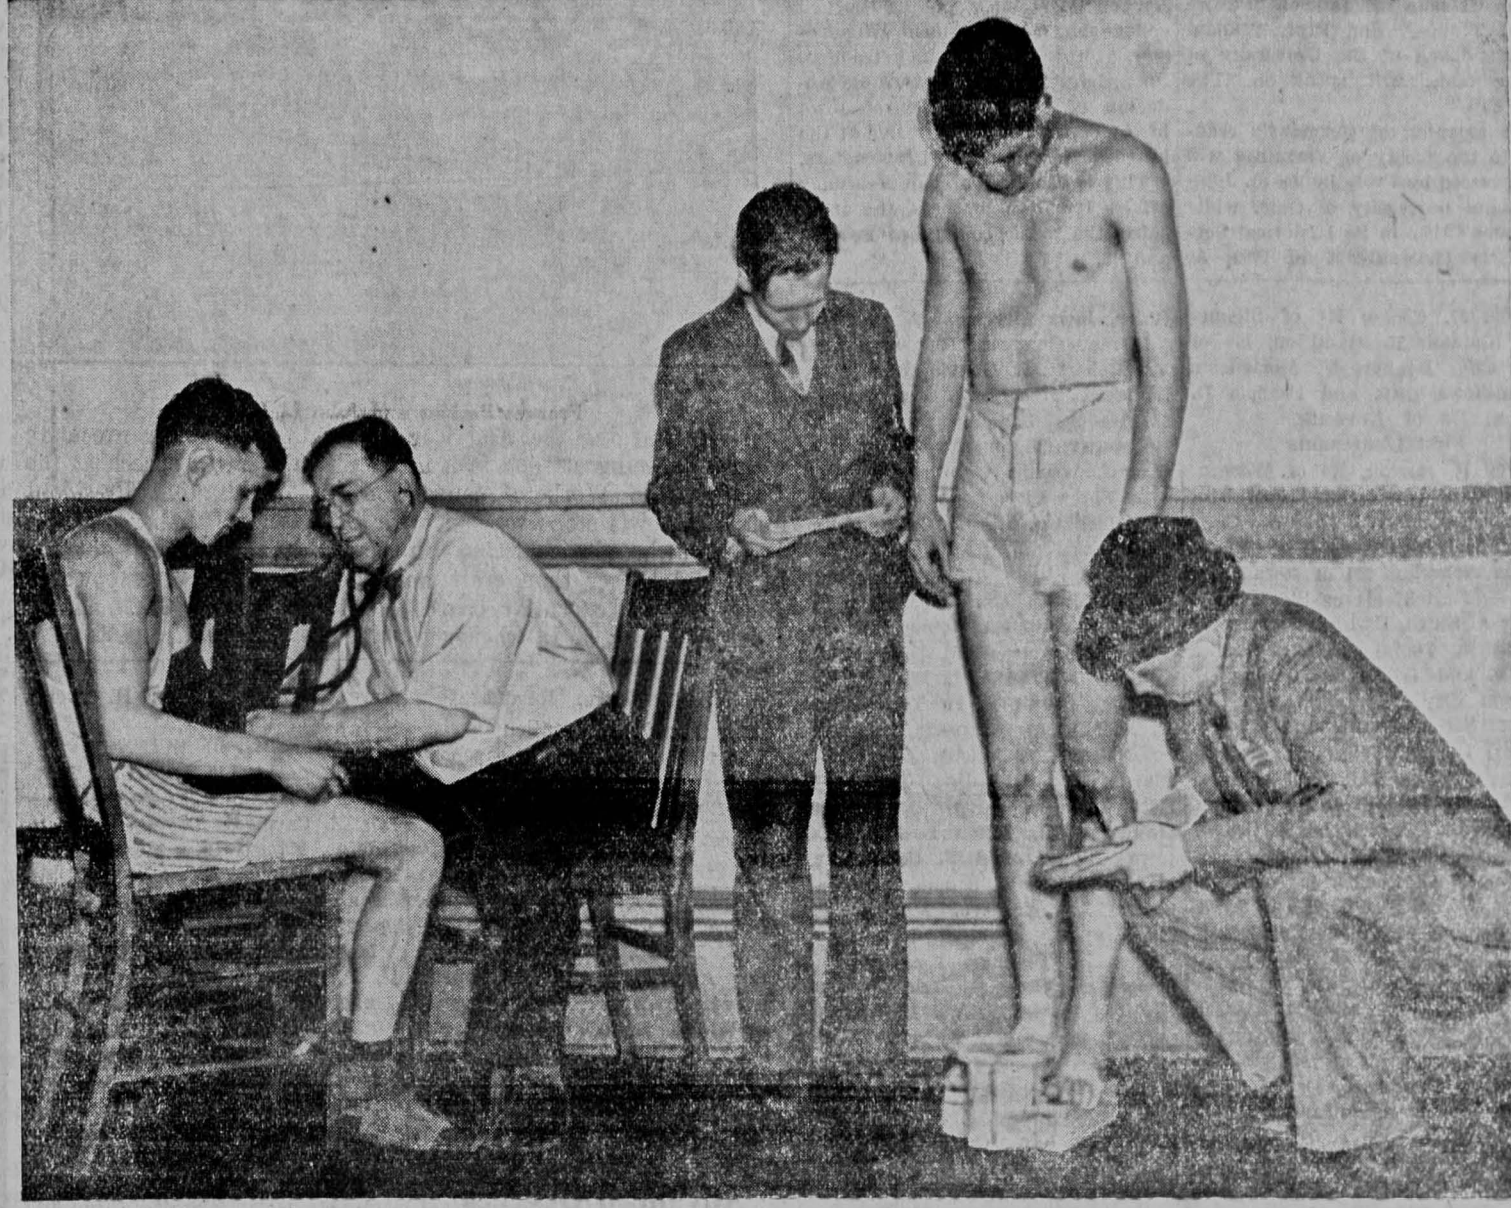

BOSTON, Feb. 3 (AP) — Hope of another Mangan-Venzke-Cunningham battle in Saturday's Hunter soared today when Boston Athletic association scouts reported the mighty Kansan cager for another try against his Millrose conquerors.

Glenn told them he wanted to make another start in Boston, where he was booked a week ago, and would know definitely on Wednesday if he could make the trip.

Joe Mangan, who turned in a 4:11 mile and Gene Venzke, the Wanamaker runner-up, have signed up for the B.A.A. classic.

Other stars added to the meet's impressive list of competitors today were Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette, the national 200-meters champion, and Norman Woolford of Franklin, Mass., winner of last year's Briggs 50-yard dash. Among the others down to start in that event are Eulace Peacock of Temple and Eddie O'Sullivan.

Purdue Hands Bucks 48-27 Big 10 Defeat

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 3 (AP)—With Bob Kessler and Jewell Youngs leading the way with a brilliant exhibition of basketball, Purdue flashed its best speed of the season tonight to trounce Ohio State 48 to 27.

It was the fifth straight Boilermaker victory of the Big Ten season.

Kessler rang up 16 points and Young 12.

Whittinger, Thomas, Dye and the other Ohio stars showed the 5,900 fans great speed but were unable to stop the Purdue attack without fouling. Dye, Raudabaugh, Whittinger and McDonald were ousted on personal fouls. Purdue led at the half, 25 to 17.

Boston College Engages Dobie As Grid Tutor

Ex-Cornell Mentor To Succeed Downes; Two Year Contract

NEWTON, Mass., Feb. 3 (AP)—Youth was crowded out by an aging veteran today when Boston college launched a new football era by engaging Gilmour (Gloomy Gil) Dobie as head coach.

The 57-year-old gridiron pessimist, forced to resign at Cornell after serving 16 years, succeeds Harry Downes, whose playing career ended only four seasons ago.

Alumni Pressure

Dobie quit Cornell under heavy alumni pressure, which was also responsible for Downes' failure to gain re-appointment. The latter, who joined the B. C. staff as line coach in 1934, took command of the squad at the halfway mark of the last campaign, when John R. (Dinny) McNamara's health forced him to resign his head coachship.

In the evening the basketball team will attempt to halt the great Purdue quintet. Wrestlers, already victorious over Wisconsin, will grapple Minnesota immediately after the basketball game.

With five all-Americans in its ranks, the swimming team appears powerful. Leading scorers probably will be Capt. Adolf Jacobsmeyer, 229 and 440; Dick Westerfield, back stroke; Jack Sieg and Ray Walters, dash; Fred Haskins and Wilbur Wehmer, breast stroke; and Arnold Christen, diving.

Hawks Set Defense

The basketball team, on paper, appears to have little chance against Purdue. But the Hawkeys, if their defense can keep pace with the speedy Boilermakers, have a chance for an upset. Iowa teams have given Purdue more trouble than any other Big Ten quintet since 1920.

Wally Gaddis, star basketball player and equally good fighter. . . . Wally shows real ring form and knowledge of the finer points of the game as he stabs his left into the faces of his rivals and follows up with crushing rights. . . . Van Siebert, who was finalist in the Des Moines tournament some time ago. . . . Charles Yates, a dark horse who is unknown in this section but possesses a great record in Harlan.

Legislative body should carefully investigate the enforcement of legislation before enactment, and when real doubt exists as to the constitutionality of proposed legislation, the legislative body (in this case the city council) should postpone enactment until the question of constitutionality is settled.

"We are truly sorry that the city is not in position at this time to add the barbers in their present situation."

Alderman Earl Kurtz went on record as requesting the people of Iowa City to refrain from patronizing cut-rate shops, but added that the council could not pass an ordinance which might lead to law suits in the event they are challenged.

Not Afraid
"We are not afraid of law suits where we have an even chance of winning," Mayor Martin said, "but we are opposed to legislation in which we feel that we are on the losing side."

A spokesman for the local barbers last night said he thought the council's action was "rather unfair." The 24 shops in the city will probably be all cutting soon, he said, instead of the 14 now below normal prices.

All Decided
"What gets my goat," he said, "is that the council had everything all decided before they ever heard our arguments, and a lot of other people knew of their decision long before we did."

It was thought likely that the Master Barbers of Iowa City will meet soon to decide on action to be taken in the present crisis. Meanwhile, 25 cent and 15 cent prices prevailed throughout the city, except in 10 shops where the normal 40 cent haircut price was still in effect.

Nudists' Ship Runs Aground; No Navigator

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 3 (AP)—A party of prospective nudist colonizers who put to sea without a navigator because none would shed his clothes to share their lot were reported aground in their schooner tonight at the mouth of the Hillsborough bay.

Passing freighters brought word of the ship's plight to Tampa. The ship left here bound for the Virgin Islands—1,400 miles away. Those aboard the freighters that sighted the nudist schooner said she apparently had been left stranded by an ebb tide and might float later on the floor. They said she appeared in no danger.

The craft, a 65-footer auxiliary-powered, sailed yesterday with its commander, Maurice Allard, founder of the "Vana Vana society," announcing: "We can't sign up a navigator, we can't take along anyone who isn't a member of the society." And there were no navigators along the Tampa docks who would sign up for the nudist project to accept the job.

Patrolman Stops Truck

Ready to Assist but Not Service Agency

(Editor's note: This is the second of a series of stories giving first-hand information on the function of the Iowa highway patrol.)

By RICHARD EVERETT (Daily Iowan City Editor)

Iowa Highway Patrolman James Gildroy steps on the gas. We just left a considerably sadder and wiser overloaded truck driver to the mercies of a justice of the peace and now will resume our patrol of eastern Iowa roads as a special guest of the six-months old highway police force.

We soon discover the reason Gildroy has pushed the speedometer to well above the 60 mark. Up ahead is a truck lurching and swaying as it speeds over the icy road. Iowa's speed limit for commercial trucks is 35 miles per hour, and even our inexperienced eyes can see that the one ahead is exceeding that figure by a considerable margin.

As he deftly sends his light car skimming along the highway in pursuit, Gildroy enlightens us somewhat to this effect: "It's up to him whether or not he wants to kill himself by driving that way, but it's our job to see that the darn fool doesn't kill somebody else."

Cheering News

With this cheering news ringing in our ears, we crawl up on the speeding truck. Finding the road clear ahead, Gildroy edges up even with the speeder, gives his siren a blast, and waves the driver to the side of the road.

The trucker, however, seems disinclined to stop, and keeps on at break-neck speed.

Here Gildroy brings into play one of the many things learned while taking his preparatory training at Camp Dodge in Des Moines last summer.

Our racing car leaps ahead, and with a slight motion of the wheel Gildroy slowly but surely corners the belligerent trucker to a halt by the roadside. When the snow flurry dies down, there we are in front of the truck, effectively blocking any attempt the trucker might make to run away.

Gildroy is out of the car almost before it stops, but doesn't do any of the things we might expect a cop to do. He doesn't draw his gun. He doesn't yell and wave his hands. He doesn't cuss.

Instead, he asks the trucker how fast his speedometer showed. The now thoroughly cowed individual admits his speed but claims he didn't know that the patrolman's siren was a signal to stop.

Without more ado Gildroy writes out a ticket, motions the truck ahead, and again we watch a trucker squirm in the presence of a stern justice of the peace in the nearest county seat.

Starting out again we resolve to double our life insurance if we are to go through many such performances, but Gildroy assures us that those unpleasant episodes occur only rarely.

Comfort, Quiet

We ride in comparative comfort and quiet for several hours until we find, half buried in a snow-filled ditch, a car of ancient vintage, to the rear of which is appended a dilapidated trailer.

The car is deserted, the owner obviously gone for a team to help pull the car out of the snow.

We stop. Gildroy gets out, produces a chain from among his emergency supplies. Now the problem remains of just how to get the car out. It is half in the ditch and half out, and up above its wheels in snow on one side.

It is a hopeless task for our light car, especially without chains. Rumbling down the highway, however, comes a large bread truck. Gildroy stops it, requests aid from the driver, which is gladly given, and in a short time the truck is on the pulling end of Gildroy's heavy chain.

After several tries the car, trailer and all, emerges from the drift. We leave the car on the solid shoulder of the road, out of danger from passing traffic, but free of the snow.

It is pleasant to anticipate the surprise of the motorist upon finding his car right side up and in good shape, ready to go. We see him coming down a side road with a pair of horses, but the highway patrol can't take time to wait for thanks. We go on.

It should be explained, however, that the patrol is not out to take business away from garages and service men. It is not subject to call every time a motorist has a breakdown or flat tire. Nor does it operate a towing service.

Its object is to keep the highway open and safe for traffic. It is always willing to assist in emergencies, but don't call your patrolman when hubby finds the radiator frozen.

Club Will Discuss Grading System

A general discussion on different grading systems will comprise the major part of the program to be presented at a meeting of Gavel club tonight at 7:30 in Iowa Union.

Students Will Meet With Representative

T. W. Prior, personnel representative of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, Akron, Ohio, will meet with a group of senior commerce students at 9 o'clock this morning to discuss positions open during the coming year. Room 309-B in university hall will be used for the group meeting and for individual conferences during the morning.

NUMBER THREE

is that all workers in an industry should belong to one union, rather than have a union for each craft in an industry. The A. F. of L. disapproves.

Green, who was booed repeatedly throughout his speech, warned the miners:

"If you go out, then there will be but one result. The American Federation of Labor will remain supreme. Attacks from within or from without can never shake it from its firm foundation."

Scattered applause greeted the end of Green's speech. Then Lewis arose. He stood silent for several minutes while the delegates roared, whistled and applauded.

"Let me call on all delegates who have changed their minds on this issue to rise," he said.

Three of the 1,700 delegates took their seat.

"Now let those delegates who want the committee for industrial organization dissolved rise," Lewis said. "This is a group that was ordered to disband recently by the A. F. of L. council."

None got up.

Lewis then called for all those who wished union officers to continue their fight for organization of mass production industries by industry rather than by craft.

Nearly every delegate in the hall arose, with more cheers and applause.

"President Green, you have received the answer of the United Mine Workers to your remarks," Lewis said. "It is not for the president of the United Mine Workers to amplify with mere words so deep-seated convictions as have been expressed."

"You came as the ambassador of another organization. I hope you have been treated with all due courtesy. But I hope you carry back to your organization the answer of the United Mine Workers."

"Back to the mines, Bill," came a shout from the gallery while Lewis and Green were being photographed.

Are you a STRANGER in your own home?

IT'S A FUNNY THING — but most people don't half see their own homes. We pass by both the fine points and the places that need fixing, without a glance, without a thought.

Yes, we all do this — until some day we decide to look around and really discover the place we live in. . . . Let's start with the living-room. That couch seat — how dingy and dull it looks. And there's a rough place where the cat sharpens his claws. The little rug in the hall is ragged and frayed. (Why, that's a disgrace!) And that table top certainly must be done over. The mantel looks positively bare, since Ted broke that lovely green vase. And all those magazines and papers — what we need is a good-looking stand to hold them.

You see the point. Lots of little things need doing. And it doesn't take lots of money to do them, one at a time. . . . Just make a list of what's needed and then keep watching the advertisements in this newspaper for good buys at low prices. Now's a fine time to find all sorts of good things for the house (February for furniture!), things you've been needing a long time, maybe, things you can have now without spending too much.

COAL!

There is an acute shortage of coal all through the middle west except in Iowa City where storage of coal in the large concrete coal pockets of this modern plant have insured a supply.

Place your order with Dane for your favorite fuel and be assured of prompt delivery of fresh mined, dust treated coal.
