Hoover Flays New Deal In Colorado Talk

Demos Have Failed In Job - 'Reemploying The Jobless' - Hoover

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., March 7 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover told a cheering audience of Colorado young republicans the new deal had failed in its biggest job—"reemploying the jobless."

The Colorado Springs auditorium, seating 3,100, virtually was filled to capacity. As he read his address, Mr. Hoover clasped and unclasped his hands in front of him.

"The new deal regulations of stocks and security promotion in various aspects have the right objectives. They were hastily and poorly formed without proper consideration by congress. But they point right."

After indicating the administration's "planned economy" as endangering the constitution, changing it with waste and ill-founded financial policies, the former president asked:

"What of the taxes that will ooze from this spending and debt all your lives?"

"Do not mistake. The new taxes of today are but part of them. More of them are as inevitable as the first of the month. The only alternatives are repudiation or inflation. No matter what nonsense you are told about corporations and the rich paying the bill, there will be two-thirds of it for the common man to pay after the corporations and the rich are sucked dry."

Train Passes Over 2 1-2 Year-Old Boy; Injuries--Two Cuts

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—Jimmy Seis, two and one-half years old, had two small cuts on his head and a puffed cheek today after being run over by a locomotive and eight freight cars.

He strayed into the Baltimore and Ohio railroad yards and was struck by the train, throwing him between the rails. Unconscious, he lay still as the cars ran over him.

Jimmy's mother had come out to look for him when a trainman brought the unconscious lad to her. He was rushed to the hospital, apparently near death, but when the blood was washed from his head, the two cuts and the bruised cheek were found to be the extent of his injuries.

Officers Stage Liquor Raid

Confiscate 5 1/2 Quarts Liquor in Single Drive Staged Here

In a surprise raid last night Patrolman Ben Hauber and Art Schnoebelen with Night Capt. Joe Dolezal descended on the home of Johnie Dickson, Negro, seizing five and one-half quarts of tax-paid liquor.

Chief C. O. Paine indicated last night that Dickson, who will probably be charged with illegal possession of liquor, will not face trial until the May term of district court here.

Although his liquor permit showed he had purchased more than $60 worth of liquor during the last two months, Dickson declared the whiskey was all for his own use. The liquor seized had been mixed with parts of alcohol.

State Grants $60,000 Fund To University

Expenditure Is Part Of Million Dollar State Building Program

With funds to be available May 1, the University of Iowa has been granted $60,000 for building and improvements as part of the million dollar building program voted by the last session of the state legislature.

President Eugene A. Gilmore said last night that the funds may be used for alterations of the physics building, improvements on the west side athletic field, steam and water lines, and for a new botanical laboratory.

The remodeling and new construction in this state program, the Associated Press reported, involving expenditure of $445,375 of state funds for each year of the current biennium, previously did not provide sufficient funds to meet state expenditures during the last half of 1935.

Allocation of property tax money to the state by county treasurers on April 15 will swell the state's general fund to a point where improvements can be started, it is believed.

The comptroller said that since the end of the fiscal year comes July 1, building which has been approved can continue through the summer without interruption until it is completed.

The legislature voted $1,500,000 less in tax money than it appropriated for the last half of 1935, but the state government was able to continue on a cash basis because of a $700,000 cash balance and use of liquor store profits, the comptroller explained.

It was pointed out that expenditures for improvements voted by the legislature must be approved by the executive council before the allocations are made.

French Officials Declare Army Ready To Compel Germany to Evacuate Hold

Hitler's Troops Cross Rhine To Take Up Posts

Move Smashes Locarno Pact, Remnants Of Versailles Treaty

BERLIN, March 7 — Germany reestablished the "watch on the Rhine" today.

By command of Reichsfuehrer Hitler, her troops crossed the famous little river, regiment by regiment, to take up the posts once held by the kaiser's armies on the frontier of France.

Hitler called the action a precaution against communism and France's "iron ring around the reich." It smashed the Locarno pact and the remnants of the military clauses of the Versailles treaty.

Der Fuehrer declared that Germany, reborn as a world power, was ready to reenter the League of Nations, but as a comrade rather than as a conquered nation.

Then, in an effort to prove that his act was the will of the German people, he dissolved the nation's parliament, the reichstag, and ordered elections for March 29. It is the composition of the reichstag which determines the government of Germany.

Hitler called his action a move for peace. He offered to sign a 25-year non-aggression pact with France and Belgium, with Great Britain and Italy as guarantors.

THE EUROPEAN SITUATION

(By The Associated Press)

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's nazi legions marched into the "demilitarized" Rhineland yesterday.

Italy's Premier Mussolini agreed to discuss Ethiopian peace with the League of Nations—with reservations.

The British government announced a cabinet meeting Monday would discuss the situation.

Hitler declared the signed Franco-Russian mutual assistance pact had already wrecked the Locarno treaty.

German officials agreed that no action was the best action on Hitler's move.

Hitler declared the signed Franco-Russian mutual assistance pact had already wrecked the Locarno treaty.

To Strive For Peace Methods Under League

Decree Follows Official Order to Garrison All Frontier Ramparts

PARIS, March 7 (AP)—French officials declared that tonight France was ready to use her army, supported by her allies, to compel Germany to evacuate the Rhineland, but that France first would exhaust the peaceful methods possible under the League of Nations.

This declaration followed an order by military authorities that all fortifications along the northeast frontier be garrisoned immediately with their full quotas of troops.

The order was issued shortly after the French government decided to do its "utmost" under the League of Nations covenant to compel Germany to take its troops out of the Rhineland.

Officials declared France would ask the league to vote economic and financial sanctions against Germany. Remilitarization of the Rhineland violates the Treaty of Versailles, the pact by which the League of Nations also was created.

In authoritative quarters it was stated France would ask Great Britain, Italy and Belgium, co-signatories of the Locarno pact, which Hitler denounced, to demand immediate evacuation of the Rhineland.

This request will be made, it was said, after the league acts on the violation of the Versailles and Locarno treaties.

Russia and Czechoslovakia, it was stated by French officials, have promised France their unlimited backing against Germany's abrogation of the Locarno pact.

French Soldiers Move Toward German Frontier Under Orders To Protect Rhine, Border Cities

Regiments of French soldiers moved toward the German frontier tonight under orders to garrison the Rhine border at full war strength as Hitler's troops poured into border cities in the German Rhineland.

The French military's drastic move climaxed a day of anxiety precipitated by the Reichsfuehrer's renunciation of the Locarno pact and command to his nazi legions to militarize the Rhineland.

That Germany be punished by the league of nations for committing "a hostile act."

Meanwhile Premier Mussolini of Italy suddenly agreed to discuss peace in Africa with the League of Nations provided Italy might retain conquered portions of Ethiopia and the Lake Tana district.

Hitler in his 78-page address before the reichstag declared that France had first nullified the Locarno pact by militant moves and by signing a mutual assistance pact with Soviet Russia.

Declaring that the German army merely was moving into another section of the fatherland, he said he was motivated by no militaristic intent.

River Creeps Out in Sioux City Outskirts

SIoux CITY, March 7 (AP)—The Floyd river crept out of its banks tonight within the limits of Sioux City, but river observers did not fear any extensive damage immediately as reports from up-river indicated the flood was rising little, if any.

The overflow first covered the circus grounds at Seventh and Division streets and then much of the Meadow Grove golf course at Thirty-fourth street and Terminal Drive.

Beyond the city several hundred acres of lowlands along the river were under water. The Floyd flows through the east part of Sioux City and empties into the Missouri near the stockyards.

Officials of the Swift Packing plant decided not to take any chances on the turbulent stream, which often has swept out of its bank to do widespread damage. They put employees to work this afternoon removing stock and equipment from the basement of their plant—"just in case the Floyd should go on a rampage over the week end."

Perry creek, a treacherous water-course through the city held to its banks today though the banks ran nearly full. The Big Sioux which flows into the Missouri at the west of Sioux City also remained in bounds.

Kraschel Seeks Farm Support

Says Backing Necessary To Assure Safety Of Major Industry

RANDALL, March 7 (AP)—Lieut. Gov. Nels Kraschel, in a speech for delivery here today, called for united support behind an Iowa farm program to assure "continued protection" for the state's major industry.

The two-term lieutenant governor, now seeking the democratic party's nomination for governor, was the scheduled speaker before the annual meeting of the Randall Cooperative Creamery association.

He said he considered it the immediate duty of Iowans to "remain united as they have been during the last three years, in the support of any effective program for agriculture."

"In order to continue this protection through the inevitable changes of the national viewpoint toward our industry, it behooves Iowans to solidify themselves behind a sound policy and program for our farming industry."

The velvety texture of this Ceccolaine two piece knit puts it definitely in the dressed up class. Smart combination of two kinds of ribbing appears in the blouse, the yolk and sleeves being in a solid rib and the lower part of the bodice in an openwork wider rib. ## Gardener's Hoe!

Spring Weather Brings About Need For Outside Hotbeds

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series of garden features to appear each Sunday in The Daily Iowan.)

By JANE MILES

With continued spring weather, city gardeners are anxious to get their plants outside. It is too soon to set out your indoor hotbed seedlings, but it is just the right time to set up an outdoor hotbed.

Where the required number of plants is too great for growing in window boxes a hotbed or a cold-frame built out of doors may be provided. Seeds of the following plants may be planted in the outdoor cold-frame or hotbed: tomatoes, early cabbage, peppers, eggplant, lettuce, cucumbers, melons, squashes, beets, snap beans, Lima beans, and sweet corn.

Construction

The usual method of constructing a hotbed is first to dig a shallow pit eight to 18 inches deep, according to locality, and pack it full of fermenting stable manure. The manure before being placed in the pit should be turned over once or twice in a pile in order to insure even heating. It may then be backed into the hotbed pit and tramped uniformly.

A standard hotbed sash is three feet in width and six feet in length. The size of the bed should be made to suit the number of sash employed. A framework of boards 18 to 24 inches high at the back and about 12 inches high in front is placed over the manure-filled pit to support the sash.

Garden Loam

About three or four inches of fine garden loam is then spread evenly over the manure, and the bed is allowed to stand for four or five days to warm up before any seed is sown.

At first the temperature of the bed will run rather high, and it is best to delay planting the seeds in it until it begins to decline. This can be determined by placing a thermometer with the bulb about three inches below the surface of the soil and watching it until the temperature falls below 85 degrees before planting any seeds.

If a glazed sash is not available for covering hotbed, heavy muslin may be used instead; the glass, however, makes the most desirable form of covering. Care must be taken to give the bed sufficient ventilation to prevent overheating, as it is liable to heat up rapidly when the sun shines full upon the glass.

Monday Club

Monday club will meet Agnes Strub, 221 E. Fairchild street, tomorrow afternoon.

Lucky Girl
The girl with the heart-shaped face is in luck, with 1936 definitely a season for sailor hats. Wide brimmed and low-crowned, they perch on clusters of curls. The woman with a round or square face can find many variations of the style with unexpected dips and angles to add piquancy and dash to her appearance. For dressy occasions a few wisps of hats are being shown with transparent crowns to reveal the entire coiffure.

Accessories are definitely linked with hats this year. Luggage colors, rust, russet, golden and saddle tan have been introduced with tailored gloves, shoes and bags.

Home economics students in the foods classes taught by Prof. Edna A. Hill and Ione Hosman toured an Iowa City bakery Friday evening as an introduction to a bread project begun this week. Another group will make a similar tour next Friday.

Breadmaking pointers emphasized at the bakery include: value of water tests for quality of flour, which varies from year to year in gluten, starch, bran and protein content; and the need for watching three factors in temperature during breadmaking. Room temperature is kept constant at 80 degrees, flour temperature at 80 degrees, and water at 60 degrees to balance the 20 degrees added by mixing machinery and handling.

Breadmaking
The commercial process of breadmaking was demonstrated from the time the dough was weighed out into a boxlike compartment, passed through a shaper, baked, and carried along a belt from slicer saws to the wrapper, until a knife cut the paper to fit, machinery lifted the bread into it, and the knives folded the paper, and the belt carried the product to a hot plate which sealed the partially-melted wax paper.

"What do you do with children who insist on coming home all splashed with mud after they've been told again and again to stay out of the mud?"
Iowa City mothers brought up this problem, among others discussed at the first meeting of the child study group organized this week by the Henry Sabin Parent-Teacher association. This group, the first in the city, is one of 80 such study centers in Iowa.

Offers Solution
Led by Mrs. Hazel M. Schaus of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station, the discussion concerned ways of securing children's obedience without resorting to punishment. One mother volunteered a solution for the "mud problem," which was considered good because it distinguished between harmless activity and the kind that should be discouraged. She said, "I have my child change into his oldest clothes as soon as he comes home, and then I let him splash."

The discussion brought out the need for parents to understand the child's delight in mud, that fascinating substance. It is as natural for him to enjoy splashing as for his mother to enjoy seeing him in clean clothes, and before punishing him she should get his viewpoint. Habitual use of "don't" by the mother may bring "won't" from the child even at a reasonable request.

With The Ladies

By Ruth Blanchard

Developments in styles and clothing, trends in home furnishings, treatment of nutrition and food problems and analysis of child training methods are but a few of the many topics in which the modern woman is interested. With this in mind, The Daily Iowan will present a daily column treating of these subjects as written by Ruth Blanchard in cooperation with the Iowa Child Welfare Research station and the university home economics department.

For Easter, what shall it be? A mannish Homburg hat, a frilly flowery Margot creation, or one of the very popular sailor styles?

Bananas, Carrots
Whatever hat you choose this year, it will probably have the feminine touch, in its veil or in flower and ribbon trimmings.

With the mannish "Leap Year suits" modifications of the Homburg are worn in sophisticated gray or in navy blue, their stern lines softened by veils of the colorful confetti type or of Spanish mesh or "fish net" for the entire face.

Clusters of gardenias, violets and other flowers are worn at the lapel, with frilly collars of confetti veiling and long pull-on gloves with flared cuffs to offset the masculine effect of this year's tailored suits.

Tiny bunches of bananas and even carrots vie with bows and flower clusters on the hats shown for Easter wear. Women may indulge in bright colors to their heart's content this year, for fashion stresses oxblood red, strong spring greens and brilliant colors even in the stitching and piping of hats in more conservative shades.

Water Early
Watering should be done during the early part of the day, and the bed should be given enough air so that the plants will dry off before night. The bed should be closed before evening, in order to conserve enough heat to carry it through the night in good condition. If the weather should turn severely cold, a covering of straw, blankets or canvas may be thrown over the bed to protect it.

A coldframe is constructed in exactly the same manner as a hotbed, with the exception that no manure is placed beneath it to supply heat.

Planting
Before the plants are set in the garden, from either the hotbed or the coldframe, they should be gradually hardened to outside conditions by giving them more ventilation each day. Finally, remove the sash entirely on bright days and replace it for the night. The aim should be to produce strong health plants that will make a quick start when placed in the garden.

"The Great Sufferer on Calvary"

Isaiah 53.

"The Greatness of His Sufferings."

"Here [Is. 53] we hear how the prophet Isaiah long before they came to pass prophesied concerning the sufferings of Christ our Lord and showed very clearly that the purpose for which these sufferings were ordained was that they should be a sacrifice to atone for our sins and to acquire the redemption of the human race. The prophet has described the sufferings of the Lord almost more clearly than the Evangelists in the New Testament. In fact, there is no passage in the entire New Testament which describes the cause of Christ's sufferings so distinctly and so clearly as this text. In short, this chapter is the acme of the Old Testament just as the Epistles of St. Paul are the acme of the New Testament. Therefore all parents ought to read it to their children in order that, coming to know and understand it, they may strengthen and exercise their faith by means of it." (Dr. Martin Luther, On Isaiah 53.)

W.A.A. Meets At Iowa Union

"Competition is a keen-edged tool that can stimulate or destroy," Prof. Elizabeth Halsey, head of the women's physical education department, said in an address to University women and guests at the W.A.A. play day luncheon yesterday in Iowa Union.

Professor Halsey urged women to keep the spirit of competition friendly instead of bitter as in the old Roman coliseum. Play day, she said, is a step toward friendly competition.

As a part of the entertainment at the luncheon, Iowa Wesleyan and Penn women sang pep songs. "On Iowa" was sung by Iowa women. Approximately 25 guests from the two schools attended play day.

The principal attraction of the morning was the Penn-Iowa basketball game which ended with the score tied at 24. Iowa Wesleyan won the second game 38 to 16 from Iowa's B team, and Iowa's C team defeated the Odds and Ends 20 to 16 in an afternoon game. Badminton and swimming furnished other recreation.

Edits Book Of Songs, Hymns

Songs of Caesar's triumphs, operatic selections, and modern national and university hymns are included in a book of Latin songs edited by Prof. Roy C. Flickinger, head of the classical languages department. Originally intended mainly for use in Latin clubs, the book has proved so popular that Professor Flickinger has revised it to include many widely known songs. "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner" are to be found in a group of translations of familiar American songs. Such favorite hymns as "Lead Kindly Light" and "Silent Night" have been prepared for the latest edition.

German poems and the Odes of Horace set to music from modern ballads, and Vergilian tags to the music of Verdi make up the group of longer selections. Also in this group are a number of original Latin songs set to music by Professor Flickinger and his associates.

Familiar rounds such as "Row, Row, Row Your Boat" make up the lighter portion of the book.

Currier Calls— And Currier Keeps 'Em Waiting, Also

More than 200 men of all sizes and descriptions lined up in the lobby of Currier hall last night shortly before 7 o'clock waiting to have their dates summoned by Currier's lone lobby telephone.

The occasion for the jammed reception rooms of the women's dormitory was Currier's annual dinner dance from 7 to 12 o'clock last night in Iowa Union.

Uncomfortably attired in tuxes and tails, the fellows summoned what nonchalance they could in an effort to combat a feeling similar to that of being in a breadline. Habitués of the Currier lounge were easily distinguished by their blasé air in marked contrast to the bewildered look stamped on the faces of a few favored home town swains who came to Iowa City especially to attend the big party.

One poor perplexed fellow had forgotten the first name of his date, evidently having called her Miss—up to that stage of their acquaintance. An understanding girl at the lobby desk helped him out of his dilemma by the simple expedient of setting out to call the four different Currier girls with that particular surname until the correct one was located.

Impatient calls for taxis helped add to the confusion and lengthen the line waiting to use the telephone.

Hoover Lashes New Deal In Address to Young Republicans

The following highlights were taken from former President Hoover's speech to young republicans of Colorado last night:

By the Associated Press

There were 39 promises in the republican platform of 1928. Of these, 37 were carried out even in depression by my administration. x x x Two secondary promises broke against the obstinacy of a democratic congress.

Whether they know it or not, the new deal has imitated the intellectual technique of typical European revolution.

Thanks to a people of a great heritage, to the press and the radio, free speech still lives in America.

I believe in the American system of liberty. x x x It has faults. But it contains the real ferment of progress.

What they (young people) want of government is to keep the channels of opportunity open and equal, not to block them and then charge them for doing it.

I am one who believes that the only system which will preserve liberty and hold open the doors of opportunity is government-regulated business. And this is as far from government-dictated business as the two poles.

Incidentally, the government might regulate its own business by some of the standards it imposes on others.

There will be periodic unemployment in any system. It is even so in the self-declared economic heavens of socialism and fascism.

Young men and women have grave need to look into this new deal alternative to our American system.

When you ask the government for a job, your ability is second to your politics, your delivery of votes, and our affiliations generally.

Your fireside talks in the future will be with the tax collector.

I know American youth is changing at the bit to take advantage of an opening world.

Men's Club of M.E. Church to Entertain At Dinner, Program

Rhine Region Is Industrial, Farm Area

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP)—The Rhine land province, occupied again today by troops of Der Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, roughly is a territory of more than 10,000 square miles, including the Saar, with a population of nearly 8,000,000.

Highly industrial in its numerous cities, the Rhine region also is a noted agricultural area, producing famed wines from vineyards along the Rhine and Moselle rivers. A number of universities and a distinctive architecture mark the region's cultural development.

Parts of the territory have shut since 1801 between France and Germany as the fortunes of war changed.

Sought Detachment

At the end of the World war, France sought to detach the left bank of the Rhine, depriving Germany of eight per cent of her territory, 11 per cent of her population, 12 per cent of her coal supply, and 80 per cent of her iron ores, including Alsace.

The policy failed. A compromise was effected which called for demilitarization of the Rhine area, occupation by allied troops, to be followed by their evacuation over a period of years, but civil administration by the German government under the eyes of an international commission.

Characteristics

In its physical characteristics, Upe of industries and agriculture, and cities, the territory resembles a composite picture of western New York, western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio along the Ohio river, a strip of northern Ohio, and much of Michigan.

About 43 per cent of the territory's total area was under tillage in 1925, when last figures were obtainable.

Rye, Wheat

The chief agricultural products were rye, wheat, barley, oats and potatoes, with the extensive vineyards along the Rhine and the Moselle producing wines, although Johannsberger and other noted wines are produced higher up the Rhine, outside the province.

The Ruhr and the Saar add the province in a total annual production of coal upwards of 25,000,000 tons.

Iron, Zinc

Other mineral products are iron, zinc, lead, copper, quicksilver and manganese. Salt, sulphur and stone are produced.

Locomotives, guns, needles and small tools are among the industrial products. Woolen and silk textiles produced at Aix-la-Chapelle and Elzfeld are among the world's foremost.

Glass works, paper mills, chemical works, sugar refineries, breweries and distilleries give work to many thousands. Tanners find oak tannin at hand in hillside forests. Cattle are reared in considerable herds. The Rhine's salmon fishery is very productive.

Local, State Taxes Rise

DES MOINES, March 7 (AP)—Gov. Clyde L. Herring today reported an estimated seven and one-half million dollar increase in Iowa state and local government taxes this year and analyzed the expenditure of the state government's tax dollars.

Of the total increase in taxation, the governor said, "all but two and one-half millions of dollars is due to increased local levies" by school districts, cities and counties.

New Student Group Will Conduct Open Meeting at Union

Philo Club Entertains At Union; 4 Groups To Compete in Program

Melodrama Of 1867 Planned In Play Series

Augustin Daly's melodrama of 1867, "Under the Gaslight," will be presented in the University theater community series Thursday at 8 p.m. in Macbride hall auditorium, with Prof. Vance Morton, associate director of University theater, directing.

All the favorite stock characters come to life. The long-mustached, teeth-gritting villain with the bowler hat is there. The fragile heroine is present, and soft as a facial in the hands of the hero but an Amazon when cornered. She actually cuts her way out of a railroad shack with an ax and dashes out to throw the switch just in time to let the Chicago Express, thundering along at nearly 18 miles an hour, turn off on the main track!

The hero, of course, was bound and gagged directly in the path of the snorting locomotive. Behind the shack the snoring villain may be seen taking to the woods. "Curses! I'll get ya yet!"

Professor Morton has discovered that despite the sensationalism of this script it marks a period of transition in the theater. Daly was apparently aware—better than his copyists—that the mere heaping of catastrophe upon catastrophe was not enough to warrant "good theater." The reproduction of dime novel material might be sufficiently popular for public acclaim but Daly chose a more heroic course.

He introduced characters outside the conventional stock figures and surrounded his play with at least the semblance of victory of virtue and defeat of vice. This, at no expense or sacrifice to the melodramatic breath-taking incidents which his audiences anticipated, added a theme to mere incident.

Asks Return of Rural Electrification Blanks

All blanks sent out to Johnson county farmers requesting opinions on the proposed rural electrification corporation here are to be returned as soon as possible to the farm bureau office, County Agent Emmett C. Gardner announced yesterday.

As soon as the blanks are filled out and returned, they will be tabulated and a report made, Mr. Gardner said. Questions asked are whether or not the farmer is now using electricity, whether electricity is furnished by his own plant or furnished from utility plans, and whether the farmer would back a rural electrification program.

Spaeth Defines Jazzmania

"Jazzmania is not a country but a state, affecting all the living arts and even the manner of living," said Sigmund Spaeth, lecturer and author, in a Times club lecture before 250 persons in the music building last night. "Jazz is a distortion of the conventional in music, in painting and in art of any kind," he added.

"People who are horrified at jazz," he said, "have definitely created jazz by making it a forbidden fruit. These same people have put good music on a pedestal beyond the reach of the average listener, but happily we are growing out of this stage now."

Sound Toward Beauty

Defining music as "an organization of sound toward beauty," the speaker listed rhythm, melody, harmony, tone color and form as the important elements of music. He explained each of these and their proper relation in the composition of a piece of music, and illustrated their uses to the field of music by playing parts of different selections on the piano.

In describing the proper relation of jazz music and its contribution to the musical field, he said "in the recent past it has become the first folk music to be created in a sophisticated manner in civilized life. It reproduces in modern terms the same elements that folk music contributed to other peoples. These are monotony of rhythm, simplicity of melody, improvisation and exaggerated color. Out of all this will come some things America will be proud of," he contended, and gave as examples George Gershwin's "Concerto in F" and his music in the opera "Porgy and Bess."

Tone Color

Spaeth continued, "Jazz has contributed chiefly in the field of tone color in its muted brass tones, for instance. In popular music, as jazz is often classified, the music is written with obvious simplicity of melody so that it will be easily recognized and easily remembered and as easily forgotten. The distortion in modern music is often only an exaggerated tone color and is duplicated in jazz."

In closing, he discussed the attitude that must be taken toward modern music. "We must counteract the action of those who have put good music on a pedestal beyond the reach of the average person. Music is not a purely intellectual matter, nor is it at a privileged art. It is an enjoyment that is open to all."

Report Circulation Gain for February

An increase of nearly 8,000 volumes over the corresponding period last year was shown in the February circulation report of the university libraries, with a total circulation of 59,826, Grace Van Wormer, acting director of university libraries, announced yesterday.

An increase was reported in every department.

SUNDAY, MARCH 8, 1936

Debate's Place On The Campus

FOR THE last three days now, the University of Iowa has been host to a number of debaters representing institutions from all over the middle west. Ranking as one of the outstanding tournaments in the country, the number of entrants this year was carefully limited after more than 50 schools from Oregon to Florida and from Minnesota to Texas had participated last year.

Much credit for this ambitious undertaking, a part of the speech department's program for several years, must go to Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of university debate, whose efforts have added to Iowa's national reputation in no small degree.

One of the outstanding debate directors in the country, Professor Baird has been recognized as a leader in his field since the early 'twenties when he developed a long string of undefeated teams and inaugurated international debate in this country at Bates college.

But it is not alone for his outstanding success as a coach that Professor Baird should be commended. Through his debate program, every year he brings Iowa students into contact with students of other states and of other countries on an intellectual level above that of physical basis up on which athletic contests take place.

Subjects of an economic, social, and political nature are studied and discussed so intensively that a debater commonly gains more knowledge from working on a debate question than he does from an entire year of class work on a similar subject. Skill in thinking on one's feet and in rapid repartee is developed as well as proficiency in conventional speech-making. Logical thought, clear-cut analysis, and coherent organization are quickly absorbed here whereas all too often they are striven for in vain by more orthodox teaching.

Without question, the place of debate on the campus, obscure though it may be, cannot be stressed too greatly, nor can the opportunity which Professor Baird is offering to interested students through his debate program.

Dizzy Dean's Publicity Stunts

ONCE AGAIN the bannerline of the newspaper heralds the hold-out of Dizzy Dean, baseball's master pitcher. Right now he is threatening to punch the nose of his catcher, Virgil Davis. Catcher Davis, it appears, feels inclined to engage in fistfights whenever Dean wants to start. It seems that the pitcher believes that Davis' poor judgment lost games for him last season.

Every year, as regularly as clockwork, Dizzy steps into the limelight with some statement that alarms the sporting world. Usually he can't agree as to salary or special privileges—and he must tell the world his disgust. Some call him a loud mouth and refuse to pay any attention to his utterances, while others admire him and loyally back him.

This phobia of Ditz' for constant squabbles has caused him to make a few enemies, but he realizes that it is such things that make the turnstiles click when the baseball season is inaugurated.

The public eats up his ballyhoo although it is known that Dean has secretly agreed to a new contract with the St. Louis Cardinals for another year, and probably at a price near the $40,000 he wants. Fans know that furniture selling would be too tame for the mighty Dean, despite his threats to go into business.

The interesting part is that Mr. Dean actually delivers the goods on the diamond. In his colorful way, he'll go in and win a game, when he says he can. Batters sometimes go down in one-two-three fashion when he becomes determined, or has boasted that he'll "shut 'em out." And at the end of the season he'll have won 30 games or more, and sometimes a world series.

That's why we like Dizzy Dean. Despite his lack of modesty. That's why we smile indulgently and let him take his place on the sport page headlines—he earns it.

How Quickly We Forget

GEN. JOHN J. Pershing has just celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday. Admiral of the British Fleet Lord Beatty recently retired from active service. How far into the past the World War has already receded! These two famous men are among the few surviving officers who held high rank in the last war.

Today, the admiral of the fleet is Sir Reginald Tyrwhitt, who held the rank of captain during the great conflict. He was a young man then.

Today, in Europe, boys born during the war years already have been called into compulsory military service. Not 18 years have passed since the armistice and diplomats are being overworked to avoid another war—probably in vain.

How quickly we forget!

Addis Ababa reports 412 Italians killed, which statement translated into Italian reads "4,000 Ethiopians slain."

As to naval tonnage, Japan wants her own weigh.—Weston (Ore.) Leader.

Keep Away From Blasting Zone

ONCE AGAIN spring thaws are anticipated and the blasting crew takes up its tasks of clearing the river of ice. This calls for that master mover, dynamite, and dynamite calls for the one sure guard—SAFETY.

Although the men have been working just above the dam most of the time, they are now nearing the bridges, where crowds have been gathering to watch the blasting. Now dynamite sends hunks of ice into the air spraying like "Old Faithful" when it explodes. Anyone standing in the way of this spray could suffer severe injuries.

No matter how competent the workers who set the charge, no such charges should be taken. The bridge should be cleared before every charge is set off. Already attempts have been made to keep all cars off during the blasting but nothing has been done about the crowds that line the bridge. A chance piece of flying ice might mean a serious accident.

PLAY SAFE. Keep off the bridge when blasts are being set off.

President Roosevelt will try to bar Al Smith and John W. Davis from serving as delegates to the democratic national convention. Evidently the president is becoming more discriminatory in the kind of criticism he welcomes.—Indianapolis Star.

When the democratic convention meets in Philadelphia, Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia had better look out. If he voices any opposition to the new deal, the convention will use the Liberty Bell on him the way Major Bowes uses the gong on Sunday nights.—Albany Knickerbocker Press.

Standing On The Head

STANDING ON the head, say beauty operators, is good for the hair. Lawrence Tibbett, the singer, believes that the same procedure cures colds.

American humanity, then, should have no more worries as far as baldness and colds are concerned. Present day politicians have succeeded quite well in standing Mr. Average Citizen on his crown. Leaders of outstanding political parties have us "going round and round" with their exchange of mud balls.

President Roosevelt delivers an address on the state of the union. When he finishes we know that the republicans are tyrants while the democrats are our guardian angels and saviors. Al Smith's voice rings over the air and we hear that the new dealers aren't democrats but socialists. Furthermore, they, along with the republicans, are attempting to rob us of our liberty—the only difference between the two being that the republicans will go via the capitalistic route and the new dealers by the socialist. Former President Hoover continues to barrage us with the doctrine that the capitalistic system made us the nation with the highest standard of living in the world and will do it again if we oust the present administration.

We got ourselves into a patriotic fever and supported the Blue Eagle to save America only to find we hadn't been patriotic at all since the NRA was not constitutional. Half the economists insist that our national condition is nothing to alarm us while the other half insure us that we are on the brink of disaster.

We sincerely hope that both the beauty operators and Mr. Tibbett are right. If so, man may be rid of his baldness and susceptibility to the cold germ, thanks to the efforts of politicians.

Letter to the Editor

(Editor's Note: As a wise man once said, "There are three sides to every question: your side, my side, and the right side.")

Dear Editor:

There is abroad in the land a type of person whose criteria of life and literature depend entirely upon reactions which are subjective and personal. He is a likeable fellow, serious, well-mannered, charmingly naive at times, and—according to his own idea of himself—very broad-minded. Without him America would be a dull place. But once in a while he becomes a bit irritating, as did the author of an editorial—"Whither American Literature"—in last Sunday's Iowan.

The object of his jibes was Donald MacRae's story, "Comfort Me With Apples" (February issue of American Prefaces), and his plea was for a literature free from "pessimism" and "sordid realism." He "began the yarn with great gusto, remembering the old axiom that 'An apple a day keeps the doctor away,' only to find it the ramblings of a sick and tortured mind..." (There is also a beautiful passage about apples in "The Song of Solomon, 2:5—"Stay me with figs, comfort me with apples; for I am sick of love.")

This Mr. X admits that "phrases stand out here and there as examples of good writing." Further on he says that MacRae is "only following the nondescript banner of Mr. Hemingway" and is one of a generation of writers who "are walled in by the impenetrable barriers built by lack of faith in their fellow man and held in the mire of their own ignorance by the tentacles of depressed spirits." Then Mr. X gives his example of a good novelist—"Charles Dickens wrote of every stratum of society"... and saw "... that indefinite something that makes life, after all, worth living."

One really can't quarrel with Mr. X for his delight in Victorian ideology and sentimentality. The real issue is whether a person should set up his opinions for public consumption without an intimate knowledge of the thing he criticizes together with the ability to relate that specific work to contemporary taste and outlook.

Obviously, Mr. X was unable to objectify his judgment; consequently, his personal taste determined his reaction; result—a half-baked opinion.

In the first place he didn't discover the real theme of MacRae's story, which is also a reaction against sordidness and people who talk a la Hemingway. If Mr. X had read "Comfort Me with Apples" discerningly, he would have found that MacRae and he have many of the same ideas and he would have indulged in some wishful thinking by putting on authors the burden of leading "this befuddled and depressed world out of a spiritual as well as an economic depression." Only proletarians believe that this is the function of art.

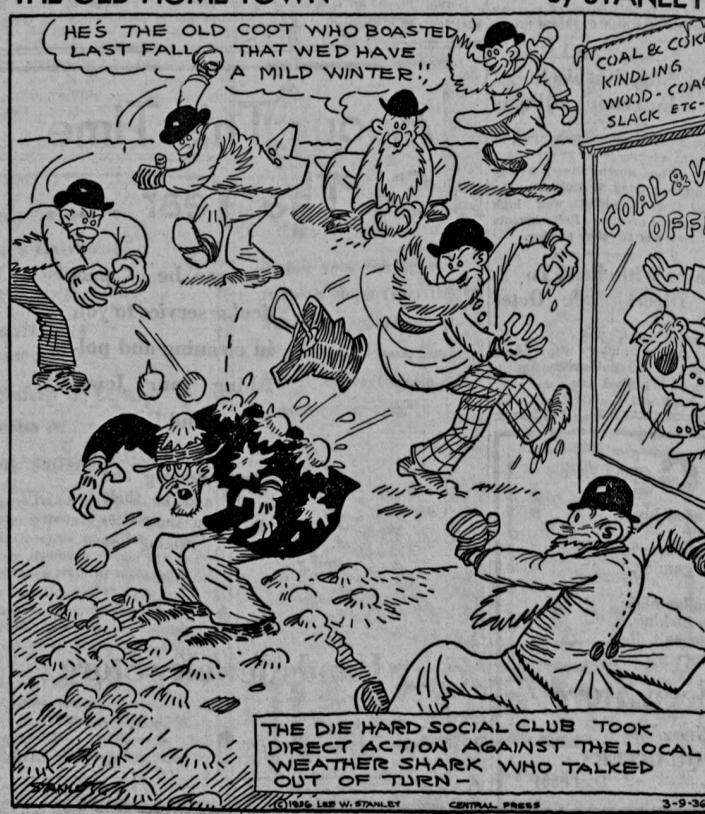

One might point out that the current tendency is away from sordidness (but not realism) and that, perhaps, both MacRae and Mr. X have misread the author of the beautiful "A Farewell to Arms" and "In Our Time." One might even suggest that there is a body of literature for those who don't like contemporary attempts to develop an adequate realistic technique. Some of this literature includes H. M. Tomlinson, James Branch Cabell, John Erskine, and Fannie Hurst; and, of course, Grimm's "Fairy Tales" are still available.

A New Yorker

At Large

By JAMES B. RESTON

NEW YORK—The long search for a successor to Will Rogers seems to have ended at the feet of Irvin Shrewsbury Cobb. From a rather miserable beginning in the pictures he has climbed to the top. Just as he has done in all his other endeavors. And he has supplemented his work in the films by writing a daily squib for the papers out there, much in the style of Will's famous feature. Thought of primarily as a humorist, Cobb is today a thoughtful, philosophical soul and while occasionally you see a glint of the old Irvin whenever he gets back to the Lambs club on Forty-fourth street, the bubbling waggish manner of the old days is gone.

In his early days on the old Evening World, Cobb developed an almost unbelievable memory. Even today he can recall to the minutest detail the hilariously funny stories that developed during his days in the city room. We youngsters who came into the news rooms in the days of city news bureaus, typewriters and lightning transmission are likely to forget when we read Cobb's new daily stories that he is still noted as the fastest longhand reporter of his day and one of the first to personalize the news. His work on the Thaw trial and the Portsmouth peace conference and his reporting during the great war are still milestones in American journalism. Cobb of course would be the first to deny that any man could replace Rogers. His feelings for the beloved Will amounted almost to idolatry. It is interesting, incidentally, that the only other man who has an immediate chance of taking Rogers' place in the films is Fred Allen, who was perhaps Will's best friend.

Perhaps no man takes his pleasures more seriously than Cobb. He has the most remarkable collection of guns and fishing rods, and at both of these sports he is expert. This same grim attitude attends his most humorous writing. The hilarious "Cobb's Anatomy" and "Splicing of Operations" were written with all the dead earnestness of an obituary.

Though he constantly reminds us he is from the south. We like to claim the old fellow over here. After all he got his start and he developed here. I'm not so sure but what he'd tell you his success was due to his desire to get away from having to catch the 5:36 train home every night. At any rate, we miss him now. Hollywood has taken a lot of people out of this town whom we are glad to turn over, but Cobb isn't one of them.

I want to see him back on the second floor at the Lambs, playing poker again. The big room doesn't seem quite right without him.

Recent survey figures indicate that more people listen to Bowes' program than to President Roosevelt's fireside chats.

Screen Life

HOLLYWOOD—Real and unreal: To show you how far a movie star will go to obtain privacy, a friend reports: that while taking his nightly constitutional around his block in Beverly Hills, he saw a girl in a maid's black and white uniform walking toward him... He thought her walk seemed familiar... And then he discovered that the girl in the uniform was Marlene Dietrich, his neighbor...

Marlene likes black and white... A pair—or is it set?—of lounging pajamas designed for her use in "I Loved a Soldier" now are her personal property... She is not completing the picture, but she liked the bantoon-designed pajamas so well that she bought them... Paid $300 for the outfit... They're made of black velvet and white satin...

Traffic Iris Gays. Gary Cooper, who owns a bus that can do 120 miles an hour, is going to Bermuda for a vacation "to get away from the traffic noise"... He has rented a house there for two months...

Brown and Freed, the only song writers of prominence in town who never have worked on Broadway, wrote the music for the first and second "Broadway Melody" pictures... They're working on the music for "The Broadway Melody of 1937"... To see how the street really looks, they've gone there for a vacation... And perhaps for inspiration...

Frances Drake was thrown from her horse while attempting a brush jump... She was badly cut and jarred, but she wasn't injured seriously... She's going to ride the same horse as soon as she feels able to mount him...

Speaking of horses, the Santa Anita racing season has affected the social life of Hollywood... There is more activity socially here now than at anytime in the last six years... So many prominent easterners and titled visitors here to watch the horses are excused for the Hollywood parties...

Harald Kreutzberg, Austrian Dancer Will Give Lessons

Harald Kreutzberg, foremost Austrian exponent of the modern dance, will be here Friday for a four day visit, to be concluded by his dance concert Monday, March 16, at 8 p.m. in Macbride auditorium.

He will give a course of five lessons for men and women, March 13 to 16, for which a nominal fee will be charged.

Mr. Kreutzberg, called the greatest male dancer since Nijinsky, is said to have revolutionized dancing since the war. A pupil of Mary Wigman, he has gained international fame for his modern dance interpretations since leaving his native city of Salzburg, Austria.

As a young man, Kreutzberg studied costume designing and painting in Dresden and now sketches clever caricatures of himself. Among personal features he makes fun of is his shaved head. Twelve years ago Max Reinhardt persuaded him to shave his head for a special part. His performance was so good that he retained the fashion.

Spices were originally added to Christmas puddings as a reminder of the offerings brought to Bethlehem by the wise men.

noon Social club, and the Turtles have been established.

The Friars planned a formal stag but it was cancelled and we haven't heard anything about the group for more than a month. The Thursday afternoon group plans to conduct an unusually interesting program during the spring season, and the Turtles have been in their shells from the very start.

One might charge that such organizations don't exist and represent, at best, our own hallucinations. But we assure you that such organizations do exist. We won't argue their merits pro or con. However, we add that as nonsensical as some of these organizations might be, they may do one thing besides provide a lot of copy for this department; namely, serve to show what the student mind can create.

It sounded yesterday as though both the army and navy had changed the site of their bombing session to Iowa City. As you know, it was the dynamiting operations in the Iowa river.

Choice Bits From Spaeth's Lecture Don't be a professional musician unless the public insists upon it.

In speaking of his retirement from the field of dramatic criticism, Spaeth said, "It is better to find new points of contact between the music and the audience rather than write ponderous reviews which no one will ever read."

Middle C on the piano lies just under the left hand side of the maker's name.

It is really logical when people start out with "How Dry I Am" and end up with "Sweet Adeline."

It is interesting to watch the concert-goers at Carnegie Hall not really listening to music but sitting there in a comfortable coma or luscious lethargy.

General Grant once said, "I know only two tunes. One is 'Yankee Doodle' and the other is 'not.'"

In Wagner, it is only necessary for the singer to sing louder than the orchestra can play.

European Educator To Conduct Round Table Science Discussion

Rudolf Carnap, professor of philosophy of science at the German university of Prague, Czechoslovakia, and a world famous philosopher, will deliver a graduate college lecture, under the auspices of the philosophy department, on "The Unity of Science," tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Professor Carnap, who is this year visiting professor at the University of Chicago and a member of the faculty of Harvard university's summer school, will also conduct a round table discussion in the senate chamber at 10 a.m., Tuesday on "Logic, Mathematics, and Empirical Science."

Formerly at Vienna

Formerly professor of philosophy at the University of Vienna, he was a prominent member of the "Vienna Circle," where the movement of logical positivism originated. Prof. Herbert Feigl of the philosophy department, who associated with Professor Carnap at the University of Vienna, calls him "the leading man in the movement of European logical positivism."

Known for Logic

"Carnap is perhaps best known through his work in modern logic, the philosophy of mathematics, and for his work as a critic of a metaphysical speculation," said Professor Feigl.

Among the more recent of many books he has written are several that have been or will soon appear in English, including "The Unity of Science," and "The Logical Syntax of Language."

Professor Carnap has been invited by Harvard university to participate in the Tercentenary celebration of its founding. At that time he will receive the honorary degree of doctor of philosophy.

Hawks Capture First Places In 7 Events

Reed Leads Iowa Scorers With 9; Walters Wins Sprint

MADISON, Wis., March 7 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—University of Iowa's golden Hawks, crippled by the disability of three key swimmers, still demonstrated too much power for the Wisconsin tank team in university pool here this afternoon, and the invaders moved into their third Big Ten dual meet victory of the season, 57 to 27. The Hawkeyes swept through to victories in every event except the fancy diving, which was won by the Wisconsin pilot, Capt. "Ike" Simonsen.

Coach Dave Armbruster of Iowa pulled a couple of aces out of the deck by converting Bob Christians, ordinarily a free style swimmer, into a backstroke for the evening in place of the all-American Dick Westerman, who was left behind due to illness. Christians romped in ahead of the Badger star, Grudman, in the 150 yard dorsal event in 1:46.3 to hand the local mermen his first setback of the season.

Reed Leads Scoring The other surprise of the meet came when stocky little Bob Reed, heretofore just a place swimmer, pushed in ahead of Dille in the furlong to win in 2:28.4, and to pull up to a dead heat with the Iowa pilot, Adolf Jacobsmeyer, in the longer 440 yard free style, in the slow time of 5:26.5, just a half-minute slower than "Jake's" best time for the event. Reed collected nine points to lead the scoring for the dual.

Ray Walters, the sensation of the Iowa-Michigan meet last week, won the 40 yard sprint for the winners much as he pleased, finishing in .19, three yards ahead of his nearest competitor, Kohl of Wisconsin.

Haskins Takes Breast Stroke The veteran Fred Haskins had no trouble in the 200 yard breaststroke, but Allen Dunton, reserve junior, was edged out in the closing yards by Liebman of the Badger squad. Haskins' winning time was 2:45.8, considerably slower than conference and national times. Allen, Iowa's new breaststroke star, was left home to rest.

Homer Bradshaw won a first and a third for the winners, nosing out his teammate, Jack Sieg, in the century dash in .59.4, and coming in behind Dille, Wisconsin's runnerup to (See Page SEVEN, No. 10)

Indiana, Winner of 31 Straight Dual Meets, Ranks as Big 10 Mat Favorite

Hoosiers Hold 9 Straight Wins This Campaign

To Send Complete 8-Man Team to Field-house Next Week

(Editor's note: This is the third of a series of articles concerning Big Ten teams that will compete in the conference meet here next week end.)

With a brilliant record of 31 straight dual meet victories in recent years, the University of Indiana wrestling team will figure strongly in the top-notchers of the Big Ten conference tournament here next Friday and Saturday.

For years the Hoosiers have fostered one of the toughest aggressions in Big Ten competition, placing 15 conference champions in Indiana wrestling history. In the tournament of 1933, they climaxed their record by coping five of the initial eight individual titles, winning the event in a walk away.

Equally Good Team Indiana has equally as good a team this year as any entered in the conference tournament, sharing the undefeated laurels with Iowa. Nine dual events have been won, including meets from such opponents as Ohio State, Lehigh university, Michigan State, Iowa State, Cornell and Michigan. Illinois, the 1935 Big Ten conference champions were spilled in a 21 to 9 tilt.

Indiana will probably send to Iowa a complete eight man team to compete in the coming event. Among the Hoosier standouts will be Charles McDaniel, National Collegiate heavyweight champion of 1935. Although he is a junior, he has won every dual meet bout in his career with the exception of a spill from Silverstein of Illinois.

Clifford Myers, undefeated 118 pounder and 1935 National A.A.U. champion, is slated as one of the standouts of the light event. He is undefeated this season, although held to a draw match by Blum of Illinois.

Never Been Beaten

Willard Duffey, junior 126 pounder who last year placed second in the N.C.A.A. 188 pound division, has never been beaten in dual competition. Among his outstanding attainments is the rendering of a fall from Captain Pakutinsky of Illinois, Big Ten champion last year.

Thomas Bryce, sophomore 145 pounder, has won six out of eight dual meet events. Artie Peters, senior 155 pounder, is also the winner of six out of eight dual meets.

Krubulick Strong Prospect Frank Krubulick, 165 pound senior, is a strong prospect for conference laurels. In 1934 he was champion of the 155 pound event.

John Tatum, pinch man for the Hoosiers, wrestles either the 165 or 175 pound class. He has won four and tied two out of eight bouts this season.

winner after much delay. The third starter, Lieut. Dick Bauer, of Ft. Myer, Va., trailed from start to finish and was five yards behind when his famous opponents broke the tape.

effacing youth, Haarlow has been the scourge of Western conference guards for three years. He climaxed his career last night with 13 points against Northwestern to give him a three-year scoring record, surpassing the total of "Stretch" Murphy, formerly of Purdue.

John Townsend of Michigan, standing on the pivot point like a Rock of Gibraltar, unyielding, firm and steadfast, gets the center job. His passes to the Wolverine forwards and guards were sharp and accurate. His rebound work was little short of sensational. Big Ten coaches see nothing short of an all-American berth for this 19-year-old sophomore unless fate comes charging across the court to cut him short of the goal.

Two warriors of the gridiron, and both quarterbacks incidentally, man the guard positions. Wib Henry of Illinois and Huffman of Indiana, provide the physical power necessary on a basketball team. Both have the instinctive joy of combat that makes for stardom. Historians in the press coop were unanimous in their praises of both men. On defense, they are practically impenetrable. On offense, they are terrors. Iowa's Kenny Susens and Pat Malaska of Purdue are awarded the second team guard posts. The youthful Hawkeye has plodded a patient path to the top. Coach Rollie Williams has been famous for producing great guards and this year's blond-haired sophomore flash may surpass them all. He has what it takes in spirit and ability.

The most improved player in the conference, Earl Thomas of Ohio State, is awarded the center position on the second team. A battler, Thomas arose from a plain member of a 20-man squad, to its second leading scorer.

Possessing one of the greatest basket eyes in the conference, Gunning of Indiana takes a forward position along side of Sid Rosenthal of Iowa. Rosenthal, a 145 pound package of basketball dynamite, is now rating belated recognition. A marked man in every game, he nevertheless seems able to generate that extra drive of power, that added surge which carried a team through. He was a tactical genius, uncanny in diagnosis and amazingly fast in reactions.

BEWARE OF THESE HOOSIERS

The above four Indiana wrestlers will be top-notch threats to cop titles in the Big Ten meet here next week end. Frank Krubulick (upper left) won the conference crown in the light heavyweight division in 1934; Robert "Two-Bit" Myers is the National A.A.U. 112 pound champ; Charles McDaniel (lower left) is the NCAA heavyweight titlist, and Willard Duffey captured second in the 118 pound class in the NCAA last season.

Olympic Candidates May Be Uncovered in Big Ten Meet

CHICAGO, March 7 (AP)—The Big Ten will make its first formal search of the season for potential Olympic track and field talent Saturday night in its twenty-sixth annual indoor championship meet.

The conference seems certain of one representative on the Olympic squad, Ohio State's Jesse Owens, but the sensation of the 1935 season, large will not be on display this week end. The great Negro star, who gave sprint, broad jumping and low hurdling records a lot of beatings last summer, ran afoul of scholastic difficulties and will not be eligible for collegiate competition until the outdoor campaign opens.

To Provide Fireworks Owens, as a sophomore, was the hero of the 1935 indoor conference event, and sophomores are expected to provide the fireworks in the trials Friday and finals Saturday.

Chicago will send out Ray Ellinwood, a sophomore who appears to be "one of those things" as a middle distance runner. Ohio State has Dave Albritton, Negro high jumper who has bettered the Big Ten indoor record of 6 feet, 5 inches, set up by Chuck McGinnis of Wisconsin, back in 1927.

In his first race in college competition, Ellinwood ripped off a quarter mile in the astonishing time of 49 seconds even, better than any previously listed indoor "440." As good as he appears to be, Ellinwood will be hustled for honors by Carleton Crowell of Wisconsin, the Big Ten outdoor champion; Winslow (Sonny) Heg of Northwestern, runner-up to the Badger star last May; Stan Birleson of Michigan; Eugene Skinner of Iowa, and others.

Capable Half Miler The Maroon sophomore also is a highly capable half miler. If he is entered in the longer event, he should give Charles Beetham, Ohio State's fleet middle distance star, a lot of trouble and perhaps a beating.

Indiana, which with Wisconsin and Ohio State, figures to battle it out with the defending champion Michigan array for the team title, will present another great band of middle distance and distance stars. In addition to Don Lash, a bright Olympic prospect at 5,000 meters, the Hoosiers have Marmaduke Hobbs, a dependable veteran, and two brilliant sophomores, Jimmy Smith, Negro two-miler, and Tom Deckard.

First Rank Threat By doubling up here and there, the quartet shapes up as a first rank threat in the half mile, mile and two mile. Other strong half milers are Karl Kleinschmidt, 1935 indoor champion; Paul Gorman and Howard Davidson of Michigan; Lacie Glendinning of Purdue, and Jack Flemming of Northwestern.

Clayton Breisford, who gave Michigan a victory in the mile a year ago, will be hard-pressed to retain his laurels against the Hoosier threats, and Claude Moore of Purdue. If Lash has any trouble in his bid for a second two mile title, it probably will come from his teammates, Smith and Deckard.

The other returning champions, Bob Osgood of Michigan in the hurdles, and big Bill Freimuth of Minnesota, in the shot put, appear likely to repeat.

Cards Beat Cubans By 5 to 4 Score

HAVANA, March 6 (AP)—A three-run rally in the ninth inning featured by Pepper Martin's homer, enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to defeat the Almendares, 5 to 4, today in the second game of their four exhibitions here. A crowd of 8,000, including former President Carlos Mendiate, saw the game.

Purdue Grabs Share of Big 10 Basketball Crown by Beating Wolverine Pack in 38-37 Scrap

Ties Indiana 5 for Title; Kessler Scores 14 Points for Purdue

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 7 (AP)—Purdue university seized a share of the Western conference basketball title for the third consecutive year here tonight, ending its schedule with a 38 to 37 victory over the University of Michigan. Purdue is tied with Indiana for the title with 11 games won and one lost.

Led by Bob Kessler, their high-scoring forward who accounted for 14 points, the Bollermakers came fighting from far behind in the second period to win. The defeat dropped Michigan's Wolverines to a tie from third place in the final Big Ten standing.

The Wolverines appeared on the way to upset the Bollermakers as the first period ended 25 to 12. Kessler, Paul Malaska and Sines, with a single field goal apiece, were the only Purdue players to count from the field in this half.

The heat went on at the start of the last half, however, and Malaska pushed in three more baskets and Jewell Young two field goals and a free throw to tie the score with eight minutes to play.

Purdue, Illinois, Michigan, Chicago, Indiana, Gain Honors on Daily Iowan's Big Ten Team

By ART SNIDER (Sports Editor)

Again the time has come to twang the lyre and boom the gun for the basketball greats of the last Big Ten conference campaign. After delving into records, consulting coaches, officials, scouts and others in the know, watching games and the players themselves, and pondering over the subject considerably, we venture forth with The Daily Iowan's 1936 selections.

Some of the good ones may have been missed but those who were selected may be justly termed as the cream of the crop, the finest of quality. They are sturdy, strong, of ideal temperament, of intense desire for perfection.

A Dependable Player

We make a sweeping bow as Bob Kessler of Purdue parades forth. One of the greatest forwards the conference has ever produced, Kessler was valuable to Purdue because he could carry the burden when the going was tough. His one-man scoring spree in the Michigan game last night which brought the Bollermakers a tie for the championship, was an example of the player he was. He has the speed and versatility of a climax man. His teaming with Young made a pair of head-aches for opposing coaches all season.

Chicago has had a one-man football team, a one-man track team, and now the Maroons put with pride to their one-man basketball team, Bill Haarlow. A modest, self-

A marked man in every game, he nevertheless seems able to generate that extra drive of power, that added surge which carried a team through. He was a tactical genius, uncanny in diagnosis and amazingly fast in reactions.

Clayton Breisford, who gave Michigan a victory in the mile a year ago, will be hard-pressed to retain his laurels against the Hoosier threats, and Claude Moore of Purdue. If Lash has any trouble in his bid for a second two mile title, it probably will come from his teammates, Smith and Deckard.

Irish Meet Marshalltown 5 Tomorrow

Ryanmen Seek Catholic Title in Tournament At Ft. Dodge

St. Pat's big Green eagles start on their long trek to Ft. Dodge tomorrow morning at 7:30 where they will attend the annual roundup of the state's choice Parochial school quilters, who are out after Columbia academy's 1935 state Catholic basketball title. The fighting Irish engage St. Mary's of Marshalltown at 8:30 p.m. in a first round battle.

The tournament gets under way at 2:40 p.m. when St. Mary's of Clinton, the other representative of the Davenport diocese, battles the defending champs, Columbia, which will probably result in a one-sided victory for the Dubuque outfit.

St. Matthews Next

If the Irish pull through the first round, which they should do, they will take on the winner of the St. Matthews of Clear-St. Francis of Council Bluffs "natural." The Clear and Council Bluffs battle should be crowded with thrills from all indications, for both outfits have been cleaning up everything in their respective sectors.

This tournament will mark the end of the trail for Bob Coen, Bill Leuz and Paul Carrigg, who are finishing their third year together on the Shamrock varsity. These three husky performers saw action in plenty of inglorious defeats in their first two years as members of the Irish varsity, but during the past season they reaped the fruits of revenge as they went about trouncing their formerly superior opponents.

Coen May Lead

With the tournament on foreign ground, Bob Coen will probably cop the scoring honors, for the veteran forward is jinxed by local courts. The best games he has played have been away from home.

Leuz and Carrigg are two good reasons why the Irish should come back with the state championship, for this pair of speedy guards seem to master the fine points of the game better each tilt. At the conclusion of the Davenport diocese tournament, not one of the officials voiced any objections when Carrigg and Leuz were nominated for the first tournament team.

Healy and Patterson

Dick Healy, leading point getter for the Shamrocks, and big "Chas" Patterson round out the championship team who seek new laurels. Opponents of the south-siders will undoubtedly be puzzled by the way Dick Healy employs trickery in handling the ball, while Patterson, although slow on his feet, is valuable for his extraordinary height. Patterson's playing has been criticized because of poor ball handling, but the fact remains that the Irish have only won one game when the big center did not start, and that one was a breather.

The reserves staged a bitter battle among themselves during the past week for berths on the traveling squad with Bill Floerchinger, Howard Demery, Johnny Byers and Johnny Gutierrez rating the prize tip of the year.

DES MOINES, March 7 (AP)—Drake university continued to dominate Missouri valley track affairs by retaining its indoor conference championship here tonight.

The Bulldogs ran away with the meet scoring a total of 63 1-2 points with the nearest rival, Washington University of St. Louis, scoring only 13 1-4 points. Grinnell was third with 16 1-2 points, Oklahoma A. and M. fourth with 13, Tulsa fifth with 11 1-4 and Washburn sixth with five points. Other members of the conference were not entered.

Taking a commanding lead in the first few events, the Bulldogs were never threatened and the outcome was never in doubt except as to how much of a lead Drake could pile up. The Bulldogs placed a man in every event and grabbed a big share of first places.

Iowa Loses Gym Meet To Gophers

Tumbling Victory Gives Hawkeyes Only Win; Matison Stars

University of Iowa's gym team lost the last dual meet of the season to Minnesota, 1,014 to 796.5, yesterday afternoon at Minneapolis, according to the Associated Press.

The Gophers captured four individual first places while the Hawkeyes were limited to one. Iowa won first and second in the tumbling event to obtain its only team win in any event.

Capt. Eugene Wettstein of Iowa failed to win a single event and placed second in the horizontal bar for his only points. He has captured three first places in each of the last two dual meets.

Matison, captain of the Minnesota team, walked off with a first in the horizontal bar, second in the side horse, and third place in tumbling. Ed Kringsel of Iowa, appearing in the last dual meet of his college career, led the Hawk scorers with one second and two third places.

Minnesota, as a result of its victory over Illinois, 1935 conference champions, two weeks ago, is regarded as the outstanding contender for the Big Ten title this year. Iowa has two meets remaining on its schedule, the Big Ten meet at Chicago, March 14, and the National Intercollegiate affair to be held at Temple university, Philadelphia, March 29.

Summary:
Horizontal bar: Won by Matison, (M); second, Wettstein, (I); third, Stuart, (M).
Side horse: Won by Dech, (M); second, Matison, (M); third, Stienstra, (M).
Flying rings: Won by Hoim, (M); second, Nelson, (M); third, Kringsel, (I).

I.C. 4A Track Crown Seized By Manhattan

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, March 7 (AP)—Climaxing their performance with a smashing triumph in the 1,600 meters relay, final event of the meet, Manhattan college's track and field team tonight captured the intercollegiate A.A.A.A. team title for the third straight year with a total of 26 points.

Manhattan's middle distance stars, Lou Burns and Bill Ray, ran one-two in the 1,500 meters but this triumph cost the Jaspers their chance to sweep the varsity relays. They were beaten by Penn State and Boston college in the 3,200 meters relay, with Burns running anchor.

Bill Elpel's victory in the running high jump gave Manhattan its third victory of the meet.

Harvard's versatile Milton Green was the individual star of the meet, capturing the 50 meters high hurdles from Pennsylvania's Bill Ladendorf in a close finish and then placing second to Stanley Johnson of Massachusetts Tech in the broad jump, thereby contributing nine points to the Crimson's total.

Anton Kishon, only entry from Bates college, accumulated eight points by winning the 35 pound weight throw and placing third in the shot put to Dartmouth's Tony Genawicz.

A new Negro sprint star, Arthur Thomas, Pittsburgh sophomore, flashed to the fore with a clean cut victory over Arthur Jannell, Fordham, in the final of the 50 meters dash, after three false starts.

Mrs. Crews Beats Opal Hill to Win Florida Golf Title

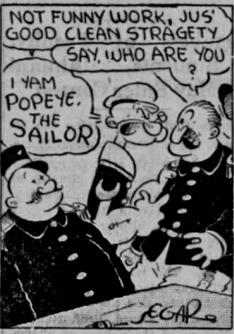

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 7 (AP)—Mrs. Maureen Orett Crews of Miami today chased the jinx that has been pursuing defending champions this winter by crushing her old foe, Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, four and three, to retain her Florida east coast golf championship.

Through a heavy mist and against a brisk wind, Mrs. Crews won three of the first four holes played. She beat back a rally from the Kansas City veteran, who eliminated the sensational Patty Berg of Minneapolis in yesterday's semifinal, and then won with a closing rush that found her beating the elements and par.

The Yankees, from Manager Joe McCarthy on down, like what they've seen of him.

800 Teams Entered In Drive For State Basketball Crown

DES MOINES, March 7 (AP)—Some 10,000 eager young Iowa high school basketball players looked ahead tonight to the opening of the annual drive next Thursday for the championship of the state.

More than 800 teams, representing three-fourths of the cities and towns in Iowa, are entered in the sectional tournaments that start Thursday in 45 cities.

16 to Qualify

When the initial firing fades out next Saturday night, there'll be 99 teams, equally divided among class A and B, left in the race for the title. After the district meets have taken their toll a week later, 16 teams will remain as qualifiers for the finals meet at Des Moines, March 26, 27 and 28.

Mason City, which waded through an all-star field to the 1935 title, opens defense of its championship in its own sectional. The Mohawks, shifted to a new district this year, face a difficult assignment to return to the finals meet.

Power to Meet Power

Should Mason City get by St. Ansgar, an unbeaten club, or Clear Lake, another capable team, in the sectional, it will be up against some powerful northwest Iowa teams in the district meet, notably either East or Central of Sioux City.

Grinnell, the second place club last year in the Newton sectional. The "Little Pioneers" are favored to win, but are not believed to have the skill to get by the district meet.

Davenport's Blue Devils, whom many are picking as the logical 1936 winner, appear in the Clinton sectional and probably will have an easy time moving into district competition a week later.

Purple Noses Out Chicago Team, 34-33

CHICAGO, March 7 (AP)—Marcellus (Mike) McMichael, sophomore forward, pitched a free throw in the closing seconds of play tonight to give Northwestern a 34 to 33 victory over Chicago, and a share with Michigan and Illinois of third place in the final Western conference basketball standing.

With the score tied at 33-all, McMichael and Bob Fitzgerald, Macaron guard, were assessed fouls after a strenuous struggle over possession of the ball. Fitzgerald missed his chance, and McMichael sank his for the winning point.

The Wildcats led by 20 to 11 at halftime, but Chicago, paced by Bill Haarlow, who scored 13 points during the evening, and John Egge-meyer, sophomore forward, staged a rally that gave the Maroons a 32 to 28 lead four minutes left. McMichael and Jean Smith, however, opened up to tie the score for Northwestern just before the double-foul incident occurred.

Homecoming Badge Design Contest Starts

Members of Faculty, Students, Alumni May Enter Contest

Competition to determine the design of the thirteenth annual Homecoming badge—to be worn by thousands of students and alumni at the Iowa-Illinois football game next October—will begin today.

Students, faculty members and alumni are eligible to submit entries in the contest which closes May 15. The winning design will be officially adopted for the Homecoming badge, and the designer will receive a $10 award. Prof. Rudolph A. Kuever of the college of pharmacy, chairman of the badge committee, announced yesterday.

- Requirements
- 1—All designs must be drawn in India ink on white bristol board.
  - 2—Designs must fill a six inch circle and must be lined heavily enough to permit reduction on one-quarter size.
  - 3—The words "Iowa Homecoming, Oct. 17, 1936" must be included on each drawing.

Judges of the contest are Professor Kuever, Ruth Wilkinson of the graphic and plastic arts department, Prof. Rollin M. Perkins and Prof. Mason Ladd, both of the college of law.

Entries may be submitted to Miss Wilkinson in the fine arts building at any time before May 15.

Original ideas are needed, Professor Kuever said in announcing the contest, and suggested that persons lacking technical skill in designing cooperate with artists who can do the work. "Ideas are the important thing," the badge committee chairman declared.

Since 1924 the Homecoming badge plan has been a means of financing the annual celebration, badge sales being used in that year to replace contributions of university members and Iowa City business men.

The 1935 winning design, work of Loretta Rummelhart, A4 of Iowa City, portrayed the Iowa band led by its drum major. The previous year's winner was sketched from a photograph of Coach Ossie Solem, and showed him wearing a typical football jersey.

Old Capitol

Two badges have pictured Old Capitol. In 1925, the historic tower was silhouetted against a large football, and in 1929 the portico colonnade of Old Capitol was portrayed.

The entrance to Iowa field was shown on the 1927 badge. Rex, former Iowa mascot, with the bleaches of Iowa stadium for a background, was in the design on the 1932 badge. Pennants bore the names of the football competitors, Iowa and Minnesota.

A flying hawk superimposed on a large "I" was the artist's conception of "Hawkeye" in 1931. An "I," a cowbell and a football were on the 1930 selection.

The 1928 Homecoming badge showed a football player running with the ball. A drawing of the head of a football man was the 1926 prize winner. In 1933, the badge bore a portrait of Tom Moore, football captain that year.

L. Langenberg In Campaign For Auditor

L. H. Langenberg, route 1, announced yesterday that he will seek the democratic nomination for Johnson county auditor at the June primary election. He took out his nomination papers at the county courthouse and started their circulation yesterday.

Born in Iowa City in 1874, Mr. Langenberg is a lifelong resident of the county. He was graduated from the Iowa City high school in 1893, served as county superintendent from 1901 to 1907, and taught in the county schools for 40 years. He was principal of Tiffin high school for six years and at Cosgrove high school one year.

Mr. and Mrs. Langenberg reside on a farm in Clear Creek township and are the parents of nine sons and two daughters.

Mrs. Hoffman Appointed To Advisory Board

Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins announced yesterday the appointment of Mrs. Sarah Paine Hoffman, 530 S. Clinton street, to the state advisory board of the American Guide Book project.

The five-volume American Guide to be published by the federal government at Washington will list authentically the scenic, historic, cultural, recreational, economic, aesthetic, commercial and industrial resources of the country.

Mrs. Hoffman, as state historian, is in charge of marking the historic spots and old trails by the Iowa Daughters of the American Revolution, and will authenticate the activities of the state society since its formation 40 years ago.

Mrs. Hoffman has recently returned from the state D.A.R. conference in Des Moines.

CANDIDATES FOR SCHOOL BOARD ELECTION

Mr. and Mrs. Kadlec, 830 E. Ronalds street, have two daughters, Helen and Adelaide, both at home.

Willis W. Mercer, now serving as president of the board, is president of the Economy Advertising company, director of the First Capital National bank, a director of the Iowa City Building and Loan association, and a member of the planning commission.

Plan Funeral For C. Alley of Tiffin

Funeral service for Charles Alley, 65, of Tiffin, who died yesterday afternoon at a local hospital following a brief illness, will be conducted this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Hohenschuh mortuary, with the Rev. Caspar C. Garrigues, pastor of the First Christian church, officiating. Burial will be in the Tiffin cemetery.

hoop in his hooked arm; and before the freighter has passed the station, he whirrs back the cane hoop and the freight's report.

At the local station three operators are kept busy for 24 hours a day. Ten passenger trains, five east and five west bound, and an average of 10 freight pass through Iowa City each day.

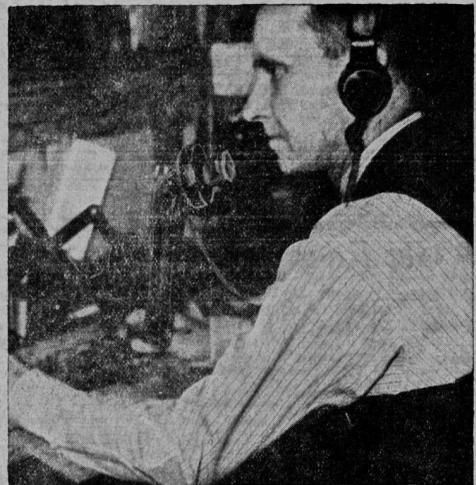

The operators work on shifts, the first beginning at 7 a.m., the second at 3 p.m., and the third at 11 p.m. C. K. Leimbach, operator one, has been with the station 27 years; Jay Eastman, operator two, for 20 years; and Eddie Bockentien, operator three, for 23 years.

Each train registers its own reports or throws its report to the operator on the passing train, who in turn passes the information down the line.

After the train passes, signals light up on both sides of the station and remain red until the signals are prepared for the next car to pass. The interlocking switch will not move unless terminal devices are in their correct positions.

"If by any chance an engineer should come up against a red light, he'd jump the tracks," Mr. Eastman explains. "But that will never happen. The fireman is on constant look-out and can tell instantly in case anything happens to the engineer."

OPERATOR CHECKS DISPATCHES

Jay Eastman, 216 E. Fairchild street, telegraph operator at the local Rock Island railroad station, attaches the dispatches to incoming freight and passenger trains at the station. Along with two other operators Eastman checks the dispatches of 10 passenger and 10 freight trains every 24 hours.

Lone Man Controls Rock Island Railroad Traffic System Here

By BERNARD KLEMA

At the local Rock Island railway station a lone man sits behind a tiny desk, telephoning, telegraphing, and dispatching messages that control the traffic system of the railroad.

In the local station five telegraph machines, a relay machine, a city, and two company telephones are all within the reach of the dispatch operator from his swivel chair. To his right is an electric interlocking switch. With this device he switches for the trains without leaving his desk.

City Voters To Select Board

Will Cast Ballots On Three Directors Of Independent District

Iowa City voters tomorrow will go to the polls to ballot on three members of the board of directors of the Iowa City Independent school district.

Voting in the mayor's office in the city hall, Iowa Citizens will find six names on the ballot although only three present members of the board are in the race. Willis W. Mercer, president, John M. Kadlec, and Dr. W. E. Spence have been nominated for re-election. Frank E. Burger, Robert H. Lorenz, and Attorney D. C. Nolan, also nominated for school board positions by the bi-partisan school committee, have formally withdrawn from the race. If any of the three candidates who have withdrawn from the race receives enough votes to be elected he may either decline the office or accept and then resign from the board. In either case the school board itself has the power to appoint a successor.

Two voting machines will be available in addition to the customary paper ballots. The automatic voting machines are being tried with a possible view to using them in all the wards in future elections.
