

Becomes Democrat

DES MOINES, April 27 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace, for years "a democrat in feeling," formally became a democrat in name as well today.

His party affiliation and that of Mrs. Wallace were changed from republican to democratic by the filing of their declarations with the county auditor here. It was understood a friend filed the notices for them.

Wallace had said the change, deferred until the democratic state convention here, is "just a formality and really a recognition of my membership in the democratic party."

VOIDS WARNING

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—The supreme court voided a warning today that legislative bodies cannot endow administrative agencies with rate-making power without being subject to "judicial scrutiny and determination in order to prevent the transgression of these limitations of power."

Mystery

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP)—The disappearance of Mrs. Hazel Archibald Draper, wife of a former Massachusetts state senator, remained clouded in mystery tonight following failure of efforts to connect her with reports that a woman had jumped overboard from the Cunard-White Star liner Georgic at sea.

Pledged to Landon

ST. LOUIS, April 27 (AP)—Booming down opposition, Missouri republicans tonight adopted by an overwhelming majority a resolution pledging the state's four delegates-at-large to work for the presidential nomination of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas at the national convention.

Probe Ordered

TOLEDO, Ohio, April 27 (AP)—The board of trustees of the University of Toledo tonight ordered an investigation of possible radicalism in the university.

A resolution was passed calling for the appointment of a special committee of board members "to investigate all past, present and future efforts of societies and individuals, branded as or thought to be communist, radical or un-American and to report regarding any effort to infiltrate the university faculty with subversive, seditious or unpatriotic organization, thought or literature."

Advocates Sun Baths

PHILADELPHIA, April 27 (AP)—Dr. Christian H. Shirik, secretary of the Methodist preachers' meeting, told the group today that ministers should do a "daily dozen" and take sun baths.

The greatest benefit accrues when sun baths can be obtained when void of clothing," he said. "I would not, however, suggest going to the limit of joining a nudist colony."

"The pale faced anaemic youth should not be encouraged to enter the ministry," he declared.

Neff Presents Insurance Plan At Convention

DES MOINES, April 27 (AP)—Viana McCown, Iowa director of nursing education, told the Iowa Hospital association convention here today two years of college education soon may be required of nurses before they are admitted to training.

Citing an "increasing tendency to demand higher education standards of nurses," Miss McCown said she believed the cost of this education "must necessarily be taxes to the student nurse in the form of tuition."

Earlier Robert Neff, administrator of the University hospital at Iowa City, presented an insurance, or "prepayment" hospitalization plan. "Such a plan would enable people to budget the cost of wage loss and increased expenses due to hospitalization," he said. "It would also assure the hospitals of reasonable adequate remuneration."

DICKINSON HITS GOVERNMENT

Seeks Boost In Rates Of Income Tax

LaFollette to Offer 3 Amendments; G. O. P. Maps Program

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—While house and senate republicans prepared to map lines of concerted attack on the $803,000,000 tax bill, Senator LaFollette (P-Wis.) served notice today he would seek to boost individual income tax rates and lower tax exemptions to bring in even more revenue.

As the measure, alternately pounded and defended, sped toward the end of 16 hours of shouted debate, these three developments occurred in quick succession:

Snell Calls Republicans House republicans converged for a meeting tonight at the call of their leader, Representative Snell of New York, to plan strategy in attempting to change the bill when it is opened for amendments tomorrow.

Senator McNary of Oregon, senate minority chief, announced he would call his party members into conference soon to decide their course of action when the bill reaches the senate Thursday or Friday.

To Lower Exemptions LaFollette, saying he would offer three amendments in committee and on the floor, if necessary, proposed to lower individual income tax exemptions, probably from $2,500 to $1,500 for a married person and from $1,000 to $800 for a single one; increase the normal income tax from 4 to 6 per cent and raise surtaxes on net incomes up to $50,000. Surtaxes on larger incomes were boosted in last year's tax bill.

Republican spokesmen, before the meeting tonight, intimated their conference would center largely on possible amendments that would have the best chance of being adopted, although none appeared overly optimistic about prospects of forcing through any major changes.

Stand by Predictions Democratic leaders stood by their predictions that the bill would go through as drafted by the ways and means committee.

Although congressional tax experts generally have conceded that changes will be made in the senate there was no real evidence as to how much the house bill might be rewritten.

United Front CHICAGO (AP)—Peace settled over the primary-trunk ranks of Illinois democrats last night as its leaders joined in announcements they would present a united front for the November campaign against the republican front.

Attorneys for City Ask Intervenor's Petition Be Dismissed Already postponed once, the "friendly test case" of Harry Abbott against the city of Iowa City testing the validity of the election on a municipal light plant here was again delayed yesterday morning on motion of attorneys for the city who must be in Washington, D. C., by Thursday, District Judge William W. Scott of Davenport set hearing of the case for May 11.

Attorney Harry H. Stipp of Des Moines, special counsel for the city in the PWA injunction case in the District of Columbia federal court said he would have to leave here today to be in the capital Thursday.

To Accompany Stipp Mayor Thomas E. Martin and Consulting Engineer Walter E. Schow will accompany Stipp to Chicago.

The plaintiff in the Abbott case here has alleged that the light plant election in April, 1934, was invalid and that the issue was misrepresented. An injunction is sought to prevent the city from proceeding with plans for the proposed plant. The Iowa City Light and Power company has entered the case as intervenor declaring it has a legitimate interest in the case.

Police Probe Exact Cause of Death of Chicago Student

CHICAGO, April 27 (AP)—At the urging of relatives, police and coroner's officers renewed their hunt today for evidence contrary to their theory that Jack Schiffer, 21-year-old University of Chicago student, had ended his life with an ancient surgeon's scalpel.

An inquest was continued until tomorrow as the collegian's father, Benjamin S. Schiffer, Brooklyn, N.Y., manufacturer, hurried here to assist in clearing up the case.

Young Schiffer was found stabbed to death in his quarters on the university campus late yesterday by his roommate, E. T. Baumgart of Danville, Ill. At the side of his body, clad only in the trousers of his pajamas, was a 12-inch surgical knife, which Baumgart said had belonged to his grandfather, a physician.

Grant Demand For Publicity on AAA Benefit Payments

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—A republican demand for publicity on big AAA benefit payments was granted today by the senate, but not until democrats had attached a counter proposal that tariff benefits to manufacturing and other industries also should be publicized.

The broad scale order for reports on AAA payments over $10,000 a year and for tariff benefits to the larger industries was contained in the much amended and long pending resolution by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.). Two weeks ago the subject stirred up an exchange between Vandenberg and Secretary Wallace as to whether such publicity was fair to the farmers.

The resolution finally was passed without even a record vote. But when republicans sought still further to broaden it to include an investigation of the resettlement administration and publicity on the number of salaries employees appointed by this administration outside the civil service ranks, democrats and a few republicans snowed them under.

Political Observers Watch Pennsylvania Primary Results

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—Eager to gauge the strength of the year's political cross-currents, political observers await the results of today's presidential primary election in Pennsylvania.

They are the first in which a candidate was listed in opposition to President Roosevelt in a democratic election of national convention delegates. He is Col. Henry Breckinridge of New York.

Italians Warn Against Resistance

Urges Building Of High School

Superintendent Opstad Pictures Solution for Crowded Conditions

Seventeen regular classrooms, rooms for speech and music classes and provision for gym classes were pictured last night by Superintendent Iver A. Opstad as a solution to crowded conditions in Iowa City high school and junior high. Speaking to 50 members of the Iowa City high school music auxiliary, Superintendent Opstad declared "construction of a new high school here will raise taxes only two and one-fourth to two and one-half mills." He said no relief funds will be available, unless by an unexpected act of congress.

Room for Music Instruction

"More room must be provided for music instruction," Opstad said. "A basement with piles of junk and a dirt floor is hardly the ideal place in which to offer individual music instruction."

Concert May 7

Lloyd W. Swartley, director of instrumental music, announced that the Iowa City high school orchestra and band will present a public concert in Iowa Union May 7. Plans for a music carnival to be May 8 were also announced by Mrs. Thomas Caywood, president of the music auxiliary. More complete plans for the city-wide affair will be announced later, she said. More than $250 has been raised to send the band to Cleveland, Ohio,

Guards Kill Convict As He Attempts To Scale Prison Wall

Warn Against Defense Of Capital; Urge Desertion

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27 (AP)—Joe Bowers, first convict to attempt escape from forbidding Alcatraz island federal prison, was killed today when he plunged 60 feet over a cliff as guards fired at him. The 40-year-old mail robber, struck in the right shoulder and thigh by bullets, died of a broken neck received when he crashed on rocky shores surrounding the prison in San Francisco bay. Warden James Johnston said Bowers, transferred here from Leavenworth, tried to scale a wire fence around the work area on the island's west side, facing the Golden Gate. Guards shouted at him, but Bowers continued, the warden said. The guards opened fire. Bowers toppled from the fence, and plunged down the sheer side of the island, a solid rock which juts out of the bay more than a mile from shore.

Indianapolis Police Sergeant Killed In Battle With 4 Men

INDIANAPOLIS, April 27 (AP)—Sergeant Richard Rivers of the Indianapolis police department was shot and killed tonight in a gun fight with four men in connection with the $15,000 robbery of a jewelry store at Lima, Ohio, earlier in the day. Police had surrounded a house on the south side of Indianapolis on a report that the men had received medical treatment there. When the bandit suspects engaged the shooting started and Sergeant Rivers was killed as the men escaped.

Soon after Dr. Kurz arrived at his office this morning Weller left his French class and walked into the department chairman's office in university hall, after telling his students, "I'll be back." Students said he seemed unusually serious and did not have his customary joke for the class opening. Strike's Professor's Wrist A few seconds later Dr. Kurz ran from his office into the hall. Weller followed closely with a revolver in one hand and a bottle of poison in the other. Dr. Kurz backed against the wall. Two shots were fired from the revolver. One struck Dr. Kurz's right wrist and the other was wild. "I'm shot," Kurz shouted as he slumped to the floor. Weller fled from the building as

Drop Leaflets From Planes

Warn Against Defense Of Capital; Urge Desertion

ADDIS ABABA, April 27 (AP)—A warning that the Italians would bomb and "destroy" Addis Ababa if their advance on the capital is resisted was made today in leaflets dropped from a fascist airplane. "Our mission is to occupy Addis Ababa and Ethiopia for civilization," said the leaflets, which were signed by the chief of staff of Marshal Pietro Badoglio, whose headquarters are now in Dessaye. "If Addis Ababa is delivered without resistance, we will not bomb it. Otherwise, we will destroy it all." (Three separate Italian columns are advancing on Addis Ababa, Rome dispatches reported.) The leaflets urged Ethiopians to desert Emperor Haile Selassie and pledge allegiance to Italy. They warned that resistance was useless, asserting Italy already has captured the entire northern half of Ethiopia.

Professor Wounds Department Chairman On Nebraska Campus, Then Kills Self With Gun

LINCOLN, Neb., April 27 (AP)—Three revolver shots rang out on the University of Nebraska campus today and hundreds of excited students rushed from classrooms to find two professors wounded, one fatally. John P. Weller, 40, a foreign language instructor whose release from the faculty had been ordered, shot and wounded Dr. Harry Kurz, chairman of the foreign languages department, and then killed himself.

"Relations Unsatisfactory" Chancellor E. A. Burnett said Weller's "relations with the chairman of the department were not satisfactory" and that the professor's "instruction was not considered good." A few seconds later Dr. Kurz ran from his office into the hall. Weller followed closely with a revolver in one hand and a bottle of poison in the other. Dr. Kurz backed against the wall. Two shots were fired from the revolver. One struck Dr. Kurz's right wrist and the other was wild. "I'm shot," Kurz shouted as he slumped to the floor. Weller fled from the building as

French Issues Sag As Leftists Gain In Chamber Vote

PARIS, April 27 (AP)—Communist gains in the chamber of deputies election yesterday, along with the prospect of a leftist victory in next Sunday's runoffs, caused French issues to sag heavily today on the bourse.

Financial authorities anxiously speculated whether the new chamber, with a majority possibly more radical than heretofore, might not drag the franc to devaluation.

The stock market's slump was attributed to uneasiness over the outcome of the runoffs, when many communist, socialist and radical socialist candidates are expected to withdraw to give victory to the strongest candidates in their "peoples front."

THE DAY IN WASHINGTON

(By The Associated Press) The senate approved the Vandenberg resolution calling for publication of all AAA benefit payments over $10,000, after expanding it to require publication also of figures showing tariff benefits received by manufacturing and other industries.

President Roosevelt told the national rivers and harbors congress that flood control must be "dealt with on a national basis."

Through its board of directors, the United States Chamber of Commerce, in annual session, ordered a nationwide survey of unemployment.

The supreme court handed down 12 unanimous opinions but did not rule on constitutionality of the Guffey coal act. The court indicated it would rule against the government in its efforts to bar Arthur W. Cutten, Chicago trader, from the nation's grain markets for two years.

"When It Rains..." LOS ANGELES (AP)—Lois Maude Coats Sebring sued Ray Alvin Sebring, member of the U. S. Marine corps, for divorce yesterday, only a few days after her twin sister filed a divorce suit against the marine's brother, Roy Calvin Sebring.

Iowan Asserts Thousands Eat Dog Food Diet

Assails Roosevelt's 'Scarcity' Program, Pure Food Laws

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—An assertion that the administration had forced thousands of poor persons to a diet of dog food "unfit for even dogs to eat" was made in the senate today by Senator Dickinson (R-Iowa).

Assailing what he called the Roosevelt "scarcity" program, Dickinson said this and non-enforcement of the pure food laws had caused many to eat poor dog food.

Senator Copeland (D-NY) immediately challenged the statement that the Roosevelt regime was at fault, but added better food inspections were needed. He said a "niggardly congress" failed to provide sufficient appropriations for the food and drug administration.

Senator Byrnes (D-SC), an administration leader, walked into the chamber some time after Dickinson spoke and poked fun at what he called the "republican campaign issue of healthy dog food."

He said the speech had been widely distributed by the republican national committee's Chicago headquarters.

"The real issue is not canned food—it is canned speeches," he asserted.

Dickinson said the annual production of canned dog food had been estimated at 500,000,000 cans with a retail value of $40,000,000 and investigation disclosed a "heavy demand" existed for it among poor people.

"Destroying millions of hogs forced millions of people to go hungry," said Dickinson after quoting President Roosevelt in his Atlanta speech last November as saying the average American was on a "third class diet" due to lack of purchasing power.

"As the logical, the inevitable consequences of this deliberate and wicked waste, for the first time, we have Americans living on food unfit for even dogs to eat! And I mean that statement literally—food unfit for even dogs to eat!"

Dickinson, who has been mentioned for the republican presidential nomination, declared that only 15 per cent of the 200 plants manufacturing dog foods are under regular inspection by the agriculture department.

Officials Say No Iowans Fit Statement

DES MOINES, April 27 (AP)—State relief officials are aware of no Iowans "living on food unfit for even dogs to eat," as charged in the senate today by Sen. L. J. Dickinson, Iowa republican.

Tinned dog food is not on the diet of any Iowa relief clients that Lola Schmidt, nutrition advisor for the state relief administration, knows of, she said tonight.

Ralph Kittinger, relief secretary, also disclaimed knowledge of any "improper foods being bought or ordered delivered to relief families in Iowa."

CEDAR RAPIDS (Special)—Performance of the grand opera "Aida" will be presented in Cedar Rapids at the Shrine temple tomorrow by the Festival Opera company of Chicago in cooperation with the Coe college department of music and Cedar Rapids singers and members of the Cedar Rapids symphony orchestra.

Chorus, ballets and the orchestra will be composed of Coe college students and Cedar Rapids residents.

Among the stars who will appear in this opera, which will be sung in English, are Reginald Wrennath, a member of the Metropolitan Opera company, three members of the Chicago Grand Opera company including Barbara Darly, Tedor Lovich and Sonia Sharnova, and Albert Wheeler of European opera company and Robert Bateman, well known concert star.

A cast of 250 people will appear in the performance of "Aida" in addition to the stars that will be brought to Cedar Rapids. Costumes, stage settings and lighting effects calculated to produce the greatest musical attraction ever presented in eastern Iowa will be supplied by the Festival Opera company.

Seen From Old Capitol

Perhaps one of the outstanding geological discoveries of the year has just been made. The American Geological society dug into the basement of Harvard hall the other day and came up with 100-year-old beer bottles!

Here is a new description of a college faculty member, by a professor in the College of the City of New York. "An instructor is a fussy old maid of either sex."

A survey at Ohio State university revealed there are 24 synonyms for the modern collegian's girl friend. Here they are:

Flapper, Jane, dame, moll, flapper, skirt, snail, squaw, chicken, doll, sardine, squab, flirt, hen, calico, frail, hairpin, piece of damsel, petting skirt, broad, wench, vamp, charmer and baby.

We add him and goon. If you know of any others we'll be glad to inform the boys at Ohio State of the synonyms for the girl friend that they haven't heard about.

Walk classes—but for credit—are a new feature of Cornell's curriculum. Every afternoon at 2:30, 3:30 and 4:30, a group of eager coe pedestrians swings away from the women's gymnasium—except on Saturday, when 2:10 has been named as the official hour.

It seems like an innovation in the way of snap courses.

Carl Knight, freshman at Texas Technological college, is "raising" his way through school.

In 1929 Carl's uncle gave him $15 which he used to buy a pig. He raised the pig; she had a family of six. He sold five; the remaining two presented him 10 more.

Then he sold his pigs, bought a registered cow and a calf, and accumulated a herd of 16 registered cattle. He sold two for $200, and enrolled in college. The other 14 calves he values at more than $500 and expects they will pay for his college career.

The University of Pennsylvania had a "fault finding day" recently. Everyone aired his pet gripes, but knickers protested nothing was done about them.

A University of Texas journalism instructor recently asked the following questions:

- 1. What kind of umbrella does Morgan Callaway carry on a rainy day?
2. What is a goat that is eight years old?
3. If a young boy kills his mother and brother, then eats them, what is he?

Here are the correct answers—1. wet umbrella. 2. Going in to nine years. 3. An orphan.

James Pope Held At County Jail

James Pope, arrested at Davenport early Sunday morning for the theft of a car, is being held at the county jail here, County Attorney E. A. Baldwin said last night. Pope was arrested by Davenport police less than an hour and a half after the theft of an automobile owned by Paul Bess, 1201 Sheridan avenue. Information of the arrest was relayed here by radio.

In Strange Triangle

John Collins of Keithsburg, Ill., above, was held in jail at Aledo, following his arrest for questioning in the slaying of Roger Johnson, 19. Johnson was shot to death when he returned to Keithsburg and told Collins he had driven the latter's wife to Los Angeles at her request.

Begin New Book Review Group Here

In affiliation with the National Guild of Book Reviewers, a local guild for Iowa City has been organized consisting of Prof. Wilbur L. Schramm of the English department, Mrs. Harry C. Plum, 243 Black Springs circle, and Mrs. Ben P. Wallace, 810 N. Johnson street.

The Iowa City guild is one of more than 300 that has been organized since February in 47 states, and the national organization will be in full operation throughout the country in May. Local bookshelves will display the reviews of their members with the purpose of increasing, as well as helpfully guiding, reading in the community.

It is hoped that uninfluenced reviews of the new books by local guild members will duplicate the service provided by metropolitan book pages, but will have a personal, special and local touch that will be valuable to readers.

Democratic candidates for the two positions on the board of supervisors are the present office holders Frank J. Kroll and Dan Peters, J. Clark Hughes has announced his candidacy for republican nomination.

One of those laid up is Bill Shakespeare.

Rev. Ira Edwards Condemns Head Of Townsend Probe

Condemning Congressman Bell, leader of the Townsend congressional investigation, as being a "cracked representative of the slimy Pendergast barnyard" the Rev. Ira Edwards of Cedar Rapids addressed approximately 100 Townsendites at the court house last night.

Speaking of the plan he said, "It is a practical interpretation of the Sermon on the Mount, and the most beneficial movement to mankind since the beginning of the Christian era."

"The American people have lost faith in economists since they failed to relieve the depression under the Roosevelt regime," he added, "but the enactment of the Townsend plan will take the control of the government out of the hands of the devil's minority and place it in the hands of God's majority."

With The Ladies

By Ruth Blanchard

Bill's gang is leaving for the ball park, and they don't want Little Brother tagging along. The disappointed small child, left to his own resources, wanders about, meddles with Bill's cherished collection ready for the school hobby show tomorrow, and accidentally knocks it off the table.

It only he had a play room of his own, with plenty of toys, how much simpler his mother's problem would be—yet milk bills come before expenditures for toys, and a crowded, small home has no rooms to spare for little four-year-olds.

Does Brother Bill like to work with tools? He and his father may enjoy the challenge to their ingenuity that comes with building a play corner from odds and ends, and from Bill's pride in his project may develop a more brotherly attitude toward the "little nuisance."

Partitioned off from the grown-ups' room by a screen made from fiber board, and with a piece of linoleum to protect the floor, the small child's "house" in some little-used corner may contain all sorts of materials to keep him busy and happy when older children are gone.

An old table with legs cut down to his height, or with the front legs slightly shorter for a slanted working surface, may hold crayons, scissors and other equipment in a wooden box nailed on the side.

A little chair and even a reading lamp may add to the child's delight. If he likes to paint and color, an easel can be made from a large piece of fiber board fastened to the wall and braced out from the base about two inches.

Wrapping paper is used in the schools for little children's painting, and may be fastened to the easel of table with thumb tacks. Soap, a kitchen knife and a stick of orange-wood will suffice for the young sculptor. A box of sample paper, tinfoil or crepe paper will furnish material for many days of creative play.

These materials will also appeal to the little girl who wants to make paper dolls, doll house furnishings, peep shows or stage sets. She can even make dolls from old stockings and bright scraps of cloth. Fine sawdust, too, has many uses.

Whole villages can be constructed of blocks made from spools, wooden boxes with lids nailed down, and bright lacquered cans of many sizes. Roofing for buildings may be made from corrugated paper, and poles, from meat skewers. Berry boxes, cardboard mailing tubes, wire, and the soft wooden frames that come around honey have innumerable uses.

For children who like to imitate a band, drums from old hat boxes, brass tubing of different lengths, horse shoes and large headed nails, and rubber bands will produce a variety of sounds. Summer is a good time to try this outdoors, for mother's sake.

Crude little wooden shovels are useful for the sandpile, and the backyard equipment may also be supplemented by an old washtub, wading pool, and a few bricks for a play fireplace. Small gears and a few planks will always provide inspiration for the inventive youngster, regardless of havoc played with the neatness of the back yard.

The Iowa Child Welfare Research station offers a booklet, "When Children Play at Home," by Mary P. Roberts, which discusses play materials found in the average home, and the agricultural extension service of the University of Nebraska, cooperating with the United States department of agriculture, publishes a bulletin, "Toys You Can Make," for five cents.

A "Better Buymanship" bulletin on "Children's Playthings and Books" from which some of the suggestions here were taken, may be secured from the Household Finance corporation, 919 N. Michigan avenue, Chicago. Further suggestions for "Backyard Playgrounds" may be found in a publication sent out by the Children's Bureau, United States Department of Labor, Washington, D.C.

Crain Seeks Position Of County Clerk

Charles B. Crain yesterday afternoon announced his candidacy for nomination of clerk of the Johnson county district court on the republican ticket at the primary election, June 1.

Born near Lone Tree in Pleasant Valley township on January 18, 1882, he resided on a farm until the death of his mother when he was nine. He then resided with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Crain, on a farm in the vicinity of University Heights.

Mr. Crain attended school in Iowa City and was graduated from Williams Commercial college in 1899. Since then he has served 21 years as assistant cashier of the Johnson County Savings bank, 14 years as a supervisor for the Bankers Life Insurance company and since 1934 has been affiliated with the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company of Milwaukee as a special agent.

J. L. Records Seeks Auditor Nomination

James L. Records, 121 Grand avenue court, announced yesterday his candidacy for the republican nomination of Johnson county auditor in the June primaries.

The prominent Iowa City business man is seeking the nomination on the basis of his wide business experience and association with many activities here.

F. J. Snider, West Branch School Head, Will Seek Office

Supt. F. J. Snider of the West Branch school yesterday announced he will be a candidate for the position of Johnson county superintendent of schools at the county board of education meeting at the courthouse May 12.

Mr. Snider was a member of the 1912 graduating class of Iowa City high school. He was graduated from Iowa Wesleyan and received his master of arts degree at the university. He has served in the West Branch school for 15 years, going there as coach and teacher and serving as superintendent for the last 14 years. His former home was at Kalona.

Five Bow To Applause Of Sunday Group

By DAN RODMAN

Five conductors bowed to the sustained applause of an audience of nearly 400 persons in the concert by the university chamber orchestra at Iowa University Sunday. Exhibiting five individual conducting techniques, the music department staff members led the recently organized orchestra through an impressive performance of the exacting program.

Arthur Berdahl made his Iowa City debut both as conductor and composer in the presentation of the Passover Episode from his recently completed oratorio "Judas Iscariot." With his alert and vigorous conducting Mr. Berdahl gave dramatic force to his fresh, vivid music. Soloists Herald Stark of the music department and Hugh Cocksfoot, A3 of Wilton Junction, along with orchestra and a small women's chorus ably performed the too-short selection.

Opening the program, Arnold Small conducted Mozart's "Figaro" overture with grace and precision, showing at once the range of color and dynamics of which the small orchestra is capable.

Loran Crosten, emphasizing rhythm and accents with a minimum of gesture, gave Beethoven's first symphony an admirably distinct and balanced reading. The small orchestra responded delicately to his handling of the constant changes of mood.

After the intermission, Prof. Addison Alspach took the baton for a skillful performance of Bach's intricate "Brandenburg" concerto. Featured soloists were Mr. Small, violinist, Wendell Otey, G of Harrisburg, Ill., pianist, and Edwin Albright, A4 of Iowa City, flutist. Mr. Otey revealed remarkable skill in solo passages at brilliant tempos. The audience grew restive, however, during the long, pensive, affetuous movement, and difficulties of intonation marred the otherwise excellent performance.

Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the music department, next displayed his sure control of the group in Wagner's exquisite "Siegfried Idyll." With small but significant tempo variations he brought out the tenderly ecstatic atmosphere of the work, although at moments unsure

Paine Issues Warning To City Drivers

Chief of Police C. O. Paine last night issued a plea to Iowa City motorists for cooperation in reducing traffic hazards during the music festival to be held here April 30, May 1 and 2.

His statement to The Daily Iowan follows: "The 11th annual state high school music festival will be held in Iowa City on April 30, May 1 and 2, 1936.

"More than 161 high schools and 7,000 contestants, parents, and friends, school officers and music supervisors will be the guests of the city during this time.

"It is of paramount importance that their safety and welfare be given fullest consideration. Therefore, I am asking that Iowa City citizens refrain as far as possible from driving or parking their cars in the busy section of the city.

"I am also asking that such driving as is necessary by the citizens of Iowa City should be done with extraordinary care, particularly at street intersections to avoid accidents and possible loss of life.

"I call attention to the fact that peddling or soliciting of pennants, banners or emblems in connection with the music festival as well as in connection with anything else in violation of the ordinances of Iowa City, and I request that no such peddling or soliciting should be done during the time of the music festival.

Gertrude Moriarity is asking judgment of $15,000 against the student.

Mr. Moriarity was killed in an automobile accident involving Chao Woo at Wilton last December. The plaintiff is represented by Attorney Fred L. Stevens.

Predict 6,500 Competitors in State High School Music Festival

Professor Righter Completes Plans for Program's 58 Events

Professor Mahan Urges Iowa Citizens to Aid in Lodging Problem

Close to 6,500 high school musicians will compete in the 11th annual music festival here Thursday, Friday and Saturday, festival officials estimated last night.

The record number, topping 1935's mark of 5,200 cannot be definitely stated until the last few entry lists are checked, Prof. Bruce E. Mahan, director of the extension division and festival housing and transportation manager, explained.

Prof. Charles B. Righter of the music department, competition manager for the festival, was yesterday completing arrangements for the 58 contests in which 160 schools will be represented. A staff of more than 50 officials has been organized to conduct contests in four centers simultaneously.

Eighty-six large instrumental groups, 98 large vocal groups, 99 miscellaneous small groups and 220 soloists have qualified in district contests for the final contests here. The 15 judges include men widely known in music education, radio, concert music and chorus conducting.

Between 1,100 and 1,200 contestants will arrive in Iowa City tomorrow night, Professor Mahan said, exceeding the number expected at that time. He urged Iowa citizens who can provide lodging for the high school pupils to notify him at once, dial 2111-713.

"Although the response has been gratifying," he said, "a large number of entrants are still unassigned."

Find Conflict, Win a Dollar!

Boasts Prof. Righter, Manager of Complex Music Festival

"Anybody who finds a conflict in the Iowa high school music festival program wins a dollar," Prof. Charles B. Righter of the music department said yesterday.

But he added that only the first person who finds a conflict in the highly complex program of 58 music contests here Thursday, Friday and Saturday wins.

Conflicting schedules are only a part of the worries entailed in Professor Righter's position as competition manager of the 11th annual Iowa high school music festival. The veteran contest manager yesterday discussed the complicated organization necessary for the smooth running of the festival.

Work Several Months

Professor Righter and his office staff have been working on the program of contests for several months intermittently as district reports came in. Now the program is complete and being checked to avoid conflicts in which contestants from the same school appear in two contests at once. With 220 soloists, 184 large groups and 99 small groups qualified from 160 Iowa schools, the program must be divided into 58 events of four classes.

"I've never had to pay that dollar bonus yet," Professor Righter chuckled. Avoidance of conflicts is necessary, he explained, because solo contestants and their accompanists be might scheduled to appear with groups at the same time. Another complicating factor is the necessity to place groups that drive into Iowa City each day in late morning or early afternoon contests.

Precise Schedule

The complete staff required in each of the four contest centers was discussed by Professor Righter. The chairman and timekeeper are required to keep to the minute on very precise schedules. The assistant chairman is responsible for having contestants ready to appear at exactly the right minute. Three judges must be on duty at each contest throughout the day and evening.

The courier delivers all needed material from the central office to the contest centers, including ballots, instructions, and emergency needs. The recorder must obtain on a form all needed information from contestants and must check identities and the number in each group. Doormen make up the staff at contest centers.

Prof. Addison Alspach and Ronald J. Neil, both of the music department, are contest supervisors. They will circulate from center to center during the three days' program to see that everything moves without friction and to make necessary corrections. A circulating property man supplements the work of the supervisors; his most important concern is signs for each event.

Printed Instructions

All members of the contest staff have printed instructions, telling them, as Professor Righter said, "Precisely what to do and when to do it." And each morning at 6:45 all the officials will be called by telephone from the central office.

"We must keep precisely on schedule," Professor Righter said, "because a minute's delay for contestants and officers might throw the whole organization into confusion. Then, too, we must protect the judges; we have never been known to run later than 10 p.m., and we try to close by 9:30."

The judges are assigned, with reference to their experience and their major interests. "We try to have at least two judges for each contest who are specialists in that particular field," he said.

Cincinnati Beats Cubs, Warneke in 10th, 5-4

Reds Grab 4th Win in 6 Tilts Against Bruins

Double, Single Off Lon Warneke in Extra Inning Produce Run

CINCINNATI, April 27 (AP)—With two runs in the last of the 10th and long Lonnie Warneke on the mound, Ernie Lombardi doubled and Tommy Thorne singled here today to give the Cincinnati Reds a 5-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

This victory was the Reds' fourth in six games against the Cubs this season and it gave them undisputed possession of second place. The Cubs outbit the Reds 11-9, but young Al Hollingsworth, a reformed first baseman, bore down in the pinches and retired the toughest part of the Cubs' batting order in the 10th. This was his third victory of the season in as many starts and put him on top of the league's pitching column.

Warneke went into the game in the sixth when Larry French was taken out for a pinch hitter and until the 10th had given the Reds only two hits, but the other two in the 10th cost him the game.

In addition to his double in the 10th, Lombardi hit a home run in the fifth inning which brought the Reds even with the Cubs for the first time during the game.

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP)—Both Max Schmeling and Joe Louis begin work this week for their 15-round heavyweight battle in the Yankee stadium June 18. BITS ABOUT SPORTS

By JOHN MOONEY

ECHOES FROM THE Drake relay says: Glenn Cunningham, who set a new American outdoor record of 2:11.2 for the 1,000 yard run Saturday, said before the race that his ankles and feet were so sore that he doubted if he would place high in the event. If Glenn had had more competition down the home stretch, he might have nipped several tenths of a second more off his record.

Mark Panther's shoulder, injured in the preliminaries of the javelin throw Friday, has not been examined very thoroughly by Dr. Willard Hayne, medical supervisor of athletics, but latest reports indicate that the Burlington spearman will be out of competition for at least a week or 10 days.

Incidentally, Alton Terry, the Hardin-Simmons javelin tosser, had never thrown within several feet of his record-breaking mark of 222.65 feet, but during Saturday's finals was consistently placing the shaft around the 220 foot marker.

RAY ELLINWOOD, who set a world's record for the 440 yard dash on the Chicago indoor oval last winter, proved to be somewhat of a disappointment to the fans Saturday. His indoor record of 38.9 had led many to suppose that he might also come close to setting a new outdoor record, but his time of 48.5, although it broke the Drake relay record, is not exceptional. Ted Swenson, Iowa fresh track coach, predicted that Ellinwood was a natural indoor runner who would be about average on the outdoor cinder paths.

Floyd DeHeer had a bad day Saturday in the shot put. If DeHeer could have attained the form he exhibited in previous meets when he once shoved the sphere more than 48 feet, he could have garnered a second place in the event.

WHEN Coach George T. Bresnahan was asked to name the favorite in the 480 yard shuttle relay race, he picked Illinois, notwithstanding the fact that the Hawkeyes at the Kansas relay, Saturday the Illinois hurlers tossed out the Iowans to cop the event in the record-breaking time of 1:11.

To those who were fortunate enough to witness the Big Ten indoor meet in Chicago last winter, Don Lash's performance Saturday were more than enough to make up for his pitiful running in the Windy City. In Chicago, Lash, suffering from a throat ailment, placed fifth in the mile run and dropped out of the two mile run.

Tennis, Golf Meet Only Events Carded At Home This Week

Only a tennis and a golf meet appear upon the University of Iowa's home sports schedule of the week end.

In the midst of one of the best spring seasons in many years, the Hawkeyes will meet conference rivals in four contests.

With four injured men, the track team will be weakened for the triangular meet with Wisconsin and Northwestern at Madison Saturday. Even if Andy Dooley, Eugene Skinner, and Orval Matteson, sprinters and quarter milers, and Mark Panther, javelin thrower, are able to compete, they will be far from their best form.

Purdue at Iowa City Saturday and Minnesota at Minneapolis Monday is the assignment for the tennis team, while the golfers take on Wisconsin Saturday on the home course.

Cleveland Nips Browns, 2 to 1

Campbell's Home Run, Blaeholder's Hurling Down Tribe Nine

CLEVELAND, April 27 (AP)—George Blaeholder's seven-hit pitching and Bruce Campbell's homer in the seventh inning gave the Cleveland Indians a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Browns here today and kept the Indians on top of the American league heap.

The Indians were able to get only eight hits off Russ Van Atta and the game was tied when Campbell smacked his homer over the wall in deep right center. His other hit of the day was a single.

The Indians scored their other run in the first when Roy Hughes singled to right, stole second, went to third on Earl Averill's fly ball to the outfield and scored on Joe Vosmik's single to left.

But the Browns came back and tied the score in the fourth on Harland Clift's triple and Rollie Hemmley's single to left.

This victory was Cleveland's fifth in six games with the Browns and their eighth win in 11 starts this season.

This was the only game scheduled in the American league today.

Stephens Tops Hawkeye Nine With .451 Mark

One of the five 1,000 per cent teams in the Western conference championship race, the University of Iowa baseball team, winner of four straight league games, will play three non-conference foes before resuming its title drive.

Iowa's record of four victories is topped only by Illinois' string of five as the Big Ten race gathers momentum. Minnesota, Michigan and Indiana are the other unbeaten teams.

The Hawkeyes go to Cedar Falls Saturday to play Iowa Teachers, May 6 they play Luther at Decorah, the following day Carleton at Northfield, and May 8 and 9 meet the championship Minnesota nine in a crucial two-game series at Minneapolis.

Johnny Stephens, Iowa's leadoff man, tops the Hawkeye hitters after the first eight games of the Old Gold schedule. Steple has a batting average of .451. Wendell Winders, Don Gugler, Marlon Clausen and Howard Miller all boast of a better than .300 hitting average.

The Hawks' team hitting for the eighth game is slightly less than .300. The averages are:

Contending that minor league fans listen to descriptions of major league games rather than attend contests in their own city, the minor leaguers protested to Commissioner Landis to have the broadcasts stopped.

He called a meeting for Tuesday to which W. G. Bramham, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, William Harridge, president of the American League, and members of the National Association Executive committee were invited.

"Some of the minor leaguers have complained that descriptions of big league games have kept the fans away from their own parks," Commissioner Landis said tonight. "The minor league clubs playing night games have not objected as they figure the night games stimulate interest. Those playing afternoon ball, however, very strenuously object."

This is the first organized move on the part of the minor leaguers against the broadcasts which have been made for several years. They contend that interest in their games has been seriously affected.

A FAMILY MONOPLY?

Granville, son of Gallant Fox, winner of the Kentucky Derby six years ago, is running in the Derby Saturday at Churchill Downs, Omaha, another son of Gallant Fox, won the 1935 Derby.

Starting Derby Field Swells to 16 With Arrival of Eastern Contingent

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 27 (AP)—The field of three-year-olds, which will face the barrier in the 62nd Kentucky Derby Saturday, took on a more definite form today as the arrival of the final eastern contingent, headed by Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Tuffel from the Wheatley stables, and William Woodward's Granville, swelled the probable starting list to sixteen.

Tuffel and Granville, one two in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica-Saturday, were accompanied by Merry Pete from the Woodward Barns, W. S. Kilmer's Ned Reigh, fourth in the Wood, and William duPont Jr.'s Gold Seeker, the filly which surprised by winning the Chesapeake Stakes at Havre de Grace.

Merry Pete's arrival created somewhat of a surprise among the hard-boots. Much had been heard of Tuffel, and Granville, the latter a son of the great Gallant Fox, who won the 1930 Derby and then sent out his son, Omaha, to take the last year's running. But Merry Pete, that was a new one. Some of them didn't even remember he had been nominated.

"Sure he'll run," declared George Tappan, Fitzsimmons' chief assistant, in answer to the question if the sage of Sheephead Bay would send Merry Pete to the post. "He's got plenty of early speed and if it's muddy—well, he is a good horse on an off track."

Although the arrival of the Fitzsimmons-trained colts quickened the Derby interest, the problem of finding a horse to beat J. E. Widener's Brevity, the 8 to 5 choice, still remained. Here and there a horseman would be found, who selected Granville, Morton Schwartz's Bold Venture or the E. R. Bradley pair of Banister and Ben Joli, but they were few and far between.

Brevity Even Money Brevity is expected to start, the even money choice to beat a field composed of today's arrivals, the Bradley colts, Bold Venture, Grand Slam and Forest Play from the Boman stable, C. E. Schaffer's Cold Stream, A. C. Taylor's Indian Broom, Sangreal, and the Fighter from Mrs. F. C. Mars' Milky Farm and Mrs. Silas B. Mason's He Did.

Indian Broom, which set up a new world record of 1:47 3-5 at Tanforan, received the only serious workout today. The son of Brooms, strongly played in the future books, went three eighths of a mile in 34.15. Other trainers were content to gallop their charges.

Minor League Owners Object To Broadcasts

CHICAGO, April 27 (AP)—The prohibition of major league broadcasts into minor league territory will be demanded tomorrow of Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball.

Contending that minor league fans listen to descriptions of major league games rather than attend contests in their own city, the minor leaguers protested to Commissioner Landis to have the broadcasts stopped.

He called a meeting for Tuesday to which W. G. Bramham, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, William Harridge, president of the American League, and members of the National Association Executive committee were invited.

Hawks Ahead After Morning Rounds Played

Purple Forge to Front In Afternoon Play; Gardner, Rhue Win

EVANSTON, Ill., April 27—Coach Charles Kennett's golfers put up a game fight before succumbing to Northwestern's Wildcat linksmen here today at Kildeer course. The Hawks were out in front after the morning play, but the Purple put on a fancy exhibition of shot making this afternoon to down the Old Gold Invaders, 13 to 8.

The Hawks gained an even break in the doubles as Cook and Miller whipped Kostlecky and Jackson, Wildcats, 2 1-2 to 1-2, while Gardner and Groenbaugh fell victims to Salelli and Merrick of Northwestern by the same count.

Capt. Jim Gardner, long range driver, led the Old Gold attack in the individual matches by whitewashing Salelli 3 to 0. The Hawk captain and Rhue were the only visitors to register a win in the singles as the Purple divot makers swept through the other three matches to account for the Wildcat's win.

This was the first Western conference dual meet for the Hawks eyes.

The summary: Doubles: Salelli and Merrick (NW) defeated Gardner and Groenbaugh (I), 2 1-2 to 1-2; Cook and Miller (I) defeated Kostlecky and Jackson (NW), 2 1-2 to 1-2.

Singles: Rhue (I) defeated McKenzie (NW) 2 to 1; Gardner (I) defeated Salelli (NW) 3 to 0; Kostlecky (NW) defeated Miller (I) 3 to 0; Merrick defeated Rhue (I) 3 to 0; Graham (NW) defeated Groenbaugh (I) 3 to 0.

Al Simmons Moves, Home Plate at Sox Park Makes Retreat

CHICAGO, April 27 (AP)—Home plate at Comiskey Park, home of Chicago's White Sox, moved up two years ago for Al Simmons' benefit, began a 14-foot retreat to its old position today.

On the theory that it would give Simmons, then in the second of his three years with the Sox, a better shot at the left field wall, the plate was shoved forward. The maneuver failed to help the big outfielder who failed to hit as well in 1934 and 1935 as he had in 1933, although the distance to the right and left field walls was reduced from 352 feet to 348 and from 436 to 422 in center.

With Simmons wearing a Detroit uniform, it was decided to restore the park to its former condition. The job will necessitate rebuilding the infield, but will be finished before the Sox return from their eastern trip May 12.

The Story Thus Far:
In the gold country of California in 1848, the once kindly Joaquin Murietta is now leader of a band of outlaws whose killings and robberies terrorize the countryside. Revenge on the Americans is his sole obsession, for the four murders of his wife Rosita and brother Jesus have embittered his soul. But Joaquin's sweetheart, Juanita, is uneasy over Dolores, one of the camp women, whom Joaquin had sent away and whose hate Juanita senses. Joaquin orders Claudio to Los Angeles to kill Dolores. But the tables are turned, and unknown to Joaquin, it is Claudio who is killed by Dolores. Now Joaquin is losing his men and the Americans are gaining in power. At Juanita's plea, they take cover for the winter. In the spring they plan to meet Joaquin's lieutenant, Three-fingered Jack, divide their loot and retire peacefully to Mexico.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

IN THE LITTLE town of Cotati in Sonoma valley, a region he had never hitherto visited, Joaquin, with his Juanita, spent the winter, and, the better to avert suspicion, he found employment as a vaquero on the Cotati rancho, now opened by an American. He subscribed to the San Francisco papers, which reached him via the stage line two days after publication, and through their columns he managed to keep track, more or less, of the adventures of Three-fingered Jack and his men. They had raided far to the north in the Sacramento valley, but keeping below the snow-line, they had worked back to Stockton; lying in ambush among the tules in a slough they had pulled out in a skiff and boarded a shallow-draft scow schooner bound to San Francisco with four miners aboard as passengers. And these miners had with them some $40,000 in gold, the net proceeds of two arduous years in the Sierra creek beds. Jack and his men had climbed aboard after shooting the helmsman; in the ensuing fight they had killed every man aboard, taken the gold, set the scow schooner afire and retreated to the shore where, mounting their waiting horses, they had disappeared down into the San Joaquin valley.

Each issue of the papers carried a story of highway robbery and murder done for a "plittance"; of pursues and escapes as the band came together at some distant point. And for all this Joaquin received full credit, while condemning his barbarity and breathing ultimate vengeance men gave him unstinted credit for adroitness, devilish cunning and deathless bravery. It tried Joaquin to realize that this praise was not his just need, that Three-fingered Jack was the real hero. He wondered if Three-fingered Jack was still faithful to his oath of allegiance and obedience, and if the jovial animal would see to it that, eventually, Joaquin received the captain's share of his loot. He worried, lest Jack and his men would gamble it away, spend it in wild carousal or give it to the ladies of their passing fancies. Letters written to Claudio, addressed to him under an alias to his home in San Miguel, remained unanswered, so eventually he decided that Claudio had been killed or had succumbed to the charms of Dolores Largo and declined to kill her. This thought occurred also to Juanita and filled her with worry, alleviated, however, by the knowledge that for the present, at least, she and Joaquin were far beyond the reach of treachery. She was almost happy in the peace of their life that winter and saw in it an augury of greater peace in Sonora, Mexico, in the years to come. Joaquin had promised that in Sonora they should be married. Juanita looked forward to motherhood then.

In Juanita there was a touch of the psychopath with its accomplishment of brilliant, but uncontrolled

Intelligence the tendency to be ruled by her wild emotions, to war upon convention. Her love for Joaquin, despite her early training and environment, approached mad passion. It was something quite beyond her control. Whatever he did was right; it was his privilege, nay, his holy duty, to stay gringos and take their gold. Even when he took to killing Chinese miners she excused him and blamed Three-fingered Jack, who had again fallen a victim to his old passion for killing Chinamen and cutting off their ears. Jack, it appeared from published reports, now killed Chinamen for the sheer delight of holding them by their pig tails while he cut their throats with his huge knife, fashioned by him for that sole purpose. Once he had varied his custom by hanging nine Celestials to a beam by their queues and leaving them there to die of thirst and starvation. Fortunately one of their number, presumed to have been killed by a bullet, was only simulating death; upon the departure of Jack and his merry crew this survivor had cut his countrymen down, none the wiser for their experience, but grieving for the necessary loss of their caudal appendages.

One thing Joaquin realized very clearly. One he had had a company of a hundred men, but that company had been whittled down, scattered, mowed and left without leadership. Corons that they were, nevertheless dozens of the latter recruits had seen the wisdom of return to honest labor as vaqueros and muleteers or laborers on the ranches. The life of the peon, once rebelled against, had now assumed its old attractiveness. The old lawless days were passing and the law of the gringo had secured a firm foothold; when it failed to function, vigilante committees acted in an orderly manner and from California there was an exodus of white thieves and murderers. Order was rapidly being restored; bold, vigorous, fearless, shrewd, hard-driving and accurate-shooting Americans, tireless and bent on vengeance, were everywhere doing a good job; the mere sight of as small a group as three Hispano-Californians riding together was the signal for pursuit; if they were armed, if they ran, even without firing on their pursuers, they were supposed to be more of an asset to the community as corpses than as living men. War, to be effective, must ever be ruthless, and the ruthlessness of the gringo peace officers was having its effect.

During the winter Joaquin grew a beard and when he quit his job on the Cotati rancho and rode forth again with Juanita, she had cut her hair and to the casual observer she was merely a handsome boy riding with an older brother, each leading a pack-mule. His gay clothing had been discarded; no longer did he appear to be the Hispano-Californian dandy. In the plain boots of an American cowboy, rough woolen shirt, blue jeans and jumper he appeared to be one who had taken on the protective coloration of his American surroundings, and as a measure of protection from inquisitive peace officers he carried a letter of recommendation from his former American employer, commending the bearer, Flavio De Haro, as a sober, industrious and reliable citizen and an excellent vaquero. He had not, however, abandoned hope of paying the last few installments on his debt to Jesus, and as he and Juanita boarded the ferry at Benicia late one night he recognized in the deckhand who cast off the lines, one who had long escaped him. While the man moved along the rail to keep clear of the animals on the deck, Joaquin struck him over the head with the barrel of his pistol and neatly dumped him overboard. He was not missed; another man forward had the duty of throwing the loop of the breast lines over the dolphin when the ferry touched on the Martinez side and Joaquin and Juanita rode ashore and were well down into Amador valley by morning.

Here he killed two freighters camped for the night and secured three hundred dollars. He crossed over Altamont Pass into the San Joaquin and the following night he was in Stockton; the next day he was climbing up into the Mother Lode country again and although he was stopped from time to time and questioned, he replied in broken English and showed his letter of recommendation; with suspicion dimmed he was permitted to pass on.

In Sawmill Flat he paused to visit the graves of Jesus and Rosita and place some wild flowers upon them. He and Juanita reined up where Bill Warren and Johnny were sluicing gravel from the claim Joaquin had decided to them that day he had cast respectability behind him forever. He gazed upon these old friends and sighed because he could not dismount and shake their hands. He could have killed them both and robbed their sluice box, for he knew that claim was rich and the robbery might have yielded him a few hundred dollars. But the ancient sentiment remained. He could not harm a gringo who had been kind to him, a gringo whose caloused hand he once had clasped in loving friendship.

The miners were nearly all gone from that region now; the placers had been worked out. Presently the claim the Warren brothers worked would no longer yield wages, and they, too, would seek a new claim elsewhere, or with their accumulated gold, retire into the great interior valleys or San Francisco and engage in some business. He dug up the gold he had cached here and there and loaded it in canvas bags on the pack mules; he and Juanita moved leisurely and no man molested them; frequently he met men who would have recognized him had he remotely recognized the bold, reckless, dominant Joaquin of a year ago.

In Sonora he found one of his old hands tending bar in a cantina but did not reveal himself, for there was still a price on his head. In Murphy's Diggings he passed another of his men on the road and the man glanced at him sharply and passed on. Juanita, looking back, saw that the man had pulled up and turned and was making a critical survey of their horses. "That was Romaldo Gonzalez," she whispered. "He was not certain of our identity, but he may be. I think he recognized our horses." Joaquin turned and the man spurred rapidly away. Without an instant's hesitation Joaquin pursued him, overtook him and blew out the brains of Romaldo Gonzalez. When he rejoined Juanita, "I never trusted that fellow. Once, in a fight near San Juan Capistrano, you will recall, he fled from us. A coward will betray his own mother for $10,000—and I am worth much more than that now, in view of the great credit my beloved Three-fingered Jack has conferred upon me."

"It is better, dear one," Juanita agreed, "to be certain than sorry. And we must find new horses. These we ride are excellent, well bred and fast, but—there are others. These may be recognized."

Joaquin found two such at a ranch when they came down through Mariposa county and into the San Joaquin valley again. He laughed as he left their old mounts in place of the stolen horses. "I grow honest," he declared. It was now the middle of April and he had an engagement to meet Three-fingered Jack in Refugio Pass on the first of May. Once more he rode down the west side of the San Joaquin once more he rode past the Rancho San Luis Rey where he had known his first great thrill of happiness. It was fenced now; the wild, long-haired scrubby and inbred California cows suckled their spring calves and Joaquin noted in these calves new blood, indubitable evidence of the efficiency of the hated gringo. Verily, the old order was passing and a sudden despairing feeling came to Joaquin that soon he, too, would pass. Juanita wept as she gazed upon the old hacienda where she had been born, sad scene of the vanished glory of a day that was done. They came at night to the entrance to the Arroyo Cantova but did not enter. At dawn they rode to the top of the ridge and, before topping the crest, dismounted and tied their horses in the scrubby timber. From that vantage point Joaquin swept the hidden valley with a telescope, but nothing moved in it save a few grizzly bears and some tule elk. He watched for hours but he smoke rose from a camp fire, so, concluding his enemies were not there waiting for him, they rode down and buried the gold they had with them. With profound satisfaction Joaquin noted that his old cache was still there. In the afternoon they rode out of the Arroyo Cantova because Juanita's illusion of treachery still prevailed; she was terrified at the thought of spending an unnecessary moment there. They crossed through the Coast Range mountains lower down and came out in the Santa Maria valley; they rode down through it and the Gaviota

Pass to the coast, skirted the coast and turned east up Refugio Pass, arriving there on the evening of May 1. They saw a small campfire far up the pass and Joaquin dismounted and, after dark, made a careful reconnaissance afoot. He found Three-fingered Jack and five men he had not previously known seated around the camp fire.

Yielding to his still strong impulse of admiration and loyalty, Jack so far forgot the deference due his superior officer as to embrace the latter, nor did it occur to him as strange that Joaquin, with evident satisfaction, accepted the bear-like hug.

"Well, old tom-cat," he greeted his lieutenant, "how fares it with thee?" "It might fare better, but why should one in our line of business complain, my captain? I have gathered together about five thousand in 20 dollar gold pieces and I have a few more ears," and he pointed to half a dozen pair being smoked on a line over the campfire. "Also I have a half-headed bullet wound in my left arm. It is nothing. I shoot with my right," and he burst into his great, rumbling laugh.

Juanita rode up and Jack and his men bowed low and removed their tattered head-gear. They were all dog-dirty and quite ragged. Jack had prepared a plentiful supply of roast venison ribs and Bayo beans boiled with onions, garlic, chili peppers and tomatoes. Quickly he rolled out and fried some tortillas and set out a bottle of red wine. "It is a good life," he declared. "Never do I grow weary of it, although, by the bones of Saint Mary of Purissima, those dogs of gringos give us little time for rest. And now, my captain, where do we go from here?"

"Back into the Mother Lode, Juanita, for a last cleanup. This time we will pay particular attention to the Chinamen. Always they make money from claims the impatient gringo has deserted and always the

Makes Second Straight Loss for Hawkeyes During Road Trip

CHICAGO, April 27 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—University of Iowa's tennis team, which before its invasion here boasted a clean record of four straight wins, lost to the University of Chicago men, 6 to 0, for their second loss in three days.

Northwestern's powerful court aggregation turned the trick Saturday, also setting the Old Gold down by a 6 to 0 court. The surprising Maroons, although favored by pre-match dope to win but only after a hard struggle, dropped Coach Edward Voltmer's men without the loss of a set. Summary: Singles—Bickel defeated Fleming, 7-5, 6-1; Burgess defeated Cline, 6-3, 6-2; Metz defeated Nye, 6-3, 6-0; Shostrum defeated Metz, 6-3, 6-2. Doubles—Bickel and Burgess defeated Cline and Nye, 6-1, 6-0; Metz and Shostrum defeated Metz and Fleming, 6-1, 6-2.

Joaquin and Three-fingered Jack have made plans for one last spectacular robbery. So far everything has gone well. Will Jack continue to ride with them? Be sure to read tomorrow's thrilling installment.

fools keep their gold on their persons or hidden in their houses." "Those are sweet words, my captain. Ah, Chinamen! How I love them!" and he jerked at an imaginary queue, made a slashing movement with his right hand and gulped.

Severe Spring Weather Puts Local Golf Courses in Excellent Condition

By JOHN BELL

Although the greens are firm and demand backspin, it is possible to stop a good shot on them and the fairways are correspondingly soft. A brassie shot can be played safely from almost any point on the course, unless hard luck puts the ball in a divot-hole, without fear on the player's part that the club will bounce off the baked ground . . . with possible damage to his front teeth.

Altogether, it looks like a great year for the linksmen. Provided the spells of cold weather finally let up and the links are made permanently open, golfers are due to enjoy one of the most ideal seasons yet known to Iowa City.

Baseball's Big Six

Only two members of baseball's Big Six were active yesterday, but those two did very well. Ernie Lombardi, the Reds big catcher, hit a home run and a double, the first tying the score and the second putting him in position to score the winning run of the game in the 10th inning. Roy Bell, the Browns' star, got two hits in four trips to the plate, neither of which was able to keep the Indians from beating the Browns, 2-1, in the only American league game of the day.

St. Pat's, U. High Trackmen Drill For Meets This Week

Driven inside by the rain, St. Pat's tracksters took a workout in the fieldhouse last night in preparation for the Guernsey relays at Guernsey Friday. Bill Leuz, rugged weight thrower, who along with Carmody, distance runner, has been the most consistent scorer for the Irish so far this season, has been trying his hand at the pole vault the last week.

In spite of the fact that the event is new to him, Leuz possesses a great amount of natural ability and Coach Louie Loria believes that if his form improves he may develop into a possible point winner in future meets.

University high endermen worked on starts, hurdles and passing the baton yesterday as they began to drill for the seventh annual Eastern Iowa Eight Conference relays which are to be run off Saturday at Mt. Vernon.

The Rivermen lost this meet last year to Monticello, 41 to 36 1-2. Although the winners took only one first and tied for another. Their only win was in the mile relay. This meet has taken place for the last seven consecutive years and has been won four years by University high. There are eight schools in the conference: West Branch, West Liberty, Mt. Vernon, University high, Tipton, Mechanicsville, Monticello and Anamosa.

Welcome! Shout Merchants In Anticipation Of Music Meet

Pledging their support to the university extension division, the Iowa City merchants bureau last night sounded a call to all Iowa Citizens to support the Iowa high school music festival this week.

Four main points of advice have been outlined. They are: (1) Keep all cars and delivery trucks off downtown streets as much as possible.

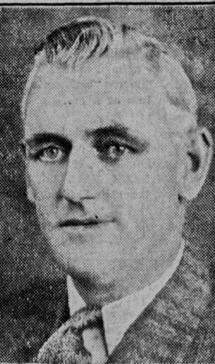

(2) If you must drive, be very cautious and drive slowly. (3) Attend the performances. (4) Open up your homes to visiting students. More than 1,000 beds are still needed. More than 6,500 students and 1,000 instructors and parents are expected. All but 1,000 have sleeping quarters.

Call the chamber of commerce office if you plan to take in students and have not as yet been officially listed. State the number of students desired, sex, phone number, street address and the nights students can be accommodated.

"Put out welcome banners. Dress up the town. Show your real appreciation," was Secretary D. W. Crum's terse advice. Chris Yetter of the bureau emphasized that merchants should get out their banners and all decorations.

"This is a great event and a record number of high school students are expected," he stated.

Upsy-Daisy! Bonham Plays Stock Market With Self In Elevator

By CLARKE MEER
Thirty times the height of the Washington monument and down again, a round trip to Coralville or a one way trip from Iowa City to North Liberty is the distance W. R. Bonham, elevator operator in the Johnson County bank building travels in one busy day. He has made 600 trips up the six-story bank building and carried 1,700 passengers in six hours on rush days.

"I would be Iowa City's most seasoned traveler if the distance I travel daily were extended in one trip," Mr. Bonham said.

Mr. Bonham began his duties as elevator operator seven years ago April 16, and since that time has missed only seven days of work. Only three secretaries in the entire bank building have worked longer in the building.

During his work there Mr. Bonham has had no accidents, he declared, and has had only one emergency call. That call came when a girl had been struck by an automobile in the street, and the elevator was used to get her medical attention in a hurry from upstairs.

"My elevator is truly the melting pot of Iowa City," Mr. Bonham declared, and pointed out that he serves bankers, lawyers, stenographers, dentists, doctors, public accountants, insurance agents, financiers and politicians, besides any other persons who may do business with any of the numerous offices in the building.

F.D.R. May Speak Here

Iowa City has been placed on the tentative list of cities to be visited late this summer by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in his cross-country campaign, according to word received here yesterday by Sen. Paul W. Schmidt.

Senator Schmidt pointed out to Postmaster General James A. Farley in a recent letter that the accommodations of the University of Iowa fieldhouse to thousands of visitors makes Iowa City a logical place for the president to stop. Mr. Farley's reply stated that Iowa City was being considered, but that the definite selection would not take place until after the convention in Philadelphia in June.

assisted in the organization of nearly 40 rifle and pistol clubs. He is stationed at the naval operating base in Norfolk, Va.

Lieutenant Chapel, whose home is in Manchester, attended University high school from 1919 to 1921. He entered the college of liberal arts in the fall of 1921 and in 1922 entered the United States Naval academy at Annapolis, Md. In the spring of 1925 he re-entered the university and later was commissioned second lieutenant U.S.M.C. at Ft. Des Moines.

Remembering Aunt Clemmie

Great-Aunt Clemmie was brought up to the Spartan life. She enjoyed (she always said) getting up at five on a Saturday morning, hanging her market basket over her arm, and going downtown to do the marketing for the week-end. She said, "If you get there first - you'll get the best!"

Aunt Clemmie is a fine reminder of her time. Nowadays one needn't rise with the birds to be sure of a full market basket. It's so much simpler and more efficient to spend a few minutes with the advertisements. Marshalled before you, in your newspaper, is all the news that is necessary for your good living. There, in the advertisements, are facts - sound, solid facts - about prices and quality. Advertised, trade-marked merchandise must be honest merchandise. Or it wouldn't be advertised.
