Fire, Pillage, Riot Rage As Bands of Plunderers Ransack Capital; Royal Family Flees

Report Selassie In Somaliland

Italy Already Primed To Celebrate Its Expected Victory

ROME, May 3 (Sunday)—Italian press dispatches from Djibouti, French Somaliland, early today said Emperor Haile Selassie and his family would reach that city by special train today after fleeing from Addis Ababa.

The news of the Negus' departure threw Rome into an impromptu celebration last night. Newspapers printed extras. Crowds packed around news-stands, snatching up the papers as fast as they were delivered for sale.

The joy of victory was expressed without the regimentation prepared by the government, which already had offered the nation to prepare for a nation-wide "adunata"—a mobilization in honor of the Italian army's arrival in Addis Ababa.

Apparently large quantities of rifles and ammunition abandoned by government and police officials were in the hands of the rioters.

Heavy rains set in, bogging the narrow highway, and landslides were frequent.

Badoglio's communique today did not state the exact position of the advancing column and, consequently, it was impossible for observers to determine just how quickly he could get his men into Addis Ababa to restore order.

Report New African Ruler

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, May 3 (Sunday) (AP)—Last reports reaching Djibouti today from Addis Ababa before telephone lines were cut indicated that Italian planes dropped pamphlets announcing that a son of Lij Yasj, grandson of the Ethiopian Emperor Menelik, would be the "new" Ethiopian emperor.

The proposed ruler to succeed the fleeing Emperor Haile Selassie was said to be living in Tadjura, French Somaliland.

(Lij Yasj, who succeeded to the Ethiopian throne in 1913 after Menelik's death, but was overthrown in 1916, was said in reliable quarters last November to have died after a lingering illness, during which he was virtually a prisoner of the government.)

The imperial family of Haile Selassie was expected to reach Djibouti about 2 a.m. eastern standard time.

Memorial to Sousa Ends Music Festival

Marching Band Display Adds Color to Finale

Sousa Memorial Fete Climaxes Greatest Of State Festivals

With a spectacular marching band maneuver and a 1,500 musician Sousa memorial performance in Iowa stadium, the three day music festival, greatest in Iowa history, was climaxed yesterday afternoon.

Most of the 6,500 musicians and supervisors had left by last night, although some were driven home earlier by the rains.

With a final official score of eight superior and 10 excellent ratings, Mason City, winner in every festival since 1933, surpassed its last year's record of eight superior and eight excellent places, and won first in the final rounds of the contest yesterday.

East high school of Waterloo was second, with seven superior and three excellent places.

Abraham Lincoln, Council Bluffs, scored six superior and seven excellent entries, and placed third.

Iowa City, winning first among all class A schools, won fourth place in the entire festival.

The marching band performances, which were reviewed by Col. George F. N. Dalley, were the last competitive events. Colored motion pictures were made of the maneuvers, in which the university band also participated.

A slight drizzle fell during the band contest, driving a few spectators to cover. It continued only a few minutes, however.

Iowa City led class A schools throughout the contest, and finished with four superior and seven excellent places. Superior ratings went to Rollo Norman, cello solo; miscellaneous woodwind group, orchestra, brass' sextet, and miscellaneous brass group.

Excellent place was awarded to Christian Schrock, bassoon solo; Douglas Woods, baritone-euphonium solo; Ralph Dunlap, French horn; John Webster, clarinet; George Miller, saxophone; Walter Burger, oboe; and girls' glee club.

Girls who sang in the sextet were Gwendolyn Pratt, Beth Livezey, Alma Ruth Findley, Betty Martin, Katherine Reeds, and Doris Gafeller.

Members of the woodwind group were Dorothy Soucek, Christian Schrock, John Webster, and Josephine Sidwell.

The brass group comprised Richard Cambridge, Charles Beckman, Ralph Dunlap, William Swisher, Don Graham, and Vernal Wagner.

Officials estimated that 8,000 visitors, including the 6,500 contestants, attended the three-day festival. Thirty-four events, and a total of 53 contests were included on the program.

Traditionally, the complexion of the government is based upon the political composition of the chamber of deputies.

Said Prof. Charles B. Righter of the music department, "Nervous fathers have been known to do many things, but seldom do they lead 1,500-piece bands."

Relief Group Asks Aid For Stricken Area

Red Cross Officials Appeal to Iowa For $25,000 Fund

SPIRIT LAKE, May 2 (AP)—Emmet county Red Cross officials appealed tonight for a $25,000 relief fund to aid in feeding, clothing and housing victims of the tornado which ripped through three north-west Iowa counties and on into Minnesota Thursday, killing four persons.

"We are appealing to the people of Iowa to send contributions to the Estherville Red Cross chapter," said Attorney F. J. Kennedy, county Red Cross chairman, "for we are in dire need of funds to aid the storm victims."

Kennedy reported a close survey of damage today pushed estimates of loss up to nearly a half a million in Emmet county alone.

"The survey," he said, "disclosed 26 farm homes in this county leveled and 64 other rural dwellings so twisted and ripped apart they cannot be lived in."

In Estherville 103 homes either were wrecked or damaged.

Increased estimates of storm damage all along the 50 mile swath of destruction cut by the storm led officials tonight to estimate the tornado loss at more than a million.

At Champaign, Ill., the district office of the federal resettlement administration said it was going to lend aid to victims of the storm.

Hundreds Attend Oran Pape Rites Held at Dubuque

DUBUQUE, May 2 (AP)—Countless hundreds of friends attended the funeral service here Saturday afternoon for Oran "Nanny" Pape, Iowa highway patrolman who lost his life in a gun battle with a parolee convict at Muscatine late Wednesday.

The Egelhoff Home for Funerals, where the last rites were held, was filled to overflowing while the street outside the chapel was jammed with hundreds of persons who were unable to gain admittance to the chapel in order to pay their final respects to the popular Dubuqueer who won national recognition for his exploits on the University of Iowa gridiron.

Mrs. Alex Miller, secretary of state and under whose department the highway patrol is operated, headed the list of state dignitaries in attendance at the rites.

Chief John Hatterey, director of the patrol, and Major E. A. Conley, assistant chief, had charge of the 30 members of the patrol who took part in the services.

Ossie Solem, head football coach and athletic director at the University of Iowa, was present along with Lawrence "Popsy" Harrison, "Bill" Boelter and Charles Gallier, all of the university athletic staff.

Active pallbearers included six members of the highway patrol.

Mrs. Pape, widow of the slain officer, was on the verge of collapse when the last rites were being held in Linwood cemetery. Her brother, Edward Jensen of Milwaukee, assisted her to the car.

Karpis Taken To St. Paul

ST. PAUL, May 2 (AP)—Alvin Karpis, leader of the gang charged with carrying out two of the nation's major kidnappings was returned today to the scene of his crimes after being seized last night in a bloodless department of justice coup in New Orleans.

Karpis, the nation's most sought criminal, had boasted he "wouldn't be taken alive," but J. Edgar Hoover, head of the department of justice bureau of investigation, who led the capture and accompanied the prisoner here, said Karpis was "so damned scared he couldn't talk."

Not a shot was fired by the heavily armed agents who ended the search for Karpis.

Karpis was brought here by Hoover and eight federal agents on a nine and a half hour sleepless airplane trip marked by detours and hazardous flying weather.

Shackled with heavy chains on the long ride, Karpis was rushed under heavy guard to the federal building immediately upon arrival and held there for questioning. Hoover left early this afternoon for New York.

When he would be arraigned and whether he would be tried first for the $200,000 kidnaping of banker Edward G. Bremer or the seizure of William Hamm Jr., brewing company head, who paid $100,000 for his freedom, District Attorney George F. Sullivan was unable to say.

Hamm was kidnaped June 15, 1933, and Bremer, Jan. 17, 1934.

At least two demands for custody of Karpis were indicated. Hoover told newsmen Karpis was wanted for three kidnappings, including those of Bremer and Hamm, the slaying of a sheriff, 15 bank robberies, three of four mail holdups and complicity in the slaying of "three of four other fellows."

Foreign Students Found Friend In Mrs. Whittaker

Foreign students at the University of Iowa during nearly 30 years found a friend and "mother" in Mrs. Helen Whittaker, 83, who died at Mercy hospital Thursday afternoon.

Traditionally known as the "mother of foreign students," Mrs. Whittaker kept in constant touch with these students who returned to their native lands as dentists, engineers, teachers and other occupations.

Among her "children" are natives of India, China, Japan, Java, Mexico and other far-away countries.

For those she could not take into her own home at 32 W. Jefferson street, she always found other addresses. She also learned to cook their native dishes—two Indian dishes, "Curry" and "Chutney sauce," were among her specialties.

Not only the students who roomed at her home, but other foreign students in the university were often entertained at her home.

Ship Reported Sunk off Cape After Collision

NEW YORK, May 3 (Sunday) (AP)—The freighter Canadian Planter was reported to the Radiomarine corporation as having sunk early today following a collision with the freighter City of Auckland four miles northeast of Cross Rip Lightship between Cape Cod and Nantucket.

A second message, received shortly after the collision was reported, stated that the crew of 35 of the Planter had been safely taken off by the Auckland, which then was anchored a half mile north of Nantucket Sound gas and wistle buoy.

Other sources here, including the coast guard, were not informed of the accident and radiomarine did not have details as to circumstances under which the vessels collided.

The City of Auckland was en route from Halifax, N. S. to Boston and New York while the Planter was en route from New York to Boston and Montreal.

Committee To Pass Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Despite alternative proposals, and continued opposition from business critics, Chairman Harrison (D-Miss) of the senate finance committee today forecast the house tax bill would slide onto the senate floor without "much trouble."

His statement came at the conclusion of the third day of hearings, in which criticism of the administration tax plan was mingled with suggestions for other ways to raise revenues.

Even democratic members of the committee joined in suggesting substitutes. Senator Bailey, of North Carolina, advanced the idea that the "most constructive way" to balance the budget might be to encourage business recovery rather than to lay new taxes.

Bailey and Senator King (D-Utah) joined in asking treasury experts to estimate what revenue would be realized from the present tax laws if the annual national income should rise to $70,000,000,000. King already has proposed a substitute for the pending bill, based mainly upon higher income taxes.

Not Much Trouble But as the hearings recessed for the week end, Harrison told newspapermen "I don't think we are going to have much trouble getting this bill out of the committee." He added, however, that there probably would be some changes in the measure.

With The Ladies

By Ruth Blanchard

You'd better wrap your cookies in red or green paper if you want them to keep a long time, recent home economics research at the University of Chicago, by the authors of "How and Whys of Cookery," Halliday and Noble, indicates.

They also predict that olive oil will soon come in colored, instead of clear, glass bottles. Red and green light rays were found to keep shortening fresh at the end of 62 days, but it turned rancid within 41 days under blue or white light.

Fads of the season... wash fobs--University of Iowa coats with the latest spring suits carry minute watches in their pockets... swagger sticks for women, with a pouch for purse and mirror fastened on... lady-bug ornaments for hats, shoe clips for earrings, enamelled in various colors... butterflies and combs in head dress... large daytime chiffon handkerchiefs worn pulled through the belt... a cowweb chiffon scarf with a design of tiny airplanes... a bride's gift, a seed pearl heart tied in blue ribbons, holding an old silver coin and a bright new penny... something old, something new... a fine silk crepe scarf on which tiny houses, trees and flowers of oilcloth have been pasted...

A Little Trust Busting

SOME OF the remarks of Guy E. Linville, republican candidate for United States senator at Grinnell recently are worth some consideration. He declared that anti-trust laws must be brought into play again to insure the farmer the right to buy goods at fair prices. Labor, too, is today paying the price of neglected anti-trust laws.

I know from experience that the farmer is again being robbed on farm implement prices. If the anti-trust laws were enforced as they ought to be, you would find implement prices taking a big drop. Industrialists will gouge the farmers as long as they can get away with it.

Though Linville buried a good speech under a host of typical campaign remarks which mean nothing, he might have found more by doing a little digging.

Never will we arrive at a true economic balance between the farmer and laboring man on one hand and the industrialist on the other until price manipulation is outlawed. The republicans accuse the democrats of price fixing through the NRA. But they fail to look at their own record extending over a half century or more of outright violation of the laws of free and competitive enterprise. Industrialists have adopted the policy that is better business to hold prices up and quit producing rather than continue production at lower prices. It is a mean and vicious circle. The laborer loses his job, the farmer takes a beating when his prices drop. The farmer can no longer buy the luxuries he once enjoyed nor can he in many cases buy actual necessities.

As an illustration of this working of the economic forces, we quote figures from senate document 13 of the seventy-fourth congress. The figures compare the percentage of decrease of prices and production following the market crash of 1929 for several years into the depression. The following is a list of eight basic commodities.

Table with 2 columns: Commodity, Price Production (Pct. decrease). Rows include Agricultural imp., Motor cars, Cement, Iron, steel, Textiles, Food products, Agricultural com'od.

The injustice of price fixing is seen when we compare the agricultural implement and agricultural commodities. The former is practically non-competitive and the latter extremely so. The price of implements fell six per cent and production was reduced 80 per cent. On the other hand the farmer took a 63 per cent price loss, but he continued to produce.

The AAA may have been unjust. Price fixing and the paying of bounties to any particular group within an economic system is always unjust, but why is it any more unjust for the farmer to pay bounties to implement manufacturers? Had implement manufacturers played the game on the same basis as the farmer, implement manufacturing might not have taken an 80 per cent drop; nor would the farmer have had to stand a 63 per cent decrease.

If our capitalistic system is to stand, if we are to continue as a nation of free enterprise we must leave price alone and allow it to perform its true function—that of regulating production. In the case of the implement companies, price did regulate production but the evil lies in the manipulation of price.

This country would totter very near the brink of revolution if the textile, food products and farm prices were held to the limit and production allowed to fall off. Under the present monopolistic setup as found in many industries the farmer would be justified in asking $2 a dozen for eggs. The present administration has taken it upon itself to dip into business. But instead of enforcing the anti-trust laws it has almost forgotten them and goes merrily on

Remnants Of Old Iowa

A GROUP OF university students, while visiting several state parks last week, became convinced of the beauty and practicality of these nature reserves. They were delighted with acres of natural woodland, where thousands of birds have found a home. Bright carpets of Iowa's native herbs and flowers thrilled them as they followed the hill and river drives. They exclaimed at the towering rock formations with their ice caves, which the state has seen fit to preserve from the onslaught of highway building and similar enterprises.

These natural parks are a fond reminder of what Iowa once was, and their significance will deepen as the generations come and go. Our state, without federal backing, has done a commendable work in setting aside remnants of the environment in which our forefathers laid the groundwork, for posterity.

The Old Lesson

ALVIN KARPIS was captured Friday night by department of justice agents in New Orleans. Nor a shot was fired in taking him into custody. Karpis was a man who has been called public enemy No. 1. He has been accused of the murder of a sheriff and the kidnaping of two St. Paul, Minn., industrialists. He escaped the federal men for three years, leading them from coast to coast.

J. Edgar Hoover is head of the federal bureau of investigation. He is head of a group of criminal catchers who are known best as G-men. This bureau has at its fingertips the most up-to-date instruments of science that gives them clues to solve crimes. Mr. Hoover also has as his motto—"We always get our man." He was ordered to capture Karpis—it looked hopeless, and it meant lots of careful work, for criminals will kill rather than surrender.

These are the main characters in this little drama. For three years, as we have said, Mr. Hoover and his assistants tried to arrest Karpis and failed. Then they employed strategy that sometimes proves more effective than science—they offered $7,000 for any information leading to the capture of the gangster. Within two weeks they surrounded a house in New Orleans—15 or 20 agents were there with guns ready if needed—and out walked Karpis with a woman friend. He saw that he was hopelessly outnumbered, and gave up—thus probably escaping the fate met by John Dillinger under similar circumstances.

The story illustrates two things. One is that the bureau of investigation under J. Edgar Hoover is remarkably efficient. It has an enviable and well-earned record. The other lesson is old, but it still holds good. CRIME NEVER PAYS.

Why Hair Stands on End

AT LAST WE know why fear makes our hair stand on end. Three doctors, after years of research, have found that the hypothalamus, the size of a bean and located in the center of the brain, is responsible for the bristling of the hair with rage or fear. It's nice to know such things. Occasionally a really significant contribution to humanity arises out of such research on paltry subjects—but only occasionally.

Now if these three doctors want to spend their lives finding out what makes hair bristle, it is their own business—everyone enjoys that right. And if they wish to announce it in solemn tones as one would herald some important discovery that was priceless to society, that also is their business. But it is rather comic to us.

We do not intend to make light of the work of scientists. One who has read of the good done to mankind by these untrifling, unselfish men can have nothing but respect for them. But it does seem to us that there are plenty of things yet to be found that really would have some meaning—such as a cure for cancer.

Not All Hawks Are Bad

THE HAWK is cordially hated by all farmers. He doesn't bother to find out what kind of a hawk flies over his fields; he shotguns all of them. Here he is in error, according to a new bulletin from the United States department of agriculture. W. L. McAtee, author of the article, points out that many species of hawks are entirely beneficial. The Buteos, or mouse hawk, kills field mice and small rodents. The grasshopper hawk and others kill insects. Listed as harmful and murderers of song, game and domestic birds are the Cooper, sharp-shinned and goshawk. At times the pigeon hawk will raid a barnyard. This news probably will not change the farmer's tactics—he will take no chances. But we feel that the harmless hawks ought to be acquitted in the eyes of the world.

A Washington Bystander

WASHINGTON—With Senators Barkley and Robinson picked to do a repeat performance at Philadelphia as keynoter and permanent chairman respectively, and Senator Steiwer boning up for the keynoting job at Cleveland, the senate certainly has a finger in the political pie this year. It had the same three to one status on the house in '32. Dig deeper into convention annals, and it develops that ever since popular election of senators became a constitutional fact, senate prestige at convention time has been on the increase. Before that, when the senate's popular nickname was "The Millionaire's Club," senators mostly did their convention stuff the platform. They were regarded as a liability when either party was working up its quadrennial appeal to the "peepul."

A New Yorker

At Large

By JACK STINNETT NEW YORK—Francis X. Giacomone, the deputy fire commissioner, tells us that every fourth time the fire trucks make a run in New York they are answering a false alarm.

It is a little worse than that. If you care for figures, there were 41,620 alarms answered in New York last year and 11,274 were false, either through maliciousness or ignorance.

The false alarm racket is one of the city's major problems and thousands of dollars are being thrown into a campaign to reduce the number to a minimum. It will be money well spent, too, if there are any results, says Giacomone, for it costs $50 to make the run to a fire which means that more than half a million last year was spent because turning in an alarm seemed like a good idea at the time to someone.

Drunks and children are the worst offenders, but often it is some practical joker trying to enliven a party. At least once it was a person so ignorant that he thought one pulled the lever in the fire alarm box to make a letter.

RUSSELL PATTERSON couldn't sleep. He would talk to the windows of his studio and look out on the traffic-crammed byways of Manhattan. It all seemed noise, confusion, filth and nauseous smells. Then he would walk the floor in a fine perspiration, railing against the inanities of a civilization which forced people to live that way.

He shouted and shouted. He was younger then! Soon he was convinced he could not make himself heard. So he decided to build a world of his own. It is a big job and he has only made a start, but it doesn't give him leisure to worry much about the noise and filth and inanity.

The start resulted in the creation of the Patterson puppets, "personettes," he calls them. They are all clean-lined young men and women with perfect figures. Their bodies are of wood but their health is flawless. They live constantly in artificial sunlight in clean rooms or in an out-of-doors where it is always spring. They are gay for their lot is continual happiness.

Patterson has found that his puppets serve him well. . . . advertising for the most part, but decoration, too, like those which amuse the customers at the French Casino. Soon he is going to send a troupe out on the vaudeville circuits. And a group like that at the French Casino is being made for a night club in London. But that is all commercial and only a means to an end.

Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY HOLLYWOOD—Catharine Doucet doesn't want to be a comedienne, but the movies think she should be and so she's making the best of it. She played drama before she came to the films two years ago, and she would like to play "straight" parts again. She enjoys comedy, however, and she has an interesting theory about it. She thinks men, generally, make the best comedians, toward men being slightly inclined toward too much burlesque. Miss Doucet has a horror of "over-doing" her roles.

Must Take Selves Seriously "I try to be the women I am playing," she explains. "And, above all else, never to over-do my gestures. A little thing like too much hand fluttering can give the audience an idea that you know you're being funny, and that spoils everything. Comedians are funniest when they seem to be taking themselves dead seriously."

Miss Doucet was the second most annoying character of the film, "These Three." The little girl who motivated the story ranked ahead of the aunt Miss Doucet played. She was in the stage version of "As Husbands Go" and came here for the same role in the picture. "Little Man, What Now?" among others, followed. Just now Catharine (with an "A") is being W. C. Fields' ebullient playmate in "Poppy." She flutters her hands and frowns about, as she did in the previous films, as the dizzily effervescent social leader—one Margie Rubs De Pulzic, widow of an Italian count who sensibly dropped dead on his wedding night.

It Happened to ZaSu Miss Doucet belongs to that army of motion picture players who represent being typed. She thinks Hollywood ought to develop its talent, as does the stage, by permitting comedians occasionally to be tragedians and vice versa. She thinks the public should be educated to a point where it won't scream with hysterics when someone who usually does comedy appears on the screen in a serious role. That was what happened to poor ZaSu Pitts when she was given her big dramatic change in "All Quiet on the Western Front." They had to re-make ZaSu's part of the picture, after its preview, with another actress and the comedienne went back to comedy.

Given Medical Prize

Seen From Old Capitol

By JESS GORKIN

Hangover Quite deserted and desolate last night the city began cleaning up, and resting up. . . . Gone were the 6,500 noisy high school music festivalists and gone too were the 1,500 much noisier parents and teachers. Iowa City settled down last night for a long spring nap. . . .

Among those reported missing last yesterday afternoon as they started packing up—the 6,500—were 24 towels reading "Jefferson Hotel," an automobile horn and radiator formerly on a car belonging to Willard Thomas, G of Sioux City, 16 menus from a local cafe, five salt shakers and a knife from the same cafe, a stop sign and part of the balcony railing at a local theater. . . . We don't blame them a bit though, stolen souvenirs are best. . . . We have a few extra towels and salt shakers ourselves. . . .

We couldn't pass this one before letting the music festival pass. It came to us from a special scout at the Pi Phi house. . . . It seems one of the festivalists was commenting on the sorority girls she saw around her. "Well," she observed, "they're not a bit different from us high school girls, except they know how to smoke."

Novelists, thinks Prof. Wilbur Schramm, editor of American Prefaces, are too prolific; and there are too many novelists. To his honor English class the other day he remarked, "Novelists usually write what they think, but that's no sign everybody who thinks has to write a novel."

In roundabout, in the class room, over the tea cup, we've picked up the following, expressions of life and philosophy of our university professors. . . .

"There's nothing particularly wrong in going to college—that is, if you have a strong will power."

"There are two kinds of people in the United States today. There are those who know economics, and there are those who believe in Franklin Roosevelt."

"To get an A.B. a sorority girl either should have beauty or brains. It reminds us of the old joke, 'If we had some eggs, we'd have some ham and eggs, if we had some eggs.'"

"There's very little thinking around here. The students don't have time, and the professors don't have to."

Disappointed last night with the outcome of the Kentucky Derby was one law student. It seems he had placed his bet in a local pool on "Dud in the Mud," Wimpy's favorite, to win. He said he had received no tip from the jeep. He doesn't know any, although he is acquainted with several goons. —By M. D. M.

Junior Student's Thesis Accorded 1st Prize In Original Work

William J. Moore, M3 of Iowa City, is the first winner of the $100 Baldrige memorial prize awarded each year to the student submitting the best thesis on original work done in medicine on clinical or preclinical subjects, it has been announced.

The winning thesis, entitled "Some Observations on a Third Antigen of B Typhosus," was judged by a committee of three which included Dr. Everett D. Plass of University hospital. The prize will be awarded at June commencement exercises.

Last year at a meeting of the Iowa State Medical society, the house of delegates voted to set aside a fund for the annual prize to honor the memory of Dr. Clarence W. Baldrige, who was a member of the faculty of the college of medicine until his death in 1934.

Report April Gain In Book Circulation

Books circulated during April outnumbered the circulation over the corresponding period of 1935 by 3,000 volumes, according to figures of the reserve department of university libraries, Grace Van Wormer, acting director of university libraries, announced yesterday. The report showed a total of 20,000 books now out.

Direction of Program

Between 135,000 and 140,000 examinations will be given, according to Prof. Everett P. Lindquist of the college of education, director of the program.

High ranking pupils in these tests will participate in the state scholarship contest. About 1,100 contestants qualify each year.

Eliminate Competition For the first time since the first contest in 1929, there will be no competition among schools, since the original purpose of arousing interest has been accomplished.

Total number of schools participating is 19 less than a year ago. Professor Lindquist attributed the decrease to the disruption of teaching in many schools during the sub-zero blockade period.

A 60-minute general achievement test of the objective type will be provided in each of the following topics: ninth year algebra, plane geometry, general science, biology, physics, English correctness, reading, comprehension in literature, world history, United States history, economics, American government, first and second year Latin and contemporary affairs.

Reports will be sent to schools probably before May 21.

Foreign Students' Club to Entertain Faculty Members

Members of the Foreign Students' club will entertain a group of faculty members at a dinner to-night at 6 o'clock in the University club rooms in Iowa Union.

Dr. Zella White Stewart will show colored moving pictures of her trip to Panama and northern South America as part of the evening's entertainment.

The dinner will be prepared in foreign style by the following members of the club: Toru Sakai, G of Hanapepe, Hawaii; Edelmira Hendee, A4 of Newburg, N. Y.; Albert Williams, A2 of Liverpool, England; and Robert Allen-Gomez, A3 of Asuncion, Paraguay.

Bold Venture Nips Brevity in Kentucky Derby

Long Shot Winner Wards Off Sensational Stretch Drive By Brevity to Capture Rough Battle

Granville Loses Jockey at Start; Rider Of Bold Venture, 'Babe' Hanford, Suspended; 62,000 See Race on Lightning-Fast Track

By ALAN GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor)
CHURCHILL DOWNS, LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2 (AP)—Bold Venture, the longest shot winner in 18 years, survived a rough-and-tumble thoroughbred battle as well as a thrilling stretch drive today to capture the 62nd Kentucky Derby before the greatest crowd ever gathered for America's most spectacular horse race.

To the astonishment of the overflow throng of 62,000 spectators and confusion of the form players, Bold Venture stood off a terrific stretch challenge from Brevity, the 4 to 5 favorite, and won by a scant head in a hard-driving, whip-lashing climax to the struggle of three year olds.

Bold Venture Pays $43
Owned by Morton L. Schwartz, New York sportsman, Bold Venture paid $43 for each $2 mutual ticket, as well as $11.80 to place and $6.60 to show. The winner's price, equivalent to $20.50 on the dollar, was the biggest since Exterminator, the celebrated "Old Bones" of the turf, flashed home in front in 1918 and paid the equivalent of $29.60 to one.

Bold Venture's victory, worth $87,725 to the colt's owner, out of a total Derby purse of $48,150, climaxed a startling sequence of events, all packed into slightly more than two minutes of thrilling excitement, stunning surprise and uncompromising tactics.

Rough Riding
So bitterly-waged was this battle of speed and stamina, as the 14 horses sprang from the stall gates, that William Woodward's Granville, one of the prime choices, lost his jockey, while the highly-favored Brevity was nearly knocked off his feet at the outset, and Ira (Babe) Hanford, the winning rider, was promptly suspended for rough riding, along with two other jockeys.

It didn't alter the outcome of the race, but it capped the climax of another highly-disputed running of the Bluegrass classic as the riders of three of the first four horses were set down, each for 15 days, as a consequence of their tactics. Suspended along with the youthful Hanford were George Burns, who rode Indian Broom, hope of the far west, into third place, six lengths behind Brevity, and Nick Wall, who took fourth place with C. B. Shaffer's Coldstream, three lengths further back.

Brevity Knocked to Knees
Most of the rough riding and bumping took place in the first dash down the stretch while the field battled for positions before reaching the first turn. Brevity, knocked to his knees within a few strides of the start, got all the worst of the early going and lost many lengths before Jockey Wayne Wright could settle the favorite into his stride. Indian Broom, too, absorbed a share of bumping and was likewise in the rack as the pack raced past the stands for the first time, with He Did and Coldstream on top.

Bold Venture was off slowly but quickly sprinted to a forward position, gained command in the long run down the back stretch, and had sufficient margin in the final stretch drive to stand off Brevity's gallant challenge.

With both Hanford and Wright going to the whip, it was strictly a two-horse finish over the last quarter mile. Bold Venture had a length, as the colt straightened out for the long run home, and looked like a decisive winner until the last eighth. Brevity had already closed a tremendous gap to pull into second place, coming into the last turn, and the favorite went down fighting.

With a sixteenth to go, Brevity was a half length behind and gaining with every stride. THE WINNAH!
BOLD VENTURE
By ALAN GOULD
CHURCHILL DOWNS, LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2 (AP)—I still think Coldstream is a good horse, but I thought he was badly ridden."

That was the explanation given tonight by Mrs. Betty Johnston of Des Moines for the failure of the dark bay son of Bulldog to bear out her prediction that he would win today's Kentucky Derby. Coldstream finished fourth.

Both Bill Walker, on the mound for the Cards, and Fred Frankhouse, pitching for Brooklyn, allowed but six hits. The last two runs off Frankhouse were unearned. It was Walker's first win this season.

It was the second time in as many games that the Dodgers had failed to score and they now have completed 23 scoreless innings. The paid attendance was 3,000.

Hawkeyes to Play Raiders Tomorrow

MARK PANTHER IS far from depressed over his tough luck in the Drake relays. He accepts it matter-of-factly and is taking it in stride. The Hawk star even sees a good break in his misfortune and far be it from him to kick, even though he has a legitimate right.

Mark feels that the injury will keep him from reaching his peak too soon this spring, and when it comes time for the Olympic trials, he will be at his best. Panther doesn't consider Alton Terry, the Hardin-Simmons flash who tossed the shaft better than 222 feet in the Drake meet for a new American collegiate record, as a serious contender for the Olympic team.

Terry, who lives in the south, has had the advantage of many months of outdoor practice. During the Drake relays, he was in his prime and probably will never again attain that mark this season. Mark's form is perfect. At Drake, he made his 191 foot toss without trying to warm up and was as fast as a drum spring. It was just his second competition of the year and previous to this had thrown the javelin only a few times in practice and then not for distance.

When his shoulder heads, Iowa's Big Ten champ will be right in the running. And remember this, if Panther begins to toss the slim spear out around the 230 mark around Olympics time this summer, don't be surprised.

Jack Burns, top, and Elton Hogsett, base man of the St. Louis Browns, is now first basing for the Detroit Tigers in place of the injured Hank Greenberg. Burns came to Detroit in a deal which sent Elton Hogsett, below, to the Browns. An undisclosed amount of cash accompanied Hogsett to St. Louis.

Brooks found that cracking the books for straight "A's" all the time was monotonous and boring. So, he grabbed his golf clubs and before the snow fell on Finlandia links, he found himself elected captain of the freshman golf team.

Back to the books went Bob, but not for long. He became managing editor of the Hawkeye and is editor-elect for next year. He entered the freshman wrestling tourney, didn't have time to train down to his normal 135 pound weight, so completed in the 145 pound division where he was forced to take a second place to brother Waldo, the winner. The night before the mat finals he ran in the interfraternity track meet, took part in a grueling session of the publications board, and had only three hours sleep. During spare moments Brooks grabbed a place for himself in Gavel club, honorary forensic society.

Time and Place: Old Iowa field, Monday at 4 p.m.

Coach Otto Vogel's nine meets up with the Cedar Rapids Raiders here tomorrow in a return battle. The Western league representatives arrive in town with their feathers ruffled up, for the Iowa nine gave them a few pointers on baseball when they defeated the professionals 6 to 3 at the Parlor City Thursday.

The Hawks scheduled tilt with Iowa State Teachers at Cedar Falls Saturday was rained out. In tomorrow's battle the Old Gold nine reigns as favorites, for in Thursday's encounter the score was not a true indication of the impressiveness of the Hawkeyes' win. Eight Iowa men left on the bases kept the Vogelmen from running up a more lopsided victory.

Gaugler, Mason and Clansen each hit home runs at Cedar Rapids, but each time there were no men on to help pile up the Old Gold nine's winning margin.

As the Cedar Rapids nine has only one left handed hitter, Coach Vogel will probably use his right handed ace, Lowell Gosser and "Stretch" Miller, who limited the Raiders to eight hits Thursday. Charlie Blackburn, polished left hander, may also work part of the game.

MADISON, Wis., May 2 (AP)—Wisconsin's track team opened its outdoor season at Camp Randall today with an impressive victory over Iowa and Northwestern.

NUMBER TEN

Venture hung on gamely, to nod his head under the wire first, but it was just as well they didn't have to travel more than the regulation mile and a quarter. Brevity was flying, clearly the stronger of the two, and would have won in a few strides.

On a track that was like lightning, Bold Venture was clocked in the fastest time for the derby since Twenty Grand lowered the record to 2:31 4/5 in 1931 and the third fastest derby of all time. Old Rosebud, winner in 1914 in 2:30 2/5, was the only other to turn in faster time than the colt that upset a whole bucketful of "dope" today under the balmy conditions marking the big race in years.

Trained astutely by Max Hirsch and undoubtedly brought right up to the proverbial "pink" for today's race, Bold Venture needed to make no apologies to his equine rivals. Brevity may have been the best horse in the field, but Bold Venture's performance, under the conditions marking the race, was something to write about. The stout son of St. Germans-Possible had the speed to escape too much early trouble and the stamina to beat a colt that has been compared this spring to Man O'War and which was rated absolutely the class of this year's derby field.

There was nothing to indicate that any others in the race, with the possible exception of Granville, could give the one-two finishers any argument. Coldstream, despite early speed, failed to capitalize early advantages, and had the allis. Bien Joli, which was the lone standard-bearer of E. R. Bradley, after Bannister was scratched, finished fifth after being jostled around on the far turn. It was at this point that Hanford, with Bold Venture, was accused of rough tactics for the second time. Bold Venture cut sharply in front of both Brevity and Indian Broom. There was no bumping, but the maneuver appeared to have been costly to the favorite. All told, it looked as though the derby "jinx" was still working over-time to checkmate Widener, eastern sportsman, whose colors have triumphed in nearly every other classic except this one. The setback for Brevity today followed the ill-luck that pursued Widener with such fine horses as Osmand, Peace Chance and Chance Gun.

Hawk Netmen Face Gophers' Sophomore Team Tomorrow

Dope Favors Iowa To Conquer in Fray At Minneapolis

Seeking revenge for the trimmings handed them in Chicago last week, the Iowa tennis team leaves today for Minneapolis, where they will tangle with the Gopher net team tomorrow afternoon.

The Hawkeyes, with no meets this week end, have been drilling hard in order to down Minnesota and rack up their second conference win. The dope sheet gives the Iowa boys an edge over their opponents, due largely to the fact that Johnny Schommer, last year's Big Ten champion, and Roy Huber, who together with Schommer won the Big Ten doubles championship, have been graduated.

Also, the other two last year's Minnesota regulars have been lost through graduation. The Gophers' hopes rest on a promising group of sophomores, headed by Phil Brain Jr., son of Coach Phil Brain, but the Iowans have the advantage of experience and it is expected that they will chalk up another conference victory.

Freshman Tennis

Only a few matches in the freshman tennis tournament have been played and Coach Volmer urges contestants to get in touch with their opponents and make arrangements to play as soon as possible because the first round must be completed by tomorrow. The meet

University High Wins Eastern Iowa Track Title With 66 Points

University High massed a total of 66 points to easily win the Eastern Iowa Eight Conference track and field meet, yesterday at Mt. Vernon.

The Rivermen's all around strength proved to be too much for Mt. Vernon, who finished in second place with 41 markers. Tipton came in third with 25 points and Monticello chalked up 20 marks to finish fourth.

University high did not have any one outstanding man, but each member of the squad did his bit in contributing points. Russell Davis, who has been the high point man in all of the meets thus far, was not able to finish as high in the scoring column due to an injured ankle.

Capt. Jim Barron came the nearest to breaking a record, when he ran the 880 in 2:07.4, but he didn't quite do it. The vaulters were only able to clear nine feet and a half. The reason for the poor marks made in this meet can be attributed to the raw biting northwest wind which had a full sweep of the field.

The starter was E. J. Osgood; referee, R. W. Barker; and G. L. Hill did the announcing.

Re-Painting and Re-Finishing Activities Double in Iowa City

Workers Have Jobs Lined Up; Increase Due to Business

By ROBERT GRIFFITH
More than twice as many Iowa Cityans and persons living in the city's trade territory are re-painting and re-finishing their homes this spring as compared with re-decorating activities for the early months of 1935.

Paint and wallpaper dealers attribute this increase in keeping up homes to a general business pick up and to the severe winter cold and interior decorations.

All of Iowa City's 68 recognized painters and paper hangers now have jobs lined up for more than a month in advance. These same workers have been going from one redecorating job to the next continuously since before the middle of March.

Dealers say that the wallpaper business is now at its height for the spring, but that the painting is just getting a good start. Moderately figured wallpaper in medium shades are outstanding sellers this year.

Paper Cleaner
A slump in the sale of wall paper cleaner indicates that more persons are turning to re-papering instead of cleaning the old paper for another season.

Exterior house paint is being sold mainly in cream, grey and tan, with most home owners indicating that white is too bright for such a "smokey city."

Local painters are expecting the farmers of the territory to start their spring re-painting early in May after more of the field work is out of the way.

Finance Plan
Several local stores have adopted a finance plan for spring redecorating. The employees explain that it is "just like buying a car on an installment plan." Paint, paper and even the labor is secured on "terms."

A larger than usual volume of paint for household furnishings and floors is being sold this spring than any other season since the business high of 1923.

Persons who have been firing their furnaces until recently are just thinking about redecorating, and will probably bring another rush for painters and paper hangers.

Will Charge Husband With Wife Murder

LOS ANGELES May 2 (AP)—A weird death plot in which the woman was drowned after being bound and thrust into a den of rattlesnakes was charged to her husband tonight by the district attorney's office.

Deputy Eugene Williams said a witness told him how Mrs. Mary Emma Busch James fifth wife of Robert James, a barber, was gagged and her foot held in a box of writhing snakes. When that failed, the deputy said, the woman was drowned.

Ask for Indictment

He declared he would ask the grand jury to indict James for murder.

Williams related the story after questioning C. H. Hope, 38, night manager of a beach cafe. He said Hope told him:

"The Sunday before they found her dead, I took a box of rattlesnakes I got for James at Snake Joe's, a snake farm in Pasadena, to James' house in La Crescenta."

"That Sunday when I walked into the house at 11 o'clock in the morning James had his wife tied down with ropes to a breakfast table he had pulled out into the kitchen from the breakfast nook."

"She had on nothing but a night dress and her eyes and her mouth were covered with adhesive tape so she could not see or scream."

Tied Down

"She was tied down with her body up and her back down against the table."

"Go to the garage and get that box of rattlesnakes!" James said to me.

"I brought him the box of snakes. He took the box of snakes and set it on the floor. Then he took his wife's left foot and stuck it down into the box where the snakes were all coiled up together shaking their rattles hissing."

"I know one of them stuck its fangs into her leg but all the snakes in French Somaliland, and were believed to be en route to Jerusalem. As soon as news of the government's departure circulated, looting began in the town and not long afterward fire broke out."

Engert said the postoffice was burning and that firing was deafening.

Robert J. Shaw of Sigourney, candidate for the republican nomination as attorney general of Iowa, was in Iowa City yesterday afternoon. Mr. Shaw is a member of the American Bar association, and has practiced before the federal courts. He attended the University of Iowa and was graduated from Northwestern university.

Article Wins Annual Award

Tamara Dembo Given Prize for Leading Paper Published

Tamara Dembo of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station has been awarded the annual prize of the New England branch of the American Psychiatric association for the most outstanding paper published during the year 1935-36, it was announced yesterday.

Her paper, "The Patient's Psychological Situation Upon Admission to a Mental Hospital," written with Dr. Eugene Hanfmann of the Worcester State hospital, Worcester, Mass., was published in the American Journal of Psychology for July, 1935.

Completed by the aid of a grant from the Social Science Research council, Miss Dembo's study represents observations taken on 100 mental patients, equally divided as to sex, on admission and during a succeeding period of two to seven days in the Worcester state hospital.

She found six types of reaction: blind attack; intelligent curiosity and cooperation; refusal to admit need for treatment; preoccupation with the psychosis; acceptance of the hospital as a refuge, and the narrow outlook of an aged or very sick patient.

Miss Dembo advocates study of these patients from the psychological standpoint, abandoning at this point the view that behavior of any mental patient can be understood only with his psychosis as the basis for consideration.

She found that the different reactions may depend to some extent on the level of intelligence or on the number of times the patient has been in a similar institution. Women adjust much less easily than men, often coming from a narrower field of experience, she found.

On the basis of her classification, Miss Dembo recommended that "educational means" be used on the first three groups to utilize their strong drive to escape as motivation. She also suggested that the refusal of those in group C to admit their position as mental patients should be interpreted as a useful defense against despair for this type of person, instead of being rejected as pretentiousness.

Miss Dembo came here last September from Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y., having also been connected with the Worcester state hospital and with the Physiological Institute of Groningen, Holland, after she received her Ph. D. degree from the University of Berlin in 1932.

3 Are Certified Planes May For Postoffice Meet Here

Field of 14 Applicants; Rep. E. Eicher Will Recommend 1 Soon

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Certification of three candidates for the postmastership at Iowa City, Ia., was announced here today by the postoffice department.

Postmaster Charles A. Bowman, whose term expires in July, is eligible for reappointment because of his service in the postal department.

Candidates certified are: Walter J. Barrow, clerk of the Johnson county district court, has military preference; Fred J. Seeman and Jacob B. Van Horn are the other two successful candidates.

Rep. Edward C. Eicher of Washington, Ia., will recommend one of the Iowa Cityans for the postmastership, probably before congress adjourns.

Fourteen Iowa City men filed application with the civil service commission Jan. 15 for the position of postmaster here.

The group included Lee J. Farnsworth, Charles J. Chansky, Leo L. Slezak, Wesley G. Kohl, C. C. Ries, Samuel D. Whiting, Reuben Swartzlander, Joseph Kanak, Robert W. McCollister and Clem A. Boyle.

S.U.I. Will Fete Mothers

Mothers' Day Events Remain Unchanged Since Beginning

University students will honor their mothers at the eighth annual mothers' week end, May 8, 9 and 10, on the Iowa campus.

Mortar Board members in 1928, who promoted the first celebration as a tribute to their mothers, felt that mothers should be feted, since fathers were honored by their sons every fall on Dad's day.

May Frolic
The May Frolic, which will open, festivities the evening of May 8 at Iowa Union, has succeeded "Iowa-va," annual spring festival staged by Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. the week end of Mother's day in 1928.

Other activities of this year's celebration will be similar to events of the year in which the idea originated. The Governor's day review and mother-son-daughter banquet, May 9, followed by special church services, campus tours and tea at the home of the president May 10 this year offer a program of events almost unaltered from the original fete.

Heads Group
Esther Fuller, president of the group eight years ago, headed the committee which planned the affair in cooperation with A. F. L. Union Board and Prof. Rufus H. Fitzgerald, director of Iowa Union. A wooden plaque which hangs in the main lounge of Iowa Union bears the names of Mortar Board members who promoted the celebration.

Helen Barnes, one of the members of the organization that year, who is now in the teacher's bureau here, when questioned about the origin of mothers' week end, said, "I really can't recall who did think of it. I guess the idea had been in all of our minds for some time that we ought to have a way of honoring our mothers."

Give Flowers
Flowers were given to each mother early on Mother's day in 1928 also. This custom has been continued, and again this year each mother will receive an individual tribute in the form of a rose.

Three hundred mothers, coming from as far as California and Texas, attended the first week end in honor of mothers at this university. This year 4,500 invitations have been sent out followed by letters from President Eugene A. Gilmore inviting them for a three day glimpse of campus life.

2 Shuttle Planes Would Meet Here if New Plans Are Approved

Field of 14 Applicants; Rep. E. Eicher Will Recommend 1 Soon

Two shuttle planes, one from Omaha, Neb., and the other from Des Moines, would meet in Iowa City six days a week at 7 p. m., according to plans printed in the new schedule of the United Airlines received here yesterday.

With the local airport "temporarily closed," planes will make a direct hop from Moline, Ill., to Omaha, the report states.

Meanwhile chamber of commerce officials here are moving ahead with plans for the improvement of the Iowa City airport preparatory to resumption of air service here, now discontinued for more than a month and a half.

Word came from Cedar Rapids yesterday that officials there are making a bid for the shuttle service stop on the Chicago to Omaha route.

Unless the question of Frew A. Tucker's "measuring sticks" is settled before then, Tucker and members of the local airport committee will go to Des Moines May 12 to appear before the state aeronautics commission.

A. C. Lorack Gives Warning Against Correspondence Aid

A warning against correspondence schools for civil service courses which guarantee government employment was issued yesterday by A. C. Lorack, local secretary of civil service commission.

"No school has any authorized connections with civil service or has any agents who solicit applications for civil service positions or who sell civil service courses," he said.

A special point was made of the fact that information concerning examinations may be obtained at any time, without cost, from Mr. Lorack or from the commissions office in Washington, D. C.

Disclose Acid Erosion Eats 85% of Land

AMES, May 2 (AP)—An exhaustive survey disclosed here today that the acid erosion is eating at more than 85 per cent of Iowa's 35,500,000 fertile acres.

Conducted by Scientists
Only about 13 per cent of Iowa's total land area showed little or no evidence of soil erosion, the survey disclosed.

The survey was reported by Dr. P. E. Brown and Dr. R. H. Walker, soils scientists in the Iowa state college agricultural experiment station. It was conducted by the experiment station in cooperation with the federal soil conservation service under direction of R. E. Uhl, regional director.

The survey further disclosed: That about a third of the land is slightly eroded, and up to 25 per cent of its original top soil has been washed away.

Shows Moderate Gullying
That more than 14 per cent of the land has lost 25 to 50 per cent of its top soil by erosion, and most of this area shows occasional to moderate gullying.

That about 31 per cent of the land is seriously eroded, with 50 to 75 per cent of the original, fertile surface soil washed away and the area moderately to excessively gullied.

That about 9 per cent of the land is severely gullied, with 75 per cent or more of the original top soil washed away and with moderate to excessive gullying.

"Don't be afraid to start your climb up the ladder on the lowest rung," Mrs. Ida Migliario, editor of Household magazine, told 32 members of Theta Sigma Phi and Sigma Delta Chi national honorary journalism societies, at their annual dinner last night in Munn's Grill.

She urged young middle western writers to cultivate an interest in people, to travel enough to keep aware of reader interests, and to preserve the fresh, spring-like quality characteristic of young people from the middle west.

Prof. Charles L. Sanders of the school of journalism, as toastmaster, introduced two other guests from out of town, who spoke briefly, D. Charles Kooser of Better Homes and Gardens, Des Moines, representative of the national organization of Sigma Delta Chi, and Edward D. Nix, visiting lecturer in the college of commerce, from the advertising firm of Erwin Wasey, in Chicago.

Prof. Frank L. Mott, advisor to both journalism groups, Harold Griffith, president of Sigma Delta Chi, and Margaret Olson, president of Theta Sigma Phi, were also introduced.

Senior Knox had undergone some changes indeed. He had come pretty green to the campus in 1893 on the advice of a Presbyterian minister who told him he would be able to work his way through at Alma.

Footballer Knox,

Within three years he had organized, coached, and captained Alma's first football team, which went through the season undefeated and took the scalp of Michigan Aggies (now Michigan State) 18 to 16. He had been active in Y. M. C. A. work, sprinted on the track squad, joined Zeta Sigma (local), and marched with the Cadets. To top it all, he had gone off in his senior year with Teddy Roosevelt's Rough Riders to fight the Spaniards. Now, in 1898, he was about to get married to a campus sweetheart and start working on a newspaper.

IF HIS Stanford classmates had seen Herbert Hoover, 31st President of the United States, in 1898, they wouldn't have known him either. At that time he was three years out of college, 24 years old, earning $7,500 a year as a mining engineer in Western Australia. That was good money before the year 1900.

Herbert Hoover had hardly been elected by his Stanford mates as the "graduate most likely to succeed." In college he had managed a student laundry and a newspaper agency. He had flunked German and English in the entrance exams, and didn't write off a con in English until his senior year. But this ponderous and solemn Iowan had introduced a scheme for handling athletic, social, and campus organization funds that eliminated waste and graft to a "T." Few people noticed that he was also a wizard with a slide-rule and geology maps.

He Flunked German.

IN 1898 William Edgar Borah was seven years out of the University of Kansas law school and thinking of moving to Idaho, or some place where he could practice law with success. Borah had matriculated from Lyons, Kansas, and had returned there to practice. He hoped to be appointed city attorney, but after three months of deliberation, the council turned him down. On what grounds, it is not known.

"Racy Collegian"

At Kansas Borah had been something of a racy collegian, a lad of midnight escapades, and, whisper it softly in Lyons, of the "howling bowl."

A FUTURE University of Kansas graduate, one Alfred Mossman Landon, was, in the year 1898, eleven years old and living in Pennsylvania. Six years later his father took the family out to Kansas to prospect for oil wells, and one of his wells "came in." So in 1904, when son Alf enrolled at the University of Kansas, he didn't have to work his way through college, as had collegemen Knox, Hoover and Borah. Alf joined Phi Gamma Delta, the "rich boys' fraternity" of his day at Kansas, and proceeded to make a reputation for himself of being stingy. He had the first tuxedo in town, yet he campaigned successfully to cut the ice cream course from the house menu. He fought hard to have only one orchestra instead of two at the spring lawn party, but failed.

"Stingy"

From this quartette, Herbert Hoover, William E. Borah, Alfred Landon, and Col. Frank Knox, the Republicans this summer may pick a presidential candidate. If they do, the candidate will be one college man who doesn't believe in tampering with the Constitution.

STUDENT HOUSING has taken a new turn at the University of Idaho (Pocatello). With a shortage of funds as their driving power and ingenuity as their chief asset, students have built their own village, devised their own system of government, even provided for many of the conveniences that today's citizens demand of their municipal administrations. An alfalfa field two miles east of Iowa City will be the landing place for private airplanes starting today unless a monthly $5 field rental fee is lifted at the local municipal airport, it was learned last night. Two private planes now housed at the municipal airport will move to the pasture landing field today, local private pilots said, until an agreement can be reached with the city council. A $15 hangar rental fee is now paid by the pilots to the United Air lines, and the $5 city fee brings the total monthly storage cost to $20, a figure which pilots say is more than other fields in this section of the country. Election for $600,000 School Bond Issue Slated for May 26

By MERLE MILLER
Crowded and unhealthy conditions which constantly hamper music rehearsals in both Iowa City high school and junior high school were seen yesterday in a survey by The Daily Iowan.

Musty, dark basement rooms are used as rehearsal halls by the Iowa City high school music department, which last week swept away all honors to lead all class A schools in the Iowa high school music festival, it was learned.

Students who are members of the Iowa City high school band and orchestra, both nationally famous, practice daily in a dark and moist room where plaster and paint are falling from the walls.

Need Good Facilities
The great interest which has developed in the music department under the direction of Lloyd W. Swartley make improved facilities a necessity, it was said. Only two rehearsal rooms are available for three instructors. One of these rooms, the string room, is a makeshift, too small for the complete string section of the orchestra to rehearse in at one time. When all three instructors wish to work at the same time, one has to take his students into a dark basement room of the administration building.

Here in a low-ceilinged room, dimly lighted with small, cobwebbed windows, on a dirt floor, the music students are forced to practice.

Once a Store Room
Originally a store room, old plumbing equipment, tiles, lumber and bleachers from Shrader field are packed into the room. It is heated with one radiator, and in winter the temperature seldom rises above 60 degrees. The walls are damp stone.

Off the larger basement room is a small cell-like room, eight feet wide. There are no windows, and the only lighting is by a single bulb. Two boys were practicing in this room when the reporter went through.

The only alternative when the two regular music rooms are in use is a closet on the second floor of the administration building. For storage room only the upper (See Page Five No. 2)

The two men, who carried large sums of money, said they were on their way to Michigan. They remained in Iowa City over night at the request of local police.
