KIDNAPPED FARMER RELEASED

News Flashes

Report Seaplane Down

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 11 (AP)—An amateur radio operator reported to the coast guard air base tonight he had intercepted a message stating a coast guard seaplane carrying five persons had been forced down at sea.

The coast guard boat Pandora rushed to search the sea.

The plane, piloted by Lieutenant Commander R. L. Raney, left here at 3:30 p.m. to fly to the S.S. Alaskan after the ship, which was 200 miles east of here en route to Charleston, S.C., radioed that one of its crew was suffering from ptomaine poisoning.

Landon Talks Tonight

Tabulations in the second week's report of the Literary Digest's 10,000,000-ballot presidential poll reveal Landon leads Roosevelt by 61,190 votes to 33,423. Lemke garnered 4,169 out of a total of 99,734 ballots cast.

On the basis of electoral college division Roosevelt trails Landon by 155 votes to 34.

The vote, now entering into its third week, shows "Governor Landon leading in three midwestern farm states—Ohio, Minnesota and Indiana—on early returns. And it shows President Roosevelt whittling his opponent's first return margin of more than 2 to 1 in the original four states—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maine—to slightly under 2 to 1."

In the second week's report votes were tallied from Indiana, Minnesota, Oklahoma and Texas for the first time.

Coughlin in East

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin carried his campaign into the east tonight with an appeal to a throng at Ebbets field not to "sit idly by and be satisfied by a handout of the new deal given you as an insult."

The Detroit priest asserted that problems of production had been solved, and there remained the problem of distribution. The modern workman with the aid of modern machinery, he said, "produces 100 times" what his ancestors did.

Storm in State

DES MOINES, Sept. 11 (AP)—Local thunderstorms continued throughout Iowa tonight, lowering the temperatures which at several points reached 100 degrees or above during the day.

Lightning and some wind accompanied the rain. At Davenport the wind blew down trees late this afternoon, causing damage to small buildings.

Hail preceded a heavy rain at Newton at 6:30 tonight, shattering 2,000 panes of glass at the Lewis greenhouse, shattering windows in houses and damaging automobile tops.

During a heavy downpour Cedar Rapids was in semi-darkness shortly after 4 p.m. Automobile lights were turned on during the storm which brought 1.75 inch of rain in a few minutes.

Landon Leading

ABOARD LANDON TRAIN ENROUTE TO MAINE, Sept. 11 (AP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon pushed his presidential campaign into Indiana today on a five-stop schedule of rear platform appearances as his special train rushed eastward toward Maine.

The republican nominee will close the Maine state campaign with a speech at Portland at 7 o'clock (Iowa City time) tomorrow night in which he will discuss "government and business." The speech will be broadcast over a national (NBC Red) network. Maine's state election is Monday.

Gary was listed for the republican nominee's first personal appeal for votes in the Hoosier state. Next in line were Valparaiso, Plymouth, Warsaw and Ft. Wayne.

Speaks for Peace

NURNBERG, Germany, Sept. 11 Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, with 400 war planes quartered nearby, tonight delivered a 20-minute oration for peace.

"We pray providence to spare our children what we suffered in the past," he said, "but let no one imagine our movement can be halted or shaken. We stand inflexible like a rock."

Famous Grove Menaced

SACRAMENTO, Cal. (AP)—State and federal agencies have launched a campaign against a bark canker attacking Monterey cypress trees in many parts of the state. Fear that the famous grove at Pt. Lobos, Monterey county, might be destroyed is spurring the work.

Succeeds Talmadge

E. D. Rivers

ATLANTA, Ga. — E. D. Rivers, new deal candidate for governor of Georgia to succeed Gov. Eugene Talmadge, new deal foe, won by the same substantial margin that was accorded Sen. Richard B. Russell Jr., victor over Talmadge for the senatorial nomination. Rivers is speaker of the Georgia house. Democratic nomination is tantamount to election in Georgia.

Sees Greater Use of Power

President Speaks At World Power Meet; Starts Boulder Dam

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—President Roosevelt told the world power conference today additional "meritorious" federal power projects might be used to break a "vicious circle" he said was adding to the cost and limiting the use of electricity.

Power experts from half a hundred nations, assembled in constitution hall a few blocks from the White House, applauded the president's speech.

He told them it was their duty to prepare for a time when half the population may be able through power developments to "provide the basic machine-made products necessary for the welfare of the whole population."

Suggests Possibility

He suggested also a possibility that through electricity "overcentralization" of industry created by the use of steam power might be broken up.

As he finished, the president pressed a button that sent an electric impulse across the nation to massive Boulder dam and put its powerful generating turbines in motion.

The huge blue and cream hall was filled nearly to capacity and the delegates rose applauding as the president stepped onto the platform and an army band struck up "The Star Spangled Banner."

Conference Of 1940 Leaders Starts Today

Two-Day Conclave Will Discuss Problems Freshmen Will Face

Problems freshmen will encounter in their careers at the University of Iowa will be discussed at a two day conference beginning this morning and continuing through tomorrow evening.

About 100 leaders of the class of 1940 will assemble for the university's fourth annual conference on wider horizons of college life. Under the guidance of faculty leaders these selected freshmen will join in a program of 18 events.

Receptions, luncheons and dinners, discussion meetings, recreational activities, and sessions with faculty members will feature the conference.

Questions

A few of the questions to be considered are: "What can I expect from university life?" "How shall I choose my friends?" "What about dates?" "What activities shall I select?" "Shall I join a fraternity or sorority?" "What is the place of religion in university life?"

Although the meeting is sponsored by the religious activities office, and the student religious organizations, the question of religion is only one of the many to be informally discussed.

Reception Opens Conclave

The conference will open with a reception in the lounge room of the Law Commons at 11:45 this morning, and continue through the two days, dividing Sunday morning for students to attend the church service of their choice. The meetings Saturday evening and Sunday morning will be in the University club rooms in Iowa Union.

Student co-chairmen of the conference are Mildred Maplethorpe, A2 of Toledo, and Arthur Rideout, A2 of Charles City. President Eugene A. Gilmore will be principal speaker.

Other Speakers

Other speakers will be the Rev. C. C. Garrigues of the Christian church, the Rev. P. J. O'Reilly of St. Patrick's church, Robert E. Rienow, dean of men, Mrs. Adelaide L. Burge, dean of women.

Prof. and Mrs. C. J. Lapp, Prof.

University Takes Steps to Eliminate All Gate-Crashers

Gate-crashers at university parties may have a hard time this year, because identification cards, included with registration materials, will be required as proof of identity before tickets can be obtained.

The student's name, classification, Iowa City address and phone number, home address, date of birth, and the session for which he is registered will be included on the card.

Before a student may borrow books from the university library he is required to present this card.

Fascists Open Warning Attack

Governor Sees Little Chance to Save City From Destruction

By the Associated Press

Fascist artillery opened a "warning bombardment" on besieged San Sebastian last night as the Madrid government proclaimed scattered new victories, including the firing of the northern city of Oviedo.

Within San Sebastian anarchists were pillaging homes and stores, and rounded up new hostages to hold for executions in the place of those stnt by the Basque nationalists to Bilbao.

The municipal governor, Antonio Ortega, admitted that he was but a figurehead and declared it would "be difficult" to save the city from destruction at the hands of the anarchists should the fascists approach closer.

Fascist planes dropped leaflets warning foreigners and civilians to flee the city before it was blown to pieces.

The French ambassador Jean Herbette closed the consulate and ordered the French nationals out of the city by afternoon.

The Madrid government added to its daily list of victories an announcement that those industries genuinely owned by foreigners which had been seized at the outset of hostilities had been returned with apologies made where they were due.

As the French hurried to evacuate San Sebastian and the Spanish coastal sector contiguous to their frontier, their government in Paris wrestled with the problem of how to maintain neutrality and at the same time settle protest strikes.

Mother's Plea Fails as Son Dies in Chair

By the Associated Press

WALLA WALLA, Wash.—A zero hour plea of a frantic mother stayed for a few hours the execution of her 34-year-old son, Leo Hall, but the former seminary student was hanged at 1 o'clock this morning (Iowa City time) for the sextuple holdup slayings at Erlands Point, March 28, 1934.

As he received a death cell visit from his mother, Hall lost his usual calmness, showing marked nervousness in contrast to his former indifferent attitude.

Pleads for Delay

Using an airplane to expedite her efforts, Mrs. Elizabeth Hall flew from Seattle to Olympia Thursday night and pleaded with Gov. Clarence Martin for a delay. Failing in her initial effort, she cried as she was led away:

"The blood of an innocent man, my son, is in the hands of Governor. . . Oh, my God."

A second plea brought last night's short-lived reprieve, and Mrs. Hall boarded a plane for Walla Walla.

In Spokane, Federal Judge J. Stanley Webster refused Attorney E. O. Butt's plea for a stay, saying such action was not in his jurisdiction.

"There is now in the hands of the warden a warrant for execution of your client," Judge Webster said. "I have no more right to interfere in the execution of that warrant than a state court would have to interefere in the conduct of this court."

Wanted to Appeal

Butts sought the stay to carry his case before the United States supreme court for a review of Hall's conviction as the man who shot, beat or stabbed to death four men and two women during a robbery of the Frank Flieder cottage, March 28, 1934.

Gov. Clarence D. Martin refused a reprieve.

The executed man was convicted of murdering Eugene Chenevert, one of six persons found shot, stabbed and beaten to death at Erland's point. The confession of Hall's companion, Mrs. Peggy Paulos, was a strong point in the conviction.

5 Suggestions Are Presented

Committee of Merchants Presents Items For Consideration

One of Iowa City's most important problems, that of parking, was brought before the Iowa City council last night by a committee of local merchants, members of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce.

Stressing that theirs were merely "suggestions," the committee presented five items to the council for consideration:

Five Strong

Can the space for parking cars be cut down from its present width?

Could courtesy cards for out-of-town visitors be issued so that they would not be tagged by local police for violating the hour parking law?

Could a space on each of the four corners of each lot block be marked off for 15-minute parking?

Are there too many loading zones?

Are the local police officers as courteous as they should be in taking care of traffic violations?

Suggests Compromise

Answering the first question, Mayor Thomas E. Martin pointed out that, although the present 11-foot width left for each car is "too much, the old nine-foot width is too little." He suggested, a compromise between the two widths.

Alderman Earl Kurtz asserted that "even if we do cut down the spaces, we'll only be able to get two or three more cars in a block."

Mayor Martin declared courtesy cards have "always been misused so much that they have never been successful."

He suggested that when out-of-town merchants' visitors are tagged by local policemen for violating the one-hour parking law that the "merchant to whom the visitor complains call the police station and explain the situation and then mail the ticket in himself."

Mayor Martin said a 15-minute parking space on the four corners of each of the 27 downtown blocks would be impossible "unless we add about 10 men to the police department." He said the local police force of eight men—and three additions expected to be appointed by Chief of Police C. O. Paine sometime next week—would not be nearly adequate for enforcement of such a law.

All Necessary

Alderman Earl Kurtz, who answered the fourth question of the merchants' committee, said that "with one possible exception, all the seven parking zones we have are absolutely necessary."

He said anyone who does loading or unloading in the vicinity of one of the zones can use it and not just the merchant located near the zone.

On the last count, Mayor Martin suggested local merchants call him on any complaints of police officers' conduct.

'Progressives' Unite to Back F.R. Reelection

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 — A national conference of "progressives," including many self-termed liberals in both politics and labor, today united in active support of President Roosevelt in his campaign for reelection.

After a four hour secret session in a downtown hotel, the group adopted a resolution endorsing Roosevelt's candidacy, promised to campaign actively in his behalf and agreed to raise a campaign fund.

Principles

A declaration of principles was also adopted, with 11 points and a declaration that the members reserved fully their right to political freedom of action otherwise than tendering support to the president in his contest.

The session which adopted temporarily the name "national progressive conference" adjourned after notifying President Roosevelt of its action. Representative Maury Maverick, Texas democrat, headed a committee charged with drafting a telegram to him.

The Telegram

The telegram to the president read:

"The progressive conference composed of liberals of all parties meeting in Chicago today has endorsed you for reelection. We are now proceeding to organize in every state in the union for the purpose of waging a vigorous campaign for your reelection and the furtherance of the fight for equality of opportunity."

Registered delegates to today's progressive conference include: Frank Hood, Creston, Ia.; Homer Hush, Essex, Ia.; A. R. Idso, Alden, Ia.. John Johnson; J. A. Phillips, President Order of Railway Conductors, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; James Stendman, Eagle Grove, Ia.; John Wirds, Iowa Falls, Ia.; Smith W. Brookhart, former progressive republican senator of Iowa.

DEATH TOLL FROM TRAIN MISHAP AT 6

By the Associated Press

ST. CHARLES, Mo., Sept. 11—The death toll from the derailing and partial destruction by fire of a Missouri - Kansas - Texas freight train at Klondike, Mo., mounted to six late today when another charred body was found in the wreckage.

All of the dead were transients riding the train when 18 freight and oil cars derailed last night. Thirteen of the cars were oil tankers, and a blaze which broke out almost immediately burned fiercely all night.

One man, who said he was Walter Bragg of Columbus, Ohio, crawled from the wreckage but died enroute to a hospital.

Four charred bodies were found this morning. They and the fifth body were unidentified early tonight.

Two Unknown Captors Speed Away in Car

Iowan Had Stopped To Aid Pair; Ordered To 'Come Along'

(By the Associated Press)

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Sept. 11—Kidnapped in his own car when he offered aid to two men in a stranded auto near Grand Junction late today, Henry Cody, 42, Grand Junction farmer, was freed near Council Bluffs tonight while his unidentified captors drove his car away.

Cody and police officers here to whom he gave an account of his abduction expressed belief the reason for the kidnapping apparently was that the car which Cody found stranded had been stolen in Lincoln, Neb., three days ago, and contained several sets of license plates.

Cody called Council Bluffs police from the Cody (no relative) filling station three miles south of here. Brought to the station in a police car, he said that he had been driving along the road with a 15-year-old unidentified hitchhiker he had picked up shortly before when he came upon a wrecked car and two men beside it.

As he offered aid, he said, the two men covered him with pistols, ordered the boy out and climbed into Cody's car and drove off.

One sat on each side of him, he said, one driving and the other keeping him covered. They told him to act as if he were drunk, he continued.

Cody said he didn't know where the men drove to, but added that they refused his money, which he offered them, saying they only wanted his car. They stopped somewhere and one man bought gas, he said, while the other stayed in the car with him and made him pretend to be drunk. Cody said the men spoke to each other in a foreign language, and one of them called his companion "Speck" and "John."

They told him they were going to Omaha, he said, but would not stay long.

Finally, after about six hours of driving, they ordered him to "get out" on a dirt road near the Cody filling station, he added, then made his way to the station and reported.

Expect Enrollment Figure to Surpass Six Thousand Mark

With about the same number of freshmen as last fall and a normal carry-over of upper classmen, the University of Iowa's campus enrollment this fall probably will be between 6,300 and 6,500.

Registration does not begin until Thursday, but the number of admission cards returned to the office of H. C. Dorcas, registrar, indicates some 1,300 freshmen will enter directly from high schools.

Expenditures for Democratic Campaign Stated By House Committee as Less Than Republicans'

★ ★ ★

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—The democratic national committee has spent $1,520,658 so far this year to return President Roosevelt to the White House and still has $372,000 in the campaign coffers for the drive down the stretch to the November election.

A report filed today with the clerk of the house by the committee showed expenditures of $1,008,840 for June, July and August in addition to previous disbursements this year of $511,818.

The republican report filed yesterday showed expenditures this year of $1,787,811 and about a half million dollars on hand to aid Gov. Alf M. Landon in his effort to move from Topeka to Washington.

$1,081,768 in Gifts

Contributions to the democratic cause in June, July and August totalled $1,081,768, as compared with $2,050,311 collected by the republican committee during the same period.

The union party, backing Representative William Lemke for the presidency, reported contributions of $20,944 and expenditures of $23,853.

The American Liberty league reported receipts up to Aug. 31 of $384,847 of which $64,875 was in loans from the duPont family of Wilmington, topped by Irenee duPont, whose loans totaled $39,875.

The league reported receipts of $167,138 during June, July and August and disbursements of $138,949. Expenditures from Jan. 1 through Aug. 31 amounted to $404,297. The balance on hand was $73,748.

Largest contributor to the democratic war chest was J. M. Patterson of New York, who gave $20,000. Robert W. Bingham, ambassador to Great Britain, contributed $10,000.

The democratic committee reported $30,900 from sale of boxes at the national convention hall, $132,788 from sale of the democratic year book and $54,925 from sale of advertising.

Among well-known democratic contributors were Josephus Daniels, ambassador to Mexico, $500; Lawrence Westbrook, deputy WPA administrator, $500; Robert Fechner, head of the CCC, $360; Breckinridge Long, former ambassador to Italy, $1,000; Nellie Taylor Ross, director of the mint, $1,000; Gov. Joseph Boyd Poindexter of Hawaii, $500, and Meredith Nicholson, minister to Venezuela, $250.

Council Split on Extending Closing Hour of Beer Parlors

Bouck Motion Directs Extending Time From 11:30 to Midnight

After a 15-minute private session the city council last night was split wide open by a motion of Alderman George Bouck "directing the ordinance committee to extend the closing hours of Class 'B' beer parlors from 11:30 until 12 o'clock."

The motion, after a moment's pause, was seconded by Alderman Henry Willenbrock, and a vote of the council was taken as directed by Mayor Thomas E. Martin.

"Ayes" were Earl Kurtz, T. A. Foote, Bouck and Willenbrock. "Nays" were voted by Aldermen J. Van der Zee, J. A. Swisher and Dr. W. F. Boller. The motion was passed.

Dividing Line

The move brought to the front what has long been a dividing line of the council. In August when a revision of the beer ordinance was made, making several changes including the moving up of the hours for music in beer parlors from 9 until 10 o'clock, the question of extending the closng hour was brought up but passed by.

Last week a petion of 17 local beer dealers asking the half-hour extension was received and placed on file by the council. Alderman Bouck's move was seen as an answer to last week's petition.

Matter of Dissension

When the ordinance comes to a vote, the outcome will be a matter of dissension. If one of the members who voted for last night's motion should be absent from the council meeting, and the vote should be a tie, Mayor Martin would undoubtedly veto the ordinance. He is known to stand definitely against the half-hour time extension.

In last week's petition beer dealers declared outlying districts have the 12 o'clock closing time, and that many Iowa City persons go to the beer parlors outside the city because of the half-hour extension.

Changes incorporated in last month's revision of the beer ordinance included, besides the music extension, a provision making it unlawful for a minor to purchase beer and redefined the section setting out a 300-foot distance a beer parlor must be from any school buildings—except those of the University of Iowa.

A Successful Conference!

THIS LAST WEEK there's been a conference which, although enlisting the aid of all the major countries of the world, surprisingly enough has been a success.

Such an occurrence is unusual. Political conferences of nations nearly always end in failure. This conference was of a different nature, however. Its object was merely to explore the possibilities of natural power. Fifty-two nations attended what was the largest international assembly ever held in Washington.

The meeting was not of much interest to the newspapers until recently when Secretary of State Hull spoke on world peace. "You meet in a friendly spirit of cooperation with no political jealousy," he told the delegates. "You thus not only make progress in your own field of endeavor; you also advance the cause of peace." This is eminently true, but Hull might have gone on to point out that the real value of this meeting is that its goal lay in a course to which peace is incidental.

We were thinking it might be well for peace experts to remember that, like the old axiom about happiness, peace comes to those who do not pursue it directly. Power lightens toil, mutiplies wealth, distributes comfort and security. It is one of those things which might be used in prosecution of war.

A famous psychologist once said: "The more a person thinks about a thing—even though he stands against it—the more likely it is to occur." Perhaps this might hold true with war and nations also.

Watch What Children Eat

THE CARELESSNESS of American parents is largely responsible for the fatal poisoning each year of more than 450 youngsters, statisticians declare. It has been found, in a survey, that many accidental deaths of this sort result from taking strychnine, eating cathartic and tonic pills, and drinking kerosene, gasoline, lye and various acids.

It was learned that the loss of life from accidental poisoning in the American home accounts for about 1,400 deaths annually, and it is estimated that of this number one-third is made up of children under five years of age, and one-sixth of "youngsters who are just beginning to toddle about and will put in their mouths whatever comes into their hands."

The assertion is that principal blame rests with the parents, because the poison-containing compounds common to many homes bear the "poison" label, and sheer carelessness in storing the compounds are mainly responsible for the annual loss of life.

Education of the general public is apparently the point to be stressed most. Such educational activities should be made a part of the program of the many home safety crusades being carried on all over the United States.

Our Readers' VIEWPOINT

Letters must be signed and should not exceed 250 words. Opinions expressed by our readers do not necessarily reflect our views.

Editor, The Daily Iowan:

The Daily Iowan story about the controversy between Frank Swisher and Senator Paul W. Schmidt has been called to my attention because of my connection from the beginning with all government relief and work agencies, as one in virtual charge of them in Johnson county. I have this to say: Every man or woman receiving relief or work through any governmental agency may vote for whom he or she pleases, and any one may solicit his votes at any time when such soliciting will not interfere with work being done. Neither Senator Schmidt, Mr. Swisher, nor any one else has any right to interfere. These agencies and the organization of them are non-political and should and will continue to be non-political so long as I have anything to do with them.

Editor, The Daily Iowan:

Colonel Knox has spoken again, and again Roosevelt's reelection prospects become brighter. It is said that Roosevelt's odds for winning the fall election rose from 7 to 5 up to 9 to 5 following Knox's address in Maine. Judging from what he told South Dakota farmers Thursday he did little harm to and probably even helped the democratic cause.

In the South Dakota speech the colonel tried to convince the drought-striken farmers that they would have been better off in the long run without the AAA and federal drought aid because curtailment of production reduced the market for future years. He added that it was the law of God that people should be allowed to produce to their full capacity, especially when it pertained to agriculture.

If the republican vice-presidential nominee could only remember the years from 1930 to 1933 he would fail to see a vast farm market now wiped out by the AAA. The farmer lost his pseudo-market created by the World war soon after 1920. Of course Knox isn't up on agriculture or he would realize that fact. And, too, if a person should produce, produce and produce regardless of revenue, then Knox should sell his newspaper to every person in the United States at a low price. It's only his privilege.

—A Roosevelt Republican.

Washington World

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, D.C.—It is beginning to appear that the Washington administration's advertising of drought conditions on the Great Plains has not made an unqualified hit with some Great Plainsmen.

A farm owner's objection to having his land publicized as lying in the midst of a vast desert is understandable.

He may want to sell it some time and to have it officially described as not worth having, except for a few skinny cattle to graze on, is not calculated to add to the price he would like to get for it.

* * *

INCREASE IN TENANCY

There has been an unfortunate increase in farm tenancy in recent years in the northwest.

When I grew up, in the the northwestern corner of Iowa, the northeastern corner of Nebraska and the southeastern corner of what then was Dakota Territory, a farmer was the owner of a farm.

During the last milk strike, after a lapse of 35 or 40 years, I visited the same neighborhood.

What a change!

I found most of the landowners mostly small city folk; most of the farmers, tenants.

Most of the original farmers had sold out at wartime figures, or encumbered their acres on a ridiculous wartime basis, subsequently losing them under foreclosure or for taxes, holdings thus being consolidated.

It is not so bad as in the south, but it has been gravitating in that direction.

* * *

WHAT POLITICAL TREND ?

Consequently it is difficult to estimate the northwest's political trend.

The old-time land-owning farmer was a conservative. He had his farmeristic prejudices. But he had a local stake; he wasn't a nomad.

The tenant is movable. He can afford to be more radical.

The conservative landowner has influence but the relatively radical tenant has numbers. Both count in elections; sometimes one predominately, sometimes the other.

Reckoning between them is a matter of guesswork.

A New Yorker At Large

By JACK STINNETT

NEW YORK—The good old days when your screen villain was a razor-backed Hun, a deeply and darkly mysterious Chinee, or an oily-tongued, greasy-faced Latin, are gone—if not forever, at least for a long, long time.

The United States is about the only nation left that doesn't give a tra-la how bad its citizens are painted.

This enlightening information comes from Lewis Milestone, the movie director, here for the initial flight of the picture, "The General Died at Dawn," which he and Clifford Odets, the carrot-topped young radical playwright, hatched from Charles G. Booth's unpublished novel.

The yawps and yowls from foreign lands when they discover that the cinema villains even remotely resemble natives of their respective countries have become so vigorous, Milestone explains, that Hollywood has, in effect posted notice: "Villains Wanted—Only Typical Americans Need Apply."

The situation is, of course, a result of Hollywood's scramble for foreign business, but it is not without its comic side. And Lewis Milestone, whose sense of humor is as ample as his frame, has not overlooked that angle.

Movieland now has resident representatives of most of the foreign governments. Whenever a picture is planned with a foreign background or with characters of foreign birth, the gentleman from that country is called in and asked to pass on the script.

Is there anything in it to which his government might object, errors in customs, history, etc.?

That is what occurred regarding "The General Died at Dawn." The oriental gentleman was called in, the script placed in his hands. In several days he returned.

"It is no good," he told Milestone quite frankly. "In China, we do not make love like the American man and woman in this picture."

And no amount of explaining that an American man and maid would make love that way, no matter whether they were in China, Timbuctoo or Omaha, would shake the gentleman's opinion.

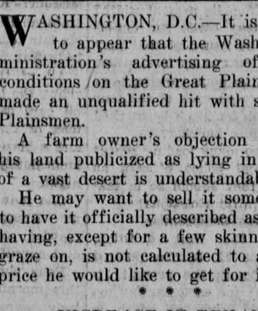
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The latest news in Hollywood hostess gowns is slacks.

In their place have come "hostess slack suits," almost as tailored and trim as a man's business suit. Dolly Tree designed such an outfit for Jean Harlow to wear in certain scenes of "Libeled Lady."

The suit Miss Harlow wears is fashioned from fine, golden yellow gabardine, piped in brown. The slacks are extremely well-tailored, with turned back cuffs and a fine brown stripe down either side of the trousers. They are topped by a jacket that might well belong to a tailored suit. Wide lapels and suit pockets are piped in matching brown, and an action back adds chic to the costume. The plain tailored blouse is of matching yellow crepe. With this, Jean wears crocheted sandals of yellow and brown string.



Jean Harlow

"They are much more comfortable and much neater than frilly, fussy hostess gowns," Jean said after trying out this somewhat experimental outfit. "I am having the design copied in a number of colors for my own wardrobe. All of them, for fall and winter will be made of gabardine."

In her own suits, Jean is introducing a clever note by using her initials, carved in some instances from ivory and in some of polished wood, in place of buttons on the jacket.

Another lounging ensemble is in the wardrobe of Myrna Loy who, while still adopting the slack idea, tempers her outfit with a chic and feminine coat.

Miss Loy's outfit is made in blue and white polka-dot taffeta, combined with the new chinchilla crepe. The trousers are taffeta, topped by a blouse of white crepe. Over this is clipped a long coat of the chinchilla fabric, trimmed with large lapels of matching taffeta. A taffeta sash, tied at the front in a perky bow, completes the ensemble.

Oriental lounging pajamas are the choice of Virginia Bruce. Imported by her studio, this particular outfit was found to photograph poorly because it is turquoise blue. She lost no time in adding the pajamas to her personal wardrobe. They are heavily embroidered in silk and gold threads and the coat reaches almost to the floor.

How the Relief of Pain In Dentistry Progresses

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

WHEN, NINETY years ago next October, it was first proved in public that it was possible to abolish consciousness, including the sense of pain during surgical operations, hardly anyone outside the medical profession heard about it for months. My friend, Dr. Howard W. Haggard of Yale, has searched the files of newspapers of that period without finding anything except one obscure little paragraph announcing one of the most epochal events in the history of the world.

Dr. Clendening

When early this year Dr. Leroy L. Hartman of Columbia university announced that he had a new means of stopping pain in cavities where excavation has to be done, the announcement made the front page of United States newspapers and was known in Japan in a shorter time than the success of ether in 1846 was known in New York. The contrast is a vivid reminder of the increased public interest in medical and surgical process.

At the American Dental association meeting in San Francisco recently, the report of other dentists on the use of Dr. Hartman's pain killer was not so enthusiastic as his own first report. In Chicago, out of 23,000 patients on whom it was used, 30 per cent felt no pain whatever, 40 per cent felt no relief whatever. The remaining 30 per cent were partially helped.

This resulted in considerable criticism at the meeting. But at least 30 per cent of relief of pain is something. I hope that dentists will continue to use Dr. Hartman's solution even if they get no better results than that. And I hope they will keep on trying to find something better. I am frequently impressed with the apparent callousness of all sorts of surgeons, including dentists, to the pain experienced in many minor operations. We have so many good local anesthetics now, butyn and holocain, which are not habit forming, that there is little excuse for not trying to allay pain. Even the first local anesthetic discovered, cocaine, has its uses. Few, if any, cases of habit formation occur from the use of weak solutions judiciously administered, although habit formation seems to be the bugaboo which scares the surgeon away from its use.

At any rate, instead of criticism and backbiting and cynical indifference to suffering, that in some people amounts to agony, I believe Dr. Hartman's announcement has stirred the interest of enough dentists so that further work can be expected along this line.

One of the things which caused a let-down in interest, I think, was the extremely simple nature of the solution Dr. Hartman advanced. It was: Thymol, one and one-fourth parts, ethyl alcohol, 95 per cent, one part, and sulphuric ether two parts. The dental world expected a new drug. But some of the most effective things are the simplest.

Blow by Blow in the PRESIDENTIAL ARENA

G.O.P. Women Swing to F.R.; Dr. Mary Woolley Leads Way

(Provided by the Democratic National Committee)

Miss Mary E. Woolley, president of Mt. Holyoke college, has broken a lifelong allegiance to the republican party in order to support President Roosevelt for reelection.

Dr. Woolley is one of the best known workers in the world for peace and international good will. Former President Hoover appointed her as the only American woman delegate to the world conference for reduction and limitation of armaments at Geneva. Her accomplishments at Geneva singled her out as one of the most effective peace advocates of this generation.

Dr. Woolley

Dr. Parker

In announcing her support of President Roosevelt, Dr. Woolley pointed out the inherent dangers to peace and stability in the foreign policy plank of the republican party. She realizes that in an era, which may see one of the great historic crises of mankind, it is essential for America to have an experienced peace advocate like President Roosevelt at the head of the nation.

Th active support of Dr. Woolley for the president's candidacy emphasizes again the most important drift of this campaign—that is, the drift of republican women in support of Mr. Roosevelt's reelection. Grace Abbott, who headed the children's bureau, was nationally known as the leading social worker in Mr. Hoover's administration. Dr. Woolley was the leading peace advocate. Both today are ardent Roosevelt supporters.

Foreign Relations Improved

These women were induced to give up their allegiance to the republican party only after long thought and consideration of current problems. Their enrollment under the banner of the democratic standard-bearer is a remarkable testimonial to the accomplishments of the president in advancing the cause of peace and the social economic betterment of the American people. Dr. Woolley said:

"The present administration has much to its credit in the direction of better international understanding. The 'good neighbor' policy has not only been preached; it has been practiced. Our Pan-American relations are on a better footing than ever before this time."

Miss Woolley also commended the reciprocal trade agreements now being carried through successfully by Secretary of State Hull which mark the first real effort to break down the tariff barriers and trade restrictions that are stifling world commerce.

Protects the Weak

Miss Abbott and Dr. Woolley are leaders in the movement of republican women to get behind President Roosevelt. They have literally millions of followers. Notable examples are Mrs. Curtis Bok of Philadephia, another lifelong republican, and Dr. Valeria Parker, physician, writer and sociologist, who was a member of the women's national republican committee in 1932. She said:

"President Roosevelt has shown, in practical ways, his interest and leadership in promoting the welfare of all the people; the unemployed; the underpaid; children exploited in the industrial world; young people handicapped by economic conditions; those housed in buildings unfit for habitation; those whose earnings and savings were jeopardized by unscrupulous banking interests; the Indian, the Negro, the farmer, those whose homes and industries have been threatened by flood or drought."

Dr. Parker pointed out also that President Roosevelt has fulfilled his promise to give women an important place in his administration.

New Deal Blows Fall With Equal Effect on City, Farm

(Provided by the Republican National Committee)

High taxes and the high cost of living are driving independent voters into the republican fold by the hundreds of thousands.

Naturally the new deal propagandists are trying to cloud the issue and stop this movement.

The best way would be for the new dealers to end their spending and repeal their "cockeyed" revenue legislation—but they apparently have no thought of that.

"What is known as consumers' taxes, namely the invisible taxes paid by people in every walk of life, fall relatively much more heavily upon the poor man than on the rich man. In 1929 consumers' taxes represented only 30 per cent of the national revenue. Today they are 60 per cent."

President Roosevelt in letter to Roy W. Howard, Sept. 2, 1935.

Instead, they are trying to call attention to the state and local taxes. They forget that President Roosevelt cast aside the 1932 democratic platform, which pledged reduction in the costs of federal government by 25 per cent, and called on the states to try to make the same cut in their costs. AND WHAT A LESSON IN ECONOMY THE STATES HAVE RECEIVED FROM THE NEW DEAL ADMINISTRATION!

It seems rather unfair for the new deal to try to slip out of responsibility for high taxes and to leave the states holding the bag. In the year ending last June, total governmental expenditures in the United States were about $130 per person. Of this sum, $70 was federal expenditures. Local taxes were heavier than federal taxes because the federal government has been going into debt at the rate of $15,000,000 a day.

Increased Living Costs

And as for increased living costs, the readers of this newspaper can have no doubts on that subject.

The number of hogs imported from foreign countries in 1931 was 151,000. In 1933 the new dealers had a great number of hogs destroyed on the farms. In consequence, a pork shortage was created, prices rose, and last year 3,414,000 hogs had to be imported. It paid foreigners to ship their hogs to the United States because of the high prices created here by the new deal's planned restrictions upon hog raising in the United States.

Corn has been one of this country's chief crops. In 1931 we imported 625,000 bushels. Last year, not because of drought, but because the new deal paid farmers to limit their corn crops, it became necessary to import 43,242,000 bushels. This year's imports will be still greater.

City and Country Hit

The reduced home supply of corn makes it necessary for American consumers to pay higher prices for corn products. Foreigners take advantage of these high prices and get profits that might have gone to American farmers, many of whom must now ask the government for relief. And the story is the same with many other food staples.

Hidden taxes, reckless spending, food destruction. As shown in the accompanying cartoon, the blows fall with equal force on the farm producer and the city consumer. Naturally the new deal finds the independent voters walking out by hundreds of thousands.

Sorority, Fraternity Rushing To Hold Spotlight Next Week

Panhellenic Rules Will Govern All Breakfasts, Teas, Receptions, Open Houses and Dinners; Last Party Will End Wednesday at 10 P.M.

Holding the social spotlight for the next week will be sorority and fraternity rushing, climaxing Thursday with pledging ceremonies at sorority chapter houses. Beginning Monday night and through Tuesday and Wednesday there will be breakfasts, teas, receptions, open houses, dinners and luncheons, each group employing ingenuity to entertain rushees as well as to learn to know them in a short five-party period.

Panhellenic rules have limited the number of courses which may be served at each affair, and have set two hours as the length of all parties, thus curbing expenses for the intensive rushing schedule. At each house a rushing captain and social chairman have planned throughout the summer to provide a glorious two and one-half days.

Last Party Wednesday

The last party will end at 10 p.m. Wednesday, and within an hour all rushees will sign their preference cards at the office of the dean of women. Secretaries and stenographers will be employed to assist Mayor Thomas E. Martin, referee, in making these cards with the bid lists sent in by sororities before 8 a.m. Thursday.

Alphabetically arranged, the following groups are entertaining as described below. Accounts of parties for the remaining seven sororities will appear tomorrow.

Delta Delta Delta

Bouquets of pansies, the sorority flower, will decorate the Delta Delta Delta sorority house during the informal reception Monday night. Sybil McCune, this year's president, will stand in the receiving line with the party committee, which includes Anna Mae Jones, A3 of Perry, Betty Boller, A2 of Iowa City, and Patricia Hughes, A2 of Oxford. The Avalon orchestra will play.

There will be piano music during the southern style breakfast Tuesday morning, with checked gingham cloths in bright colors to liven the room. Molly Virginia Smith, C4 of Burlington, Mary Celeste Rucker, A2 of Ottumwa, and Gretchen Hughes, A2 of Iowa City, compose the committee.

Silver balloons in large clusters around the chandeliers will form part of the decorations at the Pearl Formal preferred dinner Tuesday evening. Silver, gold and blue, sorority colors, will predominate, and all Tri-Delts will be gowned in white. Hilda Kay Haubrick, A3 of Mapleton, Margaret Grissell, A4 of Cedar Rapids, and Mary Stoelting, A3 of Davenport, have arranged this party.

Delores Hubly, A2 of Mason City, Mary Jane Sheldon, A3 of Maquoketa, and Maxine Schlanbusch, A4 of Iowa City, are on the committee for the Delta Salon Wednesday afternoon. Dainty lunches will be served in tiny hat boxes and a tiny tap dancer will give a hat-box number, to carry out the millinery salon idea.

Sorority songs will be sung by Maxine Schlanbusch, Margaret Dane and Ruthelaine Smith, all of Iowa City, at the last open house, and Mrs. Jacob Van der Zee will play. Committee members are Harriett Off, L1 of North English, Mary Frances Schooley, A3 of Du Quoins, Ill., Margaret Englund, A4 of Muscatine, and Mrs. Erling Thoen of Iowa City.

Alpha Chi Omega

Pink lemonade and Japanese lanterns will lend gaiety at the Monday night carnival at the Alpha Chi Omega house next week. Balloons, streamers and confetti will decorate the refreshment stand in the house, while fortunes are told and music plays for guests on the terrace. A bowery dance inside, with an orchestra, will offer further variety. Marjorie Graaf, A4 of Panora, is chairman of the committee, assisted by Mary Jayne Lessenger, A4 of New London, Doris Kelly, of Britt, and Mrs. William J. Holland.

Pastel colors will decorate the Powder Puff tea Tuesday, with traditional ice cream molds like old-fashioned corsages. Gladys Strayer, A4 of Cresco, is chairman, with Helen Dot Parish, C4 of Corydon, and Mary Evans Joehnk assisting her.

At the Black and White formal Tuesday night, all the girls will be gowned in black and white, and all decorations will be of those colors. Elizabeth Hockett, A4 of Des Moines, chairman, Florence Barr, A3 of Lamont, Betty Liechty, A2 of Kingsley, and Mona Murphy Beams make up the committee.

For the "Lyre Bird Preferred," Wednesday morning, Jeanette Glenny is chairman, with Eldora Klay, A2 of Rock Valley, and Mary Jayne Lessenger assisting.

Open house the last night will be conducted by Mae Thomas, A2 of Keystone, Delight Smith, A3 of New Haven, Ind., Marjorie Graaf and Isabel Crawford of Iowa City.

Alpha Delta Pi

"Western Welcome" is the title of Alpha Delta Pi's first rush party, Monday night. Fall flowers and cactus, with sagebrush candles and smoking tepees will convey atmospheric effects, along with a cowboy singer and dancer. Betty Grisinger, A2 of Burlington, is chairman, and Mary Jane Brooks, A3 of Burlington, and Bette Frudeger, A4 of Burlington, will assist her.

Marjorie Bales, A4 of Iowa City, is in charge of the Dutch breakfast Tuesday morning, with Katherine Schuy, A2, and Margaret Wolfe, A4, both of Iowa City, assisting her. Holland will be expressed in Dutch flowers and vivid colors, with windmills and tulips for decoration. For entertainment there will be Dutch dancers.

Catherine Grim, A3 of Iowa City, will dance at the Blue and White Waltz Tuesday night, where cellophane stars and flowers will decorate the rooms. Helen Turner, A4 of Minneapolis, Minn., and Helen Boegel, A4 of Clinton, will arrange this party.

There will be special music throughout the preferred luncheon Wednesday noon, with Mary Jane Tozer, A4 of Brazil, Ind., and Helen Kaufmann, A2 of Moscow. The color scheme will be blue and white throughout.

For the last evening, Alpha Delta Pi will entertain at a "Cozee," which is being arranged by LaVonne Clanahan, C4 of Stratford, and Waunita Brown, A4 of Estherville. For this party, as for all the others, there will be a garden in the basement of the house.

Alpha Xi Delta

Rushees at the Alpha Xi Delta house this year will go on a world cruise, beginning the first morning with a southern breakfast entitled "Pickaninny's Paradise." The first evening party will be "Night in Manhattan," with all the glamour of the city including a bar and a game of chance table. Earl Harrington's Avalon orchestra will play.

Having had open house Monday night, the girls will go on to their Tuesday preferred luncheon, a traditional "Rose of Alpha Xi," based this year on the rose festival at Pasadena. "In Caliente" the last night, the girls will go Mexican. An orchestra and entertainers will help carry out the correct atmosphere for this closing open house event.

Committees appointed to arrange the parties for the Alpha Xi Delta's are as follows: open house, Ellen Besack of Newton, chairman, Marian Zeiger, C4 of Garner, and Virginia Truedson, A2 of Davenport; "Pickaninny's Paradise," Emilie Placatka, A4 of Davenport, chairman, Wanda Byrnes, A2 of Durant, and Phyllis Smith.

Night in Manhattan, Lorraine Pierce, A2 of Oakland, Louise Vanderlinden and Kathryn Hawn, A4 of Woodbine; Rose of Alpha Xi, Dorothy Gordon, A4 of Council Bluffs, chairman, Isabelle MacDonald, G of St. Cloud, Minn., and Mary Virginia Adams, A4 of Iowa City. In Caliente, DeEtte Marstellar, A2 of West Liberty, chairman, Geraldine Bruehler, A4 of Beresford, S. D., and Jean McMillan, A4 of Traer.

Chi Omega

Pirates will parade the deck at the first Chi Omega party. An orchestra will play for dancing as the pirates present a skit dealing with sorority symbols. Audrey Peters, A4 of Iowa City, is in charge.

Music by a Negro pianist will assure rushees that they are attending a Southern breakfast Tuesday morning. Clara Alverson, A4 of Batavia, has arranged this affair, with all decorations proper for early morning south of the Mason-Dixon line. Jeanette Hambright, A3 of Cedar Rapids, has planned the White Carnation tea Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. A. E. Kepford and Mrs. O. E. Dennis of Cedar Rapids will preside at the table, which will be decorated in green and white with a centerpiece of carnations.

The preferred luncheon on Wednesday is under the direction of Louise Drechsler, A4 of Davenport. Traditional themes in both entertainment and refreshments will be used at the last night party, the "Owl's Next," with a harpist playing during the evening. Joy Finlayson, A4 of Tulsa, Okla., has made arrangements for this last party.

Gamma Phi Beta

A fountain banked with ferns and flowers in the entrance hall and lighted crescents over the fireplace and over the door will be features of the Gamma Phi Beta house arrangement during rushing. Helen Witte, A3 of Burlington, is chairman of the party, being assisted by Laura Knight and Virginia Mapes, both A4 of Iowa City, Gretchen Patzig, A3 of Des Moines, Barbara Bibow, C4 of Fargo, N. D., and Vinetta Schmidt, A3 of Avoca.

A pastel bouquet with lighted tapers will form the tea-table centerpiece for Tuesday afternoon. Jean Swift, A4 of Mason City, is chairman of the affair, with Sally Gray, A4, and Carolyn Trowbridge, A2, both of Iowa City, and Harriet Ludens, A2 of Morrison, Ill., assisting her.

Mary Louise Meersman, A3 of Moline, Ill., has arranged the reception for Tuesday evening. Her committee includes Hermione Allen, A2 of Onawa, Lorranine McDowell, A2 of Davenport, and Betty Heffernan, A4 of Joplin, Mo.

Eleanor Appel, A3 of Dubuque, chairman, Katherine Rehder, A3 of Gladbrook, Margaret Triller, A2 of Dubuque, Mary Jane Nichols, A2 of Chicago, Ida Helen Olin, A2 of Iowa City, and Mary Louise Hendrickson, A4 of Muscatine, make up the committee for the preferred breakfast.

For the last night open house, Marcea Smith, A2 of Davenport, is chairman. Her committee includes Catherine McKnight and Alice Knight, both A2 of Iowa City, and Evelyn Harty, C4 of Ft. Dodge.

Mrs. Ada Miller Fetes Councillors Of Camp Kechuwa

Fellow councillors at Camp Kechuwa this summer were entertained last night at 6:30 dinner at the home of Mrs. Ada Miller, Rocky Shore drive, by Mrs. Miller and her daughter, Margaret, who attended the camp this summer.

Margaret Olsen, Maxine Schlanbusch, and Helen Hayes and her mother, Mrs. Samuel Hayes, were guests at the party. Miss Hayes will leave this week end for Cambridge, Mass., where she teaches at Sandy Hill school.

Golfers to Complete Weekly Play Friday

Women golfers of the Iowa City Country club will complete their summer Friday morning play next week, with Mrs. George Kay and Mrs. George Koser as hostesses. Election of officers will follow the luncheon after the morning's play will be completed.

Winners at yesterday morning's remorse tournament were Mrs. George Koser with low score and Mrs. Herbert Ries, who defeated her opponent in match play on the most holes. Mrs. H. L. Hands and Mrs. J. Hubert Scott tied in a contest in approaching and putting. A new golf ball was given to each winner.

Mrs. Ralph Parsons was in charge of the picnic lunch served near the river, and Mrs. Leo Carmody and Mrs. Leo Pacquet were hostesses.

Bunco Club Selects Name for Society

Members of the bunco club which met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Tony Whetstine have chosen Friendly Neighbors as a name for their group. The next meeting will be Sept. 23 at the home of Mrs. Carl Schillig, 636 S. Johnson street.

Fall Festival To Draw Many

Annual Event Will Take Place at St. Mary's Church October 14

About a thousand persons are expected to attend the annual fall festival at St. Mary's church, which will take place Wednesday, Oct. 14 in the hall at St. Mary's school. This early event is sponsored by all members of church organizations, including married women, men, unmarried women and children.

A carnival atmosphere will prevail in the room, and meals will be served at both noon and dinner time. The public is invited to attend the affair.

St. Anne's society, composed of the parish's married women, will have charge of the meals, with St. Rita's guild sponsoring the booths. Children of the church will take charge of some entertainments, and will sell candy.

Mrs. Leo Grimm, 604 Ronalds street, is chairman of the entire festival, but the remaining committees have not yet been named.

Prof. and Mrs. Avery Lambert and their children, Mary and Buddy, 1416 E. College street, returned home Thursday night after a month's vacation at Lake Bomoseen in Vermont. They spent 10 days at Friendship, Me.

Wilson Fall And Ila Frenzen Wed In Waterloo Today

At a very quiet ceremony in Waterloo this afternoon, Wilson Fall, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. I. Fall of New Orleans, La., will marry Ila Frenzen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Frenzen, 522 S. Van Buren street.

Only attendants at the wedding will be Mr. and Mrs. William E. Beck Jr. Mr. Beck, formerly of Iowa City, is now employed by the Waterloo Courier. Mrs. Beck is still residing in Iowa City, and will join him in the near future.

After a brief wedding trip the couple will be at home in the Moffitt apartments on South Linn street. Mr. Fall will be a junior this year in the University of Iowa, and is circulation manager of The Daily Iowan.

Roosevelt---

suit, the president frequently wiped his forehead with a white handkerchief, while men and women in the audience used newspapers and programs for fans.

Near the end of his 2,000 word address, Mr. Roosevelt recalled that years ago the electrical wizard, Charles Steinmetz, had said that electricity is expensive because it is not widely used and because it is not widely used it is expensive.

"That observation," he said, "still holds true. There is a vicious circle which must be broken and wise public policy will help to break it."

Already, he said, the government has promoted construction of several vast reservoirs, chiefly for navigation and reclamation, but with generation of power as one of the "incidental values."

"This May Be Force"

"This," he said, "may prove to be the force that breaks the vicious circle to which I have referred. If these are not sufficient, the influence of additional meritorious projects awaiting development can be added."

He remarked, however, that no one with forthright vision could convince himself that a public policy for promoting availability of electric energy "can really harm the electric industry which exists today."

Silent on Future Plans

Whether he had any specific future developments in mind such as the vast "power yardstick" of the Tennessee valley authority, the president did not disclose. Congressional appropriations would be required for them.

Suggesting the creation of additional abundance did not depend so much on further scientific achievements as on "suitably organizing" those already here, the president said energy might be so directed that the people between 20 and 50 years of age would be able to produce all basic commodities needed for the entire population.

"If that condition should arise," he added, "it is the duty of you who would be so greatly responsible for it to think what would be the effect on our leisure, our culture and our way of life.

"I would suggest that the answer should not be left solely in the hands of bankers, government officials or demagogues."

According to a recent estimate, there are 93 cities in the United States with a population of 100,000 or more.

New Electrical Mimic

** ** ** **

Can Change Woman's Voice Into Man's; Single Voice Into Duet

By the Associated Press

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. Sept. 11—A new kind of telephone which mimics the human voice was demonstrated today to the Harvard tercentenary.

It does more than a human being can do. It can change a woman's voice into a man's or bass into soprano. It can convert a single voice into a duet, either of speech or song.

A bass singer could sound like two persons simultaneously, one bass, the other soprano, tenor or any desired tone.

One Sounds Like Two

Some of these stunts of the new electrical mimic were demonstrated by Dr. Frank B. Jewett, head of the Bell telephone laboratories. The phone is a new instrument, never shown before, and Dr. Jewett said it was invented not for telephoning but to study the voice.

He also showed a new device by which heat in a wire can be heard. Amplified, the heat waves sounded like a booming surf.

Dr. Friedrich Bergius, German Nobel prize winner in chemistry, told how trees can be converted into sugar, fat and protein, the three main food requirements of human beings. An army might live on trees under the processes described by Dr. Bergius.

"Greatest Question"

Whether the races of the east and the west shall "crash" was declared by Prof. Masharu Anesaki of the University of Tokio, to be the "greatest question of world history."

The arts and sciences portion of Harvard's tercentenary celebration ended today. Next week medicine will be considered for two days and afterward 15,000 persons are expected for a three-day celebration. The climax is Friday with a speech by President Roosevelt, of the Harvard class of 1904.

Wife Preservers

To wash your sterling silver, use hot, soapy water, be sure that all remnants of food are removed, and rinse in hot, clear water. Dry with a soft cloth, and be sure that all the pieces are thoroughly dry before they are put away.

Today's Hostess Hints

In these last few days of hot weather, toasted sandwiches are still favorites, for it's much too warm to cook a full course dinner every night. Here are two suggested by Mrs. L. R. Benson, 741 Dearborn street, who says they are very popular with her family.

TOASTED TOMATO AND BACON SANDWICH

Toast a slice of bread on one side and butter the other side. Spread thin slices of tomato on the buttered side and salt. Cover the tomato with grated cheese and place a slice of bacon across the center. Toast in broiler or grill until the bacon is well done.

CHEESE SANDWICH

Spread two slices of bread with butter on one side. Place slices of cheese between the unbuttered sides. Fry in a buttered skillet until brown on both sides.

Martha Mason, R. W. Everett Wed Monday

100, Including Several Iowa Citians, Will Witness Affair

One hundred guests will witness the wedding Monday of Martha Joy Mason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Mason of Cedar Rapids, and Richard W. Everett of Iowa City, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Everett of Cedar Rapids. The single ring ceremony will be read at 5 p. m. in St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church in Cedar Rapds, with Dr. Arthur A. Brooks officiating.

For her only attendant, Miss Mason has chosen Helen Larimer of Cedar Rapids, a graduate of the University of Iowa last year. Robert G. Everett will serve his brother as best man. Ushers at the wedding will include Wendell Deizell of Cedar Rapids, formerly a student at the University of Iowa, Carl B. Myers Jr. of Cedar Rapids and Jack Barlass of Des Moines, both University of Iowa students, and G. Howard Tellier of Cedar Rapids.

Iowa Citians who have been invited to the affair include Mrs. Donald B. Durian, Gretchen Kuever, William Merritt, Jess Gorkin, Merle Miller, Arthur Snider, Thomas J. Twitty, John Neagle, Robert Hogan, Prof. and Mrs. Fred M. Pownall, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Smith and Donald Anderson.

The couple will live in Iowa City where Mr. Everett is correspondent for the Associated Press.

Louise Lindquist Entertains 15 On Seventh Birthday

Novelty napkin holders as favors and a big pink and green birthday cake featured the party at which Louise Lindquist, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. E. F. Lindquist, 1012 Highwood street, entertained 15 of her friends Thursday in honor of her seventh birthday.

Guests were Florence Knight, Adina Boyd, Joan Freund, Patricia Ricketts, Cynthia McEvoy, Louise Muenzer, Jackie Newburn, Edgar and Albert Muenzer, Philip Stoddard, Jimmy and Alan Easton, Buddy Bunker, Charles Lenthe and Billy Roth.

Mrs. Kenneth Dunlop Fetes Emily Nixon At Bridge Party

Honoring Emily Nixon, who left yesterday to begin her work in the library of New York university, Mrs. Kenneth Dunlop entertained at a small bridge party Thursday evening at her home, 627 Bradley street.

Prizes were won by Mary Ellen Davis and Grace Van Wormer, and a guest prize was presented to Miss Nixon.

Hubbell Pitches as Giants Defeat Cubs 5 to 1

Allows Bruins But Four Hits For 23rd Win

Batting Order Changes Advanced as Reason For New York Win

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP)—Carl Hubbell's long left arm manufactured another four-hit ball game today and the Giants hurled back the Chicago Cubs 5 to 1 in the opener of a two-game series before 15,000 fans.

The victory, which increased the Giants' lead over the second-place Cardinals to four full games, and over the third place Cubs to six full games, was the lean southpaw's 23rd of the season and his 13th in a row. This is the best record turned in by a Giant twirler since Burleigh Grimes, the old spitball star, hung up 13 in a row back in 1927.

Prior to today the Giants had dropped five out of six to the Bees and Reds since coming home from the west, and Manager Bill Terry made drastic changes in his batting order in an effort to change the club's luck.

Dick Bartell was moved up from eighth to second position, Mel Ott and Jim Ripple each were advanced a notch to third and fourth and Terry dropped himself into fifth place. Whitehead moved from second to eighth.

Hubbell was wild at the start, but after the second he settled down and permitted only 21 men to face him in the last seven innings. The luckless Bruins didn't reach him for a hit from the second until the ninth when Gene Lillard, a pinch hitter, dumped a single into right with one down. Bill Herman, the next batter, hit into a double play and it was all over.

Score by innings:

Chicago	010 000 000—1 4 0
New York	100 003 10x—5 8 1

Mungo Sinks Cards Again

Wins Nightcap of Twin Bill 5 to 4; Cards Win Opener 12 to 8

BROOKLYN, Sept. 11 (AP)—Van Lingle Mungo and his strikeout pitching sank the St. Louis Cardinals another half game back of the National league lead today by stopping them in the nightcap of a doubleheader with the Dodgers after the Gas House Gang had won the opener.

The split, coming while the pace-setting Giants were winning their single start against the Cubs, dropped the Cards to four full games from first place.

Don Gutteridge, rookie third-baseman, slammed out two homers and a triple to drive in five runs as the Cards won the first game 12 to 8. Mungo's mates staked him to a one-run lead in the sixth inning, and that was enough to give him and the Brooklyns a 5 to 4 decision.

Score by innings (second game):

St. Louis	020 002 000—4 9 1
Brooklyn	301 001 00x—5 11 0

Red Sox Down St. Louis In 6 to 2 Game

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 11 (AP)—Two hits, properly mixed with eight walks and a hit batsman, gave the Boston Red Sox a 6 to 2 victory over the St. Louis Browns today.

Gaffke and Werber walked and Kroner singled off Caldwell for the first Red Sox in the opening inning. In the second, the Sox scored twice without a hit. Caldwell walked Rick and Wes Ferrell, hit Werber with a pitched ball and then forced in two runs with free transportation to Cramer and Foxx.

Score by innings:

Yanks Defeat Tigers by 14 to 4 Score

BITS about SPORTS by BOB HOGAN

An All-American tackle who was truly All-American, returned to the Iowa campus and the Hawkeye gridiron again yesterday. Duke Slater of 1921 Hawkeye fame when he performed at tackle on the undefeated 11 of that year was back in his old haunts once more.

* * *

The famed Iowa Negro, whose gridiron rampages are imbedded in every student athletically minded attending Iowa, watched yesterday afternoon's practice session with deep interest. Back in '21 Duke said that "squads were not so big then. We only had around 40 out that year. Iowa never did have a big squad though which is not a disadvantage because only 11 men can play on a team."

* * *

Slater will remain here for two weeks and said that he would watch the linemen work and offer advice where he saw fit. Coach Ossie Solem said last night, "Slater is here on a vacation and has not been hired as a coach. Whether he will offer advice or not, I don't know."

* * *

In regards to Ozzie Simmons, the former Iowa luminary said that Iowa's famed back was a great defensive player and that his offensive ability had already been proven. "I look for Ozzie to have a good year," he concluded.

LATEST NEWS FROM BIG TEN SQUADS

Badgers Get 2 Drills

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 11 (AP)—Coach Harry Stuhldreher sent his University of Wisconsin squad through a double drill today despite intermittent rains which made the field soggy. Speed in running plays and passing, in which Howard Weiss, promising sophomore back, featured, were stressed in the morning session. The afternoon practice was spent in rudimentary blocking and tackling.

Gophers Hunt Fullback

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 11 (AP)—Coach Bernie Bierman today tried two halfbacks, Wilbur Moore, 175 pound sophomore and Rudy Gmitro, 160 pound veteran, at the fullback post in his endeavor to find a successor to the powerhouse Sheldon Beise.

The Gophers also worked on a defense against Washington formations, stressing the forward pass defense to be used against the Huskies.

Bierman is still awaiting word as to the eligibility status of Martin Christianson, husky sophomore fullback prospect, who took an examination two days ago.

Illini Practice

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 11 (AP)—Three sophomore backs stood out today as the Illinois grid squad, now numbering 85, went through a strenuous drill of kicking, passing and dummy scrimmage. Ken Zimmerman, Jack Broady and Leo Stasica impressed Bob Zuppke with their speed and ball-handling ability.

Don Heap Absent

EVANSTON, Ill., Sept. 11 (AP)—Northwestern university's grid team settled down to routine practice today, Coach Lynn Waldorf putting his charges through a session of running plays, passing, blocking and tackling. He emphasized it would be some time before he settles on a starting lineup for the opener Oct. 3 against Iowa. Don Heap, triple threat halfback, was absent from drill, having become ill because of the heat in Thursday's initial workout, but was expected back Saturday.

Chicago Experiments

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 (AP)—Experimentation was the word at Chicago today as Coach Clark Shaughnessy indicated he would switch players constantly in an effort to make his Maroons a factor in this season's Big Ten race. Carl Frick, a rangy transfer student from Arkansas, impressed Shaughnessy and will be given a chance to land an end job. Today's drill consisted largely of passing, kicking and handling kicks and rudimentary line work.

McDonald Shines

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 11 (AP)—Jim McDonald was the fair haired boy today as Ohio State university's Buckeyes drilled for four hours.

McDonald, who moved up to the varsity only last year, called signals, blocked, caught and threw passes, and jumped back for plenty more. Coach Francis A. Schmidt nodded approvingly.

Frank Antenucci, Nick Rutkay, and Dick Buckner went on the injured list for a few days.

Purdue Eases Up

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Sept. 11 (AP)—Two conditioning drills were on the program at Purdue university's football camp today, but the torrid temperature forced Coach Noble Kizer's men to "take it easy."

Kizer announced he intended to use Forrest Burmeister, a 210-pounder, in the regular right guard berth this season. Burmeister towers six feet, four inches, and was out with an ankle injury last season.

Don Track Suits

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Sept. 11 (AP)—Indiana university football candidates shed football togs and donned track suits here today as a blazing sun slowed both morning and afternoon practice sessions.

Setting up exercises were on the morning menu. Coach Bo McMillin drilled passers and punters in the second session, and assistant mentors concentrated on line possibilities.

Kipke Seeks Punter

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 11 (AP)—Punt formations formed the basis of practice at the University of Michigan today as Coach Harry Kipke sent his Wolverine football squad through its second day's practice.

Kipke explained to his squad that the Michigan offense would be built this year primarily upon the punt formation, following the general style of Minnesota's play.

"It is the unanimous opinion of our staff that the punt formation still is the most effective way of getting touchdowns," Kipke said.

Famed Billiard Player Dies

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 (AP)—Augie Kieckhefer, 47, ten times holder of the world's three-cushion billiard championship and for years one of the best known players of the game, died today at home of a blood clot on the brain.

Scrimmage Is Meted Out In Afternoon Drill

Sultry weather and rain failed to dampen the ardor and gusto displayed by the 60 aspirants to Coach Ossie Solem's 1936 eleven, as two groups went through their paces during yesterday morning and yesterday afternoon's practice sessions.

The morning contingent, in whose ranks are ten of the 17 returning major letter men, got a bit the best of the bargain although they were kept busy during the two hour session. Dummy scrimmage in which plays and the Iowa system were drilled by the coaching staff took up the major part of the period.

Hild Calls Signals

The so-called "first" team that saw a great deal of duty on the opening day of practice, was kept intact again. The team included Lannon and Harris at ends, Walker and DeHeer at tackles, Liggett and Farroh at guards, with Ted Osmaloski at the center position. The backfield found Ozzie Simmons in the tail position, alternating with Wagler, Schenk, Eicherly and Balazs, while Johnny Hild took care of the signal calling duties from the quarterback berth for the second consecutive day.

The morning session was finished off with individual work which found Solem again searching for a steady kicker. Homer Harris, end, and Frank Balazs, the sophomore prospect from Chicago, were taking care of the major portion of the punting but their efforts were far from being satisfactory.

Actual Scrimmage

In the second period of the day, two teams, after the usual limbering up exercises and tackling practice, were tossed at one another in the first actual scrimmage. Despite the heat and the torrents of water that poured down, Solem kept the boys battling for a considerable length of time. The only casualty, and that a minor one, was suffered by Max Myers who twisted his ankle.

Giving vent to the talk of a passing attack, Ozzie Simmons and Frank Balazs got in a few licks at tossing their aerial bombs during the morning maneuvers. Bob Lannon was usually on the receiving end although Homer Harris also was the recipient of a few of the shots.

Bush Lamb, alternating first string quarterback last season with Dick Bowlin, was not in uniform today and is not expected to report until Monday. A deficiency in a summer correspondence course will, it is hoped, be cleared up by that time.

Irish Drill

Gehrig Poles 46th Homer In Hitting Spree

Pat Malone Goes Route To Chalk Up 11th Victory of Year

DETROIT, Sept. 11 (AP)—The New York Yankees today uncorked the murderous batting power that carried them to the American league pennant and pounded out a 14 to 4 victory over the dethroned Detroit Tigers.

The 15-hit assault featured a nine-run spree in the eighth inning, in which Lou Gehrig walked the first time up and hit his 46th homer with two on base on his second trip to the plate in the same frame; George Selkirk, also up twice, singled and doubled; Jake Powell hit two singles, and Tony Lazzeri doubled and walked.

Selkirk also hit a homer with one on in the third. Pat Malone, who has been used mostly for relief roles this season, went the route for the Yanks, chalking up his 11th victory of the year.

Senators Coast To 7 to 2 Win Over Tribe

CLEVELAND, Sept. 11 (AP)—Knocking Dennis Galehouse from the box before he could retire a batter, the Washington Senators piled up a five-run lead in the first inning today and coasted in to a 7 to 2 victory over the Indians.

Earl Averill's 26th home run of the season was one of the six hits Earl Whitehill allowed the Indians. It came in the fourth, with the bases empty.

Phillies Defeat Reds By 9 to 6 Margin

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11 (AP)—The Phillies defeated Cincinnati 9 to 6 today in the first game of the series. Hallahan, who started in the box for the Reds, was knocked out in the sixth inning when the Phils pushed over four runs to break a 5 to 5 tie and win.

Passeau, who started for the Phils, was relieved by Syl Johnson in the second inning and the latter received credit for the victory.

Score by innings:

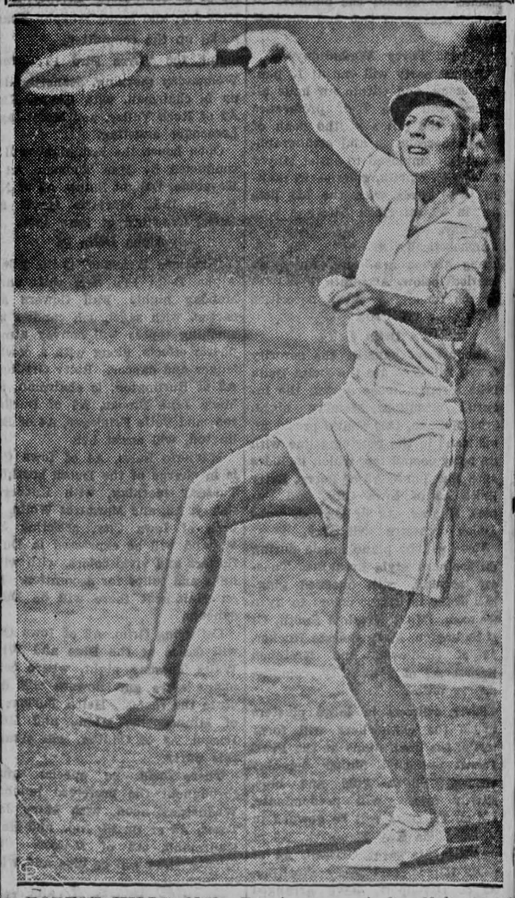
NET ACE IN ACTION



FOREST HILLS, N.Y.—Despite a year's layoff because of ill health, Alice Marble, California's tennis star, showed top-notch form during the national women's singles tournament at Forest Hills, where she is pictured in action.

Grant Nearly Upsets Perry in Net Tourney

Helen Jacobs Defends Title Against Marble

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 11 (AP)—Bryan (Bitsy) Grant Jr., the pint-sized tennis rebel, almost caught an indifferent Fred Perry off guard today, but finally lost to the Englishman, who gained the final of the U.S. singles tennis championship against California's Don Budge. Helen Jacobs fought her way to her fifth straight final, and will defend her crown against Alice Marble tomorrow.

A crowd of 10,000, pulling for an upset similar to the one Bitsy cracked three years ago when he beat the defending champion, Ellsworth Vines, almost groaned its disappointment as the scrappy southerner went down to a 6-4, 3-6, 7-5, 6-2 defeat. Perry, apparently in the mood for anything but a tennis match, loafed through the first three sets and finally went to work in the fourth, although at no time was he really going under a full head of steam.

Pirates Humble Bees

BOSTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates touched up young Bill Weir for five runs in the first inning and then pushed on to a 10 to 3 victory over the Bees today.

Weir, a southpaw, started the first inning by walking Schulte and Browne. Vaughan and Paul Waner singled, bringing in one run. Then Gus Suhr drove three runs in with a double to left.

After two hits and an error in the second inning, the Pirates scored three more runs. Weir gave way to Bob Smith in the second but all three runs were charged to Weir.

Chisox Set Record In Defeating Athletics

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 (AP)—Tying the modern major league record for hits off a single pitcher, the second place Chicago White Sox today pounded a total of 26 hits off Horace Lisenbee to overwhelm the Philadelphia Athletics, 17 to 2, in the first of a two-game series.

A ladies' day crowd of 14,000 saw Monty Stratton hold the A's to six hits to win easily his second game within two weeks after being out since last May, when he was operated on for appendicitis. The Sox now have won seven of their last eight games.

Leading the Chicago attack were Zeke Bonura, Luke Appling and Mike Kreevich, each of whom made five hits. Minter Hayes and Stratton contributed home runs.

25 Check Out U. Hi Football Equipment

Captain Wombacker, 4 Lettermen Return For '36 Season

Twenty-five candidates checked out their football equipment yesterday afternoon at the University high school as Coach Joy Kistler prepared to open his practice session next Monday afternoon. Although the 25 include the returning five veterans, the Blue mentor expects at least 10 more to report for equipment before the first session gets into full swing.

Heading the parade of prospects that will go to make up a representative team hoping to defend its laurels in the Little Eight conference, is Capt.-elect "Tiny" Wombacher, fleet-footed midget backfield man of last season. The four other lettermen whom Kistler will have to use as the nucleus of the '36 team are: Orville Schnoebelen, halfback; Ted Hinman, end; Bob Carson; and Bill Shebetka, tackle.

Having won the conference football championship last fall the University high team will be a marked opponent in every one of the games making up the tough schedule this year.

Kalona will open the river team's schedule Sept. 26 on the Kalona gridiron. St. Pat's of Iowa City will be the opposition in an early inter-city clash Oct. 2. The next three games will be played on foreign turf. Oct. 9 U. high will meet West Liberty; Oct. 16, Monticello; and Oct. 23, Mt. Vernon. The team will finish off the season with two home games against West Branch, Oct. 30, and the final against Tipton, Nov. 6.

Works on Defense

AMES (AP)—The Iowa State Cyclones, facing their first tilt with State Teachers two weeks from today, started mixing it up in earnest yesterday as Coach George Veenker began working on individual defense in passing formations. Two lettermen, Tommy Neal, Sioux City, and Elwin Snell, from Mason City, fullback, drilled extensively on passing. Veenker also had two sophomores, Everett Kischer and George Bazik, who are expected to see action in the backfield, throwing passes.

Pennant-Bound Giants Are "Colorless"

By PAUL MICKELSON

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP)—Meet Bill Terry and his New York Giants—before and in case they meet the murderous Yankees;

Students . . . probably never in the history of baseball has such a collection of "colorless" players headed toward the world series as the 1936 Giants. Almost down to the uncommunicative bat boy, they are silent students of the game. Their hobbies are few and far between. They say but little and seldom stray away from their homes and hotel lobbies. Sports writers find them "hard copy" because they have nothing much to say.

Nicknames Scarce

Nicknames even are scarce among them. But like a group of very intellectual students, they talk and study the game into the late hours, going over every play of the day and checking mistakes and successes. Baseball to them is business—and fun.

Boss Bill . . . Terry personifies the whole ball club. A deep thinker and student of baseball. Thinks out his problems and makes firm decisions. He's king of the roost, make no mistake, seldom leaves his home or hotel, spending hours talking the game and answering voluminous correspondence. Very quick to catch a joke and occasionally hauls out a long cigar and tells good ones himself.

Bad Knee

Deserves a medal for playing with a bad knee that keeps him up half the night. Is a great admirer of the young fellow who may make life miserable for the Giants in the world series—Joe DiMaggio.

"You can tell the cockeyed world," says Boss Bill, "that Joe made the Yankees. Not only did he come through but he took the pressure off Lou Gehrig."

King Carl . . . quiet, industrious and probably the greatest baseball student of them all. Hubbell spends just as much time studying hitting as pitching. Probably the best bunter in the league. Seldom stirs away from his room, saving all his energy for one bit of strikeout dust.

Almost Ruined Hubbell

Strangely enough, Ty Cobb almost ruined Hubbell's ambition to be a pitcher. When Carl tried out with the Tigers, he threw his screw ball.

"Don't throw that," shouted Cobb, "you won't fool anyone."

Carl hardly could keep from it. His wrist is very loose and he throws his famous screw ball like the other pitchers throw a common curve.

He never has seen the Yankees play one game.

Happy Gus

Happy Gus . . . several years ago, the Giants were beating the St. Louis Cardinals 8 to 2 in the eighth inning when Gus Mancuso relieved Jimmy Wilson as catcher for the Cards. The first thing Gus did was to call in the pitcher and infield for a consultation.

"I never could forget that spirit," said Terry. "To see a fellow trying that hard in the face of sure defeat left an unforgettable impression on me. So, when we looked around for a catcher later I couldn't think of anyone but Gus. And it was one of our best moves."

Possessed of a great throwing arm, Gus makes news when he makes one wild throw. They say he can knock a penny off second base.

Frequent Injuries

Gauze Ghost . . . writers used to call Joe Moore the "Gauze Ghost" because he came from Gauze, Tex., and because he usually was wrapped up in gauze due to frequent injuries. But Joe beat his injury jinx this year. He's 15 pounds heavier and many points better with his stick.

Joe has a great arm and a jack rabbit is the cause of it all.

"I used to think I could never throw at all," he said. "Then one day I threw a rock at a jack rabbit. To my amazement, I hit him on the head and killed him. That convinced me I could throw—and here I am."

Helen Jacobs Defends Title Against Marble

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 1 (AP)—Bryan (Bitsy) Grant Jr., the pint-sized tennis rebel, almost caught an indifferent Fred Perry off guard today, but finally lost to the Englishman, who gained the final of the U.S. singles tennis championship against California's Don Budge. Helen Jacobs fought her way to her fifth straight final, and will defend her crown against Alice Marble tomorrow.

A crowd of 10,000, pulling for an upset similar to the one Bitsy cracked three years ago when he beat the defending champion, Ellsworth Vines, almost groaned its disappointment as the scrappy southerner went down to a 6-4, 3-6, 7-5, 6-2 defeat. Perry, apparently in the mood for anything but a tennis match, loafed through the first three sets and finally went to work in the fourth, although at no time was he really going under a full head of steam.

Chisox Set Record In Defeating Athletics

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 (AP)—Tying the modern major league record for hits off a single pitcher, the second-place Chicago White Sox today pounded a total of 26 hits off Horace Lisenbee to overwhelm the Philadelphia Athletics, 17 to 2, in the first of a two-game series.

A ladies' day crowd of 14,000 saw Monty Stratton hold the A's to six hits to win easily his second game within two weeks after being out since last May, when he was operated on for appendicitis. The Sox now have won seven of their last eight games.

Leading the Chicago attack were Zeke Bonura, Luke Appling and Mike Kreevich, each of whom made five hits. Minter Hayes and Stratton contributed home runs.

30 University Men to Live In New Dormitory

Thirty men will be accommodated in the brick building at 17 N. Dubuque street this fall, which is being fitted as a cooperative dormitory.

The new dormitory, to be known as The Gables, will take the place of Bloomington house, which has been closed. Everett Stoner, who has been at Jefferson house for two years, will be proctor.

In the cooperative dormitories, which for five years have been operating on the University of Iowa campus, students live while doing part time work in the house for their expenses.

The Gables will be open Wednesday.

Religious Service Will Open Program

A religious service for new students and their parents and friends tomorrow at 7 p.m. on the front terrace of the fine arts building will open the 22-event program planned for freshman week.

With Prof. Herbert Martin, head of the philosophy department presiding, the program will feature four University of Iowa faculty members.

The audience will sing "America the Beautiful" and "Day is Dying in the West," directed by Herald Stark of the music department with Mrs. Maud Whedon Smith accompanying.

Jung to Read Scripture

Prof. Moses Jung of the school of religion will read the scripture, followed by an invocation by Prof. Christian Richard of the school of religion, Donald Mallett, director of the housing service, will sing a solo, "End of a Perfect Day." A brief address will be given by Dean George F. Kay, followed by the university hymn, "Old Gold."

After the service there will be an informal reception, open to the public, with Mrs. W. S. Dysinger as chairman. Assistant hosts and hostesses will be Iowa City ministers and their wives, representatives of the school of religion, faculty members of the commission on religious activities, and leaders in the student work of the various church and other religious societies.

The service and reception have been prepared by the religious activities office of the school of religion, with the cooperation of the church and student religious leaders, and with the aid of the university vespers committee.

Qualifying Exams

Freshman week activities will continue Monday, with qualifying examinations, recreational swimming and a liberal arts freshman assembly at 7:30 p.m. in Iowa Union lounge. Attendance at the assembly, in which the president of the university, deans of the colleges and other faculty members will participate, is compulsory.

The president and deans will enter in academic procession. An address of welcome will be delivered by President Eugene A. Gilmore, followed by introduction of the dean of men and the dean of women.

Dean George F. Kay of the college of liberal arts will explain the work of freshman advisers in registration, and H. C. Dorcas, university registrar, will discuss registration procedure. Prof. Rufus H. Fitzgerald, director of the school of fine arts and chairman of the freshman week committee, will give announcements of freshman week. The assembly will close with the singing of the university hymn, "Old Gold." Mrs. C. B. Righter will accompany at the piano and R. T. Fulghum will play the trumpet.

Townsend Club 2 To Meet Monday

Townsend Club 2 will meet at the city hall Monday evening at 7:30. Business will be taken care of promptly to give time for an illustrated talk. All local Townsendites and their friends are invited.

The Townsend office, 111½ S. Clinton street, has received literature on the OARP, it is announced.

THIMBLE THEATER STARRING POPEYE By Segar

Former Iowa Citian Sees Win For Roosevelt in Florida Vote

R. G. Grassfield, general manager of the Florida state chamber of commerce, who is visiting in Iowa City, predicted yesterday that although Roosevelt will probably carry Florida in the November election, business interests are for Landon.

"I expect Roosevelt to win the state," he said, "but business is against him."

For three years, from 1912 to 1915, Mr. Grassfield was editor of The Daily Iowan, thus establishing a record that has never been broken. Prof. Fred Pownall, director of University of Iowa publications, was at that time his chief editorial writer.

Mrs. Grassfield and their children are also visiting in Iowa City. Their daughter, Ethel, will enter the school of journalism this fall.

STUDENTS WILL BE CHARGED FOR OVERDUE BOOKS

A fine of three cents a day will be charged students and townspeople on all overdue books borrowed from the university libraries.

"The fine has been adopted to insure the prompt return of books," Grace Van Wormer, acting director of university libraries, said yesterday.

Penalties for the late return of reserve books in the library annex will continue as formerly, and the system will also apply to reserve books in departmental libraries.

Before students may take out books this fall, they must present the identification cards which will be included with registration materials this fall.

Union Will Resume Regular Hours Today

Iowa Union will be open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., regular hours, beginning today. Since the close of the summer session, Aug. 20, the building has been operating on only a part-time schedule.

The cafeteria is open but the library will remain closed until tomorrow.

Johnson County Corn Yield To Be Fifty Per Cent of Normal

County Agent Estimates Crop Will Yield 25 Bushels to Acre

Johnson county's corn crop this year will give a yield approximately 50 per cent of normal, according to an announcement made here last night by County Agent Emmett C. Gardner. A yield of about 25 bushels to the acre is anticipated, Mr. Gardner said.

With an approximate 100,000 acres of corn planted, the yield for this year will probably be about 2,500,000 bushels in this county. The crop is "quite a little better than was at first expected," according to Mr. Gardner.

Late fall rains, although most of them have come too late to do much good except for late fall pasture, have helped the later plantings of corn in some parts of the county.

No drought aid will be secured here, it is believed, as Johnson county's crop losses have been so much less than in other parts of the county.

Council Gleanings

Signed by six residents of that vicinity, a petition asking the erection of a street electric light on Maggard street was referred to the light committee by the city council last night. The petition stated the "street is one of the darkest in Iowa City."

A petition of J. F. Fairbank, 118 E. Washington street, for permission to erect a neon sign at his place of business was referred to the city engineer and the streets and alleys committee with power to act.

A bid for work on the proposed city garage and one for windows of the garage were both rejected by the council at its last night's meeting. The city clerk was authorized to readvertise for bids, and the deadline for opening new bids was set for 2 p.m. Oct. 2.

Preparing for new fall business, three taxi companies—the Varsity, Yellow and Hawkeye—last night petitioned the city council for licenses, and all three were granted.

Before considering ordinance changes prior to the publication of a new ordinance book, Mayor Thomas E. Martin last night suggested that a local police officer be made deputy sheriff with a salary slightly above the regular patrolman to act as night captain and as chief of police when the chief is absent. The suggestion probably will be included in the list of 25 ordinances to be amended by the city council in the next few weeks.

Kann to Assign NYA Students

940 Will Start Work September 21; 169 Added to Payroll

The first NYA assignments for the fall term will be made beginning today, Lee H. Kann, manager of the employment bureau, announced yesterday.

All students who have been accepted for NYA work may report immediately to the employment bureau for assignment. September 21, the 940 University of Iowa students who have been given NYA aid will commence work.

The new fund allocation by the NYA, announced recently by Harry Johnson, assistant state director, will make possible the addition of 169 men and women to the university's payroll.

Since the fund is to aid students from drought-afflicted families, the additional 169 must come from the state's drought-stricken counties.

Of the total number of NYA workers, 796 will be undergraduates earning an average of $15 monthly and the others will be graduate students who will receive from $25 to $30 for varied service.

Former University Student Obtains Educational Post

Prof. George Hilliard, holder of three degrees from the University of Iowa, has just been appointed head of the education department at Western State Teachers college in Kalamazoo, Mich.

He was graduated from the university in 1914 and a year later was granted the M.A. degree. In 1922, he earned the doctor of philosophy award. Prof. Hilliard formerly headed the education department at Earlham college of Indiana and for the last 14 years has taught at Western State. He succeeds

Pitt Flays Administration in Republican Volunteers Rally

Enumerates 4 Ways New Deal 'Is a Failure'

Unemployment, Relief, Debt and Budget Are Center of Attack

By BETTY HOLT

Denouncing Roosevelt and his policies in a speech last night at a Republican Volunteers of Iowa rally, State Sen. M. B. Pitt of Logan enumerated on his fingers four chief ways in which the new dealers "have fallen by the wayside." Sudden rain storms limited the audience at the Johnson county courthouse to a handful of loyal republicans.

Unemployment, increased relief, the national debt and the unbalanced budget—these were the points on which the senator most heavily flailed the Roosevelt administration. Summing up the kernel of his speech, he emphasized:

"No matter what words Roosevelt and the new dealers use to gloss over the situation, the outstanding facts are that according to the last statement of the American Federation of Labor there are more people unemployed than there were when Roosevelt was inaugurated."

"According to Roosevelt's messages to congress in 1933 and 1936," explained the senator, "there are nearly two million more families on relief than there were when they started their spending spree, and the relief load is heavier this hour than it has ever been before.

"National Debt Doubled"

"The national debt has been more than doubled since he promised to stop government borrowing and the budget is more out of balance than it has ever been in history."

"All of these" he concluded, "would indicate that these problems that must be cured before prosperity can return again have been immensely aggravated by the new deal madness."

Senator Pitt began by asserting "the country is facing the most momentous decision is has ever had to make. Two issues divide the question—the problem of regimentation and that of keeping out of debt by living within the national income."

"They Have Failed . . ."

Plunging immediately into his attack upon the democrats, the speaker set forth his belief that they have failed in the last three and a half years on both these issues. "With its back against the wall," he said, "the administration trails a red herring across the path with its cry that relief is necessary, for we cannot let the people starve."

"You know," he announced, "I got fed up with that. It dawned on me that the people never have starved." It dawned on him also that relief has not decreased unemployment, lessened the debt, or balanced the budget. The accomplishments of the new deal, he claimed, have gone in the wrong direction, resulting in trouble at home as well as fewer foreign markets and more foreign imports.

"If that's recovery," asserted Pitt, "I never want to get well. The new dealers aim not so much to bring prosperity back as to have their measures installed in the government."

Scores Farley

Attacking the democratic contention that there is no politics in relief, the senator condemned Farley, "the three-way gentleman — national chairman, New York chairman and postmaster general. When the president handed over the relief check to him, he included with it the power to declare that no one should obtain a relief job until he should be approved by the local central chairman. And when workers have accepted such jobs, they are free no longer! They can't express an opinion contrary to the new deal without being turned off. There's not a county in the United States where it hasn't happened.

"If the men in these relief organizations live to be a thousand years old, they'll need their last check as badly as the first. They're political prisoners for life! The sun of liberty is becoming darkened—sometimes I think forever," Senator Pitt assured his audience.

"Liberty!"

Serious and flushed with intensity, he declared, "I'd rather have my sons live in a cottonwood house down on the river and be free to bring up their families and go about their lives in liberty than to live under anything the new deal has to offer. You should fight against it just as you would if it were going to put you into slavery for that's just what its regimentation does."

"Time Has Come"

"The time has come," finished Senator Pitt, "when we've got to sacrifice if liberty shall live."

Senator Pitt was introduced by Attorney Herbert J. Ries.

Any strangers in the community who are interested in religious liberalism are especially invited to attend the first meeting of the group. Further information may be secured by calling the residence of the minister.

Those who do not find it convenient to bring food will find that their wants will be adequately provided for by others. Students who may be in the city for the first time are urged to come to the parsonage to meet the minister. Transportation will be provided for them to the place of meeting and the picnic if the service is not held in the church.

Business Men Will Meet at Banquet Sept. 28

A city-wide good-will banquet for all Iowa City business men will be given here Sept. 28, instead of Sept. 30 as previously reported, Charles Bowman, interim administrative officer of the chamber of commerce said last night.

The principal speaker, lauded by President Roosevelt as a person "who afforded Mrs. Roosevelt and me a great real of instruction and entertainment," will be James E. Gheen of New York, a nationally known public relations counsellor.

Newspaperman

He has been, according to reports received here, a newspaper reporter, a columnist and a feature writer, a steel worker, and has spent many years in the civic-commercial organization field.

In the last few years he has made some 5,000 speeches and has appeared in 35 states, including several appearances in Iowa. Appearances for public speaking have brought him to 350 United States and Canadian towns and cities.

"Best Speaker"

His experience as an organizer of, and counsellor to, civic-commercial organizations and trade associations, has won him the reputation as the "best chamber of commerce speaker in the United States."

The definite time and place for the meeting on the 28th have not been decided, according to Mr. Bowman. Approximately 500 local persons are expected to attend.

Presbyterian Church Has Full Service

Complete services will be resumed tomorrow morning at the Presbyterian church. The Rev. Ilion T. Jones and his family and Harriet Otto, assistant, have returned from their vacations and will begin the regular schedule this week. All departments of the church school will convene at 9:30 tomorrow morning. Staff heads include Prof. E. F. Mason, superintendent; Dr. L. B. Higley, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Hattie B. Whetstone, women's class; County Superintendent W. N. Leeper, men's class; Miss Otto, intermediate department; Mrs. Ivan L. Pollock, junior department; Mrs. Ilion T. Jones, primary department, and Mrs. L. B. Higley, beginners' department.

The morning worship will be conducted at 10:45 o'clock when the Rev. Mr. Jones will use his sermon subject, "What Is Progress?" Prof. Herbert O. Lyte will resume his position as organist, and the music will be in charge of Joseph Saeveit, new choir director.

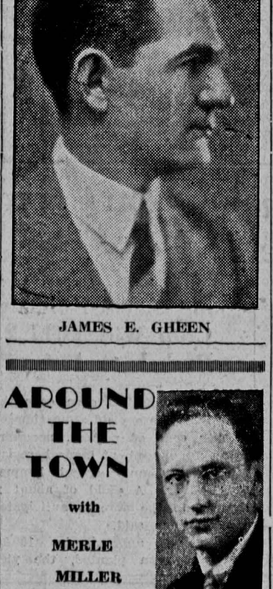
The Westminster Fellowship activities will begin a week from tomorrow, Sept. 20, at 5:45 o'clock with a fellowship supper. Vespers will be at 6:30, when members of the council will be presented.

Reed auxiliary wil have its opening meeting of the fall season Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. A. M. Winters, 112 E. Davenport street. Assistant hostesses will be Mrs. L. C. Jones, Mrs. Grace Kendell and Mrs. A. Klaffenbach.

On Friday the Woman's association will be hostess to the Iowa City Presbyterial when they convene for an all-day fall meeting. Representatives are expected from Davenport, Washington, Williamsburg, Muscatine, West Liberty and a number of other towns in the vicinity of Iowa City.

Junior High Students Will Report Monday

All junior high school students, including those who will enter 7B, should report at the junior high school building, 502 E. Jefferson street, at 8:40 Monday morning, Supt. Iver A. Opstad said last night.



JAMES E. GHEEN

AROUND THE TOWN with MERLE MILLER

Short

This must be short, snappy. Only nine inches of space remain. In that I can't say much, but I can say a lot of things . . . For example, I might say that a last-minute conference between said youngish lawyer reported herein a week or more ago and his ex-girl friend has brought an end to threatened breach of promise suit. . .Rumor has it that a neat financial settlement has been made, and some say the young miss has decided she didn't care for the chap after all . . .

Time

Or I might say that big news story prediction is a bit late—unless it happens today . . . But will add the story I had in mind is still on its way, though past overdue . . . And is of a scandalous nature . . .

Unknown

Practically unknown as the people mill by his tiny stand on the corner of Washington and Dubuque is "Shorty," who watches people pass by—thousands of them each year—with a unique detachment. . . "If I see somebody worth talking to, I talk," says Shorty. "Mostly I don't."

Pathos

Or pathetic indeed is the oldish chap who day by day as regularly as the days go by seats himself at the library annex, reading the newspapers . . . Once he was a Ph.D.—he still is, I suppose . . . But there was mental trouble once five years ago while he was teaching at the university . . . But he's still here, more calm now he spends his day reading newspapers, taking notes on things.

Pyle Will Exhibit At Art Museum In New York Oct. 12

Arnold Pyle, Cedar Rapids artist who won first place in the Iowa state fair oil painting competition, is exhibiting in the watercolors division of a show by the Museum of Modern Art Wednesday through Oct. 12 in New York, N.Y.

The exhibition will consist of outstanding work done since August 1935 by artists throughout the country on the federal art project.

Sum Asked Against H. Walker Estate

A petition asking judgment of $2,818.04 on a promissory note against the Henry G. Walker estate was filed in district court here yesterday afternoon by the Iowa City Building and Loan association. The petition also asks foreclosure of a mortgage on the Walker residence, 220 Lexington avenue. Attorney Burke N. Carson represents the plaintiff.

Council Will Revise 25-30 Ordinances

Before adjourning for a noon meeting today, the Iowa City council last night began what will be a task of two or three weeks—the revision of local ordinances prior to the printing of the new ordinance book, the first in 11 years. Approximately 25 or 30 minor ordinance changes will be made.

A change in the bicycle ordinance gives the right-of-way to the pedestrian, and requires the cyclists to get off the sidewalk or dismount when meeting a pedestrian. The ordinance, after it is given its three readings, will apply to both downtown and suburban districts.

No Stands

There will be no popcorn or confectionery stands of any kind set up on the Iowa City streets or sidewalks, it was decided at last night's meeting, and the first reading of an amendment repealing the section of the ordinance allowing that practice was given its first reading at the meeting.

An ordinance setting a $1 mayor's fee and a fee of $12 a day for all fortune tellers, clairvoyants, palmists and phrenologists, was given its first reading.

The title of the "city inspector" will be changed to "building and wiring inspector" or "city inspector" under terms of an amendment given its first reading last night.

Airport Committee

To the list of committees to be appointed by Mayor Thomas E. Martin, the "airport committee" was added in a new amendment.

Itinerant peddlers of medicine will be charged $10 per day, itinerant physicians $10 for one day, $25 for one month and $50 for one year, according to a new amendment given its first reading last night.

All these changes and amendments will be in the new ordinance book, which will be completely up to date with every new change included.

Six more ordinance changes are scheduled for today's meeting, and at least that many more will be ready for consideration at the next regular council meeting.
