IOWA GREET'S LANDON TODAY

Sees 100 for John D.

LONDON, Sept. 21 (AP)—Dr. A. Eugene Austin, personal physician to John D. Rockefeller Sr., believes the American financier will realize his ambition to live to be 100 years old.

Another Storm

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 21 (AP)—Another tropical storm, small in area but near a hurricane in intensity, moved northward through the Atlantic ocean about 500 miles east of Florida tonight.

The weather bureau said the storm, which developed northwest of Puerto Rico yesterday, was central about 430 miles northeast of Nassau, capital of the Bahamas islands, at 1 p. m. eastern standard time.

Sees Rebellion

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21 (AP)—Col. Frank Knox, republican vice-presidential nominee, predicted in a new attack on the administration's handling of old-age pensions and job insurance tonight that "working men are going to rebel" against the social security act.

Knox said in an address prepared for delivery here that he found it "appropriate" to discuss social security in California, home state of the Townsend pension plan and of Upton Sinclair's "end poverty in California" program.

Wallace Replies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—Secretary Wallace said today "the capitalist system is much more liable to be perpetuated under Roosevelt than under Landon."

Wallace's statement was in reply to reporters who asked at his press conference for his opinion about allegations that the communist party is supporting President Roosevelt in his campaign against Gov. Alf M. Landon for reelection.

Hits Capitalism

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 21 (AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin said today that "1940 is the last general election we'll ever have unless the evils of modern capitalism are immediately eliminated."

Democracy, he told a press conference, "is killing itself from within." The remedies, he added, are the payment of an $1,800 minimum annual wage to workers in the mass production industries and the abolishment of what he termed the "private issuance and control of money."

Pleads Guilty

CRESTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—Franz W. Harvey, 28, arrested as a member of an Iowa butter robbery ring, pleaded guilty in district court here today of breaking and entering and received a ten-year term in Ft. Madison prison.

Harvey, arrested in Omaha, Neb., with C. E. Wright, admitted taking part in robbing the Farmers cooperative creamery at Affton twice, the first time, June 30, and the other, July 21.

'Lohengrin' Banned

OTTAWA, Sept. 21 (Canadian Press)—The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was banned in Canadian Catholic churches by a pastoral letter read here by Archbishop Forbes.

Father L. Beaudoin, secretary to the archbishop, said today the reason for the ban, delivered on Sunday, was the desire of the church for the exclusive use of the Gregorian chant and Gregorian music.

Six Indictments

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—Six grand jury indictments today strengthened the hand of the senate committee investigating charges by organized labor of violations of civil liberties, on the eve of the resumption of the inquiry tomorrow.

Contumacy indictments were returned in federal district court here today against six officials of the railway audit and inspection company for failure to answer subpoenas at the committee's original hearing Aug. 31. They were the first indictments under a new law enacted at the last session of congress.

City Attorneys Argue Before Dewey in Natural Gas Case

DES MOINES, Sept. 21—Oral arguments on the exceptions to a report by Allen A. Herick, master in chancery in the court of Federal Judge Charles A. Dewey on the Iowa City natural gas case, were begun by attorneys for the City of Iowa City before Judge Dewey today.

The city has filed objections to Herick's recommendation to the federal court, and is asking that it not be accepted. No Franchise Attorneys D. C. Nolan and A. C. Cahill, representing the Iowa City council, contended that since the Iowa City Light and Power company does not have a franchise to furnish gas service to the city, that it could not force the installation of natural gas.

They contended that the company now operates under a "quasi-contract" and that the city could not force the company to change its facilities or its service. It was argued that there is no "mutuality of obligation" on the part of the light company, and for that reason the company had only the right to continue the same service as previously rendered.

Selassie Registers Temporary Victory Over Italy's Delegates

GENEVA, Sept. 21—Halle Selassie tonight tasted victory, however temporary it might prove to be, over the representatives of Italy's Premier Mussolini.

Plying from London on a last-minute decision, the erstwhile "King of Kings" arrived to lead representatives of his lost Ethiopian kingdom were sitting in the league general assembly. Mussolini, whose fascist legions wrested Selassie's empire from him, had insisted that unless Ethiopia were barred from league discussions, Italy would stay away. Italian delegates did not attend sessions today.

The league credentials committee today approved the credentials of all delegations except that of Ethiopia. The committee said a special report would be submitted later on the status of Selassie's delegates.

Under this procedure, members of the committee said, the Ethiopians were entitled to sit in the assembly until they were officially ruled out. The entire situation regarding Ethiopia was so complicated, one member said, it might have to be taken to the world court. Ethiopian delegates when they arrived for the league assembly declared that if they were barred they would take the case to the world court.

"The Ethiopian decision," one member of the credentials committee said, "will constitute an historic precedent. It may have an influence on the future rights of other smaller powers in Europe." During the league council sessions preliminary to the assembly large powers and small powers were reported allied against each other over disposition of the Ethiopian-Italian situation.

Nebraska Taxes Go Down LINCOLN, Neb., (AP)—Nebraska property and school taxes show a downward trend this year. A survey of figures shows 25 cities have reduced property taxes from last year and 12 increased. Fifteen school districts reduced taxes, 11 increased and 11 made no changes.

Newton D. Baker Summons American Legion To Fight for Democracy, Liberty, and Peace

By the Associated Press CLEVELAND, Sept. 21—Newton D. Baker, secretary of war under President Wilson, summoned the American Legion tonight to a peace-time battle for the maintenance of democracy, liberty and peace in a "world of strange philosophies" and "political heresy." The short, distinguished appearing statesman, clipping off his white hair, hailed thousands of legionnaires gathered from all states and many countries as "the hope of America."

Nominee To Speak Upon Farm Topic

Arrival of Governor To Set Off Drive For Farmer Vote

DES MOINES, Sept. 21—Iowa republicans awaited tonight arrival of Gov. Alf M. Landon here tomorrow afternoon, which will be the signal for a concerted drive to capture the farm vote at the fall election.

State party leaders completed arrangements for the republican presidential nominee's statement of his position on the farm question at the Iowa state fairgrounds at 8 p. m. tomorrow.

They also planned for Governor Landon to have luncheon with one farmer from each of Iowa's 99 counties and 300 Iowa editors and publishers at 1 p. m. Wednesday.

In addition, delegations of party workers were scheduled to confer with the Kansas governor all day Wednesday and Wednesday evening.

Governor Landon is due in Des Moines at 4:10 p. m. tomorrow, coming here by special train. Starting at Alberton, he will make three rear platform talks. The others will be at Chariton and Melecher.

Shortly after arriving here the republican standard bearer will parade through the loop in what Carl H. Cook, state chairman, said would be the "biggest political parade Iowa has ever seen."

Cook reported that virtually every Iowa county will have a delegation here and that he expected 50 to have floats in the parade.

"Nearly a score of Iowa cities and towns have sent word they are sending their bands to march in the parade," he said. "We can't even guess how long it will be, but one thing's sure—Iowa's never seen a parade like this one promises to be."

At a press conference in Topeka today, Governor Landon quoted from the speech he said he would give in Des Moines tomorrow night.

The quotation constituted his comment on President Roosevelt's announcement yesterday of the appointment of committees to formulate a national crop insurance program.

"I am going to mention a subject that is in neither platform—crop insurance. It is a question in which we have long been interested in Kansas. In fact, some of our republican leaders in farm legislation have been in the forefront working on it."

Needs Attention "We realize there are difficulties; but insurance companies are writing policies today covering risks they didn't consider feasible a few years ago. I believe the question of crop insurance should be given the fullest attention."

Landon said he would repeat that statement tomorrow night. Chairman Cook said selection of the farmers to lunch with Landon was left up to an editor in each county and the county chairman.

He said he urged them to invite farmers who actually farm their own land and whose opinions "would be respected by other farmers in their counties."

Landon is scheduled to leave Des Moines at 9:30 a. m. Thursday. On his way to Minneapolis he will make rear platform talks at Nevada, Iowa Falls, Hampton and Mason City.

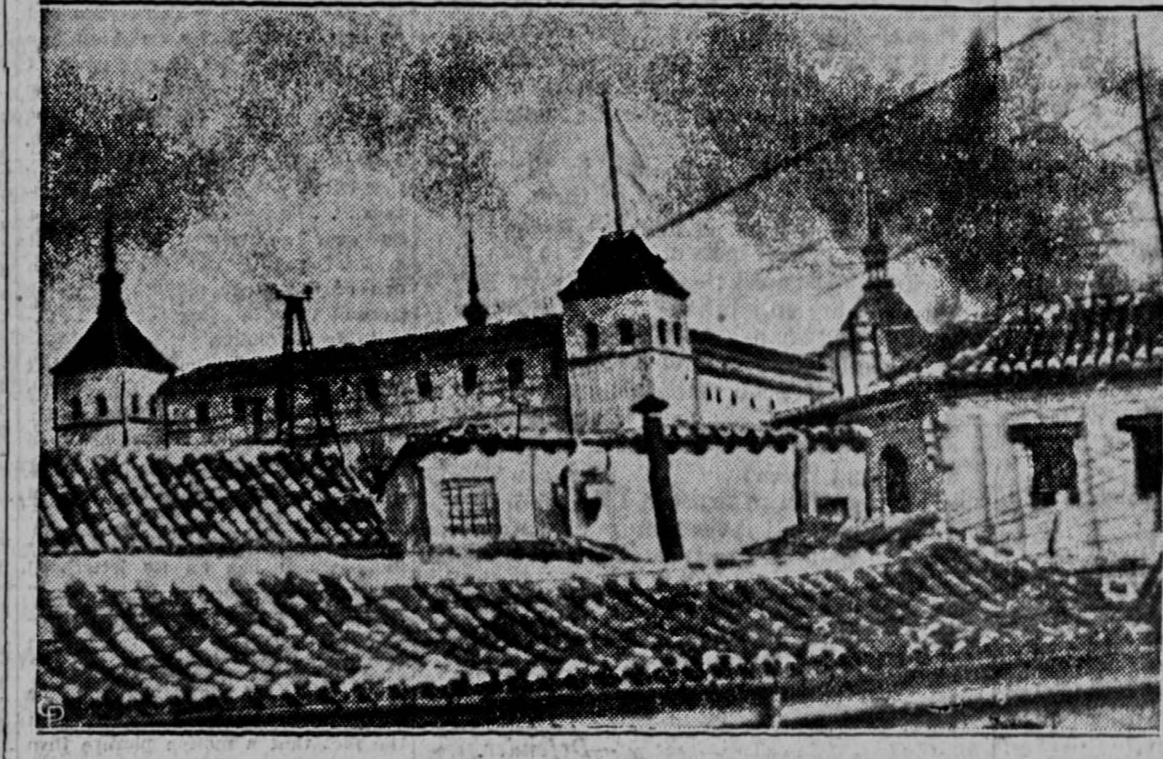

Meade, the trooper said, drove three miles to his father's farm where he was employed, dragged his wife's body from the automobile and called to his mother. Terrified at the sight, the elder Mrs. Meade ran into the fields to seek help.

When she returned with Meade's father, Riley said, they found their son's body lying beside his wife with two bullet wounds in the head. He died in a hospital.

Loyalists Demolish Alcazar Fortress

HISTORIC FORTRESS IN RUINS

Alcazar fortress in Toledo, Spain, stood completely demolished last night with the crashing of the sole remaining tower after a battery of gunfire. The majority of the 1,700 rebel men, women and children who took refuge behind the massive walls of the historic structure several weeks ago, are now believed to have perished under the repeated assaults by the loyalist forces.

Probe Crash Tomorrow

Jean McIntosh, 5 Other Students Reported In Good Condition

The inquest into the accident on U.S. highway 161 in which two were killed and 10 others injured when two cars crashed just out of Cedar Rapids early Saturday will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. Linn County Coroner B. L. Knight said last night.

At the inquest, which will take place at the Linn county courthouse, Don Short, 21, 414 E. Davenport street, will probably be one of the chief witnesses, Knight said.

Jean McIntosh, 21, of Wellman, a pledge of Pi Beta Phi sorority, was reported in good condition last night. She was one of those most seriously injured.

Mrs. Mabel Hatch of Cedar Rapids was reported as in fair condition last night. Five other University of Iowa students also were reported as in fair condition.

Short received only minor injuries, and received first-aid treatment at a Cedar Rapids hospital. He was the driver of the car in which the university students were riding.

County Attorney C. K. Thomson said last night that either an assistant county attorney or he would be present at the inquest to hear the evidence and determine if any criminal proceedings will be warranted.

THREE SLAIN IN MURDER, SUICIDE

By the Associated Press PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Sept. 21—Three persons were slain today in what state police described as a double murder and suicide.

Lieut. Walter Riley said Merritt Meade, 28, apparently killed Louis Davey, 62, a farm hand employed by Isabelle Green, 82; forced his estranged wife, Grace, 35, into an automobile, and then killed her en route to the Meade farm at Greenville.

Meade, the trooper said, drove three miles to his father's farm where he was employed, dragged his wife's body from the automobile and called to his mother. Terrified at the sight, the elder Mrs. Meade ran into the fields to seek help.

When she returned with Meade's father, Riley said, they found their son's body lying beside his wife with two bullet wounds in the head. He died in a hospital.

Onslaught Of Fire Crashes Final Tower

Government Prepares For Last Assault On Besieged Fascists

By ALEXANDER H. UHL, Copyright 1936 By the Associated Press TOLEDO, Spain, Sept. 21—The last remaining tower of the old Alcazar fortress crashed in a pile of debris tonight under the artillery fire of Spanish government forces preparing for a final assault on the besieged fascists who have held out for 62 days.

Carefully aimed shots from two six-inch artillery batteries to the north and east caught the tower squarely in the middle. The gun crews, staid by their success as the rocks tumbled down, quickened their fire at the wreckage of the old military school.

Government leaders gave no indication of when they planned what they expected would be their last attempt to drive out or kill the fascists in the Alcazar, now a shapeless mass of spalling wall and debris behind which the insurgent machine gunners could find good cover.

Their forces wearied to the point of exhaustion by three days of incessant fighting, the government leaders at the last moment delayed their planned dawn attack, today.

No Rest The government militiamen sprawled on floors in the sleep of exhaustion—but there was no rest for the men, women and children still alive in the Alcazar.

There were 1,700 who first took refuge in the ancient fortress. How many still live after the bombardments and explosion of two tons of dynamite, no one professed to know.

The women and children, it was believed, were herded into the dark underground dungeons beneath the fortress' crumbling walls.

Only one thing appeared certain—the male defenders still alive within the citadel would die rather than surrender and be executed as the government assured them they would be.

Their machine guns hot from almost steady firing during the last three days, the garrison's defenders tonight were subjected to another artillery bombardment.

As the government militiamen laid aside their rifles to eat and sleep, their artillerymen reopened fire.

Fascist Troops Near Madrid (By the Associated Press) TALAVERA DE LA REINA, Spain (By courier to France)—Four columns of trained fascist troops tonight drove nearer and nearer Maqueda, strategic highway junction only 45 miles southwest of Madrid.

The fall of Maqueda was predicted by the insurgent high command any day, with the government defenders reported put to rout all along the line.

With tanks and airplanes, the disciplined forces of Gen. Francisco Franco brushed aside the resistance of government reinforcements brought up to rally their scattered battle line.

Roads Littered Fields and roadways were littered with the soldiers of government dead as the fascist advance clicked so fast that at times neither artillery units nor staff officers could keep up with them.

Overhead, government warplanes sought to accomplish what their land forces had been unable to do—cut off the rebel advance from the rear.

G.O.P. CARAVAN Iowa City republicans who plan to go to Des Moines today should meet at the College park hill at 9 o'clock this morning. A caravan will be formed to travel to Des Moines.

Japan to Send Navy Party Into China (By the Associated Press) TOKYO, Sept. 21—Japanese naval officials tonight prepared to send a landing party into China to protect Japanese nationals and property.

In announcing the decision, the details of which were not disclosed, a navy office communiqué said: "Anti-Japanese terrorism has extended across the whole Chinese continent and is becoming rampant."

Bankers Criticize 'Hurried' Enactment SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21—Criticism against "hurried" enactment of social security measures and the effects of widespread family migrations by automobile trailer drew attention today from the American Bankers' association, opening its 32nd annual convention.

Speakers also suggested increased offerings of personal income loans as a sound and profitable field for idle bank funds.

Danger Lurks On Highway 161
WE GENERALLY think of traditions—university traditions—as something sacred and sacred alone. We ignore the fact that certain traditions, their age notwithstanding, can be dangerous and should be discarded.
 In an address at the activities dinner in Iowa Union Saturday evening, Prof. Forest C. Ensign of the college of education presented a commendable explanation of one University of Iowa tradition that has caused much grief here. That tradition is the frequency with which University of Iowa students travel the 26 1-2 mile strip from Iowa City to Cedar Rapids, which, as Professor Ensign described, is a beautiful but extremely dangerous road.
 Incidentally, one of the more paradoxical situations is that approximately $20,000 is being expended to beautify this road, a prize engineering puzzle. It seems it would be much wiser to spend this sum in mitigating the danger of this highway by eliminating some of more than 50 curves.
 But then the fact remains that this highway is an invitation to danger. Townspeople and old students know this fact only too well; new students were told of this danger not only by Professor Ensign but by reports of the automobile crash early Saturday morning in which six University of Iowa students were injured.
 It isn't our point to tell anyone how to live and where to go for entertainment. But so long as the strip of road from Iowa City to Cedar Rapids is not made less dangerous, we should travel on it only with unusually extreme care.

Common Sense In Government
A BIG SURPRISE to many people was President Roosevelt's exhortation for continued and increased support of private welfare agencies.
 The occasion for such a statement was the 1936 Mobilization for Human Needs, which began local campaigns for contributions in all parts of the country.
 Among the necessary services which lie outside the reaches of government aid, the president cited availability of medical attention, special attention to the hundreds of thousands of miscellaneous cases, and recreational opportunities for persons lacking them. "All these and many more are tasks more fitted to private than to government administration," said he in summation.
 To voters who had been informed of Mr. Roosevelt's "communist inclinations," such a contradiction must have been somewhat of a shock. Others realize, however, that common sense is just as applicable to governments as to any other field of interest.

Help Support Chamber of Commerce
NEXT TUESDAY'S chamber of commerce reorganization dinner should have the support of and the attendance of every business man in Iowa City.
 Plans are now underway to make the local chamber of commerce a compact and well-organized group, something that in the past it has not been. We hope these plans will succeed; we believe they will.
 The underlying principle of the new organization will be a graduated membership fee. For example, a large department store that will realize great profits by an active, alive Iowa City Chamber of Commerce will pay a larger fee. A small shoe store, for example, will pay a smaller fee because its benefits will be less, and its profits smaller. We believe this plan is fundamentally sound.
 Other plans of the chamber are indefinite as yet, but we look for them to be equally wise and well-designed by a chamber of commerce board of directors that has already done much to better the local organization.

EDITOR, THE DAILY IOWAN
 "Protester" in Sunday's column barked out at what he felt was discourtesy from registration officials. His letter was hasty and ill-considered and, as a veteran of eight successive registrations, I think he is all wet.
 The ushers never shove a person around, Protester, unless that person has attempted to crowd in someplace in line where he does not belong, and then only if that person stubbornly refuses to listen to civil requests to retire to his proper place. You said you were shoved, didn't you?
 Apparently you are a freshman or at least a new student here, as you termed this your first registration. I can think of no one better fitted to advise you than the professors who have been teaching here since you were an infant. These faculty members give two and one-half days—long, weary days of their time—so that they can help you arrange a schedule that you can handle. I have yet to find one discourteous, although it is necessary to be firm with those who will not listen to reason.
 There are "stiff" courses in the university. I have taken some of them. They are usually the only courses in which you gain some knowledge worthwhile to you in bucking up against this old world. Or perhaps you are only interested in a degree-gained by "snap courses."
 A careful scanning of the instructions on the registration materials would probably have aided you more than anything else. Or was it discourtesy to ask you to strain that much?
 It is not fun to register, I'll admit. But I won't admit that the picture of discourtesy you painted is a true one.
 You ended your letter by saying that you "shut your eyes and picked a course." May I advise that until you consider the thing, including your part in it, you would be wiser to shut another portion of your face.
 —Defender.

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Although spokesmen for both major political parties continue to express great satisfaction with the Maine election result, the fact is that neither party management was overly pleased by it.
 Discussing it confidentially, not as "spokesmen," they tell why.
 The republican majority was not large enough to realize G.O.P. hopes. The democrats were disappointed because they were beaten.
SIZE OF MAJORITY COUNTS
 The expression "As Maine goes, so goes the nation," is not to be interpreted as meaning that a mere republican victory in the Pine Tree state foreshadows a republican victory throughout the country. Maine almost always goes republican, even in democratic years. The touchstone is the SIZE of the republican majority.
 If it is a big one in September, the supposition (or superstition) is that the country will go republican in November. If it is a small one, the theory is that the national verdict will be democratic.
 The reliability of the test probably is about on a par with that of a belief that it is bad luck to walk under a ladder. Politicians are the same way regarding Maine. They are not genuinely convinced that "As Maine goes, so goes the nation." Still, they're semi-convinced.

MONEY "WASTED"
 Neither side got its full money's worth. A republican victory in Maine should be by a margin of approximately 50,000. The G.O.P.'s victory the other day, on its best candidates, was by a scanty 40,000. It was substantial but not spectacular, and a landslide was what the republicans had been yearning for.
 And Wallace H. White Jr.'s reelection to the senate by a majority of only approximately 5,000 over Gov. Louis J. Brann was a triumph to be republicantly bragged about hardly more than if Brann, the democrat, had won. That is to say, if Maine cannot go republican by more than 5,000 in September, the conclusion is that the nation should go democratic in November.

HOLLYWOOD—In the spotlight is meaning on the "spot" for Robert Taylor—and he knows it.
 Here's a star-overnight of 25, with all the women stars of Hollywood clamoring for him in their pictures, and the man letters being dumped in his lap at the rate of 5,000 to 8,000 a week. A year and a half ago he was unknown, just another untried actor from college theatricals being given a chance at leads in minor pictures.
 Today those Grade-B films, including "The Society Doctor," are being revived with the name of Taylor in the star spot. Nobody paid any attention to Arlington Brugh when he studied music and played the cello on the Pomona college campus. But when Robert Taylor walks into a movie premiere they stand ready for a riot call.
 It's the same grueling mill through which Clark Gable was run when the public discovered him. Taylor hopes he can come through it as gracefully—and as sensibly—as Gable has.
 But Taylor is not "another Gable." He is a very handsome movie hero of the type that Gable, Cagney, et al., were supposed to have supplanted. He is six feet tall, weighs 165, has wavy brown hair, blue eyes and near-perfect features. He has not had a haircut in months—"The Gorgeous Hussy" and now Garbo's "Camille" both are costume films. And at least once he has been referred to as "Pretty Boy Taylor."
 "That burns me," he says. "I don't mind when they take cracks at my acting—I know I can't act. I'd like to have constructive criticism on that, because I want to be a better actor. When they just say 'Taylor stinks' they may be accurate, but they don't help. But when they talk about looks, I don't think it's fair. A man can't help that one way or another."
 But what really concerns Taylor—who is serious and a confirmed worrier—is that he feels he can't go in pictures with no more to offer than he currently shows.

Ancestors of Human Eye And Evolution of Orbs
 By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

WE TRACED yesterday the different steps by which the eye was developed; first the light sensitive spot, then the protective depression, or orbit, then the transparent protective covering, the cornea, the iris or shutter, and lastly the focusing lens. All together this makes up the perfected eye of the vertebrate.
 But even this perfected eye differentiates itself according to the varied necessities of life of each kind of animal. The eyes of the fishes, for instance, are always washed and kept clear by the medium in which they live. When animals got up on dry land their eyes had to endure drying winds and dust and dirt, and if the tear glands had not been developed to wash all these foreign particles away and lubricate and moisten the surface of the eye, land creatures must necessarily have gone blind.
 A very curious adaptation is seen in the eye of a fish in tropical America, named Anableps. It swims on the surface of the water in search of insects. It has protruding eyes, and each one has a horizontal band across it that comes just at the water line as the fish is swimming. The upper part of the eye is adapted for vision above the water, the lower part for vision under the water. This double vision decreases the visual distortion that would occur with the double medium. Anableps is ignorantly called the four-eyed fish, though these are really only two.

 Birds have a special visual problem. They move swiftly far above the ground, and need far-sighted eyes to avoid collisions. Then, since they live on small particles of food, insects and kernels of grain, they must see their food from the air. A grain of corn that the human eye can see only at a few feet can be seen clearly by a bird from one hundred yards. Nature, has provided for these needs by giving the birds eyes that are somewhat pear-shaped—like human far-sighted eyes, except more so. The eagle is eagle-eyed, all right, but a human being would be most uncomfortable with an eagle's eye. He probably could not read at all.
 The pupil in grazing animals—the zebra and horse—is a horizontal slit which makes it easy for the animal to see out of the corners of the eye while grazing, and be warned of the approach of an enemy.
 The cat's eye is a vertical slit. It is supposed that this is useful to a nocturnal feeder, who must jump into the air and into trees after its prey. The vertical slit allows it to see up and down without motion, just as the zebra's horizontal slit allows it to see from side to side.
 The rabbit's eyes seem to be super-sensitive to motion. If you stand perfectly still and watch a rabbit it will do nothing, but start walking and it is off like a streak of lightning.
 From all of these adaptations we must suppose that the human eye is best adapted to human life. But civilization made some demands that Nature was not prepared to meet, so man's inventive genius stepped in. What he did will be disclosed tomorrow.

PRESIDENTIAL ARENA

Congress Labeled 'Debating Society' by Governor Landon

(Provided by the Democratic National Committee)
 The republican national committee seized Constitution day to deliver a back-handed slur at President Roosevelt, who saved democracy and constitutional government for this country during the crisis of 1933.
 The novel claim was made that the "republican party is defending the constitution in this campaign," and that there is "no possibility of questioning the position of the republican nominee."
 So? The fact is that Governor Landon expressed views on constitutional government in 1933 that, in the light of subsequent political events, appear extremely ominous. It is doubtful if a parallel remark was ever made by a major party candidate for president. Among other things the Kansan mentioned that "the makers of the constitution realized that in a great emergency the country couldn't conduct business with a debating society."
How Dictators Start
 The "debating society," of course, is congress, which happens to be the basis and bulwark of constitutional rights in this country. It is a lesson of history, drilled into human consciousness by constant experience, that the first act of an individual seeking dictatorial powers is to dismiss the national legislature and thus render impotent the national will. It was so in Europe and the Orient, and it will always be so wherever dictators flourish.
 Now during the closing days of the Hoover administration and early in 1933, when chaos threatened to overwhelm the land, there were many elements in this country either secretly or openly wishing for the strong hand of a dictator at the helm. Senator David A. Reed (R., Pa.) expressed the view in the senate that if the country ever needed a dictator "it needs one now."
 Evidence produced by a committee of the house of representatives disclosed that certain wealthy individuals wanted to finance a march on Washington by Gen. Smedley Butler—a proposition which Butler indignantly refused.
Liberty League Again
 Oddly enough the men who wanted to finance the Butler "coup" are now leading members of the mis-called American liberty league, the group which is putting up the funds for Governor Landon's candidacy.
 Perhaps it is merely a coincidence that the liberty league is now supporting the candidate who, in 1933, felt that congress was merely a "debating society" which the founding fathers never intended to have in power during an emergency.
 But in view of the record, it seems to us that the constitution deserves something better than weak-kneed defenders who whimper for a dictatorship at the first sign of storm.

Roosevelt Criticism Of 'Royalists' Is Boomerang

(Provided by the Republican National Committee)
 When President Roosevelt fired his shot at "economic royalists," he didn't realize that it would be the big boomerang of the campaign.
 He blazed away without taking aim. He didn't name the people to whom he was referring and the ball bounced right around and back at him, catching him when he wasn't looking.
Preaches Class Conflict
 It remained for former Sen. James A. Reed of Missouri, a Jeffersonian democrat, to show President Roosevelt's affiliation with the corporations such as he denounces for the political purpose of arraying class against class.
 Pointing out that the Roosevelts are among the largest stockholders of the General Electric company, former Senator Reed went on to say that General Electric company has been "exceedingly well treated by the present administration in the matter of government contracts and work."
 "If there is a group of 'economic royalists' in the United States," said Mr. Reed, "then the General Electric is entitled to a place near the throne. In view of Mr. Roosevelt's denunciation, one would naturally have expected that he should have been devoting a liberal portion of his time to the extermination of this wicked organization. It would not have been thought possible that he or his family group should be financially interested in such an organization or participated in its unholy profits."
Voters Not Misled
 Other speakers have had the courage to come out and call a spade a spade in dealing with President Roosevelt's intemperate attack on American business. His incitements to class conflict, which would help nobody, cannot be placed on the shoulders of Messrs. Tuqwell, Licks, Wallace or other new dealers.
 Mr. Roosevelt's attack on business does not ring with sincerity. It is hard for the pot to call the kettle black. Obviously, Mr. Roosevelt was interested in nothing but votes, which are so dear to him that he would even engender a class war in America to get them.
 The voters will not be deceived. They know that a class war would destroy American democracy and leave business prostrate. We say again, it would help nobody. The voters know, also, that when the people have a free ballot, they can make any reforms they want in an orderly way. They do not need Mr. Roosevelt for the "avertion of the war"—a war of his own concoction.

Human Eye Evolution of Orbs

ENDING, M.D. eyed fish, though there are really only two. Birds have a special visual problem. They move swiftly far above the ground, and need far-sighted eyes to avoid collisions. Then, since they live on small particles of food, insects and kernels of grain, they must see their food from the air. A grain of corn that the human eye can see only at a few feet can be seen clearly by a bird from one hundred yards. Nature has provided for these needs by giving the birds eyes that are somewhat near-sighted—like human far-sighted eyes, except more so. The eagle is near-sighted, all right; but a human being would be most uncomfortable with an eagle's eye. He probably could not read at all. The pupil in grazing animals—the zebra and horse—is a horizontal slit which makes it easy for the animal to see out of the cornea of the eye while grazing, and is warned of the approach of an enemy. Adminishes Against Replacing Traditions With Inferior Ones

1,100 Hear Professor In First Vespers Service of Year

Old traditions and opinions should not be changed unless their substitute is better, Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, declared last night before 1,100 students, faculty members and Iowa Citizens in the first university vespers in Iowa Union Sunday night. As his text, Professor Lampe quoted, "Any man who has drunk old wine does not immediately desire new, for he says the old is good." "Don't give up the old ideas if you know the old is good," he advised. Changes in viewpoint Speaking of the changes in viewpoint students experience in college, he considered the temptations to spend money. "There is no reason to abandon the desirability of living within one's means," he said. Another attitude which Professor Lampe said should be maintained is that of common sense contrasted with sophomoric wisdom. "Your early religious training may continue to serve you in college," he maintained. "You come to college with certain practices, all of which you will find difficult to carry on. One's religion should become finer during the course of college, and it depends on how good his views are." Even though he said the old is good, Professor Lampe contended the thorough-going radical is needed in the world today—one who seeks something better. "Radicals change, but they know what they're doing. The real radical out of the good tries to find something better," he said. President Presides President Eugene A. Gilmore presided and introduced campus and Iowa City religious leaders. Addressing the group, he said, "While the church and the state are wisely kept separate, there can be no separation between religion and education." Education cannot be carried on in

U.W.A. Organizes 100 S.U.I. Women Into Town Coed Club

Union of Women Students in Private Homes Is Objective; Meetings Scheduled in 3 Groups; Will Elect Officers October 4

University Women's association announces the organization of Town Coeds of the University of Iowa, whose membership is extended to any student enrolled in the university who does not belong to an organized dormitory or a fraternal order.

About 100 women were made members of the club at a reception Sunday afternoon in the river room of Iowa Union. Mrs. Eugene A. Gilmore greeted the girls who were met by Prof. Frances Zull, head of the home economics department, Prof. Elizabeth Halsey, head of the women's physical education department, and Helen Focht, personnel counselor in the dean of women's office.

The purpose of the newly organized club is to unite the women students who live in private homes and are not affiliated with sororities, and to bring those students into university activities, higher scholarship and close friendship.

Meetings have been scheduled in three groups—social, literary and business. The next business meeting, Oct. 4, will see the election of officers. The president after her election will appoint a literary chairman, a membership chairman, and an activities chairman.

Literary Meeting

A literary meeting has been arranged for next Sunday, to take place on the sunporch of Iowa Union from 3 to 5 p.m. At this very informal gathering girls who come will read poetry from their own collections. There will be a review of the new books available in the union reading room, and the best short story of 1935 will be read. This meeting is open to all town girls, and everyone eligible to membership in the organization has been urged to come.

Informal Meeting

Sunday's meeting was an informal business session, preceded by a social hour during which girls grouped around the piano and sang popular songs to the accompaniment of Mrs. Vera Marsan. The name of the club was decided upon, a time and place chosen for the next meeting and the constitution read and accepted.

An installation ceremony, during which girls joined hands in a symbol of unity and raised them in a symbol of pledging their loyal support to the organization, closed the afternoon's program.

Committee

A committee advised by Betty Minkel, G of Ft. Dodge, made arrangements for Sunday's reception. Town girls who worked with her included Alice Lang, A2 of Iowa City, Lois Miller, A2 of Iowa City, Jane Louise Runner, A2 of Iowa City, Irma Holdorf, A2 of LeClaire, Ann Matkulek, A1 of Newton, and Maxine Reams, A2 of Cedar Rapids, who led the singing.

Miss Minkel cooperated with Miss Focht and Dorothy Riecke, A3 of Iowa City, last year's president of the group, in preparing the constitution which was presented and passed.

Begun in 1934

Organization of town women was first started on the University of Iowa campus in 1934, when the University of Illinois' plan was followed to a certain degree. Groups were divided according to geographical convenience, an arrangement which was unsatisfactory. The present grouping according to interest, is an attempt to fit the club to the desires and needs of the members.

Union Prayer Meeting

Elmer Bowman will lead the Union prayer meeting tomorrow night. It will take place at the home of Mrs. Wallace Musgrove in North Liberty at 7:30, and all friends are welcome to attend.

Bridge Club

The A.O.C. bridge club has postponed its regular meeting from today until next Tuesday, Sept. 23. They will play at the home of Dorothy Sutton, 16 West Harrison street.

Welfare work is the council's greatest project. It supplies free milk during the school session in the grade schools, glasses, some clothing, hot lunches in high school and junior high school to children who need such things and cannot afford them. Louis Meets New Challenger in Al Ettore Tonight

Al Ettore To Whip Joe; Gets Home Backing

Fight Experts Pick Louis by 5-1 Odds On New York Rialto

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22 (AP)—Another of those fistic experiments is scheduled in the Municipal stadium here tonight. In the same arena in which Gene Tunney took the heavyweight crown away from Jack Dempsey just 10 years ago this week, Blondie Al Ettore, the Philadelphia Tiger, will attempt to do a Max Schmeling and halt the sensational rise of Joe Louis, the Brown Bomber from Detroit. The bout is scheduled for 15 rounds.

The Philadelphia promoters, Taylor and Gunnis, assisted by Mike Jacobs of New York, look for a crowd of 50,000 and a gate of at least $200,000. They insist only bad weather can keep the crowd below these figures.

Big Scrap
It is Philadelphia's biggest scrap since the Tunney-Dempsey show and the Quaker City is all excited. Pastboards are going like hot cakes. The town is painted with fight placards and over-run with seafarers. Two of the latter do a rushing business just across the street from headquarters of the promoters.

Ettore is a prime favorite here and most of the crowd will be local. But thousands are coming from outlying Pennsylvania towns and from adjacent New Jersey.

Pick Louis
Most fight men look for another Louis triumph—probably within five rounds and by a knockout—but Philly fans hold an entirely different viewpoint. They are sold 100 per cent on the confident Ettore and their enthusiasm has cut the odds on Louis two and one-half to one.

Elsewhere, it is a different story. On Broadway, for instance, the betting is 4 or 5 to 1 on the Negro. It is Ettore's big shot. Fighting only five years, he has forged steadily to the front. Three times he beat Leroy Haynes, once figured along with Louis as a dark menace, and he also has a decision over James J. Braddock, heavyweight champion of the world.

If he should upset the dope tomorrow night, he will project himself into the front ranks of the heavyweights, along with Braddock and Max Schmeling, the No. 1 challenger.

How they compare:

Dancing Class Being Planned

Larry Griswold, one of the most talented gymnasts and acrobats ever to perform for Old Gold, and now an assistant in the physical education department here, has drawn up plans for instructing classes in the various techniques of the dance.

Griswold has for some time been conducting classes in tap dancing at the fieldhouse for physical education students interested in that work. This year, after just finishing another session on the faculty of the Chicago Association of Dancing Masters, and in conjunction with his university teaching, he will conduct a dancing school of private instruction.

For a number of seasons Larry has been a member of the faculty of the Chicago group. Among the other illustrious artists with whom Griswold was associated this summer were Jack Manning, Angel Cansino, Bobby Rivers, Myrtle Pettigrew, Grace Jenkins, J. Alton MacKenzie, and Alexander Kotchevsky.

Nelle Oppenheim Pearlman of Des Moines will be affiliated with Griswold in the dancing studio at 123 S. Clinton street.

Grange Injured in Scrimmage

Team Doctor Almost Certain Rib Is Cracked

Simmons, Harris, Bob Lannon Are Excused From Scrimmage

Another bolt was thrown into the Hawkeye football machine yesterday afternoon when Paul Grange of Waterloo was removed from an intra-squad scrimmage when he suffered a cracked rib after making a tackle. Grange's injury was not thought serious until the physical examination was completed by Dr. William Hayne, team physician.

Hayne said, "I am almost certain that it is a cracked rib although we won't know for sure until we take an X-ray picture of the injury today."

Good Blocker
The loss of Grange, a promising sophomore back, will be keenly felt in the blocking department by Coach Solem. The Waterloo candidate, who was being counted upon to take care of the blocking duties on the varsity eleven will be out of the picture from "two to six weeks depending upon the seriousness of the fracture," said Team Physician Hayne.

Yesterday's scrimmage session, which saw Ozzie Simmons, Bob Lannon and Homer Harris excused from contact work, showed there was still plenty of work to do in the Old Gold camp before the Big Ten season gets underway. During the long scrimmage neither the probable first string "blacks" nor their "gold" opponents were able to register a touchdown.

Haltom Shines
The "blacks" composed largely of what is expected to be the Hawkeyes starting lineup against Carleton here Saturday, threatened to score on two occasions when Warren "Skeets" Haltom, playing in Ozzie Simmons' position, reeled off two long runs. But the necessary "kick" needed to put the ball over the goal was lacking.

The lineup found Gordon Matson and Don Simmons at ends, Corney Walker and Floyd DeHeer at tackles, Gene Liggett and Shipley Furroh at guards with Ted Osmalowski at center. Hild called the plays while Jack Echerly, Grange and Haltom, completed the backfield quartet. Frank Balags replaced Grange after the latter was removed and Fred Lindenmeyer alternated with Corney Walker at tackle.

With the exception of Grange, practically all of the cripples and ailing athletes will be ready to play against Carleton, said Dr. Hayne. It is unlikely that Dick Bowlin's injured knee will keep him out of the opening encounter, and the deep cut in DeHeer's left hand is healing cleanly.

St. Louis Cards Defeat Chicago 5 to 4

Regain Second Place in Loop Pennant Chase

Giants Need Win Only 2 of Remaining 8 Games for Flag

By WILLIAM WEEKES
CHICAGO, Sept. 21 (AP)—The slugging American loop representatives.

The Cardinal triumph, achieved with the aid of an error by Billy Herman in the ninth inning, left them six full games behind the Giants, with the Cubs another half game back. The Giants need to win only two of their remaining eight games to finish ahead of the Cards, even if the latter should win their final six. The best the Cubs could do would be a tie if they won their five remaining contests while New York lost eight.

Herman's error, a bad throw on a double play set up in the ninth, joined a brilliant stretch of relief pitching by Lonnie Warneke, who replaced Tex Carleton after the Cardinals had scored three times in the third. Leo Durocher opened the final inning with a single, and advanced on Don Gutteridge's sacrifice. Virgil Davis was intentionally walked to set the stage for a double play. The Cardinals countered by sending Jim Collins, who won the second game of the series with a home run with the bases loaded, to bat for pitcher Jim Winford, and Chick Fullis to run for the not-so-facetious Davis.

Collins hit a double play ball to Jurges who forced Fullis at second, but Herman threw the ball into the dirt past Phil Cavarretta and Durocher scored with the winning run.

The Cubs encouraged the 19,116 spectators with a final desperate effort in their half of the ninth, when Cavarretta opened with a double and went to third on Herman's sacrifice. Frank Demaree walked, and Ed Heusser, who had replaced Winford, was yanked in favor of Dizzy Dean. Cavarretta was trapped between third and the plate on Hack's bouncer to Gutteridge, and Gabby Hartnett ended it with a fly to Terry Moore.

With the first two scheduled games safely tucked away on the victory side of the ledger, the Little Hawk mentors are determined to have their boys in top shape for the intensive string of games coming up in the weeks to follow. Proof of this lies in the fact that the second string members engaged in a spirited scrimmage last evening in which a number of candidates were shifted to new positions in an endeavor to find added replacements. The first string, with a few exceptions, confined its activities to a brisk signal drill.

Former Light Weight Boxer Seriously Ill

By CHARLES DUNKLEY CHICAGO, Sept. 21 (AP)—Patrick "Packey" McFarland, member of the Illinois state athletic commission, and one of the greatest lightweight boxers of all time, tonight was fighting his toughest battle.

Stricken two months ago by a baffling illness, McFarland was in grave condition at his home in Joliet, Ill., with two best specialists in attendance since he lapsed into delirium early last night.

McFarland is 48 years old and the father of three children.

Born of sturdy Irish stock in Chicago's famous "back of the yards" district, McFarland brought to the ring a lightning brain and fists of magic 25 years ago.

Never a champion, he nevertheless won recognition as the uncrowned titleholder. His chances to gain the title were always hampered by the doubt that he could make the lightweight limit, then 133 pounds.

McFarland never lost a decision and the bout always fell through. McFarland always lost a decision and the bout always fell through.

Added to the ballots taken in the regular farm-to-farm canvass, the percentage of Roosevelt, as compared with Landon, becomes 58.6 per cent.
