Planes Again Fail To Find Trace of Miss Earhart

Three Return Without Clues In Second Hop

Complete Search Of 136,000 Square Miles With No Success

HONOLULU, July 8 (AP)—Planes from the battleship Colorado, seeking trace of Amelia Earhart, returned without clues tonight after their second day of flight over the area where she vanished.

Today's search by the trio of planes covered some of the ocean previously surveyed by the coast guard cutter Itasca and brought the total area searched to an estimated 138,000 square miles.

Southward

The planes, spreading out to cover as much territory as possible, flew southward more than 250 miles from bleak Howland island to scan the McKean island area below the equator.

Then they circled over the charted position of Winslow reef, southeast of Howland.

With fuel supplies diminishing, the planes, piloted by Lieuts. J. O. Lambrecht, L. O. Fox and W. B. Short Jr., sped back to the warship without finding a trace of the aviatrix and her navigator, Frederick J. Noonan, who disappeared last Friday on a flight from New Guinea to Howland.

To Resume Hunt

The aviators planned to resume the hunt tomorrow.

The Itasca searched islets, reefs and shoals south of Howland and westward of the Phoenix group. The navy minesweeper Swan searched east of Howland.

Although the navy reported no developments in the day's search at 2 p.m. (CST), hopes of friends and relatives persisted despite that Miss Earhart and her navigator, Frederick J. Noonan, have been lost since last Friday.

Lexington Arrives

The $40,000,000 aircraft carrier Lexington reached Lahaina Roads, near here, at 3:40 p.m. CST, completing a 2,550-mile run from San Diego in 92 hours, 40 minutes. She prepared for a quick refueling and another 1,500-mile race to Howland to reinforce the hunt with her great air fleet.

From Pearl harbor the aircraft tender Avocet moved into Lahaina Roads to supply the Lexington with aviation gasoline.

New Walkout Ordered For Steel Plants

Republic Faces More Trouble After Green Calls Strikes Failure

WARREN, Ohio, July 8 (AP)—The threat of a new "walkout" at Republic Steel corporation's Youngstown mills was dropped on strike-trouble "little steel" tonight a few hours after President William Green of the American Federation of Labor declared the steel strikes directed by John L. Lewis had been lost.

The "walkout," set for 11:30 a.m. tomorrow at the Youngstown mill, was announced by George Simcox, assistant to Tom White, president of the Republic Steel Workers Organizing committee lodge there.

"We have key men in the plant and they will bring the men out," Simcox told several hundred strikers and sympathizers at a mass meeting. Republic reported today 6,200 men were working in its Youngstown plant out of an averag daily employment of 6,800.

Ohio national guardsmen are still on duty at the plant. Earlier today indictments were returned against eight accused Warren bombers in connection with steel strike violence here.

President Green said the rival Committee for Industrial Organization had lost the strikes because of "violent" C.I.O. policies and because "only a minority of the steel workers . . . were organized."

Green said the result of strikes, which at one time called out 100,000 workmen in seven states in the C.I.O. effort to win signed bargaining contracts from "little steel" companies, meant the C.I.O. "failed to meet its first major test successfully."

Aluminum Peace Efforts Collapse

ALCOA, Tenn., July 8 (AP)—A move to arbitrate differences between strikers and management of the Alcoa plant of the Aluminum Company of America, where two men were killed and 28 wounded in rioting yesterday, apparently collapsed tonight.

Gov. Gordon Browning, in response to a request from Fred Wetmore, president of the Aluminum Workers' union at Alcoa, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, telephoned A. D. Huddleston, regional manager of the company, to get his reaction to appointment of a board of arbitration.

Huddleston said later that since the company's wage scale "is higher in relation to Tennessee living conditions than that paid workers at the Pittsburgh plant," he did "not believe the company has anything to arbitrate."

This picture, flown from Foynes, Irish Free State, to London and radioed to the United States, shows the Pan-American Clipper III making a perfect landing on the River Shannon at Foynes after completing a test flight of what will be a regular passenger air route across the Atlantic. As the Clipper III landed at Foynes, the British Imperial Airways plane, Caledonia, was landing at Botwood, Newfoundland. The Clipper later took off for Southampton, England, termination of the flight, and the Caledonia flew to Port Washington, N.Y.—the terminus for New York.

Bill's Friends Push Series Of Rules Through

Opposition Leaders Protest Irately In Disorderly Session

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP) — Senate supporters of the Roosevelt court bill angrily fenced the opposition in today with all the technical obstructions to filibustering senate rules permit.

Although the debate was still far from the filibuster stage, Senator Robinson, the majority leader, struck first. Points of order and inquiries to the chair produced a series of rulings to govern the discussion and maneuvering still to come.

Dicta

With the opposition leaders irately protesting, but making no appeal to the senate from the dicta of Senator Pittman (D-Nev), the president pro tempore, it was established that:

From now until the court bill is disposed of, no senator may speak more than twice upon any one subject.

No senator may interrupt a speaker to make a lengthy statement, unless it be a question propounded to the speaker.

No business, other than the disposition of the court bill, may be transacted except by unanimous consent.

Without warning, Robinson called Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) to order to a violation of the rule governing interruptions of debate. Obviously taken aback at such procedure so early in the contest, Wheeler angrily levelled a long forefinger at the party lader and laid down an ultimatum.

Disorderly Session

The opposition will see to it that the rules are scrupulously observed by the proponents of the bill, he asserted, and as for transacting other business, he will see to it that no unanimous consent is given.

For an hour the two camps had it back and forth in as disorderly a session as the senate has seen in years. The bill itself was forgotten while the two sides fought it out over the rules and their application. A half dozen times the little usd device of "rising to a point of personal privilege" was invoked by the opposition.

Ruled Out

Finally, Pittman ruled that out also, asserting no senator could obtain the floor by that method, except with the consent of the speaker of the moment.

"Do I understand that the senator speaking can shut off all questions and debate, shutting himself up in his shell and conducting the argument as he pleases?" asked Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo).

"Yes," Pittman replied, "if that were not true, no filibuster would be possible."

Report Troops Withdrawing From Peiping Trouble Zone

Japs, Chinese Hold Negotiations, Agree To Move Soldiers

MOSCOW, July 9 (AP) — The Soviet government threatened Japan with open warfare today if Japanese troops do not keep out of Siberia.

Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar of foreign affairs, warned the Japanese ambassador, Mamoru Shigemitsu, that Russian troops along the Siberian-Manchoukuoan border had firm orders "in no case to allow Japanese-Manchurian troops to cross Soviet frontiers."

By the Associated Press

Troops were reported withdrawing early today from the Sino-Japanese trouble zone west of Peiping under an agreement designed to halt the conflict which broke out Wednesday night.

Negotiations which proceeded throughout the night in Peiping, 10 miles east of the center of hostilities and itself under martial law, resulted in agreement.

Terms

Under its terms the Japanese agreed to evacuate their troops from the right bank of the Yungting river to the left bank northeast of the Peiping-Hankow railway.

Chinese authorities agreed to withdraw their troops to the right bank of the river.

A dispatch from Peiping said firing was resumed this morning but the Domei (Japanese) News agency reported it was a Chinese attack on withdrawing Japanese which was adjusted peacefully.

Three Casualties

The agency reported the Japanese sustained three casualties in the attack.

The Japanese government sent a vigorous protest to the Nanking government over the conflict, which was the most extensive between Japanese regulars and Chinese since 1933.

Mae West, Husband Both Remain Silent

HOLLYWOOD, July 8 (AP)—Mae West had a load off her mind today—the long-delayed statement that she was once Mrs. Frank Wallace—but how she or her newly-acknowledged hubby felt about the situation remained strictly their own personal business.

Mae, as they say in Hollywood, is in seclusion.

Wallace, visiting in Henderson, Ky., had "no comment."

No Heaven

Father Divine Throws Party; It Flops

By JOHN H. WIGGINS

KINGSTON, N.Y., July 8 (AP)—Father Divine's "Celestial Olympics" simmered down under a 95-degree sun to a prosaic picnic today.

Nearly 2,000 followers of the baldpated little Harlem Negro cult leader gathered at their super-super heaven in nearby Greenkill for an ambitious sports program that was to mark the official opening of this 1,000-acre "Promised Land."

But what with a misunderstanding about bus fares, and lack of preparations insofar as sports fields were concerned, the gathered disciples were willing to settle for dinner and a little lolling in the shade.

1,000 Stranded

The disciples and angels who disembarked from the Hudson river steamer "State of Delaware" at Kingston after an uneventful trip from New York, piled aboard buses that were to take them four miles to the Greenkill "heaven." But a "misunderstanding" about the fare —Divine's followers said it should have been 10 cents and the drivers said 20—resulted in some 1,000 excursionists being left standing at sun-scorched curbs until other means of transportation were supplied.

This delay caused a curtailment of track and field events on the "Olympic" program. The golf contests were called off after disciples with clubs and balls discovered the fairways were mayfields and the greens had disappeared in the tall grass.

1 Killed as 9 Escape Prison

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., July 8 (AP) —One convict was killed and a prison guard was wounded when nine desperate prisoners broke from Eastham prison farm today and exchanged shots with pursuers.

Officials expressed belief W. H. Bybeen, leader of a June 22 break in which 19 convicts escaped, planted rifles with which the men made their getaway today.

Committee to Hear Fish Tell Charges Against Roosevelts

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—A congressional inquiry committee gave Representative Fish (R-NY) permission today to explain charges that members of the Roosevelt family have used revenue law loopholes to avoid tax payments. It stipulated, however, Fish must not mention the president.

It was on a republican's motion that the senate-house committee on tax evasion and avoidance voted 7 to 4 to hear Fish tomorrow, provided he would not bring President Roosevelt into his discussion.

Torrid Wave Into Sixth Day

Bureau Forecasts Fair, Continued Warm for Today

DES MOINES, July 8 (AP)—The state's heat wave lengthened to six days as the sun bore down today and pushed the mercury near the 100-degree mark in most of the state.

While a temperature of 56 was reported at Knight, Wyo., in the mountain region, the Des Moines weather bureau said there was little indication there would be a marked decline in Iowa's heat wave.

The bureau forecast fair and continued warm for tomorrow.

Cedar Rapids reported a high of 98 at 2:30 p.m., but by early evening the mercury had dropped to 92 degrees. Omaha reported a maximum of 96, Sioux City and Iowa City, 95, Moline and Montezuma, 93, Waterloo and Adair, 92.

Keokuk reported high winds and a two-inch rain. Lightning that accompanied the storm was believed to be responsible for two fires.

Not So Hot

It was hot in Iowa City yesterday, but relatively cool compared with the heat of a year ago.

The temperature yesterday reached a peak of 95 degrees, but a year ago yesterday the top was 102, according to the hydraulics laboratory. The minimum temperature for yeterday was 63 degrees.

Rainfall for the year is one and one-half inches below normal.

Heat Takes Lives Of 33 Over Nation

By the Associated Press

Wilting heat harassed residents of the northern half of the nation yesterday.

Deaths attributed to the summer's most extensive siege increased to 33. Temperature records for the season were shattered at several points in the hot belt stretching from the western plains to New England.

An official reading of 93.4 degrees, highest of the year, was recorded in New York City at 3 p.m.

Son Admits Beating, Robbing 70 Year-old Mother for Jewelry

OMAHA, July 8 (AP)—Ben Hofner, 46, one-time Omaha auctioneer, admitted in Judge John Yeager's court today he had beaten and robbed his 70-year-old mother, Mrs. Esther Schwartz, in her home June 30 to get jewelry so he could "start a trucking business."

Police said his mother declined to talk about the robbery and will not admit she recognized her assailant as her son. Her left shoulder was fractured and her throat bruised badly by the assailant.

Most of the money, Hofner told Judge Yeager, was spent "celebrating."

Judge Yeager deferred sentence pending the outcome of Mrs. Schwartz' injuries. Hofner is held in county jail.

BLESSED EVENT

'Cultured Chimp' Gives Birth to Baby

CHICAGO, July 8 (AP)—Meshie—dubbed the "cultured chimpanzee" because she used to attend lectures and formal dinners—gave birth to a three and a half pound youngster early today at the Brookfield zoo.

The little beast was named Eve.

The father is a polygamous chimp called Mike. He and another belle of the monkey house, Sally, are the parents of 17-month-old Adam.

Creston Girl Recovers From Eye Operation

DES MOINES, July 8 (AP)—Carol Lynn Rowe, three-year-old Creston child who June 12 underwent an operation which doctors hope will give her sight, returned here today for an examination.

The physician said Carol Lynn had recovered well from the operation. It is too soon to tell whether or not she will be able to see, he said.

Carol Lynn is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. K. W. Rowe.

Mrs. Karns Hits Communism

Charges Red Emblem Flew in City Hall During MOL Regime

By MERLE MILLER
(Daily Iowan City Editor)

"Red" was predominate in the Johnson county district court room yesterday as the election contest hearing now in progress droned its weary and occasionally amusing way through its third day of testimony.

Yesterday morning two opposing attorneys—D. C. Nolan, MOL counsel, and William R. Hart, lawyer for the four defending incumbent aldermen—"saw red" as they disagreed on a point of law. Verbal cross-fire featured the court room's proceedings for several minutes.

During the afternoon's drawn-out proceedings Mrs. Carrie Karns, an irate subpoenaed witness for the Municipal Ownership league, waved a verbal red flag as she testified an actual flag—"the communists' flag"—flew often in the city hall during the two years the MOL councilmen were in office.

Opposed MOL

Mrs. Karns opposed the MOL ticket in the last city election "principally" for that reason, she testified, although she said she was a member of the Consumer's Protective association, an organization opposed to the MOL's before that group went into office in 1935.

"I've hated communism all my life," she said.

Mrs. Karns testified communists had meetings in the city council chambers several times during the MOL regime.

"The city hall was full of communists," she declared. This was on May day, 1935.

"I went up there during the meeting, and they had a red flag up there," the witness asserted.

"You were seeing red about that time anyway, weren't you, Mrs. Karns?" Guy Linville, MOL attorney, asked.

"I never see red," the witness hurled back.

Mrs. Karns also testified the communists backed the MOL party

Arabs Refuse Plan Of Britain to Divide Palestine in 3 Parts

JERUSALEM, July 8 (AP)—The Arab higher committee announced tonight after a two-hour session it was unable to accept the British plan for dividing Palestine into three parts.

It attacked the plan as proposing to give the Jews a state in which the most fertile sections of the Holy Land lie, leaving for the Arabs only the rocky and hilly parts.

Despite an announcement by Lieut. Gen. Arthur Wauchope, high commissioner for Palestine, that the state of security in the country was good, British reinforcements arrived from Egypt and a squadron of Royal Air Force bombers was standing by at Ismailia.

State Official Fined $1 for Passing Out 2 Worthless Checks

SHENANDOAH, July 8 (AP)—Leslie O. Ross, member of the state board of parole, was fined $1 and costs in justice court today on worthless check charges.

Roy Trullinger, oil dealer, and A. N. Ahlgren, car dealer, preferred the charges. The checks were for $11 and $12.71. Ross also paid a $2 protest fee. He said it was an oversight.

Senate Group Okays Black-Connery Bill

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—A much-altered version of the Black-Connery wage and hour bill won the approval today of the senate labor committee, which recommended the legislation be passed at this session of congress.

The committee, in rewriting the measure, deprived a proposed administrative board of much of its power to fix labor standards. The board, however, still could establish minimum wages up to 40 cents an hour and maximum working hours of $40 a week, or more.

In reporting the labor standards bill, the committee struck out what members called its most controversial section. This would have given the board authority to fix "fair" wage and hour standards based on the value of the services involved.

These standards would not have been related to the minimum "non-oppressive" wage or maximum "non-oppressive" work week defined in the bill. The "fair" wage could have been fixed as high as 80 cents an hour and the work week could have been limited to an unspecified number of hours.

Partition Of Palestine

AFTER LONG years of tossing on the triple-horned dilemma of what to do with Palestine, Great Britain has finally confronted the problem with a three-cornered solution.

Her dilemma was whether to return Palestine to the Jews, as she had promised; or to give it to the Arabs, as she had promised; or to keep it herself, as she felt she really had to do. The answer, made yesterday with the publishing of her partition plan, gives a part to the Jews, a part to the Arabs, and then keeps another part for Great Britain.

As is the case with most solutions that attempt to satisfy everybody, this one is really agreeable to none of the three parties.

The Jews are furious at their "betrayal." They cry, in the words of Rabbi M. L. Perlzweig, a Zionist leader, that "We are on the eve of a long struggle; we shall contest every inch of the ground."

They have every reason to feel betrayed. On Nov. 2, 1917, after years of manipulation and bargaining, they extracted from the British government the famous Balfour declaration which flatly guaranteed them the Holy Land for their national home.

Said the declaration, in part: "His Majesty's Government view with favor the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people, and will use their best endeavors to facilitate the achievement of that object."

Yet for 20 years Great Britain chose to forget her promise. Yesterday she recognized it, but in such a half-hearted way that instead of being grateful, the Jews are intensely angered.

Bitter opposition was expected, but it was also expected that the Jews would be eventually placated by the fact that they will have their first independent state since the days of Emperor Titus, almost 2,000 years ago. Further salve is being offered in the form of their own president and cabinet, their own diplomatic representation abroad, their own defense force, and membership in the League of Nations.

This is not such an unsavory dish to a people who have been homeless for centuries, even if they had been anticipating a much larger home. After the first sharp pangs of disappointment have worn away, the Jews will probably fulfill the British belief that they would accept half a loaf rather than have no loaf at all.

The Arabs, too, have an impressive claim to Palestine. In conjunction with her World War activity, Great Britain promoted an Arabian revolt against the Turks by promising the Arabs, among other things, Palestine as a reward. The Arabs have been comparatively patient in waiting for fulfillment of the reward, although lately their demands have become more vigorous since the mandates over the Arab states of Iraq and Syria have been terminated.

Their displeasure at the continued Jewish immigration under British approval has been fairly well restrained, breaking out on the average of only once a year when they mobilize in riots and murder several Jews.

Because she has always been rather abrupt with these Arabs since the war, Great Britain felt that they might be even more violent than the Jews and so she has stationed seven regiments of soldiers and 3,000 police reserves to preserve order. Fortunately, the partition announcement found the Arabs in a split so the military precautions have proven unnecessary.

But split or no split, the Arabian higher council got together and announced last night that it would not accept the British plan. The council says that Palestine does not belong alone to the Palestine Arabs, but to the whole Moslem world and hence all the Arab kings and princes must be consulted. They need not be consulted, however, to know what their answer will be.

So far Great Britain has been luckier than she deserves in the reception of her proposal. Some of her own leaders have stamped it as a cowardly policy, but most Englishmen feel that it is the best way out of an unpleasant situation. Not to be overlooked is the fact that she has pulled out for herself a portion of the territory, including Jerusalem, Nazareth, and Bethlehem, where in reality she is entitled to none of it.

Britain's claim to Palestine has been one of necessity, of empire. The land is a key to the Eastern Mediterranean, overlooking the gateway to India and the Far East. It is considered as vital to the British life-line as the Suez canal itself. It is for these reasons, more than anything else, that Great Britain has so long delayed a settlement of the Palestine problem, always one of the sorest spots in her colonial relations.

While not unexpected, the British solution is still more or less surprising. It was known that some eventual disposal must be made of Palestine, and in this method Great Britain tries to be as fair as possible to all three groups after having been an unfair as possible to two of these groups.

Tense May Change— But Not the Thought

AMELIA EARHART is lost somewhere in the Pacific. Just where, no one knows, and on this, the seventh day since she went down in her $80,000 "flying laboratory," there is a growing doubt that she will be found alive.

It is entirely possible, of course, that the plane carrying Miss Earhart and her navigator, Fred Noonan, is still afloat, or even that it has landed on some unknown reef. But calculations vary as to where the radio signals emanated that she is believed to have sent. Planes and ships might cruise for weeks without sighting so small an object as the missing plane.

There are some who may say that Miss Earhart was not a great aviatrix, that even had her world-spanning flight been completed it would have proved little so far as aeronautical science is concerned. But Miss Earhart will be missed as a greater flyer might never be. Those who knew her—those who met her when she appeared on the campus last year—remember her as a vibrant, living personality to whom danger meant nothing at all.

Amelia Earhart is a brave and courageous woman. The tense of that verb may change to the past at any moment, perhaps even before this paper reaches the streets. No matter what happens, however, the thought will not be altered.

Dr. Dieckhof Proves Amusing

SPEAKING AT a meeting in New York recently, Dr. Hans Heinrich Dieckhof, the new German ambassador at Washington, warned America that our foreign trade may suffer unless "insults" to the nazi regime and Reichsfuehrer Hitler are checked immediately.

"It is unjustifiable," he insisted, "to speak of dictatorships and the like in Germany. Germany today presents an enjoyable picture and it is regrettable that the ideal conditions prevailing there are so often distorted."

Let us admit that there is distortion in the news that comes from Germany. But the foreign correspondents are in no wise responsible for it. They describe the picture of a distorted Germany, but distorted as she is today. The Jews have been hounded out of the country, attacks made on freedom of worship, parents deprived of the right to control the education of their children. Yet Dr. Dieckhof still says this is an "enjoyable picture."

Hitler has now admitted that his objective is a totalitarian state and anything which interferes with this — whether it be freedom of speech, of the press, or of religion—is harshly suppressed. And still "it is unjustifiable to speak of dictatorship in Germany."

Really, this German ambassador must be a very amusing man.

A Mouse-Catcher Makes an Observation

E. L. STRAWBURG of Hagerstown, Md., a rat-catcher extraordinary and a de-mouser of some reputation, has some startling conclusions he's reached about mankind—and about rats.

"The female rat is too smart to be trapped," he declares. "Ninety per cent of the rats caught in traps are males." Also Mr. Strawburg, whose speciality is de-mousing public buildings, declares women are cleverer than men at setting rat traps.

"Women seem to be able to catch anything they want to, if they just try," Strawburg says.

His comment has been made many times before by poets and philosophers alike. But never, we believe, has this observation that most men make too late been phrased more effectively.

Drugs Kill Off Animal Parasite Which Causes Amoebic Colitis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

WHEN A FEW years ago, during the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago, a number of visitors were struck down with amoebic infection, the epidemic so caused called attention to the fact that we had an unexpected health problem in the United States in the form of amoebic dysentery. Most people, even physicians, had come to regard amoebic dysentery as a tropical disease. But Chicago could hardly be called a tropical district.

As a matter of fact, amoebic dysentery had been present sporadically in the United States, even on its northern borders, for a good many years. It is liable to spring up whenever the vegetables from a truck farm have become infected, or when cooks and other food-handlers are infected with the disease. There have been epidemics on the California coast; as a matter of fact, there still are.

The amoeba responsible for the condition is a small unicellular animal parasite which fastens itself on the mucous membrane of the colon and produces ulcerations.

The symptoms—pain, diarrhea and emaciation—are so severe that it should be possible to treat the condition always in the acute stage. A number of drugs are available which, if used properly, will kill off the amoeba and allow the colon to return to normal. The one used for the longest period of time is ipecac. Lately some new drugs, vioform and carbasone, have been introduced which are very effective. All too frequently cases are allowed to go on to a chronic stage. The condition is not always severe, and may manifest itself only in slight rectal spasm. Some of these cases have been treated for rectal ulceration which later are shown to be amoebic colitic. It is these chronic cases which spread the disease, and today the public health service and practicing physicians generally are more alert than they were to detecting such carriers.

It is to be hoped, and it is expected, that now that the danger is realized that the disease can be entirely eliminated.

To Students in the Graduate College Expecting to Receive Degrees at the Coming Convocation:

Each student in the graduate college who expects to receive the master's degree, or the doctorate, at the forthcoming Convocation, is requested, so far as he may not have done so heretofore, to procure for us immediately the official transcript of whatever graduate work he may have accomplished in another graduate school. He should then advise the assistant university examiner of his selection of a major (both major and minor for the doctorate) so that his work may be transferred to his graduate record here.

This should be done early within the session. Otherwise we may be unable to certify for graduation a student who has accomplished satisfactory work elsewhere.

H. C. DORCAS,
Registrar.

To All Students Who Expect To Graduate At the Close of the Present Summer Session —August 6, 1937:

Every student who expects to receive a degree or a certificate at the university convocation to be held Friday, August 6, should make his formal application on a card provided for the purpose at the registrar's office on or before Saturday, July 10.

It is of utmost importance that each student concerned comply with this request immediately, for otherwise it is very likely that a student who may be in other respects qualified will not be recommended for graduation at the close of the present semester.

MAKING APPLICATION for the degree, or certificate, involves the payment of the graduation fee ($15.00) and also the cap and gown fee ($1.00) at the time the application is made—the payment of these fees being a necessary part of the application. Call at the registrar's office for the card.

H. C. DORCAS,
Registrar.

The award will be made on the basis of a regularly submitted thesis of an experimental or theoretical nature. It is not expected that the thesis be specifically planned in advance to meet the requirements of this award. It is hoped rather that in the graduate work of the Child Welfare Research station or in the graduate studies of the psychology or sociology departments or the college of education, a thesis may be submitted which may be adjudged as making an original contribution of value to this program.

Copies of theses submitted for this award must be in the hands of either member of the committee before 5 p.m. on Thursday, July 15.

Further information may be obtained from either member of the committee.

State of Texas Files Suits for Millions

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Texans are speculating whether a deficit of approximately $10,000,000 in the state's general revenue fund may be paid, and a tidy sum laid up in addition, through two pending law suits.

In one suit the state is asking $17,500,000 penalties from more than a dozen of the major oil companies, charging they conspired to violate the Texas anti-trust laws.

In the other suit the state seeks to recover inheritance taxes on the estate of the late Col. E. H. R. Green. Exactly how much the taxes may total is not known, but it may be several million dollars.

The issue in the Green case is where his residence was located. Several states claim it. The case will be argued before the U.S. supreme court.

A New Yorker At Large

By JACK STINNETT

NEW YORK—Take all the dance bands in New York, put them in a hat, shake well and drawing musicians, one by one, you will not be able to pull out an aggregation which for dance rhythms and an evening's entertainment can surpass Horace Heidt's Brigadiers . . . now doing their nightly stint for those who park beneath the silver palms of the Biltmore's lovely Moonlit Terrace. Heidt might have been a heavyweight boxer, a professional football player, or even a professor . . . but the Fates wove their web and he became a musician.

The Alameda, Cal., lad won Culver Military Academy's award for the best all-around athlete; returned to the University of California to win a top spot in one of those California teams that made football history in the early 1920's; and was rated the university's greatest heavyweight boxer. His family put an end to his days in the ring. A fractured back put an end to his days on the gridiron . . . and 17 major operations almost put an end to Horace Heidt.

But he came out of it completely cured, an inch over six feet tall, an ounce or two over 200 pounds in weight . . . and one of the best orchestra leaders in the land.

In college, he had supplemented his $60 a month as a gasoline filling station attendant with short turns as a pianist in dance orchestras. Before he had his degree, he had his own orchestra . . . and after graduation, did coast-to-coast and European tours with his Californians.

They returned to this country to find that radio had become something more than an effort to tune out static and Horace tore down his orchestra, rebuilt it to meet the new demand.

Heidt's idea of meeting the new demand was to collect as many individual stars as could be assembled under one baton. Here are some of his Brigadiers:

Lysbeth Hughes, the San Francisco harpist, whose soprano voice is leading her toward grand opera; the Four King Sisters, the Salt Lake City harmony girls, each of whom can step out and win individual encores; Larry Cotton, the Oklahoma City and Dallas, Texas tenor, who can match his honors as a crooner with palms as a singer of light opera; Alvino Rey, the Cleveland, Ohio, lad who invented the electric guitar and forgot to have it patented before he had shown the musical world what could be done with it; Bob McCoy, the Alaskan, who must have melted some of that Arctic ice with his rich bass-baritone.

SCREEN LIFE

By HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD—This just goes to show you something. Carole Lombard was borrowed by Selznick to co-star in "Nothing Sacred." Claudette Colbert was borrowed by Warners to co-star in "Tovarich."

Both companies have very capable gown designers. But neither Carole nor Claudette would have anything to do with the borrowing companies' designers. They insisted on having Travis Banton, from Paramount, do their clothes.

Important

And both being important, their requests were granted. Banton got $10,000 for each job. Some might say the girls were showing their gratitude by making it possible for Banton, who has made them among the best dressed women on the screen, to pick up a little extra change.

I think it was just self-preservation. They know Banton knows how to dress them and they didn't dare to take a chance on a new designer. Or, maybe it was a little bit of both.

Joan Blondell and Errol Flynn are working in the same picture, "The Perfect Specimen."

Which is occasion enough to recall that one of Joan's early biographies contains incidents that could match any ever conceived by the highly imaginative Flynn. Joan was shipwrecked — so says the story — chased by murderous Chinese coolies and lost for days in the desert. There's a lot more fiction, dozens of hair-raising incidents that supposedly happened during Joan's early life.

Imagination

All of them happened only in the imagination of Norman Krasna, now a writer and producer. A few years ago, when he was a publicity writer at Warners, Joan had a date with him and stood him up. He was peeved and wrote the thrilling Blondell biography to embarrass her.

It didn't. She took it good naturedly, although the story was widely printed. If all the things happened to Joan that Krasna said happened to her, she'd have to be 78 years old.

Outmoded

'Guidance' Replaces Child Discipline

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW
AP Feature Service Writer

"Don't" still has a place in the modern parent's vocabulary, but "discipline" is outmoded.

"Guidance" has become the proper term for this business of training children. It sounds less severe, and it properly defines the relationship of parent and child," says Miss Jessie Stanton, head of the nursery division of the Harriet Johnson Experimental School in New York.

How Times Change

She explains the difference thus:

In Victorian days, children regarded their parents as ogres, who did nothing but command, forbid and prevent. Youngsters prayed to grow up so they could turn the tables.

Nowadays the wise parent tries to make his child forget the difference in years, says Miss Stanton. He's firm with the youngster, but tries to understand what's going on in his mind.

The parent, as we started out to say, is a guide, not a disciplinarian.

"Of course children need guidance," asserts the energetic Miss Stanton, who finds child training fascinating. "They should have complete freedom only when they are on their own. That means freedom in play. But they have to be told when to eat and when to go to bed.

Give Children Time

"Give them plenty of time to prepare themselves for the change. Here in the nursery school we give the children five minutes warning before meal time, before they take their naps, and before they go outdoors to play.

"A child's mind works very slowly. You say, 'Come to dinner right away,' and he bursts into tears. Give him time to adjust himself. Say instead, 'The carrots are boiling, and you must get ready to eat them.' Then he'll have time to pick up his playthings in anticipation of the coming meal."

Don't expect the same kind of obedience from a child when he is tired, warns Miss Stanton. At the end of the day he reacts even more slowly than normally.

SMITH WON'T RUN

Refuses Nomination On Demo Ticket

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, returning from Europe today, said he would not be a candidate for mayor on the democratic ticket.

His arrival was looked to possibly to clarify a confused situation in regard to the Tammany candidate resulting from the refusal of Senators Robert Wagner and Royal Copeland to run against F. M. LaGuardia, fusion incumbent.

Almost simultaneously a group of prominent republicans called on Mayor LaGuardia with an invitation to run again with their support and he accepted.

Purdue Expects To See Amelia Back On Campus Next Fall

LAFAYETTE, Ind., July 8 (AP)—Purdue university, which knew Amelia Earhart well, expects to see the missing aviatrix back on the campus next fall.

Edward C. Elliott, Purdue president, other faculty members and Capt. Lawrence Aretz, manager of the university airport, were unwavering today in their faith that Miss Earhart and her navigator, Fred Noonan, would be rescued.

Elliott, ill at home with a cold, told his family he was confident she would be saved.

Miss Earhart joined the Purdue faculty last year at the invitation of Elliott, who was impressed by a lecture she delivered at Indianapolis.

On her office door was the title, "consultant on careers for women," but she advised both men and women students on career problems. She left the university last fall on an indefinite leave of absence.

The metal monoplane in which she was making her world-girdling flight was financed in part by private contributions from the Purdue Research Foundation directors.

Jamboree Jottings

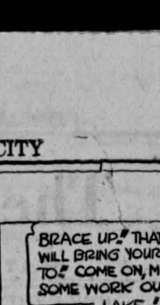
By MURRAY DAWSON



Tuesday morning we cleaned camp, and after lunch we went to the Supreme Court building. The Supreme Court was in session, and we spent a few interesting minutes there.

After visiting the Supreme Court building, we went to the library of congress, which has a copy of every book ever published or copyrighted in the United States. We spent an hour in the library just looking around — hardly realized that the time had gone.

There are several Chilean Scouts at the Jamboree, and one of them had supper with us Tuesday—he could speak just a little English—but he is sure a swell fellow. There are about 17 Chilean Scouts here attending the Jamboree.

Down The Sports Trail

By PAUL MICKELSON

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—Putting two and two together between peeks at the incoming mail:

Sparrow Ramsay, bantamweight publicity wizard, writes the Pittsburgh Pirates may transfer their 1938 spring training base from San Bernardino, Cal., to Miami. They're negotiating with the city of Miami now, informs Sparrow. Last major league club to train in Miami was the New York Giants who got $15,000 for the favor—if that information will help the Pirates who always can use cash.

Orange Bowl

Miami's new all-steel "Orange Bowl," erected at the cost of $314,000 and with a seating capacity of 30,000, is nearing completion, continues Mr. Ramsay. The Rose and Sugar Bowl football classics can start worrying at once because Miami intends to bid high for the best college teams for next New Year's day.

Robert Elijah Harolw, ex-head of the Professional Golfers' Association tournament bureau, cannot be undone. Unable to lure the mysterious John Montague of California to Chicago's $10,000 open at Medinah country club, July 23-26, Harlow has entered a "masked marvel." "All I care to say," writes Harlow, "is that the guy—or maybe it's a gal—once won a tournament." Odds are even money that the "masked marvel" will be none other than Harlow, himself. He once won a bartenders' tournament when the rest of the boys got too gay with free spirits and couldn't finish.

George Edmond, sports editor of the St. Paul Dispatch, who happens to be one of the sweetest golf scribes in plus fours, scored a hole-in-one on the 153-yard 11th at Hillcrest, St. Paul. As he addressed the ball, he said: "Watch me closely, gentlemen, and I'll show you how this game really should be played." And he did. . . Chamber of Commerce Cox, another noted St. Paul citizen, answered an invitation to attend yesterday's all-star game as follows: "Why should I trek across the hot country to watch a bunch of san-lotter swing at 'de empty vuns'? I'm off to do some fishing—as only we Minnesotans know how to do do it."

From the American Kennel club—"America's average judge of purebred dogs has an average judging speed of 17.5 dogs an hour. It would cost approximately $9,000,000 to stage a dog show in which all the dogs were judged simultaneously." Woof of it?

Buck Newsom, Boston Red Sox pitcher, informs he has pitched four no-hit games without winning one of them. He pitched three of 'em in high school and nine innings of hitless ball for the St. Louis Browns, only to get licked, 1-0, in the tenth. No wonder Buck gets sore at umpires.

Kennett Must Have Entries By Tomorrow

Only two days remain for the Iowa City golf addicts to make their entries for the All-Iowa City golf tournament!

All entry blanks must be in the hands of Coach Charles Kennett by tomorrow night. Blanks may be secured in either The Daily Iowan or the Iowa City Press-Citizen and should be filled out and given to the sports editors of these papers or to Coach Kennett at Finkbine field.

With qualifying rounds scheduled to open July 12, a record entry list is expected. This will be the only tournament of this kind in Iowa City this summer.

The tournament this year will have the new feature in that the $2 entry fee will be the only charge made. In previous years, individual green fees were charged in addition to the entry fee.

According to present plans, match play will begin July 19 and must be completed by the July 25 deadline. The second-round matches will begin July 28 and must be completed in three days. The finals of the tournament will be for 36 holes and will be played Sunday, Aug. 1.

Coach Kennett said that Finkbine field, which is one of the longest and trickiest courses in this section of the state, would be in perfect condition and that he expected many of the summer students who have been enjoying the sporty course to enroll in the tournament.

Aquatic aces from Nebraska, South Dakota and Iowa will compete.

It will be the first time that southeastern Iowa has entertained the event, the top swimming attraction each year in the midwest.

Announcement that Ottumwa will be host to the competition came from Jake Daubert, former Iowa State college swimming coach and now manager of the Marshalltown municipal pool.

The annual Iowa A.A.U. meet will be held at the Marshalltown pool. The state sectional meets will be in Fairfield, Red Oak, LeMars, Webster City, Waterloo and three other sites to be named later.

BOUNDING BUCKEYE

Ed Dudley Tied For 2nd in British Open

Eleven Yanks Qualify For 36 Holes of Play

Sarazen, Kirkwood, Manero, Sweeny, Bailey Drop Out

By SCOTTY RESTON

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, July 8 (AP)—Reginald Albert Whitcombe, largest and youngest of England's three distinguished golfing brothers, swung over Carnoustie's shaggy heath in 70 strokes today to take a two-stroke lead at the half-way mark in the British Open Golf championship with a score of 142.

Two shots back of Ed Dudley at the end of yesterday's first round, Whitcome covered the 7,200 yards of Carnoustie in three under par, leaving Dudley two shots behind.

Americans Miss Chance

Dazed by the first day of sunshine in a week, the Americans missed what little chance they had to take the lead. But generally they strengthened their positions within striking distance of the leader as the tournament moved into its final 36 holes, to be played tomorrow.

Eleven players from the United States qualified with 36 others for the final fight. Five others, Gene Sarazen, Tony Manero, Joe Kirkwood, Amateur John W. Bailey of Battle Creek, Mich., and American-born British Amateur Champion Robert Sweeny, failed.

Two Whitcombes

One Whitcombe would have been enough for any championship today, but the leaders had to contend with two of them. The most noted member of the tribe, elder Brother Charles, who captained the British Ryder cup forces, managed to get around in 71 and was tied with Dudley at 144, two strokes off the pace.

Two shots further back were three of the most dangerous players in the world—Denny Shute, the U.S. pro champion who won with four straight 73's in 1933 and tonight already had two of them; Henry Cotton, who won in 1934 and is showing that he is coming on his game; and Alf Padgham, who came back to prove that he is a worthy defending champion after all.

Bill Branch

Bill Branch, the former internationalist who was tied for second with 72 yesterday, skidded to a 75 and was a shot behind the three champions.

Trailing by another stroke, at 148, came Horton Smith and Walter Hagen, both of whom rallied splendidly for a 71 and a 72, respectively, after disappointing first round scores; Bobby Locke, South African youngster seeking low amateur honors for the second year in a row; A. J. Lacey and David (Dai) Rees, British Ryder cuppers, and Fred Robertson.

Smith Shoots 71

Knowing that he had to buck up after squandering strokes yesterday, broad-grinning Smith, who was medalist with a pair of 69's, shot a 71 that was five strokes better than his first-round score. Hagen added his one-under-par 72 to an initial 76.

It was a day of heart-warming rallies for at least two other Americans. Open Champion Ralph Guldahl and hard-hitting Snead almost

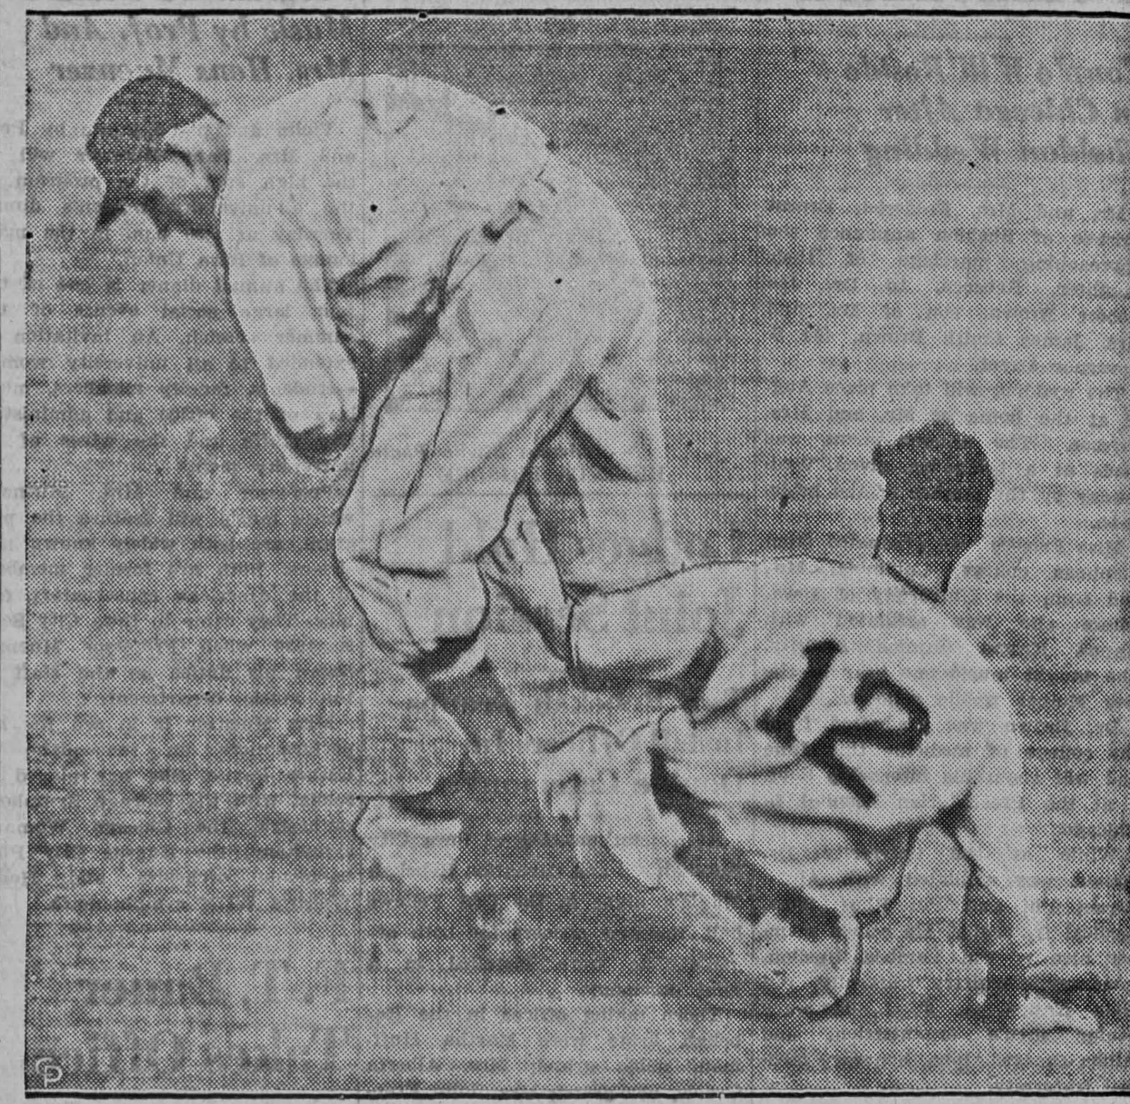
HERMAN OUT AT SECOND BASE IN ALL-STAR GAME



Action during the All-Star game in Washington which was won by the American league, 8 to 3, is pictured. Charley Gehringer takes a throw from Joe Cronin, forcing Billy Herman of the Nationals at second base. It was the Americans' fourth victory in five games between the stars.

Magnates Favor Poll

New Publicity Aids All-Stars' Gate Receipts

By ALAN GOULD

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—National leaguers, after dropping four of five all-star decisions, favor some method of taking game away from Yankees before taking up question of giving it back to fans . . . Big league magnates like added publicity arising from selection of all-stars by popular poll, instead of having rival managers pick teams, but Washington's neat job of handling this year's match proved no special ballyhoo is needed for sellout . . . Everything but standing room was sold in advance and there were five times as many applicants for tickets as there were pasteboards . . .

When Americans' squad met with Manager Joe McCarthy just before game to go over rival batting order, discussion of how to pitch to Joe (Muscles) Medwick brought this crack from Lefty Gomez: "National league pitchers haven't been able to keep that guy from hitting over .400 for three months. So how are we going to stop him with only a half hour to figure out his weakness, if any?" . . .

Gomez, only pitcher to get Medwick out in five tries, saw the Cardinal clouter later belted four different deliveries for base hits . . . All stars agree Joe's best right-handed batsman since Rogers Hornsby. Dizzy Dean insists his arm "aint's right" this season, but he exhibited plenty of stuff and was within one stroke of finishing scoreless three-inning trick when Lou Gehrig belted him for homer . . . Gehrig's blow was unanimously endorsed by the society-in-favor-of-defeating-Dean . . . Before the game Dean paid his respects to the rest of the all-star hurling troupe, then broadcast: "Ol' Dizz tops 'em all." . . . Major league attendance, for first half of season, has shattered all records with aggregate of nearly 7,000,000 cash customers this far . . . Prexies of two big circuits report that for first time in history every club shows increase over previous season . . . Nationals seem assured of another tight pennant fight, with Cubs now slightly favored over champion Giants, but American leaguers have their fingers crossed in fear of another Yankee runaway . . .

"Those Yanks have two strikes on every club that goes into the stadium," muttered one managerial rival at Washington . . .

Entries Closed For 1st A.A.A. Race Program

Thirty-One Drivers Officially Registered In Cedar Rapids Event

CEDAR RAPIDS, July 8—Entries for the Cedar Rapids AAA inaugural auto race program on Sunday afternoon have been definitely closed with 31 star drivers officially registered to compete in the six event, 100 lap program over the fast Frontier park dirt bowl, Hankinson Speedways officials announced today.

Most of the drivers have already arrived in Cedar Rapids, several coming here direct from Roosevelt field where they competed in the $70,000 Vanderbilt cup race last Saturday. They will get their first chance to test out the Frontier park course on Saturday afternoon. Several of the middle western drivers who live within a radius of 100 miles of Cedar Rapids will not bring their cars here until Sunday morning in time for the qualifying trials.

Drivers who have already reported in include National Champion Mauri Rose, Columbus, Ohio; Bob Sall, Paterson, N. J.; Ben Shaw, Miami, Fla.; Port DeFratis, Springfield, Ill.; Ray Gardner, Los Angeles; Ken Fowler, Dayton, Ohio; Cowboy O'Rourke, Chicago; Ted Horn, Los Angeles; George Connor, San Bernardino; Louie Tomei, Los Angeles; Billy DeVore, Kansas City; Billy Winn, Detroit; Frank Bailey, New Brunswick, N. J.; Frank Beeder, St. Louis; Tommy Hinnershitz, Reading, Pa., and Tony Willman of Milwaukee.

Anticipating the largest crowd that has ever assembled for a Cedar Rapids sporting event, officials here have arranged to accommodate more than 20,000 spectators at Frontier park Sunday. Special trains will run from the city to the park throughout the day and electric interurban lines will offer special rates for the occasion.

The qualifying time trials will begin at noon on Sunday and the 20 fastest cars will become eligible to compete for the cash purses in the race events which begin at 2:30 o'clock. The program will be comprised of five 10 lap heat races and a 40 lap final feature. Ten cars will start in the consolation race and the final long distance grind.

Dempsey Will Referee

DES MOINES (AP) — Pinkie George, fight promoter, announced that Jack Dempsey, former champion of the world, will referee a boxing card here July 19. Ralph O'Dell, Ottumwa heavyweight, will be one of the main event principals, George said.

BOB GRAY SHOOTS TWO UNDER PAR FOR 1ST ROUND

FONTHILL, Ont., July 8 (AP)—On the strength of a succession of birdies on the out-nine, lanky Bob Gray, Windsor, Ont., pro, posted a two-under par 68 over the Fonthill Country club layout today to top the field of 77 in the first round of the $4,000 General Brock Open Golf tournament.

Despite a three-over-par 38 on the home side of his round, the Canadian shot-maker held a one stroke lead over his nearest rivals, and anywhere from two to six shots over the highly regarded United States contenders.

Nearest to him when the day's final scores were posted were Ed Oliver, Wilmington, Del., and Willie Lamb of Toronto, many-time Canadian pro champion, each with 69. Wild Bill Mehlhorn of Louisville and Francis of Buffalo, N. Y., shot even-par 70s to deadlock at third place with Jack Galloway, Hamilton, Ont.

Golf--

shot themselves out of the competition on the first nine, but came back over the back stretch at a sub-par pace to join the others at 149.

Guldahl, after a 77 yesterday and an out-going 38 today, birdied the 11th and 15th and played the rest of the way home in par for an incoming 34 that left him with a chance to add the British crown to his American title. Snead, worrying on a first-round 75, took a 7 at the sixth and a 6 at the ninth but picked up an eagle at the 14th to finish in 35 for a 74, one over standard figures.

The Britons tied with Snead and Guldahl were A. D. Cairncross and Bill Laidlaw. Alone at 150 came Tom Collinge.

At 151, nine strokes back, were Byron Nelson, who added a 76 today to his 75, and Charley Lacey, burly Great Neck, N.Y., pro who reversed the process. They were tied with Aubrey Boomer of France, who had a weird 72; Percy Alliss, Bill Cox, J. J. Busson and three others.

Johnny Revolta, 1935 P.G.A. champion who took his second 76 and Bobby Cruickshank, who scrambled to a 74, were tied at 152 with six others, among them another Whitcombe, Ernest E., son of Ernest R. and nephew of Reginald and Charles.

Henry Picard just got under the wire with a 77 for a total of 153, but Tony Manero, adding a 76 to his opening 78, missed a shot.

The first woman golfer of whom there is any record was King James V's daughter, Mary, who became queen of Scotland (1542-1567). Mary was as skillful as the men of her time. She was censured for playing "golfe" shortly after her husband's death.

Co-Ed Travels 4,000 Miles In Title Defense

HAVERHILL, Mass. (AP) — Although insisting she is nothing more than "what you might call an apprentice mechanic," 18-year-old Mollie Tyson (Bradford junior college, '37) is in the midst of 4,000 miles of summer travel in defense of her national outboard motorboat titles.

The slender Chestnut Hill, Pa., society girl, honor student in home economics, piloted her 2-cylinder gasoline engine mounted on a fragile 8½-foot hull to the women's high point and intercollegiate midget class championships last summer.

"There's a thrill in winning," she says, "a thrill in knowing you have successfully overcome obstacles of a race." As for danger:—

"I've been lucky, I suppose. Haven't had a spill in more than 50 races." The rough and dirty work of readying her craft for a race is as easy for Mollie as a discussion of Parisian fashions or cooking an omelet.

"After assembling the motor we make sure there are no hooks or warped spots on the hull. Then there's a little sandpapering in smoothing the riding surface. Check the steering cables, wheel and throttle attachment and you're ready to race."

The name Tyson and outboard racing are almost synonymous. Her father, James Y. C. Tyson, is a prominent race official and a member of the Philadelphia Outboard Regatta association. A brother, Tom, student at Stevens Institute of Technology, who is boss mechanic with Mollie as assistant, is eastern amateur and intercollegiate Class A champion. A sister, Elise, started racing last summer. Molly wants to be a dietician.

Taylor to Retire

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Herald Tribune said last night Myron C. Taylor has put his associates on notice that he expects to retire as chairman of the board of the U. S. Steel corporation at the end of this year.

In July, 1918, Terry and Drogheda, trotting horses, deadheated at Shelbourne park, Dublin, Ireland. On the first runoff they again deadheated. The third race was another tie. Their owners gave it up and divided the purse.

One odd diet led to another for Neal Welch Jr., 11, of South Bend, Ind. He swallowed a pin. The doctor fed him sterile cotton to protect his stomach.

Ruins Pugs

Ex-Lightweight King Blames 10 Rounders

NEW YORK—Willie Ritchie, affable and fatter around the waistline than when he ruled from the world lightweight throne, believes the 10-round distance of most fights ruins a boxer's development.

The former 135-pound king, who won the title from Ad Wolgast in San Francisco Nov. 8, 1912, and lost it by a hairline decision in London to Freddie Welsh July 7, 1914, should know whereof he speaks.

"You know," Ritchie told a friend out in Los Angeles the other day, "if you were going to go 20 rounds you just naturally had to know how to box. You couldn't sacrifice skill for speed.

He Won—The Last Four

"I'll never forget the first time I went 20 rounds. I was brought up on four-rounders and had a lot of speed when they matched me with old Matty Baldwin. I was afraid I wouldn't be able to go that far so I played safe for the first 16 rounds.

"Then, with only four to go, I felt right at home and went like a house afire. But I'd spotted Matty the first 16 and naturally lost the decision. After that I was sure I could go the distance before I took a bout."

Ritchie's most notable appearance in Los Angeles was the time he left his home in San Francisco one night, reached Los Angeles the next morning and went 20 torrid rounds with the great Freddie Welsh—with little or no training behind him, and $600 which he bargained for just before he stepped into the ring.

Always Ready To Go

"I hadn't fought for a month, but I always kept in shape—or should I say, I was never out of shape.

"I'd have fought Welsh for nothing," Ritchie related, "but, of course, I wasn't going to let them know that. I got awfully tired along in the middle of that fight, but, don't forget, I was the only one to score a knockdown. It was somewhere in the latter part of the engagement."

Ritchie, asked about the fight in which he dropped the title to Welsh, declared:

"I thought I won it. I still think so."

He said he still has the score sheet of Referee Eugene Corri, which shows they went into the last round even in points.

"And I didn't lose that last round," Ritchie declared. "At least, I didn't think so."

Incidentally, instead of $600 received in his first bout with the little Englishman, Ritchie collected a guarantee of $25,000—one of his largest purses.

Dr. Paulus To Present 4 Health Laws to Council Tonight

Officer Seeks To Coordinate Local Duties

Ordinances Would Affect Milk, Food And Barber Shops

Four city health ordinances—one providing for the creation of a city health department; a second which would replace the present milk ordinance, and a fourth for barber regulation—will be presented to the city council for consideration tonight by Dr. E. W. Paulus, city health officer.

The city health department would be headed by the city health officer, under terms of the proposed ordinance. His powers would include those of investigation and inspection of health conditions and the enforcement of health regulations.

Assistants

Assistants to him would be other health officials, such as the city nurse, milk inspector and the sanitary inspector, plumbing inspector and building inspector.

These officials would be directly responsible to the city health officer. "As it is now," said Dr. Paulus, "they are responsible only to the city council, and there is no coordination in their duties. "A city health department would coordinate and enforce health regulations."

New Milk Ordinance

The present milk ordinance, branded by Dr. Paulus as "out of date," would be completely replaced by the proposed ordinance which would provide for the inspection of dairy farms and milk plants and the examination, grading, labeling, placarding, pasteurization, regrading, distribution and sale of milk and milk products.

It would provide for the publishing of milk grades, construction of future dairies and milk plants, permits for the sale of milk and milk products, prohibition of the sale of adulterated and misbranded, milk and the enforcement of milk regulations.

U.S. Cooperates

Dr. Paulus said that the ordinance was drafted with the cooperation of the U.S. public health service and the state department of health.

A third ordinance would supplement the present food ordinance. Provisions would be made for the licensing of food dispensers, the inspection and investigation of affected premises and equipment and the cleansing of dishes and eating utensils.

Law for Barbers

Barbers and chiropodists would be affected by the fourth ordinance, which would provide for cleanliness by enforcing regulations governing sterilization of instruments and the non-employment of persons with communicable diseases. "This would be the first attempt at regulations of this type," added Dr. Paulus. "This is the first ordinance in Iowa City which would provide regulations for santary conditions in barber shops," he concluded.

All four regulations were drafted by Dr. Paulus and City Attorney Robert Larson. Health authorities were consulted freely for advice on sanitary conditions and regulations.

New License Plates For 1938 Received At Courthouse Here

The new 1938 license plates were received at the courthouse yesterday by Burton V. Bridenstine, superintendent of the auto license bureau.

The numerals on the licenses are white on a blue background—the same as in 1936. Although there was considerable discussion about putting an ear of corn on the plates, this means of identifying the tall corn state will not be on the licenses.

The licenses will go on sale Dec. 1, Bridenstine said.

Car Accident Victim Reported Improving

Dorothy Patera, who was seriously injured in a July 4 accident six miles east of town, was reported to be improving last night.

The accident, which resulted in the injuries to Miss Patera, and minor injuries to Clarence Le Vora, driver of the car, and to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Christianson, was the result of a tire blow-out

Thirty Wholesalers Discuss Milk Bill

Thirty milk wholesalers, members of the Johnson County Milk Producers' association, discussed the proposed milk ordinance last night at a meeting in the courthouse.

Dr. E. W. Paulus, drafter of the ordinance, explained it in detail. Dr. J. H. Wolfe, president, presided.

AROUND THE TOWN with MERLE MILLER

Ex-Newspaper Man

W. E. Burbank, ex-newspaperman and now a wanderer of the roads, dropped into the office yesterday on his way to nowhere in particular . . . He drops in every year at about this time, offering to write an article on his experiences. . .

Burbank had an excellent job on one of the larger papers before the depression set in, but he was jerked because of "bad times.". . . Since then he's been across the continent both ways time after time, he's observed life, declares he doesn't know whether he'd give it up if another job did come along. . . Burbank makes his way by writing of his experiences for newspapers along the way. . .

Via the Hitch-Hike

Most of Burbank's travels have been by the hitch-hike trail. . . Lately, he's been hindered in several states where anti-thumber laws have gone into effect, but he goes his merry way in spite of the law. . . He merely wanders down the road, looks wistfully back occasionally and sooner or later someone comes along and asks him to ride. . .

But he's in favor of hitch-hike laws and their vigorous enforcement most of the time. . . He declares, however, does Burbank, that most of the laws'll be found unconstitutional when tested. . .

Pessimistic

A keen observer of human affairs, one who's talked with those who know, Burbank looks with a dismal eye on the outlook for college graduates. . . Despite statistics to the contrary he affirms only 20 per cent of this year's graduating classes have jobs or will have for some time to come.

Those who do have the positions had already angled them before they went up the aisles for a diploma, Burbank told me. . .

A Ride

One of the ex-newspaper man's best stories is of the day he was nonchalantly thumbing his way along when he was asked "Want a ride, buddy?" by a tame enough looking fellow, hopped in. . . All went well, but Burbank later learned his ride-donor was the famed "Pretty-Boy" Floyd, he whom the G-men now have wiped off the criminal map. . .

And so Burbank goes on his weary way and "has a better time than most newspaper men who're tied down to a desk." . . . It may have been a break in disguise, his losing his desk job. . .

Wrong Again!

Once the general impression about was that the chaps who could sleep on hitting the bed were those with clear consciences. . . But science comes along to declare that's no longer true. . . Seems you go to sleep when you stop thinking. . . All of which is all right—except that this correspondent wonders how so many keep awake during the day time. . .

My favorite attorney declares the hot weather is a boon for soul-savers. . . He declares a lot don't like to think what it would be like if the temperature were any warmer. . .

Prize for the Best Crack of the Week—To the local wife who's reputed to have told her husband. . . "I wish I were a stranger. You're wonderful to strangers, I hear."

Truck Driver Fined On Two Charges By Justice J. M. Kadlec

Two fines totaling $15 and costs were levied against W. B. Guthrie, a Bloomfield truck driver, by Justice of the Peace J. M. Kadlec Wednesday.

He was fined $10 for overloading and $5 for speeding. The information was filed by State Highway Patrolman A. H. Hallgren July 4.

Rotary Club Hears Speaker

Prof. Ralph Fuchs Delivers Address On Collective Bargaining

A feature of the Rotary club's program yesterday noon was an address on the subject "The Federal Promotion of Collective Bargaining" by Prof. Ralph F. Fuchs of Washington university, St. Louis.

"Labor takes advantage of the doctrine in American law that competitors can inflict economic injury upon each other without being guilty of breaking the law," the speaker said. "The sit-down strike is illegal under existing law, but labor asserts itself in this manner rather than lose its only method of preventing employers from closing factory doors."

Guests for the luncheon meeting included W. K. Streit, Cincinnati; Paul Starbuck, Cherryvale, Kan.; Dr. Paul Burrows, Santa Monica, Cal.; John G. McDowell, Algona; W. N. Atkinson, Macomb, Ill.; C. H. Beems, Perry; George Davis, Keokuk; Attorney Wayne Cook, Davenport, and Walter Odell, Cedar Rapids.

Contest---

in its campaign for office in 1935. Asked if she could name one of the local members of the party, the witness thought a moment, then replied, "Yes, I can. One was Harry Abbott."

Abbott, in the courtroom at the time, laughed with the rest of the spectators; but a few minutes later, during a court recess, he confronted Mrs. Karns in the hall, waved his cane and "called me some awful names," she later said.

On the stand Mrs. Karns said she was a member of the Consumers' Protective association and that she had contributed $3 in cash, but she said she knew none of the officers and did not know whether the organization is still in existence.

Hart Objects

"We taxpayers are burdened enough. I thought we needed some protection," the woman testified. During all of Mrs. Karns' testimony Attorney Hart objected to her answers being put in the record, and Judge John M. Rankin of Keokuk reserved ruling "for the present."

Finally Linville told Mrs. Karns: "There'll probably be an objection to every question; it would be better for you to wait until Mr. Hart objects before you answer."

Mrs. Karns testified she worked for the Citizens' Non-Partisas party during the spring campaign. She said she and several other women took a "straw ballot" among their "friends" to see which ticket they favored.

Others Testify

Other witnesses during the afternoon were Mrs. Florence Prizler, Mrs. George Bouck, Mrs. Mary Faherty, Luta Dove and Mrs. Winifred Derksen.

Mrs. Bouck testified she had hired "four or five" women to help her complete a "straw ballot" — the same as that referred to by Mrs. Karns—among "friends." She said she received a "loan" from Attorney Will J. Hayek to pay the women.

The wife of the third ward alderman also testified Hayek had "suggested" the straw vote to her early in the campaign.

"In other words," Linville said, "you 'borowed' the money to pay these workers from the same man who suggested that you hire them?"

"That's right," Mrs. Bouck replied.

Mrs. Derksen testified she also paid money to several women employed for a straw ballot. She said the "money to pay them came from Mr. Hayek."

Taylor Questioned

During the morning's proceedings yesterday Roscoe Taylor, manager of the Iowa City Light and Power company, was the chief witness.

When Taylor said he would not bring in advertisements of the power company except when "the court orders me to," Attorney Hart jumped to his feet to declare:

"It seems to me the advertisements themselves would be the best evidence."

"Who are you to tell us how to conduct our case?" shouted Linville.

Then Attorney Wayne Cook of Davenport, retaining attorney for the power company, stood up to assert: "Taylor's employer will have something to say about what he does."

Linville was on his feet again in an instant.

"Let it appear in the records that Attorney Cook interposes and objects to the method of procedure and that he is present in the courtroom almost constantly and has conferred with counsel for the defense and let it also appear in the record that Attorney Herbert J. Rees also has appeared in the court room almost constantly and has conferred with counsel for the incumbents.

"We are entitled to speak to anyone in the United States that we want to," Hart replied. "This is a public court room, and any person here is entitled to be here."

Judge Rankin then stopped the bickering by declaring: "We will get along better if counsel addresses its remarks to the court rather than across the counsel tables."

Taylor also testified as to when the power company began impounding a sum of money it proposed to return to consumers when plans for abandonment of a municipal plant were effected.

To Adjourn Today

Judge Rankin will adjourn court for this week at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Attorney Nolan last night said he will not be able to complete testimony for the plaintiffs today. Among the witnesses yet to be called are Prof. J. Van der Zee, MOL leader, more women workers in the spring campaign and other employes of the Iowa City Light and Power company.

Attorney Hart last night said his case may not even take a day. "It will all depend on what the MOL's prove; I may not have a single witness," he said.

AMELIA'S MOTHER AWAITS WORD

Mrs. Amy Earhart

Anxiously awaiting word concerning the fate of Amelia Earhart, forced down in the South Seas with her navigator, Frank Noonan, is her mother, Mrs. Amy Earhart of Medford, Mass.—Central Press

New Buildings To Be Erected

A residence and garage will be constructed by Emma and Bessie E. Stover, 214 E. Court street. Nate Moore is the contractor.

City Inspector Harold Monk issued the building permit yesterday.

Child Drowns in Tank

SIDNEY (AP)—Peter McGargell, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed McGargel of Imogene, was drowned yesterday in a horse tank on his father's farm.

Committee Discusses Plans For 'Corn Is King' Pageant

Plans for the "Corn Is King" pageant, a part of the 4-H club show here Aug. 18-20, were discussed by a committee of 40 Johnson county men and women in County Agent Emmett C. Gardner's office last night.

Episode I, "Days of Indian Maize," will be presented by Madison, Penn and Clear Creek townships under the direction of J. C. Fuhrmeister of North Liberty.

Episode II

George Petzel of Iowa City will direct Episode II, "Early White Settlers Bring Corn to Johnson County," portrayed by Scott, East Lucas and Pleasant Valley townships.

Frank Fisher, also of Iowa City, is in charge of Episode III which shows the steps in corn development and will be presented by the junior farm bureau.

Lincoln and Fremont townships, under Mrs. Lloyd Burr of Lone Tree, will present the fourth episode showing the scientific and agricultural improvements in corn cultivation.

Modern Methods

Episode V depicts the modern methods of corn planting and harvesting. William Steinbrech of Solon will direct the Cedar and Graham township group.

"The Coronation of King Corn," last episode in the pageant, will be depicted by Sharon, Union and West Lucas townships under the direction of Ray Smalley of Iowa City.

"There will be at least 300 in the cast, and we expect about 3,000 spectators," County Agent Gardner said.
