SENATE CONFIRMS BLACK, 63 TO 16

Mobs Roam Streets Of Shanghai, Cry for Food

Battle Breaks Anew at Dawn; Marine Injured

Hordes Kill Natives Suspected of Plot To Poison Water Supply

By MORRIS J. HARRIS

SHANGHAI, Aug. 18 (Wednesday)-(AP)— Undisciplined mobs roamed through the streets of Shanghai today, searching, beating and killing natives they suspected of plotting to poison the city's water supply, while thousands of homeless refugees clamored for food at the barricaded gates of the International settlement.

The bitter battle between Chinese and Japanese, with its toll of 1,400 non-combatant Chinese and foreign dead, burst again at dawn along the slithering, murky Whangpoo river that winds about Shanghai's famous waterfront bund and hence to the mighty Yangtze, exit to the sea.

The first American marine wounded in the Shanghai fighting was hit by shell fragments. He was pharmacist mate Floyd Arnold of the fourth U.S. marines, wounded in the hip while on duty in the American sector of the International settlement.

Flagship Moves Up River

As the battle progressed today, the American flagship of the Asiatic fleet, the cruiser Augusta, moved up the river and anchored off the settlement bund.

Two hundred ninty-four American women and children fled the city today, embarking by tender at 11:12 a.m. for the 10-mile trip to Woosung, where waited the liner President McKinley. Three hundred thirty-seven left yesterday, and 200 the day before.

Japanese warships, led by the flagship Idzumo, began bombardment of Chinese positions along the river at early morning.

Chinese guns spoke in answer from a new position established during the night, in Pootung eastward across the Whangpoo from Shanghai proper.

Rumor Poison Plot

Native newspapers had carried rumors, unconfirmed, that Japanese tried to influence natives to poison the city's water supply.

Infuriated, menacing mobs acted upon the rumors and many natives were killed or beaten. Scores of Chinese were stopped and searched by the raiding gangs. If they possessed powders or medicines of any kind, the victims were beaten. Fifteen innocent Chinese, police said, were killed and at least 40 injured from this cause.

The problem of caring for the hundreds of thousands of homeless refugees became pressing.

These stolid, hungry people, victims of an undeclared war that appears primarily as a test of strength for two armies of traditional enmity, have been living in vacant lots, in alleys, or even sleeping on sidewalks since the conflict drove them from their homes six days ago.

Authorities of the French concession and the International settlement began rounding them up today. They will be isolated south of the concession, given food and a measure of protection.

Battle Starts

Two Japanese planes were the first to appear in today's battle. They circled over Pootung, trying to spot the new Chinese gun positions. From a rooftop on the Shanghai side of the river, one gun could be observed. It appeared only a quarter of a mile from the Pootung river front, indicating that battle today would be at much closer range than heretofore.

The Reuters (British) news agency reported in a Nanking dispatch today that the legislative yuan of the central Chinese government had adopted a law for national mobilization, and that it had been submitted to the government of Premier-General Chiang Kai-shek for promulgation.

(This might indicate China is preparing for increasingly widespread conflict with Japanese.)

American Marine Calls the Bluff Of Chinese Officer

SHANGHAI, Aug. 18 (Wednesday)-(AP) —A Chinese officer tried to bluff a United States marine today—but failed.

The Chinese officer saw a marine of the fourth regiment stop a Chinese ambulance from crossing a bridge connecting Chapei, the Chinese quarter, and the International settlement. Marines are guarding the bridges joining Chapei and the northern International zone.

The Chinese officer walked across from Chapei and, with a precise English accent, told the marine commander:

"I'll give you people 10 minutes to go or I'll blow up the bridge."

The marine commander answered:

"I'll give you 10 seconds to go or I'll blow the hell out of you."

The Chinese officer went, hurriedly.

Man Confesses To New York Trunk Murder

Jobless Dishwasher Admits He Killed Roommate in Fight

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—Detective Capt. Edward Mullins announced tonight a man booked as Joseph Ogden, 36-year-old unemployed cook and dishwasher, had confessed the slaying of Oliver George Sinecal, whose nude body was found in a trunk delivered to an express agency this afternoon.

Detectives said they traced the trunk to a dealer who said he sold it yesterday.

Occupants of buildings near the trunk store said they saw a man waiting 20 minutes for it to open yesterday morning.

The principal clue, detectives said, was a number on the trunk.

Seized in Apartment

With it they began a canvass of luggage concerns in the city. They then went to the west side address to which the trunk was delivered and arrested Ogden in his three-room second floor apartment.

Police said they found two pistols in Ogden's room, one of them a .32-caliber revolver from which one shell had been fired.

When discovered through blood trickling from the trunk, Sinecal's body had a .32-caliber slug in the head.

Police said this weapon killed Sinecal, who had a petty police record in several cities.

Denies Guilt at First

After first protesting his innocence, Ogden broke down, Captain Mullins said, and confessed he shot Sinecal in a struggle for possession of the revolver.

Detectives said Ogden was not at home when they called but that they gained entrance to his apartment through a building attendant and found evidence of a planned flight.

Most of the furniture had been removed and a trunk was packed, they reported.

Ten detectives greeted Ogden when he came into his rooms carrying a suitcase he said he had borrowed from a friend.

Lived Together

Detectives said neighbors told them Ogden and Sinecal had been living together about three months.

Ogden told Captain Mullins he and Sinecal had quarreled twice in the last two weeks and that Sinecal had beaten him, the captain said.

The trunk was taken to the express office at the Pennsylvania terminal by two men in a taxicab who assigned it to "Joseph Marshal" in care of the American Express company at Memphis, Tenn.

Eskimos Claim They Heard Plane's Motor

Canadian Airman Discovers New Clue To Missing Russians

BARROW, Alaska, Aug. 17 (AP) —Bob Randall, Canadian airman seeking the lost Russian transpolar fliers, said late today Barter island Eskimos told him they heard what they believed were a plane's engines "four or five days ago."

Barter island is about 300 miles east of here on the north Alaska coast. It is on the 144th meridian, about 175 miles from the 148th meridian, which the Soviet fliers had been expected to traverse from the North Pole to Fairbanks.

Talked to Natives

Randall, who flew here earlier today from Alavik, N. W. T., returned to Barrow late this afternoon and said he had made many landings along the bleak northern stretches in quest of Sigismund Levaneffsky and his five companions.

"Wherever I could find a native to talk to, I stopped," he said.

The Barter island natives claimed they heard engines four or five days ago. They believed at first it was a boat, but they were unable to locate any boat so decided it must have been a plane engine.

Stays Overnight

"There is a possibility this might have been the Russian plane," Randall said.

The Russian plane last was heard from Friday, four days ago.

Randall said he planned to stay here overnight and resume his search tomorrow.

Today's flight was made through murky weather most of the time, though clouds were lifting here.

Admits Part In Flame Death Of Farmer

NORTHWOOD, Aug. 17 (AP)— Klinert Lindely, 25, was brought here today from Austin, Minn., to face charges in connection with the death of his brother, Ellert, 37, whose beaten, charred body was found in his burned farmhouse here July 1.

Earlier in the day, Lindely had admitted to officers in Austin that he had assaulted his brother and robbed him of $172. During the struggle, a lamp was overturned, Lindely said, and the fire which followed burned his brother to death.

Worth County Attorney O. J. Wardwell said tonight the prisoner confirmed the statement he had made to Minnesota officers.

He implicated another man in his brother's death, Wardwell said. Lindely told the county attorney he couldn't remember his full name but he knew him as "Nelson." He said he was from Minneapolis.

Until today, Lindely had denied any implication in his brother's death.

He was arrested last week in Yellowstone park with a woman companion.

Burned to Death As He Loads Gasoline

GREENE, Aug. 17 (AP)—Darrell Munson, 44, burned to death here today when gasoline which he was loading into his oil company truck became ignited.

Though badly burned, Munson succeeded in shutting off the flow of gas, thus preventing the flames from spreading to nearby storage tanks.

Three Iowa Youths Confess 31 Crimes

SIOUX CITY, Aug. 17 (AP) — Three Sioux City youths confessed, Woodbury County Sheriff W. R. Tice said today, to having committed 31 crimes during the last six months. The crimes included burglaries and purse snatchings.

Niswander Saves Life of Herman Wolf, Fishing Companion

Death by drowning in the Iowa river was narrowly averted when Alvin Niswander, 426 Center street, rescued Herman Wolf, 410 S. Clinton street, at 9:25 p.m. yesterday.

Niswander's heroism prevented the second Iowa river tragedy within two weeks by saving the life of his fishing companion just below the Rock Island railroad bridge. William Jansa Jr. of Western drowned 20 miles north of here Aug. 4.

Wolf, fishing from a sandbar near the bridge, slipped and fell into the swift channel-flow.

Niswander plunged in to rescue him and was submerged twice by the drowning man's struggles.

Wolf went down four times before Niswander gripped him and dragged him to shore.

The rescue was effected before the arrival of police and firemen, who were called by nearby residents.

Apparently physically unaffected by the experience, Wolf and Niswander returned to their homes. Both are University hospital employes.

DR. BRADY, ONCE MEMBER OF DENTAL FACULTY, IS DEAD

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 17 (AP)— Dr. William J. Brady, 75, founder of the International School of Orthodontia here, died in a hospital tonight.

He served seven years until 1906 on the University of Iowa dental faculty, and previous to that had taught a year at the Chicago dental college, later merged into Northwestern university.

Roosevelt Leaves

John Squirts Champagne in Mayor's Face, Bludgeons Him With Bouquet

CANNES, France, Aug. 17 (AP) John Roosevelt, son of the American President, said city officials tonight, squirted champagne in the face of Mayer Pierre Nouveau and roughed him with a bouquet of flowers during the annual "Battle of Flowers" Sunday night.

The Cannes fete committee, including the mayor's aides, issued an official statement.

Roosevelt, Harvard student and youngest son of the president, with another youth identified as John Drayton of Boston, Mass., was participating in the flower parade in a two-horse carriage placed at his disposal by a local hotel.

A Squirt, a Smash

When Mayor Nouveau left the reviewing stand and came to the side of the carriage to greet Roosevelt on behalf of the city, the mayor's aides declared, the youth took a bottle of champagne from a bucket on the carriage floor and squirted the contents in the mayor's face.

Then, the excutive's assistants related, Roosevelt seized a bouquet of flowers and brought them down over the mayor's head.

The mayor "retired as gracefully as possible," his spokesmen avowed, adding that his suit was ruined.

Roosevelt and Drayton left Cannes Monday morning, city officials said "without mentioning the incident." They were believed enroute to Paris.

Traditional

One official explained that the "Battle of Flowers" is a traditional flower fight in which participants customarily throw individual flowers but "not whole bouquets" at each other.

The incident occurred on the famous Cannes promenade known as the Croisette. The mayor was said by his aides to have carried a huge bouquet of flowers to the side of the carriage as a present to the president's son with a "pretty speech."

PROBE ORDERED IN LYNCHING OF TENNESSEE MAN

COVINGTON, Tenn., Aug. 17 (AP) — Six masked men, shouting "to hell with the law," seized a terror-stricken Negro accused of slaying a white officer from Sheriff W. J. Vaughan today and left his body dangling at the end of a frayed rope after riddling it with bullets.

It was the first lynching in Tipton county since the war between the states and the seventh in the south this year. Circuit Judge R. B. Baptist, ordering the county grand jury to make a "real investigation" of the "disgraceful, horrible crime," demanded first degree murder indictments against the "night riders," if their identities can be established.

The body of the Negro, Albert Gooden, 35, was found partly submerged in a creek 12 miles south of here.

Hoover Says Court 'One-Ninth Packed'

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 17 (AP)— Former President Herbert Hoover said today the supreme court is "one ninth packed" with the selection of Senator Hugo Black (D-Ala.), as a supreme court justice.

"The nomination of Senator Black is a sample of what we should expect from a packing of the supreme court," he told interviewers.

Mr. Hoover, who is fishing in Oregon, motored to Portland to confer with J. N. Emerson, Pullman, Wash., republican national committeeman for Washington.

Brushes Aside Klan Charge To Approve Court Appointment

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—Hugo L. Black, aggressive new dealer, stood ready tonight to take the oath of office as an associate justice of the supreme court of the United States.

The last obstacle to his assuming the judicial robes was removed by a senate vote of 63 to 16, approving his nomination, the first to be made to the court by President Roosevelt in three years of conflict with the tribunal.

In confirming the appointment, the senate brushed aside charges that Black has been a member of the Ku Klux Klan, that he is of a temperament ill-suited to the judicial office and that he is ineligible for the post for constitutional reasons.

These accusations were hurled with vigor and occasionally with bitterness by the small but resolute band of those who opposed confirmation, throughout a day of forthright debate.

Raises Klan Charges

The spectacular charges that Black had been associated with the Klan were raised at the outset of the debate by Senator Copeland of New York, and emerged irrepressibly throughout, until, just before the voting began, Senator Burke (D-Neb) asserted:

"If the senate will join me in sending this nomination back to committee for investigation, I will produce two witnesses who have told me that they were present when Senator Black was initiated into the Klan."

Recommittal was uged as well by Senators Bridges (R-N.H.), Austin (R-Vt.) and others on the ground that the committee should make a thorough study of the fitness of the nominee. Borah (R-Ida.) and Glass (D-Va.) opposed it on the ground that all necessary information was at hand, though they voted "no" on the question of confirmation.

Iowans Vote Confirmation

With such defections as these, the opponents of confirmation who had counted on making a strong showing upon the motion to recommit were quickly doomed to disappointment. An almost unbroken series of "noes" quickly showed the trend. The vote was 66 to 15.

A roll call on confirmation followed immediately. The sixteen who voted against were: Austin, Borah, Bridges, Davis, Hale, Johnson of Calif., Lodge, Steiwer, Townsend and White (republicans) and Burke, Byrd, Copeland, Gerry, Glass and King (democrats).

Iowa Senators Clyde L. Herring and Guy M. Gillette voted with the majority for confirmation.

During the debate defenders of Black assailed the opposition to him as based on "prejudice" occasioned by his liberal legislative career. They said he was a man well-fitted to sit on the highest bench.

Black Waits Outside

Senator Black quietly awaited the outcome in the nearby office of Edwin Halsey, secretary of the senate. Reporters found him there, smiling his pleasure when the vote had been taken.

"I am very much gratified at the confidence shown in me by my colleagues," he said.

He was uncertain, he said, as to when he would take the oath of office as a member of the court, but intended in any event to resign from the senate at once and take a vacation before assuming his new duties.

Climax

Excitement, mounting swiftly as the day of debate advanced, reached a high point in the half hour before the voting began. Within that time, no less than a half-dozen senators delivered rapid fire speeches.

"A member of this body may be an able senator and a poor judge," Bridges shouted, from his desk at the extreme left of the chamber. "No man should become a member of the bench under a cloud — and charges have been made.

"He may be a good prosecutor, but a man may be a good prosecutor and not a fair judge, not a judge who has fairness and human understanding."

Then, Bridges submitted the motion for recommittal.

Copeland for the second time brought up the Klan issue.

"Some may feel that it makes no difference," he said, "but to me it makes a vast difference. It would be a very simple thing for the committee to ask Mr. Black himself."

House Votes 20 Million To Aid Farm Tenants

Overrides Economy Plea in Approving Appropriation Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)— A boisterous house passed the session's final big appropriation bill in an overtime session tonight after increasing it by $20,000,000 to start the administration's farm tenancy program.

Carrying a total of $98,880,375, the appropriation went through without a record vote.

The house overrode recommendations of its appropriations committee and pleas for economy in granting the agricultural department's request for $20,000,000 to start tenancy aid.

Half for Loans

Half of this fund was asked for farm purchase loans to tenants and half for converting portions of the western "dust bowl" into a vast pasture.

An amendment by Rep. Starnes (D-Ala), providing the millions for tenancy aid, won despite vigorous, bi-partisan opposition.

Farm state members demanded that something be done for "the homeless farmers."

The bill also carries $22,500,000 to begin a three-year program of postoffice and other public building construction. Members said the program will permit erection of approximately 380 structures costing $70,000,000.

20 Millions Larger

As passed, the bill was approximately $20,367,500 larger than the total recommended by the appropriations committee.

Part of the increase was due to restoration of $867,500 which the committee had cut from an appropriation for the National Labor Relations board.

The fund for the labor board was the subject of bitter controversy.

"If you want to give life to the Wagner-Connery labor relations act," urged Rep. Mead (D-NY), "rise in your places and support this amendment."

The house cut much of the red tape out of its complicated parliamentary rules to speed up business so that it may adjourn Saturday. Right-of-way to the floor tomorrow was obtained for low cost housing legislation, the only additional measure on the program which leaders expect to enact before adjournment.

Fight for Labor Bill

Some members still fought today for action on wage and hour legislation. Rep. Doughton (D-NC) called a caucus of house democrats, in response to a petition signed by 88 of them, to consider what, if anything, can be done to wrest the labor standards bill from opponents holding it in the house rules committee. The caucus was set for Thursday.

President Roosevelt still refused to concede defeat on the wage-hour issue. At his press conference he said a reporter who questioned him on that point was a little premature.

Special Session Talked

Leaders prepared to call a caucus of democratic representatives, in response to a petition signed by 88 of them, to explore the possibility of forcing action on the wage-hour issue.

Fresh talk of a special session this fall to resume work on farm stabilization legislation, wage and hour regulation, additional planning and power authorities, and governmental reorganization was heard during house discussion of a resolution dispensing with some of its rules for the current adjournment dash.

Death To A Dictator

LAST WEEK a dictator died in Iraq, killed by an assassin's bullets. He was General Bakr Sidky Pasha, who maneuvered a coup d'etat last October after one of his officers had murdered the previous dictator, General Jaafar Pasha al-Askari. To give a touch of retribution to the whole matter, this last assassin is reported to be a relative of Jaafar Pasha.

General Sidky was a ruthless and ambitious general who elevated himself to the dictatorship by patterning his efforts after successful dictators of the western world.

But somewhere a misstep was made and that was fatal. Worse, probably, than death itself for General Sidky would be the knowledge that his assassination has had no effect, either within Iraq itself or in any other countries.

Yet that, surprisingly enough, is the case. Should Hitler or Mussolini or Stalin meet sudden death, there would be chaos in their countries, but dictators in Iraq, it seems, are worth only a dime a dozen.

General Sidky's murder was no surprise to anyone; it was widely expected by the Iraqi people. He was not a hated dictator. As a matter of fact, he had gained the respect and confidence of his subjects. Neither a statesman nor a politician, he still had a definite knack of promoting his people's welfare and most of them appreciated it. Still there is no concern over his assassination.

There is also no stir of excitement in any other of the Arab countries. Their politics are strictly localized, and anyway they are too much worried about the partition scheme now being planned for Palestine.

General Sidky, it seems, is doomed to forgetful obscurity. Soon there will rise another dictator, to be followed by still another when that one is assassinated. That is the way with dictatorships—in Iraq, at least.

An Encouraging Legislative Trend

CONGRESS IS beginning to pack its baggage this week, with adjournment not far distant. As a result, congressional sponsors of the wages and hours bill now declare that it is unlikely to be enacted at this session. The temporary burial of the bill in committee backs up this view.

Such action may lead to some mature consideration and debate which the measure could not possibly have received otherwise. The wages and hours bill would directly affect the fortunes of millions of workers, and indirectly, the economic future of every American. Before such a bill is passed we must consider far more closely than we have yet done its probable effect on smaller and weaker firms, on the cost of living, on the industrial balance between different sections of the country, and on our position in world trade.

We must inquire to what extent it is likely to throw out of employment the very persons it is designed to help; to what extent it may permanently increase the relief rolls and the difficulties of balancing the budget. We need to ask whether this further concentration of federal power is desirable, and whether we want the type of administrative control that it sets up.

Such questions cannot adequately be answered by congressional debate alone. The country as a whole must have an opportunity to discuss and study them thoroughly. The opportunity now seems likely to be granted.

The fact that congress has delayed in its passage of the bill is, we believe, a healthy sign. In the days when the Roosevelt administration was at its peak, many hundreds of bills were shoved through in the course of a few weeks with little debate or consideration. If the White House endorsed a bill, it was recommendation enough for passage. That is no longer the case.

To be sure, many good and beneficial bills were passed on the president's recommendation alone; but we believe that congressional consideration as well will greatly reduce the possibility of errors and prevent repetitions of such legislation as the ill-fated NRA.

The grouch at the next desk wonders if the real reason for the halo hat fad is because so many of the gals aren't sure they'll get a chance to wear them in the next world.

This and That About the Weather

There is the old yarn told by the Arizona prospector about life on the desert. It is so hot out there, according to him, that the people daren't use nails to build their houses because they would melt, and they are forced to keep their water supply in vacuum bottles to keep it from boiling away.

It is a good thing we are able to joke about the weather. Recent hot weather in Iowa is certainly not entertaining, even when jokesters make up exaggerated stories to go with it.

It might have been an Iowa farm that a story-teller had in mind when he conceived the classic about the pop corn field. It seems that there were several acres of pop corn growing next to a pasture in which several horses were grazing. One night it was so hot that the corn began popping and shooting all over the place. The horses, startled out of their sleep by the shower of white particles, thought it was snowing and froze to death.

We won't vouch for the truth of the story; but it is easy enough to believe that almost any night the temperature could pop corn.

Iowans have suffered so much from the heat wave recently as to believe that there might even be some point in the Russian experiment. Those Russian fliers who established an air base on the North pole not only show a good deal of common sense, but the weather reports they send to these capitalistic states bring with them a certain vicarious thrill.

There is one consolation, however, even to an editorial writer. Old newspaper men swear that every time they write about the hot weather the thermometer falls 20 degrees the next day and makes their efforts seem foolish.

Well, we'll see how it works this time.

When you see a little man with narrow shoulders in a toy shop buying a gift for his son it's bound to be one of two things—a pair of boxing gloves or a football.

CLIPPED From Other COLUMNS

FOR UNIFORM SPIES

IT WOULD save time, money, international complications and regrettable arrests if the heads of all the nations got together and passed a universal agreement to compel every one of their spies to wear a distinctive uniform. Then amateur travelers who take snapshots of "secret" fortifications or goggle at "hidden" arsenals would be spared the fuss and bother of being slapped into a foreign hoosegow on suspicion of gathering military mysteries.

Most recent of these diplomatic errors was the arrest of a man hiking through Sicily. At once he staged a private indignation meeting at being shoved into a black-shirt Maria and carted to the cooler. Thereafter ensued lengthy telephonic conversations between Italy and his home country, and who should he turn out to be but the Danish air chief on a vacation! All this sort of nonsense could not happen if a spy had to dress like a spy and no mistake about it.

How simple for every genuine grade A snooper to wear on his lapel a tin star engraved with the word SPY. Likewise he should swish a black cloak, twirl waxed mustaches, and chuckle every chance he gets. He should peer and poke, creep and crawl, hide and seek. He should whisper even when he is ordering a meal or buying a railroad ticket, and give side-long or even oblong looks. To identify his calling he should speak fluent Esperanto, and after he has saluted the passing flag he should thumb his nose and laugh softly like a fiend. The minions of the law would then close in upon him and bright and early the next day he would be shot, axed, guillotined, poisoned, strangled or bopped off a cliff, according to each quaint local custom. By virtue of this sensible proceeding all harmless but curious hikers could go about their usual business of taking a picture of an exciting-looking "secret" fort or prison camp and sending it home with the greeting: "Wish you were here."

Preparation and Good Razor Necessary for Easy Shaving

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

In the last two columns we have outlined the details of the findings of the Mellon Institute research on the factors in safe and comfortable shaving. There is plenty of reason for calling attention to this, for aside from minor discomforts, shaving can result in severe infections. I know of one death ascribed to general Staphylococic infection which started with an ingrown hair. In the last two articles we gave the reasons for the conclusions, which involved explanations of experiments, and so perhaps today it would be well to give a general summary of what constitutes a safe and comfortable shave.

Two Things Vital

To obain the most satisfactory shave two factors are necessary, and they are of equal importance—proper preparation and a good razor.

Wash the face first with soap and water using HOT water and soap that does not irritate the skin. Do this for half a minute, then rinse. This removes grit and other material which might dull the razor or shaving soap.

Then apply shaving soap (or cream) rubbing in well with the fingers, using plenty of water. Then whip into a thorough lather with the shaving brush, with hot water. The hotter the water the more rapid and complete the preparation.

If a latherless cream is used it should be applied on top of the soap lather which results from the first cleansing. Whether to use a latherless cream or a soap is largely a matter of taste, though it is said that the latherless creams are slower in their softening action than the soap.

Purpose of Preparation

The purposes of preparation are (1) to modify the hard condition of the hair shaft, (2) lubrication of the razor blade, (3) providing a stiff supporting medium for the hair shaft so the razor can attack it, protection of the skin from cuts and bruises, and securing the antiseptic action of the soap.

The second part of the preparation should require two and a half minutes.

Begin shaving by wetting the razor. Both the razor and the face should be wet all the time. Razor blade sharpness and the shaving angle are the most important items in comfort. An angle of about 25 degrees is the best for most people, but there are individual variations.

For the hypersensitive face two modifications are suggested: the use of cold water for lathering and the use of a "cool" shaving soap—i. e., one having menthol in it.

The use of a lotion following shaving is to control small points of bleeding, to provide an antiseptic and astringent action, and to replace a protective covering removed by the disappearance of fat and skin debris by the preparation. Talcum powder does the last well.

Discomfort and the production of a tender face during shaving is due to (1) dull blades, (2) the adoption of an improper shaving angle of the razor blade, (3) inadequate preparation, (4) stretching the skin too much, (5) going against the grain.

Japan Overhauls People's Morals

TOKYO (AP)—Because a pretty Japanese schoolgirl is said to have talked with a foreign naval officer in his private cabin aboard a warship while the door was locked, the ministry of education has warned all Japanese that the morals of the nation must be overhauled.

A special course in etiquette is planned for the public. The drive, Japan's moralists say, is made necessary not only by the coming Olympic Games and the 1940 World's Fair, but by the constant necessity of raising the level of popular virtue. In the future any one spitting on the street will be ridiculed by other passersby with the remark, "You are no Japanese."

Blind Lead Blind In Hospital Strike

SHANGHAI, China (AP) — The blind led the blind into a strike in a town near here. Indignant because of their lack of freedom, 160 blind men staged a parade. Tied together by their left arms, they halted traffic and attracted hundreds of bystanders. The strike was a protest against hospital regulations which allow them to ask leave only between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. When the hospital superintendent pleaded with the blind strikers they finally went back.

ELIZABETH HALSEY

Washington World

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, D.C. — If anything ever stuck Washington all of a heap it was President Roosevelt's nomination of Sen. Hugo L. Black of Alabama to a seat on the United States supreme court bench.

Experienced guessers had suggested a list of possibilities a quarter of a column long, but Black's name was not on one of them.

Which, as one of his fellow senators remarked to me with a strict injunction as to anonymity, "Just goes to prove that the Alabaman is estimated at only about .22 caliber." For, as my informant added, "All the guessing was done on the supposition that the appointee would be a big man."

Constitutional Expert

Nevertheless, Black generally is commented on as an excellent lawyer and especially a constitutional expert.

His age is right—51.

Also, he has been more than an average good new dealer, which was particularly noticeable in him as a southerner. There have been other southerners who have stood by the new deal for reasons of party regularity, although nobody believed they sympathized with it. Black, however, has been positively enthusiastic.

In fact, he has been so enthusiastic that reports from Alabama had indicated his renomination to the senate next year was doubtful.

Prosecutor's Temperament

Black always denied a rumor that persisted when he first entered the senate, in 1927, that he was a Ku Klux Klanner.

Yet, the circumstance that he deemed it necessary to deny it strongly hinted that he knew the rumor was in circulation.

As a senator, Black has been conspicuous as an investigator. He shone as chairman of an inquisitorial committee. He has the prosecutor's temperament. At cross-examination of witnesses he has been both clever and merciless. He has been witty, too, in a cutting way.

Despite his senatorial new dealerishness there are stories to the effect that he has disputed the wisdom of a few new deal policies and has told the president so.

Such reports cannot be confirmed, though they rest on good authority.

Anyway, when it has come to a showdown he always has been pro-new deal.

Black tends to a good deal of bitter sarcasm in debate, at which he is exceedingly capable, but it probably has not made him friends.

Black appeared to be as much surprised when the president nominated him as anyone else.

Did he know?

Wins Bronco Event

SIDNEY, (AP)—Hub Whiteman of Clarksville, Tex., won first place here yesterday in the professional bronco riding division of the Sidney rodeo. He also won the bulldogging event.

The greatest number of tropical storms in the Gulf of Mexico, the Caribbean sea and the Atlantic ocean recorded for any one year was 21 in 1933. The lightest hurricane year was 1890 with only one.

A New Yorker At Large

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—George Ross, on a late prowl, happened by Lindy's the other night and fell in with a gang of insomniacs. As usual the talk centered around the show shops, what new plays were coming up, producers, Broadway characters in general.

Then somebody mentioned how tall Robert Sherwood is. He's the tallest playwright on earth, standing something over six, six. Somebody else said A. C. Blumenthal was Broadway's shortest character, and from there they went on to identify Broadway, thusly:

Anna May Wong

Alexander Woollcott, neaviest; Irving Berlin, leanest; Fannie Hurst, most sedate; Vincent Hart, quietest; Robert Sherwood, tallest; A. C. Blumenthal, shortest; Hope Hampton, most glamorous; Anna May Wong, oddest dressed; Bide Dudley Jr., youngest; Oscar Levant, most quick-witted; Vinton Freedley, suavest; Jack Osterman, most typical Broadwayite; Sherman Billingsley, most gracious; Dick Maney, most eloquent "and a major poet at heart!" Maney is Billy Rose's, Noel Coward's and Guthrie McClintic's press-agent. He's up in Maine now.

Private lives: The girl who announces the show at El Toreador, Little Spain's contribution to the after dark Flemanco motif of Manhattan, is winsome and dark. But her features are less than precisely Latin. Nevertheless, she whangs a corking accordion and contributes Spanish airs with charming abandon.

"Just what is your real name?" one asks, idly. . . "Well," she says, "when I'm here it's Juanita, but when I go home it's Jean Pegler."

Gallows note: Al Woods is an imaginative producer. . . Although gentle-mannered, his office is frequently a startling adventure to those seeing it for the first time. On his desk is a miniature gallows, with a tiny simulacrum dangling from a noose!

Jungle note: Two of New York's better press-agents are Monty Proser and Carle Erbe. . . Sixteen years ago they met in a box car, on a railroad siding, near Butte, Montana. . . Both were Road Kids, living in freight yard jungle camps, traveling with hoboes, riding the rods. . . Neither had ever heard of a percolator. . . They thought coffee was always brewed in tomato cans. . . . So they stuck together, and the friendship has lasted all these years. . . Today Proser represents the interests behind the French Casino, most successful of New York theater-cabarets. . . Erbe handles Ben Marden's Riviera, most beautiful night spot in the world.

Albertina Rasch is Polish and Hungarian. She became a prima ballerina at 14.

New Hats Combine Originality, Chic And Inspiration

Most captivating in many seasons are hats for the coming year. Originality, inspiration and chic combine to make them excel in smartness for wear in town and at school.

With the return of high crowns, tight-fitting helmets called "cloches" are shown. A particularly outstanding model is one with a large, shelving brim and a crown almost hidden by brilliant flowers gathered closely together to form a pleat in the center. Another appears in a banana-colored felt trimmed with purple, brown and green grapes.

Madame Suzy has given her version of the new crown in a two-toned beige felt. A bit of the irregularly-rolled brim is pinned to the lop-sided crown by two very tall feathers whose quills twirl around each other in a dizzy fashion. Another crown looks like an onion with a smaller one on top, each in a contrasting shade of felt.

Madame Agnes has startled the hat world by presenting hats with handles. Designed for the convenience of those who carry hats in their hands, they may have a hole in the brim or just a wedge cut out at the back through which a finger can be slipped.

One model is a bordeaux-colored felt with a copper ribbon around the tall crown. It has a crest at the top which is cut out to serve as a handle.

Another of Madame Agnes's creations is the zipper hat. A blue felt, it contains a zipper of bright red which divides the felt into long, diagonal strips from the dipping brim to the rounding crown. Imagine having a hat which can be rolled into a tiny bundle without being ready for the trash can upon unrolling—perfect for college trunks.

Another Mode

Still another mode introduced by this most versatile stylist is a tiny spring sewed inside the hat, front and back. It is there not for beauty but for practicability, (for it insures a perfect fit.

Marie Alphonsine favors crowns which fit the head, but the backs of her designs are cut in all sorts of interesting patterns. A favorite model is worn well off the face with a broadening effect at the sides. Made of dull green felt, it is trimmed with two little twisted flanges of rust-colored ribbon in front. A wedge of grosgrain in back holds the hat on. The rest is a void filled with cluster curls.

In other styles, the back is latticed with a sort of madeira work. A twist of velvet around the face is a departure from the usual high felt brim. The tallest of tall hats found for fall is one which rears up in front at a three-fourths angle, forming a soft, double fold which slopes down the back. A ruffled feather clings to the plain side with a bit of scarlet ribbon as its only support.

Down The Sports Trail

BY PAUL MICKELSON

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—Life is dealing a strange hand from a shabby deck to William Boyd McKechnie, keeper of the Boston Bees.

At the age of 50, when all too many men cease wondering what's coming around the next corner, mild mannered Bill finds himself universally famous as a diamond wizard. In fact, Bill today is the sensation of the baseball managerial profession which really is a great accomplishment because big league pilots do not belong to mutual admiration societies.

National league managers with pennant notions call him "Bad Bill." Up in Boston, where the fans didn't expect much this season, he's known as "Sweet William."

Brain Before Brawn

McKechnie is one man who has succeeded in the rough, tough baseball profession by the use of his brain instead of brawn. And, strangely for a thinking man, he's had rough passage. As a baseball player, he was moved around to five major league clubs because he couldn't hit enough to keep pace with his brilliant fielding. As a big league manager, he won pennants for Pittsburgh and the St. Louis Cardinals and was rewarded in both places with a pink slip.

He won the world's championship for the Pirates in 1925, the first since 1909, and the Pirates let him go at the close of the '26 season. He went to St. Louis, built well in '27, and then clinched the pennant for the Cardinals in '28. The Cards lost the world series and retaliated by shunting Bill to their Rochester International League farm. Bill did well with Rochester and then went to Boston where he's making baseball history with old men—old as players go.

Old Pitchers

By strange circumstances, or possibly it's Bill's ability to pick up every trick, his biggest helpers this season have been two pitchers who were overlooked by everyone else because they were regarded as "too old." Lou Fette, getting his first big league chance at 30, has won 14 and lost 4; Jim Turner, a rookie of 31, has won 12 and lost 8. What the Yankees could do with Lou and Jim on their chucking staff is too horrible to consider.

For the last month now, I have been busting into managerial huddles to inquire who is regarded as the slickest manager in big time baseball. So far, the vote is overwhelmingly in favor of McKechnie, who has ousted William Terry as the number one ranking master mind of ivory.

Boston's gain, however, may be Boston's loss. For the rumor is getting louder and louder that McKechnie will pack up his belongings at the close of the season and relieve Steve O'Neill in the Cleveland wigwam. Many managers have advised McKechnie against such a move as one of the favorite managerial burying grounds is just off Lake Erie. But if Bill really gets the offer and its large enough he'll probably go. He has one big ambition—to win pennants for three different clubs. No one has ever done that.

Our hunch is "Sweet William" will turn the trick ultimately, if not at Cleveland then even at Boston.

Baseball's Big Six

By the Associated Press

While Joe Medwick of the Cards continued to lead the National league batting race by a wide margin despite Paul Waner's "four for four" trick against the Cubs yesterday, the American league scrap became a three cornered one. Only five points now separate Cecil Travis of the Senators, in first place; Charley Gehringer of the Tigers, in second, and Joe DiMaggio of the Yanks, in third.

DiMaggio got four hits in eight tries yesterday to move ahead of team mate Lou Gehrig in their personal battle.

Vernon Gomez Pitches 3 Hit Game for N.Y.

Yankees Sweep Two Games Yesterday With Washington Senators

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—A three-hit shutout by Lefty Gomez in the first game and a five-run, eighth-inning rally in the second today gave the Yankees a clean sweep of their doubleheader with the Washington Senators.

Winning the first game, 8 to 0, and the nightcap, 6 to 4, the American league leaders ran their margin over the second-place Tigers to 10 and a half games.

BITS about SPORTS

By JOHN MOONEY

Pinkie George, the Mike Jacobs of the middlewest, has brought two of the best welterweights in the country to Des Moines for a scheduled 10 round non-title bout tomorrow night.

* * *

The crafty George has been trying for years to bring before the sporting public of Iowa and Minnesota the best in boxing and wrestling shows, but this latest coup definitely stamps him as THE fight promoter in this sector.

* * *

Barney Ross, popular world's champion in the welterweight class, will meet Al Manfredo in the featured bout, and believe you me, it will be a battle all the way.

* * *

Manfredo has impressed fans in his training workouts in Des Moines with his vicious punching and merciless head and body attacks. From stories out of Des Moines, we gather that Manfredo's timing is just about the last word in this department, and if he should be going like that tomorrow night, Ross had better be careful.

* * *

REAL BOXING in this state has been at a low ebb for the past few years, but such contests as this one are bound to bring it back to the high position it once occupied.

* * *

Needless to say, we will be in the Western league ball park tomorrow night watching this fight. And while we are at it, how about a pat on the back to the Des Moines sportsmen who had the foresight and courage to make this match possible?

* * *

And still in the same vein, how about legalizing the amateur boxing in this state? Bob Rush, university boxing instructor, has been trying for some time to get the old "blue law" erased from the book, but with little or no success. If people are willing to come from all over the state to see a boxing show in Des Moines, wouldn't they be interested in a local show of the Golden Gloves caliber in the fieldhouse?

* * *

In the theater and the circus world the saying "The show must go on" has long been publicized, but in the world of sport such human interest stories are often overlooked in the excitement of the game. Yesterday, Vernon (Goofy) Gomez was informed an hour before the New York-Washington game that his mother had died in California. Gomez insisted that he take his turn on the mound and shut the Senators out, 8-0.

* * *

Gomez also allowed only three safe hits in the whole game.

* * *

Bruce Mahan informed us yesterday that the Iowa Alumni association of Southern California will hold a chicken dinner at Eaton's Chicken House in Los Angeles on the evening of Sept. 18. Bruce will be the featured speaker and he will take with him two reels of colored pictures of campus scenes—one of the registration proceedings last fall and the other of the Commencement ceremonies this spring. Also, he will show pictures of the Iowa-Temple football game.

* * *

Kenneth Lambert, formerly of Iowa City and now with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in Hollywood, will operate the projector for the "movies."

Seventy-Seven Entered in City Net Tourney

Seventy-seven entries have been received in the Iowa City Tennis club's city tourney stamping it as one of the most successful meets of its kind ever attempted, according to Paul Edminston, secretary of the local club.

Play in the tournament will begin Monday morning and is scheduled to be completed Saturday night. As there is no entry fee charged, the contestants are expected to furnish their own balls. Prizes will be donated by Iowa City merchants.

Late entries in the meet are:

Men's singles—J. W. Howe; Robert McMillan, Dave Wall, Van Phillips, Jim Guthrie, L. Smith, W. Haney, W. McCloy, and Joe Farrell.

Women's singles—Geneve Watson, Jessie Walker, Pauline Hoepfner.

Men's doubles—Hoffman and Tiffany, Humphrey and Wall, Howe and Kittredge, Kikuchi and Goddard, and McMillan and Haney.

Junior boys' singles—Robert Van der Zee, Paul Travis, John Paulus.

Budge Advances In Newport Tournament But Lacks Class

NEWPORT, R.I., Aug. 17 (AP)—Don Budge's post-Davis cup vacation from singles competition appeared to have rusted his brilliant brand of tennis today when he made his belated start in the historic Newport Casino tournament, which he won two years ago.

The lanky red-haired Californian, considered the greatest amateur player in the world, managed to advance through two unseeded rivals, but in such unimpressive fashion that it was obvious he needed several exacting tests to prime his game for his title quest at Forest Hills next month.

After drawing a bye, Budge had breezed to a 6-2, 6-1 victory over Henry Daniels, a young New Yorker, in a second round match, but was far off his usual game, probably because he had not played singles since he led the American forces to victory over the British in the Davis cup's challenge round.

N. Y. GIANTS DEFEAT BOSTON BEES, 4 TO 1

BOSTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—Behind five-hit, five-strikeout pitching by Cliff Melton, their lanky southpaw, the New York Giants today climbed within three games of the national league lead by outscoring the Bees, 4 to 1.

Melton, walking only one man, drove in one of his team's runs with a long fly in the second, when the Giants scored three times on four hits off veteran Guy Bush. Bush gave way to Ira Hutchinson in the ninth, and was charged with the defeat, his 15th of the year.

Manfredo Demands Referee's Decision

DES MOINES, Aug. 17 (AP)—Al Manfredo, Fresno, Calif., welterweight who is scheduled to box Barney Ross, welterweight champion, here Thursday night, today demanded a referee's decision in the bout.

He said his contract had no clause in it that a decision should not be made, although the bout will be a non-title affair.

Manfredo said "If I should happen to win a decision Thursday night, then I can force Ross into a title match."

Tommy Farr Works Particularly Hard For Louis Battle

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 17 (AP) — Whether it was returning to work after a day of rest or the presence of Mlle. Jeanne Manet at the ringside, Tommy Farr was unusually industrious today as he prepared for his title bout against champion Joe Louis at the Yankee Stadium Aug. 26.

Originally the British champion's schedule called for five rounds of boxing, two each with Basher Dean and Abe Feldman and one with Roscoe Manning. He made Manning go another session, however, and insisted on a third stanza with Feldman. He went through another five rounds of shadow boxing, rope skipping and bag punching for the longest workout since he started training.

Mlle. Manet, petite Parisienne singer and dancer, who arrived on the Normandie yesterday, has been reported engaged to Farr. Both refused to say anything on the subject, however.

'Lefty' Brandt's Hurling Beats Chicago Cubs

Lloyd Waner's Brilliant Catch of Billy Herman's Liner Saves Game

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 17 (AP)—Fine pitching in the pinches by Lefty Brandt and a brilliant ninth inning catch by Lloyd Waner helped the Pittsburgh Pirates beat Chicago, 4 to 2, today.

It was the fourth straight victory for the Pirates and coupled with New York's triumph over Boston, reduced the Cubs leadership over the challenging Giants to three games.

Waner's catch of Herman's whistling liner which appeared to be good for two bases ended the game. Two runners on the bases were headed toward the home base.

Brandt entered the game limping with an injured leg but held the slugging Cubs to one run until he was forced to retire in the eighth after Galan doubled.

The breaks gave the Pirates their two run winning margin in the seventh. Handley's liner glanced off Hack's glove and before Jurges recovered the ball the speedy Pirate was on second. Brandt's grounder bounced off French's glove and went for a scratch single. Lloyd Waner then singled, scoring Handley and sending Brandt to third, from where he tallied after Dickshot's long fly.

Evans Outlines Farm Program

Wallace Aide Talks at Picnic

Over 800 Farmers Attend Gathering In City Park Here

Stressing three points which will be required for the success of the proposed permanent agricultural policy, R. M. "Spike" Evans of Washington, D.C., addressed more than 800 farmers at City park yesterday.

The occasion was a picnic under the auspices of eastern Iowa's agricultural conservation associations. Evans is assistant to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

Soil Conservation

The first point, Evans said, is the proper conservation of soil resources. Explaining that soil erosion results from raising chemically improper crops, he told of the agriculture department's efforts to correct the mistakes.

"Point two," Evans said, "is that we must have an 'ever-normal' granary." He said that the granary's purpose will be to insure an adequate supply of farm produce.

"And finally, in any agricultural plan which would have permanent value, plans must be included to insure the farmers a fair share of the national income," the agriculturist declared.

Commodity Loans

Discussing commodity loans, Evans said that a program of this type must be coupled with a system of production control so that loans in themselves will not stimulate agriculture to over-production.

"Commodity loans should be high enough to encourage the growth of farm grains without expanding the amount of livestock feed," he said.

Welcomed by Mayor

Ralph W. Smith, chairman of the state agricultural conservation committee, also spoke. Introduced to the group were his committee members, O. D. Kline of Alden, Hervey Hazen of Denmark and H. Laurel Dietrich of Brooklyn.

Prof. R. K. Bliss, director of the extension service at Iowa State college, also was present.

Mayor Myron J. Walker welcomed the picnickers to the park at 1:15 p.m.; and M. F. Sullivan, chairman of the Johnson county agricultural conservation committee, answered Mayor Walker's address.

Entertainment was provided by the Cedar county farm bureau band, the Linn county 4-H club girls and the Putnam township boys' 4-H club quartet in Linn county.

Cool Air Mass From Northwest Ends Heat Wave

A cool air mass approaching from the northwest broke Iowa City's 1937 heat wave yesterday, and afternoon temperatures averaged 15 degrees lower than on Monday.

The mercury rose to 88 degrees shortly before 3 p.m.—10 points lower than the year's high mark—but during the majority of the afternoon stayed in the low 80's.

Temperatures yesterday morning and Monday night were consistent at 75 degees and last night were slightly lower municipal airport observers said.

Weather observers could not say whether Iowa City had passed through the last heat wave of the year. "'Unpredictable,' they labeled weather.

Indiana Tots Enter In Spirit of Things At Movie Thrillers

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 17 (AP)—"Park your shootin' irons at the door" is the rule at an Indianapolis neighborhood theater all because the small boy patrons were too anxious to help the hero.

Every Saturday afternoon the youngsters turn out for a western thriller. For a time they were content to boo the villain but recently they started bringing their toy pistols and the pop of cap guns resounded throughout the theater as they fired from the hip at the villain.

The little girl patrons protested and the theater manager issued his edict that guns must be left at the door.

Johnson County 4-H Club Show Opens Today, Closes Friday

Society Horse Exhibition Will Be a Feature

Gardner Sees Event As Greatest Staged By 4-H in County

Clattering horse and pony hoofs will blend with lowing, grunting noises of calves and pigs as the ninth annual Johnson county 4-H club show gets under way today in the east part of Iowa stadium and fieldhouse.

Continuing through tomorrow until Friday afternoon, the show gives promise of being the greatest 4-H event ever produced in Johnson county, according to County Agent Emmett C. Gardner, director of the project.

A society horse show will be one of the features of the exhibition, with 25 horses and ponies divided into nine classes and entered in 11 events. Four hundred dollars in prizes will be awarded at the horse show.

PROGRAM FOR TODAY
This Morning

10 o'clock—Home project achievement day in field house and 4-H club entry day.

This Evening

6:30—Exhibits in east stadium concourse open for inspection.

7:30—Johnson county 4-H club band, under leadership of Clifford Berkey.

7:45—Parade of 4-H club livestock.

8—Announcement of 4-H club health contest winners.

General evening program: "Corn Is King" pageant, history of corn development in Johnson county, celebrating 100 years since corn was first planted by white men in the county.

Opening at 10 o'clock this morning with home project achievement day in the fieldhouse, the highlights of the day's program will include a concert by the Johnson county 4-H club band and a spectacular parade of 4-H club livestock at 7:30. Representatives of Johnson county at the state fair 4-H club health contest will be named this evening.

The climax of the day's events will be a pageant depicting the history of Johnson county, presented by members of the senior and junior farm bureaus of the county, in honor of the 100th anniversary of the first planting of corn in the county by white men.

Tomorrow's program will feature judging of 4-H club poultry, lambs, dairy calves and pigs and will include a boys' judging contest opening the day's events at 8 a.m.

Two horse show performances, in the afternoon and evening, will highlight the day's schedule. A special cavalry demonstration by Troop I of the 113th cavalry regiment will be a new sight for regular 4-H show spectators. The demonstration will be presented following the evening horse show and will include 16 cavalrymen under the direction of Lieut. Elmer M. Hay. A performance by a "high-school" or trick horse show also promises to be one of this afternoon's outstanding events.

Friday's events include judging of 4-H club colts, beef heifers and baby beeves. Selection of baby beef calves for state fair exhibits will be made at 3:30 p.m. by Prof. W. F. LaGrange of Ames. Mrs. Josepine Arnquist Bakke of Ames, former 4-H girls club state leader, will speak at 11 a.m.

The show will close at 4 p.m. Friday.

A total of $800 in cash prizes and trips will be given to winners in the 4-H club show events during the three-day period. Premiums include prizes for the best exhibits in the 4-H club livestock events, girls' demonstrations, women's home project achievement day booths, health contests and record books. Contributions of Iowa City and Johnson county business men and receipts from the show make the triple-day summer exposition possible.

Winners in the 4-H club show who will exhibit their prize winning livestock at the state fair will also show their blue ribbon animals at the 75th annual West Liberty fair, opening Saturday. About 40 head of Johnson county livestock are expected to be exhibited at West Liberty, including 15 state fair baby beef entries.

The 4-H club show will climax months of preparation on the part of Johnson county 4-H club members.

Six men and women will judge the contests, including Prof. W. F. LaGrange, W. M. Vernon, Mrs. Florence Bakke, Mrs. N. Mae Larson and John Quist, all of Ames, and E. M. Wright of the Iowa State Dairy association.

To Build Garage

Wilbur L. Kime, 1315 Kirkwood avenue, will construct a one-stall garage, according to a building permit issued yesterday by City Inspector Harold Monk.

AROUND THE TOWN

with MERLE MILLER

Long Remember

Josephine Herbst has a half dozen novels to her credit, is a frequent contributor to the better eastern magazines on occasion. But the university sorority she pledged and lived in during her stormy undergraduate days here has no record of her membership. . . . Those who would remember swear they don't. . . Reason—Miss Herbst was involved in a literary scandal two years or so back. . . Too, she writes proletarian novels.

"WE MORTALS"

All too big and fat. . .

And every one is sporting

A tiny halo hat!

—Elenore Lee White

Et Al

I don't know much about wooden Indians, but I do know the next best thing—a chap who does. . . He's M. F. Wallace, whom I met yesterday while coffeeing in a local restaurant. . . Wallace isn't a round-towner; in fact no town can count him among its permanent residents. . . "I move around," he told me. . . This week he is in Iowa City, though, mowing lawns, repairing lawn mowers and any other odd jobs about.

"I'm a jack-of-all-trades," this sunbrowned, muscular wanderer declared, "and you know the rest." . . . He is a master at one thing, however. That's talking. . . He'll talk about anything he knows, and he seems to know about quite a lot.

Literary

But Wallace's main interests are literary. . . He's a great reader, and when his reading interferes with a particular job he may have, well, it's the job that goes first. . . He's read everything from Aeschylus to James Joyce—and prefers the former.

And of history he knows more than many a professor I know—and presents it more interestingly. . . . "I don't do my reading because I think it'll ever earn me any money," he told me, "but just because I like to." . . . Which seems to be as good a reason as any.

Indians Again

But what I started to write about was Indians and what Wallace knows about them — the wooden ones. . . Wallace may write a book on them some day. . . So far as either of us know, no one ever has.

You may not remember wooden Indians personally; I don't. But not many years back no cigar store was proper at all times unless it had at least one —and sometimes more—Most of them, Wallace will tell you, were carved between 1830 and 1900. It wasn't much of a carving job, either. . . In fact fellow craftsmen considered it lower than whittling.

The height of the vogue was about 70 years ago. . . In the first place, as sidewalk traffic increased they sometimes blocked pedestrians. . . . And a popular pastime in those days was snatching wooden Indians. . . . So gradually the race —like a nobler of Indians—disappeared. . . In less than a generation they went completely.

Now try and find one, Wallace declares. . . There are only about two dozen in the country—and those in the hands of collectors. . . Should you want to buy one the cost will be about $1,500. . . "Indians—real or wooden—just don't seem to last," Wallace concludes.

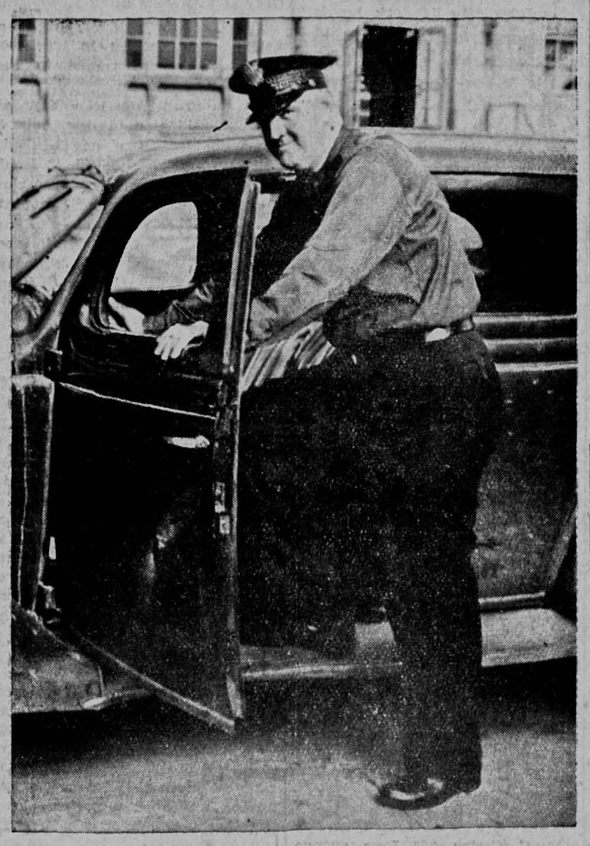
Policeman Frank Burns Finds His Height and Weight an Advantage



Frank Burns, six-foot four-and-a-half inch policeman, is shown above stepping into the police patrol car

(This is the sixth in a series of articles on the Iowa City police department and its members.)

Six feet four-and-a-half inches of bone and muscle — that's Frank Burns, all 240 pounds of him.

Burns, jolly, eight-year veteran of the Iowa City police department, declares his height and weight an advantage in his chosen profession —sometimes. "It's useful in traffic work," he said, explaining that conspicuousness is an advantage in directing traffic.

Although he said he's never had any hand-to-hand contacts with criminals, Burns, biggest man on the local force, appears capable of handling any two criminals of ordinary size. "I've never had much trouble," the patrolman stated. "I guess I'm just lucky, that's all.

"Usually criminals will not attempt to resist arrest if you have the drop on them—but if you don't have the drop, you're in for trouble," Burns asserted.

Car thieves seem to be the most vicious class of the underworld, he declared. "Usually they have something hanging over their heads and are trying to make a getaway," he explained.

From 7 a.m. to 6 p.m., six days a week, Burns oversees downtown traffic, investigates burglaries and serves in a rather broad general capacity on the Iowa City force.

"There never was a perfect crime in all that I've investigated," he'll tell you. "I don't think there ever was such a thing. All criminals make some little mistake; they always leave some little thing behind to point to them, and they're usually overconfident."

The public could cooperate greatly with police in apprehending car thieves if owners of stolen cars would report car thefts promptly, he avowed, declaring that a little time can make a great deal of difference in such matters.

Burns deplored the apparent habit of some houseowners of leaving doors unlocked at night or while away from home, asserting that they invite trouble.

"We had a burglary case just a little while ago like that," he said.

Another deplorable practice, according to the policeman, is the custom of parents in warning children to "behave or I'll call the police."

But Burns could offer no substitute for the practice. "I've never had any experience in that line," he explained.
