Foreigners Warned By Japs' Navy

SHANGHAI, Sept. 1 (AP)—Japanese naval authorities warned all foreign shipping today to steer clear of the Japanese naval concentrations in the Whangpoo river and the Yangtze estuary, the only route to the open sea and safety for hundreds of American women and children marooned in war-girt Shanghai.

United States and British naval commanders were understood to be discussing inauguration of naval convoys to force a safe passage down the river for American and British mercy ships rushing refugees from the war area.

Resistance Proposed

Under the proposed plan armed warship escorts would resist forcibly any attempts to molest foreign shipping.

Although Washington has invested Admiral Harry Yarnell, commander in chief of the United States Asiatic fleet, with wide discretionary powers in the crisis, it was thought the plan would be referred to President Roosevelt before being put into effect.

The Japanese naval authorities further announced that developments might compel their fleet to take stringent action to stop shipments of arms and munitions to China from foreign nations.

Japanese Lines Broken

Japanese troops pressed desperately against the devastating fire of Chinese machine guns today, fighting to consolidate their forces in the Woosung sector, 12 miles to the north of this war-shattered city—its perils aggravated by an outbreak of cholera.

The Japanese lines along the Lotien, Woosung and Klangwan sectors were broken in many places by hard fighting Chinese. The Japanese insisted they had captured Woosung, cloaked by a smoke screen and wading across breast-high creeks with rifles and machine guns to fight hand to hand. (Chinese disputed the claim.)

But, they added, Chinese machine gun nests set up behind concrete barriers had spread havoc among their troops. The stiff stand of the Chinese, Japanese asserted, also had prevented a meeting of the scattered Japanese forces.

Cholera Outbreak

The cholera cases appeared in the French concession, home of most of Shanghai's American residents, and desperate efforts were made to halt the disease's spread.

Sanitary officers of the international settlement at the same time waged a campaign against the menace of bubonic plague.

United States naval authorities cancelled all shore leaves for men on American warships stationed here and Chinese hands were ordered off the U.S.S. Augusta, flagship of the Asiatic fleet.

This action was taken because of the danger of the cholera and worsening Sino-Japanese hostilities.

Port Closed

The port of Shanghai was closed to American shipping, excepting warships, following the bombing Monday of the Dollar liner President Hoover by Chinese warplanes.

One seaman, Lionel Haskell of Baltimore, was killed and nine persons wounded.

(Secretary of State Hull in Washington said the Chinese government proposed full financial and moral redress for the bombing and promised the attacker would be court martialled and severely punished.)

Palace Hotel After Shanghai Bombardment

A bystander is shown inspecting auto at entrance to Palace Hotel in Shanghai after recent bombardment by planes in the city's international section. Hundreds of civilians, including many foreigners, have been killed in the conflict. Cholera, breaking out in the French concession, added to the horror of war in Shanghai yesterday. The latest development was the reported Japanese capture of the strategic Woosung forts, railroad station and village.

Day's Second Road Tragedy In Oklahoma

Three Young Women, Two Men Perish In Flaming Wreckage

MINCO, Okla., Aug. 31 (AP)—Three young women and two men were killed tonight when their car collided with a truck and burst into flames near here. Another man was near death.

One of the women was trapped in the flaming wreckage of the car and burned to death. She had not been identified.

The other dead, tentatively identified, were:

Bernice Branum, 22, Minco.

Fern Brown, 20, farm girl living west of Minco.

John V. Hawkins, 25, private first class, 18th field artillery, Ft. Sill.

Russell B. Hubbard, 25, Ft. Sill private.

A young man tentatively identified as Odell Thomas, Ft. Sill private, was in a critical condition in an El Reno hospital.

Iowa Citian, Four Others Killed

GOSHEN, Ind., Aug. 31 (AP)—A terrific collision of a huge cruiser-type transport bus and a heavy sedan near here left five dead tonight and more than 30 injured, none apparently critically.

The bus rolled end over end after the impact before noon today and landed on its top. The automobile was demolished.

The top of the bus was crushed down against the seats, and some of the victims could not be extricated until the vehicle was righted.

Coroner Karl Vetter said tonight he had "established definitely" that the sedan, driven by Allison Bishopric, 65, of Cincinnati, Ohio, drove onto U.S. highway 20 without stopping at the warning signal. Vetter said the bus struck Bishopric's car broadside. Bishopric was one of the five killed.

Other dead were John H. Heinsohn, 60, of Buffalo, N.Y., Mrs. James Kelleher, 24, of Chicago; Alfred G. Carpentier, 22, of Iowa City, Ia., and Raymond J. Bufkin, Negro porter on the bus, working out of Chicago.

Twenty-three of the injured were brought to a hospital here after the crash, but all except 10 were released this evening. Four of the injured were taken to Elkhart. Others in the bus passenger list of 38 received first aid treatment.

Goshen homes housed nine of the passengers tonight, including Mrs. Alfred Carpentier, wife of the Iowa City man. Several others proceeded east on later buses.

The crash occurred late this morning. The bus was headed east, en route from Chicago to Cleveland.

S.U.I. STUDENT

Alfred G. Carpentier, Iowa student who was killed in the tragedy, was going with his wife to visit his parents at Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

Carpentier, who lived at 105½ S. Clinton street, was to have received a J.D. degree next year; he attended the summer session. During his freshman year he was a winner in the law club trials. He was a member of St. Mary's church.

Mrs. George Miller, 1103 E. Bloomington street, Mrs. Carpentier's sister, left yesterday to be with her sister at Goshen, Ind.

24 Injured In Kansas Bus Crash

WICHITA, Kan., Aug. 31 (AP)—Twenty-four persons were injured, six seriously, when a loaded Southern Kansas Stage lines bus overturned and caught fire three miles east of here today.

The seriously injured, all of them Kansas women, suffered first degree burns and shock, hospital attendants here said.

W. O. Sanders of Eldorado, driver, said a front spring on the bus apparently broke, locking the steering gear.

Treasury Collects 69.8 Cents For Every Dollar Spent During First 2 Months of Fiscal Year

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—The treasury reported today it collected 69.8 cents in taxes for every dollar spent during the first two months of the current fiscal year.

This was a better ratio than in the first two months of the last fiscal year, when collections averaged 65.3 cents for every dollar expended.

The government's account books showed a larger deficit for the period this year than last, however.

357 Millions in Red

With only two business days of August unreported, the treasury listed the two months' deficit at $357,923,000, or $31,000,000 more than the red ink entry for the corresponding months a year ago.

Officials expressed some satisfaction that the $108,539,000 deficit for August was $95,000,000 under that of August, 1936.

In July, spending topped revenue by $249,000,000, or $126,000,000 more than the July, 1936, deficit.

The two months' spread between income and outgo this year was only $53,000,000 less than the $410,000,000 deficit predicted by President Roosevelt for the entire fiscal period ending next June 30.

Officials expressed confidence, however, that the deficit for the full year will fall substantially under Mr. Roosevelt's forecast.

For the two months this year, revenue was up 34 per cent over the period a year ago, they pointed out, and outlays for "recovery and relief" declined sharply.

Economy

Officials said they are counting on administration economy efforts and increased repayments to lending agencies during the remainder of the year to offset a 21 per cent increase in spending for ordinary government purposes during July and August.

It may be possible, they said, to effect some reduction in the public debt, now at a record peak of $37,041,000,000.

A revised budget for this year may be compiled by the budget bureau shortly.

French Cabinet Forms National Rail System

Chautemps Regime Rounds Out Three Month Dictatorship

PARIS, Aug. 31 (AP) — The second people's front government tonight completed preliminary reorganization of France's economy by nationalizing French railways a few hours before expiration of the cabinet's emergency financial powers.

The nationalization decree, banding six rail systems of more than 26,000 miles into a single national railway company, rounded out the three-month financial dictatorship of Premier Camille Chautemps' government.

"Summer Cabinet"

The emergency powers were used so strongly that politicians wondered whether the government might not be strong enough to continue after parliament reconvenes at the end of September even though it was considered merely a "summer cabinet" when parliament recessed.

The series of emergency measures, including rail nationalization, which places railroads in the same position as armament industries, must be submitted for parliament's approval.

Power to carry out financial measures was granted grudgingly by parliament last June to last until midnight tonight.

The base now has been laid for Finance Minister George Bonnet's entire program to reform the national economy.

Franc Revalued

Financial measures already put into effect include the depreciation of the franc to approximately its old relation to the dollar, paring down expenditures, increasing taxes on tobacco and other luxuries and raising communication, transportation and postage rates.

Premier Chautemps already has announced that the regular 1937 budget of 48,146,525,573 francs ($1,877,714,497) has been balanced, but did not disclose how a previously announced deficit of 8,146,525,573 francs ($317,714,497) had been met.

Though the 1938 regular budget has not been announced, Bonnet has assured it will be balanced leaving the prospect of a deficit next year only for the amount to be borrowed to meet the 1938 extraordinary budget.

Leads Chinese

Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi

Evidence that Chinese leaders have laid aside all personal, internal differences to unite in a common cause against the Japanese is seen in the fact that Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi, most brilliant military strategist of China, and once a bitter enemy of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, has been placed in command of 300,000 Chinese troops defending the Shanghai area. Generalissimo Kai-Shek, himself, gave the order.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal. (AP)—An earthquake too light to cause damage shook San Bernardino valley at 3:45 p.m. yesterday. It had a gentle, rolling east-west motion and was felt generally.

Fireman Overcome, Damage At $15,000 In Downtown Blaze

A fire of unknown origin blazed through two downtown stores early this morning, overcoming one fireman and causing at least $15,000 in smoke and water damage in the two business houses as well as several hundred dollars worth of smoke damage in nearby stores. The fire, which for nearly an hour threatened to get out of control, was nearly out at 4:30 this morning.

Local firemen were called to the scene of the blaze at 2:30 this morning when smoke from the Reliable Electric company, 13 S. Dubuque street, began seeping through into Smith's cafe next door. Lorada McNamara, cashier, notified the fire department.

Insured

Smoke and water damage to the stock of the Reliable Electric company, owned by C. W. Lillick, and Spencer's Harmony hall, 15 S. Dubuque street, owned by LeRoy W. Spencer, will reach at least $12,000, it was estimated unofficially. All of the damage was covered by insurance, according to Spencer.

There will also be considerable damage to several offices above the two establishments, firemen said. The S.P.C.S. hall above Smith's cafe was damaged by smoke, and the basement below the cafe was nearly filled with water.

Smoke and heat were so intense that several firemen were nearly overcome during the fight to conquer the blaze. Fireman Louis Villhauer was completely overcome by the smoke, and was taken to Mercy hospital at 3:30 this morning. His condition was not serious.

Cause Uncertain

The fire may have been the result of defective wiring, it was believed, although the cause can not be determined accurately until an investigation is made later today, Acting Fire Chief James Clark said.

Most of the blaze is believed to have been in a partition in the center of the electrical company building, firemen said. The blaze spread to the back of the store and to the partition between the store and Smith's, according to firemen.

This morning's fire is one of the largest in Iowa City this year. The only other large blaze in the downtown district recently was during the winter when Munn's Grill was swept by fire and several surrounding buildings damaged by smoke and water.

Disease Threat Delays Chicago School Opening

CHICAGO, Aug. 31 (AP)—The Chicago Board of Health ordered tonight that the opening of all city schools, scheduled for Sept. 7, be delayed indefinitely to check the spread of infantile paralysis.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, board president, reported the disease was "rapidly approaching an epidemic stage."

"We don't have an epidemic now, but we want to control it before it reaches too high an incidence."

Dr. Bundesen estimated there were about 135 cases in Chicago at present and that mortality had been about 10 per cent.

The board's report said Chicago "has had more cases of this disease reported than for any August in its history, including the epidemic years of 1916 and 1917.

The city health board, in a resolution adopted at a special meeting tonight, reported infantile paralysis was "very definitely more prevalent in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin and Iowa than at this time last year."

Ontario Epidemic Rages Unchecked

TORONTO, Aug. 31 (Canadian Press) — Health authorities prepared today to take care of additional infantile paralysis victims as the worst epidemic of the disease in provincial history continued unchecked.

Hospitals throughout Ontario made room for more patients when health officials of the province revealed they expected 2,200 new cases before the middle of September.

CHICAGO (AP) — Thirty-year old Richard Stefanik confessed that he slew his mother with an ax, Capt. Patrick O'Connell reported yesterday.

Hundreds Attend Mass Rites For Mother, 6 Tots

DENISON, Aug. 31 (AP)—Five hearses today carried the bodies of Mrs. Elise Nollen, 30, and her six children to their graves in the largest mass funeral ever held here.

The Rev. L. M. Grigsby of the Denison Methodist church officiated at the services in a funeral home. Though hundreds of persons streamed into town to attend the rites, only relatives and friends were permitted in the small chapel.

Outside, friends, neighbors and curious listened to the Rev. Mr. Grigsby's sermon by means of a public address system.

State highway patrolmen and Denison police routed traffic on other streets to relieve congestion.

The bodies of Mrs. Nollen and her children were found Sunday in a gas-filled room of their farm home.

Mrs. Nollen left a note in which he stated that she plotted the death of her children because she thought they were being reared in a bad influence. She attributed her act to grief over marital unhappiness.

Dallas County Youth, Former Schoolmate Of Bob Feller, Named State Health Champ

By GLENNON LOYD

DES MOINES, Aug. 31 (AP)—Robust Clayton Junior, 17-year-old Dallas county farm boy, tonight was named Iowa's healthiest 4-H club youth.

Junior scored 99.8 points to win the annual state 4-H boys' health contest conducted at the Iowa state fair. Physicians ranked him two-tenths of a point higher than Paul Whitmore, Wapello county boy, who was named alternate.

Dark Haired

The new state champion is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Clayton who operate a 226-acre farm near Van Meter, the home of Bob Feller, youthful Cleveland Indian pitcher.

The second-place winner lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Whitmore, on a 200-acre farm near Ottumwa.

Five feet and seven inches tall, the champion has dark wavy hair, green eyes and a complexion tanned from the summer's farm work.

A junior in Van Meter high school and a former school mate of Feller, who was graduated last spring, the healthiest lad is the oldest of four children. He has three younger sisters.

Asked what he "didn't like to eat," Junior admitted liking "almost everything."

Goes to National Contest

He smiled broadly, displaying white and well formed teeth, as the other nine high boys in the contest and J. S. Quist of the Iowa State College Four-H boys' department, in charge of the contest, congratulated him.

The Iowa winner will compete in the national Four-H boys' contest during the international livestock exposition at Chicago next October.

Winner in the girls' division of the annual state fair health derby will be named Wednesday.

Financial success of the 83rd state exposition seemed virtually assured tonight with Fair Secretary Art Corey's announcement that the cash revenue thus far is $50,000 ahead of the same time last year.

Extreme heat may have reduced Tuesday's crowd, some officials believed, but special events for Wednesday were expected to draw thousands. The events were State day, when politicians, office holders and party members will assemble for their annual state fair "gabfest," and Scandinavian day.

Today's special observances were for the G.A.R., and Spanish American war veterans.

For the Grand Army meeting only 14 veterans were able to participate, headed by Oley Nelson of Slater, former national commander. Eleven years ago, he recalled there were more than 500 veterans on hand.

A considerably larger gathering took part in the program arranged for the Spanish war vets, many of whom figured in private reunions during the day.

Government Publicity Must Be Curtailed

OF THE thousands of jobs in Washington, D.C., that have been created since Roosevelt took office in March, 1932, none has been less known and less commented on than those of more than 1,000 men and women on the federal pay roll who work steadily and exclusively at the job of "selling" the administration's activities to the people of the United States.

In all fairness to the new deal, of course, it should be pointed out that government ballyhoo did not originate with the present administration; some of the persons now on the pay roll were already there when Roosevelt came into office. But by far the greater part of these employes have been hired since the first Roosevelt inauguration.

Roosevelt has told us he plans to economize, and we believe he means to do so. Our suggestion, then, would be to point out that one of the best places to begin economy would be in these various publicity bureaus. Their cost, although indefinite, has been estimated by the Brookings Institute as about half a million dollars annually.

The inquiries into the matter of cost are, according to a recent article by Frank Kent, political commentator, defeated partly by the incredible looseness and confusion of the entire setup, partly by the ingenious and elaborate scheme by which the facts are camouflaged and partly by the fact that the propagandists are spread across the entire country, into every large city and every state in the nation. Moreover, there is no central bureau, no reliable place for records, and no one person or single group of persons is in charge.

Another alarming fact which has not previously been brought out is that the rise of this army of propagandists has led to a wholesale abuse of the franking privilege. This is partly responsible for the nation's postal deficit.

To be sure, not all government propaganda is wasteful or foolish. Many of the pamphlets sent out by the government's agriculture department are valuable to farmers the nation over. The so-called Public Information service, too, publishes what is actually a privately circulated daily newspaper with news from every section of the country, including mostly digests of editorials and news from some 500 of the nation's newspapers. This paper is circulated among government departments and members of congress. It is most valuable to them because it mirrors, and very accurately too, what the nation is thinking.

Too, as Mr. Kent has shown, the propaganda division of the social security board is performing a necessary function when it acquaints 26,000,000 citizens with new and vital facts about this experiment. No one has ever questioned the value and propriety of departmental publicity for educational purposes.

But the one fact remains that there has been built up under the present administration the greatest publicity machine this nation has ever known and one of the greatest in the world.

Whether the vast expenditure of money for publicity purposes is or is not justified is debatable. Certainly, as has already been pointed out, a part of such spending is; but the greater part of such money goes for printed material that only reaches the waste baskets.

In addition much money has been spent in producing motion pictures. Something like 14,000,000 feet of various sizes and types of film are printed yearly. Some films never have a single showing, the most popular only a few. Radio, through electrical transcriptions and direct programs, account for a large yearly expenditure also.

It is obvious, then, that when all these various channels through which government publicity flows are combined, millions of foolish dollars are spent yearly by the government, and ultimately, of course, by the taxpayers.

We believe if the Roosevelt administration means to cut down its expenditures, it will begin now and in the publicity department.

The League Faces Extinction

WE MAY AS well face the facts—the League of Nations is a zero quantity in international affairs.

But one must retain an optimistic attitude toward the future. The theory of the League is not impractical; and after some nameless future catastrophe, the nations of the world will probably begin to realize that the league is as necessary in this century as national governments were after the feudal area.

It is natural for us to be disgusted with feeble experiments. The Manchurian incident indicated the weakness of the league; and the attempted embargo incident in the Italio-Ethiopian war proved it. The twilight of the league is now at hand.

The latest development is China's appeal to the league in protest of the Japanese invasion. It is nothing more than a formality. There will be a lot of talk and no action. And Japan will proceed with the slaughter.

But should the other nations of the world look far into the future, they would be somewhat perturbed. By refusing aid to the weaker nations, the states which are now neutral only allow their potential enemies to grow more powerful. In a long war, most observers declare, Japan will emerge the victor. Eventually, her interests will conflict with British investments and American investments in China. Then war or complete withdrawal from the Orient would result.

Which choice would we make?

Most Americans would not hesitate very long. United States citizens who invest money in the east do so at their own risk, John Public believes. He has no interest in maintaining foreign rights at the cost of his sons and billions of dollars for armaments. Investments in China mean nothing to him. Only a jingoist appeal to passion would arouse him to any enthusiasm for a foreign war.

In this picture the league is only a kind of feeble policeman who vainly attempts to aid the weaker nation. There is no indication that that policeman will soon become strong enough to curb the onward rush of power-seeking, land-hungry nations despite the obvious fact that such strength is absolutely necessary to maintain an ordered, peaceful society.

CLIPPED From Other COLUMNS

PLAIN AS PIKESTAFF

A VOTE FOR Copeland is a vote for Tammany.

That goes for votes in the republican primary no less than for votes in the democratic primary.

Conscientious republicans who want for this city the kind of government Mayor La Guardia has given it are not going to let themselves be bewildered or fooled, we believe, by the Copeland-Tammany antics.

They still know the difference between a deal for New York and a deal for the nation.

They can't afford to be beguiled by Copeland blandishments based on appeal to national party policies and passions.

"Hysteria" is a mild and charitable term, we think, for the pro-La Guardia republicans to apply to the preposterous manifesto issued this week by the Copeland republicans calling Mayor La Guardia "republican Public Enemy No. 2—for all that we are against and against all that we are for."

Poppycock of this kind should make thousands of republican votes for the mayor.

Since when has republican intelligence on municipal issues sunk so low that anybody dares ask it to view a fight against Tammany in this city as a fight against the G. O. P.?

Copeland contortions that have wriggled him, Tammany designee, into a republican primary should make him more and more a grotesque joke in the eyes of all republican friends of good government.

A vote for Copeland this year is a vote for Tammany—wherever or whenever cast. That's logical, patent and plain.

Early Tuberculin Test May Help Eradicate Dread Disease

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

School makes the first serious competitive demands on the individual — the individual who must make his way in the world somehow. Unfortunate as it may be for some that that challenge of competition must be met. Those who are constitutionally inferior, or who have a particular defect, small or great, must meet it just the same as the robust and the strong.

One of the insidious and often unsuspected defects which tends to pull down the efficiency, especially of the young, is tuberculosis. If discovered in time much may be done to aid and protect the particular under-par individual who is under par for this reason. If taken in time the defect may be entirely eradicated.

These facts are the basis for tuberculin testing which has now become so common in our public schools all over the country.

I have no doubt parents are puzzled by the new fangled idea. And is it impossible not to have a great deal of sympathy with them. However, I believe that if the full significance of the second paragraph in this article is realized, a more favorable attitude towards the procedure will obtain.

Another thing to remember is that the present tuberculin known as PPD (purified protein derivative) is a standardized non-sensitizing product which never causes any harm. Ths is not true of the old type tuberculin used in the old way. Those who remember ill effects from the use of tuberculin are recalling incidents of over 35 years ago.

The test is designed to show simply the presence of tuberculosis in the body. If positive it means that there has been tuberculosis infection; it does not tell where it is, or whether it is active or latent.

Many Submitted to Test

A good many thousand people have submitted to this test, and we now have the results of the first survey made by the National Tuberculosis Association. Since it involved 56,668 persons in thirty states and the District of Columbia, it shows the extent of tuberculosis in the United States.

Included were pupils in elementary schools, colleges, teachers, nurses, doctors and patients in clinics.

As might be expected, the highest number of positive reactions were obtained in the clinic patients — where 53 per cent gave evidence of having, or once having had the disease. The lowest number of positive reactors were in the elementary school children, where 18 per cent were positive.

This is higher than I would have expected, but it is a very hopeful thing to think that so many of these can be helped at an early stage of the disease instead of waiting until the condition has flowered into full bloom.

It has always been known that a larger number of adults reacted than children, because the disease may begin in childhood, then in most cases heal, still the immune bodies remain in the blood and cause a positive reaction.

If parental co-operation is possible undoubtedly a wide use of tuberculin testing in the elementary schools will result in a great advance in the treatment of this disease.

SCREEN LIFE

HOLLYWOOD — "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" represents Walt Disney's first feature length cartoon venture but more than that his first venture into "realism." One of the characters will meet death, the first time this has happened in a Disney film.

The queen, who is the villainess, will die in a fall off a cliff. There will be nothing gory about it, of course, but Disney considers it rather a momentous step. In "Who Killed Cock Robin?" the robin wasn't really dead after all. But in "Snow White," built for suspense vivid enough to sustain a multi-reeled feature, something had to be done about the mean old queen.

Ideas From The Customers

Disney, the lean and wiry young chief of a studio where none of the actors is temperamental, is more enthusiastic about his first feature than about anything since he started putting his featurettes in color.

"When people see a color cartoon feature," he says, "their imaginations will begin to work on the possibilities that lie in them. Already people have written in, suggesting subjects that could not possibly be done so well on the screen in any other medium. Many have suggested that we tackle the "Odyssey' next, for instance."

Next, however, the Disney staff will undertake the story of a deer, "Bambi: a Life in the Forest." As with "Snow White," months of experimentation will pass before actual production begins. The problem is to "catch" the characters, get to know them so well that the artists regard them as real people rather than as drawings.

"It's funny how it works," chuckles Walt. "The boys got so fond of the seven dwarfs—each of the seven a distinct personality—that when they finally finished their roles in the picture the boys didn't want to let them go. Now they're hounding me to do another feature starring the dwarfs."

'Pigs' Opened New Field

It was "Three Little Pigs," Disney thinks, that opened up a new field of potentialities for his screen efforts. With "Pigs" the artists learned how to instill "personality" into their cartoon creations, and the phenomenal success of this short film indicated a future path along which "human" cartoon characters could follow.

Disney is spending approximately a million dollars on his feature — an expenditure that would not be possible in "shorts" because the returns would not justify it.

"Three Little Pigs" is a top money-maker among shorts, and its earnings have been estimated in excess of a million dollars—but not by Disney.

Washington World

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—Postmaster General James A. Farley undoubtedly really means what he says when he pooh-poohs Republican National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton's assertion that President Roosevelt has "slipped aplenty" with the rank and file of the country's voters since his re-election last year.

Farley is not merely bluffing.

And I think a majority of the democratic leaders honestly agree with him.

I suspect that many a republican strategist also inclines to agree with Farley more than with Hamilton.

In fact, I asked one of them, with an important job in the G. O. P. organization, and he answered, "Off the record, I believe that Roosevelt has slipped some, but I'm certain he hasn't slipped nearly enough to suit me."

Liked Personality

What I gather is that numerous voters who question the desirability of various Rooseveltian suggestions nevertheless like Roosevelt personally as well as ever they did.

This sentiment seems to me to have been summed up very succinctly by the late Senator James Couzens of Michigan shortly before his death.

"Some details of Roosevelt's administration have been bad," the Wolverine statesman told me, in one of the last interviews he gave out, "but his essential sympathies are just right. He's the first president, in my time, who has been with the common man."

Consequently Couzens, though a G. O. P. adherent, was preparing, when he died, to run for re-election as a pro-Roosevelt republican.

I surmise that he spoke very truly for the average voter.

1938?

Almost assuredly the democrats will lose some congressional seats at the 1938 election.

If the democrats gain any, or even hold their present own, the republicans, as a party, may as well fold up and quit. Already they are outnumbered about 4 to 1. Their collapse, however, will not imply that only one party remains; another will evolve itself, consisting of democratic dissenters and the few surviving republicans.

But the juncture has not quite arrived for that. Maybe it will by 1944—hardly sooner.

Logically it is overdue, now, but these political realignments lag.

A New Yorker At Large

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Almost every newspaper man has moments when he is stunned by the absence of familiar faces. You may think the same names adorn the marquees and the headlines year after year, but they don't. People grow up, become famous, and die. And when they do, others take their places so quickly that the change is seldom noticed.

The names that filled the gossip columns a few years ago are, with negligible exceptions, almost wholly gone. If you don't think this is true, rummage through your old theater programs, or skim through the headlines of several years back, as we did, and see how completely the scene has altered. For instance, these excerpts from columns of a few years ago:

Names That Made News

"David Belasco stages his interviews with all the pains he puts into directing his plays."—Belasco is dead!

"Texas Guinan is off to Europe, which should be of considerable relief to the Noise Abatement League."—Texas is dead!

"Lilyan Tashman is an enthusiastic coffee drinker."—Lilyan is dead!

"John McGraw is an excellent copyreader. He often helps edit copy for a sports weekly in which he is interested." — McGraw is dead!

"Willard Mack, the playwright, owns a large racing stable, and it is a feature at Tia Juana." — Mack is dead!

"Will Rogers and Flo Ziegfeld attended the same premiere the other night. Flo is the producer who once refused Rogers a job—he didn't think the cowboy was funny."—Will is dead and so is Flo!

"Larry Fay rides around town in a long blue sedan which is armor-plated to protect him from bullets."—Fay is dead!

"At No. 10 is the one-room apartment where Marie Dressler lived and where Caruso used to come for spaghetti." — Marie is dead and so is Caruso.

"Donn Byrne, the Irish novelist, can't say no to panhandlers. He keeps a pocket filled with change just for hand-out purposes."—Byrne is dead.

"Monroe Owlsley gave a buffet breakfast in his suite atop a downtown skyscraper before leaving for a picture contract." — Owlsley is dead!

"Most of John Gilbert's shirts have Barrymore collars."—Gilbert is dead!

"Sammy Shipman, the playwright, always combs his hair before going to bed."—Shipman is dead!

"That Scotch burr floating along Broadway these balmy nights belongs to Ernest Torrence."—Torrence is dead!

Here Today . . .

So it goes. It seems only yesterday all of these were part and parcel of Broadway. But yesterday was a long time ago.

WSUI HIGHLIGHTS

When Elenore Lee White, 115 S. Governor street, Iowa poetess, selects background music for her regular Wednesday evening Poetic Interlude program, she looks for only pipe organ music especially quiet and slow pieces.

Pipe organ music, she thinks, creates a "poetic" atmosphere better than any other musical instrument, but paradoxical as it may seem, she selects her poems and her music independently, without attempting to match exactly their moods. Then her musical background serves to unify the different poem selections, integrating the entire Poetic Interlude.

You will hear Mrs. White again tonight at 8:15.

Down The Sports Trail

By PAUL MICKELSON

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP)—Joe Louis is an over-rated second rater, his heart is made of putty, his brain is composed of cobwebs and slippery elm splinters, his . . .

Hey! Just a minute? What, by the grace of the Marquis of Queensberry and the fighting immortals of yesterday, do you expect Joe Louis to do? Knock every man out within four rounds? Commit legalized murder every time he steps into the ring or never meet any man anywhere who has a chance to even stay the limit with him?

Jim Jeffries, Jack Dempsey, Jack Johnson, Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons didn't do it. They didn't come even close to doing it. You'll admit they were great. Then, where and what is all the beef?

Joe did fight a good fight against Tommy Farr last night before that howling, amazed and gleeful throng. He fought well enough to win the decision. He didn't knock Farr out because Farr was just too tough. Why get so excited about that? Nobody has knocked Tonypandy Tommy out in 72 fights, exclusive of the carnival brawls he used to stage around the Welsh mining camps when he was fighting for fish and chips. So, if Joe is a no good bum because he didn't kayo Tommy what about the other fellows? In all justice, so it seems to this corner, Louis should get credit for winning; Farr should get acclaim for staying even though he lost.

Louis never said he'd knock out Farr. Neither did his handlers. Most of the experts said he would and they believed it. Experts are just like you. You do your best to guess right on a deal. You think it's a cinch and bet your last dime on it. You lose. Experts, who are just as proud of their ability to pick 'em as you are of that 30-foot putt, are sick and weary today. They missed last night. They don't miss many, only nobody ever notices their correct versions. If you were an expert and you compared the records of Farr, loser of 11 fights out of 72, and Louis, loser of one in 37, you'd stretch yourself on the same limb.

Personally, I never thought Louis was a Dempsey or a shadow of Jeffries. He just happens to be champion. He's fought everybody they asked him to and been licked only once by Max Schmeling.

Actually, Joe doesn't want to fight at all. He's got $200,000 in annuities, two apartment houses in Chicago that net him $300 a month, and $30,000 in the bank. He's got all the dough he wants—and more. But he keeps on fighting to please. Instead of hiding with his title, he came out two months and one week later, a record for quick defense, to defend against Farr.

You still can't give him credit? Look over your immortals then.

Jim Corbett had 19 fights. He won 5 by knockouts, 6 by decision, drew on one, fought one no-decision, lost one on a foul, had one no contest and was knocked out three times.

Bob Fitzsimmons, Great Ruby Bob they called him, fought 40 times. He won 23 by a knockout, 5 by decision, was kayoed 5 times, lost one decision, drew once, lost on a foul once and had four no decision fights.

Jim Jeffries—you can't overlook Jeff who may have been the greatest of them all—had 21 fights, knocking out 11, winning 7 decisions, drawing in two and getting knocked out once—that was when he emerged from retirement against all advice to fight Jack Johnson.

Johnson, Great Lil' Arthur,

Chicago Regains League Lead

Loop-Leaders Now Hold Full Game Margin

BROOKLYN, Aug. 31 (AP)—After having surrendered the national league lead to the New York Giants for twenty-four hours, the Chicago Cubs moved out in front again today with a 4-2 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers while the Giants were being shellacked by the Cardinals.

From a position two points behind the Terrymen, the Cubs jumped a full game in front. They have won two more games than the 1936 champions, and have a percentage of .608 to the Giants' .602.

Tex Carleton, in winning his twelfth game as against five defeats, furnished the Chicagoans with effective pitching. He set the Dodgers down with eight hits, two of which they combined with a walk and a sacrifice in the third for both their runs.

The Cubs, connecting for nine hits off Fred Frankhouse, who hurled a seven-inning no-hitter his last time out, scored their first run with two out in the third. Augie Galan walked, stole second and took third on a wild throw by Catcher Babe Phelps. He crossed the plate on Billy Herman's single.

Who's Afraid?

Challengers Flock To Louis After Farr Tilt

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP)—In the wake of the failure by Joe Louis to do anything more damaging than outpoint Britain's Tommy Farr in the Negro's first defense of the world heavyweight crown, it appeared today Promotor Mike Jacobs will have to call a traffic cop to handle the newly-inspired rush of title challengers.

Jacobs, the one-man boss of the fistic industry, encouraged the scramble by proclaiming an "open elimination tournament," with all comers invited to try qualifying for a title shot, but there was evidence on all sides that the one-time fear of the chocolate "killer" has been dissipated, once more, by Joe's inability to put Farr on the floor.

Max Schmeling, only fighter to flatten Louis, rejected a proposal that he fight Farr or anyone else this winter, as a stepping stone to a title match. The German reiterated his belief that he has already qualified for a shot at the championship he held from 1930 to 1932.

"If Louis doesn't sign to meet me next year," concluded Schmeling, "there's no question but that he's afraid to fight me."

Rudy York Paces Mates With 2 Homers; Tigers Win 12-3

DETROIT, Aug. 31 (AP)—Rookie Rudy York, hitting his 29th and 30th home runs of the season, topped one of Babe Ruth's records today as he led the Detroit Tigers in a 12 to 3 victory over Washington.

Ruth hit 17 homers in a single month in September, 1927. York's two circuit smashes over the scoreboard at Navin field today were his 17th and 18th during August.

In addition York collected two singles for a perfect day at bat, and drove in seven of the Tiger runs. Two mates were on base when York hit each of his homers, one in the first and another in the sixth. Pete Fox, Detroit right fielder, hit one over the left field fence with the bases empty in the sixth inning.

Farr Makes Gallant Bid

Joe Louis, Detroit "Brown Bomber," retained his world heavyweight boxing championship at Yankee stadium in New York by gaining a decision over Tommy Farr of Great Britain at the end of 15 rounds. Here Tommy Farr is shown landing a blow at the Louis midsection in the early part of the bout.

Greatest College Force Ever Assembled Will Seek to Wrest Mantle of Superiority from Pros

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO, Aug. 31 (AP) — Heroes of the nation's collegiate gridirons last fall will demonstrate their individual qualities against the champions of the professional football world, the Green Bay Packers, at Soldier Field tomorrow night before more than 85,000 spectators, a record for the series which began three years ago.

Fair weather is the prediction for the game, and with this favor, the contest is expected to be the most brilliant since the series was started in 1934. In the event of rain, the game will be postponed until the following night.

60 All - Stars

The All-Stars, more than 60 in number, came to the game as the result of an election by the fans of the nation in the greatest sports poll in history. More than 5,000,000 cast their ballots to select the squad which began training at Northwestern university 17 days ago, under the direction of head coach Gus Dorais, of the University of Detroit, and his four assistants. Sam Francis, Nebraska's famous fullback, led all candidates with 1,104,372 votes. Sixty-nine players from all parts of the country make up the All-Stars squad.

The starting lineup, to which head coach Dorais is committed was the result of the nationwide poll. However, after the kickoff, he may rush in the players he desires. Since the bulk of the voting was mid-western, the western conference supplied a half dozen players, Merle Wendt of Ohio State, Ed Widseth and Earl Svendsen of Minnesota; Vernon Huffman of Indiana, and John Drake of Purdue, and Steve Reid of Northwestern. Pittsburgh supplies the only eastern members of the starting team in Averill Daniell and Bobby Larue. The south has its lone player, Gaynell Tinsley of Louisiana State. Sam Francis is the sole representative in the starting line for the territory between the mid-west and Pacific coast. Max Starcevich, of Washington, a Chicago boy, will represent the Pacific coast conference.

Sammy Baugh

Samuel "Slinging" Baugh, of Texas Christian will be missing from the starting lineup, yet Coach Dorais has been building his attack around the brilliant passing of Baugh, and he will be in there sooner or later. Dorais must challenge Green Bay's great passing combination of Arnie Herber and Don Hutson.

The game will be the fourth in the series that has yet been unable to show the collegians anything more than a tie. The Chicago Bears were held to a tie the first year and then chalked up a victory. The Detroit Lions were held to a tie a year ago.

Coach Dorais will have as his assistants, Elmer Layden of Notre Dame; Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern; Jimmy Phelan of Washington, and Bernie Moore of Louisiana. The coaches also were selected by popular balloting.

The All-Stars took their final drill this afternoon, with the Packers arriving in time for a night drill practice drill to get accustomed to the lights on the lake front stadium.

Bits about Sports

by JOHN MOONEY

Hints in the wind last night all but confirmed our Monday night's prediction that Mike Jacobs would attempt to match Max Schmeling with Tommy Farr; the winner to meet Joe Louis again.

Rumored reports have had Jacobs making the offers, but Schmeling declining. Jacobs is smart, but Schmeling is no mental sluggard either.

No doubt Schmeling knows that Tony-Pandy Tommy is one tough hombre—anyone who can take all that Joe Louis can dish out must be tough—and he certainly would have had a tougher time than Joe did with Farr.

I think all will agree that, while Louis may not be such hot shakes as an all-around ringman, he still is one of the hardest punchers in the game today. Anyone who can stand the blows Louis can dish out is p-l-e-n-t-y tough.

Just supposin' Maxie fights Farr. The chances are he would not K.O. Tommy. Then IF he failed, Schmeling would be given a back seat in favor of a rematch with the Detroit Negro.

Now Schmeling is in near-perfect physical and mental shape; however, age can do a lot more damage than opponent's gloves.

The more I think about it, the more it appears that that unintentional stab in the dark made the other night after the fight carries a lot of weight. I said at the time that MAYBE Louis was an in-and-out fighter, much like Jack Sharkey. After many of Louis' fights, his handlers have said he wasn't "right" in the battle. Once he lost, several times he was unimpressive in his victories over men conceded little chance against him; each time he "wasn't right." It could be, couldn't it?

There is little doubt in my mind that it was Farr who was underrated rather than Louis who was over-rated. Those carnival fights in the hills of Wales have welded a man literally of blood and iron.

Sometime there will come a day when all "experts" quit bothering the public with their expert advice, but until that time we will take this chance to predict that the college All-Stars will defeat the Green Bay Packers tonight in Chicago.

* * *

G. K. Hodenfield, originator of the HOD SHOTS column in this sheet, will be taking over for the next few days as we see the Windy City, athletically and otherwise.

This Railroad Cat Knows Her Schedules

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP)—She is a railroad cat and knows her schedules.

She gave birth to four kittens on top of a box car axle housing where no one could reach them.

Then she heard trainmen say they would have to move the car in two days. When the field was clear, she began moving her youngsters, one by one, down the side of the car and into a secluded corner of the repair shop.

Cat, kittens and car moved on schedule.

Lou Gehrig Hits Thirty - First Homer as Yanks Nip Tribe

CLEVELAND, Aug. 31 (AP)—Paced by Lou Gehrig's 31st home run, which came in the fifth inning with three men on base, the Yankees swept to a 7-3 victory over the Indians today in the opener of a three-game series.

Gehrig's four-bagger wiped out a three-run lead the Indians had obtained in the first three frames with the aid of Earl Averill's homer and enabled Bump Hadley to coast along to his ninth decision. Just to make his triumph certain, the Yankee right-hander belted a ninth-inning single that drove in the American league champions' last two runs.

Mel Harder started for the Indians and gave up the Gehrig homer. Clint Brown went to the mound in the eighth after Harder had been lifted for a pinch-hitter, gave up one run in that inning on Frank Crosetti's double and Joe DiMaggio's single, and put the last two runs on base before Whitlow Wyatt replaced him in the ninth.

Before the start of the game, the Yanks lost half a game off their lead. President Will Harridge ruled out the 7-6 protested victory the Yanks scored over Cleveland on Aug. 6 and ordered the game replayed when the Indians visit New York for the last time.

As a result, with the Tigers whipping the Senators today, the champions are 11 games in front.

Cows Face Big Job On Ohio's Pastures

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — On the average Ohio pasture, a cow would have to take 180 bites of grass a minute for 12 hours in order to keep its milk production up to scratch, says D. R. Dodd, agronomist at Ohio State university.

If a cow is to produce 25 to 35 pounds of milk, it must consume 200 pounds of grass to get the necessary amount of digestible proteins and nutrients, he figures.

The average pasture has only about 1,200 lbs. of grass an acre available at one time, so the cow would have to harvest one-sixth of an acre daily. And that calls for 180 bites a minute for 12 hours.

Dodd suggests improving the pasture.

was a busy man. He had 90 fights, scored 31 knockouts, won 35 decisions, fought 14 no decisions, drew 5, lost 3 decisions, and was kayoed twice. They didn't call him a bum until Jess Willard beat him at Havana.

Dempsey had his dark moments as great as he was. He had 69 fights. He won 47 by knockouts, 7 by decision (remember Tommy Gibbons at Shelby, Montana?), won one on a foul, fought 5 no-decisions, 4 draws, lost 4 decisions and was kayoed once. His blighted comeback is not counted.

Tunney retired as undefeated champ. Yet he fought 68 times, kayoed 35, won 17 decisions, had 14 no decisions, one no-contest and one lost decision.

Louis, "the over-rated second rater," is only 23. He's had 37 fights, won 30 by knockouts, 6 by decisions and was kayoed once. If you swing a fair yardstick why is he such a bum compared with the others?

Camels Guard Big Australian Fences

NEW YORK (AP)—Camels are so useful in the arid areas of Australia that the commonwealth government keeps its own breeding and training stations for these beasts, says Albert Richard Wetjen, the explorer.

Camel patrols maintain the two greatest fences in the world—one that bars the jackrabbits from entering the great wheat belt of Western Australia, the other erected against wild dogs and rabbits along the border of New South Wales and South Australia.

As early as 1860, camels were used in the Australian interior by explorers. They were imported from India.

Judge Rankin Denies New Trial in Election Contest

Decides New Evidence May Not Be Taken

City, Power Co. Documents Offered By Van der Zee

Quashing an MOL appeal for a new trial in the past municipal election contest case, District Judge John Rankin ruled that new evidence could not be introduced in the election case yesterday in district court here.

Prof. J. Van der Zee, MOL leader, on the basis of new evidence which he attempted to present, yesterday petitioned the court for a new trial. Defense Attorneys William Hart and Robert Larson pleaded that the evidence was "immaterial and irrelevant."

Evidence

The evidence which Van der Zee would have introduced included a copy of the present city council's recent repeal of a city ordinance which called for the construction of a municipal light plant; a copy of the council's recent resolution to withdraw Iowa City's application for a $917,000 PWA grant for the construction of a municipal light plant, and a copy of a letter written by the Iowa City Light and Power company informing its customers that the refund is being paid because plans for the construction of a municipal plant were dropped.

Defense Attorneys Hart and Larson presented a motion to strike the evidence from the records, and Judge Rankin sustained it. On the basis of the legal erasure the petition for a new trial was automatically denied.

To Supreme Court

The motion for a new trial and the evidence, although denied yesterday, will be included in the record of the case which will be reviewed by the state supreme court during the September term.

Judge Rankin was unable to permit entrance of the evidence because it was not legally filed, he said. The law provided that a motion for a new trial must be introduced "prior to noon of the day next preceding the day upon which said motion was called for argument."

The motion for a new trial was filed yesterday by MOL Attorneys D. C. Nolan and Guy Linville. It was brought in behalf of four defeated MOL aldermanic candidates against four incumbent councilmen. Van der Zee, Dr. W. F. Boiler, T. A. Foote and Henry Willenbrock are contesting the election of Councilmen John Ostdiek, Everett Means, John Grady and R. J. Phelps.

An appeal of Judge Rankin's July 9 decision that the incumbent councilmen were legally elected was filed recently with the state supreme court. Since the spring election, the defeated MOL candidates have maintained that four of the incumbent council were elected as a result of "bribery and corruption."

They based their charges upon a promise of the Iowa City Light and Power company to refund money impounded from receipts which would be paid if plans for the construction of a municipal plant were discarded.

The city council repealed an ordinance calling for the construction of a municipal plant Aug. 6 and withdrew the city's application for federal funds to construct such a plant on the same day. Since then the power company has paid out $94,000 in impounded refunds.

Quo Warranto

Quo warranto proceedings, entirely different from the state supreme court appeal, are to determine whether the incumbent council or the MOL council has legally held office since the March 29 election, the state supreme court appeal is to determine whether Judge Rankin's decision that the incumbent councilmen were legally elected is valid.

District Judge Frank Bechly will hear quo warranto proceedings during this month or October in district court here.

The state supreme court will review Judge Rankin's decision during the September term of court in Des Moines.

AROUND THE TOWN

with MERLE MILLER

ONE OF THOSE DAYS

This is one of those days—a day when nothing has happened, no one has called to either compliment or berate. . . Yet the task of filling a column stretches as endlessly ahead as any other.

Usually the job of conducting a daily column is as full of joy as the most exciting. . . One of the best parts of a columnist's job is the number of persons who drop in to see him or call on him. . . The usual time for most such calls—either personal or via the telephone—is at or very near the deadline.

It's all a part of the human antipathy to seeing someone work. . . When a person notices someone else working, there's an unbelievable impulse to rush in and attempt to stop him. . . Usually most calls of complaint come on days like this.

Of course, there are good days too. . . Such days are those when the entire course of the news seems planned for the benefit of the irrelevant commentator. . . Someone writes to give his own particular definition of a pessimist. . . A pessimist, he writes, is a chap who wears both belt and suspenders. . . When ex-Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York or ex-governor Alfred E. Smith of that same state speak. . . Usually they say a pithy mouthful.

Then the columnist may be out on the street observing the daily mass of human irrelevancy pass him by. . . A newsboy, a sales girl or a stenographer may greet him with a bit of trivia that will merely have to be reported and properly captioned to bring a laugh from the most discriminating.

And some days the poets may be particularly good. . . They may send a peculiar four-line verse of rare wit or truth. . . But then again they may attempt a 20-line extravaganza of attempted depth but of no depth at all.

But, all in all, it is fun. . . Eating lunch in a downtown cafe, buying cigarets, bus-riding, anywhere at all, the columnist is looking for something to fill the next morning's yawning space. . . He grows, sooner or later, I think, to understand more persons more completely.

And it's work too. . . There's a deadline and a space to be filled. . . . And others may be peculiarly un-understanding of the poetic insight that must go into the next morning's empty space. . . Some days—and this is one of them—it may seem the paper will have to go to press without any remarks at all. . . But somehow, just as today, something always happens to prevent that.

Someone has just called, for example, to remind me that a local matron created quite a sensation not long back when she gave a bridge party for both sexes but didn't invite husbands and wives. . . . Perfectly innocent, of course, and I'm told everyone had a rather keen time.

And, too, I yesterday had my first glimpse of the Braille books which afford the blind so many hours of pleasure. . . Since March, 1931, I find $100,000 is spent annually by the government for additional Braille titles. . . This money is spent under the direction of the librarian of congress. . . Fiction of course, ranks first in popularity.

Of all the recent books none has ranked higher over a period of years than Pearl Buck's "The Good Earth." . . . Zane Grey stays near the top also. . . And there are philosophy, biography, autobiography, history, every phase of publishing. . . And Reader's Digest is practically the only one of the national magazines to be issued in Braille.

Blind localites usually get their books by mail, postage free. . . Anyone of the 26 branch libraries may be used—Chicago, I believe being the nearest.

And another new development, as yet nearly unknown locally, is the Talking Book, which includes a set of records to be played on a reproducing machine. . . Probably shortly the Talking Book will be even more used than the Braille because even a larger number can use it in a shorter time.

All Signs Point Toward Roosevelt's Calling a Special Session of Congress

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

HYDE PARK, N.Y., Aug. 31 (AP)—Signs increased in summer White House circles today that President Roosevelt would call a special session of congress. The chief executive himself said he still had the question under advisement.

Talking with newspapermen while watching the Dutchess county fair horse show at nearby Rhinebeck, the president said that he expected to act on the sugar quota and housing bill shortly and that he was still considering an extra session and a trip to the west coast.

Meanwhile, officials indicated that if a special session were decided upon it would come regardless of the action on the sugar bill, although a veto of that measure would make such a session more necessary.

Present Law Expires

The existing sugar law, designed to stabilize the industry by dividing the domestic market among continental and off-shore producers and controlling production, expires Dec. 31, next. A veto of the new three-year bill, it was pointed out, would force an extra session to enact a new law or act on the veto, lest there be a period without any regulation.

Sitting in an open car under a rough pine shelter at the fair grounds 12 miles from here, the president said he was talking with the state department by telephone three times a day and the government was still on a 24 hour watch as far as the far east was concerned.

He has no comment on recent developments in China.

He said he would have luncheon at his mother's estate tomorrow with Robert W. Bingham, ambassador to London, who, he added, was in this country on personal business.

The president will return to the fair tomorrow to present cups to winners in various events.

Considers Western Trip

He leaves Thursday afternoon on the yacht Potomac for four or five days of fishing in Long Island Sound and around Block island. He expects to have all left-over bills disposed of before he embarks at Poughkeepsie.

He worked on them late today after returning from the fair.

As for his future plans, he said he had none beyond Sept. 17 when he speaks at a Constitution day celebration in Washington, but would start thinking about a western trip in a few days.

Gets Legion Invitation

He expects to return to Hyde Park after a day or two in Washington and leave here then for the west if he decides to make the journey.
