Britain Seeks Showdown in Mediterranean

Maps Plans For Submission At Geneva Confab

More Destroyers Speed To Wipe Out Submarine Pirates

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP)—Great Britain led the way tonight in Europe's efforts through naval might and diplomacy to end mysterious submarine attacks on Mediterranean shipping and their threat to the continent's peace.

The British government announced it would "submit important proposals" at a conference of Mediterranean powers next week at Geneva.

The statement, abandoning the British precedent of silence before such a meeting, was made while four additional destroyers sped into the western Mediterranean with orders to capture or sink the submarine "pirates" molesting British ships of war and peace.

Tanker Sunk

Both steps were interpreted in well-informed quarters as evidence that the British foreign office intends to force a showdown. The British are aroused by the sinking of the British tanker Woodford and an effort to torpedo the destroyer Havock, both by unidentified submarines off the Spanish coast.

Authoritative sources said the situation in western Europe as a whole might be discussed at Geneva, taking in Italian Premier Mussolini's determination to "exterminate bolshevism."

Assertions by authoritative Italian sources that Rome will not attend the parleys, after previous indications that Italy would be eager to be there, brought no official British comment.

But sources close to authority expressed belief that the guns of British diplomacy have ammunition enough to try to make Il Duce change his mind and attend in order to refute popular suspicion that Italian submarines are to blame.

It was believed that the "Geneva conference" would consider two possible steps to avert a dangerous crisis—first through dissolution of the bitter distrust that has arisen over the peril to shipping on a vital international lane of commerce; secondly, by devising some plan for naval escorts or other safeguards.

Seen as Failure

Chancelleries of the main European seapowers were believed to feel that the non-intervention plan of neutral observers and a neutral flag on merchantmen in Spanish waters was a proved failure.

Italy was a dissenter from this view. Italian sources contended not only that the time is ripe for the proposed Geneva conferences, but also that they would conflict with the neutrality committee.

Besides Great Britain and France, it was expected that Yugoslavia, Turkey, Greece and possibly other nations with Mediterranean interests would attend.

Chinese Typhoon Death Toll Rises

HONGKONG, Sept. 3 (AP)—The death toll of the devastating typhoon which swirled over Hongkong Thursday rose tonight when it was disclosed at least 300 died at one point where a six-foot tidal wave was hurled half a mile inland by the mighty wind.

That many bodies already have been discovered in the ruins of Taipo village and the nearby market place, a few miles from Hongkong. Police estimated at least 300 more had died at other places, while it was still impossible to estimate the loss of life at sea.

Survey Shows Number of Cases Still Below Five-Year Average

(By the Associated Press)

Forecasts of "considerably cool" cases and three deaths since Aug. 1. Although only six were confined to bed there yesterday, the start of the new school year was postponed principally because of the prevalence of the disease in Ontario.

At the same time, a nationwide survey by the Associated Press showed the number of cases in most of the paralysis districts fell under five-year averages and indicated there was no occasion for general alarm.

The disease seemed most prevalent in Illinois, Wisconsin, Mississippi and Nebraska.

A drop in temperatures to levels near or below normal was predicted for the north central states. Dr. Herman N. Budenesen, president of the Chicago board of health, opined relief from the heat would be "great help."

The Chicago Y.M.C.A. prohibited meetings and use of its swimming pools to children under 16. Previously, park wading pools, playgrounds and theaters were closed and the opening of schools postponed.

Dr. Budenesen urged recovered victims of the disease to donate their blood to help replenish the supply of paralysis serum.

Nine new cases and one death were reported for the latest 24 hour period in Chicago. These increased the total number afflicted during the current siege to about 140.

Mississippi recorded 285 cases and 29 deaths since Jan. 1 compared with an annual normal of 20 cases and four or five fatalities.

Greater Milwaukee had 25 cases against a normal of four and five.

17 Deaths in Omaha

Omaha cases numbered 84 and death 17 since May 1. Resumption of classes has been deferred today.

Chinese Army Holds Off Jap War Machine

Japan Declares She Will Strike Again With More Ferocity

SHANGHAI, Sept. 4 (Saturday) — Japan's formidable war machine around Shanghai was stalled today by a vicious Chinese counter offensive, but its leaders declared it would strike again soon with increased ferocity.

The Japanese threat, proclaimed by the imperial navy's third fleet, promised fresh perils as great as any this stricken city has faced in the three weeks bloody but undeclared war has surged through and around it.

Already the war had returned with renewed destructiveness and danger to foreign lives and interests within International Shanghai as the Chinese struck effectively with artillery at Japanese naval concentrations on the Whangpoo river, Shanghai's outlet to the sea.

Troopships Flee

Eight Japanese troopships fled down the river to escape destructive Chinese gunfire. At Pootung, just across the Whangpoo from Shanghai, and elsewhere Japanese attempts to land fresh troops or advance those already landed were stopped.

Neutral authorities agreed the Chinese counter strokes had disarranged the heralded Japanese plans for a big offensive to drive the Chinese from the Shanghai area and necessitated complete revision of Japanese strategy.

The Japanese naval announcement indicated ominously the revision would come quickly as punitive action which would terminate Chinese activities in Shanghai.

At Front Door

Chief result of China's renewed attack was to bring the war back to Shanghai's front door. All day Friday and through the night it raged over the heart of the harbor, with the United States flagship Augusta and other foreign warships in line of fire.

Early Friday flames were licking through Pootung and other areas already badly burned over.

Japanese warplanes carried out a night raid on Pootung, trying to blast out the Chinese batteries that had subjected their ships and shore positions to a day of heavy punishment.

French military and consular authorities, however, prepared to protect the departure of 650 refugees, including many Americans, who were to be taken down the Whangpoo early today to board the French liner Sphinx, bound for Hongkong and southern ports.

Foreigners Wounded

The river battle presented grave perils for passenger tenders, and the French bluntly notified both Japanese and Chinese they expected hostilities would be "withheld" during the evacuation.

Police of the international areas estimated 50 persons, including a dozen foreigners, were wounded by shells.

A projectile struck the roof of the U.S. marine barracks, exploded to explode.

Police Match Pistol Fire With Machine Guns in Ohio Fight

SPRINGFIELD, O., Sept. 3 (AP)—Four holdup-abductors matched pistol fire with the deadlier spatter of police machine guns today in a sizzling battle that left two officers and a bandit dead, another robber dying and a third officer wounded.

Hunted for a $1,200 robbery in which their victim was abducted from a downtown street, the quartet was trapped in a lake resort cottage 15 miles southwest of here and sought to shoot their way though city, county and state officers.

"Shot in Back"

Chief Sheriff's Deputy Edward Furry, 45, and City Patrolman Martin Randolph, 38, were killed as they exchanged rapid pistol shots with the robber quartet in the cottage.

"They never gave him a chance; he was shot in the back."

That was the description of Furry's killing from Patrolman Martin Donnelly, himself shot in the shoulder and one finger, as he and his companions went into the house through a pried-open window after the hunted bandits refused to open doors.

The slain bandit, dropped by police bullets as he ran from the hideaway, was identified by Police Lieut. Walter Fleet as Robert Corbett, 32, formerly of Portsmouth but recently living in Hamilton.

Paroled

Corbett served part of a life term in the Ohio penitentiary for second degree murder, being received June 23, 1924, from Washington County. He received a sick parole last Dec. 10, Fleet said.

Harry Chapman of Chicago, shot in the shoulder and heart, was reported in a critical condition and not expected to survive his wounds.

The other two bandits raced through the deluge of patterning lead, reached an automobile and escaped, temporarily at least.

Sales Bring

In all, the 400 cattle, 220 hogs and 75 lambs probably sold for about $64,000, sale officials estimated. They said official summaries of the auctions would be made later.

Winning exhibitors, who crowded the administration hall as they waited to get their checks, collected about $100,000 in awards, Secretary Corey estimated.

Predicted Relection

Gallup, in an address prepared for delivery, said the Institute of Public Opinion, "has discovered that over a third of the people who voted for the president last fall are against his plan" to reorganize the supreme court "and yet virtually all of these same persons are enthusiastically for Roosevelt today."

"If President Roosevelt retains his present great popularity, the democrats will emerge from the elections with a substantial majority if President Roosevelt retains his popularity.

Gallup shared the platform at the final session of the Institute of Human Relations, held at Williams College under the auspices of the national conference of Jews and Christians, with United States Ambassador to Germany William E. Dodd and Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York.

Oppose Sit-Downs

Discussing labor, Gallup asserted, "Two-thirds of the voters of the country believe sit-down strikes should be made illegal, and the same proportion believe authorities should use force in removing sit-down strikers."

Dodd told the conference:

"Democracy is in grave danger," and he classified as threats to democracy here centralization of population in cities, domination by "privileged minority" and high tariffs.

Alarms Crowd

E. C. Sundorph, of Cleveland, flying a plane of his own design, servants of the people and agents of the republic, skulking in hallways and closets, hiding their faces in a party caucus to prevent a quorum from acting upon a labor measure, is one that emphasizes the perfidy of politicians and blasts the confidence of labor's millions in politicians' promises and statemen's vows.

"Labor next year cannot avoid the necessity of a political assay of the work and deeds of its so-called friends and its political beneficiaries. It must determine who are its friends in the arena of politics, as elsewhere."

"Just Cause"

"It feels that its cause is just and that its friends should not view its struggle with neutral detachment or intone constant criticism of its activities. Those who chant their praises of democracy but who lose no chance to drive their knives into labor's defenseless back must feel the weight of labor's woe even as its open adversaries must ever feel the thrust of labor's power."

Lewis Assails F.R.'s Attitude In Steel Strike

Radio Talk Confirms Recurring Reports Of Rift With President

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—John L. Lewis of the C.I.O. rebuked President Roosevelt tonight for his attitude toward the recent steel strike and warned labor's "so-called friends and political beneficiaries" there will be a reckoning on election day.

Too Strong

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—Some of the phraseology John L. Lewis intended to hurl in his broadcast address tonight proved too strong for the Columbia broadcasting system and radio officials felt it was imperative to censor his remarks.

They announced that at their suggestion Lewis agreed to leave out a word in one passage of his text, and a whole paragraph in another.

The single word was an adjective applied to Governor Davey of Ohio, and the paragraphs which exonerated Lewis' principal foes, Tom Girdler, president of the Republic Steel corporation.

cago's Mayor Kelly of anti-strike activities and took another thrust at the administration by asserting the activities were in one instance financed by federal funds and in the other tolerated by officials here.

Although he did not mention the president by name, there was no mistaking the target of his shafts. Vividly, he recalled President Roosevelt's application of the Shakespearean "plague on both your houses" to both sides at the height of the steel strike.

"It ill behoves one who has supped at labor's table," he said, "and who has been sheltered in labor's house to curse with equal fervor and fine impartiality both labor and its adversaries when they become locked in deadly embrace."

Lewis' remarks, made in a radio speech, served as confirmation of recurring reports of a break between himself and the president.

Upbraids Legislators

Despite criticizing the president and administration, the C.I.O. chief scathingly upbraided democratic members of the house who prevented caucus action on the wage and hour bill by declining to answer when their names were called.

Those Seeds
Of Contempt

TWO EVENTS have recently occurred in two different cities of the United States which, when viewed together, indicate the remedy as well as the cause for some of the shortcomings of American court and police administration.

A WPA survey of parking violators has disclosed that favored motorists in Worcester, Mass., are permitted by police to park illegally; that whereas hundreds of cars have been parked overtime, police records show only a small number of drivers summoned to court and that the same license numbers are found to be consistent violators. The conclusions are obvious.

In Elizabethtown, N.Y., Justice O. Byron Brewster has been considering the case of La Verne Moore (alias John Montague). Mr. Moore was returned from California to face charges of first-degree robbery in which he is said to have beaten and permanently injured an elderly man during the course of an $800 roadhouse holdup seven years ago.

Since his indictment at that time, the prisoner's golf prowess has become a legend on Hollywood links, and he has gained a notable following of golf enthusiasts in the film colony. One cannot help but applaud Moore for the reputation he has made as a good sportsman and a good citizen.

This has properly been taken into account by Justice Brewster in finally admitting the defendant to bail pending hearing of the case. Yet the judge's approach to the matter was well stated at the outset when he said:

"I do not think that the court can consider the publicity that has been given this man's athletic prowess. I do not think such notoriety should be a determining factor in the case. I do not think this man should be treated any differently than any other defendant who did not have this publicity."

Fixed tags in traffic violations and official winking at certain violators are the seeds of more serious contempt for the law which employs glamour, or friends, or wealth or any form of influence to secure preferential treatment in police courts.

In Iowa City, during the last few weeks particularly, an especial effort has been made to prevent flagrant violations of the one-hour parking law in the downtown district. Many local drivers had received summons to police court time and time again and had not appeared.

Recently Police Judge Burke Carson issued a warning. Warrants would be issued for the arrest of persons who ignored summonses to police court. Police Judge Carson was as good as his word, and last week he had more than 70 persons in police court. Not all of them were fined, to be sure, but most of them will not be quick to repeat the offense.

Perhaps such a determination to carry out the laws of Iowa City is not good politics, but it is very good justice. Of the first we need much less and of the latter much more.

A Californian announces, after a 20-year survey, that apple pie is the nation's favorite. Now all we have to determine is which is preferred—deep dish or open face.

Taking A
Worthless Census

UNEMPLOYMENT IS still the greatest single problem facing our government. Upon it depends, among other things, the size of the relief burden and the fate of the federal budget. The first step toward any businesslike approach to the unemployment problem would have been the most exact determination possible of its size and nature. The plans made are, instead, relying on guesswork.

Against this policy there has been in the last two years a growing demand for a trustworthy census. The bill for a so-called "unemployment census," recently passed by congress and now signed by the president, is a mockery of this demand. Authorities agree that a census of unemployment would be meaningful only in connection with a general census and particularly with a census of employment. The new law, as the administration proposes to administer it, will provide simply for a "voluntary registration" of the unemployed. It is difficult to see how such a registration can furnish us with any important information that we do not already possess. We already know how many have been registered with the United States employment service. Why should anyone who has been too proud or too lazy to seek work from the WPA or the employment service take the time and trouble voluntarily to fill out a questionnaire in the forthcoming registration?

There is no reason, as we see it, to suppose that such a registration will include everyone now out of work, on the one hand, or that it will not include many persons already employed and merely looking for better jobs, on the other.

The registration will merely tell us how many persons have been pleased to register. That it will be a waste of time and of public funds is perhaps less important than that the worthless finality arrived at will be cited as if it meant something and that the demands for a genuine census have been scotched.

We believe the administration would have used less money and have gone about the so-called "census" more wisely had it taken time to consider the momentous task awaiting it. The job is important, and such a job should be done well. Unless all indications fail, it will not be.

Beer experts value the beer brewed by King Edward VII in 1902 at $175 a bottle. But supposing half of it is only suds.

The man at the next desk says his wife insists they do not spend their vacations in the mountains because she knows she can't get in the last word with an echo.

The American potato bug is invading Germany. Good riddance, but unfortunately they are bound to come back. No sensible potato bug is going to be satisfied with a synthetic spud made of wood shavings, glucose and dried grass.

Since his indictment at that time, the prisoner's golf prowess has become a legend on Hollywood links, and he has gained a notable following of golf enthusiasts in the film colony. One cannot help but applaud Moore for the reputation he has made as a good sportsman and a good citizen.

RABBIT'S FOOT?

Healthy Body Necessary To Maintain Child's School Work

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

In these articles on preparing the child for the opening of school, I naturally emphasize the prevention of the contagious diseases. Naturally because these constitute the greatest health hazard of any child. No child is born with immunity to them, and in school for the first time he is exposed over and over again, by repeated contacts to them.

School Lunches Important

The Parent-Teacher association is engaged in many excellent projects for the welfare of children.

But in my opinion they are making one contribution that stands out above the others. I refer to the school lunch, whether it is the mid-session milk luncheon or the organized hot luncheon at noon.

I repeat, the child going to school for the first time should have been (1)—vaccinated against smallpox; (2) vaccinated with toxoid against diphtheria; (3) vaccinated against typhoid and possibly against whooping cough and scarlet fever.

But at school the child is exposed to dangers from within, and it should be ascertained that he comes to his competitive job, so far as possible, with a healthy and efficient body.

This, as Dr. Allen G. Ireland says, is decidedly the parents' job, and it is the most important way in which he can help the school do a better job. Learning is not as simple as it appears to be. It means work, and effectiveness in work is a matter of fitness, that is, physical and mental preparedness to do one's best. Teachers know how true it is. Too many of them are burdened with classes of unfit children.

The commonest handicaps are decayed teeth, sore gums, adenoids, diseased tonsils, defective vision, impaired hearing and malnutrition. To wait until after school opens frequently means loss of time for the pupil and further postponement by the parent. Consult your physician and dentist now. Have these handicaps to good school work removed before your child gets off to a poor start in the new term.

But in my opinion they are making one contribution that stands out above the others. I refer to the school lunch, whether it is the mid-session milk luncheon or the organized hot luncheon at noon.

I mention this now because schools will soon be opening and it is not too early for the Parent-Teacher association committees to start planning for the year. And perhaps never before has there been such a great need for good school luncheons. The economic conditions of recent years have deprived hosts of children of physical and emotional security. Food has been less plentiful or it has not been wisely chosen. School boards have been forced to withdraw financial support of the luncheon.

SCREEN LIFE

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Produced B. P. Schulberg was on the set of his "Blossoms on Broadway," watching Richard Wallace direct Shirley Ross, Johnny Arthur and extras in a scene outside the Zanzibar cafe. It was a suffocating day, and the sound stage temperature was an estimated 10 degrees warmer inside. Schulberg sat there, wearing hat, coat and vest, and sweltered—but stayed.

Asked if he spent much time on the sets, even on days like this, he said: "All the time—when we're not rewriting the script."

Hollywood Pastime

"Rewriting the script" during production is Hollywood's favorite pastime. Not as slipshod business, either, as you might think. Scenes read well on paper and don't "play." Actors get twisted on perfectly good words and call for substitutes. Entrances and exits, well timed at the typewriter, don't click on the set. Or somebody has a new idea, a "gag" or a twist.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—There is more political talk today, in connection with the 1938 congressional campaign, than, in all probability, ever was current before so far in advance of a coming election.

What is still more peculiar is the fact that democrats are doing almost all of it.

The republicans have let out a few faint chirps. Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. has given his party a certain amount of quite forcibly-expressed advice. Former President Hoover has issued a statement which attracted little attention. G. O. P. National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton, also has issued a statement which fell pretty flat.

But, in the main, thus far, the fight seems very little like an inter-party fight. It is more like an intra-democratic party fight.

It appears to be their theory that the democratic factions will chew one another up most effectively with no republicans trying to break in and do a share of the chewing. At the last minute I assume that they will take the stump with the argument:

"All the ugly things that might happen without mentioning it. Last week you shot my favorite bird dog and the week before you wrecked my car."

Jacques Jolles, noted concert pianist who has been giving a summer series entitled "Basin of Piano Literature" on CBS, will bring his historical recitals up-to-date this month when he presents two programs of all 20th century music.

It is a new line of strategy. It remains to be seen how well it will work. The republicans have not much choice, however. If this will not work, seemingly nothing will.

Perhaps it will not work so this time, but the republicans are hopeful.

Numerous Weddings Mark Beginning of Fall Social Season

Princes Will Make Home In Iowa City

Marriages of Many Former Campusites Announced Recently

Wedding bells continue to ring in the fall social season as every mail brings news of weddings-to-be or weddings that have been events of the summer months, in both alumni and local circles.

Some are marrying at simple home ceremonies while others have elected the more elaborate of formal church functions at which to repeat their wedding vows.

Many university students, who plan to continue their work in Iowa City this fall, are completing plans for the establishment of their new homes here.

Mr. and Mrs. Prince

Among the recently-wed couples who will be at home in Iowa City are Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Prince, who repeated their nuptial vows Wednesday evening at an 8 o'clock ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Walter A. Gouldin of Cedar Rapids.

The bride is the former Yvonne Gouldin of Cedar Rapids while Mr. Prince is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron A. Prince, Burlington apartments. Fifty guests witnessed the service, which was single ring, read by the Rev. George A. Stuettbach of Cedar Rapids.

Palms and tall baskets of yellow and orchid gladioli and tall ivory tapers formed the setting for the service performed in the living room. The table, from which were served the wedding refreshments immediately following the ceremony, was appointed with orchid asters and slender ivory tapers.

Crepe of a dark blue hue was the material of the bride's gown. Trimmed with aquamarine velvet, it was fashioned in the ever popular princess style with a short train. Yellow roses were her flowers.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Mary Hershel of Cedar Rapids, who wore a frock of green crepe with white trim and white accessories. Her flowers were pink roses in an arm corsage.

Iowa City guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Myron A. Prince and son, Clark, parents and brother of the bride-groom, Mrs. W. O. Beam, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Kent, Mr. and Mrs. Powell Rayburn, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Prince and Carl Teitander.

Graduates Wed
Des Moines will be the new home of Mr. and Mrs. James Haberkamp who will marry this afternoon at Coon Rapids at a simple ceremony at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Grettner.

Daffy Dodgers Defeat New York Giants, Cut Their Lead To ½ Game

Brooklyn Wins 15 to 7 Victory

Bees Triumph Over Phillies

Jim Turner Wins Pitching Victory, Needs Lots of Help

By PAUL MICKELSON
NEW YORK, Sept. 3 (AP)—Branch Rickey, farm boss of the St. Louis Cardinals, warmed up on this blistering hot day and he had so much to say that I'm handing the ball to him.

"Dizzy Dean? He isn't even remotely in our plans for 1938. If he comes back—he can if he sets his heart on it!—it'll be a pleasant surprise but we can hardly hope. He definitely is not on the market. He's destroyed the market himself. Now he must rehabilitate it. Maybe he's reached his zenith. I don't know. He went up to the clouds of greatness like a skyrocket; he may come back to earth like a stick."

"You asked me who was the greatest pitcher I ever saw. It was Dizzy Dean. But unless he mends his ways he may become one of baseball's greatest tragedies. I tell you it's amazing what he can do with his astounding ability, his powerful wrists and fingers. He can beat any team in baseball any time he wants to win. Even look closely at his shoulders and arms? Most of his muscular development is centered right around the shoulder, giving him the longest reach and pitching fulcrum of any man I ever saw. But his consistent spirit? Ah, that's the sad part of Dizzy Dean."

Frisch A Pitcher

"I don't wish to be unkind. Maybe I have in the past, unwittingly. But Dizzy, frankly, is a problem in the field of psychology. Frisch (Manager Frank Frisch of the St. Louis Cardinals) can't cope with him. Why? Frank is no psychologist. He's a pusher—a turkey in a tobacco patch grubbing for a worm."

Schrader Sets World Record

DES MOINES, Sept. 3 (AP)—

Gus Schrader, Cedar Rapids speedway ace, today set a new dirt track world record when he covered two miles in 1:47.90, 2.1 seconds faster than the record set a week ago by Emory Collins of Le Mars. The record breaking performance was the feature of the final day of the Iowa state fair's auto racing program.

The new mark was set in a two and a half mile race. Collins won the event as the result of his handicap advantage and a final burst of speed.

Larry Beckett of Dayton, Ohio, turned in one of the best driving exhibitions when he won the three and a half mile race in 3:19.02.

Rain caused race officials to cancel the national circuit championship, feature event.

Max Schmeling Signs Contract To Meet Brown Bomber

Heavyweights To Mix It Up In June, 1938

Fighters Will Battle Under Promotional Banner of Jacobs

NEW YORK, Sept. 3 (AP) — As a climax to negotiations that have kept him busy for more than a year and have taken him across the ocean a half dozen times, Max Schmeling today signed a contract to fight dusky Joe Louis for the world heavyweight championship next June.

The bout will take place under the promotional banner of Mike Jacobs somewhere in the United States and some time during the month of June, 1938. Further details concerning the time and place will be ironed out later.

It took some five hours of conferring today to straighten out affairs so the German, who won the title from Jack Sharkey on a foul in 1930 and lost it to Sharkey again in 1932, would put his name on the document that entitles him to another shot at the championship.

Schmeling finally accepted a 20 per cent "cut" in the gate receipts, which Mike Jacobs confidently asserts will be over one million dollars, as well as substantial percentages of the radio and motion picture income. Louis will receive 40 per cent of the gate.

Protection

The contract, while it permits both Schmeling and Louis to engage in bouts between now and next June, gives the challenger complete protection in the event Louis should lose the title. If the Detroit negro should be beaten in one or two tune-up bouts he expects to take on this winter, his conqueror is bound to defend the title against Schmeling.

Likewise Schmeling's activities are limited to such as are not likely to impair his status as a challenger. If he fights anywhere outside of Germany the bout must be promoted by Jacobs and under no conditions will he be permitted to meet Tommy Farr, latest victim of Louis; Jim Braddock, the former heavyweight champion; Bob Pastor; Max Baer or Buddy Baer.

Happy Days

If he wins the title, the contract calls for Max to fight only under the Jacobs banner until September 30, 1939.

Although he may have taken a financial beating in the course of a year's negotiations for the title shot, Schmeling was jubilant that he achieved his principal objective—a chance to regain the championship.

"My primary interest at all times was to get a match for the championship, and I was willing to make financial concessions to get it," he said.

After he knocked out Louis in 12 rounds in June, 1936, Schmeling sought a title fight with Braddock. He was sidetracked then after contracts had been signed. The bout, scheduled for last September, first was postponed when Braddock suffered an attack of arthritis in his hands and eventually wiped out after Jimmy received a fat offer to defend his crown against Louis in Chicago last June.

Runaround

After Louis took the title from Braddock, Mike Jacobs offered the German a title bout this year on a 30-30 basis, both Schmeling and Louis to get 30 per cent of the gate. Schmeling, however, passed up that chance and arranged a bout with Farr, the British empire titleholder, only to have Promoter Jacobs step in with a better offer to the durable Welshman, who went 15 rounds with Louis last Monday.

Grimm Signs Contract With Wrigley To Pilot Cubs Again in 1938

CHICAGO, Sept. 3 (AP) — Owner Phil Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs, who dropped to second place in the National league on a road-trip from which they returned today, announced tonight that Manager Charlie Grimm has signed a contract to pilot the club again in 1938. Salary terms were not disclosed.

Wrigley had no comment to make, other than that the contract was for one year. Grimm, likewise, had no statement, but indicated he was confident his team could start clicking in a home stand which opens with Pittsburgh here tomorrow.

"That Brooklyn club didn't do us any harm today, did they?" he grinned, referring to Brooklyn's defeat of New York, which shaved the Giants' lead over the team in a half game.

Accompanied by owner Phil Wrigley, who made a surprise plane trip to New York just to ride back with them, the Chicago Cubs staggered home today to try to regain their equilibrium, and the National league leadership in playing 22 of their remaining 32 games at Wrigley field. They begin their series against the Pirates tomorrow with Larry French, ace left-hander, doing the pitching.

Wrigley affirmed his confidence in Manager Charlie Grimm, and declared that the club, playing at home again, would regain its confidence.

"Personally I think maybe the situation may be due to lack of confidence, more than anything

RECORD NUMBER OF 'KICK-OFF' DINNERS SLATED

A record number of "kick-off" dinners will celebrate the University of Iowa's opening day of grid practice Sept. 10.

The current total, 103 dinners in 94 of the state's 99 counties places the 1932 record of 85 affairs, Bruce E. Mahan, alumni secretary, said last night.

Dinner meetings have been substituted for the usual luncheon affairs of past years, and this season will be inaugurated by listening to a broadcast between 8:45 and 9 p.m.

At least eight Iowa stations will hook-up on the broadcast from the Iowa Union, Mahan said.

Alumni all over the state and in other states will hear the Hawkeye coaching staff and some of the players tell of the 1937 football campaign. Iowa sports-writers and alumni will hazard predictions for the benefit of the listening graduates.

Iowa towns that arranged for dinners recently to help crack the five-year record are Humboldt, Pocahontas, Sibley, Estherville, Mason City, Osage, Spencer, Spirit Lake, Washington.

Shelby, Forest City, Emmetsburg, Centerville, Corydon, Leon, Bedford, Corning, Sidney, Glenwood, Missouri Valley, Council Bluffs and Harlan.

AROUND THE TOWN

with MERLE MILLER

"Looking Forward"

(Editor's Note: The letter printed below was written by a member of the University of Iowa graduating class of 1931—one of the first "depression classes." . . . What has happened to him since that time he tells below.)

My younger brother is coming to the university this fall, and yesterday I spent the day in Iowa City seeing the officials I'd known when I was an undergraduate myself. Everyone I saw was happy and optimistic about the coming school year, and I already knew that the June graduates of the universities and colleges were mostly employed. . . . And then I looked back to 1931, the year I was graduated from the university after the comparatively comfortable, secluded college life. . . . We soon found out that even Ph.D.'s were a dime a dozen and less. . . .

A lot of us went back to school, and we found that more advanced degrees were to be offered in the next two years than ever before in our history. . . . Some of us believed an extra degree or so might not do any good but that couldn't do any harm. . . .

What actually happened to the members of the depression graduating classes? Of this group my own class of 1931 probably faced the all-time low in job prospects. . . . We entered school in the days of high prosperity—1927. . . . At that time anyone with a bachelor of arts degree was assured of a place in the world—or so we thought. . . . There were hundreds of jobs to choose from. . . . We, all of us, had peculiar delusions of grandeur.

After 1929, and at the begin-

The girls who had planned to be career women became home women. . . . Those who had contemplated marriage on graduation found that the economic situation did not make it more feasible. . . . So many of them were at home. . . .

Some of us did not find jobs for a year or two or three. . . . Some of us yet have not had gainful employment. . . . Few of us found work in our chosen field or in our college major. . . .

Well, what will happen now? . . . It is still not easy to secure jobs. . . . Many of our class went into government jobs, many into their family's business, many as clerks, many mediocre jobs they wouldn't even mention if you asked them. . . .

A lot of the campus leaders got good jobs—the college class presidents, the staff members of most of the student publications and the rest. . . . They didn't usually get what they wanted, but they got something. . . .

Perhaps six years is too short a time in which to judge a group; we may catch on yet. . . . But, unfortunately, it seems to be the younger graduates—members of the classes of '34, '35 and '36 who are getting the jobs. . . . We come in between. . . . Those with advanced degrees seem to be getting the better breaks. . . . No, we are not complaining, but we are a bit envious of the new generation of college students. . . .

School Board To Talk Over Special Vote

Will Discuss Plans For Early Election On $400,000 Bonds

Plans to call an early special election for a $400,000 bond issue for the construction of Iowa City's proposed new high school building will be discussed and probably completed at a meeting of the city school board Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the administration building.

Under terms of the $326,250 PWA grant awarded Iowa City Aug. 19, the city must provide 55 per cent, or $400,000, of the project's total cost. The new building would cost $725,000.

The board will discuss whether the building is to be located centrally or on the Morningside site in east Iowa City.

Proposed bond issues were defeated in two earlier elections which would have provided for the erection of the building at the Morningside site. The issue was defeated in August, 1935, by 134 votes and in May, 1936, by a vote of 1,875 to 1,623.

Last spring, 498 Iowa City residents petitioned the school board to call an election for a $595,000 bond issue to construct a centrally-located building. The board deferred action on the plan.

City Loses $40 Through Fires During August

Iowa City's fire loss of $40 for August is one of the smallest of the year.

According to the report filed by Acting Fire Chief J. J. Clark yesterday with the city clerk, firemen answered 12 alarms during the last month. The only loss resulted from a blaze in the cushions of an automobile.

The Reliable Electric company fire of early Wednesday morning will be included in the September report.

Those who had jobs had influence or family and friends to thank for them. . . . But the majority of us had to go out and scratch in a barren soil that yielded nothing. . . . We were not quite prepared, I think, for the shock of insecurity after the comparatively comfortable, secluded college life.

The Reliable Electric company fire of early Wednesday morning will be included in the September report.
