JAPANESE INFANTRY RENEWS DRIVE

Stubborn Hawkeye Gridders Hold Huskies to 14-0 Win

Pacific Champions Resort To Air Attacks To Defeat Iowa

Hawkeyes Battle Way to 8-Yard Line in Second Quarter Only To Be Turned Back By Washington Linemen

By GAIL FOWLER

SEATTLE, Sept. 25 (AP)—Two quick aerial thrusts, one for 47 yards and another for 10, gave the University of Washington a 14 to 0 victory today over Iowa in an inter-sectional football opener here before 20,000 fans.

The Washington Huskies struck first on the second play of the second quarter, Capt. Fritz Waskowitz, stocky 170-pounder, rifling a 27 yard pass to Halfback Jimmy Johnston, who galloped another 20 yards for a touchdown.

Again in the fourth quarter, after the sturdy Iowans had repelled the Washington ground attack on the Iowa 10 yard line, Waskowitz ran far to his right, leaped high and propelled another howitzer heave, this one settling in End Tom Sheldrake's arms in the end zone.

Fullback Al Cruver converted both extra points with placekicks. Iowa's chief threat was late in the second quarter, with Bill Gallagher, halfback, alternately the goat and the hero. First, he dropped a pass into the end zone after Iowa had taken possession deep in Washington territory through benefit of a clipping penalty assessed against the Huskies.

19-Yard Gain Then he reeled off the longest Hawkeye gain of the day—19 yards—to put the Iowans on the Washington eight yard line, and it appeared that a Hawkeye score was imminent. However, the threat failed when attempts at the stonewall Washington line were thrust back and the Husky secondary batted down two passes into the end zone.

Most of the battle was fought in the line, and it was there that Washington's superiority was shown. However, the defending Pacific Coast conference champions could not turn aside the stalwart Iowa forwards when they drew into scoring position, and it was up to Waskowitz to surmount scoring obstacles by taking to the air lanes.

If it was any satisfaction to Coach Irl Tubbs' boys, they made more first downs than Washington. Iowa got six to Washington's five.

However, the Huskies grossed 109 yards and netted 91, while Iowa grossed 78 and netted 45, as the Hawkeyes several times were set back for losses.

Deceptive Play The most deceptive play tried by the middlewesterns was a curious basketball or volley ball pass tried three times by Kinnick. He cut loose with the ball like a bloomer girl basketball player, attempting to pot a foul shot, and the pigskin end-over-ended straight across center. The first attempt failed, the second gained a hand full of yards and the third was intercepted to end Iowa's final offensive in Washington territory, which took the Iowans to the Washington 38.

Surprisingly Powerful Coach Jimmy Phelan of Washington used two complete teams as units against the invaders. Shortly before the end of the second quarter and again midway in the last quarter Phelan sent in a complete new team.

The reserves did not score but managed to hold their own effectively. Phelan's object was to test his reserves under fire for the heavy coast conference schedule Washington faces.

Crocker, Frisco Banker, Is Dead

HILLSBOROUGH, Cal., Sept. 25 (AP)—William Henry Crocker, 76, nationally known banker, died at his home here tonight after a long illness.

Crocker had been active in the Crocker First National bank of San Francisco and numerous other interests associated with his name until the first of the year. Then a general breakdown confined him to his home.

Child Found In Chains

Father Held After Cries Lead Police To Dark Coal Bin

By GAIL FOWLER

CHICAGO, Sept. 25 (AP) A 12-year-old girl whose ankles were tied with a chain fastened to the wall of a dark coal bin in the basement of a west side home was found tonight by police after neighbors reported hearing the child's almost continuous crying.

Sergt. Herbert Demke said the girl, Gloria Repple, was shackled with a heavy "dog chain" which passed through an eye-hook screwed in the wall and was held fast by two locks, one at each ankle.

Parents Away The parents of the child were not at home, Sergt. Demke said, so he ripped the hook out of the wall, carried the girl to a squad car and took her to a police station, the chains still dangling from her legs. A detail was ordered to hunt her mother and father.

The officer said the girl, her flimsy cotton dress stained and streaked with dirt, sobbingly told him her father, Henry Repple, a sheet metal worker, and her 18-year-old brother chained her to punish her for running away from home.

Father Jailed While the child, still chained, sat at the police station, her mother and father walked in and asked if they were being sought. Lieut. William Lang ordered them to give him the keys to the locks. He said Mrs. Repple handed him a bunch of keys and designated the ones to use.

Police permitted the mother to take the child home with her, but placed Repple in jail on charges of being cruel to children.

French Police Seek Vanished Czarist Officers

PARIS, Sept. 25 (AP)—Baffled Surete Nationale agents questioned a veiled Russian singer for several hours tonight seeking some clue to the mysterious disappearance of two Russian Czarist generals—one the singer's husband.

Mme. Nadine Plevitskaia, wife of missing Gen. Nicholas Skobline, was placed under arrest after the questioners failed to shake her assertion she knew nothing of the strange case.

Orders were issued also for the arrest of Skobline after Surete agents raided his suburban home.

Skobline dropped from sight Thursday morning after reporting that his chief, Gen. Eugene de Miller, head of emigres who belonged to the late czar's armies, had vanished after starting for a rendezvous he feared was an ambush.

Surete officials worked on the theory Skobline might have engineered his chief's abduction. They asserted evidence supporting this theory was found in the raid on Skobline's home and in discrepancies in Mme. Plevitskaia's story.

Fate of Death Row Trio Rests With Governor

Toughest Problem Yet To Face Kraschel After Trip

By JOHN H. CHAPMAN

DES MOINES, Sept. 25 (AP)—When Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel returns from his Wisconsin fishing trip Monday night he will face the toughest problem of his official career.

He must decide whether or not three young men now in murderer's row at the state penitentiary at Ft. Madison are to die or live, and if they are to die, he must say when.

One of the trio, in fact, is only a boy, no older than the governor's own blond son who last week enrolled at the state university to continue his law studies.

Wheaton The condemned youth is Allen Wheaton, South Dakotan sentenced to be hanged for the holdup-kidnap slaying of a Council Bluffs filling station attendant in June, 1936.

Wheaton had seen the inside of a reformatory and another state penitentiary before he was sent to Ft. Madison last summer to await execution. Just a month before, the body of Henry Plummer was found in a lonely lane near Council Bluffs and Wheaton was charged with the crime, the youth had been released from prison at Sioux Falls, where he was serving time for larceny.

Mercer Another of the trio whose only hope to live is clemency from Governor Kraschel is John M. Mercer, 28, who grew up in affluence in Philadelphia, Pa., served an enlistment in the army and then embarked on a spree which brought him to Cedar county in August, 1930, where Vigilante Robert G. Sprout was slain in pursuit of suspects in a drug store holdup.

Mercer was a fugitive for six years. His flight ended in San Francisco, Cal., where a young woman recognized him on the street as the repair man who failed to return her radio.

Heinz The third condemned man is Marlo Heinz, 29, of Dubuque, who was tried and convicted for the death of his six-year-old nephew, David Fox.

Heinz claimed that the child, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fox, farmers living three miles from Holy Cross, was his favorite nephew. He argued that the lad stumbled, wrenched his neck and fell face down into the creek, where he strangled to death.

The state claims the child was "a martyr to a sex pervert's lust," and that he was "strangled to death by his uncle in order to prevent disclosure of the latter's unbridled sex depravity."

The Iowa supreme court has denied the appeals of all three prisoners. In Wheaton's case, the court also has refused to grant a rehearing.

Accused Slayer Sobs

Gertrude O'Keefe

Although she resolutely withstood hours of grilling by police of Brooklyn, Gertrude O'Keefe, 37-year-old Wall Street typist accused of the love slaying of her former sweetheart, George O. Frank, stock exchange teller, gives way to a fit of weeping as this picture is taken.

S.U.I. To Start Year Monday

Old Capitol Bell Will Summon Students To Induction

When the bell in Old Capitol summons students to the annual induction ceremony at 7:50 a.m. tomorrow, the 82nd academic year for the University of Iowa will officially begin.

The three-day formal registration period ended yesterday, but late students will continue to enroll in the university all this week.

Everything seems to indicate an enrollment about identical with last year's, although we haven't any complete figures yet," Assistant Registrar Charles H. Maruth said last night.

President Eugene A. Gilmore will briefly address the student body at the induction ceremony, which will be on the west approach to Old Capitol.

The invocation will be started by the University band, under the direction of Prof. Charles B. Righter, playing the first verses of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Old Gold," while the flag is being raised.

Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, will deliver the invocation address, followed by President Gilmore.

Following the ceremony students will begin their first day of classes.

Black Shirts Or Brown, They're Still 'Brethren'

Hitler, Mussolini Spend Day Together After Three Years

By ANDRUE BERDING

MUNICH, Germany, Sept. 25 (AP)—The brown-shirted and black-shirted rulers of Germany and Italy had their first meeting in three years here today and, after demonstrating they were brethren under their shirts, moved on to Meeklenburg tonight for army maneuvers.

Premier Mussolini seemed well pleased with the tremendous welcome accorded him by Reichsfuehrer Hitler in this gaily-decorated, cheering city, even though he may have missed the shouts of "Viva Il Duce" which have come from every crowd he has faced in the last 15 years.

Schmeling in Spotlight Most of the shouting was for Chancellor Hitler until Max Schmeling, the heavyweight fighter brought here as part of the stage dressing for a display of 400 of Germany's most beautiful stage and movie stars, stole some of the show.

Obviously embarrassed in his top hat and morning coat, Max was the center of attraction at a tea given for Mussolini this afternoon. A bevy of the actresses swarmed around the big boxer.

Mussolini and Hitler had little time for political talking but their followers disclosed that they managed to at least break the ground in a general way.

Their time, from the moment Il Duce's train rolled into the station here this morning until they departed for Meeklenburg by separate trains some nine hours later, was completely taken up with visits and exchanges of visits, a luncheon, military reviews, formalities and the tea.

25,000 Hold Crowd Twenty-five thousand German troops were lined up at the station holding back the crowd when Il Duce arrived. The two heads of state exchanged formal greetings in the huge square outside and then reviewed the troops.

Then they climbed in an open touring car and drove slowly through the arch of triumph to what was Mussolini's temporary residence, the Prince Karl palace. Later they made formal visits to each other.

After a brilliant luncheon given by Hitler in honor of his southern colleague, they stood side by side on a reviewing stand to watch 10,000 crack troops of Germany's new army stiffer goose step by.

The troops were fully equipped.

Confess Car Theft Two youths picked up by police here at 2:15 this morning confessed to the theft of a 1936 Chevrolet coupe, stolen in Des Moines at 10 o'clock last night, police reported. The youths, who gave their names as Donald Nolan, 20, and Glen McAninch, 19, both of Des Moines, are being held here pending receipt of word from Des Moines authorities.

Irene Castle Sues

Chicago society is interested as Irene Castle McLaughlin, one-time dancing star of the stage, sues Maj. Frederick McLaughlin, millionaire sportsman and manufacturer, for divorce, on grounds of cruelty.

Mrs. McLaughlin, who won world renown as the wife and dancing partner of Capt. Vernon Castle, deserted the stage to fight a stormy battle for kindness to dumb animals. Captain Castle died in 1922, and Mrs. Castle wed McLaughlin in 1924.

Firmly entrenched Chinese troops counter-attacked, forcing the Japanese to throw newly-landed reinforcements into the fighting. Chinese sources declared that the defense lines, although sorely pressed, remained intact.

The Japanese brought into action the heaviest artillery they have yet unlimbered on the Shanghai front in a combined barrage with air bombers and naval guns.

For the first time since the undeclared war began, the Japanese permitted the removal of food-stuffs and other merchandise from Japanese occupied areas of the international settlement. They had insisted until now that the warehouses remain locked to prevent any possibility of food or material reaching the Chinese army.

Fire on Trucks Hundreds of motor trucks brought out more than $10,000 worth of American and other foreign merchandise, including medicines. The heavy fire of trucks caused a serious traffic jam.

At the peak of the congestion Japanese bluejackets opened rifle fire among the trucks on what they said was a Chinese spy who eluded them by diving into the Whangpoo river.

NO LUCK La Follette's Guests Get All Fish

TROUT LAKE, Wis., Sept. 25 (AP)—Governors of Illinois and Iowa who were invited to the northern Wisconsin woods by Gov. Philip LaFollette to be shown big fish can be caught in the state's lakes today showed Mr. LaFollette he was right.

Henry Horner, chief executive of Illinois, and Nelson G. Kraschel, governor of Iowa, each landed two good-sized muskellunge while LaFollette, after a full day of fishing, came in with an empty boat.

Adjutant General Charles Grahl of Iowa, fishing with Adjutant General Ralph M. Immell of Wisconsin, caught one muskie.

"I'm glad they had a good time," said Governor LaFollette with a twinkle in his eye as he spoke of a couple of whoppers that got away.

'Squeeze' Halts Corn Trade In Chicago Mart

CHICAGO, Sept. 25 (AP)—Disciplinary action against some of the participants in the September corn "squeeze" on the Chicago board of trade loomed today after emergency action by exchange directors had abruptly suspended trading in that delivery.

Charges of manipulation may be filed, reliable sources said, with the penalty, if guilt is proven, either suspension or expulsion from the giant exchange.

The board of directors was in session almost all of last night considering the tangle and only a few hours before trading opened at 9:30 a.m. cut the Gordian knot of conflicting views by stopping trade in September corn.

The drastic order also provided all open contracts, there were 8,012,000 bushels in them, be settled on a basis of $1.10 1-2 a bushel. The "shorts" have the option of paying the price for their unfulfilled contracts or of delivering corn. They have until 1:30 p.m., Monday afternoon to signify their intentions in writing.

Three Talked As Candidates For Farley Vacancy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—Three names rose easily and readily to the tongues of political observers today as likely successors to that of James A. Farley on the door of the postmaster general.

They were Edward J. Flynn of New York, Frank C. Walker, now of New York but originally from Montana, and William W. Howes, the first assistant postmaster general, a South Dakotan.

Of course, Farley's name has not been officially removed yet. He has told friends several times in the last few years that he planned to resign, but has never set any specific time. On that point, he and President Roosevelt have never entirely agreed. So he has stayed on.

His close friends expect him to resign within the near future to become president of the Pierce Arrow Motor Car company. He appears to have made up his mind, but, again, has not fixed the definite time for quitting.

'Crash Mother' Improves

DES MOINES, (AP)—The danger of meningitis is disappearing and she is "a little better," a brain surgeon attending Mrs. James Welborn, 20-year-old "crash mother," said last night.

Human Brain Is Surgeons' 'Last Frontier'

Man's Thinking Organ Still 'Big X' of Medical Science, Says Mayo

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH Associated Press Science Writer

CHICAGO, Sept. 25 (AP)—The human brain, according to one of America's foremost surgeons, is the last frontier of surgery.

Dr. William Mayo, co-founder with his brother, Dr. Charles Mayo, of the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., asserted in an interview that all other parts of the body have yielded their secrets to the knife and sure fingers of the surgeon and millions of lives have been saved as a result.

But despite the fact that brain operations have become relatively common, man's thinking organ is still the "big X," the principal unknown in medical science.

elder statesman of American medicine said, "we knew little or nothing about the inside of the human body except how it looked after a person was dead. That knowledge didn't do the patient any good and it didn't help much in aiding other people who were sick."

"Shortly after that we did some of the early abdominal operations and saw the various organs of the lower part of the body beating and pulsating in their normal rhythm. That was a great day in my life."

A short time later the Mayo brothers and other surgeons had the courage to perform operations on the chest cavity in cases where it was the only measure which held hope of saving lives. "Then for the first time we watched, marvelling, at the actions of the heart and lungs," he said, "and gained a new understanding of the body as it operates under normal and diseased conditions."

Another Frontier That was the conquering of another frontier of medical science, "Dr. Will" added, "but now these young fellows," pointing to two young surgeons who accompanied him, "are doing things in surgery which we never dreamed of. To me it is still astonishing how they can locate disease conditions of the brain, diagnose the trouble correctly, then open up a person's head and remove a tumor or blood clot, or even part of the brain itself with not much more trouble or danger than we did the early operations on the abdomen and chest."

Surgeons, working with psychiatrists and psychologists are now developing an entirely new knowledge of the brain and its functions in health and disease, he added, which promises a great deal for the happiness and longevity of the human race.

'New Armament' Reviewing the reports of the International Congress of Radiology, which he attended and addressed as one of the principal speakers, Dr. Mayo asserted that "X-rays and radium are the new armament of medical science" which promise as much or more in the diagnosis and treatment of disease as they have accomplished in the past.

New Offensive Ends Long Lull Near Shanghai

Jap Flotilla Commander Reported Wounded In Fighting

SHANGHAI, Sept. 26 (Sunday) (AP)—Japanese infantry launched desperate drives today along a 40-mile front from Litten, north of Shanghai, to the devastated Kiangwan civic center on its outskirts.

(Prince Hiro Yoshi Fushimi, commander of a Japanese destroyer flotilla, was reported in Tokyo to have been slightly wounded in fighting near the Shanghai waterfront. The prince is the eldest son of Prince Hiroyasu Fushimi, a cousin of Emperor Hirohito.)

The new Japanese offensive ended a week's lull during which heavy rain prevented infantry action.

Counter-Attack Firmly entrenched Chinese troops counter-attacked, forcing the Japanese to throw newly-landed reinforcements into the fighting. Chinese sources declared that the defense lines, although sorely pressed, remained intact.

The Japanese brought into action the heaviest artillery they have yet unlimbered on the Shanghai front in a combined barrage with air bombers and naval guns.

For the first time since the undeclared war began, the Japanese permitted the removal of food-stuffs and other merchandise from Japanese occupied areas of the international settlement. Kentucky Must Learn To Respect the Law

THIS BEING the "land of liberty" where freedom is a fundamental part of our system, the government of the United States comes in for plenty of criticism. Every man has his own right to say what he would do if he were president, and many do so.

Our court system particularly is widely discussed and widely criticized—from the lowest justices of the peace to the justices on the supreme court bench. And such things should be. Only by discussion, by criticism and by change can we determine the best methods of government and keep the principles of democracy alive.

Occasionally, however, an event occurs which passes that fine line of distinction between fair criticism of an institution and genuine disregard of its principles. Such an event was last week when the three Garr brothers of Shelbyville, Ky., took the law into their own hands and killed Brig. Gen. Harry H. Denhardt, accused of shooting their sister.

It seems probable that Denhardt was guilty. Although the first jury which considered the fate of the former lieutenant-governor of Kentucky was dismissed because it could not agree on a verdict, the evidence pointed to the fact that he had actually murdered his fiancée, Verna Garr Taylor.

Denhardt was about to face trial for a second time when he was murdered. Roy Garr, one of the men who declares he shot Denhardt, was quoted immediately after the shooting as saying, "He shot my sister; an eye for an eye is my motto." Such a philosophy is behind much of the violence and mob law of the last few years.

We believe that, although our jury system may be faulty, it is still the best existing system for determining a man's guilt or innocence. We admit innocent men may have been sent to the gallows or to life imprisonment for crimes they did not commit; we admit juries may be wrong. But this is not the best of all possible worlds, we still believe that the jury system is the best method yet discovered for obtaining justice.

The south and the far west have had many examples of such "citizen justice" as Kentucky witnessed this week. Every time a man is dragged from his jail cell and hung on a tree by an angry mob, the laws of the United States are flouted in exchange for the ignorant violence of the crowd.

"An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth" may have been a legitimate motto for the days when cave-men stalked the earth, but no more. The forces of justice may be complicated in the modern judicial system, but so, for that matter, is our civilization itself. To survive each individual must respect the processes of the law made for the protection of society as a whole.

That is why we believe it is not a good idea for the people of Shelbyville to have made "local heroes" of the Garr boys, as the newspaper reports declare they have done. That is why we believe it was not right for them to "applaud and cheer" when the brothers were released from prison on bond Friday.

The Garrs have not been convicted as yet, and they have indicated that they will plead self-defense, but until they are proven innocent or guilty, we believe they should be afforded the same treatment as other accused murderers. If guilty, their crime is neither better nor worse than that of Denhardt.

Two Gentlemen Talk Things Over

We wonder what Hitler and Mussolini, like the governors of North Carolina and South Carolina, really said to each other when they met in that highly-advertised session in Munich. Our curiosity is also excited about what they really thought while they were talking.

Perhaps it was something like this: Hitler: You're looking well Benito. (Hmmm, beginning to get a paunch though. Well, I shan't mention it.)

Mussolini: You appear very good yourself, Adolf. (That mustache looks pretty seedy. I never did think much of Charlie Chaplin.)

Hitler: What do you propose we do about the world situation? (I wonder if I'd better mention colonies now?) Mussolini: I think we ought to come out in favor of peace. The papers haven't had the right attitudes lately. (Those wheat fields I saw on the way up here looked better than anything in Ethiopia. I'd like to sneak a closer look at his army.)

Hitler: Oh yes, and say a word against all those democracies which are about to drag us into another world war. (I bet my goose-steppers will knock his eye out.)

Mussolini: And about Britain, do you think we ought to let her keep all those ships down in the Mediterranean? Of course I can run them out of there any time I want to. (Like heck, I can.)

Hitler: It's up to you, my friend. They don't seem to be bothering much now, but anytime you want those English to scam you can count on me to help you chase 'em. (I'll let him think so anyway.)

Mussolini: Do you think we ought to do anything about Japan, sort of help her out or something? We've been pretty useful down in Spain—chasing the dirty reds around. (Do you suppose he knows how many Italian troops those reds killed?)

Hitler: Japan seems to be doing all right by herself. (If only I could act the same way and get away with it!)

LEARNING ABOUT LEARNING

OF COURSE the new blueprint of education which H. G. Wells held up before the British Association for the Advancement of Science deeply stirred educators and pedagogical experts.

If Mr. Wells could popularize natural science, perhaps he can also popularize education. He is critical of education as it exists, but his critique has a constructive core. His diagram of the "informative content of education," which looks disarmingly simple, would be revolutionary if applied to school systems.

It sounds elementary to state that the natural curiosity of the child is the beginning of education. Yet how curiosity is smothered and mishandled in much of the machinery of conventional education! From this natural basis, Mr. Wells would have rise progressively at different age levels, a content and concept of education to constitute the essential framework of knowledge—an irreducible minimum for all responsible human beings, of all ages, under modern conditions.

The base for his diagram, the foundation for all later learning, is the child's instinctive interests about animals and pets, as the dawn of natural history; about things and what can be done to them—toys, bricks, etc.—as the dawn of physical science; and about shelters, activities and ways of living—cubby houses, playing shops, etc.—as the dawn of human history and economics. On the development of these three natural urges of the child he plans all the later "positive and deliberate teaching," on up through familiar fields and subjects to original study for "new knowledge and thought" at the top—all to be "distributed through the general information channels of the world."

He emphasizes that the teaching plan he proposes embraces only the factual side of education and the organization of knowledge. Perhaps the main thing, after all, regardless of the systems of education, is to act upon as well as academically accept, the concept that education is not a short period of preparation during childhood and youth, but a continuous, cumulative process of both unspecialized and specialized learning from the beginning to the end of life. Even as Mr. Wells was explaining his diagram to the British audience, Prof. Alexander Meiklejohn of the University of Wisconsin was advocating in the United States fifty-year courses.

It is heartening to see the discussion of educational theory come out of the libraries and the pedagogical publications and meetings, into the main stream of life.

Proper Brushing Technique Essential for Healthy Gums

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Eighty million people or more realize how important they are in our enlightened land do not brush their teeth—or didn't the last time I counted them, which was the last time I wrote an article on this subject a year or two ago. Maybe as a result of that article they are fewer than they were.

According to my dentist, however, not one in ten of the people who do brush their teeth, do it the right way.

Here are the principles of scientific tooth brushing.

First, the object. The main object of brushing the teeth is not to prevent decay, but to prevent pyorrhea. To invigorate infected and receding gums. Dental decay is only partly due to food particles remaining on the teeth; there is a nutritional element that can be influenced by diet, so the toothbrush is only part of the picture. Besides, when dental decay begins it can be easily recognized and treated by the dentist.

Most teeth are lost through pyorrhea. When this is not too far advanced the tooth can be saved. Hence the importance of prevention.

Second, when should proper brushing be taught? As early as possible—at the sixth year, when the first permanent teeth come in. Children in their abundant health and confidence have no conception of the necessity of preserving teeth. Only when they do go to

Tuning In with Lenore DeVries

Do you know Jerry? You ought to. He's radio's original sidewalk interviewer. But he didn't stay on the sidewalk long. It was just about one year ago that he took his mike with him "over the back fence" for friendly visits with Our Neighbors on the NBC.

Now he is moving into the that all the teeth are brushed.

My dentist compares the teeth to a fence, which you are going to paint. And if you are going to paint it with invisible paint, you have to use a plan which will get all the posts. So start at one end, come all the way along in front, stopping at each tooth, then go around and come down the back. Do this on the uppers and the lowers.

Handle the toothbrush so that the bristles enter the crevices at a right angle—go straight in. You couldn't expect them to clean a space between teeth if they went in sideways.

Don't spike the gums. In other words, don't push the bristles on the gum surface. Approach the gums by laying the bristles on the tooth surface and working up to the gum margin.

If you are not doing this—revise your toothbrush technique.

HOLLYWOOD—Frank McHugh would have us know he isn't meek, and his favorite food isn't milk toast either. It is beef, or at least Frank was beefing, in a mild sort of way, about his milky-toasty roles in comedies. He was just winking up one called "Larger Than Life," in which, after taking it from all possible sources of abuse, he turns and asserts himself. Frank is becoming a veritable turning worm, and he doesn't care for it.

"I personally don't think fellows like that are funny," he said. "I feel sorry for 'em. And after you've played the worm and turned a few times, what else is there for you to do to make it different? A fellow like that can't have any smart lines because in real life he wouldn't think of 'em. All he can do is listen, and have things happen to him. I'm getting tired of it."

Sweet Sours McHugh, as I said, was pretty mild about it. He hadn't reached that burning stage of indignation which leads to I'll-be-suing-you-Warners. On another stage, behind carefully closed doors, was emoting the studio's latest star, Kay Francis. She was giving her art to "Return from Limbo," and the bosses, whom she is suing to avoid her contract because they let Claudette Colbert have "Tovarich," had protected her from the inquisitive and curious.

This is a nice thing about Hollywood. You may fight your legal enemies and have them be solicitous in your behalf—if it happens you're a star and can make money for them. Kay, like a good little girl, was going to work on schedule. Pending decision on her suit, she was not going to be caught refusing to work. Kay, unlike Bette Davis and Ann Dvorak when they sued, didn't work.

Here and There Romance news jingle: All in a day... Faye and Raye... Said Yea... Said Nay... Tamara Geva, of the beautiful legs, isn't showing them in "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round"... Wants to get away from the dance star past... Mae West is planning a privately printed biography of herself—in photographs—for distribution to her friends... She'll call it "That's My Story"... But I wonder if it'll refer to the story she was stuck with not long ago... about Mr. Wallace, I mean.

Paul Muni can't abide being touched by his leading ladies... This makes it tough on them when they're required by a script to show affection.

Professor Lampe To Deliver First Vesper Service Address

President Gilmore Will Present Religious Leaders to Students

All Students Invited To Attend Service At Union Tonight

"Pet Prejudice in a University" will be discussed by Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, at the opening university vesper service of the 1937-38 series tonight at 8 o'clock in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

President Eugene A. Gilmore will preside during the meeting and introduce the religious leaders of the campus to the student body. All students, whether freshmen or upperclassmen, are invited to attend.

Thomas Muir of the music department will sing "If With All Your Hearts" from the Elijah by Mendelssohn. Arnold Small of the music department will play a violin solo, "En Bateau," by Debussy. He will be accompanied by Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the music department.

The invocation will be offered by the Rev. Patrick J. O'Reilly, pastor of St. Patrick's church and adviser to the Newman club.

Herald I. Stark of the music department will lead the group in singing "America the Beautiful" and the University of Iowa hymn, "Old Gold." Benediction will close the service.

Halo effects may be achieved in coiffures by tying a piece of cord around the head and pinning the hair around the cord.

S.U.I. Coeds 'Taxed' To Support Women's Association's Work

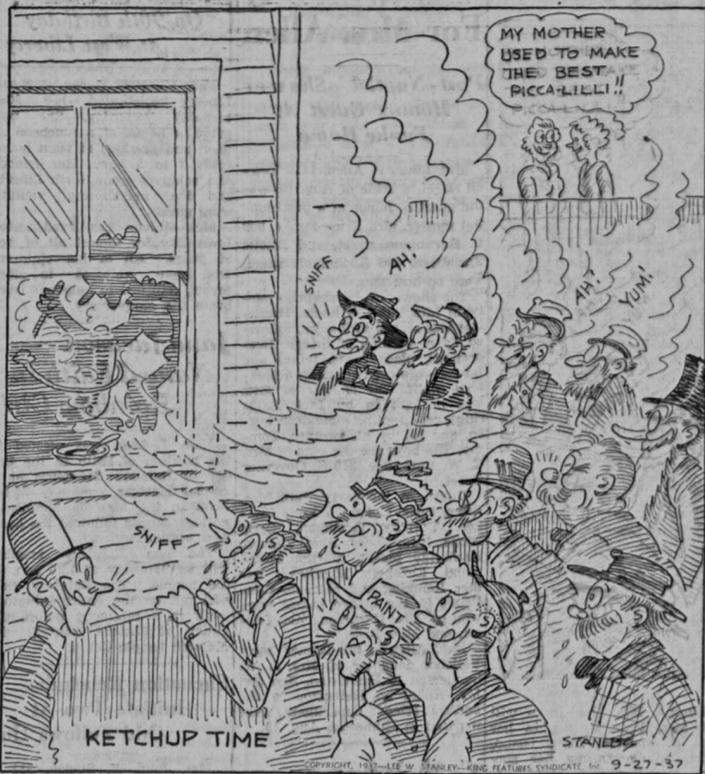

University of Iowa women are being charged a "poll" tax this year for the first time.

An extra half-dollar has been added to women's tuition to cover the cost of University Women's association's activities, boosting the semester tuition fee for women to $49.50.

Formerly UWA had to depend chiefly on income from the Spinster Spree for support of its functions. The additional tuition cost will constitute the "expense account" of the women's organization from now on.

Program Director Announces Enlarged Schedule for WSUI

Two-Station Network To Begin Operation Tomorrow

Programs of news, music and drama, in addition to the re-broadcasts of programs from station WOI at Ames, have been scheduled by station WSUI, during the coming year, Pearl Bennett Broxam, program director, announced yesterday.

Tomorrow will mark the day when the two-station network, made up of WSUI and WOI, goes into operation for regular re-broadcasts of each other's programs. Beginning with tomorrow, WSUI will also operate on its regular 12-hour-a-day time.

The Daily Iowan of the Air will be presented three times daily this year, instead of twice as at present. The broadcasts will be at 8:30 a.m., 5:50 p.m. and 8:45 p.m.

Wayne Crew, A4 of Des Moines, and Bob Graham, G of Iowa City, will present a resume of the morning Iowan on the 8:30 a.m. broadcast. Fred Kraschel, L2 of Harlan, and Merle Miller, A3 of Marshalltown, city editor of the Iowan, will broadcast the 5:50 and 8:45 p.m. news programs.

Highlights of the week's news will be dramatized on the Friday Parade of Events at 8 p.m., a program written and directed by Crew.

Farm flashes, presenting the latest market reports, will be re-broadcast from WOI daily at 8:50 a.m.

Dramatic productions, in charge of a group of student directors supervised by Graham, include the speech department hour, Monday at 8 p.m., the Little Theater of the Air, Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. and the Drama hour, Wednesday at 8 p.m. Speech students will also broadcast the Poetic Interlude Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 2 p.m.

Rhythm Rambles, one of WSUI's most popular programs, will continue to be broadcast every noon.

Five university professors will present the Within the Classroom broadcasts regularly. The schedule of these programs has already been announced.

Other regular features of WSUI this year will be the Book Shelf, with Kay Hausen, A3 of Villisca, daily at 10:30 a.m.; Around the Dial with Lenore DeVries, A4 of Kesley; the Woodland Rambler, Sylvanus J. Ebert, WSUI operator, and Poetry Patterns by Elenore Lee White, 115 S. Governor street, and Mrs. Sadie Seagrave of Oakdale, alternate Mondays at 7:30 p.m.

Since the war to end wars, there have been seventeen de facto wars.

Asks Students To Tryout For S.U.I. Chorus

All students interested in trying out for membership in University chorus will have the opportunity to do so tomorrow, Herald I. Stark, director, announced yesterday.

Tryouts will be continued tomorrow from 9 to 12 a. m., and from 1 to 6 p. m. in room 103, music studio building. Places are still open in every section of the musical organization. Old members of the group are also asked to report for tryouts.

Rehearsals of the group will be every Tuesday and Thursday from 7 to 8:30 p. m. The first rehearsal will be Tuesday.

U.S. Civil Service Reports Opening

The United States civil service commission yesterday announced an open competitive examination for principal animal husbandman, in the bureau of animal husbandry, department of agriculture. The position offers a yearly salary of $5,600.

Further information may be obtained from A. C. Lorack, secretary of the civil service board of examiners at the post office.

Ten Fined in Police Court for Parking, Traffic Offenses

Ten drivers paid fines in police court yesterday for parking and traffic offenses.

E. A. Baldwin, Victor Oliva, Ingalls Swisher and Roy Dunton paid $1 each for overtime parking. Jens Norgaard, Margaret Holloway, M. L. Aaron and Ross Emerson received suspended fines on the same charge.

For failing to stop at a school sign, George Keubrich and DeLuxe Cab company were each fined $1 and costs.

Council To Scan Coal Contracts At Session Tomorrow

A brief meeting of the Iowa City council will be held at the city hall at 8 p. m. tomorrow, Mayor Myron J. Walker announced last night. In addition to passing several resolutions for repairing the American Legion building, contracts for the city's winter supply of coal will be considered.

Lippmann Advocates Rule By Law in 'The Good Society'

Columnist Says U.S. Now Under Rule Of Coercion

"THE GOOD SOCIETY," by Walter Lippmann, (Little, Brown and Company, 1937, $3.)

When Walter Lippmann writes a column, he has an estimated 5,000,000 readers; when he writes a book, he has a scant 10,000. Yet most of the important things he has written in the last 10 years have been in his books, not his columns.

"The Good Society" is an excellent treatise on government, should be read by every political scientist on the campus and by every citizen interested in good government as well. Discriminating readers will find what they already suspected. Lippmann, deny it or not, has turned conservative.

Walter Lippmann it was who in the fall of 1936 appeared in his usual place one cloudy morning with a stormy statement, "I am going to vote for Governor Landon." Over-optimistic republicans saw the end of the new deal in that one statement. Lippmann was the man who had helped defeat Herbert Hoover by his constant, never-ending derision of that depression-ridden president. Lippmann was the white-haired boy of the nation's intellectuals, its free-thinkers, its conservative-liberals, the same persons, in the main, to whom Franklin Roosevelt owes much of his position in the government scheme.

Readers Switch, Too
But when Lippmann switched his allegiance to Landon, many of his readers switched their allegiance also. Since his daily barbed criticisms of Roosevelt have increased in bitterness during the last few months, Lippmann has lost much prestige and no small fraction of his following. He is still much read, but his opinions carry less weight than they did before Nov. 6, 1936.

In his new book, Columnist Lippmann says little that most readers had not already suspected; namely, that he is completely anti-Roosevelt and that he has turned to a conservatism similar to that offered by the G.O.P. and Alfred M. Landon in the last campaign. But it is a book reviewer's duty to criticize an author's writing but not his politics.

Lippmann's "Good Society" is no new deal dream; it is ruled by no one man but by the impersonal necessities of economic markets in which governments take part only by regulating against abuses.

Rule would be by law, not by coercion as in modern Russia, Italy and Germany—and, Lippmann declares, in the United

Reviewer Finds 'Little Children' Saroyan's Best

"LITTLE CHILDREN," by William Saroyan, (Harcourt, Brace, 1937, $2.50.)

William Saroyan has written another book. That in itself is not news, but the fact that he has written the best book of his short and stormy career is "Little Children" is delightful, and—best of all—you'll be able to understand it from beginning to end.

Critic Brander Matthews, wrote that "Genius should be plucked when it is still in bloom." Such might well have been written of John Drinkwater, or, for that matter, of any of a dozen fallen geniuses who once wrote beautifully, importantly but who now are in senility.

Look, for example, at George Bernard Shaw, at D'Annunzio, at John Drinkwater.
After having written such masterpieces as "Abraham Lincoln" and "A Bird in Hand" for the stage, such biographies as "Shakespeare" and "Pepys" for history, such poems as "Summer Harvest," Drinkwater just before his death wrote "Robinson of England," this reader's personal nomination for the dullest novel of the season.

Robinson is quite the most uninteresting young man you can imagine. He does little else in the entire course of the novel than quote excerpts from good literature, and reminisce about the history of Britain. If there is an excuse for reading such a book, I can't think what it would be.

ARLISS IN TWO NEW ROLES!

MAN OF AFFAIRS

Character

Saroyan now is 29, and his "Daring Young Man" came out in 1926. His unlimited ego, his audacity, his brashness have been both the pride and despair of his admirers. If he is nothing else, any reader will admit, Saroyan is a character and likewise gives his writing character.

In this, his newest book, he has written 17 stories, several of them bad, some of them quite good.

There's a certain naive about the whole collection, and here, too, are stories written about children as they must feel—not as an adult feels on looking back.

In one of them a boy goes to school for the first time, brings tears to the eyes of his foster mother and himself feels a man-about-town. In another two boys buy a zeppelin for a dollar, picture it as another Hindenburg, and are broken-hearted when it turns out to be a toy.

There is one thing. If Saroyan plans to write something that will be a great and lasting part of American literature, he would do well to stand himself in a corner, stop his eternal boasting for a few minutes at least and concentrate on polishing his style. There are sentences and situations in "Little Children" handled so roughly a high school English pupil would hesitate at writing them.

And, in passing, grammar is a definite part of good writing; Saroyan at times is definitely ungrammatical.

To Sail For Europe

Mrs. Evelyn J. Van Dyke, 603 N. Dubuque street, pictured above, will leave Iowa City tomorrow noon for New York to sail for France. She will spend about six months touring Europe, expecting to visit almost every country. "Every country except China and Japan," she said, "and those are in Asia anyway." When asked whether she would see Spain, Mrs. Van Dyke replied, "No, thank you!" The traveler will be met in Havre by her son, Dr. George C. Van Dyke of the American consulate at Stuttgart, Germany. They will spend two or three days in Paris before beginning their tour of Europe. Mrs. Van Dyke will visit Mrs. Rose Britton in her home at Merrick, Long Island, before sailing. During her stay there, she will receive word from her son, giving her the definite sailing date. Dr. Van Dyke was graduated from the college of medicine in 1930. He studied for a year at Harvard university and then entered the public health service. He is stationed now in Stuttgart and is also studying brain surgery in Berlin. Yesterday noon Mrs. Van Dyke was entertained at a farewell luncheon at the home of Coach and Mrs. Charles Kennett, 517 Brookland Park drive.

Americans' Concept 'Wrong'

Reverend Worthley Reverses Our Usual View of German Youth

There's nothing oppressed and downtrodden about youth in Germany despite American notions to the contrary. The picture the Rev. Evans A. Worthley, pastor of the First Unitarian church, brought back Friday from two months and two weeks abroad was an optimistic one. The Rev. Mr. Worthley had two purposes in mind when he spent most of his time bicycling through Germany, stopping at youth hostels. He wanted to find out how the young people of the country are giving their support to Hitler, and he wanted to investigate the new German faith movement.

"I should say," he said, "that an overwhelming preponderance of German youths, eight or nine million, are Hitler's enthusiastic followers and are thoroughly in sympathy with him."

There is no reason why they shouldn't be, he explained. Games, hikes and vacation camps are under the supervision of organized leadership, planned especially for the pleasure of the boys and girls. Not only is their leisure time cared for, but they are given a satisfying feeling of responsibility for the future of Germany as well as for themselves.

In so detailed an organization there is discipline, of course. "But the young people don't object," the Rev. Mr. Worthley says. "In fact, they're rather proud to be a part of it." He found no hampering restrictions

Surprise Party For Mrs. Allen

Post-Nuptial Shower Honors Guest At Funke Home

Mrs. Ethan P. Allen, 1216 Yewell street, a bride of Aug. 15, was the guest of honor at a post-nuptial shower. Mrs. Erich Funke, 909 E. Burlington street, and Estelle Stroben, 305 S. Summit street, were co-hostesses.

The shower was a surprise party in Mrs. Funke's home. Breakfast was served at 9 a. m., followed by a morning of bridge. Decorations, place cards, tallies and favors were carried out in a Mexican motif. The shower of gifts was brought in by Dick Baldrige, representing a Mexican burro, and led by his brother, Tommy. The boys are the sons of Mrs. C. W. Baldrige, 310 S. Governor street.

Guests at the party were Mrs. Allen, Hazel Chapman, Edna Plesner, Dorothy Goodman, Doris Hittle, Ruth Jones, Hazel Larson, Katherine Mears, Martha Moermond, Elizabeth Moorhead, Estelle Reinking and Marion Ross. Prizes in the bridge games were won by Miss Chapman, Miss Larsen and Miss Rose.

Mrs. Allen is the former Mary Yelland, daughter of Mrs. J. W. Sanderson of Humeston. She and Mr. Allen, an instructor in the political science department, were married in Humeston Aug. 15.

Mrs. Green Feted On 90th Birthday At West Liberty

300 Attend Annual Activities Dinner for New S.U.I. Students

Faculty Members and Campus Leaders Give Talks

Three hundred persons were present last night at the second annual Activities dinner in the main lounge of Iowa Union. A program of short talks by faculty members and the presentation of student campus leaders introduced freshmen and new students to activities at the university.

Seated at the speakers' table were the faculty members on the program and the two co-chairmen of the dinner, James Savery, A4 of Atlantic, president of Mortar Board, honorary senior women's organization, and Jack Drees, A4 of Eau Claire, Wis., president of A. F. I., honorary organization for senior men.

Palms, lighted tapers and large bowls of deep rose gladioli decorated the speakers' table. Prof. Rufus H. Fitzgerald, director of the school of fine arts and of Iowa Union, presided.

Prof. Mott Speaks The first speaker on the program was Prof. Frank Luther Mott, director of the school of journalism. "All of you have a share in the 'readership' of university publications," he said, before presenting the student leaders.

Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp, head of the music department, invited all "music majors, minors and minuses to mingle on terms of good fellowship at the music studio village."

Prof. Charles B. Righter of the music department discussed the university bands and extended an invitation to join to musically inclined freshmen. "If he knows which end of the string bass to put in his mouth, we'll take care of him," he promised.

Prof. Mable Introduced "He has put drama at the University of Iowa on the world level," said Professor Fitzgerald, introducing Prof. Edward C. Mable, head of the speech department. Professor Mable explained the University theater program and brought greetings from Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of university debate.

Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, talked on "Religious Activities at Iowa" and explained the opportunities for religious work in town and on the campus.

The women's sports program for the year, in class and in extracurricular activities, was briefly outlined by Prof. Marjorie Camp of the women's physical education department.

"Iowa Athletics" Coach David A. Armbruster spoke on "Iowa Athletics for Men" and presented the captains of various campus sports. Col. George F. N. Dailey, head of the military department, discussed military affairs at Iowa.

Professor Fitzgerald, speaking on "Other Extra-Curricular Activities," presented Dean George F. Kay of the college of liberal arts, Iowa's dean of deans, Ted Rehder, manager of Iowa Union dining service, Helen Reich, Iowa Union hostess and adviser to student organizations, and Kathryn Smith, public events assistant.

Prof. Forest C. Ensign of the college of education concluded the program. He spoke on "Iowa Traditions"—Currier hall, Schaefer hall and Macbride hall, all named for men who have become traditions at Iowa, Iowa Union and "that beloved building that centers the life of this campus, Old Capitol."

Musical Program

The first Sunday afternoon musical program will be given at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the campus course reading room, Schaefer hall. All students are invited to attend.

Both Work and Play for Farmers Farm Bureau Reveals Plans for Soil Conservation, Social Life, Too

Both work and play will have their place in the 1938 farm bureau program announced last night by County Agent Emmett C. Gardner. Efficiency and not increased production keynote next year's plan for Johnson county farmers.

In an effort to develop a well-rounded life for every member of the rural family, both farm men and women have actively participated in the drawing up of the program, Gardner said.

Five-Point Program Soil conservation was especially emphasized. The recommendations for soil improvement—made by the county agricultural planning committee after a careful survey—follow:

- 1. Plow under the second crop of clover on at least 5 per cent of the total acreage in Johnson county.
2. At least 25 per cent of le-gumes and grasslands to be plowed should not be plowed until spring.
3. When sweet clover is sown in oats to be plowed under for corn the following year, 90 per cent should be left until spring.
4. When an intertilled crop follows an intertilled crop, special winter cover crops should be sown on at least 20 per cent of the total acreage.
5. Of all farms in the county, the following percentages need at least one of the following practices on some part of their acreage: limestone, 60 per cent; commercial fertilizers, 20 per cent; contour farming, 2 per cent; and grassed waterways, strip cropping or terracing, 1 per cent.

Copy for Each It was also recommended that a copy of the entire 1938 program be mailed to every farmer in the county after which it would be discussed at township meetings. Other suggestions were to conduct a tour to study soil erosion demonstrations in the Indian Head watershed area near Marion, establish demonstration plots to show effective methods of blue grass pasture improvement, continue corn test plots to determine high-yielding varieties for this county, make county-wide soil acidity tests, discuss hybrid corn with farmers and continue the annual husking contest.

Cooperation with the county board of supervisors in the control of noxious weeds, continued aid in combatting insects, continuation of the shelter-belt demonstrations and discussions on or-recommended that the stockman's annual banquet be continued.

In the home economics plans, clothing and health will be emphasized. Next year the 4-H club health improvement project will be stressed especially.

Social Life The new program provides play and social life as well as work for young and old. The annual farm bureau picnic and party and township get-togethers are slated for the older members. For the coming generation, 4-H projects and activities will occupy an increasingly larger part in their lives.

A few events planned are rally and achievement days, the annual party, the club show and the annual banquet. Training for judging and demonstration teams will keep both boys and girls busy while at home.

A final meeting for the adoption of the program by all farm bureau members will be held about Dec. 20, Gardner said.

chard management and fruit storage were also asked.

Spring, Fall Meetings

The county livestock marketing committee recommended spring and fall meetings of all beef feeders to study the seasonal outlook as prepared by U. S. department of agriculture survey and new methods of feeding. Closer collaboration with the junior farmer bureau in marketing and promotion of township discussions of marketing problems were also suggested.

The marketing committee expects to work more closely with the county farm debt conciliation board to acquaint farmers with the services of the federal land bank, bank for co-operatives, feed and seed loans, the farm security administration and local credit agencies in the next year.

If sufficient support is guaranteed, a hog cholera vaccinating school may be provided. It was

Thomas Martin To Head Chest Campaign Here

Attorney Accepts Post As Director Of 1937 Drive

Attorney Thomas E. Martin has accepted an appointment to conduct Iowa City's 1937 community chest campaign. Prof. Elmer W. Hills, president of the community chest board of trustees, said yesterday.

The campaign's opening date and the amount of money to be raised will be announced later, Professor Hills said. Staff members to aid Attorney Martin, including division chairmen, will be named soon at a meeting of the board of trustees and Attorney Martin.

Iowa City groups that will participate in the community chest subscription fund include the Social Service league, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, recreational center, city hall rest room and the agency aiding the unemployed.

In addition to Professor Hills, the members of the board of trustees are Edward S. Rose, vice-chairman; Alva B. Oathout, treasurer, and Mrs. Andrew H. Woods, Mrs. L. G. Lawyer, Irving B. Weber, Lee Nagle and Joseph J. Glassman, members. Mrs. L. J. Records is the secretary.

HAWKEYES HOLD WASHINGTON, 14-0

Surprisingly Powerful Iowa Eleven Outplays Washington Rivals in Intersectional Battle

only uniform, but wonderful. One of his spirals traveled 53 yards. The Iowans outplayed Washington by 11 yards, but the fast Washington receivers partly erased that advantage with sizeable returns.

Iowa had the Husky supporters biting their lips early in the first quarter on the Hawkeyes' other principal scoring threat.

Diminutive Kinnick hurled a long pass to Jack Eicherly which was good for 30 1-2 yards and placed the invaders on the Washington 9 1-2 yard line.

PLAY BY PLAY

FIRST QUARTER

Iowa won the toss and chose to defend the east goal. Capt. Homer Harris kicked off to the 29 yard line where Brady stopped Worthington. It was a poor kick.

Jimmy Johnston, on a spinner, went over his own left guard for three yards. Lamb brought Johnston down after he gained a yard at left end. Johnston punted out of bounds on the Iowa 46.

Slivinski seeped through to throw Eicherly for a two yard loss. Kinnick fumbled and recovered, gaining a yard at right guard. Eicherly picked up a yard at right end. Kinnick punted to Johnston on the Husky five, Johnston returning 12 to the Husky 17.

Johnston gained a yard before piling up at left tackle, Harris making the tackle. With Capt. Fritz Waskowitz playing far out at left end, as a decoy, Johnston skirted his own left end for eight and a half yards. After Waskowitz broke through to the 35 the Huskies were penalized 15 yards for their own 10 for having a backfield man in motion. Johnston punted to Kinnick, who returned six to the Husky 44.

Lamb lashed off four yards at left tackle to the husky 40. McLain fumbled and recovered for no gain. Kinnick hurled a pass to Eicherly who was knocked out of bounds on the Husky 9 1-2. The pass was good for 30 1-2 yards. McLain gained a half yard at left guard. On a reverse, Eicherly was piled up trying to get around right end, losing a yard and a half.

Worthington broke through to hold Kinnick for no gain. It was fourth down and 11, with the Hawkeyes in a position in front of the Husky goal posts. Kinnick's long pass to Lamb was batted down in the end zone, giving Washington the ball on the Husky 20.

Dick Anderson, Iowa center, stopped Waskowitz after he gained four yards, but Iowa was penalized five yards for offensive, making it first and five on the Husky 25.

Jimmy Johnston wriggled another five and a half yards off left tackle for a first down on the Husky 30 1-2. Waskowitz reeled

Colgate Overpowers St. Lawrence, 21-0

HAMILTON, N. Y., Sept. 25 (AP)—Playing sluggishly in mid-summer heat, Colgate's Red Raiders didn't exert themselves as they defeated a scrappy little St. Lawrence team, 21 to 0, here this afternoon before a crowd of 7,000.

North Dakota Aggies No Match For Crushing Minnesota Team

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 25 (AP)—Those gaudy Golden Gophers of Minnesota warmed up in spectacular style for their 1937 campaign today, crushing a game North Dakota State team 69 to 7 before 48,000 spectators.

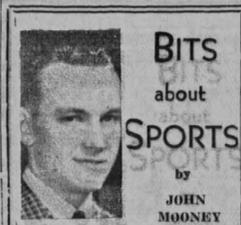

They alternated power with deadly end sweeps and flashy aerial thrusts but conspicuously absent were the tricky laterals used so potently in recent rampaging seasons until that Northwestern headache that broke a 28-game Minnesota winning streak and stunned the football world.

While Coach Bernie Bieman's championship contenders smashed up and down the field through the stubborn Bison defense, they used only one lateral and that did not figure in the scoring.

Touchdown celebrities of the day were fleet Andy Uram whose long runs spiced the high scoring program and Marty Christianson, Uram played only a few minutes but he contributed sparkling runs of 28, 35, 52 and 70. The last two were good for third quarter touchdowns.

The 1937 Minnesota outfit went on record with a largest opening game score in recent years, even exceeding the 56 to 12 point rolled up over the same opposition by the 1934 squad and contrasting sharply with the 26 to 6 showing of the 1935 eleven.

JOHN MOONEY

A column of sports chatter by a sports editor who isn't sure that the best team won yesterday.

SATISFIED... were all the Iowan fans after the game... that is they were proud of the boys although they regretted that a couple of plays should turn the tide of battle...

TELEGRAMS... must have flooded the Iowa dressing room... personally know of a good many that went westward... and we should tell the boys how we feel...

RESOLVE... to make this "homecoming" Wednesday morning the noisiest, biggest outburst ever staged in Iowa City...

REMEMBER... Pi Epsilon Pi, it's Wednesday or never...

PLANS... have already been submitted to this writer by unselfish persons who want to see a pep group and not a social organization on this campus... plans are at present at a standstill pending team reception Wednesday...

LOUSY... might be a good slang description of the radio broadcast as re-told by a certain radio announcer... He's in the clear, he's away... nope, he lost two yards...

VETERANS... had little on sophomores yesterday for steadiness... as we have long said, don't sell the Hawkeyes short...

REVENGE... is partially mine even though I did pick Iowa to beat Washington... the prediction came the closest to predicting Iowa's strength... and that is some salute...

LINE... played just as everyone had predicted... strong on defense and weak on offense... famed off-tackle slants failed to materialize... I mentioned that tackles of the size of Luebecke and Nead MIGHT cause trouble...

BACKS... also were above expectations of almost everyone... powerful Husky line stopped most of the Hawkeyes cold in the running game...

FASSES... were been and a menace to the Iowans... even in drills last week, scrubs completed several for gains against varsity... a little polishing may patch up defense...

FAN... called this best practice game Iowa has ever played

Fighting Illini Triumph Over Scrappy Ohio University Eleven

Illinois Scores In First, Third, Fourth Periods

Capt. Lowell Spurgeon Leads Team to Win Over Ohio U.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 25 (AP)—The fighting Illini of Illinois polished to a high lustre the opening of Bob Zuppke's silver jubilee year as head football coach today with a smart 20 to 6 triumph over the battling Bobcats of Ohio university.

The Illini had a little trouble getting the Bobcats under control long enough to cause an opening day crowd of more than 20,000 in Memorial stadium a bit of apprehension. But once under way, they rolled over the game youngsters in decisive fashion. With Capt. Lowell Spurgeon, Bob Wehrli and Tony Maizeka, mixing a strong running game with passes, Illinois scored a touchdown in the first, third and fourth periods, and came within shooting distance of a couple of others.

Ohio university, which upset Illinois by a touchdown in 1935, gave the Illini a lively battle all the way, and gave partisan fans their slight chill by scoring on a forward passing maneuver in the second quarter to come within a point of a tie at half-time.

The Illini were superior on the ground, piling up 149 yards to a net three for the Bobcats. Ohio university had the edge in the air with eight passes completed out of 17 for 161 yards, to give successful shots out of 12 for 71 yards by the Illini.

Hoosiers Nip Centre Eleven By 12-0 Score

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Sept. 25 (AP)—A hard driving, tricky Indiana university aggregation trounced a stubborn, but out-classed Centre college eleven, 12 to 0, before approximately 8,000 fans here this afternoon.

Corby Davis, 200-pound full-back from Lowell, Ind., scored touchdowns for Indiana in the first and fourth period after steady down field marches.

State Defeats Tutors, 14-12

AMES, Sept. 25 (AP)—Iowa State's Big Six football forces took a terrific scare here today before winning the 1937 opener from the Iowa State Teachers, 14 to 12.

The Panthers did almost everything but win. They counted nine first downs to five for the Cyclones. They rambled 211 yards on plays from scrimmage compared with 82 for Iowa State. What they didn't do was kick two points after touchdowns which would have meant a tie.

John Magovich, Panther half-back, started Iowa State with a 77 yard touchdown dash on the first play from scrimmage.

The Cyclones, playing their first game under Jim Yeager, the new coach, came back with a passing attack to take the lead. Everett Kischer tossed to Jim Dishinger for the marker. Kischer kicked goal for Iowa State's one point advantage.

A 72 yard advance in the second quarter ended with Kischer passing to Chuck Heileman, following a lateral which was good for 31 yards and another touchdown. Kischer again placekicked goal.

A 73 yard march, started late in the third stanza and finishing with a Teacher touchdown in the fourth period, ended the scoring. A lateral, Garrison to Dutcher, produced the touchdown.

Pine Forests Infested By Southern Beetle

WILBURTON, Okla., (AP)—A tiny beetle which feeds only on pine trees and thrives in drought seasons is threatening destruction of 15,000 trees in the Robbers' Cave state park near here.

Officials of the National Park Service said more than 1,000 trees—some of them over 50 years old—had been removed since the infestation began.

The voracious insect is the southern pine beetle, which is capable of killing pine trees of all ages and all species. It attacks the middle to upper portions of trees and destroys the soft inner bark through which the trees obtain nourishment.

Borscht is a Russian soup. It may be served either hot or cold.

4 To Compete At Dairy Show

4-H Judges Will Go To National Congress At Waterloo

Johnson county's champion boys' 4-H club dairy judging team will compete in the National Dairy Cattle congress which opens tomorrow at Waterloo, County Agent Emmett C. Gardner announced last night.

The four boys—Martin Warren, Gerald Schwimley, Walter Winborn and Howard Fountain—will judge seven classes of dairy cattle of different breeds. In three events the boys are required to write all reasons for their placement of each animal judged, and in one event they must state their reasons orally.

Gardner will drive the boys to Waterloo early tomorrow morning for the competition and will return that night.

Calling of Petit Jury Delayed

Judges Trade Benches; Evans To Preside Next Session

Members of the petit jury for the September term of Johnson county district court will not be called until Oct. 11 at 10 a. m. Judge James P. Gaffney, who is presiding here this term, announced last night. The jurors were originally scheduled to report tomorrow.

Judge Harold D. Evans, who presided here during the June term of court, is now in Iowa county, on the bench at Marengo. Judge Evans and Judge Gaffney exchanged benches yesterday, however, with Evans at Iowa City and Gaffney at Marengo.

Cases in Equity Will Be Heard

The hearing of equity cases assigned by Judge James P. Gaffney will begin in Johnson county district court at 2 p. m. tomorrow, Judge Gaffney announces. Fifteen cases are listed for trial.

Hearing of law cases will begin when the petit jurors report Oct. 11.

Give Awards At Farm Bureau, 4-H Club Party

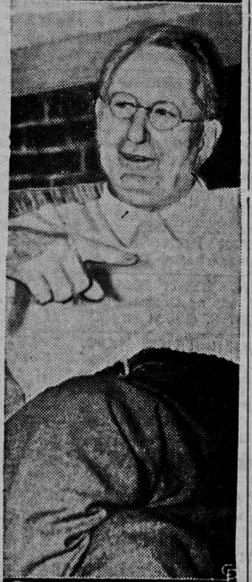

Members of the Johnson county farm bureau, junior farm bureau and the 4-H clubs last night attended a party sponsored by the farm bureau.

Donald Spencer received a silver cup in recognition for being the best livestock showman and all-around activity worker in the county boys' 4-H club.

William Hunter was awarded a gold medal for his superior showmanship with beef calves during the last year. Allan Williams and Lloyd Propst were presented with silver medals for their work in the 4-H pig and lamb clubs.

Music for dancing was furnished.

Klan Is 'All Bluff'

Col. William J. Simmons Recovering from lengthy illness at Veterans' hospital in Atlanta, Ga., Col. William J. Simmons, founder and former emperor and imperial wizard of the modern version of the Ku Klux Klan, tells interviewers that he hopes to lead it back to "its original aims." He said the Klan today is "all bluff." He added that "traitors" had taken control of him in 1922. Dr. Hiram W. Evans has been the head since then.

AROUND THE TOWN

Early Bird
Probably the university's earliest riser is Prof. Stephen Bush, who opens his office for the day from 6:30-8 a. m. . . Bush, too, is the campus' most prolific walker; almost any afternoon you can see him swinging his cane, off at a brisk pace for a foot-faunt of a mile or so. . .

After a morning of registration, I'm convinced anyone who can get through registration need have no terrors about a degree. . . And Shakespeare's "Little man clothed with brief authority" is a one phrase description.

War!
Men have been writing editorials about keeping us out of war for years, but one showing of those "March of Time" reels of the horrors in China will do more to keep us out of war than a million words. . . If you want to see how lucky you are to be living in a country at peace, take a glimpse at almost any of those new war reels. . . If that doesn't make you want to keep this country out of war, nothing will. . .

In a few weeks most freshmen will understand what Mark Twain meant when he said he knew twice as much as his father when he was 14 but at 21 he was surprised to find out how much the old man had learned in those seven years. . . Ego has a way of deflating. . .

We spent $2,000,000,000 last year on cigarettes. . . And the faint-hearted among us are worrying about a trifling $37,000,000,000 deficit. . .

Apt-Titudes: Difficult as trying to play the trombone in a telephone booth. . . Solitary as an oyster. . . Unexpected as a broken shoe string. . .

When anyone describes a blind date as a girl with "a keen personality" or a "good sport," it's better to beware. . . And ever notice when the sorority date-fixers are fixing up dates for a pledge she's always the "best-looking girl in the house"?

And there are those students, of course, who enroll for courses because of the hour rather than the subject. . . And I know a chap who scarcely ever takes a course unless it's presented by a faculty fraternity brother. . .

In West Virginia a hill billy singer recently was murdered and to date no one has been punished for it. . . If more hill billyes could only be induced to go to West Virginia. . .

Four Iowa City Youths Awaiting Trial in Illinois

Four Iowa City youths are being held in the Rock Island county jail awaiting hearing on burglary and larceny charges, according to an Associated Press report. They were indicted by a grand jury for the theft of a peanut machine, liquor, cigars and cash amounting to a total of $121 from an East Moline, Ill., tavern. Hearing will be this week in the Rock Island county circuit court.

The youths, all of them between 19 and 21 years of age, are Francis Pooler, Dennis O'Brien, Gall Pooler and Warren O'Conner. They were arrested for Illinois authorities in Iowa City about two months ago.

Three Coaches Will Speak At Chow Supper

The football coaches of three Iowa City high schools will be guest speakers at the first fall American Legion chow supper in Moose hall at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow, B. M. Ricketts, vice-commander of Roy L. Choque post 17, announced last night.

Herb Cormack of City high school, Jack Sterret of University high and the Rev. Harry Ryan of St. Patrick's high will be the speakers.

Tomorrow night's chow supper will be the first for several months, although suppers were held every month all last winter.

Gets Building Permit
Mrs. Dennis Carlton has received permission from Acting City Engineer Harold Monk to erect an addition to her residence near Third and H streets.

craze of the east, has hit the campus, I hear. . . Seems the best-informed gal about on how it's done is a Sigma Delta Tau, Della Izen, who hails from Asheville, N. C., where the new step-light originated. . .

I hate to mention it, but any day now the pledges will begin to notice a subtle sort of change in the attitude of their brother or sister actives. . . Shoes will need to be shined; books carried and the rest. . . And those catches everyone was saying "we simply must have" are hit the hardest. . . It's a bit of a shock after the royal treatment of rush week. . .

Accused
And Justice Black's accusers prove again the truth of Abe Lincoln's statement about a governing underlying: . . . "I've always been suspicious about the fellow," he wrote. "I never heard anyone say there is anything wrong about him."

When he was at Harvard, Walter Lippmann tried out for the Harvard daily but couldn't make the grade. . . And O'Neill's first one-act play was rejected for production at Princeton. . .

Kinnick gained two more at right guard, then punted to Johnston, who received on the 49 and returned 14 yards as the first quarter ended with the score: Iowa 0, Washington 0.

SECOND QUARTER
It was Washington's ball on the Iowa 48.

Johnston lost a yard at left end. Waskowitz rifled a pass to Johnston who received it on the Iowa 20 and crossed the Iowa goal line for a touchdown, evading two Iowa tacklers during the last 20 yards.

Cruver's kick was good, making the score: WASHINGTON 7, IOWA 0.

It was a 27 yard pass and a 20 yard run.

Markov of Washington kicked off to the Iowa 11, where Kinnick was downed. A reverse from Kinnick to Lamb failed to gain.

Kinnick also was held for no gain. Kinnick then punted to Johnston on the Husky 45, Johnston returning to the Iowa 47.

Johnston was thrown for a seven yard loss on an attempt at left end, Anderson bringing him down. Iowa was penalized five yards for off side back to their 49. Waskowitz' intended pass to Dick Johnson, left end, was incomplete. Smith was in at left end for Iowa in place of Lannon; Prasse was in at right end in place of Harris. Waskowitz' pass to Newton was dropped by the Husky quarterback on the Iowa 36. Johnston punted to Kinnick on the Iowa 18, Kinnick returning two yards before Markov and Means stopped him.

Bill Gallagher failed to gain, then Kinnick gained two at right guard, Kinnick cut through left guard, gaining five yards before Cruver stopped him in the Husky secondary. Kinnick then punted to the Husky 16 yard line, where the ball was downed. It was a beautiful 58 yard boot.

Johnston was held for no gain, Luebeck stopping him on an attempted sweep at left end. Cruver thundered at left guard but piled up after a yard gain. Johnston then punted on third down out of bounds on the Iowa 41. It was a 42 yard kick.

Newton caught Bill Gallagher for a two yard loss on an attempt at left end, and Lamb, on a reverse, failed to gain at the other end. Kinnick punted to Johnston on the Husky 13, but a clipping penalty against Washington gave the Huskies possession on their own one yard line.

Johnston punted to Kinnick, who called for a fair catch on the Husky 27.

A long pass into the Husky end zone was dropped by Gallagher. Gallagher then twisted his way through left tackle for a first down on the Husky 8. It was a 19 yard gain. A double reverse to Lamb lost two yards. Kinnick fumbled behind the line of scrimmage and Slivinski hauled him down for a 10 yard loss to the Husky 20. Kinnick's pass to Lamb straight over center was incomplete. On fourth down, with 20 yards to go, Kinnick passed into the end zone. Johnston knocking down the ball. The Huskies took possession on their own 20 and Iowa's chief threat of the game thus far was thwarted.

DeHeer went in for Nead at right guard for Iowa as the Huskies called time out. Washington sent in an entire new team.

Joe Dubsy, new halfback, made six yards around right end. He replaced Johnston. Merle Miller, right half in for Waskowitz, gained a yard at right tackle. Dubsy's punt was blocked by DeHeer, but Dubsy caught the bounding pigskin and ran it toward right end for no gain. Dubsy then punted a partially blocked kick to Kinnick who returned 14 yards to the Iowa 49 1-2.

Kinnick shot through left guard for 7 yards. Olson picked up another at the same spot. Gallagher lost a half yard at left tackle and on fourth down, after a confusion over signals, Kinnick rifled a pass over center to Prasse, who was downed as the gun ended the first half. The ball was on the Husky 28. Half time score: Washington 7, Iowa 0.

THIRD QUARTER
Lindenmeyer's kickoff for Iowa skittered along the ground, the Huskies returning to their own 45. After failing to gain at left guard, Miller fell five yards behind the Husky line of scrimmage for a loss of five yards. Lamb intercepted Waskowitz's long pass on the Iowa 35, returning to the Iowa 47.

Kinnick lost a yard at right tackle, and Lamb, on a spinner, gained it back at the same spot. Gallagher was then held for no gain and Kinnick punted to Waskowitz, who returned two to the Husky 25 before Homer Harris smacked him.

Miller traveled for two yards at left tackle. Cruver made a bull like dash around right tackle for a first down on the Washington 38, gaining 11 yards. Cruver tried the same thing again, but was held to two yards. Miller, after faking a reverse, tore through center for 14 yards and a first down on the Iowa 46. Miller then punted another four yards at left tackle. Brady replaced DeHeer at right tackle for Iowa.

Cruver battered for another two yards at right guard. Brady hauled down Miller by the heels to hold him for no gain. Waskowitz punted out of bounds on the Iowa 18.

Cruver stopped Lamb for a yard loss on an attempted right end run. Erickson and Johnson hauled down Gallagher behind the line for a three yard loss. McLain picked up three yards at left tackle. Kinnick punted to Waskowitz on the Husky 32. Waskowitz returning 18 to the Husky 48.

Cruver's pass to Shelldrake, in at right end for Peters, was incomplete. Miller gained a stride on a long attempt at left end, Lindenmeyer pulling him down. Waskowitz gained four at right end. Waskowitz punted out of bounds on the Iowa 23.

A pass from McLain to Lamb was incomplete. Schenk went in for Lamb and was thrown for a seven yard loss on the next play. Kinnick punted to Waskowitz on the Husky 45, Waskowitz returning 14 yards to the Iowa 41.

Miller went over left guard for four yards, as the third quarter ended with the score: WASHINGTON 7, IOWA 0.

FOURTH QUARTER
Buck went in for Kinnick at quarterback. Balaz went in for McLain. Shelldrake on an end around made two. Waskowitz rifled a long pass to Dick Johnson who was run out of bounds after a sensational catch on the Iowa 7. The pass was good for 26 yards. Iowa called time out. Johnson, leaping high in the air, grabbed the pass away from the waiting arms of Buck.

Lindenmeyer crept through to throw Waskowitz for a two yard loss. Harris slipped around to toss Miller for loss of another yard. On third down Waskowitz ran far to his right then rifled another pass into the waiting arms of Shelldrake in the end zone for a touchdown. Score: WASHINGTON 13, IOWA 0.

Cruver then converted the extra point, making the score: WASHINGTON 14, IOWA 0.

Markov of Washington kicked off to Schenk on the Iowa 11. Schenk fumbled but returned 7 to the Iowa 18. Schenk was held for no gain and Balaz lost one and a half yards on an attempt at left tackle. Lamb, McLain and Kinnick returned to the Iowa backfield, replacing Schenk, Balaz and Olson.

Kinnick punted to Waskowitz on the Washington 46, Waskowitz returning six to the Iowa 48. A pass to Miller from Waskowitz was incomplete. Another pass, Waskowitz to Johnson, slithered from Johnson's hands. Waskowitz cut back inside right tackle for five yards before Bill Gallagher pulled him down. Waskowitz punted to Kinnick, who received on the Iowa two yard line and returned eight yards to the Iowa 10.

Washington again substituted an entirely new team.

McLain tried center for two and a half yards. Kinnick, on a whoopsy-do volley ball pass over the center of the line, saw the ball drop incomplete. Kinnick then punted to Charley Russell, Negro halfback, who received on the Husky 42 and returned 23 yards to the Iowa 37. Russell was a high school teammate of Homer Harris, the Negro captain for Iowa.

Dean replaced Lamb and Farroh replaced Herman for Iowa. Miller fumbled and Gallagher recovered for Iowa on the Hawkeye 38. McLain galloped around left end for a first down to the Washington 44, a gain of 18 yards. Another volley ball pass from Kinnick to Dean gained nine yards over center. McLain smacked center for a yard and a first down on the Husky 39 1-2. He picked up another yard at right guard. Elliott, substitute Washington center, intercepted a third volley ball pass from Kinnick.

Washington took possession on the Husky 33. Russell and Jones gained two yards in two plays. Jones was in a fullback for Cruver. Bechtol, in for Newton, punted to Kinnick on the Iowa 24, Kinnick returning five to the Iowa 29.

Dean gained a yard after a long right end run. Prasse went in for Smith at end for Iowa. Two passes from Kinnick were incomplete, the second just grazing Dean's finger tips, while he was in the clear. Kinnick punted to Russell on the Washington 18, Russell zig-zagging back to the Husky 32 for a 14 yard return.

Miller, in two attempts at the line, gained three yards. Irvine went in at tackle for Nead as Iowa called time out. Bechtol punted to Kinnick on the Iowa 25, Kinnick returning to the Iowa 30, but a clipping penalty was called against Iowa and Referee Tom Louttit put the ball down on the Iowa 19.

Yarr pulled down McLain after a half yard gain at right tackle.

Interference was called against Russell, Washington safety man, on a long pass from Kinnick and Iowa was given possession on its own 48. Bechtol intercepted Kinnick's next pass on the Washington 38, returning to midfield as the gun ended the game with the final score: WASHINGTON 14, IOWA 0.

Mercury Remains In Lower Brackets After Friday's Rain

Early fall weather in Iowa City yesterday kept temperatures between 51 and 65 degrees during the day, but at 11 p. m. the mercury had fallen to 42 degrees for the day's lowest mark.

Between 2 and 4 p. m. thermometers registered 65 degrees, the day's highest reading. But before 11 a. m. and after 6 p. m., the mercury sagged back into the 50-degree brackets.
