Police Hunt 'Man in Gray Cap'

First Tangible Lead Found In Ross Kidnap

No Word from Retired Manufacturer After 42 Hours

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP)—A mysterious "man in a gray cap" was hunted today as a key figure in the kidnaping of aged Charles S. Ross.

He became the object of an intensive search after 42 hours passed without word from the retired manufacturer of his abductors.

Ross, 71, and in delicate health, had dined at the Fargo hotel in Sycamore, Ill., with Florence Friehag Saturday night. His captors—believed to number three—followed the couple to Wolf road, a highway about 15 miles west of Chicago's loop, forced Ross from his expensive sedan and carried him away in their car.

With Ross at Time of Kidnaping

Florence Friehag, 40, who was riding with her former employer, Charles C. Ross, a retired manufacturer, when their car was halted by three gunmen who kidnaped the wealthy manufacturer near Franklin Park, Ill., early Sunday.

First Lead

Hotel employes furnished the first substantial lead. They said a man with a gray cap pulled over his eyes approached Ross in the lobby while Miss Friehag was in a nearby drug store, conversed with him for several minutes and left.

Detectives arranged for an inspection of pictures of criminals at the Chicago bureau of identification by those who witnessed the conversation. They described the "man in the gray cap" as about 32, six feet, two inches tall and weighing about 165 pounds.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Ross and Attorney Edmund Cummings Jr. awaited receipt of a ransom demand.

Wife Near Breakdown

"I am sure we will hear from them," Mrs. Ross said at the Ross' apartment on the north side. "But we have no great amount of money."

Relatives reported she was on the verge of nervous breakdown. Detectives were assigned to strategic stations about the city, ready for instant action the moment any communication was attempted.

They expressed fear Ross, suffering from high blood pressure and a heart ailment, might have died of shock. His abductors, they theorized might have hidden his body.

Captain Daniel Gilbert of the state attorney's police opined the kidnaping was bona fide but executed by "young punks."

'It's No Racket,' Indignant Stars Reply to Mary

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 27 (AP)—"So Hollywood's a racket huh! Well, that's news to us."

Thus did her fellow players answer Mary Pickford's charge that "Hollywood is a racket." Some thought Mary must have been misunderstood. Some were mildly indignant. Most of them were amused.

Mary was advising youngsters in Indianapolis to stay away from the movies. Warner Baxter agreed, to a certain extent. He said "If you have talent, you belong in Hollywood, but you must be prepared to prove your ability under fire."

Boris Karloff said that if the movie business is a racket, "it must be in the upper financial structure. Never having owned any movie companies, I wouldn't know. But the players have no complaints."

Bette Davis said that if "this racket makes me wealthy and famous, I should find very little to say against it."

Near Death Sleeping Beauty Faces Crisis

CHICAGO, Sept. 27, (AP)—New dangers challenged science today in its desperate fight for the life of sleeping Patricia Maguire, 32-year-old stenographer who has lain in a coma for 67 months.

Bronchial pneumonia complicated the efforts to strengthen Patricia by blood transfusions for the shock of a necessary abdominal operation. Oxygen was administered after the pneumonia developed.

A bulletin from the family physician, Dr. Eugene Traut, said her condition remained critical, although her temperature had fallen some. She showed no reaction to the blood transfusion, the doctor reported.

The last rites of the Catholic church were given Patricia last night.

She has not walked since the evening over five years ago when she left home to mail a valentine. She failed to awaken the next day, and since then has shown, at various periods, only faint signs of consciousness.

Her illness was diagnosed as encephalitis lethargica, or sleeping sickness. Since its onset, she has overcome other diseases, including an attack of pneumonia.

First Offenders To Get 'Break' From State Parole Board

DES MOINES, Sept. 27 (AP)—First offenders will find the Iowa board of parole "reasonably liberal" in the future, but old offenders will find the board "just as severe as possible."

The announcement of the board's policy was made today by E.G. Moore, Republican member.

"We've decided to give first offenders a break when circumstances justify," Moore said, "but God help the fellow who violates his parole when he gets it. He's going to be sent back to do every day of his time."

Bender Asks For New Police Car

A suggestion by Police Chief William H. Bender that a new police car be purchased to replace the old one now in use was referred to the finance committee by the city council last night.

Chief Bender said the car has traveled almost 40,000 miles during the last year and a half.

Soviet Warning Heightens War Tension in Asia

Report Russia, Japan Massing Troops On Frontier

MOSCOW, Sept. 27, (AP)—A Soviet warning against "lawless" Japanese bombardment of Nanking increased tension between Russia and Japan tonight but diplomatic circles insisted the crisis was "not alarming."

They pointed out that other countries, including the United States, had protested the bombardment. They professed to believe that the two countries will avoid hostilities.

Concentrating Troops

Reports from Tokyo declared Russia and Japan were concentrating troops along the frontier between Siberia and Japanese-dominated Manchukuo. The Japanese newspaper Hochi said the Siberian port and Soviet army post of Vladivostok was seething with anti-Japanese feeling.

Another Tokyo newspaper said Russia and China had negotiated a secret military alliance. A Japanese foreign office spokesman said he had "much information" about the reported pact.

Chinese Appeal

Russia's warning to Japan was believed to be in response to a Chinese appeal asking Russia to "take measures" which would help end quickly such "barbarous and inhuman activities" as Japanese bombardments.

Japanese Bombers Kill More Civilians

SHANGHAI, Sept. 27, (AP)—Japanese bombing planes attacked scattered points in eastern China today, killing an estimated 100 to 200 civilians in a drive to shut off supplies from China's armies.

The new attacks were part of a campaign announced yesterday by Rear Admiral Radao Honda, Japanese naval attaché, who warned that bombardment of military objectives will be carried out regardless of loss of life.

Fatal Shooting Of Missouri Student Termed Accident

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 27, (AP)—Announcing there was "no criminal liability whatsoever," Coroner W. A. Tolson tonight closed his official books on the fatal shooting early yesterday of Albert R. Waters, Kansas City, 18-year-old University of Missouri sophomore.

There will be no inquest, Tolson said.

Waters was found on his fraternity house bed with a bullet wound in the right temple.

His fraternity brothers agreed Waters shot himself accidentally with a gun furnished, police said, by Jack Kilpatrick, Oklahoma City freshman at the university, who told them he regarded it as a joke when Waters expressed an "urge to commune with my maker."

Fascist Leaders Swear Amity In Banquet Toasts

Rome-Berlin Axis Now Impervious, Declare Two Dictators

BERLIN, Sept. 27, (AP)—Benito Mussolini and Adolf Hitler in an exchange of banquet toasts tonight reaffirmed solidarity of the Rome-Berlin axis of close collaboration in European affairs.

The two fascist leaders proclaimed their cooperative axis though capable of supporting even wider European cooperation, is impervious to any attempts to wreck Italo-German friendship by playing one nation off against the other.

Il Duce and his host, Reichsfuehrer Hitler, made their dramatic reaffirmation of friendship at a state banquet given in the Reichschancellery for the visiting Italian statesman.

Not a "Bloc"

Hitler declared, however, that the Rome-Berlin axis must not be interpreted as "the formation of a bloc aimed against other European states."

"On the contrary we are convinced that through this, our mutual labors, we best can serve not only the interests of our countries but beyond these the aim—close to our hearts—of a general international understanding."

"In this spirit Italy and Germany will examine and deal with their political tasks side by side, in order thus to counteract every possible attempt to divide the two nations or even to play one off against the other," he told the banquet guests.

Toast to Italy

The Reichsfuehrer closed his remarks by proposing a toast to Italy's king and "Emperor of Ethiopia" and to the welfare of Mussolini and fascist Italy.

A brilliant company of more than 200 guests, including cabinet members of the two nations as well as political and industrial leaders, heard the fascist chiefs re-pledge Italian and German cooperation in the tangle of European affairs.

Turning to his host, Il Duce declared:

"Conversations which I have had with your Excellency in these recent days have strengthened our friendship and immunized it against every attempt to disturb and divide it—from whatever quarter it may come."

Eulogizes Hitler

Mussolini, fresh from witnessing extensive war maneuvers in north Germany, praised the spiritual atmosphere of "brown-shirted Germany" and eulogized Hitler as the creator of a new nation.

Italo-German solidarity, he said, is not the result merely of political calculations, but the expression of community of interests.

A Common Goal—Not Factional Disputes

"There is no room in the United States for two major labor organizations," David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers, said last week in Toronto.

True, a dual labor movement is a costly burden to the workers, a social waste and a breeder of strife on a cause that needs a united front if it is to win its battles for the American masses. Yet peace between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization now seems just about as far-fetched and impossible as it is in Spain or in the Orient.

At present the federation meets in convention at Denver. Instead of moving into that convention with its 10 suspended unions and fighting it out for control, the C. I. O. is digging in for a rival gathering at Atlantic City. Doubtless these two bivaocated enemies will scorch the other with abuse and recrimination.

That, however, is labor's business. What the public is worried over are the open rows these two factions stage over their several jurisdictions. Such fights as the one now tying up Pacific coast shipping, over whether federation teamsters or C. I. O. longshoremen can organize the back-country warehouses. Or that in Ambridge, Pa., where a manufacturer faced either a C. I. O. strike or a federation boycott as a result of one of these disputes. Or the hundreds of cases that are piling work on the National Labor Relations board over elections to determine which group shall represent workers.

Now, peace or no peace, between the federation and the C. I. O., we believe the public will not bear much longer with these peace - disturbing jurisdictional strikes and boycotts. Green and Lewis may hate and berate each other to their hearts' content, but to preserve of the rights the unions now enjoy they should work out some formula for laying down the lines of their unions' jurisdictions. If they fail to set up some intra-labor arbitration machinery themselves, we believe the people will seek relief in new legislation. As sincere friends of labor, which most logically-thinking persons are, we hope that such an expedient will not be necessary.

Labor has, for the most part, played its cards well this year; most of public-opinion has been behind its efforts. Only on occasion, such occasions as the unlawful use of the sit - down strike and in similar instances, has opinion swayed against it and then only temporarily. That public support is labor's biggest single advantage. As many another organization and individual have learned, with the public behind it, everything is possible. Without, nothing can be done. Our warning, then, would be to both Lewis and Green, but particularly to Lewis. It would be wise to pay more attention to aiding labor and less to factional disputes. Such attention will have the support of the American public, and only thus can labor unionism hope to survive.

The Chicago Schools Re-Open

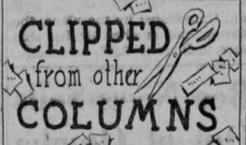

CHICAGO ELEMENTARY schools, closed since Sept. 7 because of an unprecedented epidemic of infantile paralysis in that city, opened again yesterday. Only first graders and kindergarten children still remain out of school.

The seriousness of the paralysis outbreak in Chicago and in other sections, including Iowa, where many schools were also closed for a short time, brings once again to mind the fact that human knowledge and scientific skill are not as yet unlimited.

The men who said in 1890 that the last frontiers had gone were wrong. Perhaps physically they are gone. But there remain many mental frontiers which we have not yet reached; many which we have not even sighted. When we have conquered infantile paralysis and cancer we will have reached only two of those frontiers.

We experience something of the terror prevalent in the middle ages during periods of great plagues when we read of hundreds of children becoming the victims of disease which science is admittedly powerless to prevent. As with cancer, doctors know something of the proper treatment for paralysis but little of its cause.

Perhaps these epidemics which we have from time to time are not without a certain value. They at least bring us face-to-face with the fact that money must be spent, laboratories endowed, research encouraged if we are to prevent the loss of more lives. But they also show us our own inability to cope with situations of tragic importance. Chicago school authorities had no other choice than to close the schools and hope that the outbreak would die down. Other than that the city of Chicago and its doctors could offer little opposition to a dread disease. The one cheerful note in the picture is that probably Chicago children enjoyed their lessons by radio since it was considerably easier for them to play hooky.

AID TO SCHOOLS

ARE WE now to expect the federal government, under the facile guise of a benevolent paternalism, to reach its ambitious arm into the classrooms of the nation? Is the once genial-visaged Uncle Sam, whose brow grows increasingly furrowed with too many burdens, to take up the ferule in public schools of the United States? The prospect is not at all remote, and it is a possibility not to be countenanced.

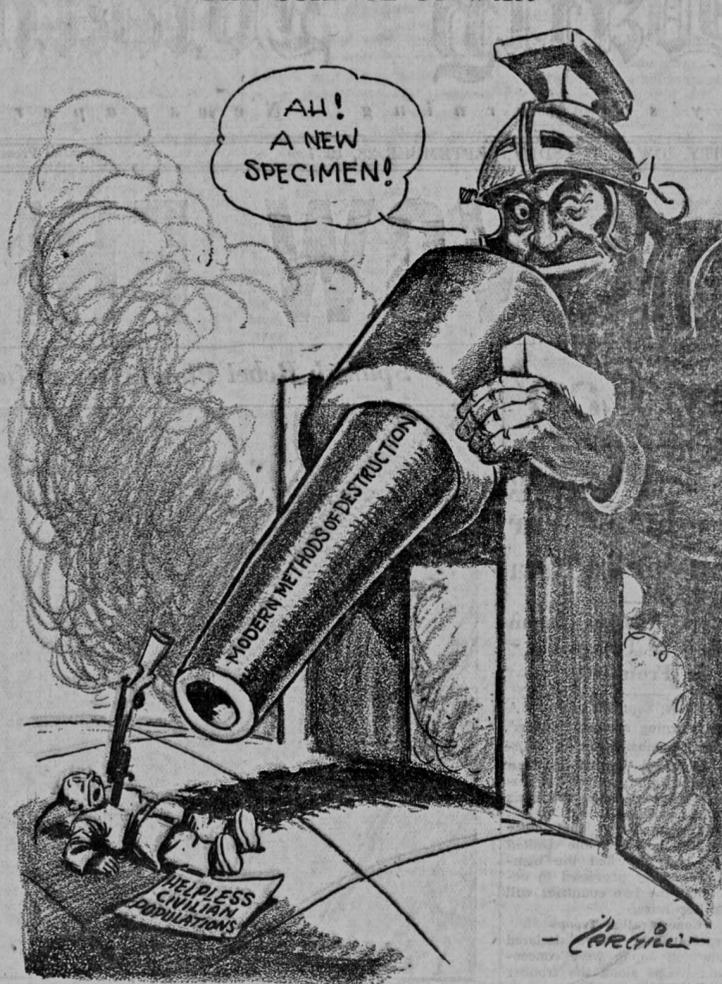

Congress has before it a bill to appropriate $100,000,000 for the aid of community schools, a proposal that a first blush might appear entirely first blush worthy. We are wont to set tremendous store, and justly, by our institutions of education. But it is by no means a tenuous stretch of the imagination to forecast a danger in this and other evidences of federal subsidy in the school systems. Where the Washington government sinks its funds, Washington demands right of supervision, sometimes of direction.

Gov. Clyde R. Hoey of North Carolina predicted before a meeting of governors in Atlantic City that within 10 years the federal coffers would be contributing $5,500,000,000 to schools of the country. He asks, "Then what?" The obvious answer is that the national government would assume at least some part in formulating curricula or policies under which the next generation will be educated.

Most of the 20 governors attending the Atlantic City conference expressed fear of what might occur if state-operated school systems begin drawing support from the chimerically bottomless pocket of the federal government. Through the National Youth administration, the new deal has already made federal entry into the field of education, distributing millions of dollars to students for part time work. The NYA may have been a wholly creditable project for a depression era. Just the same, it was an opening wedge by which federal government made an appearance in the field of education.

Federal control or supervision of America's schools would be practically unfeasible and essentially opposed to fundamentals of democracy. Problems and needs of different localities would render impossible a general yardstick of supervision, such as the government would necessarily have to adopt. But immensely more important, the encroachment of national government in education would strike at freedom of thought. Methods and standards of education must be unhampered by even the threat of federal regimentation, unless we are to capitulate to the theories of dictatorship. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat

THE SCIENCE OF WAR

Technique Counts in Making Your Toothbrushing Effective

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D. Yesterday I made the point that only a few of the perhaps 45 million people in the United States and Canada who do brush their teeth, do it the right way. The right way depends on a few simple principles. The main object of brushing the teeth is to prevent pyorrhea; only secondarily is it to clean the free surfaces of the teeth. To prevent pyorrhea you must keep clean the contact surfaces of the teeth and the gum margins; you must stimulate the gums. To do this, use a small toothbrush with a straight edge, and use the toe bristles to enter the crevices of the teeth and approach the gums. The brush should be held so that it goes straight, and it should be moved in a small rotary, or wiggle motion. The teeth should be brushed in a systematic way, as if you were painting a fence—each post, along the front, around and along the back, upper and lower. Those are the principles for good tooth brushing. Technique is the main thing. The kind of toothbrush is the next most important thing. The dentrifice is of little importance—soapy or sandy, it is all the same. In tooth brushing 75 per cent of success is in the technique, 20 per cent depends on the toothbrush, and 5 per cent on the dentrifice. Toothpicks Help As adjuncts to tooth brushing, toothpicks are grand implements. Toothpicks do just what the toothbrush should do with proper technique; they get in between the teeth and clean the contact surfaces, and when they touch the gums, stimulate them also. They do not do it so well as the toothbrush, but they are good adjuncts.

Washington World

By CHARLES P. STEWART WASHINGTON, D. C. — Under the caption "Dr. Roosevelt's Propaganda Trust" the September number of The American Mercury publishes a hair-raising "expose" of the current Washington administration's supposed far-flung organization to influence public opinion throughout the United States—through the newspapers particularly; incidentally through the radio, the "movies" and otherwise. This article asserts that the "high-powered" machine it describes "has never been equalled by any foreign dictatorship." It works, too, the story's author says. He states specifically that "the American citizen . . . has fallen victim to it." As a newspaperman of more than 45 years' experience (about 15 years of it in Washington) I will say that such talk is "bunk." I spent a considerable part of my journalistic life in countries where censorship prevailed. I know what a real censorship is like. HOLLYWOOD—A bunch of the boys (Yacht Club) were whooping it up at lunch the other day, and it was a Ritzy—beg pardon—Yachty gathering. Something strange had happened. While the Yatchers, who introduced this nutty group singing into films in "Thanks a Million" two years ago, had left town for the gay spots of New York, Florida, London and Paris, some interlopers named the Ritz brothers (who never saw the Ritz, I'm sure) had come to town because Hollywood's Clover club wanted the Yacht boys, who were too busy making pictures but suggested that the Ritzes, then in New York, were pretty good too.

The Yacht Club Boys, individually, are Billy Mann (the blue-eyed redhead), George Kelly (the brunette who laughs the loudest at the others' jokes), Charlie Adler (the short end), and Jimmy Kern (the juvenile and the intellectual wizard). Any Yachtman will tell you that the Ritzes are fine fellows and very good friends. Any Ritzter will take oath ditto. And yet the fact remains that the Yachtmen, because of their absence while the Ritzes were making "You Can't Have Everything" and other hits are rather in the position of comebacks at their own game. First step for next is "Thrill of a Lifetime."

Kern is a Forham law graduate, last to join the quartet. Kelly, Adler, and Mann are vaudeville graduates. Kern discourses on the psychology of comedy in his serious moments, cracks wise like the rest most of the time. All together they write the songs. They specialize in the topical satire such as that "Alphabet Song" and the "Income Tax Song." In "Thrill of a Lifetime" they have one called "If We Could Run the Country for a Day"—but there's one couplet that's been censored. It goes: "We'd dig up nine old men and to perpetuate their fame, we give 'em two more guys and let them all play Notre Dame!"

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—If there is one completely all-year-round sport in the theatrical world of New York, it is the game known as criticizing the critics. Actors, producers, directors, playwrights—all indulge in it, especially those whose efforts at providing entertainment have met with failure. One prominent producer has just started Broadway by going counter to this established habit. He is Gilbert Miller, whose seasonal activities begin shortly with the English comedy, "French Without Tears." As a result of an odd mix-up in an article by a London critic, Mr. Miller has upset all precedent and come out flat-footedly with a statement that American dramatic critics are the best in the world.

This unusual gesture of admiration had its origin in an erroneous quotation made during the summer by James Agate, critic of the London Times. Miller had just put on "Victoria Regina" in the British capital, and all the reviews had been as glowing as those the play received earlier in New York. . . . all that is, except one by a man named Holt on the London Express, and Miller did not consider that properly a review, since three-fourths of it detailed how the Duchess of Kent, who was in the audience, had lost a diamond bracelet in the theater and how her husband, the Duke, and Noel Coward, who sat next to her, spent the first act striking matches under her seat looking for it.

Miller considered that a critic should write about the play and not about events in the audience. At a lunch with Agate a few days later he expressed this annoyance, and Agate, thinking Miller was simply indulging in the old pastime of blasting the reviewers, wrote an article next day for a New York paper saying that Miller disliked American critics. Get Miller's predicament? . . . Pale and haggard, he seized upon the erring but honest Mr. Agate, explained the situation, and obtained from that obliging fellow a written statement, saying that he, Agate, had quoted Miller wrongly. Fortified with this, but still somewhat shaken, Mr. Miller quickly had the letter photostated and forwarded copies to all New York critics. As a result, the incident backfired into reams of favorable publicity. . . . Broadway had a laugh, the columnists had something to write about, and Mr. Miller had a lively experience.

Three Directors Name Members of Musical Organizations

Tryouts for Places Began Last Week; First Rehearsals Today

Additional Places Open In All Groups For More Students

Members of three university musical organizations—the University symphony orchestra, University chorus and the football band—were announced by their directors last night.

Tryouts for membership in all units were started last week. Membership lists are still incomplete, with additional places open in all groups. First rehearsals will be today.

The orchestra, under the direction of Prof. P. G. Clapp, head of the music department, will have its first rehearsal tonight at 7 o'clock in north rehearsal hall, music studio building. The chorus, conducted by Herald I. Stark, will have its first practice at the same time in south rehearsal hall.

The football band, one of the new band organizations, will have its rehearsal this afternoon at 4 o'clock on the stadium field. Hugh Gunderson, band assistant, will take part in training of the football band.

Both men and women students are eligible for tryouts as band majors and baton twirlers with the band. Tryouts for membership in the band will be continued all this week in room 15, music studio building.

Additional memberships are still open in the symphony orchestra, especially in the viola, cello and bassoon sections, Professor Clapp said. Students interested should report to room 110, music studio building. Extra players are needed in every section.

Later in the week a few more students will be added to each section of the chorus, Stark announced. The total membership will be 120. Those students who tried out and were not admitted will be notified as soon as vacancies occur.

Plans are also being made to organize a training chorus for less experienced singers, so that everyone who wishes to sing will have the opportunity to do so.

'Be Present Minded'—Gilmore

Hold Annual Induction Rites

President Addresses The Students, Faculty At Ceremony

"Beware of giving false emphasis on the future. Be present minded," President Gilmore declared as he addressed the student body and members of the faculty at the annual induction ceremony yesterday morning.

The traditional service, which was held on the west approach to Old Capitol, opened the 82nd academic year of the university. President Gilmore asserted that college days do not constitute a period of immunity during which moral, ethical, spiritual and intellectual laws are in a state of suspension.

"There is no such thing as college life. There is life in college. There is no such thing as college ethics or college morals. There are ethics and morals in college. Right is right; wrong is wrong; stupid and futile thinking is just the same in college and out of college," he asserted.

Declaring that all preparation with no execution is a futile existence and a negation of true education, the president said that there are too many people spending their years in breathless pursuit of the next thing rather than doing the thing now at hand.

"Students are especially exposed to what someone has aptly called the 'snare of preparation,' the fallacy of forever getting ready. It is commonplace for speakers to tell students they are getting ready for life, that soon they will leave school and enter upon real life. This is false doctrine, the bane of much of our educational activity," President Gilmore upheld.

The university band opened the program with the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Old Gold." Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, delivered the invocation.

The traditional vow and pledge was administered by President Gilmore at the close of the ceremony.

The Revolutionary Pen That Won't Run Dry In a New and Superlative Model—the Speedline

It's not how much a person has in his pocket that determines whether or not he selects the new 1938 Parker Speedline Vacuumatic—it's how much he has above his shoulders!

Some other pens cost as much as this revolutionary invention, yet no one having the "low down" on pens wants to pay these prices without getting these new-day advantages. For example:

- A new all-time high in ink capacity, hence a Pen that never starts anything it cannot finish. A Pen that shows the ENTIRE ink supply—shows when to refill—hence one that never runs dry in classes or exams.
- An utterly exclusive Style—laminated Pearl and Jet—now with slender Speedline shape—the most restful ever conceived.
- And not merely modern in Style, but wholly modern in mechanism, too. Its SACLESS and patented Diaphragm Filler radically departs from all earlier types, regardless of whether they have a rubber ink sac or not.
- Be sure to see and try this pedigreed Beauty today at any good pen counter. The Parker Pen Co., Janesville, Wisconsin.

Lampe Assails Pet Prejudices

Director of Religious School Speaks At Vespers. "Unworthy" prejudices in university athletics, the university social plan and religion were caled "pet" prejudices in the university by Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, in the opening vesper service in Iowa Union Sunday. "The only standard in college athletics is too often the scoreboard. Too many people think that no coach is any good unless he wins a considerable majority of the games," Professor Lampe declared. Using as his text, "Prove all things. Hold fast to that which is good." Professor Lampe traced many of the prominent prejudices among university students. Another prejudice among university students is the social system with its fraternities and sororities at the top, Professor Lampe said. "We are living in a secular age filled with a great number of things that are not intimately associated with religion. We put too much emphasis on things, rather than on value," he declared. President Eugene A. Gilmore presided during the service and introduced the religious leaders of the campus and the city. Springfield is the capital of Illinois.

Local Cast Of Fifty in WLS Amateur Show

Will Be Given at Solon Under Auspices Of Farm Bureau. A home talent show presented by WLS, the prairie farmer station, will be given Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p. m. in the St. Mary's auditorium at Solon, County Agent Emmett C. Gardner announced last night. The show, with a cast of 50 under the direction of Neil Adams of the WLS community service department, will be patterned after a recent Saturday night barn dance from that station known as "Waltz Night in the Old Hayloft." The original script and songs will be used. All the main characters will be impersonated by Johnson county talent. Included in the cast are Helen Speidey of Tiffin as Lulu Belle; Frank Swisher of Iowa City as Uncle Ezra; Willard Horn of Iowa City as Carol Springtime; Marietta Bushman of Tiffin as Sissie Stringbean, Jessie Moss and Paul Stutsman of Iowa City as Susie Sharp and Toby Tolliver, and Clive Campbell of Sharon as Spareribs. The farm bureau quartet will impersonate the Maple City Four. Leo and Sam Holzhauser of Tiffin will play many of the favorite dance tunes of the WLS barn dance for the old time square dances featured throughout the show. The stage will be transformed into a hayloft with the use of baled hay, corn fodder and seed corn. The performances are under the auspices of the junior farm bureau.

Members of the Hawkeye club, formerly the Gypsy Cycle club, spent Sunday afternoon in a hill-climbing contest and motorcycle games on the Angerer farm near West Liberty. The club will meet again next Sunday at the same place for another hillclimb.

JOHN MOONEY

BITS about SPORTS
by JOHN MOONEY

A column designed to pep up the town and gowns for a rip-roarin' welcome for the team tomorrow by a sports editor who feels as peppy as some professors' jokes. (In case you didn't know it, school is in progress again.)

UNITED... we stand, divided we fall... A. F. I., Mortar Board, Pi Epsilon Pi, The city of Iowa City, The Daily Iowan, The Iowa City Press-Citizen, and fraternity and sorority groups have pledged themselves to make this pep meeting the meeting...
STUDENT... interested in re-organizing another pep club dropped in yesterday afternoon... would like to organize cheering sections along lines successfully employed at University of Arkansas... have 250 men and 250 women banded together, dressed alike as the color schemes... really peppy...
STADIUM SINGERS... were mentioned by another party... seems that Quadrangle chorus would like a show-down on the matter... no foolin', this Quad group has class... get those 50 voices flowing out over a public address system at the games and it would eliminate a lot of this "On Iowa, tum-te-da-da-da, On Iowa, tum-te-da-da-da" you know, you've heard that singing...
CLASS... is needed by this university's cheering sections just as much as it is needed in every phase of the school... we expect Big Ten caliber football teams, conference caliber coaches, BUT the cheering would be put to shame by the average high school section... witness the "knol-ho" section at the next game...
TWEAK... to the snobbish noses of the ultra-sophisticates who feel smug and "grown-up" when they ignore the pleading cries of the pep leaders... in this writer's opinion, there is nothing so disgusting as the common sight on this campus of the sophisticated Joe Colleges and Betty Co-ed's... then there is that saying, "All that glitters is not gold"...

PRAISE... should go to the cheer leaders who TRY to coax a murmur out of the stolid spectators... getting blood out of a turnip would be child's play compared to rousing some of you to a mild fit of enthusiasm...
IT... wouldn't be so peculiar, this lack of enthusiasm, if we were as philosophical in defeat as we are in victory... I have heard several ways in which Iowa could have beaten Washington, yeah they SHOULD have beaten Washington, say these "fans"...

TIS... indeed a pity that such smarties are wasting their time in the stands with the "queen" while Iowa has to struggle along unaided until Monday or Tuesday...
SHREW... Irl Tubbs certainly sold a fine load of hay to several sports authorities on the relative strength and weaknesses of the Iowa team... from reading a correspondent's pre-game stories from Seattle, this writer began to think that the least Iowa could hope for was another 50-0 defeat...
HAPPY... to be one of those who could see that the Iowa line would be one of the better ones defensively, but I slipped in my logic in this manner... I had figured that the Iowans would have a high-powered offense with the speedy backs and the powerful line and that this wide open type of football would be conducive to high scoring battles... also figured that heavy line would be a bulwark on defense... therefore,

Loyal Fans To Welcome Team Home Again

Pep Meeting Tomorrow To Start at 7:30; Band to Play

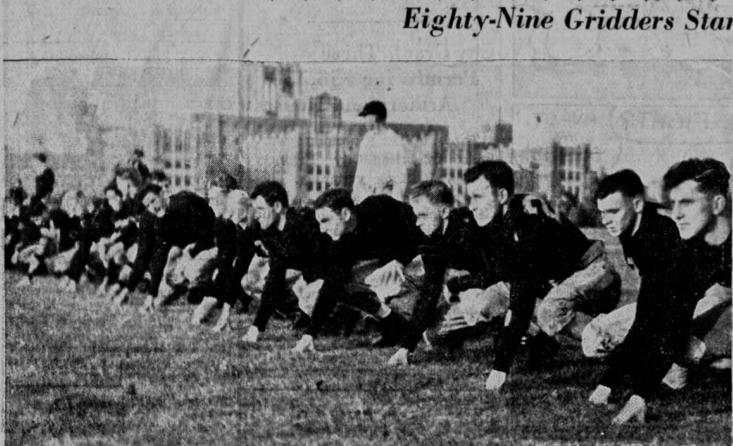

One of the loudest, most enthusiastic and rip-rarin'est pep meetings ever staged in honor of a University of Iowa football team will be held at the interurban depot tomorrow morning when the Iowa Hawkeyes arrive in town from their unsuccessful invasion of the west coast.

Pi Epsilon Pi, campus pep fraternity, will be on hand to lead the crowd in yelling and the university band, under the direction of Prof. Charles B. Richter, will play favorite "pep" songs.

The returning gridders will arrive in Iowa City at 4:30 tomorrow morning but the team will be held on the cars until 8 o'clock. The rally will get underway at 7:30 a.m.

Mayor Myron Walker has promised a police escort and there is a possibility that the state highway patrol will take part in the parade that is to escort the team up town.

The Hawkeyes lost their first game of the season Saturday, a 14-0 decision to the west coast champions, the Huskies of the University of Washington. Despite this set-back the students and townspeople of Iowa City are ready to make good their promise—that they would be with the Iowans, win, lose or draw.

Stars abounded yesterday as the freshman football players went through the first practice as Iowa men. Above is seen a section of the linemen as they crouched ready for the charge. Standing behind the men is Coach Joy Kistler.

Eighty-Nine Gridders Start Workouts

Alibis Still Present at Coaches' Session

Bierman and Sutherland See "Weaknesses" in Topheavy Victories

NEW YORK, Sept. 27, (AP)—To his utter dismay, the old professor failed to notice one whiff of improvement in the arts and sciences of the alibi today as he wiped his specs, adjusted a new ear trumpet and rapped sternly for order in his first Monday morning class of the season for college football coaches.

His regular pets acted the same, old way as they slipped mechanically into front row seats and predicted black things for themselves. The boys in weeping row made free use of the professor's hand embroidered crying towels and sobbed out praises of their conquerors.

Professor: "This new fangled ear trumpet is okay. You don't have to shout anymore. I hope this year some of you master minds can come up with something new. Bernie, why don't you reform? They tell me your team is wonderful."

Poor Bernie
Bernie Bierman, Minnesota: "Professor, at times we looked very well but the good play was not consistent. It's difficult to judge our strength without knowing just how strong our opposition is. Some of our sophs showed up very well. There's plenty of work to be done for the Nebraska game Saturday and we'll have a busy week."

Casey Finnegan, North Dakota State: "Professor, don't believe him. Why his team looks as strong or stronger than his great 1934 outfit. That boy Andy Uram is a genius—the sweetest piece of ball carrying machinery I've ever seen."

Professor: "Thanks, Casey, for the low down. We'll now hear from Bernie's only rival as a story teller: Jock. Let's have it."

Jock Discounts Victory
Jock Sutherland, Pittsburgh: "Professor, I cannot tell a lie. It was a hot day when we beat Ohio Wesleyan, 59-0, and we had the advantage of reserves and breaks. We aren't that much better than Wesleyan. The score might just as well have been half of that. I didn't think our play looked as good as in the opener last year."

G. E. Gauthier, Ohio Wesleyan: "It's hard to see how Pitt can be stopped, professor. Goldberg and Stebbins are about the two best halfbacks in the U. S. A. Scharein, ss, 4 0 1 3 3 0. Passeau, p, 4 2 2 1 3 0.

Phillies Defeat Brooklyn, 11-3

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Phillies hit four Dodger pitchers, including Long Tom Winstet, hard today to pound out an 11 to 3 victory and run Brooklyn's losing streak to 12 straight. Claude Passeau went the route for the Phils, winning his 14th of the year.

Why Are Giants Ahead? Scribe Finds Many Reasons for Lead

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—The reasons for the pennant surge of the New York Giants may still be a mystery to some baseball observers but they have, at least, been numerous enough... First and foremost was the early August shift of Master Melvin Ott to third base... When Carlos (The Great) Hubbell wavered in effectiveness, Cliff (Mountain Music) Melton stepped into the role of No. 1 flinger... Finally Lou Chiozza, a bust at third base, flashed a comeback in center field, with Leiber and Wally Berger on the bench... Add to all these things the hitting spurts of Jo-Jo Moore and Burgess Whitehead in the past month, plus the master-minding of Terry and the team's ability to snag close decisions (28 by one run so far this season) and you have the key to the big puzzle...

35-Mile Speed Limit Suggested for Sections of Six Streets

Mushrush Urges City Council To Join in Safety Campaign

Recommends Restricted Traffic on Highway Zones Here

A special 35-mile-an-hour speed limit may be placed on sections of six Iowa City streets at the next meeting of the city council Friday at 7:30 p.m., it was decided at last night's meeting.

Speeds in the zones are unlimited, R. S. Mushrush, division maintenance engineer of the state highway commission, told the council last night.

"The highway commission," Mushrush said, "will place special traffic signs in the areas if they are restricted. Reducing speeding in these areas would aid the highway commission's safety campaign."

The zones suggested by Mushrush in which the speed limit would be reduced are:

U. S. highway 161 between the highway 1 intersection and the south boundary of the municipal airport.

Highway 1 between the west city limits and U. S. highway 161.

U. S. highway 6 between west city limits and a point approximately one block east of the Woolf street bridge.

U. S. highway 161 between the city park bridge and the north city limits.

Rochester road between Parsons avenue and the east city limits.

Highway 261 north of St. Joseph's cemetery to the city limits.

The suggestions of the highway officer were referred to the ordinance committee, of which John Ostidek is chairman.

Carson Fines Four On Traffic Counts

Four traffic violators were fined in Burke N. Carson's police court yesterday.

Francis Riedy, Leroy Gingrich and Mrs. Frank Titzell, found guilty of failing to observe stop signs, paid $1 each with costs suspended.

Carl Strub paid $1 for parking in a prohibited zone.

Treasury Gets Bids On Station

Site Formerly Occupied By KIS for Sale By Government

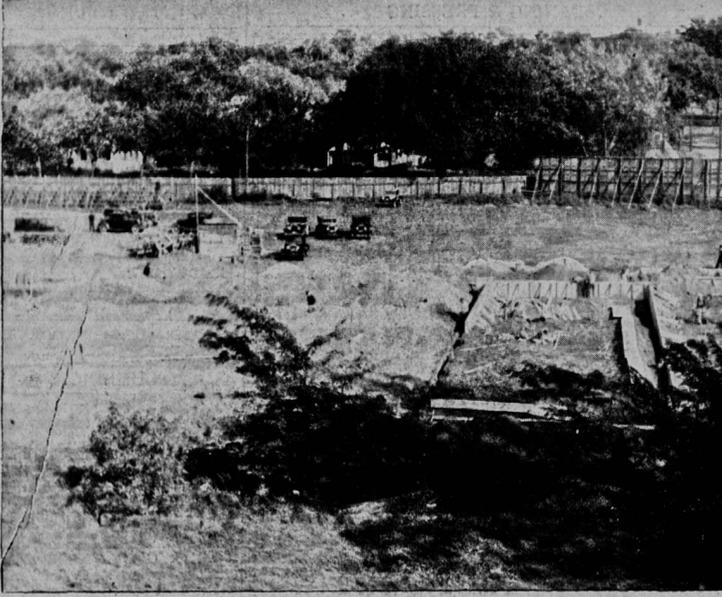

Bids are now being received by the treasury department until Oct. 13 for the purchase of the former site of radio station KIS on West Benton street, Postmaster Walter J. Barrow announced yesterday.

Under the terms of the contract all bids must be accompanied by a certified check made payable to the order of the treasury of the United States for 5 per cent of the amount bid. All bids should be addressed to the section of space control, treasury department, procurement division, Barrow said.

The property consists of approximately one and one-half acres and a one-story frame building.

All persons interested may receive further information from the postmaster.

It's Only the Beginning

But it won't be long now. Soon Iowa City's most ambitious fall building project will begin rising at this site on the sewage disposal plant grounds. It is the city's new army, being built to house the city's cavalry and hospital units of the army. In addition, however, the building, when completed, will be the center of many civic activities including the Johnson county 4-H club show.

AROUND THE TOWN

with MERLE MILLEP.

That penny - tax situation, now well past the stage of experiment, still creates many an annoyance for most of us... Most annoying of all is when, after putting down more than enough money to pay your bill, the cashier asks, "And have you a penny?" ... Seems to me when you put down enough to cover bill, plus tax, that's an indication you don't have a penny or don't care to fish for one.

Almost invariably too, a downtown waitress tells me, penny-payers will dig deep into their pockets about the time the cashier has the change ready to return. ... And most of us don't pay with pennies at all. We'll save up our pennies, almost always, and spend them all at once.

Campus Portrait His energetic drive is alike the despair and delight of those who work under him. Twenty-hour days for weeks at a time are not new to him. Then he'll take time off, do nothing but rest. ... When he starts a project, he'll be burning with enthusiasm for a time, then, enthusiasm dulling, he'll throw the whole thing out, waste all the money that's been spent. ... Admitted competent by all, many an admirer will tell you he borders on genius.

Personal nominations for Oblivion: Those tidily-wink champs who have gained all their football knowledge sitting 19 rows up on the 20 yard line, have Iowa at the bottom of the conference this year before the season has begun. Professors who revise their texts every year so that you can't get second-hand volumes and then aver, "Of course I don't get anything from this myself." ... Professors who advise you to buy higher-income texts and then never use them once class has begun. Otherwise attractive girls who wear flat-heeled shoes, rough tweeds. ... Girls with cigarette-stained finger tips.

ROOSEVELT SCHOOL NEWS

Housing has occupied the interest of the social science group at Roosevelt grade school. Blue prints furnished by Thomas Nicols were studied. A collection of building materials was brought to class by Gladys Brown, Doris Hall and Junior Hall for observation. Members of the group are keeping a scrap book containing different types of houses. Houses are being built of clay. Five members of the class are planning a tour of the lumber company and Old Capitol.

The kindergarten class has been working on its play-house. The routine of a regular housewife was followed. Tuesday rugs, curtains and doll clothes were washed. Wednesday the articles were ironed and replaced. Thursday the house was papered, and the outside was redecorated in white with green shutters. Next week will be spent in painting the furniture built from orange crates by former kindergarten classes.

Again this year there are faint rumblings from the dramatic arts department that Max Ellis is to play Falstaff. It's been Ellis' ambition for these many years and his own for that matter.

A committee of eight from the primary grades visited the primary grades Friday. They brought with them a toad furnished by Elizabeth Brown.

Bender Warns Merchants To Remove Signs

Police Chief W. H. Bender yesterday warned all local business houses—especially grocery stores and gasoline stations—to remove all pedestal signs located between the sidewalk and the curb unless a special street-occupancy permit is obtained.

Signs must be placed back of the sidewalk, Bender declared. All those remaining in the prohibited zone after this week will be collected and destroyed by the police department.

THIS LAMP MADE THE GOAL

As a leading sports commentator might have reported it

What a play! Out of the scrimmage line darts I. E. S. Better Sight Lamp ... America's All-Star Lamp for college students. Oh, boy, look at him go. Those short, squat lamps can't touch him. He leaves them standing in their tracks. How he covers territory... spreads good light all over the field—no I mean all over a big desk top. He's got the ball ... Wait a minute, wait a minute, no, it's a translucent bowl that cuts out glare—tucked under his shade—and he's running rings around the old gooseneck models for study purposes.

What a play! What a lamp! He's over for a touchdown. It just goes to show, folks, that you can't beat Science. It's that white lined shade and a MAZDA lamp that gives him the old pep... I mean provides plenty of safe-seeing light, and makes the idol of all college eyes.
