C.I.O. Leaders Ignore Conference Proposals Of Labor Federation

Committee Bids For Discussion For Last Time

C.I.O. Chairman Lewis Makes No Comment On Situation

By DON YOUNG
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 14 (AP) — C.I.O. leaders received in silence tonight renewed A.F. of L. proposals for a conference to discuss a unified labor policy and settlement of labor's internal strife.

High officials of the Committee for Industrial Organization said they preferred not to comment until the conference here of leaders of C.I.O. unions took some official action. The next meeting will be tomorrow.

Made Last Offer
They recalled, however, the committee considered it has made its last offer to the A.F. of L. Tuesday when it proposed a conference of 100 leaders from each organization. At the same time, it rejected a federation proposal that committees of three confer.

The news from Denver reached C.I.O. leaders at the end of a day in which they virtually completed formation of a policy to guide C.I.O.'s future course.

No Comment
John L. Lewis, chairman of the C.I.O., said he would have no comment tonight on the federation suggestion.

Asked about the possibility of an official statement, possibly tomorrow, Lewis replied: "Yes, there's always that possibility."

Lewis was compelled by illness to absent himself from today's conferences.

Committee is Silent
The Denver action brought no comment, either, from members of the resolutions committee who were meeting privately to consider pronouncements on the undeclared war between China and Japan.

Green Offers Peace Treaty to C.I.O.
DENVER, Oct. 14 (AP) — The American Federation of Labor sent a new peace proposal to the C.I.O. today in response to the offer John L. Lewis sent here Tuesday.

The proposal was new in that the federation agreed to enlarge to a "reasonable" size the executive council's three-man standing peace committee.

Men and women jam get-rich-quick headquarters. Federal, state and local authorities in Boston are investigating a new get-rich-quick scheme, similar to the chain letter scheme of months ago. Chinese Stage Counter Attack

China Rallies with Air Raids, Land Battles At Shanghai

By MORRIS J. HARRIS
SHANGHAI, Oct. 15 (Friday) (AP) — Chinese air forces made three early morning raids today on Japanese positions near Shanghai while Chinese land forces immediately north of the city struck in a desperate counter attack.

The fighting continued savage exchanges between Chinese aircraft and Japanese warships and land forces late Thursday which subjected the International Settlement to one of the most dangerous showers of shell fragment it has suffered in two months of warfare.

Two Americans Injured
Two Americans, a marine and a sailor, were injured slightly in the deadly hail, in which police estimated 37 persons—all Chinese—were killed and 67 injured.

Artillery and tanks supported the Chinese drive, on a four-mile front beginning in Chapel, adjoining the International Settlement.

Chinese asserted they thrust deeply into the Japanese positions, inflicting heavy casualties.

Unless Italian Volunteers in Spanish Army Leave, France and England Will Unite To Protect Mediterranean Trade

LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP) — French foreign office officials said tonight France is considering joint direct action with Great Britain if a non-intervention sub-committee fails to obtain withdrawal of Italian volunteers from Spanish insurgent armies.

France stood ready to protect her Mediterranean trade routes after agreeing to go along with Britain in giving the nine-power subcommittee a quick chance to obtain withdrawal of the troops. The committee is to meet here Saturday morning.

Pessimistic
French sources were pessimistic on the outcome of the meeting where the Spanish question is to be discussed on 11 Duce's chosen ground. British spokesmen were only moderately hopeful.

Following a cabinet meeting, France sent a note to London. It was stressed French and British declarations to be read when the nonintervention group meets will insist the meeting be brief and to the point.

The two nations are expected to warn Italy if an agreement on withdrawal of foreign volunteers is not reached quickly, they will consider themselves no longer bound by nonintervention rules.

Action
It was generally agreed, he said, that such action would be first, opening the French frontier for shipment of arms to Spanish government forces; second, possibly other measures such as sending French ships and planes to Minorca with Spanish government permission to show Italy France is capable of defending her sea lanes despite the Italian hold on Mallorca and Ibiza.

There were reports in diplomatic circles French and British were considering strengthening their forces in Tunis and Egypt as a reply to Mussolini's reinforced war strength in Libya. Rome reported 7,000 troops have withdrawn from Naples to swell the Libyan garrison to 33,900.

Powerful Forces Ready To Oppose Bans On Munitions
WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP) — Prospects for a hard fight over neutrality legislation in the coming session of congress appeared today to have been increased by a state department report. It licensed $81,829,527 of munitions exports in the past two years.

Some of the legislators are prepared to contend that the neutrality law should be tightened to prevent the United States shipping any arms abroad so long as this country is at peace.

At present the law forbids such shipments only to nations which president proclaims to be engaged in a foreign war.

Spain Barred
Only Spain, torn by civil warfare, is barred entirely at present from buying war implements in the United States.

President Roosevelt has refrained from invoking the arms and loans bans of the neutrality act against China and Japan, on the grounds there has been no formal declaration of war between them. He has, however, prohibited government-owned ships to carry weapons to the Far Eastern belligerents, and has warned other shipping if it handles such business it will do so at its own risk.

Presents Eight Instructions To Church in East

Private Memorandum Urges Impartiality As Final Rule

By CHARLES H. GUPTELL
VATICAN CITY, Oct. 14 (AP) — A reliable Vatican source said tonight the Holy See condones Japanese military activity in China wherever communism appears to be the enemy.

This policy was said in well-informed Vatican quarters to represent a normal expansion of Pope Pius' increasingly militant campaign against Bolshevism. It was described as being in harmony with the Vatican's attitude toward the Spanish civil war and with the outspoken attacks on communism which His Holiness made in his encyclicals of March 18 and Sept. 29.

No Comment
WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP) — State department officials refused to comment today on the report the Holy See is prepared to support Japan in military activities in China when they are directed against communism.

The Vatican source said this policy had been set forth in a private memorandum defining the church's position in the Chinese-Japanese conflict.

Catholic representatives in the Far East were said to have received instructions to adapt themselves to this policy. Wherever in China the communist peril seemed real they have been told, this source said, "to support, without reserve, Japanese action."

At the same time they were instructed to continue and intensify their work of Christian charity to aid the sufferers of both sides. Complete impartiality is to be the rule in ministering to the wounded of either nation.

Eight Instructions
The Vatican source asserted the private memorandum contained eight specific instructions, of which the more important were summarized as follows:

"Wherever Bolshevik danger appears active to support, without reserve, Japanese action."

"To give Japanese military authorities the clear impression on the part of the Catholic church there is no obstacle to complete collaboration."

The Vatican source said the Holy See considers China as the "region in all the world most immediately and most easily exposed to Bolshevik invasion."

By EDDY GILMORE
FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Oct. 14 (AP) — Rabid groups of dog lovers agreed today that Frederickburg's 239-year-old Mutt-Mart was worth coming miles to see, hear, and smell.

The Mart—an all day affair—drew: Three thousand Virginians. Three hundred dogs. And goodness knows how many fleas.

The dogs, herded together on the city's historic park square, defied their masters as well as description.

The New American Sport

THAT BANG, bang, bang you hear coming through the autumn air in the country these days may only be hunters shooting rabbits, but more likely it is long, yellow ears of corn hitting the wagon bank board as the boys practice up for the annual corn husking contest.

Strange it is that the one chore which our grandfathers dreaded most has come to be a new American sport, with contests staged throughout the middle west — contests wherever corn is grown. To many a farm boy the heroes of the day are not Joe DiMaggio or Lefty Gomez, but Iowa's Carlson brothers who have monopolized the world corn husking championship for the last two years.

To many midwesterners even the sight of a football game palls in comparison to the spectacle of 30 or 40 men moving swiftly down the brown corn rows, each tossing ears at the rate of almost 60 per minute, each urged on by his neighborhood followers.

It is a peaceful sport, with only one dispute to mar the picture. While we in Johnson county refer to it as corn husking, there are those elsewhere who will stoutly maintain that it should be called corn shucking, and still others will shy with equal positiveness that corn picking is the phrase to use. It is a dispute which will probably never be settled. Those brought up to say "corn picking" will always say "corn husking" and those taught to say "corn shucking" and "corn husking" will probably always discuss the garnering of the golden ears in those terms.

Anyway, it's a great sport, and one that seems destined to be with us as long as corn itself.

We Give You—Your Teeth!

YOUR TEETH are always with you.

You have a full set when you make your first personal appearance, although mother, grandmother and all the aunts discover the "first" one with much fanfare some weeks later.

You have them still when you make your last bow—if you're lucky.

Perhaps lucky is the wrong word. If you're careful is better. Dodging the dentist is a favorite American pastime, and gathering dust is the chief pastime of too many toothbrushes.

Nature is a conscientious worker, but she likes cooperation. She doesn't often get it. Eleven and a half million school children have badly decayed teeth. If this is true of youngsters in our enlightened age, one can all too easily imagine what must be the case with adults.

Much of the ill health of middle age is due to poor dental habits in early life. When the mouth is properly cared for, there are present from five million to eight million germs. The difference between eight million and 800 million can be traced directly to neglect of the teeth.

True, the dentist's unpopular little drill hurts. It will hurt worse six months later when the cavity is six months larger. Of course, you will unearth your toothbrush tomorrow night, but tomorrow seldom arrives. Twice each day a toothbrush properly used; twice each year the dentist's office properly visited. Result: 32 teeth that are happy for life.

Cousin Silas Sez About Football—

WELL TOMORRO are footballers is going to Wisconsin to play them Badgers which is pretty good this year on there homecoming day & we should all remember football is a character building game full with amateurism as it should be & even if a person don't here wat the score is he can tell how we come out by being down to the RR depot wen the team comes back from playing them Wisconsin fellas. It ain't going to be hard to tell.

& 1 time a long ways back I mind are team hadna tough time beating Butler but after all afternoon they whip the Indians by 7-0. & all week the studes says o wat a molly team we got & so do the alumni.

A alumni is a fello wich come to college whenever they is a football game & is either drunk wen he arrives or gits that way as soon as possible after getting out to the house unless the wife is along & then he crabs about the football team but its reely because the old battlex hadda come to.

Well he finally beats Butler like I say & next week everybody says well we play the Badgers this week & we might as well git plastered now so we can keep the team company acct. they git a stiff 1 in the puss at Camp Randall wich is the place wear the Badger team plays.

But we beaten them fellas & surprised all the populace for miles around & then next week after that it's them Ann Arbor gies & we tooken them to. So I don't see how we can miss with such a delightful set-up as this. Proibly be a mob out to the depot come Sat. night or whenever are side git back from the homecoming up to Madison.

I expect we gonna give are alums something to talk about but like I say if we dont football is a character building game & we must remember to merely play for the fun of the thing aint it?

CLIPPED from other COLUMNS

LIBERATOR OF BOHEMIA THE IMPERIAL GERMAN

knights started in derision. How dared a rabble of Bohemian peasants attack heavy-armed cavalry! But on rolled the wagon trains commanded by the one-eyed general, Zizka. On rolled those five columns drawn by Moravian ponies, the artillery and cavalry in the center, with a flanking group of two short wagon columns, and then again two long ones.

What followed the charge of the German knights obeyed no known rule of war. From the Bohemian bombardiers huge stones which smashed the imperial center. The Bohemian cavalry stayed hidden. One of the short wagon columns galloped up to form a front line while the other galloped back to form a rear line, and these two were lashed by chains and ropes to the two long wagon columns. There of a sudden on the plain rose an armed, walled camp, with defenders bristling on each wall.

Unable to check, the imperial German knights reeled back from the thrust of 20-foot pikes as from the rear wall sallied men with spiked flails and short axes to take them in flank. Before German sword could pierce Bohemian leather jerkin each peasant squadron advanced or retreated with bewildering precision. Away streamed the broken knights. A short wagon column was unleashed to make an open gate for the concealed Bohemian cavalry armed with short battle-axes and relentless in pursuit. Bohemia was saved from the invader.

By these tactics the great Zizka—who died just 513 years ago—welded his army of peasants into a resilient instrument dedicated to the national existence, the national language, and the religious liberty of Bohemia. His was an achievement without parallel in the military history, not of aggression but of defense.

What his schoolmate—the gentle martyr, John Hus—died for to win doctrinal and spiritual toleration, Zizka put into grim action. Later, it can hardly be denied, his Bohemian scheme of the austere, simple life was too puritan for the Prague merchants, the disputes of the Taborsite and Calixtine sects led to civil war, and he took full share in the ferocity of those ages wherein former oppression led to cruel reprisals. Nonetheless his patriotism overtops all else. With Hus he forged that spirit which did not rest until its fruition after many tragic centuries in the establishment of Czechoslovakia.

To the hero Zizka and the martyr Hus, Bohemians today trace the undying fire which now warms and purifies their country, standing foursquare against the conflicting tyrannies of Europe lest peace and national self-determination cease to inhabit the earth.

Pharmacists Test, Check All Drugs; Learn Exact Effects

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

The days of nasty medicines are over. The old nauseous mixtures have given away to elegant pharmacy, so that taking medicine is even a pleasure — too much of a pleasure, perhaps, for some people.

And even more important, the days of unreliable medicine have gone. Drugs are tested and checked up over and again. They are standardized by trying them out on animals to see that they are potent — that they will do what they are supposed to do. And the modern pharmacist is a thoroughly educated, well-trained expert in elegant and accurate compounding.

The mixtures of the old physicians were curious and repulsive — scrapings from the bodies of athletes, mixed with the oil with which they anointed themselves, were used as a tonic.

Toads and snakes naturally attracted these practitioners, who in Europe they've been taking pot shots all summer at the dove of peace.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will be heard in a nationwide broadcast over the WABC-Columbia network tonight from 9:45 to 10 o'clock when she addresses Camp Fire girls throughout the nation in connection with the concluding ceremonies of their Silver Jubilee celebration.

A very curious story is that of a wicked Italian woman whose husband was dying of dropsy. He took so long about it, that she got tired and thought to hurry the process by putting a toad in his wine, so that he would drink the liquid and die. He did so, but to her astonishment and disgust, he completely recovered.

Fifty years ago that story would have been scouted as mythical, but we know now that the skin of a toad secretes a drug which has an action very like the famous heart remedy, digitalis, which was introduced into medicine as a remedy for dropsy.

Shunned Photographers Sigrid has been in Hollywood a year, but she knows little of it. It's a plot of course. Samee Goldwyn, who signed her, ordered her to stay home nights, to avoid interviews, to shun photographers. Goldwyn, probably because he had over-published another foreign discovery named Anna Sten to no good end, had decided on the opposite extreme for Gurie.

Still Avoids Crows She preferred the bus to driving because Los Angeles traffic overwhelmed her. Just lately her father — reading in a Norwegian paper that she was a first-class tent her a new coupe and she tentatively driving that.

She still stays away from previews, picture shows, and public appearances generally. Ask how she likes Hollywood and she replies, with a whimsical smile, "How should I know what Hollywood is?"

She does her own housework, fill in her spare time under the Goldwyn "hidden flower" plot.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — To find bewildered people in Hollywood is easy. Practically everyone is bewildered, because all Hollywood is that way either from surfeit of fortune or complete lack of it.

But when it comes to the most bewildered person in this bewildered town, that's a tough one to answer — unless you ask the question right now. Have you asked it? Then the answer is: Sigrid Gurie.

No movie fan has ever recognized her, few have heard of her, and even in Hollywood not one person in a hundred knows she's the luckiest of newcomers.

Miss Gurie, a few months ago just a pretty blonde who traveled to work in buses, brought her lunch with her and hurried home nights to cook, wash clothes and clean house, today has finished her first leading role in pictures. And her first leading role — truly her first role — was opposite Gary Cooper in a super-super called "The Adventures of Marco Polo."

Shunned Photographers Sigrid has been in Hollywood a year, but she knows little of it. It's a plot of course. Samee Goldwyn, who signed her, ordered her to stay home nights, to avoid interviews, to shun photographers. Goldwyn, probably because he had over-published another foreign discovery named Anna Sten to no good end, had decided on the opposite extreme for Gurie.

Two months ago she was called from her "retreat" and put to work. She kept on using the public bus as a means of transportation — and each morning she was the only girl abroad who knew that Sigrid Gurie had a date at the studio to make love to Cooper.

She preferred the bus to driving because Los Angeles traffic overwhelmed her. Just lately her father — reading in a Norwegian paper that she was a first-class tent her a new coupe and she tentatively driving that.

She still stays away from previews, picture shows, and public appearances generally. Ask how she likes Hollywood and she replies, with a whimsical smile, "How should I know what Hollywood is?"

She does her own housework, fill in her spare time under the Goldwyn "hidden flower" plot.

Ox Roast Lures Crowd to Sharon

Since the Sharon ox-roast at Sharon Center has become an annual institution, attracting patrons from Johnson and the counties surrounding it, The Daily Iowan presents to its readers a pictorial account of this year's huge feast (at right). Each year, the night before the day of the big "feed," the ox meat is packed into little burlap bags in 10-pound lots and then put into an oven to cook until the following day, when it is brought out to form the nucleus of the repast. During the course of the day hundreds of persons, intent on eating one of the finest meals of the year, file into the Sharon high school gymnasium to help devour the vast amount of food collected for the occasion. For 65 cents one can eat all he likes.

The 16 teams have been divided into two groups, one of which played Wednesday night, and the other last night. The second group is composed of Eastlawn No. 3, Currier hall No. 2, Breene-Tudor No. 2, Sigma Delta Tau No. 2, and Alpha Delta Pi No. 2 and the Independents.

This group of teams will play again next Tuesday evening.

Personal service was maintained throughout. Once the customer got to his table all he had to do was wait until the foodstuffs came past him. As soon as any of the heaping plates of food began to lose their altitude there were plenty of helpers ready to replenish the supply. When the diner has had his fill, his plate is taken away (as in the above picture) and his order for dessert fulfilled. In many cases the waitresses were girls who attend the high school for which the benefit ox roast was held.

Little Hawks Taper Off For Game With Powerful Cedar Rapids Team Here Tonight

Probable starting lineups:

LITTLE HAWKS TAPER OFF
Bring on the Thunderbolts! That was the cry of the Red and White warriors as they tapered off last night with light signal drill and kick-off formations. Coach Herb Cormack has his gridders on keen edge for tonight's invasion by the brilliant Franklin high team of Cedar Rapids.

Iowa City hopes to strip the super-team label from the Parlor City aggregation in a game which promises to be a thriller from the starting whistle to the closing gun. Indications point to a liberal dose of passes on the part of the Little Hawks, while Franklin will probably rely on a running attack featuring the elusive Albert Eddy.

The presence in the lineup of Bob Buckley, diminutive local flash, has added new spark to the Hawkeye offensive drive. Buckley's recent improvement has warranted the starting assignment at quarterback. DeWayne Justice continues to handle the kicking duties and will be the spearhead of the passing attack from his halfback post. Martin Dicker is waging a close battle with Ted Lewis to get the call for fullback.

McLaughlin on Shelf
Entering the game as probable underdogs, the Cormackmen will endeavor to repeat the performance of the Massion, Ohio, team and register a victory via the air-lines.

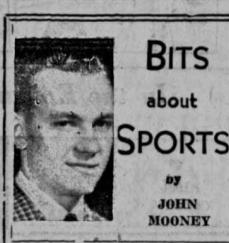

With Ted McLaughlin on the shelf doctoring a sprained ankle, the Little Hawk attack will not be at full strength. Other members of the squad have emerged from this week's strenuous scrimmages in good physical condition.

Coach Orville Rust of Franklin has, in the person of Albert Eddy, one of the finest backs to be seen this year in prep circles. The Thunderbolt running game is further augmented by Guy, crafty backfield ace, who performed faultlessly against the representatives of the Buckeye state last week.

Three Ties
After three consecutive tie games, the Little Hawks will try tonight to break into the win column of the league standings. Coach Cormack's proteges have drawn with football machines from Wilson of Cedar Rapids, Dubuque, and Clinton. In Parlor City territory, Franklin is regarded as a possible state title contender with the most powerful eleven to represent Cedar Rapids in several years.

BILL MCKECHNIE
NEW MANAGER OF THE CINCINNATI REDS

BITS about SPORTS
BY JOHN MOONEY

To satisfy the taunts and jibes of three critics and to satisfy my own personal feelings, I am devoting my next to last column to a colossal limb-perching effort in forecasting how I know Iowa will defeat Wisconsin by two and perhaps three touchdowns tomorrow at Madison.

On paper, Wisconsin has all the edge over the invading Hawkeyes. The Badgers have won three games while the Iowans lost to Washington and won a cinch victory from Bradley Tech, 14 to 7. Opening the season, the Badgers romped over South Dakota State's Jackrabbits, 32 to 0. Marquette fell next before the Wisconsin eleven, this time the score being 12 to 0, and last week, Coach Harry Stuhldreher's proteges trounced the University of Chicago, 27 to 0.

On the basis of Wisconsin's undefeated, untied, and unscored upon record, the Badgers must get the nod, but maybe there are a few things which haven't yet met the eye.

For example, Wisconsin has yet to meet a team with any running attack. South Dakota State had nothing, Marquette was powerless, and Chicago—well, you've all heard about those Maroon elevens of the last two years.

I saw the Badgers play that 12 to 0 game with Marquette. With "Buzz" Buidiv, All-American back of last year in the game, and the Guepe twins playing, Marquette would have registered another triumph over their state rivals, but these three graduated last June. Anyone but the Marquette passers would have passed the Badgers crazy that afternoon. Iowa has a potent aerial attack, incidentally. Time after time, men were in the clear, only to have a misfired pass gun up the works.

Then too, Wisconsin has never played against a team that could carry the ball. Marquette fared poorly in this department, not so much because the Badgers charged harder than they, but mostly because the Hilltoppers unwisely chose to take to the air lines in their attempts to score, at a time when their passing was very inaccurate.

Further, a Marquette back fumbled an easy pass in the end zone early in the game which would have changed the complexion of the outcome greatly.

Continuing, the Chicago eleven held the Badgers scoreless until more than eight minutes of the third quarter had passed.

Iowa has been called a question mark team, but the Hawks are not resting on any laurels; what have the Badgers to show for their efforts thus far? Already, Wisconsin fans are predicting another conference championship team. "Pride cometh before the fall," isn't that the way that oft-proven saying goes?

So far I have done nothing but discredit Wisconsin; now let's have a look at the Iowans. In dropping that 14 to 0 verdict to the Washington Huskies, Iowa lost a ball game they might easily have won. Three times, bungling thwarted scoring chances.

On the Washington endzone, two Iowa players jumped for a touchdown pass, and muffed it up. On another occasion, Bill Gallagher got away for a run that netted 19 yards; but did you know that Gallagher had only the safety man between him and the Iowa goal? His two blockers who were out there to help him couldn't get situated soon enough to take out this one man. The third play where the Hawks should have scored came on a kick-off. One of the Iowa backs fumbled the ball and was downed, and there wasn't a Washington man on his feet at the time!

Against Bradley, Tubbs was content to use his line plays against a weaker opponent. Only three plays were used all afternoon, which were potent enough to bring a victory, and that's all that counts.

and will probably see little action as a result.

Undefeated in its first three games, University high has shown a lot of offensive strength and at the same time looked ragged defensively against mediocre teams. However, they have improved considerably in the past week, much to the satisfaction of their coach, Jack Sterrett.

Outweighed and outpowered according to advance reports, the local team will depend on a fast running game with a deceptive aerial attack to stop the invaders.

The local team's starting lineup has been changed in three places since the West Liberty game last week. Bruce Blackstone, 128 lb. center, will get the call over Bob Boiler. Bob Campion, regular guard who was out with injuries last week, will be back in the lineup, and Lewis Shimon will add speed to the backfield when he replaces Owen Morgan, regular playing fullback, who is out with an injured leg.

Richardson, captain and fullback of the team who played guard for the past two years, has shown himself to be a hard hitting back full of fight and drive in all of the games this year. The tackle posts of the Monticello outfit are exceptionally well fitted by Stutt and Kuhns who weigh 200 and 205 lbs. respectively.

The Monties came through the hard fought Tipton game with surprisingly few bumps, Bud Bone, end, being the only injured man. He has a bad charley horse last year's team, which placed second in the league, the 'Monties' boast the services of several outstanding men. 'Chuck' Field playing at quarterback is reputed to be the best punter in the league. So far this year he has punted 31 times for a total yardage of 1140 yards, averaging about 37 yards per punt. This is an average to be compared with college 'levels'.

The tackle posts of the Monticello outfit are exceptionally well fitted by Stutt and Kuhns who weigh 200 and 205 lbs. respectively.

The Redhaws besides outweighing the local team have had an impressive season, winning three games by lopsided scores and losing one closely fought game to the league leading Tipton aggregation last week.

Bluejays Face Hillery, Sullivan Shine in Frosh Football Drill

As a let down from the two days of scrimmage with the varsity, the freshman football squad was sent through a long intramural scrimmage last night. Special attention was given to offense, polishing up plays which will be used next week against the varsity. None of Michigan's plays will be given to freshmen.

The scrimmage revealed a pair of speedy backs in Hillery and Sullivan, Hillery, an Illinois boy, came to Iowa largely because of Duke Slater, Iowa's immortal negro tackle, showed a lot of speed and went for several long gains. Sullivan, from Chariton, seemed to be equally effective.

Coach Waddy Davis said that the scrimmage was mainly for the purpose of finding more exactly the caliber of the men, and consequently nearly every man out for practice took part in the scrimmage. He also said that he was impressed with the line plunging ability of Mike Enich and Carl Blandon.

right halfback. Both are on the injured list. Dick Rucki, reserve will start in Reif's place, and Billy Ziesel, a left halfback, will move over to Golonka's post. The rest of the Creighton lineup which Schwartz hopes can manufacture touchdowns while holding back the rushes of Pug Manders, Bobby Underwood, Buddy Suter and Drake's top-notch line, includes: Grommick and Borak, ends; Lulinski and Janes, tackles; Vana, left guard; Kelley, center; Gantmann, quarterback; Piet, left half back and Paul Hartnek, fullback.

St. Pat's Meet Wilton Jct. 11 This Afternoon

The Green Waye from St. Patrick's tapered off with a signal and pass practice, followed by a light scrimmage last night before they journey to Wilton Junction today.

For the first time this season the Irish will go into the game with at least an even chance to win. The Wilton team seems to be in the same predicament St. Pat's is, having hardly any letter winners back from last year and a shortage of reserves.

Coach Ryan will use the Notre Dame style of attack with the running game built around the two veterans, flashy Don Newbiggen and rugged Jay Walden. Jack Fitzpatrick, the blocking half, can also lug the leather if called upon.

The kicking assignment will be entrusted to the worthy toe of Jay Walden, who has been averaging over 40 yards per kick this season. Walden will also do some of the passing but most of it will be in the hands of Newbiggen.

New Men in Line

The Irish forward wall will be stronger in today's game than it has been all season. This is due to the addition of Paul Scannell and Ed Ipsen to the lineup. Ipsen, who is playing his first season of football has shown a reasonable amount of natural ability and can be counted upon to help the Irish cause.

The starting lineup for the Irish will be, Fitzpatrick and Holland at ends, Daly and E. Rohner guards, the two heavyweights, Beasley and F. Rohner tackles, with Scannell at center. In the backfield, Black from the

Another Scoreless Tie? Pittsburgh and Fordham to Play Annual Deadlock at Polo Grounds

By PAUL MICKELSON
NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—On the same Polo Grounds' green where the Giants made their final, feeble stand against the Yankees, college football's annual "battle of futility" will be played Saturday between the hell-roaring Panthers of Pittsburgh and the Buckingham Rams of dear old Fordham.

For two years now the game, ballyhooed as one of the greatest of the season, has had no rhyme nor reason. Twice, the Panthers and Rams have met and bounced each other all over the field with nothing to show the big crowds but a Mexican stand-off—a scoreless tie. What will happen Saturday is only a guess but if it's another 0-0 on the scoreboard, both Jock Sutherland of Pitt and wide awake "Sleepy Jim" Crowley of Fordham will run the risk of a congressional or campus investigation.

Both Sutherland and Crowley deny vigorously that they meet annually resolved not to hurt the other's chances for an eastern Rose Bowl assignment and it is true they have no regard for each other's future in football coaching success. So there can be no other explanation than this: it is the annual game between the irresistible force and the immovable object. You hear about that one all year but the Fordham-Pitt scrap must be the real McCoy.

Rams Smash Line
In 1935, Pitt met the Rams with its great sophomore team. The game was almost all Fordham. In the final period, the Rams rammed within scoring distance but refused to take a single chance to push over the winning score. With seconds to play, they still wouldn't try anything but straight line bucks when a fake or a pass might have meant a touchdown.

Last year, the Panthers outplayed the Rams but they, too, refused to try something fancy for a score. Once they were on the four-yard line they tried four bucks against a line they knew to be impregnable and got nothing.

No Fancy Stuff
Last year, the Panthers outplayed the Rams but they, too, refused to try something fancy for a score. Once they were on the four yard line they tried four bucks against a line they knew to be impregnable and got nothing.

"We're going to pull some fancy stuff this year to end this scoreless tie stuff—if we can," says Jock, "but maybe, a tie would be pretty good. They're tough."

Fans Want a Score
"If we can get a tie," says Crowley, "we'll be tickled."

And the crowd says: "We want touchdowns—by somebody."

It all reminds one of the "great" fight between Ray Miller and Jimmy McLarnia a few years ago at Madison Square Garden. Both had "killer" reputations and the crowd packed the Garden looking for a kill. But all the "killers" did all night was to hug and dance.

Names Too Tough
Softy... Time with all its wonders has scored a new triumph. Jock Sutherland, at 48, is getting soft and mellow. For years, Jock has had a reputation as the hardest, toughest coach of the pigskin arena. But now he's a mellow guy with more friends than enemies. Jock still has one notorious failure—he can't recall names of even his players. He never got the name of Bill Glasford, who started for him for three years at Pitt. It always was and still is "Glassport" to the doctor.

Par... If Marshall Goldberg, Pitt's great back, dashes 70 yards the first time he carries the ball against Fordham don't be surprised. That will be just par for the course. On each of the first three times Marshall has carried the ball this year he has dashed 55, 80, and 77 yards. He still has to be stopped on his first play of each game, making his great dashes with an intercepted pass, received punt and a play from formation.

Iowa State Takes Final Drill Before Game With Kansas

AMES, Oct. 14 (AP) — Iowa State college took its final pre-game workout today in preparation for the Kansas university game Saturday.

Coach Jim Yeager said he would rely on Hank Wilder to fill in for the injured Everett Kischer. He will alternate with Paul Morin in punting and probably will do a large share of the passing, an important factor in the Cyclone attack.

Injuries May Keep Dohrmann Out Of Oklahoma Game

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 14 (AP) — Elmer Dohrmann, six-foot-five-inch Nebraska end, turned out for football practice today with a sore back which may keep him out of the Oklahoma game here Saturday.

Dohrmann injured his back in the Iowa State game last week but the kinks apparently had straightened out until today. In case High Elmer should be out, Lloyd Grimm, a six-foot-junior, would start at right end.

Pass Defense Clicks in Final Practice; Tomorrow's Game To Reveal Strength of Iowans

Devoting an hour of the practice session to pass defense, and withholding his charges from scrimmage, Coach Irl Tubbs last night sent his University of Iowa Hawkeyes through their final drill before the squad entrains for Madison, Wis., where they will play their first Big Ten game of the year against Harry Stuhldreher's up-and-coming Badgers from the University of Wisconsin.

The Hawks got their first look at Wisconsin plays, with the varsity backfield having considerable success in breaking up passes, as thrown by Ernie Nevers, backfield end coach. The first string lineup consisted of Bob Lannon and Erwin Prasse at the flanks, Capt. Homer Harris and Wilbur Nead at the tackles, Bob Allen and Chuck Brady at the guards, and Dick Anderson at center. Members of the backfield were Nile Kinnick at quarterback, Bill Gallagher and Jack Eicherly at the halves, and Dick Chambers, a new face in the lineup, at fullback.

The squad of 33 players will entrain at 7:30 this morning for Milwaukee, where they will hold one practice before traveling the remaining 75 miles to Madison tomorrow morning. The squad will remain in their pullmans near Camp Randall Stadium till game time at 2 p.m.

Fans Waiting
Tomorrow's game is expected to settle questions in the minds of many fans, both from Iowa and Wisconsin. To most Hawkeye fans, the Iowa team is still more or less of a question mark. After losing to Washington as expected in the season's opener, the Hawkeyes nosed out Bradley Tech 14 to 7 last Saturday in a game that failed to either prove or disprove the strength of the Iowa eleven.

Whether the team is to be figured as a factor in the Big Ten title chase or whether it will slump towards the bottom in the conference standings remains to be seen. The Iowa line is tough, as attested by the fact that Washington's Huskies could not dent the forward wall of the Hawkeyes when yards were needed, and the pass defense has improved greatly during the past week. Whether the offense will hit its full stride for the first time tomorrow also remains to be seen.

Badger Goal Uncrossed
Wisconsin, on the other hand, has been sailing along in great style so far this season, being undefeated, untied and unscored upon to date, though against questionable opposition. The Badgers rolled over South Dakota State's Jackrabbits, 32 to 0 in the season's opener, followed this up with a 12-0 victory over

Foreign Boxers

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP) — Two ten-round bouts, featuring foreign-born boxers, will headline the fight show Promoter Mike Jacobs will offer at the New York hippodrome tomorrow night.

Three of the four principals in the two star events come from other countries. Only native on the card is Marty Gallagher of Washington, who goes into action against Gunnar Darland, heavy-weight champion of Finland. Jocke Brescia, of the Argentine, tackles Andre Lenglet of France in the other ten.

able against aerial thrusts; Iowa has a threatening passing attack.

"Wisconsin has made yardage against other teams through the line; Iowa has one of the best defensive lines in the conference. Wisconsin has never been faced with a powerful running attack; Iowa will show them one tomorrow."

Wisconsin hasn't a punter who rates Big Ten caliber; Iowa has three or four better than average booters.

Wisconsin's fullback, Weiss, rated as one of their best threats, will fumble when (and don't say "if") he is hit by the charging Old Golds.

Wisconsin has made much yardage on their end sweeps; Iowa's ends will rate with any in the conference.

On the basis of this "reasoning," I am picking Iowa to defeat Wisconsin by at least two touchdowns. (I have already given one fellow 20 points and picked Iowa). This will be the last time you will hear me prognosticating through the medium of this column, and I am willing to hinge whatever sports reputation I have built up since I started conducting this daily pillar in this prediction. Tonight, I will write my farewell column but until then it's "On Iowa" to this writer.

Outlook Dark Gym Team Hit By Graduation

Walk over to the fieldhouse some afternoon and ask to see one of the busiest men on the Iowa coaching staff. Besides being the coach of a Big Ten sport, he is the department's "jack of all trades" and you can find him in the pool, above the pool, in the north gym, or in his office.

After sighting him thrice the other day, I finally got within conversational distance. "Hey, Coach Baumgartner, how about some dope on this year's gym team?"

"Oh, on gymnastics?" he began. "Well, we lost our Big Ten championship when we lost Nissen, Wetstein, Adams, McCloy, and Koehwasser last year by graduation; they were fine men."

"Any more bad luck?" I ventured.

"Ah, more," the distinguished Swiss gymnastic teacher continued, with use in his voice. "Three dandy varsity prospects didn't come back—Bob Parry, Paul Kinney and Jack Tschirg."

Seeking to brighten the picture a bit, I asked him if he had any outstanding prospects.

"Yes," he said, "we have one in Adam Vogel, a fellow from Milwaukee who used to be on the same high school team as Paul Kinney, the fellow we lost." He added, "Gymnastics are losing out in high school in this state; why one-half the Iowa students, upon coming to school, have never heard of a gym team."

The squad, headed by Captain Dodge, a senior, and a minor letter winner last year, includes Adam Vogel, Robert Brown, Elmer Jones, Ed McCloy, Walter Reitz, Thomas Davis, K. R. Roxhelle, Mark Houser, Ray Lipoi, and Olin Zager.

Northwestern EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 14 (AP)—Northwestern tapered off drill today for its battle Saturday with Purdue. Coach Lynn Waldorf sending the Wildcats through a rehearsal of offensive and defensive formations. Four regular linemen — Voigts, Calvano, Kovach and Wells — were given further rest because of injuries suffered against Michigan. All four, however, are expected to start against the Bollermakers.

Chicago CHICAGO, Oct. 14 (AP)—Bob Greenebaum, first string center, will not be able to play with Chicago against Princeton Saturday. Coach Clark Shaughnessy said tonight. Greenebaum suffered a knee injury against Wisconsin and his place against the Tigers will be taken by George Antonic. Shaughnessy experimented with his backs today and said he still is uncertain of his starting offensive combination.

Ohio State COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 14 (AP)—Coach Francis Schmidt of Ohio State University, still smarting from last Saturday's grid loss to the University of Southern California by a single point, 13 to 12, indicated today Ross Bartsch, sophomore end, may do the kicking on tries for points after touchdowns hereafter. A host of candidates concentrated on kicking at the crossbars.

Delta Chi Loses To Phi Kappa Sigma, 19 to 18

Intramurals yesterday found two closely contested games with the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity barely nosing out the Delta Chi's by one point, 19-18, and the Beta Theta Pi's defeating the Phi Epsilon Pi's, 7-0. The only other game scheduled, between the Phi Delta Theta's and the Alpha Tau Omega's, was indefinitely postponed by mutual agreement.

In the game between the Phi Kaps and the Delta Chi's, the latter team scored three times in the first half. Don Marx scored the first touchdown on a long pass from Overton. Pep Grawe tallied on a short pass from Overton and John Cockerill accounted for the final marker with a 50 yard run.

Walt Berns made the only score for the Phi Kaps in the first period on a long pass from Darrel Kiddie. In the second half, however, the Phi Kaps came back by scoring two touchdowns and converting an extra point which won the game for them. Kiddie scored the first touchdown of the half by plunging through tackle, while Berns made another on a pass from Kiddie. The extra point was also made on a pass from Kiddie to Bob Gordon.

The only touchdown in the game between the Beta's and the Phi Ep's was made by Jim Mudge on a sleeper pass from Jim Brammer. Jim Knipe scored the extra point on a pass also from Brammer. The game consisted mostly of passes with little ground gaining by either side.

Protest Not Allowed The game between the Pi Kappa Alpha and Alpha Sigma Phi fraternities was declared to stand as played when the committee met Wednesday to consider the protest of the Alpha Sig's that a member of the Pi K. A.'s wore football shoes. There was no rule saying that football shoes could not be worn.

From there the committee went on to state that, although football shoes would be allowed in the touch football games, no shoes with metal cleats or steel spikes will be allowed.

They also decided that there shall be a maximum of eight players per team, making the line of five men and the backfield of three. Also that upon two kickoffs going out of bounds, the ball shall be placed on the 25 yard line and played from there.

Bill McKechnie To Get $25,000 At Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14 (AP)—Bill McKechnie signed today a two-year contract as manager of the last place Cincinnati Reds, and with a guarantee of $25,000 annually plus a bonus, became, officials say, the third highest-paid skipper in the major leagues. "But I am no miracle man," wared the genial Pennsylvanian, asserting he had turned down two "better offers" in order to affiliate with Warren Giles, Reds' general manager and his friend for 13 years.

Giles introduced McKechnie to city officials, club directors and newspapermen gathered at a luncheon.

Giles said he felt the contract figure should be made public "because of certain statements by people who think they know it all."

He did not explain further, but declared a $5,000 bonus would be paid annually to the new manager, should the Reds' 1938 home attendance maintain the club average of 450,000 or the club finish in the first division.

Giles said he knew of only two other team pilots receiving a larger salary — Bill Terry of the Giants at $40,000 a year and Joe McCarthy of the Yanks, who recently signed a three year contract at $35,000.

Yesterday's mail brought the farthest letter from a reader I've yet received. . . . Postmarked Paris, France, it came direct from war-racked Spain. . . . I'm not agreeing with all of it, but, agreeing or not, it's worth reading and pondering over. . . .

"You've probably forgotten, but it has just reached me. I mean the squib you ran about a former student at the university fighting in Spain who was a pink but is now sadly disillusioned."

Two Students
"As far as I know there are only two Iowa students now fighting in Spain. One is Roger Hargrave. The other is myself. I lost track of Roger but ran into him last week in Madrid. He was lying in a hospital more or less full of shrapnel but cheerful. . . . I was in a good mood too, having fully recovered from the effects of an explosive bullet in my arm. . . ."

"So it was in an atmosphere of warmth and goodwill that we discussed several things, among them you. . . . We decided that although deluded you were undoubtedly honest. Who knows, you might even be one of that coterie of special souls who inhabit the rarified air on the right hand of that great god objective truth. You might be, that is an 'honest liberal'.

"Being deluded but honest wasn't enough, we thought; the road to fascism may very well be paved with good, honest delusions — even in America, where, incidentally, it most certainly can happen.

Invasion
"First: We didn't come to Spain as pinks or reds or with any other political coloration. We came because we thought that everything we considered worthwhile was being endangered by brutal invasion of Spain by the armies of Mussolini and Hitler. To us, freedom — democracy — are not just campaign slogans but precious ideals which, translated into life, mean greater human happiness.

"The enemy of these is fascism, German fascism, Italian fascism, American fascism, fascism everywhere. The philosophy of fascism, of the concentration camp, book burnings and race cultism has found its logical expression in explosive bullets and the indescribably horrible bombing of human populations.

"What would it mean if fascism would win in Spain? Would the dove of peace flutter gently then to earth? If it did, it would probably get its head shot off. . . . No, Ethiopia didn't satisfy Italy; Manchoukuo didn't satisfy Japan, and there are few around quite naive enough to believe that backward Spain is the complete answer to the Rome-Berlin prayer. . . . A victory for fascism means a stronger fascism and bigger and better wars, which must, sooner or later involve our not-too-isolated states. . . .

Fight
"It boils down to this. If you are really interested in culture, if you really want peace, if you honestly believe in democratic processes, then the Spanish people are fighting your fight. . . . In this light, Hargrave and I saw things last spring. . . . We thought so much as one withheld his support from Spain, so much was he a traitor to all progressive humanity is striving for. . . . We have been fighting here for seven months; we have both been wounded, and we still think so. . . .

"A word about illusions. You say we are disillusioned. That in itself is ambiguous. People don't just get disillusioned. Usually a specific bubble breaks. For me the bitter pill has been the disgusting sight of our official democracies coldly and deliberately aiding the gutting of Spain.

"That's all. Except this—Do

U.W.A. Urges S.U.I. Women To Participate in Its Activities

Every woman registered in the university is a member of University Women's association. But how many of the members have thought, "What's the use of belonging to an organization if I don't know much about it?" or, "I belong to U. W. A. but I don't know how to become an active member."

U. W. A. endeavors mainly to enrich the college experience of each university woman. It sponsors many service projects which further a spirit of unity and fellowship among women on the campus.

Democratic Association
The association is a democratic one. Several important groups on the campus were added to U. W. A. last year in an effort to make it a more representative group of university women and to avoid overlapping of projects. "It should be an all-inclusive group," Helen Focht, assistant dean of women, said. The general council of U. W. A.

is made up of the officers of the organization, three class representatives, a reporter, a point system chairman, an orientation chairman and representatives from Women's Athletic association and Town Coeds.

U. W. A. Offices
Nominations for offices in U. W. A. are made on the basis of leadership in campus activities and scholarship. Therefore to hold offices in U. W. A. women should strive to become important members of various university activities, according to Miss Focht. Nominees for offices must have had at least C averages for the previous semester. Officers are elected by popular vote.

There are always three class representatives on U. W. A. council. Every year one member of the freshman class is elected to serve on the council during her four years in college. This system makes for continuity in council membership from year to year.

D. of U. V. To Hold Luncheon Meeting

Daughters of Union Veterans will attend an all-day meeting in Hills Monday. A potluck luncheon will be served at the home of Mrs. P. L. Debrie at noon. About 25 members are planning to attend the meeting.

Tonight at 7:30 the Sons of Union Veterans and their auxiliary will meet in the G.A.R. rooms in the courthouse for a business session at which officers will be elected for both groups. Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Harmon are in charge of refreshments.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: King Rudolf is drugged by conspirators hired by his brother, Michael. Under urging from the king's aides, Englishman Rudolf Rassendyll, the king's double, takes his place at the Strelson coronation, thwarts Michael's plot to seize the throne. Michael's sweetheart, Antoinette de Mauban, has grown jealous when Rupert of Hentzen, another conspirator, convinces her that Michael wants to marry Princess Flavia, consort to the king. At the coronation, Rassendyll and Flavia meet, discover strong attraction in each other. The coronation completed, Rassendyll races back to the lodge where they left the drugged king under guard, discover the guard murdered, the king kidnapped.

Chapter Five

A pall of despondency clung to the council of strategy that assembled at the dining table of the royal hunting lodge.

"It's all over now," said Rassendyll, "Michael and Rupert know note arrived at the castle. "If Mr. Rassendyll," it read, "desires to know the whereabouts of the king, let him come tonight at two o'clock to the deserted summerhouse behind the wall on the Boulevard Elphberg. He must be alone. If he neglects this invitation, he may harm the Princess Flavia. If you hesitate, consult Captain von Tarlenheim. Ask him what woman would do most to prevent Michael from marrying the Princess Flavia and therefore most to prevent his becoming king. And ask if her name begins with A."

"You've been trapped," Antoinette told Rassendyll when he entered the living room of the summerhouse. "I wrote that letter at the Duke's orders. Three men are coming here to kill you."

"Where is the king?" demanded Rassendyll.

"Before I tell you I must have your word that no harm comes to Michael."

"If you're betraying Michael now, why are you so anxious about him?"

"Think what you like," said Antoinette, on the verge of hysteria. "Think that I don't like murder . . . or just think me a jealous woman . . . have I your word?"

"Yes, as much as I can give it, if you tell the truth."

"You see, I've never been in love before."

everything by now." "Ay," said Zapt feelingly, "they know everything. But they can't speak. Can they say 'That was not the king because we kidnaped the king and murdered his servant?' That still won't keep them from murdering the king," Rassendyll retorted.

"With you on the throne," said Zapt, "they won't dare. If they do they're finished. Can they kill him and leave you on the throne?"

Rassendyll jumped up almost angrily, as if his patience were exhausted.

"It's too much to ask. Nobody could carry on this masquerade. I've tried to help you all I can—but I'm also not a fool."

Zapt probed for a weak spot in Rassendyll's position. "Of course you understand," he said, "that with the king dead, Michael as regent, will declare her queen. After that he'll marry her."

"She'd never do that, she couldn't," exploded Rassendyll. "Flavia is a princess of the royal house," said Zapt. "She would have no choice. She would expect none."

"You can't let that happen to her!"

Zapt looked squarely into Rassendyll's eyes. "Can you?"

A glint of determination lighted the Englishman's eyes. "Come on," he said to Fritz and Zapt, "we're going back to Strelsau."

Meanwhile at the capital, Rupert was reporting to Michael. He arrived at the castle in riding costume, his boots covered with mud, his uniform and hair in disarray and stroled into the black duke's study.

"They're moving the king tonight from a hut in the forest to Michael's castle near Zenda. If the castle is attacked the king will be killed instantly and no trace of his body will be found. You must have his friends near at hand—at his hunting lodge—on some pretext or other, boar hunting. I'll send a message when I can arrange the king's escape."

Antoinette jerked off one of her earrings and handed it to Rassendyll. "The man I send will have the mate of this."

As Rassendyll turned to go, there came a terrific clatter at the door. Rassendyll grabbed up an iron tea table to use for a shield. The door was forced open and in charged Rupert and his henchmen, Detchard and Bersonia, firing as they came.

Slugs from their pistols splattered harmlessly on the iron tea table as Rassendyll charged his way to freedom, leaving Count Rupert and his discomfited aides empty handed.

Rassendyll's romance with Flavia, which was encouraged by Zapt as a matter of state, by the populace as a matter of national sentiment, had now reached the point where Flavia bitterly resented Rassendyll's announced plans for the "boar hunt."

"Last night," she told him, "you made me feel that every hour away from you was wasted. But boar hunting! That's a different thing."

"Do you think I want to go?" asked Rassendyll.

"I'm sure not," said Flavia, simply pining for you to hunt them. Did they send a delegation for you?"

Suddenly she realized that this was no ordinary boar hunt in which the man she believed to be her king and lover was putting out "Rudolf," she cried, "it's Michael! I won't let you go. Send someone else!"

"And what sort of king would do that?"

Shamed, she pulled herself together and tried to smile. "You see, I've never been in love before."

Local County Relief Stopped

IERA Plan Halts State Relief Grants To 11 Counties

Johnson county will be one of the 11 counties removed from state relief roles, according to a report of State Relief Secretary Ralph Kittinger.

The removal of the 11 counties from the list is based upon a formula, approved by the IERA committee in August, which provides for such action unless the proportion of the area's relief load to the county's bonded indebtedness is within a certain minimum.

The formula in general provides that no county with less than four per cent of its population on relief can receive state grants unless the county is bonded to at least 75 per cent of its constitutional limit.

Kittinger said the so-called "county care" cases were included in the relief totals used in determining the eligibility of the various counties under the formula. Such cases, he reports, include the unemployables maintained by the county in good times as well as bad.

The Nov. 1 reductions will cut the number of counties receiving state relief aid to 22. Johnson county received October grants from the IERA amounting to $1,488.

Girls Kidded In Currier; Receive Note

No one can say that the "old college dormitory spirit" does not prevail at Currier hall this year.

Two fourth floor freshmen experienced their first real "protor fright" last night when a fictitious note was slipped under their door. The note came after three hours of unauthorized partying and serenading. It read:

Miss—, Miss—,

This undue noise after quiet hours must cease. After the third offense, you will be sent to the dean of women.

Proctor.

Later, two girls walked hesi-

tantly down the stairs, their mission to apologize to the higher authorities. As they reached the second floor landing, a voice called from above, "Come on back. It's only a joke. We wrote it."

The girls next door who were responsible for the act locked themselves in for the night.

This year's quota of $19,800 must be met to take care of the additional relief work and social service program necessitated by the withdrawal of state aid, commented Attorney Martin.

Dean George F. Kay Clarifies Requirements For Graduation

In order to clarify all questions in regard to graduation requirements in the college of liberal arts, Dean George F. Kay issued the following regulations yesterday:

Requirements for graduation: A. A total of 120 semester hours exclusive of credit for required work in military drill, physical training and freshman lectures are required for the graduation of students with no entrance deficiencies.

B. A total of 240 grade points are required on the 120 semester hours counted towards the degree.

many as 10, or three-fourths, of the hours for which he is registered, he shall be placed on probation for the next succeeding semester.

Any other student, freshman or upper classman, whether on probation or not, who does not pass 12 or three-fourths of the hours for which he is registered in any semester shall be dropped, unless permitted to continue on probation by special administrative action.

B. Quality requirements: Any freshman who does not have 1.5 average on total hours passed at the end of his first two semesters work shall be dropped unless permitted to continue by special administrative action. Any such student who has a 1.5 average but less than a 2.00 average may be

Any upperclass student who does not have a 2.00 average on total hours passed may be continued on probation for the succeeding semester. Grades are assigned the same value in computing grade points for the continuance of registration as for graduation.
