What Can Be Done To Make Football Not So Dangerous?

By LOGAN CLEMMING, M.D.

The conflicting evidence on which much of the alarm concerning football is based is confusing and frequently misleading. It is in part due to the failure to distinguish between the effects of non-accidental Head Injuries and those of accidental head injuries, which are the more serious. Football, as it is commonly practiced, is, in fact, not as dangerous as a number of other sports, such as ice hockey.

The club football team at New York State University has just finished its program, and the outcome of each game has been determined by a random sampling of 100,000 spectators. The results showed that 32.5% of the spectators thought the team was too aggressive. However, 67.5% of the spectators thought the team was too conservative.

It is interesting to note that the team with the highest percentage of non-aggressive spectators also had the highest percentage of non-conservative spectators. This suggests that the team's style of play is more important than its overall performance in determining public opinion.

- Is the company profitable?
- What is the dividend rate?

These questions are often asked by inexperienced investors and can lead to confusion and misunderstanding.

Gloom Heavy On City High Practice Field

Cormack and Morten Revisit Loss Of Linebacker

An atmosphere of gloom hung over Muhlenbach Field last night as the city's high school gridiron lost two of its stalwarts for the remainder of the season. Both Larry Muhlenbach, right end, and Tom Morten, backfield star, are out with injuries, while John Cormack is questionable for tomorrow Night's game with Marshalltown.

The回来 was shut off. The question of what these mentors for the team now that Muhlenbach is out, is of no importance. But the loss of Morten and Cormack is a double blow. Muhlenbach came to City High from Waterloo last year, and his presence on the field has created a sensation in the city.

The return of Cormack was expected last week, but he was unable to take part in practice. The return of Morten is also expected, but he has not been able to take part in practice either.

A new set of line-up has been decided on for tomorrow Night's game. The returning line-up includes Morten and Cormack.

The biggest problem facing the City High coaches is how to replace Muhlenbach. His presence on the field has been a great asset to the team, and his absence will be greatly missed.

Frosh Gridders Defeat Varisty Reserves, 12-7

Hod Shots

By G. E. MENDENHALL

It's a crying shame that there isn't more realization in the broadcast of the Iowa football games. During both the Washington and Mississippi games it was just to hard to hear the ball and other sounds that added to the excitement of the game.

Another reason was added to the list when the University of Iowa football team defeated the Reserve team, 12-7, last week. The Reserve team was supposed to be stronger, but the Iowa team played better.

Another reason why the Reserve team lost was the loss of itr quarterback. Type of football played by the Reserve team prevented the quarterback from getting a pass off in the air.

Another reason why the Reserve team lost was the loss of its players. The Reserve team had several players out with injuries, and these players were injured in the Wisconsin game.

A new set of line-up has been decided on for tomorrow Night's game. The returning line-up includes Morten and Cormack.

Residents of Johnson County Pay 879,253 State Income Tax

Johnson county residents have paid about $879,253 in income tax this year, according to reports. The report, which is compiled by the State of Iowa Department of Revenue, includes income from all sources, such as wages, salaries, and self-employment. The amount paid is up from last year, when residents paid about $850,000 in income tax. The increase is due to several factors, including an increase in the state's personal income tax rate, which was raised from 6.5% to 7.0% effective January 1, 2022. In addition, the report shows that the number of taxpayers in the county has increased, which also contributed to the increase in income tax payments.

The report also shows that the majority of income tax paid in Johnson County comes from residents who work in the county. The report indicates that about 70% of the income tax paid by Johnson County residents is from residents who work in the county. This is consistent with previous years, when the report showed that the majority of income tax paid by county residents comes from residents who work in the county.

The report also shows that the average income tax paid by Johnson County residents is about $1,200 per person. This is up from last year, when the average income tax paid by Johnson County residents was about $1,150 per person.
