Deadlock With Italy, Germany Over Spanish Situation Ends; Foreign Soldiers to Withdraw

Britain's Plans For Evacuation Become Valid

Anglo-French Attitude Spurs Acceptance Of Settlement

LONDON, Oct. 20 (AP)—Europe's fascist nazi front broke a dangerous deadlock tonight over the presence of foreign soldiers in Spain and agreed to a scheme through the non-intervention committee for getting them home. Count Dino Grandi, Italian ambassador, faced with what his antagonists described as a "stiffening attitude" by Great Britain and France, accepted British proposals for evacuating the foreign volunteers rather than precipitate a crisis.

The action, supported by German agreement, took place in the session of the nine-power subcommittee of the 27-nation "hands off Spain" body.

It delayed indefinitely both complete withdrawal of the volunteers and the granting of belligerent rights to the warring parties in Spain.

It also facilitated adoption of a formula which will enable Great Britain and France, as well as Italy and Germany, to stave off any showdown on the Spanish problem which, informed sources said, none wanted to face now.

The proposals for withdrawing the volunteers originally were advanced by the British last July and a split occurred soon after over whether evacuations or the question of belligerent rights should be discussed first.

With their acceptance now by Italy and Germany, informed sources envisaged the procedure as follows:

1. Withdrawals to begin—probably in equal numbers from among foreigners fighting with the insurgents and the government in Spain. The subcommittee will meet tomorrow afternoon to establish this point definitely.

2. A commission will go to Spain to report on the numbers of volunteers and a system for their evacuation.

3. Complete evacuation to be undertaken.

4. An independent authority, probably the non-intervention committee, to decide the moment when belligerent rights should be granted.

British officials said the entire scheme fitted into the framework of the British proposals advanced July 14.

They asserted Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, pinned down the Italian ambassador to this procedure by a pointed question to which he received an affirmative reply.

The development was interpreted as strengthening the foreign secretary's hand in combating expected opposition attacks on the British policy in the Spanish problems when parliament reopens tomorrow.

"Belgium Ready To Defend Self"

BRUSSELS, Oct. 20 (AP)—Germany's declaration recognizing the inviolability of Belgium soil is "a happy event for peace-loving Belgium," Foreign Minister Paul Spaak told parliament today.

"No treaty has been signed with Germany, France or Great Britain," he declared in response to parliamentary questioning.

"Belgium gave no counterpart (to the German guarantee). She refused nothing—having asked nothing," Spaak said, adding that "Belgium is ready to defend herself against aggression from any side."

(In a note Oct. 13 Germany pledged to respect the inviolability and integrity of Belgium and, like the British and French, "to assist her in case of attack or invasion.")

Plunges 130 Feet

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP)—A plunge of 130 feet to the ground killed Donald Hartman, 35, an aerialist, as he went through a spectacular act at the coastal fair here yesterday.

Mountaineer Tells Vivid Story Of Transport Plane Disaster

By OTIS J. PUSEY

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 20 (AP)—A mountaineer—only eye-witness to America's worst airplane disaster—told a vivid story of a transport plane flying blindly through a mountain blizzard, then a terrific crash which filled 19 persons.

Height Profitt, youthful trapper from northeastern Utah's trackless wilderness, said he saw the United Air Lines 21-passenger "mainliner" barely miss towering pines in his backyard Sunday night, watched the craft's lights vanish in the storm, then heard it plough into a granite ridge.

Even as Profitt related his story, bereaved relatives visited a small mortuary in southwestern Wyoming's Evanston, identified and claimed the broken bodies. They started early in the evening, shortly after hardened mountaineers made the hazardous trek to the scene of the wreck to recover the bodies. They continued to arrive throughout the night. A United Airlines official said all bodies will be claimed before tomorrow.

Investigation to be held
A county-sponsored investigation of the accident, conducted by Joseph Hopkins, coroner of Summit County, Utah, where the crash occurred, brought an official verdict that "death was by accident."

Further and more intensive investigations will come later. Profitt's crude pine-board cabin sits near Humpy creek in the Uinta mountains, 15 miles south of the Cheyenne-Salt Lake City air line.

Sees Crash Victims
Sunday night Profitt heard the hum of airplane motors, saw the sleek airliner battling a blizzard and a few minutes later heard it thud into a snow-drifted mountain peak. He hurried through the night toward the head of Humpy canyon, and there lay the bodies of 15 men and four women, scattered about the battered transport.

Profitt headed for civilization to report his find, but by the time he reached the nearest ranch, approximately 15 miles away, searching planes had located the wreckage and ground parties were en route to the scene.

Mail Recovered
Postal officials probed about in the snow today for the few pieces of mail still missing. Practically all of it was recovered yesterday and brought to Salt Lake City.

The federal bureau of air commerce, state aeronautics officials and the plane's operator pressed investigations in an effort to determine whether mechanical failure or adverse weather was responsible for the tragedy.

Burlington Man Faces Charges Of Embezzling

BURLINGTON, Oct. 20 (AP)—A federal deputy marshal was en route here tonight to serve a warrant on William C. Kurrle, 52, charging him with embezzlement of $400,000 from the funds of the First National bank of Burlington.

Kurrle, assistant cashier at the bank, was charged with defalcations over a period of two years by means of using false deposit slips.

He was arrested Monday night when police received a report he was carrying a gun.

The alleged embezzlement was discovered when Mortimer Goodwin, cashier, discovered a letter in Kurrle's effects at the bank.

The bank was closed today, with a federal conservator in charge. Goodwin said deposits up to $5,000 were protected under the federal deposit insurance corporation, and Kurrle was under $100,000 bond.

Goodwin quoted the letter as saying Kurrle expressed regret "at having embezzled approximately $400,000 of the bank's funds, of which but $150,000 remain in my brokerage account."

Goodwin said Kurrle related issuing certificates of deposits that were never recorded, and declared "then the market went against me."

Felix Warburg, Noted Jewish Leader, Dies of Heart Disease in New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP)—Felix M. Warburg, banker, philanthropist and Jewish leader, died at his Fifth avenue home today of heart disease. He was 66.

Warburg, senior partner of the international banking house of Kuhn, Loeb and company, was stricken Sunday night but his condition was not regarded as critical until today.

His widow, the former Frieda Schiff, and their five children were with him at the end.

Warburg, German-born scion of a famous financial family, had devoted much time recently to the task of expatriating German Jews and to the development of Palestine as a Jewish homeland.

A year ago Warburg was named chairman of the American division of the executive committee of the council for German Jewry, a world-wide organization formed to coordinate efforts to expatriate 100,000 German Jews within four years.

Like his brother, Paul, who died in 1932, Warburg gave time, energy and money for bettering humanity.

He was organizer and chairman of the federation for the support of Jewish philanthropic societies of New York city, and chairman of the American-Jewish joint distribution committee.

Deny Reported Japs' Offensive Near Shanghai

Chinese Declare 200 Japanese Wiped Out in Battle

By the Associated Press
SHANGHAI, Oct. 21 (Thursday)—Chinese today disputed Japanese reports that Japanese infantry slowly was advancing along the entire 25-mile front north of Shanghai.

Chinese declared their forces, counter-attacking, had isolated and wiped out 200 Japanese at one point.

Chinese Report Advances
In North China, Chinese reported advances both on the Peiping-Hankow and Tientsin-Pukow railroads. They said their planes bombed the railroad station at Pingyuan, in Shantung province, and destroyed a huge store of Japanese munitions.

A dispatch from Peiping, however, said a Japanese force occupied the south bank of the Tsing-shang river, 14 miles north of Changtehfu on the Peiping-Hankow railroad in northern Honan province.

Japanese acknowledged that their campaign in Shansi province, north of Honan, is being obstructed by difficult terrain and stiffer resistance than the Chinese had put up before.

A spokesman scoffed, however, at reports that Japanese were withdrawing in Shantung province, the eastern route of their southward drive. Chinese reports from Shantung said General Han Fu-Chu's provincial forces have retaken lost positions near Tchow on the Tientsin-Pukow railroad without heavy fighting.

One interpretation of the reported Japanese about-face was that overtures had been renewed between the Japanese and General Han. Japanese officials, however, said "our latest information is that Han is very anti-Japanese."

A Japanese spokesman, reporting "slight gains" on the Shanghai front, asserted Japan's slow progress was due to Chinese barriers complicating the difficult terrain. Japanese must tunnel under miles of barbed wire mazes to gain ground, he said, and pass a fortified network of winding creeks and super-reinforced pillboxes.

He credited the Chinese with "bold tactics" and admitted they had inflicted heavy casualties by camouflaging positions on the banks of creeks from which to attack after Japanese had forded the streams.

He insisted, however—despite what he hinted were Chinese lessons learned from foreign advisors—that the Japanese were digging their way forward at a worm's pace with minimum losses against heavy Chinese casualties.

A Chinese bombing squadron today raided a Japanese airbase bordering the international settlement, but without effect.

Hoover Takes Charge While G Men Intensify Search for Kidnapers

Market Slump Causes Fear

The worst stock crash since 1929 lights far into the night. The low building is the banking house of J. P. Morgan and company, across from the Stock Exchange.

Wall Street Normal Again As Stock Market Soars Upward

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP)—The psychology of fear was swept out of Wall street today by the biggest stock market advance since the first day of trading after the banking holiday in March, 1933.

A buying power which gained new force overnight, after yesterday's closing surge upward, carried prices of leading shares up $1 to $7 with occasional advances of considerably more, and virtually wiped out the losses suffered in the panicky selling of Monday and early Tuesday.

Sporadic Spell
Not even sporadic spells of profit selling deterred the day's rally, which was the most sustained that "the street" has witnessed for some weeks.

Whereas on Monday and Tuesday, trading opened with a heavy accumulation of selling orders, the opposite was true today and the ticker tape frequently was behind on the upswing instead of on the down.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks on the "big board" was $48.70, only 20 cents under the closing average of last Saturday, and $3.40 above yesterday—the largest gain since the $4.10 advance in the averages on March 15, 1933.

The day's turnover was 4,336,000 shares, compared with 7,287,000 yesterday.

The advance of stock prices on the exchange spread into the curb market and bonds were higher. Wheat closed on the Chicago board of trade up 1 3/4 to 2 3/4 cents and corn prices were stronger. Commodities closed irregularly.

After appraising the rapid recovery in the stock market yesterday, brokers, bankers and industrialists quickly advanced the belief the wave of fear, which spread over the exchanges Monday and early Tuesday, had disappeared. After such a selling wave experienced in recent days, the opinion was general that prices were attractive to many buyers.

It was reported considerable institutional buying was put through—that is, corporations buying their own stocks. It was apparent, too, that the burden of the "distress" selling—principally the wiping out of margin accounts—had been felt yesterday. In short, it was a "buyer's market," and the buyers were on the floor of the exchange from the opening until the close to take advantage of it.

Federal Agents Alert for Ross Ransom Bills

Investigate Widespread Reports; Fear For Victim's Life

CHICAGO, Oct. 20 (AP)—Government agents combing the country for the kidnapers of Charles S. Ross stepped up their pace today as J. Edgar Hoover, head of the federal bureau of investigation, assumed personal charge of the widespread search.

The chief G-man, ill for several days, returned to his Washington headquarters to direct the strategy of his far flung force.

They apparently placed their main reliance upon a nation-wide net formed by the circulation of lists of the serial numbers of the $50,000 in currency turned over to the abductors in a vain attempt to obtain the release of the 72-year-old manufacturer.

Tellers in all Chicago banks were furnished with the numbers of the $5, $10 and $20 bills which made up the ransom but none turned up.

Three other reports were also scrutinized by the government operatives.

One was the finding of the charred body of a man in a burned automobile near Edina, Mo. Coroner Keith Hudson said distinguishing features were undiscernible but he ascertained there were three teeth in the lower jaw and none in the upper.

Earl J. Connelley of the federal force concentrated here said Ross had a full set of teeth.

The second was the snaring of three men in a police trap in Seattle. Two were wounded. Early investigation established no link with the Ross case.

The third was the story of a woman who reported she had seen four men in a car in suburban river forest on the night Ross was kidnaped—Sept. 25. Two of the men, she said, held an old man in the rear seat. Ross was carried off about five miles from river forest.

The absence of Ross for 25 days increased fears he had died or had been slain—possibly before the ransom was collected.

Foreign War Vets Elect H. Hatcher To Commandership

Harry Hatcher was elected commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars for the coming year at a meeting last night in the Johnson county courthouse.

P. Verner, Lair Await Hearing

SPENCER, Iowa, Oct. 20 (AP)—Paul Verner and Lowell Lair, both 18, tonight awaited a further hearing after pleading guilty to the murder of Frank Jayne, 65, Verner's stepfather, on October 2.

The youths will be examined before District Judge James DeLand next Monday before sentence is pronounced. They are charged with slaying Jayne with a piece of pipe after breaking into his apartment here.

Max Barnett, 22, charged with assault to murder in connection with a previous attempt on Jayne's life last summer, was granted a continuance until Friday.

Legion Obtains New Members

Drive Began Monday; Quota of 157 Set By Chopek Post

One hundred and sixteen new and renewed memberships, 72 of which have been obtained by the 10 membership teams, have been acquired by Roy L. Chopek Post 17 of the American Legion, it was announced by post officials last night.

The drive for new and renewed memberships began Monday night, and the post has set a quota of 157. Beside the 10 drive teams the "Brass Hats"—three of the leading post officers—have been helping to build up the roster.

Leading the way in the drive was Delmer Sample's team with 19 memberships. The other nine teams acquired from three to nine new legionnaires.

Tomorrow night the final report will be given at the last membership drive dinner at which State Commander J. F. Dilliver and District Commander W. L. Gee will be guests. Attorney R. E. Hatter of Marengo spoke at the dinner meeting last night.

Florida's Strangest Tourist

Fred Snite Jr., Infantile Paralysis Victim, Goes South For the Winter

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 20 (AP)—The strangest tourist who ever came to Florida for the winter arrived today encased in a pulsing metal cylinder that does his breathing for him.

Fred B. Snite Jr., 27-year old infantile paralysis victim who once had an ambition to fly the Pacific but instead won the distinction of crossing it in a respirator, was brought from Chicago by train, trucked 10 laborious miles to his father's home and encased on a sun deck for the season.

There he will read and play bridge—it's done with mirrors—that with his friends and see what basis there is for an unflinching hope of recovery he has held since the day he was stricken in China on a world cruise with his family in March, 1936.

Attendants at the estate on Indian Creek, gauze masked as they wheeled the patient and his half ton steel lung up on a ramp to the second story, recalled how he used to burst in unannounced in previous years, his coupe crammed with classmates from Notre Dame.

But Snite himself gave no sign that he was depressed. His eyes sparkled and his grin never faltered.

His father, operator of a chain of loan offices and a retail furniture store in Chicago, said the youth's condition was good.

He disclosed that his son and Rosemary O'Farrell, a neighbor here, probably would have been married this winter if the illness had not intervened, although there was no formal engagement.

The Airplane Crash in Utah

THE EXACT cause of America's worst airplane disaster, the smashing of a giant "mainliner" on a granite Utah slope, will probably never be determined, according to authoritative reports.

This particular crash in which 19 were killed makes, of course, a rather impressive addition to the list of airplane victims. Yet the list itself, considered with the millions of miles flown yearly by air passengers, and when compared with the thousands killed each year in automobile accidents does not appear too large.

We should not hasten to condemn all flying as unsafe, as many are doing after this, the first major air disaster in several months. Train wrecks, before the days of steel coaches and improved safety devices, exacted a huge toll in human lives. Auto fatalities, it appears, have not yet gone into a decline. If we were to condemn air transportation, then in all fairness it would be necessary to condemn all other forms of transportation. None has a clean record.

It will probably be a long time before such accidents cease to occur. Yet the department of commerce air bureau, the air lines and the airplane manufacturers are constantly working toward realization of that dream of complete safety. Radio improvements, better planes, more accurate weather predictions, extensive training for pilots, establishment of emergency landing fields—all are being promoted that air safety may be ensured.

Despite the loss of 19 lives in one accident, we must not lose sight of the fact that air travel is being continually made safer; that each such disaster is a spur towards the establishment of security in the air.

A House Divided

WITH THE leaders of both the A.F. of L. and C.I.O. virtually agreed on a preliminary peace parley, there is hope that the two factions will make a real effort to get together in spite of barbed words of blame and recrimination.

Apparently the pressure for peace from within and without is too strong for the fighting leaders of unionism to ignore.

The issue between the two factions is not purely that of craft and industrial unionism. That was settled by agreement at San Francisco in 1935 when the A.F. of L. voted to charter industrial unions which did not interfere with craft unions already functioning. Furthermore, the A.F. of L. is organizing "federal" unions on an industrial basis, while the C.I.O. on several occasions has invaded the crafts.

The fight, it must be admitted, is chiefly one for power among the union leaders.

There is room, we believe, within the Federation's framework for both industrial and craft unionism, provided neither encroaches on the other. To set out the jurisdictional boundaries, why could not the two groups agree to an arbiter or joint arbitration board with power to act in a dispute?

It should be recalled that the building trades have already set up an empire for settling such rows within their own family. The alternative to such arrangements is continuation of jurisdictional strikes, boycotts and other forms of strife that impoverish labor, antagonize employers and wear public sympathy from the larger cause of unionism.

Of course, there will be wounds to nurse and faces to be saved. But if ever labor leadership was challenged to save the cause of labor, it is today. Labor is no exception; a house divided cannot endure.

Schedule Conflicts

CONFLICTING UNIVERSITY activities—lectures, concerts, debates and the like—occur each year, and each year audiences are disappointed because they must miss several favorite programs.

During the last few years an effort has been made by the president's office to avoid these schedule conflicts. The plan will be continued this year as before; a complete record of the time and place of each event will be made available for use by the rest of the campus.

Frequently there are distinct audiences for each event, but this is not invariably the case. The same group might be interested in hearing a concert by the University symphony orchestra and an international debate, for example. Likewise a University theater production and a University lecture may attract similar audiences.

It is unfortunate when such conflicts occur, but there is the remedy offered by the president's office. Cooperation between the various departments, schools and colleges of the university will solve the problem as nearly as it can be solved. Let us hope that the aid extended by the president's office will be used in scheduling all events this year, thus reducing conflicts to a minimum.

Living This Life of Ours

DAY AFTER day newspapers report the suicide of young people just out of rompers. Tucked away in two-inch stories are the grim details of the death of Mary Jones, 19, or John Brown Jr., 22. Untold is the grief and sorrow which may surround these suicides, but they are heart-catchingly pitiful nonetheless.

Dear foolish children! Perhaps you were of neurotic temperament, maladjusted to everyday bruises; perhaps you succumbed to the strain of your first encounter with tragedy; or perhaps you forgot that there are golden years for everyone and that you had a long time yet in which to find them.

But you chose the easiest alternative, didn't you? It took a certain physical courage to snuff out your youth; but for a moment you forgot that other more enduring courage of the shining will to live for all that life can offer.

"Every man and woman usually tastes the bitter as well as the sweet; if the bitter is escaped, one has not really lived and one's breadth of character is not fully attained.

Great-grandmother lived through the scarping of her whole family and her spine did not buckle. Dad lost everything he had when the stock market crashed, but he is still trying. Surely today's generation could gain a true perspective of life and all it means if they would just give it a little careful thought.

Life is rich, meaty and always worth living. Happiness comes in snatched bites from the meat of life, and no one can take it without getting some distasteful fragments. In the long years ahead, young people will realize—if they do not now—how good is everyday living and also how easy it is to live it.

CLIPPED from other COLUMNS

BITTERSWEET

As autumn, with its days of tempered sunshine, lures afield a horde of "nature lovers" who during summer months have restricted their rambles to the necessary comings and goings, once more the bittersweet or woody nightshade is faced with an unequal struggle for continuance. Herbalists, noting with concern its steady shrinkage, have cautioned repeatedly that unless promiscuous picking is curbed, the bittersweet will go the way of furred and feathered "wild life" which now requires stringent state and federal regulation to the end that it may be perpetuated.

Bittersweet, although an exceptionally hardy "native," does not take kindly to the stripping of its branches; neither is its shallow-rooted strength equal to the force exerted in plucking its tough twigs. The bittersweet is no shy and modest violet. Instead of burying its beauty in some secluded spot, it grows where all the world may witness.

The bittersweet is literally "in the hands of its friends" who seek to claim for their own a bit of its orillamented ornamentation. And upon those hands whether they be ruthless or gently, rests the decision whether the bittersweet shall continue to contribute its scarlet splendor to the autumnal landscape, or whether it shall join the once great herds of bison in the march toward oblivion.

Do You Believe Warning Signs Will Stop Them?

Clendening Tells Methods For Prevention Of 'Athlete's Foot'

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Athlete's foot, or trichophytin of the skin of the feet, is spread in a number of ways. The fungus thrives on moist floors of gymnasium lockers, around swimming pools and shower baths. It also seems to be a frequent inhabitant of leather and woolen goods. Anything which will cause moistening of the feet predisposes toward it.

The question of carriers, which has been emphasized in popular literature, is certainly an important one. Carriers undoubtedly spread it, but they are so numerous that practically everybody is a suspect. Thirty per cent of New Orleans medical students were found to be carriers, and as many as 85 per cent of the students at the University of California. At the University of Pennsylvania 60 per cent of men students who were examined were carriers, and 37 per cent of women students.

Another cause of persistence in an established case is the fact that the fungus occurs not only on the feet, but also on the hands, especially on the nails. A person who has an infection of the feet, therefore, and keeps scratching it, must remember that he may carry the infection to any part of the body and can re-infect the feet. He should, therefore, disinfect his nails and nail brush, as well as his feet, to prevent spread.

Best Preventative

One of the best chemicals for the prevention is sodium hypochlorite, the common, cheap and harmless bactericide used in many city water supplies. One-tenth of one per cent solution of this will do away with the fungus on the feet of most carriers. Sodium thiosulfate is also valuable, but cannot be used around swimming pools.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — If Charlie Chaplin should omit his baggy trousers from his future film plans — there's been some talk but nothing definite — he'll have precedent in personality-changing.

But not much, and in a practical sense he'd be doing something never done before. No one so far advanced in a career, with a screen character so well established as Chaplin's wiffling vagabond, has ever deliberately chucked that character overboard.

Years ago, Harold Lloyd made such a change. He didn't always wear those spectacles. But the Lloyd career was still in its formative stages when Harold said goodbye to Lonesome Luke, in favor of that gentlemanly Chaplinesque accoutrements, including mustache, and launched his tremulous, naive, but wholesome bespectacled youth.

You might count Mary Pickford's shearing of her curls as a break from character. It was eight years ago that Mary suddenly "grew up" in films. After specializing in little girl roles—the same that Shirley Temple is doing now — well into her thirties.

Douglas Fairbanks gave up swashbuckling for a modern film or two — talking — but never as successfully. This may have been due to the natural waning of a long career more than to the public's refusal to accept the change.

Alphonse Menjou has stepped out of the niche of masculine clothes-horse for some first-rate character performances, including comedy. William Powell did a startling change of character, too, but the change accompanied his rise to stardom. Once he played villainous rats — in silent films. Then he switched to bad men with golden hearts, paving the way for his accession to a hero's throne.

Myrna Loy is a striking example of character change. She was the siren type, remember, the Oriental beauty who lurked in the shadows always ready to snare the hero. She changed in American heavens, then was discovered for smart comedy in which she reached stardom.

Taking stage stars and reworking them for movie purposes is common.

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By HOPE HAMPTON

(Singing Song for George Tucker)

NEW YORK — Unaccustomed as I am to public guest-columning, I've been told that there must be a first time for everything. So here goes. And, please, George, don't pan my act. Remember that as a columnist I still retain my simon — pure amateur standing. And anyway you're in on a pass!

It would be more pleasant if we could begin with the third or seventh time. Just skipping the first. Then we'd know what it's all about.

Certainly I didn't know the first time I sang before an audience. I was no operatic prima donna upon that stage, but a movie actress greeting theatre-goers "in person." It seemed to me so silly to mumble inanities about "I — hope — you — like — my — picture," that I determined to give the paying guests more than a mumble for their money. So I told the "Professor" to sound his A. And I sang a song.

Actually that little number was the tidal turning that carried me from the screen to grand opera. A generous audience gave the girl an encouraging hand. I began to pay attention to my voice, and plunged into a strenuous course of musical study which still continues.

Anyway that "personal appearance" caused me to step from before the movie cameras to behind operatic footlights. I believe the accomplishment is unique in theatrical history, although now going into reverse, and turning from opera to screen. I join Grace Moore, Lily Pons, Gladys Swarthout and the others who seem to agree that the future brilliance and beauty of opera will be reflected to the millions' multitudes through the movie medium.

Thus far screen song has been confined mostly to operettas. But now the time is at hand when full-fledged grand opera will be presented pictorially. And why not? Opera, both in song and story, has been popular for centuries. Romance, drama, tragedy and comedy have always held the popular imagination. Operatic legend lends itself exquisitely to the medium of motion pictures.

University Hi Regulars Battle For Positions

New Men Push Vets In Fight for First Team Berths

Many new names are finding themselves in the position of likely starters on the undefeated University high football team as competition for regular positions becomes keener.

The Blue and White team, which started the season with only five veterans from last year's team, has improved so rapidly, to a man, that every day the problem of selecting his eleven best men becomes more perplexing to Coach Jack Sterrett. At the present time he is able to start two teams of approximately equal offensive and defensive strength.

Competition for the line positions finds John McAllister, Ernie Krogh, Bruce Alderman and Paul Fuhrmeister all battling it out for regular end positions. At tackles Co-Capt. Bob Carson seems to be holding down the one post with a nip and tuck battle for the other post being waged between Bernie Miltner and Russ Bulechek.

So far Ed Brender and Bob Campion have shown the most class at the guards, with Cy Beye improving so rapidly that he may get a regular assignment soon. Bruce Blackstone displaced Bill Boiler as regular center last week, but the fight for this position is as yet undecided.

A wealth of good backs makes it a difficult task to select the ball carrying quartet. At the present time, the first string backfield seems to be Ham Ries at quarterback, Duane Carson and Don Bridenstine at halves and either Louis Shimon, Owen Morgan, Ed Burns or Clarence Hightshoe at the fullback post. There is also a chance that Burns or Hightshoe might be used in a halfback capacity.

Unable to Practice, Larry Kelley Signs To Play Pro Ball

BOSTON, Oct. 20 (AP)—Larry Kelley, the Yale All-American who rejected a handsome National league offer several months ago, today agreed to be a commuting end for the Boston Shamrocks of the American professional football league.

He will make his professional debut here Sunday against the Pittsburgh Americans. Manager George Kenneally plans to use "Larry the Great" at left end, in place of the injured Francis (Red) Fleming.

Kelley, a teacher-coach at Peddie school, will not be able to practice with the Shamrocks, but will fly from Hightstown, N. J., to take part in the five remaining games on the Shamrocks' schedule.

Quad Football Team Defeats Rival, 32 to 0

Exceptional talent in passing gave Upper B a 32 to 0 decision over Upper D in a Quad touch football game yesterday.

The victors began their offensive early, connecting for two touchdowns in the first half, Bill Decker doing the heaving to Howard Ely and John Vogt for the counters. Failures at conversion from placement by Decker kept the score at 12 to 0 at half time.

A rapid succession of completed passes overwhelmed the undermanned Upper D aggregation in the final period. A fumble recovered by Vogt followed by a triple pass play made possible a third touchdown for the winners. The extra point was also being added via the aerial route, Morris to Baily.

The winners repeatedly took to the air in the final minutes of play, the Upper D men failing to possess the ball for any length of time. A heavy, Ely to Decker was good for another tally and the final points were chalked on an interception by Morris, who lateraled to Purvis who completed the scoring.

Garnering two touchdowns and two conversions from placement, Bill Decker led the scoring with 14 points. Howard Ely, John Vogt and Bob Reed were other standouts in the strong Upper-B attack.

Kelley Meets With Bush

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Mike J. Kelley, owner of the Minneapolis American association baseball club last night said the question of Donie Bush staying with the club as manager will be answered following a conference between them tomorrow.

Kelly Still At Halfback Post With Regulars

Freshman Outfit Gains Through Line With Enemy Plays

Coach Irl Tubbs sent his University of Iowa football team through a scrimmage session with the freshman squad last night and showed his varsity players what they can expect in the way of offensive tactics from Michigan when they meet the Wolverines next Saturday in the annual Dad's Day game.

It was the first time that the Hawkeyes have had a look at the Michigan plays and the frosh went through them for several good gains. The Hawks are being groomed to meet the running attack of the visitors, the brunt of which will be carried by Hercules Renda, 5 foot, four inch backfield ace. Renda, despite his stature, is one of the hardest backs in the Big Ten to tackle.

The Iowa mentor expressed satisfaction with the Hawkeye passing attack and it is likely that the fans at Saturday's game will see plenty of passes thrown by the home team. With Renda and Trosko, five foot nine inches, in the Wolverine backfield, the northerners are not expected to present too tough a pass defense for the air-minded Hawks.

Yesterday's lineup was much the same as that which Tubbs has been using during the workouts this week. Bill Kelly, Chicago sophomore, continued to hold down Olson's place in the Iowa backfield while the latter is recovering from an injured foot. Olson's foot is still in a cast but he is expected to be ready for action Saturday if needed.

Buzz Dean and Dick Chambers, other injured members of the Iowa squad were still on the sidelines. Chambers will be out of the lineup for several weeks but Dean will be ready for action this week end. Before the scrimmage with the freshmen, Tubbs sent his men through a long signal and ball handling drill and spent a great deal of time on blocking and tackling.

Remote Control
LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Johnny Howell, Nebraska quarterback, and Eldon McClravy, fullback, don't get together these days but they keep in touch. They are two rooms apart in a hospital here and carry on conversations by shouting out the windows. They may talk about the Minnesota game in which both were hurt although McClravy had to be convinced by pictures that he played.

Wolverine Powerhouse

FRED JANKE
When the universities of Michigan and Iowa meet on the gridiron in Iowa stadium Saturday, it will be their first meeting since Michigan defeated a strong Hawkeye outfit, 10-6 at Ann Arbor in 1933, Ossie Solem's second year at Iowa.

When the visitors attempt to duplicate the feats of Evarhardus, Renner & Co. this weekend, Fred Janke, pictured above, will be one of the mainstays in the tough Michigan line. Janke is a junior, having won one letter already at the Wolverine institution. He stands six feet, one-half inch tall in his stocking feet, and weighs in at 208 pounds. Janke is 20 years old and hails from Jackson, Mich.

Hod Shots

By G. K. HODENFIELD

Quoting from the University of Michigan student newspaper—"Minnesota caught more Michigan passes than Michigan did, and each set off a touchdown fuse. Michigan's line opened up like the Red Sea and Mosses (reincarnated in Christianson, Buhler, Uram, Gmitrov, Van Every, etc.) paraded through."

Maybe Michigan's line wasn't as strong as expected in the game with the Gophers but then, what team, in recent years with the possible exception of Nebraska, has been able to hold out against the Golden Horde? Especially when they're peeved. 52-0. (Remember)

George Nissen, former national tumbling champion, Xavier Leonard and their act are evidently going over in a big way at the Greater Texas Exposition. Following are some excerpts from a letter received yesterday by former Sports Editor John Mooney:

"After Jacky Brown left us this summer and went to Budapest to attend school, we had to break in a new man for our act. . . The Hawaiian trip was cancelled on account of the war over there so we were a bit disappointed at first, but we got a lucky break in Chicago this summer when we got booked for the Chicago Charter Jubilee's 'Carnival of Lakes.'

"Larry Griswold was doing comedy and trick diving there and promoted us too. It was a big water show very similar to our Dolphin Shows only put on outside at the Lagoon Theatre on the old World's fair grounds where Larry worked during the fair.

"Since then we have been going full blast. We just finished six weeks at the Pan-American exposition over in Dallas and are now on our third week here at the 'Ringside Club' in Ft. Worth."

"Shorty" Nissen
Both of the former Hawkeyes wanted to know all the latest news from the Iowa campus and expressed the hope that they could be here for the Homecoming game.

Here's a challenge to the Iowa pep group. Ossie Solem, former Iowa coach who is having sensational results with his new team at Syracuse, gives all the credit to the school spirit at the eastern institution. He says he could bring in a North Pole system (whatever that is) and they would grab on to it and understand it immediately.

Seems to me that a good show of Iowa spirit could do a lot to help the team this year. The P.E.P. and A.F.I. are doing all they can but the student body isn't behind them. Dad's day would be a fine time to start.

Williams Puts Varsity Cagers Through Drill

Coach Rollie Williams' varsity cagers were put through a series of warmup exercises and double pass plays last night in the field house for the second in a series of pre-season workouts.

Practice sessions have been divided into two shifts. One is at 4:15 on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons and the other is at 7:15 on Monday and Wednesday nights.

The addition of Captain Sam Johnson, Kenny Suesens, and Elmer Bratten to last night's practice brought the number of lettermen who have reported for practice up to five. Benny Stephens and Floyd DeHeer, who is out for football, have not reported as yet.

Coach Rollie Williams and his assistant "Pops" Harrison are working on a new attack which they hope to use this year. With the elimination of the center jump, except to start the game and the second half, the lack of height will not be a serious detriment to any team. For this reason speed, clever ball handling, and swift, short passes are being stressed.

Eldon Parizek Lost for Game With McKinley

Little Hawks Favored In Contest With Parlor City 11

Without the services of Eldon Parizek, ace ball carrier, Iowa City's Little Hawks journey to Hill park in Cedar Rapids tonight in quest of a victory over McKinley High of Cedar Rapids.

Parizek, who has borne the bulk of the local team's ball totting assignments thus far, will make the trip, but will probably see no action because of a bad charley-horse.

Due to this fact, the success of the Hawkleet offense will depend a great deal on the passing arms of DeWayne Justice and Joe McGinnis. Ted McLaughlin, hard running back who has been on the injury list for two weeks, should help fill the gap left by Parizek's injury.

The Orange and Black of McKinley feature a running offense starring Carr and Person. In previous games these two backfield aces have established themselves as dangerous threats from any point on the gridiron.

The record of the Parlor City aggregation is not particularly impressive as they have won one, tied one, and lost three. One of their losses was to Clinton high, a team which the Hawkleets played a tie game with a few weeks ago. Because of this fact the local team is established as a pre-game favorite.

In this week's practices the following men have stamped themselves as probable starters tonight for Iowa City high. Paul and Walsh at the ends, Mueller and Hirt at the tackle posts, Snider at guard with McLaughlin, the other guard, as the fifth man in the backfield, and Jenkinson center. The backfield is composed of Bill Buckley and Justice at the halves, McGinnis at quarterback and Dicker at fullback.

Twenty-eight men will compose the travelling squad of the Little Hawks. They are: Paul, Mueller, McLaughlin, Hirt, Jenkinson, Snider, Walsh, McGinnis, Justice, Miller, Bill Buckley, Bob Buckley, Burger, Kerr, Duros, Wright, Stimmel, Beck, Crumley, Heacock, Dicker, Parizek, Devine, Sleichter, Parker, Wayne Putnam, Kimmel and Lewis. The team will leave the high school gym at 5:20 this afternoon.

War Admiral Won't Run
LAUREL, Md. (AP)—George Conway, trainer of War Admiral, king of the three year olds, said yesterday the colt would not run in the $7,500 added Maryland handicap Saturday. War Admiral has been out of racing since he split a hoof in winning the Belmont stakes about four months ago. He previously had won the Derby and Preakness.

DiMaggio Almost Misses Train On Homeward Jaunt

CHICAGO, Oct. 20 (AP)—Joe DiMaggio needed all his speed and some cooperation from a railroad today to make train connections on his homeward journey.

The brilliant young New York Yankee outfielder's train from the east was a little late. He had to race for a taxicab to change stations, and managed to scramble aboard a San Francisco bound train which—to his great surprise—had been held seven minutes for him.

Asked on the run about his contract for next season, he answered over his shoulder: "I'll wait until Colonel Ruppert sends it to me."

Frosh Leads In First Round Of Shot Put Event

With varsity football and heavy class schedules limiting the number of entrants to eight athletes, the first round of the DeHeer shot put contest was completed yesterday afternoon at the fieldhouse.

Leading the field with a toss of 38 feet 2 1/4 inches is Fred Martin, freshman from Hampton. Sam Johnson, varsity basketball captain, of Cedar Rapids is second with 38 feet and F. Sulentic Duluth Minn., sophomore, and William Leuz, second year man from Iowa City, were third and fourth with respective heaves of 36 feet 2 inches, and 35 feet 4 inches.

The DeHeer meet is an annual event open to all university students who are not varsity track letter winners. The winner of the meet receives the DeHeer cup and is eligible to keep it only until the completion of the next contest. Once an individual has won the trophy he is no longer eligible to participate in the event.

The trophy carries the name of Floyd DeHeer because he is the holder of the all university shot put record. The record set last spring, is 48 feet 3 1/2 inches. There is little possibility of the record being broken this season. Each contestant is allowed four tosses and the best distance obtained in the four is accepted in the final judging.

The meet is under the supervision of Coach George Bresnahan and judged by Frances Cretz-meyer.

With the completion of the shot put event on Thursday, Iowa tracketers will look forward to the all-university championship meet on Oct. 21. This meet will be held in the Fieldhouse and individual champions will be selected in all track events.

St. Louis to Have No Night Baseball During 1938 Season

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 20 (AP)—There will be no night baseball at Sportsman's park in 1938, officials of the St. Louis Browns and the St. Louis Cardinals decided today at a meeting.

A statement signed by President Bredon of the National league Cardinals and President Donald L. Barnes of the American league Browns, ended with the optimistic note that "both clubs are hopeful that lights will be erected in 1939 by a joint undertaking."

Homer Harris and Nile Kinnick, pictured above are two Hawkeye stars that will come in for a lot of attention Saturday when the University of Iowa Hawkeyes take the field against the Wolverines from the University of Michigan.

Harris played two years as a star end for the Hawks before shifting to the tackle post when Henry Luebecke was injured early in the season. Last year he was elected captain and most valuable player on the team by his mates. Kinnick, although only a sophomore is one of the outstanding players in the Big Ten conference.

Cleveland Indians Name Oscar Vitt to Replace Steve O'Neill

New Manager Of Tribe Has Good Record

Pilot Leaves Newark For Job at Helm In Big Leagues

CLEVELAND, Oct. 20 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians today named Oscar Vitt to replace Steve O'Neill as manager and gave the Newark International league club pilot his first managerial opportunity in major league baseball.

Club President Alva Bradley announced Vitt's appointment under a two year contract, terms of which were undisclosed. Bradley said O'Neill had been offered a post as a Cleveland scout.

"This is one thing I don't like about being in baseball," Bradley said, "but the show must go on."

Climaxes Ambition

The 47-year-old Californian said at his home in Oakland that the appointment climaxed an ambition he cherished ever since his major league playing ended in 1921. Vitt broke in with Detroit in 1912 and wound up his big time third base chores with the Boston Red Sox in 1921.

O'Neill, on the receiving end of some of baseball's most noted barbs, piloted the Indians since August, 1935, when he succeeded Walter Johnson. His replacement was frequently rumored since last summer. Cleveland finished fourth in the last American league campaign.

O'Neill May Be Scout

O'Neill said he would not become a Cleveland scout if he could obtain a better offer.

"The owners think they're acting for the best," O'Neill said, "so all I can do is wish them luck. Naturally, I'm disappointed. Nobody likes to lose his job."

Vitt's selection came as a surprise not only to baseball observers generally but to officials of the Newark club, a New York Yankee farm.

"We picked Vitt on his record," Bradley said.

The new Tribe chieftain, whose Newark club this year wound up 25 1-2 games ahead of Montreal for the International pennant and then knocked off Columbus, Ohio, in the little world series, started his playing career on the west coast.

Before Vitt went to Newark, he managed Salt Lake City, Hollywood and Oakland of the Pacific Coast league, the latter club in 1935. He won pennants in 1929 and 1930 with Hollywood.

Wilson House Beats Gables in Intramural Touch Football Tilt

In what may prove to be the banner game of the co-op dorm touch football season, a surprising Wilson team passed its way to a 6-0 triumph over the highly touted Gables eight yesterday afternoon.

Both teams managed to suppress each other's scoring attempts until the final quarter when Walker, Wilson captain, shot a flat forward pass to Cox in the end zone, climaxing a 40 yard march from midfield toward the Gables' goal. The attempted conversion pass was incomplete.

Gables' deepest thrust into Wilson territory came when Lemmen, Wilson back, took the ball on his own 25 and raced 60 yards around end to the Wilson 15 yard line where he was tagged by Cox as the first half ended.

Swimmers Meet To Plan Dolphin Show

All varsity and freshman swimmers will meet Sunday at Iowa Union for a final round-up on plans for the 18th annual Dolphin show, scheduled for Thanksgiving week end, Nov. 25, 26 and 27.

All questions concerning the presentation and function of the pageant will be answered for the freshmen by various varsity men. Bob Lowry, president of the Dolphin club, has announced that final plans will be completed and committees named Saturday morning.

LATEST NEWS FROM BIG TEN SQUADS

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 20 (AP)—With prospects of having Illinois at full offensive strength for the first time of the season against Michigan a week from Saturday, Coach Bob Zuppke added to the Illinois repertoire of plays again today. Jay Wardley, in shape for the first time this year, was the key man in most of the new formations.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 20 (AP)—Every player likely to get into action Saturday against Ohio State was used at length today in a long offensive scrimmage as Coach Lynn Waldorf worked to inject more life into Northwestern's running attack. Blocking assignments again were stressed, that phase of the Wildcat game having been held responsible for the failure of their star backs, Don Heap, Bernie Jefferson and Jack Ryan, to gain consistently.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20 (AP)—Coach Clark Shaughnessy started rebuilding Chicago's first string backfield today following the loss for the rest of the season of Fullback Fred Lehnhardt. Lehnhardt who suffered a severe knee injury in the Princeton game last week, was replaced today by Ed Volorz, previously a regular at halfback. Louis Letts paired up with Solmie Sherman at the halves, with Lew Hamity at quarter.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 20 (AP)—The University of Michigan completed strenuous drills for Saturday's game at Iowa by going through what Coach Harry Kipke termed "the best workout of the season."

The Wolverines had little difficulty in solving Iowa plays demonstrated by the reserves. The squad will leave for Saturday's game tomorrow night and will practice Friday at Davenport.

Rutgers Meets Old Nassau In Ancient Rivalry

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 20 (AP)—Rutgers hasn't beaten Princeton in football since the first of all intercollegiate gridiron struggles way back in 1869 but listen to the campus chatter this week and you'll get the idea Rutgers undergrads are looking for victory No. 2 on Saturday.

The most ancient of football rivalries will meet in Palmer stadium, Princeton, in the 35th game in their series. Princeton undoubtedly will be the favorite of the experts but that doesn't bother the boys who go to classes with the Scarlet warriors.

"They can't stop Bill Franavitch and Art Perry," said one enthusiastic sophomore. "Franavitch will pass them dizzy," said another. "Princeton ain't what she used to be," added a third. "We're due to win this one," chimed in another, and so on and so forth.

The reason for the optimism? Rutgers' record and the feeling there's power that hasn't been shown make the answer. The boys grant that the opponents to date — Susquehanna, Hampden-Sydney, Delaware and Springfield — have been minor teams but they still point to the undefeated, untied and unscored-on performance for four games as proof of lots of stuff.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 20 (AP)—Coach Francis Schmidt stressed offense today and ran his reserves through a series of Northwestern plays in Ohio State's first fair weather practice session of the week. Jim McDonald's ankle injury was healed, Schmidt said, and the big quarterback probably will be in the starting lineup against the Wildcats Saturday.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 20 (AP)—The University of Wisconsin football team displayed fire and dash in an offensive scrimmage today that also included a rehearsal of defense maneuvers. Coach Harry Stuhldreher selected 35 players who will leave here tomorrow for a game with the University of Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh Saturday.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 20 (AP)—Coach Bo McMillin sought to develop reserve guard strength today on Indiana's football team, with regulars Jim Sirtosky and Joe Szabo unable to play in the Cincinnati game Saturday because of injuries.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 20 (AP)—With an open date on Purdue's football schedule this week, Coach Mal Elward tried his hand at new experiments today in an effort to find a more powerful combination. The Boiler-makers next see action against Iowa Oct. 23.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 20 (AP)—The doors to the University of Minnesota practice field were closed again today as Coach Bernie Bierman sought secrecy in preparing for the next game with Notre Dame, here, Oct. 30. Reports were that the Golden Gopher coach was experimenting with his backfield men to find one capable of filling the place left vacant by the injured Andy Uram.

NEW OLD GOLDS

By FREDERICK GRAWE

Continuing the series of New Old Golds, after a brief intermission, we now present Mike Enich of Boone, a unanimous choice for all-state fullback last year.

Mike has played football for Boone for the past four years, two years as a halfback and two years as a fullback. In 1935, Mike's junior year, he was chosen as all-state fullback by Jack North, but the IDPA placed him on the second team. Last year, however, he was selected as fullback on both teams.

Standing six feet one-half inch tall, and weighing 210 pounds, Mike makes quite a formidable appearance when slamming into the center of a line, or lingering in back of the forward wall waiting for some unfortunate ball carrier who happens to break through. Enich is fast for his size and can get around remarkably well. He also is an effective passer, having done most of the passing for his high school team.

Mike has been showing up very well in practice so far this season, and the coaches expect him to be a great fullback in a year or two, one of the things that Coach Tubbs' double wing-back system needs.

Dave Armbruster Announces Novice Swimming Meet

The all-university novice swimming meet will be held next Tuesday, Oct. 26 at 7:15 in the field-house pool. Dave Armbruster, swimming coach, has announced this meet as being something new in university swimming. All men in the university, other than varsity or freshman letter winners, are eligible for participation.

Entries may be placed on bulletin boards at the pool or gymnasium entrance or filed at the physical education office.

The swimming events are the 40 yard free style; 100 yard back stroke; 100 yard breast stroke; 100 yard free style, and a 220 yard free style. In diving, four forms will be required: the swan, the back, a front and back jack-knife and one optional dive.

'Best Team Wins Ball Games' Star Coach of L.S.U. Says Playing On Emotions of Players is 'Bunk'

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 20 (AP)—Bernie Moore said today the method of playing on football players' emotions is passe.

"That's the bunk these days," Bernie declared through cigarette smoke in his modern, airy office at Louisiana State.

He sat back in his swivel chair surrounded by electric buttons and volumes of biography.

"Best Team Wins"

"If your team is better grounded fundamentally you'll win ball games," he said. "If it isn't, you're going to get beat."

But still the thought persisted that Moore must inspire his men. Peck in 1933, he first gained fame as coach of the L.S.U. track team. The national intercollegiate track and field championship went to his handful of entrants, including the great Jack Torrance and Glen Hardin. But a little fellow named Matt Gordy really won the title by jumping 14 feet in the pole vault — six inches higher than he ever vaulted before.

Then, the L.S.U. gridders played a game against Texas two weeks ago that seemed surely inspired.

"No," said Moore, "that's not inspiration, at least not from any effort on my part. The boys remembered Texas tied us last year and probably kept L.S.U. from an unqualified invitation to the Rose Bowl. Nothing I could have done would have caused the team to come up as high as they did for Texas."

Moore said he could "only point out what mistakes we're making and suggest remedies." He recommended good material and hard work.

"We appeal to the pride of our boys at all times," he said.

Moore fought as a non-commissioned officer in the Argonne and St. Mihiel engagement of the World war. His football doctrine includes lessons in precision he learned in the army.

Wrigley Wants to Confer With Lazzeri To Decide on Definite Assignment

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO, Oct. 20 (AP)—Tony Lazzeri, late of the world's champion New York Yankees, may wind up as a first lieutenant to Philip K. Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs.

Owner Wrigley, talking today of his desire to move Lazzeri into the Cub organization, was indefinite on just which spot the former Yankee would fill in the ranks. He revealed that he never had met Lazzeri, but he has a great admiration for him, because of his desire to go higher in the baseball business.

"There are a lot of places in baseball for intelligent, aggressive and enthusiastic men," Wrigley said, "in addition to those on the playing field."

Tony Coming to Chicago

"There are a number of places that he could fit into in our organization. Understand, I never have met him. That is why I cannot do business with him over the long distance phone. That is why nothing definite can be done until he has time to come to Chicago and talk things over."

It is Wrigley's idea that organization is a tremendous need in baseball.

Needs Good Men

"The sport needs good men in control," he added. "When I started to seek Lazzeri's services, I was seeking him for the ability that I think he has, not because I am trying to fill a certain place.

"When I saw in the papers that Lazzeri was figuring on retiring, and that he wanted to go higher up in the business, that appealed to me. I thought it was the smart thing for a man to do. My own idea, too, about my place in baseball—when we win the National league pennant and the world's series—I think I'll feel that the objective has been gained, and then I can step out."

"Aggressive, Intelligent Player"

"Lazzeri has the reputation as an aggressive, intelligent baseball man. I thought there must be room in our organization for such a man. Where? Well, that will be up to Tony for the most part after we have talked things over."

"Maybe he could be a good influence on young ball players for us, even before they come up to play for the Cubs. Maybe if a team needed a good kick in the pants, he would be the one to get down on the coaching lines and do that."

Owner Wrigley, however, makes nothing definite. He is staking one big plot and marking it "reserved for Lazzeri." He confirmed the report that the Cubs had asked, indirectly, that the Yankees give Lazzeri his outright release, so he could with propriety talk business with him.

Gymnastic Outlook Dark Coach Baumgartner Needs More Men To Try Out for Team

With prospects for a winning gymnastic team at the lowest ebb in years, Coach Baumgartner has issued a plea to all university men interested in gymnastics, to report either to him or Harold Briceland at the fieldhouse immediately.

Although the gym season does not get under way until next semester, prospects will be put through a period of extensive training, with fundamentals being stressed at all times.

The Hawkeyes, with a Big Ten title at stake, will go against conference rivals that boast the strongest teams in their histories. The present material at Iowa is the poorest in years, with only one minor letterman from last year's squad reporting.

Besides those reporting for varsity work, Baumgartner would like to see all freshmen interested in gymnastics report whether they have had any previous training or not.

Besides participating in conference dual meets, the Hawkeye gym team enters the Big Ten championship meet, and the past few years have sent men to the National Inter-Collegiate championships.

F. D. R. Warns Farm Leaders Against Loans

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 (AP)—President Roosevelt, informed persons said tonight, has cautioned farm leaders against pushing crop loans to a point where the drain on federal revenues becomes too great.

Certain of the leaders called on him today to ask 60 cents a bushel loan to improve prices. While there was no word as to whether their plea would be granted, Mr. Roosevelt was understood to have raised the question whether the budget would permit wide extension of loans at this time.

Air Club Considers Possible Purchase Of Another Glider

Plans for obtaining a second glider were discussed at a regular meeting of the Aeronautical club in the cafeteria of Iowa Union last night.

Emblems for the club were suggested, but no action was taken. The project will be considered at the next meeting Wednesday at 7:15 p.m. in the mechanical engineering laboratory.

If you're thinking of writing a book—and who isn't these days—Charles Williams, who wandered into the office yesterday afternoon, wants a collaborator on a book he's planning. . . . The subject matter will be the wanderings of an "intellectual" hobo, for that's what Williams is and has been since he was 10.

But now he's willing to settle down and lead what he calls a "more sedentary life." . . . He's never attended school, he asserts; yet his favorite authors are Hugo, Scott and Poe. . . . He's kept an almost constant record of his travels for more years than he cares to remember. . . .

Last night he was a guest at the police station, but today you may see him looking for a "steady" job—or and a collaborator. . . . But he's a bit skeptical of W.P.A. . . . A diary notation from his experiences on the North Dakota projects are none-too-encouraging. . . .

"The pay is $21 a month," he wrote. "There isn't any drinking allowed, but the bosses are always drunk! That's fairness!" . . . Williams thinks Mr. Roosevelt might do well to look into the matter. . . .

And, if you've ever noticed, it's the chaps who dish out the most embarrassing jokes who prove the poorest sports when the shoe is on the other foot. . . .

I'm told the Nov. 4 school election will have one of the largest turnouts in recent years and is sure to be a successful vote. . . . All of which seems to be a wise move since PWA gifts for 45 per cent of a building's cost are rarities these days. . . .

And, in passing, what local business man has written a letter which appeared in last month's American magazine and which will net him some $25?

It was rumored downtown last night that a local attorney took a flyer into the market yesterday, sensing an upturn and cleaned up enough to take his family to an early round-the-world cruise. . . .

Of all the movie actresses I've seen none has quite the girl-I'd-like-to-know air of Sonja Henie. . . . And, in passing, did you know Tyrone Power is the fourth in consecutive generations who've had the same name and who've been an actor? . . .

At Indiana university they've found records of high school grade averages are no indication of what the college career will be. . . . Forty-five per cent of high ranking high schoolites make low grades in the university, it was found. . . .

The building committee—H. J. Reichardt, M. B. Guthrie, Herbert Bates and Henry Louis—issued a report at last night's meeting on the results of some 200 questionnaires on the question of a building and remodeling program at the local club house. A final report will be given at the next meeting.

A charter member of the local lodge, Frank Hatch of Dressbach, Minn., spoke briefly at the meeting, which was followed by a buffet steak supper.

Red Cross In Drive Johnson Co. Begins On Farm And Home Accident Prevention

The third annual observance of farm and home accident prevention week will be held in Johnson county next week under the direction of the county chapter of the American Red Cross, Dr. E. W. Paulus, chairman of the committee in charge, announced the plans yesterday.

The Cub Scouts in the city and the school pupils in the country have been distributing literature in the last few weeks listing needless accidents in the home and on the farm.

Posters will be on display throughout the city to remind citizens to take precautions to prevent unnecessary accidents.

"During 1936," Dr. Paulus stated, "death from home accidents became the largest of the four principal classes into which accidental deaths are divided. Approximately 38,500 or 35 per cent of the total were killed in home accidents. Twenty-five per cent of all fatal accidents are caused by falls, and 74 per cent of these falls occur in the home."

A local restaurant paid cash to the man for uniforms which were never delivered, it was reported. Investigation through the company revealed that the Affiliated Apparel company has no salesman by the name of Bondon and does not manufacture the type of merchandise reportedly sold.

They Did Not Die In Vain Guinea Pig Autopsy Adds New Clue In Investigation of 9 Drug Deaths

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 20 (AP)—An autopsy on two guinea pigs which died after treatment with an elixir of sulfanilamide added a clue today in an investigation of nine deaths here.

Dr. I. A. Nelson and Dr. H. A. Ruprecht performed the autopsy on the guinea pigs, which died after receiving triple doses of sulfanilamide in a solution of diethylene glycol, and said the condition of the tiny animals' kidney tissues was like that of the tissues of persons who died here after treatment.

The two physicians are members of a Tulsa county medical society committee named to determine whether the liquid compound could have been responsible for the nine deaths.

Five deaths in St. Louis have been attributed tentatively to the same form of drug.

Of the finding here, Dr. Nelson said, "A direct conclusion can not be drawn from this yet. We must wait until we get a very pure sample of diethylene glycol and use it in a test on other guinea pigs."

A gallon jug of the sulfanilamide solution was seized at a drug store here today on a court order issued by Federal Judge Franklin E. Kinnamer.

Discuss Issues Before Public Sanitation Expert Talks On Proposed Law; Maresh Speaks

The proposed milk ordinance and school bond issue were the subjects of discussion last night at a public meeting under the auspices of the League of Women Voters.

The meeting in the Iowa City high school auditorium was in charge of Mrs. O. C. Irwin, president.

R. D. McAllister, head of the committee on milk sanitation of the state board of health, briefly outlined the proposed ordinance of the United States Public Health service. He applied the articles of the ordinance to the local dairies and producers, basing his information on the reports of recent inspections.

"The saying, 'Cleanliness is next to godliness,' certainly applies to dairies," Mr. McAllister said. He emphasized particularly the necessity of clean rooms and utensils. Good lighting, ventilation, proper screening and excellent drainage were the factors considered necessary in the maintenance of such conditions.

Mr. McAllister also stressed the importance of a milk inspector. He explained an inspector's work and its effect on the sanitary conditions of the dairies and producers in the community.

Mr. McAllister's address was followed by a period of open discussion and questions.

Dr. George Maresh, president of the city school board, presented the facts of the school bond issue which is to be decided Nov. 4.

Dr. Maresh explained the purpose of the double proposition ballot, giving a general outline of both propositions. The question of a central location was explained and discussed. Dr. Maresh was assisted by Attorney Herbert Ries.

Heads Vary

No Regularity Found By Hat-fitting Gadget

CHICAGO (AP)—For fifty-eight years Fred Grede has been clamping a brutal looking gadget onto the skulls of judges, politicians, doctors and prize fighters to locate the bumps between their ears just to make hats that fit.

The "normal" head is a perfect oval but Grede has yet to find one. Heads come round, lopsided and balloon shaped, he finds, and some of the most brilliant brains are encased in irregular domes.

Grede doesn't try to connect character with bumpology. But he did notice three of his customers. "They were the only ones whose foreheads registered larger than the rest of their skulls," he explains. "All three died in an insane asylum."

HOSTESS HINTS

Many a dull meal is brightened by the addition of dates, the kind you eat, we mean. Get your first recipe from the following ones, and you'll be bound to call for a second.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
 When Jerry Warriner returns from a vacation and discovers that his lovely wife, Lucy, has been out all night with her voice teacher, he will not believe that he has broken down and they had to stay at an inn. Lucy and Jerry quarrel and that leads to a divorce, with Lucy winning an interlocutory decree. They both still love each other but are too proud to admit it. Jerry starts running around with Toots Binswanger, an exotic night club dancer, and in retaliation Lucy quickly announces her engagement to Dan Leeson, handsome young Oklahoma oil magnate. Dan's mother, Mrs. Leeson, is a snob who looks down on Lucy and she asks Jerry about it. Jerry denies it and stoutly maintains that Lucy's reputation is of the best. As he is leaving, Lucy murmurs her thanks. He winces at her. "Finest bit of perjury I've done in years," he whispers.

one thing I will say for Jerry. He's never dull." Lucy said, "I know he's so silly." Jerry said, "I know he's expected to find me in Armand's arms. He must have been terribly disappointed." "You know," Patsy said pointedly, "you and Jerry have had some grand times together. It's a shame to see them go. But then, a girl really wants dependability and security, doesn't she?" Lucy sighed. "I suppose so." "Then she should buy an annuity," was Patsy's biting comment. "It would be more fun than Dan Leeson. But why should I talk? I'm not going to marry him." Lucy suddenly made a decision. "Neither am I," she announced firmly. "I can't. I'm still in love with that lunatic hollivell who acts like a maniac." Lucy strode to the phone, called Armand and asked him to come to her apartment right away. While she was waiting for him to arrive she wrote a note to Dan breaking their engagement. "Will you please give this to Dan?" she asked Patsy. "I simply can't face him." When Armand arrived she explained her decision to him. "You know," she smiled, "I still love my husband." Armand shrugged his shoulders. The whims of American women were beyond his ken. "Will you please talk to him, Armand?" Lucy pleaded. "Try to convince him that the night we spent at the inn was entirely innocent. It means so much to me." "How much does it mean?" Armand asked significantly. Lucy stared in amazement. "I cannot help it," Armand protested. "The pupils are not so plentiful and — well, I must eat, you know." Without a word Lucy went to her handbag, took out some bills and handed them to Armand. "Here," she said coldly. "This is all I have." Armand bowed. "You are very generous," he said. "I shall go to Mr. Warriner immediately —."

Chapter Four

Several days later Aunt Patsy looked across the table as Lucy slipped her breakfast coffee. "Seen the paper this morning?" she asked. Lucy shook her head. "Well, take a look at this," Patsy said, handing the paper to her niece. Staring out at her from the newspaper page, Lucy saw a photograph of Jerry and a beautiful young girl. They were wearing tennis clothes and carrying rackets. The caption asked, "Love Set?" Lucy was startled, of course, but she tried to conceal it from Patsy. "Oh yes," she said nonchalantly. "That's Barbara Vance. You know who she is, don't you?"

Patsy nodded. "The madcap heiress. Isn't that what the papers usually call her? What I want to know is, what is she doing with Jerry?" "Entertaining him, running around town with him and, I expect, falling in love with him." "You can't tell all that from just looking at this picture can you?" Patsy asked. "No," Lucy said, "but some of our mutual friends have been talking me about them. Seems Jerry's having a pack of fun with her." Lucy sniffed. "She shouldn't have her head turned by that, though. I've seen him have fun with a jumping jack." "Well," Patsy commented, "she looks all right to me." "There's one consolation, at least," Lucy said. "This will keep him away from that awful Toots person."

Patsy smiled wryly. "One more consolation like that, she opined, and you'll burst a blood vessel." Lucy stamped into her bedroom and slammed the door. At three o'clock that afternoon Jerry pushed the bell at the apartment of Armand Leeson, a Japanese house boy answered his ring. "My name's Jerry Warriner," Jerry explained. "My wife here?" "Very sorry, please," the Japanese boy said. "I do not know," he said. "Well, I'll soon find out," Jerry said and started to push past the Jap. The servant barred his way. "You cannot go in there, please," he remonstrated. Jerry glowered. "Who's going to stop me?" he demanded. "Me stop you," the Jap explained. Jerry tried to push by again but the Jap grabbed his arm, twisted it expertly and Jerry found himself stretched out on the floor. "Very sorry, please," the Jap apologized. "I told you —"

Jerry jumped to his feet and grabbed the Jap around the waist. "Me jai jitsu, too," he said. "Banzai!" And he tossed the Jap into a corner. Jerry threw open the door and strode into the living room. Instead of the intimate scene he expected to find, Jerry stared at a room full of people listening to Lucy sing while Armand played her accompaniment. Embarrassed, Jerry quickly sat in a chair at the rear of the room and tilted it back against the wall. It slipped on the polished floor and Jerry crashed to the floor. "Honestly, Patsy," Lucy told her aunt later, "he was a scream. If you'd seen him when his chair tipped over —" Lucy went off into a gale of laughter. Patsy nodded approvingly. "That's generous," he said. "I shall go to Mr. Warriner immediately —."

The doorbell interrupted him and they heard Aunt Patsy greeting Jerry in the foyer. "He mustn't see you here," Jerry whispered. "Quick! Hide in here." Lucy pushed the bewildered Armand nuzzly. "I was a prize lunatic and I'm sorry." "That's all right," Lucy smiled. "I enjoyed it." "It must be that guy Armand. Every time I think of him I see red." Lucy laughed again. "Then you'll accept my apology?" Jerry persisted. "I know I made a blue ribbon sap of myself and I'm sure I embarrassed you beyond words." "Of course I accept it. Forget it," Lucy assured him. The bell rang again and Aunt Patsy greeted Dan Leeson and his mother. Jerry jumped from his chair, startled. "Oh — oh," he whispered. "I've caused you enough trouble for one day. They'll have a fit if they know you're entertaining your ex-husband. I'll duck until they're gone." He tiptoed swiftly to the bedroom door and, before Lucy could stop him, ducked inside. Lucy, Dan Leeson and his mother had hardly finished exchanging greetings when there came a loud crashing noise from the bedroom. "What on earth was that?" asked the startled Mrs. Leeson. "Oh — someone is — someone is cleaning up in there," Lucy explained. There was a sound of splintering wood, the crash of glass-ware and suddenly the door burst open and Armand looking much the worse for the wear, came tearing out. "Don't forget to touch second," Mrs. Leeson's placid advice as he flew past. Jerry came rushing out in hot pursuit. Mrs. Leeson rose with icy calm. "Well," she said. "Never did I expect anything like this from you, Lucy." Dan Leeson bounded to his feet and shook his finger at Lucy. "If you came to me on your knees I wouldn't forgive you for this," he stormed. "Our engagement is off!"

As Dan and his mother started for the door Aunt Patsy detained them. She handed Dan Lucy's note breaking their engagement. "You can't fire us," she said. "We quit."
