Johnson County Lawyers Will Vote Tonight on Integrated Bar

Man To Become State Law on Approval Of Counties

The Johnson County Bar association at a special meeting tonight will cast its vote in the county-wide bar poll to determine the fate of the integrated bar. The group will convene at the person hotel dining room for a 30 dinner preceding the vote on the proposed plan. The integrated bar plan as outlined by the state bar association sponsors includes formation of an organization to which all practicing lawyers and attorneys belong. The plan would provide for a board to receive complaints against members and render decisions. A majority of county bar members approve the plan, it will be made a state statute. Officers of the county organization are W. F. Murphy, president; Ingalls Swisher, vice-president; A. O. Leff, secretary; H. W. Vestermark, treasurer.

Youngsters Learn Tricks of Trade

Aerial Piracy Confronts Europe With Crisis In Mediterranean Region

Stiff Resistance Greets Rebels' Latest Attempt

Infantry Battles Fail To Alter Line South Of French Border

HENDAYE, FRANCO - SPANISH FRONTIER, Oct. 25 (AP) — The insurgent drive to split a wedge between Catalonia and Valencia encountered stiff resistance today along the Aragon Front in northeast Spain. Frontier reports said the line extending more than 100 miles south from the French border to the Zaragoza sector remained virtually unchanged following bloody infantry battles near the Pyrenees and an artillery duel at Zuera, 15 miles north of Zaragoza.

Reconstruction Of American Legion Building To Start

Work on the reconstruction of the Iowa City American Legion building will begin this morning, after a postponement by the contractor who originally planned to begin yesterday. It is believed that the city may still obtain WPA funds to clear away the debris near the building. Such a grant would save approximately $1,800. The money which would have been used for clearing the debris away will be used in adding new features to the Legion building if the federal grant is forthcoming.

Unknown War Planes Bomb French Ships

Spain Declares Raiders, Marked in Black, Are Italian

PARIS, Oct. 25 (AP) — Aerial "piracy" confronted Europe with a new Mediterranean crisis tonight. One French vessel was bombed and sunk and another bombed and burned by planes marked with a black Maltese cross. Three planes shot down while raiding Barcelona were Italian, the Spanish government declared. The Spanish government embassy here said the black cross was the mark of the Spanish insurgent air force. Insurgent representatives said they could not describe the standard markings of their planes. A cross - marked air raider bombed and set fire to a French submarine chaser today just outside the port of Farnels, on the island of Minorca off the eastern coast of Spain, less than 48 hours after a similarly marked seaplane had sunk the French freighter Oued Mellah in the northern Mediterranean. Government officials who have insisted that the vital communication lines between France and her north Africa colonies must be protected said they considered the two incidents in as many days as "very serious."

Citizens Begin Charity Drive

Canvass for $19,890 Community Chest Commences

Two hundred and twenty-eight public-spirited citizens began Iowa City's annual drive for contributions to the community chest yesterday afternoon. Following a luncheon meeting at the Jefferson hotel which, according to Attorney Thomas E. Martin, campaign director, set a record for brevity and enthusiasm, the 113 workers attending joined those solicitors not present in the drive for $19,890. The raising of this fund will enable the work of six civil and public enterprises to be carried on during 1938. During the two-week campaign, 3,790 prospective contributors will be solicited. The names of these prospects were distributed to the eight divisional directors according to occupation at yesterday's meeting. Each director then made up assignments for his workers. Late yesterday it was learned at campaign headquarters, 110 S. Linn street, that one solicitor had already completed her assignment and had turned in the assignment cards for tabulation. All the cards on the first assignment are to be returned by Thursday evening.

The Spanish government dispatches reported three Italian trimotored bombers had been shot down in an attempt to raid Barcelona. An unofficial and unconfirmed report said a French freighter was sunk at Barcelona. A Valencia defense ministry communique said papers found in the wreck of one of the bombers proved they were Italian and came from the island base of Mallorca, near which the submarine chaser and the Oued Mellah were attacked. French frontier police and customs officers at Perpignan said the Maltese cross insignia was painted on insurgent Spanish planes which have been bombing Portbou, just across the border. The Maltese cross - marked raider attacked the submarine chaser No. 91 this morning off the north coast of Minorca where the air France line between Marseille and Algiers has a base.

Counter Attacks Repulsed

Insurgents declared that government counter attacks on the north Aragon Front had been repulsed and their troops in the Sabanigo sector had moved into the uplands east of the hermitage of San Pedro under an artillery barrage. Generalissimo Francisco Franco was reported moving heavy forces of Italian and Moroccan troops into Zaragoza province after the conquest of northwestern Spain.

France's Forces Open Fire

France's forces opened the Sabanigo drive with heavy artillery fire from the hermitage of San Pedro before the waves of Moroccan troops advanced. The first infantry assault was repulsed by the government troops but the second insurgent charge routed the Valencia militiamen who retired eastward to the Osan woods.

Chinese Planes Bomb Japanese Near Shanghai

SHANGHAI, Oct. 26 (AP) — Chinese bombing planes carried the fight to Japanese positions on Shanghai's northern fringe early today while Chinese infantrymen held doggedly against the onslaughts of some 160,000 Japanese along the twisting front north of the city. A Japanese army spokesman admitted the Japanese drive had "slowed down" after six days of the fiercest offensive operations of the 10-week-old battle for Shanghai. Foreign experts estimated some 300,000 Chinese troops were holding the line northwest from Shanghai to the Yangtze estuary. The city's international areas rocked to the bomb explosions. New heavy anti-aircraft guns recently installed in Hongkew by the Japanese searched the moonlit heavens for the raiders. Fragments and shrapnel fell in the international districts and police reported three Chinese had been killed and 19 injured in those areas in the last 24 hours. Five miles northwest of the city Chinese and Japanese were fighting hand to hand in the streets of Tazang, key to the back door of the Chinese positions at Kiangwan and Chapei, where the Chinese flank is protected by the neutrality of the international settlement.

Belgian Premier Resigns to Fight Charges Privately

BRUSSELS, Oct. 25 (AP) — Premier Paul Van Zeeland resigned tonight to defend himself as a private citizen against charges of his political enemies concerning the administration of the Belgian National Bank when he was its vice-governor five years ago. His cabinet ministers resigned en bloc with Van Zeeland and drafted a letter to show their confidence in his integrity. Van Zeeland's decision to quit the government for a finish fight on his foes' persistent cry of "scandal" in connection with his bank administration threatened to force at least a few days postponement of the nine-power conference called for Oct. 30 at Brussels to seek "amicable means" of ending the Chinese-Japanese war. Moves were under way to retain the same kind of coalition government with little change of personnel, perhaps headed by Foreign Minister P. H. Spaak, Finance Minister Herni De Man or even a non-politician as premier.

A. F. of L. and C. I. O. Discuss Labor Disputes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (AP) — Spokesmen for the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. pushed through a mass of preliminary questions today and reached the point of submitting their proposals for peace and unity in the ranks of labor. While he declined to answer a specific question on the point, this was taken to mean what had appeared to be a difficult preliminary question—the size of the respective delegations—had been solved to the satisfaction of both sides. Previously Insistent John L. Lewis, C. I. O. chieftain, had previously insisted if a peace conference was to be held the federation should send a much larger delegation, one representing a broad segment of the unions holding membership in the federation. "Both parties found they needed certain information in order to advance discussions in the conference and it is expected that information will be available by tomorrow morning," the statement said.

Lack of Caution Named Reason For Bus Crash

MASON CITY, Ia., Oct. 25 (AP) — The jury impaneled by Cerro Gordo County Coroner J. E. McDonald today blamed failure of the driver to heed railroad crossing signs and failure to stop for the crash which killed the driver and nine passengers of a Renwick, Ia., school bus. "We unanimously agree," the report declared, "that this accident was caused wholly by the failure of the bus driver to heed the railroad crossing sign to stop before crossing the railroad tracks." Driver of the bus was Rex Simpson, whose record to the time of the crash last Friday was clear, according to state driver's license authorities. C. F. Garland, 31, ceramic engineer of the Clay company plant near where a Rock Island streamlined train crashed into the ill-fated bus, was a witness at the inquest. He said he had conducted the bus party on a tour of one of his company's plants. "While we were there one rocket (streamliner) came through going south and I told them there would be another along in a few minutes, going north," Garland testified.

Stay is Denied Negro Attacker By High Court

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (AP) — The supreme court, after twice saving him from death, refused today to interfere with a 75-year term imposed in 1936 upon Haywood Patterson, one of the nine Negroes who figured in the Scottsboro case. In asking the court to review his conviction, Patterson contended it was impossible to obtain a fair trial in Morgan county, Ala. He was found guilty of attacking Mrs. Victoria Price, a white woman, in a freight train near Scottsboro, Ala., in 1931. Justice Hugo L. Black did not participate in the decision. There had been some talk among observers that, if he did participate, the decision might be challenged because of his former membership in the Ku Klux Klan. In New York, Samuel Leibowitz, counsel for Patterson and the other Negroes, received the news of the court's action with the comment: "We're not licked yet. We have a definite plan of new action, and we will start working on it immediately." He did not divulge the plan. Patterson and the other escaped the death penalty in 1932 when the high tribunal ruled they had not been adequately represented by counsel and set aside their conviction. In 1935, the court ordered a new trial because Negroes had been "systematically excluded" from juries which had indicted and convicted Patterson and the other Negroes. At the next trial, Patterson was sentenced to prison.

Spencer Youths Get Life Sentence For Frank Jayne Murder

SPENCER, Oct. 25 (AP) — Paul Verner and Lowell Lair were sentenced to life imprisonment in Ft. Madison penitentiary today for the murder of Frank Jayne, 65, of Spencer, Verner's step-father. District Judge James Deland pronounced sentence at 3 p.m. after hearing testimony from the youths to determine degree of guilt. Both are 18. Verner and Lair pleaded guilty to first degree murder charges last Wednesday. They admitted breaking into Jayne's apartment, striking him with a piece of pipe and crushing his skull in a bizarre attempt at revenge and robbery.

200 Attend Funeral For Crash Mother

DES MOINES, Oct. 25 (AP) — Mrs. James Welborn, "crash mother" who died Thursday night, was buried today beside the body of her dead husband. More than 200 relatives and friends attended the final services today in a funeral home. Mrs. Welborn died of pneumonia after a fight for life that lasted nearly seven weeks. Her husband, injured in the same accident, died three days after the crash.

Hop, Look and Listen

Northwestern Date Bureau Fills Demands Of Men for Super-Companions

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 25 (AP) — The coeds want to date at Northwestern University they do at hop, look and listen. That is, they must dance well, be beautiful and lend eager ears to all their escorts have to say. Those are the three major demands of male students, Jane Elynn, of Glen Elynn, Ill., and Barbara Brown of Whitefish Bay, Wis., operators of a free dating bureau, said today as they made applications. The last of the three, Miss Elynn said, was "on account of boys at Northwestern talk all the time." In spite of apparent difficulties the romance goes on - between sorted, many compliments and complaints. Lots of them have been enthusiastic about it," the girls said. Jane and Barbara, freshman students, started the date bureau on their own initiative. They reside in Willard hall, with 150 other first-year girls, and the idea grew from the number of shot-in-the-dark calls to the dormitory by lonesome students looking for companions. Last week end was the second in the life of the project, and the operators proudly proclaimed: "There wasn't a girl in the hall who didn't have a date." The bureau's service is available to all freshman girls. Coeds must sign up by Thursday noon. The boys have until Thursday night. The men fill out a blank giving their name, age, size and religion, and specifying what kind of a girl they want and what they plan to do — dance, movie, or "coke." A "coke" date is one where they sit and sip soft drinks while the boys talk and the girls listen.

Strike Directly at Russia' Says Former Japanese War Minister

TOKYO, Oct. 25 (AP) — General Baron Sadas Araki, who as minister of war directed Japan's quest for Manchuria in 1931, declared today "it probably is necessary for Japan to strike directly at Russia" to eliminate communist influence from the Far East. Communism, he asserted, is the root of the present turmoil in the Orient and the cause of the Chinese-Japanese conflict. General Araki, in retirement since the Tokyo army uprising of 1932, recently emerged as a member of Premier Fumimaro Koyano's high advisory council. He has long been a strong advocate of a stern line toward Soviet Russia. "There are two principal causes of the present conflict," the general told the Associated Press. The first comes from the Chinese violation of the agreement made after the 1932 fighting at Shanghai which provided for a demilitarized zone around Shanghai. As soon as possible the Chinese built fortifications there and moved garrisons into them. "Beneath this tangible fact lies the invisible influence of communism. Chiang Kai-Shek (the Chinese Generalissimo) first used Japanese aid in unifying China. Now he has decided to cast his lot with the communists. He has switched from one to the other several times in the past. Undoubtedly, he is merely using the communists now and when they no longer are available he will turn elsewhere, perhaps to Japan. "Therefore it probably is necessary for Japan to strike directly at Russia." Describing communism as a worldwide octopus with Russia as the body, General Araki said: "America and England should cooperate with Japan in solving a world problem by an attack at the heart of the octopus."

John Montague Called Innocent

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 25 (AP) — A confessed participant in a seven-year-old $700 roadside robbery for which Hollywood's golfing John Montague is on trial, late today declared the brawny defendant was innocent. William Carleton, who served prison term for the crime, testified Montague was not a member of a quartet of robbers which on Aug. 4, 1930, held up the Jay, N. Y., resort owned by Kinama, a Japanese. A few hours earlier Montague's mother and another witness declared he was in Syracuse, N. Y., more than 200 miles distant, two hours before the robbery. Carleton asserted a man named Burns, and not Montague, was fourth member of the gang. The state charges Montague, Edgar Laverne Moore, Carleton, Roger Norton, another confessed participant, and John Sherry, now dead, executed the holdup.

Retorts to Claims Of Sterilization

TOPEKA, Oct. 24 (AP) — Charges of "wholesale sterilization" of inmates at the girls' industrial school at Beloit during the administration of former Gov. Alf M. Landon brought a terse report of "politics" today from Miss Lulu Coyner, superintendent of the institution at that time. At the same time, W. H. Burke, vice chairman of the state board of administration, said in a prepared statement, "our board from the start has proceeded on the theory that a general sterilization program was and is unjustified. "It has not been the policy in the past nor will it be the future policy of the present board to adopt sterilization measures in any case in the girls' industrial school unless in such extreme, obvious and isolated instances as leave not the slightest question or doubt as to its justification and if at all, only after the fullest opportunity for a hearing by those interested and affected." Miss Coyner's reply was to charges made by Kathryn O'Loughlin.

Eleven Escape From Disease

CHICAGO, Oct. 25 (AP) — A medical milestone, the 100 percent recovery of 11 persons with streptococcus meningitis, who took the sensational new remedy, sulfanilamide, was reported to the American college of surgeons today. Streptococcus meningitis has been one of the "death sentence" diseases. It is the most deadly form of meningitis. The 11 cases, moreover, were all complicated with mastoiditis. "They were," said a spokesman for the college of surgeons, "the kind of cases of which we say 'there is no hope.'" Sulfanilamide is the remedy made from a red dye discovered in Germany and used in a mixture which recently has been causing deaths over a large part of the United States. The fatal combination is an "elixir" in which the American Medical association has blamed the deaths on other drugs than the sulfanilamide. Today's report to the college of surgeons gives the other side of the picture of this new medicine, explaining why physicians all over the United States have been eager to test it.

LATE NEWS BULLETINS

BATH, Me., Oct. 25 (AP) — A superior court jury which had deliberated for seven hours on a charge Mrs. Pearl Wheeler, 27, of Bath, beat, scalded and branded with a flatiron her daughter, Betty Lorraine Seavey, 7, failed to agree late tonight. Mrs. Wheeler was jailed for the night, and Judge Edward P. Murray said he would set bail tomorrow pending decision on whether to try her again.

DES MOINES, Oct. 25 (AP) — U. S. District Attorney E. G. Moon said today the government would ask for $10,000 bond for William Brunken, 28, teller and bookkeeper in the First National Bank of Burlington, which suspended operations last week.

DETROIT, Oct. 25 (AP) — Sale of "Social Justice," publication of Father Charles E. Coughlin's National Union for Social Justice, to an organization headed by Walter Baertschi of Toledo was announced today.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 25 (AP) — Police felt they had encountered one of those heights of something or other when they discovered today a thief had rifled the police court strongbox and skipped with $168.18.

Japan Finds Another Excuse

Still another semi-official Japanese explanation for her conduct in China was advanced yesterday when the Baron Araki asserted that "it is probably necessary for Japan to strike directly at Russia" to eliminate communist influence in the Far East.

However much we may blame the Japanese for the ruthlessness of their Chinese invasion, it is only fair that we understand the reason for their actions. They undoubtedly do fear Russian influence. They feel that a foothold in North China will serve as an effective base for action against the spread of communism.

That the Japanese are in a great measure economically dependent upon China is also true, for the cotton fields and iron mines of that country have long helped to feed the factories of Japan. Japan feels herself in desperate straits. She must have markets. She must have raw materials. She must have industry to support her 70 millions.

The steps which have been taken to obtain these economic necessities appear to be almost panic-stricken in their suddenness, in their utter disregard for world opinion.

The question is: Could not Japan's objectives be obtained more quickly, more easily, and certainly more surely, by peaceful means rather than this warfare which will probably mean disaster for both attacker and attacked?

What Comes Next in Europe?

JUST WHEN everything looked darkest for the London Non-Intervention committee, Italy, backed by Germany, reversed her stand and saved the day by accepting the British proposal for getting volunteers out of Spain.

Apparently "token" withdrawals are to come first—a few thousand from each side. Main withdrawals supposedly will follow after a commission has visited Spain and reported on the total engaged. Somewhere in the process the rebels are to be accorded the rights of a belligerent.

It would take a rash prophet to hazard a prediction on the outcome of this proposal. Nevertheless a sigh of relief already has gone up from the capitals of Europe, a sigh loud enough to be heard across the Atlantic. For statesmen had admitted that if the conference failed Europe would be left dangerously close to war.

Throughout these Spanish parleys the enigma has been Soviet Russia. More often than not she has seemed at odds with Britain and her ally, France.

This is not easy to understand. For in the larger view of things, Russia is vitally dependent on her alliance with France to guard against German aggression in the east.

While it is true that Russia's interest in Spain and the Mediterranean is less direct than that of either Britain or France, nevertheless any break in the tacit alliance between France and Russia would immediately stimulate Germany's ambitions for eastern expansion.

Chancellor Hitler notoriously regards Russia as Germany's public enemy No. 1. He denies any thought of aggression in western Europe. On the contrary, he openly and repeatedly declares that he is only waiting for a favorable opportunity to expand in eastern Europe—at the expense of Czechoslovakia and Russia.

Steadily, according to the press reports, the Nazi-controlled newspapers have gone on stirring up a war mania. The 3,500,000 Germans in Czechoslovakia constitute about 20 per cent of the total population. Nazi propagandists are working feverishly among them, and if they should stage a putsch in Prague it would cause no great surprise.

If they did, only one thing would keep Hitler from rushing to their aid. And that is the fear of Russia and France. A break in the Franco-Russian alliance, therefore, might be all that is needed to tip the scale in favor of a German thrust eastward.

Were Hitler master of Czechoslovakia he would hold the key to eastern Europe. He would have a direct boulevard to the Black sea and the grain fields of Russian Ukraine. And he wants and needs oil as he wants and needs nothing else.

While Russia's attitude in the Spanish affair has been puzzling, it is inconceivable that she would let affairs go to a break with France. Her obvious self-interest should be enough to prevent that.

Honorable Mention

THERE IS a person on this campus who deserves mention. She doesn't attract attention; she doesn't want to. She arrives at her classes quietly and on time. She takes notes fully and competently, and when class is over she goes tranquilly on her way.

There are cynics who would call these reasons alone sufficient for comment. But one other fact combines with them to catch our notice.

She is blind. Glancing casually her way you wouldn't realize it. She moves surely and without blunders. Contentment is as good as any word to describe the usual expression on her face.

The odds are good that her grades will be among the highest in her classes. Her appreciation of her courses is undoubtedly higher than many of her classmates' too.

There are others similar on the campus and blindness is not the only handicap under which students are working.

The rest of us, taking for granted the soundness of our eyes and legs and arms, are grateful to them for the example they set, as impressive as it is unintentional.

MORE MILLIONAIRES The millionaire-income crop, which took a terrible beating in the depression years, is rapidly coming back. This is the story told by the treasury department's analysis of the 1935 income tax receipts.

Back in the spacious days of 1929 there were 514 Americans who reported incomes of a million or more. Their ranks thinned to a corporal's guard of 20 in 1932. In 1935 there were 41 of them, an increase of eight between 1934 and 1935.

It takes a long time for the treasury to digest its income tax facts. Thus the report issued recently deals with incomes received two years ago, in 1935, and upon which taxes were paid last year. Since the business pace of 1936 was notably faster than that of the preceding year, it is probable that when the details of the 1936 income are revealed a year hence, the millionaire crop will be found to have taken another jump.

The present report shows that the 41 individuals in the million and up income group in 1935 received $73,631,000 in taxable income. But they paid more than $41,000,000 back to the treasury. So they were working for Uncle Sam more than half the time.

Much has been said recently about the gradual disappearance of very large fortunes through higher income and inheritance taxes. A comparison of the 514 million-dollar incomes of 1929 with the 41 of 1935 would tend to support this idea. But equally significant is the very substantial increase, shown by the current report, of the incomes in the so-called higher middle brackets. The man who enjoys an income between $100,000 and $750,000 a year is generally rated a millionaire, even if his income is not derived in the main from capital assets in the six-figure category. The membership of this group increased strikingly in 1935, as did also the $50,000 to $100,000 group.

These figures tend to support the thesis that American enterprise, in spite of the tax collector, is developing a large class of moderately rich. Eventually their wealth may replace, in some measure, the gigantic fortunes chokered up by heavy taxes and death duties.

LEST OLD ACQUAINTANCE BE FORGOT!

Adult Body May Need More Vitamin B, Says Clendening

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

The human body adapted itself through thousands of years to its environment.

The things we eat are part of the environment to which we have had to adapt ourselves through the ages, and it so happens that where our prehistoric ancestors got into the habit of eating fresh food and raw food, this food contained certain substances which are necessary for health and growth, and which we now call vitamins.

As a matter of fact, we can supply energy easily enough in concentrated form, but when these adequate diets—adequate from the standpoint of calories—are given to animals, they develop various states of ill health due to the lack of fresh foods and the vitamins therein contained.

However, our research in the vitamins has now gotten to the point where we know the chemical composition of a great many of them, can extract them from the foods in which they are contained, and they can be given in concentrated form. Many of these concentrated vitamins can be procured through drug and food markets.

Do Adults Need Added Vitamins? The question arises whether it is necessary for an adult to take care to add any vitamins deliberately to his diet. Most adults eat a sufficiently mixed and varied diet so that theoretically they obtain all the vitamins they need.

However, some researches have arisen lately which appear to indicate that adults need a larger quantity of certain vitamins than they get in their food. This is especially true about Vitamin B. Either the body's inability to utilize this vitamin runs out or in adult life, for one reason or another, foods which contain it are instinctively rejected. In many conditions the Vitamin B concentrate appears to be beneficial.

HOLLYWOOD—A news story that didn't happen: the walk-off of the Warner lot of several contract writers and one director because the studio extended the usual visiting courtesies to Hal Roach's guest, Vittorio Mussolini.

The writers and director talked furiously all one morning, aired their political views, huddled with each other on the best dramatic moment to walk—and then called the whole thing off.

Which seemed the practical thing to do. Obviously, Vittorio would soon be gone from Hollywood. Why have their regular payday go with him?

But it's one sign how seriously Hollywood takes its policies and world affairs nowadays. A few years ago any visiting celebrity of Mussolini's filial fame would have been Hollywood's man of the hour, to be feted and sought after.

Tired Of Judging Contests Dick Powell is a candidate for retirement from his duties as the colony's premier judge of contests. He has officiated—unwillingly if the truth must out—at pie-making, hog-calling, cow-milking, quilting and corn-husking competitions. He has been asked to judge the prettiest home-made dress worn by a girl in a West Virginia high school graduation, to pick a peach festival queen, and—of course—to judge bathing beauty contests.

He figures he has made from 30 to 40 friends—the winners—by his judging activities while acquiring several thousand enemies who competed and lost. His advice to new players would be: "Don't let yourself be made a contest judge, except perhaps for bathing beauties. In one of those contests, the satisfaction received may be worth the risk involved. You'll make enemies there, too, but life is short and the work is pleasant."

Two Of A Kind Those Mauch twins are at it again. Billy, playing the lead in "Penrod and His Twin," (which Parkington did not write) woke up one morning with the sniffler. Bobby wasn't doing anything much, so his mother put him into Billy's costume, and took him to the studio where he played Billy's role and none detected the deception.

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—We got back from our vacation this morning and our boss greeted us with, "All right, Cindarella, it's 12 o'clock—get back to work."

But it isn't easy to slip back into harness after kicking around with no restrictions other than the mood of the moment. The impression of vast distances and new people is still too strong to permit anything like a casual appraisal of what New York is doing.

However, we learned one thing while we were away—one can no longer get altogether away from Broadway even though he travel to the end of the world. There is always the Body Familiar to love around the corner and say hello.

Only a few days ago we were standing on a street corner in Longview, Washington, a great lumbering center which is 3,000 miles from Times Square. It was 7:30 in the evening. Suddenly the calm of the evening was shattered by shrieking police sirens. A limousine hurtled up to the curb and a big bald-headed man got out. It was Jim Farley. I can't begin to describe the impression of seeing him so unexpectedly, for it had been only a few days since I had encountered him, thousands of miles away, on the eastern seaboard. "That's the way New York does you," I thought. "Here I come to the very tip end of the Pacific northwest and run smack into the postmaster general."

But that wasn't all. Surrounded by a retinue of mayors and civic officials Farley hurried off to dedicate a new postoffice. It was now about 25 minutes to eight. I glanced up at the sign on the corner post and then I knew that, no matter where I went, I could never get completely away from New York. The name of the street was Broadway!

Later I drove up to Seattle and boarded a Northwest airliner for the East. We headed towards Tacoma so that the ship might attain a high altitude before starting out across the mountains. It was misty and foggy, and the pilot said there were a lot of storm clouds coming up. He wanted to pass so high above them that they could not possibly do us any damage.

Tubbs Gives Hawkeyes Long Defensive Drill

Freshmen Gain In Varsity Line

Iowa To Be Underdog In Purdue Game This Week End

The University of Iowa won't be relaxing this week. Dissatisfied with the showing the Hawk gridders made against Michigan Saturday, Coach Irl Tubbs yesterday sent his men through a long defensive drill on passes and ground attacks and ended up with a scrimmage against the freshmen.

Fresh Gain Around Ends

The Hawks made several long gains through the tackles and around the ends and completed several passes for good gains. The Purdue team relies a great deal on passes for their scoring threat and with Cody Isbell in the Boilermaker backfield it is expected that they will use aerial heaves to good advantage as they did last year in downing the Iowans.

Rocky Road Ahead

The Hawks will enter the Purdue game as underdog again after enjoying one week as favorites, in some sports writers' minds. Even after the Boilermaker game the road will be rough and rocky for the victory-starved Iowans who are still seeking their first western conference win in two years.

Jefferson Loses To Whetstone

The Whetstone co-operative dorm touch football crew passed the Jefferson eight dizzies yesterday to score six touchdowns and two extra points and win 38-0. Whetstone scored twice in the first half when Berg broke loose for 20 yards and the initial counter, and a few moments later Osmundson took Smith's pass in the end zone to run the score to 13-0.

Novice Swimming Meet Scheduled In Fieldhouse Tonight

The novice swimming meet for University of Iowa students is scheduled for the fieldhouse pool at 7:15 p.m. today, Dave Armbruster, swimming coach, announced yesterday. All student swimmers who are interested are urged to compete, and any one who has earned a freshman numeral or major or minor varsity letter is barred, Coach Armbruster said.

Few Scores Hawkeyes Lead in All But Scoring

With the first half of the current football season completed, official statistics indicate that while the Hawkeyes have lost three out of four games they have out-gained their opponents by more than 250 yards or almost five first downs per game. In the individual gains from scrimmage Ed McLain, sophomore fullback, is leading with a total of 133 yards, an average of 3.80 yards per attempt. Second place in the individual ground gains goes to Bill Gallagher, who has a net average of 3.48 yards per try.

Kinnick Leads in Scoring

In the individual scoring column, laurel must go to Nile Kinnick, one of the flashiest sophomore quarterbacks in the country. Kinnick has scored two touchdowns for half of the team's total in this department. Frank Balazs and Russell Busk have each counted once from scrimmage. The outstanding score of the season was Kinnick's 74 yard dash for Iowa's only score against Michigan last Saturday.

Hawk Matmen Are Practicing Twice Weekly

Twenty-four grapplers have turned out for the varsity wrestling team and have been working on fundamentals two days a week since school started. Expected to give outstanding performances this year are Clarence Kemp, Kenneth Kingsbury, Edward Lybbert, Wilbur Nead and George Smith. Nead placed third in his division in Big Ten competition last year.

Tough Teams

Howard expects very tough competition this year as Indiana, Michigan and Illinois boast strong teams while Wisconsin has the strongest team in the history of their school. Coach Mike Howard expects a larger squad after football season is over and has the following men working out regularly now: Charles Alcock, Fredricksburg, 165; James Butsch, Owatonna, Mich., 126; Carl Conrad, Ponda, 215; Harold Gibbons, Burlington, 155; Lawrence Hayes, Chicago, 145; Wayne Hardin, Des Moines, 145; Bernhard Herman, Des Moines, 145; Clarence Kemp, Waterloo, 145; Kenneth Kingsbury, 135; Howard Krouse, Des Moines, 155.

Hawklet Team Faces Bobcats

City High Plays Host To Marshalltown On Local Field

Iowa City's Little Hawk football warriors last night began a week of earnest preparation with their hearts set on pleasing homecoming alumni Friday by turning back the strong Marshalltown aggregation. After defeating the McKinley Bears last week, the Red and White gridders went about their chores last night with renewed enthusiasm. In an early season encounter, McKinley eked out a one point margin over Marshalltown. In the game at Cedar Rapids last week the large contingent of Iowa City fans was reminded of Coach Cormack's state championship team of last year.

Co-captain Bill Buckley, whose apparent return to form led the Hawklets to victory last week, has lessened the worries of Coach Cormack insofar as the quarterback post is concerned.

Kicking Inconsistent

The kicking department, having shown glaring inconsistency in the late stages of the battle at the Parlor City last week, will receive constant attention from the coaches as they prepare for the invasion of the Bobcats. Eldon Parizek, who scored Iowa City's lone touchdown against the Bears, was absent from drill last night. A long scrimmage with every member of the squad participating was held out by Coaches Cormack and Merten last night. Men receiving the most attention were Paul and Kerr at the ends, Mueller and Beck, tackles, co-captain Snider and McLaughlin, guards, and Jenkinson at center. Returning to his customary station at quarterback, co-captain Bill Buckley barked signals for the first string. Justice and McGinnis filled the halfback berths, while the fullback post was occupied by Dicker.

Meanwhile, Coach Joe Gaines of the freshman-sophomore team sent his proteges through a tough workout, stressing pass defense which indirectly defeated them last Saturday in their meeting with Franklin of Cedar Rapids. The Franklin team won by a score of 13 to 7. However, the junior Hawklets emerged victorious from the previous week's engagement with McKinley's representatives. Several candidates on Coach Gaines' squad should develop into potential varsity material before next fall.

A.A.U. Ponders Metric System

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP) — For the third year in succession, the Amateur Athletic union will consider the abolishment of metric distances in track events and return to yards and miles when it convenes in its 49th convention at Boston, Nov. 13-15. The proposal is one of the 76 amendments which appears in the report of Chairman Albert F. Whittle of the legislation committee, mailed today to the 400 delegates to the convention. Some progress was made last year by the opponents of the metric system of measuring when the rules were amended, leaving it optional with the district association. The national indoor and outdoor championships were about the only meets in the country at which the events were run at metric distances. Other proposed amendments affecting track and field include: (1) permit use of starting blocks; (2) eliminate the 200 meter low hurdle race from the championship program; (3) a five mile race in a straightaway race, broad jump or hop, step and jump is any wind having a velocity of two meters per second or approximately four and a half miles an hour.

Pitt Smashes Badgers

Pitt power asserted itself when the Panthers met University of Wisconsin's Badgers at Pittsburgh and emerged with a 21 to 0 victory. Action shows Hal Stebbins, Pitt back, plunging through center for a three-yard gain in the first quarter. The game was witnessed by 40,000.

Trojan Coach Praises Bears

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP) — No sooner had the old Professor parted his Prince Albert coat tails for an hour's squat in his weekly Monday morning alibi session for happy and downtrodden football coaches than he was disturbed by a big commotion along mourners' row.

University Hi Football Squad Hit by Injuries

Bob Campion and Bernie Miltner, regular starting guard and tackle, will be missing from the University high lineup when they take the field against West Branch Friday. Both of these men are out with injuries they received in the Mt. Vernon game last Saturday. Miltner, one of the best tackles in the city, will be definitely lost to the team for the rest of the season as he has two broken bones in his foot. Russ Bulechek, his understudy, is also on the disabled list with a gland infection.

Punch in the Pinch

Francis Schmidt, Ohio State: Day by day, we're getting better. Northwestern has a great club but we had the punch in the pinch and that was the only difference between the teams. I'd like to have Don Heap on my club. Professor: Yes, yes, and a few guys from Minnesota, Alabama, Duke and California, too. I'd like to hear what happened to L.S.U. Bernie Moore, L.S.U.: No alibi, Professor. Vanderbilt played a great game and won a well deserved victory. My boys had to get beat sometime by a conference team and I'm glad to see Ray's team turn the trick. With the pressure off, maybe we can bounce back and do all right anyway.

Unbeaten Quad Teams Play To 6-6 Stalemate

In the roughest and hardest-fought game of the Quad series, Upper A and B, both undefeated, fought to a 6 to 6 deadlock ended only by approaching darkness yesterday afternoon. Time after time desperate attempts were made by both sides to break the tie but the alert defense of each side stood the test. Two long passes followed by scoring runs were responsible for the points. Upper A counted on Knapp's 25-yard heave to Martin Stiller, followed by a 20-yard jaunt to the goal. Upper B counted on Ely's pass to Sweitzer, who raced 35 yards to the end zone. At some later date two three-minute periods will be played to decide the outcome of this game, at the end of this if there is still a deadlock, a flip of the coin will decide the winner. In the other Quad game of the afternoon, Al Bissot's placement gave Lower A a 3 to 0 win over Lower B. Both teams were evenly matched and exhibited a strong pass defense. Tomorrow Upper C will meet Upper D and Lower C will meet Lower D in the final game of the regular Quad series, which precedes the playoff between the winners of each bracket.

Quinn Obtains Former Pilot Of Brooklyn Dodgers to Succeed McKechnie; Terms Not Settled

BOSTON, Oct. 25 (AP) — The Boston Bees today named Casey Stengel, former manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, as their pilot for 1938, succeeding William B. McKechnie.

J. Robert Quinn, president of the Bees, telephoned Stengel at the latter's home in Omaha, Tex., and offered him the job. Stengel accepted. No terms were announced, but Quinn indicated the question of salary and length of contract would be settled when Stengel came to Boston early next month.

Stengel was idle last summer, although under contract with the Dodgers, from whom he was reputed to have received more money for not managing the club than Burleigh Grimes, the team's pilot, did for finishing sixth.

Manages Dodgers 3 Years Stengel managed the Brooklyn club three years, finishing sixth in 1934, fifth in '35 and seventh in '36 after a distinguished playing career with the New York Giants in the early 1920's. McKechnie, who piloted the Bees to fifth place last year with mediocre material, left Boston to go with the Cincinnati Reds at a substantial increase in salary.

It was the second time Quinn had signed Stengel as manager. In 1934, when Quinn was directing the Brooklyn club, he closed a deal with Stengel after the Dodger management had decided to let out Manager Max Carey.

Quinn said he had been in doubt of signing Stengel for the Bees until he reached him on the telephone.

Considered Donie Bush "I turned down Casey's request for the job the day after the world series," he said, "explaining that I had two others in mind — Donie Bush of Minneapolis and Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs."

Manages Toledo Stengel, who is 46 and managed the Toledo Mudhens after his major league playing days, said he had seen the Bees play their first four games last year—all of which they lost, but watched them later in the season.

"I don't think they were lucky to finish fifth and I believe we can do it again, if not finish higher," he declared.

Quinn said whether Coaches Hank Gowdy and Bob Smith would remain with the Bees when Stengel arrives.

Yale U. Divinity Head Speaks Sunday At Union Service

"Religion is the power to become," Dean-Emeritus Charles R. Brown of the Yale university divinity school, an alumnus of the University of Iowa, declared at the university vespers in the main lounge of the Iowa Union Sunday evening.

"Man is not judged by what he is but by what he wants to be," continued Dean-Emeritus Brown. "Readiness to undertake is what counts." He compared the possibilities and potentialities of a young man's future life to the Biblical parable of the mustard seed, pointing out how the smallest of seeds becomes one of the largest of trees.

In conclusion, he warned, "Do not cheat your later life. Life is nothing more than a huge department store wherein our accounts are carefully kept and indicated on a ledger. Every bill must be paid in full because the Manager is a particular and accurate accountant."

"We must be ever careful that we don't pay too dearly for our purchases. In the beginning each of us is given a blank check, and it is up to us to fill it out fully and accurately."

Journal's First Issue Out Today, Editor Announces

The first of six issues of the Journal of Business will be released today, Arnold Brown, C4 of Buffalo, N. Y., editor, announced yesterday.

Included in the issue are articles by Prof. Paul D. Converse of the University of Illinois, William G. Sutcliffe, director of the graduate school of Boston university, Glen A. Scott of Alabama Polytechnic institute and Robert Collier, author and lecturer.

'Know What You're Writing,' S. Benet Advises in Lecture

Noted Writer Describes Novel in Opening Lecture Series

"Know what you're trying to build, before starting to write a novel," Stephen Vincent Benet, poet and novelist, advised writers in the first Baconian lecture in the senate chamber of Old Capitol last night.

"It takes work and it takes thought, but it means the building—and the roof will hold after weathering, and the floors won't squeak when a character walks across the floor," Mr. Benet stated.

Mr. Benet, who was introduced by Paul Engle, Iowa poet and lecturer in the school of letters, reminded those interested in writing novels that "there isn't room for all the baggage." It is necessary to decide which are the most important elements and also to determine in general the mass and size of the work planned, he said.

He also advised against "sticking a pair of ornamental gates on a New England farm house."

There must be proportion in all work; even in the encyclopedia elements are in proportion, he continued. There must be balance, even though the work is small.

"In the historical novel you must have real human beings inhabiting the castle or you'll have a textbook. But," Mr. Benet stated, "you must give them the foibles of their time, not of yours."

In writing, the foundation must be sound. "Basic insincerity in any work cannot be permitted, for if you are going to play the game, it must be played according to the rules," Mr. Benet said. The reader must not be aware of the enormous amount of research which goes to make up a good historical book, but it must be there.

Whatever it is, according to Mr. Benet, the work still needs a center, a plan and proportion. It can't be a jelly-fish. Writers must think of the bricks and foundation and of the people who will inhabit the rooms.

DR. CHAPMAN J. MILLING
514 BULL STREET
COLUMBIA, S. C.
Feb. 10, 1937

S. M. Frank & Co., Inc.
New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen:-

About eighteen months ago I was forced to quit smoking a pipe because the tarry products in the heel kept me chronically nauseated. Too bad, but it couldn't be helped. No use feeling miserable every time I fired up. So I stayed off tobacco for over a year.

Then one day I saw a few Frank's Medicos in a druggist's showcase, and half-heartedly decided to try one. So many patented filter systems on the market. But I'd risk a dollar on one anyhow, just in hopes ...

For six happy months, now I've been smoking that Frank's. This afternoon I bought my second one, and have it sending up incense as I write. I want to tell you - in case you don't already know it - that you're one of the benefactors of society. Lol the poor Indian Lol Sir Walter Raleigh! Lol everybody who died before you brought out a filter that really works. I'm telling my friends by the dozen, but not fast enough.

You may use my name if you care to; and add that this letter is absolutely unsolicited on your part.

Very cordially yours,
Chapman J. Milling, M.D.

EXCUSE IT, PLEASE

HOD SHOTS

By G. K. HODENFIELD

"I'm tired of these Iowa teams that always play a good game-- and never win." That remark was overheard in a local restaurant yesterday. The man that said it wasn't a griper. He has been following Iowa football fortunes since he first came to the campus three years ago. In those three years he has never seen an Iowa team win a Big Ten game. He has seen them win only one major game, that against Colgate two years ago. And through it all he has been a staunch supporter for the golden Hawkeyes.

Joe Laws, Herman Schneidman and Zud Schammel were in the starting lineups for the Green Bay Packers in their contest against the Cleveland Rams and each of them scored a touchdown as the Packers won, 35-7. Schammel, a guard, scored his after a lateral pass. Dick Crayne and Don Nelson were in the starting lineups for the Brooklyn Dodgers in their game against the New York Giants. Iowa could use those men again.

Maybe that was an unfair statement, but it must be admitted that it contains a great deal of truth. Maybe it can't be blamed on the Iowa coaches. Maybe it can. Either way it reflects the opinion of the Iowa fans, who after all are the ones that count.

Since Nile Kinnick made his sensational run against the Wolverines Saturday he is being compared with Ozzie Simmons, the ebony ace of the last three years. One critic was overheard to remark that he had seen Simmons in more sensational runs but never a smarter one. The way the Iowa sophomore picked up his interference and followed it to the goal was a wonder to watch. Maybe Simmons didn't have the interference that Kinnick had but at the same time it's a 50-50 bet that he would have followed it.

I don't think that the Iowa team was playing its best brand of ball last Saturday. Not that they weren't trying. All of those fellows out there were giving all they had but they were outclassed, outthought and, most important of all, they were outscored.

In spite of Iowa's misfortunes on the gridiron so far this year, in spite of all their slumps and weak pass defense and a hundred other things, I'm going to stick my neck out and predict that Iowa will win at least one more football game and that they won't be beaten by more than 14 points. They play Purdue, Indiana, Minnesota and Nebraska.

Slumps come at funny times in any athletic event. The best ball player in the major leagues will be going great guns and then suddenly find himself in a batting or fielding flinx that he just can't seem to shake. Just as suddenly he'll snap out of it. That is what seems to me to be the trouble with the Iowa team now. After the wonderful ball that they displayed against Wisconsin a week ago they had a let down and found that they had no punch, no drive left for the Wolverines.

Chitter-chatter... Babe Phelps, Brooklyn catcher, hasn't stolen a base in the majors since he made his debut with Washington in 1931. ... Byron Nelson's first job as a professional was at the Texarkana country club and they still tell about his deuce on the par five, 560 yard 16th hole.

Survey Reveals Majority Oppose Erection of Casino Cabins

Local Citizens Join University In Condemnation of Project

City Adjustment Board To Decide Issue On Thursday Night

The large majority of Iowa Citizens have joined the university in opposing the erection of tourist cabins at the Casino, a west-side roadhouse on U. S. highway 6, according to a survey conducted yesterday by The Daily Iowan.

Forty out of 50 citizens questioned—80 per cent—said that they were definitely opposed to the plan. Those in favor of the proposition said that they had "not heard much about it" or that "it makes no difference to me."

"It looks rather bad," was the typical reply given by Iowa Citizens. Betty O'Brien, 415 S. Capitol street, added "It depends upon how they are used. I've never given it much thought."

University students, whom the faculty assert would be most influenced by the plan, were also unalterably opposed to it. Eleanor Deltcher, A2 of Council Bluffs, said, "No, I should say not. Places of that type should not be patronized by students or citizens."

"There would be a moral decline among college students if it goes through," Avery Peterson, C2 of Peterson, declared. Carl Ettinger, A2 of Cedar Rapids, said that "I think it's all right. If it's going to be injurious to students, it will be injurious to the community also. We're as mature as we'll ever be."

O. V. Schreck of Des Moines claims that "If the cabins are properly conducted and supervised, it will be all right. Otherwise, no."

A visitor from New York, N. Y., Mrs. H. L. Wuerfel, expressed doubt as to the practicability of the plan. She asked, "A tavern and then cabins around it? Well, put two and two together and what do you say? I'd say, trouble!"

A truck-driver, Paul White, 23 W. Court street, said that "I can't see any sense to it. There must be a big catch to it. I don't see how it can possibly be run."

Stating that "it couldn't be worse than other taverns that are operating now," Mrs. R. E. Brown, 14 W. Burlington street, approved the plan, saying "It's perfectly all right."

The question will be decided Thursday at 7 p.m. at a public meeting of the board of adjustment in the city hall council chambers.

City Attorney Robert Larson will give an opinion on whether the city zoning ordinance may be legally extended to allow the cabin's erection in a residential district.

Harvey Secor, owner of the Casino, has petitioned the board to grant a building permit for the project and an extension of the ordinance to allow their construction.

University officials went on record as definitely opposed to the plan when Secor's petition was considered by the board Friday afternoon. President Eugene A. Gilmore, on advice from the board of deans, wrote the board that "the entire plan is prejudicial against the welfare and interests of university students."

President Gilmore termed the project as distinctly objectionable and inticable. Prof. Clarence M. Undergraf of the college of law, said that the university also disapproved of the plan because of possible expansion westward in the future. Finkline field, the university golf course, is across the highway from the roadhouse.

Appearing before the board Friday, Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, said, "The combination of a beer tavern and a group of cabins is not conducive to high moral interests—even if the angel Gabriel were to conduct such an establishment himself."

The city council Nov. 5 will consider an ordinance which would enlarge the business district so as to include the Casino and consequently allow the proposed erection of cabins.

The proposed ordinance has been approved once by the council, and two more approvals are required before it can become a law.

Protest
And Milt Felsen's letter from the Spanish front has brought all sorts of letters, some approving, mostly protesting. . . . Yesterday's mail brought a note from Mrs. Bruce E. Mahan, which I reproduce below because it expresses the sentiment of those who don't agree with Felsen's idealism. . . .

"I was interested in the letter from Milton Felsen printed in your column. I simply can't imagine anyone risking his life for a cause, knowing so little about it. . . . He says the Spanish people are fighting to save themselves and the world from fascism. It seems to have no knowledge of the fact that the other half of the Spanish people (equally Spanish) are fighting (equally hard) to save themselves and the world from communism."

"They have no particular love for fascism, but a man fighting for his life is liable to accept any help offered in the emergency. . . . Can any sane person look at Russia and consider communism a friend to liberty and democracy? . . ."

"The Spanish government now in control is not the government that was elected by the people. . . . Communists seized control, and the 'Spanish people' are now fighting to the death to be rid of a menace they rightfully consider more deadly than the black plague. . . . Milton Felsen and Roger Hargrave are not pink—They are the color of the proverbial robed lobster, and they are moreover completely blind to their own coloring, thanks to the cleverness of the communistic propaganda. . . ."

"If we are to become a nation of gullible idealists, we shall probably find ourselves sometime under the iron clamp of communism in all its cold and brutal tyranny and mayhap end up lined against a wall before a firing squad."

—Mrs. Bruce E. Mahan
