A Year In Labor History

EXACTLY a year ago today a group of union workers in a Fisher body plant at Atlanta, Ga., made labor history by starting a sit-down strike which, spreading rapidly to other Fisher and General Motors units, temporarily paralyzed one of the largest sections of a major American industry.

Besides beginning the most expensive labor war the motor industry had ever known, the strike marked the beginning of an epidemic of similar "sit-downs" which for a time had the more nervous of our country's population crying "communism" in all mention of the C.I.O. or its affiliated unions.

The progress which labor has made through the C.I.O. in its attempt to gain more power is well known. It has succeeded in gaining recognition and authority in such major industries as steel, textile, packing and leather, as well as in many minor ones.

Although the sit-down strike was probably responsible for much of the gain, it is also probable that in the long run labor lost more than was won by its use.

As a weapon it was too easily availed of, too likely to get out of control. It was seized upon by irresponsible leaders as a quick method of getting recognition for demands which were often not justified. Its condemnation by the A. F. of L. was partly responsible for the widening of the breach between that body and the C.I.O.

Public opinion, at first more or less neutral, soon turned against sit-down strikers.

For these reasons it is doubtful that the sit-down strike will ever again play an important part in labor tactics. As a result, any future increases in the power of labor are likely to come in a much less spectacular fashion but, once attained, be more solid and enduring.

As labor begins another twelve-months period, it is our hope that it will find more responsible minor leaders to back up the work of such men as Martin and Lewis, and that working lawfully through the Wagner labor act, it will drop all practices of suspicious legality and continue the progress it has made in the past towards attaining properly adjusted relationships between employer and employee.

The Republicans Try Something New

THE REPUBLICANS have worked hard to get back into power. Now they plan a program committee to "draft the party's policies and define its stand on governmental issues."

This plan will be no panacea for republican ills, but it can serve a very beneficial republican purpose. If it is operated as planned, the republicans should be aided immeasurably in two ways.

In the first place, severe defeats at the polls have left the republican elephant ailing. Republicans watched the new deal administration receive popular acclaim again and again. Their resultant feeling of frustration has disorganized and dismembered republican ranks. The republican party is now badly in need of a strong unifying force.

This proposed committee will unite republican loyalty by publicizing widely party principles formulated by the rank and file of party voters. Gone are dictated party principles. Cooperation of the masses will be the new keynote. Extensive publicizing of these principles should make every republican feel that he is a vital part of the republican machine.

Besides giving publicity to party principles, this plan should help to develop a positive republican program. Most of the republican platform planks for the last five years have consisted of a criticism of new deal activities without much of a positive republican program. No party can gain strength on purely destructive criticism.

But if the republicans add to this a positive program issuing from the minds of the loyal 17,000,000, they are on the road to new life. Of course, the plan has practical dangers. Many republicans have serious objections. Further, it will be difficult to formulate principles from millions whose principles are not only varied but also in constant flux.

Besides these, an even greater danger looms up as a threat to this program. What is to keep the committee members from formulating their own personal principles instead of acting merely as reflectors of the consensus of republican principles?

It is true that this plan is no panacea for republican ills. It is true that there are pitfalls involved. But it does offer to republicans some kind of a device by which they may rescue their party from the doldrums where it has been for five long years.

It snowed and there was a dust storm on the same day in Colorado. This, we are sure you will agree, is carrying this double-feature business too far.

Dad can hardly wait until Christmas. It's still a whole month to go before he can start playing openly with the electric train he bought for junior.

With wars continuing in Spain and China we've come to the conclusion that the dove of peace, which flew away many months ago, is not a homing pigeon.

The man at the next desk says air travel is too disillusioning. He flew over Niagara Falls recently and thought it was a leaky faucet.

CLIPPED from other COLUMNS

WHO'S QUEER?

"Queer street is full of lodgers just at present," Dickens no doubt would have replied to opinions that the man who spoke out of turn at an Armistice ceremony in London was a lunatic. The man's words could hardly be cited to prove it. They were: "Stop all this hypocrisy; you are deliberately preparing for war." At another ceremony an "eccentric" shouted: "The dead are all right, you cannot do anything for them. What about me, I haven't had any breakfast."

The unvarnished good sense of the remarks should not be overlooked because of their timing. The speakers would not have been adjudged unbalanced for silently thinking such things, for what millions are thinking is not called madness.

A well-known high official observed of one of the men that he was obviously suffering under a delusion—which is rather to say he was suffering under a different sort of delusion from that under which high officials sometimes suffer. The unfortunate fellow's delusion appears to have been that nations arm themselves in preparation for war, when what we are all supposed to know is that they arm only in preparation for peace. Then, too, he was wearing a raincoat on a clear day. A man is mad to prepare for a rain in time of sunshine even if a nation is wise in following the god old slogan, "In time of peace, prepare for war."

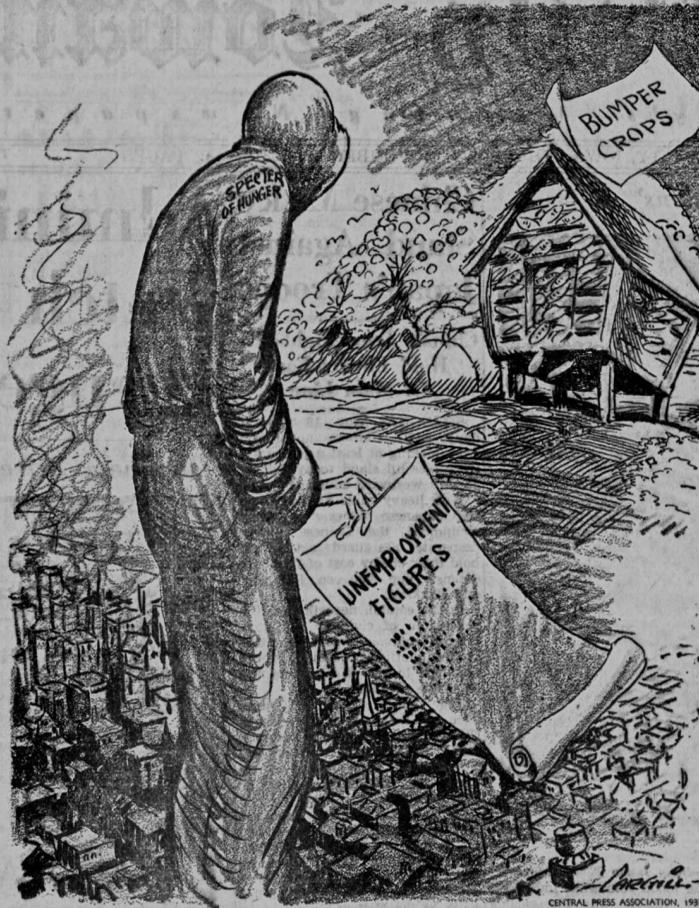

To have omitted his breakfast until 11 o'clock may have marked the other man also as a little "daft." But one cannot be sure he could help it, and the rest of his remark has a point many sane people have made in discreet undertones to themselves. The world is still loath to let its "dead bury their dead" and turn its attention to living ideas.

Many quieter folk may entertain a shamefaced feeling at not having spoken their minds in season as these men spoke theirs out of season. And of course it is the "in season" utterance that counts. The course of history will not be deflected by a couple of disturbances at public ceremonies. Among those who paused to salute the memory of World War soldiers are many thousands whose determination to aid peace and the present well-being of their brothers was in no way hindered by participation in a few moments of solemn rites.

Yet it would be a sign of something less than sanity to imagine that the cries of these two "eccentrics" sprang only from some derangement of their own. They were oversimplified the situation, perhaps. Like so many other critics with higher recognized mental ratings, they offered no alternative course of action. But the derangement that drives men to such utterances is shared by too much of the world to be ignored. Its healing is one in which we all may share, and by which we all may benefit.

A CHALLENGE TO OUR CIVILIZATION!

Prevent Cancerous Growths At Outset by Meticulous Care

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D. SINCE WE DO not know the cause, it seems at first thought a little absurd to talk about its prevention, but there are a number of things which may precede the actual formation of cancer and, according to many, are instrumental in its formation. There are irritations, blemishes of various kinds, chronic and repeated injuries, etc.

The commonest sites of cancer are on the skin, especially on the face and hands, in the mouth, in the breast, the womb and in the digestive canal. The prevention of cancer of the skin depends upon removing blemishes.

The commonest form of cancer of the skin is the earliest of all cancers to cure, if taken early. It usually occurs in the form of little rough patches, usually in middle-aged or elderly people, and particularly those who are subject to a rough skin.

If one of these little patches should begin to bleed persistently, a doctor should be consulted at once.

Irritations, Skin Blemishes Irritation of the skin over the bridge of the nose from glasses, pigmented moles, warts and other skin blemishes, are the foci around which cancer often starts. Somebody said that no beautiful woman ever suffers from cancer of the skin because she pays immediate attention to any skin blemish.

A common form of cancer is on the lips at the place where two forms of skin meet. A rough pipe mouth or cigar or cigarette holder is liable to cause an irritation which becomes the site of a cancer.

Clean and smooth teeth are the most important thing in preventing cancer of the mouth. Whenever you find a sore spot in your mouth, you should certainly consult a physician about it.

Tuning In with Margie Fastenow

If it's not so easy for you to show a zest for life at 7:45 in the morning, catch Lucille and Lanny on the NBC-Blue network any weekday at that time and see how it is done! The musical couple, who lately have been presenting fresh and original songs on Town Hall Tonight with Walter O'Keefe Wednesday nights, are just as sprightly in their morning spots. Lucille does the singing and Lanny the piano playing and arranging.

For a boy who was stricken speechless during his childhood, Jack Rubin is doing all right as the fast-talking Morris Levy in the O'Neills serial over NBC. Jack broke into radio 10 years ago as an assistant on the program on which he now stars. The O'Neills are heard every day except Saturday and Sunday over the NBC-Blue network at 10 o'clock and over the NBC-Red network at 2:45.

Like a great many others in show business, Maestro B. A. Rolfe says he isn't superstitious but—he walks gingerly around a black cat, always manages to get by a ladder without walking under it, never whistles in dressing rooms and even spends some of his leisure time delving into astrology!

A true cosmopolitan is Kitty Carlisle, movie queen starred on the CBS "Song Shop" program. Born in New Orleans, she received her education in Switzerland, Paris, Rome and London. Her dramatic training was acquired at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London and she's now furthering her vocal studies with Mme. Schoen Renee in New York!

Rumors persist along Chicago's Radio Row that Jack Fulton, the handsome young singing star of "Poetic Melodies" on CBS, will become maestro of his own orchestra very shortly. A sponsor is deeply interested in building Jack up as a band leader as well as a singer!

Betty Winkler may grace a New York stage this winter. The pretty star of "Girl Alone," popular NBC dramatic show, was recently queried by a Metropolitan producer, who two weeks later sent her a script to read. Now the only thing that stands between Betty and Broadway is radio commitments!

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Bette Davis, from New England, was in slacks in her dressing room, but on the wall hung a pretty little number—with hoops—that was the latest thing from Paris for a New Orleans belle of 1842. In a few minutes Bette would have to put it on, and she liked that part of her role in "Jezebel" very much. At the same time she would have to put on a southern accent. And that, she admitted, was more difficult, although she has done it twice before. Once in a stage play, and then in the movie "Cabin in the Cotton."

The problem, as she sees it, is to speak naturally enough not to offend southern ears, and at the same time—"if your talk isn't strongly accented the rest of the country won't accept it as southern," she said. So she's striving for the middle course.

To aid her there is Dalton Raymond, a Louisianian making a movie career here out of his hobby, the study of diction in various parts of the south.

When Bette tried out her drawl, it struck these bayou-country ears that a New England girl who is an actress can do right well by Dixie dialogue.

Valuable Scrapbook It cost Sophie Tucker $52 to have her "past" shipped out to Hollywood. It came in innumerable scrap books, now filling an entire closet in her home, and covering the record of her 30 years as an entertainer—from her first appearance at $12.50 a week on through her rise to eminence as the "Mary Garden of Ragtime," the queen of coon-shouters, and so on to her present movie prominence.

It's been only fairly recently that Sophie let a secretary take charge of her press clippings. She used to paste them in personally. "If there's anybody owes the newspapers a debt of gratitude," says Sophie, "I'm the one. I used to use those press clippings to get my raises. I'd just take 'em in to the managers—and I'd get what I asked for, every time!"

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Barging into a tavern during gag week, I edged my chair up to a crowded table just in time to hear Baron d'Granni tell about the baby who swallowed the fountain pen.

Frantically calling the doctor, the father explained what had happened.

"But it seems incredible that a child could swallow a fountain pen!" gasped the medic.

"I know it, but he did it—come quickly, doctor, can you come right away?"

"No," said the doctor, "I'm going into the operating room now, and so I can't reach there in less than an hour. This is really terrible. What are you doing about it?"

Royalty Later the talk turned to Royalty and one of the newspapermen told of an assignment to interview the Ranece of Sarawak, in Borneo, who is visiting Linton Wells, the writer, and his wife, who used to be Fay Gillis, the aviatrix, in New York.

"How do you address her?" "As Your Highness," the scribe explained. "That is, you say Your Highness the first time you see her, but after that you say Ma'am."

"But the Highness is compulsory the first time, eh?" someone wanted to know.

The scribe thought a minute. "There is one way out," he said at last, "if you insist on being a heel. You walk in and say, 'Well, Ma'am, here I am again.'"

Song Writers Two late arrivals at the gag session conclude were a couple of song writers. They looked weary from excessive toil.

"Whew," sighed one, "it is a luxury to relax." "What have you been doing?" piped up Abner Glib, the Human Styne. "A new show?" "No," he replied, "Joe and I compose strictly for our own amusement." "Of course," butted in Joe, reaching for his cigaret lighter, "we get awfully bored sometimes." Margaret Pemberton has taken on an overwhelming assignment. She intends to keep the cast of 40 people in "The Women" abreast of the times, as per style, in their stage clothes at least.

Plays Last Game For Iowa

Climaxing a brilliant record in Hawkeye football history, Dick Anderson (above) will be playing his final football game for the University of Iowa in the game with Nebraska at Lincoln Saturday afternoon. A letter-winner for three seasons on the Old Gold eleven, Dick has been the mainstay of the Hawkeyes forward wall this year with his sterling defensive play.

'One of Best' Iowa Freshman Squads In History Will Turn In Suits Today

One of the best freshman football squads in the history of the university will turn in their suits tonight after the last practice of the season. From every angle this squad has been very pleasing to the coaches. The backs are speedy and powerful, and there are numerous big, fast linemen who have given the varsity forwards trouble this year.

When asked about the quality of the 1937 freshman squad, Freshman Coach Waddy Davis said that if Iowa could get as good a bunch of freshmen every year as they have this year, it would not be long until Iowa was one of the best teams in the nation.

Waddy then went on to name several men who, from their work this year, have proven that they have the ability to be great football players if they can continue to improve as they have this year.

Among the men mentioned as having done outstanding work this year are six backs, three ends, four tackles and four guards. The backs include Mike Enich, Carl Blandin, Carl Sullivan, Jerry Niles, Garfield Hillery, and Lloyd Woodiwiss. Enich is a fullback, and the rest are halfbacks.

Outstanding Ends Ken Pettit, Jens Norgaard, and Howard Wakefield have been the outstanding ends this season. The only thing they seem to lack is speed on offense, especially on passes.

The tackles this year apparently are far above average. They include Phil Strom, Bill Holzhauer, Richard Grest, and Frank Coppola. All of them are big husky boys with lots of speed and spirit.

The guards, probably the weakest group on the squad, are Harold Mann, Keith Rickard, Herman Snider, and Max Hawkins. The coaches have been somewhat disappointed with these boys, but are hoping that a year's growth and added experience will help them.

The centers also have been weak, but their steady improvement throughout the season indicates that they are likely to develop into capable pivot men.

Included on the first drill team are Bob Christians, Al Armbruster, Walter Foreman, Bill Callen, John Gray, Merlin Armbruster, Ernie Draves, Lincoln Stewart, C. Nelson, George Brown, Melvin Witte, Victor Linnenbom and J. Hill.

Hod Shots

By G. K. HODENFIELD

When the Iowa football team ends its 1937 season at Lincoln, Neb., this Saturday, Dick Anderson's mother, who has never seen him play a game in the eight years that he has participated in the grid sport, will be in the Cornhuskers stadium watching him play his last collegiate game.

Next to Minnesota, Nebraska is Iowa's oldest football rival. Saturday's game will be the 24th in the series. Iowa has won six, Nebraska has won 14 and three games were ties. Nebraska has won the last four, three of them by one-point margins. The last game in the series was in 1934 when the Huskers won, 44-13.

It was in the 1933 game, when Dick Crayne was the sophomore sensation of the Big Ten, that I first saw an Iowa eleven in action. That game ended 7 to 6 for the Huskers and was featured by a hot dispute over the extra point made by Nebraska. George Sauer was back to hold the ball as Bernie Masterson attempted to kick the placement. The ball came back wild from the center and Sauer couldn't hold on to it. Masterson picked the ball and ran it around his own left end for the extra point that won the game, while the Iowa fans in the stadium went wild.

There was a lot of talk about that play, but as usual the officials won, and the point counted. Ever since that cold, windy day in Lincoln four years ago I have wanted to see an Iowa team beat Nebraska and I have a hunch that at last I have my chance. Nebraska is undoubtedly the better of the two teams — on paper. The Hawkeyes will be making a last desperate attempt to win a major game this year, though, and there is no denying that with a few breaks they would have broken into the win column a long time ago.

For those football fans who are not going to the Nebraska game there will be plenty of action on the practice field east of the stadium Saturday afternoon. The mechanical department of The Daily Iowan has challenged the news room to a football game — to be played with uniforms and everything (except rules). John Mooney, former sports editor of The Daily Iowan will be the spearhead of the shop's team. Maybe his experience on the Iowa football team earlier (much earlier) this fall, will stand him in good stead.

The Iowa spirit is at a very high pitch as they taper off for the encounter with the Hawkeyes. It would perhaps be a good thing to follow the instructions of Pat Boland, line coach: "This is your football team. Don't ask them what they are going to do, tell them." Remember that if you see any of the players on the campus today.

Reds Change Park; Move Home Plate Nearer to Fence

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 17 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds, whose failure to hit "in the clutches" plummeted them to the bottom of this year's National league heap, laid the groundwork today for a potential barrage of home runs on Crosley field, their home lot, in 1938.

General Manager Warren C. Giles announced that directors had approved moving home plate 20 feet farther from the stands and ordered also that the playing diamond be "turned" considerably to the right.

Survey Shows Football Facts

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—The University of Michigan's investigation of athletic subsidies, and attendant claims that eastern institutions are robbing the west of some of its best football material, has made a check-up on the geographical origin of some of the eastern gridiron performers timely.

A survey of the rosters of the seven schools in the informal "Ivy League" — Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Dartmouth, Columbia, Cornell and Pennsylvania — reveals the following interesting information:

The offensive formations of Yale and Dartmouth, two of the east's few unbeaten survivors, have been built largely around Clint Frank and Dave Colwell, for the Elis, and Bob MacLeod and Fred Hollingworth, of the Indians. Frank's home is Evanston, Ill.; Colwell, whose prodigious punting, hard blocking and defensive play have made him a standout, comes from Loveland, Col.; MacLeod, best Dartmouth ball-carrier, hails from Glen Ellyn, Ill., and Hollingworth, the Greens' ace passer, from St. Louis.

The key man in Harvard's cleverly-masked reverses and fake reverses is blond Vernon Struck, who personally gained 217 yards against Princeton. Struck comes from Centralia, Ill. Birmingham, Mich., is the home of Bill Lynch, drop-kicking fullback and one of the few bright spots on a weak Princeton team. Elliott Hooper, crack guard who attends so well to most of Cornell's punting, hails from Aurora, Ill.

Other "Ivy Leaguers" who come from beyond the Alleghenies and have been valuable performers this season are: Yale: Johnny Miller, Columbus, Ohio; Gil Hymphrey, Cleveland and Bill Dickens, Alexandria, Minn.

Dartmouth: Charley Miller, Seattle, Wash.; Dick Campbell, Wilmette, Ill., and Phil Dostal, Glenoe, Ill.

Harvard: Arthur Oakes, Oak Park, Ill.; Rick Hedblom, Chicago, and George (Chuck) Klein, Milwaukee.

Columbia: Gerry Seidel, Chicago, and Cloyd Snively, Massillon, Ohio.

Penn is the only one of the seven whose varsity performers all make their homes in the east.

Ramblers Will Have 'Green' Cage Material

Coach Francis Sueppel Must Build Around One Regular

Coach Francis Sueppel cast a fond eye on his record book containing clippings of his strong cage teams of years gone by last night, as he dubiously expressed his hopes for the chances of his "young and inexperienced" St. Mary's basketball squad for this season.

With only four lettermen back from his last year's squad and only one of these a regular, Coach Sueppel will be forced to count a lot on his freshmen and sophomores to uphold the impressive record he has made in the past 11 years as basketball coach at St. Mary's.

Seventeen cage hopefuls have been reporting to him regularly for practice since the second week in October. They are as follows: Capt. George Holoubek, regular guard and letter winner on last year's quintet, Paul Hennessy, Jack Buck and George Chadek, all letter winners as substitutes last year, Virgil Ameton, Don Schmidt, Gerald DeFrance, Raymond Cole.

Pat Bannon, Bill Buck, Bill Schindhelm, Jim Chadek, Bob Knoedel, Leo Lenoeh, Bernie Rittermeyer, Clayton Cobert and Vernon Coffey.

Priestley Talks On Solutions of Life's Troubles

Novelist Says 'Fourth Dimensional' Mind Is Answer

A fourth-dimensional view of life as a permanent artistic pattern is a possible solution of the "present deplorable state of the world," J. B. Priestley declared in the opening university lecture before a crowd of 1,500 persons in Iowa Union last night.

"Life is a completed story with a beginning and ending which can be seen as such by persons with fourth-dimensional minds," the noted English novelist, dramatist and critic asserted.

"To two-dimensional people any approach from the view of the third-dimensional individual must appear as a series of changes in time," Mr. Priestley said.

"The English writer related a dream in which he heard a telephone ringing. When he awoke, he was not dreaming, and in three minutes the telephone did ring. "Only in dreams can we be aware of the future and past. Dreams are a mixture of the future and past out of focus."

"I am not a mystic — I haven't even an artistic or religious temperament, but I do want a theory of the universe that will answer my own questions," Mr. Priestley confessed. The "fourth-dimensional" man was his proposal.

"A clew to the mystery, and I do believe life is a mystery, is the human consciousness," he explained.

"The present state of the world reminds us of that curious Biblical legend of the tower of Babel," the English writer asserted. The condition is to man's state of mind and a false picture of life.

"The world is in danger of a collapse of all civilization.

"There are plenty of evidences to suggest that there is a dwindling of our international morals," he said.

Guests of honor at a Pershing Rifles dinner honoring initiates last night were the five candidates for honorary cadet colonel who will reign supreme at the Military Ball in January. Left to right (back row) are Adele Anderson, A4 of Honey Creek; Col. George F. N. Dailey, professor of military science and tactics; Jannes Savery, A4 of Atlantic; B. Blaine Russell, A4 of Win-

Coeducation Called Frivolous

Priestley Favors British Informal Study Plan Over American System

By MILDRED HOLLY
Daily Iowan Campus Editor

America's scheme of education is too frivolous, and students have many things to do. The English method of informal study is much more preferable.

That is the belief J. B. Priestley advanced over a sandwich and a glass of beer in quiet, informal interview last night after he delivered the opening university lecture of the year.

"When I went to Cambridge many was the time that I shut myself up in a room with a liberal supply of beer and studied for days at a time. Well do I remember the time I studied the Elizabethan theater that way," he said in reminiscing of his own college days.

"We never thought of girls at Cambridge. They came to the college for the big dances, and we all had a good time. But after the party was over, we all went back to our studies and forgot the girls. It is different here in America. Students always have something to do, even after their classes are over," Mr. Priestley confessed as he smoked his favorite pipe.

Compulsory class attendance should not be necessary for university students, he said. "In Cambridge I hardly ever went to a lecture but spent most of my time reading, surrounded by an atmosphere of great minds and great thinkers and with the best libraries of the world within reach."

Another thing the noted English writer cannot quite understand is the American attitude toward drinking. "Why, if my doctor could see me eating ice cream and cake at night, he would immediately tell me I was poisoning myself and advise me to take whisky and soda," he said.

"I am also surprised at the way Americans drink strong coffee," he continued.

Changing the subject, Mr. Priestley said the English people are not alarmed about an approaching war. "We in England all want peace. People in New York wonder about the danger of being bombed. In England we think nothing about it, and we are only two hours away from such a disaster," Mr. Priestley said.

The English writer will leave this morning for Chicago to speak at Northwestern university, returning to Iowa for a lecture in Cedar Rapids. "As soon as I finish my lecture tour, I am going to my ranch in Arizona to rest. I might do some writing, I don't know."

From his Arizona ranch he will go to New York to supervise the production of two of his latest plays, both of which are now running in London.

Pohler Elected To Head New Tavern Group

New Organization For City And County Cooperation

Henry Pohler of Iowa City was selected yesterday to head a newly-formed Iowa City and Johnson County Tavern Owners' association at an organization meeting at the Moose hall. Other officers elected were: Charles James, vice president and Arthur W. Smith, secretary and treasurer.

The purpose of the new organization, as outlined in the charter, includes formation of better trade policies and closer cooperation with city and county officials.

Ivan Schmidt, Kenneth Ingham, Harold Donnelly and Don Alberhasky were elected as the board of directors.

Six members were selected as members of a fair trade committee. They include Charles Seemuth, Roy Burns, Smith, Schmidt, Alberhasky and Henry Musack.

Davis Will Talk At Quad Mixer Tonight at 7:30

Coach J. E. "Waddy" Davis will speak at an athletic mixer of Quadrangle men tonight at 7:30 in the Quadrangle lounge.

Medals will be presented to the Lower A touch football team, this year's Quadrangle champions. Another feature of the program will be the showing of moving pictures of the Iowa-Washington football game.

P. T. A. Group To Talk Safety

St. Mary's Parent-Teacher association will meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the home of Mrs. Bruce Mahan, 303 Melrose avenue.

Mrs. L. M. Dunn will conduct a discussion of the topic, "Organized Safety for Organized Parents and Teachers." Discussion will be based on material taken from the safety manual published by the Iowa Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Sergeant Faber of the highway patrol will speak on "Safety on the Highway."

Dean Teeters Will Speak on Pharmacy At Meeting Tonight

Dean-Emeritus Wilber J. Teeters of the college of pharmacy will discuss the growth and importance of pharmacy at the all-day meeting tonight at 7:30 in the north conference room of Iowa Union.

Members of the Scottish Highlanders will entertain and Darold Jack, A3 of Cedar Rapids, will play popular piano selections. Arthur Rideout, A3 of Dubuque, will explain the new organization of the Y.M.C.A.

Group singing and refreshments will close the meeting. All university men are invited.

S. U. I. Chapter Of Chemical Engineers Will Meet Tomorrow

University of Iowa student's chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers will meet tomorrow at 4:10 p.m. in room 123C, chemistry building.

John S. Alexander, E4 of Ft. Madison, will speak on "How Food Technologists are Made," and William S. Bowden, E4 of Steamboat Springs, Col., will talk on "Realities and Possibilities in the Natural Gas Industry." W. Burke Grandjean, E3 of West Liberty, will also speak.

What was Coach Irl Tubbs' greatest problem in coaching the Iowa Hawkeyes this season? What does he think of the "thrills and spills" of working in a Big Ten school compared with a smaller school? And most important of all—what does he think of Iowa's team?

These are some of the questions Coach Tubbs will answer on tonight's 8 o'clock University of Iowa Sports Review when he is interviewed by Jack Drees, A4 of Eau Claire, Wis.

"The Water We Drink" is the topic for discussion on this afternoon's Junior academy of science program at 4 o'clock. Prof. J. J. Hinman of the college of engineering is the speaker. Originating in WSUI studios, the program will be broadcast over the network of WSUI and WOI.

What to do when your child won't eat — you'll hear suggestions on how to meet the problem from Gertrude E. Chittenden of Iowa State college during the meeting on the Radio Child Study club this afternoon at 2:30. The half-hour broadcast will be carried by stations WSUI and WOI.

Carl Cloe, A3 of Knoxville, pianist, will appear on tonight's evening musicale at 7:30 with a program of five selections. He will include "Fantasie in C Minor" by Bach; "Prelude," Op. 28, No. 9, and "Etude," Op. 10, No. 12 by Chopin; "Liebestraum" by Liszt and "March Grotesque" by Sinding.

SUI and University of Chicago Debate Teams To Meet Today

Henderlider and Kistler Will Be Speakers For Iowa

Clair Henderlider, A2 of Onawa, and Addison Kistler, A4 of Council Bluffs, are representing the University of Iowa in a debate this morning with the University of Chicago debate team. Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of debate, accompanied the team to Chicago, to participate in the Western conference debate.

This afternoon the Iowa speakers will again parley with the University of Chicago in a debate which will be broadcast from station WBBM. The question to be discussed is, "Resolved, that the several states should adopt unicameral systems of legislation."

The radio debate will be run on a streamlined pattern in which the speakers are allowed two minutes to introduce their issues and may be interrupted to answer questions for the remaining five minutes of their time. They will have two minutes in which to give the rebuttal.

Last night the team met the Northwestern debate team.

Religious Group Will Gather For Peace Discussion

Betty Proctor of Lunenburg, Mass., field secretary for the Iowa, Illinois and South Dakota colleges for the student peace service of the emergency peace campaign, will conduct a discussion of peace problems Sunday at 7:45 p.m. in Betty Proctor the religious activities office in Iowa Union.

Her subject will be "Deadly Perils—What Can Be Done About Them?" The public is invited to take part in a forum after the talk.

Miss Proctor will meet with the international relations commission of the religious activities board at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Y.W.C.A. conference room. The international relations commission is working with Miss Proctor to plan a peace program for University of Iowa students.

A graduate of Massachusetts State college, Miss Proctor is chairman of the Maqua Region of the Y.W.C.A. and has worked for the emergency peace campaign since June, 1936.

Grads To Try For Fellowship

Annual Lydia Roberts Award Given Only To Iowans

Students who have been graduated from any Iowa college or university may now apply for the Lydia C. Roberts graduate fellowships to Columbia university in New York, N.Y.

The blanks may be obtained from the secretary of Columbia university and must be filed on or before March 1. The fellowships are granted annually and provide a minimum stipend of $750.

The fellowships are granted to white persons of either sex who were born in the state of Iowa, and who are in real need of financial assistance to pursue advanced study in Columbia university.

When the award is accepted, the holder must state his purpose to return to Iowa for a period of at least two years after he has completed his studies in the university. He must also sign an agreement not to accept another fellowship

Town Coeds To Hold Meeting At Currier Monday

Town Coeds will hold a regular meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the recreation room of Currier hall, Miriam Palmer, A2 of Newton, president, announced yesterday.

Girls who are not residents of dormitories and who are not affiliated with a sorority are invited to attend the meeting as there will be a discussion of matters important to the group.

Sanders Sent By Colleagues

Delegate of Journalistic Group Will Attend Radio Meeting

Prof. Charles L. Sanders of the school of journalism has been appointed to represent the National Association of Teachers of Journalism at the second national conference of educational broadcasting in Chicago Nov. 29, 30 and Dec. 1.

Other faculty members attending will be Carl Menzer, director of station WSUI; Pearl Bennett Broxam, WSUI program director, and Prof. Ralph Ojemann, director of the Iowa Radio Child Study club.

Twenty-seven national educational associations are conducting the meeting with 83 national organizations cooperating. George F. Zook, United States commissioner of education, will be chairman of the conference.

Professor Sanders will serve as an observer for his association reporting such of the conference's proceedings as are pertinent to radio's relationship with journalism.

Religious Push Solicitors Will Meet at Union

Sororities, Fraternities, Co-Op Dorms Have Contributed Funds

All solicitors for the religious activities drive will meet today at 4:10 in the north conference room of Iowa Union. "Final instructions will be brief," Hillis Hauser, A3 of Marshalltown, solicitor chairman, promised.

All members of Kappa Alpha Theta, Alpha Chi Omega, Phi Epsilon Pi, Delta Chi, Beta Theta Pi, Alpha Tau Omega and Wilson house, men's cooperative dormitory, have contributed to the religious activities drive.

Returns from Pi Beta Phi, Delta Gamma, Phi Delta Theta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and the Manse, men's cooperative dormitory, were incomplete last night.

Tonight the solicitors include Herbert Boettcher, C4 of Traer, Zeta Tau Alpha; Kenneth Reid, A3 of Rose Hill, Alpha Xi Delta; Arthur Rideout, A3 of Dubuque, Sigma Delta Tau; George Prichard, A2 of Onama, Gamma Phi Beta.

Ferne Frazier, A4 of Lost Nation, Sigma Chi; Katherine Kraft, A4 of Des Moines, Sigma Nu; Mary Clare Appar, A3 of Marshalltown, Phi Gamma Delta; Betty Grisinger, A3 of Burlington, Pi Kappa Alpha; Ida Prouty, A3 of Council Bluffs, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Margaret Leeper, A2 of Waterloo, Theta Tau, and Nancy Patton, A3 of Davenport, Whetstone house, men's cooperative dormitory.

Schramm Will Conduct 1st Of Book Reviews

Prof. Wilbur L. Schramm of the English department will compare the books of 1937 with those of other years this afternoon at 4:10 in the Iowa Union library in the first of a series of book chats conducted by the Union.

In discussing how "An Editor Looks at the New Books" Professor Schramm will give special attention to the books of this fall.

New Union library books, which are among those Professor Schramm will discuss are "Remembering Laughter," Wallace Stegner; "Citadel," Alexander Cronin; "The Arts," Hendrick Willem Van Loon; "Northwest Passage," Kenneth Roberts; "Steamboating on the Mississippi," William J. Petersen of the Iowa State Historical society; and "The Life and Death of a Spanish Town," Paul Elliot.

Mrs. Gilbert Dean, librarian, will introduce the speaker. Tea will be poured by Beth Browning, A2 of Iowa City, member of the Union Board library committee.

Invited guests will attend the book chat. Students desiring an invitation to the book chat should ask Mrs. Dean.

A 'Big Apple' And 'Truckin' Contest Takes Hawk Farewell Ball To Union

The Hawkeye Farewell Ball will be held Wednesday in the main lounge of Iowa Union instead of in the fine arts building, John Simmons, A2 of Osceola, chairman of the Pi Epsilon Pi party, announced yesterday. A "Big Apple" and a "Truckin'" contest necessitate the change.

Pi Epsilon Pi is reviving an old tradition of honoring the football players and the coaching staff by giving the Hawkeye Farewell Ball.

Carl Nebbe's band from Ames will play for the informal party. Continuous dancing will be accompanied by balloons, confetti, streamers and a special floor show.

Tickets are on sale at the main desk of Iowa Union. Members of Pi Epsilon Pi and auxiliary are eligible to purchase tickets.

And even if the man at the automobile show can't show you what the new bathtub looks like, he can demonstrate where your bathtub would be installed, if you could afford one — if you could afford a de luxe trailer at all. A house and lot in the country is only a little more expensive. But, of course, no romance in that.

Under The Bed The super-super in trailers, designed by a concealment engineer, has a bathtub installed—guess where. Under one of the "collapsible" beds. Because the bathtub is beneath, this bed doesn't collapse, so if you go in for cleanliness, you can't carry so many passengers. (A collapsible bed ordinarily sleeps two.)

We forgot. Perhaps the family can double up on the dining table. That collapses, so dad can have a bed.

But to get back to baths. Just slide the mattress off the bed and there is a bathtub, faucets and all. The water—you can have a warm bath if you remember to turn on the gasoline heater the day before — comes from a 40-gallon tank, hidden under another bed. Practically like a sea voyage.

Better Go Easy But—mother uses a few gallons for dishes. And the rest of the family must at least wash face and hands. So you have to go easy on the 40 gallons. The demonstrator says you don't need much water for a bath. Two gallons for little brother, three for mother, or something like that.

Of course, there's the problem of keeping the water on an even level while the trailer bounces along a rocky road. The demonstrator says trailers with tandem wheels don't bounce. He didn't demonstrate.

If you want to be alone, when you bathe, you'd better pick a brook instead of the bathtub. Sliding doors? Not a sign.

Maybe the rest of the family will turn their backs. After all, you're utilizing valuable space in the bedroom, and the bedroom is a living room by day, as well as a kitchen at meal times, so you can hardly expect to be alone.

Showers Are Kinder Trailers with showers are a little kinder to the shy American. The shower is built into a closet. But if you have a figure slightly better—or worse—than a perfect 36, no shower.

Perhaps it's too much to expect everything of a trailer, even a 1938 model. After all, if you wanted all the comforts of civilization, you'd stay home.

All-American Debate Under Way as Grid Season Nears Close

Forthcoming Climax Games Will Have Bearing on Choices; Kinnick Listed Among Backs

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—The All America debate for 1937 approaches the semi-final stage with the contest for most positions on the mythical collegiate gridiron squad still very much in doubt. Climax games this week and next will have vital bearing on the outcome of the race for all-star honors.

Of last year's two All-America holdovers, Yale's mighty captain, Clinton Edwards Frank of Evans-ton, Ill., seems a certain repeater. Frank has played amazing football this season under all conditions as well as heavy pressure. Only Dartmouth checked the Eli leader on the ground and against the Indians his passing helped save the day for the Blue. Frank closes his varsity career against Harvard this Saturday.

Joe Routh of Texas A. & M., All-America guard in 1936, has come bounding down the stretch at a sensational pace, to make up for some lost ground, but it remains to be determined whether he can overtake a number of rivals now conspicuous in the Associated Press all-star roundup. They include his own teammate, Virgil Jones, as well as Capt. Leroy Monsky of Alabama, Al Lezowski of Pittsburgh, Francis Twedell of Minnesota, and Vard Stockton of California.

Good Backs in East
The east, with five unbeaten teams in the nation's "first ten," has produced an outstanding crop of backs, tackles and ends this year. By contrast the middle west and especially the Big Ten has not contributed as much material as usual to the all-star debate. The old south has produced exceptional ends and linemen. The southwest has developed a flock of fine backs and ends. In the far west, most of the discussion centers around the stars of three teams—California, Colorado and Santa Clara.

Here's a sectional summary of the principal prospects:
East: Pick of the "ivy league" talent comprise Yale's Clint Frank, Columbia's versatile Sid Luckman, Cornell's Brad Holland, Negro end, and Dartmouth's Bob MacLeod, fleet halfback. Chief among the individual reasons for Pittsburgh's high ranking are Marshall (Biggie) Goldberg, powerhouse halfback; Tony Matisi, tackle; and Frank Souchak, end. Fordham's great line features Alex Wojciechowski at center and two superb tackles, Ed Franco and Al Barbatsky. Villanova has twin standouts in John Mellus, tackle, and John Wysocki, end.

Nile Kinnick
Southwest: Ernie Lain, Rice sophomore, has been the backfield sensation in this rip-roaring sector. His return to action, after missing the first three games because of an injury, touched off Rice's drive to the conference lead, and topped the performances of Davey O'Brien, Texas Christian; Bill Patterson, Baylor; Hugh Wolfe, Texas; Dick Todd, Texas A. & M.; Dwight Sloan and Jack Robbins, Arkansas. Other southwest stars: Jim Benton, Arkansas, and Sam Boyd, Baylor, ends; I. B. Hale, tackle, and Al Kidrich, center, Texas Christian; Routh and Jones, guards, Texas A. & M.
Big Ten: Minnesota lost a potential All-American back, Andy Uram, who broke his wrist in mid-season, but the Gophers have three standouts up forward in Capt. Ray King, end; Francis Twedell, guard; and Lou Midler, tackle. Harold Van Every, sophomore Minnesota back, has shared conference ball carrying honors with Jim McDonald of Ohio State, best known for his blocking; Corby Davis, Indiana; Cecil Isbell, Purdue; Don Heap, Northwestern, and Stark Ritchie, Michigan. One of the most promising sophomore backs is Nile Kinnick of Iowa. George Miller, Indiana center, has been conspicuous for his place kicking.

Nebraska Linemen
Big Six: Pete Smith, Oklahoma end, has been a consistently fine performer. Nebraska also has a topnotch wingman in Elmer Dohrmann, although Center Charley Brock and Tackle Fred Shirey have caught the eyes of more observers.
Midwest "independents": Detroit's running back, Andy Parkas, was going great guns until an injury slowed him up. Jack Pingel of Michigan State has been a triple threat star all season. For Notre Dame, Andy Pupils has had some big days, while Charles Sweeney at end and Ed Beiner at tackle turned in other exceptional performances.

Monsky of Alabama
Southeastern: Linemen have captured most of the expert praise, headed by Capt. Leroy Monsky of Alabama, guard; Capt. Carl Hinkle, Vanderbilt's "iron man" center; Bo Russell, tackle, and Ralph Sivell, guard, Auburn; Eddie Gatto, tackle, Louisiana State; Bill Jordan, end, Georgia Tech; and Frank Kinard, tackle, Mississippi. Best backs include Joe Kilgore, Alabama; George Cafego, Tennessee; Fletcher Sims, Georgia Tech; Walter Mayberry, Florida, and Jim Fenton, Auburn.
Southern: Andy Bershak of North Carolina, at end, is rated among the best performers this conference has ever produced. Leading scorer is Paul Shu, sophomore and one-man backfield at Virginia Military. Honey Hackney, Duke, Eddie Berlinki, North Carolina State, and Crowell Little, North Carolina, are also highly regarded.

"Whizzer" White
Rocky Mountain: Not since the days of the renowned Dutch Clark has this area seen the likes of Byron (Whizzer) White of Colorado university, now the country's leading scorer and a Phi Beta Kappa student who knows all the answers, on or off the gridiron. Other noteworthy performers: Ferdinand Dreher, end, Denver; Karl Schleckman, tackle, Utah; and Gene Moore, center, Colorado U.
Pacific coast: Most observers give major credit for keeping California in the unbeaten class to Halfback Sam Chapman and two guards, Vard Stockton and Claude Evans. The Golden Bears, tied only by Washington, also have standouts in Vic Bottari and John Meek, backs, and Harry Schwartz, right end. Phil Dougherty, center, occupies the key role for Santa Clara's unbeaten-untied team. Bud Erickson, center, and Vic Markov, tackle, are Washington's main contributors to the all-star argument. Star backs include Joe Gray, Oregon State; Ambrose Schindler, Southern California; and Merle Miller, Washington. John Ryland at center for U. C. L. A., and Frank Peters, Washington end, also are prominently mentioned.

3 Tilts Played In Quad Loop

Upper D nosed Upper C, 17 to 16, in the feature game of last night's Quad basketball games. Bob Martens sank a long shot in the closing seconds of play to win the game. John Olson scored nine points to lead the scoring for the losers. Hal Born played a good defensive game for Upper D and Dean Holdiman's floor game stood out for Upper C.
In what proved to be a walk-away for Upper B, Upper A was beaten 31 to 9, with Don Purvis and Zeke Bailey leading the scoring for Upper B. Justin Tolman and Don Weiss played good ball for Upper A.
Leading 8 to 0 at the end of the first period Lower A went on to defeat Lower D 22 to 9 in the final game of the evening. The shooting of Sam Snyder was more than Lower D could cope with as he ran up 10 points in the game. Roland Boyens' floor play was good for the victors, who had too much power for Lower D. Mike Enich and Bob Cowan played an important part in the attack of the losers.
Features of the games were the zone defense of Upper C which held the high scoring Upper D aggregation to 17 points, and the scoring power shown by Upper B and Lower A in their one-sided victories.

Jack Manders And Don Hutson Lead Scorers

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Jack Manders, ace back of the Chicago Bears, and Don Hutson of the Green Bay Packers, took the lead in individual scoring and pass receiving in the National professional football league last week, according to statistics released today.
Manders tallied 16 points in Sunday's game with the Brooklyn Dodgers to take a 58-57 lead over Clarke Hinkle, Green Bay fullback. Dutch Clark, player-coach of the Detroit Lions held third with 45 points.
Hutson passed Gaynell Tinsley of the Chicago Cardinals, having caught 31 passes to the former L. S. U. star's 28. Hutson needs only four more to break the mark of 34 he established last season. The Packers also have the leading passers in Bob Monett and Arnie Herber with an efficiency of 50 and 47 per cent, respectively. Sammy Baugh of the Washington Redskins, has completed 61 passes but rates third in efficiency with 45.1 per cent, just a fraction ahead of Pat Coffee of the Cardinals, who has a mark of 45 per cent.

He Who Laughs Last

N. Y. State Athletic Commission Closes Meetings to 'Scribblers'

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—One of the supreme joys of sports writing has been kicked out of bounds. No longer will scribblers be permitted to smirk, cackle and roar over the weekly goings-on of the New York State Athletic Commission, which has tickled more funny bones than the most hilarious pie tossing comedy ever filmed.
All of us felt like the kid who was told he couldn't eat ice cream any more when the commission announced henceforth all its meetings would be closed to the press.
The commission's meeting, starting General John J. Phelan, Bill Brown and Colonel D. Walker Wear, always is funny because it's a gathering of three truly honest but easily rattled gentlemen with boxers, wrestlers, managers and promoters who are past masters in the art of phrasing and skulduggery. There's no question of the commissioners' honesty because they make so many mistakes and because all are well to do business men.
Phelan's Nose Twitches
General Phelan, the chairman, is an elderly man whose facial expressions play strictly around his twitching nose. He's a brassiere manufacturer. Commissioner Brown, an excitable, red-faced health resort owner from Garrison, can't stomach criticism. Colonel Wear, wealthy manufacturer from Binghamton, is the quietest, most subdued and most conservative. Without him, all meetings would be chaotic as well as hilarious.
Greatest of the attractions is the general, who to this day denies a story that when his world war division landed in France he got so mixed up that he yelled "squads right" and almost marched them back into the Atlantic ocean. Unlike the general, the general's favorite expression is "please, please!"
At a recent meeting two fight managers were calling each other bums and thieves when the general bursted in with:
"Gentlemen, please, please! I'm as intelligent as any of you!"
"It's Simple, Gentlemen!"
Another time, the general wrangled for almost a half hour with two boxing managers. Then Colonel Wear interrupted and in six concise words cleared up the whole dispute.
"See?" demanded the general, clapping his hands. "See how simple it is, gentlemen?"
One of the general's great delights, since the legislature made it possible, is to summon folks to his meetings. But it's nothing for him to forget all about a summons and to ask the bewildered quarry why he came.
"Why did I come?" demanded one. "That's what I'd like to know."

Colleges Win Equal Control For Olympics

A. A. U. and National Collegiate Athletic Each Get 6

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Colleges won equal representation with the Amateur Athletic Union today on committees controlling American competitors in eight major sports at the Olympic games.
The American Olympic association gave the A.A.U. and the National Collegiate Athletic association six members each on committees in charge of men's track and field events, men's swimming, men's gymnastics, boxing, wrestling, basketball, field handball and ice hockey.
It provided also that a thirteenth member should be appointed by the Olympic association's president, subject to approval by two thirds of the other committeemen.
In the past the A.A.U. has had the main say concerning almost all Olympic sports teams. Colleges have been turning out more and more of the point winners in a number of sports, and accordingly demanded increased representation.
The compromise approved today was put forward by T. Nelson Metcalf of Chicago, representing the colleges. It had been worked out previously by representatives of the A.A.U. and the N.C.A.A.
The Olympic association rejected a proposal by Dr. John G. Brown, secretary of the International Board of the Y.M.C.A., to allow the colleges and the A.A.U. five committee members each and to permit the association's president to name two additional members. Brown sought representation for organizations other than the A.A.U. and N.C.A.A.
The association reelected its officers by acclamation, to serve for the next four years. They are Avery Brundage of Chicago, president; Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft of Princeton, N. J., vice-president; Frederick W. Rubien of New York, secretary, and Gustavus T. Kirby of New York, treasurer.

St. Pat's Cagers Hindered By A Lack of Height

Stressing fundamentals and ball-handling, Coach Ryan sent his St. Patrick's cagers through a brisk workout last night. As yet Ryan's search to discover a set of class forwards has been futile, although some of the boys are rounding into shape, and a tentative Irish lineup should be in order by the end of this week.
Although the southsiders are lacking in height this season, this handicap should be offset by the speed and cleverness of the smaller members of the squad. With a speedy attack, the abilities of James Bradley and Howard Demery should fit nicely into the Irish style of play. As in former years Demery has shown he still possesses his uncanny basket eye, which should prove invaluable throughout the coming season. Bradley's clever footwork should also help the Irish cause.
The first scrimmage of the year will be on tap for the Green and White basketballers tomorrow night. This scrimmage should determine, to some extent, the men who will play the principle roles in the coming games.

Whetstone Holds Off Manse Rally To Win, 21-19

Whetstone, co-op basketball champions last year, managed to stave off a last minute rally by the scrappy Manse quintet to win their first game of the current season, 21-19. The champions trailed Manse for two thirds of the game and started to click only after Harry Fischer, rangy forward, was inserted into the lineup. Fischer counted four times from underneath the basket.
Throughout the game Manse's agile forward combination of Harry Ward and Skip Adrian, gave the Whetstone guards a busy evening, counting nine points apiece.
Drake Scrimmages Freshmen

LATEST NEWS FROM

BIG TEN SQUADS

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 17 (AP)—Tackle Alex Schoenbaum, whose injured ankle has kept him out of uniform since the Illinois game, participated in a long practice session today as Ohio State drilled on "razzle dazzle" plays for the contest Saturday with Michigan at Ann Arbor, Mich.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 17 (AP)—As the University of Michigan coaching staff worked today on a defense for Ohio State's forward passes and open plays that puzzled the squad yesterday, the mentors found that for the first time this year they did not need to prod the players into showing enthusiasm.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 17 (AP)—Acting Coach Mal Elward topped off a lengthy Purdue offensive drill today with the warning, "We have only a remote chance of beating Indiana Saturday."

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Nov. 17 (AP)—Coach Bo McMillin drilled his Indiana footballers on defense in a secret session today in preparation for the annual Purdue game Saturday. "It looks bad for old Indiana in the Purdue game," he said.

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 17 (AP)—Coach Lynn Waldorf went back to one of his earlier backfield combinations today, and indicated it would be in the starting lineup against Notre Dame Saturday, after watching the Northwestern squad whip through its final stiff practice session of the season.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 17 (AP)—Everything went wrong today—fumbles, poor passing and bad blocking—as the Illinois squad put in two hours of work in preparation for Saturday's game with Chicago. Against Maroon defensive formations, the varsity was stopped on all except a few occasions, its own loose play being largely responsible.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 17 (AP)—Coach Harry Stuhldreher selected 35 members of the University of Wisconsin football team today to make the trip to Minneapolis for the season's finale against Minnesota next Saturday. Only five of the number are seniors.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 (AP)—Chicago's Maroons hustled through their last dress rehearsal of the 1937 football campaign today, stressing passes, forward and lateral, which Coach Clark Shagness has prepared for Saturday's battle with Illinois.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 17 (AP)—Anticipating a deluge of forward passes by the University of Wisconsin football team here Saturday, Coach Bernie Bierman continued to drill the Minnesota gridgers in defensive maneuvers against Badger plays.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK By R. J. Scott

What Has Happened Thus Far: French suitor from whom she has been probing military secrets, Nina Azara, beautiful young Spanish singer, makes a flirtation that involves him in a duel with a handsome young Don. Meantime she comes with the Marquis de Melito and undertakes to go to Bayonne as a government spy. On the way the driver of her coach fights a nest of bandits.

Chapter Three

"Drive on! Hurry!" cried Nina. The driver needed no urging. He whipped up the mules. Nina and Lolo were clinging for dear life as the coach rolled from side to side. "They're heading us off!" The boy behind us. "And, look! There's one behind us!"

In the dust, in the distance, a solitary rider was following the coach at top speed. Knowing he couldn't possibly escape the brigands, the driver pulled the mules to a stop. As the lone rider approached, the driver and the boy put their hands up in sign of surrender. But as he whirled up to the coach in the next moment, the driver defied his hat and bowed smilingly. Nina was bewildered, unable to believe her eyes. For the lone rider was Don Diego.

"You!" Nina exclaimed. "It's really me," Don Diego smiled. "I wasn't killed. As a matter of fact, I never got to that duel, I escaped."

"For a moment the bandits had been forgotten. "Thank heaven you've come!" Nina said. "Come! Do you think I could stay away after that kiss?" Don Diego said with passionate fervor. "Nothing could discourage me after that. I don't care about that other man. I don't care how many men there are in your life!"

"Well," Nina broke in drily, "there are about twenty of them, right here!" She pointed toward the fast-approaching brigands.

"And if you don't care about them, I do!" she exclaimed. Quickly, Nina handed Don Diego, in full view of the pursuing brigands, her money bag. As the leader of the brigands caught this transaction, he yelled for his band to follow the Spaniard. Riding hard, blundering his way through the woods, Don Diego managed to throw them off the trail. An hour later, Don Diego caught up with Nina's coach, which had proceeded along its way to Vittoria. Nina welcomed him warmly, and in the eyes of the driver and the boy, Don Diego was a hero.

Nina's stop in Vittoria was a brief overnight one. Her mission there was to pick up a confidential message from a servant at the inn. The latter was prepared to recognize her. As he brought up her bags and found himself alone with her he whispered:

"The king will leave Madrid soon. It has been arranged for him to stop here in Vittoria before he crosses the border into France. If you get any information you are to send it here, so we can keep him from going any farther."

"And the means of sending it—"

"Go to the market place in Bayonne. There will be a man selling chickens and live stock. He will have carrier pigeons ready for you. He will know you if you say 'Vittoria!'"

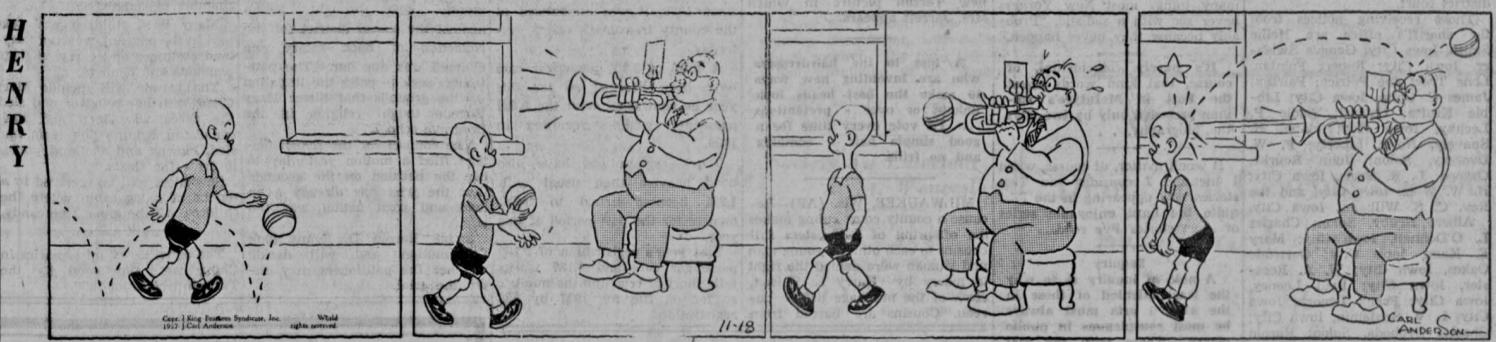

The problem for Nina now was to escape from Don Diego, whose company, the beautiful young spy would not help admitting to herself, was becoming increasingly enjoyable. But he might seriously interfere with the carrying out of her mission.

As she prepared to leave for Bayonne, and he rose up smilingly to her side she said determinedly: "This has to be good-bye."

"You can't go off this way and leave me stranded," he retorted. "I'm sorry. There are reasons why I can't possibly have anyone with me."

"When am I going to see you again?"

"You go back to Madrid," said Nina, her heart softening, though the lines of her mouth were firm. "When I come back, well . . . per-

AROUND THE TOWN

with MERLE MILLER

Yarn
That old newspaper yarn about the biggest being the simplest when it comes to men is no untruth, seems to me... Of all the university lecturers I've met in the last two years and more none have had the unpretentious cordiality of Louis Adamic, John Erskine—and last night J. B. Priestley...

We went down for what we thought would be a five-minute chat in his hotel room—and remained in a local restaurant, reminiscing over a pipe and a glass of beer for more than an hour... Priestley is no pedantic stuffed shirt... In the campus colloquia he'd probably best be described as a very "good Joe." A regular fellow...

But John Boynton Priestley had time to chitchat about war, sensible drinking, literature and the American way of living, appearing quite as if those with whom he talked were also established novelists...

It proves again, I feel, that true greatness has a way of rubbing out the superficialities... the really important ones don't have to prove it—ponderable, incidentally, for many campuses—faculty and student alike...

Comfort
There's a comforting note in this week's sketch of Columnist Odd McIntyre, not the worst American columnist but not far from it... It's delightful to know someone of importance also "taps awhile, then wanders about the room, drinks a glass of water, taps some more, whistles, takes a fresh stick of gum, skips through a magazine and taps again."

The Post article, in passing, is in its way the worst knifing McIntyre has received—and will probably make several thousand new readers for him... For, as every columnist knows, bad publicity is much better than good. (N. B. Editors of Frivol.)

Automobile Registration High

McIntyre will never quite live down Winchell's biting comment that, "In a current mag there is a photo of a columnist toiling at his chores... The reason you know he is working, and not posing, is that his scissors and paste are within easy reach."

It is reported also that Dorothy Parker once answered a matron's remark that McIntyre noticed so many things most New Yorkers never see with a sadistic, "Probably because they never happen."

It's purely coincidental, of course, that kind words about the Post in McIntyre's column preceded only by two days the biography...

It won't matter, of course, when I mention I consider the Tish stories now appearing in the Post quite the most enjoyable series of short stories I've read...

Inquiry
A note of inquiry as to why the least talented of those in the alleged arts must always be most conspicuous in public places. Those with the real ability spend their time in the quiet places, have little time for long hours of long talk over coffee in local cafes...

Whitehand
Robert Whitehand, for example... He's probably the most promising young man on the campus, is rapidly gaining a reputation for himself among the editors as a coming writer... Yet he's rarely seen displaying his talents in public...

As a matter of fact, Bernard Shaw's contention that anyone who's outspoken at 20 will probably be a boor at 40 is near the kernel of the thing...

I'm for a course in the university for teaching cigarette-smoking sororities how to hold their cigarettes and puff with intelligence...

Too numerous also are the campus intelligentsia who concentrate on the soft-talk, little action because their parents have money enough to keep them that way...

Admiration
One of the men about the campus whom I most admire plays an excellent game of basketball, manages to attend most of the campus lectures, con-

Local County Reveals Gain

9,405 Autos Licensed; Highest Recording Since 1929

More passenger cars have been registered thus far in 1937 in Johnson county than in any year since 1929, it was announced at the county treasurer's office yesterday.

A total of 9,405 passenger cars have been licensed so far this year as contrasted with the 9,531 passenger vehicles recorded in 1929.

Truck registrations have also been heavier than usual with 1,221 licenses issued to truck owners for the past period of this year.

Last year's registration of 9,289 passenger cars and 1,187 trucks falls short of reaching the number so far on file for 1937 by 150 registrations.

4 File Petition To Enter Case In Court Here

Robert Cambell, Thomas Taylor, John Cambell and Frank N. Crow filed a petition in Johnson county district court yesterday for intervention in the litigation which Sister Mary Eugene Schwartz brought against the Cosgrove independent school district.

Sister Mary Eugene some months ago brought action against the school district for the collection of back salary she claimed was due her. The petitioners seek to enter the litigation on the grounds that Sister Mary Eugene taught religion in the Cosgrove school.

The counsel for the school district filed a motion yesterday to bar the petition on the grounds that the trial has already been held and such action was too late.

Judge Harold D. Evans took the motion, and will decide whether the petitioners may enter the trial.

Santa Claus Will Parade In Iowa City Down Town District With Children in Costumes

Merchants Will Sponsor Pageant, Will Give Children Candy

Santa Claus is coming to town Dec. 3! A gigantic parade a mile long and containing some 40 floats has been planned for that day by the retail trade division of the chamber of commerce.

Many local children will take part in the pageant, wearing fairy-land costumes and carrying flags, pennants and banners. The parade will include Mary Claus with her reindeer and sled, the three wise men and their camel, an Eskimo dog team and sled, clowns and shetland ponies to draw the floats.

Spectators will be received in a replica of a log cabin where the children will be given free candy.

The activities of missionaries in China were sanctioned by the Tientsin treaties of 1858.

Mystery Woman
HUNTINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Threatening pencil notes found on a telegraph sheet in a restaurant resulted in police taking an attractive young woman into custody for questioning. She was released quickly, however, after she revealed she had been reading a detective magazine and had made the notes on a telegram to help her in solution of a murder mystery problem.

JIM PHONED AT 5 O'CLOCK — "I'M BRINGING THE BOSS TO DINNER"

My new Gas Range cooked it in 30 minutes!

MY BROILER IS DOUBLE-FRY

• MY NEW SPEED BROILER grills foods in half the time it took in my old range—and there's no smoke to make me feel "kitcheny." Oven walls are insulated, so I work comfortably in a cool kitchen.

• HEAT CONTROL gives me exact oven temperature. The oven pre-heats in half the time it used to take. The porcelain enamel finish makes my new gas range easy to clean. It dresses up my whole kitchen—and its cost was amazingly low.

Dear Ray: -- The photographs of the Iowa girls went out yesterday by parcel post, special delivery, and I hope they reach you by the sixteenth, as you wished. It was a difficult job to make the selections. In the first instance, it had to be done on the set where I am working 'between takes'. And in the second instance, one needs coloring and personality, I think, in making such a selection. Anyway, it was all done in a spirit of good sportsmanship and I am sure the girls will understand that it was. The camera boys on the set snapped me during the business of making the selections and I am sending you the picture to tie in with the display. The other is for yourself in appreciation of your interest in wanting me to make the selections. With best wishes and hoping it will all come to a 'happy ending' (the title of the picture we are working in with Sonja Henie) insofar as the girls are concerned. Yours sincerely, Don Ameche

Helpful Hints For Handy Housewives

For a seasonable relish put three cups of cranberries through a food chopper. Follow these with one orange which has been cut in half and freed of seeds.

To save time in making starch for a large family wash first make a very stiff starch.

Be sure to have plenty of storage or closet space in your "rumpus" or "whoopie" room. If built-in closets are not available use portable ones for holding games and cards.

Always wipe off the clothes line with a damp cloth before hanging up the laundry.

Light-colored knitted woolen clothes require frequent launderings.

Make steamed puddings several days before they are to be used. Store them in a cold place and, when it is time to serve them, reheat them for 30 minutes in a covered mold or a double boiler.

Always grasp the plug — not the cord — in removing electric cords from outlets or utensils.

Glazed pineapple quarters are an excellent garnish for the scrambled eggs and sausage platter to be served after the movies or the snowball party.

Winter Again Milady Braves Chilly Blasts in Style

Jack Frost is with us again, ready to tweak ears and freeze fingers and toes on the long walk to school.

Big, silky, fuzzy mittens, as soft as kittens' fur and dyed a courageous crimson, will make you feel ready for an arctic exploration.

Muff gloves have a double meaning. The soft, fleece-lined glove of red kid is stylishly reinforced by a black fur cuff wide enough to meet the cuff of the other glove and form a muff when pulled forward.

Do you suffer from chilblains? It's absolutely unnecessary when there are new angora socks of all colors to wear with your school flats.

Looking Glass Reflections

By VERA SHELDON

Collegiate clothes are full of surprises this season! Did you know that tight tube skirts are in again — straight and slim as needles? To wear them you have to be a little time out and give your figure a thought.

If it has grown a bit sloppy, and you have taken on that fatal pound or two, reach for your toes a few times nightly, and your waistline will shrink while you watch.

Shoulders are smooth, broad and padded again. Tight, straight sleeves and high necklines accentuate their moulded appearance. Rows and rows of beads and gold chains ornament hidden throats.

For your winter wardrobe choose garments which can be worn comfortably under a coat. Any of the fitted dresses will serve the purpose. Choose them for their minute details. Two-piece effects are clever and all signs point to their revival.

Waistlines are running riot this year—anything goes, from the empire high waist to the low draped waist that comes at the neckline and is reminiscent of 1928.

Suits are more popular this year than ever before. Favorites are three-piece, which can be worn in several variations and are economical for the college girl.

Overblouses have seen a revival. Following a joint business meeting, both groups will enjoy a social hour with Mrs. M. N. Adams in charge.

HOSTESS HINTS

Brrrr! Jack Frost is taking possession of the field these days. So on to battle, cooks! Brace up your soldiers for the fight to keep warm and happy.

Chicken Soup: 1 grated onion, 1 bay leaf, 1 grated carrot, The dark meat and carcass of a chicken

1/2 tsp. kitchen bouquet, 1 slice of bacon, 1 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. pepper

Cut the meat of the chicken into small pieces, throwing away the fat and skin. Crack the bones and put bones and meat with the bay leaf, onion, carrot, bacon and pepper into a skillet and cover with two quarts of cold water; bring to the boiling point and simmer for an hour and a half.

Strain and put back over the fire to boil for half an hour or until reduced to about one quart. Add salt and kitchen bouquet and serve very hot.

Mutton Broth: Neck of mutton, 1 onion, 2 turnips, 1 carrot, 3 stalks celery, cut up, 1 bay leaf, 1 cup cooked rice

Salt and pepper to taste. Wash the neck of mutton and cut it into small pieces. Put it in a soup kettle with three quarts of cold water; bring to boiling point and skim carefully.

Let simmer for three or four hours and set aside until cold. Skim every particle of fat from the surface. Return to the fire, add all the ingredients and let simmer for an hour. Strain and serve very hot.

Barley Broth: Use the recipe given for mutton broth except that you use no rice and instead add four tablespoons of barley before you set the neck of mutton to simmer for three or four hours.

Local Beautician Wins 2 Trophies At Convention

Mrs. Hope O. Shoup, Iowa City hair stylist, is the winner of two of the five trophies presented at the Iowa Hairdressers and Cosmetologists convention.

Mrs. Shoup's coiffures were modelled by Mrs. R. E. Adams, 220 Melrose court, and Mrs. J. H. Toier, 523 S. Lucas street.

At a state convention in Des Moines last spring, three of the five trophies were won by Mrs. Shoup.

Mun, Your Story Is News, Too! Let Them Know It! Lots of people tell us, "Gosh, it must be a hard job to write a newspaper!" Well, they're wrong. Our big job, getting out a paper, is to gather, edit, set up, print and distribute the news before it's cold. It isn't hard to write the news—because real news writes itself! All our reporters have to do is answer the vital questions "Who? What? Where? When? Why?" Then they let the facts tell their own story. Now—the text books may not say so, but all that goes for advertising, too! Cloth your advertising message with the fast-moving informative authenticity of a live news-story—and it's our bet that your goods will move quicker! Why? Because readers are hungry for news and every advertiser's story, well told, is news! Tell 'em WHO: Make sure the reader sees YOUR name! Tell 'em WHAT: Let every reader, every buyer know what your stuff looks like, what color it is, what it's made of—in a word, how good it is! Tell 'em WHERE: How can a stranger find your store if she doesn't know the address? How can a reader find your merchandise if she doesn't know the department? Tell 'em WHEN: If your "special" starts tomorrow tell 'em so and tell 'em how long it will last. And finally, tell 'em WHY: Tell 'em and sell 'em all the reasons why every man and woman ought to own, use and enjoy your merchandise! As we've mentioned, writing the news isn't hard—when you know how. And every member of our advertising staff does know how! Every one of them is trained to do a good NEWS-writing job, trained to help you write your message so that it will be read and understood . . . and acted upon as NEWS! Get news into your advertising! Let The Daily Iowan help you. Let us help you sell more goods at less cost that gets read because it's NEWS! The Daily Iowan

30 Law, 2 Criminal Cases Announced for November Courts

Harold Evans, District Judge, Assigns Trials

30 Indictment Is Included in Present Criminal Group

Judge Harold D. Evans yesterday announced the first assignment of 30 law cases and two criminal cases for the November term of the Johnson county district court.

The state of Iowa against Soran and the state of Iowa against Brumbach are the two criminal cases which will be heard at 2 p.m. Monday by a jury. The 40 law assignments are scheduled to be heard beginning Dec. 6 and continuing Dec. 13. Five cases are scheduled for each day.

The law cases follow: Kneja against Short and others; Stevens against Short and others; Russel against Beltz and others; Moore against Sweeting; Schindler against Fuhmann; Ho against Schleuter; Burns and McDonnell Engineering company against city of Iowa City; Stevens against Johnson and others; Patrick against Hill and others; Breeding against Benson and others; Scott against Gorman; Sievers against Johnson and others; Ash against Rogers; Schrader against Barnes; Barnes against Yoder; Chiropactic Psychopathic sanitarium against Schneider and others; Rice against Aicher; Gilman and Whitties against Wolfe; Frederickson against Zeithamel; J. A. Edwards estate against the claim of Grey, administrator of the Hutson estate; Andrew, receiver of Farmers State bank, against Smykyl and others; Snell against Moss; Iowa

DO YOU KNOW?

Few City Drivers Heed Amber Signal

Are you one of the few persons in Iowa City who knows what the amber-colored "warning" light on the traffic signal means? Try standing on any busy street intersection, and you probably won't count more than a handful of drivers who drive as though they knew the meaning of the amber light.

Of 10 automobiles which passed the Washington and Dubuque street intersection yesterday at 1:30 p.m. three drivers paid no attention whatsoever to the lights, four drivers anticipating the amber light, went ahead as if they got the "go" signal. Only three drivers waited for either the "stop" or "go" sign to flash.

Demonstration Scheduled For Scout Meeting

The last indoor meeting of the Boy Scout training course will be held at the Henry Sabin school tonight at 7:15. Gordon L. Kent, district commissioner, will be in charge.

A part of this meeting will be a demonstration of patrol leaders meeting in which plans for the troop activities are made. Plans for the outdoor meeting of the training course will also be made.

Land company against Jones; Hoffman against Roessler; Adams against Kasperek; Mohnssen against Reis and others; Mohnssen against Walker and others; Hirth against Downey; Hutton against Hoaglind and Locher against Williams. The November term will be unusually heavy, according to Judge Evans.

Mayors at Conference Demand Federal Relief

Mayors W. B. Hartsfield of Atlanta, J. M. Jones of Birmingham, Angelo J. Rossi of San Francisco and E. B. Erwin of Salt Lake City.

In conference in Washington, mayors of 150 U. S. cities placed in congress' lap a demand for immediate large federal relief funds to relieve crisis. The sentiment of delegates was unanimous that local communities could not stand any additional relief burdens. Seen, left to right, are Mayors W. B. Hartsfield of Atlanta, Ga.; J. M. Jones of Birmingham, Ala.; Angelo J. Rossi of San Francisco, and E. B. Erwin of Salt Lake City, Utah. Mayor La Guardia sees a hard winter ahead.

Plan Rites For Hills Resident

Dietsch Burial Will Be At St. Stanislaus Cemetery

Funeral service for Mrs. Anthony Dietsch, 63, will be tomorrow at 9 a.m. at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Hills. Burial will be in St. Stanislaus cemetery.

Mrs. Dietsch died yesterday at 3:30 a.m. in her home in Hills following a brief illness.

When she was 11 years old she came to United States with her parents from Alsace-Lorraine, France, where she was born April 4, 1874. Since coming to the United States, she has resided in Johnson county.

The Hills woman was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic church in Hills and of the Christian Mothers' society.

Surviving are Anthony Dietsch; three daughters, Mrs. Esther Hotchkiss of Springville, Mrs. Mildred Klein and Mrs. Evelyn Draker; two sons, Walter Dietsch and Clarence Dietsch, all of Hills, and nine grandchildren.

Posters Will Urge Health

Campaign Against Venereal Diseases Begins This Week

Posters asking Iowans to join the crusade against venereal diseases will be displayed in the Iowa City public buildings this week.

With permission of the mayor, the state department of health is sending out the posters, designed by Glen McNeley, WPA artist. They represent one approach in the campaign headed by Dr. Walter L. Biering, state health commissioner, to create frank public interest in syphilis and gonorrhea.

Two posters have been prepared. In heavy black letters one poster proclaims, "Safeguard Iowa's Most Important Future Crop - Help Stamp Out Syphilis and Gonorrhea." According to the second poster, the athlete pictured is taking the "Step out of the Shadow into the Light of Science."

Red Cross To Have Classes

Armbruster Announces Life Saving For Next Summer

The life saving committee of the Johnson county chapter of the Red Cross will probably sponsor beginners' classes in life saving again next summer, it was announced last night by Chairman D. A. Armbruster.

Last summer's classes in life saving, held at the Big Dipper in the city park, under the direction of Ruby Patterson and Ed McCloy, were attended by nearly 100 boys and girls. Beginners passing the examination numbered 51 boys and 15 girls.

Donovan's Plea Denied by Court

John H. Donovan's plea to set aside deeds from husband to wife was denied in the Iowa Supreme court Tuesday.

The court affirmed the refusal to partition land order for sale in the case of Nell Murphy against C. H. Howell of Johnson county.

The first Protestant missionary to China arrived there in 1807.

'Quiet Please' Theme of 1938 Autos

New Cars Emphasize Engineering Progress in Soundproofing

"Shh-h-h!" has evidently been the rallying-whisper of automotive engineers during the past year, for the new 1938 cars are said to be all-time models of muffled quietness when on the road.

Engine-throb, road-drumming, rattles, squeaks and all the other disturbances that once confined highway conversation largely to a shrieked "what-say?" have been banished from the sleek new models on display at the auto show.

Starting from the interior and working out, we find that ordinary interior noises, such as cries of "John, don't drive so fast!" are kept to a polite conversational level by the headlining, the carpeting, and the upholstery on the cushions. Here's how it works: a good husky sound-wave comes plunging at the cushion, but instead of bouncing off and ringing all over the place, it finds itself broken up by the tiny upright fibres of soft mohair velvet, and wanders around aimlessly seeking a surface on which to bounce. Hence the term "baffle," as used in sound engineering.

Next are the manifold devices that still the noises engendered in the car itself. These include sound-deadening lining material that kills noises caused by the vibration of solid-steel bodies and powerful engines.

Finally come sound engineering designs that minimize the noises bound to occur when a driver gets on a road that looks fine on a map but causes the wheels to sing the "Washboard Blues." One manufacturer has removed this noise source by determining the points on a chassis at which the least vibration is found and anchoring his body structure on those points. Thus road noises are minimized before they ever reach the body.

These little-known, unsung improvements are not the result of guesswork, or designers' dream-inspirations. They are the product of hard, painstaking research, abetted by elaborate equipment.

For example, one of the large motor companies has a series of "quiet rooms" so thoroughly isolated from outside noises that the hearing becomes acute enough to magnify the tick of a watch to the clatter of a threshing machine in the observer's ears. After 10 minutes in one of these rooms, the blood seems literally to pound through the ears. Alternating layers of sound-proofing material and air space accomplish this absolute quiet.

Here all kinds of sound experiments can be carried on, and iso-

R. M. Perkins Talks Tonight

Will Discuss War On Crime at Lecture In Old Capitol

"New Battle Lines in the War on Crime" will be discussed by Prof. Rollin M. Perkins of the college of law at the Baconian lecture in the senate chamber of Old Capitol tonight at 7:30. The lecture will be illustrated by slides showing the material used by the expert for comparison and study in various criminal cases.

The slides Professor Perkins will use are from the Northwestern university scientific crime detection laboratory in Chicago, Ill.

Professor Perkins, who has been a member of the college of law since 1916, has among his publications "Cases on Criminal Procedure," published in three editions, "Iowa Criminal Justice," "Iowa Peace Officer's Code" and articles in various legal periodicals. He was retained by the state of Iowa to annotate the penal provisions of the Iowa code of 1924.

Professor Perkins—prosecutor, teacher and author—is an authority in criminal law and criminal procedure and has been active in promotion of a better administration of criminal justice. He has served as legal adviser to the American Law institute, director of the attorney general's survey of release procedures and chairman of numerous committees of professional organizations dealing with some aspects of crime.

Yates Lecture Scheduled For Tonight at 7:30

Frank Yates, chief statistician of the Rothamsted Experimental station of Harpenden, England, will deliver a graduate college lecture tonight at 7:30 in room 311, physics building. His subject will be "Combinatorial Problems Encountered in Design of Experiment."

Yates has published many papers concerning the analysis of statistical data. He is recognized as a leader in the idea that experimenting should be so designed that the data may be analyzed to yield inferences which may be expressed in terms of mathematical probability.

Required Reading

DENVER (AP) — Mail order catalogues are on the reading lists of some eastern Colorado schools, Virgil M. Rogers, superintendent of schools at Moulder, Colo., reports.

"I am told that some school districts have so few books that they have to use the mail order catalogs as supplemental readers," Rogers says.

Pharmacy Students Arrange Display Of Cameras, Pictures

Cameras and colored pictures is the theme of the window display this week at the pharmacy-botany building.

On exhibit are different styles of cameras, colored films and examples of colored pictures. The background for the kodaks and film display is colored crepe paper.

Larry M. Wheeler, P2 of Iowa City, Courtright Hawley, P4 of Iowa City, and Olon E. Zager, P2 of Ainsworth, are the students who installed the display.

What, No Bagpipes!

The Scottish member of the international debate team, Harold Munro of Glasgow university is shown in his native attire, the bright picturesque kilts. "I wear it nearly six months of the year. I don't mean just in warm weather, but I have it on about half the time — never on formal occasions however." His little Welsh partner, David Sealand-Jones of the University of Wales is looking on, broadly grinning.

Britishers Aren't Tea-Totalers

Debaters Look in Vain for Molding Prairie Schooners in Our Back Yards

By BETH BROWNING
"Everything stops for tea." But much to the surprise of their Iowa hosts, the international debaters from Great Britain didn't drink tea.

"I come from an institution where they brew their own beer, but when I found that your beer was four per cent alcohol, I became contemptuous of your whole educational system," David Sealand-Jones of the University of Wales, wisecracker of the team declared.

When asked how they brewed their beer, they answered, "Well, our's varies — from 98 to 99 per cent."

Unlike the international debaters of previous years, they are not unfamiliar with coeducation and highly approve of it, since their universities have long had it as a part of their institutions.

The first thing Harold Munro of Glasgow university, said in an interview yesterday was, "And you want to know what I think of Wally and the Duke of Windsor?" His answer to the unasked question was, "Well, you Americans probably know more about them than we of Great Britain do. Our papers are trying to build up a new king and seldom have more than a two-inch story telling where he is and what he is doing."

"We weren't surprised when we didn't see any Indians running through the brush, but we did expect to see covered wagons molding in back yards and bison roaming around."

"We thought Iowa would be halfway between a desert and a jungle. Now we don't know what to expect when we go through the Ozarks and the Blue Ridge mountains," the British pair said. The Britishers left yesterday afternoon for Galesburg, Ill.,

Wednesday at 8:45 p.m. in room 11, music studio building.

Plans are being made for the group to sing at university basketball games and for a series of radio concerts.
