Japanese Army Will March Troops Through International Settlement On Victory Parade

American Protests Are Disregarded While Plans Continue

By JAMES A. MILLS SHANGHAI, Dec. 3 (Friday) (AP)—Plans of the Japanese army command to send 8,000 troops on a "victory parade" through the International Settlement today confronted Shanghai with fresh international friction.

Protests of American and other foreign officials apparently had no effect on Japanese arrangements to march infantry, cavalry, artillery and tanks along a six mile route through such famous streets as Bubbling Well and Nanjing Roads and the Bund, with Japanese warplanes flying overhead.

On the westward-moving battlefront between Shanghai and Nanking the war was fought mostly in the air. Japanese reported a victory over Nanking, where they said six Japanese pursuit planes shot down 13 Russian-made planes recently added to the Chinese air forces.

Chinese dispatches from Hangchow, capital of Chekiang province, reported more than 1,000 Chinese civilians were killed or wounded in a Japanese air raid on Hsiao-shan, 12 miles southeast of Hangchow. The Chinese said 1,100 buildings were destroyed and that 500 dead or injured persons already had been taken from the debris.

Two Chinese warplanes made the first air raid on Shanghai in over a month, trying to hit Japanese positions but apparently without damage.

Mediterranean Coast Bombed By Insurgents

MADRID, Dec. 2 (AP)—Insurgent warplanes from the Palma Mallorca, base swept the Mediterranean coast from Barcelona almost to Valencia today, bombing and machine gunning eight villages.

Official dispatches reported insurgent craft were driven away from Barcelona three times by anti-aircraft batteries.

When the raiders appeared over Castellon government planes were reported to have driven them out to sea. An American base hospital in one of the bombed towns escaped damage.

Another American unit narrowly escaped destruction last week end in the Madrid sector. Three bombs fell within 50 feet of two buildings occupied by nurses and doctors tending international brigade wounded from Cuesta de la Reina.

Although artillery resumed shelling of Madrid only minor damage was done. Insurgent planes appeared over Madrid during the early morning but up to nightfall no bombings were reported here.

PARENTS PICK DATES First Dates Arranged Gives Start

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2 (AP)—Parents of children too shy to make their own dates should arrange a few for the children themselves, the Rev. Roy Burkhardt of Columbus, Ohio, recommended today.

"After that," he said, "watch their dust."

"If a girl doesn't get a date she becomes isolated and develops an inferiority complex," the Rev. Burkhardt told mothers at the National Teaching Mission. "Many boys are too shy to make dates."

Signs Pact ROME (AP)—Italy yesterday signed a commercial accord with Austria similar to the one concluded with Hungary in November.

CLASSIFIED DRUNKS

You Drink - This Judge Will Rate You

BALTIMORE, Dec. 2 (AP)—Judge Eugene O'Dunne of the supreme bench listed eight "degrees" of drunkenness today in an opinion upholding a murder conviction, as follows: "Under the influence of liquor (one drink or several). "Intoxication. "Neither drunk nor sober. "Half drunk. "Drunk (including maudlin drunk, fighting drunk and singing drunk). "Dead drunk. "Crazy drunk."

Milkman Says 'Bugs' Moran Threatened Corcoran's Life

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 2 (AP)—A milkman's sensational story that George "Bugs" Moran of Chicago threatened more than a year ago to "bump off" Patrick J. Corcoran climaxed a session late today of the coroner's inquest into the slaying November 17 of the Minneapolis labor leader.

Frank Dorrance, the milk wagon driver, gave the account of a "ride" that ended peacefully. Two other labor leaders told the jury of threats against their lives and named the men who made them.

Dorrance said Corcoran told him that Moran and several others seized the union head at the labor temple one-day in September, 1936, and drove him around town all one afternoon.

"They told him," the witness related, "that if he did not quit organizing milk and ice cream drivers they would take him for a ride. He (Corcoran) asked us not to say anything about it."

Corcoran, then associated with the milk wagon drivers union, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, was released unharmed. At the time of his death he was vice-president of the State Federation of Labor and held several other high union positions.

Dorrance told reporters after leaving the stand that "the boys put a gun" on Corcoran when they took him from his office.

Earlier, William Maueuth and Hilliard Smith, Committee for Industrial Organization leaders who have demanded an inquiry into what they called "racketeering and gangsterism" in the Minneapolis labor movement, named Joe Bellini and Al Frotto as men who had threatened to "rub them out" if they did not "play ball."

Rap Southern Dairy Subsidies

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—A proposal to "keep the government from subsidizing the south's entrance into the dairy business" won tentative house approval today despite protests of administration leaders it would wreck the federal farm program.

By a vote of 114 to 95, the chamber adopted a farm bill amendment by Representative Boileau (Prog-Wis) which would withhold federal benefit payments from farmers who planted dairy feeds on land formerly devoted to cotton, corn and wheat.

The vote came after Boileau had spent most of two days arguing benefit payments to farmers who turned cotton acreage to dairy production would constitute a federal subsidy for competition against established dairy interests.

Democrats supporting the bill declared the amendment would make all benefit payments—under the present soil conservation act the new legislation—uncertain.

Chairman Jones (D-Tex) of the agriculture committee and Representative Hope (R-Kan), the committee's ranking minority member, both joined the fight against the Wisconsin progressive but failed to hold their colleagues in line.

Santa Claus Here Today

Nursery Rhyme Characters Will Greet Kiddies In Xmas Parade

Iowa City's pre-Christmas pageant - parade, featuring Santa Claus and 24 floats, will march through the business district at 2:30 this afternoon.

Three marching bands will lead the three units of the parade. They are the Iowa City high school marching band, the university Scottish Highlanders and the Veterans of Foreign Wars' junior drum and bugle corps.

Iowa City school children will be released from classes during part of the afternoon so that they may see the parade.

More than 1,000 gas-filled balloons will be released through the chimney of a log cabin float. Visitors will also be received in the cabin after the parade. Ten thousand lollipops will be given to the youngsters.

Santa Claus will visit children's hospital this morning so he may see the children unable to attend the parade.

Dozens of characters from nursery rhymes, such as Humpty Dumpty, Cinderella, The Three Little Pigs and others, will also march.

The parade will form at Washington and Gilbert streets and will march to Capitol street. There it will turn south to College street, east to Dubuque street and north to Iowa avenue.

They will march west to Clinton street, south of College street, east to Linn street, north to Washington street and then east to Gilbert street where they will disband.

Santa's log cabin will remain on Washington street near the Iowa City Light and Power company. The event is sponsored by the retail trade division of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce.

Lollipops will be distributed to all children who visit Santa Claus in his cabin. After the parade, traffic will be shunted away from the zone occupied by the cabin and visiting celebrity.

Activity Book Petitions Out Today

As the result of a special committee meeting yesterday, petitions including an explanation of the proposed plan for a combined tuition and student activity book are now being circulated to organization presidents.

The plan includes a request for the reorganization and consolidation of the present tuition rates in each college which would abolish laboratory deposits, gymnasium and locker fees, special course fees and military fees and would add a semester activity fee of approximately $15.

According to the estimate of the University Women's association the plan would save students approximately $20 per academic year. The present tuition including average fees is $55. Under the association's plan, the tuition would be $65 to include not only fees but the majority of university activities.

The plan proposes that the general fee would include an athletic year book, admission to the university theater, university concerts and debates and would provide Hawkeyes and photographs for juniors, a student hospital fund guaranteeing one week of hospitalization, a provision for student aid and Iowa Union development, and a reserve for other activities.

Student aid will be handled as a student loan, scholarship or work relief fund for those students who need financial aid. Provision is made in the plan for any other activities approved by the student board. Similar plans have been used satisfactorily at the Universities of Michigan, Minnesota, California and Oregon, Purdue university, Iowa State college and Grinnell college.

The campus organizations have been asked to return these petitions before the Christmas holiday. The acceptance or rejection of the plan will rest entirely with the student body.

keep the varsity playing heads-up ball to hold the coveted positions. It's the fighting reserves that provide cannon fodder for the ballyhooed ball carriers in the nation's spotlight.

And it's the same fighting reserves that afford a research laboratory for the coach and varsity to experiment with their latest strategy brainstorms.

All hail, then, to these fighting reserves—the pigskin guinea pigs.

The Most Disturbing Thing of All—

WITH WAR in China, war in Spain, and war threatening in many other touchy spots on the globe, the world indeed has much to disturb it. Yet, perhaps as disturbing as the actual fact of war itself is the attitude which many are adopting as a result of the breakdown of all war-prevention machinery.

"We have always had war," they say. "We will always have war. History proves it."

It is a fatalistic attitude which the pessimists justify by a half-hearted exploration into the realms of psychology, where without much effort they find "self-preservation" and similar expressions which they consider peculiarly adapted to their needs.

The struggle for existence, the instinct of self-preservation, the right to live—those are the things which lead so many to believe that war will be with us always.

And quite possibly they are right. Certainly they are if such a hand-folded, expecting-the-worst attitude becomes universal.

Yet there is hope. For the psychology of the fatalists is the wrong psychology. Intelligent men realize that only peace, not war, can guarantee self-preservation, that cooperation, not antagonism, is the only assurance of existence.

Somewhere in the past we took the wrong road. The motive that has always driven men to battle should be the one driving them to peace.

Who knows? Perhaps some day when we are all more intelligent we shall see more clearly that war cannot possibly be a fulfillment of our desire to live.

In the meantime let us not give up hope.

The nicest thing about next Saturday afternoon is that we won't be started out of our nap by a hoarse cry of "He's off—10-20-30-40-50 yards—he's tackled for no gain!"

Cricket fights are staged by Chinese. If they are put on the radio we'll bet the announcers make these duels between two tiny insects sound like a heavy-weight championship match between two bull elephants.

Back of the movement for camps, playgrounds and recreational centers is the philosophy of play and the use of the play spirit. The resulting frame of mind leads to the greatest possible efficiency.

Children are not inherently bad creatures aiming at deliberate anti-social activities and annoyance of the adult. The outbursts which annoy the elders often spring from resentment at ridiculous demands made by people who grow old in mind and spirit and never keep sight of the psychology of childhood and the child's point of view.

Pioneers in playground and recreational center movements realize that a child develops by stages and uses his energies for a more completely satisfactory existence in accordance with his age level in the scheme of growth. If nothing in his immediate environment satisfies him, he creates a new environment to suit his fancy. The directors know the interests of different ages. They can, therefore, offer projects which attract attention and hold the interest of children and youth in successive ages. Anyone who reads or hears about the work done in the Iowa City Recreational center cannot but realize that the work is organized on an understanding basis.

The new quarters of the Center are larger than the old one. It can then accommodate larger groups than before. That means room for more children to let off steam under competent direction. The ways of letting off the steam are best suited to the age of the child and at the same time meet the approval of adults.

Hobbies, whether acquiring, doing or creating are developed. Games are learned. Loyalty and cooperation emerge. Parades are organized, exhibits displayed. Pride in achievement is a natural result.

In making for better adjusted individuals and therefore better citizens, the Center is more than justified. The new rooms, the director and the children all working together should mean fewer and less effective delinquents in the future.

That's What We Thought the Last Time!

Greatest Tuberculosis Danger Exists During Adolescent Ages

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Adolescence is that time of life from 12 to 25 years of age. The commonest cause of death in that period, which one would suppose should be so healthy and so full of life and vigor, is tuberculosis. During these formative years, 20,000 young people die annually in the United States from tuberculosis.

Tuberculosis is a disease which probably begins in childhood, but assumes a different form in early adult life and adolescence. It is easier to recognize in adolescence than it is in childhood. The incidence of tuberculosis in the period between 12 and 25 is twice as great as that between the ages of five and ten years. This has been proved by tuberculin tests.

The hopeful thing about it is that treatment at this time usually means treatment of an early case, and the chances are fifty times better that permanent cure will be obtained than if treatment is begun later in life or later in the course of the disease.

Young Folk Given Instruction: Young people at this age should receive instruction in tuberculosis especially so that they may help themselves to bring their cases to the physician.

In a series of 100 cases, the first symptoms noted were as follows:

- Fatigue, tiredness 25 per cent; Cough 25 per cent; Loss of weight 14 per cent; Loss of appetite 7 per cent; Hemorrhage 7 per cent; Severe cold 7 per cent; Pleurisy 7 per cent; Hoarseness 4 per cent; Night sweats 4 per cent; High pulse 3 per cent.

It will be noted that most of these symptoms are insidious, and often do not bring the patient to the physician unless their significance is known.

Tuning In

with Margie Fastenow

Tommy Dorsey, his trombone and his orchestra have a "swing" surprise on the music racks—all ready for tonight's show. Last week he reversed his usual form and played a waltz medley, and tonight's program promises to be even more unusual. In addition to his musical stunting, Tommy will offer "Who Knows" and "You're a Sweetheart," plus a novelty number and three old-timers. Edythe Wright and Jack Leonard will sing the vocal refrains when the program comes over NBC-WJZ at 8:30.

The Rev. Karl Reiland, the only minister on the air with his own sponsored program, will speak this evening on youth's place in the world today. The program, sponsored by Peppercell manufacturing company, will be heard over NBC-Blue network at 6:15 p.m.

"Singin' Sam," baritone, will be heard in a minstrel presentation when he guest stars on the Kitty Carlisle "Song Shop" program on CBS tonight at 9 o'clock. Singin' Sam, who in private life is Harry Frankel, has been married four years, and he and his wife are considered one of radio's happiest couples.

Favorite pastime of Irene Wicker, NBC's Singing Lady, is browsing in second-hand stores and antique shops. She likes them old and dusty. Along Third and Sixth avenues in New York she has found several places that fascinate her. A recent find was a set of several pewter mugs from the same English tavern.

Jean Dickinson, young star of the American Album of Familiar Music on NBC, believes that love will always be the most popular subject for air songs. She points out the great number of modern popular numbers that include the word in the title. "Fully half the available songs today are built around romance," she claims.

San Francisco pickups: Gladys Heen, who plays Gloria Gale in the serial of that name, lives in a studio in San Francisco's artist colony atop Telegraph Hill, and spends her mileless hours sculpturing. Melvin Vickland, NBC announcer, started his career as a church soloist. Carl Kroenke, NBC character actor, is such a versatile portrayer of various types that he is in demand as a photographer's model.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — They've been working a year out at Warner Bros. studios investigating the historical surroundings of a man whose existence has never been approved.

Dr. Herman Lissauer, his assistant, Mrs. Hetta George, and their staff of seven research workers were not greatly concerned about the authenticity of the Robin Hood legend. But Robin Hood, if he lived at all, lived in a definite historical period—about 1190 A.D.—in a definite setting, the England of Richard Coeur de Lion and of the Norman usurper, wicked Prince John. The research department's work began when the first script was completed. Tactfully but firmly, the Lissauer-George forces read that script, made notes, checked, and returned the script to its authors.

Boudoirs weren't known: The polite notes conveyed many succinct reminders and corrections, such as the fact that Prince John was never actually regent, that shillings were not in use until much later than Robin Hood's time, the popular coins being "pennies," and that guineas were unheard of. Also, it was suggested, the English did not become tea-drinkers until about 1650, and no character should use "Ouch!" as an exclamation of pain because the expression had no place until the 19th century. If anyone were hurt and wanted to say "Ouch!" he must content himself with a "Aie-aie-ee!" And about Olivia (Maid Marian) De Havilland's "boudoir"—girls didn't have boudoirs in those days. They had rooms, and none too frilly, either. And so on, and so on, to the last page of script.

The research department then turned to constructive labors. For the art department it dug deep into hundreds of old tomes, consulted old prints showing medieval castles, apartments, streets and dwellings. For the costumers it excavated authentic notes on what milady wore to an archery tournament, to court, to market, to sleep, and the equivalents for milord.

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Many and varied are the legends of artist who nonchalantly disregard their audiences while on stage, but the palm for extraordinary behavior still belongs to Vladimir de Pachmann, who thought nothing of opening his mail and answering correspondence while facing a white-tie crowd.

The great man once went so far as to borrow a program from someone in the audience when he forgot what he was scheduled to play. Then, too, there was the time he signaled the stage hands to shift his piano to another part of the stage.

"What is the meaning of this?" demanded the manager when he could catch his breath. "My dear sir," cried Pachmann, "I am playing a waltz in six-time time and there is a fat old crow sitting in the front row fanning herself in two-four time. Am I to put up with that?"

Mouse Traps: Ethel Barrymore is an avid collector of prize-fight pictures. Phillip Barry is back in New York with the synopsis of a new play. He'll write it between now and March 1. Babe Ruth says he will never attend another baseball game unless he is made manager of a big league club. What's he beefing about anyway?

On exhibition in the international building at Radio City are four wooden masks which were brought out of New Guinea by Pierre Ledoux. They're listed at $800 each, but Ledoux got them for the equivalent of about 20 cents. He swapped four mouse traps for them, and the natives just couldn't get over the idea of Americans fooling little mice with shiny spring traps. They laughed and laughed, and so did Ledoux.

Attending an informal party the other afternoon, I saw a half dozen pen sketches by Hans Kleiber, an ex-forester ranger who lives in Wyoming. All his subjects deal with wildlife, especially with mallard and pintail ducks coming into marshes to feed at twilight. You could almost hear the swishing of their wings.

Down The Sports Trail

By PAUL MICKELSON
 MILWAUKEE, Dec. 2 (AP)—
 By far the happiest big league manager at the player mart here is Frank Francis Frisch, head man of the St. Louis Browns, who positively is enjoying all the fun that goes hand in cup with baseball conventions.

"Onkel" Frisch, who has done more patient suffering during the last five years than any misery man in the business, owes his delightful change of pace to his problem child, the great Dizzy Dean. For the first time since he became boss of the Gashousers in '33, "Onkel" doesn't have to hide away in movie houses and duck behind overstuffed furniture in hotel lobbies to escape reporters who demand to know "who bought Dean."

Dean is some 1,500 miles away tending his gasoline filling stations down in Bradenton, Fla.
 Except for one recent blast, in which he was quoted as calling Frisch "a louse," the great Dizzy has been so silent that everyone, including the baseball nabobs and reporters, have forgotten him. Up to this piece for the papers, no one has mentioned him at all and the result is that "Onkel" is having the time of his life in this city that beer made famous.

Rickey Also Enjoying Self Branch Rickey, Farmer in the Dell for the Cardinals, is enjoying it, too, as he gives pep talks to his some 50 farmers in another hotel a few blocks away. In three days, Rickey has gained five pounds and hasn't had more than five telephone calls from the hounding reporters—a great contrast with the last few years when he and "Onkel" were beseiged night and day.

But "Onkel" is getting the biggest kick out of the Dean armistice. Today he strolled up to Burleigh Grimes of Brooklyn, who has the shopping season's greatest headache in the truant Van Lingle Mungo.

Meetings Always Headaches
 "Burleigh, my commiserations and best wishes," said Frankie.
 "I know how you feel. These meetings always were headaches and one series of denials but am I having fun now?"

"I feel awfully tired," said Boiling Boly. "My telephone rings night and day. I find myself talking about black hats and cigars and all of a sudden saying Mungo hasn't been sold. I'll be glad to get back with my pigs down on my Missouri farm."

"Onkel" Denies Report
 "Onkel" started the week by picking up where he left off last season. A report went out that the Cardinals had traded Ducky Medwick, "Onkel's" pride and joy, for Pitcher Hal Schumacher, Mel Ott, Hank Leiber and Gus Mancuso of the New York Giants.

"Some guy called me about that at 3 a.m., just before I came out here," he groaned, "and I thought it was going to start all over again. But I guess we squelched it. There's nothing to it. Why, if Medwick was traded
 I think I'd jump off the Empire State building. What a ball player."

"What about Dizzy calling you a louse?" Frisch was asked.

Doesn't Bother Frisch
 "Oh, I don't pay any attention to those things any more," he said. "I used to start swinging and cussing when a man called me names but I overlook them
 now. When you're a manager, you know, you gotta overlook a lot of things. Why, I don't get mad now if they call me a washed up, no good guy."

"Yes sir, times have changed in this business," said old Burleigh, one time tough guy of baseball. "Why, I used to love to fight. Rather fight than eat in the old days. But now I just forget all rash statements and puff on my pipe."

"But isn't it true that Mungo called you a lot of names in an interview recently?" I persisted.
 "I see he denied it," said Burleigh as he puffed contentedly on his big raw smelling pipe. "but maybe he did say those things. I don't give a hang. Listen, if you can get me some good ball players I'll let 'em call me anything just so they play ball."
 With that "Onkel" Frisch and Burleigh strode away to talk about flowers and pigs — of all things.

Captains Select All-American 11

Davis Only Big Ten Player On Honor Group

Clint Frank, Sweeney, Goldberg & White Are Named

By BILL BRAUCHER
 Central Press Sports Editor

Chosen by more than 30 captains of leading universities and college teams in every part of the country, the eighth annual Captains' All-American is presented herewith. Geographically it is one of the most representative national all-star elevens ever selected.

Players from eleven schools are on the first team, and nearly all of the important conferences in the country have won places. The Big Three, Big Ten, Southern, Southeastern, Southwestern,
 Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast conferences are represented, and three of the players are from schools not identified with conferences. Only one conference placed two men on the first team, the Southeastern with Hinkle of Vanderbilt and Ryba of Alabama.

Two Captains Chosen
 Two of the captains who voted were chosen themselves for All-American honors by the leaders of opposing teams—Clint Frank of Yale and Carl Hinkle of Vanderbilt. In some cases the contests were close, notably that for the center and fullback positions.

Center Alex Wojciechowicz of Fordham and Fullback Sam
 Chapman of California were highly esteemed by all opponents, and won places on the second team.
 Reviewing briefly the person-el of the first team:

CHARLES SWEENEY—Directly responsible for three of Notre Dame's victories. He blocked a punt against Minnesota, fell on a blocked kick against Northwestern and tackled a runner for a safety against Navy—each play being responsible for the Irish winning margin. Besides, his all-around play against the best teams in the country was excellent.

ED FRANCO—Fordham's "old-reliable." A tower of strength on one of the greatest forward walls in the country. His play against Pitt, St. Mary's and other strong teams helped the Rams to complete an unbeaten schedule.

JOE ROUTT—A smart, fast guard, responsible by his splendid play for the success of the well-known five-man defense line of the Texas Aggies. Often accounted for two or three men on a play.

Dixie Iron Man
 CARL HINKLE—Climaxed three fine seasons by a superb game against Alabama. An iron man, in the game 60 minutes, he makes 60 per cent of the tackles.
 Responsible in a large way for the upturn of Vanderbilt football this year. Not only is Hinkle great mechanically, never making a bad pass, but he helps along with the signals.

VARD STOCKTON—The best offensive lineman on the Pacific coast. Goes through the line and blocks downfield, helping the Golden Bear ball carriers to make those long runs and get the headlines. They say "Stockton gets the men and the backs get the clippings."

JAMES RYBA—A key man in the crushing forward wall of the Crimson Tide of undefeated, untic Alabama. Ryba has won the praise of teammates and opponents alike as an energetic, tireless competitor and a deadly tackler.

Bershak Brilliant ANDY BERSHAK—He has been playing great football for North Carolina for three years, and this year his work was sensational. Fast and brilliant, he was especially adept at breaking up plays aimed at his territory.

BYRON (WHIZZER) WHITE—
 He is called the greatest back in the Rocky Mountain conference since the redoubtable Dutch Clark was graduated. Personally engineered Colorado through a spotless season. Excels in every department of football. One of the most remarkable runners the Rockies ever saw.

MARSHALL GOLDBERG—
 The guiding spirit of an unbeaten Pittsburgh team, one of the best elevens ever to represent the school. A remarkable open-field runner, hard plunger, swift and sure on defense. His unflinching courage helped to weld Pitt into a powerful grid machine.

CORBETT DAVIS—The Western conference's outstanding back. A strong runner, fine field leader, with an inspiring personality. A sure ground gainer.
 CLINT FRANK—Handicapped
 by advance notices which compared him with Jim Thorpe, Cap-

2 Divisions of Weight Triathlon Won By Dale Roberts & Phil Strom

Martin Takes First Place In Shot Put Event

Phil Strom, Ft. Dodge freshman, and Dale Roberts, junior pole vaulter from Villisca, won the freshman and varsity divisions of the annual all-university weight triathlon yesterday afternoon at the fieldhouse.

Strom piled up a total of 1577 points in the three events, the 25 pound weight throw, the 16 pound shot put, and the discus throw. Roberts totaled 1553 for his first place in the varsity division.

Fred Martin, freshman from Hampton, was second in his division with 1503 points and Eugene Heffley, Missouri Valley was third with 1389 points. In the varsity division Marvin Taub, Rochester, N. Y., was second with 850 points and Harold Patterson, Florida was third with 642 points.

Roberts amassed almost 1200 points in the weight throw and shot put but fell down in the discus throw. Strom far outdistanced the other contenders in the discus with a total of 600 points in that event. Martin won the shot put with a toss of 38 feet 3/4 inches but also fell down in the discus throw.

The winners of each division, varsity, and freshman, will receive gold medals and silver and bronze medals will be given to those taking second and third places.

Wellman Plays U-High Quintet Here Tonight

Still without the services of their star forward and captain, George Miller, the University high basketball team went through a hard fundamental drill yesterday in their last practice before their game with Wellman this evening at the U-high gym.

Miller, who has played regular forward for the past two years, was stricken Tuesday night with a slight case of ptomaine poisoning and has not been in practice since then. He was in school yesterday, but was not in condition to practice. However, he plans to dress for the game to-night.

In their drill yesterday, Coach Wm. R. Wood reviewed them on the fundamentals of the game, stressing basket shooting, passing, offensive footwork and defense.

Coach Wood has been working Murray Dawson, Bruce Alderman and Ernie Krogh at Miller's forward post. Dawson is a sophomore seeing his first year of play. Alderman and Krogh played on the sophomore squad their sophomore year, but have had no previous varsity experience.

The probable starting lineup for tonight will be Ham Ries and Duane Carson at the guards, Ed Burns at center and Bob Carson at one forward. The other forward will go to either Dawson, Alderman or Krogh in the event that Miller is not in condition to start the game.

The Bluehawk junior high team coached by Jack Sterrett will play St. Patrick's second team in the curtain raiser to-night.

Red And White Cagers Invade Hilltop Gym

Iowa City high school's cagers will travel to Davenport tonight to square off against the strong Hilltopper quintet in George Edward Marshall gymnasium for their first conference game of the year.

With two victories out of three starts in its pre-conference schedule, the Little Hawk aggregation has developed into a smooth working team. Rough spots in ball handling and floor work have been erased by the Red and White tutors and the Hawkslets now present an attack superior to that of last year.

In a light drill last night the City high coaches spent all their time brushing up on an offense that will seek to penetrate the famed Davenport zone defense. For years the Red and Blue five has boasted one of the state's most effective defenses.

Ten men will make up the travelling squad that will leave for Davenport at 4:45. Covert, McLaughlin, Putnam, McGinnis, Burger, Wheeler, Rogers, Devine, Hirt and Lemons will represent the Iowa City varsity on the Davenport floor tonight.

The following men will play for Coach Herb Cormack's freshman-sophomore quintet, which will also seek a victory in its first conference start of the season: Laughlin, King, Parker, Lillick, Lewis, McNamara, Fetig, Goldberg and Martin.

Although there are hundreds of varieties of rice, two-thirds of the United States rice crop is of one variety.

St. Mary's Ramblers Tangle With Keokuk Cagers Tonight

One of the high spots in the city's basketball schedule is slated to be played tonight at 8 o'clock, when St. Mary's speedy Ramblers meet an experienced quintet from Keokuk, in the City High gym.

With four of their last year's regulars back, the Keokuk outfit promises to have an experienced and well balanced team on the floor.

Using Capt. George Haloubek, the only returning regular, as a nucleus, Coach Sueppel of St. Mary's has fashioned a quintet which is lacking in height, but seems to be possessed with plenty of speed. Jack Bock and George Chadek at the forward posts have shown plenty of speed and a fairly accurate eye for the basket.

The scrimmage Wednesday night was a long affair with Coach Sueppel using all of the men on the squad. The first string men, although much smaller than the alumni, played on even terms with them throughout the scrimmage.

Last night Coach Sueppel sent the boys through a light drill in which ball handling and polishing of floor plays was stressed. Also, Coach Sueppel talked over the game with the team, stressing especially the need for speed.

A curtain raiser played between two teams picked from the St. Mary's reserves will start at 7 o'clock. The members of the families of the boys on the team will be admitted free.

Sox, Detroit In Big Trade

Walkers Swapped, Tigers Get Kennedy, Piet & Give Owen

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 2 (AP)—Managers Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox and Mickey Cochrane of Detroit's Tigers, two old baseball pals who've long been trying to outsmart each other as "livory traders," swung one of the biggest player-for-player deals of recent years today.

Putting new life in a minor league meeting which threatened a new "low" in actual major league transactions, the White Sox traded pitcher Vernon Kennedy, outfielder Dixie Walker, and infielder Tony Piet to Detroit for outfielder Gerald Walker, infielder Marvin Owen and Catcher Mike Tresh.

The deal, in which no cash was involved, was announced after a brief conference in the hotel suite

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 2 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns tonight traded Outfielder Joe Vosmik to the Boston Red Sox for Pitcher Buck Newsom, Shortstop Red Kress and Outfielder Buster Mills.

The deal, second big league swap of today's player mart, sent the temperamental Newsom and Kress, who played with Minneapolis of the American association last season, back to their old St. Louis Brown stamping grounds. Newsom was traded to the Red Sox last summer with Outfielder Ben Chapman for the two Ferrell brothers, Wesley and Rick, and Mel Almada.

of J. Louis Comiskey, White Sox owner. The quick decision came after two days of bickering between Dykes and Cochrane.

"I had to bolster my pitching," said Cochrane, "and with Kennedy winning between 18 and 20 games we will be tough next season, even though I had to sacrifice hitting and defensive strength by letting Gerald Walker and Owen go."

Dykes, who has been after Gerald Walker for three years and who wanted Owen to plug the Sox third base hole, was elated. He said he long has wanted another "real hitting" outfielder and described Owen as "one of the finest defensive infielders in the game."

Kennedy won 14 games and lost 13 last season, but in 1936 was a 21-game winner. Dixie Walker, who hit .300 for the Sox, developed into a Sox star after being "sold down the river" by the New York Yanks after numerous injuries had slowed him down.

Gerald Walker, one-time Detroit "problem child" because of his base running antics, has been hitting sensationally, batting .335 in 1936 and getting 18 homers. Cochrane's unwillingness to part with "Gee" because of his popularity in Detroit was one reason the deal did not come off sooner.

Tresh, who caught more than 100 games and hit .271 for Portland in the Pacific coast league last season, is a young catcher of promise.

Piet, utility infielder for the Sox, is expected to strengthen Detroit's infield utility forces.

In Kennedy, who hurled a no-hit game in 1935, Detroit greatly bolsters its pitching, with reports indicating Cochrane has almost despaired that Lynwood Rowe ever will regain the form that made him a brilliant star in 1934 and 1

In an address before the Pennsylvania State Physical Education society at its meeting in Wilkesburg, Pa., Dec. 10, Prof. McCloy will discuss "Recent Researches in Physical Education and New Aspects of Physical Education." He will be a luncheon guest of the District of Columbia Physical Education Association in Washington, D.C., Dec. 11. Professor McCloy will go to Boston, Mass., Dec. 13, where he will speak at the Sargent School of Physical Education and Boston university.

On Dec. 14 he will speak at Columbia university, New York, N.Y., and on Dec. 15 at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Pa. He will return to Iowa City Dec. 18.

Future Medics Will Be Given Aptitude Test

Prospective medical students who plan to enroll in the college of medicine in the fall of 1938 will take aptitude tests this afternoon at 3 o'clock in chemistry auditorium.

The test, which will determine whether the student has the aptitude for medicine, is required of all students who plan to enter a college of medicine belonging to the Association of American Medical Colleges.

Last year throughout the United States, the test was taken by more than 10,000 students of 627 colleges who applied for admission to approved medical schools.

Sorority Initiates 3 Pharmacy Students

Dorothy C. Gleason, P4 of Cedar Rapids, Helen Mary Kouba, P4 of Iowa City, and Phyllis Marie Smith, P3 of Davenport, were initiated into Kappa Epsilon, pharmaceutical sorority, last evening at an initiation dinner held at Iowa Union.

Fuller To Play For 'Burghers'

Stomp Will Be Held In Fine Arts Building Tomorrow

Peg Fuller's band, "the biggest little band in Iowa land," from Cedar Rapids will play for the Burgher's Stomp, the closed town party, in the fine arts building tomorrow at 9 p.m.

Miss Fuller will play all request numbers from "Josephine" to the "Blue Danube." The band broadcasts over station WMT regularly.

Non-affiliated university students living in private homes are eligible to purchase tickets. Town women may purchase tickets at the main desk in Iowa Union. Town proctors will sell tickets to town men. Students need not come in couples to the "stag" dance.

Women's Sports

Volleyball

Eastlawn No. 1 and Currier Hall No. 2 share the honors for first place at the end of the intramural mixed volleyball tournament which has been running for the last four weeks. At the conclusion of Wednesday's competition only these two teams had won all the games they played. No games will be played between these teams.

Other teams which competed in the last round of the tournament were Eastlawn No. 2 and No. 3, Kappa Alpha Theta No. 2 and No. 3, Currier hall No. 1 and No. 3, Alpha Delta Pi No. 2, Pi Beta Phi No. 1 and No. 2, Kappa Kappa Gamma No. 2 and Zeta Tau Alpha.

Handcraft Club

New officers of the handcraft club are: Annabella Hinkle, A1 of Valparaiso, Ind., vice-president, and Mary Martha Stoessel, A3 of Ottumwa, secretary. Katharine Warsaw, A4 of Waterloo, was selected president last year and continues in office.

Following election of officers, membership requirements were discussed and plans were made to visit the occupational therapy department at the psychopathic hospital sometime during the next two weeks.

Badminton Club

Badminton will be offered to all university men and women who are interested every Saturday from 3 until 5 p.m. in the women's gymnasium. The first meeting will be Saturday.

Captain Craig Smiles At Danger

Young Adventurer Breaks Deep Sea Diving Record In Practice

Danger is his business—yet the youthful and boyish Capt. John D. Craig, last night's university lecturer, thrives on it.

Many a time has he faced death in his deep-sea diving stunts but eagerly he and his happy-go-lucky band of daredevils look forward to more.

"Of course I've been scared many times in my life, but I'm getting so used to it that it will take a lot to really get me down," the modest 33-year-old adventurer confessed in an informal chat yesterday afternoon.

Soon he will add the occupation of treasure-hunting to his already versatile career. Early next year—probably early in March or April, whenever he can spare the time from his other engagements—he will search the depths of the Atlantic for the crown jewels of the Emperor Maximilian of Mexico.

The jewels, valued at millions, went down with the American steamship Merida off the coast of Virginia in 1911 when it rammed into the S. S. Farragut in a fog. The ship, loaded with Mexicans fleeing from the Diaz and Mademira revolutions, sank with the immense treasures. The valuables—or so the story goes—were being taken to Europe by descendants of the emperor, who was executed in 1867.

"This Maximilian expedition will be a lot of fun, but it's really only practice for a far more exciting adventure next summer," Captain Craig said with a twinkle in his eyes.

The same group of treasure-hunters will descend 312 feet in the Atlantic off the coast of Ireland next summer, when they search for the remains of the sunken liner, Lusitania.

"We really planned to search for the Lusitania last summer, but the international situation was so serious that the British government postponed our exploration for a year," Captain Craig said.

One of the captain's associates, Max E. Nohl, a 27-year-old amateur diver, Wednesday set a new record when he dived 420 feet in Lake Michigan. This, according to Captain Craig, was also another practice for the Lusitania project.

Mr. Nohl was wearing the new diving suit or "monkey suit," as Captain Craig calls it, which the two designed. With the self-contained suit the diver breathes a special mixture of helium and oxygen—91 per cent helium, another revolutionary step in the history of deep-sea diving.

Captain Craig started his adventuresome career as a student in mechanical engineering at the University of Southern California. His career really began when as a "trouble shooter" in California oil fields he struck oil. Since then his zest for thrills has led him into many other fields.

Today he will leave for Texas. From there he will go to Miami, Fla., to fly to Porto Rico, where he will join his "thrill crew" for what he calls a "rest." By "resting," however, he means diving every day and taking undersea pictures.

Schools Enter 1938 Program

Progress Tests Given; 2 Weeks Schedule Made Here

More than 250 schools will enter the 1938 program designed to measure the progress of pupils in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades which is to be conducted by the college of education, Prof. E. F. Lindquist, supervisor, announced yesterday.

The tests, fourth in the series, have been scheduled for Jan. 19 to Feb. 2. A considerably longer period of time has been allotted to them this year than previously as in the past schools have been limited to three days only.

The program involves no scholastic competition; it simply is to inform school officials as to the efficiency of the teaching program.

Except for the additional time in which to administer the tests, no major changes have been made in the plan. Each school will score its own papers and the university's statistical service in the college of education then will provide detailed information by grades and buildings.

All of the tests will differ from those of 1937. Their chief divisions are silent reading comprehension, basic study skills, basic language skills and basic arithmetic skills.

Blindness No Handicap

CONNERSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Though blind since birth, 17-year-old Boyd Batchelor of Glenwood, plays basketball, fishes, swims, plays the saxophone and rides a bicycle.

Students Swing With McCoy's Music at First Formal Tonight

White Gowns Reign In Collegiate Dance Fashions

Swinging to the dance-inspiring music of Clyde McCoy and his "Sugar Blues" orchestra, university students will dance from 9 to 1 o'clock tonight in the tropically decorated main lounge of Iowa Union at the Sophomore Cotillion, first all-university formal of the year.

William Schneider, A2 of Shenandoah, committee chairman, will escort Irene Haubrick, A2 of Mapleton. Irene will wear white taffeta embroidered with tiny red flowers. Made with puff sleeves and a full skirt, the dress is trimmed with red velvet ribbon. She will wear red sandals.

Beth Browning, A2 of Iowa City, will be seen dancing in a flaring white crepe gown with Clayton Pittmann, A2 of Mt. Pleasant. The ruffle and decolletage of her dress are faced with burgundy of the same material. Her sandals are of white and burgundy satin.

Charles Neighbor, A2 of Man-

She will be escorted by Robert Osmundson, A2 of Forest City. Robert Bokorney, E2 of Cedar Rapids, and Mary Beach, A3 of Huron, S.D., will attend the Cotillion together. Miss Beach will wear a formal of aqua taffeta that fits to the knee and flares. The hem is corded with the same material. Her accessories will be silver.

Virginia Craven, A2 of Sioux City, will have as her escort Donald Floyd, A2 of Iowa City. Miss Craven will wear peach satin with silver accessories.

Robert Gibbs, U of Iowa City, will escort Mary Dee Shultz, A1 of Center Point, who will wear pale blue taffeta tucked at the waist. The puffed sleeves are trimmed with tucking and the full, tucked skirt will flare to show black sandals.

Annetta Connell, A1 of Iowa City, will wear white taffeta. Two straps of turquoise velvet extend from the neck to the hem of the skirt. Her sandals are of turquoise and white. Frank Brandon, A2 of St. David, Penn., will be her escort.

Helen Ries, A2 of Iowa City, will wear rose crepe cut and draped on Grecian lines with a girdle of burgundy velvet ribbon.

given by Capt. John D. Craig in Iowa Union last night. Illustrating his lecture with pictures showing the world's wonders in nature, Captain Craig revealed the secrets of the motion picture industry's success in "thrill" pictures.

Time after time he and his crew face almost certain death from countless varieties of man-eating beasts. "Although we sometimes have pretty narrow escapes, I hope you people don't think we are all big courageous men, fighting man-eating beasts all of the time. Many times we are afraid, very much afraid, but somehow things seem to turn out all right," Captain Craig said.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
 When Elsa Terry, famed opera singer, announces that she does not intend to fulfill her contract to open the opera season in Buenos Aires, Jim Guthrie, one of the sponsors of the opera company, comes to New York to persuade her. All of his efforts to meet and talk with Elsa are frustrated by her aunt, Madame Della, a retired Wagnerian star, who rules Elsa with a firm hand. Jim rents the apartment across the hall from Elsa and when the greatest of the Paris Musical comedians comes to interview her, he sidetracks Guthrie into his apartment and goes to the Terry apartment himself, posing as the French newspaperman.

Now Go on With the Story
Chapter Two

Jim smiled timidly at Elsa, who looked charming in a youthful gown. "Ah—Mademoiselle Terry," he said.

Elsa stared at him and for a moment there was a look of bewilderment in her eyes. She quickly stifled it, however, and a slight smile lurked at the corners of her mouth.

"You are—Monsieur Ginard?" she asked.

"Jim took her outstretched hand and kissed it. "Oui," he said. "It is a pleasure to meet the great Elsa Terry."

(Posed by Ferdinand Gottschalk, Grace Moore and Stuart Irwin.)

"You need more practice, Pancho," he said.

Elsa's eyes twinkled with amusement and then she launched into a torrent of French. "I have the greatest respect for your musical reputation," Elsa said in French. "That is why, though I never grant interviews, I consented to see you."

"Jim tried to hide his confusion. "We will speak English—yes?" he said. "It will be more easy for you."

Elsa went right on with her French. "On the contrary," she insisted. "French is every bit as easy to me as English—and I want you to feel perfectly at ease."

Jim frowned and spoke severely. "We will speak English," he announced. Then he smiled. "Me—I need the practice. We commence the interview—yes?" He pulled a notebook and pencil from his pocket but before he could think of a question Elsa was off again.

"How is dear Marcel?" she asked. "What about his new symphony?"

Jim looked distressed. "He is right in the middle," he said. "Now about you—"

"In the middle? But that's impossible," Elsa interrupted. "He was finishing it last year when I was in Paris."

"That is right," Jim agreed hastily. "He finished it last year. But he skip the middle. Now he go back."

"And Madame Lise!—how is her voice?" Elsa asked.

Jim kissed the tips of his fingers. "She sing like a lark," he said.

"Why I heard she had lost her voice," Elsa protested.

Jim shook his head impatiently. "She lose it—it come back—she lose it again—it come back," he explained. Impatiently, then, he handed the book and pencil to Elsa. "Maybe you should have these," he said. Elsa laughed delightedly.

"Now we commence," Jim said. "You are married—no?"

Elsa shook her head. "No."

"Why you are not married?" Jim demanded.

"Nobody's asked me."

"Pout!" Jim waved this explanation away. "You are beautiful, you are young, you are rich," Jim wrote in his notebook and read aloud as he wrote: "She is not happy. She is afraid of love."

Elsa smiled at Jim. "Couldn't we stick more closely to music?" she asked.

"Mala oui," Jim replied. "You sing in Paris next month?"

Elsa nodded. "And when do you leave for Buenos Aires?" he continued.

"Buenos Aires?" Elsa asked. "I'm not going there. That was called off."

At that moment the maid ushered a photographer into the room. "I'm a photographer for Mr. Ginard," he explained. Jim turned to him and the photographer looked at him in surprise. "Hey!" he said, "you're not Mr. Ginard."

"Would you mind waiting in the next room?" Elsa said hastily. When he withdrew she turned to Jim. "Well?" she demanded.

"I—I'm Jim Guthrie," he explained. "I had to meet you."

"Would you mind telling me where you're concealing the real Ginard?" Elsa continued with mock severity.

"He—he's in my apartment across the hall," Jim said.

Elsa started for the door. "Then we mustn't keep him waiting," she said.

In Jim's apartment she greeted the real Ginard effusively. "How is your charming wife?" she asked. "And the little boy?" Jim took them to the bar and while Pancho mixed drinks they listened to Elsa's reminiscences of opera. It had become a jolly threesome when the door was suddenly opened and Madella scowled at them.

"Elsa," she thundered. Jim turned quickly and crossed to her.

"It can't be!" she said unbelievably. "It can't be—but it is! It is Madame Della. How long I've waited for this moment." He took her by the arm. "Come," he said. "I've something to show you."

He piloted her to a small adjoining room. "If my father were only alive for this moment," he said, as he threw open the door to the room. "Look!"

Madella looked at a room whose walls were covered with portraits of herself in various operatic roles. "Where did you get these?" Madella demanded.

"They belonged to my father," Jim said reverently. "His name was John Guthrie?"

"Never heard of him," Madella said.

Jim looked at her, shocked. "Madame Della—you've forgotten. And he died with your name on his lips."

Madella looked at him severely. "Young man," she said, "don't try to hoodwink me. I didn't know your father."

"Buenos Aires," Jim prompted her. "You sang 'Carmen'—after the opera he met you. You danced—you dined—and then—"

There were vague stirrings in Madella's memory. "Oh, was his name Guthrie?"

Jim sighed. "I wish you'd heard my father speak of you," he continued. "Your fire—your golden tones—how, when he met you for the first time, he couldn't even speak."

Madella was lost in dreams. "If he's the one I'm thinking of," she said, "he didn't have to speak. He took me out on a picnic, way out in the country. Funny, though, I can't remember his name being Guthrie." Madella sighed. "Oh, well, I've got to be getting back to Rudolph—the husband of mine. Young man, I wish you hadn't reminded me of your father."

Elsa, her interview with Ginard finished, joined them. Madella slipped her arm through Elsa's. "I like this young man," she said. "We must have him for tea. I knew his father—slightly."

As they were leaving Elsa exchanged conspiratorial winks with Jim. Jim closed the door and leaned against it, exhausted. Pancho waved his arm at Madella's pictures on the wall. "Do you need these any more?" he asked.

Jim grinned. "Send them back," he said. "And may my poor innocent father, who never has set foot out of Minneapolis, forgive me."

Three Sentenced to Hard Labor On Charges of Stealing 15 Pigs

Second Larceny Count Brings Craig Findlay 5-Year Term

Craig Findlay, 24, of Selma was sentenced to five years at hard labor in the men's reformatory at Anamosa when he was found guilty of two larceny charges by Judge Harold D. Evans in Johnson county district court yesterday.

Everett Phend, 26, of Iowa City and Max Findlay, 20, brother of Craig, both received sentences of one year at hard labor in the Johnson county jail for stealing hogs from the H. J. Dane farm southwest of Iowa City. In sentencing the two men, Judge Evans stated that after six months of the sentence has been served the two may be paroled to Sheriff Don McComas upon good behavior.

Court costs were levied against the three men.

According to the information filed against the men by County Attorney Harold W. Vestermark, Craig Findlay and Phend stole three hogs Oct. 2, six Nov. 7 and six Nov. 23. All were stolen from the Dane farm. Max Findlay stole three pigs from the same farm Nov. 14.

Craig Findlay was tried on a similar charge Nov. 16, 1936, but the case was continued for sentence until a later time. This recent conviction brought a sentence on both charges.

Attorney D. C. Nolan represented the three men in court.

Add Memento

A note yesterday from a scout who's more mathematical than I and who, by his mathematics, has reduced the statement of Silent State Treasurer Wegman to a non-entirety...

"It was stated," the chap writes, "that there were 50,000 bootleg cigarettes smoked each week in Iowa City. Since the tax is two cents for 20 cigarettes, the total tax evasion would be $50 per week or a total of $2,600 per year..."

Loss

"The estimated tax loss from this source, according to Wegman, is $2,500,000 per year... Analyzing it on a per capita basis, the loss over the entire state is about $1 per capita per annum with the estimated state population at about 2,500,000..."

"In Iowa City, assuming a population of 20,000 residents and students, the per capita loss per annum is about 13 cents... Therefore the state as a whole is 7.7 times as wicked as Iowa City..."

My own comment on the above isn't necessary... Mr. Wegman's is...

A personal hiss to all those who've insisted that what Iowa needs is a new cheer and who haven't entered any suggestions in the Pi Epsilon Pi song contest... They tell me the entries are practically nil...

Economy

If you're economically inclined, practically required reading is Stuart Chase's "Word - Trouble Among the Economists" in this month's Harper's... And the best satirical speech I think I've ever heard was Prof. John Ise's dissertation on the protective tariff... Also a note on Jay Franklin's enlightening remarks in his yesterday's column...

Of the new songs none appears more promising than the "I've Got My Heart Set On You"—not a swing tune... They're saying, encouragingly enough, that swing is definitely on the way out...

Isn't it true, incidentally, that radio-listeners rarely do that alone... Almost any of us, even while our favorite programs are on the air, read, talk or knit...

One of the best indications that we have nothing like dictatorship in our country is a show like "I'd Rather Be Right," which I'm hoping to view in a month or so... Such lines as Farley's song could never be sung in Rome; "A job for every uncle and a job

49,260,000 Gal. Sewage Treated For November

Sewage treatment was applied to 49,260,000 gallons of sewage during November at the Iowa City sewage plant, according to a report filed yesterday at the city clerk's office by J. F. Sproatt, plant superintendent. Average cost was $13.85 per million gallons.

Sproatt's report showed that an average of 1,140 gallons of sewage a minute were treated by the plant. During the month a total of 10,140 kilowatt hours of electricity was needed to operate the plant which made the cost of power $3.09 a million gallons treated.

Nov. 1 Sproatt instituted an eight-hour shift for the plant operators. This allows only one man on duty on each shift where formerly, under the 12-hour shift plan, two men were always on duty.

Inspector Finds Taverns Orderly

J. J. Carroll, city beer inspector, yesterday recommended that holders of class B and C permits should have permission to sell beer on New Year's day, since it falls on Saturday. The report was recommended to Mayor Myron J. Walker and the city council.

Carroll's report showed that he had made 133 inspections and 30 night visits during November. He stated that all permit holders' premises were found to be "very orderly."

Local Group To Visit St. Louis Boy Scout Show

Scout Executive O. B. Thiel, planning for a merit badge show in Iowa City next year, will journey to St. Louis, Mo., today to attend the merit badge show being given by Boy Scouts there. He will be accompanied by Richard Bireline of Iowa City and Harold Swift of Marengo.

The group will attend a meeting at 10 a.m. tomorrow to discuss plans for merit badge shows and in the afternoon and evening will review the merit badge show. They will return Sunday.

Six Mile Road Survey Starts

To Prepare for Paving Of Highway 261 During 1938

Word received yesterday by C. A. Bowman, secretary of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce from F. R. White, chief engineer of the state highway commission, stated that surveying of the first six miles north of Iowa City on road 261 will begin within the next few days.

The survey will be used in paving this six miles sometime during the state's 1938 paving program.

The paving is the result of some three year's work on the part of the local chamber of commerce, according to Bowman.

Sea Scouting Scouts Will Consider Local Group

Sea scouting in the middle of the prairie! Scout Executive O. B. Thiel announced yesterday that scouts and former scouts past 15 years of age will meet Wednesday to discuss the possibilities of a sea scouting organization in Iowa City.

Sea scouts from Cedar Rapids will attend the meeting to demonstrate phases of sea scouting. The meeting place will be announced soon.
