It Can Be Done

A CAMPUS tradition died last night with the passing of the Men's Pan-Hellenic association, Ltd., for the organization whose existence had caused bitter political strife on the campus during the last few years was no more than that. Its usefulness—if such ever existed—had been long out-lived. The fault, of course, lay neither with the association itself nor with those fraternities outside. It was merely an out-moded political organization.

Behind last night's simple invitation by the eight oldest fraternities on the Iowa campus for the other nine to become members and thus remove the "limited" from the title lies months of work and much foresight on the part of university counselors and campus leaders on both sides of the alignment.

There is little doubt that the Interfraternity council at its next meeting will accept the invitation of Pan-Hellenic Ltd., to abolish the unhealthy rivalry between men's Greek organizations. That move would be the only logical and wise one possible.

The Iowa campus has not yet felt what many eastern campuses already have—namely a severe strain on the fraternity system as a whole that, in many cases, has meant their disappearance from certain universities and colleges.

We believe that fraternities—and sororities too—have a very definite place on the Iowa campus and on any campus. We believe they provide an environment no other organization can quite give. We hope they continue to exist, and we are convinced the only way they can possibly do so is for every Greek social group to pull together.

So far as responsibility for last night's move is concerned, no one man or group of men deserves full credit, but the Pan-Hellenic leaders who issued the invitation are to be congratulated for initiating the move and carrying it through.

We should like to add a word of warning, too. The battle is not yet entirely over. There is some dissatisfaction on both sides, particularly among upperclassmen. That criticism and verbal discontent will be difficult to combat, but it must be done. The completion of such moves as last night's are more than a simple announcement or an invitation. They really will be accomplished only after months of concentrated effort to establish a democratic and friendly feeling among all fraternity men.

It can be done and after the courage and foresight of last night's announcement we are certain it will be.

Depression Or Not?

Maintaining an old tradition of expressing a rosy belief that the wolf will turn before he ever reaches the door, leading bankers of the nation yesterday stated that in their opinion the present business slump will not run into another major depression.

Although many, remembering similar optimistic statements made by the same group of bankers in 1930, will be inclined to say that here is sure proof of another depression, it is never the less an encouraging sign.

For conditions are in many respects decidedly different from those of 1930. Our economic policies, for one thing, have changed from the high tariff ideals of Herbert Hoover and Ogden Mills to the more economically sound low-tariff theories of Cordell Hull. In case of any prolonged world slump, our foreign trade is not likely to vanish as quickly as it did nine years ago.

Again, we have just emerged from a strenuous period of governmental attempts to achieve both recovery and reform. The government has made many mistakes, but it has also achieved much. We should be able to profit by both mistakes and achievements without any long period of trial-and-error such as followed the inception of the Roosevelt administration.

Already industrial leaders are clamoring for legislation to prevent any further business recession. They have concrete proposals as to the steps which should be taken—something very different from 1929-30 when all agreed that the government should do something but no one agreed on just what the government should do.

Any attempt to predict the trend of future business is always risky enterprise. There are too many unseen influences, too many currents and cross-currents which are only revealed by the light of history. But the bankers and industrialists are in a much better position now than in 1929 to make such predictions. In the intervening nine years they have had a painful opportunity to get a little better knowledge of the principles of economics.

So, we'll all hope for the best, cross our fingers, and string along with all the bankers who say that the present slump will be finished slumping by the time another year rolls around.

TECHNOLOGY A BLESSING?

From the standpoint of physical environment and living conditions, the world has changed more since the days of James Watt than in all the preceding centuries since the beginning of the Christian era.

As a result of the astounding material progress achieved through machines and scientific inventions, many of us have come to feel that technology is solving our problems. But is it? As a matter of fact, technology is piling up problems, leading on us the necessity of intelligence, good will, and character.

Perhaps the most concrete example of this all-important fact is to be found in the field of international relations. Modern transportation and communication have transformed the world into a neighborhood; more and more it is becoming a social, cultural, and economic unit. We are therefore faced with the urgent necessity of learning how to live in peace and friendship with other nations, of establishing a regime of international law and order.

A century ago, when nations were still widely separated by mountains, rivers, deserts, and oceans—and before technology had seriously challenged time and space—international good will was not a vital necessity. However, desirable, the world could—and, for the most part, did—get along without it.

Today, however, war, as revolutionized by technology, is a peril primarily for two reasons: first, because technology has produced such destructive weapons; secondly, because civilization has become highly integrated and complex—so much so, in fact, that whatever happens for good or bad in any locality inevitably has repercussions elsewhere.

So technology has thrust upon us the problem of living in peace and friendship with nations of which we have had little understanding. In other fields, too, new problems are arising as the result of technological developments, problems calling for the utmost in wisdom, intelligence, and character: the problem of technological unemployment, for instance. The highly integrated nature of a machine-made economic order necessitates a proper functioning of every cog in the system. Even the rich can no longer be secure if a large proportion of the population is poor, for industries depend on mass purchasing power for sustenance.

It would appear obvious, therefore, that instead of solving problems, technology is bringing still more problems, more pressing and more difficult of solution than those faced before the invention of the steam engine. In the long run, therefore, technology will prove a blessing—rather than a menace—only if we can develop the political, economic, and social sagacity necessary to solve our technology-created problems; only if the whirlwind progress of inventions is matched by corresponding growth in wisdom, good will, and character.

In a word, it is essential to follow the application of natural science to industry with a similar application of Christianity in the economic world. The latter will revolutionize human life even more than the former has done.

Epidemic of Acute Muscular Rheumatism Appears Again

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

For the past year or two there have been reported epidemics of the old disease sometimes called "intercostal neuralgia," or "acute muscular rheumatism of the chest wall." This condition has not appeared with any frequency for a number of years. I remember an epidemic about 30 years ago vividly, because I had it myself.

The principal symptom is a pain of extreme severity around the chest wall. It may be one side, or both. Sometimes it is under the breast bone, sometimes in the neck and shoulders, and sometimes in the upper abdomen. The outstanding symptom is pain on breathing, especially on deep breathing. The patient usually is lying or sitting very quietly in bed, the breathing is rapid and shallow, and the eyes suffuse with tears on account of the extreme pain. Even children find that crying will aggravate their discomfort and remain quiet.

The old ladies in the neighborhood will probably call it "The Devil's Grip," and this name shortly runs through the neighborhood; because of its appropriateness everybody uses it. So far as treatment is concerned, perhaps the best is what a doctor of my acquaintance said to a patient when she complained that she could not take a deep breath. He replied, "Take two short ones instead."

Patients Have Fever All the patients have a little fever and a feeling of chilliness; sometimes a headache. The pain does not last long, from about one-half hour to three or four hours, but attacks of pain are liable to come back as often as two or three times within 24 hours.

Lawrence Tibbett, one of the world's leading baritones, will make his first radio appearance of the season on the Ford Sunday evening hour program, today over the Columbia network. He has just returned from a seven-month tour of Europe. The program, which will emanate from Detroit's Masonic temple auditorium, will also feature the 75-piece Ford symphony orchestra under the baton of Eugene Ormandy.

Guy Lombardo and his orchestra in "the sweetest music this side of Heaven" will go on the air over WABC-CBS at 4:30 p.m. CST. The program is sponsored by Bond Bread.

Notre Dame is as famous for comedians as for football players! Both Charlie Butterworth and Walter O'Keefe of "Hollywood Mardi Gras" are alumni from the Indiana university where they were classmates.

Betty Winkler, star of "Girl Alone," may head an additional NBC show which will ride the NBC airwaves early in January!

Before entering radio as producer of "Your Unseen Friend," M. H. H. Joachim enjoyed a brief but lucrative career as a chauffeur. While attending Oxford university, Joachim had his allowance cut off by his father. Undaunted, he borrowed the family limousine and pressed it into service as a taxi, chauffeuring people back and forth from the railroad station. He earned more than his allowance in a week—which was how long it took his family to catch on and stop the venture!

William Meeder, organist on the "Pepper Young's Family" series, and Stuart Metz, announcer, have been renewed for 13 weeks on the "Road of Life" program.

The cloud of the crash of '29 had a silver lining for Isabel Manning Hewson. A Philadelphia socialite forced to go to work, her beautiful speaking voice catapulted her into a radio job discussing food—and eventually led to her becoming nationally popular as "The Petticoat on the Air."

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By CHARLES NORMAN AP Feature Service Writer

NEW YORK — For a fellow who never did like movies, Pare Lorentz is doing nicely as the author, producer and director of two unusual films.

He's not making Hollywood money, but he's getting something he likes better. Nor is he spending Hollywood sums on his product. "The Plow That Broke The Plains" cost $19,000. Maybe you've seen it — it told what intensive cultivation and years of drought did to the great plains area of the United States.

His new film is "The River," which is about the Mississippi. This one cost $50,000, including film records of the 1937 flood for the government. Lorentz works for the government.

"Plow" Stirred Criticism That circumstance led to criticism. Certain movie theater chains saw the making of "The Plow" as government in business and wouldn't touch it, although 4,000 "independent" houses have shown it. Also, the Amarillo, Tex., chamber of commerce objected to the film as failing to represent the true situation. "The River," like its predecessor, presents the social and economic effects of waste of natural resources. It is the story of the river that carries "all the rivers that run down two-thirds of the continent." This is how part of Lorentz's script goes; it is spoken as an accompaniment to the film: "We build a hundred cities and a thousand towns but at what a cost. We cut the top off the Alleghenies and sent it down the river. We cut the top off Minnesota and sent it down the river. We cut the top off Wisconsin and sent it down the river. We left the mountains and the hills slashed and burned, and moved on. America His 'Star' You see the wooded hills and the undergrowth holding the rains; then the woods are gone, and there are only burnt stumps, bare earth. Then the rain begins, and the rain rolls downward, filling the streams, raising river levels, pouring into the Mississippi in ominous tides. Then you see the Mississippi roaring over its banks and over the countryside. The film will open in Washington, December 5.

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

BY GEORGE TUCKER NEW YORK — Twenty-seven framed pictures, some of them photographs and most of them autographed, hang on the walls of John Golden's office in West 44th street, and two of them are paintings by Golden himself. It isn't generally known that this big, bass-voiced ex-writer of songs once seriously considered art as a career. "But that was before I knew I was to become a lousy theatrical producer," he booms, reaching for a de-nicotined cigarette and flipping the match into an open-mouthed bust of Pallas, which serves as an ash tray. "I tried a lot of things in those days." Tell me about them. "Hell no," he cried. "I don't like that reminiscent stuff. Let's talk about tomorrow. I'm only beginning."

Lurid Play

So my eyes wandered about that long luxurious office, with its two pianos, its originals by Joseph Cummings Chase, its soft blue rugs, its massive, richly upholstered furniture, its memories of a thousand and one Opening Nights. They came to rest finally on a blue-bound manuscript lying on the desk. "A new play?" Golden's hands closed over the mimeographed screed. "Here," he said, "is a sure winner, a play by a corking writer and it will make a quarter of a million dollars. But, I'm not going to produce it. If I did, every critic in town would be on my neck."

"But why?" "Because it has one scene that is too carnal, too lurid. Other producers could take it, and some of them undoubtedly will, and the critics will rave over it. But by one of those curious twists of fate there has grown up about me a legend that Golden's plays never even approach the risqué border. It has now become so believed that I wouldn't dare present a play that touched, however lightly, on a forbidden theme."

"Then that trade-mark is going to cost you money?" "Sure, but then, what the hell — a man shouldn't want more than enough money to have one bed and two silk hats. Two silk hats are enough for anybody. More than two silk hats would be a vulgar ostentation of wealth."

People Do Not Enjoy Leisure, Scott Asserts

Talk Ends Conference And Phi Beta Kappa Fall Initiation

"People of today are hesitant at taking good advantage of the extra leisure offered to them by time-saving machinery," Prof. John A. Scott of Northwestern University said at a Phi Beta Kappa address in Old Capitol last night.

"The trouble with most people," continued Professor Scott, "is that they think that after one has passed the age of 19 or 20 it is too late to learn. People think that it is not even worth exerting themselves in an attempt to gain more knowledge.

"This increase in leisure has created for the modern world a great problem and a great opportunity. Only as I have said, people do not make it into an opportunity," he asserted.

Professor Scott's address was the concluding part of the program of the language and literature conference and the fall initiation of Phi Beta Kappa.

Earlier in the evening the honor society initiated 26 members into the chapter. After the initiation the chapter celebrated the founding of the fraternity with an informal dinner at the Jefferson hotel.

"In the matter of government," continued Professor Scott, "the Greeks gave us the idea of a government dependent upon the people. The Greeks made their people into great citizens but failed in making great states. On the other hand the Persians had a totalitarian state which made great government, but not good citizens."

The reason the Greeks failed was that their citizens were unable to obtain justice. The reason that the Persians failed in their government was because after their leader was disposed of, there was no one who could take his place, he explained.

Another advantage that we have over antiquity, Professor Scott said, is that we have in our country a supreme court which is free from mob rule and from interference of politics.

The ancient and the modern have the same problem declared Professor Scott—whether the government is dependent upon the people or the people dependent upon the government.

Children's Santa is Dr. Floyd

Will Distribute Gifts and Candy to Hospital Patients for Fifteenth Year

By NINA LYMAN

Dr. M. L. Floyd has played Santa Claus for children's hospital for several years. Christmas eve, 1937, will be the 15th year for him to appear in the traditional red suit and long white beard of Santa.

With his reindeer and loaded sleigh, he will go through the wards of the hospital distributing gifts and candy. Donner and Blitzen and the other reindeer will be nurses disguised with paper-mache, and they will pull a sleigh which was originally a hospital food cart. Each child will receive a gift and a sack of candy from Santa who amazes them by knowing all their names.

Santa Claus also reminds the children to be sure to hang up their stockings, as they will be filled with fruit and gifts during the night by the nurses.

A visit will also be made to the convalescent home, 21 E. Bloomington street, where about 25 children convalesce after having been in children's hospital. These children will be entertained in the same way.

Dr. Floyd is also very much in demand by his friends who have small children. After his journey through the hospital and convalescent home, he usually makes the rounds of the homes of these friends.

This Santa Claus business seems to be a lot of fun, and Dr. Floyd admits that he gets a real "kick" out of it.

Rev. W. Lemon To Speak At Vesper Service

Former Presbyterian Pastor Here Will Talk Tonight

The Rev. William P. Lemon, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Ann Arbor, Mich., will speak on the subject "What is it to be Educated" at the university vesper service at 8 o'clock tonight in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

The Rev. Mr. Lemon was born in Wales and received his early education in that country. Coming to America, he studied in several centers, including Princeton, New York and Harvard. For 10 years he was pastor of a church in Minneapolis near the University of Minnesota, where he was often called upon for lectures and conferences with students and faculty.

At the vesper service tonight, President Eugene A. Gilmore will preside. The university stringed orchestra will open the service with "Largo" by Handel. The hymn, "Spirit of God, descend upon my heart," will be sung by the audience. The invocation will be given by the Rev. C. C. Garriques, minister of the Christian church.

"When Thou Comest" from Stabat Mater by Rossini and other selections will be sung by the university symphonic choir.

Gordon String Quartet To Give University Concert Tomorrow

Presenting a Program of Classical and Modern Chamber Music, the Gordon String Quartet Will Appear Here Tomorrow at 8 P.M.

The quartet, which was founded in 1921, is composed of Jacques Gordon, first violin; David Sackson, second violin; William Lincer, viola, and Naoum Benditzky, cello.

In 1927, the year of the celebration of the 100th anniversary of Beethoven's death, the Gordon string quartet first achieved fame and popularity when it paid tribute to the great composer's memory by playing all the master's string quartets in a series of concerts. The success of these concerts convinced Jacques Gordon that a renaissance of popular interest in chamber music was near. With this idea in mind the group will play Beethoven's "Quartet in C major," opus 59 No. 3, tomorrow night.

Army Restored to Big Ten's List of Eligible Opponents On Gridiron

Ban was Placed On Cadet Team After Fall, '32

Squabble on Training Table Continues At Loop Meeting

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (AP)—The United States Military academy was restored to the list of opponents eligible for competition with Western conference universities today, when the Big Ten faculty committee rescinded the ban placed on the Cadets in the fall of 1932.

The Cadets were barred from participating with Big Ten teams because the West Point school allowed three years of competition to players who had previous seasons of play with other colleges. The conference limits its athletes to a combined total of three years on varsity teams.

Only football relations with the Army are expected to develop because West Point is too far removed from Big Ten territory to make feasible competition in minor sports. Illinois and Ohio State are the only schools likely to schedule the Cadets. It will be impossible, however, to arrange football dates with the Army until 1940 or later, because Big Ten schedules have been tentatively arranged until that time. Illinois, which sponsored the move for the Army's reinstatement may be able, however, to find a place on its card for the Cadets with whom the Illinois wound up a two-game colorful series in 1934.

Government School
In announcing its decision to waive the ban the committee said it had done so because of extenuating circumstances which permitted it to make an exception of a government institution.

The Big Ten training table program which is perennially brought up, was discussed, but the committee deferred definite action until the May meeting, to be held at Columbus, Ohio, at the time of the Big Ten track and field championship meet.

Training Table Not Settled
It was a belief of several faculty members that permitting a training table for the football squads alone would be discrimination against other athletes. Establishing a training table for all teams would entail too great a burden for some institutions, it was argued.

The case of John Rabb, Ohio State university fullback, was referred to the eligibility committee. Rabb played freshman football at Fordham and the committee will decide whether this shall be regarded as a year of competition or whether Rabb will be eligible to play one more year of varsity football for the Buckeyes.

Electric Clocks
The directors of athletics approved the suggestion for installation of electric timing clocks placed on the score board in view of the spectators as the official timing device for all games. They also approved the suggestion officials be garbed in white shirts or jerseys of black and white stripes to distinguish them from players.

The Big Ten swimming championships were awarded to Chicago, March 11 and 12, with Northwestern and Chicago co-hosts. The meet will be held in a new high school pool. The baseball coaches, after drawing schedules for 1938 agreed to play two games for four consecutive week ends. The purpose is to prevent a team from spacing its games so it can go through the entire season using only one pitcher.

Major League Baseball Trading to Get Under Way After Monday's Meeting

By EARL HILLIGAN
CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (AP)—Major league baseball's trading cauldron continued to simmer steadily today with prospects that selling and buying of diamond talent would reach the boiling points when the American and National circuits open their annual meetings Monday.

Going into the bargaining huddles which were well-rehearsed at the minor league meetings in Milwaukee, club owners, managers and scouts held "conferences" which added to the already bumper crop of "ivory" transaction rumors. For the most part, however, actual deals made today were of minor league interest, with the likelihood the major David Harms would keep their ears to the ground and pens in pockets until the meetings get under way.

The St. Louis Browns, who figured in two of the three all-major league transactions completed at Milwaukee, gave further indication they will make every effort to improve the club. They obtained Vito "Round Man" Tamulis, young left-handed pitcher, from Newark's Bears for First Baseman Harry Davis and cash.

Trautman Elected
The American association, which elected George Trautman president for three years during the minor league sessions, swung into its annual meeting by voting to

Trojans Stave Off Rally To Win 19-13 Tilt

70,000 Watch U.C.L.A. Score Twice In Last Period

By ROBERT MYERS
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4 (AP)—Seventy thousand fans saw the Trojans of Southern California defeat the Bruins of University of California at Los Angeles in a spectacular battle today 19 to 13.

For three quarters Trojan power crushed the reserve - weak Bruins, but the Uclans came back in the final period to score two touchdowns on the arm of big-footed Kenny Washington their Negro halfback star.

Trailing, 19 to 0, Washington fired a touchdown pass to Hal Hirschon. Wait Shell kicked the extra point.

On the first play after the kickoff, Kenny sailed a perfect spiral for 65 yards. Hirschon caught it and made the goal dash for the completion of a 73 yard play.

The Trojans soon found themselves on their own 16 as "General" Washington continued his mounding work, but the threat ended when a fourth down pass flew into the dust, incomplete.

Trojans Run Bruins Ragged
From the start, Troy's great quarterback, Grenville Lansdell, his blocking mate, big Bob Hoffman, and Fullback Bill Sangster ran the Bruins ragged.

Coach Howard Jones' sturdy front line never permitted the Bruins to reach scoring territory. Lansdell, triple-threat hero of the day for Troy, scored the first two tallies and passed 20 yards to Joe Shell, reserve back, for the other.

2 Colgate Gridders Selected to Play On Eastern Team

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (AP)—Two Colgate athletes were the first to accept invitations to play with East in the annual East vs. West all-star charity football game at San Francisco New Year's day. Dick Hanley, former Northwestern coach, announced today.

Hanley, chairman of the eastern team's selection committee, said the gridders were Red Chesbro, 215-pound tackle, and Eddie Lalor, 195-pound fullback. He added acceptances of other players were expected soon.

Andy Kerr of Colgate and Bernie Bierman of Minnesota will coach the eastern team this year. Major Biff Jones of Nebraska and Babe Hollingsberry of Washington State will direct the west.

A Champ and His Protege

Adam Vogel Expected to Aid Iowa in Defense of Gym Title

Sophomore Star From Milwaukee Boasts Good Record

By DELOS SCHRADER
Daily Iowan Sports Writer
A collected young gymnastic star, as cool as the Lake Michigan breezes that blow across his native city of Milwaukee is Adam Vogel, sophomore all-around man, hailed by his coach, Albert Baumgartner and gym critics as a possible successor to the nationally famous Eugene Wettstone, "iron-man of gymnastics," who surrendered Old Gold competition colors for cap and gown last year.

Just as his ancestors from the banks of the Blue Danube left Budapest for a new hemisphere, bringing with them their aptitude and love for gymnastics, so did Vogel leave his Wisconsin city for this cornland university with enough inherent ability to be a big factor in Iowa's defense of their Big Ten title this year.

If Vogel's performances grow in proportion to his rise during his last three and one-half years of participation, the prophecies of optimistic gym authorities will be fulfilled to a high degree.

Four years ago, E. C. Gerber, coach of Milwaukee West Division high school, saw a frail-looking sophomore prepster going through his exercises in a required physical education course. Unhesitatingly, Gerber pointed his finger at the youth.

After only a month of instruction he was placed as last man on the school's gym team for the city championship meet. In Milwaukee gymnastics are probably as highly developed as anywhere else in the United States because the large number of German people congregated there have taught and encouraged their offspring in gymnastics—the high sport of their ancestors.

In his first city meet, Vogel, the slightest of 150 contestants, ranked 57th, the next year he placed 23rd, while in his last year of prep school competition he jumped to fifth. Wettstone, Baumgartner's assistant, spends a great deal of time with his protegee and feels that Vogel has made a great improvement over last year.

This winter as the Hawkeye gym team of plucky sophomores struggles to hold its Big Ten championship, fans will probably recognize him as the high point man, yet Vogel will be busy maintaining a high grade point average—thus fitting into Iowa's new era of outstanding sophomore athletes who possess both brains and brawn.

Hawkeye Swimmers Take to Books After Hard Work on Dolphin Show

"Boys, you have got to hit the books," is the command issued by Coach David Armbruster to his varsity swimming team as the Christmas vacation approaches, and his men begin a concentration period.

"Some of the boys have spent considerable time in working on the Dolphin show this year, and consequently I am dropping them from swimming practice this week so they can make up any missed work," Coach Armbruster said yesterday as he worked with some of his mermen.

The squad has been doing considerable distance swimming during the last three weeks, and is just now beginning to work on speed.

Eligibility Hits 1936 Team
Last year Armbruster lost some good men by ineligibility ruling, and he hopes no such situation occurs this year. Prospects for a powerful team are fairly bright

Stephens Tops Scorers With Fifteen Points

Coach Williams Gives All Men Chance; Kinnick Starts

By G. K. HODENFIELD
Daily Iowan Sports Editor
Score-keepers pencils were at a premium last night as the Hawkeye basketball team raced their way over and through the freshmen, 61-25 in a regulation game.

After the regular playing time had elapsed, Coach Rollie Williams left the men on the floor and the varsity continued to pour in baskets with monotonous regularity. When the carnage finally halted the yearlings were still fighting—and trailing 80 to 30.

Williams, seeking to give all his men a chance to get into the fray, substituted freely. Bennie Stephens led the scorers as he looped in seven baskets and a free throw for 15 points. Capt. Sam Johnson, hitting consistently with his favorite hook shot trailed with 13 points.

Anapol Leads Fresh
Angelo Anapol of Chicago paced the freshman team with 13 points made on five baskets and three free shots. Anapol was the only consistent scoring threat on the yearling team. Ken Pett, all-state griddler from Logan, displayed a good defensive game and exhibited some classy ball handling.

Williams pulled one out of his hat at the start of the game when he started Nile Kinnick, All-Conference halfback, at a guard position in place of Joe Van Yssel-dyk. The other members of the starting team were Jack Drees at center, Stephens and Johnson at forwards and Kenneth Susens at guard.

Kinnick Scores 7 Points
Kinnick did not score until late in the game but he finally began clicking and totaled seven points before he was sent to the showers.

Nearly 150 persons braved the cold winds to go over and watch the game and if a scoring spree was what they wanted they were not disappointed. The Hawkeyes showed flashes of power with their new fast-breaking offense and gave promise of some classy ball-playing this year.

Race-Horse Style
At times during the game, the players seemed to let the game get away from them as the men dashed madly up and down the floor with no effort to use a definite system.

Three sophomores besides Kinnick broke into the scoring column for the regulars. Tommy Lind of Burlington rammed home three baskets and exhibited some classy floor play. Lind's performance last night makes him an outstanding threat for a first team berth. Kenneth Bastian, brother of Howard Bastian who played for the Hawks several seasons ago, connected for six points, all of them from near the free throw line. Dick Evans and Lawrence Benoitone counted four and three points respectively.

Susens Shines
Susens, ineligible for the second semester last year has not lost a bit of his defensive ability as demonstrated last night. During his stay in the game, the Burlington back court ace clamped down on the freshmen for one field goal from right under the basket.

To prove that the elimination of the center jump is not going to keep him from the first team this year, Jack Drees, 6 foot 4 inch Hawkeye center, played a good floor game and was especially effective on tip-in shots under the basket.

The Hawkeyes will open their regular schedule with a double-header against Carleton college on the fieldhouse floor next Thursday. The Carls have already met one Big Ten team, being swamped by the Northwestern Wildcats Thursday night, 53-23.

The twin bill, first in Iowa basketball history, was scheduled by Williams in an effort to give all his men a chance to perform before a crowd under regular playing conditions.

HOD SHOTS

By G. K. HODENFIELD

The Associated Press, each year sends a ballot on which they request sports editors over the country to vote on outstanding individuals and happenings in the world of sport during 1937. After mulling over the questions for several days I have thrown in the towel and I am passing it on to you for whatever it may be worth.

The first problem was to pick three outstanding men athletes in any sport, amateur or professional, listed in order of preference. On this one don't forget Ducky Medwick, Don Budge, Lou Gehrig, Charles Gehring, Clint Frank, Turner White, Lou Fette and Jim Thayer, Rudy York, Montague (?), Ralph Guldahl, Sam Snead, Dutch Clark, and Capt. George Eyston. Don't stop here, there are plenty more.

When you have that one taken care of, pick the three outstanding women athletes. Mrs. Opal Hill, Helen Stephens, Alice Marble and Helen Jacobs are a few. Eleanor Holm Jarrett also gets a few headlines now and then.

One of the easier ones is picking the outstanding team of 1937. The Manhattan Maulers, (New York Yankees to you) should take that in a walk but the American Davis cup team should not be overlooked. Nor the Ryder cup team. The Argentine polo team, the Washington rowing crew and the Pittsburgh football team are others that should be considered.

Problem number four on the ballot is to pick the three leading come-backs in individual competition, men or women, amateur or professional. For this one we have Johnny Goodman, Turner and Fette, (mentioned above), Gene Sarazen and Lefty Gomez. Take your pick.

I would appreciate comments on any of the above questions. There's good material for a lot of bull sessions and hot stove league argument there.

Eugene Wettstein is Eugene Wettstein no longer. The former Iowa gymnastics champion changed his name to Wettstone last spring. He's still one of the greatest gym stars in Iowa history, however.

Duquesne Scores Touchdown, Field Goal, to Down Mississippi State 9 to 0

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Dec. 4 (AP)—Duquesne university scored a 9-0 victory over Mississippi State here today on the wings of a field goal and a last minute touchdown from an intercepted pass.

With two minutes to play, the Dukes pulled up to the State six yard line with a first down, but three plays left the oval three yards short of the goal. Zoppetti replaced Uyrchey at quarter and called for a place kick. He held the ball on the 15 and Brumbaugh booted it between the uprights to give the Dukes a 3 point lead.

State received the kick-off and was given the ball on its 46 when officials ruled pass interference. Ed Scott fended back and shot a flat pass intended for Joe Ruffin; but Grabinski, Duke center raced in, pulled it out of the air and ran forty yards to score standing up.

DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 4 (AP)—Rice Institute tonight accepted a bid to play Colorado University in the Cotton Bowl here New Year's day.

and bucked Rice to a touchdown on the first play of the second period.

Lain Takes Charge

Early in the third period Lain again took charge and threw two passes to Frank Steen and Johnny Neece that netted 31 yards, crashed through the line down to the four and blocked out a Methodist line surge as Jack Vestal kicked a field goal that put the Owls ahead, 9-7.

The big halfback plucked off one of Jack Morrison's wild passes in the fourth period on the Methodist 21 and returned to the nine, from which point he simply power-housed his way across on three surges for a touchdown.

OAKLAND, Calif., Dec. 4 (AP)—An eight-pound boy was born tonight to Mrs. Max Baer, wife of the former heavyweight boxing champion.

St. Pat's Given Long Workout

Coach Harry Ryan sent his St. Patrick's cagers through a prolonged defensive workout last night in preparation for the game with Solon high school Monday.

In the first start against Parnell the Irish looked very ragged on defense and their offensive abilities were far from being up to par. With the exception of Hod Love who distinguished himself by staging a one man scoring spree, the Green and White's offensive strength was found lacking.

Although taking numerous shots at the basket the Irish failed to convert points, the ball usually rolling off the rim instead of dropping in for two points.

To remedy this poor shooting Ryan has instructed his men to take more time, and be at a better angle before taking their shots.

The Irish are pointing toward the Solon game for their first victory of the season. Solon possesses a small, inexperienced team that should not give the Irish much trouble. The game will be held at the new Solon gym, at eight o'clock Monday evening.

Florida Turns Back Kentucky

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Dec. 4 (AP)—Florida cashed in on Ed Manning's 59-yard run today to turn back Kentucky 6 to 0 in the season's finale for both football teams.

It was Manning, Mayberry's substitute, who sparked the 85-yard drive to the lone touchdown in the third period. Kentucky had taken the kickoff and smashed deep into Gator territory after Vincent Robinson returned the kick 44 yards to the Florida 41.

The Wildcat attack bogged down on the 8 and the Gators took over the ball. On the first play Manning was dumped for a three-yard loss, but he tore loose for 11 on the next play.

From deep punt formation, he sped around left end, cut back across the field and almost managed to elude the safety man before he was slowed down and tackled on the Kentucky 16. Paul Delaney circled left end on a reverse for 14 more yards, then smashed over guard for the touchdown after two plunges failed. Manning's placekick for the extra point failed.

Redskins to Play For Eastern Title

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (AP)—The Washington Redskins and the New York Giants of the National professional football league will battle at New York tomorrow for the right to oppose the Chicago Bears, western champions, in the playoff Dec. 12.

Washington must defeat the Giants to gain the eastern title since a tie still would leave the New Yorkers the leaders.

At Chicago only the city rivalry between the Bears and the Cardinals was the attraction since the Bears already have clinched the honors in their division.

Phi Kappa Psi Triumphs Over D.U. Five, 25-13

Top notch among the interfraternity class A basketball games at the fieldhouse yesterday afternoon was the game between Phi Kappa Psi and Delta Upsilon fraternities. Phi Psi came through in the end, winning by a score of 25-13. Other games played were Phi Kappa Sigma and Sigma Phi Epsilon with the Phi Kaps winning, 27-16; Triangle ran over Theta Xi in a high scoring contest, 64-29; and Delta Theta Phi defeated Beta Theta Pi, 22-18.

Four other games scheduled were not played. Alpha Sigma Phi forfeited to Pi Kappa Alpha, Alpha Tau Omega to Phi Gamma Delta, both Phi Delta Theta and Phi Delta Phi failed to appear and the Theta Tau and Sigma Chi game was postponed until Monday night.

Perhaps the fastest and hardest fought contest yet to be seen on the interfraternity courts was the Phi-Psi-D.U. battle. Led by Dave Foerster and Claude Douthett, the Phi Psi's started piling up points after being held down in the first period which ended with the Phi Psi's but one point ahead. But with the Phi Psi's possessors of the ball most of the latter part of the game, the losers could not tally the necessary points. Dick Jenkins was the outstanding man in the D.U.'s lineup.

Marquette 32, Wisconsin 21

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 4 (AP)—Marquette university combined expert marksmanship with tight defense in the last half to defeat the University of Wisconsin tonight, 32-21, before a crowd of about 8,000 in the opening basketball game of the season for both squads.

The score was tied at the end of the half, 14 to 14, but the Marqueters quickly took command after the rest period and built up a 7 point lead which they improved as the game neared an end. The lead changed six times in the first half.

The regulars held the Coyotes in check during the entire first half which ended 27-5 and all of them, with the exception of Martin Rolek, guard, left the game eight minutes after the second half had elapsed. Then the visitors took advantage of the loose shooting and passing of the reserves.

Replay A calm little note—five type-written pages, single spaced—brought reply in yesterday's mail from State Treasurer Leo Wegman.

"You ask me why I pick on Iowa City," he announces, answering my open letter on the whereabouts of his 'bootleg cigarette' outburst. . . "The reporter responsible for the article to which you refer called at my office, and in the course of his visit the matter under discussion came up. . . He made no notes and therefore wrote his article from memory. . .

Charge!

"I made no charge of law violation or law evasion. I spoke of the practice so prevalent and referred to it as 'avoidance of the law.' Iowa City was not designated particularly but used as an illustration because of its large transient population of young men and young women, perhaps the majority of which use cigarets.

"The reporter might as well have used Ames, Cedar Falls, Cedar Rapids, Dubuque or Carroll, for this avoidance of the law is general. . . To give you the facts, I was chagrined to find some months ago that it was being carried on by some members of the personnel of the treasury department. . . The practice was promptly discontinued. . .

"You ask—'Did you know that I personally brought back three cartons of cigarets from a recent Chicago trip and two from a journey into Wisconsin? This may possibly furnish another headline, Mr. Wegman—because I am an Iowa Citizen violating the law. . .

"I must correct you, for you violated no Iowa law—but you did avoid an Iowa law—and you did do that which I charge is being done so generally throughout the state—and seemingly resent this charge which by your own act you prove true.

"You being one of a 4,000 or a 6,000 student population, just suppose that one-half of that group did what you said you did. . . Would my estimate of 50,000 cigarets be too high? . . . Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri, Nebraska and Minnesota do not have a tax on cigarets, and the dealers in those states blanket Iowa with cards quoting cigarets at $1 to $1.15 per carton and state on their cards that no records are kept or that records are destroyed. . .

"Our cigaret law was re-written during the session of the 47th assembly. . . The bill retained the best features of our existing law and embraced portions of the Texas law. . . This bill went through the senate without a dissenting vote. . . In the house it was impossible to have it passed, and no one has ever given me a plausible reason for the defeat.

"The proposed law provided that the manufacturer, jobber or wholesalers must affix the stamp and thereafter the retailer or individual could not buy cigarets in Iowa legally, unless stamped. For the bill provided that anyone with more than two packages in his possession unstamped automatically became a dealer and was liable for the penalty provided. . .

"The office I hold is administrative. I do not make the laws, and if the people of Iowa do not wish this law taxing cigarets they should work for its repeal. . . Bootleg cigarets are a constant temptation—and because we ARE human, we are forever yielding to temptation. . . So the law in my judgment should be repealed or rewritten to meet present-day conditions."

Whenever I begin feeling particularly low, I always turn to Louella Parsons, the girl whose intellectual comments are much favored by people who think and read William Randolph Hearst's papers. . .

For example, consider her comment, deep in critical analysis, of Samuel Goldwyn's "Hurricane." . . All she says is simply—"Jon Hall is the best looking thing we've seen on the screen." . . The great critics of the past are probably all turning over in their graves in envy or something. . . I'm always amazed, after seeing the big-name band leaders, at

Fifty Books Ranked High In Physical Qualities on Show in Ranney Library

Fifty books, chosen for physical excellence from 600 books manufactured in the United States and Canada in 1936, are now on display in the Ranney library in Schaeffer hall. The books loaned by the American Institute of Graphic Arts will be exhibited until Thursday.

This is the 15th annual selection of books made under the auspices of the American Institute of Graphic Arts, by a jury named by the A.I.G.A. Judging was based upon physical excellence of the books. Literary content was not considered.

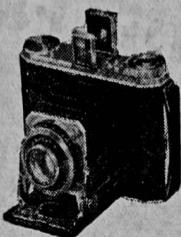

Physical excellence covers binding, design and workmanship, the choice of paper, stock and type face, the legibility and attractiveness of the page, the use of color and illustration, the register and impression, the typographic design throughout, the artistic conception and cohesion of the whole, the book's fitness for the use for which it is intended, and the success with which the designer has met the problems of manufacture and those presented by the book's editorial content.

Two classes are included, those in a period manner and modern books.

In the first group are "The Duchess of Portland's Museum," Horace Walpole for the Grolier club; "Early American Rooms," Fred Anthonisen; "The Puritan Pronouns," Samuel Eliot Morison and "English Poetry of the Seventeenth Century," Roberta Brinkley.

Peter and Edna Beilenson are represented by more choices than any other designers. From their Walpole printing office are "Cupid's Horn-Book," illustrated by Richard Floethe; "Sonnets of Shakespeare," and "A Battle in Greece," Stephen Crane.

Friday night was a 1:30 night for all those lucky people who went to the Sophomore Cotillion. But the rest of us poor women were in by 12:30 as usual. It seems unfair to me that when there are only four late nights each year that some are privileged to take advantage of them while others are not. Out of fairness all university women should be allowed the same privileges, and on those nights, all should be allowed to have 1:30 leave.

G.W.

There are some people who come to this university who have always had everything they could possibly want. In short, they have been badly spoiled. They should learn by association with those less fortunate that there are some things that all people can't have. Unfortunately they don't. When things they want to do just can't be done out of consideration for others they pout and rave around like spoiled babies. Of all the things that educational institutions can give us, it is the chance to work with others and learn to appreciate their difficulties and problems. If it fails in this, we have failed in one of the most valuable lessons we can learn for later life.

City Hostess Luta Dove Visits With Newcomers

Two and a half years ago Luta Dove, 811 E. College street, created the role she plays of Iowa City's official hostess. Since that time she has called upon several hundred families just moved to Iowa City.

Representing certain groups of merchants in the city, the hostess calls upon all new families within the first week after their arrival here. She presents them with courtesy coupons from some of the merchants which acquaints them with the business houses of the city. She inquires as to their church affiliations and turns their names in to the pastors of their preferred churches and she gives them information about Iowa City.

Having lived in Iowa City all her life, she is equipped to tell newcomers interesting details about the town.

Miss Dove says, "Last year I made more than 300 calls and expect to make more than 400 this year. I always try to reach the families within the first three or four days after their arrival here."

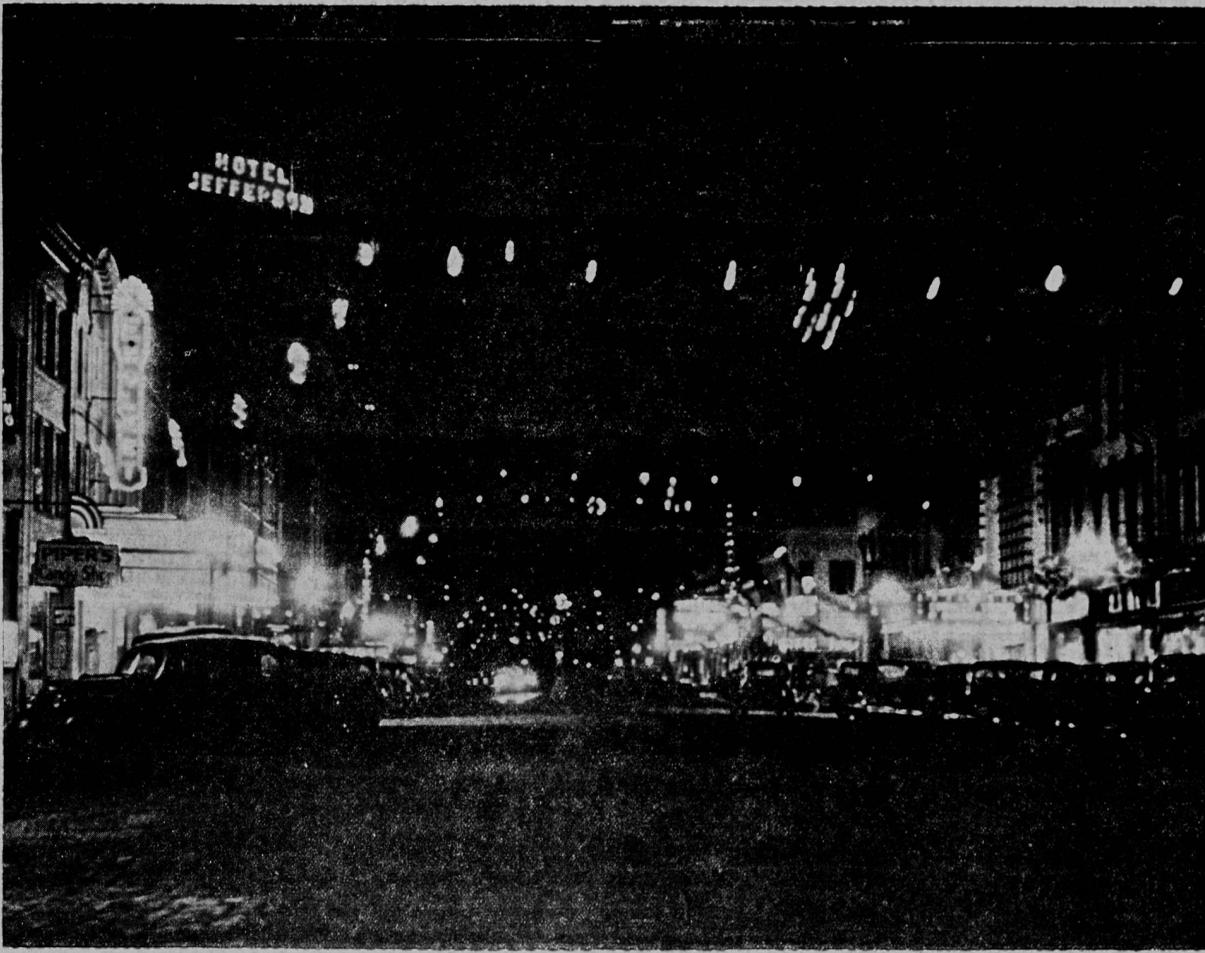

Speed Work on New Center; 25 Per Cent Completed Now

Reconstruction of the former American Legion building which will become Iowa City's community center, will "speed up" this week, Herman Smith of Smith and Burger, contractors, said yesterday.

Building was delayed during the past two weeks because steel girders — bent and twisted in the fire which ruined the structure in July, 1936 — were sent to Des Moines for straightening. General construction will probably be finished by April 1, 1938, as required in the contract, Smith said.

The building will not be open for community use then. Several minor contracts, such as painting

The street scene was photographed last night at Washington and Lincoln streets, looking west. Another Christmas holiday feature will be a huge Christmas tree at Washington and Dubuque.

John Schneider Named Winner

2,528 Contributors Give $17,874; 89.87 Per Cent of Goal

Iowa City's 1937 Community Chest campaign for 1938 funds closed officially yesterday noon when Attorney Thomas E. Martin, campaign director, announced John A. Schneider, 816 E. College street, as the winner of the gold statuette given to the most successful solicitor.

Attorney Martin, presiding at the meeting at the Mad Hatters tea room, announced that $17,874.92—89.87 per cent of the chest goal of $19,890—was paid in by 2,528 individual contributors. Of this total $16,933.23 was given without any designation as to which of the six participating agencies are to benefit.

At the luncheon, attended by the eight divisional directors, the board of trustees and the 16 top-ranking solicitors, Attorney Martin said that instead of six silver medals being given, all the finalists deserve special recognition, and another six silver medals were granted.

Those receiving the recognition in addition to Schneider were: Mrs. A. V. O'Brien, John Willard and C. W. Keyser, gold medals; and Mrs. Frank Bernick, Emma Hebel, Mrs. Chris Yetter, Mrs. R. A. Fenton, Mary Donovan, Owen Thiel, Mrs. Francis Boyle, Mrs. George Miller, Mrs. F. M. Barker, Mrs. Dick Jones, Mrs. Grant Bailey and Mrs. H. J. Dane, winners of the silver medals.

The 1937 campaign established a new record for the number of individual gifts with 2,528. The old record, set last year under the direction of Ed Rose, was 2,318 individual contributors. Records show that the amount this year is second only to that recorded in the 1933 drive, also headed by Attorney Martin.

In praising the board of trustees headed by Prof. Elmer W. Hills, Attorney Martin said, "The board of trustees is a real group to work for. I enjoyed the experience, and Iowa City appreciates your work as trustees of a difficult job. Your guidance has won the approval of the community which has made this campaign a success."

Members of the board of trustees who disburse the fund to the participating agencies are: Professor Hills, chairman; Ed Rose, vice-chairman; Alva Outhout, treasurer; Mrs. J. L. Records, secretary; Joe Glassman, Mrs. Louise Lawyer, Lee Nagle and Mrs. Fanny Woods.

The residential division, under the leadership of Mrs. C. W. Keyser, led in the final standings with 97.86 per cent of its quota raised.

The six remaining divisions finished in the following order: Prof. Homer V. Cherrington, university; H. R. Ferguson, national firms; Alva Outhout, business; Willis P. Porter, public schools; Bob Davis, employes and Attorney Arthur Leff, professional. These eight divisional directors and W. T. Hageboeck and Paul Ruth, publicity directors, were awarded medals as a recognition of their services during the campaign.

The total amount subscribed in each of the divisions and the percentage of the quota raised is:

Residential	$1,326.05	97.86
Hospital	$1,900.88	95.04
University	$4,232.94	91.03
Nat'l firms	$1,794.50	87.54
Business	$5,388.45	86.21
Public schools	$392.75	78.55
Employes	$1,849.65	73.99
Professional	$989.50	61.84

The 1937 campaign began officially Oct. 25 with more than 200 solicitors taking part in the first assignment. The chest fund raised by the solicitors is given out

Inside City's 'Big House'

Eight Prisoners Range In Age From 18 to 65; Mostly Petty Offenders

High up on the drab wall of a cell in the county jail is scrawled, "Frances — not guilty" — mute testimony of a miscarriage of justice, perhaps, or the appeal of a prisoner seeking sympathy where no sympathy is due.

Eight prisoners now eat breakfast at 6:30 a.m., lunch at 11:30 a.m. and dinner at 5:30 p.m. They amuse themselves throughout the long days with cards, checkers, reading, working and writing — if they have any to write. Each day is the same, and each night the lights are turned out between 9:30 and 10. At times a radio has served as entertainment. Just now no inmate owns one, and they must improvise their own music.

The eight now in jail range from 18 to 65. Three are charged with larceny, three with intoxication, one with operating a car without the owner's consent and one is going to Anamosa to begin a five-year sentence. The women's ward is empty at the present time. The sentences range from a few days to one year, the maximum imprisonment in a county jail.

Not always are men sentenced to jail. Occasionally an old man or a homeless boy wanders into the jail. "Especially during the winter some would rather be in jail than roaming the streets," said Mrs. J. J. O'Meara, assistant to Sheriff and Mrs. Don McComas, who have charge of the inmates. She added, "There have been cases where some have been released only to return asking to be imprisoned again."

Contrary to common belief, prisoners are not locked in individual cells unless rules are broken or a prisoner is suspected of attempting an escape. Sheriff Don McComas admitted that he is not bothered with "breakers" as he terms them. "If one is suspected he is locked up in a cell and is not allowed the freedom of the jail room." Walter "Dusty" Rhodes, before his conviction on the sensational murder charge, was isolated in a cell on the second floor.

There are two jail rooms — one on each floor — both capable of holding 24 inmates when

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

When Elsa Terry, famed opera singer, walks out on her contract to sing in Buenos Aires Jim Guthrie, one of the sponsors of the company, comes to New York to persuade her to reconsider. He meets Elsa through a subterfuge, wins the grudging approval of her aunt, Madame Della, and Jim and Elsa make the rounds of New York's theatres and night spots together. Jim enlists Elsa's manager in the conspiracy and, together, they urge Elsa to cancel her Paris engagement and sail for Buenos Aires on the same boat that Jim is taking. Jim asks her to take dinner at his apartment and he'll give her a preview of the pampas. As she comes to the door of Jim's apartment Elsa, who has fallen in love with Jim, hears a faint ringing to "kidnap" her and put her on the boat for Buenos Aires. Convinced that Jim loves her, Elsa knocks on the door of Jim's apartment.

looks as though we're going to Paris."
 "Speak for yourself," Jim said. "I must go to Buenos Aires. At least we can have dinner together tomorrow night — alone — and then I'll take you to the boat."
 Elsa smiled. "All right, Jim," she said tenderly.
 They had dinner the next night at Lepino's. Elsa pretended to become giddy with the wine. "You're a bad boy," she chided tinsily. "We shouldn't have waited until the last minute like this. Madella will be frantic."
 Jim smiled indulgently. His plan was working perfectly. "You've got plenty of time," he reassured her. When he had placed Elsa in the taxi for the pier he quietly instructed the driver to go to the "Orcinco's" berth. En route Jim gave Elsa a pair of dark glasses. "Wear these," he told her. "They'll help you duck the reporters and the photographers."
 "Oh, Jim, you think of everything," Elsa said, taking the glasses and putting them on. "Oh! I can't see a thing."
 Jim smiled. "You just hold onto me. You'll be all right."
 Jim hurried Elsa up the gangplank and into her cabin and they were joined almost immediately by Pancho and Margot. Pancho had done his job well and Margot was feeling very high. Jim poured champagne for them all. "To a happy voyage" was the toast.
 Once again a mischievous light came to Elsa's eyes. "I tell you what," she suggested. "Let's all go and see Madella and Rudi."

Now Go on With the Story

Chapter Four

Pancho, decked out as an Argentine gaucho, answered Elsa's knock. He made a sweeping bow. "Welcome, Senorita," he said.
 "Why, Pancho," Elsa said, "you look magnificent."
 Pancho looked at his costume and shrugged. "South American plus-fours," he explained. Jim, also attired as a gaucho, came to the door and added his greetings. From the next room there came the soft strains of guitars. Jim led Elsa to the dining room and opened the doors. Elsa gasped.

"This is the one with the knock-out drops." (Posed by Stuart Irwin, Melvyn Douglas and Grace Moore)

 The floor was covered with grass matting and on it was spread a picnic cloth. The walls were covered with a backdrop of the Pampas, with a large moon against a starlit sky shedding the only illumination. Jim gestured to the room. "The Argentine, senorita," he explained. "Always there is music — always a full moon."
 Elsa's eyes twinkled. "Doesn't that get monotonous?" she inquired.
 Jim shrugged. "You can always turn it off," he said. He touched the light switch and the moon blinked off.
 Elsa shook her head in mock wonderment. "An amazing country," she commented. "But I'm afraid the moonlight's too alluring. The music too seductive — the scent of the pampas grass overwhelms me."
 After dinner Jim urged her to make a decision about the trip. Elsa, in a teasing mood, kept postponing it. "You gave me until midnight," she explained.
 Elsa wandered into the living room and saw a large revolving globe of the world. Her eyes twinkled mischievously as she turned to Jim. "Look," she said, pointing to the map. "Here's Paris and here's Buenos Aires. I'll close my eyes, you spin the globe and I'll put my finger on a spot. Whichever place the spot is nearest, we'll go."
 Jim hesitated a moment and then agreed. Elsa shut her eyes — that is she almost shut them — and Jim spun the globe. As he reached out with her right hand Jim saw that it was heading for France. Privately, he accelerated the globe but Elsa, through her semi-closed lids, saw his move. She quickly pointed with her left hand and opened her eyes.
 "Why, it's France!" she cried. "It

Jim hurriedly blocked her way to the door. "No," he said. "We mustn't disturb them. They've got a sign on their door and the stewardess says they are asleep."
 Elsa persisted. "Oh, come on, Madella loves to be awakened." Jim took her by the arm and led her back into the stateroom. "Please," he murmured. "Just us."
 Elsa took his hand. "That's right, Jim, we may never be alone again," she said.
 "Don't say that," Jim replied. "We may meet sooner than you expect."
 "How can we?" Elsa asked. "You'll be in Buenos Aires and I'll be in Paris. How can we meet — unless you kidnap me now and take me with you?"
 Pancho, who had been gulping some champagne, almost choked. Elsa, to hide her laughter, went to the window of her stateroom. Outside, against the deckrail, she saw a life preserver with the stencil: "S. S. Orinoco." Elsa sighed. "What a beautiful night," she said and started to open the door to the deck.
 Jim joined her and he, too, saw the life preserver. He hastily stood in front of it and while he talked with Elsa, surreptitiously unfastened it. He pushed it over the side and it fell into the water below with a loud splash.
 "What was that?" Elsa asked.
 "A sea-gull, I guess," Jim replied.
 "What about your boat, Jim?" Elsa asked. "Doesn't it sail at midnight, too?"
 A steward came along the deck, pouring the last call. Visitors began to pour from nearby cabins and all the din of shipboard departure was unloosed. Jim and Elsa exchanged unintelligible farewells amid the clamor. Elsa looked at Jim, expecting that he would kiss her. Instead, he took her hand, kissed it hastily, and rushed off.
 Elsa watched him tenderly as he was swallowed by the throng.

Effect on Child Of Environment Told at Meeting

The effect of a child's environment upon his mentality was explained yesterday to members of the Child Study club by Prof. Harold Skeels of the Child Welfare Research station. Professor Skeels spoke at their luncheon meeting in the foyer of Iowa Union.

The basis for the speaker's talk was his research into child behavior conducted at the orphanage in Davenport and Iowa schools for the feeble-minded.

He illustrated his point—the visible effect of environment—with the example of a child whose I. Q. was lowered by life in a home of inferior standards and raised when he was transferred to a normal, pleasant home.

The club contributed $5 to the milk fund and the same amount to a fund for a family whose home burned recently. Margaret Cannon, school nurse, extended in the family's behalf, both to the club and to Iowa Citizens, a request for household goods of any kind.
