Big Business Man Indicates Better Cooperation; Tension With Government May Ease

Attitude Leaves Much
To Be Desired,
Says Magill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—A big business man indicated today that he saw signs of better cooperation between government and business.

Urging legislation to advance President Roosevelt's program for a boom in home building, Clarence Woolley, chairman of the board of the American Radiator company, told the senate banking committee:

"It is gratifying to note that the tension between government and business is beginning to be eased."

On the other hand, Dr. Hugh S. Magill, president of the American Federation of Investors, indicated that the government's attitude toward business left much to be desired. Addressing a letter to President Roosevelt and members of congress, he called for a "sincere and definite" change of policy as an incentive to the public to invest its savings.

He proposed: That the government discontinue "destructive, competitive" policy toward private industry and cease "subsidization" of municipal power plants; that "unfair" competition by the Tennessee Valley Authority be stopped and that the plan for establishment of regional planning authorities be abandoned.

He also called for modification of the "death sentence" clause of the holding company act. While Woolley's talks of cooperation fell soothingly upon some congressional ears there was no abatement of the clamor for an immediate token of the administration's intentions, such as the submission of a tax reform program to ease the burden of business.

Billy Rose Plans Show

'Carload of Texas
Tootsies' Needed By
Jaded Broadway

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—What jaded old Broadway needs—New York night clubs folding up in rapid-fire manner—was diagnosed today by Billy Rose as a carload of "the freshest, loveliest tootsies in Texas."

He's got 'em, he said, 100 strong, now en route from a show in San Francisco at a train fare cost of $12,000.

The little man who promotes big shows said he planned to open something new in the way of after-dark entertainment in Gotham on Christmas night.

"It won't star Eleanor Holm—definitely not," he snapped, referring to Mrs. Eleanor Holm Jarrett, one of the central figures in the recent marital merry-go-round involving Rose and his wife, Fannie Brice, of "my man—where is he now?" fame.

Billy wouldn't say he still was Fannie's man, but he did say he was glad to be back where he is now—on Broadway—after promoting shows in Cleveland, O., and Fort Worth, Tex.

Then, ruffled, he quipped: "Let's keep Miss Brice and Miss Holm out of the interview talk about my night club—it's one thing I own 100 percent of."

About the girls from Texas: "They've got corn tassels in their hair and electric lights in their eyes," he yelled. "They're fresh, they're gorgeous, they don't know the answers. That's what Broadway needs."

Rose said that he hand-picked them, and that he was backing them "with $100,000 in cold government literature" to "wake up the stem."

NIGHTMARE

Seeing Gas Kills 54
Animals, Birds

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—Gas, seeping from a defective heater, killed 54 wild animals and birds today and overcame a dozen others in a lower Manhattan menagerie before a watchman discovered their plight.

A pulmotor crew, displaying considerable ingenuity at adjusting their apparatus, revived four alligators, three monkeys, an Australian emu, three red doves, and an anteater.

The dead birds and animals, which included 46 monkeys, two gibbons, a tiger cat, a deer, three emus and a celesbes finch, were valued at more than $4,000 by Ferdinand Cochu, president of Amazonica, Inc., animal importing firm.

An ostrich, an emu, a gibbon and several tankful of tropical fish showed no ill effects from the gas.

Soviet Official Attacks Franco

London Committee On Non-Intervention
Hears Plans

LONDON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky censured Generalissimo Francisco Franco today as the non-intervention subcommittee debated technical details of its plan for evacuating foreign volunteer soldiers from Spain.

He called the Spanish insurgent leader "this pocket general who is unable without powerful foreign aid to stand on his own feet."

The subcommittee got down to details after it decided notes from the Spanish government at Barcelona and the insurgent regime at Salamanca constituted "acceptances in principle" of the plan for evacuating foreign fighters.

The scheme envisions removal of a "substantial" number of foreign fighters from Spain; granting of belligerent rights to the warring parties; and eventual withdrawal of all foreign volunteers.

Maisky contended it would not be fair to insist on withdrawing volunteers simply in numerical proportion because various categories of troops had different values.

It was announced in Whitehall that Sir Robert Hodgson, recently appointed chief British agent with the insurgents, will go to Salamanca Friday.

Meanwhile, Sir Henry Chilton, British ambassador to Spain now in Hendaye, France, has informed the insurgent authorities Great Britain did not recognize their right to blockade Spanish government ports.

The British government received notes from Salamanca confirming Franco's broadcast intention to establish a blockade of government ports and announcing his determination to keep oranges from leaving the territory of his enemy.

Greek Orders Approve Plan

Two sororities and two fraternities are the latest campus organizations to formally approve the university activity ticket plan, it was announced last night.

Kappa Alpha Theta and Gamma Phi Beta are the sororities and Alpha Tau Omega and Phi Kappa Psi the fraternities in favor of the ticket plan.

The general committee in charge of the project will meet at a luncheon this noon in Iowa City.

Don't Accept Candy From Your Friend

WAR, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP)—A friend handed J. T. Alitzer what he thought was a piece of candy.

The 63 year old man bit and it exploded, tearing his mouth and lips and sending him to the hospital today.

It was a torpedo.

are Maynard Miller, vice-president in charge of meetings; Perry Oakes, recorder, and Roy Ewers, executive vice-president.

Sheriff, G-Men Disagree In Missouri Man Hunt

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 7 (AP)—Jackson county's sheriff protested to J. Edgar Hoover tonight that "failure" of federal agents "to cooperate" with local officers last night when a G-man was dangerously wounded while trying to trap an extortionist had allowed "a dangerous killer to escape into our community."

Sheriff James L. Williams' telegram to the F. B. I. chief brought from Dwight Brantley, in charge of the local F. B. I. office, reply that:

"We are not desirous of engaging in any controversy with an officer who is misinformed as to the facts or who is making a misstatement of the facts."

Brantley reported Federal Agent H. A. Snow "still seriously ill" but "resting comfortably." He had "no comment" on the bureau's search for the man who wrote an extortion letter demanding $600 from Howard B. Jacobs, 37-year-old Independent coal dealer, and who is believed to have fired the shotgun blast which wounded Snow.

Sheriff Williams' telegram reviewed briefly the government's effort to capture the "supposed extortionist allowed to escape on foot in open country where, had the local officers been notified, a cordon of officers and citizens would have surrounded the territory within thirty minutes."

"We have always been and still stand willing to cooperate fully with your office in the enforcement of the law," the wire continued, "but your failure to cooperate to such an extent as to allow a dangerous killer to escape into our community is unbelievable."

On the other hand, detectives engaged in the investigation insisted they were making a routine inquiry into Fried's whereabouts, though they were unwilling to predict what would happen.

Fried vanished after attending a movie with his wife, his brother-in-law, Harold Daniels, and Mrs. Daniels, his sister. Later his car was found abandoned. Daniels reiterated his belief Fried disappeared voluntarily, but police were checking on various cars answering the description of one which Daniels said was in the neighborhood of the home of Mrs. Emma Fried, mother of the missing man, shortly before he was last seen.

Soviet Explorers Appeal For Rescue After 200 Days Afloat

Have Gathered Valuable
Data On Long Trip
From Pole

MOSCOW, Dec. 7 (AP)—Four soviet explorers drifting from the North Pole toward the Atlantic indicated today they were ready to be rescued as their ice floe approached possible danger.

In the 200 days since they landed at the top of the world, the campers have floated 745 miles and today reached the position 82.23 degrees north and 6.52 degrees west—off Northeast Greenland.

Otto Schmidt, chief of the Arctic ventures, has indicated the men may be taken off the ice in January, when it is estimated they will have reached a point between Greenland and Spitzbergen.

Ivan Papanin, chief of the camp, reported today by wireless the campers "won't be ashamed to return to the mainland since we have collected much valuable data."

His companions are Peter Shirshoff, marine biologist, Eugene Federoff, magnetologist, and Ernest Krenkel, radio operator—all engaged in scientific studies in the polar region.

They landed at the pole from an airplane May 21 with nine tons of food.

Papanin today indicated they expected to be rescued by airplane, instead of by icebreaker.

"When planes come to get us," he messaged, "we probably will ask the pilots to wait a day longer in order to finish our explorations."

Federoff has had to suspend measurement of magnetic variations, as the campers' floe rotates six or seven degrees daily.

Recently, when a strong wind generated enough energy for his windmill - powered radio for a detailed account of their life, Krenkel reported.

"The last strong wind caused wide fissures and formed new piles of pack ice."

Approve Plan

DES MOINES (AP)—State relief officials yesterday approved a plan to resume the distribution of surplus commodities to Iowa relief clients.

FINLAND TO PAY

13 Nations Owe U. S.
$1,680,170,447

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Finland took steps to preserve its record for prompt payment of its war debt to the United States, notifying this government it would meet the Dec. 15 installment of $232,143 when due.

One of 13 war debtor nations which together will owe $1,680,170,447 this month, Finland alone has not defaulted in the past.

The other 12 have been in default since 1933. None has given any indication thus far that it intended to resume payments Dec. 15, when the semi-annual installments fall due.

State Charges Seder Kidnap

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP)—Bald Arnett Booth heard another man tell today how Dr. James I. Seder, 79, blamed a "bald-headed fellow" for the kidnaping which kept him 10 days in an abandoned mine and led to his death.

Former Sheriff M. E. Ketchum of Wayne county, now a deputy U. S. marshal, told the jury trying Booth for kidnaping that the elderly minister told his own story just after he was found on a rocky hill near the mine Nov. 11.

Ketchum quoted the former missionary:

"I know one of them (the kidnapers) very well. I can't recall his name very well but he lives in my apartment and he is a bald-headed fellow. He is the man who gave the check."

The state, which is asking the death penalty, charges that Booth, 46 year old ex-convict, promised to make good a worthless $30 check if Seder would go with him to get the money. Booth is one of the three men accused of abducting Seder.

Bronx Manager Listed Among Missing Persons

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 7 (AP)—Arthur Fried, 32-year-old Bronx office manager who disappeared Saturday night, was listed as missing tonight, and Westchester county authorities held conflicting views on what had happened to him.

District Attorney Walter A. Ferris, despite denials from Fried's family that a note demanding $100,000 ransom had been received, was reported still unconvinced that Fried was not kidnaped.

On the other hand, detectives engaged in the investigation insisted they were making a routine inquiry into Fried's whereabouts, though they were unwilling to predict what would happen.

Fried vanished after attending a movie with his wife, his brother-in-law, Harold Daniels, and Mrs. Daniels, his sister. Later his car was found abandoned. Daniels reiterated his belief Fried disappeared voluntarily, but police were checking on various cars answering the description of one which Daniels said was in the neighborhood of the home of Mrs. Emma Fried, mother of the missing man, shortly before he was last seen.

Mallorca Island Raided by Planes

MADRID, Dec. 7 (AP)—A successful raid by 24 government planes on the island of Mallorca, insurgent air and sea base off the East Spanish coast, was announced tonight by the Barcelona government.

An air ministry communique said government squadrons inflicted heavy damage on Palma, Mallorcan city once famous as a Mediterranean resort.

The communique, terming Palma the base "where Italian resources predominate," reported three insurgent planes and one government craft were shot down in the air battle.

"All objectives fixed by our high command were successfully hit by our planes which dropped all their bombs and emptied their machine gun magazines," said the announcement.

Chinese Repulse Japs At Nanking Gateways; Inflict 1,000 Casualties

Cures Radiator Knock
** ** * *
It's Caused by Shutting Off Pump Abruptly—
Starting Peculiar Wave

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press
Science Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—For taming water hammer, the "knock" in the radiator dangerous as dynamite in big hydraulic projects Lorenzo Allievi, Italian engineer, tonight was given the highest award of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers—honorary membership.

The Italian discovered, by mathematics, the mysterious force which make a water hammer. The society, in annual meeting tomorrow begins a two day symposium explaining the details.

The hammer appears when a pump is shut down abruptly. What happens, the Italian figured, and the symposium papers will verify, is that a peculiar wave starts through the pipe at the point where the pump pressure is cut off.

Unable to find free space in which to roll like a wave in the open sea, this wave travels by compression. It moves much like a sound wave in a solid. It travels to the end of the pipe, and back. It sometimes bounces back and forth several times. During its travels a vacuum sometimes opens up somewhere in the water column. Collapse of this vacuum strikes a tremendous blow. But more dangerous still, the Italian's mathematics showed, is the explosive force of the compressed water wave.

In small pipes there is no harm. But in big pipes, with high speed pumps, water hammer becomes an explosive. In the six feet in diameter penstocks, the "wells" down which water feeds into the turbines in power projects like Boulder dam the hammer is enough to smash the steel turbine.

Mellon Exonerated from Tax Fraud Stigma by U. S. Board

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Andrew W. Mellon won today, three months after his death, formal exoneration of income tax fraud.

The United States board of tax appeals threw out the government's fraud charge unanimously and in a divided opinion on other issues slashed the government's claim for additional taxes on Mellon's 1931 income from $3,675,103 to about $700,000. The 125-page decision was so complicated, however, that it may be several days before the exact amount is determined. It took the board a year to make the decision.

Both sides considered appealing the decision to the circuit court of appeals but the ruling brought to at least a temporary end one of the most sensational controversies between New Dealers and their predecessors. The government accused Mellon of dodging taxes and he branded the charges "political persecution."

Mellon first came to the general public notice when President Harding named him secretary of the treasury in 1921. He continued to manage the nation's financing under Coolidge and Hoover sent him to London as ambassador. The advent of the New Deal retired him to private life. The tax quarrel began a year later.

The administration filed the huge claim and sought a criminal fraud prosecution. But a Pittsburgh grand jury refused to indict him and today's ruling supported that decision.

Eighty-two years old and in failing health, Mellon spent his last few months donating a $50,000,000 gallery of art masterpieces to the government.

Tells About $25,000,000,000 Ten-Year Recovery Program

BARRELS OF WEALTH
Pennies Accumulated
By Eccentric

HALIBURTON, Ontario, Dec. 7 (AP)—Barrels of wealth—in pennies—were left today to the heirs of 90 year old Fred Erick Freeman.

Freeman, keeper of the village general store and long one of the most colorful figures in these parts, died yesterday.

Once, in reply to an inquiry as to his longevity, Freeman replied: "I have chewed tobacco. I have smoked a big black cigar almost every day of my life and I have drunk the best whisky, and I have had a clear conscience. I never did a man wrong."

Market Prices Slightly Higher

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—Industrials, led by steels, put on a burst of rallying speed at the tail end of today's stock market and definitely reversed a downward trend that had prevailed during the greater part of an apathetic session.

Gains ran to as much as 4 or more points in a few cases at the whirlwind finish which forced the ticker tape to lag 3 minutes behind floor dealings.

There was little in the spot news to account for the belated recovery swing and brokers attributed it partly to short covering and some quick-turn speculative buying.

Creation of 3,000,000 Jobs Hinted By Paint Magnate

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP)—Creation of 3,000,000 new jobs, investment of $25,000,000,000 of capital in expansion of industry and a new recovery program over the next two to ten years were proposed to the nation's manufacturers today by Lamont du Pont, president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours and company.

Addressing the National Association of Manufacturers, meeting here in annual convention, du Pont said such a program was "staggering in its size and complexity" but "neither hopeless nor impossible" to achieve if, he declared, government must give industry "a reasonable amount of certainty upon which it can count in planning current and future operations."

Earlier the 66 executives of American business had heard William B. Warner, president of the association, plead for teamwork between labor and capital, management and government and appeal to the latter for evidence of a "changed attitude toward business."

"The bulk of the responsibility for future social betterment," du Pont asserted, "should be placed on industry's shoulders. And industry accepts the responsibility. Even more, we welcome the responsibility with full confidence in our own and our nation's capacity to discharge it successfully. All that we ask is the same fair opportunity that we believe should be given the humblest citizen."

New jobs, new wealth and agricultural prosperity, could be produced only through planned research, planned development and planned expansion of plant, sales and administrative facilities.

Invaders Try To Scale Wall Of Stronghold

200,000 Troops Defend Barricades From
Mass Attack

SHANGHAI, Dec. 8 (Wednesday)—Chinese sources today reported Japanese columns storming two gateways of Nanking's ancient walls were repulsed by Chinese defenders who inflicted 1,000 Japanese casualties.

Three Japanese columns were said to be attacking the almost-surrounded capital in a semi-circle.

Chinese reports said the vanguard of one column advanced to the Chilin—(Unicorn)—gate of the outer walls but was driven back with heavy casualties.

A main motorized column next attacked the "morning sunshine" gateway in the southern main walls leading to the beautiful Ming palaces. Chinese defense forces were said to have staved off the attack and pushed the column back to the village of Tenghwan.

The third column had not reached Nanking yet, being held up by fighting at Mulinkwan.

Chinese troops inside the barricaded city of Nanking, apparently convinced the capital would fall before the oncoming Japanese legions, today began destroying military supplies and equipment to keep them from being taken by the enemy.

Approximately 200,000 Chinese soldiers were massed in the vicinity of Nanking, objective of a force of 75,000 Japanese, whose advance guard was reported at the city gates attempting to scale the ancient walls.

Within the capital—deserted by the Chinese government—tension increased as the passing hours brought the crisis closer. Scores of thousands of civilians, including at least 17 Americans and many other foreigners, massed in the residential area, which the Japanese said would not be attacked. All exits were closed.

2 Army Pilots Reported Safe, Three Missing

MANILA, Dec. 8 (Wednesday) (AP)—Two Philippine army officers missing since Monday when their bombing plane was trapped by a typhoon reported themselves safe today and raised hopes for the safety of three other officers unreported since the same typhoon.

Officers still missing included Major General Paulino Santos, chief of staff of the Philippine army.

Lieut. Guillermo Francisco, pilot of the bomber, in a telegram from Infanta, Tayabas province, to his wife here, said he and Major Manuel Olympia were forced down by thick weather near Infanta shortly after noon, Monday. The telegram added "all okay."

Meanwhile search for General Santos and the two other officers continued by air and land.

The United States army planes left Manila for the Pacific coast of Luzon island. Constabularymen slashed their way through the thickets of Tayabas province.

180 Tome Students Strike—At Ousting Of Institute Head

PORT DEPOSIT, Md., Dec. 7 (AP)—The 180 striking students of Tome Institute here lounged in their rooms, took long walks or played games today—but carefully stayed away from classrooms in protest against the ousting of their headmaster, Dr. Charles J. Keppel.

The students met in the morning, adopted resolutions condemning violence, and then called a holiday.

The Town Crier Calls For Health

OFF THE STREETS of the past, the National Tuberculosis association has plucked a famous figure, turned him into a worthy symbol, and behold—the old-fashioned town crier walks again in spirit.

With bell raised high and lantern swinging, his image is engraved on the 1937 Christmas seal beside the double-barred Lorraine cross, official emblem of the international crusade against tuberculosis.

This modern town crier will carry a message of faith and hopefulness through every street in the nation this Christmas season. In Iowa, alone, more than 5,000 people ill with tuberculosis will benefit from purchases of the 1937 Christmas seal.

Johnson county's seal drive began a week ago Saturday with a goal set at $1,998.22. Have you come your part to assure the accomplishment of this goal? If you haven't, have you forgotten the real meaning of Christmas?

In order that the town crier's lantern may help bring the golden light of health into the lives of the tubercular and his bell ring out the true Christmas "Good Will To Men"—let's make sure that this seal is on all of our letters and packages this year.

Eternal Vigilance

NEWS DISPATCHES from Providence, R. I., tell of an order from a state court bench that stopped the presses of the Providence Star-Tribune, removed an editorial from its pages and destroyed the already printed copies of the paper.

This episode is another in a long series of unsavory incidents in the fight between Gov. Robert E. Quinn and Walter E. O'Hara, Rhode Island race track operator.

The action of Judge Jeremiah E. O'Connell who read the proof of the editorial and then ordered it removed from the paper is what is generally called censorship and is definitely contrary to the American conception of freedom of the press. While there may have been some legal technicality from which the judge gained authority, it is quite possible that a suit against him would be carried to the upper courts and decided in favor of the Star-Tribune.

Americans who value their liberty should watch the developments of this incident closely. It followed upon the statement of the governor that he would run O'Hara out of the state and his use of the state national guard to close O'Hara's race track, although racing is not forbidden by the state laws.

O'Hara's charges of dictatorship have been denied by Governor Quinn and his followers, but the latest episode in the long feud has all the earmarks of the same sort of political skulduggery that made Huey Long dictator of Louisiana and cost him his life. Whether or not the citizens of Rhode Island approve of Quinn's tactics in the fight is not known, but it is a safe bet that they do not.

Coeds On A Cottony Warpath

BEWARE, JAPAN! The knitting needle has always been more potent than the bayonet. Nine-power conferees may meet, and august delegations may offer protests and condemnations. Still Japan marches on. But the American college girl knows a better way. If you really want to stop Japan, you don't use your voice or even your country's—use your legs. If you're in China you use them to run. But if you're in an American college the method is different.

Internationally minded coeds are kicking up their heels at Japan—heels encased in dainty cotton mesh! Belligerent Japan may send her silk hose over here if she wishes; they'll stay unused in the shops. The American girl prefers her own, south's peaceful cotton.

It's a fad, of course, and will probably last just so long as the American male remains unable to distinguish the cotton from silk. But meanwhile, feminine America has turned internationalist.

And Japan should be warned. The deadlier sex is campaigning with indignation in its eye and cotton round its ankles.

Election In Russia

IN A DAY when democracy is receiving body blows on all sides from communists and fascists alike, there comes news which should be cheering to liberty-lovers.

Saturday Russia, the stronghold of communism, has its first election under the new constitution. Elaborate measures have been taken to make a great success of this first chance of the Russian people to express their political will freely and openly.

Election booths have even been installed on Soviet ships sailing in the Arctic seas. Educational programs designed to acquaint the Soviet masses with the fundamentals of voting have been carried out. Propagandists have been busily assuring Soviet citizens that Russia is the world's only truly democratic country. Nominating committees have striven to select only the best men to place on the ballot.

All sounds very well—the only catch being that there is but one party represented on the ballot; that, of course, headed by Stalin. It shouldn't take long for voters to exercise their newly-gained freedom of choice with only one choice for each office.

Perhaps it isn't so cheering after all.

EXCEPTION FOR EMERGENCY

Cephas Tidd, clerk in a gents furnishing store in Syracuse, is a blue-collar man. He doesn't belong to a union, but he is strong for the rights of labor. He came down to New York by bus the other day to go to the funeral of an aunt. On the way the bus was stoned a little, but Cephas was uninjured. He was consoled by the reflection that he had no right to be riding in an "unfair" vehicle and that the lapidation came from sympathizers with his views. When he got to Greenwood after the funeral he found pickets walking processionally before the cemetery gates. His aunt couldn't be buried. The diggers were on strike. She had to be put into a receiving crypt.

Interment at the pleasure of the gravediggers. Cephas was pained. His distress was increased by that of his relatives present. He went back to his hotel. He had plenty of time for thought, now on his diminishing cash, now on that picket line and that boycott of the dead. That stuck in his crop. "Picketing is all right," he said in his mind, "but a graveyard is no place for it. Ain't a man got a right to die and be buried. Ain't that right a good deal older than the right to strike and picket? If a restaurant is picketed, there are plenty more to choose from. If a fellow dies, there is only one home for him. What right has anybody got to keep a man out of his own house?"

"Why, dammit, this is the worst kind of grave robbery. It's all right to hurt your employer's feelings, but what's the use of jumping on the feelings of folks who have nothing to do with the row just when they're all broken up?" So and more, he of Syracuse. Tuesday Mayor La Guardia settled the matter by threatening to send city employees to bury the dead unless it was settled. Yesterday the graves were dug and the dead buried. Cephas Tidd, to whom a friend from Onondaga had kindly lent the necessary money, went home by train.

After he had paid his hotel bill, he said to the clerk: "I see there's going to be a meeting Thursday night of the representatives of local unions to complain about the police interfering with picketing. That's okay with me, but I do wish they'd put the kibosh on picketing undertakers, funeral parlors and cemeteries. Taint nice." Such was the wish of Cephas Tidd, whether or not to be fulfilled. We share it and will make another for him. We hope he found no sandwich men on patrol before that gents furnishing store.

Question: What To Give For Christmas?

How Eastern Plagues Are Kept From Entering United States

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

China has for only a short time been organized in line with modern ideas of sanitation. And only over a relatively small part of its geographical area. Because of the density of population and the enormous number of carriers of infectious diseases, communities in China always are on the verge of epidemics of pestilence. Such a disrupting force as war can upset all of the delicate machinery of sanitation anywhere, so it is no surprise to know that with the bombing of Shanghai, cholera and other plagues broke out, even in such a modern metropolis.

Whether these plagues will spread to the United States is a matter of concern, but the answer happily is that the probabilities are decidedly against it. Before the outbreak of cholera was reported in Shanghai, the Public Health service of the world had taken steps to anticipate it and prevent its spread. The United States Public Health Service maintains an office in Hong Kong, and the League of Nations has established one at Singapore. The league voted $500,000 to send units to China to fight cholera and prevent its spread.

All ships coming into the United States are carefully inspected these days, and the custom of allowing them to pass through quarantine if the ship's doctor radios ahead that he has no contagious disease aboard (called radio pratique) has been suspended. The incubation period of cholera is only five days, so that outbreaks of shipboard will become manifest before a ship from an infected coast can reach any United States seaport.

Texas Rangers Get Their Lion

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Talking excitedly, someone called the Texas rangers from Von Ormy and reported a mountain lion terrorizing the place. Deputy sheriffs and the rangers sped toward the place. It was night. In the middle of the road they came upon a crouching animal. They blazed away and the prey rolled over, stiff and glassy-eyed.

It was a stuffed mountain lion, apparently placed there by a prankster.

Tuning In with Margie Fastenow

Cavalcade of America tonight presents the dramatized story of the birth and ratification of the constitution in 1788. The tale will be enacted with characters taking the parts of Washington, Franklin, Alexander Hamilton, Samuel Adams, Paul Revere and other early patriots who played prominent parts in this vital chapter of American history. The program may be heard over WABC-CBS at 7 o'clock.

Dick Powell, motion picture star, and Rosemary Lane, recently featured with him in the picture, "Varsity Show," will be co-starred in the new Warner Brothers program, "Your Hollywood Parade," beginning a 52-week series over the NBC-Red network, including WLW, tonight. The new program, which replaces "Your Hit Parade," will be from 9 to 10 p.m. Wednesdays. The show is planned to include previews of Warner Brothers pictures, feature guest stars of prominence in all fields and to provide a radio view of activities in the movie capital.

Guy Lombardo's new car has a radio specially installed so that Guy can listen to Jack Benny's program on his way home from his Sunday afternoon CBS show.

Arthur Godfrey, who ad-libs his way through a 15-minute MBS program without a script, once achieved a non-stop record when, after a full day of announcing over WJVS, Washington, he ad-libbed in an emergency until 3 a.m. the next day.

Carson Robison, the "Buckaroos" mentor, is still collecting royalties on 67 song recordings he made in England several years ago.

Ken Murray will not be heard on "Hollywood Hotel" when the show is changed after the new year. It is rumored the show will be revamped quite a bit.

Betty Winkler, star of "Girl Alone," was chosen the best radio actress in Chicago at the first annual Radio Artists' Ball. More than 3,000 ballots were cast. Paul Whiteman presented the award to Miss Winkler who is also heard with Edgar A. Guest on "It Can Be Done."

Fan mail received by Jean Hersholt, who has the title role in the new dramatic serial, "Dr. Christian," heard on Sunday afternoons, includes many letters from small town doctors. The writers point out that Hersholt's role is doing more to acquaint patients with the problems of the general medical practitioner than all the talking they could do in years!

NATIONAL HIGHLIGHTS: 4:30 p.m.—CBS-WABC, Dorothy Gordon corner; 4:45 p.m.—NBC-WEAF, Little Orphan Annie; 5 p.m.—CBS-WABC, Barry Wood and his music.

General Notices

Board Jobs: You can earn the equivalent of at least $45 during the Christmas vacation by accumulating board at University hospital. This will assure you three meals per day up to the second week in February, and, in many cases, the amount saved will more than care for the second semester registration cost. All people, whether students or not, are eligible for this work. If you prefer, daily board alone for the vacation period may be earned. Report immediately to the University Employment Bureau in the old dental building. LEE H. KANN, Manager

Cadet Officers Club: The next meeting of the Officers Club will be Dec. 8th at 7:30 in the north conference room of the Iowa Union. Purpose of meeting is to elect officers and other business. All Junior Military students are urged to be there in uniform. BILL R. HINSCH, Jr., President

Seals Club: There will be a swimming meet at the regular meeting of Seals club in the pool room of the Women's gymnasium, Thursday, Dec. 9, at 4 o'clock. All members must be present. ROBERTA NICHOLS

Zoology Seminar: The regular meeting of the zoology seminar will be Friday, Dec. 10, at 4 o'clock in room 307, zoology building. Dorothea Miller will discuss "The Morphology and Physiology of the Bird Thyroid." J. H. BODINE

Triangle Club Dinner Dance: All reservations for the formal dinner dance of the Triangle club to be held Thursday, Dec. 16, must be made at the Iowa Union desk by Wednesday night, Dec. 15. MRS. G. L. HORNER

Philo Club: The Philo club will give a roller-skating party at 317 E. Bloomington street, Saturday evening, Dec. 11, at 10:30 p.m. Members of the club may purchase tickets from student agents, the school of religion office, room 108, Macbride hall, or at the door. All of those interested in receiving instruction in the "Big Apple" will meet the same evening at the Sigma Delta Tau sorority house, 223 S. Dodge, street at 9 p.m. EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE Philo Club

N.Y.A. Regulation: The following N.Y.A. regulation will become effective with the monthly pay period beginning Dec. 17 and will apply to all graduate, undergraduate and professional students on the N.Y.A. payroll. No students will be permitted to work more than his assigned number of hours during any monthly pay period, except as hereinafter provided. Students who have failed to work their total number of assigned hours for any monthly pay period must petition the committee on scholarships and loans if they wish permission to make up delinquent hours. The above petition must be presented at the dean of men's office within 10 days immediately following the end of the monthly pay period. Any student permitted to make up these hours may do so during the subsequent pay period, but the total check for any monthly pay period cannot exceed $20. HOLLYWOOD—It's to be four pictures a year, no more, for Skippy, alias Asta, alias Mr. Smith.

Henry East, owner and manager of the brightest little wire-hair in pictures—"The Thin Man," "The Awful Truth," etc.—now turns down "unimportant" roles for his protegee. East thinks too many screen appearances will jeopardize Skippy's screen value, which is considerable, as East recently refused to sell the dog for $25,000.

Over-Primping

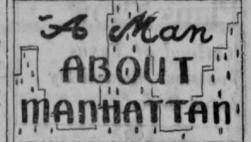

Speculation: Would any movie fan notice it if the star didn't rush over, between takes, to have the hairdresser smooth every last strand of hair into place? It seemed especially silly, seeing Deanna Durbin having her nice bob patted and brushed when it looked no different before or after. What 14-year-old school-girl, excited as Deanna was supposed to be in the scene, ever looked so perfectly coiffured?

Fred Allen (in "Sally, Irene, and Mary") memorizes his lines faithfully but the other day he fumbled a couple he was supposed to be reading Jimmy Durante from a letter. Not strange, however, because they never, never write anything on movie letters.

French Do Own Make-Up

Today's quotation, from Halliwell Hobbes: "Life begins at 50, not 40. All the major emotions, love, hate, jealousy, great ambition, pride of power, determination to succeed at any price, are or should be the sole prerogatives of youth. . . . When hot blood cools and age advances, then is the time to readjust one's viewpoints and so arrange life that its autumn shall be one of beauty and rounded-out accomplishment. . . ." (Hobbes, by this reckoning, recently turned 10 years of age. . . .)

Danielle Darrieux, like Annabella, will do her own make-up for pictures. . . . Must be an old French custom, inasmuch as Simone's first major battle in Hollywood was fought with the make-up man. . . . Annabella is concentrating on American ways and speech now.

NEW YORK — A fine bit of irony has been uncovered on the theatrical front. Two of the newer plays, one of which is a failure, were written by an ex-hod carrier and a college professor. Which of the plays do you think is a success? You're wrong—it's the hod-carriers.

The partying menage of Charles E. Budaux, until recently the Duke of Windsor's emissary, is one of Greenwich Village's points of interest at the moment. . . . It's a bizarre sort of place that lends itself to individual decorative schemes and can be made to suit the mood, and the motif, of any occasion.

Another Village "pride" is the self-made home of Tony Sarg, which is wedged snugly between the dowdiest pair of walls you have ever glimpsed.

The man with the oddest title in New York is William F. Carey, and he, officially, is the town's Snowmaster. At the wink of an eye from him $7,000,000 worth of equipment will swing into action. Before he winks it will have to snow — and plenty. Carey's job is to rid the streets of all snow and ice immediately after or on the instant of precipitation.

Neon Tubing: The town has changed so much, nocturnally, that residents of a decade ago hardly recognize it. . . . The biggest factor in this is the absence of white lights. More than 90 per cent of Gotham's illumination now comes from neon tubing.

I don't see so many chestnut vendors as usual. Time was when a body encountered them on every corner — scarcerows of fellows with cold stuffy faces and icicles hanging from their noses. . . . This is carrying art too far. . . . At the Coq Rouge a magician was all set to astound his guests with feats of magic. . . . The orchestra played an eerie, fascinating number, and — the magician himself disappeared. . . . The boss of the club was some put-out — until he remembered that the magician's contract had expired the night before.

Maybe the reason that Illinois reformer is trying to prevent bowling in his town is because he's afraid the boys will get wrong ideas — ten pins look too much like bottles.

Alpha Omega Alpha Announces Election of New Members

Five Senior Medical Students Named to Honorary Fraternity

Initiation Dinner to Be Monday at 6 p.m. In Iowa Union

Alpha Omega Alpha, honorary medical fraternity, has announced the election of five seniors of the college of medicine to membership in the local chapter. The five students elected are Edgar Brintnall of Waterloo, Johann Ehrenhaft of Vienna, Austria, Uffe Jensen of Des Moines, Clarence Mikelson of Humboldt and William Moore of Iowa City.

Scholarship, character and professional promise form the basis of selection for membership in the fraternity. Initiation of the new members will be Monday at a dinner in Iowa Union at 6 p.m. The election of five new members makes a total of nine students in the local chapter. Four others, Frank Crowley of Des Moines, president of the chapter, John O'Connell of Ft. Dodge, Roger Weismann of Eldridge and Burdette Osten of Iowa City, all seniors, were elected to the fraternity during the second semester of last year.

Laws to Argue In 3rd Series Tonight at 7:30

The third in the series of second-year law arguments will be tonight at 7:30 in the lounge of the law commons. The men on the competing teams will be Wilnot Baughn of Harlan and George Heidelberg of Des Moines against W. Glen Harlan of Stuart and Michael Murray of Logan. Judge Henry N. Graven of Mason City, a district court judge, will hear the case. The public is invited.

Pep Fraternity Will Initiate 73

Pi Epsilon Pi, pep fraternity, will initiate 73 men tonight at 7:45 in the Iowa Union cafeteria, Hyman Andlich, president, announced last night. Donald Mallett, manager of the housing service will be guest speaker at the initiation.

Moose To Eat Moose

Judge Pierson Of Mooseheart Will Be Speaker at Banquet

Members and guests of the Moose lodge will eat a moose dinner at 6:30 tonight at the clubrooms. The banquet will take the place of the regular bi-weekly meeting.

Judge J. Willis Pierson of Mooseheart, regional director of the Moose lodge in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri, will be the speaker at the dinner. Attorney E. A. Baldwin will preside as toastmaster.

The moose which will figure in the dinner was killed by Pete Russel and Ivan Hunter during a hunting trip in Canada several weeks ago. Several out-of-town guests are expected to attend the dinner party.

Professor Rietz To Address Math Club Meeting Tomorrow

Prof. H. L. Rietz, head of the physics department, will speak on "A Recent Advance in Statistical Inference" at a meeting of the graduate mathematics club tomorrow at 4:10 p.m. in room 222, physics building.

The Show's A Wow But Encores Are Out

MELBOURNE, Victoria (AP)—Convicts in the state penitentiary here went on the air recently, in the first radio broadcast of its kind in Victoria. From the prison concert hall, before an audience of 800 inmates, the convicts presented a typical "variety" program. At the end of the program one of the performers announced gravely: "We must decline any other radio engagements because we will be fully occupied here for the next few months."

The five new members of Alpha Omega Alpha, honorary medical fraternity, announced yesterday, are shown above. Left to right they are Clarence Mikelson of Humboldt, Edgar Brintnall of Waterloo, Uffe Jensen of Des Moines, Johann Ehrenhaft of Vienna, Austria, and William Moore of Iowa City, all senior medical students. They will be initiated Monday at a 6 p.m. dinner in Iowa Union.

University Players Again Show Ability

Lengthy Play, 'Pride and Prejudice,' Sometimes Dull, But Comical

Helen Jerome's adaptation of Jane Austen's Pride and Prejudice, introduced to Iowa City last night by University theater, suffers from almost all the defects of the original—and shares most of its virtues.

The play, as the novel, is a little dull at times, a little verbose, a little didactic. It is a well-known theater tradition, of course, that good novels seldom make good plays, and last night's show appears to bear this out.

But, in all, there was a certain charm about the whole proceeding. There were scenes of real comedy and one of suppressed but intense emotion.

The last of the seven scenes, for example, was a marvel of lightly artificial comedy and tender feeling. It will remain long in this playgoer's memory.

The story around which the drama was built is simplicity itself. It concerns the Bennet family and the three Bennet daughters, all of them marriageable. There is the scheming Bennet mother and the pompous, cantankerous Bennet father.

There is Lydia who runs away with a scoundrel in a uniform to live in "unspeakable" sin. There is sickly, anemic Jane whose heart is nearly broken by a maidenly aunt who wishes to keep her nephew for a more brilliant marriage.

And there is Elizabeth, whose intelligence is a hindrance because the men of that period wanted their women to be women alone and nothing else, who lived a full 100 years before her time, who was hampered because in Norway a playwright named Ibsen had not yet show the world that women can think and live lives of their own.

So Elizabeth turns down the marriage offer of her stupid cousin and that of the self-satisfied Mr. Darcy who treats her rudely because he loves her. But, as most of us had expected all along, it comes out all right in the end.

For Lydia's father pursues his daughter to London and there procures a dowry sufficient to make the scoundrel marry her. Jane's lover comes through to tell her he has adored her all the time. And Elizabeth finds her Mr. Darcy has a heart of solid gold beneath his complacent exterior. And they all live happily ever after.

It's easy to see, then, that, as a realistic drama, "Pride and Prejudice" is not to be taken too seriously. At its best the show should possess a certain airy comedy which most of last night's production definitely lacked.

The fault lies not alone with University theater but with Miss Jerome herself. The play is over-long. It has scenes and situations that add nothing at all to the progress of the story or the development of character. Two of the scenes could have been cut entirely without hindering the progress of the drama.

Acting honors for last night's production strangely enough in a university production, must go to Stefan Straka as Mr. Bennet and Dorothy Ellen Rambo as Mrs. Bennet, character roles—and roles that are difficult for young actors to play convincingly.

Mr. Straka gave a professional performance. He incorporated into his character—developed in less than a week—the little things the amateurs seldom notice, the broad, sweeping gesture of a family dictator, the dependent stride of an impatient father, the cutting, satirical tone of a man who's accustomed to telling the truth.

I failed to see the Chicago production of the play, but those who did tell me Straka's characterization outshone by far that of the professional actor who played in the Theater Guild show there.

Dorothy Ellen Rambo, whose debut in a full-fledged University theater role I have been long awaiting, was only an edge behind

Mr. Straka with her Mrs. Bennet. She played the role a trifle artificially, but in the general merriement of the whole proceedings most of us forgot all that.

The playgoer at least hopes to see both Miss Rambo and Mr. Straka in many more University theater plays.

As for Susan Dwyer who played Elizabeth, I regret to say I found her only adequate. Miss Dwyer is, no doubt, a charming, lovely young lady, with a sense of humor and a pretty smile. As Elizabeth Bennet she was just that—and nothing more.

At no time while she was on the stage did she detract from the general proceedings, but neither, I felt, did she at any time add to them.

Considering Bill G. Cox as Mr. Collins is quite a different matter. Many in the audience seemed to derive much pleasure from Mr. Cox's rather inane playing of what was a typical stage "silly-ass" Englishman. As for me, I could only agree with Mrs. Bennet's description of his character as "odious."

Lavanda Carr and Edith Leahy as Lydia and Lane, are both of them good-looking, ambitious young girls; and one can find little fault when they appeared throughout the play as two good-looking ambitious young girls.

Carrying an important, heavy part, Walter Fleischmann, was a picture of unbending dignity and propriety as Mr. Darcy. As for the rest of the cast, most of the members filled their places in the background well.

Again in last night's show the settings were entirely appropriate. They were not beautiful; most of them, to the contrary, were en-

Emma Felsenthal To Instruct Freshmen In Use of Library

In conjunction with their English courses all University of Iowa freshmen, except those in honor courses, will receive instruction in the use of the library from Emma Felsenthal, instructor of library methods and acting director of the library school.

The instruction, which includes the use of the files, enables students to select from nearly half a million books without difficulty.

Grace Van Wormer, acting director of the libraries, said that 635 freshmen last year received the special instruction.

Dailey Awards Medals, Clasps To 15 Students

Scholastic Honors Won By Six Men For Second Time

Military scholastic medals and clasps for work done during the second semester of last year will be awarded to 15 members of the R. O. T. C. by the deans of each college in which the members are enrolled, Col. George F. N. Dailey, professor of military science and tactics, announced yesterday.

The basic medal and clasp will be awarded to six students. They are Michael Blumm, A3 of Iowa City; Franklin Carter Jr., A2 of Iowa City; Oscar Serbein, A2 of Cedar Rapids; Paul Brown, A4 of Bloomfield, and Lawrence Pestal, E2 of Cedar Rapids.

The clasp only will be received by nine students who won the military scholastic medal in a previous semester and fulfilled all the requirements for the award again.

These students are George Huffman, A2 of Jamaica; Edward McCloy, A2 of Iowa City; Alvin Newman, A3 of Newark, N. J.; Clarence Sandelin, A3 of Des Moines; Hugh Kelso, A4 of Iowa City; Charles Probst, A4 of Belmond; Marion Thorne, E3 of Salt Lake City, Utah; Franklin Eddy, E3 of Marengo, and Ernest Mohr, E4 of Waterloo.

To qualify for this award the students maintained for the second semester of the school year, 1936-37, a disciplinary "A" rating in military for the semester, a final semester grade of "A" in military and a three-point grade average or better in their academic work. The award is the highest that a military student can receive.

'Children's Development of Language, Vocabulary' Monograph Completed

A monograph on "Development of Language and Vocabulary in Young Children" has recently been completed for the Studies in Child Welfare series by Prof. Harold M. Williams, Mary L. McFarland and Marguerite F. Little of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station.

First of the four sections of the monograph presents an analytical scale of language achievement for children of pre-school age. No consistent trend was found in the correlations of the various tests given, although command over speech sounds and the various aspects of language organization tend to be related to some degree.

A qualitative analysis of the erroneous speech sound substitutions made by children is given in the second division. Results of tests given show that children replace difficult sounds with easier ones and depend principally on hearing in their approximation of speech sounds.

The second part is an effective revision of the Smith vocabulary test for pre-school children. Two hundred forty-two Iowa City children and 64 orphanage children were used in standardizing this test.

The last part of the monograph comprises an account of the construction and utilization of a new scale of language achievement, applicable from birth to six years. The subjects of this study were a pre-school group and a clinic group both from Iowa City, and an orphanage group.

Records of the conversation of the group—ranging from one month to eight months in age—showed a gradation in difficulty in terms of percentage of children at each age level scoring successfully.

Hawkeye Swimmers To Spend Two Weeks In Ft. Lauderdale, Florida

Iowa Mermen To Go South

Team To Attend Clinic Two Weeks During Xmas Vacation

By NEIL NAIDEN
Daily Iowan Sports Writer

While Christmas cheer and the peal of holiday bells is being heard over the Iowa campus, 16 of the Old Gold varsity swimming squad and their coach, David Armbruster, will be attending the national coaches and swimmers clinic at Lauderdale, Fla., in the land of palm trees, 1,600 miles away from their home state.

The group will leave by auto on Dec. 19, two days after the university students are dismissed for their holiday vacation, and return on or shortly after New Year's day.

During the stay at Ft. Lauderdale the swimmers will work out twice a day, both morning and afternoon, and also attend the sessions of the clinic.

Nationally Known Authorities
All phases of swimming and its associated sports will be discussed by nationally known authorities each day during the clinic.

Coach Armbruster will discuss the crawl flutter kick during one of the sessions, and other discussions similar to this, only on different parts of the swimming technique, have been arranged for the swimmers and coaches who attend from every section of the country.

Sanctioned By Board
This period spent in Florida has been sanctioned by the University of Iowa athletic board. Transportation expense for the entire group is being put forth by the Dolphin club, but the running expenses while in Ft. Lauderdale will be supplied by the squad.

During the stay informal entertainment is supplied by committees in charge, and dances, sight-seeing tours and get-togethers are held for the swimmers and other guests.

Water Carnival
Towards the end of the week-long program a grand water carnival is staged, with members from the visiting contingents taking part. Life saving, stroke technique, different strokes, diving, starts, relay swimming and the technique of teaching and training swimmers are demonstrated and taken up by nationally prominent coaches.

Women swimmers from various parts of the country participate as well as men, and considerable interest is always manifested in the development of women aquatic stars.

Other Entertainment
Golf tournaments and similar events will be held by different factions in Ft. Lauderdale, in addition to the regular workouts and sun bathing that Iowa swimmers will have access to during their southern sojourn.

Colonel Terry's Ire Aroused

** ** * ** *
Giant Boss Forced to Throw Party For National League Managers

By PAUL MICKELSON

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (AP)—Colonel William Harold Terry wound up perhaps the most uncomfortable week of his quite unsocial career tonight by throwing a big "victory banquet" for the other suffering managers of the National league.

From all reports, the Colonel much rather would have preferred to part with a wisdom tooth or Carl Hubbel than to play Happy Greeter Bill and host at this particular time. All week long, as he trudged about the player market to swing a deal, he has been the butt for the laughter of wisecrackers. His never very pleasant temper has been extra raw. Even his best companion, a bowl of tobacco, hasn't had the same sweet taste since Joe McCarthy made his wisecrack about big league managers who smoke pipes.

And still, the Colonel had to play host. Since 1935, when Charlie Grimm of the Chicago Cubs celebrated his team's pennant by tossing a big "victory banquet" for the rest of the managers, such banquets are "must" affairs unless a manager wants to be known far and wide in the profession as a tightwad. The managers' banquet was conceived by Grimm as a rival of the annual party given by big league owners whose teams win pennants but so far Terry has picked up two checks to one for Grimm.

Riles Newspaper Men
The Colonel opened his worst week in Milwaukee as shepherd of the visiting farmers from the Giant chain. Some of the farmers didn't prove very interesting to the Colonel and some bored him so much he took a run out powder whenever he could. Then, he ran into his old "pals," the newspaper men, and followed through with some short answers that made them sore all over again.

One news photographer got so riled when the Colonel refused to pose he began to organize a "never snap Terry club," which was broken up when the Colonel suddenly had a change of heart and posed with a big smile.

St. Mary's Set For U-Hi Game

St. Mary's basketball squad took it rather easy last night, and went home early to rest up for the University High game tonight at 7:30, in City High's gym. Coach Suplee expressed confidence that his team would win, and revenge the defeat the Rivermen handed them last year, which, incidentally, was only the second defeat in seven years which the Remblers have suffered by the hands of U High.

Coach Suplee stated that he was satisfied with the fast break which the team has been using at every opportunity. Consequently, ball handling and practice on floor plays featured the evening's drill. The team has some very effective screening plays, and in the game with Keokuk last Friday showed flashes when they used them very effectively.

Few shifts in the line are expected. Haloubek and Hennessey will undoubtedly start at the guards. Brock and Chadek are also certain to start at the forward posts and Schmidt will probably start at center, but Cole will undoubtedly see plenty of action also.

Plenty of action is expected tonight as the two high scoring teams get together. Also, two essentially different types of offense will be seen. The Rivermen, using a rather slow deliberate offense, and St. Mary's stressing a fast break, with some varied offensive formations to fall back on if the situation warrants it.

A second team game will be played after the headline battle. It is arranged in this manner so that people not interested in the second game will not have to sit through it, or come so late that all good seats are taken.

spread over his usually frowning features.

McCarthy Wisecracks
But McCarthy spoiled the Colonel's comeback to public graciousness. The Yankee boss, riding atop the baseball world, was holding court with sports writers when the pipe puffing Colonel passed his table. Both said hello and the Colonel kept right on walking until McCarthy shouted:

"Hey, Bill, how can a man hope to manage a ball club smoking a pipe?"

Terry Leaves in Huff
Terry stopped puffing on his big briar, shouted something about "you blue ribbon guys" and walked out in a big huff as the sports writers howled with devilish glee. The incident caused a wider rupture than ever in relations between the two principals of subway world series. Terry won't even discuss the incident that is bound to result in some explosions, but the Giant delegation is up in arms over it.

"I'll punch that smart guy right on the nose if he says anything about pipe smokers to me," bellowed Giant Coach Pancho Snyder, recognized as the most inveterate pipe smoker in baseball.

Joe Dislikes Pipes
McCarthy's action, as innocent as he might have meant it to be, is hard to understand. Normally, Joe is the mildest and quietest of men and a diplomat of the first school. His only "vice" is gum chewing. His pet aversion is pipe smoking, a habit he has all but chased out of the Yankee dressing room.

But my guess is that all this whoop-te-doo over Terry's pipe will harm Yankee Joe. Two things are bound to happen — The millions of pipe smokers will resent his blast and some pipe manufacturer will come out with a new "Bill Terry pipe," which will sweep the country and net the lucky Colonel another million.

For if there ever was a King Midas in baseball, it's Colonel Terry. Like him or not, you've got to hand it to him as one smart guy.

Smiling Jack Eicherly of Holstein accepts congratulations from Homer Harris, captain of the 1937 Iowa football team, shortly after he was elected by his teammates to lead the Hawkeyes on the gridiron next season. Eicherly has been an outstanding member of Iowa football teams for two years, and will be a powerful cog in Coach Irl Tubbs' second Old Gold eleven.

This year Eicherly scored Iowa's lone touchdown against Minnesota just passed.

Iowa Will Open Cage Season With Double-Header; Carleton Quintet to Furnish Opposition

Hawkeye basketball fans will get their first glimpse of the power of Iowa's cage team tomorrow night when it swings into action against Carleton in a double-header of two regulation games at the Iowa fieldhouse.

The regular game, which plays in the second game at 8:15, is composed of three seniors, a junior and a sophomore. The second team, which plays at 7 o'clock, will have three sophomores, a junior and a senior in its lineup.

Starting Lineup
On the regular team Capt. Sam Johnson, hook-shot artist, and Benny Stephens, leading individual scorer on last year's team, will be at the forwards. Jack Drees is slated to start at center, and Kenny Suesens, former cage captain, and Sophomore Nile Kinnick will start at the guards.

In the opening game Coach Rollie Williams will probably start Joe Van Ysedyk and Elmer Bratten, both major letter winners last year, at the forwards, Tommy Lind and Fred Hohenhorst at the guards and Dick Evans at center. Lind, Hohenhorst and Evans are sophomores. Bratten is a junior and Van Ysedyk is a senior who has played guard for the last two seasons.

Other men besides these 10, however, will see action. Conference rules permit only 20 games in a season, so those men who play in both games may be kept out of some future tilt so that they will not run over the limit.

Carleton will be making its second appearance against a Big Ten team when it meets the Hawkeyes tomorrow and they will also be playing their third game of the season. In their first contest of this season, Carleton lost a one-sided game to Northwestern, 53-23, but in their next encounter they showed a lot of improvement as they edged out a strong South Dakota team, 30-28.

Six More Picked On All-East Squad For Charity Game

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (AP)—Six more players were added today to the all-east football team being assembled for the annual Shrine hospital benefit East-West game to be played at San Francisco on New Year's day.

Two of the new additions were Gus Zarnas, guard, and Ralph Wolf, center, of Ohio State. The others were Andy Farkas, half-back of Detroit; Elmore Hackney, quarterback of Duke university, Ray King, end, and Lou Midler, guard, of Minnesota.

The complete squad of 22 players will assemble at Northwestern university Dec. 18 for their first workout under Coaches Bernie Bierman, Minnesota, and Andy Kerr, Colgate.

Schedules Arranged

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (AP)—Football schedules through 1939 for the north central conference have been tentatively drawn, but probably will not be completely filled until next fall, H. C. Severin, newly elected secretary of the conference, said today.

National League Chooses Slower Ball for 1938

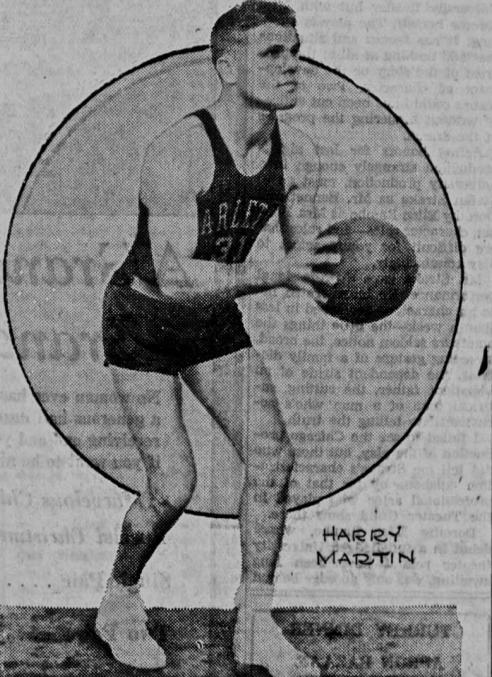

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (AP)—Ford Frick, president of the National league, said tonight that "the idea of using a slower ball in both major leagues in 1938 was originally the idea of two American league clubs" when asked to comment on the action of the circuits in deciding today to use different type balls next season.

"Cleveland and Boston originally proposed that both leagues use a less lively ball," Frick said. "Last year both leagues agreed to use a slower ball in 1938 and the two presidents of the circuits (William Harridge heads the American league) were appointed a committee to study the question."

"Today we naturally considered our only business was to choose a slower ball and the only question was the kind which would be the best. We did that and now we hear the American league has voted to retain the ball used last season."

Frick said it is possible for either league to rescind its action at tomorrow's joint meeting, adding "I don't know what's going to happen."

Junior Halfback to be Leader Of Hawkeyes Next Fall; Was Standout on 1937 Iowa Squad

By G. K. HODENFIELD
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Jack Eicherly will captain the University of Iowa football team for the 1938 season.

The popular Iowa backfield star was elected to succeed Homer Harris, senior end on the 1937 team, at the annual banquet tendered the football squad at the Iowa Union last night by President Eugene Gilmore.

Eicherly won national recognition during his last year of high school football at Holstein when he scored a total of 271 points in nine games. In high school he was a three sport man, winning letters in football, basketball and track. He has limited his athletic participation to football at Iowa.

Eicherly played in only a few games last year but was one of the most valuable men on the Iowa squad during the 1937 season. He scored the only Hawkeye touchdown against Minnesota when he caught a pass from Nile Kinnick. His runs on reverses brought favorable comment from many a spectator during the season's lone touchdown against shifted his men about in an effort to uncover the most effective quartet for the starting lineup.

During the season, which closed with a 28-0 defeat at the hands of the Nebraska Cornhuskers two weeks ago, Eicherly was on the receiving end of 10 Iowa passes including 40 yard tosses against Wisconsin and Minnesota as well as the touchdown pass against the Gophers.

The opinion of the coaches and players concerning Eicherly's election was expressed by Coach Tubbs when he said, "The men have made a very fine selection. I think Eicherly will make a fine captain for next year."

Preceding the election the entire football squad, the Iowa coaching staff and invited members of the university faculty were the guests of President Eugene Gilmore. Following the banquet, movies of the Washington trip and the between-the-halves ceremony at the Wisconsin game were shown in color.

Coach Tubbs introduced the letter-winning football players and President Gilmore made the awards to the men.

The banquet was brought to a close as Eicherly and Charles Kennet, golf coach, led the group in singing the Iowa Corn Song.

Hod Shots

By G. K. HODENFIELD

Bernie Bierman and Andy Kerr, coaches of the All-East team which will meet an All-West team in San Francisco New Year's day in the annual Shrine hospital benefit game, have picked six more players for their squad. As yet Bob Lannon, Hawkeye end for the last three years has not been named.

Lannon was chosen on two All-Big Ten teams, once on the first team and once on the second team. Coaches whose teams have played against the Hawkeyes are almost unanimous in their praise of Lannon when they say that the winner, S. D. star, picked by his team mates as the most valuable player on the 1937 squad, is one of the best wingmen in the country.

It seems strange that Bierman has not placed Lannon on his squad. In the Iowa homecoming game this fall, Lannon caused the Gopher backs plenty of trouble as he busted through the interference time after time to spill the ball-carrier.

Lannon has no intention of competing in any other sport during his senior year here and there is no good reason why he should not be included on the squad. Even Andy Kerr, in far-off Hamilton, N. Y., should remember Lannon for the Hawkeye had a big part in the Iowa victory over Colgate in 1935. That was the year, remember, when Homer Harris and Lannon were called the best pair of ends in the western conference. It took Kerr a long time to forget that 12-6 defeat by the surprising Hawkeyes.

Maybe a "Lannon-for-End" club should be organized on the Iowa campus. It seems to me that it is nothing short of rank discrimination when a player of Lannon's known ability is omitted from a squad of this nature.

Several new nicknames for the Iowa gridirers were uncovered last night at the banquet in the Union. "Sonny" Busk, "LaFayette" (Frank) Gallagher, "Bird Legs" Kinnick and "Let-er-go" (Bill) Gallagher were some of the better ones.

Rumors that an injured hand would keep Ralph Nead from participating on Coach Mike Howard's wrestling team this year are entirely unfounded, according to the Iowa mat mentor. Nead injured his hand in football but it has healed and the Iowa heavyweight is in fine shape according to Howard.

Change Rules At West Point

Eligibility For Varsity Athletes Conforms With Navy

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 7 (AP)—The U. S. military academy today changed its eligibility rules for varsity athletes to make them conform with the rules at the naval academy at Annapolis and the "leading civilian colleges in the country."

The change would make army rules comply with other colleges in permitting varsity athletes only three years of collegiate playing eligibility. Up to now, Army has permitted any student to play three years for West Point varsity teams, regardless of the number of years the athlete has played in other colleges before coming to West Point.

Major General William D. Connor, superintendent of the academy, made the announcement, which ends the eligibility rules that caused Army's famous "break" in athletic relations with the naval academy in 1928 and 1929.

"Thereafter, the eligibility rules which obtain at Annapolis and the leading civilian colleges in the country," said General Connor's announcement, "will be applied in determining that eligibility of cadets to play upon the athletic teams of the military academy."

Navy broke with Army after their 1927 football game, demanding that the three-year eligibility rule be applied to West Point athletes. Although the two institutions played in 1930 and '31 for charity, the breach was not officially healed until 1932.

The new Army eligibility standard follows closely on the action of the Big Ten conference in its recent convention in sanctioning renewal of relations with West Point. The midwestern group also broke off with Army, beginning with the 1935 season, largely over the eligibility rule.

The immediate question rising for gridiron observers was over the status of football stars of other colleges who have entered, or are planning to enter the academy. Two of the more prominent of these are Bill Guckeyson, Maryland's classy back who was a piebe, or freshman, at Army this year after completing his career with the Terrapins, and Carl Hinkle, Vanderbilt's All-America center of 1937, who plans to enter Army.

Queted over this situation, Army officials refused comment. "There is no information regarding the status of such players as yet," one officer at the academy explained.

Charges that the Nov. 4 bond election—which named Morningside site as the one of Iowa City's $725,000 high school—“was void,” were received by the City school board yesterday.

Frank J. Snider, county superintendent of schools, notified the board that he will set a hearing within 15 days, according to school district law, which gives the board jurisdiction in the matter. He will preside at the hearing.

Twelve Iowa Citizens' Campaign Committee members stated that the second question on the two-proposition ballot was misleading, vague and contradictory when they filed notice of appeal with Snider Saturday.

The question which they automatically voided was “Shall the school district purchase a centrally-located site?” More than 52 per cent of the voters

Snider To Set Hearing on Bond Election Within 15 Days

School Board Receives Charges That Nov. 4 Election 'Was Void'

2nd Query 'Misleading, Vague, Contrary' Appeal States

Charges that the Nov. 4 school bond election—which named the Morningside site as the location of Iowa City's $725,000 high school—"was void," were received by the City school board yesterday.

Frank J. Snider, county superintendent of schools, notified the board that he will set a date for a hearing within 15 days. Snider, according to school district law, has jurisdiction in the case and will preside at the hearing.

Twelve Iowa Citizens protested that the second question on the two-proposition ballot was "misleading, vague and contrary," when they filed notice of appeal with Snider Saturday.

The question which they claim automatically voided the election was "Shall the school district bond $80,000 for the purchase of a centrally-located site?" More than 52 per cent of the voters approved if, but it was not accepted because 60 per cent approval is required.

The ballot was void "on account of duality," they charge because "it contained more than one public measure." The first question was "Shall the school district bond $398,750 to supplement a $326,250 PWA grant for the construction of a new high school?"

The first question was approved by more than 74 per cent of the voters and accepted. Plans for the building are being drawn, and several minor preliminary contracts will be let by Jan. 4.

The election is also protested because "the greater portion of the site is in East Lucas township, outside the city limits," and that "it is unlawful because the site is removed from the center of the school district and homes of students."

Charges that "it would be unjust to taxpayers because the cost of improvement and maintenance of the site would be great," were also made.

"A central site for the school is available. It could serve more Iowa Citizens at less expense," according to the notice of appeal.

The 12 Iowa Citizens who protested the election and filed the notice of appeal were Helen G. Thomas, Edna P. Woodburn, Thomas P. Christensen, John G. Fink, Lillian R. Plass, Ralph M. Tarrant, Sue M. Seales, Alfred Altender, C. A. Conklin, Oral G. Smith, Gilbert Winkler and Marvin Booth. Their lawyer is Attorney D. C. Nolan.

Snider notified Charles Galhier, board secretary, to prepare within 10 days a transcript of the minutes of the board meetings held while election plans were being formed.

They will be presented at the hearing. Snider will name the date within five days after Galhier transcribes the minutes.

Gasoline Fire Burns Wiring System On Cresco Man's Car

A gasoline fire in the motor of the car driven by R. M. Thompson of Cresco damaged the wiring of the car yesterday at 4:30 p.m.

Thompson was driving across the intersection of College and Dubuque streets when he noticed the fire. He stopped at the south side of the street, and the firemen were called.

Acting Assistant Chief T. H. McNabb said the wiring was burned so badly that he was unable to determine if there had been a short in the motor to set off the gasoline.

The dinner will also honor those charter members still living in Iowa City. The society was founded Dec. 11, 1897.

Reservations should be made by telephoning the Iowa Union desk by Friday.

So They Say . . .

By PHYLLIS GREEN
Do you think children should be told the truth about Santa Claus?

Dr. Lewis Shure, Children's hospital — No, the glamour of Christmas should not be taken away.

Margaret Hannah, 5 S. Dubuque street, clerk. — I think some of them should be told the truth; however, I don't think the Christmas spirit should be taken away from those children between the ages of two and five.

Eleanor Field, A2 of Des Moines, Currier hall. — Yes, the little dickens suffer such awful disillusionment when they do discover the truth — and it seems almost inevitable that they happen to learn the truth right before Christmas, which just wrecks the holiday for them.

Arthur Clemence, 27 N. Johnson street, clerk. — I think that children up to five years of age have more fun than anything, and I don't believe it harms them in any way. After they are five years old, you can't fool them anyway.

Mrs. W. L. Bywater, 230 Magowan street. — No, I think it is all right for them to think it is a myth and for them to have a happy time.

Mrs. Jack Cornog, 1155 E. Court street. — Yes, but I think the story can be told in such a way that they get the real spiritual value out of it. They read many stories that they do not believe, but they still enjoy them.

Harry Young, 112 E. Washington street, telegraph operator. — No, not if they're less than five years old — they get quite a bit of enjoyment out of it, and I don't see why it should be spoiled.

Jane Hart, A3 of Des Moines, 728 E. Washington street. — After a certain age, yes — but then the age depends upon the child. Most children get so much added delight out of the old stories of Santa Claus.

Harry Bremer, 1036 Woodlawn, store proprietor. — No, not only does it help keep up the Christmas spirit, but a child has something to look forward to. They will find out soon enough — even before they should.

M. M. Stewart, 1207 Seymour avenue, insurance agent. — No, they know so darned much already.

Ninety Present At Coffee Hour

About 90 students and instructors spent an hour in informal conversation yesterday afternoon on the sun porch of Iowa Union at the third coffee hour of the year. The faculty members of the college of commerce were the honored guests. The next coffee hour will take place soon after vacation.

Stork Passes Up Scottish Village

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — Not a child has been born in the village of Kilmuir on the Black Isle, Moray Firth, for 24 years. Christmas brings forth no Santa Claus at night in this village of grown-ups, a quaint little old-world back-water of Scotland.

There is a population of several score, but the last birth at Kilmuir was before the World war.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Jim Guthrie, sponsor of the opera season in Buenos Aires, comes to New York to persuade Elsa Terry, famed opera singer, to live up to her contract to sing here. Without knowing his connection with the company, Elsa falls in love with him and, believing he loves her too, allows herself to be "kidnapped" and placed on a boat for South America. On shipboard Jim learns of her love and discovers that he loves her, too. A radio-gram to Elsa discloses Jim's association with the opera company and she berates him for courting her under false colors. When the ship docks Elsa is served with an injunction which Jim tears up. Elsa's aunt has flown to the Argentine to meet her and bring her back to New York. Elsa refuses to go, however, saying that she'll fulfill her contract as she has learned to hate a cheat above everything else.

happy as you've made me." Later that night Jim aroused Pancho, "Get out the car," he said. "You're driving Miss Terry back to town."

Pancho looked at him sleepily. "You're crazy," he said. "Why, you brought her out here to —"

"It's no use, Pancho," Jim interrupted. "I'm all washed up. She hates me."

On the way back to town Elsa was burning with curiosity. "Why did Jim let me go?" she asked.

Pancho shrugged. "He's closing the ranch and going away. He didn't want to leave you there to starve," Pancho replied and then added with sarcasm, "Why, I don't know."

Elsa glared at him angrily. "Thanks!" she said. Then she softened again. "Where's he going?"

"Some place where there are no prima donnas — I hope," Pancho retorted. Without a word Elsa reached down and snapped off the ignition of the car.

"Hey!" Pancho cried, "what's the big idea?"

As the car sputtered to a stop by the roadside Elsa turned to Pancho and smiled. "You and I are going to have a long talk," she announced.

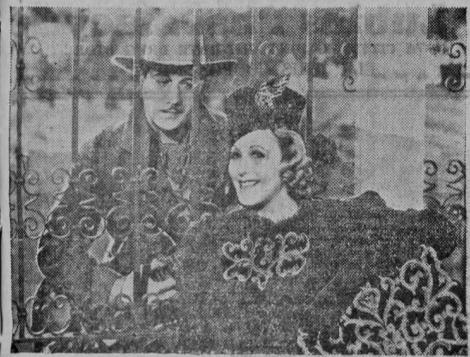

Elsa's singing of "Butterfly" the next night was a triumph. Jim, hidden away in an obscure seat in the balcony, listened to her eagerly and his pulse quickened at the thunderous ovation that greeted her when the opera was ended.

In the foyer he found Pancho waiting for him. "I'll drive you to the station," Pancho offered.

Now Go on With the Story

Chapter Six

Elsa began rehearsals for her appearance with the opera company after first stipulating that she would not work if Jim appeared at the theatre. In the evenings, in the company of attentive Argentine gallants, she visited Buenos Aires night spots.

"Elsa, I'm afraid I'm in love with you." (Posed by Grace Moore and Melvyn Douglas.)

One evening, complaining of a headache, she left her aunt and fled to a night club and started humming with her escorts. After they had driven for about fifteen minutes Elsa looked out the car window and saw that they had left the city and were driving into the country.

"Take me back to my hotel immediately," she stormed. "You can't do this to me!"

Her escort smiled. "But I have already done it, senorita," he said. "Be assured, you will not be harmed."

They drove on until they came to a low, rambling hacienda. Elsa was escorted into a charmingly furnished den or living room off the patio. The door was closed and locked.

Almost at once the soft strains of a guitar came floating through an open window. Elsa looked out and discovered Jim, serenading her with a romantic tune.

Elsa was furious. "You!" she cried. "Why have you done this to me?"

Jim grinned at her. "You'll be amazed when I tell you," he said. "Elsa, would you believe it? I'm afraid I'm in love with you."

"You expect me to believe that?" Elsa demanded.

"Of course not. That's why I brought you here — to prove it."

"How?" Elsa asked defiantly.

"By keeping you here until after the opening tomorrow night. Your failure to appear will not only lose me money — I'll lose my friends and the respect of this community which has come to be my home. Yet, oddly enough, that doesn't matter to me any more. All that matters is that you believe me."

"I hope you love me," Elsa said fervently. "I hope it more than I've ever hoped for anything — because I want to make you as un-

Jim shook his head. "I'll take a cab," he said. "I want you to take a note to her dressing room." He handed Pancho an envelope, shook his hand and started for the door. Pancho motioned to two men who had been loitering nearby.

As Jim stepped into the cab the two men jumped in after him. "Hey! What's the big idea?" Jim demanded.

One of the men pressed a revolver against Jim's side. "Keep quiet!" he ordered, then he turned to the taxi driver. "Drive on!" he said.

As they drove away the men bound Jim's hands and blindfolded him. The car drove through the night for almost an hour and, at last, came to a sudden stop.

The men pulled Jim from the car and pushed him into the house. One of the men quickly untied Jim's hands and then ran out of the room, closing the door behind him. Jim tore off his blindfold and stared unbelievably at him. He was in his own house! In the very room where he had held Elsa prisoner the day before.

Suddenly the soft strains of a guitar floated through the window. Jim looked out and saw Elsa sitting there, a gaucho's hat on her head and a serape over her shoulder. As Jim watched her she walked slowly to the door, opened it and came into the room. She dropped the guitar as Jim rushed to her and took her in his arms. A diffident cough from the window interrupted their kiss.

It was Pancho. He smiled happily and handed a bottle of champagne and glasses through the window to Jim.

"This is on the house," he said.

THE END.

Curls, Waves And Ringlets

Nationally Known Stylists Design New Coiffures For Milady's Hair

By VERA SHE' JN
Page-boys and floppy jobs have had their day. No longer do our lengthy locks fly back in the breeze when the wind blows down the campus. It's up and away for hair these days—so say nationally known stylists.

One of the newest coiffures sweeps smoothly up from the face to a mass of curls piled high at the back of the crown to keep the head small in appearance. Ringlets cleverly massed back of the hairline produce the pompadour effect new this season.

Joseph Picone produces a more simplified version of the modern trend in his "winged victory." Curls in front fall across the forehead, bang style. Rolls sweeping back from the temples lift off the face in a casual but winged effect. Continuing to the back, they meet to form a V at the nape below a shadow wave.

A very smart version of the brushed-up silhouette is shown by Bruno Poka, New York stylist. Waves rise smoothly from the hairline in front and meet at the top of the head where they end in ringlets. The severity of the coiffure is relieved by a turn-over curl on the forehead. For formal wear, tulle is wound among the curls and tied in a small bow at the top of the head.

Santa Idea Is All Right Psychologists Veto Idea That Belief In St. Nick Harms Child

University psychology professors yesterday vetoed the idea that "it is harmful for children to believe in Santa Claus."

"Parents should not discourage their children's ability to imagine a vivid character like St. Nick," one professor asserted.

"No misrepresentations need be made by a parent to create the imagination of Santa Claus or any other fantastic figure," he declared. "No harm will be done."

Whether a child can or cannot mentally portray these legendary characters influences the development of the growing mind, the psychologists believe.

"Many adults believe at heart that there is a Santa Claus," one said, "but in such cases the belief has been gained through the impression that they will some day be given economic security."

No professor disputed the fact that Santa Claus' symbolism was good a psychological factor in making people enjoy giving presents. "In most cases," another professor said, "the child gradually grows into reality and acquires the adult's critical attitude. It is during this stage that the alleged Santa Claus hoax is discovered and the fantasy forgotten."
