Frank B. Kellogg, Former Senator, Secretary of State, Ambassador, Dies at His Home

Death Comes Following Illness of More Than Year

ST. PAUL, Dec. 21 (AP)—Frank B. Kellogg, who served as World court judge, ambassador to Great Britain, United States senator and secretary of state, died at his home here at 7:28 p.m. today. He would have been 81 years old tomorrow.

Mr. Kellogg, noted as a staunch worker for worldwide peace, had been in failing health for more than a year. His illness became critical early in November, when he was stricken with cerebral thrombosis.

He rallied several times, but pneumonia complicated his condition last Saturday night and caused a turn for the worse. He lapsed into a coma then and regained consciousness for only short periods thereafter.

At 7:10 p.m., tonight his family believed Kellogg had died, but physicians administered stimulants, and a few minutes later signs of life were noted, continuing for several minutes before the end came.

With Mr. Kellogg at the time of death were Mrs. Kellogg, Mrs. F. J. Otis, her sister; Mr. and Mrs. Burnham Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dean Clark, and Dr. A. J. Lepak. Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Clark are nieces of Mr. Kellogg.

Other survivors are Mrs. Jean K. Austin, a sister of Mr. Kellogg, and her daughter, Mrs. Seabury Stanton, both of New Bedford, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg had no children.

Co-author of the Kellogg-Briand pact—a pledge of 64 nations of the world not to settle disputes by wars—Mr. Kellogg was winner of the Nobel peace prize in 1929.

Budget Picture Looks Brighter

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—Treasury officials said the budget picture brightened today because December income tax collections are coming up to estimates.

In the first 20 days of the month, they announced $467,782,101 of income taxes were paid, compared with estimates of between $450,000,000 and $500,000,000 for the full month and $275,706,756 in the first 21 days of December, 1936. Every state contributed to the nearly 70 per cent increase over last year for this period.

Meanwhile, collections from all taxes for the fiscal year crossed the $3,000,000,000 mark, indicating the first six months of the year will close on December 31 with nearly half of the $6,650,000,000 Mr. Roosevelt estimated would be collected for the complete year. At this time last year, only $2,000,000,000 had been collected.

March 15, the biggest tax date on the calendar, is yet ahead, and in spite of "recession" influences which may cut collections next year, the estimates are expected by the treasury to hold up.

If expenditures come as close to the budgeted $7,545,655,000 on June 30 as receipts may approach the estimates, Mr. Roosevelt said the gross deficit would be $895,245,000, and the net deficit (gross minus debt retirements) $695,245,000.

Star Can't Take Back Employes Attorneys Write

SEATTLE, Dec. 21 (AP)—Attorneys for the Seattle Star wrote the regional labor board today the newspaper was unable to comply with the board's order to reinstate 20 discharged American Newspaper Guild employes.

The letter said the AFL teamster-guild controversy over the jobs must "go to the courts," and added: "The teamsters local (whose members succeeded the guild workers) refuses to recede from its original position."

"This leaves the Star in the position of having two labor organizations claiming jurisdiction over the 20 jobs in the circulation department. Manifestly, it is impossible to satisfy both."

Colby Dies
SIOUX CITY (AP)—Frank E. Colby, 80, city building inspector for the last 19 years, died of a heart attack yesterday. He was graduated from the engineering course at Iowa State college, Ames, in 1881.

Bank Paying $115,000 Dividend Before Xmas

They crowded into Examiner Ben S. Summerwill's office in the Iowa State Bank and Trust company and lined up in front of the tellers' cages to collect the five per cent Christmas shopping tour for hundreds of Iowa Citizens yesterday. The bank closed Oct. 3, 1931, and with this disbursement, has paid back 75 per cent of the deposits. Iowa Citizens may still collect their "five per cent" daily between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Rival Unions Will Wage War Again; Conference Ends

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor and John L. Lewis' rebel C. I. O. broke off their peace negotiations today.

After nearly two months of intermittent conversations, their joint committee adjourned without plans for further meetings.

Both sides arranged to carry on their war with increased vigor. A C. I. O. spokesman announced that the Lewis unions would soon hold a national convention to consolidate their forces.

MOTHER'S RAGE

Two Dead, Two Dying From Shooting

WAVERLY, Dec. 21 (AP)—A grief-stricken father maintained a vigil tonight beside the hospital beds of his two critically wounded children here while two others lay dead in a funeral home.

Sheriff Frank Sager said the children were victims of their mother's rage, when she ran amuck with a rifle and a shotgun at their cabin home near here.

The mother, Mrs. Bertha Waters, 38, was being held tonight in the Bremer county jail.

The father, Elias Waters, was in Waterloo, 15 miles southwest of here, when the shooting occurred, about 5:30 a.m. today.

The dead children are: Eugene, 7 months old, who died while being taken to a hospital. He suffered a bullet wound in the right temple.

Lavonne, 2, who died immediately of a bullet in the left ear.

Bernard, 8, is in Mercy hospital here, suffering from a bullet wound near the heart. He is not expected to live.

Beverly, 5, is also in the hospital, wounded in the neck, and in a serious condition.

Woods Comments On Iowa Slayings

IOWA CITY, Dec. 21 (AP)—Dr. Andrew H. Woods, head of the psychiatry department at the University of Iowa, late Tuesday declared that the two other mass murders in Iowa this year may have prompted Mrs. Bertha Waters of Waverly, to shoot her four children.

Although he refused to comment definitely until he had more detailed information of the crime, Dr. Woods said it was a common experience that persons contemplating a crime of that nature were swayed by similar acts.

"She may never have heard of the other two murders, however," Dr. Woods said, "so it is impossible to tell until a more detailed investigation has been made."

Youth Wounded In Shotgun Accident

CLINTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—Wilbert Huebner, 19, suffered shotgun wounds in his back here today when a 12-gauge shotgun carried by his friend, Louis Lund, was accidentally discharged while the youths were hunting rabbits.

Doctors said they had not completed their examination tonight but they reported Huebner's condition was satisfactory.

Chamberlain Cautions Japan

Britain Wants 'Determination and Ability' To Prevent Infringement

LONDON, Dec. 21 (AP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today cautioned Japan against being deceived by British patience and told her to prove her "determination and ability" to prevent further infringement of British rights in China.

He spoke in a foreign affairs debate in the house of commons during which Liberal Leader Sir Archibald Sinclair urged that Britain move more warships within range of China.

Sir Archibald also advocated that the British government "make it clear to the United States that Britain will stand by them in an effort which the United States makes to defend

The first day's payment of a $115,000 dividend from the closed Johnson County Savings bank was just a prelude to an extended Christmas shopping tour for hundreds of Iowa Citizens yesterday.

Russia Agrees Japs May Fish

Issue Comes to Near Crisis as Force Is Threatened

MOSCOW, Dec. 21 (AP)—Soviet Russia tonight agreed to let Japan continue fishing in Soviet Pacific waters, thus temporarily settling an issue that gravely troubled Russo-Japanese relations.

Official announcement to renew the agreement had developed dangerous possibilities when Russia postponed renewal of fishing rights in spite of strong Japanese pressure.

Japanese leaders had threatened "forcible action" to conserve Japan's important fishing industry in Russian waters which employ 20,000 fishermen.

The Soviet press told Japan that signing of a new agreement had been delayed by Japan's signature of an anti-communist pact with Germany.

A communication from Japanese fishermen recently urged the government to safeguard Japan's rights there "which were obtained by the sweat and blood of our forefathers."

The original rights were awarded Japan by the treaty of Portsmouth of 1905, part of the fruits of her victory over Russia in war. They were restated in March, 1928, and renewed for a year at the end of 1936.

Grand Jury Indicts Airplane Company

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (AP)—A federal grand jury brought forth 14 indictments today charging Curtiss-Wright airplane concerns and others with selling the implements of war to Bolivia in violation of a federal embargo designed to help end the long Chaco conflict.

The prohibition against selling arms either to Bolivia or Paraguay was made by President Roosevelt on May 28, 1934.

Johnson Asks To Visit Child Bride

WASECA, Minn., Dec. 21 (AP)—Ernest Johnson's request for permission to visit his child bride, Virginia Deremer Johnson, at the Blue Earth county poor farm Christmas eve and day, was taken under advisement today by Judge Fred W. Senn following a hearing in district court. A decision was expected in a day or two.

The hearing was on an order to county officials to show cause why Johnson who resides at Mankato, should not be permitted to spend Christmas with his wife, and to visit her twice each week while she is in custody. At present he may not visit her at all.

370 Arrested
TOKYO (AP)—The metropolitan police board today announced the arrest of 370 persons, including a member of parliament and several former university professors, on suspicion of participation in pacifist and communist movements.

Coroner Orders Autopsy in Death Of Ted Healy

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21 (AP)—Coroner Frank Nance ordered an immediate autopsy tonight in the death of Ted Healy, dour faced stage and screen comedian, as police started investigating reports the actor was beaten last Sunday night at a Hollywood cafe.

The autopsy was ordered after Healy's physician, Dr. Wyant La Mont, refused to sign a certificate stating death was due to natural causes. Healy died early today at his home near Culver City.

Detective Lieutenants Joseph Filkas and George Baker said they had information that Healy went to a Hollywood night spot Sunday to celebrate the birth of a son Friday night. They said they were investigating reports Healy had an argument with a man whose identity they did not know.

American Ship Leaking at Sea

City of Hamburg Hits Italian Boat in Fog; Sea Calm

LONDON, Dec. 21 (AP)—Crippled by a collision in a fog in the North Sea, the American vessel, City of Hamburg, started slowly tonight toward Cuxhaven, Germany.

Aboard her were one passenger, Herta Peters of New York City, and a crew of 80.

The 8,424 ton vessel, owned by the Baltimore Mail Steamship company, collided off Terschelling island, the Netherlands, with the 6,458-ton Italian Confidenza. The latter was damaged slightly.

Although the City of Hamburg first radioed she was "sinking fast," it was found later that she was in no immediate danger.

With tons of water pouring into two holds, she limped unassisted through a calm sea.

Fear Attack On Industrial City

Americans Asked To Evacuate Tsingtao For Safety

SHANGHAI, Dec. 22 (Wednesday) (AP)—United States consular authorities today advised Americans to evacuate the industrial city of Tsingtao as fears increased that a Japanese attack was imminent.

Unconfirmed reports gave estimates that 30,000 Japanese troops had left Shanghai since Sunday aboard transports for an unrevealed destination.

These extensive secret troop movements led to the belief that some of China's great coastal cities, possibly Tsingtao, Canton and Hangchow, would be the next objective of the Japanese.

At Tsingtao, 390 miles north of Shanghai, many of the 300 Americans in the city already were evacuating along with thousands of Chinese. Two United States warcraft left Shanghai Sunday to aid in the evacuation.

Advices received here said the city was quiet, but Chinese feared an attack in retaliation for destruction of Japanese cotton mills which Japanese said were worth about $87,000,000.

Heavy Snowfall Blocks Traffic In New Mexico

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 21 (AP)—The heaviest snowfall in years blanketed Southern New Mexico, from El Paso, Tex., to the Arizona line tonight.

El Paso experienced a two inch snowfall, largest there since 1931. It halted all air traffic.

The Southern Pacific railroad reported snow general 50 miles to the east and to the Arizona line on the west.

At Silver City, the snowfall ranged from six inches to a foot through the Black Range and Continental Divide sector. Cars and trucks were stalled in the passes through the Black Range.

The Deming-Lordsburg district, to the south and west, was likewise snow covered, with traffic on southern transcontinental highways making only precarious headway.

Snow had stopped falling late Tuesday, save in some of the higher mountain ranges.

Wheat Prices To Continue Low

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—Administration officials forecast continued low prices for wheat today on the basis of an agricultural department prediction that winter wheat would yield 630,000,000 bushels next year.

This year's winter wheat harvest was estimated at 685,000,000 bushels. The harvest of all varieties was placed at 873,993,000.

Officials said the average plantings to the winter variety and the condition of the crop Dec. 1 pointed to another bumper yield. This year, they said, brought about a price decline averaging 24 cents a bushel.

Congress Quits After Doing No Major Work; Senate Passes Housing

President Says Press, Utilities Fostering Fear

Declares Sections Of Each Responsible For Slump

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—President Roosevelt took a fighting attitude today toward a large percentage of the press and a minority of the utilities, accusing them of fostering fear which has slowed down private investment and business activity.

He made the accusations at a press conference. Only today, he said, two utilities officials had told him that general fear of utilities investments was making it difficult for them to get money for needed expansions.

Mr. Roosevelt said he had asked the utilities executives—William H. Taylor, president of the Philadelphia Electric company, and Frank R. Phillips, president of the Duquesne Light company of Pittsburgh—whether the federal government had interfered with their industry in Philadelphia or Pittsburgh. They agreed, he continued, that it had not.

The fear, the president declared, has been caused by a small minority of the industry which contended the government was attacking all utilities, whereas Mr. Roosevelt asserted it was concerned only with the abuses of a small minority.

Word spread through the capital, meanwhile, that Mr. Roosevelt had assured a group of his liberal senate supporters he would not compromise with the utilities on administration power policies nor abandon other major administration objectives.

BAD SITUATION U.S. May Be Leader Through it All

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—President Roosevelt hinted today the United States might assume the "leadership" in what his 1936 opponent, Gov. Alf Landon, called "an extremely delicate foreign situation."

Replying to a telegram from Landon pledging "cooperation and support in the difficult foreign situations confronting your administration," the president stated:

"We owe some measure of cooperation and even leadership in maintaining standards of conduct helpful to the ultimate goal of general peace."

"Standards of conduct," a state department official said, could well refer to the Japanese departure from such standards in bombing the Panay.

The president also came out against isolationism by stating: "Throughout our long history we Americans have rejected every suggestion that ultimate security can be assured by closing our eyes to the fact that whether we like it or not we are a part of a large world of other nations and peoples."

Chinese Fight for Existence

War Doesn't End With Passing of Army; It's Only Different Then

By JAMES A. MILLS

SHANGHAI (Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Japan's guns have moved away from Shanghai and the tumult and terror of battle have died down, but a war is still being fought in refugee camps.

It is the war of a million humans for existence. They are more desperate in their quest of food than armed soldiers stalking a military objective.

When their homes were pulverized by Japanese artillery fire and aerial bombs rained from the sky, a million and a half of these humble toilers and their families crawled out of the smoking debris and fled into the central part of the city. Some 500,000 of these managed afterward to drag

Senate Committee Says Corporations Maintaining Spies

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—Certain corporations have spent $10,000,000 for spies, munitions and strike breakers in the last three years, the senate civil liberties committee estimated today.

In a report submitted to the senate by Senators LaFollette and Thomas, the committee said spying upon laboring men and their organizations was an almost universal practice in industry.

"Appropriate legislation" to end it is being prepared, the committee added.

STOCKS UP Potential 'War Babies' Return Best

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (AP)—A few potential "war babies," including aircrafts and steels, made another rallying gesture in today's stock market but many recent leaders ran into profit and tax selling troubles.

Aside from a handful of favorites that retained gains, advances were confined to fractions. Losses, on the whole, were minor ones.

Watching the still tense far eastern situation and taking note of the huge world military expansion in the past year or so, some financial observers thought they saw signs of the United States preparing to embark on an armament spending program.

A late runup in U. S. Steel and Bethlehem tended to bolster the list in the final few minutes.

Dealings throughout were under those of yesterday, but transfers totaled 1,283,540 shares compared with 1,397,663 the day before. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks ended .2 of a point higher at 46.8.

Loyal Forces Take Key City

MADRID, Dec. 21 (AP)—The Spanish government tonight announced capture of Teruel, key city of the insurgent salient 135 miles east of Madrid.

An official communique said complete occupation of the besieged city was effected early in the evening ending a bitter six day battle in which both government and insurgents pitted heavily armed troops.

Dispatches from Valencia said Teruel fell when government forces stormed and captured a bull ring where the insurgent defenders made a last stand.

Bayonet charges wiped out the last insurgent stronghold.

The communique declared government troops then entered the battered city's streets.

The population, emerging from underground tunnels where they survived the siege, received the victors "with wild demonstrations of enthusiasm."

Teruel was the southern tip of an offensive thrust by the insurgents aimed to sever Madrid-Valencia communications isolating the former capital.

Holiday Spirits Turn Thoughts Of Legislators

Leaders See January Passage of Major Legislation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—The senate passed the housing bill today, the house sent it to conference and, with these things done, congress gladly concluded its special session and began thinking about Christmas.

Some of the departing members, more particularly those of republican persuasion, were calling it "the goose egg session," because although much preparatory work was done, not one of the Roosevelt bills it was called upon to consider was finally enacted.

The wage and hour bill, rejected by the house, was reposing in a labor committee pigeonhole, the farm and housing bills, approved

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—The house republican leader, Representative Snell of New York, decided tonight, after "mature consideration," there were three high lights of the special congressional session:

1. President Roosevelt's fishing trip off the Florida coast.
2. Vice President Garner's hunting trip in Pennsylvania.
3. A potato eating contest to judge the relative merits of Idaho and Maine spuds.

by both branches in different form, were in the conference stage, government reorganization and regional planning had received no more than committee consideration.

The congress completed action only on bills to pay the traveling expenses of the membership and the wages of the pages, a bill to lend four portraits to an art gallery, one to amend the credit union act and a resolution asking the agriculture department what had been done to prevent the distribution of an elixir of sulfanilamide.

The senate devoted the final day to debating the house bill, a measure intended to promote a boom in home building by reducing the financing cost. It would do so, among other things, by cutting the present down payment on small houses in half, and cutting the interest and carrying charges on more elaborate types of construction.

TELEGRAPH TOO 15 Per Cent Increase In Rates Wanted

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (AP)—The telegraph companies followed the lead of the railroads today in seeking a 15 per cent increase in rates.

Western Union telegraph and postal telegraph companies, in a joint statement, pointed to higher operating costs and said "The financial resources and credit of the companies are being jeopardized by the decline in revenues brought on by the general slackening of the business of the country."

The interstate commerce commission is now considering the petition of carriers for a similar increase in rates.

If granted to telegraph companies, the increase would be the first in 30 years, except for the World war period.

Idealism And Frank Kellogg

EVERY AGE needs a few idealists, some men who live before their time and for whose dreams of a better world the present world is not yet ready.

Frank Kellogg had always been an idealist from the time he studied night and day in a dusty law office—through the time, in his early career, when he fought the great corporations tooth and nail.

Today with half the civilized world either in the midst of or anticipating war, the Kellogg-Briand pact appears to be nothing more than an idly written dream.

But Kellogg ignored the criticisms and defended his policy of peace by arbitration. Once he wrote, "There would be no reason for war but for the selfishness of the men who make nations."

When he retired from his position on the world court bench in 1935, Kellogg wrote, "My dream of peace is still unrecognized; I will probably never see the day when it will be generally adhered to."

The world, as Frank Kellogg realized, is slow to change its ways. Peace by arbitration is yet mere fancy.

But the Kellogg-Briand treaty will not be forgotten by historians. Plato's visionary Republic, written more than 2,000 years ago and still unrealized, has not.

Christmas Is For Everybody

SATURDAY is Christmas. It is not just another day, but a Day of Days. It is not just another birthday, but a Birthday of Birthdays.

Christmas is for tousled-headed little children in wrinkled pajamas who come tumbling, bright-eyed, down the stairs at dawn to break to see what Santa has brought!

Christmas is for tiny, snow-crowned grandmothers who sit by the window, rocking gently, their eyes half-closed, their lips smiling and a-tremble with memory.

Christmas is for chocolate-colored boys and girls whose craniums sprout spirals of black wool. Christmas is for yellow-skinned babies who look up trustingly at their mothers with almond eyes.

Christmas is for thick-limbed peasants, close kin to the coarse land over which they sweat and toil. Christmas is for the many men who lie, gasping with death, in careless profusion on the battlefields of the world.

Christmas is a heritage, the gift of One who counted no sacrifice too great in order that "all men might believe" and that men everywhere should know peace and good will.

Can war and hate and distrust overcome the significance of Christmas? Can commercialism destroy its charm? These are your problems, for Christmas is yours.

Zadok Dumbkopf says that now that workers have been paying into the Social Security fund for a year the old slogan "Another day, another dollar" should be changed to "Another day, another 99 cents."

OUR GOVERNMENT

The economic system of the United States today can only operate successfully by cooperation of government and business.

Under the Roosevelt administration the voice of business in government has declined. Washington has paid more attention to the worker and the farmer than to the employer.

Such peace talks as those between the president and Mr. Willkie and Mr. Carlisle of the public utilities industries have encouraged the hope that the necessity is recognized.

Public discussion of the present situation is not understood unless this struggle between political and industrial leaders is recognized for what it is.

The Roosevelt administration used the last depression to tighten political controls; business leaders are using the present depression to loosen those controls.

Each has exaggerated the sins of the other. If business could cause 1929, government alone cannot bring recovery.

We believe that government should definitely recognize that the United States is dependent on a profit system and that business must have some assurance of profit before it will go ahead.

We believe business, and particularly monopolistic business which has recently put the prices of many basic products up above the 1929 level, should definitely recognize that it is itself destroying the free competitive system which is the basis of the profit system.

Early and definite determination about what will be done with the capital gains and undistributed profits taxes would help, even if legislation were not as favorable as some business leaders demand.

A firm peace between government and the utilities would help. But on both sides a better understanding of how the system works and a willingness to cooperate in working it are the chief requisites.

China's Not the Only Place Puzzles Come From

Today Darkest Day of Year, Time When Rickets Breeds

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D. This is the darkest day of the year. The blackest day. A rickets-breeder of a day.

So get as much sunshine as you can. And especially see that the children, get all the sunlight there is today. The sun is still the giver of life; the old Egyptian thought is proved true by modern science.

Rickets is the disease of infancy and childhood which appears in the early spring month with most frequency—but it appears then because it is bred during the dark days of winter.

In the spectrum, or rainbow, the break-up of white light of the sun shows the red rays at one end and the violet at the other. About 13 per cent of the electro-magnetic waves in sunlight are visible to the eye.

Toys for the very young will receive attention when Betty Braverman, A4 of Iowa City, tells how well-designed toys should be selected by 11:15 this morning. Miss Braverman is the regular commentator on the Art News program heard on Mondays at 4:15 p.m.

James Fox, A3 of Boone, will report the live stock and seed grain situation and review the progress proving dairy bulls on the Farm Flashes program at 11:50 this morning.

The top sergeant protested, again and again, to the village headman, and the headman always was profusely apologetic, but he couldn't do anything about it, he said, because the chaps who went loco simply were lunatics; he (the headman) could not foresee that they were going cuckoo and consequently could not take anticipatory steps to restrain them.

Two quartets of mixed voices will sing Christmas selections on the Henry County American Legion program at 9 o'clock this evening. Dr. Thomas J. McCabe of Mt. Pleasant will have charge of the program in which 18 people will participate.

"I apologize profoundly," answered the top sergeant, "but that boat was amok—absolutely irresponsible."

"Wouldn't it be humorous," they ask at the war department (and at the navy department also), "if one of our craft were to run amok in Chinese waters, and shoot up a few Japanese vessels off Shanghai, Nanking, Wuhu and thereabouts?"

"Subsequently of course we should apologize.

"But we'd run amok again, the next time that the Japanese did, and apologize again and run amok again, as often as Japan ran amok and apologized."

Not Humorous However, almost needless to say, Japan would not accept our apologies as readily as that Filipino headman did, or as we have accepted some of Japan's more recent ones.

By GEORGE TUCKER NEW YORK — Celebrities in Manhattan, like European was, continue to hog most of the headlines. The town probably has more big names in it just now than in months.

Scene at 2 p.m. in midtown hotel: Joan Crawford calmly advancing across a crowded lobby. She is loaded down with packages and an enormous corsage of orchids, it being her contention, no doubt, that orchids are just as pretty in sunlight as after dark.

Although the late lunch hour crowd was flooding the hotel, only a few seemed to recognize Miss Crawford. They stared in quick wonder as she crossed the floor and dented the elevator with her chic French heels. "That's Joan Crawford, the movie actress, isn't it?" "I looked up and saw a pretty girl asking questions of a grinning bell-hop. "Yes Ma'am," he replied. "Oh-h-h," sighed the young woman, enchanted. "That's the first time I ever saw her!"

Prosecutor Dewey Here is a steady-eyed, darkly handsome young man in his late thirties who has scored a sensational rise to prominence in the last few years. He is Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey, who cleaned up the vice rackets and chased most of the gangsters up to Sing Sing. He pauses to survey an excited group of young people who are milling about Robert Taylor, then moves off quietly.

In the front row at an opening the other night sat Russell Crouse, who, when he isn't authoring hilarious musical shows, likes to make expeditions to leeward or write books about murderers. Crouse caused almost as much commotion as the actor, for his newest revue is that howling piece of nonsense starring Ed Wynn.

Barging into the Mayfair lobby I met Elissa Landi, who recently completed her arduous chores as leading woman in "The Lady Has a Heart."

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD — Wonder how many movie fans agree with S.P. O., of Chicago, who writes: "Do you recall the days when the stock company stayed on at the old town opera house for many months and the same trouper put on everything from Camille to The Heart of Maryland? And do you remember how the illusion of the theater was lost when you watched even your favorite actors and actresses attempt to portray the various characters?"

"Is it possible this is one of the things that is the matter with Hollywood? We see an acceptable player like Clark Gable, one week as a first mate on a slave ship; the next week he is the bluff business man and the third week he may be an Irish statesman. In all of these parts Gable, being only human, is just Clark Gable.

"If we didn't see these people so often we would enjoy their work much more. If you don't agree with this, try going to a picture wherein most of the cast is new to you. Again you will have the thrill of living with the action of the play."

It's an interesting subject, and one that Hollywood does think about. And Hollywood has answers, to wit: Hollywood sells personalities, not performances. In the strict sense, Gable is not an actor, but a fellow who happens to please a great many people simply by being on the screen. The fans—not you and you but the great mass—pay money to see Gable, not the character he plays.

Studios would like to make it true that "the play's the thing." It would cost a lot less. But not enough people are like S.P.O. in sampling those pictures with new casts. They may enjoy "the thrill of living with the action of the play" once they're inside—but they don't go in. (Witness that fine film, "Make Way for Tomorrow," which lacked "big names" in the movie sense.)

Stars like Garbo, who can afford the luxury of infrequent films, realize the wisdom therein. But most of the players are under contracts that call for work whenever they're needed.

A Top Sergeant's Method The top sergeant had a little launch, with a machine gun aboard, to patrol an unimportant stream near his camp and the nearby village.

Just after one of his men had been hatched up by a bug-house native on about the half dozen of these amok-raids, he painted his launch in horrific colors, with eyes in the prow and all that kind of diabolical decorations, and dispatched it up-river to the hamlet, where it fired several machine gun shots ashore, creating considerable havoc.

The headman protested vehemently. "I apologize profoundly," answered the top sergeant, "but that boat was amok—absolutely irresponsible."

"Wouldn't it be humorous," they ask at the war department (and at the navy department also), "if one of our craft were to run amok in Chinese waters, and shoot up a few Japanese vessels off Shanghai, Nanking, Wuhu and thereabouts?"

"Subsequently of course we should apologize.

"But we'd run amok again, the next time that the Japanese did, and apologize again and run amok again, as often as Japan ran amok and apologized."

Not Humorous However, almost needless to say, Japan would not accept our apologies as readily as that Filipino headman did, or as we have accepted some of Japan's more recent ones.

Medwick Or DiMaggio?

Yank Fans Convinced That 'Jolting Joe' Better Than Ducky

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (AP)—Not even the official major league averages have convinced Yankee partisans that their new idol, Joe DiMaggio, isn't a better man than Joe Medwick, the Cardinal clouter.

Medwick has a 28-point margin in hitting and 28-point lead over DiMaggio in the defensive percentages but that's not the entire payoff.

The Yankee sophomore star led in home runs, runs batted in and runs scored, and, on the defense, handled nearly 100 more chances than Medwick.

Colorado's phenomenal athletic hero, Byron "Whizzer" White, follows footsteps of another all-American back, George Plann of Cornell, in winning Rhodes scholarship to Oxford.

Plann tried Rugby football while studying abroad and pronounced it a tougher game than its American gridiron cousin.

Shed another tear for Professor Lou Little of Columbia.

Only four members of World Telegram's all-New York City scholastic eleven have indicated preference for matriculating at Morrissey Heights.

Syracuse, Colgate, Holy Cross, Wake Forest, Pennsylvania and Georgetown are due to get other all-star schoolboys.

Worries No More

Larry McPhail, former general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, is in the banking business at Grand Rapids, Mich. His worries are over now at about the time of day they used to begin at Redland field.

Demand for "little" all-Americans, among pro clubs, is greater than ever.

Three of backfield quartet on team picked by A. P. from smaller colleges have had pro offers.

One, Wendell Butcher of Gustavus Adolphus (Minn.) had bids from five other pro clubs before signing with Brooklyn Dodgers.

Brud Holland, Cornell's all-American end, has a job at postoffice in his home town, Auburn, N. Y., during holidays.

George Edmond, in St. Paul Dispatch, reveals Fielding H. (Hurly Up) Yost has served for years without salary as Michigan's director of athletics.

Some Wolverine "wolves" now want Yost to serve without authority, too, as part of athletic shakeup at Ann Arbor.

Villain Spoils Good Success Story

Ralph Greenleaf Making 'Chalk' of Young Rookie, Irving Crane

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (AP)—It would be a better tale if the small town slicker outskicked the city slicker right on old Broadway but alas, alas, the villain spoiled it all.

The villain in what was to have been a grand success story of the poolroom is sporty, suave and very slick Ralph Greenleaf who is making chalk out of Irving Crane, the pride and kid pocket billiard sensation from Livonia, New York. Twice in two months the boy wonder from Livingston county has been licked so unmercifully by the Broadway sport it isn't even funny any more.

Competing in the national pocket billiard championship tournament at Philadelphia last month, his second tournament test, Irving got most of Livonia's 900 souls all set up by finishing in a tie with the famed champion, Bud Livonia's pride turned into sorrow as Greenleaf won the playoff by the incredible margin of 125 to minus 1. Such a rout couldn't happen again but it did.

Irving challenged the champ and the two have been crossing sticks for the last week with the same ridiculous result.

Doesn't Want Law Career

But Greenleaf is bound to hear—and hear plenty—from the Crane boy. Behind him is a story of a youth of means who rejected a law career alongside his father because he's ambitious.

Nothing but bad luck has pursued his rise in the cue world today. It took him several years before he could convince billiard officials he was good enough to compete in the national championship.

In his first tournament, Irving finished in a four way tie and wound up fourth in the playoffs. From there he has kept running into Greenleaf.

Asked if he were sorry he gave up law for the cue, he growled:

"Not at all. That guy is making a sucker out of me now but just wait—and you won't have to wait too long. A bit of pig-headedness on my part is responsible for this walkaway. Against everyone's advice I practiced with balls almost an ounce heavier than the ones we're using here. I can't get the touch. Add to this is Greenleaf's luck. He's loaded with horse shoes and I don't say that to detract from his showing. He's a great player but not as great as he's been the last month."

It's Greenleaf's Turn

"Think you can make a good living—as good as law—by playing billiards?" he was asked.

"I intend to find that out. After this, I'm going on an exhibition tour starting at Portland, Me."

"Some of the boys," put in Pop Keogh, "make $30,000 a year."

Crane, just turned 24, is lean and lanky with a pretty fiery temper. He was sore clean through.

"Guess I'll step in and watch you play a bit," said I.

"Oh, you probably won't see me," he roared in disgust. "It's Greenleaf's first shot."

Hod Shots

By G. K. HODENFIELD

When the University of Iowa basketball team opens its Big Ten season against the Indiana Hoosiers on the fieldhouse court Jan. 8, they will be playing their 300th game in Western conference competition.

Dr. Fred Beebe, who arranges all the intramural games for the department of athletics in addition to keeping tab on all the freshman and sophomore physical education roll books, delved deep into Hawkeye history to come up with the above gem. In 37 years of Big Ten competition the Hawkeyes have shared two titles, with Wisconsin in 1932 and with Purdue, Michigan and Indiana in 1926.

The Iowans have won 117 conference games while losing 182. Dr. Beebe found Iowa's first conference game was in 1900 when Minnesota gave them a good lesson in handling a basketball, 38-5.

After hearing about the justly famous Chuck Chuckovits, who scored 41 points against Adrian college several weeks ago, I have been afraid he would be a thorn in the sides of the Hawkeyes in their game. And indeed he was.

Does anyone remember when an Iowa team has had 59 points marked up against it. Rumor has it that there has been such a case, but I'll bet it was a long time ago. Correct me if I'm wrong.

There is some consolation to be found in the Iowa basketball schedule this year. The Hawks don't meet Illinois and Purdue, two of the strongest teams in the conference, and they open their Big Ten wars against Indiana, who last night lost to Bradley Tech. Scores don't mean much, however, especially when the opposing team is from Indiana. They raise 'em with a basketball in their hands in the Hoosier state.

Eastern Stars Work Out In Kezar Stadium

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21 (AP)—Eastern football stars, 22 strong, arrived today to prepare for the annual East-West charity game New Year's day.

The crew was headed by Andy Kerr of Colgate and Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, co-coaches.

Kerr, a veteran in the annual classic, described the squad as "a good, all around club, with plenty of balance. There are no specialists, but it shapes up as a strong outfit."

The Colgate mentor proposed a friendly scrimmage between the all-stars and the University of California, now practicing at Berkeley for the Rose bowl game with Alabama. Coach Leonard Allison of California immediately declined, saying he did not want to risk injuries to his players.

After a civic welcome, a luncheon by the Big Ten club and other ceremonies, the easterners worked out briefly at Kezar stadium.

The western team under Coaches Lawrence "Burr" Jones of Nebraska and Orin Hollingbery of Washington State also was on the field.

The squads will move to permanent training quarters tomorrow, with the East going to Berkeley and California's field and the West taking over practice ground at Stanford university.

Think So?

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Tris Speaker, former manager of the Cleveland Indians, predicted yesterday that it would not be surprising if Bob Feller, Cleveland rookie pitcher, won 35 games for the Indians next summer.

Daily Iowan Sports Writer

MARSHALLTOWN, Dec. 21

(Special To The Daily Iowan)

With husky Ike Hooven playing the hero role in a fairly tale finish, the Marshalltown high school basketball team came through in the final 30 seconds to edge out a 23 to 22 victory over a fighting Iowa City high five on the local court tonight.

The Little Hawks, trailing the Bobcats through the first three quarters of the tussle, overtook their opponents in the final period only to see Hooven drag the game out of the fire in a thrilling finale.

Although he led his team in the scoring division, Russell Hirt, chief offensive threat of the Red and White, was watched closely by the lanky Marshalltown center, Parker, and was able to garner only seven points. The scorer for Iowa City was well distributed, with seven of the Hawklets entering the scoring column.

The visitors trailed 7 to 4 at the end of the first quarter and Marshalltown held a 13 to 7 advantage at the halftime rest period. Going into the third stanza on the short end of a 16 to 12 score, settled down to the vain task of overtaking their hosts.

With less than four minutes of play remaining in the game, the Mertenmen pulled out to a 22 to 17 lead on baskets by Devine and McGinnis.

At this point the Bobcats came within one point of the invaders by virtue of Trickey's field goal and a brace of charity tosses. It remained for Hooven, Marshalltown guard, to turn defeat into victory by making good on an attempt from the free throw circle with a half minute to play. Frenzied spectators made the final gun inaudible in their well-voiced praise of Hero Hooven.

In a desperate attempt to halt the point-getting Bobcat machine, Coach Francis Merten switched from a zone to a man-to-man defense in the fourth period. For a time the defensive change was effective, as it afforded the Little Hawks an opportunity to take the lead for the first time in the evening. However, the locals put on the pressure in the waning moments to recapture their ball game.

Tallying honors for the evening went to Ben Trickey, speedy Marshalltown forecourtman, who added a free throw to his four field goals to register nine points. Bobcat Hooven and Hawklet Hirt ran close seconds with seven points apiece.

As the lead changed hands in the last period the game became rough and play was slowed up by numerous personal fouls. A total of 23 personals were called on both teams.

Big Jake Townsend, sharp-shooting forward and captain of the Big Ten quint, paced his teammates with 14 points. Ed Thomas and Jim Rae shared second honors with 12 points apiece.

St. Mary's To Meet Central At City High Gym Tonight

Strong Quintet Opposes Locals

In a game that promises to present spectators with one of the hottest contests staged in Iowa City this season, St. Mary's basketball quint will square off against the Central parochial high quintet of Fort Madison on the City high floor tonight at 7:30.

After letting his reserves do most of the work in an easy 44 to 15 victory over the Solon five Monday night, Coach Francis Suplepp put his squad through a light drill last night. Most of the evening was spent in preparing the Blue and White basketesters for the zone defense which the Central outfit is expected to employ. Basket shooting and free throws also came in for a share of attention, however.

Jack Bock, who did not participate in the Solon invasion, is still ill and was absent from drill last night. Bock, leading scorer and first string forward of the Marians, will probably not be used in tonight's game.

In the absence of Bock either Bannon or DeFrance will team up with George Chadek to fill the forward berths in the stand against the Fort Madison aggregation. Don Schmidt will handle his starting assignment at the pivot post, while Holoubek and Hennessey resume their work in the rear court.

The Central quintet, regarded as one of the strongest parochial teams in the state, boasts a fast, rangy group of hoopsters. Both of their first string guards are seniors and stand well over the six foot mark. The visiting five will include four veterans of last year's team, which went to the finals of the state diocese tournament.

Decker, an all-tournament man last year, was lost by graduation. Forward Abel has taken over the starring role for the Madisons this year. Abel, a speed merchant of the first degree, scored nine of his team's total in their 17 to 15 victory over Hannibal, Mo., Monday.

The Marians are expecting to run up against a zone defense since Central has employed this type of protection for the past four seasons. Central is a well-drilled outfit which specializes in a dexterous passing attack.

Confident Crimson Tide Ready For California

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 21 (AP)—Confident of another Alabama victory in the Rose bowl, this city bade goodbye today to the fifth Crimson Tide eleven to seek honors at Pasadena's New Year's day classic.

Approximately 2,000 townspeople and a sprinkling of students jammed the station as the train pulled out for California amid shouts of encouragement.

Aboard the "Crimson Tide Special" were 40 players and six coaches, the men responsible for Alabama's nine victories in as many starts during the 1937 campaign.

Players and fans alike were cheered before departure by a weather forecast issued by Will Carpenter, negro gymnasium janitor here for 20 years and a personal friend of the players.

Will said Pasadena would have fair weather for the Alabama-California clash.

Asked how he knew the weather so far ahead and so far away, Will replied:

"I don't know, I just gets a feeling."

The janitor's forecasts have been accurate for the four previous Alabama visits to Pasadena.

"It just goes to show you," he observed, "that of Diz doesn't do things half way. I'm either very, very good or I'm awful."

"The boys couldn't have made a better selection. When I fail to win less than 20 games for the Cardinals that is something to attract attention."

"If I had won 20 or more games they would have just jawned and said, 'Well, he done it again!'"

"But I maintained one good record. Jimmy Wilson (catcher-manager of the Phillies) didn't get a hit off me all season. In fact, he hasn't made but one off me in five years and that was a fluke."

Dizzy Agrees With Scribes

BRADENTON, Fla., Dec. 21 (AP)—Dizzy Dean said today the sports writers of the country "pitched a perfect game" when they tagged him the number one disappointment of the 1937 sports season.

The St. Louis Cardinal right hander was handed the somewhat doubtful honor in the annual sports poll of the Associated Press.

"It just goes to show you," he observed, "that of Diz doesn't do things half way. I'm either very, very good or I'm awful."

"The boys couldn't have made a better selection. When I fail to win less than 20 games for the Cardinals that is something to attract attention."

Colorado's White Flies to Ft. Worth

FORT WORTH, Tex., Dec. 21 (AP)—Byron "Whizzer" White decided to fly, after all, and will rejoin his Colorado university football team mates here tomorrow.

There is some consolation to be found in the Iowa basketball schedule this year. The Hawks don't meet Illinois and Purdue, two of the strongest teams in the conference, and they open their Big Ten wars against Indiana, who last night lost to Bradley Tech. Scores don't mean much, however, especially when the opposing team is from Indiana. They raise 'em with a basketball in their hands in the Hoosier state.

Eastern Stars Work Out In Kezar Stadium

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21 (AP)—Eastern football stars, 22 strong, arrived today to prepare for the annual East-West charity game New Year's day.

The crew was headed by Andy Kerr of Colgate and Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, co-coaches.

Kerr, a veteran in the annual classic, described the squad as "a good, all around club, with plenty of balance. There are no specialists, but it shapes up as a strong outfit."

The Colgate mentor proposed a friendly scrimmage between the all-stars and the University of California, now practicing at Berkeley for the Rose bowl game with Alabama. Coach Leonard Allison of California immediately declined, saying he did not want to risk injuries to his players.

After a civic welcome, a luncheon by the Big Ten club and other ceremonies, the easterners worked out briefly at Kezar stadium.

The western team under Coaches Lawrence "Burr" Jones of Nebraska and Orin Hollingbery of Washington State also was on the field.

The squads will move to permanent training quarters tomorrow, with the East going to Berkeley and California's field and the West taking over practice ground at Stanford university.

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Tris Speaker, former manager of the Cleveland Indians, predicted yesterday that it would not be surprising if Bob Feller, Cleveland rookie pitcher, won 35 games for the Indians next summer.

S.U.I. Students To Participate In Conference

Eleven University of Iowa students will attend the First National Methodist Student conference in St. Louis at the Centenary Methodist church, Dec. 28 through Dec. 31.

The delegates are William Langfitt, A1 of Indianola; Katherine Armstrong, A1 of Milan, Ill.; Betty Rugen, A1 of Glenview, Ill.; Lucile Hardenbrook, A1 of Danville, Ill.; Dale Weeks, A4 of Indianola; Robert Larsen, G of Spencer; Clifford Perkins, A1 of Maxwell; Ira Holton, A1 of Cedar Rapids; David Downey, A1 of Davenport; Nancy Patton, A3 of Davenport, and Genevieve Wendlandt of Clarksville.

These students together with 1,000 college and university students, adult counselors and leaders, members of the three largest branches of the Methodist church in America, will discuss and interpret the fundamental principles of the Christmas message and formulate ways of applying these principles to campus problems.

Robert L. Roudabush Quits Research At Iowa State College

AMES, Iowa, Dec. 21 (AP)—Robert L. Roudabush, Iowa State college zoology department research worker, resigned to accept a position as head of the microscopic slides and parasitology department, University of Rochester, Rochester, N. Y., Carl J. Drake, department head announced here today.

Tom Scott, extension service conservation and bird life specialist here, has been chosen to fill the position left by Roudabush, Drake said, although the appointment has not been approved officially.

Gila Kisses Not Sweet

Freakish Accidents Cause Pains, Grins

By the AP Feature Service CHICAGO (AP) — Freakish accidents reported to the national safety council in 1937 ran a wild stretch from the man who was hit by a chicken to the boy who was strangled by a horse.

Here are a few: Mrs. Lilly Holderness of Tucson, Ariz., sold her pet gila monster to a Californian who suggested she kiss it goodbye. The gila monster clamped its teeth in her cheek and had to be pried loose.

George Everett, 19, dozed while fishing near St. Louis, Mo. He awoke just as a large catfish rose to the surface, spat and swam away. Doctors removed a fish hook from George's nose.

Douglas Harper, 10, was petting a horse in his father's barn near Ontario, Canada. The horse switched its tail, wrapping it around Douglas' neck in a tight noose. The lad was found strangled to death.

Fred Weiland, 85, of Oregon City, Ore., slept with his bedroom window open and woke to find his false teeth frozen to his jaw.

J. W. Stanley of Springfield, Mo., was stuck for three hours when his peg leg froze in the mud.

Charles Cox, Macoupin county, Ill., farmer, was wringing the neck of a chicken. Out popped an egg, hitting Cox in the eye.

J. Newton Joffitt of King City, Mo., bumped into a steel clothes line in the dark and couldn't back away because the fluid in his eyes froze to the line.

Patty Schutzer of Titonka, Ia., grabbed a can opener and held it over the point of attack just as her mother started spanking her. Mother's hand was punctured. Patty's father finished the spanking when he got home.

Mrs. Emma Pinkerton of Salamanca, N. Y., broke her right leg turning over in bed.

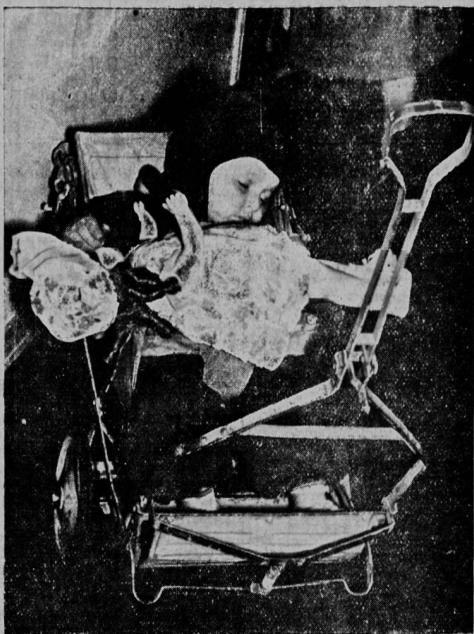

Col. William T. Kennedy of New Orleans broke a rib sneezing.

Mrs. Jane Pedalup, 75, of Effingham, Ill., stayed in the house because she feared the icy streets. She slipped on a rug and was injured.

Louis Somogyi reported someone bit him in the leg during a Chicago street fight.

Frank Randall, Eau Claire, Wis., undertaker, scratched his finger while arranging a spray of roses on a coffin. Infection set in and he died.

A Picture of Real Peace on Earth

It's a peaceful shopping season for young Donald Carl Mahanna, sleeping unconcerned in his carriage in the midst of the holiday rush at Sears Roebuck's. Last-minute shoppers, hurrying clerks and even Santa Claus may dash to and fro as they please—

3 More Shopping Days Till Christmas

By VERA SHELDON From two to six tiny tots have on Jack Frost's most vigorous days.

Remember to include several books in Santa's delivery. Local shops have lovely ones for all ages. On their shelves are "Baby Island" for little girls, "At the Zoo" with a lens with which to look at the pictures and a story of "Sabin, the Elephant Boy" with large pictures actually taken in Mysore, India. Both boys and girls will love "Tommy Thatcher Goes to Sea," although it is a real boy story.

Include a book of mother goose rhymes, of course, and one about Raggedy Ann and Andy. For those a bit older get "The Knitting Grasshopper" and "The Book About Things" — about crackers, the sea, Santa Claus and countless other experiences important in a child's life.

Teddy bears are fun to play with—we've found one who eats crackers, another who is just a little brown cub. And then there are doggies—big ones and little ones who wear ribbons around their necks or bright plaid bows. Don't overlook the doll in a pale blue snow suit with mittens or "Goo-Goo Eyes," a colored charmer who can roll her big black eyes and say ma-ma.

It she is nearer six than two she would like an ironing board just like mother's and a washing machine for baby's clothes. She must have a toy iron, a stove and above all, a set of dishes. We don't mean to be extravagant, but wouldn't a table where the doll family might dine make her clap her hands with joy?

Little boys don't often appreciate dolls, but they'd be amused at "HaHa" and "BooHoo." These two young men are made of rubber; the first brings luck and the other chases gloom. Boys like such toys as blocks with which to build castles and brilliant colored tops that sing as they spin. Remember that there must be several cars and trucks. Include one which will do to haul gravel in the sand pile next summer.

He'll want a ball and a bat almost as big as brother John's and a horn—it'll be hard on mother's nerves but good for Junior's lungs. A tricycle will help him use a lot of surplus energy on days when it is too cold to play outside. Get him a blackboard if he is old enough and a picture book with a double box of colors. If he has reached the cowboy stage, lay a cowboy suit over his new wagon—one with a gun in the hip pocket and a real rope lasso.

Youngsters from babyhood love clothes of their very own. Dresses made just like those of Shirley Temple are shown in pastel wash taffetas, batistes, prints and cotton shantung. They quicken baby hearts with scampy animals, flowers and pictures of story land which make up the prints. Even very young ladies like plaid pleated skirts with suspenders. White or colored blouses button on at the waist.

There are suits for little boys, too, in very bright colors. Don't leave out a sailor suit, a hat like Dad's with a long pair of trousers and an all-wool jacket that zips. We wouldn't be surprised to find that he'd like a pair of manly overalls in which to rough it.

Snow suits are a necessity in all wardrobes from one to sixteen. Get a very sturdy one for these two to six ages. Overall models are nice for growing youngsters. There is nothing like a good old-fashioned stocking cap or a close-fitting helmet to keep ears warm

FAMILY OF 18

$3 a Day Feeds It By Bulk Buying

GARY, Ind., (AP)—How does a mother care for 18 children? Mrs. Edward R. Schultz does it, but she doesn't know exactly how. "I think I have a harder time than the old woman who lived in a shoe," she says. "But a big family is a wonderful thing."

Her husband, a laborer, who makes $3 a day, agrees, adding: "But it's been pretty tough at times to keep the children from going hungry and ragged."

His secret is quantity buying. Recently he and 12 of his children all got new shoes. The bill was $27. Schultz said the normal cost would have been $35, but because he was a "big family" man, he got an $8 discount.

For breakfast, the younger children have cereal with milk and the older children join their parents in bacon, eggs and coffee. Breakfast is served at 7 o'clock around a big dining table.

The noon menu often consists of cold meat, a sauce, potatoes, bread and butter, with cake and pie sometimes. The evening meal is similar, although it usually includes hot meat.

Busy Mrs. Schultz must wash, peel and cook a peck of spuds for every meal at which potatoes are served.

Eight quarts of milk must be chilled in the icebox and at least five large loaves of bread baked for use in a single day.

Sometimes 30 At Table Five of the children are married and live away from home, but they often return for a meal with the folks—and they bring the grandchildren. Often as many as 30 sit down to it at once.

Mr. and Mrs. Schultz have had 19 children—including three sets of twins—but one of the first twins died at 11 years of age.

Every Sunday the family goes to church en masse.

The family occupies a two-story, eight-room house in Beecher, Ill., 30 miles from where Schultz works, in Gary. The house is given over chiefly to sleeping quarters. There are 10 comfortable beds.

Dummy? Garbo's Cousin Earns Genius Rating

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Greta Garbo has a coed second cousin here who rivals the movie queen in beauty and who has received the ranking of "genius" from college authorities.

The coed is lovely-to-look-at Ruth Louise Olsen, 18. She passed the Ohio State psychological examination for university students at Weber Junior college here with a score of 142.

This gives her a percentile rank of 100, the highest possible, and places her in class No. 1, or that of genius," said psychology instructor John Benson.

Only one college student in 5,000 or more achieve a rating as high as that, Benson explained.

"If she is properly directed, Miss Olsen is capable of leadership and great success," he asserted.

Blonde, slender Ruth Louise said her relationship through a paternal grandparent to Greta Garbo had been discovered several years ago when the actress met the Ogden girl's uncle at Salt Lake City. Ruth likes the movies a lot, but as for seeking a career in Hollywood—that never entered her mind.

She Likes Children "I want to be an English teacher," she explained, with an alluring smile. "And because I love children, I want to teach in the lower grades."

Ruth is the youngest of a family of 10 children. She speaks Spanish and German, is fond of all sports and enjoys dancing. She sings, plays the flute and the clarinet. She is attending college on a high school music scholarship. Her scholastic record, as you might guess, is "straight A."

In November, Mrs. Anna Marie Filser Hahn, 31, often called the "blonde Borgia," was sentenced to Ohio's electric chair for poisoning. Officers said she had killed four elderly Cincinnati admirers by adding arsenic and croton oil in her excellent cooking, had paralyzed a fifth. Motive: robbery.

The year neared its end with another unsolved kidnaping on the G-men's doorstep. Charles S. Ross, elderly retired manufacturer of Chicago, was abducted September 27. Unheard from since, he is feared to have died in captivity of heart disease.

Organized crime in New York city did not have a comfortable year.

With a mandate from Governor Lehman to wipe out rackets, Special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey turned his attention to cafe terrorizing and "shakedowns." Previously he had smashed Lucky Luciano's big vice organization and dealt telling blows at loan sharks.

With Restaurateur Jack Dempsey as a witness, Dewey convicted seven ringleaders. "Racketeering can be crushed," said Dewey, as he mapped drives against other industrial terrorists.

In November a grateful city made the 35-year-old crusader its district attorney.

1937 Shows Traffic Killings, Degenerate Attacks Increase

By the AP Feature Service Crime, which had been declining in America in the years since 1933, increased sharply in 1937. Nearly all forms of crime spread, but two facts stand out:

The largest proportionate increase was in negligent manslaughter—criminal traffic killings. And—quoting J. Edgar Hoover—"there was an alarming increase in degenerate attacks upon women and children."

Brutal Kidnaping The "crime year" opened with a group of reporters and cameramen shivering in the snow outside the home of Dr. William W. Mattison at Tacoma, Wash. Five days earlier the physician's 10-year-old son Charles had been kidnaped from the living room and a note had been left demanding $28,000 ransom.

The vigil lasted eleven more days. Then the child's body was found, naked, beside a country road. He had been murdered by a crushing blow on the head.

The Mattison case was the most shocking unsolved crime of 1937 and the mysterious "Tim" who signed the ransom note is down in the G-men's book as the current Public Enemy No. 1.

From this start, crime forged on.

by one he lured them into some tall weeds.

One of the most intensive searches in the coast's history soon located the children's bodies. Each had been strangled, attacked, and a rope knotted around her neck.

Dyer, as a WPA crossing guard at a playground, took an active part in the search and subsequent investigation. Arrested more or less on a desperate hunch as all clues fizzled out, he amazed police by making a full confession. He was sentenced to death.

Retribution struck in several other major crimes of 1937.

In September, seven convicts at Folsom, California's prison for "two-time losers," stabbed Warden James A. Larkin to death trying to escape. One guard and two of the convicts were killed in the ensuing battle. The five surviving prisoners went on trial for murder.

Newly Formed Brownie Pack Registers Here

The first Brownie pack to be organized for several years in Iowa City registered with the national organization in a simple ceremony yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ralph Tarrant, 523 E. Brown street. Brownies are junior members of the Girl Scouts, including girls from seven to 10 years old. The group, composed of girls from Horace Mann school, met from 2 to 4 p.m. in Mrs. Tarrant's home. There was a Christmas tree, and the Brownies presented to their mothers, who were guests of honor, gifts which they had made in pack meetings. Ruth Sumner, Iowa City Girl Scout director, was also a guest of honor. Games were played during the afternoon, and refreshments were served by Mrs. Tarrant, pack leader or Brown Owl, and Mrs. David R. Thomas, assistant leader or Tawny Owl. The members of the pack are Margaret Diehl, Betty Kerr, Betty Carney, Barbara Kanak, Dorothy Lied, Ruth Tarrant, Mary Jean Mackey, Charlotte Powers, Mary Barte and Mary Werner.

10,000 Fish Taken From River Above Dam at Coralville

Approximately 10,000 fish have been taken from the Iowa river above the power dam at Coralville. They will be distributed to poor and needy Iowa City families by local relief agencies. State Conservation Officer Ed Sybil, who supervised the work, said it was done to save the lives of the remaining fish. "Before some of the carp and buffaloes were taken out, the fish were suffocating to death because the oxygen supply, cut off by the ice, was being depleted," he explained. Tests taken indicate that the water now has a satisfactory oxygen content, and the work has stopped. Fish caught in open water were thrown back in again below the dam.

Hines Will Succeed Miller as Judge In Shelby County Court

DES MOINES, Dec. 21 (AP)—R. E. Hines, Shelby county attorney, will become judge of the district court there probably some time next week, succeeding Ernest M. Miller, named to the supreme court bench, officials said today.

Hines was appointed this afternoon by Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel. Miller, named to succeed the late Justice James M. Parsons, will probably take the oath of office as supreme court justice next week after he has finished his present district court work, he told court officers.

Seek Views On Relationship Of Tenant-Landlord

DES MOINES, Dec. 21 (AP)—Iowa's farm tenancy committee laid plans here today for a series of 99 county meetings to obtain landlord and tenant sentiment on the state's land tenure situation.

The committee, appointed by Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel, said the meetings would be held during January and February next year. Information collected through questionnaires will be compiled into a report to be submitted to the next legislature at Kraschel's request. The report will be accompanied by the committee's suggestions for legislative measures improving relations between landlords and tenants.

Fred Hawley of Laurens, Ia., is committee chairman.

County leaders will be requested to propose two questions to the local gatherings:

1. What is wrong with our farm tenancy situation?
2. What can be done about it?

Landlords and tenants will be asked to fill out two types of questionnaires, a short form to be completed before the meeting is concluded and a long form to be mailed to the state planning board office here.

Berg Leaves Town Following Arrest

The alternative of paying a fine of $100 and costs or leaving town at once was given Edgar Gust Berg of Minneapolis by Police Judge Burke N. Carson yesterday after Berg was found guilty of intoxication.

Bush Receives Term in Jail

Judge Evans Also Adds Fine of $200 In Larceny Case

Henry Bush was fined $200 and sentenced to five months in the Johnson county jail by Judge Harold D. Evans yesterday. He pleaded guilty to County Attorney H. W. Vestermark's information charging larceny from an automobile.

The information accused Bush of stealing merchandise from the automobiles of Charles Eden and Victor Korn while they were parked on Iowa City streets Dec. 1.

The time Bush has spent in the county jail since Dec. 1, will be credited to his sentence.

Continue Decision In Labor Dispute

The decision in the civil case of Homer Archer against Roy C. Wolfe for $91 allegedly due for labor has been continued until Monday, Justice of the Peace T. M. Fairchild announced yesterday.

Lack of Bidders Postpones Sale

The annual Johnson county tax sale, scheduled for yesterday, was held indefinitely postponed, W. E. Smith, county treasurer, announced.

Lack of bidders was the reason for postponement. Three tax sales have been held recently.

Farm Bureau Board Approves 1938 Directors

The election of 20 township farm bureau directors has been approved by the board of directors of the Johnson County Farm Bureau.

The 1938 township directors are: Louis Kroul, Big Grove; J. M. Zenishek, Cedar; Frank Doskocil, Clear Creek; John O'Conner, Fremont; John C. Miller, Graham; J. P. Burns, Hardin; Ed Beranek, Jefferson; Charles Degenhart, Liberty; Lloyd Burr, Lincoln; C. M. Fountain, East Lucas.

George Black, West Lucas; Dale Anderson, Madison; Joe Zack, Monroe; George Krall, Newport; Frank Floerchinger, Oxford; Byron Cogan, Penn; Edward Opfell, Pleasant Valley; Sam Hunter, Scott; Lee Schwimley, Sharon; Eral Thomas, Union, and Frank Gingerich, Washington.

Coal Commission Says Kentucky Must Enforce Its Rules

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—The national bituminous coal commission ruled today all producers of Kentucky coal for consumption in the state were subject to commission regulation.

As a result of the ruling, the commission said, "all producers who mine coal for consumption in the state of Kentucky must subject themselves to the provision of the code of fair competition and abide by the minimum prices fixed for the state or pay a penalty of 19.5 per cent of the sales price of coal at the mines."

Kentucky is the third state to come under the ruling. Ohio and Iowa are the others.

The ruling, in effect, holds that coal produced for consumption in Kentucky from Kentucky mines is in direct competition with coal shipped into the state. The commission explained the ruling as necessary for fair competition.

Old women scream over a cupful of mouldy rice. Consumptives cough away their lives. Lamentations for the dead, the dying and the lost are continuous, making the nights hideous. Shanghai might be called a "city of dreadful night."

Refugees

Some refugee housewives have a few basins and pans salvaged from ruins of their bombed homes. Some have a tattered blanket for this nightmare of existence. But most of these shivering, helpless humans have only the flimsy summer clothes they were wearing when they first fled from their homes.

The refugees sleep in shifts, for few families have enough space in which to lie down all at a time. A father stretches himself out for a time, while his family paces the crowded alleys of the refugee camp. After an interval, the father relinquishes the covered space to a weary grandmother or a group of children. To have even a foothold on this earth, and to be able to keep it, involves a constant struggle for these war victims.

Sleep in Coffins

Beds being non-existent, 2,500 refugees sleep in coffins. The inmates consider themselves lucky. They have roofs over their heads and the coffins are dry. The haunting thought that they must end their dismal lives in one of these boxes does not seem to disturb them, for they are too despondent to think of the present or ponder on the future.

For more than 20 years I saw, as a correspondent of the Associated Press, massed migrations of refugees in a score of European countries, in Asia, in Africa and the Far East, with all their attendant suffering, misery and privations. But nowhere have I seen so much suffering and sorrow, so much woe and wretchedness, as here in Shanghai.

Babies are born in these refugee camps literally every minute and mothers die by the dozen every hour. The babies are baptized in cholera disinfectants; the mothers leave this world without even a shroud on them, for the shrouds are needed to clothe the living. Every form of human suffering may be seen in this vale of tears called Shanghai.

Looking down on the scene of tragedy and suffering in one of the largest refugee shelters in Shanghai is a priceless, white jade figure of the goddess of mercy, 10 feet high. But the impoverished thousands below mumble that neither God nor mercy seem any longer to exist.

The modern domestic cat is chiefly a cross of tame Egyptian cats with wild European cats.

Short horns are the most useful and widely distributed of American cattle.

Chapter III

"Why didn't he mind his own business, instead of spying on me?"

Tatiana shrieked the words, told Mikail she didn't care whether the two strange gentlemen heard or not, and when the crowd that had been following her beat against the door — she commanded Mikail and the startled visitors to join her in keeping it shut!

"Your Highness," commanded Mikail forcibly, "Open the door!"

Tatiana opened it sulkily and hid behind it as the offending gendarme came in.

"Pardon the intrusion, sir. Is Her Highness here?"

"Yes, she is!" said Mikail, pulling her from her hiding place.

"Oh, so you're against me, too!" she stormed, glaring at him, "Very well, my blood be on your head!"

The gendarme by this time had is in Paris!"

The gentlemen bowed themselves out.

"And I was so sure it was my own cleverness!" said Tatiana, sitting on the bed and beginning to cry a little. "And I was always so careful to never take much. If I'd only known... I'd have taken care every day!"

"Tatiana Petrovna, my darling, we shall have to move from this hotel... perhaps even from France itself..."

"Yes," cried Tatiana, straightening up with the old pride, "We must never again submit to their treacherous charity! We will go to the ends of the earth! But... when we get there what shall we have to eat? I can't even steal any more without being afraid of triekery!"

"Darling, please don't cry! It's never as bad as it seems! We still have ninety francs!" She herded three grimy urchins into the room. The grocer and speculators following, practically filled the room. As soon as the youngsters saw Tatiana one of them yelled, "There's the one who did it!"

"You'll be the butler, I the maid!"

All three of the urchins went into a shrill chorus of blame. The gendarme blew his whistle for silence and assured Tatiana that he was merely trying to prove that the boys had been stealing from her! The grocer, on being questioned insisted that Madame was one of his best customers! The gendarme asked her to identify the thieves, which she said she couldn't possibly do and Mikail suggested that the case be dropped. The gendarme agreed at once. "I'm terribly sorry for this disturbance, Madame," he said in parting, "and remember I'm always at your service!"

"Mikail, if you don't explain what this is all about," sighed Tatiana, "I'll faint!" M. Chauffourier-Dubineff of the Bank of France, seemed amused and begged to be introduced. Mikail readily complied, including in the introduction M. Brekenski — representative of the pretender to the Throne of All the Russias! The good gentlemen quickly explained that Her Highness' expenses were being paid by the 'cause, "The grocer is instructed to look the other way!" he said. "The bills for your purchases are sent to the local Police Station — then to Headquarters — then to the Foreign Office — and finally to the Office of the Secret Funds for payment!"

"You mean they pay for everything I take?" gasped Tatiana.

"Everything! And before I go," said M. Brekenski darkly, "I must warn you that the representatives of the other Russia are also concerned about the forty billion francs — which you, Prince Ouratief, deposited in trust for the Czar! It would be wiser for you to give up this money! It is beginning, if you will pardon me, to place your life in some danger! Gorotchenko was sniffing dolefully. "Tatiana, where are the ninety francs you promised to bring back from market?" She said they were on the table, but all he could see there was a pile of groceries. "Tatiana, did you pay the hotel bill?"

"The Duke of Courlande was busy Mikail. He was very busy! Really he was!"

"And you've spent our entire fortune!"

"Darling, I had to! I... well, I had to! Have... have you forgotten what day it is? It's the day of the victory! On the Fifteenth of July, 1487, Feodor the Third vanquished Solimar at Samarkand!"

"Five hundred years ago!" sighed Mikail.

"And what," echoed Tatiana, with vast dignity, "is five hundred years to eternal Russia!"

There was a knock at the door. Both thought it would be the landlord but it proved to be a neighbor who had come to ask aid for a poor mother with a newborn baby — on the floor below! — Both starting! With a surge of good feeling they urged the good neighbor to take all the groceries from the table — which he did!

"Tell me something nice, pigeon," Tatiana said faintly, "tell me you are not hungry!"

"We'll both earn a high place in heaven if we don't get something to eat soon!"

The good neighbor came back to tell how the poor woman thanked them, and in going left a newspaper.

Tatiana's gaze suddenly fell on the Help Wanted Column! She caught it up, read excitedly: "Two well-heated rooms — luxurious surroundings — servants' lift — One Sunday out for two! Oh, Mikail!... Absolute Paradise!"

"Are you trying to tell me that we might hire out as a 'married couple'?"

"Yes!... Yes!... Yes, my pigeon!... You as butler — I as house-maid! It's heavenly!"

City Police Hold Machine Gun Practice in City Hall Range

Sheriff McComas Also Takes Part; School Plans Made

All 11 members of the Iowa City police department and Sheriff Don McComas took part in practice in machine gun firing yesterday afternoon on the range in the basement of the City hall. Each man fired 10 shots one at a time and then a target of full automatic fire.

Chief of Police W. H. Bender said that the policemen's scores would not be entered in their weekly competition. However, a school on machine gun firing will be held soon by the police department and the scores will be recorded, he said.

Both the Iowa City police department and the Johnson county sheriff's office own machine guns. Each of the guns was used during the practice yesterday.

Foreign Wars Veterans Will Give Kid Party

The Johnson county chapter of Veterans of Foreign Wars will give a Christmas party for the junior drum corps at 7:15 tonight in the university armory. Party Chairman James T. Gwynne announced last night.

Entertainment for the evening will consist of an accordion and mandolin duet by Sam and Leo Cortamela; tap dancing, Alvina Dickens; trumpet solo, Robert Roth; magic and sleight of hand, LeRoy, the mystic; Jack Fromm and his little German band, and tap dancing by James Rasley. There will also be bugle selections by John Otto.

A luncheon will be served after the entertainment. Plans are being made for a crowd of 300 persons.

Santa Claus Runs Out of Stamps in Middle of Mail Rush

SANTA CLAUS, Ind., Dec. 21 (AP) -- Santa Claus ran out of postage stamps today -- and right in the middle of the Christmas mailing rush too!

Postmaster Oscar L. Phillips said he ordered the stamps--cent and a half ones from Indianapolis, but they didn't arrive.

Phillips conferred with his daughter, Odessa, one of twelve persons helping out in the post-office during the Christmas rush.

She told the throng which crowded into the one room post-office to get the prized postmark on their mail, that while no stamps were available, the post-office would accept the mail and money and stick on the stamps later. Several hundred persons complied.

Sullivan Gets Odd Present from Wife

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (AP)--Michael Sullivan, 65, called tonight with a Christmas present for his estranged wife, and reported the following distressing occurrence:

She--

Hit him over the head with a hammer.

Knocked him down.

Threw a jardiniere at him.

At that point he cried out for the police.

Ice Vanishes Under Sun

Highways Cleared By Temperature Rise Yesterday

A warm sun raised Iowa City temperatures above freezing yesterday to melt the snow and ice from streets and sidewalks.

It was 39 during the warmest portion of the day between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., according to municipal airport weathermen, and the lowest reading was 25 degrees at 3 p.m. It was 36 at 9 p.m.

The ice is "practically all off" Johnson county highways, local state highway commission men here said last night. The warm day, combined with the commission's scrapers and snowplows, cleared ice off the paved roads.

"Only on roads protected by trees on the south will there be ice," the local office stated last night.

The sun "came out" yesterday and broke Iowa City's 10 days of successive cloudy days, the hydraulics laboratory weathermen reported.

The 39-degree temperature, borne toward Iowa City by a strong south wind Monday night, was the highest reading of the month, the weathermen said.

Hopkins States Republicans Need New Platform

HANOVER, N. H., Dec. 21 (AP)--Ernest Martin Hopkins, president of Dartmouth college, said today "the republican party needs reforming on a platform committed to the realization of advanced social objectives."

Commenting in an interview on the recent formation of the GOP's "policy forming committee," the Dartmouth president contended republicanism had "failed the ideals of its inception as a truly liberal party."

Dr. Hopkins publicly supported Alf M. Landon in the 1936 presidential election. He was among those considered for the chairmanship of the policy committee. That position, he said today, is "a vitally important executive post" and should be "on a full time basis."

Sino-Japanese War Rates First

Poll of Iowa Citizens Reveals Choice for No. 1 Event of 1937

Number one event of 1937 is the Sino-Japanese war agree the majority of Iowa Citizens.

Because the undeclared war in the East is international and because it has happened recently, it is uppermost in the minds of Iowa City persons. Relations between the United States and the warring nations, especially recent complications, convince the average person of its significance. One individual reasoned that the Sino-Japanese situation came as a result of the war in Spain, and therefore, that war in general characterized the year. Another person insisted that the efforts of the United States to keep out of war were of prime importance.

According to many, the anti-syphilis crusade will ultimately have the farthest-reaching effects. It will, they maintain, have a vital influence upon both economic and social aspects of the country. One person mentioned the fact that the anti-syphilis drive is the biggest reform in recent years.

Iowa City women singled out the loss of Amelia Earhart as the greatest tragedy of the year. These persons felt that the death of the renowned aviatrix retarded the progress of aviation. On the other hand, many local women admitted that the duke of Windsor's marriage to Mrs. Simpson was the most thrilling event of the year as far as romance was concerned.

From the standpoint of government the fight over the supreme court was most important, according to one local man. Another stoutly maintained that this crisis was a "keystone between fascism and democracy."

One individual believes the labor difficulties and the struggle between the labor organizations will prove of far-reaching effect. When recalling the tragedies of the year, many chose the burning of the Hindenburg and the Texas school explosion as events which will long be remembered.

One local woman spoke of the various unpleasant happenings, and then said, "I don't care to think about the events of the past year, for it is nearly over."

Hayek to Give Talk on War

WSUI to Carry Speech For Local V.F.W. Tomorrow

Attorney Will J. Hayek of Iowa City will discuss "Keeping America Out of War" over radio station WSUI at 7:45 p.m. tomorrow. He will speak under the sponsorship of the Johnson county chapter of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Hayek was formerly a lieutenant in the American forces during the last war and is now a colonel in the local national guard unit.

On the same program Robert Roth will play a trumpet solo, accompanied by Mrs. James Phippen.

New Zealand's Lake Taupo, famous fishing resort, is stocked with trout from the United States.

Fuller Authorizes Release of Brown

CRESTON, Dec. 21 (AP)--Judge Homer A. Fuller today issued an order to Union county Sheriff J. R. Ewing authorizing the release of Sam Brown, 82-year-old Kent, Iowa, farmer.

Sheriff Ewing said Brown has been in his custody on a contempt charge for failure to pay alimony and attorneys fees of $350 since Nov. 22.

The order will not prevent the plaintiff, Mrs. Lena Brown, from filing further or similar action against defendant, Judge Fuller said.

Cast iron was first used in England about 1530.
