Urges Boycott, United Front, Stout Defense

Buell Advocates Joint Effort to Stop Japanese

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Raymond Leslie Buell, president of the Foreign Policy association, advocated tonight an international embargo of Japan, a strong military establishment for the United States and an agreement among the democracies not to recognize any "puppet" government set up by Japan in China.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the dinner of the 13th Women's Conference on National Defense, Buell urged a "united front" of the United States with "other like-minded powers."

America's armament program, he said "must be accompanied by a wise but firm foreign policy. We believe in peace-at-any-price and we refuse to cooperate with other nations or to take any risks or impose any sacrifice for the sake of restoring order to the world."

TVA Purchase Proposals Get Norris Backing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Proposals for TVA purchase of private utilities in the Tennessee valley gained the support today of Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.).

The Nebraska, often consulted by President Roosevelt on power policy, said he believed Congress would readily approve necessary legislation if the power companies "sincerely" wanted to sell their properties.

He ridiculed, however, the proposal of President Wendell L. Willkie that a board negotiate for government purchase of commonwealth and southern corporation's subsidiaries in the TVA area.

A Heroine Because She Was 'Bull-Headed'

Dorothy Larson, University of Iowa Co-Ed, Awarded Carnegie Hero Fund Medal

By MERLE MILLER (Daily Iowan City Editor) Dorothy Larson—just call her "Mike"—is a heroine this morning just because she was so "darned bull-headed."

That was at Hanska, Minn., on July 5, 1936, when she saved two boys from drowning and attempted to save a third. Dorothy last night learned she is one of 15 persons in 11 states to receive a bronze medal from the Carnegie Hero Fund commission.

When a rowboat overturned on Lake Hanska she saved Louis Thordson, 14, a schoolboy, and Harold Hanson, 17, a farmhand, and attempted to save Orville T. Marstone, another 15-year-old schoolboy.

Dorothy, 20, and a junior in the college of liberal arts, accepted the honor with typical modesty. "Phooey," she said. "It was nothing."

Swimming comes natural to Dorothy, she confesses. Having lived near water most of her life, she began swimming "just about as soon as I could walk."

So last summer when she was paddling with her father and brothers in Lake Hanska, near her home, she swam against her father's orders to save the three boys.

Paddling a third of the way in wadable water, Dorothy reached Thordson and started toward the bank. A youth who was also a good swimmer met her and helped Thordson to the shore.

Winded, Dorothy was again warned by her father that it was dangerous, but she ignored the warning, swam 30 feet to Hanson and towed him eight feet to the boat.

After his hands were placed on the boat, Hanson slipped off, and Dorothy and the youth, who was then nearby, again placed his hands on the bottom of the boat. Hanson again slipped under the surface, and Dorothy submerged and brought him up. The youth meanwhile righted the boat, and he and Dorothy pushed Hanson into it.

Then the girl swam 15 feet to Orville Marstone, who threw both arms around her neck. Both submerged twice before she managed to break the boy's hold and rise to the surface again. Marstone was drowned, and Dorothy swam 35 feet to her father and with his aid waded to shore.

It was all over in a few minutes, but it seemed, Dorothy said, "like a hundred years."

Dorothy plans to go on helping humanity too. After two years at St. Olaf's college in Northfield, Minn., she's decided to be a nurse and will enter the school of nursing here next fall.

At first she thought of medicine but abandoned that as "too long and too uncertain for a girl."

As for the "Mike" part, that's what they call Dorothy at Dr. F. R. Peterson's home where she works for her room and board. It's sort of an inherited nickname, Dorothy explains. The regular maid is called "Pat," and she's in Florida now.

Would she do it again — this heroism feat? "I guess I would," Dorothy replies. "I'm always funny that way."

'Mr. H' Dies Heart Attack Fatal To Veteran Editor

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 (AP)—Thurman Harshman, 62, known as "Mr. H" to hundreds of newspaper men who received training under him at the city news bureau of Chicago, died tonight in a hospital from a heart attack.

He was born in Union City, Ohio, and served in the Spanish-American war.

Harshman joined the city news bureau in 1902. He was appointed night editor in 1912, the position he held at death.

During his years with the bureau Harshman trained hundreds of cub reporters who later became prominent in the newspaper, magazine and stage fields. Among them was William L. Chenery, editor of Collier's magazine.

Among the important news stories on which Harshman worked as a reporter or directed from the office were the Iroquois theater fire of 1903, the Walsh bank failure of 1905, the Eastland disaster of 1915, the race riots of 1919 and the slaying of John Dillinger by federal agents in 1934.

Good news? "It's perfect," smiles Dorothy Larson as she reads the report telling her she is one of 15 persons in 11 states to receive a medal from the Carnegie Hero Fund commission for saving two lives. Dorothy had not heard of the award until informed last night by The Daily Iowan.

Guerilla Warfare Halting Japs, Say Chinese Military Heads

Revitalized Air Force Also Brings Better Battle Results

SHANGHAI, Jan. 27 (Thursday) (AP)—Chinese military leaders declared today guerilla warfare on China's far-flung battlefronts and a revitalized air force have brought them increasing success against the Japanese invader.

They contended the Japanese were over-extended in a vast area of central China and were being harassed constantly by fast-moving guerilla forces striking repeatedly at "thin communication lines."

Guerilla tactics, the Chinese said, were being employed more and more, with the result that the Japanese have been prevented from undertaking further advance.

They cited reports purportedly received from fighting zones in southern Shantung and eastern Anhwei provinces, as well as the Wuhu and Hangchow sectors, to support assertions these tactics have been "increasingly effective."

Japanese efforts to smash Chinese defenders in central China by seizing the vital Lunghai and Tientsin-Pukow railways, which cross at Suchow, apparently have bogged down in the face of Chinese resistance.

Information received from American missionaries at Tenghsien, about 65 miles north of the Lunghai line, indicated the Japanese virtually have been stalled for three weeks 90 miles north of Suchow.

This Japanese army moved down through Shantung province while another force, advancing northward from the Nanking area, was fighting its way to the Hwai river in the Anhwei province near Pengpu, some 85 miles south of Suchow. This southern army apparently has been advancing very slowly.

Chinese military leaders pointed to "regeneration" of their air force as presaging "growing opposition to the Japanese aerial offensives."

Former NRA Head Urges Revision Of Antitrust Regulations

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—Donald Richberg, former NRA administrator, urged tonight a revision of the anti-trust laws to permit greater self-regulation by business under government supervision.

He said government must encourage private business and business must assume greater public responsibilities if the present government and industrial systems are to survive.

Ice Destruction Perils Famous Niagara Bridge

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 26 (AP)—A shift in wind tonight appeared to have saved Niagara's towering "honeymoon bridge" from immediate danger of destruction, owners of the bridge announced.

"A shift in wind apparently has relieved the ice pressure on the bridge and the ice jam has receded a little," Walter McCausland, spokesman for the International Railway company who owns the bridge, reported.

Relentless pounding on the already ice-packed gorge from huge floes tumbling over the falls has slackened because a shift in the wind has stopped blowing ice from Lake Erie into Niagara river, he said.

The 1,200-foot steel span from which thousands of honeymooners have viewed the falls, still groaned under the terrific ice pressure but appeared in no immediate danger of falling.

Rumor Judges May Quit Court

Cardozo, McReynolds, Brandeis Named In Reports

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Reports circulated in congressional circles today that supreme court Justices Cardozo, Brandeis and McReynolds were considering retirement.

One authority, usually well informed, said Cardozo had advised President Roosevelt informally that he though ill health necessitated his retirement.

Mr. Roosevelt was reported to have suggested that the justice wait until he recovered from his present illness before making up his mind. Cardozo has been ill of shingles and a heart ailment for several weeks.

Neither Brandeis nor McReynolds made any public comment on reports they had agreed to retire simultaneously at some indefinite date.

Some congressional friends of Cardozo have talked of special legislation to give him full retirement benefits if he wishes to leave the bench. Under the present law supreme court justices may retire at the age of 70 after 10 years of service, and receive full pay of $20,000 a year. Cardozo, who is 67, has served since 1932.

Heart Is Still Beating Clinton Child Has Delicate Operation; May Survive

CLINTON, Okla., Jan. 26 (AP)—Joella Reynolds, 3, of Sayre, Okla., who has lived 10 days with part of her heart exposed, was reported improved tonight and physicians said she had a good chance to recover.

The physicians said that until today it had been doubtful the child would survive a delicate operation upon the sac enclosing her heart.

A drainage tube into the heart was inserted when physicians found that an infection followed pneumonia and had enlarged the heart five or six times its normal size.

Physicians said the operation was identical with one in London recently after which the child patient lived only a week.

The prisoner, who confessed slaying his aide, James Atwood Gray, as well as Ross, shouted: "I don't want to see any one. I don't want a lawyer. I don't care what happens to me."

Body of Wheaton Buried in Deadwood

DEADWOOD, S. D., Jan. 26 (AP)—Allen Wheaton, who died at the end of a gallows' rope at the Fort Madison, Ia., penitentiary Monday, was buried here today in Mt. Moriah cemetery—where lie also the bodies of "Wild Bill" Hickok and "Calamity Jane," national known characters of the early Black Hills days.

Edwin H. Kaempff, SWOC organizer, said the strike was called by a "rank and file" movement and included all workers of the Spaulding and Jennings Works of the Crucible company.

Anti-Lynching Bill End Seen by Southerners; Senate Votes on 'Gag'

C.I.O. Offers Labor Peace To A.F. of L.

Join C.I.O. or Let Us Join A.F. of L., Lewis Says

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The C. I. O. unions will join the American Federation of Labor next week if the federation will take them as they stand, John L. Lewis announced tonight.

As an alternative, the C. I. O. leader offered to take all A. F. of L. unions into the C. I. O. as they stood.

His peace proposals, the most definite he has yet made, caused some excitement among observers of labor trends. The offers were announced at an uproarious session of the United Mine Workers convention. Lewis said his purpose was to quiet "those abroad in the land who say this labor controversy is terrible."

"The Lewis speech was the high spot of the day's session, but another development was the introduction of eight resolutions by union locals favoring a third term for President Roosevelt. The convention has yet to act on the resolutions.

Lewis emphasized his peace proposals by declaring: "If the A. F. of L. is so anxious for peace, we'll make a proposal. We all want peace—peace with honor."

"If the A. F. of L. wants peace, I will recommend to the 4,000,000 members of the C. I. O. That on the first day of February they march into the A. F. of L. horse, foot and dragon, if the A. F. of L. will issue charters to the C. I. O. unions and later call a convention to arrange the details.

"If that be not pleasing to the A. F. of L., we offer the alternative proposal that on the first day of February the A. F. of L. unions march into the C. I. O. horse, foot and dragon, receive charters, and hold a convention later to arrange details."

That brought the entire convention to its feet, cheering, whistling and applauding. Lewis beamed.

Aliens Seeking Relief in Ohio

CLEVELAND, Jan. 26 (AP)—Destitute aliens, barred from relief by the Ohio legislature, clumped through the winter's worst blizzard today to start the machinery which will make them American citizens.

In Cleveland, where one-fourth the million-odd residents are foreign born, government officials said 1,700 persons in one week obtained blanks which months hence may qualify them for food, clothing and fuel orders.

Governor Martin L. Davey has until next Tuesday midnight to approve or veto the action of the legislature, which provided "only such aliens shall be entitled to relief who have filed their intention of becoming United States citizens."

Aliens already are barred from WPA work by federal statute. Still to be decided is a question whether Ohio cities themselves can give aliens relief and yet obtain necessary state funds.

This is the latest chapter in a tangled Ohio relief situation which recently left 65,000 Cleveland families without food orders for a week.

"Many aliens are old, illiterate and mentally dull but they are just as hungry as those who have their naturalization papers," declared Fred W. Ramsey, Cleveland welfare director. He estimated 3,000 or more families faced the possibility of being barred from relief here, the state's largest city.

The measure awaiting Davey's action also requires "every person applying for direct or work relief" to sign a statement "setting forth his financial condition and such other facts as may be required" and renew it every three months. Ramsey termed the bill "cruel, harsh, bureaucratic, extravagant, ridiculous and un-American."

The explosions, occurring as the grenades were being loaded into army trucks for removal to the artillery park at Versailles, wrecked the municipal pyrotechnic laboratory and damaged many residences in the vicinity.

Second Semester To Start Tuesday For Most Students

Classes in the colleges of liberal arts, education, commerce and the graduate college will begin Tuesday at 8 a. m., H. C. Dorcas, registrar, announced last night. Work in the professional colleges—law, medicine, dentistry, pharmacy and engineering, and the school of nursing,—will start Monday at 8 a. m.

Registration for the new semester will continue all this week and Monday. Monday will be used primarily for registration of students who have received deferrer registration cards, Mr. Dorcas said.

Attorney Gives Defense Basis

Giesler Declares Wright Killed Wife While 'Unconscious'

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26 (AP)—Jerry Giesler, attorney, today informed a jury trying Paul A. Wright for killing his wife and his friend, John Kimmel, that the defense would be based on the "written law," relating to persons who commit an act without being conscious thereof.

Giesler said Wright would take the stand in his own defense and would detail to the jury a "horrible and terrible" situation in which he found Kimmel and Mrs. Wright. He said the defense would show that Wright suffered an emotional and mental shock and that he had no knowledge of what he did in the few minutes thereafter.

S. E. Roll, chief prosecutor, had told the jury in his opening statement that there was no such thing as the "unwritten law."

Today, Giesler said he expected to show through witnesses that Wright was a kind and loving father and husband, and that the domestic life of the Wrights offered no reason for premeditated murder.

Returning to the situation which he said Wright found in the night of the slaying in his Glendale home, Giesler said to the jury: "When he saw this horrible thing he was rendered unconscious. He was rendered as unconscious as though he had been hit on the head by a mallet. He did not have the slightest idea of what he did."

Senate Delays Naval Budget

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The largest peacetime naval appropriation bill in history, providing $549,227,842 for expenditure in the fiscal year beginning next July 1, took its place today in the senate legislative jam developing behind the anti-lynching filibuster.

Committee approval sent to the senate floor a measure containing approximately $140,000,000 for warship replacements and totaling $32,684,534 more than the previous peacetime record, the 1937-38 supply measure.

As revised by the senate appropriations committee, the measure carried $32,348 more than was approved by the house, but $15,178,619 less than was proposed in the 1938-39 budget.

Included in the replacement allowance was $119,900,000 for construction and machinery and $20,700,000 for armor, armament and ammunition on war vessels.

The senate committee increased the construction and machinery item in the house bill by $2,536,850 to permit work on 25 vessels commissioned prior to last July 1.

Of the remainder, $18,422,100 will be used to start work on two battleships, two cruisers, eight destroyers, six submarines, one mine sweeper, one submarine tender, one fleet tug and one oiler. The balance will be spent in continuing construction of two battleships, three aircraft carriers, eight destroyers, 43 destroyers, 16 submarines, one seaplane tender and one destroyer tender.

The senate committee eliminated an item of $3,000,000 in the house bill for purchase of "strategic and critical" materials.

Priest and Poet—Emanuel Swedenborg

IN NEW YORK this week prominent educators, scientists, theologians and thinkers the country over will gather to celebrate the 250th anniversary of the birth of a man whose name is nearly unknown to the average man today but whose influence on modern thought has been greater than any of his contemporaries.

In a time when men were narrow in their concepts and limited in their abilities, Swedenborg was an "all-around man." Only Leonardo da Vinci has been his peer in versatility and in the ability to probe a problem at one glance and offer a solution.

Until middle life Swedenborg contented himself with the cold, hard facts of science, with mathematics and with engineering. He conceived the nebular hypothesis, later credited to both Kant and Laplace; he plotted the brain accurately and recognized the functions of the ductless glands; he saw the possibilities of stereochemistry; he placed what we now call psychology on a normal basis; he wrote that atoms are not the hard little balls science thought them to be. He bridged the gap between the Renaissance and Isaac Newton.

Then, having conquered science, Swedenborg turned from it to religion. He began probing deeply into philosophic meanings and concepts. He wrote papers on the why's and wherefores of human thought and human morality. His religious treatises are as famous as his scientific studies.

It is little wonder, then, that he was regarded in his own day as both a poet and a priest, for he was not only a great scientist and thinker but a great spirit as well. Swedenborg's remarkable life might well be the subject of study for modern men of science.

Foreign Stakes in Spain

(Editor's Note: This is the last in a series of three editorials on Spain's civil war. The first dealt with the underlying causes and the second with the motivations which are continuing it.)

SPAIN HAS been the powder box for a great many European wars. The civil conflict now raging within its borders may again repeat an unfortunate history. The great powers of the world have perhaps as large an interest in the Spanish struggle as do the Spanish people themselves.

The large amount of military aid in the form of men and munitions which foreign nations have been pouring into war-torn Spain well attests to the great concern with which the conflict is regarded in European circles.

of which is still undeveloped. Italy and Germany need these resources for they are highly industrialized nations and are seriously handicapped by not possessing sufficient amounts within their own borders.

England is interested in Spain for two reasons. First, she wishes to be sure she can take Spanish ores freely without foreign intervention. Second, she desires to keep the status quo in Europe and especially around the Mediterranean where she fears the increasing might of the Italian empire.

The French attitude toward Spain is largely molded by military considerations. France has always been afraid of Germany and the rise of Hitler merely heightened this apprehension.

Russia's interest in Spain is largely ideological. She wishes to help the Spanish people maintain their democratic institutions and their republican form of government.

The other minor European nations are interested in Spain only in so far as they are about the British-French-Russian political sphere or lean toward the Rome-Berlin axis.

The tremors of an uneasy world and its shrilling of alarms have penetrated the ivory towers of the scientists. At Indianapolis recently they boldly stepped from their charmed circle of detached thought and conducted a symposium on "science and society."

"Science and its applications," the council declared, "are not only transforming the physical and mental environment of men, but are adding greatly to the complexities of their social, economic and political relations."

That resolution may not be lightly dismissed as just another product of wishful thinking. It is importantly significant as an expression of intent from a body of men who are usually silent publicly on questions that are not directly pertinent to their own particular fields of research.

Dr. Edwin Grant Conklin, former president of the association, related at Indianapolis that in the dark days of the World War he had spoken to a distinguished colleague about a major war event and had received a sharp answer "What war?"

Thus American science, in a new consciousness of its responsibilities in the realm of human relations, assumes leadership in the sphere of science for the defense of intellectual freedom and peace. That is in the best tradition of the American spirit.

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER. NEW YORK — Your romantic novelists may date on ingenuity of women folk in wartime—their ability to make tea from bark, fashion clothes out of window curtains and keep the home fires burning while adversity stares them in the face—but what about these peacetime victims who run into new problems every day? They are the ones who know how to take it.

Quick Thinking

Then there was that quick-thinking actor who needed a presentable suit of clothes so that he could keep an engagement with a producer who might give him a part in his new play. Borrowing an expensive guitar from a musician friend, he beat it down to his favorite hook shop and "exchanged" it for a fairly decent blue serge suit.

Heard a story the other day which may explain why Charlie Chaplin takes his time. Chaplin arrives at the studio, even when he's working, at his own convenience. Ten o'clock, 11 o'clock, 12 o'clock, it's all one with him. One day, when Charlie was in production, he strolled in about 10:30, and inadvertently, at the same moment, one of his employees was looking at his watch. Chaplin boomed, turned on the offender: "Don't pull a watch on me," he fumed. "Mack Sennett used to do that. I won't have anybody pulling a watch on me—in my own studio!"

Hod Love, shown above, scored six points to lead St. Pat's cagers last night in their losing fight against Immaculate Conception of Cedar Rapids. The Irish lost, 17 to 13.

That quick-cutting prodigy who produced a night of basketball that was a real treat for the spectators. He was the star of the game, scoring 17 points and leading his team to a 17-13 victory over the Irish.

Only the uncanny accuracy of the visiting cagers with their free tosses kept them in the running as the tight defensive work of the locals held them without a field goal until midway in the final period when red-haired Glen Fitzpatrick came through with a pivot shot.

Don Weber, the slippery center, who raised so much havoc with the Irish in their first meeting when he scored 17 points, was held to three counters last night by the brilliant defensive work of Jay Walden and Hod Love. Love was the high scorer for the Irish in the first half as he capitalized on his three free throws. He also played a smooth floor game.

The scoring for the Immaculate Conception quintet was evenly distributed during the initial period, and the tally stood 9 to 5 with the Shamrocks on the short end at half time. The third period was very uneventful for the Irish as they countered only one point, this on Hod Love's free throw. In this period Green, who had been held to one point went into action and garnered the six points which stretched the Parlor City lead to 15 to 6.

In the final quarter Glen Fitzpatrick and Hod Love put on a rally which brought the visitors to within two points of their opponents, but Green again hit the basket in the final minute of play to put the game on ice.

For Immaculate Conception Green was the outstanding man on the floor while Fred Condon turned in a brilliant defensive game. For the Irish quintet Hod Love and Glen Fitzpatrick furnished the offensive punch and Jay Walden the defensive.

Mize Confers With Cardinal President

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 26 (AP)—Johnny Mize, husky St. Louis Cardinal first baseman who isn't satisfied with his 1938 contract, conferred with President Sam Breadon today but apparently reached no agreement.

Breadon said only generalities were discussed. Branch Rickey, vice-president of the club, was not present and there were indications Mize would talk with him tomorrow. Mize, who came here from his home in Georgia, said the club offered him an increase for the coming season but it wasn't sufficient. Mize hit .364 last year.

Williams Denies He Ever Partook of Bill Terry's 'Liquid Hospitality'

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—New York Athletic club, where I picked up the check. . . Terry's now-famous Satevpost article, while not naming names, traced his "feud" with New York baseball writers to refusal to give Williams his (Terry's) home telephone number and then described a peace-seeking "visit at my hotel in Miami Beach" where he (Williams) "partook of my liquid hospitality" . . .

On top of everything else the magazine Sports Illustrated is worried about "shamateurism" and suggests a national sports board do something about the "evils" arising from sham or hypocrisy in our amateur athletics. . . "Take the case of Donald Budge, technically an amateur tennis player," editorializes the magazine. . . "Mr. Budge has lived solely on his tennis game for at least three years, ably supported by the benevolent fathers of the U. S. L. T. A. . . and it's also true that Mr. Budge is or has been on the payroll of a sporting goods firm at a figure reputed to be $7,500 a year. . ."

Anytime it's refreshing to learn, through L. H. Gregory's column in the Portland Oregonian, that Mr. Al Stump has started a campaign in the University of Washington daily to have better free meals served in the Huskies' press box. . . and that Oregon State's press coop, in Greg's opinion, is "tops for eats." "Slogan for Madison Square Garden: Keep the working press contented with sandwiches. . ."

University High to Meet Circuit-Leading Anamosa Quint

Down The Sports Trail

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—Sonja Henie, rated by her handlers as the most superbly trained girl athlete in history, has found the movie grind so tough she may toss it and a two-year income of about $400,000 into the ash can.

The Norwegian swan of the ice, whose secret is almost limitless stamina, has requested Twentieth Century-Fox to trip up her contract unless its directors permit her standardized working hours instead of a strain that lasts deep into the night. Her ultimatum came after her last picture, "Happy Landings," when she collapsed and fainted on the set.

"I can't stand that strain—working from early morning to 7 or 8 o'clock at night—and do not intend to do so," she said. "I train hard and can keep going at top speed with anybody but not as much as they (the movies) demand."

Sonja was further irritated by the request of her film employers that she give up her current exhibition tour. To the plea of her movie handlers that she was now "an actress," she replied: "Don't kid me, I'm still a skater. And to prove it, the petite Norwegian miss is wowing New York in a show that is a complete five-night sellout. Her present tour has been so successful, says Manager Hugo Quist, that she could pile up a gross gate of $1,000,000 a month by skating five days a week, which she is able to do."

Sonja and the movie industry have had some lively arguments in the past. In 1932, she was approached with a movie offer but rejected it because she wanted to attain her goal of three Olympic figure skating championships, which she did in 1936. She then decided to turn pro and applied for a job in Hollywood.

She was met with a cold shoulder, perhaps rightly so because the Hollywood box office graveyard is strewn with old pictures starring athletic idols. But Quist, the same smart, silent man who brought Paavo Nurmi to this country, tried a stunt and it worked. He staged an ice show, starring Sonja, and Movie Director Darryl Zanuck was coaxed into seeing it. He was so impressed a movie contract resulted.

Lee Handley, Pirate second baseman, echoed Waner's remarks. Waner admitted sending back his contract but denied he was a holdout.

"The first contract they send you," he said, "is sort of like the opening bid at an auction. They do that to make you feel you are not so good."

"Evidently then," he was asked, "they wanted to cut you?" "They had," he said, "but I sent the contract right back. I don't think, however, there will be any trouble in coming to terms."

"I believe that sports writers should write the truth, and I believe they try to, but they shouldn't try to run the game. "Sports writers have done a lot for baseball and they've done a lot for me, but they shouldn't try to run the business office and they shouldn't try to carry personal grudges into their writing."

Ed Burns Will Start Game At Forward Post

Regular Center Shifted To Aid Offense Of Bluehawks

Ed Burns, who has played center on the University high basketball team all season, got his first opportunity to show his ability as a forward yesterday when the U-high quintet played a practice game with the Iowa City Mohawks, a local amateur team. He has been switched to forward to increase the scoring power of the Blue and White team.

The U-high five found little difficulty in piercing the Mohawk's zone defense, which is the same type of defense the Blues expect the league leading Anamosa team to use when the two teams clash here tomorrow. Burns was impressive in the practice game as he flipped in shots from all angles and aided the lay of his team with a good floor game.

If the River team's performance yesterday is indicative of the way it will continue to play, apparently the strategy of Coach Wm. R. Wood in shifting Burns to forward on offense will be a success.

Burns, who is the best shot on the team, has been shifted to forward on offense so that the U-high team will be able to capitalize on his ability to hit the basket from far out as well as close in. Capt. George Miller is taking over the offensive center position.

Coch Wood started Ham Ries and Duane Carson at the guards, Burns and Ernie Krogh at the forwards and Capt. George Miller at center in the practice game yesterday. This is the same lineup he has used to start the games for the major portion of this season.

Paul Waner And Matthews Meet In Golf Finals

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Jan. 26 (AP)—Paul Waner, Pittsburgh outfielder, faded from the Miami Biltmore lefthanders golf tournament today before the booming shots of J. L. Matthews, Miami printer, and it was up to Lloyd Brown of Cleveland to keep the cup in the baseball family.

Brown, Cleveland Indians pitcher, reached tomorrow's 18-hole final by downing Leon "Goose" Goslin, former Detroit baseballer, 6 and 5.

Waner, twice winner of the southpaw tournament and medalist in this renewal, lost a 3 and 3 match to Matthews, who played out the round for a medal 75, four above par.

The Pirate slugger carded a 69 as his putting turned sour. Two down at the turn, Waner didn't win a hole from the husky Michigan, who hits the ball as far as the average professional.

"I had some misgivings over the tournament," Waner said. "That's the reason I brought Brown over from Sarasota. We want to keep this cup in the family."

Brown, with a 40 on the front nine, had little trouble ousting Goslin.

Gene Sarazen Back From World Jaunt

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—Gene Sarazen, former U. S. and British open golf champion, returned from an around-the-world vacation trip today with the claim that he was the first golfer ever to show the natives of Bali the game.

The veteran professional, who was accompanied by Mrs. Sarazen, also said the Japanese had some 50 courses which were the equal of any in the world.

Rowing Group Rejects Change

I. R. A. Board Votes To Keep Regatta Four Miles

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—The intercollegiate rowing association today unanimously rejected a proposal of the rowing coaches that the varsity race of the Poughkeepsie regatta be shortened from four miles to three.

The decision of the board of stewards was the most important business of the I. R. A. meeting at which the date of this year's regatta was set for Monday, June 27. The starting times, as usual, will be dependent on the tide.

The coaches' proposal was made at their association's meeting here in December, in an effort to bring the University of Pennsylvania, a charter member of the I. R. A., back to the regatta. Penn withdrew from last year's regatta because the Quakers had no home course in which to prepare for a four mile race.

The stewards gave four reasons for keeping the varsity race at four miles. They were: 1. The four mile race is a better test of rowing skill than a shorter race and takes a better crew to win it.

2. In their opinion a four mile race entails no undue strain on a well conditioned oarsman. 3. Four miles is the classic distance and has been rowed by Oxford and Cambridge for over 100 years, by Yale and

Hod Shots

By G. K. HODENFIELD

From "I" man to "G" man. That is the trail followed by Ralph V. Harman, who won his "I" on the golf team in 1933 and graduated from the college of law two years later. Harman this month started 14 weeks of intensive training in Washington, D. C., and will be ready for duty in mid-April. The former Iowan practiced law in Waterloo for a year before entering the legal department of a Des Moines insurance company.

There is only a short while remaining before the Hawkeye athletic program, at a standstill for the last week and a half, will swing into high gear. There are 23 events scheduled for next month, 10 of which will be in Iowa City. The Iowa swimmers make their year's debut as well as the Hawk gymnastic and track teams. The Hawkeye cagers and wrestlers also will see a lot of action.

Rumors fly thick and fast around the campus during these trying times of semester finals. First the gossips say this athlete flunked, then another name pops up. According to the scandal-mongers there won't be enough men eligible to carry on the winter sports program. From higher sources comes the report: "There will be no report until the end of the week." And that settles that.

Lewis To Meet Lenhart

ST. PAUL, (AP)—Promoter Harry Lennon announced yesterday he had signed John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight champion of the world, for a 10-round non-title bout with Fred Lenhart, of White Bear Lake, Minn., here Feb. 11.

Harvard and the three original members of the I. R. A. for well over 50 years. 4. The varsity race and the I. R. A. regatta would lose prestige if the distance were shortened to three miles, a prestige which naturally belongs to the men who row in race as well as the race itself.

Capt. Wayne Putnam Suffering From Throat Infection; Devine And Covert Return to Practice

High-Geared Hilltoppers To Risk Unbeaten Loop Record

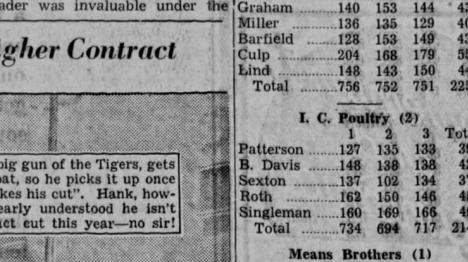

With Capt. Wayne Putnam on the sidelines doctoring a throat infection the City high basketball club last night continued experimenting in search for an effective combination to face the Davenport high school quintet tomorrow night on the local court.

Showing little improvement, Putnam was still in bed last night and it appeared likely that he will be absent from the all-important Hilltopper contest, George Devine and George Covert, who were also on the sick list with bad colds, participated in the drill yesterday and will probably be in top condition by game time.

Although several combinations were used by Coach Francis Merten yesterday, the one that received most attention during the workout included Devine and Burger at the guard posts, Hirt in the pivot position and McLaughlin and Covert in the front court.

Putnam to Be Missed Devine, a junior, is a better shot from far out on the court than is the bedridden captain of the Hawks. However, Putnam's height will be missed both on defense and in the fast break drive. The lanky Little Hawk leader was invaluable under the

MacPhail Denies Immediate Trade Plans for Mungo

CINCINNATI, Jan. 26 (AP)—Larry S. MacPhail, newly named executive vice-president of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Burleigh Grimes, the team's field general, headed for St. Louis late today, leaving behind them stout denials of any immediate plans to trade Van Lingle Mungo.

"We have made no propositions to anyone for Mungo," said MacPhail, who spent the day in conference with officials of the Cincinnati Reds and the Nashville Vols.

"We have been courteous enough to listen," MacPhail, former general of the Reds, termed Mungo the "best pitcher in baseball" and added: "When some of the other clubs realize this, we may be able to talk trade, Mungo goes only when we get real value for a great player."

Ole Diz' Dean Rallies to Aid Terry in Fight

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Jan. 26 (AP)—Bill Terry got support in his feud with sports writers today from an unexpected quarter—Dizzy Dean.

"I think Terry's article is the finest I've ever read," declared "Old Diz," speaking of the New York manager's piece in a current magazine.

"Understand," he amended quickly under Mrs. Dean's prompting, "I'm not taking a crack at sports writers—and I don't think Terry is either—but I believe that Terry is absolutely right in refusing to allow any of his players to talk to a sports writer."

"I believe that sports writers should write the truth, and I believe they try to, but they shouldn't try to run the game. "Sports writers have done a lot for baseball and they've done a lot for me, but they shouldn't try to run the business office and they shouldn't try to carry personal grudges into their writing."

Music Festival To Add Mezzo-Soprano Solo

High School Students To Vie in More Than 35 Events

Mezzo-sopranos, previously on the outside of the high school festival, will have their chance for honors in the 1938 music festival May 5, 6 and 7, according to the new festival bulletin published by the university's extension division.

They will join the sopranos, the contraltos, the tenors and the baritone-basses in the vocal solo competition events of the 13th annual festival.

With the mezzo-soprano solo, there are now more than 35 events. This is the greatest number of events that has ever been scheduled on a music festival program.

Information given in the new festival bulletin also stated that a new record for the total number of schools enrolled in the Iowa high school music association will be established.

Last year a record was set when 553 schools of 544 towns became association members. In the May festival, 6,943 pupils of 181 schools participated and the number of contestants, chaperons and drivers reached a total of 8,194.

Union Library Adds Six New Books to Shelf

"American Medley" by Prof. Wilbur L. Schramm of the English department is one of the six new books added to the Iowa Union library, it was announced yesterday.

Other books are "Thirteen O'Clock," Stephen Vincent Benet; "Of Men and Music," Deems Taylor; "The Seven Who Flew," Frederick Prokosch; "Island of Bali," Miguel Covarrubias, and "An Artist in America," Thomas Hart Benton.

Swisher Tells Plans for Ball

President's Dance Will Raise Money To Fight Malady

Mayor and Mrs. Myron J. Walker and Police Judge and Mrs. Burke N. Carson will be among leaders of the grand march which will usher in the annual President's Birthday Ball at the new armory Saturday, Attorney Ingalls Swisher, general chairman, announced last night.

Two other couples who will lead the march in which several hundred couples will join are Attorney and Mrs. Swisher and State Representative and Mrs. Leroy S. Mercer.

More than 1,800 tickets—costing one dollar each—have been put on sale as Johnson county joins in the national drive to raise funds for the fight against infantile paralysis.

A new foundation at Washington, D. C., has been established this year to carry on the fight from a central agency. From this agency, according to a recent bulletin, direct financial grants will be made to orthopedic centers for a specific program within the community which each serves.

The foundation also aims to establish district councils throughout the country consisting of local health officers and agencies. This system will somewhat resemble the Red Cross chapter plan, officials state. These councils will include not only those districts that have orthopedic hospitals but also territories where no specialized hospitals for infantile paralysis treatment exist.

In commenting upon the purpose of the ball Attorney Swisher said, "The dance is not in homage to the president. It is an effort to stamp out that dread malady. In no sense of the word is it a political affair; members of both parties are serving on committees in a common cause."

Frosh Party Freshmen to Develop Carnival Theme

The freshmen will do their share of the year's entertaining at the annual Freshman Party Feb. 4 at Iowa Union. Dick Jurgens and his orchestra will play for the dancers.

Going back to the days of hickory rules and slates, the decorations will consist of a large black slate behind the orchestra with chalky white letters reading "Freshman Party." A figure of a boy dressed in typical college clothes consisting of comfortable pants and sweater will be pictured drawing on the slate.

The carnival idea will be carried out with confetti, balloons and serpentine.

Dick Jurgens will introduce the celeste, a distinctive, piano-like instrument. Music is produced by striking keys which in turn actuate small chimes. Lou Quadrino, master of the piano, will play this new instrument.

The chaperons for the party include Mr. and Mrs. George L. Horner, Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Scheldrup, Prof. and Mrs. Ethel Allen, Prof. and Mrs. Paul Olson and Coach and Mrs. Rolland F. Williams.

Tickets for the Freshman Party will go on sale Monday at the Union desk.

SEATTLE (AP)—At circuses, audiences can see the performers from all sides, so why not the same idea for small theaters?

Seattle has it in the University of Washington Penthouse Theatre. And the house usually is sold out.

The country's first theater designed for staging plays in a central acting space, it has an equally successful sister-showhouse, the Studio. Another, the Showboat, is arising on nearby Lake Union.

Glenn Hughes, director of the university's division of drama, who started the theater in a private penthouse on a hotel here in 1932, has seen it outgrow its quarters twice, but he insists it must remain small. The present one seats 140.

Plays are limited to runs of six weeks, though Frances Farmer, the movie star, a department graduate, played 15 weeks in "Alien Corn." The run was stopped because the cast got "tired out," Hughes said.

Approximately one-half of the world's 36,000,000 telephones are in the United States.

He has only been in the United States four months, but so far he has not been amazed or too perplexed by anything he has found. "I must confess that the first day I landed in New York though, I felt a change. It began with my digestion and has affected everything else since," he said.

When he saw the crowded streets of New York and scores of policemen frantically trying to control traffic, he was a little frightened. The episode prompted him to say, "I think that the road and busy life of the big cities have blunted the manners of the American people."

Before he came to Iowa City, Mr. Yener studied at the University of Chicago, and also played with Weems' orchestra.

When he wrestled in Turkey, his teacher was Yapar, the famous 145-pound athlete who won the world championship in 1936 at the Berlin Olympic games.

Alaska Indians Find Paradise On an Island

METLAKATLA, Alaska (AP)—After 50 years, the Metlakatla Indians have found their happy hunting ground in a white man's world.

Their good luck has resulted from salmon fishing and the practical mindedness of an early-day missionary who led them out of the forests of British Columbia to settle on Annette Island, 14 miles south of Ketchikan.

Free from the influence of fur traders, whiskey dealers, soldiers and "bad" Indians, the colony thrived and Father Duncan, a sound business man, made them build a sawmill and till the soil. In 1891, the United States set the island aside as a permanent reserve.

As an Indian reserve, no liquor is permitted. There's only one motor car, a truck owned by the cannery. A town council of 12 members, all Indians, a mayor (now David Leask, who is also a school teacher), and a treasurer and city clerk are elected. For expenditures, like street work, ordinances are passed, requesting money from the account with the government.

And, no collections are taken at church, a fund takes care of that.

Library books in U.S. prisons have an average per capita circulation of 41.4 during the year. One third of the total circulation is in the non-fiction groups.

The average salary of workers in American industries in the fiscal year 1937 was $1,277, an increase of $207 over 1932.

Leave Lady Luck at home

She is a dangerous guide for your shopping tours, this fickle lady. Let her smile, and bargains may be yours. But let her frown—or even lose interest—and you are likely to pay more than you should, or bring home disappointing merchandise.

Thrifty shoppers long ago left this unreliable lady in the lurch. They now plan their shopping tours as carefully as a master navigator plots his course. Their weather maps and charts are news of sales and up-to-the-hour information on new merchandise and today's prices. Where do they get this money-saving information in advance? From a source at your own finger-tips this very minute!

Simply turn to the advertising pages of this paper. Settle down in your favorite chair, and look for the things you intend to buy on your next shopping-trip. You'll be surprised at the number of them advertised. Compare descriptions, compare prices, and you will find out exactly where to get the things you want at your prices.

So leave Lady Luck behind on your next shopping trip. Follow an ad-charted course instead, and enjoy safer shopping, with more and better merchandise for your money.

No Chilly Feet for Co-eds; Girls Keep Their Ankles Warm

This year's co-eds may resemble their 1920 sister in the length of their skirts but they are not following in her footsteps. Girls aspiring to the intellectual pursuits and social whirls of universities today believe in keeping warm. They rely on feminine sagacity rather than dainty ankles for their charm.

Cold feet may signify warm hearts to some people, but are a relic of the days of clinging vines as far as girls of the present age are concerned.

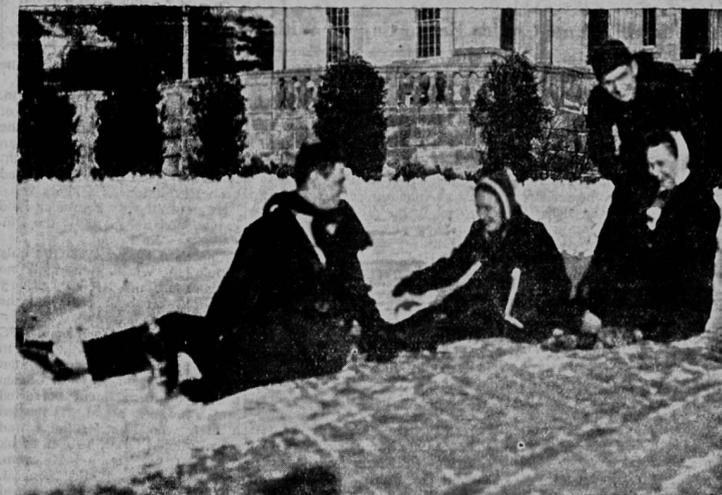

The first move toward making cozy feet the vogue came with the creation of galoshes which had style. Displacing the black cloth, flat-heeled overshoes that buckled came close-fitting new ones made of rubber. These shapely numbers had high heels as well as low and snapped snugly around each ankle. It was no longer smart to go flopping down the street with the lower of six or eight buckles fastened.

Last year made galoshes things of beauty as well as utility. They appeared first with a tiny fur cuff, then with a wide fur trim which not only warmed ankles but was wonderfully luxurious! Never still, they were made in pure white as well as the ordinary blacks and browns.

This year they are even more amusing — designed for those who wear short skirts. There are shoes with three snaps and others which merely slip on. Many zip, some have flaps which fasten securely in back. One model is of alligator-like rubber, lacing up the front. There is a smart pair seen on Iowa's campus which look like patent leather, although they really aren't.

Linings are light-weight net or warm fleece. Queen Mary of England promises to establish a popular fad with hers, which are transparent, revealing the

Cold Weather Brings Trouble But Ladies Learn Beauty Tips

Are you a snow maiden, perfectly adjusted to sub-zero weather? If so, you have been in your element these last few days. For the rest of us poor mortals whose noses get cherry red, whose faces blotch and whose eyes water from the cold, here are a few helpful hints.

First of all, hit your rouge pot a little harder these cold days. A good healthy color on your cheeks will do much to counteract or outshine the red on your nose.

If your eyes are affected by the glare of the snow, go easy on the mascara because lashes a few shades lighter are highly preferable to "black" eyes.

Incidentally, dark glasses on sunny mornings have sound sense behind them.

A good powder base will do much to disguise the blotching effects of the wind. To keep your face from weathering too badly, it is advisable to apply your favorite variety of cream and hand lotion liberally each and every night.

Legs can get pretty badly chapped too, at the point where goshes stop. A little of your hand lotion will keep your legs presentable under sheer hose.

Chapped lips are a bane of existence when the wintry winds whip costume and take the day off for one of those things you've always wanted to do but never had time for. Gone are the days of grandmother's sulphur and molasses—replaced by gloves of sulphur suede and suits of wool as golden brown as the molasses.

HOSTESS HINTS

You may eat your grapefruit "on the half shell," you may eat it broiled, baked or tucked into pies, cakes, salads and puddings. Whichever disguise you prefer, if you like things that are good and good for you, you will eat your grapefruit.

Tropical Upside-Down Cake
1-2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
2 large Florida grapefruits, sectioned
1-3 cup shortening
1-4 tsp. salt
1 egg
3-4 cup sugar
1-1-2 cups sifted cake flour
2 tps. baking powder
1-2 cup grapefruit juice.

Butter thickly an eight-by-eight-by-two-inch cake pan and cover the bottom with brown sugar and grapefruit sections. Cream shortening with salt. Add sugar gradually, then unbeaten egg, beating till light and fluffy. Sift together flour and baking powder.

Add alternately with grapefruit juice a little at a time, beating after each addition till smooth. Pour over mixture in pan and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 50 to 60 minutes. Serve with whipped cream. The recipe makes eight to 10 portions.

Florida Grapefruit Souffle
1 cup milk
1-2 cup grapefruit sections, sliced
3 tps. orange juice
1-2 cup sugar
4 egg yolks
4 egg whites
1-2 tps. vanilla
4 tps. flour
4 tps. butter
1 tps. lemon juice
Grated rind of 1-2 orange
With a sharp knife, cut a thick layer off top and bottom of grapefruit; peel around fruit deep enough to remove all white membrane; cut on either side of each dividing membrane and remove meat, segment by segment. Cut each segment into three pieces.

Make a white sauce of the flour; butter and milk. Pour over well-beaten egg yolks. Cool. Add rest of ingredients, except egg whites. Beat these stiff and add last, folding them in carefully. Turn into buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven (350 to 375 degrees F.) about one hour.

Wage Cuts Fall Short of Hopes As Spur to Housing in England

Without mentioning the English wage plan, President Roosevelt has said he believes lower hourly wages for workers in the building trades would stimulate housing by reducing building costs, and, at the same time, would give these workers a larger annual income by providing them with more work to do. Here is a report on how the English plan has worked out.

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
AP Feature Service Writer
LONDON — English construction workers had great hopes, 14 years ago, for a wage scheme that was to spur housing.

The idea was for them to accept a lower hourly wage and thus help reduce construction costs.

This theoretically would lead to more building, result in fewer layoffs and, hence, give them a higher annual income.

Labor took the cut in hourly wages — but, says Richard Coppock, general secretary of the national federation of building trade operatives, "lower wages were the only tangible results."

The pay cut, he maintains, had no part in producing a housing boom.

No Guarantee Given
Since 1921 a board of employers' and employers' representatives, called the national joint council for the building industry, has set the wage scale, raising and lowering it in accordance with the ministry of labor's cost of living index.

In 1924, the government — anxious to stabilize building conditions — got the council to cut from three to four cents an hour off the 41- to 45-cent hourly wage skilled building laborers were then earning.

"No guarantee of a higher annual wage" was given the laborer," says H. B. Bryant, council clerk, "because it would have been impossible to do this."

"It was assumed, however, that the casualization figures are not recorded, so nobody knows whether there were fewer layoffs or not."

Why did the British laborers accept this plan?
"Because," says Bryant, "the trade union chiefs on the council thought it was a wise thing to do."

The signed a lower wage agreement which also set up conciliatory machinery reducing the possibility of strikes. They felt justified in doing this, says Bryant, because strikes in pre-agreement days, not only slowed up building but also cost labor heavily in loss of wages.

While it was getting wages lowered, the government also was making a gentleman's agreement with building materials manufacturers not to raise costs "except for just cause."

The whole idea, says Bryant, was to stabilize construction costs — keep them from rising — so that the government and private builders could safely and efficiently launch a four- or five-year program.

That was in 1924. The boom did not come until 1932.

Several Other Factors
Experts insist these early negotiations laid the foundation for a boom. But they admit that it took several later factors — cheaper interest rates, government subsidies, outright gifts of money to building contractors — to bring it on.

Wages have fluctuated according to the cost of living since then. Skilled laborers now make from 39 to 42 cents an hour.

Since the armistice, 3,484,132 housing units have been built in England and Wales — 2,514,845 by private enterprise and the rest by local authorities with the assistance of the national government.

The boom gained momentum in April, 1933, when the government and local authorities teamed up on the five-year-plan to wipe out the slums. They thought the demolition of 280,000 houses and the erection of the equivalent in houses and flats would do it except in the worst-affected areas such as London.

Plan Twice Extended
But the program since has been enlarged twice so that now, in addition to the original 280,000, the replacement of 400,000 more is called for "in the next five years."

At the rate they are going, however, the authorities still will be working on the original 280,000 after the five-year deadline has passed this April. Latest figures show only 172,219 houses actually demolished and 163,274 new ones completed.

Rents by American standards, are ridiculously cheap thanks to government assistance — but none too cheap for a country where $10 to $15 a week is a good wage. In London, which has the highest rates in Britain, one-room apartments rent for from $1.04 to $1.68 a week; five rooms for from $3.27 to $5.64 a week.

The most striking feature of the British housing program is the cottage estates on the outskirts of the cities. Landscaped to the nth degree, they look more like smart residential developments in an American city than homes for poor British working men. Supplied with stores, community halls, etc., they are little towns in themselves.

A worker can get a five-room house in one of these sections for from $3.81 to $6.81 a week.

Another advantage the British workman enjoys is a special reduction on his transportation tickets no matter whether he lives close to or far from work.

King Zog May Wed Daughter Of American

TIRANA, Albania, Jan. 26 (AP) — The presence in Tirana of the beautiful Hungarian Countess Geraldine Apponyi, whose mother was an American, today gave currency to reports she would marry King Zog.

(In Budapest Countess George Palavicini, close friend of the countess, said an announcement of the engagement was expected in a few days.)

The 22-year-old countess is a daughter of the former Gladys Virginia Stewart of New York, who was married in Geneva July 29, 1914, to Count Julius Nagy-Apponyi, member of the old Hungarian families of Apponyi and Karolyi.

The countess recently resigned a job as an office girl in the Budapest National Museum at a salary of 220 pengoes (about $45) a month.

Woman Admits Injuries Faked For Insurance

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Jan. 26 (AP) — Two insurance adjusters testified today in federal court that after they had investigated claims filed by Mrs. Bertha Womack she admitted she had faked injuries in deliberate falls.

Harry S. Saunders said the short, heavy-set woman claimed a pencil on the floor of an elevator in the John Taylor department store in Kansas City caused her to fall, Sept. 28, 1935.

A roll of candy mints was blamed for her fall on a street car in Evansville, Ind., Nov. 2, 1935, E. S. Dillingham said.

These were among the 13 incidents described to a jury hearing testimony in the trial of Mrs. Womack and seven members of her family on charges of using the mails to defraud by faking claims for personal injuries.

Hoover Gave Reed His First U. S. Job

Roosevelt Court Choice Began Career With 'Compromise Victory'

WASHINGTON — Stanley Reed's eyes dance when he talks about his first case. He settles his long, slender figure in a brocade chair, toys with a copy of Charles Mason's new book on Brandeis, and remarks:

"It was a compromise victory." The case came up in 1909. Reed was a Mayville, Ky., boy who had come home after two years of graduate study at the University of Virginia, Columbia, and at the Sorbonne. His bride had gone with him.

Reed rented a ground floor room on "lawyers' row" and then, the court assigned, a case. "This was the problem," says Reed. "I was to defend a Negro woman who had tossed her baby off a bridge."

He did, and won the compromise: "She wasn't hung. She got life."

The First and Last.
That was his first and last criminal case. He had no taste for criminal law, and disliked the publicity that surrounds a criminal lawyer. He still doesn't like publicity.

He's been as much at the center of the New Deal as any man in Washington, but the day his appointment for the supreme court post came down little was known about him except his record since he had joined the farm board in 1929.

He had a gentle, slight girlish wife, Winifred, who, like him, was quietly popular. Their sons, Stanley and John, were Yale men who were studying law at Harvard. The Reeds lived in a small hotel apartment. But what else?

Into the Legislature.
This is what else. After two years in his first law office Reed was elected to the Kentucky legislature where

By SIGRID ARNE
AP Feature Service Writer

he wrote history because he was his father's son.

His father was Dr. John Reed, a beloved family physician who took as much interest in civic work as in his pills.

When young Reed arrived at the Kentucky assembly he tossed a child labor bill into the hopper. That was 1911, in Kentucky where children worked in cigar factories. The battle was so bitter that old friends snubbed Mrs. Reed when she walked to and from the capitol galleries to listen to her husband.

"But the Reeds kept their chins up. The law passed. Then Reed tossed in a workman's compensation law. Old friends begged Reed's father stop the young firebrand or he would "ruin his career." The father mentioned the gratuitous advice only after the law had been passed. Then it was a family joke.

Appointed by Hoover
After four years of law-making, Reed returned to private practice and that was the last time he ever ran for office — or went after a job.

Soon the elder Reed espoused the cause of the starving tenant tobacco farmers. Reed rode with his father from shack to shack and formed a tobacco co-operative, forcing up prices. Again their rich friends cancelled dinner invitations.

It was a labor of love, but it wasn't lost. In 1929 Reed had won a reputation for his co-operative work. President Hoover (the republican) named Reed (the young democrat) to the Federal Farm board as counsel.

The Reeds closed up their "log cabin," got an overseer for Reed's herd of Holstein cattle, and came to Washington.

That log cabin was an inn, built in 1796, on a hill south of town. From any place in the business district, the Reeds can look up and see it. They bought it because their ancestors had been Revolutionary soldiers who were paid off with Kentucky land grants, and helped build the inn.

'No Enemies'
There's a legend that "the only people in Washington with no enemies are the Reeds." They dine out on both sides of the fence.

Reed liked his work here. RFC borrowed him from the farm board because it needed a man who knew farm finance. Then the justice department borrowed him from RFC because it needed a man who knew finance and constitutional law. Reed took over the gold cases. He won, and was made solicitor general.

On his new desk were dumped the government's constitutional trouble. He fought interminably before the bench to which he now has been named: through AAA, NRA, the Bankhead cotton act, the PWA and recent tax cases, the Wagner act. Each time Mrs. Reed, in her dark hat and coat, has been sitting on the "wives' bench."

Reed is a tall man, slightly bald, with live brown eyes behind his rimless glasses. He's never ill, and he goes to sleep as soon as he hits the pillow. Mr. and Mrs. Reed both are good conversationalists in groups that like chat about social trends, the newest book, the international tangle — and Holstein cattle.

Reed keeps that herd in luxury. He explains, grinning: "I've been a hard-working lawyer all my life to keep them in the style they're accustomed to."

'Tiger Gort, New British Army Chief, Works Like A Foundry In Full Blast'

By The AP Feature Service

LONDON — A tiger has come to help the British lion guard its empire.

His name is John Standish Surtees Prendergast Vereker, better known as Tiger Gort. He's a general, a viscount (Viscount Gort), and new chief of the imperial general staff.

Lord Gort, whose dynamic energy won him his sobriquet, is a handy man to have in command of the British army when crises are popping in the Far East. He knows the Orient.

Shanghai Defense Chief
In 1927 he commanded the Shanghai defense force and from 1932 to 1936 he was director of military training in India. While in Shanghai, he braved the fire of a Chinese bandit horde to help rescue a party of nuns.

He had built a reputation for courage, however, long before he went to the east.

There was that time in the World War, for instance, when he was leading an attack of the Grenadier Guards across the Canal du Nord. Although severely wounded twice, he got up from a stretcher and staggered on until he had won and consolidated his objective, collapsing only after he saw the success signal go up. More than 200 prisoners, two batteries of field guns and many machine guns were captured.

Tiger Gort got the Victoria Cross for that, that's the top decoration of a string awarded to him in 32 years of soldiering. Before the World War ended, Gort had been mentioned nine times in dispatches and had won two bars of his distinguished service order.

In The Army At 19
He was only 19 when he joined the Grenadier Guards, in 1905, after having studied at Harrow, and at Sandhurst, the English West Point. He is only 51 now. That's one reason the secretary of state for war, young Leslie Hore-Belisha, made him a general and put him into the high command formerly held by a 63-year-old. Other gray-beards made way for youth in the same shakeup, called the Belisha purge, which reduced the average age of the army council from 63 to 52.

Now Hore-Belisha and his new No. 1 officer reportedly are planning more shots in the arm for their fighting machine. The new policy, of advancing men purely on merit rather than seniority, is expected to be carried down the line. (The new chief of staff was advanced over the heads of 30 higher-ranking officers.) Another contemplated move is an increase in officers' salaries to make an army career attractive to men who don't have private means. (Lord Gort, who has a private fortune, is thought to earn about $22,625 in his new job.)

Lord Gort has a reputation for working "like a foundry in full blast." He is of a slender build — which gave rise to another nickname, "fat." He is partially bald and wears a close-clipped mustache. Despite his bounding energy, he is a quiet, retiring man who converses in a medium tone. People who know him say he is a good listener, but that he has the faculty of swaying to his views the person doing the most talking.

Iowa Farmers Continue Co-op

By The AP Feature Service

DES MOINES, Jan. 26 (AP) — An Iowa cooperative grain company official said here today marketing of grain through his organization, a member of the Farmers National Grain corporation will continue without interruption.

M. K. Frey of Eagle Grove, president of the company, made the announcement late today at the annual meeting of his organization held in conjunction with the Iowa Farmers Grain Dealers association convention here.

Marriage Ended; Remain Partners

RENO, Nev., Jan. 26 (AP) — The Ely Culbertsons, who formed a business partnership to win fortune and fame from contract bridge, were divorced today but they planned to continue working together in the field of their favorite game.

Mrs. Culbertson, the former Josephine Murphy, obtained a final decree on grounds of mental cruelty. She said her business partnership with Culbertson would not be affected.

"We are still very friendly," she insisted, "and we expect to continue to work together."

Mrs. Culbertson, who had been suffering from a mild throat ailment during her stay here, appeared visibly nervous as she left the court room.

Immediately after the brief trial she returned to her hotel, accompanied by her attorney.

of the old-timers, emphasized his pleasure at Lord Gort's promotion with this statement:

"Thank goodness we are now under command of a proper soldier and we shall not be shot sitting."

Kansas City Firm Petitions For New Trial in City Suit

Claims that City Failed To Keep Contract Obligation

Judge Harold D. Evans heard a petition for a new trial in the Burns and McDonnell $11,534 damage suit against the city yesterday morning. Attorneys D. C. Nolan and Kenneth M. Dunlop, counsel for the engineering firm of Kansas City, Mo., maintain that the evidence given was not sufficient to warrant a verdict in the city's favor Dec. 17, 1937. Judge Evans expects to decide on the hearing before Saturday. During the trial, witnesses for Burns and McDonnell said that a contract for plans and specifications for the proposed municipal light plant was entered into by the city May 3, 1935. Preliminary plans were presented to the city shortly after the alleged contract was drawn up, company officials testified. They maintain that the city failed to carry out the obligation of contract when the plan for a plant was abolished and the alleged fee withheld. The proposed municipal light plant was abandoned Aug. 6, by the CNP (Citizens' Non-Partisan) city council, which defeated the MOL (Municipal Ownership league) candidates in the spring election last year. Attorney Will J. Hayek and City Attorney Robert Larson, who represented the city at the December trial, were at yesterday's hearing.

Marlas Plans New Structure On Fire Site

A two-story brick building will replace the frame structure at Clinton and College streets gutted by a $15,000 fire Tuesday night, Tony L. Marlas announced yesterday. Marlas and his brother, George Marlas of Des Moines, owners of the building occupied by the Goodyear service store and Breneman seed store, plan to tear it down as soon as the insurance adjusters have made their inspection. The proposed building will have store rooms on the street level and offices on the second floor, Marlas said. George Zalesky, manager of the Goodyear store, said his company will reopen its store in a new location soon. The stock was removed yesterday afternoon to 226 S. Clinton street. Fire Chief James J. Clark yesterday said he believed the fire was caused by an overheated furnace. The flames burned through the floor directly above the furnace.

Will Hold Rites For Mrs. Kriel, 93, Tomorrow

Funeral service for Mrs. Mary Shimon Kriel, 93, Johnson County resident, will be at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow in St. Wenceslaus church and burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery. Mrs. Kriel, a Johnson county resident for 56 years, died at 1:45 a. m. yesterday, in the home of her son, Joseph Shimon, 928 E. Daventport street. She is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Anna Lang, Mrs. J. W. Bolton, Mrs. William Bright, Mrs. E. J. Mott and Mrs. James Wanek, all of Iowa City; and two sons, Joseph F. Shimon of Iowa City and Charles J. Shimon of Solon. The body will be at the Hohen-schuh mortuary until the funeral.

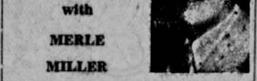

Schoolhouse Fund To Get Over 2 Mill Levy for 19 Years

The schoolhouse fund tax levy during the next 19 years is expected to be slightly more than two mills on each dollar of assessed valuation, according to yesterday's action by the city school board. The board certified to County Auditor Ed Sulek that $26,980 will be levied each year to cover the cost of the $398,000 Iowa City high school bond issue. A one mill levy will raise approximately $12,000, according to a recent estimate by the board. The last of the fund's outstanding bonds were paid off last year.

Board Names Secretary

Harriett K. Off, A4 of North English, was appointed secretary to Supt. Iver A. Opstad by the city school board yesterday. She will succeed Ann Smith, who resigned. Miss Off, a member of Mortar Board last year, will graduate from the university Tuesday night. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

AROUND THE TOWN

All You Can Get Whenever I hear someone say—as occasionally happens—"You've got all you can out of college," it gives me a merry ha-ha with large "h's"—principally, I suppose, because I have got almost everything I could out of college—except an education. . . And I'm not alone. . .

Like Heywood Brown, I wish now I'd studied harder. . . My own curriculum was based upon the typical undergraduate method of avoiding courses that came before 11 or were across the river or out of the way. . . And I'm not alone. . .

There are, in the university, as in life, I imagine, some few men who require close concentration and avid note-taking, even occasional original and creative thinking. . . These I avoided. . . I preferred—with the football players, the beauty queens, the "smoothies" and the other journalists—the over-crowded courses where an amiable chap—probably nearly as hollow as his students—rambled indiscriminately and easily about his subject. . .

Grades I termed unimportant—as they are. . . But I wish I could have talked with the courage of a 3.9 to back up my arguments. . .

Science I've avoided like the plague; I disliked the routine of laboratories. . . So, when, the important events that are changing the world these days are headlined—along with the important governmental trends—I'm baffled. . .

Of course, I have an impressive list of activities—everything from Frivol staff to Iowa Union board—and when I return I'll get a B.A.—the military department and the physical educationists willing. . . And I'll have a sheepskin, no doubt. . . That will be nice for hanging on my walls. . . And then I'll have my memories—and maybe a $25-a-week job. . . I'm typical that way. . .

If Jimmy Braddock can come back, comments a scout, what's the matter with business?

I like Ed Wynn's crack from "Hooray for What"—"Marriage is like a bath; it's not so hot after you get used to it."

It's an exciting article about legalizing killing that headlines the February Reader's Digest. . .

And this week I've been perusing Carl Van Vechten's "Peter Whiffle"—as depressing a book as I know for those of us who intend to write—and can't seem to find the time. . . Whiffle never did. . .

Beauty is found in such peculiar places—last night's clear-brightness was the finest I've seen. . .

Result . . . And, in closing, Missouri has just outlawed hanging. . . Not, I think, because of Monday's column—which nearly achieved immortality when two bulwarkish fans came to near blows over its merits.

Masonic Lodge 4 To Meet Tonight

The degree of entered apprentice will be exemplified at a meeting of Masonic lodge 4, A.F. and A.M., at 7:30 tonight in the Masonic temple. Dr. Ray V. Smith, worshipful master, will preside.

Building Owners To Confer With Smoke Group

Twenty-two owners of buildings will confer with the city smoke abatement commission in the city hall council chambers at 5 p. m. tomorrow.

The owners and their furnace-men have been requested to attend a discussion of the correct methods of firing furnaces. It is part of a campaign against excessive smoke. Prof. H. O. Croft, commission member, and Mayor Myron J. Walker, will discuss the problem. Two more meetings will be held later.

Temperature At 2 Below

Mercury Sinks To Near-Record—Gale Continues to Blow

Gusty 30-mile-an-hour winds dropped the mercury to two degrees below zero, only one degree above the year's coldest mark, at 8 a. m. yesterday, hydraulics laboratory weathermen reported. The mercury was zero or below between 2 and 10 a. m. before the gale subsided and temperatures rose slowly to 11 degrees above zero between 2 and 5 p. m. The high mark was 18 degrees below normal.

The United Air lines schedule, disrupted Monday by high winds, was resumed yesterday as east and westbound planes landed here. Road conditions were described as "improved" last night, but motorists were urged to drive carefully.

The year's lowest reading was three degrees below zero on Jan. 8 and 10. The lowest 1937 temperature here was four degrees below zero Feb. 8.

Nelson Announces New Campaign By Iowa Meat Trade

DES MOINES, Jan. 26 (AP)—H. J. Nelson, Iowa packing company president, announced here tonight the entire meat trade of Iowa has launched a campaign to arouse interest in meat consumption and consequently to increase the demand for livestock.

Nelson said current meat prices are substantially below peak levels of last fall. Quality has improved greatly and meat production is definitely expanding.

"This campaign, which is a part of the national mobilization of effort undertaken by the Institute of American Meat Packers, has been undertaken primarily to aid the livestock producer who at current livestock prices is facing severe losses in many cases," the packer stated.

"Some cattle feeders, for example, are sustaining losses estimated as high as $40 a head. Lamb feeders are not receiving cost of production, and hog prices have declined drastically since last September."

"The consumer has available now a plentiful supply of quality meat at attractive prices and the meat trade has undertaken to acquaint the public with the situation."

Lodge to Hold Last Rites For Former Member

Funeral service for Mrs. Hattie Brandstatter, 59, 219 Capitol street, will be Saturday at 2 p. m. in Beckman's. The Carnation Rebekah lodge will officiate.

Mrs. Brandstatter died yesterday morning in her home after a lingering illness.

Born in Oxford, she spent most of her life in Iowa City. She was affiliated with the Carnation Rebekah lodge, the Lady Militants and Theta Rho sorority.

Bauer Will Preside At K. of C. Meeting

The Knights of Columbus will meet tonight in regular session at 8 o'clock in the K.C. hall. Dr. Fred T. Bauer, grand knight, will preside.

5% Penalty on Late Car Registrations After February 1

Motorists registering their cars after Feb. 1 must pay a five percent penalty for each delinquent month, County Treasurer W. E. Smith announced yesterday.

Last year nearly 6,300 cars had been licensed by Feb. 1, but only 5,063 passenger cars had been registered yesterday with the penalty date only five days distant.

The cold weather is believed to have hindered car registration by farmers. Six hundred and eighty trucks have been licensed during 1938.

'Decline Ends' Avows Federal Reserve Board

Production Remains At Same Level In January

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The federal reserve board said tonight the decline in industrial production which began last fall halted in January.

"Industrial output declined in December, but showed little change in the first three weeks in January," the board said in its monthly review of business conditions.

The board also announced that its index of industrial production declined from 89 in November to 84 in December, factory employment from 94.1 to 89.0 and factory payrolls from 89.5 to 86.9.

Both the labor and commerce departments said a few wage rate cuts have been reported to date, indicating the drop in payrolls was due primarily to reduced hours of employment.

Foreign trade was shown to be an especially bright spot in the business picture. The commerce department said exports made their best showing in the same final months of 1937 that marked the severe declines in domestic production.

New records since the spring of 1929 were set in December for exports of industrial machinery and automobiles, while grain shipments increased.

These increases helped the United States improve its position as the world's leading exporter. This country shipped goods worth $3,345,658,000 to the rest of the world last year and bought $3,084,061,000 in foreign merchandise. This $261,597,000 excess of exports over imports was one of the largest in recent years and was about eight times as large as the previous year.

The export total was $889,680,000 more than the previous year and the import figure was $661,469,000 ahead.

Ernest A. Tupper, foreign trade expert of the department, attributed most of the increased American exports of foreign demand for rearmament materials, better foreign markets as a result of reciprocal trade agreements, and improved crops in this country.

Fire Damages Brown Residence

Firemen fought an under-roof blaze at J. S. Brown's residence, 404 S. Governor street, between 9 and 10:45 p. m. yesterday. Its cause was undetermined. Damage was confined to the room's contents.

Merchant Lives In Costly Tomb

By The AP Feature Service CAIRO, Egypt — A parlor, bedrooms and bath, with all the modern conveniences, in Cairo's "city of the dead," is Okashi Zaki's tomb—and he's living in it.

The 52-year-old merchant built the tomb at a cost of $150,000. It is located in the Mokattum hills, where a large area is devoted to mausoleums.

Zaki has combined all the conveniences of a modern dwelling with plans for burial according to ancient ideas. In addition to a reception and sleeping rooms, there's a kitchen, running water, electricity, a telephone, a radio, and he travels to and from his "cemetery residence" in a modern American car.

The crypt, in which his body eventually will be placed, is underground, at the foot of a stair that leads down from a courtyard. Okashi Zaki never enters that, however. He built the tomb, he says, because, "A man should plan his whole life, including preparations for his death."

$446.50 Damage Suit Filed Against Draker

A $446.50 damage suit to recover the value of a mortgage issued to secure a promissory note was filed against Charles Draker by Philip P. Crowley in the county clerk's office yesterday.

Moose Confer Lodge Honors On Local Man

Leo E. Kohl, secretary of the Iowa City Moose lodge and vice-president of the State Moose association, was honored at the bi-weekly meeting last night. More than 150 members were present at the meeting.

Kohl was presented with a gold past dictator's medal by Regional Director J. Willis Pierson of Moosehart, Ill., as a gift from the members of the local lodge. Kohl has been a member for the past 24 years, and for 22 years has held a lodge office.

Emmet Pines, secretary of the Des Moines lodge, Dictator E. W. Ruby and Kohl also spoke.

Twenty-eight new and reinstated members were initiated, one of the largest classes ever to join the local lodge.

Pastor-Emeritus Of Swedish Church To Speak at Coralville

The Rev. Fritz Peterson, pastor-emeritus of a church in Stockholm, Sweden, will speak at special services of the Coralville Gospel church tonight and tomorrow night at 7:45.

He will speak before the women's prayer group tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in the home of Mrs. M. E. Nelson, 10 Highland drive.

Since retiring from his pastorate three years ago, the Rev. Mr. Peterson has traveled around the world visiting missionary stations of various denominations. He will relate his impressions of some in China, Japan, India, Africa and on several islands of the Pacific ocean.

4 Members of Class of '91 Will Attend Dinner for Harris

Four members of the class of '91, students in the college of law when Attorney Paul P. Harris was an Iowa student, will attend the dinner in his honor at 6:30 tonight in Iowa Union.

One of them, Judge Benjamin C. Hilliard of Denver, Col., will appear on the program. The other three, Jesse Miller of Des Moines, William C. Springer of Bella Plaine and John Tuthill of Waterloo, will be introduced by Dean Wiley B. Rutledge of the college of law, who will conduct the program following tonight's dinner.

Walter A. Jessup, president-emeritus of the university, will be a guest at the dinner.

Five past district governors of Rotary International will be in attendance. They are Roy Louden of Fairfield, Pearl K. McMal of Indianola, Clyde Hulsiger of Des Moines, Charles Rhinehart of Dallas Center and Albert C. Fuller of Cedar Falls.

Group singing at tonight's dinner will be led by Donald R. Mallett, director of the university housing service.

More than 1,600 personal invitations have been extended to members of Rotary clubs from 32 surrounding cities and towns. Clubs from three Illinois cities will send representatives.

The dinner honoring Attorney Harris, founder of the international organization of Rotary clubs, will take the place of the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the local club.

Members of the arrangements committee are Roland Smith, Harold Hands, Dean Francis M. Dawson, Roscoe Taylor, Attorney Dan Dutcher and Chairman J. J. Swaner.

Squad A Defeats West Branch Team

Squad A of the senior league basketball league at the Recreation center beat the West Branch Independents, 55 to 40 last night in the center gym.

Melvin Grezill of Iowa City scored 20 points of Larson and Letolicky of West Branch scored 10 points each. Bob King of the center played an excellent floor game.

SEA SECRETS Scientist Uses New Gun For Exploration

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH AP Science Writer WASHINGTON — The three-quarters of the earth's surface—the oceanic area—which never has been explored is beginning to give up its secrets.

Dr. Charles S. Piggot of the Carnegie Institution of Washington is the first to carry out a successful study of the bottom of the oceans. He is learning new facts about the history of the earth from sediments deposited through thousands of centuries.

Like many explorers in other fields, he uses a gun. But his is a special type which drives a tube deep into the ocean floor to bite out a sample of the accumulated mud of a million years.

Already it has produced new knowledge of the North Atlantic ocean floor and the continental shelf off eastern United States.

The samples, studied in the laboratory, have revealed that four great glacial periods, such as that of the last ice age, have occurred on earth and that twice in the last few million years the earth must have seemed to be blowing itself to pieces in tremendous volcanic eruptions.

King Philip's war in 1675-76 was the most serious of the early uprisings of Indians against foreign invaders of North America.

Parliament voted $100,000,000 to the slave-owners when slavery was abolished throughout the British empire in 1833.

Exile Observes Birthday Today

Reconciliation Looks For British Royalty

DOORN, The Netherlands, Jan. 26 (AP) — Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany will observe his 79th birthday tomorrow happy in the belief there now is a complete reconciliation between the royal houses of Windsor and Hohenzollern for the first time since the World war.

A telegram from King George VI, Queen Mother Mary and Queen Elizabeth which was signed "Bertie, May and Elizabeth" supplied the grounds for his belief.

("Bertie" and "May" are family names for King George and his mother.)

It has taken a number of years to efface the estrangement between the two houses but the ex-kaiser believed the British king, his mother and his wife had accomplished reconciliation by their message.

The telegram conveyed their felicitations upon the announcement Dec. 28 of the engagement of Wilhelm's favorite grandson, Prince Louis Ferdinand, and Princess Kira of Russia.

Members of the Hohenzollern house have been received at the British court on several occasions since the war.

During the silver jubilee of the late George V and Queen Mary, former Crown Prince Wilhelm and his wife sent a message of congratulations which was answered the same day by George and "May."

Until December, however, there had been no sign of reconciliation with the ex-kaiser himself. Now the cycle was believed to have been completed.

The Ohio river flood of last year affected 243 counties in 10 states and left 648,000 persons homeless.

The navy department library contains 84,240 books and documents.
