Britain Strikes Swift Blow At Piracy Threat

Spanish Charge Italians With Responsibility For Outbreak

LONDON, Feb. 1 (AP)—Great Britain struck swiftly today with naval reinforcements to crush a threatened new outbreak of Mediterranean "piracy" for which the Spanish government charged Italy was responsible.

Four destroyers armed with depth charges hunted the submarine which torpedoed and sank the British merchantman Endymion Sunday off Spain's southeast coast. Four others steamed eastward from Gibraltar.

A Spanish government note handed the foreign office charged Italy had given the Spanish insurgents four destroyers and two submarines "in patent violation of international pledges."

"It Must Be Clear"
A communique issued by the Spanish embassy in particular contended "it must be clear to the whole world" the Endymion's attacker was Italian. It denied the insurgents had any submarines of their own.

(In Rome, officials of the Spanish government charge that the insurgents had six Italian warships, which "were not addressed to us and hence we have no reply to make." The destroyers named as having been given to the insurgents were reported in Italian ports a month ago.)

Pablo de Azcarate y Flores, Spanish government ambassador, said in the note presented the foreign office:

Aquila and Falco

"The Italian government has given the Spanish insurgents the destroyers Aquila and Falco which now sail under the Spanish monarchists' flag with the names of Velasco-Ceuta and Velasco-Melilla.

"Under identical conditions the rebels (insurgents) have received the destroyers Aliesandro Poirio and Guglielmo Pepe.

"Also, two Italian submarines have been assigned to the rebel naval base at Soler, Mallorca. They have rebel flags and crews and are named Mola and Sanjurjo."

Business Men Ready to Meet At Washington

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (AP)—Hundreds of men who draw their livelihoods from such "little businesses" as laundries, bakeries, brickyards, retail establishments and small factories gathered in Washington tonight, ready to tell the government what they think it should do about the business recession.

At the invitation of Secretary Roper, they will convene in town meeting fashion tomorrow for a discussion of mutual problems.

As the culmination of their two-day session, a selected committee will carry their conclusions to the White House on Thursday and present them to President Roosevelt.

To judge from the letters they had previously written to the president and to the commerce department, their first concern was the ever-present problem of little business — how to get capital or credit, for expansion, on a long term basis.

Mr. Roosevelt promised today early consideration of this problem, saying at his press conference that government study of the question would be reopened. Officials already have examined the possibility of government aid, but have reached no conclusions.

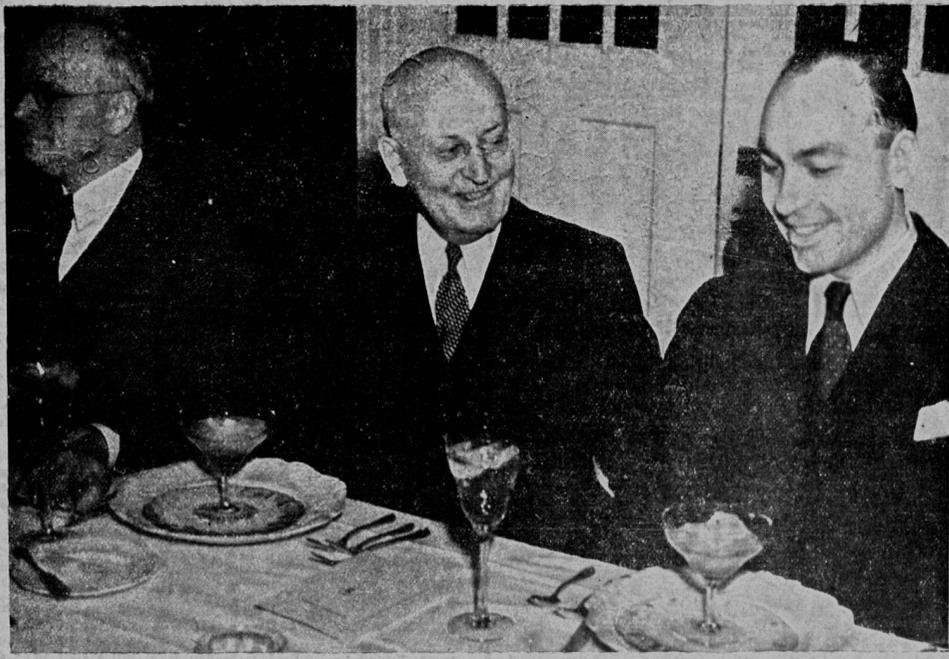

The president also told the reporters that a White House conference would be held on ways to help the railroads. He said Walter M. W. Splawn, chairman of the interstate commerce commission, had suggested the meeting and was arranging for railroad officials and others to attend. No date has been set.

Dick Powell Happy: He's a Father Now

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1 (AP)—Singing Dick Powell of the movies became a father today.

University Alumnus Returns to Alma Mater

At the February convocation 15 years ago, Dr. George H. Gallup received a B.A. degree. Last night he was the principal speaker at another mid-year convocation, the largest in the University of Iowa's history. He is shown here with Prof. Bartholomew V. Crawford of the English department and President Eugene

A. Gilmore, left to right, at the traditional graduates' dinner preceding the formal exercise in Iowa Union last night. Now the director of the American Insti-

Cause and Effect Scrambled in Myth

Museum of Natural History Puts Little Weight on Groundhog Story

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—The American Museum of Natural History, which doubts the myth about the groundhog as a weather forecaster, has yielded a bit to the old tradition.

But it seems those who do believe the legend have their causes and effects scrambled.

In the first place, the museum has a groundhog exhibit all this week, three full grown woodchucks and several young ones, casting shadows all around.

Secondly, George C. Goodwin, assistant curator of mammals, admits the groundhog story has at least partial foundation in fact — or the law of probability.

"It stands to reason," he said on the eve of the great emergence from hibernation, "that if the day is clear at this season, it is also likely to be cold and frosty; and if it is cold and frosty the snow is likely to endure. On the other hand, if the groundhog was not able to see his shadow, the intervening clouds seem to suggest the fact that rain is shortly due, and that the snows will be washed away, the ground will be bare and that an early spring is on the way."

From there on you can write your own weather ticket, for Mr. Goodwin add "... it is absolutely immaterial whether he has seen his shadow or not."

The museum's Hayden planetarium has had news for people who look over their left shoulders at the new moon and make wishes. This is a wishless February because there won't be any new moon — first time since 1918.

Degrees Given 171 Graduates

Distinguished Alumnus Says Public Mind Rules World

By MILDRED HOLLY

Daily Iowan Campus Editor

"What people think puts governments in and out of office, starts and stops war, sets the tone of fashion and morality," because public opinion is a major force in society today, Dr. George H. Gallup, distinguished Iowa alumnus, declared at the mid-year convocation last night.

Dr. Gallup, who was granted a B.A. degree at the university's February convocation 15 years ago and who has since become director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, was the principal speaker at the largest mid-year graduating exercise in the University of Iowa's history.

171 Degrees Granted
A total of 171 degrees and 10 certificates were awarded by President Eugene A. Gilmore, surpassing the previous record set in 1931 when 138 degrees were presented.

Of the group 58 were bachelor of arts degrees, 13 bachelor of science in commerce, 37 master of arts, 23 master of science and 15 doctor of philosophy degrees. The degree - candidates represented 20 states, and Alaska and China.

Dr. Gallup traced the three-year history of the institute in sampling referenda. "Developed in the newspaper world, these researches have become an accepted technique of reporting. . . Newspapers are today reporting not only what men do, but increasingly, what men think," he asserted.

In making the great mass of voters articulate, our leaders in the field of government and politics are able to follow the mandate of the group, he said. "It is only by means of sampling referenda that programs can be separated from personalities and the mandates of the leaders defined," he asserted.

Especially significant, according to the public opinion expert, is the great interest in the campaign against syphilis and venereal diseases.

"For many years in this country the word 'syphilis' has been taboo. Venereal disease has been regarded as a badge of shame, and victims of this ailment have either concealed their infection, or gone to the other end of town to be doctored by third-rate practitioners. With possibly 10 per cent of the American people afflicted, venereal disease is in fact a great national menace," he pointed out.

Tailors Cast a Practiced Eye

No Man Is a Hero to a Tailor's Society, But 10 Meet With Approval

CHICAGO, Feb. 1 (AP)—Tailors of the nation cast a practiced eye over some of America's celebrities today and measured up 10 men, including President Roosevelt, for sartorial honors.

The president took top ranking among wearers of double-breasted dinner jackets.

Clark Gable, the actor, won the nod for appearing best dressed in sports clothes. "Men and women both think so," said the National conference of the Merchant Tailor Designers association, meeting here with 600 delegates present from all parts of the United States and Canada.

No one man was named the "best dressed." Honors were lad-led out in several classifications. Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago was chosen the best dressed mayor. "He succeeds former Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York," said a spokesman, "and he wears his double-breasted suits much better than does Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York."

Jack Benny, screen and radio comedian, was chosen "not as the best dressed, but the neatest."

L. Montefiore Stein of New York was placed first for the excellence of his business clothes.

Frank Gordon McGoogh of Milwaukee, reported by the tailors to own 75 sack suits, was honored for superlative country club appearance.

Hope Measure Will Stimulate Building Boom

Southern and Western Demos Included In Opposition

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (AP)—Administration leaders, beating off a senate rebellion by the close vote of 42 to 40, passed along to President Roosevelt today the bill designed to stimulate a vast home building boom.

Mr. Roosevelt is expected to sign the bill quickly. Its sponsors said much activity in building, slowest paced of the major industries, will result.

Over-ride Criticism

Over-riding the strident criticism of a bloc that included southern and western democrats, as well as republicans, the administration men succeeded in keeping out of the bill the "prevailing wage" amendment sponsored by Senator Lodge (R-Mass.).

This amendment would have forced the payment of prevailing wages on housing projects insured by the federal housing administration. Its backers said that without it, the housing bill would depress wages in the building trades. Opponents declared the amendment would wreck the bill, and by leading to wage-fixing in other fields, would carry the country toward "fascism."

Makes Home Buying Painless

First major legislation of either the special or regular sessions to be sent to the White House, the bill is intended to make home buying painless by reducing down payments and financing charges.

Through amendments to the existing F. H. A. law, down payments on homes costing $6,000 or less will be cut to 10 per cent, and the remainder can be paid out over 25 years. The F. H. A. will insure mortgages covering 90 per cent of the cost for a premium of one fourth of one per cent of the diminishing balance. Interest charges will be five per cent, plus the insurance premium.

Iowa Political Leaders Study Possibilities of Fall Election

Kraschel Says He Will Enter Primary Election

DES MOINES, Feb. 1 (AP)—Political leaders in both major Iowa parties tonight studied Governor Nelson G. Kraschel's candidacy for reelection for its effect on both the democratic senatorial primary and the general election next fall.

The governor today declared himself for a second term in the statehouse, subject to the will of the voters in the June primaries and at the November polls.

Already in the field on the republican side of the fence is George A. Wilson, Des Moines attorney and Kraschel's near-nemesis in the 1936 election. Kraschel beat Wilson by only 2,431 votes but he polled the second highest vote ever cast for governor in edging out his victory over the G. O. P. entrant.

Both Kraschel and Wilson are the first candidates in their parties to file candidacies for the gubernatorial nominations.

Meanwhile, observers wondered how much Kraschel intended to carry the ball for Senator Guy M. Gillette in his candidacy statements today. The governor had been widely mentioned as a possible foe of the senator in the June primaries.

"A lot of 'whoop-it-up' democrats thought Gillette ought to be turned out because he did not support the court proposal and may have blundered once or twice," Kraschel said today. "I have never lent myself to that program. I am a warm personal friend of Guy Gillette. He is a fine man. When I am dealing in politics, it is with policies and not personalities."

Gillette, who fought President Roosevelt's court reform plan from the first, is a candidate for renomination. Thus far, Mrs. Ellsworth Richardson of Eddyville, former leader of women's activities in the Iowa farm bureau, is his only primary opponent.

Japan's Army Nears Suchow

SHANGHAI, Feb. 2 (Wednesday) (AP)—Japanese forces northwest of Nanking moved forward today toward Suchow, strategic rail junction, after being held at a standstill for nearly a month by stubborn Chinese resistance.

A Japanese army spokesman said the Japanese had occupied Linhwaiwan on the Tientsin-Pukow railway and were now about 100 miles from Suchow and within striking distance of Pengpu, next major objective in their northward drive.

This report was borne out partially by a Chinese announcement that they had given ground on this front after several days of fighting at close range. The Chinese reported "a strategic withdrawal" to the west bank of a river at Mingkwang, 25 miles southeast of Linhwaiwan.

ISOLATED ON ICE

Storm Hinders Science At North Pole

MOSCOW, Feb. 1 (AP)—Four Russian scientists radioed today that a violent six-day storm had split the ice floe on which their North Pole weather observation camp has drifted for eight months.

Immediately the Soviet northern sea department rushed preparations to rescue the scientific party, mobilizing five planes and three ships.

Commander Ivan Paninin, in charge of the scientists, reported the storm had broken their floe from the main ice field, leaving the camp on a block 1,000 feet long and 650 feet wide, too small for rescue planes to land on.

Fissures developed under their snow covered duraluminum living hut, Paninin said, and two reserve food bases and a storehouse containing technical equipment were cut off.

Agrarian Fight In Mexico Kills Ten, Wounds 4

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 1 (AP)—Four men were killed and 10 wounded today in an Agrarian conflict at Encarnacion de Diaz, state of Jalisco, while authorities were investigating disorders in which four others were killed near Matamoros.

The cutting of telegraph wires and an attempt to burn a bridge on the Monterey-Tampico railway were investigated by Governor Marte R. Gomez of the state of Tamaulipas to determine whether they were connected with the slayings in his state.

A freight train crew found one end of a small wooden bridge afire. The blaze was extinguished quickly.

Governor Gomez blamed the outlawed "goldshirts," an anti-Cardenas faction with fascist tendencies named after Pancho Villa's notorious band of raiders—the "dorados" or golden ones, for trying to make the American people think there is unrest in Mexico.

General Nicolas Rodriguez, exiled by President Lazaro Cardenas in 1936 because of his anti-government agitation, heads the goldshirts. He has been active among Mexican elements along the border, principally at Laredo and other Texas points, since he was chased from Mexico.

Governor Gomez said he expected the Tamaulipas situation to be under control in a few days, while authorities in Mexico City were inclined to regard the disorders as of minor importance and purely local.

C.I.O. Rebuffed In Jersey City

JERSEY CITY, N. J. Feb. 1 (AP)—The first physical test of the battle of statements and court proceedings waged since December between Jersey City officials and the Committee for Industrial Organization came today when the C. I. O. attempted to pass out handbills on a public street.

Mayor Frank Hague, who declared leaders of C. I. O. and American Civil Liberties union were "communistic" and would not be permitted in Jersey City during his regime, was vacationing in Florida.

In less than an hour the attempt to pass out circulars to employes reporting for work at the American Home Products corporation, cosmetics manufacturers, where the C. I. O. is conducting a unionization drive, was abandoned.

Dimond Suggests Airplanes, Bombers Be Sent to Alaska

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (AP)—A congressman's suggestion that airplanes and bombers be used to rid Alaskan waters of Japanese fishing boats went into the records of a house committee today.

The committee was holding hearings on a bill by Anthony J. Dimond, Alaskan delegate to congress, designed to protect the territory's salmon fisheries against what he called Japanese "encroachments."

"If we keep on the way we are going," Dimond testified, "we are drifting straight into armed conflict in the Bering sea."

Wanted—171 Jobs

"WANTED—a job." That is the commonplace but none the less vital need of each of the 171 young men and women who received degrees last night. A few have already been placed, either through their own efforts or through university agencies. This morning many of the others will begin the discouraging task of hunting employment.

On the surface prospects are not bright. The nation is still in the grip of a business recession. Trade is sluggish. Iowans feel the pinch of low agricultural prices, high food costs and high taxes. The labor market is glutted and agitated by union struggles. Many industrial plants are closed or operating on a part-time basis. Relief rolls are crowded and officials have already announced their intentions of dismissing 4,000 Iowa WPA workers next month. Meanwhile the mailed fist of Mars threatens from across the Pacific. Such conditions at first glance offer but little encouragement to the graduate of 1938.

But there is another side. Records show that in the past University graduates have found jobs, that they have "made good."

Since members of the first class received their degrees over three-quarters of a century ago, Iowa graduates have found their places as doctors, teachers, lawyers, engineers, editors, pharmacists, authors and artists in the business and professional world. Many of them graduated during periods of economic distress.

In the face of unfavorable business conditions most of the colleges and schools of the university reported an increasing per cent of graduates placed last spring. This is not without its significance.

But perhaps the most important factor is the training provided by the depression itself. Graduates of the last seven years have had no illusions about the world's attitude towards them. They have gone out neither with the idea that the world was their oyster nor that it owed them a living. Few have expected to find shortcuts. Just such a sane, well-balanced attitude is essential if the college graduate is to find that place for which he has been trained.

We believe that there are 171 jobs in Iowa and neighboring states and that the Iowa graduate of 1938 has the initiative, the training and the strength of purpose to win them.

Russia has suspended parcel post relations with Japan but the Japanese are taking it calmly. It seems they did not expect, anyway, to receive a Valentine from them.

Yes, We Appreciate Grant Wood

YESTERDAY we received an interesting letter, but it was not signed and neither was it from a reader. Still, we think it worthwhile, and we present it for your consideration as an editorial rather than in "Our Readers' Viewpoint."

The letter follows: "Your Grant Wood lectured in Leon Mandle hall at the University of Chicago Friday evening.

It was one of those lectures for which one could obtain free tickets. Surprisingly, all of the tickets were gone a number of days before the date. Further, it is interesting to find such enthusiasm when we note so few artists speaking at such public functions . . . so there must have been some sincere interest.

"The lecture was very fine. . . Wood certainly held his audience with his dry humor (and what a relief not to hear of Aristotle for one whole evening!) I would judge by the capacity crowd and the applause at the end of the lecture that he was very well accepted. Moreover, one can always judge by those favorable chatted remarks to one's neighbors.

"Now I wonder if you just take Grant Wood for 'granted.' It seems we are inclined to look upon contemporary things, especially those near at hand with little concern and as I have said just for granted. Your Grant Wood is certainly one to be held in high esteem on the University of Iowa campus. Hope you appreciate him to the fullest extent . . . being formerly from your campus it stirred up a certain amount of ethnocentrism to feel I knew a bit more of Grant Wood than my fellow men and that he was from my home state . . ."

To which we answer, that of course the University of Iowa appreciates Grant Wood and we are proud indeed that he is regarded so highly throughout the nation.

We aren't so interested in how that new nickel which the government is soon to begin minting looks as much as how much will the new jitney buy.

EXTRAORDINARY ANECDOTE

In the February Atlantic Alexander Woolcott tells an anecdote. Prof. Harold Laski is his first authority. The late Justice Holmes used to take flowers to Arlington every Sept. 13, anniversary of the birthday of Major General Sedgwick, commander of the division in which Holmes' regiment, the 20th Massachusetts, served. On several of these visits Laski went with him and tried to elicit reminiscences of the war by asking elementary questions. Were the gentlemen from the south ever dangerously near Washington? How near? Where were they?

From the heights of Arlington the justice waved with his stick "towards the point of attack on Ft. Stevens." With a laugh he said that the last person who had asked him "Where are they?" was Lincoln. The president was inspecting the defenses and Holmes was his guide. Mr. Lincoln stood up monumentally tall, crowned with a monumental stovepipe. The gentlemen from the south began to shoot. The young federal officer instinctively pulled him under cover. In his excitement he addressed him in the highly non-Beaconian phrase: "Get down, you fool!"

If the young officer couldn't forgive himself for the form in which his fear for his companion's life clothed itself, the president was characteristically tolerant and humorous:

"Just as Lincoln was quitting the fort, he took the trouble to walk back. 'Good-bye, Colonel Holmes,' he said. 'I'm glad to see you know how to talk to a civilian.'"

An extraordinary story, but was Professor Laski's memory faithful? We needn't repeat the easy verification, historical and military, of Lincoln's visit to the defenses. Laski was innocent of dates. General Early's raid on Washington in July, 1864, was clearly the occasion of the anecdote. Grant had sent the 19th Corps from Louisiana and the Sixth Corps from the siege of Richmond to the defense of Washington, which had been named only by civilians or convalescent soldiers from the hospitals. Lincoln visited the defenses and had been warned not to expose himself to fire. The book said that, but how did Holmes get in charge of Mr. Lincoln?

Mr. Woolcott found the answer in a biography of the justice. After his convalescence from the wound he had received at Chancellorsville, "he did not rejoin the 20th but, marked for light duty and breveted a lieutenant colonel by way of consolation, was assigned instead as A.D.C. to General Horatio Wright. That was in January, '64. In May Wright was put in command of the Sixth corps.

"So Holmes was A.D.C. to the general commanding the defenses at Washington. He was mustered out on July 17, but Early's raid was done for by July 13. To Mr. Woolcott it seems an "a priori probability" that Holmes was on the parapets when Lincoln came and that it was his duty as the commanding general's aide to accompany the president on his rounds. 'But what is the need of a priori probability?' Mr. Woolcott told the story to Professor Frankfurter, who said rather discouragingly that he had heard it before. From whom? 'Why, I heard it from Justice Holmes.'"

GROUND DAY ABROAD!

Modern Chemist Manufactures Nearly Every Necessary Drug

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D. I wrote yesterday of the fact that we no longer have to depend upon the accidental discovery in nature of the drugs we need—the modern organic chemist can give us nearly anything we want.

The supreme example of that was the production of what Paul de Kruif called "the magic bullet"—arsphenamine by Ehrlich. Ehrlich had an animal parasite to kill. He knew he could kill it with arsenic, but he knew also arsenic is poisonous to human tissues—so since the parasite lived surrounded by human cells, his problem was to find a chemical compound of arsenic that would be fatal to the parasite and harmless to human body cells. Finally he found it—a magic bullet which kills only selected cells.

Much of our modern life is made pleasant because a wonderful boy chemist, named William Henry Perkin, tried to make quinine artificially. Home from school on his Easter holidays, this strange boy decided to employ his vacation in attempting to make quinine by taking another nitrogenous product, aniline, and treating it with powerful oxidizing agents. He produced not the beautiful white crystals of quinine, but a brown tar. He was disgusted, but being a youth of remarkable powers, he was interested in proving what he did have, and found it to be mauve, the first of the aniline dyes.

Reach out your hand and you can hardly touch anything which has not resulted from that discovery—your clothes are probably dyed with the fast colors of some of the aniline dyes. Our ancestors wore drab clothes or colored with vegetable dyes which were not fast and readily faded. Cheap and good perfumes, such drugs as aspirin, antiseptics and many other products which have made life more comfortable, resulted from the labor of this young man.

Entomologist Predicts 'Hoppers Will Be Back BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP)—Moderate to severe infestations of grasshoppers in 23 western agricultural states appear probable this year, says R. L. Shotwell, of the federal bureau of entomology at Bozeman. Shotwell bases his forecast on a count made in scattered counties of the 23 states of grasshopper eggs which will hatch in the spring. The infestation in some territories will be five to six times as great as in 1937, a severe "grasshopper year," Shotwell predicts. Campaigns of poisoning are planned for the territories in which the infestation will be worst.

Electric Fence Bears Down on Bears WASHINGTON (AP)—For $10 you can keep the bears out of your beehives. Up to now bears have not been very particular whether they raided a wild "honey" tree or a commercial apiary, in the Pacific states especially. To teach the bears better manners apiculturists of the department of agriculture and the University of California have perfected an electrically charged fence. A set of four dry cells keeps four wires charged for two months at a cost of about three cents a day. Trial fences have been built for $10 to $40.

Pottery Puzzles Savants BERKELEY, Cal. (AP)—Skillfully made pottery unearthed in the Sacramento valley has puzzled University of California scientists. Its quality would indicate recent origin, but it was found under six feet of hardpan, indicating ancient age. The university experts said it was among the best pottery they ever had examined.

Thief Kills Prize Hog DEWITT, Neb. (AP)—The thief who butchered a hog at the Cliff Waldo farm here should keep his identity secret a long time. Waldo said of 125 hogs the thief selected "Miss Nebraska," a 500-pound Duroc valued at $100.

Tuning In with Betty Harpel

Collegiate feet will be set tapping tonight by Raymond Scott and his quintet, newest Cantor discovery, over CBS at 8:30.

Because of a long line of discoveries which later developed into big radio attractions, Cantor has fallen heir to the title of "Ziegfeld of the Air." Among the list of his proteges we find such names as Burns and Allen, Rubinkoff and his violin, Parkyakarkus, Bobby Breen, Deanna Durbin and Pinky Tomlin.

Here we see Prof. Ralph Durey, curator of the Cincinnati Museum of Natural History conducting a class in "Fact of Fable" for the "Nation's School of the Air" over WLW. He'll be on this afternoon at 1:15 with information about various animals. His class is for pupils from the fifth to the 10th grade.

Fred Allen is looking for excitement. He's been boasting that he will pit his musical stooge, Peter Van Steeden, against all comers—and that's including Phil Harris, the Benny maestro-c clown.

That throaty voice of Joe Penner's is no trick of nature, nor of surgery. It's due to hard training and is a tremendous strain on his vocal chords. In the less palmy days when he was doing two and four shows a day in vaudeville he had to keep a doctor around all the time.

Some orchestra that Kostelanetz runs! It boasts 13 members who have been concertmasters in famous orchestras throughout the world. Four members are brothers of noted symphony conductors.

Watch that new song, "Tonight We Love!" It's our bet for No. 1 tune. Written by Rainger and Robin, it will be done in a forthcoming Gladys Swarthout-John Boles picture. It has croonability plus.

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Twenty years ago, while padding about the cane fields of Louisiana, I was given a book that set a standard for most of my reading during the next several years. It was "The Clansmen," by Thomas Dixon, and from it came "The Birth of a Nation" and a vogue in novels relating to the War Between the States.

In our neighborhood was a little girl with pitiful and sunny blue eyes who borrowed the book and when she brought it back half of the blank page at the end of the book had been torn and folded up and held in place by a two-cent stamp. Under it was the terse line, "Don't read this."

In burning curiosity I begged her to tell me what she had written. But she would not, and I never unfolded the sheet to see for myself—until the other day. The note said, "I hereby promise on my honor that under no circumstances will I ever marry a Yankee." It was signed "Marjory, 1918."

Marjory had flaxen hair and was continually surrounded by beaux. Then she moved to Texas, and I never saw her again. But in one of those sentimental moods which lay hold of us all now and then I wrote her a letter after reading her "vow" on the back page of "The Clansmen," and sure enough in a few days came an answer.

I am happy to announce that Marjory of the blue eyes and the 1918 resolutions kept her vow. She is married to a Texan and lives in San Antonio. I don't know what this has to do with a Broadway column, but I thought you'd like to know.

A little experiment in psychology has helped George Judd, manager of the Boston symphony, solve a vexing problem. For years his telephone was at his elbow, but George hates answering telephones even worse than you and I hate paying the rent. He instructed his men to move the telephone to a table in the far corner of the office. Then he told his friends: "Every time you telephone me I have to leave my desk and walk clear across the room."

Since then his calls have been reduced by 50 per cent. "Have you ever noticed," inquired J. M. Josephsberg, "have you ever noticed that most clocks in jewelers' windows are set at 8:20 o'clock?" "No, I haven't, but is there any reason for this?" "Yes, that's the exact time President Lincoln was shot."

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD—Pictures are getting dirtier at the same time they are getting cleaner, for the movie bath seems to be going out. Right away you'll think of half a dozen pictures you've seen in recent battles to disprove that statement, but it's true nevertheless. The bath is in disfavor, the rub-a-dub-dub-scrub cycle has waned.

Marlene Dietrich bathed beautifully in "Knight Without Armor," and Judy Canova in "Artists and Models." The very first scene of "Paradise For Three" has a young lady bathing in a show-window—and discreet showers pop up now and then to remind of the old days of bathing glory. For all that, the bathtub scene is passing from the screen. And the film "purity code" has had little or nothing to do with the decline. For many years screen baths have been kept within the bounds of propriety, the bather being fully clad in a bathing suit under the soapsuds—and in a large drying towel when stepping out of them.

It's merely that directors prefer to dodge the obvious difficulties that beset the movie bath. Plumbing has to be brought to the set, property men have to heat great quantities of water (for the bath itself and probably for re-takes.) The cameraman has his troubles with light refracted from the water's surface, and the water must be made opaque—regardless to conceal that portion of the bather under water and inside the bathing suit. There's a lot of bother and fuss as evidenced in the bath taken by a young lady the other day for "Fools For Scandal," the Carole Lombard - Ferdinand Grave movie.

This bath's heroine is Lorraine Eddy MacLean, who answers a telephone while taking it. She is completely hidden, bathing suit and all, under great piles of bubbles. The prop men have to blow the bubbles—before the player gets in the tub.

Craig to Talk On Math With Other Sciences

To Speak in Baconian Lecture Series Tomorrow

Prof. Allen T. Craig of the mathematics department will discuss the contributions that mathematics has made to the other sciences in a Baconian lecture at 7:30 tomorrow in the senate chamber of Old Capitol. The subject of his address will be "On the Nature of Mathematics."

Mathematics has definitely influenced electrical equipment, and the existence of planets had been established by mathematics before the astronomer's telescope located them. Such facts as these, Professor Craig says, lead to the questioning of the mathematics branch of human learning.

The foundations of mathematics have been pushed back through the years until they have come to rest solely in logic. Professor Craig will consider the construction of a mathematical system. Exact mathematics, he defines, as the study, by deductive methods, of a class of things and a class of relations between them.

The speaker, an authority on the subject of mathematics, received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Florida, and received a Ph.D. degree at the University of Iowa in 1931. At that time he became an associate in the mathematics department, and he is now an associate professor in the same department.

Among his publications is a book published by the Johns Hopkins press entitled "On the Distribution of Certain Statistics."

Other publications include articles in the Annals of Mathematical Statistics, in the Bulletin of the American Mathematics society and in the American Journal of Mathematics.

On The Campus

With MARVIN TAUB

Sometimes our sins do catch up with us—there is, for instance, that incident the other night in front of a local cafe when a student known as "Columbus Junction," who had been imbibing something more potent than the Iowa City air, stopped to converse with one of the members of the local police force. Said "Columbus Junction," "Say, I'm awful sorry about hitting you with that rotten egg last homecoming—hi! I really didn't mean it."

"Oh, So you're the guy! Been looking for you for three months," the policeman said threateningly. "I didn't mind the egg so much—it was the chicken inside that bothered me!" . . . But fate and the policeman were kind and "Columbus Junction" was let off with a mild warning.

Who are the three Iowa coeds hailing from South Dakota who yelled their heads off for their home-state boys at the basketball game the other night?

The life of primitive man may have been very hazardous, but at least he never had to dodge automobiles or contend with the ice on Capitol hill. Since they have sprinkled sand around it has become even more dangerous in many ways. The thin layer of sand gives way suddenly and before you know it you are sliding precariously down the hill. All is well until you are halted by another patch of sand which pitches you forward on your face. If you don't fall, then you may consider yourself very lucky; if you do fall, and all you do is rip the buttons off your coat, then you're still lucky.

And who is the big meany who stole a little kid's sled so that he could slide down one of the campus hills without having to take the chance of falling on his precious posterior?

Clarence Kemp, burly 155-pounder on Coach Mike Howard's varsity wrestling squad, is sporting a wov of a shiner nowadays. Don't tell me that they are starting to use professional slugging tactics during workouts—tch! tch!

Hanya Holm, celebrated exponent of the modern dance, will bring her talented group of seven young dance artists for a concert here Feb. 9 at 8 p.m. The program will be under the auspices of the dance club, Orchestria, in the women's gymnasium.

R.O.T.C. training, "Slew-foot" still gums up the works. Always out of step, facing left on column right commands, he drags his legs in a strange unorthodox cadence and makes the sergeants wish they were in the navy. But whatever he does, this corner suspects that it is merely a mute protest against compulsory military training.

Hubbard Talks On 'New Deal' Indian Project

Shows Changed Attitude Toward Affairs Of Red Race

The American people must "revamp their thought and definition of the word, savage" when they consider the American Indian, Ralph Hubbard, of Ten Sleep ranch, Elbert, Col., authority and writer on Indian life and culture, declared yesterday in a graduate college lecture.

Mr. Hubbard sketched the changes in the attitude toward Indian affairs and told of the "new deal" projects for Indians in which an effort is being made "to revive old Indian philosophies, religions, discipline and old Indian socialism. He distinguished between political socialism and the Christian socialism as applied to the socialistic ways of the Indians.

He outlined a course of study of the history of the American Indian and gave reading references for those interested in research work. His outline included a study of the distribution and classification of the Indian. He classified them into four groups: the people from the eastern plains and woods, the southwest and desert people, those from the plateau and Rocky mountain area and the ones from the so-called Buffalo plains.

For many years Mr. Hubbard has made a study of Indian life and culture, and he has written

JOHN MASON BROWN

Dramatic Critic to Give Talks on Current Plays Friday

Students and faculty members may obtain tickets today and tomorrow for the John Mason Brown lectures Friday in the dramatic arts building. The first lecture will be at 4:10 p.m. and will be repeated at 8 p.m.

The subject of the well-known dramatic critic's lecture will be "Broadway in Review," a summary and criticism of current Broadway plays.

Since his youth, Brown has been closely associated with the theater. During his college days at Harvard he was a member of George Pierce Baker's famous 47 Workshop course and had a play produced in which he took an active part, as well as in the Hasty Pudding club.

He has been staff lecturer for the American Laboratory theater in New York, and is now staff lecturer for the League of Political Education in New York, the Philadelphia Forum and the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences. In 1931-32 he taught a course at Yale university on "The History of Criticism from Aristotle to the Present."

He also taught at the Bread Loaf Writers' conference at Columbia university and has given summer courses in playwriting and the history of the modern theater at Harvard.

He has served as associate editor and drama critic of Theatre Arts Monthly and is now dramatic critic of the New York Post.

In addition to his numerous activities, Brown has written several books.

Tickets to the lectures remaining Friday will be released to the general public.

Winter Practice Starts; Irl Tubbs and Staff Lay Plans for 1938 Season

Iowa Mentors To Concentrate On Freshmen

Expect 85 Men in Suit When Equipment Is All Out

Eight months remain before football takes over the athletic spotlight, at least as far as the University of Iowa is concerned, but Coach Irl Tubbs and his staff of assistants are laying their groundwork for a successful 1938 season.

Drills will be three times each week until the weather permits the gridders to go outdoors for the official opening of spring practice.

When all the equipment has been checked out, Tubbs expects nearly 85 men to be in suit. The entire squad will not be called out for some time, however.

Most of the members of the coaching staff will not be able to devote their time to the gridiron drills. Otto Vogel will be busy with his baseball team and Rollie Williams has more than a month to go before the Hawkeye basketball schedule is completed.

Tubbs indicated yesterday that most of the work for the next two weeks would consist of blocking and tackling work on the dummies to show what his freshman crew really can produce.

No plays will be given out until the Iowa mentor is assured that his men have mastered the art of blocking and tackling—at least in so far as possible in indoor work.

Sea Biscuit Is Favorite in West Coast Handicap

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1 (AP)—Training troubles have taken their toll, betting odds on the long shots grow longer, but with the fourth running of the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap five weeks away, the names of Sea Biscuit and Pompoon dominate all predictions on the outcome of the big race.

Rosemont, the Foxcatcher farm's 1937 winner of the "hundred grand" and the show horse in 1936, is out of the event, as is T. P. Morgan's Heelily, a standout as a three-year-old last year.

War Admiral shipped to Florida and poor showings in prep races here have dimmed the fame of Bert Baroni's Top Row, 1936 Santa Anita winner, Maj. Austin C. Taylor's Indian Broom, Frank Carraud's Time Supply, J. A. Manfuso's Aneroid and others.

Two foreign candidates, Amor Brujo and Ligarito from South America, have similarly lost caste since reaching Santa Anita, although the latter's backers still have faith in him over the mile and quarter route of the March 5 handicap.

Jerome H. Louchheim's Pompoon, which was installed as the horse to beat soon after coming west, lived up to that rating in the spring fashion purse, whipping a comparatively select field with ridiculous ease over the seven-furlong distance. His time, in the first trip to the post since he raced last at Chicago in the summer, was 1:23, three-fifths of a second over the track record.

Promptly the future book odds on Pompoon dropped to three to one, displacing Sea Biscuit as the favorite at five to one.

Two Cagers Killed BULL'S GAP, Tenn. (AP)—Two members of the Carson-Newman college undefeated basketball team of Jefferson City were killed late yesterday when the bus conveying the team to Johnson City for a game tonight was in collision with an automobile trailer here. Three other members of the team and the driver suffered severe injuries.

'Six Weeks of Hard Digging'

Senior Loop Publicity Man Puts Out A 'Green Book of Facts'

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—After six weeks of hard digging, William Ezekiel Brandt, publicity director of the National league has come to the surface with a nugget of information that could make a baseball expert out of a cricketer: player.

Bill's nugget is called the "National League Green Book," a pamphlet of 48 pages. Between its green covers is crammed more information about the league, past and present, than you can imagine. Everything is in it except a mention of the New York Yankees. The booklet is issued free to baseball men and writers, but if you're the right type of a fan and write soon enough Mr. Brandt will issue one to you.

Flipping through the pages we found these interesting facts, figures and fancies:

Hard on Managers Since 1876, the open season on National league managers has been so fatal that 167 pilots have served — some of them off and on three different times. St. Louis, with 32 managers, is the league's surest graveyard. Brooklyn and Pittsburgh have been the happy hunting grounds with only 14 and 17 managers, respectively.

The New York Giants have a winning percentage against every other National league club, though their margin over the Cubs is only eight out of 822 games played. Pittsburgh has an edge on every other club except the Giants. Boston trails every club. Since 1900, a total of 22,847 National league games has been played.

In 1937, the Giants were the best home team, winning 50 and losing 25. The Cubs, for years, notorious losers away from Wrigley field, were best on the road, winning 47, losing 29.

Rosters, some not yet official, show 258 ball players will go to N. L. camps, 104 of them pitching hopefuls.

From Bees to Indians Fifty nationalities, including the mixtures, are represented. There are several Indian combinations.

Grapplers Face Unbeaten I.S.C.

Cyclones Are Toughest Foe Hawks Meet This Season

With the toughest opponent of the season, Iowa State, Big Six conference champions, just three days away, the Hawkeye wrestlers are going through the hardest week of practice they have had for several weeks.

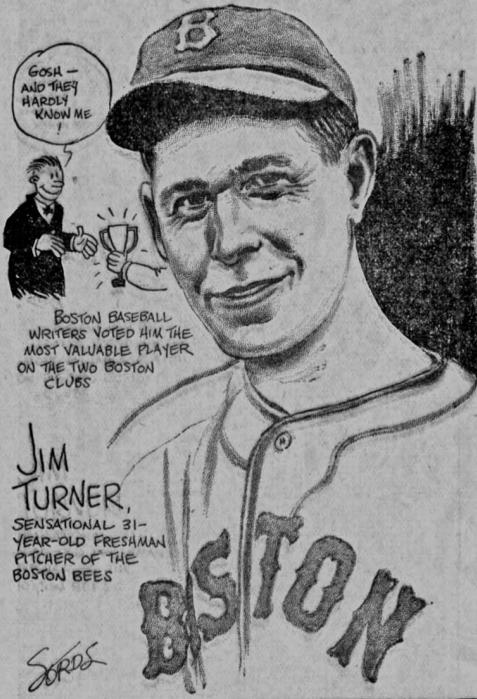

Two reasons for the heavy workouts of the grapplers are the lack of practice caused by the final examinations and the fact that the Iowa State team is undefeated, having defeated four Big Ten teams to date besides all other competition they have faced.

The starting lineup of the Old Gold is still indefinite as the final eligibility of the team members has not been determined. The grades are expected however within the next day or two.

Clarence Kemp, promising 155 pound sophomore, may not see action due to a cut over his right eye received in an exhibition match with George Smith between halves of Monday night's basketball game. Several stitches were necessary to close the wound in Kemp's head and the injury may keep him out of Saturday's dual.

If the men all came through the first semester successfully in their class work and all injuries are healed, the starting lineup against the Cyclone powerhouse is expected to be the same as used in Iowa's two previous meets. Coach Mike Howard said he plans to change four of his men in their weight divisions however for the State grapplers. The contemplated change will include a switch in the 155 and 165 pound classes and the swapping of men in the 126 and 118 pound divisions.

Fresh from their victory over Wilton Junction Friday night, the St. Mary's Ramblers will attempt to make it two in a row tonight as they tackle St. Wenceslaus of Cedar Rapids in a return game on the City high court.

The first game between the two schools this year ended with St. Wenceslaus the victors after an overtime battle. At the end of the regular playing time, the score was 29 to 29 after which followed a hectic three minutes of basketball.

At one time St. Mary's was ahead three points, but Sedlak, St. Wenceslaus' center, dropped in two field goals in rapid succession to win the game.

Paul Henessey, injured St. Mary's guard, has been recuperating rapidly lately, and may see a little action. It is unlikely, however, that he will start. His position will be taken by either Bill Bock or Ray Cole who have been alternating at the position since Henessey was injured.

St. Wenceslaus will be led by Captain Sedlak, who dropped in the winning basket in the last game, and played an outstanding floor game as well. Don Schmidt, who led St. Mary's against Wilton Junction, is likely to find Sedlak a different sort of man and will have to be on his toes to keep him from running wild.

Patty Berg Takes First Round Lead in Miami Tourney

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Feb. 1 (AP)—Red-haired Patty Berg of Minneapolis led a parade of favorites today through a preliminary round in the Miami Biltmore women's golf tournament.

Miss Berg, seeking her third tournament triumph of the winter, shot four-under-par golf for 12 holes despite occasional showers to dispose of Mrs. Freda Nolan of New Castle, Pa., 7 and 6. Marion Miley of Ft. Pierce, Fla., stroked her way to a 6 and 5 victory over Mrs. Blanche Fitzgibbon of New York. Mrs. Jane Cothran Jameson of West Palm Beach, Fla., third of the medalists, won by default from Mrs. Leo Walper, wife of the Washington professional.

Jean Bauer of Providence, R. I., runner up to Miss Berg at Punta Gorda recently, trimmed Mrs. Harvey F. Mack of Easton, Pa., 6 and 4. Kathryn Hemphill of Columbia, S. C., trounced Gladys Durand of Williston, N. Y., 5 and 4, but Dorothy Traung of San Francisco turned in the day's most one-sided score, 8 and 7, over Mrs. Guy Butler of Atlanta.

Hod Shots

By G. K. HODENFIELD

There may be an all-university boxing tournament after this year. Fred Beebe, who arranges all the intramural athletic programs, is drawing up plans for each group—fraternity, dormitory, Quadrangle and town —to hold its own tourney and the winners will pair off for the championship finals afterward.

Speaking of boxing, here is an interesting fact. The University of Iowa can not have a boxing team because fistfights, amateur or professional, are against the state law. The law was passed way-back-when and the law-makers have not yet decided to remove it from the books. But promoters don't let a little thing like state laws stop them. They hold professional fights in several cities throughout the state and even Des Moines, the state capital, is to be the scene of a Golden Gloves tournament this year. Maybe some day those honorable gentlemen who decide rules of conduct for citizens of the state of Iowa will see the light of day and will throw all the "blue laws" into the ash can where they belong.

Incidentally, Francis Crezmyer, former Hawkeye track captain and one of the most versatile men in Iowa under history, has been appointed boxing instructor for the next semester. He replaces Bill Moyle who has left Iowa for a position as boxing and wrestling coach at Bradley Tech in Peoria, Ill.

Lloyd Brazil, University of Detroit basketball coach, was willing to bet $25 at the beginning of the season that his sophomore cage team would win no more than five games this year. Out of the first 10 games Detroit won eight. However, Mr. Brazil did not lose his $25, because no one would take the bet.

Next year there will be no seniors on the Detroit squad so a captain will have to be elected from the junior class, thus breaking a tradition of 20 years standing.

Iowa basketball fans can look forward to a real game this week end when the Ohio State Buckeyes invade the fieldhouse. The Bucks favor a rough and tough tilt—ask Benny Stephens. The Iowa forward almost lost his basketball pants when the two teams met several weeks ago. The Ohio Staters held "Pick" Dehner, Big 10 leading scorer, to a low score, but they lost two men on personal fouls doing it in a recent clash.

HIGH School Athlete Dies MITCHELL, S. D., (AP)—Louis Blass, former Canova high school athlete, died in a Mitchell hospital yesterday after an operation to remove a toothpick lodged in his intestines. Blass, a hotel employe here, swallowed the toothpick about two weeks ago.

Hod Love, pictured above, scored five field goals last night as the Irish of St. Pat's defeated the Union High school of Le Mars, 30-21. Love was not high-point man, but his defensive playing made him one of the most outstanding men on the floor.

Adamick May Get Title Fight

Mike Jacobs Declares Farr Must 'Make Up His Mind'

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—Jimmy Adamick, young Detroit heavyweight who has made rapid strides upward in the past few years, found himself suddenly projected into the fistic spotlight today.

If his luck holds out he will not only get a Madison Square Garden bout with Max Baer next month, but a shot at the world's heavyweight crown if he trims the Californian.

Unless Tommy Farr changes his mind within the next few days and agrees to fight Baer March 11, Promoter Mike Jacobs will offer the bout to Adamick. Word from Detroit, where Jimmy fights under the colors of Jack Kearns, is the youngster will be glad to accept. "I'm getting a little tired of Farr," said Jacobs. "He doesn't seem interested in a fight with Baer. If he doesn't change his mind, I'll give Adamick the chance and I'll make it worth his while, too. If he beats Baer I'll promise him an April match with the winner of the Joe Louis-Nathan Mann title bout."

Farr told newspaper men today he definitely will not fight Baer, but Jacobs has hopes of making Tommy change his mind before Friday when the Baer entourage is due from the west coast.

"I want either Braddock or Schmeling," said the Welshman. "I wish Jimmy all the luck in the world if he is sincere in his decision to retire, but I can't see why I am called on to eliminate Baer just because Braddock has quit. If Max Schmeling wants another 'tune up' in this country, I'll meet him on a winner-take-all basis. Otherwise I'm going back home."

While all this was going on, Braddock appeared before the New York State Athletic commission and was issued a license as a second. Jim said he would be in the corner of Bob Tow, young Washington heavyweight, who takes on Red Burman of Baltimore in a 10 rounder at the Hippodrome tomorrow.

The commission sent word to Louis and Mann, who fight in the Garden Feb. 23, to post $5,000 forfeit checks by Friday. The 20th Century Sporting club was ordered to post a similar amount.

Kiki Cuyler Will Go South With Brooklyn

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler, injured last spring in a collision in the Cincinnati Reds' training camp and out most of the year, will go south this year with the Brooklyn Dodgers. The veteran outfielder, who hit .326 for the Reds in 1936, asked to be placed on the Dodgers' training camp roster and will be retained if he can come at all near his form of two years ago.

Half-time Lead Of 22-4 Helps Locals to Win

Le Mars Crew Shows Inexperience; Love Stars Again

Le Mars crew shows inexperience; Love stars again. The Irish of St. Pat's defeated the Union High school of Le Mars, 30-21. Love was not high-point man, but his defensive playing made him one of the most outstanding men on the floor.

By SCOTTY FISHER Assistant Sports Editor Piling up a commanding 22-4 lead at halftime, the St. Patrick's cagers staved off a last-minute rally by a determined but inexperienced quintet from Union Consolidated high of Le Mars to emerge with a 30 to 21 victory in a ragged game on the St. Pat's court last night. The game was marked by wild passing by both teams and poor ball-handling by the Irish having the advantage in all departments.

Love, Demery and Glenn Fitzpatrick paced the Shamrocks' attack while Pratt, substitute forward who entered the fracas at the opening of the fourth quarter, led the visitors in their game but futile drive for victory in the closing minutes of the contest. Fitzpatrick was high-point man for the evening with 12 points, made on five field goals and two free throws, followed by Hod Love with 10 markers. Pratt and Ladenthin of the invaders each racked up seven points for the visitors.

Love opened the scoring for the locals with a shot from the side which was partially nullified by Ladenthin's charity toss. At this point, with Love and Glenn Fitzpatrick sharing the scoring burden, the Irish ran up a lead which stood at 10 to 4 as the first quarter ended.

In the second quarter the Shamrocks had things entirely their own way with Bradley, Love, Demery, Glenn Fitzpatrick and substitute Jack Fitzpatrick all registering from the field, while the visitors were held scoreless, to run the score to 22-4 at the rest period.

Substitutes Enter Game During the second quarter Demery and Bradley were particularly effective in taking rebounds and firing the ball down the court to where Hod Love and Glenn Fitzpatrick were stationed. With four minutes of the half remaining and the score at 20-4, Coach Father Ryan sent in a complete new team consisting of Jack Fitzpatrick, Donnie Black, Paul Scannell, Red Miller and Ed Rohner and the substitutes responded by more than holding their own.

Ladenthin, stocky back-court man for the Union five, opened the last half with a neat basket made while traveling at full speed, followed by Hiemstra's bucket which brought the score to 22 to 4 favoring the Irish. Love then hit the hoop again, followed by Parry's basket for the losers and then Demery and Glenn Fitzpatrick connected to give the locals a 28-10 margin as the third period closed.

Pratt Scores Wallace Pratt, replacing Featherston at a forward as the final quarter got under way, immediately made his presence felt by ringing the bell for two quick buckets in succession to partially close the gap. Fitzpatrick concluded the St. Patrick's scoring for the evening with a shot from the side and at this point, with three minutes remaining, the Irish second-stringers re-entered the contest and the Le Mars outfit cut loose with their best offensive attack of the ball game.

Hawkeyes Plan to Stop Buckeye Hotshots Saturday Night

Coach Williams Drills Iowans On Defense Against Ohio State

Seeks to Get Cagers Back to Form of Indiana Game

"Shoot—and shoot again," apparently is the motto of the big and dangerous Ohio State basketball team which appears against the University of Iowa in the field house Saturday evening.

The Buckeyes operate on the idea that the team which takes the most shots is most likely to win the game, a theory which was all too convincingly demonstrated for the happiness of Iowa at Columbus Jan. 15.

Now the Iowans want to do something towards atoning for that 48-29 defeat. And Coach Rolie Williams now is telling them that they must not permit so many shots, especially those by Jim Hull and Dick Baker, forwards; and Dick Boughtner, guard.

Raggedness Shown

Typical between-semester raggedness was displayed by the Iowans in the South Dakota game Monday, when the Coyotes forced them to go into an overtime period to win, 35-34, on a free throw in the final 15 seconds.

One of Coach Williams' tasks now is to bring the team back to the form it showed in beating Indiana at Bloomington Jan. 17. This will involve much drill on ball-handling and shooting, with large doses of defensive drill against Ohio State's style.

Four Scorers Close

With eight games remaining, the five leading Iowa scorers are Ben Stephens, 93; Nile Kinnick, 64; Joe Van Ysseldyk, 59; Capt. Sam Johnson, 58; and Jack Drees, 56. Although 8 of 13 games were victories, Iowa has made only 467 points to opponents' 476, averaging 35.9.

Not only do the Hawkeyes have Ohio State to consider, but also they must prepare for the game with Minnesota at Minneapolis next Monday.

U-High Leads Little 8 League

Down Anamosa Quintet By Wide Margin In Upset

Little Eight Basketball Standings

W	L	PTS	OPP
U-high	4	146	100
Anamosa	3	1	93
Mt. Vernon	3	1	86
W. Liberty	5	3	214
Monticello	2	1	86
West Branch	1	6	159
Tipton	1	7	191

As a result of two upsets in the Little Eight conference last weekend, the University high basketball team is now back in first place in the league.

The U-high cagers were responsible for one of the upsets. They downed the highly touted, league-leading Anamosa quintet by one of the widest margins recorded in the Eastern Iowa conference this year.

Monticello, the team that was tied with Anamosa for first place last weekend, suffered an unexpected defeat at the hands of West Liberty.

The Bluehaws have one more loop game scheduled this year than their two rivals, Monticello and Anamosa, who have like U-high lost only one conference game. Consequently, if the U-high five gets through their two loop games with West Liberty and Mt. Vernon undefeated, they will be in possession of the conference championship.

Before the River team finishes up its conference schedule, an intra-city contest with St. Pats intervenes. The Irish quintet is scheduled to meet the Bluehaws on the U-high floor this Friday.

In preparation for this game, Coach William R. Wood plans to drill his team mostly on offensive work. In their practice yesterday, the Bluehaws ran through plays and tapered off with a short scrimmage with the sophomore team.

Delta Upsilon Wins Cage Contest, 16-10

In the only fieldhouse game of the evening last night, Delta Upsilon defeated Alpha Chi Sigma, 16-10, in a slowly-played Class B fraternity contest. Slim Estey, Delta Upsilon forward, was the star of the evening with his brilliant floorwork besides counting 10 points. Both teams seemed contented to make it a ragged game.

There were four games forfeited, Delta Chi won from S.A.E.; Gamma Eta Gamma from A.T.O.; Beta Theta Pi from Phi Kappa Sigma and Pi Epsilon Pi won from the Triangle. Phi Kappa Psi and Sigma Phi Epsilon postponed their game until next week.

Vogel Watches Seven Pitchers In Short Drill

Coach Otto Vogel, attired in his baseball working togs, watched seven of his University of Iowa varsity pitching candidates go through "limbering up exercise" with four returning backstops yesterday in a short drill.

Only two veterans of past Hawkeye campaigns will be available. One is Ken Reid, lanky southpaw on last year's team, and the other is Howard Miller, star righthander of two seasons ago who is trying to make a comeback this year after a siege of severe eye trouble which forced him to leave school.

Five sophomore pitchers, Hal Haub, Jim Knipe, Jib Cook, Mike Faber and Keith Wymore worked out in last night's drill. There are four good backstops in the Hawkeye fold who have been working out most of the winter. They are Wendell Winders, Charles McClenahan, Dave West and Marvin Kaplan.

City Hi Fourth In 'Sippi Loop

A rough weekend on the hard-court landed the City high varsity cagers in the fourth place in Mississippi Valley league standings. Davenport's Blue Devils, victors over the Little Hawks Friday, continue to cling tenaciously to their coveted first place berth with a perfect record of six wins in six attempts.

Vic Siegel made it a clean sweep for the Hilltoppers when he nosed out Iowa City's Russell Hirt in the race for individual scoring honors in conference competition. Siegel's 62 points give him a four-point lead over Hirt.

In the freshman-sophomore division of the conference the local representatives suffered a more drastic letdown, slipping from second to third place. The only defeats that mar the slate of the junior Hawks are the two administered by the Little Blue Devils from Davenport.

Although Virgil Parker, captain of the Cornsackens, still reigns supreme over the scorers of the sophomore section, Jensen of Davenport, having played in three games less than Parker, is creeping up on the local hotshot, as he trails the leader by only 13 points.

This week Coach Moon takes his Davenporters to Dubuque to meet the team that pushed Franklin out of the first place tie with an upset victory. Although the River City team rests far down in the league standings, the Blue Devils are expected to be given a good battle Friday night.

game, the rally being ended by the final bell.

Pratt shoved in a free throw and Ladhenthin dribbled fast through the scattered St. Pat's defense for two field goals, Pratt coming through with another basket just before the game ended.

Travel 350 Miles

The losing team, which traveled 350 miles for last night's game, came to life in the second half and played the Shamrocks on even terms after appearing rather listless in the first two quarters. Ladhenthin and Pratt looked best for the invaders with Glenn Fitzpatrick, Demery and Love functioning well for the winners.

In a curtain-raiser, Donnie Black led the St. Pat's Junior high basketballers to a 26-22 victory over the University high Juniors. Black scored 12 points on six baskets while Halvorsen was high for the losers with eight.

Big Six Teams In Crucial Tilt

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 1 (AP)—Nebraska and Kansas, still very much in the Big Six basketball race despite the fact Oklahoma which was supposed to be just a kibitzer, has chiseled into the campaign very emphatically, meet tomorrow night at Lawrence, and the loser, although not definitely out of the running, will have two strikes on it.

Both the Cornhuskers and Jayhaws were victims of startling upsets in their opening games. Kansas lost to Oklahoma at Lawrence, 49 to 46, although recent Oklahoma performances indicate the upset would have been a Kansas victory.

Alberto Bissot and Rafael Martin Play on Courts of Three Continents

By DELOS SCHRADER
Daily Iowan Sports Writer

From the Andean flower-garden courts of Santa Lucia to the polished floors of the Exposition Palace in Geneva, Switzerland, the Quadrangle's international duo from Panama City have streaked down the basketball floors of three continents.

The two are University of Iowa pre-medical students, one is Alberto Bissot, captain of Lower A's basketball team; the other is Rafael Martin, the leading cage scorer of Europe in 1935.

The pair grew up together in the beautiful tropical city of Panama near Uncle Sam's Canal Zone, the "crossroads of the world." Their basketball association began in Instituto Nacional, which is actually a six-year high school, where they played on the same intramural team and later the varsity together. Interscholastic athletics are confined to classes in Latin America, with appraisals made in regard to height, weight and playing ability. Before they finished prep school, Bissot and Martin joined up with two rival semi-pro clubs in the Panama City commercial league.

It was February, 1934, when spring came to the land of eternal summer and Alberto and Rafael received their diplomas. They had both agreed on medicine, but one bright spring morning they parted at the crossroads of the world. Rafael went to Europe to enroll in the University of Madrid, while Alberto Jr., upon the advice of Don Albert Sr., who is a newspaper man on the Estrella de Panama, went to the University of Chile in South America.

Al liked Santiago's beautiful Santa Lucia park, its gay fiestas and carnivals, but he didn't like the Universidad Nacional. In addition to his college work he signed to play basketball with the Green Cross Athletic club which played its games on outside clay courts. He claims Latin American basketball is faster and encourages more individual play. Down in the Canal Zone, Army and Navy service teams are barely able to hold their own eliminated in the semi-finals.

Third-seeded Wayne Sabin of Hollywood defaulted to Campbell Gillespie of Miami because he felt he had not recovered sufficiently from an operation two weeks ago for removal of his tonsils.

1st Triangular Swim Meet In Big Ten Here

Coach D. Armbruster's Squad Is Intact After Exams

Freed from the strain of semester examinations and the ineligibility hoax, Coach Dave Armbruster's swimmers returned to the Hawkeye pool yesterday with a weather eye on the first Western Conference swimming meet of the season, Friday night.

"Although we didn't lose any men by ineligibility, we did lose Ray Walters, one of the best dashmen in the country, by sickness, so I guess it doesn't make a lot of difference because we lose which ever way you look at it," Armbruster remarked.

Friday night Iowa tangled with Chicago and Minnesota in the first triangular swimming meet ever held in the Big Ten and the wily Iowa mentor is putting the finishing touches on his men for their first conference competition of the year. All members of the squad have returned to practices and most of the men braced with throat infections are responding nicely to the treatment of Armbruster, and Dr. W. W. Hayne, university trainer.

Just what Minnesota and Chicago have to offer is problematical, but Armbruster believes that Minnesota will present the stronger paddlers. Minnesota has not entered its ace sprinter and captain, Rex Hudson, but if Hudson passed his school work he probably will compete in the triangular meet Friday.

Arn Christen, Iowa's ace diver, will have plenty of opposition from Leonard K. K. Gopher springboard specialist, who last year copped fourth in the Big 10 meet and fourth in the national intercollegiate meet.

John Sahlman, a newcomer to the Spanish team, but on July 18, just six days before their scheduled departure for Berlin, General Franco's insurgents clashed with government troops. The revolution was on and Rafael, along with his teammates, joined the civilian guard.

And now, safe in America, Rafael ranks the basketball teams of the universe. Stanford university has the most powerful team in the world. Canadian teams, as a rule, can play along with the United States teams. Poland is tops in Europe, while Chile and Peru have the cream of the South American crop. In Central America, Mexico, Panama, Cuba and Puerto Rico, rank in order, but it is Rafael's contention that the Philippine Island Olympic team can lick any of the Central American hardwooders.

The boys' old home town, Panama City, has just completed building a new stadium and swimming pool in anticipation of the 1938 Central American Olympic games that will be held there next month. Included on the program are both men and women's events.

Plan Intercollegiate Basketball Tourney In New York Arena

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—A national intercollegiate invitation basketball tournament, bringing together four of the country's outstanding teams in a two day competition at Madison Square Garden was announced today. The tournament will be conducted by the Metropolitan Basketball Writers association.

The two eastern representatives will be selected March 9 when four picked fives meet in the Garden for the right to clash with two teams to be selected from other sections of the country. The finals will be played March 14 and 16.

"We are calling the preliminary round an eastern tournament but it may be necessary to go out into the midwest to get the outstanding teams," said Everett Morris of the Herald-Tribune and president of the Writers' association. "One or two teams will be selected from New York City and the others from such outstanding fives as Syracuse, Villanova, Pittsburgh, Notre Dame, Bradley Tech of Illinois and the Big Ten champion, if conference rules permit."

Minnesota swimming ranks, has proved to be the best breast stroker that has donned a Minnesota uniform since the war and a hot race is expected between Bob Allen of Iowa and Sahlman.

Lyman Brandt, Minnesota back stroker, and Francis Heydt and Charles Bremer of Iowa are slated to battle it out for top honors in the back stroke.

The motive force of the flying fish comes solely from the tail.

MILLROSE A. A. Games To Be Held Next Saturday

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—Nine college relay races which have drawn 29 teams, in addition to an inter-club relay and an invitation interscholastic relay, have been arranged for the 31st annual Millrose A. A. track meet Saturday at Madison Square Garden.

Twenty seven of the 29 colleges are matched in seven mile races, with the John G. Anderson memorial trophy to be awarded to the team turning in the fastest time. Among the crack quartets entered are Boston college, winner last year in 3:23.3 and matched this year with Manhattan, I.C. 4-A and Penn relays champion, North Texas State and Pittsburgh, which will have John Woodruff at anchor; New York university, which will have undefeated Jim Herbert running the anchor leg; Ohio State, Georgetown, Fordham, Harvard, Yale and Princeton.

The North Texas team of Elmer and Delmer Brown and Wayne and Blaine Rideout heads the four-team entry for the 1 7/8-mile medley relay. The other contenders are Indiana, Ohio State and Manhattan. The two mile relay has drawn Fordham, N.Y.U., Yale, Harvard, Columbia and North Carolina, while the New York Curb Exchange A.A., national outdoor and indoor 1,600-meter champion, will start from scratch in the interclub mile relay.

Plan Intercollegiate Basketball Tourney In New York Arena

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—A national intercollegiate invitation basketball tournament, bringing together four of the country's outstanding teams in a two day competition at Madison Square Garden was announced today. The tournament will be conducted by the Metropolitan Basketball Writers association.

The two eastern representatives will be selected March 9 when four picked fives meet in the Garden for the right to clash with two teams to be selected from other sections of the country. The finals will be played March 14 and 16.

"We are calling the preliminary round an eastern tournament but it may be necessary to go out into the midwest to get the outstanding teams," said Everett Morris of the Herald-Tribune and president of the Writers' association. "One or two teams will be selected from New York City and the others from such outstanding fives as Syracuse, Villanova, Pittsburgh, Notre Dame, Bradley Tech of Illinois and the Big Ten champion, if conference rules permit."

Minnesota swimming ranks, has proved to be the best breast stroker that has donned a Minnesota uniform since the war and a hot race is expected between Bob Allen of Iowa and Sahlman.

Lyman Brandt, Minnesota back stroker, and Francis Heydt and Charles Bremer of Iowa are slated to battle it out for top honors in the back stroke.

The motive force of the flying fish comes solely from the tail.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—Nine college relay races which have drawn 29 teams, in addition to an inter-club relay and an invitation interscholastic relay, have been arranged for the 31st annual Millrose A. A. track meet Saturday at Madison Square Garden.

Twenty seven of the 29 colleges are matched in seven mile races, with the John G. Anderson memorial trophy to be awarded to the team turning in the fastest time. Among the crack quartets entered are Boston college, winner last year in 3:23.3 and matched this year with Manhattan, I.C. 4-A and Penn relays champion, North Texas State and Pittsburgh, which will have John Woodruff at anchor; New York university, which will have undefeated Jim Herbert running the anchor leg; Ohio State, Georgetown, Fordham, Harvard, Yale and Princeton.

The North Texas team of Elmer and Delmer Brown and Wayne and Blaine Rideout heads the four-team entry for the 1 7/8-mile medley relay. The other contenders are Indiana, Ohio State and Manhattan. The two mile relay has drawn Fordham, N.Y.U., Yale, Harvard, Columbia and North Carolina, while the New York Curb Exchange A.A., national outdoor and indoor 1,600-meter champion, will start from scratch in the interclub mile relay.

Hawkshaw the Great Questions Mr. Groundhog

Hawkshaw the Mighty came out of his hole simultaneously with the fabled groundhog this morning to get the information first hand on whether Iowa City was going to have six more weeks of strenuous weather or whether the elements would relent and give local residents a fairly early spring.

"According to the legend, Oswald, (Hawkshaw calls his furry friend by that affectionate term) if you saw your shadow when you came up out of your subterranean retreat this morning the good citizens of Iowa City are in for a month and a half more of winter climate. If you didn't see your gaunt form on the ground it means that the balmy breezes of spring are not so far away. Is that the way you comforted your friend?" asked the world-renowned sleuth.

"Well, you see it's this way, Hawkie, ol' pal, ol' pal," quoth

Sir Oswald, the bearded rascal. "I calculate as how I don't want to stick my neck out, and when you asked me as a special favor to give you my own personal views on the matter, I was prone to come to your abode to impart my precious information to you. For it might not work this time."

"What might not work," asked the perplexed Hawkshaw, caught off guard by the simplicity of the statement.

"Oh, go back to your hermitage," barked the saucy little Oswald. "I mean the tradition might not pan out this year. You know there's an exception to all rules, and I'm afraid that even though I didn't see my sleek shadow on the glazed surface this morning, Iowa City may have to wait until the ideas of March until warm weather comes." The last in a mournful tone.

"Cast no aspersions on my method of living," snapped back Slewfoot Hawkie, who repaired to the seclusion of the woods to meditate some moons ago. "Better I should be berating you. For if The Daily Iowan hadn't asked me to unearth this strange and penetrating knowledge for their readers, I shouldn't be here even now, yea and verily. However, I am glad that you admit to the fallacy of tradition. It is gratifying to learn that though the sun doesn't come with the dawn of Feb. 2, we can still expect nice irigid temperature for the legendary six weeks. And now if you have no more to say, I'll be off to my woodland lean-to."

"All I can say is that I'm sorry," bewailed Oswald. "I really want it to get warm. I'm just tellin' yuh what's in my bones."

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE
 Jordan, a young clerk working in a strange city, is lonely on his twenty-first birthday. He asks a strange girl to help him celebrate his anniversary. They go to a cheap night club where another man tries to take the girl away from Bill. She refuses to go and the man calls her a foul name. Bill goes to her defense and demands that the stranger apologize. They get into a fight and the man punches for his hip pocket. Thinking the man has a gun, Bill grabs a water carafe and hits him on the head. The man dies and Bill is arrested. District Attorney Mathews sympathizes with the boy's plight. It is, he says, an unfortunate circumstance that might happen to anyone. Instead of trying Jordan for second degree murder, Mathews allows the boy to plead guilty to manslaughter. Bill is sentenced to ten years in the state penitentiary. . . . Six years later we find Bill a hardened, embittered prisoner. He has been working in the prison jute mill since his incarceration and the dirt and dust of the mill is breaking him down. His lungs are affected and he is close to nervous collapse. One of his cellmates says he might be able to wrangle a transfer from the new warden. When Bill learns that the new warden is the same Tom Mathews who sent him up he laughs bitterly. His cellmate discloses that the convicts are preparing a surprise welcome for the warden when he arrives the following day.

"Yeah?" he asked, "And if I don't go down—then what? They'll think I'm afraid of them. Listen, I've been taking taxpayers' money for a long time now. When I was district attorney it was my job to get convictions—and I got 'em. Well, now I'm warden. It's my job to boss this prison. An' that's just what I'm going to do! Isn't that right, sweetheart?" he turned and gave Elizabeth a quick hug. Then he strode from the office.

The men were still yammering when the door to the administration building opened and Tom Mathews stepped out alone. Mathews watched them curiously for a moment. Then he relighted his cigar, tossed the match away and walked down among the men in the yard.

As he approached they opened a lane for him and he was quickly in the midst of the mob. Well toward the center of the yard he made out the tall, menacing figure of a Tex, a lifer he had sent up for murder. Mathews guessed rightly that Tex was one of the leaders of the convicts. He walked directly toward Tex.

"Hello, Tex," he said affably. "Haven't seen you since we were in court together."

Tex, unable to hide his admiration for the new warden's nerve, smiled briefly. "Hiya, Mr. Mathews," he said.

"Tell the boys to shut up," Mathews commanded. Tex studied the warden for a moment, then he turned to the men close behind. "Pass the word along to pipe down," he ordered.

When the yard was still Mathews spoke again. "I've sent up a lot of the boys here in my time, Tex," he said. "You were one of 'em. That was my job an' I did it. Now I'm the warden here. It's my job to boss this prison. I'm going to do it. But I'll do it fair an' square. Every man in here will be treated according to how he behaves. If any of them want to be tough, that's okay with me. I can be tough, too."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
Chapter Two

"I think you'll find this a nice office, Tom," Commissioner McNulty of the State Prison Board was showing the new warden

"Tell the boys to pipe down." (Posed by Walter Connolly and players.)

around the prison. Tom Mathews turned at the door. "Come in and inspect your daddy's new office," he said. He stepped aside to allow his daughter, Elizabeth—slim, wide-eyed and attractive—to come in followed by her aunt, Katie Mathews, who was to be her brother's housekeeper at the prison and chaperone for her niece. Elizabeth walked to the desk. She inspected it and then strolled over to the window that looked out on the prison yard. The men were having their recreation period but, instead of the usual hubbub and activity of these daily periods, the yard was strangely quiet. The men were standing quietly, all eyes turned up to the warden's window.

A Warm Reception
 As Elizabeth appeared in the window a low murmur rose from the men. She shrank back involuntarily. "How many prisoners are there, Daddy?" she asked.

Mathews looked inquiringly at Grady, captain of the prison guards, who was standing beside the desk. "Twenty-five hundred and fifty-two, sir," Grady said.

"Yeah," Mathews grinned. "And I'll bet I convicted more than a thousand of those fellows myself." He walked over and joined his daughter at the window. With one voice the men in the yard sent up a full-throated, derisive "YAH!" as soon as they saw Mathews.

Mathews turned, bewildered, to Grady. "What is it?" he asked.

"They call it 'yammering,' sir," Grady explained. "They do it when they're sore at something or somebody. This is probably their idea of welcoming you. I'd better go down and shut them up."

Mathews smiled down at his daughter. "I'm sorta popular with the boys, eh?"

"Don't let that worry you, sir," Grady said. "We'll shut them up." He started for the door.

"You stay here, Grady," Mathews ordered. "You stay here. I'll go down there myself."

"You'd better not, Tom," McNulty interposed. "It may mean trouble."

Mathews took a cigar from his mouth and turned belligerently.

If they play on the level with me I'll treat them the same way. Tell that to the boys, Tex." Mathews turned and strode through the silent prisoners back to his office.

The New Chauffeur
 With the passing weeks Bill Jordan found the jute mill increasingly unbearable. One day he collapsed and was taken to the prison hospital. The doctor examined him. He studied his record, noted the boy's youth and then he went to the warden. On the doctor's recommendation Mathews looked at the card on his desk. "Your name is William Jordan," he said. "Mind if I call you 'Bill'?"

There was a hint of bitterness in Jordan's voice when he replied. "You asked me that once before," he said.

Mathews studied him more closely. "Yeah," he said. "Now I remember. The Parker case. Lemme see, that was six years ago. . . ."

At that moment the door opened and Elizabeth came into the office. She stopped just inside the door and looked at Bill curiously. When Bill saw her his drooping shoulders straightened instinctively. He looked down at his dirty, grimy clothes and then tried to hide his grunted hands behind his back.

"We're having tea, Father," Elizabeth said.

Mathews looked up at her. "What's that?" he asked. "Tea? All right. Run along. I'll be there in a minute." Bill watched her as she left and Mathews, turning back to his desk, noted the change in the boy's face. He studied the card before him.

"Change of occupation and environment recommended," he muttered to himself. He looked up at Jordan.

"Can you drive a car, son?" he asked.

"Yes, sir," Bill replied.

"Then you've got a new job. Starting tomorrow you're my chauffeur."

Winter Hideout Of Shrimp Is Hunted

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP)—Uncle Sam would like to know where a shrimp goes in cold weather.

To find the answer, the government has sent the trawler Pelican on a research tour of gulf coast waters.

But meanwhile Mrs. P. J. Sifona, proprietor of a deep sea fishing business, has an explanation that suits her.

Slashing open a giant red snapper, she pointed to a large shrimp the snapper had swallowed.

"That fish was hauled in from deep water," she said. "He was eating shrimp so the shrimp must also be in deep water. They go out to the depths to escape the shallow, cold water near shore. Then the summer sun coaxes them back inshore."

If Vitamin B Is Needed, Don't Let 'Em Eat Cake

AMES, Ia. (AP)—The "hunger vitamin" (B) makes little Willie "eat like a horse" in winter, says Ruth Cessna, Iowa State college nutritionist.

"She describes it as a 'vicious circle' because Willie has to eat to want to eat and the more he eats of certain things he shouldn't eat the less he wants to eat of those he should."

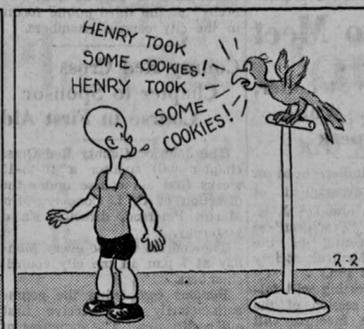

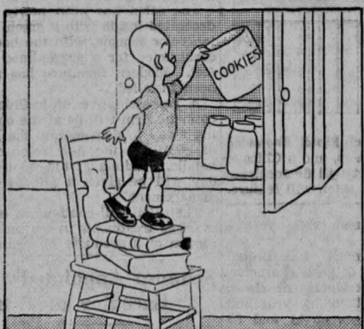

Willie's mother often upsets the cycle, Miss Cessna says, when she lets him have the second and third piece of candy rather than battle about it. The result is to lessen his desire for such body-building foods as milk, whole cereals, fruits and vegetables which furnish vitamin B, the appetite stimulant.

Iowa City Reports Largest Fire Loss in State for 1937

$450,806 Mark Caused By Hybrid Corn Factory Fire

Iowa City's fire loss during 1937—$450,806—was the largest reported by any Iowa city, according to figures released yesterday by State Fire Marshall J. Vincent Pyle.

The Iowa City loss was more than one-tenth of the total state loss, half again as much as the Des Moines fire loss, more than twice as large as the Mason City figure and greater than four times the Sioux City report.

The large figure was caused by the fire which destroyed the National Hybrid Corn company factory in December with a loss which exceeded $400,000.

The state total for 1937, $4,337,105 was smaller than the figure for 1936 but was larger than 1934 and 1935.

"Fire caused 61 deaths in Iowa last year, practically all of them due to carelessness," Pyle said. "Not one of these deaths occurred in a large fire," he continued, "while the most common cause of these fires resulting in death was the use of kerosene to kindle a fire, and the use of gasoline in cleaning clothes."

The 1937 number of fatalities compares favorably with the 1936 total of 71 deaths, while 14 have already died in the first month of 1938.

While Iowa's loss from fires decreased last year, the nation's loss increased, having jumped from $235,000,000 in 1935 to $284,000,000 in 1937.

Sparks from chimneys started more fire in Iowa last year than any other cause. In 1,232 fires from this origin, the damage amounted to $291,077.

Last year 392 farm dwellings were destroyed with a fire loss of $553,790 in buildings and $188,439 in contents. In town dwellings, 2,392 fires were reported with a loss of $554,610 to buildings and $201,047 to contents.

Pyle attributed the larger proportional loss in farm fires to the absence of adequate fire-fighting facilities in the rural districts.

TVA Lowers Lake To Prepare for Floods

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Tennessee valley authority has begun to draw down the giant lake behind its $36,000,000 Norris dam on the Clinch river to provide reservoir capacity to control spring floods in the Tennessee valley.

Engineers estimate the mammoth barrier thrown across the fussy little stream in East Tennessee, can hold enough water from its vast drainage area to lower flood crests at Chattanooga by three to five feet during a rainy season. Once in 1936, it was credited with preventing flood damage of more than $75,000 in the Chattanooga area.

Excess rainfall is stored in the 34,200-acre dam basin until it can be released without danger. The stored water also will provide an ample flow to insure a navigable stream below the dam throughout the summer months, the engineers say.

His Majesty's Fishes Thrive on Lowly Fleas

LONDON (AP)—Pleas go to Buckingham palace every day but they don't bite anyone. They are specially bred food for fish in the royal aquarium.

A tropical fish expert drives into the palace courtyard with a small black bag containing a supply of water fleas. For easier handling they are semi-frozen on gauze trays.

When dropped into the water, they come to life and give the fish some exercise—if not snapped up first.
