Hitler and Schuschnigg Reach Decisions in Lengthy Meeting; Come to Peaceful Conclusions

Chancellors Decide To Continue Business Negotiations

VIENNA, Feb. 12 (AP)—Chancellors Adolf Hitler of Germany and Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria in a sudden meeting today came to a peaceful understanding after months of nervous suspicion and apprehension.

Reliable Austrian sources said the following decisions were taken in the chancellors' lengthy conference at Berchtesgaden, Hitler's Bavarian retreat near the Austrian-German border:

1. Nazis in Austria would end their campaign of sabotage which has irritated or terrorized Austria almost without interruption since 1933.

2. Hitler promised he would reaffirm in his speech before the reichstag Feb. 20 that he respects Austrian independence.

3. Flushed with the success of their first meeting in years, they decided also to continue negotiations, particularly in the economic field, to cement better relations.

A communique pointedly declared the conference was held at Hitler's invitation though earlier it was reported it was Premier Benito Mussolini's urging which brought the two chancellors together.

Circles close to the government in summarizing the situation which led to the meeting declared for the first time in months Schuschnigg held the upper hand.

They said this was true because Hitler required some international peace gesture to soften the setback of the German-friendly Octavian Goga government in Rumania and Premier Mussolini's apparent warming-up to Great Britain in Spanish non-intervention negotiations.

FIRST CHECK Tenant-Share Cropper Receives Loan

JASPER, Ala., Feb. 12 (AP)—An Alabama farmer received today the first government check in a national program designed to combat the "tenant-share cropper" system by helping farmers to purchase land.

Senator Lister Hill (D., Ala.) presented checks of $3,800 and $676 to Wiley J. Langley, 58-year-old father of 12, for purchase and improvement of land he has tilled as a tenant.

Langley will buy the 180 acres he had tilled as renting tenant, and will have money to improve his house and lands, and to pay some debts as well.

Report Bandits In East Iowa

But Highway Patrolmen Fail to Find Them After Search

CLINTON, Iowa, Feb. 12 (AP)—A report that Iowa's "honeymoon" bandits were seen traveling east on the Lincoln highway early Saturday night threw Clinton county authorities into a flurry of activity but a two-hour patrol of the highway and other roads yielded no further trace of the pair.

Sheriff C. S. Petersen was informed about 8:30 p.m. that two young men answering the descriptions of George Graham and James Thompson, known as the "honeymoon" bandits, had stopped at a roadside station near Low Moor and then headed east. They were said to be driving a green Pontiac car with a 1937 California license.

The sheriff and his deputies immediately started a search and warned guards at both bridges to be on the lookout for the pair. The guards said that no car answering the description had crossed the bridge up to that time.

Wrecked Sedan Found Near Here

Sheriff Milford Englebret of Iowa county last night said that a wrecked sedan was found north of Homestead, but was unable to positively identify it as the one used by convicts escaping from the Indiana state penitentiary.

License and registration plates had been stripped from the abandoned machine on highway 149 north of Homestead. The left side was damaged, and a Chicago newspaper, and a key-case bearing an Indiana address was found inside.

17-Day Storm Leaves 16 Dead, 2,000 Homeless in California

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12 (AP)—Concentrated flood waters kept numerous central California lowland areas inundated tonight and intensified their threat to the agriculturally rich Sacramento-San Joaquin river delta area.

The state counted 16 deaths and relief workers reported about 2,000 persons temporarily homeless from the record-breaking 17-day storm.

Another meteorological disturbance was moving in from the Pacific but weather forecasters professed to foresee an end to the prolonged wet spell by the middle of next week.

Hundreds of houses were flooded in Watsonville when the Pajaro river levee broke. Ten business blocks were under water. The same storm yesterday flooded the adjacent town of Pajaro, driving its 1,000 residents to higher ground.

siding in place of Attorney Robert Larson, county chairman, who was out of town, nominated Glenn Frank, former University of Wisconsin president, for the next president of the United States. Hickenlooper traced the history of Lincoln's principles, predicted republicans had a fighting chance to regain lost political territory, and lashed new deal expenditures and "slavery by taxation." Attorney Martin said the good humor well exemplified by Lincoln could be used by candidates seeking office. He illustrated his points with —Daily Iowan Photos, Engraving anecdotes. Mayor Walker praised Lincoln as "the greatest republican of all," and stated that the world's governmental and labor dictators "must avoid tinges of malice," and "that new deal charity would be expensive."

Glenn Frank for President -- Flickinger

Glenn Frank of Wisconsin was nominated for the next president of the United States, by Prof. Roy C. Flickinger, city chairman, at the Lincoln birthday dinner for republicans last night in the Jefferson hotel.

The Cedar Rapids legislator attacked new deal expenditures and "the slavery of government under the guise of taxation." Professor Flickinger, who presided, said of Frank, former University of Wisconsin president, that "his administrative ability has been displayed for a dozen years at the head of a great and exacting university."

Hickenlooper asserted, "the degree of slavery may be ascertained by the amount of time spent working for the government under the guise of taxes," and declared, "the national debt will be 40 billions of dollars by 1940." Attorney Thomas Martin, candidate for nomination as congressman, and Mayor Myron J. Walker also spoke.

Judge Harold D. Evans, toastmaster, admitted, "I probably will run again," and introduced other republican candidates. They were Attorney Bill Morrison, for state representative, and County Attorney Harold W. Vestermark, County Treasurer W. E. Smith and County Recorder "Dick" Jones, for renomination.

Lincoln Day Speeches Seek for Coalition of Votes

Leaders of the republican party joined last night in inviting dissatisfied democrats to vote with them in the next congressional and presidential elections, but they disagreed over some policies of their own party.

Late News Bulletins

Fatal Auto Crash
REINBECK, Iowa, Feb. 12 (AP)—Ernest A. Schaefer, Waterloo insurance agent, about 48, was killed instantly tonight when heavy fog that limited visibility to 20 feet caused a sideswipe collision of his car with a large trailer truck driven by Raymond Van Ohlen, 29, Sheffield, Iowa. Mrs. Schaefer suffered a severe scalp wound in the crash three miles west of here, and late tonight was still unconscious in a physician's office here. Van Ohlen was not hurt.

Convicting Jury Sits Monday To Hear Wright's Insanity Plea

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12 (AP)—A jury that sat through the month-long trial of Paul A. Wright for the slaying of his wife and friend, tearfully convicted him today on two manslaughter counts that could send him to prison for 20 years.

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 12 (AP)—Calling Abraham Lincoln "one of the greatest liberals of all time," Gov. Elmer A. Benson, Minnesota farmer laborite, attacked the republican party as being "a far cry from the republicanism of the great emancipator" in an address at a dinner in honor of the completion of Benson's first year in office.

Our Vanishing Valentine's Day

TRULY IT is a sorry age in which we live when St. Valentine's day excites no more than a mild and passing interest. Store windows may hold out offers of ready-made affection—large size for a nickel with envelope thrown in—and show placards may hint that the whole future depends upon sending HER a valentine, but still no one seems particularly interested.

Back in the little red schoolhouse in the double-decked, pig-tailed days of a generation ago, valentines were valentines whatever their material—and diamonds were not yet a threat to masculine incomes. The red-haired Venus whose books you used to carry was delighted with the hand-cut, home-doggered variety of valentine and would go into raptures over the most modest of "boughten" creations. But, alas! The modern maid can somehow be quite casual about accepting a five-dollar valentine filled with chocolates.

We seem to live in an unromantic age of "marriage agreements," three-minute separations and the like—an age which tends to discount lace and red paper along with other trills and follies of the affections. Even Cupid seems to aim more at the wallet than at the heart with intentions of at least bagging an alimony check.

Under the present lamentable conditions only a few of the more romantic souls will exchange daily love hearts this year. Others—even fewer—will send more solid tokens of affection in one, two and three-pound boxes, while the vast majority will neither send nor receive valentine greetings.

But for all this we have a legislative remedy, a veritable panacea for all the maladjustments and shortcomings of Valentine's day. We propose that the day be officially postponed until Feb. 28 and, in addition, that all creditors be required to use frothy creations, garnished with hearts, doves and flowers for their monthly statements.

Such a statement might read: Please send fifteen dollars or I'll have to decline. To give you more groceries My dear Valentine. If this were done, then and then only would every one of us receive a valentine and the good saint's day regain its former place in the hearts of men.

End Of The Baby Derby

SETTLED at last is the question of who won the Toronto stork derby prize. The Ontario supreme court decided yesterday that the $500,000, left by the late Charles Vance Millar to the woman having the most children within 10 years following his death, should be divided among four mothers, each of whom gave birth to nine children within that period.

Still in the race are two other mothers, one of whom must prove that none of her nine children were still-born, and the other who must prove the legitimacy of her nine.

In all the age-long history of practical jokes there has probably been none like this before. In a will which was a masterpiece of that rather crude form of humor, including such other oddities as the bequests of large blocks of valuable brewery stocks to clergymen known for their anti-liquor views, Millar began the derby.

The results probably exceeded his own expectations. Certainly they must have turned Mussolini and Hitler dark green with envy. Perhaps the final settlement is as wise as could be made. Each of the four women will receive $125,000—a tidy reward, even for 10 years of childbearing.

But, and we ask it of all would-be practical jokers, no more baby derbies, please. We doubt if the sudden increase in population is worth all the excitement involved.

Master Minds Meet at Chess

IOWA'S top-notch chess players are brushing up on their game in preparation for the state tournament at Sandborn. The contest is an annual event which attracts players from all parts of the state.

The game of chess, unlike other games, is pure skill, with no particle of luck or chance. A game is won only through hard mental work. To acquire an elementary knowledge of the game sufficient to appreciate the work of the masters is comparatively simple—the average high school graduate can do it in a year with proper instruction and guidance. To become an expert player, however, is an entirely different matter. The best players, or masters, have acquired their skill, only through years of constant, patient study, just as have great musicians, great billiard players and great artists.

The participants in this tournament are not masters, but a mere half-step away. Since there are only about 15 masters in the world today, it is not surprising that none are to be found here in Iowa. However, the work of the best players in this state can be easily compared to that of the experts. They have spent much of their time studying. They have lost hundreds of games. They have been discouraged in many ways. The mere fact that perseverance was present explains how they have survived the obstacles.

The state champion will play in defense of his title. Two former state champions will be there. The editor of a chess magazine will be making their bid. In this two-day round-robin affair, there is bound to be an exciting time. May the best player win! The best player always wins at chess.

THE FRENCH SIRENS

Whenever Sir John Reith and his colleagues of the British Broadcasting corporation listened in to something other than their own product and heard the programs in English coming from France, they didn't like what they heard. It was too good. British broadcasting is a monopoly entirely controlled by the government and the programs are just what a bureaucratic board thinks the British public ought to hear.

The French programs in English were as vivacious as the British were dull, but contained advertising. They were not what we call sponsored and had the commercial plugs inserted in them. Being commercial they were intended to entertain. If they weren't worth while listening to, it was just money thrown away to offer them.

The British liked them, but Sir John didn't. He appealed to his majesty's government. The foreign office went to work. It brought pressure on the French government, which in turn persuaded the three French companies, the Radio - Normandie, the Radio - Toulouse, and the Radio - Mediterranee, to stop the special broadcasts using English. The British demand put a strain on diplomacy, but the French yielded and the British Broadcasting corporation had its way.

The victory, however, was one of face and not of fact. The three French stations continue their broadcasts. The British listeners can still get them, and, as one London commentator says, "Though we can still hear it talk in French, it was simpler to hear it talk in English."

The errors and evils of bureaucracy are inherent in it. Normal human nature seems to degenerate into wilful arbitrariness as soon as a person is put in charge of a bureau where his word becomes imperative to the people. Tolerance, intelligence, and fair dealing seem to give way gradually, if not at once, to obstinacy, indifference, and ineffectiveness. This is so universally true that it almost relieves the person of responsibility and fastens it upon the system which so quickly converts him from a reasonable human being into an automatic martinet.

Clendening Explains Merits, Dangers of Light Treatment

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The feature editor of a prominent Illinois paper asks me to describe the "so-called sun lamps or ultraviolet ray lights, as a health measure.

"I have read articles for and against them. When I read one of the pamphlets against them, I imagine I am committing suicide when I sit under my own lamp. When I read praises of them, I am enabled to scorch myself with some degree of equanimity. I believe an article on the subject would be of general interest."

Neither extreme of statement concerning these lamps is quite accurate. They do not do all the good that often is claimed for them, but, on the contrary, they do no harm except when used for too prolonged a time, because they can cause extensive and severe skin burns, just as sunlight can.

There are three sources of ultraviolet light: 1. Natural—the sun. 2. Artificial. (a) Carbon arc light (open or closed arc); (b) quartz mercury vapor arc (air cooled or water cooled).

In this country the quartz mercury vapor arc is the type of light usually used. There are those who argue in favor of the carbon arc light, and those who argue for the superiority of the quartz mercury light. The carbon arc light is used very largely abroad.

When purchasing a lamp, it is well to remember that there are a great many lamps on the market which are inferior in their power to give off ultraviolet lights. The best way to judge of these is to be certain that the council on physical therapy of the American Medical association has approved the lamp you are thinking of purchasing.

The ultraviolet lamp is of most benefit in such things as surgical tuberculosis of the bones and joints and for skin conditions, such as ulcers, boils, acne, eczema. Prompt relief from pain is obtained in shingles (herpes zoster).

Tuning In with Betty Harpel

What's your favorite dish? It seems that Mary Margaret McBride, CBS columnist of the air, started something when she mentioned favorite foods on a broadcast. Letters are pouring in defending southern fried chicken, corned beef and cabbage and hot tamales.

It looks as though the states eat geographically. Judging by the letters that have arrived so far, Iowa puts roasting ears at the head of the menu, while Michigan goes for open-faced cherry pie. Kansas cooks rabbit in various ways for its favorite dish, while Montana indicates a strong corned beef and cabbage trend.

LUCILLE BALL

Lucille Ball is Phil Baker's attractive heckler in his Sunday broadcasts over CBS. Lucille doubles between the radio studios and the RKO picture lot where she is busy making flickers.

Eastern papers recently quoted a young lady as saying that she and Harry McNaughton, the butler "Bottle" on Phil Baker's programs, were to be married. Since the news came out Phil Baker has been diverting himself by sending Harry comic wedding presents. McNaughton says that it's all news to him, but he warns all and sundry he'll return no gifts.

It amuses lookers on at Raymond Paige's orchestra rehearsals to hear the maestro tell his boys, "I want you to retard the eighth bar—just because no else does."

NEW YORK—If you were a celebrated actor, starring in a smash Broadway drama and living in a penthouse, what would you think of the New York theater?

So would I, but Wallace Ford has certain definite ideas to the contrary. Mr. Ford is the star of John Steinbeck's play, "Of Mice and Men." Take the stand, Mr. Ford:

What do you think of the New York theater?

"Down at the heels and just about dead."

What do you think brought this about?

"It has been allowed to die by a lot of lazy press agents."

How do you mean?

"I mean the press agents here don't know how to work. They sit in their offices and imagine they are doing everything possible for a play or an actor by merely releasing a few routine notices to the newspapers."

And as a result...

"The stage is flat on its back, gasping for air."

Any suggestions?

"They could learn a lot from the P.A.'s on the coast. Out there they work for you day and night. They get out and dig. They're experts and if they weren't they wouldn't hold their jobs."

As, for instance...

"When a stage actor gets a studio contract and arrives in Hollywood he is met by a staff of trained salesmen and within 24 hours everybody in the country knows all about him. They build him up. Give him a send-off. If he can't make the grade then, that's his lookout."

But don't they meet you in New York?

"Not unless you've got a glamorous pair of legs or are being sued for bigamy."

Did anybody meet you?

"No! I had to call around to the theater and introduce myself. And when I mentioned this to the press agent he said, 'We don't meet picture people.' That's what I mean about New York press agents. They like to speak of themselves as 'We of the theater.' We of the theater? Where does he think I was before I went to Hollywood?"

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Remember the Maine?

You have to verge on the elderly to remember that far back with any distinctness, if at all.

Now, I remember the Maine's actual sinking.

Cuba had been in a state of insurrection against Spanish rule for a long time then.

The fighting there, right in Uncle Sam's dooryard, was a serious embarrassment to the United States. There had been considerable talk to the effect that we ought to put a stop to it, as an intolerable nuisance. I suppose we had "interests" on the island—"interests" which fomented this agitation. But it was a genuine both-or, anyway. We had filibusters, running arms to the rebels, and getting fired on. Sometimes the wrong American ships were shot at. There was the everlasting danger of complications. The situation was a pest, in short.

I suppose Spanish rule WAS oppressive. True, I myself was too young to have had much idea of the true merits of the case. In any event, we had the instinct of liberty and independence, here in the U. S. A., very strongly in those days. Liberty was what the Cubans said they were fighting for, and we sympathized with them.

Fearful of disorders, which might jeopardize the lives and properties of American residents, the American government sent the Maine to Havana.

And, as we know, the Maine blew up some time in the night of Feb. 15, 1898, with 260 lives lost. And it was assumed that the Spaniards did it. It might almost as well have been assumed that the Cubans did it—to involve the United States in war with Spain, to Cuba's advantage.

But we preferred to assume that the Spaniards did it.

It also was suggested as a possibility that a dropped lighted cigarette or spontaneous combustion or some such thing touched off one of the Maine's magazines.

A naval board of inquiry found otherwise, and a subsequent investigation sustained the naval board. Still, many folk have continued to wonder.

That's water over the dam. The Spanish-American war followed.

It was not much of a war, as a war.

But it began a new epoch for the United States. For, after that, the United States had the status of a world (international) power.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12 (Special to The Daily Iowan) — With Lanky Joe Van Ysseldyk leading the way with 12 points, the University of Iowa basketball team came through with a smashing 42-29 victory over Chicago's Maroons here tonight.

The victory was the third conference win of the season for the Hawkeyes and left them in sixth place in the Big Ten race with four losses chalked up against them. The Chicago quintet suffered its 33rd straight conference loss and now occupies the Western conference cellar with six straight losses this year.

17-15 at Half

For 20 minutes of the game the Maroons made a game of it, and, although they were never in the lead, they were never far behind. At the half Iowa held a 17-15 margin.

Brilliant shooting and a tight defense put the Hawks far out in front in the second stanza. With five minutes to go in the contest Coach Rollie Williams sent in a whole set of reserves. The second-teamers went into the game with the score standing 38-23 and held the Maroons on even terms.

Jack Drees was the iron man in tonight's game, playing all but the last five minutes. Drees was snatching rebounds from both baskets and his six points placed him third in the Hawkeye scoring column.

Blazing Benny Stephens, although ranking second to Van Ysseldyk in scoring, tallied eight points to stay well up in the conference scoring race. With his eight points tonight Stephens went into a two-way tie for fourth place with Ernie Andres of Indiana. Both men have scored 80 points in seven games.

The Hawkeyes went out to a 5-0 lead early in the game when Prasse and Stephens made close-in shots and Drees connected for a free throw on Lounsbury's foul. They continued to stay in front although a rally by the Maroons brought Chicago to within two points at the half.

The Hawks really turned on the heat in the second half. After Cassels pulled Chicago to within one point by a free throw Stephens made two free throws, Van Ysseldyk tipped in a rebound, Stephens made two more free throws, Kinnick counted on a charity toss, Van Ysseldyk tossed in a beautiful long one, Lind made a close-in bucket and Stephens went under the basket for a set-up, all before Chicago tallied a point.

With the game safely on ice, the Iowans were content to play safe and concentrated their efforts on stopping the Maroon attack.

Lounsbury paced the Chicago attack with 12 points, the same number tallied by Van Ysseldyk. Tomorrow night the Hawkeyes tangle with the fast-moving Michigan Wolverines at Ann Arbor, Mich. Michigan stands in third place in the conference standings with a record of four wins and two defeats.

Minnesota Downs Illinois For Fourth Straight Big Ten Win

Gophers Limit Illini To One Field Goal In First Half

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 12 (AP) — The Minnesota basketball team won its fourth western conference game of the season and handed Illinois its second reverse by the Gophers tonight, 28 to 23.

Limiting the Illini to one field goal in the first half, a shot by William Hapac with six minutes gone, the Gophers held a 13 to 5 advantage at the end of the half, their scoring coming mainly on six points by Gordon Spear.

The visitors' high-scoring ace, Louis Dehner, declared scholastically eligible Friday, was held without a point in the opening half by Spear but found his eye with three rebounds and one long shot in the second half, and with three free throws was high scorer for the night with 11 points.

The win was Minnesota's fourth in seven conference starts. Illinois has won two and lost six.

Ronchetti Near Speed Crown

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP) — Vic Ronchetti, Chicago's blond streak of the ice, tucked away three first places today to virtually assure himself of the North American speed skating title.

Piling up 90 points in the three races—the 440, 3-4 and 2 miles—plus the 20 he secured for a second place in Friday's mile event, Ronchetti, who skates under the colors of the Catholic Youth organization, was far in front of his competitors in the men's senior division.

In second place was Eddie Schroeder of Chicago with 50 points, while Tommy Smith, the 19-year-old Utica, N. Y., speedster, was third with 40.

Miss Janet Milne, Saranac lake skating queen, paced the women's senior field with 90 points, which, like Ronchetti's lead in the men's group, had apparently clinched the title for her. She needs no better than a third place in tomorrow's mile to gain the championship.

Michigan State Beats Michigan

Jake Townsend Scores Sixteen Points For Losers

EAST LANSING, Mich., Feb. 12 (AP) — In a basketball game that was fast and rough throughout, Michigan State college defeated the University of Michigan tonight, 41-35. Michigan was victorious in an early season game at Ann Arbor.

The score was tied three times in the first half, which ended 18-16 in favor of State, although Michigan was in front three. The Wolverines pulled ahead early in the second period, but never got more than four points away from the Spartans. Midway in the period the Spartans moved in front to stay.

Jake Townsend, Michigan's high-scoring forward, compiled 16 points for the lead and Harty Hutt, State left forward, was only one behind.

They reached the last bracket in the annual tournament that pits the boys against each other in man to man competition with convincing semi-final victories.

Snead dumped Tony Penna of Dayton, 2 and 1, in the semi-finals while Demaret breezed through his test with an easy win over Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa. The score was 4 and 3 and Picard was behind from the first hole on.

Demaret finished up in exactly even par figures for the rain-soaked San Francisco club course, a tricky golfing test fortified by 152 traps.

It is a 36-35-71 layout. Demaret carded 37 and Picard 38 for the first nine.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Charles Vitaulas Tamulis—just plain Vito in baseball circles—sent his signed contract to the Browns' office yesterday, increasing the number of 1938 signatures to 17. Tamulis was secured during the winter in a trade which sent Harry Davis to Newark of the International league.

Wolves Beat Badgers

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 12 (AP) — Northwestern clung to first place in Western conference basketball standings tonight by defeating Wisconsin 27 to 23 with a second half spurt before a crowd of 10,800.

Both teams played methodically in the first half and Wisconsin had a lead of 12 to 9 at the end of the period. The Wildcats made their first field goal after 15 minutes of play, but picked up 5 points on free throws.

Jean Smith, forward, who was high scorer for Northwestern with 10 points, led the rally in which the Wildcats forged into a 16-16 tie. Mike McMichael, forward took over the scoring duties at that point, dropping in two long goals to put Northwestern ahead.

Howard Powell, forward, led the Wisconsin team's scoring with 12 points. Second high for the Badgers was George Rooney, forward with 6 points.

Northwestern beat Wisconsin in their first game this season, 47 to 38. Ohio State's victory over Purdue tonight left the Wildcats in undisputed possession of top honors in the Big Ten.

200 Lawyers, Law Students To Attend Dinner for Bordwell

Des Moines Attorney Will Present Oil Painting

Approximately 200 lawyers and law students will attend a dinner honoring Prof. Percy Bordwell of the college of law at the Law Commons Tuesday evening, Prof. Mason Ladd of the college of law, announced yesterday.

The dinner is being given for Professor Bordwell in recognition of his 27 years of association with the college.

The life size portrait, which was completed in the fall of 1937 by Miss Bell, a member of the graphic and plastic arts department, will be presented to the college of law by Attorney Donald D. Holdogel of Des Moines. Former students of Professor Bordwell during the 25 years of his teaching contributed toward the painting of the portrait which will be hung in the law library.

Toastmaster for the dinner will be Attorney Herschel G. Langdon of Des Moines. After the presentation of the painting, Dean Wiley E. Rutledge of the college of law will accept the portrait, and Miss Bell will be introduced by Professor Ladd.

Representing the law students will be Morris Druker, L3 of Marshalltown, president of the Iowa Law School association, who will give a short address. The law school quartet is also scheduled to entertain the guests with two numbers which will be words adapted to old tunes.

The quartet is composed of W. Glen Harlan, L2 of Stuart; Donald Ladenberger, L3 of LeMars; Beryl Goodenow, L3 of Battle Creek; and Wilbur Dull, L3 of Greenfield. Arthur Coffman, L3 of Hawarden, is the accompanist.

Expressions of appreciation will be presented by Prof. Rollin Perkins, representative of the faculty; representative Eugene A. Gilmore, representative of the university, and Judge Truman S. Stevens, representative of the legal profession of Iowa.

With MARVIN TAUB

Most sensible, even if unintentional, question of the month, is that of the coed who came into the government documents department at reserve and asked the librarian if the government published any material on American democracy. "Yes," answered the librarian, "what phase of American democracy are you interested in?" The coed puckered her thin-plucked brows. "Well," she said, "all I want to know is, can it endure?"

One of the quad boys who has a flair for bright blue polka-dot shirts and scarlet jackets recently adopted a small kitten and carries it around in his coat pocket wherever he goes.

Nothing, it seems, can stop a coed when she wants to dance. A scout informs me that last Wednesday at the Union fountain a coed splattered a coke on her dress. Immediately afterwards a waiter slipped and initiated her dress into a bowl of soup. But in spite of all this she still met her date and went down to the tea dance.

I met a fellow the other night with an original "Dale Carnegie" complex. After shaking the room with his hearty laugh, he made an Indian wrestling match out of shaking hands.

I don't remember where I heard it, but somebody once said that the art of talking is disappearing. Recently I saw a society notice in a paper which said that the company was engaged in "progressive conversation."

The newest fashion with women seems to be pancake hats with veils. With men, standard equipment remains the ring in the nose.

Baird Selects Six Men For Debating Team

Proposed Ludlow Bill Topic of Big Ten Discussions

Six men have been chosen to represent the University of Iowa in the three remaining western conference debates, Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of debate, announced yesterday.

Prof. E. Funke Will Speak On Literary Form

To Trace Influence Of English Literature In Germany

Prof. Erich Funke, head of the German department, will trace the influence of English literature on German literary form from the Anglo-Saxon period to modern times in a Baconian lecture at 7:30 Thursday in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

The subject of his address will be "The Influence of English Literature on the Development of Literary Form in Germany."

Professor Funke will show in his lecture the influence of Milton's "Paradise Lost" and Addison Steele's "Tatler" on German literary form. He will tell how Shakespeare brought about a great German literature, and how this influence resulted in the dramas of Goethe and Schiller. Professor Funke will use quotations from English and German literature to show the trend of these developments.

The speaker was educated in Germany and received a Ph.D. degree there in 1921. He became an associate professor and acting head of the German department in 1932, and in 1937 became professor and head of the German department.

Professor Funke has had many articles and reviews published in various German periodicals and journals. With E. P. Appelt he has edited a book of modern German prose containing short stories by 10 representative authors and which includes biographical sketches, notes, exercises and vocabulary.

Flowers Signify Various Degrees Of Love When Sent on Valentine's Day

By EULALIA KLINGBEIL
Tomorrow morning should you find a Valentine gift of lilies-of-the-valley in a daintily decorated, tissue-filled box, would you know what the sender meant when he sent them to you?

You probably wouldn't, for as a local florist explains, "The custom is not as prevalent as it used to be for most flowers are seasonal and it is often difficult to obtain the flowers you wish to convey your particular message. It has come to be that the sending of any kind of flowers is an expression of love."

Some flowers, however, do have a meaning and sentiment all their own and perhaps your donor wishes you to know that his lilies-of-the-valley indicate a return of happiness.

The ever-popular rose signifies love. Should you receive three white roses, one, a bud, the second, half-open, and the third in full bloom—you are expected to wear the rose which best expresses your emotions. If you wear all three, your sender will probably get a seventh-heaven look on his face.

The forget-me-not and the rosemary are both for remembrance, while the delicate violet is for constancy and modesty. The sender of the peony is bashful, and the sender of the bachelor button asserts his celibacy. Daisies observe the old saying, "daisies won't tell," and their cousin, the bold sunflower, assures its recipient of constancy and adoration.

Cheerfulness is best expressed by the crocus, and abundance and wealth by the chrysanthemum. Complimented should be the receiver of an orchid for she has been adjudged a belle by the sender.

A word about the care of cut flowers. Facilities in dormitories and sorority houses are not always as convenient as at home, but a few simple rules will make your Valentine flowers last longer. These rules include keeping them in cold, fresh water which is changed every morning and evening and to which a few ice cubes have been added, keeping the flowers in a cool place and cutting the stems slantwise every morning and evening. If possible, it would be a good plan to store your cut flowers in your refrigerator during the night. You'll find that they will last longer and will appear fresh during the day when you most enjoy them.

Interested in the organization, she wrote to the national Parent-Teacher association office for literature and information regarding the group, and interested local associations in the chorus.

The Two-Two social club of the Royal Neighbors will have a Valentine party in the form of a white elephant exchange tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. John Evers, 520 E. Church street.

community home and hospitals. Mrs. Crayne's interest in music and dramatics is professional in nature, for she has made several professional appearances and has also taught dramatics.

Aware of her dramatic ability, numerous groups have selected her as program director. Mrs. Crayne is now serving her fourth year as program director of the drama department of the Iowa City Woman's club. In this capacity, she organized the verse-speaking choir which will read Longfellow's "Hiawatha" at the coming state convention.

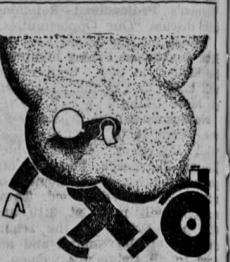

She is also program director of the Horace Mann P. T. A., which she has held for three years. Her hobby is music and she especially enjoys the music of Beethoven, for "his music is beautiful to play, excellent for music appreciation and may be enjoyed by persons of all ages," she says.

But music is not the only interest that occupies what little leisure time Mrs. Crayne has. She is interested in sewing and designing. Not only her children, Frances, 19, Rex, 12, and Donald, 10, have had clothes designed for them, but also the children of many of Mrs. Crayne's friends. A collection of braided rugs which she made herself is also one of Mrs. Crayne's varied interests.

TIPS on the Shopping Market

By Marion Lamar

COME Friday you are going to want to do a new spring costume for a big evening at the Commerce Mart. STRUBS have just the model you have dreamed of during this past week of balmy breezes and hints of spring. It may be a gay print—the SHIRLEY LEA originals are knock-outs—or a clever combination of brown and sand with a bolero. If the latter is the case, have them show you the Dress of the Week, by MARTHA GALE—there is nothing like it anywhere. You may be in love with the new black and white, navy and white, or navy and dusky rose trends—who wouldn't be? In that case you will be intrigued with WONDER FROCKS—pleated skirts, tiny collars, bits of lace and bows and boleros and sashes. Any of them are tops in high fashion and, wearing them, you will be equal to any occasion.

Margery Williams of Alpha Chi got into a bit of a Jam case Friday last, when two swains of Phi Kap called for her at the library, each one wanting a date.

GILCHRISTS have something up their sleeve that you have been wanting for a long time—something that will make their perfect beauty service even more perfect. Watch The Daily Iowan for an announcement this week of what is to come a week from tomorrow.

Reefer suits.

COMMERCE MART is the occasion for you to spring forth in your new spring costume and TOWNERS have the costume jewelry that will enhance it. Little wooden charm bracelets will be clever with bright prints, huge pink or blue brooches will glorify your navy or black dress. Any one of the funny little gadgets for lapels or the necklines of blouses will do wonders for a suit. Stop in and have a look.

THE JEFFERSON BEAUTY SHOP knows how to give you that finger wave, which flatters you the most. They charge only fifty cents for a shampoo and a fingerwave and all other beauty treatments are very inexpensive.

A watch with the figures in relief around the case. Tiers of pockets.

When your car fails to run and your billfold is low, see BROWN'S GARAGE for they do good work inexpensively.

Men—braided hat bands.

GEORGE MILLER of I. MILLER shoes says pumps are THE thing for dress.

V pumps to be exact. If you are wearing DOMBY'S BOOT SHOP in suede (dark suede is slendertizing to the foot and Mr. Miller says suede is very good for spring again), kid, gabardine, patent leather or a combination and if they are Parisand, beige, brown, black, navy, royal blue, Paris-rouge or gray you are right in step. No fooling, you have never seen the equal for style in DOMBY'S display of new spring shoes and the bags that match them are a real thrill.

To make your week end complete—in truth, to make your college career complete—there is nothing for it but to go to COMMERCE MART. It's a good deal, I think. Put on your three best things (street length dress) and barrel down to the Union, come Friday and swing and sway with HERBIE KAY. Get your tickets early tomorrow morning.

Rumor has it that Push Pullman, SAE, and Jane Levine, Phi Phi, are doing the steady act.

COMMERCE MART demands the top in street length fashion and TOWNERS can show you the real thing in bright or light prints, the original and genuine sack cloth or combinations of plain colors in crepes. The bolero is playing a lead in the spring drama along with pleats, flares and sashes. Drop in tomorrow and choose your Commerce costume at TOWNERS.

Talk by Davies To End Public Forum Series

Economic Causes And Effects of War Presented

Prof. George R. Davies of the college of commerce will deliver the fourth and last in a series of public forum lectures in the city council chambers at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. He will speak on "The Economic Causes and the Economic Effects of War."

Professor Davies' lecture was scheduled third in the series, but was postponed because of the conflict with the mid-year convocation of the university.

Prof. C. W. de Kiewit of the history department began the series of weekly discussions, sponsored by the Iowa City peace council, by speaking on the question, "Can We Keep Out of War?" He discussed the present European situation, and the relationship of America to present world affairs.

Prof. Clara M. Daley of the history department continued the weekly forums with a discussion of whether or not America can win the next war should she be involved. Professor Daley stressed the need of winning peace through international understanding, rather than considering the problem of winning at war.

Last Tuesday, Prof. Kirk H. Porter of the political science department spoke on "International Law or International Anarchy," reviewing the stages of the laws of mankind, and pointing out that the nations of the world are at the present in a stage of "self-help" in regard to international law, and that to progress the nations must have a definite conception of crime.

Tuesday's lecture by Professor Davies will conclude the discussion of the problems involved in war, and the relationship of America to world affairs.

An opportunity will be given for members of the audience to ask questions and express views following the presentation of the subject matter by Professor Davies.

All interested persons are invited.

A lifelong member of the Methodist Episcopal church, Mrs. Sporleder was interested in the church's foreign missionary work. She was also affiliated with the W.C.T.U. and the King's Daughters.

AROUND THE TOWN

With TOM JOHNSON

Jibe
Best off-the-record jibe during the republican rally at the Jefferson hotel last night came from a dour fellow at the banquet table.

After watching the waiter fill the water-glasses, he snorted and said, "Cocktails for the taxpayers."

The republicans there last night haven't been as happy since Nov. 3, 1936. "Everyone" was there except Alf Landon. By the way, whatever became of Landon?

Prof. Roy C. Flickinger, amidst loud applause, nominated Dr. Glenn Frank, former University of Wisconsin president, "for the presidency of the United States."

Professor Flickinger reminisced of the days before the war when he was Frank's instructor at Northwestern university.

Frank later was associated with Edward A. Filene, the Boston industrialist who died last year. He was editor of Century magazine, and for 12 years president of the neighboring state university.

Why Frank left Wisconsin has never been publicized, but Professor Flickinger said, "If he appears conservative now, it is only against the extremist background painted by the royal family of Wisconsin."

Income Tax
Income tax payments are due March 15, and many republicans last night discussed "the situation."

"In '36," one told another, "we worried where the tax-money was going to, but this year, we're wondering where the heck it's going to come from!"

Many have noticed what purports to be an American flag on the city hall flagpole. There are two large holes in it and the edges have been frayed by the wind.

And, one who checked up reports that only 19 flags were in the 171 pole-holders in the business district yesterday.

Reason: Girl Trouble
Downtown last night, two young men attempted to seal a suicide pact by drinking beer spiked with sodium cyanide.

An alert waiter, suspicious, jerked the unhealthy potions away from them in the proverbial nick of time.

For saving reputations, I hope the other gives the waiter a raise. The other two should be darn grateful he saved their stomachs.

Knights Templars Will Convene At Masonic Temple

The regular monthly meeting of Palestine Commandery No. 2, Knights Templar, will convene at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Masonic temple.

Cavalrymen to Meet Tonight; to Practice Rifle Marksmanship

The weekly meeting of Troop I, 113th cavalry of the National Guard, will be at 7:30 tonight in the new armory. Lieut. Elmer Hay will be in charge.

Following the roll call, cavalrymen will participate in a mounted drill, rifle marksmanship and map reading.

Bus Line Adds 2 Daily Trips

Two new bus trips — one leaving Iowa City at 7:40 a.m. for St. Louis and the other at 12:25 p.m. for Cedar Rapids — have been added to the daily schedule of the M. C. Foster bus lines.

There are now three round trips daily to St. Louis, leaving the union bus depot at 7:40 and 10:32 a.m. and 7:05 p.m. One other bus goes south to Burlington, leaving the depot at 4:05 p.m.

Northbound busses leave for Cedar Rapids at 5:30 a.m., 9:38 a.m., 12:25 p.m. and 7:40 p.m.

A review of last week's work will precede the discussion.

Twenty members were enrolled in the course at the meeting last Monday. Anyone may attend.

Smiles Truckin' on down under the palm trees isn't a recognized extracurricular activity at St. Petersburg, Fla., Junior College, but these co-eds find that a little study in the afternoon helps them shine in the evening.

Horse Opera Heroine

She's a Phi Beta in the College of Outdoor Drama.

The Pittsburgh society friends of Mary Elizabeth Rowles, Polly Rowles of Hollywood, uttered not a few "Oh, my dear's" when they saw her with Gene Autry in "Springtime in the Rockies." My word, she was now acting in horse operas! What they didn't know is that Gene Autry is now America's Number 1 fresh-air hero. Though of the balcony trade, more people saw Polly Rowles in "Springtime in the Rockies" than in her two other pictures for Universal combined, "Love Letters of a Star" and Boris Karloff's "Night Key."

As for Polly herself, appearing with Gene Autry was determination to stay before the Kleig lights. Universal had failed to take up her option. It had looked as though Polly and Mrs. Rowles would have to return to Pittsburgh, the Cinderella career at an end.

Polly was not trained for oats drama, nor did she really have to wait by a dingy fireside before Hollywood called. Her father is a steel executive, her mother socially prominent in Pittsburgh. Polly prepared for college in three of the East's most "too, too" finishing schools. In 1931 she entered Carnegie Tech, and went beauty and charm's route to the prominence that made her "Campus Queen" her senior year. By 1935 she had played in nearly every Carnegie Tech show to go on the boards. Then followed further footlight polishing in Pittsburgh's Little Theater.

The film scouts that increasingly look over college performers finally saw Polly. She took a screen test. Universal gave her a leading role in "Love Letters of a Star."

Now 23, of Swedish-Irish descent, it is likely Polly will stay in Hollywood if she has to go through the College of Outdoor Drama to get back into graduate work with the less wooden leading-men.

Foresters Introduce New College Sports

Traditional forms of collegiate competition are abandoned when the University of Minnesota's student foresters get together for their annual field day. Here we have an exclusive COLLEGIATE DIGEST picture-and-paragraph story of their many woodsman's contests.

Honor Fund Donor

Participants in the dedication of a bronze memorial tablet to the late John McMullen by Cornell University are shown above at the close of the ceremonies. Mr. McMullen was the donor of the John McMullen Fund, the principal of which now amounts to more than $1,600,000 and supplies scholarships to the students in the college of engineering.

"Yes—absolutely!" says Commander Edward Ellsberg. And millions of other steady smokers agree that there is a distinct difference in Camels. That's why Camels are the largest-selling cigarette in the world.

ELLSBERG is used to fatigue. He says of Camels: "I found that smoking a Camel when I feel tired after an hour under water—or any tour of duty—gives me a quick 'lift' in energy."

IN ACTION! Commander Ellsberg shares danger with his men. He says: "The last thing a diver does before going down—and the first thing after coming up—is to smoke a Camel."

America's future farm leaders attend classes regularly each day. They are shown here leaving the pillared agriculture study center on the Wisconsin campus.

Proper methods of testing dairy products are being learned by this class in agricultural chemistry.

Agricultural engineering is an important part of the course. This class is learning the latest developments in farm machinery from Instructor Duffee.

Winter Study For Spring Sowing

To give young men of the farms a broad educational contact which will train them to be better farmers and better citizens is the purpose of the "Farm Folk School" operated during the snow season by the University of Wisconsin college of agriculture.

The school's term runs each year from the middle of November to the middle of March, days during which active farm work is curtailed by the cold and the snow. The full course requires two terms, but many go back for the third and fourth. Average age of the 300 students is 22 years. The entire four months' course, including food, shelter and tuition, costs but $97.50—and this includes medical care.

There are no entrance requirements or examinations. The course of study is built around the social and cultural needs, as well as the vocational interests, of America's future farm leaders. The former course gives them an acquaintance with economics, history, sociology and political science. The latter covers all phases of farming.

Plans are now being made to extend this type of training to the farm girls of the state, so that they, too, can use their winter months' leisure to train themselves for more efficient and intelligent summer months' activity.

Stalin Advises Worker's Union For Protection

Leader Would Gain Political, Moral Backing

Organization Necessary For Strengthening Army and Navy

MOSCOW, Feb. 14 (AP)—Joseph Stalin, leader of the communist party, urged today the Soviet Union bolster its defensive program by organizing the working classes of other countries to give Russia political aid "in case of military attack."

The "final victory of socialism" will not be complete, he said, until such aid is added to Russia's efforts to strengthen her army and navy.

Stalin's declarations were made in a letter in Pravda, the party organ, written in response to a question of a young communist league agitator who asked him whether the final victory of socialism could be considered won.

"The aid of the international proletariat appears to be a force without which the final victory of socialism in one country is not to be decided," he declared.

He did not say whether he had in mind collaboration with foreign labor parties, non-communist as well as communist, nor did he mention communism or advocate the overthrow of capitalism in other countries.

"Of course," Stalin said, "it doesn't mean that we must sit with folded arms awaiting help from the outside."

"On the contrary, the aid of the international proletariat should be joined with our work for increasing the defense capacity of our country, of strengthening the red army and the red navy, the mobilization of the whole country and with our struggle against armed attacks and attempts to restore bourgeois connections."

The first stage of socialism's victory in Russia has been won, Stalin wrote, "by liquidation of the bourgeois." He said the exiled Leon Trotsky and others who advocated international revolution had been shown to be wrong.

Vern Nall Gives Report

Attends Conference Of Small Business Men in Washington

"There's no difference in the viewpoint of a small business man and a large one," said Vern W. Nall, owner of the Nall Chevrolet company, who attended the recent conference of small business men in Washington.

Asked for the opinion of small business men regarding the causes of the current business recession, he said, "The general impression is that labor unrest, coupled with uncertainty and fear of government policies. Many people say they are not buying things because they are afraid of what's coming."

Almost a thousand attended the conference which was divided into 10 sections to discuss different problems, including government loans to small companies, unemployment, fair trade practices, social security, government research, wages and hours, housing, installment selling, development and location of industries, and other subjects.

Nall's chief interest was the section that discussed installment buying. This group was dismayed by the president's recent condemnation of installment buying and passed resolutions to the effect that installment buying is sound and requesting the administration to abandon efforts to regulate competition between different business units, and to instead pursue a policy of enforcing competition coupled with a strict and energetic enforcement of present anti-trust laws.

"There were a few business men there who wanted government loans," said Nall, "but what most of us wanted was just to be left alone."

While in Washington, Nall had the use of a limousine and chauffeur as a courtesy of the Buick sales organization there. Incidentally, Nall's chauffeur and car were the same that were used the week before by Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors corporation, when he attended the big business conference.

Strike Causes Traffic Tie-Up In Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 14 (AP)—Minneapolis was without public conveyance service tonight.

The last street car was pulled into the barns before 6 p.m. Buses on both local and Minneapolis-St. Paul lines had ceased running hours earlier.

In St. Paul the stoppage of service spread somewhat slower than it had in Minneapolis, but by evening only a few street cars were operating.

The result, particularly in Minneapolis where taxicabs were off the streets because of a strike started Friday, was the stranding of thousands of persons in the loop.

It also precipitated a mass movement of private automobiles that created the worst loop traffic jam in the city's history.

Meanwhile city officials, and union and street railway officials sought a common ground for ending the tie-up that began this morning at the Lake street barns, and spread rapidly through the city.

That will be the title of the tiny actress' next picture at Selznick International studio. Budd Selznick and Marshall Neillan have been assigned to write the original story.

—And the president is being sent a check for $100, which is the fee the studios pay for naming pictures. The money will go to the National Paralysis foundation.

Japanese Advance Threatens To Bottle Up 400,000 Chinese

Army Surges Toward Kaifeng, Lunghai Railway Exit

SHANGHAI, Feb. 15 (Tuesday) (AP)—A Japanese army of 60,000 men, buttressed by hundreds of tanks and planes, has surged down across the plains of north China and is threatening to bottle up 400,000 Chinese on the central front.

In modern war style but over the same rolling terrain, the Japanese were emulating the 13th century conquest by the Mongol emperor, Kubla Khan. Instead of the great Khan's yak tail banner the conquerors carried the rising sun flag.

The spearhead of this swiftly mobile column has less than 20 miles, including the broad Yellow river, between it and Kaifeng, Honan provincial capital near the western end of China's vital central front corridor.

Capture of Kaifeng would choke off the vital Lunghai railway, practically the only means of exit for the legions of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek now deployed along the railway for 300 miles eastward to the Yellow Sea.

Reports today from the northern Honan sector told of the 60,000 Japanese slogging knee-deep through mud and snow in the overland thrust toward the Yellow river.

Japanese said this and other offensives from both the north and south against the Lunghai railway were continuing with terrific losses to the Chinese, despite rain and snow which fought for the side of the defenders.

EXCUSED TARDINESS

School Boy Captures Escaping Thief

CHICAGO, Feb. 14 (AP)—Shepard Kerman, 16, unwittingly captured a robber today, which made him late for school.

Waiting for a bus, Kerman saw a six foot stranger emerge from the Sheridan inn amid a welter of shouts from people inside. He grasped the man by the arm and led him docilely back inside.

There the stranger identified himself as Otto Loth, produced $9 loot and gave up a .38 caliber pistol. Kerman glanced hastily at the pistol and ran for his bus.

At school, he told of his capture. Teacher let him off for the day.

Place in Rifle Team Competition

Two Iowa Citizens, Corp. Albert Carleton and First Sergt. Arthur Baldwin, members of Troop I of the 113th cavalry regiment of the National Guard, won first and third places respectively in the Chief National Guard Bureau's indoor rifle team matches in Des Moines.

The 113th regiment, Iowa City, failed to win the match by 22 points, the 168th regiment placing first and the 133d regiment, second.

The matches, held in the Memorial armory in Des Moines, consisted of firing in the prone, kneeling, sitting and standing positions.
