Symphony Wins Acclaim With Sibelius

By MILDRED HOLLY Daily Iowan Campus Editor Iowa City music lovers had their first real introduction to the symphonies of Sibelius at last night's concert by the St. Louis symphony orchestra, and their enthusiastic approval showed they liked it.

The unprecedented performance of the Finnish composer's stirring Symphony No. 2, in D Major, Opus 43, was the climax of two programs, heard by approximately three thousand persons in Iowa Union. The selections ranged through some of the most important composers of classical, romantic and modern music.

An interesting experiment of a modern writer was the selection of Alexandre Tansman's Variation on a Theme of Frescobaldi, played from manuscript. Tansman, one of the important of the younger Polish composers, was started on the road to success by Mr. Golschmann.

The afternoon concert, on the other hand, was satisfying and well-balanced, although certain aspects were disappointing. The string section was strong and the rest of the orchestra equally so, but the clarinets and bassoons did not blend either in tone or in interpretation, proving a weak spot.

England, France Ask Germany To Cite Intentions in Austria; Cabinet Heeds Hitler Demands

New Ministry Gives Amnesty For Prisoners

Cabinet Sounds Warning Of Anti-Semitic Measures

By The Associated Press VIENNA, Feb. 16 — The new Hitler-approved cabinet went to work today executing German demands with the freeing of thousands of political prisoners.

Three lists were telegraphed to the German chancellor before he finally accepted the reorganization which gave Austria just after midnight a cabinet including a personal friend of Hitler as minister of interior, two men called sympathetic to Germany and two nationalists.

One of the first fruits of governmental change was an amnesty order for political prisoners which nazis said affected some 3,200 persons, of whom 54 were involved in the putsch against the late Chancellor Engelbert Dollfus in 1934.

The warning that Austria faced anti-Semitic measures came from an official who declared: "It is to be expected that the state defend itself against certain encroachments against unwanted immigration."

Through the amnesty for political prisoners, other sections of the population began to feel the new order even before the exhausted cabinet members awoke after their crucial and long session in which the reorganization was effected.

Amnestied prisoners began leaving prisons and concentration camps. Nazis said that among those affected by the amnesty were 22 persons sentenced to life terms.

The cabinet changes resulted from Saturday's meeting at Berchtesgaden of Chancellors Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria and Adolf Hitler of Germany.

Although the consensus seemed to be that a change in Austria had to come sooner or later, the nation still asked what it all was about, why and who gained.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 16 (AP) — Herbert Hoover, former president of the United States, tomorrow will join with Belgium in observance of the fourth anniversary of the death of King Albert.

He will place a wreath on the tomb of the king who was his friend during the World war when Hoover was chairman of the commission for relief in Belgium.

British, French Seek to Build Nazi Resistance

Democracies Oppose A Power Action On Measures

LONDON, Feb. 16 (AP) — Great Britain and France, gravely worried over Germany's drastic moves to force nazi domination on Austria, decided tonight to ask Chancellor Adolf Hitler's government to declare its future intentions regarding the country.

This decision was made public after a two-hour meeting of the British cabinet — the second session of the day — and was believed to reflect a joint Anglo-French understanding to strengthen their weak resistance against nazi encroachment in Austria.

British and French ambassadors in Berlin were instructed, the foreign office announced, to approach the reich government with a request for information concerning the startling developments in Vienna.

The ambassadors were told to reiterate the interest of Great Britain and France in Austria. It was indicated they would remind Germany the two democracies were opposed to single action by one power on questions paramount to all Europe.

There was no doubt that Hitler, in forcing the appointment of nazi sympathizers to the Austrian cabinet, at the same time forced Great Britain and France, occupied with rearming and obviously unready to go to war now, to decide whether to take a stronger stand in turbulent Europe.

For five years, while nazism and fascism have been climbing to world power, the two democracies have been mild and conciliatory.

Now they are confronted with only two possible policies to pursue regarding the German threat to Austria's independence.

They could either make war against Germany to prevent her engulfing the tiny country, or they could by diplomatic means support Austrian Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg in his fight to keep the nazis from gaining more power.

A French diplomatic official said that "inasmuch as we cannot declare war against Germany, we must adopt more discreet but effective means."

Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos and other French diplomats thoroughly canvassed the situation with the British foreign office and it was finally decided to try to pin Hitler down on how far he intends to go in Austria.

Plans Way For Crops Control

Wallace's Way Cleared To Regulate Farm Overproduction

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP) — The Roosevelt administration set in motion tonight machinery to carry out the gigantic crop control program signed into law this afternoon by the chief executive.

Declaring that the measure for regulation of farm production and marketing was "historic legislation," Mr. Roosevelt added that it represented "the winning of one more battle for an underlying farm policy that will endure."

Presidential approval cleared the way for Secretary Wallace to exercise enormous power in dealing with such problems as overproduction and price depressing surpluses of the five basic crops — cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco and rice.

Obviously pleased at enactment of the bill which completed on Monday a rough journey through congress, Wallace announced that the 2,250,000 cotton and tobacco farmers would be given an opportunity within 30 days to express themselves on its most restrictive provision.

They will be asked to approve a marketing quota system designed to hold surpluses off the market until they are needed. Wallace explained that burdensome surpluses of cotton and tobacco now exist.

Such a quota system would seek to hold 1938 production and marketing of cotton to around 10,750,000 bales, compared with last year's crop of 18,747,000 bales. The production goal for flue-cured tobacco will be set at about 700,000,000 pounds, compared with approximately 800,000,000 last year.

Apparently referring to criticism that the legislation would "regiment" farmers, Mr. Roosevelt, while conceding that it was "not perfection," described the bill as the "constructive product of the able and sincere work of many men."

Gangster Not 'Stir Crazy'

Officials Reveal Al Capone's Condition Due To Pre-Prison Causes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP) — Al Capone is suffering from intermittent mental disturbances but the greater part of the time his mind is lucid, the justice department announced today.

The former Chicago gang chief's condition, however, is not the result of confinement—the disturbance convicts call "stir crazy,"—but is due to pre-prison causes, officials said.

The department issued a statement on the Capone illness because of conjecture about his condition since a psychiatrist visited him 10 days ago, it said.

"Al Capone is in the hospital at Alcatraz. He is suffering from intermittent mental disturbances. For the greater part of the time his mind is lucid. His condition is in no wise due to his incarceration. He is under competent medical care—the same care that any other prisoner would receive under similar circumstances. There is no present intention of transferring him to any other federal institution."

Chinese Forces Nearly Trapped; Japan Moves South SHANGHAI, Feb. 16 (AP) — Japan's powerful mechanized forces were reported today smashing desperate but crumbling Chinese resistance in the Yellow river sector.

Advancing rapidly southward along the Peiping-Hankow railway, a Japanese army was said to be threatening to entrap several hundred thousand Chinese troops defending the Lung-hai railway zone, in the heart of central China.

The Japanese were striving to reach the strategic rail junction city of Chengchow, where the Peiping-Hankow line crosses the vital east-west Lung-hai railway, and cut off a possible general Chinese withdrawal westward.

Another Japanese army was striking northward toward the Lung-hai from the Hwai river sector west of Pengpu and if it gains contact with Japan's northern armies the Japanese will have accomplished their purpose in closing the bottleneck of the Lung-hai "corridor."

There were indications, however, that the Japanese gains were still far from the decisive stage. The Chinese reported they had pressed a counter offensive in the Wen-chang-Tsing sector, some 200 miles east of the Peiping-Hankow front, and had blocked the advance of another Japanese army toward the Lung-hai.

In their campaign to conquer the rich central China agricultural region, with its all-important railway network, the Japanese sent five separate armies down from the north, along a 500-mile front extending westward from the gulf of Chihli to the Peiping-Hankow railway.

Scott Defends Proposed Plan

Says Increased Plan To Stop Spread Of Fascism

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP) — A congressional committee heard Representative Scott (D-Cal) declare today that Germany, Italy and Japan may act in concert to "spread fascism" in the United States.

He indicated that this possibility was a partial justification for the proposed $800,000,000 increase in the size of the fleet.

Germany and Italy already are "propagandizing" in South America, Scott told the house naval committee. Calling attention to the anti-communist pact recently negotiated by Japan, Germany and Italy, he said:

"Japan's espionage is well known. The propaganda being spread in South America by Germany and Italy is well known."

"We should consider the possibility of a concerted effort on the part of these three nations to spread fascism to the United States in one way or another."

The Californian made this declaration during his examination of Representative Fish (R-N.Y.). The latter, opposing the 20 per cent increase in the navy, called for immediate invocation of the neutrality act against Japan and the calling of a naval disarmament conference within 30 days.

Scott said invocation of the act would "endanger" the security of this country.

Relief Measure Passes House With Majority

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP) — A $250,000,000 supplementary appropriation for emergency relief for the next four months went through the house today by the overwhelming vote of 352 to 23. It now goes to the senate.

Republicans and democrats alike voted the fund after the works progress administration reported that the business recession would add 500,000 persons to the current total of about 2,000,000 on relief rolls and that available money would be insufficient.

The house easily defeated an attempt by Representative Voorhis (D-Cal) to increase the appropriation to $400,000,000 and a proposal by Representative Dies (D-Tex) that any of the money allocated to construction be transferred to the public works administration.

A moment before the final decision, Representative Taber (R-N.Y.) got only a smattering of votes for his motion to send the proposal back to the appropriations committee.

Planes Locate Lost Scientists Stranded On Ice Floe 8 Months MOSCOW, Feb. 16 (AP) — Rescuers finally reached the four Russian polar campers today when two airplanes from Soviet ice breakers landed near their drifting ice floe off Greenland.

They said they did not immediately make an effort to take the scientists from the floe which had been their home during more than eight months of drifting southward from the vicinity of the North Pole.

The planes after trying unsuccessfully yesterday to sight the campers from the air, located them without difficulty today.

MRS. CHASE WOODHOUSE special committee chairman will serve as hostesses for the tea. The special guest list includes the U.W.A. council, Mrs. Eugene A. Gilmore, Mrs. George F. Fascists Cheer Bolshevism Deserted By Butenko

ROME, Feb. 16 (AP) — Fascists tonight toasted Jodor Butenko, fugitive Soviet charge d'affaires from Bucharest, as a hero whose desertion of bolshevism gave them a trump card in their crusade against communism.

The stocky, black haired diplomat was shuttled by Italian detectives from one fascist official to another while he unburdened his story of flight from the Rumanian capital.

Butenko accused the Russian secret police of attempting either to kill or abduct him before he fled to the fascist sanctuary. It was indicated he would be permitted to remain in Italy in return for his repudiation of bolshevism. Fascists said it would not be safe for him to be anywhere except Italy or Germany, also strongly anti-communist.

Supported Solidly By Republicans From The North

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP) — Southern senators, supported almost solidly by northern republicans, defeated another effort today to cut off debate on the anti-lynching bill.

The combination resulted in a vote of 46 to 42 against imposing the senate's rigid cloture rule, limiting debate, which would have ended the filibuster the southerners have conducted since the session began. A similar attempt at cloture was defeated 51 to 37 Jan. 27.

Reports, roundly denied but persistent nevertheless, had it that the southerners had an understanding with the republicans whereby, in return for their support on the cloture issue, the south would support the republican minority under similar circumstances.

Senator Connally (D-Tex.), leader of the filibuster, said the rumors were groundless, but he and other senators also were saying that under no circumstances would they ever vote for cloture.

Under the cloture rule, if two thirds of the senators voting approve, debate is limited to one hour by each member. Then a vote on the bill in question comes automatically.

Far from obtaining a two thirds vote, however, the supporters of the anti-lynching bill failed to muster a simple majority.

Preceding the vote, there was an hour's debate in which Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.), leading supporter of the bill, appealed for votes for cloture on the ground that "a vote against cloture is bound to be regarded as a vote against the bill."

Industrial Heads Praise and Blame Status of Capital

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 (AP) — The national labor relations board drew commendation and criticism today at a meeting of 800 industrial executives.

Charles Fahy, general counsel of the board, said labor strife had been on the down grade since validation of the labor relations act and predicted:

"Executives and directors of personnel will more and more make it a matter of pride to conform, in letter and spirit, with a law which does no more than protect the 'fundamental' and 'essential' liberties of the men and women who work for them."

"I think the quarrel (over the statute) is ceasing," he said. "The statute itself and the record of the board are more and more generally recognized as so sound that neither the act nor the board can be brushed aside by an attack."

From Russell L. Greenman came the opinion that the government devoted only "10 cents for cooperation in the labor field relations for every dollar spent for coercion."

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16 (AP) — Paul A. Wright, former airport executive, who killed his wife and best friend, John Kimmel, was technically freed of the crimes today, by the same jury which convicted him last week on two counts of manslaughter.

The jury convicted Wright in three hours on his straight plea of innocence but deliberated 18 hours before it found him innocent by reason of insanity. He had been charged with murder.

"It appears to the court that the defendant has regained his sanity," Superior Judge Ingall W. Bull announced. "I therefore remand the defendant to the custody of the sheriff until his sanity has been decided in the manner prescribed by law."

Paul A. Wright Goes Free Of Crimes by Reason Of Insanity; Jury Out 18 Hours

fighting for his life. He was revived and presently returned to shake hands with his lawyer, Jerry Giesler, and pose, smiling, for a photographer.

"My heart's been clean from the beginning," Wright declared. Giesler had let his head slump down on the counsel table when he heard his client was freed. Deputy District Attorney S. E. Roll left the courtroom apparently angry and muttering.

Women swarmed about Dr. J. J. Wright, father of the defendant, as he left the courtroom. Several embraced him. They greeted Giesler only slightly less fervently.

"Paul and I plan to go away somewhere for a while and rest," said Dr. Wright. "Paul has received offers of several good positions during the trial."

Kids Sitdown Protest School Head's Resignation

MISSOURI VALLEY, Feb. 16 (AP) — A short-lived sitdown strike of 80 junior and senior high school students at the Beebeetown consolidated school ended at 5 p.m. today when the students capitulated.

The 80 boys and girls occupied the school auditorium this afternoon and refused to leave, declaring they were prepared to stay all night.

They sat down in protest to the resignation of the school superintendent, Hugh Hanks.

Hanks appealed to the students to quit the demonstration, but they insisted they would remain until he agreed not to resign. Finally he told them he had accepted private employment with an implement company and could not gain his release. They then agreed to leave the school.

For the Women—Occupational Guidance

THAT UNIVERSITY women will have an opportunity to learn of the latest trends in vocational possibilities at the women's work and opportunities conference here tonight and tomorrow indicates an awareness of the need for vocational guidance.

Such awareness, as attested by the presence of Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse, nationally known director of the Institute of Women's Professional Relations, is highly desirable. It shows a growing interest in the business of useful living—an interest that has been largely responsible for banishing the old dogma, "woman's place is in the home."

While knowledge necessary for effective vocational guidance is still comparatively incomplete, rapid strides have been made in keeping up with general trends of employment and professional opportunities. The conference aims to place the most up-to-the-minute of this information before University of Iowa women.

Even those who are satisfied with their vocational choice and preparation may find at this two-day conference suggestions for extending the horizons of their fields. Others through the conference will discover vocations which may, in the course of time and economic change, become vocations.

Under present conditions, few students can afford to spend four or more years in acquiring a liberal, pointless education simply for its cultural value. In spite of this, a recent investigation shows that most students entering college are motivated by nothing more definite than the desire to "get through."

It is for members of this group, particularly, that the conference is being held. Each meeting is an opportunity, offered before it is too late, to point present efforts toward a specific, known and desirable vocational goal.

Betting In The Dust Bowl

SOME MEASURE of applause is due the citizens of Kinsley, Kan., situated in the famous "dust bowl" of the midwest. Recently 25 men of the town inserted a large advertisement in the Kinsley Weekly Graphic as follows:

"We are asking for one-half inch of moisture on or before Feb. 17. We will pay double for our ad upon delivery of said moisture, and in case it does not arrive the Graphic will stand the cost."

The bet has stirred up considerable interest throughout the dust bowl region and in neighboring states. A spirit of fun is introduced when hope is at a low ebb and courage needs bolstering after these last few years of drought and crop failures.

The instigators of the idea say, "We are laughing and watching the barometer and clouds, hoping to save a big wheat crop hanging by its teeth." We hope they are able to keep on laughing, and guessing how well it can use the money, we also hope the Graphic wins its bet.

Hermann Goering, the No. 2 Nazi, is said to have a uniform for every occasion. We suspect he even has one secretly laid aside to wear the day Hitler fires him.

Blowing Into Your Jug

AN IOWA CITY audience was recently delighted with a musical jug. It was not an unusual jug; neither in size, shape nor structure. Its brother jugs have held everything from coffee to "corn licker" the world over. The trick, according to the player, was all in knowing how to blow into the hole at the top.

Intellectual and emotional "jugs" are equally common. Who, for example, has not had flashes of creative ideas? Few there are indeed who at one time or another have not dreamed the plot of a novel that, if it could have been set on paper as it was etched upon the mind, would have rivaled the "Arabian Nights" in richness of color and imagination. But only the few can transfer the inner idea intact to the printed page, and the world acclaims those few as its great authors.

Who has not felt snatches of strange and beautiful melody within himself at times of deep emotional experience? No doubt there have been more songs lost and buried within the inner self of the common man than all those which have been recorded on staffs and in the ears of men. The few who possess the power to make their feelings articulate in sounds and symbols of sounds, and who do it most truly, have been the great composers of all ages.

The artist sees beauty, but there are others who recognize harmony of light and line and shadow—yet are unable to pluck that vision out of themselves for others to see. The artist not only sees, but also possesses skill to make his visions imperishable on canvas or in stone.

Deep within himself the untrained, unskilled man may often sense worth and melody and beauty, but his emotions are all too frequently smothered by inability to find expression. The author, the composer, the artist—all know how to reproduce inner experiences for the joy and satisfaction of others. The masses feel; the few feel and express, and in expressing build up their senses in an endless regeneration which gives the world its Beethovens, its Miltons and Thackerays, its Leonardos.

"To him that hath shall be given," runs the parable. And so we conclude that achievement and greatness is mostly a matter of knowing just how to blow into whatever jug fortune places within one's grasp.

The biggest mystery is who reads all those mystery and detective novels which flood the book stores.

Florida court rules bingo a game of chance. It's also, according to Zadok Dumbkopf, who never has won at it, a waste of time.

NICE WORK—IF YOU CAN KEEP IT!

News dispatches indicate that writers, composers and artists enjoy the most comfortable living in Russia today. Official figures are lacking, but many of these gifted people in Russia earn enough money to enjoy a purchasing power of about $250 a month.

In this group writers are the most common, with "people's artists" and composers next. Moreover, these eminent souls receive apartments and automobiles from the government entirely free.

All of which gives us a glowy feeling. Here at last is the one country which goes out of its way to patronize and reward its creative artists. Poets no longer starve, and composers live in the Russian equivalent of American penthouses.

But there is a catch to this bargain. Since these gentry are in the public eye, they must be very, very careful of the sort of doctrine they incorporate into their works of art.

A novelist famous one day may find that because of a chance in communist party doctrine his writings are heretical. But too late; the written word can no longer be expunged from the record. Result: Liquidation.

A poet may sing of the wonders of this or that factory speed-up system. But let some new commissar come in and change the system overnight, and the poor poet is hauled out of bed and accused of counter-revolutionary preachings. Result: No more poet.

The newspaper men have the toughest job of all. Not only must they be right up to the minute on communist doctrine but they must learn to anticipate the Stalin rulin'g on this or that question. But since a few newspaper men are skilled mind readers, sooner or later their pens slip. Result: The firing squad.

Being in the high wage bracket in Russia is nice, but the work is too hazardous. It's evidently better to be a ditch digger a thousand miles from Moscow than a public figure in a large city. The death rate among ditch diggers is lower.

Drug Taken Before Exams Causes Larger Test Scores

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D. A surprising report comes from the New Jersey State Home for Boys. It has been found that benzedrine sulfate, administered in small doses one and one-half hours before time for examination, improved the total average score without causing any untoward reactions.

The drug has been known to produce a stimulating mental effect. It is also used as an inhalant for hay fever and cold in the head, but this is the first time its efficacy has been measured. Fifty test boys took benzedrine in tablet form one and one-half hours before testing time, and 46 controls took facsimile lozenges which were nothing but sugar. Neither children nor teachers knew which group received which tablet. The same test was given to all 96 boys. The 50 who had taken the benzedrine showed a gain, as a group, of 63 points; those who took the placebo lozenges registered, as a group, a loss of 29 points in the total average score.

Boys who had taken a test a week before without the help of the benzedrine took another similar test after having taken benzedrine, and 92 per cent of them gained in scores on the second test.

You understand I am not recommending this to be done wholesale, but I am simply reporting on a scientific experiment. Benzedrine should certainly not be taken by anybody for any purpose except under the advice of a physician, and the physician will supply the dosage, which I have not done in this article.

The question often comes up, how much blood can be given for transfusions? I find that the record is held by a French laborer, who is the world's champion donor. Since 1924 he has sold 257 quarts of his blood. In 1935 he gave 98 transfusions.

There are a number of people who are working their way through college by giving blood for transfusions, and if anybody has a better record than this, I would like to hear it.

Merchant vessels under construction in Great Britain and Ireland at the end of 1937 totaled 1,125,426 tons, an increase of 161,784 over 1936.

South Carolina was the first, North Carolina the last, of the eleven southern states which seceded in the War Between the States.

Tuning In with Betty Harpel

The Iowa City people and the students on the University of Iowa campus, seem to have much the same ideas about what the most popular songs are as do people in other parts of the United States. Would you believe it, but Northwestern university agrees with Iowa City in their popular song of "Thanks for the Memories."

Jack Benny's old Maxwell car which has caused a good many rib-tickling moments for the radio audience, is only an imitation made by the sound man. He does it by playing an old battered trombone. The ancient instrument is a gift from Arthur Pryor, veteran bandmaster, whom many of the radio listeners will remember.

"Thanks for the Memories," the popular song, which is sweeping the country with a rush, was sung by Ralph Rainger and Leo Robin, who have followed it up with a new tune, "Tonight We Love." The two boys can say that no less than 10 major maestros have already booked the tune for forthcoming airings which we shall soon hear.

Rush Hughes, commentator, one of the fastest talkers on the radio today, who blends history with current events, has been clocked as using 200 words a minute or 3,000 words for each of his "Hughes reel" broadcasts. To provide variety on his broadcasts, he plans to conduct future airings from Hollywood and New York as well as from San Francisco. Rush Hughes can be heard on Monday through Friday at 3:30 p.m. over NBC.

"The show must go on" tradition has been shown every week of late when Amanda Snow, the girl with the friendliest voice in radio, hasn't missed a broadcast even with a persistent case of gripe which has gripped her. After the show, she goes home and crawls back into her downy quilts which she leaves long enough to rehearse and air her show.

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Yesterday I went down to Trinity churchyard and strolled for an hour among the crumbling tombs of departed heroes!

Time has meant little to this Abbey-on-Hudson, where Peter Stuyvesant once nursed his gout and listened to interminable sermons in Dutch. It still retains an aura of Queen Anne, despite an ever encroaching acropolis of modern skyscrapers, and one may still catch the brooding spirit of those times by passing quietly among the blackened slabs and taking note of the fading epitaphs, which, occasionally, were recorded in an English that goes clear back to Chaucer.

For Trinity was a burial tract even before it became the richest church in the world. The oldest grave in it is that of a 5-year-old child who died in 1681.

Close at hand "lies the body of John Craig, who departed the Transitory Life Sept. 14th, 1747." And a step beyond is the grave of a British army officer, Sydney Brees, who composed this epitaph for his tombstone: "Ha, Sydney, Sydney! Liest Thou here? I here lie. 'Til Time is flown to its extremity."

Alexander Hamilton Here, too, is buried Alexander Hamilton, killed in a duel by Aaron Burr, and at his side, under a time-yellowed slab, Hamilton's widow, "the daughter of a soldier of the revolution."

If shades may be said to be restless, then Hamilton's bones must have turned over ceaselessly, for a few feet away lies Matthew David, "the last friend that Aaron Burr possessed on earth." Countless biographers have attacked Burr for killing Hamilton, but probably the truth is, Hamilton grossly insulted Burr and, according to the code of the day, Burr had every right to his satisfaction.

Washington World

By CHARLES P. STEWART WASHINGTON, D. C.—Major Gen. Johnson Hagood cannot very well be disciplined for telling the house of representatives' naval affairs committee, as he did recently, that (in his opinion) America's "national defense is being made the football of politics."

The general practically is punishment proof. In effect, he is in the position of an individual who already has been beheaded and who then does something else that the executioner would like to behead him for; the same person's head can't be amputated more than once in succession.

Previous Punishment: Hagood is the identical general who, as a witness before an earlier congressional committee, referred to WPA checks as "stage money."

For having gone so ne was militarily suspended, which caused quite a scandal, on the ground that it was unfair to penalize an army officer for testifying conscientiously, according to his lights, under a subpoena which he was bound by law to recognize. Indeed, the row was such that he presently was reinstated.

However, there are "more ways of killing a cat than choking it with cream." Though reinstated, the general was transferred (amounting to demotion). Next he was retired ahead of his time.

Where To Be Used? Gen. Hagood found no special fault with the pending $800,000,000 navy building program. He agreed that, perhaps, an $800,000,000 American navy is needed.

What he asked was: WHY is it needed, and HOW is it going to be used? We all know that the international outlook is bilious. Possibly that answers the question "Why?"

But, "How?" Are we creating strength to keep us neutral? Or are we creating it to enable us to recommend ourselves as a formidable ally to other powers that we may chance to consider in the right?—when the mix-up does come.

Up to Congress? Gen. Hagood does not want to leave this issue to the president to decide. It is a constitutional principle that the president cannot DECLARE war; the declaration must be congressional. Still, it is a commonplace that presidential policy generally is such that, when the time comes, congress has no choice.

Basically, constitutionally, it is up to congress. "Well, then," urges Gen. Hagood, "let congress assert itself before the last minute."

E. Funke Will Speak Tonight In Old Capitol

Prof. Erich Funke, head of the German department, will give a Baconian lecture on "The Influence of English Literature on the Development of Literary Form in Germany" tonight at 7:30 in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

"I will try to show how the German literary form developed during the 18th century under influence of English literature," Professor Funke said. He explained that the first decisive influence was the periodicals of Addison and Steele which brought about the Moral Weekly and the daily paper in Germany.

"The German middle class tragedy," said Professor Funke, "was inspired by Lillo's 'Merchant of London' and essentially by Richardson's novels which in their turn developed the German sentimental novel of manners. He will show how Shakespeare was the greatest factor in bringing about the German form of literature and how he influenced the storm and stress movement and inspired Goethe and Schiller to write their greatest works."

Iowa Citizens Push Traffic School Opening For March 8

Six City And County Leaders Support Plan

Believe Plan Will Aid In Reducing Traffic Accidents

City and county law enforcement officials expressed enthusiasm for the opening of the Iowa City traffic school March 8, in statements released yesterday.

Six Iowa Citizens are supporting the plan for the school in belief that the training would aid in reducing traffic accidents. A majority of the endorsements stressed the knowledge of traffic laws, to be diffused by the school, as being of utmost importance.

Police Judge Burke N. Carson stated "the school will be a good thing for persons who cannot afford fines and instructive to those who consider fines trivial."

J. M. Kadlec, justice of the peace, and Police Chief W. H. Bender agreed that a large number of traffic offenders did not know the law they were violating. Kadlec and Carson will sentence traffic violators to the school instead of levying a fine.

Mayor Myron J. Walker announced that the school would be open to violators sent from other justice of the peace or majority courts in the county. Offenders sent from courts outside Iowa City will receive the same treatment as local violators, the mayor explained.

This would include checking the violator's attendance at each meeting and reviewing cases to show individual errors.

Mayor Walker will lead the first session of the school March 2, speaking on "The Motorist and the Public." Nine other topics will be discussed, one each week. Each session is planned to last one hour with a different leader in charge.

If the meetings are attended by too large a number to be accommodated in the city council chambers, meetings may be arranged twice a week, the mayor said.

The traffic school will consist of a series of 10 lectures ending with a test the eleventh week. Persons passing the test will be awarded certificates.

Eight Iowa Citizens and one member of the highway patrol will lead the sessions. A tenth speaker, expected to be a state official, is unselected.

Speakers will arrange general details of their sessions. The meetings will be divided into three parts, a 20 minute lecture at the start, 20 minute explanation of the state code, and the remainder of the hour to consist of open discussion and practice problems.

Mayor Myron J. Walker will lead the first session of the traffic school March 2.

J. M. Kadlec, justice of the peace, and Police Chief W. H. Bender agreed that a large number of traffic offenders did not know the law they were violating.

Police Judge Burke N. Carson stated "the school will be a good thing for persons who cannot afford fines and instructive to those who consider fines trivial."

Sheriff Don McComas said "The purpose of the driving school is a good one. I feel instruction in correct driving would aid peace officers and drivers alike."

W. H. Bender, chief of police, said "It seems to me the traffic school should prove a valuable thing to Iowa City."

Prof. Willard M. Lampe, director of the school of religion, said "I believe the school a good thing for persons who cannot afford to pay fines and instructive to those who consider fines trivial."

George D. Callahan, county coroner, said "The traffic school idea should aid in reducing the accident toll."

New Camera Records What Strikes the Eye

DES MOINES (AP)—Tell Dr. Herman F. Brandt, Drake university professor of psychology, "I think I see..." and he will proceed to show you just what you see and how you go about it.

Dr. Brandt has developed a bi-dimensional camera which records the movement of a person's eyes as he scans a page of written or printed matter.

The camera shows the path the eyes take over the page, both horizontally and vertically.

The device can trace a student's eye movement as he pours over his text books and tell when his attention wanders and what is wrong with his method of study.

Advertisers are making use of it to determine how well their copy arrests attention.

More 'No' and Less 'So' Favored by Professor

CHICAGO (AP)—Chalk up one vote each for "thing" and "ain't" as the most abused English words, Prof. Walter K. Smart of Northwestern university nominates these words for first place and among other overworked words lists:

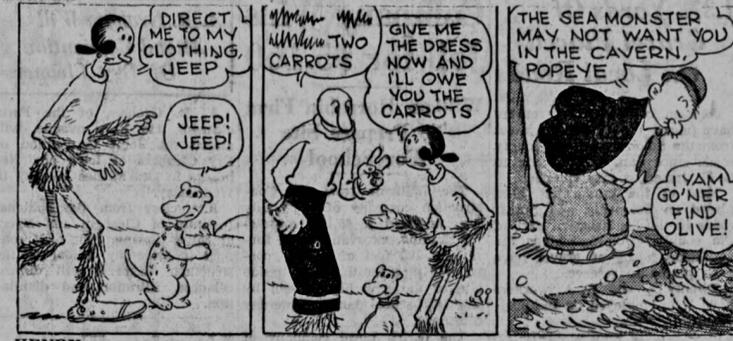

In business—"proposition." Among women—"awfully, terribly," and similar words. Among writers—"so."

Professor Smart picks "no" as the most helpful word, "stop" as the most dramatic and "ubiquitous" as the ugliest.

For the most beautiful he chooses murmur, memorial, lullaby, roar, rum and dour. He characterizes the last as a "creeching word which defines something disagreeable."

First Spike Driven
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The first of 400,000 spikes which will be used in laying interurban tracks across the $77,000,000 San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge has been driven. Omission of Language Study Would Hurt Mental Growth

A resolution endorsing the movement to combat the elimination of foreign language study from the schools has been passed by the Humanist society, Prof. Dorrance S. White of the classical languages department announced yesterday.

The action of the society follows the adoption of a resolution by the National Federation of Modern Language Teachers at its convention in Chicago last December. The resolution asked the federation to sponsor a "campaign of enlightenment" favoring the retention of the humanities in American education.

The resolution passed by the society expressed the belief that the elimination of language from the secondary school curriculum would impoverish the education of children in the adolescent period and would retard the mental growth of these children in their preparation for advanced study.

The committee which presented the resolution at a meeting Monday night was composed of Professor White, chairman, Prof. Erich Funke, head of the German department, Prof. E. K. Mapes and Tacie Kneass of the Romance languages department, and Prof. S. M. Pletcher and Prof. A. N. Stunz, both of the English department.

If the Japs ever decide to come over here, they'll attack some day late in August when Bob Feller pitches against the Yanks. All eyes will be turned eastward. . . The nation will be defenseless.

Demon Rum Almost any high-priced car today has a bar installed. A secret space behind the instrument panel holds liquor, glasses and a shaker.

Theater Note

A dramatic arts student last night called attention to an error in the New York Times. Tuesday's issue stated that the Washington chapter of the League of American Writers has written the first Living Newspaper script to be produced outside the Federal Theater project.

Last semester, Prof. E. C. Mabee's students wrote and produced experimentally three Living Newspaper scripts.

One of these plays, written on socialized medicine, may be used soon by the Federal Theater itself.

Fashion Note

That bright touch to Iowa City's cloudy days is Dave Hynek in that blue and brown outfit. It really isn't the color, but the way Dave emphasizes its intensity.
