

4 Iowa Citizens Nominated For School Board

2 Positions To Be Filled By City Election On March 14

The bi-partisan school committee last night nominated four Iowa Citizens, Dr. E. G. Gross, David R. Thomas, Dr. George Maresh and Verne R. Miller, candidates for two positions on the city school board.

The school election will be March 14, and the three-year terms of Dr. Maresh, president, and Miller expire April 1. Independent candidates must file nomination papers signed by at least 10 voters, with Charles S. Galher, board secretary, by noon tomorrow.

Committee's Votes

Six men were considered by the committee, and an informal vote to nominate four was taken. The vote was Thomas 9; Miller 8; Dr. Maresh 7; Dr. Gross 7; Theodore Hunter 3, and Mike Lumsden 2.

Thomas lives at 811 N. Linn street, and has two children in the public schools. They are Betty Jane, 12, in junior high, and David Mickey, 9, in Horace Mann school.

Dr. E. G. Gross

Dr. Gross, 622 Brooklyn Park drive, is a member of the college of medicine faculty. He has two children, Robert, 14, in Iowa City high school, and Richard, 13, in junior high.

Dr. Maresh is president of the board, and Miller was selected by the board last December to fill a vacancy. The bi-partisan committee is composed of two representatives from each of the city's five wards. Half the committee is republican and the remainder democratic.

Postpone Action

On Representation

Action on whether University Heights may have representatives on the bi-partisan school committee was postponed "without prejudice" until after the March 14 school election, the committee decided last night.

Three University Heights residents, Lee Koser, 305 Golfview avenue, Dr. P. W. Richardson, 20 Golfview avenue, and Ellis D. Crawford, 42 Highland drive, appeared before the committee with the demand.

University Heights, outside the city limits, but within the boundaries of the Iowa City independent school district, asks representation because the subdivision pays taxes to the local school district.

Prof. John F. Reilly, acting chairman of the committee, said that action will also be taken soon on whether Sunnyside addition may also have representation.

Another question which will be considered is whether the committee's membership should be increased by allowing precinct representation instead of ward representation.

Italy's Homage Goes to Leader

GARDONE RIVERA, Italy, March 2 (AP)—Gabriele D'Annunzio, whose genius and daring Italians revered although his mysticism sometimes puzzled them, today received in death the tribute Italy reserves for her immortals.

Premier Benito Mussolini, his face lined with grief, headed the high personages who paid homage at the bier of the warrior-poet who lay in state in his villa Vittoriale.

D'Annunzio died last night and a state funeral was fixed for tomorrow, but after Il Duce conferred with members of the family it was announced it probably would be postponed until Saturday or Sunday to accommodate the crowds wishing to view the body.

Humble citizens trooped through the great iron gates of the estate to look for the last time on the inscrutable face of the conqueror of Fiume.

Hundreds of shuffling feet murmured a requiem for the dynamic spirit which found expression in bold exploits, ardent love, fierce oratory, feverish opposition and writing.

D'Annunzio's body was clad in the uniform of a general of aviation and draped with a blood-stained flag which once covered the body of one of his officers killed in the march on Fiume in 1919.

Once Friends - Now Doom Awaits One

M. A. Chernov, a peasant girl, and Josef Stalin

"If thy right hand offend thee, cut it off." So advises the Bible and the advice may be taken at face value by Dictator Josef Stalin of Soviet Russia. Thus M. A. Chernov, once commissar of agriculture and seen at the left in this photograph of other days, now faces death in mass treason trials in Moscow. Stalin, at the right, seems pleased by something the peasant girl, in the center, is saying.

Twenty Russians Admit Plot to Dismember Soviet Union, Break Regime, Kill Leaders

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, March 2 — Twenty of 21 defendants in Moscow's greatest treason trial today pleaded guilty to far-reaching charges which included plotting to dismember the Soviet union, overthrow the regime, restore capitalism and murder Russian leaders.

But the twenty-first, Nicholas N. Krestinsky, once Soviet ambassador in Berlin, pleaded his innocence in a desperate repudiation of a confession of guilt in which he and his accusers among the co-defendants called each other "liars."

Leon Trotsky, former Bolshevik leader now living in exile in Mexico, was named as one of the inspirers of the anti-Soviet plotting.

The trial, before the military collegium of the supreme court in the small, elaborately decorated ballroom of the former Nobles club, opened with the reading of a lengthy indictment of the accused.

Retiring United States Ambassador Joseph E. Davis was among the members of the diplomatic corps who, with representatives of Soviet public organizations and newspapermen, witnessed the proceedings.

The presiding judge was Vasily V. Ulrich, who presided over the treason trials of August, 1936, and January, 1937, and the prosecutor was Andrei J. Vishinsky, also a veteran of previous mass trials.

Those accused in the plotting, which the indictment traced back in part 20 years when Trotsky still was in power, included men once high in Soviet affairs.

Among them stood: Alexis I. Rykoff, who was premier of the Soviet union for nearly 10 years; Nikolai Bucharin, former government newspaper editor; Genrikh G. Yagoda, former chief of the secret police; Krestinsky, former first assistant foreign commissar as well as former ambassador to Germany; Christian Rakovsky, former ambassador to France, and Fayzulla Khodjaieff, former president of the Uzbek republic.

Pershing Still Improves; May Regain Health

TUCSON, Ariz., March 2 (AP)—General John J. Pershing, who once boasted cavalry officers were so tough "the only way to get rid of one is to shoot him," showed so much improvement today his physicians talked of a protracted period of convalescence and return to "a reasonable state of health."

One of the doctors, Lt. Col. S. U. Marietta, who was ordered here by the war department eight days ago, announced plans to return by train tomorrow to his post at San Antonio, Tex.

Maj. Gen. Herbert J. Brees, commander of the eighth corps area, San Antonio, also planned to leave. Railroad equipment which he had arranged for in case of General Pershing's death was released.

"The general is still a very ill man but for the immediate present it seems quite safe to leave," General Brees said.

Dr. Roland Davison, the general's private physician, said he would release only two bulletins a day in the future.

Dr. Davison said the immediate danger "appears to have passed," but cautioned against minimizing "the possibilities of future complications from the heart or kidneys."

The 77-year-old general has been ill almost a month. A week ago yesterday his condition became critical.

XMAS FOUNDLING Name Given Child By Evangelist

PHILADELPHIA, March 2 (AP)—A Christmas foundling won a name today and a new mother and father in the home of the Rev. Robert Fraser, blind evangelist.

The Rev. and Mrs. Fraser said the rule should be "finders keepers."

It was on their doorstep the baby boy was found, swathed in a blanket, as bells tolled "in the Christmas dawn."

Judge Charles L. Brown of the juvenile court approved the adoption. The baby was named Robert David Fraser.

Militant Leader Held by Police

BERLIN, March 2 (AP)—Militant Pastor Martin Niemoller's church tonight reported he was in the custody of German secret police despite termination of a trial which gave the Protestant opposition leader technical freedom.

Niemoller's name headed a list of pastors still in police custody read from the pulpit of his suburban Dahlem church.

It caused a wave of excitement among his parishioners who had hoped for the pastor's immediate release when his trial ended with a seven-month sentence which was cancelled by the fact Niemoller had been in jail over eight months already.

Modified Levy Goes to Floor For Revision

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP)—House leaders, expecting stubborn resistance to any form of "gag rule," decided today to throw the tax revision bill open to amendments from the floor.

That will permit advocates of outright repeal of the undistributed profits and capital gains levies to put the house on record on these taxes.

The pending revision bill, sponsored by democrats of the ways and means committee, calls merely for modification of the two taxes.

Leaders had considered closing the door to any amendments except those sponsored by the committee. They finally decided to take chances on voting down any changes objectionable to the administration.

Reporting the bill to the house, where debate will begin tomorrow, the committee democrats said it ought to prove "a very substantial stimulation to business."

Opponents, chiefly republicans, insisted it would continue repressive taxes on business and impose a new "penalty" levy on large-income corporations controlled by a family or by from two to 10 individuals.

The tax issue also was considered at hearings before the senate unemployment committee.

World-Wide Arms Race Forces Britain to Revise 5-Year Plan

Seysz - Inquart Demands Nazis Be Disciplined

Minister Not Afraid Of German March On Vienna

GRAZ, Austria, March 2 (AP)—Stern orders to maintain discipline were imposed on Styria's turbulent nazis today by the Austrian minister of the interior, Arthur Seysz-Inquart.

After conferring throughout the day with one group of nazis after another, the minister who is a friend of Chancellor Adolf Hitler to interviewers he did not believe there would be a nazi "putsch" or march on Vienna.

Leaders Make Demands

Nazi leaders meanwhile made demands that Austria modify her relations with the Vatican.

"I am not going to putsch myself," Seysz-Inquart said. "On the contrary, I will demand that all national socialists maintain the strictest discipline."

"I have found overwhelming enthusiasm in Styria province and I also know by now that my orders will be obeyed."

At the same time, the minister of the interior granted the nazis permission to wear swastika emblems in schools and public offices.

Sent to Ease Tension

Seysz-Inquart, whose appointment to the Austrian cabinet last month was approved by Germany's chancellor, was sent here by Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg to ease the tension created by ambitious nazi efforts to extend their influence through Austria, especially in government offices.

In his capacity as an official both friendly to Hitler and a member of the Austrian government, he undertook to work out a compromise which would prevent an open breach between the nazis and other Austrians, who are determined to maintain the country's independence.

The controversy approached the breaking point last Sunday when Graz nazis tried to start a march on Vienna. The Austrian army swung into action and quickly squelched the scheme. Since then the army has maintained strict surveillance.

Seysz-Inquart said the Styrian nazi spirit would give a fine example to other provinces, but he added:

"I have found unanimous willingness of all nationalists to work for their ideals within the fatherland front" (only legal political organization in Austria.)

'Realistic' Plan Faces Disaster

LONDON, March 2 (AP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's "realistic" plan to bargain with Italy faced possible disaster tonight through a rapidly developing row within the non-intervention committee over withdrawal of foreign fighters from Spain.

Great Britain, France, Russia, Germany and Italy, after bickering through to a semblance of agreement on the minimum number of volunteers to be evacuated, were sharply split now on a vital part of the British-drawn plan — re-establishment of nonintervention control of Spanish frontiers and ports.

Failure to reach an agreement with Spain would leave Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy with a foothold in the Iberian peninsula.

Work Started For Increased War Defenses

Official Report States Protection Needed For Interests

LONDON, March 2 (AP)—Great Britain indicated today the break-neck pace of the world arms race had forced her to revise the staggering five-year program she set for herself last year to make the empire strong on both sides of the globe.

A government white paper, or official report, announced that the $7,500,000,000 earmarked a year ago would not be enough to build "unavoidable" defenses in view of the epidemic of wars and higher costs resulting from "continuous development of modern armament."

The report said the government was convinced its own share in the rearmament struggle would "furnish a steady influence on the present state of international relations."

The white paper, which will be the basis for an expected fiery debate in the house of commons Monday, followed announcements of a $115,000,000 increase for air armaments alone during the 1938-39 fiscal year. It gave a broad hint of equally swollen figures for the navy which is sorely needed to guard the empire's life lines both in the Mediterranean and China seas.

Air estimates announced today totaled $57,510,000. Estimates on land defense expenditures for the coming fiscal year will be submitted tomorrow, followed by naval figures on Friday.

The report indicated keels of new warships to be laid in the year ending March 31, 1939, would include two capital ships, one aircraft carrier, four large cruisers, three small cruisers and other smaller craft. In addition, 60 new vessels, totaling 130,000 tons, will be put into service during the year.

The announcement made it clear that the actual cost of the five-year arms plan would depend largely upon the success of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's "efforts to achieve some appeasement in international affairs."

Whale Loose 50 Foot Fish Swims In 'Dry' River

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 2 (AP)—There's a whale at large in the Los Angeles river.

He — or she — is a rubber whale, 50 feet long, which had been constructed by a movie studio for a film.

The whale was moored in the usually dry Los Angeles river bed, just back of the studio. But a torrent of water, rushing down the river, took the whale with it today.

The report indicated keels of new warships to be laid in the year ending March 31, 1939, would include two capital ships, one aircraft carrier, four large cruisers, three small cruisers and other smaller craft. Skyliner Vanishes With Nine Aboard; Rescue Party Formed

(By The Associated Press)

FRESNO, Cal., March 2 (AP)—A rapidly growing rescue expedition, its leaders privately pessimistic, searched the snow-covered mountains east of here today for a big skyliner which became trapped in a fierce storm and vanished during the night with nine persons aboard.

Despite storm conditions and soggy terrain, at least four planes and a small army of foot searchers spread over a wide area around Huntington and Shaver lakes, 35 miles northeast of here, where the liner was believed to have crashed.

Mysterious radio voices picked up in Oakland and a report that a plane had been sighted under conditions indicating little injury to its occupants, heartened searchers for a time, but neither apparently had any connection with the missing ship.

The big plane, a transcontinental and western air liner, left San Francisco last night for Albuquerque with six passengers and a crew of three.

Because a storm was coming in from the south, the plane headed toward Los Angeles instead of Las Vegas, Nev., on its regular course. It met the storm over the Tehachapi mountains, the natural dividing line between northern and southern California.

Pilot John D. Graves, receiving directions to hunt an emergency landing, turned back toward the north.

Apparently the plane hovered over the Fresno area an hour or more, then began making widening circles as the storm crowded it gradually eastward, into the craggy peaks of the Sierra Nevada mountains, only a few miles from the ordinary safe and warm valley.

Kidnaped Boy Pleads in Ransom Note

By PAT McGRADY

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., March 2 (AP)—A note in the school boy handwriting of 12-year-old kidnaped Peter Levine, begging "dad" to pay out the $60,000 ransom demanded, turned up today as the father sadly continued his fruitless efforts to communicate with the abductors.

"Dear dad," he wrote, "please give these men the money. I have a bad cold. Peter."

This, the boy's first known communication with his father, was scrawled on the back of a third ransom letter, reported on good authority to have been found on a vacant lot adjoining the Synagogue of Rabbi Abraham Nowak, and in its very restraint had a throat-catching quality.

Rabbi Nowak first declined to discuss this latest ransom demand, which instructed the father, Murray Levine, a Fifth avenue New York lawyer, to drop a package of bank notes of $10, $20, $50 and $100 denominations at the base of a street light pole in the New York City Bronx.

But later the rabbi remarked significantly:

"To the press my comment must be no comment."

The note, written in capital letters on what seemed to have been a cheap toy dial typewriter, was found Monday, and despite the passage of two days since, nothing was known of any successful contact, past or prospective, between the father and the kidnapers.

It implied that the conspirators were angry at supposed police activity in the case—Levine had asked them to stand aside and they had agreed to do so—and said in effect:

"Now give us some sign that they (the authorities) are out of it before we deal with you further."

Levine, continuing his painfully secluded watch in his $30,000 home here, was understood to be considering a third public appeal by radio, to "those who may be holding my boy."

Again he expressed hope that the authorities would leave him with an entirely free hand to negotiate; again he denied there had been any substantial progress, despite "hundreds and thousands of rumors."

THURSDAY, MARCH 3, 1938

Iowa City's School for Safety

VISITORS, RETURNING at dusk after a friendly afternoon in the country, speed along an Iowa highway. Just over the hill a sleepy driver hunches over the wheel of his truck. Without warning death lays a bony finger on the approaching machines—chucking a moment later as flesh and wood and steel yield to the impact, and broken glass tinkles out the dirge of the highways.

Every 37 minutes last year this scene was repeated somewhere in Iowa, helping to make the spectre of traffic accidents America's public enemy number one. In Johnson county alone 11 persons were killed and 147 injured. That's you, your family and your friends were not among them is largely chance. Surely the matter strikes close enough home to warrant the attention of every Iowa citizen, student or resident, who drives a car or even crosses a busy intersection.

The traffic school which opens tonight has been selected as the best device for meeting local needs. To think of it as just another rung in the ladder of community progress would be a sorry mistake. It is more nearly an attempt to provide a kind of mutual insurance against death and injury through prevention rather than indemnity.

An outgrowth of a need attested daily by the swelling total of dead and maimed in highway accidents, the school is based on the belief that accidents arise out of ignorance of traffic regulations, failure to appreciate the physics of high-speed motoring and failure to practice drawing-room manners on the highway.

There are at least three canons of safe driving and the traffic school is designed to place proper emphasis on each. Know and abide by traffic regulations, control your car, and control yourself; these are the essence of safe, sane driving. If they are practiced, traffic violations, excessive speeding and "road-hogging"—all sources of fatal accidents—will be reduced to the minimum.

It is the purpose of the traffic school to put good driving on the level of a habit, to make highways safe for the motorist and intersections safe for the pedestrian. We need a nation of careful motorists. More particularly, we need a city of good drivers. Tonight's opening session of the traffic school points the way toward conserving life, not life in Spain or China or any place so far removed, but life that flows daily through the streets and over the highways of our own community.

The Atlantic and Pacific oceans are estimated by scientists to be at least 600,000,000 years old. And there are some who think they were put there just for our own special benefit.

Climaxing the year's forensic season, a collection of students who know how to stand up and persuade an audience to their way of thinking will arrive from 24 schools for the invitational speech contest opening at the university today. They will meet 21 of Iowa's men and women, intent on doing a better job of convincing the audience.

"Debater" is a formidable word to anybody who isn't one. It conjures up a picture of a musty tome, a dry statistic and a dull harangue. It does not suggest the sharp wit, the energy and knowledge that explode through the statistics and syllogisms.

It's easy to reel off a string of figures and a pageful of impressive names. It's not so easy to listen to the other fellow produce a figure a little newer, a line of reasoning a little clearer, and to think of the answers as he throws the questions at you.

If you're in the audience, it's a pleasure to hear the right answers come pouncing back. So how about being in the audience sometime this week end? Our hospitality makes a great impression on an outsider visiting the campus and our enthusiasm makes for a better showing on the part of our own speakers.

WHAT IS DEMOCRACY?

Hypocrisy, we have been taught, is the homage that vice pays to virtue. Similarly it might be said that a plebiscite is the homage which modern despotism pays to democracy. The latest example came recently when King Carol succeeded in having his new Constitution approved by the overwhelming vote of 4,165,193 for to 5,313 against. This is as good as any vote which Hitler has succeeded in getting out to endorse his policies, or Stalin to approve his constitution, and his regular ticket. The devices for achieving these results are strikingly similar. In Rumania every one was required to vote out loud, and in the conditions of terror prevailing there was little doubt in anybody's mind regarding the consequences of a vote of disapproval. So Rumanian citizens voted 99.98 per cent in favor of a constitution that allows the king to appoint half the senate, permits parliament to meet only once a year, allows even this meeting to be postponed 12 months at the king's wish, and in any case gives the king absolute veto power over legislation.

To a few weak minds these dictatorial plebiscites appear to have caused confusion, and the imitations of democracy have passed for the genuine article. But to an increasing number of persons they merely serve by contrast to emphasize what the essence of democracy really is. That essence has been commonly misunderstood, even by some of the champions of democracy. It does not necessarily involve the doctrine of egalitarianism, in the sense that "one man is as good as another, and even better." It does not necessarily involve a repudiation of aristocracy in the sense of rule by the best and wisest citizens. It does not necessarily involve the idea of "vox populi, vox Dei," or the assumption that the people in their infinite wisdom cannot make mistakes of policy; or the belief that the majority is always right. Democracy need not imply the direct participation of every one in the making of laws, or even necessarily direct rather than indirect representation. The essence of democracy is that legislators and the heads of state are dependent on the popular will in such a way that they may be changed in a peaceful manner as soon as they cease to represent that will. The function of democracy, in short, is to make and to keep domestic peace. As one commentator has expressed it, an election is a substitute for civil war in which the opposing armies are drawn up and counted in advance, and the victory is awarded to the larger to make any further test of strength unnecessary. Under democracy the people's votes can not only freely elect rulers but freely remove them.

This is the test to be applied today to any government in Europe, Asia or Central or South America that claims really to be democratic. The test is not even whether, at the moment, that government happens to reflect the popular will. The test is whether, if the government ceased to represent the popular will, it could be changed peaceably and without violence; or whether, to maintain itself in power, it does or would resort to intimidation, terror, periodic purges and baths of blood.

Blood Pressure Patients Should Have System of Happy Living

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

I have before me the report of a method of managing high blood pressure that could profitably be used by many people with this condition. It consists in forming classes of patients with high blood pressure who meet once or twice a week, and under the direction of a physician or nurse, practice various methods of relaxation and psychological treatment.

The trouble with the treatment of high blood pressure in most cases is that it does not depend on any particular form of treatment, but upon a rearrangement of the patient's entire life, and most people in middle age are not able to rearrange their own lives without help and encouragement from others.

In these hypertension classes in Boston the only requirement for membership is a high blood pressure. The purpose is to present and to train these individuals in a program of living which will enable them to live consistently at the optimal level of well-being which is possible for them.

The three forms of treatment consist in medical care, psychotherapy and diet. Medical care consists in all methods of treatment that are available in the clinic. It may be the treatment of complications such as varicose veins, diabetes, sinus trouble in the nose, but the fact that the class meets in the hospital makes it easier for these treatments to be carried out.

The diet which is used consists of potatoes, baked and eaten with the skin intact; dark bread and butter, milk, apples, and other fresh fruits. This Spartan but, on the whole, well-balanced and economic fare, is varied at times, and the patients are allowed to go on lapses on holidays or when they go out to dinner with friends and do not wish to appear to be eccentric.

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Burlesque is dead, killed by an over-dose of publicity and politicians, and while the remains are being suitably buried, let us tarry a moment and give thanks to H. M. Alexander, who autopsied the corpse and wrote a fascinating book on what made burlesque tick.

This is a slight well-knit tome entitled "Strip Tease—The Vanquished Art of Burlesque." It is at once a handbook and an elegy. He must have dug through a hundred old trunks, interviewed scores of chorus girls, pinned the bug on all the big producers. Here are some of the fascinating but little known facts about a form of theatrical entertainment that no longer exists.

Gypsy Rose Lee: Until five years ago burlesque was a hit-and-miss proposition, then came Gypsy Rose Lee and the strip tease profession was in full flower. . . . Good strip teasers earn from $80 to $150 a week. . . . The first strip teaser was Salome, who asked for the head of John the Baptist.

The burlesque show always chose a risque title, preferably a parody on some legitimate show. For instance, a week after the musical "At Home Abroad" opened on Broadway, burlesque came out with "A Broad at Home." . . . Shakespeare's "Anthony and Cleopatra" became "Anatomy and Cleopatra." . . . The Folies Bergere" became the "Folies Brasier."

Burlesque also had its own lingo, and in back-stage vernacular anything cagy was smutty or dirty. . . . A skull was a funny face. . . . If a comic or a chorus girl showed small aptitude in learning lines, he was a liverhead. . . . A lush was a drunk. . . . A stooge who took the falls was a Third Banana.

The Minskys

The big bosses of the burlesque business at the time the commissioners summarily executed it were the Minsky brothers—Billy, Abe, Herbert and Morton. . . . They are college men and have been profiled by The New Yorker. . . . They lured the high hats to their theaters and made a practice of dropping tickets at the Harvard Club and similar places.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The Bartholomews' return to court — this time to ask that daddy's percentage of Freddie's salary be trimmed—doesn't interest Freddie, if you can believe his Aunt Mylicent.

Says she: "He hasn't been concerned about the court troubles since it was settled that he and I wouldn't be separated. . . . When I came in from court yesterday the only question he asked was, 'Was it a hard day, Girlie?'"

By this time, of course, you wouldn't expect a boy to get excited about routine. He's done a bit at a dual-control plane, while Aunt Mylicent shuddered but went along. He's grounded now—by studio order, he thinks.

Incidentally, there's a nice story about Freddie and Miles Mander, the English actor-director playing his miserly uncle in "Kidnapped." Mander was the first movie director to encourage Aunt Mylicent in her effort to place Freddie in pictures. He played a bit in a Mander film in England when he was six. That encouragement lasted four years—until "Copperfield." And the Bartholomews kept the "Kidnapped" role open until Mander recovered from an illness and could play it.

Bob Bobbing Up

One of the best jobs of salvage in recent times is that done on the career of Robert Taylor. The young man seemed finished after a poor picture and that barrage of Great Lover stuff that marked his cross-country voyage to England. On his return trip there weren't any schoolgirls hiding under his stateroom bed. The picture he brought back, "A Yank at Oxford," is clicking hugely—helping. This, of course, is the planned objective, but Bob has had no little to do with it himself. His attitude in taking pretty merciless kidding has won friends among the kidders.

Another Survivor

Rudy Vallee is another idol of the femmes who's survived a lot of heckling and, apparently, won a sounder foundation of popularity.

Asked him the other day, on "The Gold Diggers of Paris" set, if he thought the judicious use of his good right arm on several beheckled occasions was responsible.

Hawk Wrestling Team Loses Capt. Nead For Remainder of Season

Doctors Order Star Grappler Out for Year

Old Gold Hopes Decline For Victory Over Illinois

Coach Mike Howard and Wilbur Nead abandoned their wrestling tactics temporarily yesterday in favor of a blues-singing session. Nead, heavyweight captain of the Iowa wrestling team, was released from a three week stay in University hospital Monday with doctor's orders to refrain from any type of athletic activity for the remainder of the semester.

Hawklets Play Maquoketa's 5 In First Round

Red and White Resumes Quest for Title In Game Tonight

Hoping to continue in the state tournament wars, City High will meet Maquoketa in the first round of the district meet at Davenport tonight at 9:30. The Little Hawks walked off with the sectional crown at Williamsburg last week.

Competing in what appears to be the toughest district in the state, Coach Francis Merten will attempt to meet opponents with a high-geared fast-break offense and an effective sliding zone defense. With his defensive department functioning to satisfaction, the City high mentor has concentrated his practice sessions this week on the perfection of his scoring machine.

Capt. Wayne Putnam and Gabby Burger, who have teamed up to form one of the state's most formidable defensive walls this year, are slated to start at the guard posts for the Hawklet quintet tonight.

Hirt to Start Russ Hirt, leading scorer on the local five, will probably get the nod for the starting center position. Hirt was slowed up in the sectional tourney with a lame back, but is again in top condition, as is the rest of Iowa City's 10-man tournament squad.

Ted McLaughlin and George Covert will be in the Red and White front line when the opening whistle blows tonight. The scrappy pair of Little Hawk forwards specialize on polished, speedy floor work as they lead the fast offensive drive down the floor.

Norry Wheeler, George Devine and Joe McGinnis are also due to see a good deal of service at Davenport, as Coach Merten attempts to keep an ever-speedy quintet on the floor.

Maquoketa Good Maquoketa, holding a decision over Monticello, who nosed out the Hawklets early in the season, is expected to provide the local team with some stiff competition. Should the City high cagers eliminate Maquoketa, they will probably come up against Davenport's Hilltoppers, regarded as one of the state's most prominent title-contenders.

rolled, an average of nearly 4,000 games each day. Prize money of $200,000 will be distributed to the high men, from a total of $297,300 amassed in entry fees. Spectators during the seven-week contest were expected to pass the 100,000 figure.

Chicago contributed the largest number of teams to this largest of A. B. C. meets, a total of 1,626. Milwaukee, with 245, ranked second followed by Indianapolis, 151; Detroit, 117; St. Louis, 87; Cleveland, 84; Peoria, 57; Pittsburgh, 50, and Toledo, 45.

Nead's nurses had heard of the star wrestler's plans to begin light workouts on the field house mats as soon as he was released from the hospital. They knew, too, that he hoped to hold down a guard position in the spring football practices, and that he would, perhaps, take up shot putting when the outdoor track season opened, for Nead was naturally inclined toward athletics. But that was before medical advisers warned that he must take a complete rest and abstain from strenuous exercise in any form for the rest of the school year. So as Nead put it in his own plaintive words, "I guess all I can do for the rest of the year is just go to school and study."

Weakens Iowa Squad Joining Nead in the "blues room," Coach Howard complained that Iowa's chances for annexing points in the Big 10 meet at Evanston three weeks hence will be greatly weakened, since the Hawkeye leader was expected to make the going tough for all competitors in the top weight division. Then there is the national meet—heavyweight wrestlers from all over the country will benefit by Nead's absence.

This year would have provided the big blond Iowa grappler with his last chance to square things with several heavies in the conference. Among Nead's arch rivals is Clifton Gustafson, Minnesota's Western conference champ. Nead was pointing particularly to the meet with Gustafson, who barely nosed out the Iowan on a referee's decision in their tussle last year. Of all the men Nead had hopes of beating this year, only the Indiana heavy who grabbed a close decision over him in the semi-final round last year will be back next year.

Looking to Next Year But, when Nead declared he would have a big year this season, he spoke in all earnestness. In his first four meets of the current season he threw each opponent with plenty to spare, and appeared, until he suffered an attack of yellow jaundice, to be on the way to a league championship, as well as high recognition in the national meet. Nead gave a warning note to next year's opponents when he decided that, "All I can do is wait until next year and get even with the boys that are left."

Baseball Scouts After Sam Chapman Major Leagues Seeking Services of All American Gridster

That the son of the Tiburon (Cal.) postmaster - storekeeper has what it takes is unquestioned. Otherwise why has he had either "feelers" or direct offers from the Yankees, Athletics, White Sox, St. Louis Browns, Detroit, the Red Sox, Cincinnati and two coast league clubs, San Francisco and Oakland?

The New York club, through a representative, is said to have offered "Sleepy Sam" a fat bonus for his signature to a contract. Here is the best part of the story. Chapman, who talks sparingly but listens heavily, politely has declined all offers. He said he is not going to sign up for professional baseball until he finishes the current collegiate season, his last. He graduates in May as a major in history. Bowling Meet Opens Tonight

Play to Commence In National Tourney At Chicago

CHICAGO, March 2 (AP)—The wood will begin to fly in the 38th annual American bowling congress tournament tomorrow night and the crashing will continue for 48 days and 48 nights.

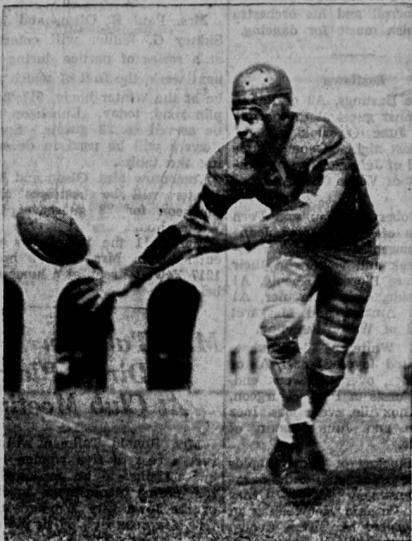

America's longest sporting event, with the biggest number of entries in its history, comes to Chicago for the fourth time. Forty gleaming alleys, eight more than ever used before, have been constructed in the Chicago coliseum. Bowlers, from every state in the Union, Canada and the Hawaiian Islands, will number 24,875. There will be 4,957 teams of five men each in action before the last ball is sent down the lane on April 18. The first A. B. C. tournament, in 1901, attracted just 41 teams.

Secretary Elmer Baumgarten of Milwaukee compiled record-breaking entry lists of 17,441 in the singles even, 8,620 in the doubles. By the time the best bowlers in the business have finished the singles, doubles and team competitions, more than 180,000 games will have been rolled, an average of nearly 4,000 games each day. Prize money of $200,000 will be distributed to the high men, from a total of $297,300 amassed in entry fees. Spectators during the seven-week contest were expected to pass the 100,000 figure.

Lannon to Syracuse?

BOB LANNON

Lannon May Go To Syracuse U.

Bob Lannon, regular end on the University of Iowa football team for the last three years, may replace Clarence Munn as line coach at Syracuse university, it was announced late last night.

Ossie Solem, former Iowa grid mentor and present head football coach and director of athletics at Syracuse, was in Iowa City for a short time last night, and talked to Lannon about the position. Lannon said in an interview last night that he told Solem he was interested in the job and Solem told him a definite announcement would be made in a few days.

Solem could not be located last night and it was believed that he had left for Minneapolis, Minn.

Lannon was chosen last year on the All-Big Ten first team by the Associated Press and was named by his teammates as the most valuable player on the squad. Lannon is a senior in the college of commerce and is president of his class. He is a member of the Delta Chi social fraternity.

Teaming with Homer Harris, captain of the 1937 football team, Lannon became known as one of the best ends in the conference as early as his sophomore year. He was an all-state player while attending high school at Winner, S. D., in both football and basketball. He also competed on the track team while in high school.

The line coaching job at Syracuse was left open by the resignation of Clarence Munn, former all-American center at Minnesota, who left to take over a similar job under Fritz Crisler at Michigan.

Elward Chosen As Head Coach At Purdue U.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 2 (AP)—Mal Elward, into whose hands Purdue university's football fortunes fell last year after illness laid low Head Coach Noble E. Kizer, today was appointed head coach of the Boilermakers.

The appointment was announced by President Edward C. Elliott, who said Kizer, now convalescing at Tucson, Ariz., had asked to be relieved as coach. Kizer, who is expected to return here Sept. 1, will continue as athletic director.

Elward, a teammate of the late Knute Rockne at Notre Dame, is rated in coaching circles as one of the game's keenest technicians. His 1937 Purdue eleven tied with Northwestern, Michigan and Wisconsin for fourth place in the Big Ten conference with a percentage of .500, winning two games, losing two and tying one in the conference.

Elward said active spring football practice would start Monday afternoon. After graduation from Notre Dame in 1916, Elward started his coaching career at St. John's prep at Danvers, Mass., and his team won the East Catholic prep title. In the World war he coached

Hawkeye Track Team Meets Wisconsin Tomorrow Night

20-Man Squad To Make Trip

Badgers Between Iowa And Six Season Win Mark

Only Wisconsin now stands between the Hawkeye track team and another season of victories in Big Ten dual indoor track meets, a record intact since 1932.

Coach Bresnahan yesterday named a squad of 20 men who will leave tomorrow morning for the contest with the Badgers at Madison tomorrow evening. The travellers listed were: Ed Wiggins, Cameron Campbell, Robert Nelson, Dale Roberts, Bush Lamb, Fred Lindenmeyer, Ed McCollister, Jim Lyle, Carl Teufel, Orval Matteson, John Collings, Ernie Gressler, Milton Billig, Fred Teufel, Jack Eicherly, Bill Leuz, Howard Ely, Robert Waples, Elliot Waples, and Glenn Beneke.

Co-captain Jim Lyle has captured individual scoring honors in the Hawkeyes' first three meets, with 22 points. Second on the scoring list is Cameron Campbell with 15 points. Campbell has not been defeated this year. In the Minnesota rout, Campbell hung up a new field house record in his specialty, the two mile run. The other co-captain, Bush Lamb, is third in garnering points with 14 1-2 to his credit. In the close tilt with Chicago last Friday, Lamb matched the .087 university and fieldhouse record in the 70-yard high hurdles chalked up in 1932 by the late George Saling, Iowa Olympic champion.

Wisconsin will provide another close meet. Iowa has whipped Minnesota, Northwestern and Chicago. The Badgers, also undefeated in three meets, will seek to nip the Hawkeyes' six season winning spree. Iowa has won five of nine meets from the Badgers since 1922.

Minnesota, beaten 59 to 27 by Iowa, was also a victim of Wisconsin, the Badgers going the Hawkeyes one point better in administering a 60 to 26 beating.

Iowa will still be without the help of John Graves, state record holder in the half mile and star relay man, because of an attack of flu which may keep him out another week.

The Newport naval reserve and the Hampton Roads training station teams. He became head football coach at Grinnell college (Iowa) after the war and brought Grinnell its first Missouri Valley title in five years. Then he moved to John Carroll at Cleveland, remaining there three years. He came to Purdue as an assistant in the fall of 1927.

Kizer has been on leave since August. Elliott said the decision to make the change was reached at a conference with Kizer and his medical advisors in Tucson last week. Elliott said Kizer's physicians "strongly advised him to give up the strenuous job of coaching."

Northwestern Wildcats Invade Iowa Pool For Dual Contest Saturday

Foxx Believes Bob Feller May Win 25 Games

MIAMI, Fla., March 2 (AP)—Jimmie Foxx, the Boston Red Sox slugger, said today he believed Bob Feller's wildness was an asset and he wouldn't be surprised if the young Van Meter, Ia., pitcher won 25 games for Cleveland this year.

"I don't think he has the speed Walter Johnson had, or Lefty Grove," Foxx said, "but that fast ball of Feller's is alive. It starts up there. That's why the kid is so good. You've got to be loose up there at the plate or he will knock your head off."

Strangely, Jimmie believes control might handicap Feller. "When Feller gets better control," he said, "he will not be hard to hit. Hitters can stand in there if they know the pitcher's not going to be firing at their heads or feet. Of course, Feller might be smart enough not to let us know he's got good control."

Weakened Gym Team Prepares For Next Meet

Still laboring under the loss of their all-around star, Adam Vogel, the Hawkeye gymnasts yesterday sought to piece together some sort of team to meet the threat of the Chicago Maroons who arrive Saturday for a dual meet in the Iowa fieldhouse.

The loss of Vogel came like a bombshell into the midst of the Hawkeye plans, exploding any chance the Iowans may have had for defeating the strong Chicago squad. When the Hawks begin the match Saturday night, they definitely will be in the position of underdogs.

Led by Beyer, all-around star who is gunning for the individual championship crown vacated by Eugene Wettstone of Iowa, the Chicagoans will invade Iowa City with a record of one win and one loss. Minnesota, leading team in the conference, whipped Chicago but the Maroons later went on to take the strong Illinois gymnasts by a good margin.

Hawk Mermen Determined To End Old Jinx

Armbruster Sends Men Through Long Practice

Determined to put an end to the jinx that has dogged them in their past jousts with the Wildcats of Northwestern, the Iowa swimmers are bearing down with a vengeance these days in preparation for the invasion of the purple squad next Saturday in the fieldhouse pool.

Yesterday Coach Dave Armbruster sent his charges through one of the most intensive drills of the season in an effort to whip them into top shape for their final home appearance of the year. The entire squad entered into the spirit of the drill and they appeared to be working harder for this than for any meet this season. With two days of practice remaining, they should be at their peak by Saturday night.

Three Upsets Feature Play In Eight District Tournaments; Keokuk, Argyle, Batavia Lose

Burlington Wins 23-26; Other Favorites Advance

DES MOINES, Ia., March 2 (AP)—Three upsets down in southeast Iowa featured the opening round of the boys' district high school basketball tournaments tonight.

Burlington's Greyhounds turned in the biggest surprise, a 26 to 18 victory over Keokuk in the first district at Ottumwa. The Chiefs couldn't get going against Burlington's stout defense. Barnes City and Grandview came through with the other form wreckers. Barnes City downed Argyle, previously undefeated this winter, 16 to 14, and Grandview tripped Batavia, 26 to 18, in a Class B thriller at Ottumwa.

Other first-round games tonight ran true to predictions with many of the favorites having easy first round opponents.

Arlie Simmonds' Orchestra Will Entertain at Barristers' Ball In Union Lounge, March 11

Miss Mitchell to Sing With Swing Band At Party

When the college of law entertains at the Barristers' Ball March 11, Arlie Simmonds, "the dean of hosts," and his orchestra will play for dancing. The informal party, limited to 250 couples, will be in the main lounge of Iowa Union from 9 to 12 p.m. Women will wear dinner dresses.

Arlie Simmonds and his orchestra will come to the campus from appearances at the Lowry hotel in St. Paul, Minn., the Sui Jen, cafe in Galveston, Tex., the Adolphus hotel in Dallas, Tex., the Muehlebach hotel in Kansas City, Mo., the Kenmore hotel in Albany, N. Y., the Tulsa hotel in Tulsa, Okla., and the Brown Palace hotel in Denver.

Several years ago the band leader played at Lake Okoboji. When he was a student at the University of Kansas, he intended to be graduated from the college of law. Then, as the leader of a university dance orchestra known as the "Kansas University Sundodgers," he was offered a summer contract to play at the Crescent hotel, Eureka Springs, Ark.

While he was playing there a representative of the Keith Theater enterprises heard his orchestra and offered him a year's contract to play for the Keith theaters throughout the nation. The acceptance of this contract led to his popularity as an orchestra leader.

Simmonds calls his group a sophisticated swing orchestra, backed with vocals and entertainment. Thelma Mitchell, vocalist, appears with the band.

Juvenile Home in Need of Renovation

6 Years Ago Private Charity Repaired One Room in County Institution

By BETTY HARPEL

"Six years ago one room of the juvenile home, a large dormitory, was completely redone—plastered, painted and re-floored. This was all accomplished without any expense to Johnson county, although it involved several hundreds of dollars," Emma J. Harvat, head of the juvenile home board for five years and a former mayor of Iowa City, said yesterday.

"This result was obtained through private charity, but it was accomplished by an organized drive for funds and supplies," Miss Harvat explained.

The six years since the redecoration of the room have left their mark upon it. It is no longer the impeccable dormitory that it must have been. Chipped white iron bedsteads, scarred floors and sleazy white curtains—little remnants of its former attractiveness.

In addition to this room, the board of directors of the home, working to interest the people of Johnson county, succeeded in gaining funds from private citizens sufficient to paper four rooms and a large hall, Miss Harvat said. They gathered clothing for the children and found bedding, dishes and numerous other things for the children to use.

Inquiries have been made by people who have taken time to think about the problem. "What can we do to help the children at the juvenile home?" they ask.

Their questions are hard to answer. There are so many ways in which individuals could help to make the children happier that it is difficult to select any one thing for one person to do.

Every little thing counts, however, as the children will tell you when they are speaking of the interest that sororities and fraternities have taken in them.

Even this help is scanty and rather unfair to the group of children as a whole, because the fraternity groups each choose one child to help and one group will do more for its protegee than another. However, in the absence of better help, such assistance is much appreciated by the children.

This situation and the occasional attentions of Iowa Citizens who take over a piece of clothing or a broken roller skate whenever they happen to remember the house at 538 S. Gilbert street, makes one wonder if scattered charity can accomplish thoroughly the job of giving these children a pleasant childhood.

"You can't make a success of a children's home without the interest and cooperation of the people of Johnson county and Iowa City. The home was operated at the peak of its success when we had 11 fine women from Iowa City and Johnson county working for the interests of the children," said Mrs. Mabel Evans, who for 18 years has been chief probation officer of the Johnson county juvenile court.

Miss Harvat told of the Linn county juvenile home at Cedar Rapids which is running smoothly, efficiently and on schedule, under a board of directors who organize the drive for funds and charity offerings. "What the can do, this county should be able to match," she said.

"These children have had so little of the better things in life and they are in the home for such a short period of time that they should be provided with a better environment than they had in the homes they left," Miss Harvat concluded. "It is the community's neglect of the dependent and forsaken child that produces the unending line of delinquency that year after year passes through our juvenile courts."

...with telephone poles!

Masked and goggled against the desert dust, telephone men have followed the 400 year old trail of Coronado in building the new transcontinental telephone line recently completed. The Spaniards took many days to cross the trackless Southwest, driving stakes to guide their return.

You can span this desert instantly over the new line, because the pioneering spirit of Coronado still lives.

Oceans, mountains, deserts yield one by one to that spirit, bringing ever closer the Bell System goal: dependable telephone communication with anyone, anywhere!

Glenn Frank Emphasizes Party Strength Bolstered for 1940 By Late Business Recession

New Hyphenated Name Disliked by Young Republicans

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP)—The extent to which the business recession has increased republican hope of making a substantial comeback this year and in 1940 was sharply emphasized at the Chicago meeting of the party program commission headed by Dr. Glenn Frank.

John D. M. Hamilton ... prospects looking up?

John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the republican party's national committee, flashes a smile for the camera in Chicago where the newly created program committee of party holds its first meeting.

Despite Dr. Frank's admonition to his group that political strategy and maneuvering was the business of the regular campaign organizations, not of the commission, the notion of a coalition between republicans and anti-new deal democrats got a mention at Chicago. But the non-office holding younger republicans who make up the Frank committee of 217 rejected any idea of hyphenating the party label or otherwise departing from a strictly republican platform and ticket.

Accord With Majority That was in accord with the views of the great majority of republican officeholders in Washington. They have consistently cold-shouldered the coalition suggestions made by Senator Vandenberg of Michigan and others. Those suggestions were inspired very largely by the democratic bolt from President Roosevelt's leadership during the court bill fight in the senate.

Six Witnesses Appear in Suit

Testify for Plaintiff In $10,000 Elvin Damage Case

Six witnesses testified yesterday afternoon for the plaintiff in the $10,000 damage suit of Austin Elvin, of Jefferson, against the Bayfield Hotel company, the Iowa City Hotel company and the Warden Hotel company before Judge James P. Gaffney.

To establish which company operates the Jefferson hotel, C. H. Hartnagle, Des Moines, and Attorney Dan Dutcher testified.

An out-of-court settlement was reached at 10:30 p.m. yesterday, Attorney R. G. Howard announced. The case will be dismissed this morning with prejudice.

Hartnagle, manager of the Chamberlin Hotel company in Des Moines, said the Jefferson hotel is operated by the Bayfield Hotel company, a corporation of which F. G. Warden is president.

Attorney Dutcher produced a lease of the hotel building and told the jury it was the lease under which the Bayfield Hotel company rented the building from the Iowa City Hotel company.

Four residents of Greene county were questioned by Attorney Ray Howard, Jefferson, concerning Elvin's farming ability previous to the accident.

S. B. Crouch and Frank Dobson, both farmers living near Elvin, testified that previous to the accident Elvin was an excellent farmer and did all of his own work. M. E. Bruner, creamery operator, and Earl Young, a barber, corroborated the testimony of the farmers.

Elvin is asking for damages for injuries allegedly received April 20, 1936, in a Jefferson hotel elevator accident. He claims the elevator fell from the sixth floor to the basement while he was a passenger.

Burke Service Will Be Held At 9 This Morning

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Daniel Curry of Davenport, a cousin, Burt Nolan of Iowa City and several nieces and nephews. The body is at McGovern's funeral home.

The amusement sector of the 1939 World's Fair will accommodate more than 250,000 persons at one time, a capacity greater than any amusement park in the world.

Daring Scribe Risks All (Well, All He Had) To Report on the Male Beauty Parlor Craze

Since the rise of the beauty parlor for men is a phenomenon that not every man has the chance to investigate for himself, we were fortunate in discovering that Charles (Average Citizen) Norman was going into the whole subject on his own account. Here is a report of his findings.

By CHARLES NORMAN AP Feature Service Writer NEW YORK—I am a modest fellow, but there is no use carrying modesty too far. When I heard of a barber shop that cut hair according to physiognomy, I decided to take a chance.

I am no beauty, I reasoned, but there may be hidden virtues in my face that a physiognomical haircut might bring out. I entered boldly and sat down. A barber hovered over me, and in a moment I was garbed in a sheet. In another, he was stuffing tissue paper into my shirt collar—“Keep the hair out.”

“Why no shaving?” I asked. “A barber who specializes in haircuts will give a better haircut,” he said firmly. “Besides, if you charge 20 cents for a shave, and you get calls for 10 shaves a

In Iowa county the embargo extends from Marengo to Belle Plaine on primary road 212. It is effective also on primary road 21 from Victor to the junction of 212 and 21.

The embargo has been ordered to prevent damage to the highways during the spring months.

Masonic Blue Lodge Will Meet Tonight

The Masonic blue lodge No. 4, A. F. and A. M., will meet at 7:30 tonight in the temple to confer the third degree, Dr. R. V. Smith, worshipful master, announced yesterday.

Refreshments will be served and a social hour will follow.

Jon Hall and Dorothy Lamour as the native sweethearts of "The Hurricane" which starts today at the Varsity Theatre.

day, how much can you make?" "Two dollars," I said quickly. There was a silence.

"I suppose," I ventured, "that I needn't say anything about how I want my hair cut, since you have your own method of doing things."

"Oh, no," he replied, "you can say anything you like. With that bald spot on the top of your head, what can I do except trim the back and sides?"

I had forgotten about the bald spot. Nature had given me, a number of years ago, a shock of red hair. But nature had taken most of it back, leaving a bare stretch where drafts love to play.

I handed over 70 cents (20 for a tip, since I couldn't blame the bald spot on the barber) and left, considerably depressed. I was in a mood to be trimmed according to my physiognomy and had been frustrated by that bald area. But out in the street I brightened again.

After all, I recollected, there are men who go regularly to beauty parlors. (Not friends of mine.) Why shouldn't I?

I found myself in a building with marble halls full of glitters, and the next thing I knew I was in a salon—"exclusively for men." A young woman took my name, another relieved me of hat and coat. I was escorted into a booth by a woman in white. There was a dressing table, mirror and chair in the booth. I sat down. The door closed. Behind me stood the woman in white. I could see her in the mirror.

"A haircut?" she asked brightly. "I don't think I need one," I said. "How about a facial?"

"Elevated eyebrow" "No, thanks," I said. I must have raised an eyebrow, because she went on.

"An eyebrow trim? A manicure?" She was looking hard at me in the mirror. Suddenly she smiled again.

"You seem to be losing ground on top," she said. "Now there are several types of hair—dry hair, oily hair, tired hair." She ran her fingers through my sparse growth.

"You have tired hair," she announced. "You have reached a state where there is very little left. It has taken several years, and many things have contributed to its loss."

"I can tell you about that," I said. She pattered on. "What you need," — and from this point I was putty in her hands — "is a series of hair treatments. Of course, where your scalp is shiny, nothing can be done. But in other places, where hair follicles still remain, we can coax the hair back. But I can't promise miracles."

"I was afraid of that," I said. "One treatment won't do," she went on. "You should get six, at least, but 12 would be better. One treatment is two dollars, but six will only be nine dollars. You save on that."

He Sees "I see," I said. She took a bottle of lotion and dabbed it on my scalp with tissue paper.

"For tired hair," she explained, "you will need our special tired hair lotion. It's only $1.50 a bottle. I'm using some of it now, cleansing your scalp."

I felt myself blushing. "Now I lift the scalp and press and knead it in circular sweeps of the fingers until the surface is pink."

I looked in the mirror—it certainly was. The next moment she was brushing my hair vigorously.

"You should have one of these brushes," she said. "They're only $9.75. And at the start, you should have two treatments a week. Then one a week will do. Would you like to sign up for six or 12?"

"Twelve," I said, "if I can put it on my expense account."

75th Congress Home State Produce Is Swallowed

By EDDY GILMORE
WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP)—How the 75th congress will go down in history is an open question, but an unprecedented amount of home state produce already has gone down the gullets of its members.

Latest of the congressional culinary contests was an oyster orgy promoted in the senate restaurant yesterday by bivalve backers from Narragansett and Chesapeake Bay.

Rhode Islanders contended the Chesapeake product was puny. Marylanders, with piscatorial pride, said Narragansett oysters were muscle bound.

What was proved?—That neither claim was true, and that no matter how much you punish the political palate it never gives up.

Antedating this free feast by a few weeks was the spud struggle between the legislators from the potato states of Idaho and Maine.

Before that it was grapefruit. Representatives west of Texas and Hendricks of Florida flooded Capitol Hill with pecks of it.

Cheese has been on the menu, too.

Rep. Schneider of Wisconsin saw to that, and now the New York delegation is threatening to cut a few cheeses of its own.

For two summers Georgia has been plugging her watermelons by furnishing Postmaster General Farley with free samples for his annual picnic.

Still to be tested are: Mississippi shrimp, Alabama pecans, Iowa corn, California oranges, Massachusetts cod, Connecticut nutmeg, Virginia ham and Missouri mules.

Kids Hear Why 'Nice Brother' Became King

LONDON (AP)—Everything is all right now for British posterity, for the history of the abdication has been written for the kiddies.

Here is how H. E. Marshall undertakes to pass it on for the boys and girls:

"King Edward loved a lady, and wanted to marry her and have her always beside him as his wife. But a whole lot of people all over the empire didn't like her much, and didn't want her to be queen."

"Very well," said King Edward, "you don't like my lady, but I do. I love her better than anyone else in the whole wide world."

"I'd rather be with her than be the ruler of this great empire. So I'll go away and not be your king any more."

"But you needn't be sad and sorry about it, because I have a very nice brother who will make a very good king."

"We were very sad and sorry. But it couldn't be helped."

"So we just said: 'Goodbye, and God bless you.'"

"And King Edward said: 'Goodbye and God bless you.'"

"Then he went away to be with his dear lady."

"So now he isn't called His Majesty King Edward any more, but his Royal Highness the Duke of Windsor."

All this is in a book Marshall has written about "Kings and Things," and the kiddies can find out about it if they save up five shillings.

'Duley' Starts a Riot And Undoes Her Husband's Doings in Comedy Presented by City High Cast

By HAROLD S. OLSON

Led by Lois Tallman as "Duley," a business man's wife, who attempts to smooth her husband's business deals with love matches, and turns a week end party into a riot, the Paint and Patches dramatics club of the Iowa City high school offered the sprightly comedy "Duley" for the last time last night.

Outstanding roles were played by Scott Swisher as C. Roger Forbes, large business executive, and Charles Beckman as Vincent Leach, scenario writer.

The plot centers around a week end party at which Duley's husband, played by Robert Yetter, plans to make an extensive business arrangement with Forbes.

Unwanted aid by Duley leads to complications of romance and misfortunes that finally straighten out after a round of humorous trouble is cleared away.

Marvin Chapman as Duley's brother added a great deal of humor to the play and proved in the end to be the hero of Duley's instigated romance.

Good performances were turned in by Leon Kleopfer as an eccentric character, who lifts

Duley's husband out of his business difficulties, only to complicate matters when his disillusioned mentality becomes known.

An excellent impersonation was given by David Armbruster as a butler with a dubious past, who created a sensation when some valuables were lost. Betty Crum, as Angela Forbes, played a good role as Forbes' fanciful daughter who elopes with the scenario writer to the disgust of her father, but later turns up married to Bill Stevens.

The play combined a fast moving plot with an excellent character portrayal by the entire cast. The cast included Marvin Chapman as Bill Stevens, David Armbruster as Henry the butler, Robert Yetter as Gordon Smith, Robert Dunlap as Mr. Sterrett, Lois Tallman as Duley Smith, Leon Kleopfer as Schuyler Van Dyck, Scott Swisher as C. Roger Forbes, Betty Kyser as Mrs. Forbes, Betty Crum as Angela Forbes, Charles Beckman as Vincent Leach, Betty Blessin as Evangeline Prossie, and Alan Sentinella as Blair Patterson.

The play was under the direction of Lola Hughes, dramatics coach.

Mayor Walker Opens Iowa City Traffic School This Evening

Nine Violators Start Classes For 1st Term

Lectures and Discussion Will Be Program For Tonight

Mayor Myron J. Walker will officially open the first session of the Iowa City traffic school tonight at 7:30 in the city council chambers, discussing the topic, "The Motorist and the Public."

He will be the first of 10 speakers who will be in charge of successive weekly sessions of the school. The nine other persons will discuss various features of educational safety.

The session tonight will consist of Mayor Walker's 20-minute discussion, a 20-minute talk by Police Judge Burke Carson on the traffic code and an open discussion.

Nine traffic violators have been sentenced to attend the first 11-week term. Carson has sentenced eight violators and Justice of the Peace J. M. Kadlec, one. Henry Ball, Coralville justice of the peace, is expected to sentence a number from Coralville to the school later. Violators must pass the test the eleventh week to escape paying their fine.

Mayor Walker has urged all interested persons to register as soon as possible. Registration can be made at the city clerk's office or at the first session. Attendance for non-visitors is not compulsory and there is no cost involved.

This is the first traffic school started in eastern Iowa and has the support of the Iowa Highway Safety committee and the state highway patrol.

Persons attending the classes for the 11-week period and passing the test on the eleventh week, will receive a certificate of award.

Boys Study Glass Painting at Recreational Center

More than 30 boys in the junior division at the Recreation center assemble every Monday and Wednesday at 4 p. m. and Saturday at 9 a. m. for a craft class under the direction of Clifford Williams, (above) A4 of West Liberty. In the workroom, over the long tables strewn with clean glass plates, water colors, paint brushes and pictures, they work on their first project, glass painting. A section of plate glass is placed over a picture or design, and with fine dark crayon, the outlines beneath the glass are duplicated. To reproduce the original effect, hundreds of short delicate strokes must be made to add form and shading to the outline. Then follows the task of applying unstable water colors to the glass. Care must be taken to keep the colors from "running." The finished work is placed over a white background and the sides bound with contrasting tape. The center has a fine selection of neat, colorfully painted glass plates.

Judge Gaffney Sustains Two Motions of City School Board

Refuses Elimination of Third Paragraph From Petition

Judge James P. Gaffney yesterday sustained the city school board's motion to strike two of three "immaterial" paragraphs from the petition of Lewis L. Smith Sr. demanding an injunction to halt construction of the $725,000 high school on the Morningside site.

third motion—to strike the paragraph which claimed the site purchase was void because it violated the state statute limiting school sites to five acres. Smith contends the board owns 29 acres.

The two paragraphs which were stricken claimed the school board had not given notice of its intention to purchase the Morningside site, and asked that the purchase price of the real estate be returned by the persons who sold the land to the school board.

The court upheld the board's contention that these two clauses were immaterial and money damages could not be included in a petition for an injunction. The case will be heard late this term of court. The firm of Dutcher, Ries and Dutcher represents the board, and Attorney D. C. Nolan, Smith.
