Father Makes Third Appeal To Kidnapers

Plea Signalizes A Lack Of Progress In Levine Case

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., March 3 (AP)—A third appeal to the kidnapers of Peter Levine to "make contact" was made late today by the father, Murray Levine, signaling a disturbing lack of progress in the case on the eighth day of the 12-year-old boy's disappearance.

From his home, where he has been keeping a long, anxious and fruitless watch near the telephone, Levine sent out this message: "I appeal to those holding my boy to make contact with me at once. I am ready. The way is open. The police and federal authorities are not interfering and will not interfere."

"I am certain that any reputable man will agree to act, or I will come myself, alone. If any letter or message addressed to me should come into the hands of anyone, I appeal to him to give it to me at once without letting any other persons know."

The kidnaping was brought officially today to the attention of the state legislature at Albany, where Assemblyman Robert J. Crews, a New York City republican, offered a bill to authorize payment of a $10,000 reward for the apprehension and conviction of the abductors.

Too, the federal Lindbergh law, under which a kidnaping is presumed to have become an interstate matter after seven days absence of the victim, automatically became operative today.

Thus, the federal bureau of investigation was put in a position where it could take over the whole investigation if it wished, but Reed Vetterli, the local agent in charge, declined to say whether he would end his announced "hands-off" policy.

The frantic father, Murray Levine, refused point blank to admit whether he had paid the $60,000 investigators said was demanded in a third ransom note.

The New York attorney initiated a statement would be forthcoming soon. He again appealed to police to let him handle the case unaided.

Rabbi Abraham Nowak, supposed intermediary whose secretary found the third ransom message, and his wife returned home early this morning after a four hour absence. The rabbi declined an explanation.

"There will be a proper time when you have your information," he added, significantly.

Levine, weary from his long vigil, complained "crank" letters and telegrams had left the family "tired and distraught."

Aerial Forces Join in Search For Lost Plane

FRESNO, Cal., March 3 (AP)—Aerial searches joined ground parties late today in the first comprehensive effort to find the missing skyliner which presumably crashed in the mountains northeast of here Tuesday night with nine persons aboard.

All hands headed for the vicinity of Saddle peak, 80 miles northeast of here, on the strength of a new theory that the storm trapped airplane was crowded far off its course as it unsuccessfully sought an emergency landing.

The searchers previously had projected their efforts to the region of Huntington and Shaver lakes, 35 miles to the northeast, where aerial flares and mysterious shots were noticed about the time the plane was in trouble.

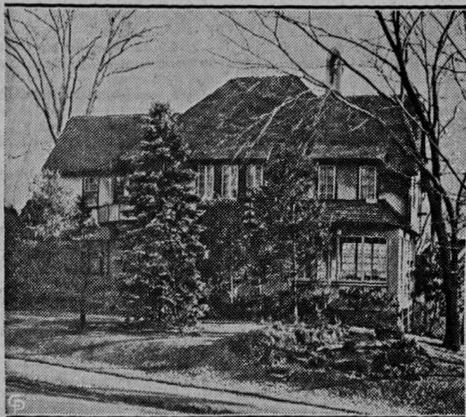

Snow delayed examination of a huge scar on a mountainside 60 miles northeast of Fresno. The snowfall extended down to the 2,000 foot level.

Fliers in the search concentrated on the Casle peak objective after M. B. Doolin, San Francisco airport executive, and William Coyle, a transcontinental and western air pilot, reviewed the available facts and suggested it as the most promising sector.

Kansas City Court Finds Six Guilty In Vote Fraud Trial

KANSAS CITY, March 3 (AP)—All six defendants in Kansas City's eleventh vote fraud trial were convicted late today by a federal court jury which deliberated an hour and 50 minutes.

Home of Kidnaped Boy; Intermediary in Case

Here are the home of the New Rochelle, N. Y., boy, Peter Levine, 12, kidnaped and held for $60,000 ransom, and Louis S. Posner, the intermediary appointed by the boy's father, Murray Levine.

Britain Seeks Dictator Truce

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 3 — Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, trying to keep peace in a Europe arming for war, sought today to make a double-barreled deal with Fuehrer Adolf Hitler of Germany and Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy.

Chamberlain's policy of dicker-ing with dictators took its new exploratory turn when Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, saw Hitler and Joachim von Ribbentrop, the new German foreign minister.

The turn toward friendship came as Britain was steeling herself for the announcement in the house of commons tomorrow of the navy's share of the nation's huge arms budget. Of the total estimated $1,758,750,000 for armament in 1938, the navy was expected to get $565,000,000.

The army estimates submitted to commons today were the highest in 16 years. They totaled $532,500,000, an increase of $121,630,000 over last year. This came on top of a previously announced $557,510,000 gross air force estimate and $101,380,000 for ordnance factories.

Interest to Both
Tense official announcements in both London and Berlin said only that the conversation concerned "subjects of interest to both countries."

But it was considered certain that Henderson and Hitler covered, among other things, the vital question of German demands for colonies and German aims toward Austria and Czechoslovakia whose nazi populations are agitating for union with the third reich.

Diplomats Agree
Despite the official reticence, diplomatic quarters were agreed on two points:

"I. Chamberlain was trying to revive the Locarno treaty which his late half-brother, Sir Austen, built and Hitler destroyed by reoccupying the Rhineland March 7, 1936;

2. Von Ribbentrop was likely to start the official conversations soon when he returns to say good-bye to his former staff as retiring ambassador to London.

Today's surprise move was the first official contact on negotiations since Lord Halifax, now foreign secretary, saw der Fuehrer last November.

Since that time Anthony Eden, chief opponent of British deals with dictators, has been forced out as foreign secretary and Chamberlain, guiding foreign policy himself, has started friendship talks with Italy.

Four-Power Accord
As the new British foreign policy unfolded it became increasingly clear that Chamberlain was trying to bring Italy and Germany into a four-power accord with Britain and France.

21 Confess In Treason Trial

Plea Changed on Second Day by Krestinsky, Lone Holdout

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK

MOSCOW, March 3 (AP)—Nicholas N. Krestinsky, the lone holdout in Russia's mass treason trial, today forlornly joined his 20 co-defendants in confessing to plots against the soviet state from its birth.

Krestinsky, once soviet ambassador to Berlin but now only a haggard shell of a man, had cried his innocence yesterday, repudiating his confession before trial.

But today, in the second dramatic episode of the two-day trial, he suddenly and unexpectedly changed his plea after Prosecutor Andrei J. Vishinsky had stopped the examination of other defendants to bring testimony to bear on him.

The fates of Nikolai Bucharin, former editor of official soviet newspapers, and Genrikh G. Yagoda, former chief of the secret police, also appeared sealed.

Bucharin, once a close associate of Nikolai Lenin, testified he had helped organize a peasant revolt in Siberia while he still was in the confidence of the party's leaders.

Yagoda admitted he had refrained from repressing rightists plotting against the regime while he was assistant chief of the OGPU in 1927 and 1928.

Radio Fans Listen Over Complicated Emergency Outlets

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—Complicated emergency arrangements tonight brought to the country's radio fans their scheduled Hollywood programs, although communication with the Los Angeles area was still undependable because of floods.

Programs featuring Rudy Vallee, Robert Taylor and Bing Crosby (NBC) were transmitted from Hollywood studios by telephone to station KFI in Los Angeles, broadcast on the regular channel, picked up by an RCA station at Point Reyes, Cal., 470 miles away, relayed to station KPO in San Francisco, and from there sent throughout the country on the regular telephone trunk line.

Amos and Andy, who generally are broadcast from Palm Springs via Los Angeles, instead were "piped" by telephone line to Albuquerque, N. M., for national distribution.

New Incidents Arise in Tokyo

TOKYO, March 4 (Friday) (AP)—Tension mounted in Tokyo today as the controversy between the government and the diet (parliament) over the drastic national mobilization bill generated new incidents.

A diet subcommittee demanded a war office apology after aviation officers yelled "shut up" to hecklers.

Cordons of police were drawn around the homes of 13 representatives who allegedly were marked for attacks similar to one made on Isao Abe, head of the social mass party.

The 73-year-old party leader was injured by assailants who clubbed him in his bedroom, gashing his forehead and face, and cursed his political views.

Niemoller Family Doesn't Know Where Reverend Is Jailed

BERLIN, March 3 (AP)—Protestant supporters of the Rev. Martin Niemoller were alarmed tonight as it became apparent that even his family did not know where he was being held in jail.

Bill Passes By Large Majority

Additional Armaments Only for Protection, President Says

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—The administration's big navy bill won the overwhelming approval of the house naval committee today.

Only three of 23 voting members opposed the legislation, which President Roosevelt requested "specifically and solely because of the piling up of additional land and sea armaments in other countries."

As finally approved, the bill would authorize construction of 46 men-of-war, 22 auxiliary vessels and 950 airplanes. Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) estimated these new weapons would cost $1,083,546,000.

An additional expenditure of $30,000,000 was recommended for experimentation with small, swift "mystery" ships, new bombs, torpedoes and aircraft.

The committee earmarked $3,000,000 of this fund for a new dirigible of American design and construction to replace the decommissioned Los Angeles. It would be used for training and experimental purposes.

The new warships recommended include three battleships, two aircraft carriers, nine cruisers, 23 destroyers and nine submarines.

2 Doctors Remain At Pershing's Side

TUCSON, Ariz., March 3 (AP)—Two physicians kept close to the bedside of Gen. John J. Pershing tonight with Lieut. Col. S. U. Marietta, army heart specialist, cancelling earlier plans to return to San Antonio.

The physicians were more reticent than at any time since the early stages of the general's grave illness. A 13-word bulletin from Dr. Roland Davison said: "There has been no appreciable change in General Pershing's condition since last night."

The bulletin of the previous night disclosed the kidneys, which once ceased to function entirely, were giving trouble, and described the general's condition as "still serious," although there had been no actual retrogression.

Death Sentences Meted Out to 2 In Tennessee

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn., March 3 (AP)—A dynamite blast that missed its mark of vengeance and killed three little girls, resulted today in sentences of death for two men and 21 years' imprisonment for two others.

A fifth man, who was on trial as an accessory to the blast last Jan. 7, was acquitted.
A circuit court jury convicted White Tollett, 26, Church Lester, 44, Lee Walker, 27, and Ulysses Walling, 23, all from Pikeville Tenn. of first degree murder. The penalty for White Tollett and Lester was death, and for Walling and Walker, imprisonment. Crave Tollett, brother of White, was acquitted of a charge of being an accessory.

The state charged the defendants sought to kill the children's father to avenge the death of Arnold Tollett, brother of White and Crave Tollett.

There was scarcely a sound in the crowded courtroom as Judge Ben Allen passed sentence. He withheld setting a date for the electrocution pending a new trial motion by counsel for Lester and Tollett.

The men were accused in the deaths of Sonia, 9, Luena, 7, and Roma Jean Gouge, 5, daughters of 35-year-old Harmon Gouge who is accused of killing Arnold Tollett, a brother of White and Crave, in 1935. Gouge is scheduled to be tried April 11 for the slaying in which he has claimed self defense.

KINDHEARTED COPS Goose Gains Liberties In Jail Cell

PHILADELPHIA, March 3 (AP)—A 16-pound goose which spent a comfortable night in a jail cell viewed the kind treatment of policemen with apprehension today.

Its suspicions were first aroused by a nice meal of bread and water and permission to exercise in the jail corridor.

Its apprehension increased as policemen eyed it with hungry "I'll take-the-drum-stick" looks and spoke of drawing lots if the owner failed to show up.

The goose was brought to the jail by policemen who captured it after two boys dropped it and ran at their approach.

Offers Eye Mother Arranges For Transfer of Eye

LANSDDALE, Pa., March 3 (AP)—A 30-year-old mother said tonight she had arranged to give her right eye that her baby son might see.

Mrs. William Laverty, wife of a textile worker, made plans to go to New York for the operation March 28 at the Presbyterian medical center.

Doctors told the mother the child had been losing his sight since he became ill with measles last April. His right eye is sightless and the left is affected.

Mrs. Laverty said she and her husband "talked the matter over" and decided on the operation. She said she was told if her right eye was transferred to the child, his sight would be restored and the loss of vision in the left eye might be checked.

Joe McInnery Found Dead by Police; Coroner Callahan Performs Autopsy

Joe McInnery, 47, 422 S. Dubuque street, was found dead at 8:42 p.m. yesterday by police on the state property at the west end of College street. Police in-

The cause of death was double bronchial pneumonia with tuberculosis, a post-mortem revealed at 1:30 this morning. Mr. McInnery had been in ill health for several years.

Investigated after Elmer LeVora reported to the station that he thought McInnery was dead.

After a brief investigation by Chief of Police W. H. Bender and Sheriff Don McComas, the body was removed to the McGovern funeral home. County Coroner

George Callahan, who returned to the city at 11 p.m., at once began performing an autopsy to determine the cause of death.

Patrolmen George Hall and Ed Ruppert accompanied LeVora to the place where McInnery was found lying face down. Dr. D. F. Fitzpatrick, who was called in the absence of Coroner Callahan, said McInnery had apparently been dead for several hours.

McInnery was born and raised in Iowa City. He served in the United States navy during the World war. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Ella McInnery, 422 S. Dubuque street, six sisters and a brother.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night, according to the family.

Los Angelians Out of Danger, Mayor Affirms

Thousands Homeless; Property Damage In Millions

LOS ANGELES, March 3 (AP)—Swirling flood waters receded tonight from stricken southern California leaving a total of 144 persons dead or missing, thousands homeless and property damage estimated in millions of dollars.

Hundreds of homes were covered by mud; highways, bridges and railroad tracks were washed away, and relief officials brought face to face with pressing tasks in caring for the homeless.

Authorities expressed belief the death toll may be increased considerably when flood-swept communities in five counties dig themselves out of mud and debris piled up by an unprecedented five-day rainstorm.

An accurate check on conditions in various outlying districts was impossible tonight because of disrupted communications and transportation, but officials here agreed that damage from the storm would mount into the millions.

The storm, which piled up a five-day precipitation total of 11.06 inches in Los Angeles and was considerably higher in neighboring foothill communities, passed northward today. Only occasional showers were predicted for the city and vicinity tomorrow.

Mayor Frank Shaw issued a statement tonight declaring all danger in the Los Angeles area appeared past.

"We are at work on a preliminary estimate of damage to public and private property," he said, adding the work of rehabilitation already was under way "with every resource of the city government cooperating 100 per cent."

Mrs. Esther Chadburn, field representative for the American Red Cross, said reports from stricken areas where communication was possible showed 1,500 homes were uninhabitable. The Red Cross was caring for more than 3,000 homeless in Los Angeles county alone.

Chinese Army Caught by Japs In 'Death Trap'

SHANGHAI, March 4 (Friday) (AP)—Japanese army dispatches said today that a Chinese army of 100,000 men had been caught in a virtual "death trap" in southwest Shansi province while Chinese asserted Japan's central China advance had been halted by guerrilla raids.

The Japanese accounts said the Chinese, pursued by columns attacking from the north and east, were fleeing toward the Yellow river, but that detachments of the Chinese central army with machine-guns were posted at the main fords to halt the retreat of their compatriots.

The Japanese have reported the army of 100,000 in retreat for four days and boasted Wednesday that 50,000 Chinese had been slain in the rout to the Yellow river.

(In Washington, the Chinese embassy announced receipt of a telegram from Hankow which said in part:

"The Japanese claim that huge Chinese forces in Shansi province are facing the imminent danger of annihilation is ridiculed by competent observers who, pointing out that the mountainous character of Shansi province is especially suitable for guerrilla warfare, believe that there is little chance for a complete occupation of that province by the Japanese.")

Putting Some Life In the Elephant

DR. GLENN FRANK and his 217 assistants got out their political hypodermic needles and stethoscopes early this week and gathered round the feeble frame of the G. O. P. elephant. During the last two days the clinic has been organized and the scene cleared for several months of intensive probing.

The committee begins a difficult but not a hopeless task. Although the old elephant—veteran of more than 80 years of political battles—appeared half-dead after the election of 1936, party leaders still feel confident that at least a strong spark of life is left.

There are those within the party who, led by Senator Vandenberg and others, suggest a coalition with anti-new deal democrats. Young republicans, however, spurn the idea. They do not want recovery at the price of a hybrid or freak, even if it is only the kicking half which is to be grafted on the party.

First move in this direction is the so-called "objective audit" of the new deal's economic program. Results of this investigation will be the only findings released before congressional elections this year.

If the gods of political parties permit the committee to shape a program satisfactory to every element, a basic philosophy to which each "anti-new dealer can subscribe, it will have been successful in the largest sense of the word.

Baseball Again—Sure Sign of Spring

NO MATTER what the thermometer may or may not testify we know that spring is not so far away. Someone has seen a duck flying north. There are white shoes in the windows. The basketball season is almost over.

title as "America's National Sport." It presents a show continuing from one end of the year to the other. Besides the fight for the pennants there are annual holdout struggles, bickering between managers and players, feuds between team members and between teams and the winter trades to keep our interest constantly whetted.

The average fan, much like the average sports writer, never really knows what is going to happen next—especially with Dizzy Dean, Lefty Gomez and the Brooklyn Dodgers still in the major leagues. We admit it is pretty often a crazy business. But just the same when the first game starts, in common with a few million other Americans unfortunate enough not to be at the scene of the conflict, we'll be at our radio rooting and hoping that this year our favorite team comes through.

This column's 1938 prize for inconsistency goes to Benito Mussolini who, finding Italy so overcrowded he had to take over Ethiopia for expansion, promptly demanded more Italian babies be born.

Watch Your Weight...

IF YOU feel you can't trust your butcher—it's probably your own fault! That at least is the verdict of Robert Littell, who has revealed that the average housewife is overcharged approximately $54 a year on her meat and grocery purchases, often as a result of her own negligence.

There is virtually no end to the ingenious and phenomenally successful devices which a short-weight crook may employ to fleece innocent customers—until the department of weights and measures catches up with him.

But the deliberately dishonest merchant is a relatively rare specimen, says Mr. Littell, and the greater share of undue profits accrues to respectable grocers and butchers who "would not admit, even in their own souls, that they are cheating!"

The remedy for the situation seems to lie in a general awakening of the public as to just how much it has unknowingly been contributing to the maintenance of the short-weight system in America.

It has now been discovered that George Washington was also America's first millionaire. In view of his record during the Revolution that would make George also the United States' first economic anti-royalist.

Any Signs of Breast Cancer Should Have Instant Attention

By LOGAN GLENDENING, M. D.

Several letters have come in about the treatment of cancer of the breast, of which the following is a typical example: A woman writes to say that she has discovered a small lump in the breast, and wonders whether it could be due to the fact that she had some teeth extracted last week and that there was a gland enlargement from this.

When the disease is local and is treated by a combination of surgery and radiation, good results are obtained in a very large series of cases after a five-year period. In fact, the results in cancer of the breast, if intelligent treatment is instituted promptly after the discovery of a lump, are just as good as the results obtained in any chronic disease, and a great deal better than the results obtained in most chronic diseases.

It is no longer true that the diagnosis of cancer of the breast necessarily carries with it the implication of a fatal outcome.

June Graduates: To all students who expect to graduate at the close of the present semester—June 6, 1938: Every student who expects to receive a degree or a certificate at the university convocation to be held Monday, June 6, should make his formal application on a card provided for the purpose at the Registrar's Office on or before Saturday, April 2, 1938. It is of the utmost importance that each student concerned comply with this request immediately, for otherwise it is very likely that a student who may be in other respects qualified will not be recommended for graduation at the close of the present semester. Making application for the degree, or certificate involves the payment of the graduation fee ($15) and also the cap and gown fee ($1) at the time the application is made—the payment of these fees being a necessary part of the application. Call at the registrar's office for the card. The petition of the association of senior class presidents that a fee of $1 be assessed to cover the cost of the caps and gowns for commencement has been granted. Therefore, hereafter this additional fee of $1 is to be paid by each candidate for a degree at the time he pays his graduation fee. (Heretofore the normal rental fee for bachelors' caps and gowns has been $2.00 and for doctors' caps and gowns and hoods $4.00-$5.00.) The service for handling the taking of orders, and the distribution of the academic apparel, will be explained to students when information about Convocation is sent out from the Alumni Office. H. C. Robbin Coons: HOLLYWOOD—Add to the fast-vanishing tribes of Hollywood the old sailing ships who can tell you what a dead-eye is, or a swifter, or a cathead. "There's just about a dozen men left," mused Chris Christensen, "who know about an old-time rigging." Old-time rigging has been the movie livelihood of Captain Chris these 15-odd years. During that time he's built most of the windjammers and schooners used in picture—built them on soundstages, or remodeled practical craft used in sea-going scenes. Sailors conversant with royal halyards and gallant halyards are becoming so rare that Chris Christensen, himself 25 years at sea, has been placed under exclusive contract to 20th Century, where it's his worry to round up enough veterans of the seven seas to whip together in quick time a windjammer for "Slave Ship" or the current "Kidnapped."

"We can do it with regular studio carpenters," he said, "but it takes longer. Because I've got to explain what I mean when I use the jargon." We put up this ship for "Kidnapped" in 10 days, with help of some veterans. But they're scarce. Lot of 'em get back to sea, slack times in pictures, then I get a call and have to prow around down the harbor, hunting new ones. Modern "old-time ships" are equipped with hydraulic jacks. They can pitch and roll and shiver—on a sound stage—under control of levers. Makes sea films a heap simpler. But none of Christensen's movie boats even the soundstage variety, is a soddy makeshift. The camera can look in any direction on them and not find fault. Once, long time ago, Captain Chris thought he'd save some money by "fixing up" only those parts the director would shoot. That was on "The Divine Lady," Frank Lloyd directing. Came a day when Lloyd changed his mind about an angle. Chris and crew did some scamporing to "cover up,"—he doubts that Lloyd suspected it—but that taught him a lesson. Stem to stern, his ships are now camera-worthy to the last knot. At sea at 12, Danish Chris has lived through shipwrecks and fires, was twice "around the Horn" before he was 21, has had his share of shark and had hair-raising experiences to fill a 1000-

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—If you were to wander unannounced into the lower foyer of the Majestic theater you would come upon this scene: Lupe Velez in slacks and a tight blue sweater; Libby Holman wearing smoked glasses; Clifton Webb seated at a gadget that is supposed to be a breakfast table but in reality is something the Shuberts thought up; Rex O'Malley in a leather overshirt with side vents making him look like a modern Robin Hood, and a number of other people including a director, a press-agent, and a house manager.

Most of them are rehearsing a scene from a new Shubert play, Miss Holman is across the table from Mr. Webb. "Let's take that scene where the letter comes in," suggests the director. "Okay," replies Miss Holman. "She withdraws an imaginary letter from her bosom, then stops. . . . 'What a dreary place to keep a letter,' she says to the director. 'Don't I have a pocket in my apron, or something?'"

"Of course, darling, of course, and we must make it large enough so that the letter doesn't fall out." After the scene Miss Velez comes over and Rex O'Malley puts his arms around her. "Careful, Rex," calls the director, "Lupe once killed a man for doing that, didn't you, Lupe-de-doo?" "Not for putting his arms around me, darling, for taking them away." Then Lupe leans over and bites the director so hard on the arm that he shrieks at the top of his voice, "Confound you, Lupe!" The fiery encladida is certainly in top form. She tucks her sweater into her slacks, which are dove grey with a zipper up the side, and swaggers up to the director: "Well, what's holding us up, big boy?"

"Come on, everybody," he calls. . . . Wherefore Miss Holman, still wearing the smoked-glasses although it is twilight down there, and O'Malley sit down at the "breakfast table." . . . Webb and Lupe wander off into the background and stare into a fireplace which had either a real fire or a very good imitation, I couldn't tell which.

Countries Have Freedom Only When Let Alone Says Guedalla

Italy Uses Calisthenics As Substitute For Government

"The United States and England are both aware of the one important thing that matters in this world—the life of the common man," Philip Guedalla, English historian and biographer, declared in a university lecture last night. "They are thus recoiling from the same things, standing back to back, facing a curious world," he went on to say.

"The beginning and end of a country's philosophy of freedom is that it should be let alone. Also, it should be made clear to those countries who like war, and there seem to be a great many, that if there is a war it won't be a pleasant one.

"We are sometimes told today that freedom is on a decline. This is because despotic political governments in central Europe, in Italy, in the Balkans and in Russia and because the president of Brazil wishes to prolong his term. "But it was the same in 1838. America and England were free then. They are free today.

"The balance of the whole world has changed today. The whole march of man is forward not backward; the whole weight of the world is definitely on the side of freedom.

"Just as Rome wasn't built in a day, so history can't go straight forward. Instead, it zigzags. Of course, as a beginner, it is no wonder that Italy finds it easier to substitute calisthenics for self-respecting government."

In speaking of the source of the spirit of freedom present in the 20th century, Mr. Guedalla said that it sprang from the past just as all present history springs from the past.

"The dominant characteristic of the nineteenth century is that it practiced a vast and immense faith in freedom which it gained from the American and French revolutions. The 20th century is the child of the 19th century. And children have a way of taking after their parents.

"If you are going to appreciate the present picture, and you must before you can progress, you must put that picture in the frame of the recent past."

Iowa to See Further Recession Effects, Writes Prof. Davies in Business Digest

The nation's sharp recession has continued to pierce Iowa's business but still to a comparatively minor degree. This is the conclusion reached by Prof. George R. Davies of the university bureau of business research in the current issue of the Iowa Business Digest.

He said, "Business has declined somewhat more than would be seasonally expected, but the full force of the recession in industrial centers has not yet made itself felt."

Year-to-year comparisons, January, 1938, compared with January, 1937, reveal important declines, he writes. Among these are building contracts, 22.5 per cent; prices of farm products,

Rare Animals Put on Exhibit
An exhibit of rare fur-bearing animals has been added to the museum in Macbride hall, Prof. Homer R. Dill, director of the museum, announced yesterday.

The specimens have been placed in the rotating exhibit case in the corridor at the north end of the building.

The group includes some of the animals, which are rapidly approaching the point of extermination. They are the otter—which has the most durable fur, the weasel—from which ermine is obtained, the wolverine, the martin—whose fur brings a high price, the mink, the gray fox, the red fox, and the muskrat.

Future War Improbable

Guedalla, English Historian, Visits America To Learn About Americans

By SALLY FORTUNE, Assistant Campus Editor

"The Duke of Windsor is far too intelligent and valuable a man to remain in the background of English history," Philip Guedalla, English historian and biographer, declared in an interview last night.

When asked if England were not trying to keep the ex-king in the background, Mr. Guedalla replied, "If you mean the cabinet and the London Daily Times, yes, but England is not being run by 18 old men."

As to what the Duke's action will be, Mr. Guedalla was non-committal, saying that "that is up to the Duke."

"I do not feel superior to Americans and Americans," Mr. Guedalla, who calls himself "an English historian trying to learn enough about American history to write about it," stated. "However, during my first visit here in 1927, I felt superior because the Americans themselves felt so superior because of the boom preceding the 1929 panic.

"Americans then looked upon relief and old-age pension systems in England as very curious things and asked me to explain just what and why they were."

Mr. Guedalla takes a staunch stand against the durability of dictatorships. "They are all short-lived," he remarked. "That is, they are short-lived as they stand in the annals of history, though not as they stand as newspaper material. Napoleon's regime lasted 18 years. That is a long time."

"Hitler's regime cannot withstand a war. Even without a war, it will find its end sometime."

As to the possibility of a war, Mr. Guedalla was very optimistic. He believes that the stand taken by England and the United States will discourage any nation considering war.

"We have not let them believe that any war of today would be a rosy one. That is our defense, and our best method of prevention."

Cunningham Smashes World Mark for Mile

'Kansas Flyer' Hangs Up New 4:04.4 Record

Durable Glenn Cuts Off 2 Seconds From Former Time

HANOVER, N. H., March 3 (AP)—Peerless Glenn Cunningham plotted his race almost to the exact tenth-second tonight when he ran a 4:04.4 mile, the fastest recorded in the world's history, indoors or out, tonight on Dartmouth college's springy 6 2-3 laps board track.

That amazing performance was four full seconds faster than Cunningham's own 4:08.4 indoor record and two seconds under the 4:06.4 outdoor mark made last August by Syd Woodersen, of England, and accepted this week by the International Amateur Athletic federation.

More than 3,000 persons, almost the entire Dartmouth student body and most of the townspeople of this little college town, roared a mighty ovation when Cunningham's startling figures, clocked by Professors L. F. Murch and Gordon S. Hull, of the Dartmouth faculty, and Charles A. Proctor, a Dartmouth alumnus and Hanover resident, were announced.

Cunningham, who gave handicaps ranging from five to 600 yards to six Dartmouth runners, was caught in 58.5 seconds for the first quarter, 2:02.5 for the half-mile and 3:04.2 at the three-quarter mile point. His four quarters were 58.5, 64, 61.7 and 60.2 seconds.

All but one of Cunningham's rivals finished. Stu Whitman, Dartmouth's outstanding miler, started five yards ahead of the barrel-chested Kansan, Cliff Holmes, Bert MacMannis, Robert Yeuell and Fred Upton were given 260-yard starts and Hal Wanson, who crossed the finish line 20 yards behind Cunningham, started 600 yards ahead but merely jogged until Whitman dropped out at the half-mile, while running almost shoulder to shoulder with Cunningham.

Glenn passed the quartet with the 260-yard handicaps at about the three-quarters point and overhauled Wanson early in the last lap. MacMannis finished in third place and the other three were away back as Cunningham ended the run.

"I planned to do my first three-quarter-miles in 60, 63 and 61 seconds and then run the last one as fast as I could," Cunningham said. "I thought I ran my first quarter too fast but I was back on schedule at the half-mile and I felt quite fresh when I finished. It's a great track and those wide turns helped me a lot."

"I thought my time would be about 4:05 because of my slower second quarter but I'm not surprised at it, for conditions were ideal."

'Still Faster' Says Bresnahan

Glenn Cunningham has a still faster mile left in his system said Coach George Bresnahan of the University of Iowa track team when he heard of the sensational 4:04.4 mile turned in by the "Elkhorn Express" last night.

"Cunningham's performance fits nearly perfectly the plan he worked out while taking graduate work here two years ago," Bresnahan said.

"It represents a very even distribution of energy after a slight time advantage gained in the first quarter. His ultimate objective while working out here was a 4:04 mile."

"Should he encounter opponents who will carry the pace for a :59 first quarter, a 2:02 half mile and a 3:03 three quarters, he may run even faster."

It was while Cunningham was doing graduate work here two years ago that he first laid his plans for a 4:04 mile. At that time he began working on the last quarter drive that since then has carried him to victory in race after race.

Cunningham's routine while he was working out in the Iowa fieldhouse and on the new Iowa track was to run through a fairly fast three quarters and then turn on the final steam for the final 440.

Graves and Billig Unable To Make Trip to Wisconsin With Iowa Squad for Badger Dual

Hopes Fade for Keeping Hawkeye Victory String Intact

The University of Iowa track team and Coach George Bresnahan have their fingers definitely crossed and are a bit leary of tonight's meet with the University of Wisconsin because three stars are out with injuries and two more are in bad condition.

John Graves, Milton Billig and Ed McCollister are not making the trip, and Jim Lyle, track captain, and Bob Nelson are in anything but top condition.

Graves, the Iowa half mile ace, and Billig, 440-yard dash man, were counted on for at least second places and possible firsts in their respective events, while McCollister was an important cog in the mile relay quartet.

Sinus Trouble
Jim Lyle, mile and half-mile runner, and Nelson, a miler and two-miler, are both troubled with sinus infections and their performances are problematical.

Cameron Campbell, Old Gold two-mile speedster, will probably go down in defeat for the first time this year when he encounters Arthur Mehl, who has a time of :08.7 for the 70 yard high in the last dual meet establishes him as the outstanding favorite to cop first tonight.

Elliot Waples turned a .06.3 60-yard dash in trials last week and will be entered in that event tonight along with Rapoport and Ed Wiggins.

Collinge-Lamb Duel
John Collinge and Bush Lamb, the Hawkeye hurdling aces, may have a tough time with Ed Smith, Badger sophomore, but Bush's time of :08.7 for the 70 yard high in the last dual meet establishes him as the outstanding favorite to cop first tonight.

Elliot Waples turned a .06.3 60-yard dash in trials last week and will be entered in that event tonight along with Rapoport and Ed Wiggins.

Hawkeye Wrestling Team Given Outside Chance Of Winning Final Meet Against Illinois Tomorrow

HODENFIELD

- New Record
- Injury Jinx
- Gymnasts Hit

A checkup of the official scorebook for the University of Iowa basketball team for the season of 1937-'38 reveals that Benny Stephens, captain-elect of the Hawkeye cagers, established a new all-time point total with his 185 points made during the recent cage campaign.

Jack Funk, guard on the 1922-'23 team, still holds the record of most points scored by an Iowan in Big 10 games alone but his season's total of 177 for 15 games was surpassed by Blazing Benny in the Minnesota game Saturday.

Funk made 150 points in 12 conference games as compared to the 136 points in the same number of contests for Stephens. At the time the former made his record, however, the rules permitted one man to shoot all the team's free throws and Funk's skill permitted him to sink as many as a dozen in one game.

The 136 points tallied by Stephens in conference games, incidentally, would have won the Big Ten individual scoring championship in seven of the last 15 seasons.

Stars Lost
Ineligibility annually takes its toll of Hawkeye athletes but injuries and sickness have caused more worry to the Iowa mentors this year than failing athletes.

From the wrestling squad Coach Mike Howard has lost the services of Capt. Wilbur Nead, heavyweight, Howard Ekfelt, substitute 126 pounder, and Cloyce Campbell, substitute heavyweight who has been filling in for Nead. Harold Kemp, 165 pounder, was lost to the squad for several meets with a cut eye, Carl Vergamini, light-heavyweight, was hampered by an attack of glandular fever and Ed Lybbert, who wrestled in the 126 pound class, left school to take a government job at Washington, D. C.

Ray Walters, Iowa's all-American swimmer, was forced to quit school at the end of the first semester after being ill with glandular fever most of the winter. Francis Heydt was lost for two meets with the same ailment and the Capt. Bob Christians was unable to compete in the Midwestern A.A.U. meet at Omaha because he suffered an attack of tonsillitis on the day before the meet.

Vogel Out
Adam Vogel fell off the parallel bars in a workout the other day and dislocated his shoulder. He is not expected to be able to compete again this year, thus just about ruining any chance the Iowa gymnastics team might have had of retaining its laurels.

Facing the toughest indoor meet of the season, the clash with the University of Wisconsin Badgers, the Iowa track team must get along without the services of Johnny Graves, Milton Billig and Fred McCollister. Graves has been suffering with an attack of the flu for nearly two weeks and McCollister and Billig came down with head colds yesterday. All three men have competed on the mile relay and Graves and Billig are both capable performers in the half mile.

What's that old saying about an apple a day?

Conference Crown
LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—The Kansas university Jayhawkers won another Big Six conference basketball championship last night, defeating the University of Missouri, 56 to 36.

Chicago Brings Powerful Gym Crew for Meet
Chicago's gymnasts, a veteran aggregation, will meet the University of Iowa team tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. in the Iowa fieldhouse.

Iowa, with Adam Vogel on the sidelines with injuries, faces an uphill battle and the powerful Chicago contingent, with Beyer, who took second in last year's Big 10 meet behind Eugene Wettstone as its main threat, should have little trouble in swamping the inexperienced Hawkeyes.

Beyer has not been beaten this year, and includes in his list of victims the Illinois ace, Gialombardo, Guy and Wetherell, two other Maroon standouts, should show up well in the forthcoming dual meet.

Who will replace Vogel is the main question in the mind of Coach Baumgartner. No one has been chosen yet. Captain Dodge, lone Iowa veteran, should give a good account of himself on the side horse, and will be backed by Lipoti and an undetermined third man. McCloy and Brown will represent the Old Gold on the flying rings and Hill will perform from the high bar.

Brown and Storesund of Iowa will work the parallel bars and Reitz, Morgan and Jones are the Hawkeye tumblers scheduled for competition.

Chicago Brings Powerful Gym Crew for Meet

Adam Vogel's Injury To Greatly Handicap Iowa Team

Chicago's gymnasts, a veteran aggregation, will meet the University of Iowa team tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. in the Iowa fieldhouse.

Iowa, with Adam Vogel on the sidelines with injuries, faces an uphill battle and the powerful Chicago contingent, with Beyer, who took second in last year's Big 10 meet behind Eugene Wettstone as its main threat, should have little trouble in swamping the inexperienced Hawkeyes.

Beyer has not been beaten this year, and includes in his list of victims the Illinois ace, Gialombardo, Guy and Wetherell, two other Maroon standouts, should show up well in the forthcoming dual meet.

Who will replace Vogel is the main question in the mind of Coach Baumgartner. No one has been chosen yet. Captain Dodge, lone Iowa veteran, should give a good account of himself on the side horse, and will be backed by Lipoti and an undetermined third man. McCloy and Brown will represent the Old Gold on the flying rings and Hill will perform from the high bar.

Brown and Storesund of Iowa will work the parallel bars and Reitz, Morgan and Jones are the Hawkeye tumblers scheduled for competition.

Buddy Baer To Battle Barlund

Finnish Boxer Provides Opposition Tonight In Garden

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—Buddy Baer, younger and bigger of the fighting California brothers, trades punches with Gunnar Barlund, Finnish champion, in a 10-round bout tomorrow night as heavyweights top Madison Square Garden's boxing card for the third successive week.

Baer, with 35 knockouts in 43 bouts, was a 5 to 8 betting choice. Promoter Mike Jacobs, whose last two garden shows have been topped by the Joe Louis - Natie Mann and Jimmy Adackick-Harry Thomas matches, may pit the winner of tomorrow night's bout against Louis in May if the heavyweight champion decides on a third tune-up for his June title battle with Max Schmeling.

In his last two starts here, Baer bowled over Abe Simon and Eddie Hogan in three rounds. He predicts he'll require no more time to polish off Barlund.

Barlund was something of a sensation when he first showed here, but an attack of influenza compelled him to go back to Finland for a rest. Since returning last spring he has knocked out Eddie Coderre and Hans Haverlick and beaten Alberto Lovell, the Argentine.

Most observers agree the fight will end via the knockout route somewhere between the first and seventh rounds. Most of Baer's string of kayoes have been compiled inside of three rounds, but Barlund is a slow starter and usually needs three or four rounds to warm up. After that he throws plenty of leather.

Phi Psi Pledge Team Defeated In Tournament

After playing a listless first period, the Phi Kappa Psi pledges threw a scare into the confident class A Phi Psi's during the remainder of their all-university playoff basketball contest last night as the actives won, 29-24.

As a result of this defeat, the pledges are eliminated from the all-university championship race and the class A team will meet the Madison town quintet in the semi-finals on Tuesday. The winner of that game will play the unbeaten Quadrangle champions for the University championship.

Two New Faces Expected To Be in Lineup for Iowa Squad

Given only an outside chance of winning the final match of the season tomorrow afternoon at Champaign against Illinois' 1937 Big Ten champions, Iowa's wrestling team will leave this morning for the Illini stronghold.

Two new faces, not in last week's bouts, will probably be present in a lineup that has been juggled all season due to injuries and other interferences. The latest additions to the outfit will probably be in the 118-pound and heavyweight divisions where there have already been two different men competing during the year.

Bob McDowell, Davenport, and Alan Williams, Iowa City, both sophomores, have been working out in the two weights and appear to have the edge over other candidates for Saturday's meet.

Replaces Ekfelt
McDowell will be replacing Vernon Ekfelt, who broke a wrist in the Nebraska meet last Friday and Williams will be starting as the heavyweight instead of Cloyce Campbell, who suffered a pulled muscle in his chest last Saturday in the meet with Kansas State.

With the addition of these two men the Old Gold team will have a total of six sophomores in the lineup along with a junior and one senior. George Smith, 155-pounder, will be the lone senior while Carl Vergamini, dependable 175-pounder, will be the junior grappler.

Second Loop Foe
The Illinois crew will be the second conference opponent of the semester for the Iowans and the fourth Big Ten team to face the Hawks this year. Coach Mike Howard's team has a record of one win and two defeats in conference competition and one tie and three losses in non-conference meets.

Following Saturday's meet the Hawkeye grapplers will have the Big Ten meet at Evanston, Ill., and the national meet in the east left on their schedule. Coach Mike Howard said yesterday that with Wilbur Nead out for the year he would probably not take anyone to the national tourney and only four or five performers to the conference championships.

Dubuque Upsets Davenport Blue Devils; City High Wins, 31-27

Sac City Five Advances With 33-18 Triumph

Maloy Beaten, 45 to 43; Melrose Conquers Lockridge

DES MOINES, March 3 (AP)—Dubuque rocked Iowa's inter-scholastic basketball world tonight by sending Davenport's mighty Blue Devils down to defeat, 28 to 26, in the first round of the third district tournament at Davenport.

The upset, the biggest shock since 872 entries started tournament competition in the sectional meets a week ago, was one among several along the district fronts. Dubuque, beaten twice by the Blue Devils during the regular season, was ahead 24 to 10 at the three-quarters mark, but the Blue Devils came back with a frantic fourth quarter drive which netted 16 points while Dubuque got only four.

Spinning along with Davenport into oblivion were several class B standouts including Maloy, Lost Nation and Union.

Maloy, a finalist team at Des Moines last year, was thumped by Hancock, 45 to 43, in the second district at Shenandoah. Little Tiffin, over in eastern Iowa, nipped Lost Nation, 28 to 25, in another surprise at Davenport while Union's hopes went into discard when Stratford won 41 to 32.

Melrose, the 1937 champion, came along in convincing fashion with a 34 to 22 victory over Lockridge to get a second round game against unbeaten Rathbun tomorrow night. Rathbun advanced with a 26 to 20 decision over Riverside.

Sac City and Rolfe, two popular teams which have refused to crack under pressure, drove into the second round with comparatively easy victories tonight.

From Rookie Class to Big 10 Stardom

Bob Allen and Bob Christians Began Swimming Careers Together

By J. DENNIS SULLIVAN
Daily Iowan Sports Writer

One winter day in 1930 two gangling youngsters reported to Frank Heitman, then swimming coach at Austin high school in Chicago, and said, "We think we can swim and would like nothing better than a chance to prove it to you." Today, eight years later, Dave Armbruster, Hawkeye swimming coach, knows that these two boys, Bob Allen and Bob Christians can swim and is more than willing to display their record as proof.

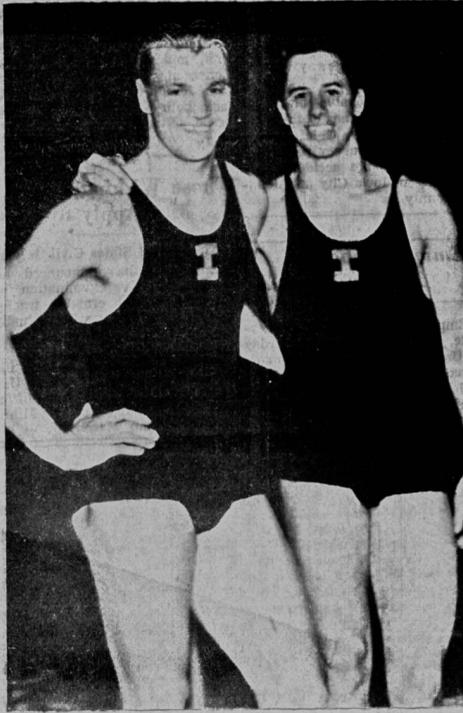

Oddly enough, the two lads found themselves rivals for a time after reporting to the Austin coach. Their first competitive race was against one another. After that they were teammates and since coming to Iowa university have been roommates as well.

Breaker of Records
Under the tutelage of Armbruster, both boys have developed their style to an amazing degree of efficiency. Allen in particular is no respecter of established records as each time he goes to the post he threatens to break them. In the Midwest A.A.U. meet at Omaha, Neb., in January he established a new record for the 220-yard breast stroke event by swimming the course in 2:38.4. In the same event he has copped firsts against Wisconsin and Illinois in dual meets, and against Chicago and Minnesota in a triangular meet.

While Allen was accomplishing the feats mentioned above, his pal, Christians, was causing his Big 10 opponents no end of grief by taking firsts in the 220-yard free style events in the Chicago, Minnesota, Iowa, triangular meet and the Michigan-Iowa dual meet. It was in the last mentioned meet that he gave one of the greatest performances of his career by beating the highly touted Haynie, who, up to that time, had been considered invincible by Wolverine fans. He added to his point total by garnering second place in the 440-yard free style event in the same meet.

Grid Star Too
Despite the fact that they are swimming stylists, their athletic activities are not confined to that alone. Allen, by his antics on the gridiron has won recognition as one of the better guards in the conference. His football activity has caused Armbruster no end of anxiety as each time he collided with an opposing player, Coach Armbruster had visions of torn muscles, a dislocated shoulder or some mishap that might prove fatal to his star's swimming career.

Allen, according to Armbruster, is one of the very few athletes who have successfully competed in both football and swimming. The heavy muscular development of the shoulders, so essential for line play, has spelled finis to the swimming career of more than one ambitious youth who tried to mix the two sports. That it seemingly has no ill effects on Bob's natorial prowess has long been a source of wonder to Armbruster.

Christians in Track
Christians, like Allen, is not content to rest on his swimming laurels. He likes track competition and has designs on the mile event. If Allen's estimation of his friend's running ability isn't biased due to their close companionship, he's a cinch to show his heels to a great many runners this spring.

Local Rifle Team Defeats Coe College

Iowa City high school's girls' rifle team outshot the Coe college girls' team 487-472 in a shoulder-to-shoulder match last night at the high school range.

High scores for the Little Hawk squad were Voelckers, 99; Box, 99; Bothell, 97; Wyjack, 96; Davis, 96. This was a return match after the teams shot to a tie score two weeks ago.

Hawklets Meet Dubuque Team In Tilt Tonight

Russell Hirt and Covert Lead Scoring With 11 Points Each

DAVENPORT, March 3 (Special to The Daily Iowan)—After having led the entire game, Iowa City high saw its substantial lead wiped out in the closing minutes by a scrappy Maquoketa crew, and then turned on the heat in the last seconds to dump Maquoketa out of the district tournament here tonight, 31 to 27.

The Little Hawks will clash with Dubuque Friday at 9:30 p.m. here in the semifinals of the Class A section, and despite the fact that they drubbed the River City five 37 to 25 earlier in the season at Iowa City, the game promises to be a dog fight from the beginning since the Dubuque quintet turned in the biggest upset of the tournament when they jolted the favored Davenport Blue Devils 28 to 26 tonight.

Hawklets Take Early Lead
Opening strong, Iowa City bounced into an early lead of 10 to 4 at the quarter, and so it went until the fourth quarter rolled around, when Maquoketa made up for its early lethargy by pulling up to within one point of the Hawklets.

Iowa City, led by Covert and Hirt, had banged in enough points to lead 22 to 16 at the end of the third period, but Maquoketa had a few saved and with two minutes to go had things in an uproar and City high in a dither. The score was 28 to 27 and Maquoketa was hot.

Hayes, rugged Maquoketa guard, then missed a chance for the hero role with one minute and 40 seconds left when he muffed a free throw, and then Wheeler, who played a bang-up floor game in his substitute role, dropped in a free toss and Burger nailed down a field goal to put the game on the proverbial ice.

Both teams seemed to have a tendency to make uncanny baskets, especially in the last quarter when the Maquoketa quintet scored almost at will with a series of "Globe Trotter" type shots. City high's passing was somewhat slipshod, and compared favorably with the Maquoketa shooting in the last quarter, Rosenberg, unorthodox Maquoketa forward, was responsible for the last period rally of the losers when he started the fireworks by dropping a pair of short shots from near the foul line.

Coach Takes Plane In Order to Coach His 2 Cage Teams

DES MOINES, March 3 (AP)—Fred Wood, Mallard high school basketball coach, almost had to be in two places at the same time today.

Wood's girls' team appeared in the state tournament here at 3:10 this afternoon and his boys quintet had a 6 p.m. assignment at a district meet at Storm Lake.

The Mallard coach, after watching the girls lose to Marengo, solved his problem by chartering a plane. He arrived at Storm Lake in time to see his boys win from Hinton, 31 to 18.

NAMES

in the News

Names make headlines. Newspapers, today as always, are made up of what people say, think, propose, dissent from. Governments, institutions, businesses—and all their activities—are only the lengthened shadows of men!

What is true on the front pages is true, also, on the advertising pages. Advertisements are simply signed statements of men, banded together to form a business, who seek your patronage. They back their good name against the products they ask you to buy. They say, in cold black type, that theirs is a name you can trust.

People who get the most for their money in the market-places are people who know the value of familiar, trade-marked products. They buy with confidence. They buy by name—and save time, tiresome searching, and money! Are you doing likewise?

solved, that the Ludlow amendment to the federal constitution be adopted," Mr. Johnson declared, "Only when there is a direct vote of the people can we ever be certain that war will be declared with the approval of the people."

Hickerson on Affirmative
Mr. Hickerson in advancing the argument of the affirmative stated, "The Ludlow amendment, providing a nationwide referendum in case of foreign wars is practicable. Existing machinery of the government will function in putting the amendment into effect; precedent in state referenda is favorable; the national referendum is only a step in an already confirmed organ of government, and the benefits are outstanding."

The preliminary rounds of the discussion contest at 8 o'clock will open the tournament program for today. Separate contests for the men's and women's tournaments will operate simultaneously on the subject, "Should college place more or less emphasis on extracurricular activities?" The men's division will be divided into four groups with three judges presiding at each.

The original oratory contest for men will take place in the senate chamber of Old Capitol at 10 o'clock. Women orators will compete in the house chamber at the same time. Otto Dieter, graduate assistant in speech, will have charge.

At 1:30 this afternoon the second round of debate in the men's tournament will get under way. At 2:45 the women will begin the second round of debating in their contest, held in conjunction with the men's tournament but as an entirely separate venture.

To Broadcast Finals

The discussion contest finals of the men's tournament will be broadcast at 3 o'clock over station WSUI and will replace the regular forensic forum. This contest will be under the direction of Robert D. King, graduate assistant in speech.

The third round of debate for men will commence at 4 o'clock, and the women will begin their next round of competition at 4:15.

Prof. Harry G. Barnes of the speech department will preside as toastmaster for the women's after-dinner speaking contest in Iowa Union tonight. The speeches will be given after the forensic dinner beginning at 6 o'clock on sub-topics of the general theme "Education in the World Today."

The subjects for the extemporaneous speaking contest this evening at 8 o'clock will be based on the question, "What policy shall the United States follow to promote world peace?" The individual topics for the speakers will be drawn prior to hour of the contest. Eugene Chenoweth, graduate assistant in speech will be in charge.

Iowa City Craftsmen Create Five 2-Piece Suites Weekly

By BUD CARTER

Five two-piece davenport suites and several overstuffed chairs are manufactured each week by the furniture shop of the McNamara Furniture company. In the shop, one of Iowa City's two manufacturing plants, five factory-experienced craftsmen build custom-fashioned furniture.

From bolts of fabric, bales of cotton, springs and wood frames, four men and a woman construct entire suites of furniture. Nearly all of the upholstered furniture sold by the company is built by them.

"The manufacture of furniture in our own plant enables us to be absolutely sure just what we are selling," Jay F. McNamara said.

The craftsmen incorporate two patented processes in the construction of the furniture—the Seng-web spring platform and the eight-tie method of inserting springs.

The Seng-web platform upon which the springs in the furniture rest, eliminates the sagging which occurs after the ordinary webbing stretches, McNamara explained. "We tie the cords which keep the springs compressed, to each spring at eight points—twice as many as ordinarily is done," he added. "This prevents the bulging of the cushions."

The method used by the McNamara shop differs from the factory because here each craftsman takes the wood frame and builds the article. "In our shop the workmen are paid on a time basis rather than a piece-rate as in the large factories. This tends to increase the quality of the work because the men are not rushed," McNamara said.

To enable the furniture builders to keep up on the latest styles, J. J. McNamara and the shop foreman make several trips each year to the Chicago market to bring the latest style innovations to Iowa City.

A separate room is maintained in the shop for the finishing. In this air-tight room, all of the painting is done. A blower constantly removes the paint-laden air.

H. J. Travis is the cabinet-maker for the shop. He has been employed at this trade for 48 years. Albert Johannsen, an upholsterer, has had 19 years experience with the Bub Furniture company, Milwaukee, Wis., the Hauchenberger Furniture factory, Elgin, Ill., and the Neiman Furniture shops, Chicago.

The finishing work for the shop is performed by Milton Tomesen. Before coming to the McNamara company, he was employed by the Brunswick-Balke Calendar company, the Majestic Radio company, the Gulbransen company, all of Chicago, the Landstrom Furniture company and the Steger Furniture factories, both of Rockford, Ill.

Harold Christensen, an upholsterer, had 10 years experience in furniture factories before he came to McNamara's. Mrs. V. Blanes does all the sewing in the shop. She also has 10 years factory experience.

Little Jack Little's Orchestra Will Entertain Dancers Tonight At Senior Hop in Iowa Union

Former S. U. I. Student Returns to Open Annual Event

Returning to the university where he was once a student, Little Jack Little and his orchestra will play for the Senior Hop tonight. The formal dance will be from 9 o'clock to 1 a. m. in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

Programs for the dance will be miniature mortarboards, and decorations will be cut-out figures of a boy in top hat, white tie and tails and a girl in her best formal trucking up and down a staircase made of books.

Chaperoning the party will be Dean and Mrs. Ewen M. MacEwen, Dr. and Mrs. Earle S. Smith, Prof. and Mrs. Clyde Hart and Dr. and Mrs. Frank Peterson.

Committee
Dave Denmead, A4 of Ft. Madison, is chairman of the committee. Members of the committee are Ruth Mullenburg, A4 of Rolla, Mo.; Jack Lambert, C4 of Waterloo; John J. Lambert, E4 of Cedar Rapids; James Wheeler, P4 of Geneseo, N. Y.; Marie McSweeney, N3 of Osage; Robert Beebe, L3 of Ottumwa; Trevor Davies, G of Crawfordville; Willis Loeck, D4 of Primghar, and Albert W. Wise, M4 of Des Moines.

Dancing with Mr. Denmead will be Maxine Baxter, A4 of Ft. Madison. She will be dressed in robin's egg blue taffeta with a corded hem and full skirt.

Miss Mullenburg will be escorted to the party by Robert Ross, L2 of Shenandoah. Her printed satin dress, with a background of white, has ties at the waistline that fall in a long sash in front. She will wear gold accessories and a coronet of flowers in her hair.

Betty Brown
Strands of brilliants, falling from the shoulder and clipped at the waistline in back, accent the aquamarine taffeta gown of Betty Brown of Iowa City. Her full skirt is shirred at the waistline. Miss Brown will be accompanied by Mr. Lambert.

Attending the party with Mr. Wheeler will be Elaine Cox, N1 of Hale, Mo., gowned in a full-skirted paisley blue formal. She will wear a silver clip at her throat and a silver bracelet. In a full-skirted white chiffon gown will be Mary Bevans, N3 of Ft. Dodge. Miss Bevans will be escorted by Mr. Davies.

Louise Rietz
Trimmed in black sequins is the black silk crepe dress of Louise Rietz, G of Morgantown, W. Va., who will attend the party with Mr. Beebe. The sequins outline the neckline of Miss Rietz' princess dress.

Roberta Schnobelen will come from South Bend, Ind., to attend the party with Mr. Lambert. Miss Schnobelen will wear a turquoise blue dress with flared skirt and gathered bodice.

A black net dress with bouffant skirt will be worn by Mary Virginia Kuhl, P4 of Davenport. A gold sequin girdle and evening bag and black and gold slippers will accent Miss Kuhl's dress. Mr. Wise will escort her to the dance.

Virginia Grotz will come from Ottumwa to attend the party with Mr. Loeck.

The Looking-Glass Reflects—

Dave Denmead, A4 of Ft. Madison, in his white tie and black tails, is a perfect foil for the robin's egg blue that Maxine Baxter, A4 of Ft. Madison, will wear to the Senior Hop. She and the party chairman are pictured dressed as they will appear when Little Jack Little swings his first tune in Iowa Union tonight. The wide skirt of Miss Baxter's blue taffeta formal stands out in a circular flare, stiffened by rows of cording in rose, burgundy and a deeper of the two tones of blue. It has a high stand-up collar and stiffened shoulders.

It looks as if it had been freshly plucked from an early spring garden — this dainty marquisette gown, the color of sunlight. Several rows of fine cording at the hem of the skirt hold it into an almost perfect circle.

A pleated ruffle outlines the formal neckline. It is caught by a floral bouquet with velvet ribbons of carnation pink and delphinium blue falling in long streamers to the hem.

Newcomers this spring are the complete ensembles with their dainty gowns, full-length taffeta Gibson girl coats, and dinks to cap festive curls.

You will be a dream girl in heather blue marganza with white lace crescents dotting a full swing skirt. An old-fashioned bouquet of waterlilies at the neckline is too fetching to remove for anything less than a corsage of orchids.

Decidedly a spring style is the heavy waffle crepe frock in black and white design. It has a high gathered waist with ruffled flower trim. If the evening is chilly you may don the short bolero jacket of the same material.

A crisp white bodice of embroidered organza is the most attractive part of a black silk formal with a silhouette skirt which falls into ripples below the knees. A gay bouquet of garden flowers nestles at the neckline.

You'll be thrilled with the charm of a chiffon gown in cream-de-menthe green with its high waistline, very full skirt and low back. Minute shirring holds it into soft folds through the shoulder line.

For the girl who prefers to dance in black, there is a beautiful sheer chiffon with a wide crushed velvet girdle in various shades of pink to give it a touch of brightness.

An appropriate addition to a demure wardrobe would be a debutante marquisette gown of iris blue with a bromley collar and bits of narrow velvet ribbon outlining its high waistline. Small velvet bows shade of American Beauty roses march down a narrow front panel. With this frock wear a full-length fitted velvet wrap of the same shade lined with iris blue to match the dress.

For the chaperon at the party there is a flattering lace gown of powder blue with shades of purple and red twisted into a taffeta sash. Its shoulder straps and back panel are of a deeper blue.

An older woman would be stunning in the complete outfit which includes a velvet three-fourths-length fitted wrap which is an exact match for the

To Make Your Clothes Like New Again Takes Complicated Cleaning Process

Have you ever wondered why it is that hours spent cleaning a garment at home never produce the finished results of a professional cleaner?

You would wonder no longer if you were to take a tour through a cleaning plant. Home efforts look almost primitive after viewing the highly specialized job of cleaning a garment in a well-organized plant.

Many are the steps taken by a garment from the time its owner decides it must be cleaned. First, it is checked in at the office by the delivery man who picks it up. Each garment receives a double check; it is marked with a tag specifying the name of the person, number of garments received, work to be done and date for delivery. Then the name is printed on the inside of the garment before it goes further.

Each article is carefully brushed, pockets cleaned and buttons removed if necessary. If there is a tear, the checker inserts a safety pin so that it will not be overlooked for mending. At this point, clothes go to the plant where they are sorted for colors. Men's light suits go together. All women's dresses are placed in net bags.

Garments are then put in a machine containing cleaner's naphtha and soap solution. Here they whirl vigorously for 20 minutes to half an hour. They are removed and placed in a tumbler, a round machine which dries them.

The next procedure is to hang them in a heated cabinet for a more complete drying. Dresses with spots are left with the spotter to have the stains removed. Different preparations are used to remove different spots. It is a wise precaution to prevent spotting of your clothes as much as possible, for even meticulous cleaners cannot remove all of them.

Among stains which cannot be removed successfully are lipstick, anything containing sugar or starch, any beverage or perfume. Water spotting is the worst of all and cannot possibly be removed by the dry cleaning process, because water and the cleaner's solution will not mix.

When garments are returned to the main office, they are inspected by a second spotter. Then each article goes to a presser who uses a large machine iron to press certain parts of the garment. From here it goes to the hand pressers.

Most interesting in this procedure is the pressing of men's suits. Before any pressing is done all creases such as those in the trousers, lapels and cuffs are sprayed with a solution which forms an invisible film on the material and causes it to retain the press longer.

One man's sole job is to press the shoulders and lapels of coats while others complete it. Press-

Four Criminal Cases Assigned For Court Hearing Yesterday

Judge Gaffney to Hear Suit on $17,926.91 In Damages

Four criminal cases and a damage suit were assigned for court hearing yesterday afternoon by Judge James P. Gaffney.

Wednesday, the $17,926.91 damages suit of E. M. Russell, administrator of the estate of Mary A. Russell, against Helen M. Beltz, administratrix of the estate of F. M. Beltz, will be heard.

Russell demands damages for the death of his wife, killed in a car accident at Cedar Rapids Sept. 19, 1936. Mrs. Russell was riding in the Beltz car which collided with the car driven by Don Short. Beltz and Mrs. Russell were fatally injured and died soon after the accident.

At conclusion of the Russell case, Judge Gaffney has set the cases of the state of Iowa against Milio Millitti, state of Iowa against Stella Clon, state of Iowa against George Coan, and state of Iowa against Sidney Cross Jr., for hearing.

Millitti is charged with illegal transportation of intoxicating liquor. He was with Sebastian Vinciguerra when their car was wrecked August 28, 1937 east of the city on U. S. highway 6. Sheriff Don McComas allegedly found a large quantity of alcohol in the car. Vinciguerra failed to appear on his charge, and his $2,000 bond was forfeited two months ago.

Stella and George Coan are charged with illegal possession of intoxicating liquor. In a raid last December on the Red Ball inn, operated by the Coans, members of the Iowa City police force allegedly found 48 half-pints of alcohol, wine and beer in the inn. Both are free on $500 bonds.

Cross is charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Patrolmen Ben Hauber and Laurence Ham arrested Cross on U. S. highway 6 west of Coralville, Jan. 1, 1938. They said Cross could not keep his car on the road and was intoxicated when they took him from the car.

Economy Attorneys Use One Jury Twice

Iowa City attorneys are in favor of economic recovery, according to Judge James P. Gaffney. It all happened yesterday when the lawyers in the suit of Victor Shima against Knite and Dorothy Knitting for $300 due on an unpaid promissory note, allowed the jury which was hearing the case of Elvin against the Iowa City Hotel company to be impaneled for their case.

When the attorneys for Elvin dismissed the case, Judge Gaffney called the Shima case. Rather than take the time and cause the added expense of calling the entire jury panel, Attorneys Dutcher, Ries and Dutcher, A. C. Leff and Kenneth M. Dunlop agreed to allow the twelve jurors sit as the jury on the case.

Walker Emphasizes Courtesy in Traffic School

Fifty-one Persons Hear Mayor At Council Chambers Last Night

Eight Violators Attend Sessions as Police Court Sentence

Fifty-one persons heard the aims of the Iowa City traffic school outlined, and a plea for courtesy in driving stressed by Mayor Myron J. Walker at the opening of the school in the city council chambers last night.

Eight of the persons present were violators of traffic laws sentenced to the school instead of paying fines ranging from $15 to $45. One violator sentenced to the school was absent.

In explaining the goals of the school, the mayor explained the school would not solve all hazardous driving. It would only solve part of the situation.

"It is not a cure-all, but it can educate and it can make us safety conscious," he said.

Accidents are either due to ignorance or utter disregard for law, the mayor stated, and through the gaining of driving law knowledge and impressing the motorist of dangers, the school can perform a distinct benefit.

Speaking of courtesy, the mayor said sportsmanship and manners were the basis of all laws. He urged all motorists to play the rules and drive fairly. Highway safety can only be accomplished through cooperation of all citizens, he said.

The mayor's talk was followed by an explanation of the Iowa code by Police Judge Burke Carson.

The code regarding brakes, licenses, registration requirements, and licensing of drivers was reviewed and explained by Carson.

Judge Harold D. Evans spoke strongly in favor of the school when asked to speak by the mayor. "The school should make people think while driving," he said.

One question was asked by a member of the audience concerning the need for a chauffeur's license by a truck owner driving his own vehicle.

Judge Carson called upon Patrolman Richard Hohl who pointed out a part of the Iowa code stating that a chauffeur's license was necessary in the instance asked.

Besides the nine traffic violators registered, 18 voluntary registrations were made at the session last night.

H. I. Jennings will be in charge of the next class discussing "Accidents, Their Cause and Prevention," Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Walker Speaks at Opening of Traffic School

The Iowa City traffic school opened last night in the city council chambers under the direction of Mayor Myron Walker (facing audience). Fifty-one persons attended to hear Mayor

Walker discuss "The Motorist and the Public," and an explanation of the Iowa code by Police Judge Burke Carson.

Nine other persons will take charge of one of the following

Youth to Face Parole Charge

Guy Karsner, 26, alleged to have stolen Fred Kleinschmidt's car from the University hospital Tuesday morning, will be turned over to an agent of the state parole board, Sheriff Don McComas said yesterday.

Sheriff McComas and Chief of Police W. H. Bender returned Karsner yesterday from Eldon where he was arrested Wednesday.

The sheriff said Karsner was paroled last August after serving six years of a 25-year sentence for robbery with aggravation.

Karsner will probably be given an additional five-year sentence for breaking his parole, he said.

Billfold Containing $25, Papers Lost

Robert K. Young of Jefferson, reported to police yesterday that he lost a billfold containing $25, driver's license, social security card and other papers near the Jefferson hotel.

AROUND THE TOWN

With
TOM JOHNSON

The turnout for Iowa City's first traffic school — inaugurated in the city hall council chambers last night — was too small for the comfort of any citizen vitally interested in curing our highway safety difficulties.

Approximately 50 motorists were there to attend the first session. According to my estimates, there are at least 5,000 drivers in Iowa City.

Accordingly, the turnout was about one per cent of those that should be vitally interested!

Why didn't more attend? That's a question I can't answer off-hand. Perhaps there were important things to do.

But I'm betting that Iowa City has its first auto-crash fatality before the 11-weeks course ends.

Maybe that's what Iowa City needed last night. Motorists—lulled by security—haven't cared much for safety instruction. "I'm a good enough driver," they'll tell you. . . "Why should I attend a traffic school?"

Perhaps an auto-crash death here next week will shock Iowa City motorists into attending the next session.

I hope, though, that won't be necessary.

Johnson county suffered 11 auto fatalities last year, and so far this year, has the enviable record of none.

I hope it keeps that record clean during the rest of the year. But one way to insure keeping it clean, is to attend those safety lectures. Iowa Citizens didn't do that last night.

Local Dealers Will Celebrate Used Car Sale

Iowa City automobile dealers will observe National Used Car Exchange week beginning tomorrow and continuing through March 12. The motor industry throughout the country has set this week aside as a time to stimulate the used car sales.

Five years ago the term "used car" was used to designate a car from four to five years old with thousands of miles of service.

In recent years the term has come to mean a car from one to two years old with nicely broken-in motor, and upholstery and finish in good condition.

More and more used cars are traded in every year as the new models come out, the dealers say. This crowds the market so that unusually good buys are available for those who prefer a good used car.

"Buy a better used car" is the slogan with which Iowa City dealers will open the Exchange week. The following dealers are participating in this event: Beck motor company, Burkett-Updegraff Motor company, Freshwick Motor company, Gartner Motor company, Graham garage, Gene Light Pontiac garage, Hogan Bros., Nall Chevrolet, Cook-Nash sales and Willenbrock Motor company.

3 Enter State Ping Pong Meet

Robert Paukert, Albert Schmidt and John Bell, winners of the city-wide ping-pong tournament at the Recreation center, will leave for the all-Iowa tourney at Cedar Rapids tomorrow morning with Eugene Trowbridge, director. Paukert and Schmidt will compete for the senior doubles championship. Paukert will also play in the senior singles, and Bell, Iowa City's junior champion, will compete for the all-Iowa junior title.

Iowa Citizens Witness Formal Opening Lubin's Renovated Pharmacy Today

Lubin's enlarged and remodeled pharmacy and luncheonette, 132 S. Clinton street, formally opens today. J. Bradley Rust drew up the plans for the remodeling, and all work was contracted by local firms.

One of the features of the completely modernized establishment is the glass-encased prescription case, enabling the customer to watch as his prescription is filled.

Additional space has been added to the store on the east and the luncheonette has been moved into this remodeled and redecorated addition.

The merchandise in the pharmaceutical department has been rearranged under separate departments. Included in the front of the large well-lighted store are the magazine, tobacco and candy departments.

There are now three entrances. The two on College street and one on Clinton street are trimmed in black carara glass. Glass brick panels frame the doorways. The expansion program has made possible additional display windows both in the pharmacy and luncheonette sections.

The luncheonette room is remodeled in modernistic design and includes a 20-foot marble soda fountain with accommodations for 52 customers at the fountain and tables.

The offices of the three owners — Morris, Herman and Jack Lubin — are located on the balcony floor of the luncheonette department. All three owners are graduates of the University of Iowa.

I.O.O.F. Will Hold Old Time Dance Tonight

Members of the Good Samaritan encampment No. 5, I.O.O.F., and their wives will dance to an old time orchestra at 7:30 tonight in the Odd Fellows hall. Guests will be the members of the Eureka lodge No. 44 and their wives.

Samuel D. Whiting, Thomas J. Parker and Alfred Lennabaugh are in charge of the entertainment.
