Senate Passes Bill to Extend RFC Lending

Measure Aims to Help Business Get Out Of the Slump

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—An administration proposal to help business out of the slump by broadening lending powers of the reconstruction finance corporation sped through the senate today.

Acting with speed reminiscent of its pace in the 1933 banking emergency, the chamber approved the measure in precisely two minutes.

Voice votes on one amendment and on passage were taken immediately after the noon roll call, when only a handful of senators were in their seats.

Senators Unaware

While some senators obviously were unaware of what was happening, a few answered "aye" on both votes, Vice-president Garner's gravel cracked twice and the bill went to the house. It had been debated briefly yesterday afternoon.

Introduced by Senator Glass (D-Va.), "father" of the federal reserve system and author of much major banking legislation, the bill would permit the RFC to make loans to business without restriction on maturity.

The corporation either could make loans, or buy securities. In addition, the bill would permit advances to states and other political subdivisions for construction projects.

$1,500,000,000 Available

Under the measure, the corporation could make available $1,500,000,000 for new lending.

Chairman Wagner (D-N. Y.) of the senate banking committee told reporters the bill would permit government lending to small business which now has no adequate source of credit. Asserting there is a great demand for such lending, Wagner said he was hopeful the bill would prove a powerful stimulant to business and employment.

Little Opposition Expected

Little opposition to the measure was expected in the house, but leaders there, busy with the administration's government reorganization bill, have not yet set a date for consideration.

The bill grew indirectly from recommendations of the recent "little business" conference here urging that government credit facilities be extended to small enterprises.

Although a new lending agency originally was proposed, administration leaders decided an expansion of RFC powers would be preferable.

Rightists Report Key City in Barcelona Drive Abandoned, Burning; Gains Made

Soldiers Sight Mediterranean

Vital Communications Center Captured By Insurgents

HENDAYE, France (At the Spanish Frontier), April 1 (AP)—Spanish insurgent authorities at Iron said tonight they had received an official dispatch from the front saying Lerida, key city in the drive to Barcelona, had been abandoned by its government defenders and was in flames.

At the same time the insurgents announced the capture of Valderobres, vital center of communications on the border of Tarragona province 30 miles from the Mediterranean.

They also reported important gains a few miles to the north of Valderobres where their troops were said to have advanced within four miles of Gandesa, which is only 21 miles from the sea.

The troops, they said, "could see the Mediterranean" from their mountain positions.

Troops Leave City

The dispatch from Lerida gave no details of the reported withdrawal of government forces, merely stating the last of the troops left the blazing city at nightfall.

Earlier dispatches from Zaragoza said Gen. Juan Yague's army awaited supporting advances on its flanks before attempting to occupy Lerida.

(The government clung to positions south of Lerida and machine-guns across the Segre river, paralleling the main highway into the city from the southwest, raked the insurgent lines and slowed the advance of insurgent troops up the river valley.)

Press on to Gandesa

To the south, the insurgents pressed toward Gandesa, 42 miles from Lerida and 21 miles from the Mediterranean.

To the north, invading columns converged on Benabarre, 34 miles north of Lerida. This movement forced new bands of refugees into flight toward the French frontier.

French border authorities offered but brief haven for the hungry Spaniards—civilians and soldiers—who fled through hazardous mountain country into France. Some died in the snow of exhaustion, others fell to death in frozen gorges.

4,000 Reach France

Although there was no complete figure on the number reaching France during the week, French authorities estimated 4,000 men, women and children had reached Hospice de France, one of several frontier villages upon which the refugees converged.

fighters in a battle that lasted several hours.

This morning, staff officers said, a counter-attack pushed insurgents back on Alcarraz, six miles west of Lerida.

Lerida had been deserted by its 50,000 inhabitants for several days. Only soldiers, who kept close to the walls, were left behind. Shells raised clouds of dust as they bit into buildings uncomfortably close to staff headquarters.

Officers eating a light meal paid no attention to the scream of shells or the thunder of their explosions.

Eight shock units were holding Lerida. They were rated among the best troops in the government army. One officer said that the insurgent infantry was "very bad."

The same young commander who directed the defense of Teruel before it fell was in command of the city. In the dim cellar of his office he recalled how his unit had fought its way through enemy lines to escape from Teruel.

The morale of the troops in Lerida was obviously high, and officers said quietly "We'll hold out here."

A seasoned, well-trained outfit, the men in four days here already had started construction of fortifications. Such defenses were completely lacking when they arrived.

I also Balaguer, 18 miles northeast of Lerida. The roads in that sector were raided occasionally by insurgent airplanes.

Mexico Reaches Agreement To Search for Foreign Oil Outlets

MEXICO CITY, April 1 (AP)—The Mexican government was reported today to have reached an agreement "in principle" with a British and an American to seek desperately needed foreign outlets for mounting stocks of oil produced by the expropriated $400,000,000 petroleum industry.

Oil circles said it was understood tentative terms were reached at conferences between high government officials and Francis W. Rickett, British promoter who negotiated an Ethiopian oil concession in 1935, and Bernard E. Smith, New York stock broker.

Rickett and Smith, declining to comment, left by plane in mid-afternoon after talking with President Lazaro Cardenas and Gustavo Espinosa Mireles, president of the newly created National Petroleum Export company.

Rickett was reported to have promised Cardenas to try to find a place in the world market for 25,000,000 barrels of oil. Mexico's oil production in 1937 was 41,000,000 barrels.

Smith, it was understood, was to put up the money to finance any arrangement Rickett made with the government, depositing a $5,000,000 guarantee to start with.

The sore need for foreign markets was indicated by storage tanks filled almost to capacity since Cardenas took over the 17 British and American oil companies on March 18.

The expropriation decree complicated the nation's oil trade, because the action affected her best customers, Britain and the United States, who absorbed about 60 per cent of her output.

(President Roosevelt, vacationing in Warm Springs, Ga., said discussions with Mexico over the expropriation of American properties seemed to be progressing very satisfactorily.)

House Postpones Vote On Reorganization Bill

Vatican Radio Speech Absolves Church From Economic and Political Problems

VATICAN CITY, April 1 (AP)—The Vatican radio station said tonight in a broadcast dealing with the Austrian bishop's recent pastoral letter advising the faithful to support the new regime.

"It is not the duty of the ecclesiastical authorities to speak of the economic, social or political successes of a government and to measure these same successes," there was no official comment on the broadcast and the identity of the speaker, who delivered his statement in German, was not given.

The speaker said his address should be taken in connection with a statement published tonight by L'Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper, that the Vatican had not been consulted by the Austrian bishop before or after the pastoral letter was issued.

The unidentified broadcaster said his address was in reply to an article published by Das Schwarze Korps, Berlin newspaper of nazi S. S. troops.

He opened his statement by saying: "The Schwarze Korps of March 17, 1938, wrote in connection with the first public declaration of the cardinal archbishop of Vienna over the new situation in Austria" that "political Catholicism" had suffered "the greatest defeat of its existence" on Austrian soil.

First Objective In Fight Won By Opposition

Rayburn Denies Bill Would Give F. R. Dictatorship

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—The house dealt the administration leadership a stunning blow tonight and forced it to abandon plans for showing the president's government reorganization bill through to early passage.

By a vote of 191 to 149, the opposition leadership achieved its first objective, the postponement of a final vote on the measure and then predicted the bill's ultimate defeat.

The ballot, taken as the result of a parliamentary maneuver, was technically upon the question of whether or not the house should vote immediately upon a motion to end general debate on the reorganization bill.

House Adjourns

But, whatever its technical aspects, its meaning was so plain that the motion to end debate was withdrawn quickly by its maker, Chairman Cochran (D-Mc.), of the reorganization committee, and in the next minute he moved that the house adjourn until tomorrow.

The action came after a day of seething debate and crafty parliamentary tactics, in which the opponents of the measure used every device available under the "filibuster-proof" rules of the house to delay action.

Their purpose, they repeatedly asserted, was to postpone final action until a flood of telegrams protesting against passage of the measure could have an effect upon wavering supporters of the bill. More than 50,000 telegrams were received today.

One Message False

Striving to offset the effect of these messages, Representative Rayburn (D-Tex.), the democratic floor leader, recalled "faked" telegrams which were sent during the battle over the public utilities holding company act, and said at least one of the messages received today could be proved false.

A Pennsylvania member, receiving a message purportedly from a ward leader in his district, checked back to the supposed sender of the telegram and received a reply that no such message had been sent.

Rayburn, addressing the house just before the vote was taken, denied opponents' charges that the bill would make a dictator of President Roosevelt. With a scornful gesture toward the republicans, he asserted:

"Bill is Campaign Issue"

"They have seized upon this thing as a great political issue and they are going to stand solidly against giving the president of the United States this authority (to reorganize the executive branches of the government) and we accept that issue as an issue of the congressional campaign of 1938."

U. S. and Britain Issue Notes Declaring Intention to Build Dreadnaughts Over 35,000 Ton

Blame Failure of Japan To Reveal Plans For Its Navy

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—The United States and Great Britain published notes today announcing they would build mightier dreadnaughts.

At the same time France stated her intention of abiding by the present 35,000-ton limit, provided other powers (meaning Germany and Italy) did likewise.

Both Britain and the United States said they based their decisions on Japan's failure to disclose whether she intended to build, or was building bigger battleships.

The notes concern only dreadnaughts. Cruisers (limited to 8,000 tons by the London naval treaty) are not mentioned. The United States has had information that Japan is building or intends to build larger battleships but not larger cruisers.

The United States note, like the British, consists of three paragraphs. The first declares the United States "finds it necessary to exercise the right of escalation..."

The second declares that the "proposed departure" relates to upper limits of capital ships and their calibre of guns.

The third declares:

"The above action is motivated by the fact that upon the receipt of reports to the effect that Japan is constructing, or has authorized the construction of capital ships of a tonnage and armament not in conformity with the limitations and restrictions of the treaty, the government of the United States addressed an inquiry to the Japanese government and the Japanese government did not choose to furnish information with regard to its present naval construction or its plans for future construction."

The British pointed up their conclusion by adding:

"In view of the refusal of the Japanese government, on being formally approached, to give assurances that these reports are all ill-founded, his majesty's government has no alternative but to regard them as being substantially correct."

Archaeologist Says Farms Caused Fall of Orient

CHICAGO, APRIL 1 (AP)—Independent farmers of later Babylonia (600-400 B.C.) became dependent renters, serfs or slaves under burdens imposed by government monopoly of agriculture, a scientist told his fellow-archaeologists today.

Thus was created, Dr. Waldo H. Dubberstein said, a condition which contributed to the decline of the older orient. Dr. Dubberstein, research associate of the oriental institute of the University of Chicago, presented his findings in an address prepared for delivery at the two day meeting of the midwest branch of the American Oriental society. He continued:

"The state controlled large fertile tracts, the temples likewise owned thousands of acres, and at a few large and successful business firms also acquired land. Feudalism and fief tenure existed in a highly complicated and developed form in later Babylonia."

Florida Cancer Clinic Serum Claims 9 Lives

ORLANDO, Fla., April 1 (AP)—Deaths among persons given serum injections here for cancer mounted to nine today as Dr. T. A. Neal, at whose clinic the patients were treated, announced he had been mistaken about the source of the serum used.

Mrs. Lydia Morrison, 49, and C. S. Pore, 65, both of Orlando, died today. Seven succumbed previously.

One man and three women who had been receiving the serum injections, remained in a hospital with the same symptoms displayed by those who died.

The man, E. F. Bolte, 70, a retired vice-president of the International Harvester company who moved here from North Dakota, was reported in a grave condition. The women, Mrs. Ola Hall of Orlando, Mrs. T. L. Bates of Clermont, Fla., and Mrs. Nellie Abrahams of St. Cloud, Fla., were less seriously ill.

Dr. Neal said previously he had used a serum made in Kingston, Ont., from a formula discovered by Dr. H. C. Connell of Kingston. He said he had used it for two and a half years "with remarkable success and no bad effects."

This afternoon, however, Dr. Neal announced he learned the serum he gave the nine who died and those now in the hospital came from a Philadelphia, Pa., laboratory. He said it was made from Dr. Connell's formula, but was sold to physicians under another name.

Explaining he had used both the Canadian and the Philadelphia serums, Dr. Neal said he did not suspect the Philadelphia laboratory was the source of the supply until last night. He said he inoculated mice with the Philadelphia serum and they all died today.

Storm Victims Get Inoculation Against Disease

PEKIN, Ill., April 1 (AP)—Long lines of refugees, made homeless by Wednesday night's disastrous tornado, tonight stood in front of a makeshift hospital in storm-wrecked South Pekin, awaiting inoculation against disease.

The inoculations were ordered by Dr. Sandor Horwitz of the state health department, who warned that wells in the vicinity were polluted and ordered signs posted saying the water was unfit for drinking purposes. Dr. Horwitz said use of the water might result in outbreaks of typhoid and smallpox.

The wrecked building of the South Pekin community store was transformed into a temporary hospital and members of the state health department, aided by volunteer physicians, inoculated the dazed and weary victims.

Meanwhile, the number of deaths in the storm was increased to 13. The latest victim, Mrs. John Brunner of Tremont, died in a Peoria hospital.

French Detain 3,000 Refugee Spanish Soldiers

BAGNERES DE LUCHON, France, April 1 (AP)—French officials tonight ordered 3,000 Spanish government militiamen refugees held in France until it could be decided where to send them.

Three special trains—which were to have carried the troops toward the eastern Spanish coast after their flight to France—stood empty at the station after instructions came from Paris countermanding original orders to move the men back.

Officials did not give their reasons for the change in plans.

The militiamen, who had fled from Spain to escape the conquering sweep of insurgent armies, were to have been taken to Cerbere, on France's coastal frontier, to return to Spanish government ranks.

Report Says Briton And American Met With High Officials

Chinese Report Slaughter Of 3,000 Japanese in South China

SHANGHAI, April 2 (Saturday) (AP)—Chinese reported today they had killed 3,000 Japanese troops in heavy fighting progressing in southern Shantung province.

The center of the fighting was said to be the little city of Taierchwang on the grand canal, 15 miles north of the Lunghai railway.

The Chinese said they had completely cleared the Japanese out of Taierchwang in a hand grenade fight at close quarters, killing 2,000 and capturing 17 tanks.

They further asserted that they had surrounded Tachwang, northwest of Taierchwang and that a "dare to die" corps had entered the small town during the night and killed 1,000 Japanese in hand-to-hand fighting.

A fierce battle was said to be raging north of Taierchwang with both sides reported maneuvering widely in the crook of a 60-mile fish-hook front from Lini to Taierchwang and northward to Yihshien.

Chinese military headquarters at Chengchow reported Pingyuan, 50 miles northwest of Tsinan, had been recaptured after an all-night Chinese cavalry attack which, with previous successes, had cut off Japanese communications.

Japanese said 60,000 Chinese "stragglers" had been routed northeast of Kwangeth in Anhwei province, leaving one-third of their number dead. Chinese, on the other hand, reported they had captured Szean, 20 miles east of Kwangeth, killing 500 Japanese.

Licenses Suspended For Drunk Arrests

DES MOINES, April 1 (AP)—Acting Motor Vehicles Commissioner Horace Tate announced today Iowa drivers who are arrested for drunken driving in the future will have their licenses suspended for 30 days, even if their charge is subsequently dropped by police.

Tate stressed his department's determination to fight drunken driving on all fronts.

Politicians Ask Hoover's Plans

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—Former President Hoover's vivid account of his observations in Europe set political tongues wagging in Washington, primarily over the question whether his New York speech should be construed as a tentative bid for the republican presidential nomination in 1940.

Washington's increasing interest in politics as the 1938 campaigning begins made that of first importance to democrats, republicans and mere press gallery onlookers. About the only agreement detectable was that if Mr. Hoover actually intended his address to be an invitation to his party to consider his qualifications for a return to the White House, he could not have improved much on the speech he made.

His remarks come when republicans in congress are having the best time they have known since their lean years began in 1932. The strategy they used in the court bill fight in the senate last summer is still working well. Most of the shooting at Roosevelt administration policies is being left to anti-new deal democrats or to other democratic warriors who are off the Roosevelt reservation.

Object Lesson In Futility

FOR ALMOST two years now Great Britain has been striving to make the Spanish war a war for Spaniards only, to get such interested countries as Italy, Germany, France and Russia to remove their citizens from Spanish battlefields.

The latest English proposal is a plan which would start such withdrawals in mid-June with 10,000 retiring volunteers acceptable as a criterion for substantial progress.

The fate of the British withdrawal program is problematical. Its importance is not so open to question, however, for it is of little value as anything but a face-saving device for England.

If present progress of the Spanish rebels continues, informed observers predict that the war will be ended by mid-June and Mussolini and Hitler will be sunning themselves in the "glory" of their troops have won in Spain.

As a belated sop to world peace Mussolini may agree to the British plan. If he does, it will probably help the present British government stay popular with its citizens, and may diminish slightly the fascist credit for a Spanish victory—but otherwise it will be practically worthless.

Our sympathies for the smaller nations has been rapidly approaching the vanishing point even since we discovered they act exactly like the big countries—whenever they think they can get away with it.

We're On Our Way

AFTER AGES of grinding along in low, through the sticky clutch of back-roads gumbo with the hill top still far distant, it is sometimes heartening to look back and take stock of past progress.

We get that kind of a lift out of the National Safety Council's report that during February there were 420 fewer deaths on the nation's highways than during the same month last year. According to the report there were only 2,180 fatalities. ONLY 2,180 . . . in one month.

Newspapers, national, state and local public safety agencies, organizations such as the American Legion and Parent-Teacher associations, police, and most important, increased caution on the part of motorists themselves, have all contributed to reduction of highway deaths. Through the influence of these forces hundreds of lives were saved, but thousands of lives were lost because the job is not yet done.

February's record shows that accidents may be reduced, that we are moving, and in the right direction. But legislative bodies, automobile manufacturers and, above all, the people themselves must make additional contributions before highway safety becomes a fact.

It is still the duty of legislatures to pass measures for wider, safer highways, to pass laws establishing sensible speed limits and to see that executives and officers are given authority to administer those laws efficiently. Iowa has a highway patrol which has been of prime impor-

ance in cutting down reckless driving, but there is still much work to be done. So long as there are take-a-chance drivers who pass on hills and curves, who travel at excessive rates of speed or who drive while intoxicated, a well-organized body of state patrolmen will be necessary.

Automobile manufacturers must continue to cooperate in promoting highway safety by pioneering in the field of safety equipment. One company has recently marketed a device which, master mechanics say, provides complete protection against losing control of one's car at any speed.

It remains the duty of each driver to observe the laws and to keep his car in good condition at all times. Reckless and drunken driving, poor tires and worn mechanisms are the embodiment of the new public enemy No. 1. It is the duty—

But we have already shifted into low again and are looking ahead to the approaching months with a little more confidence and the conviction of recorded fact that at least we are on our way.

Something New In Schools

SPECIAL SCHOOLS and classes to help the below-average child have been the rule in every educational institution. But there are few such schools and classes to aid the child who is more intelligent than the average.

An outstanding example in giving aid to the above-average child is the Speyer school in New York, N. Y. Its pupils are children selected from the public schools who have I.Q.'s above 130 (the average intelligence quotient is 100).

Here these children, aged eight to 11, are studying such things as the theory of telephonic communication, radio, the president's gold-buying policy, and appreciation of music and poetry. In most public schools such pupils are pushed ahead and arrive at high school too young for wholesome adjustment with their older classmates.

Children of the Speyer school will reach high school at the normal age, but with a fund of knowledge far above normal. These boys and girls are just as much misfitted in our public school system as are the children with I.Q.'s below average. And it is only fair to give them as much of an opportunity for well-adjusted lives as it is to extend such opportunities to the below-average children.

Milly, the titian-tressed typewriter tapper, can't get excited over the Mexicans taking over American-owned oil wells. We got, she points out, their smash musical hit, "Tippy, Tippy Tin" in exchange, didn't we?

Poland seems intent on celebrating the 20th anniversary of her gaining her freedom and independence from Russia by bullying Lithuania.

SNOW WHITE—AND THE SEVEN ARTS

In view of gloomy prognostications concerning the devastating effect of mechanization on our economic and cultural institutions, it is interesting—even if somewhat sinister—to note what the machine is accomplishing in the arts.

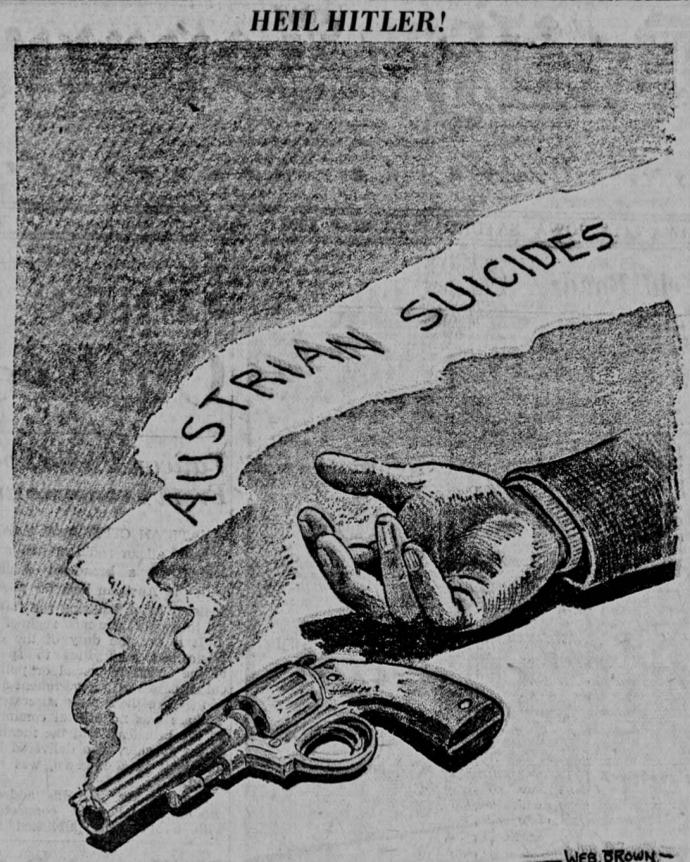

The most talked of movie production of the year, for instance, is one in which no actor participates save as an off-stage voice. The first movies gave us pictures of actors instead of flesh and blood thespians; Snow White gives us pictures of pictures. In radio one of the most popular features is a chunk of carved and painted fence post that talks back, and now New York is to have a robot opera.

In this experiment the score and orchestration will be provided by phonograph records, while actors go through the parts in pantomime, synchronizing their gestures and facial expressions with the tempo of the machine.

Snow White is better entertainment than many of the movies employing live talent; certainly the pithy Charlie McCarthy is a better wisecracker than most of his contemporaries, and it requires no crystal gazing to see great possibilities in the robot opera.

One of the major reasons opera has been a pain in the neck to many has been that the great singers were often punk actors, while the good actors couldn't sing for sour apples. The robot opera can give us the heaven-sent voice of a great diva, while sparing us the anguish of watching her try to act. Instead we can get an eye-ful of a competent, comely, and streamlined young actress going through the stage business, while the phonograph endows her synthetically with the voice of a nightingale.

Perhaps the jitters of the technocrats are not wholly unwarranted. Perhaps, as they affirm, the machine is about to dominate us. But, to achieve and hold power, any dictator must stage bigger and better circuses for the masses. If we do succumb to the dictatorship of the machine it may at least give us a good show in exchange. —Chicago Daily News

Those Successful in Reducing Must Use Their Will Power

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D. An obese person is sick and when on a reducing diet is a patient. And as in every other form of treatment, the psychology of the patient must be considered.

There must be a will to reduce and this must not be just a superficial piece of lip service. The people who want to reduce but tempt so easy when a macaroni heaves 'n' sight, do not get far.

You must realize that there are hardships associated with reducing and you must be prepared to face them. I know that the breakfasts do not sound very inviting and that you get hungry. But there is no royal road to the goal.

And the goal is very satisfying. There is an enormous amount of comfort in being down to normal or near normal weight again. You look better, you feel better, your clothes don't bind you any more. As soon as they begin to see results, the reducing patients are willing to go on, but at first the discouragements are many.

The appetite in these people, indeed, may be enormous and nagging. A method of treatment that has given a great deal of satisfaction is the use of benzedrine sulfate, which, by its actions in the gastric juice and stomach movements, regulates appetites. It should be used under the advice of a physician. Reference to its use will be found in the New England Journal of Medicine for Jan. 20, 1938.

That is a terrible state of mind. Brillat-Savarin described "The Cal; works on microscopic photographic studies of living cells subjected to high frequency radio currents, and is making final revisions on a scholarly novel, entitled "Incapable Empires," set in the fourth century.

Van Buren, Ark., merchants have profited handsomely through Bob Burns' radio and movie fame. Picture postcards of his old home sell by thousands to tourists and camera film is in demand because visitors like to be snapped standing beside the town sign reading: "Van Buren, Ark. Population 6,000. Home of Bob Burns."

The behind-the-scenes developments of the Phil Baker fifth anniversary broadcast are still coming to light. It seems that guest Jack Benny had to arrive 10 minutes after the show went on the air, because of his own broadcast; Joe Penner got an uncorrected script by mistake and was forced to ad lib a joke, and Baker had to grab a discarded manuscript and carry on when they finished a full minute early.

Hollywood stars are often found in the studio audiences attending various programs emanating from the coast. In a poll of the cinema personalities last week as to their favorite radio actress, Paula Winslowe, heard on Edward G. Robinson's "Big Town" series and on similar shows, led the rest of the field by a wide margin. Robinson himself said that she is one of the most capable actresses he has ever worked with in his long career on stage, screen and radio. Evidently producers think the same thing because Paula is kept very busy on the networks every day in the week.

Alexander Woolcott has been signed to guest star on Dr. Frank Black's Magic Key program over the NBC-Blue network April 10.

Washington World: By CHARLES P. STEWART WASHINGTON, D. C.—The democrats cannot possibly be voted out of control of the United States senate in next November's elections. The present senatorial lineup is: Democrats, 76; republicans, 16; independent republican, 1; progressive, 1; farmer-laborites, 2. But merely 32 senators are up for reelection this year. Of these 6 are republicans. The democrats number 24, progressive and farmer-laborite, 1 each. If the republicans retain their six seats, they still will have 10 holdovers. If they gain all the others (which is a ridiculous assumption) they will have a total of 42. The democrats will retain 52. Fifty-two to 42 is a fairly liberal normal majority. That is not counting a remaining independent and farmer-laborite each. It is the best possible arithmetical republican showing, and it overstrains the imagination to think of it. Nor in the House. Theoretically, the house of representatives can flip over, because ALL the representatives will be due for reelection. But, of representatives, 333 now are democrats, 88 are republicans, 3 are progressives, 5 are farmer-laborites, and there is a vacancy to be filled. Is anyone rash enough to look for such a landslide in the republican direction as to give the G. O. P. a majority in the next congress' lower chamber? Certainly not. Danger in Primaries. Nevertheless, the ADMINISTRATION can be beaten in the coming campaign. If so, it will not be beaten on election day in November. It will be beaten at the nominating primaries, just beginning. # Landis Reveals Names of Players Cast Adrift by Probe

CHICAGO, April 1 (AP)—The identity of 73 baseball players he declared free agents after an investigation of the relationship between the St. Louis Cardinals and the Cedar Rapids, Ia., team was disclosed today by the sport's commissioner, Kenesaw M. Landis.

Landis, in a decision on that case announced March 22, denounced the Cardinals' system of working agreements with minor league clubs and fined offending owners $1,176. His announcement today revealed 22 teams were affected.

The commissioner, explaining the restrictions placed on the players given permission to deal for themselves, said all Cedar Rapids players affected are free to sign only for the 1938 season and only with Cedar Rapids. All players on that club, except "Cap" Crossley, manager, and James F. Howard, were ruled free agents.

Players of Crookston, Minn., Mitchell, S. D., and two Arkansas teams, Fayetteville and Newport, may sign without restriction, except that they may not, within three years, sign with or be transferred to the Cardinals, any Cardinal affiliate or with Cedar Rapids.

All other teams on the list, Landis said, are affiliates of the Cardinals and players of those teams declared free agents may not sign within three years or be transferred to any St. Louis National league club or affiliate or to Cedar Rapids.

Howard Taylor of the Rochester, N. Y., team of the International league, was declared a free agent when and if he is reinstated by the national association from the ineligible list.

The players declared free agents outright included:

St. Louis Cardinals — James L. Webb.

Cedar Rapids, Ia.—William Barnacle, Fred Bergmann, Russell de Forest, Alex Filbert, Paul Fugit, Jack Gassaway, Oscar Georgey, John Guzdialski, Frank Green, Loy Hanning, Justin Keenoy, Al Krupski, Cal Lahman, Robert Mc-

Raiders Re-Sign

Twelve Players

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., April 1 (AP)—All except twelve of the players Judge Kenesaw M. Landis declared free agents on the Cedar Raiders roster in the Three-Eye league because of alleged irregular dealings with the St. Louis Cardinals have been resigned, the club headquarters revealed here today.

Re-signed by the Raiders are Fred Bergmann, catcher; Alex Filbert, second baseman; Doug White and Robert McCarron, third basemen; William Barnacle and Marvin Rumsey, outfielders; John Guzdialski, Loy Hanning, Glen McQuiston, Robert Olson, Wayne Rossbach, Ralph Waldo, Wayne and Kenneth Meyer, shortstop.

Russell de Forest, last year's first baseman, plans to retire from baseball and enter business in California. Paul Fugit, rookie candidate for first base, has been signed by the New York Giants and is slated to be optioned to Cedar Rapids. Jack Gasaway, outfielder last year, and Cal Lahman, also an outer gardener, have not responded to wires from the club.

Lahman, however, was signed before the free agent ruling and is expected to sign again.

Oscar Georgey, rookie pitcher, is on a Jersey City contract. Frank Green, also a first baseman, is not signed. Al Kippuski, mound mainstay last year, is still dickering and wants to return — with extra cash as his reward. Others on the list are still in contact with Raider headquarters except Richard Elston, who was placed on the voluntary retired list by the club last year.

Louis K.O.'s Thomas In Fifth Round Of Championship Fight

Challenger Put Down 6 Times During Fracas Bomber Opens Slowly But Cuts Loose In Fourth

By PAUL MICKELSON AUGUSTA, Ga., April 1 (AP)

CHICAGO, April 1 (AP) — Joe Louis, defending the world's heavyweight championship for the third time since he won it nine months ago, knocked out punch absorbing Harry Thomas, rugged blond challenger from Eagle Bend, Minn., in the fifth round of their scheduled 15 round title contest in the Chicago stadium tonight.

Louis, starting cautiously by pecking light lefts to the head, finally opened up with a devastating barrage of left hooks to the chin in the fourth round, before using his right to knock Thomas down four times. He finished him in the fifth, knocking him down twice again. Thomas got up after the second knockdown at the count of eight, only to run into another lethal series of left hooks to the chin that knocked him sprawling, after 2 minutes, 50 seconds of the round.

Such a memorial wouldn't exaggerate Slammin' Sam's worth a single quarter because that's what the modest hill-billy has done for the men at work in his profession. In a little more than a year, Slammin' Sam has been the fairway Moses who led the struggling pros out of the wilderness of the greatest modern depression to at least room and board and carfare. Today, he's doing as much — or more — for the trade as those other great Moseses of the past — Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Tom Armour and Horton Smith.

Since Samuel came out of the mountains, unknown to the boys he had to get himself introduced at the 1937 Oakland which he won as a starter, he has made around $30,000 for himself and many times that for the boys who play golf for a living.

And as he goes along, he stands a great chance of going down not only as the greatest attraction since Bobby Jones, but as the greatest player of them all.

The best part of Sam is he doesn't know his own importance. He doesn't appreciate the fact that he draws nine-tenths of the gallery at almost every tournament he tries to win. If he gets off to a very bad start, Sam has a habit of picking up and quitting to the consternation of the tournament promoter.

Thomas Is Game

The game Thomas attempted to draw his rubbery legs under him and get up, but he fell back on his haunches while Referee Davey Miller counted the fatal 10 over him. Blood was streaming from his mouth. He was thoroughly and convincingly beaten, although he made a courageous stand as long as he remained on his feet.

The contest, regarded as a tuneup for Louis for his million dollar battle with Max Schmeling, set for June 22, drew a disappointing crowd of 10,468, with gross receipts at $45,600. The net receipts probably will be reduced to $37,599 of which Louis may add about $14,000 which is already fat bank roll.

Thomas will receive about $4,700 for attempting to play an April fool joke on the champion.

Louis made no attempt to exchange punches with Thomas until a few seconds before the end of the third round when he staggered the rugged Minnesotan with a solid right to the temple. Thomas' knees buckled for an instant and he fell into the ropes. The next second he wobbled to his corner and sat down, although the bell had not rung. Referee Miller attempted to get him on his feet but he sat there and while Miller was arguing with him the bell rang.

For the first two and a half rounds, Louis merely toyed with his opponent, circling around him and pecking long snaky lefts to the face. He speared him frequently without a return. Meanwhile, Thomas, crouching low was trying for one of his haymakers that seemed always to miss.

Early Blow Decisive

The punch that Louis landed on Thomas' temple at the close of the third round was the beginning of the end.

When the fourth round opened, Louis settled down to his task of stopping Thomas in much quicker time than the eight rounds Max Schmeling required. There was a sneer on Louis' face as Thomas hit the floor. Although badly stunned Thomas got up gamely, and fought back, with Louis dropping him for the second time for the count of seven.

After regaining his feet, Thomas brought the crowd to his feet by drilling a hard right to the champion's body. The challenger ran into another right to the head that floored him again, this time for a count of nine.

Hawks Beat Bradley, 14-6

Erwin Prasse Hammers Two Homers as Iowans Come From Behind to Annex First Game

PEORIA, Ill., April 1—(Special to The Daily Iowan)—The University of Iowa's Hawkeye diamondmen laid down a barrage of 15 hits as they opened their 1938 season with a roar that was heard around the Western Conference today, trouncing the Bradley Tech Engineers, 14-6, in the first of a two-game series with the Little 19 baseball champs. The second game of the series will get underway at 2:30 tomorrow.

Scoring in all but the third and fourth frames, Iowa blasted Hendricks, Tech hurler who gave up only one run to Illinois' Big Ten Champs Wednesday, and his four successors all over the lot as Erwin Prasse slammed out a pair of beautiful homers and Andy Kantor, Art Manush and Capt. Eddie Kadell binged out three base knocks apiece.

Mighty little Bradley, who proved to be giant-killers on the midwest baseball courts last winter, jumped to an early 6-2 lead in the last half of the second by counting six runs when Ted Panish tripled with the bags loaded after Keith Wymore, starting Hawk hurler, walked five straight men. Iowa had its big inning in their half of the ninth, counting five times after Hendricks hits three batsmen.

Coach Vogel found joy mixed with sorrow as Ken Reid injured his arm in the fifth inning after he had relieved Wymore in the second frame.

Haub Stars

Hal Haub, a brilliant sophomore speedball artist, replaced the injured Reid and hurled no-hit ball for the remaining four innings.

Capt. Kadell's three hits were all of the two-base variety while Art Manush made his assault on the Bradley Braves by whacking out three hits out of five trips to the plate and counted four runs.

Vogel Uses 13 Men

True to his promise to use as many men as possible, Vogel used 13 members of his 18 man squad, giving the underdogs plenty of chance to show their wares under fire.

Collegiate Apostoll

UNIVERSITY, Ala. (AP)—Paul Cusumano, Alabama boxer, during the last two years has defeated four conference champions but has never won a title himself.

His victims included two mid-dleweight titlists, one light-heavy champ and one welter champ.

Marians Card Lone Tree Tilt

The St. Mary's baseball nine has scheduled a game with Lone Tree, the tilt to take place at Lone Tree on Tuesday of next week.

Lone Tree is usually credited with having a good team every year and, if reports are true, they should provide the Ramblers with some pretty classy competition when the two teams get together.

The outfield, regarded as weak at the first of the season, is developing nicely now. Two men who are beginning to show promise in that spot are Dick Petrak and Gerald de France.

In an intra-squad tilt Thursday evening the regulars won by a 10 to 7 count, indicating that Coach Loren Schultz can count on his non-regulars in case of trouble.

High School Tracksters Go Into Action Today

East High Of Des Moines To Defend Crown

The 17th annual state high school indoor track and field meet will open this afternoon at 2:30 in the Iowa fieldhouse when the first event of the largest meet ever held in the history of the classic will get underway.

The defending champion, East Des Moines, is again marked as the favorite to take this year's meet although the Davenport Blue Devils, second place winners last year who pushed the Des Moines aggregation until the final race of the meet, are expected to be a big title threat.

Other teams of the 53 entered who are expected to be in the running are Clinton, Ft. Madison, Dubuque and Keokuk.

Close Races Expected

Although there is expected to be many close races and plenty of competition, the feature of this year's meet will be the size of the field which is greater by far over any meet in former years. Officials of the meet have expressed much concern over the problem of handling the meet in a smooth fashion so that all of the 75 races which must be run off in six and one-half hours may be taken care of as planned.

This evening coaches from all over the state will meet with officials of the meet and sports writers at a dinner at the hotel Jefferson to talk over the possibilities of using class A and class B divisions in future years similar to that used in the state basketball tourney.

Fifteen championships will be open in today's meet, including the team championship. Ten in-

Goodman Tops Amateurs Golf Magazine Selects 'All-American' Linksmen for 1937

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP) — Johnny Goodman tops the amateurs, Ralph Guldahl the professionals and Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page the women golfers of the nation in the three 1937 "all-American" teams selected for the April issue of Golf magazine by Editor William D. Richardson with the assistance of Grantland Rice.

Goodman, for winning the U. S. amateur title and being low amateur in the U. S. open, is named No. 1 for the second straight year, followed by the amateur runner-up, Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The two leaders were named for the 1938 Walker cup team that meets the British at St. Andrews.

Five more Walker cuppers — Fred Haas Jr., of New Orleans; Charley Yates of Atlanta, Charles (Chuck) Kocsis of Detroit, Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati and Marvin (Bud) Ward of Tacoma, Wash. — all but two of the remaining berths in the amateur first 10. Ranked eighth and ninth are Harry Givan of Seattle and Don Schumacher of Dallas. The only Walker cupper not ranked is Reynolds Smith, also of Dallas.

Guldahl, slope-shouldered slugger from Chicago, replaces Harry Cooper as the nation's No. 1 pro on the strength of triumphs in the U. S. and western opens and his dividual events and four relays will be included in the field of championships.

The opening events on the program will be the pole vault and the 50 yard dash with the one mile relay scheduled as the closing event.

Victory in the competition for the Vardon low-scoring trophy, Cooper drops to No. 2.

Mrs. Page, the Chapel Hill, N. C. matron who won the women's title last summer, supplants Marjorie Miley of Cincinnati at the head of the feminine list. Patty Berg of Minneapolis is third.

'You Solve It' Case of Gridster Goes To School Heads

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 1 (AP) — Joe Carr, president of the National Professional Football league, tossed the "case of Bronko Smilanich" into the lap of the University of Arizona athletic board today, with a "you solve it" challenge.

Smilanich, a junior halfback at Arizona, was signed recently by the Cleveland Rams of the National loop, for the 1938 campaign. Arizona charged the league with "raiding" the player, but the Cleveland club countered with a statement that it had been informed Smilanich was a senior.

"Smilanich entered the U. of Arizona in 1934, and his class graduated in June," Carr said today. "That makes him eligible for play in our league. I understand that he does not desire to return to school, because of financial difficulties. Frankly, I hope he does return to school and completes his education. I offered to help in any way toward keeping him in school."

Mrs. Ray E. Fischer Elected District Association President

Parent-Teachers Group Hears Several Speakers At All-Day Meeting Yesterday In Congregational Church

Mrs. Ray E. Fischer of Burlington was elected president of the southeast district of the Iowa Congress of Parents and Teachers yesterday at an all-day meeting here in the Congregational church.

Other officers elected were Mrs. D. J. Kane of Keokuk, first vice-president; Mrs. E. E. Langwith of Davenport, second vice-president, and Mrs. C. E. Alton of Ottumwa, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Fischer and Mrs. Kane were also recommended as delegates to the national convention.

According to Mrs. L. C. Greer, president of St. Patrick's P.T.A., who was in charge of registration, 159 voting delegates and 69 visiting delegates were present. Towns represented at the conference were Batavia, Bettendorf, Burlington, Clinton, Davenport, Fairfield, Ft. Madison, Kalona, Keokuk, Marengo, Muscatine, Oskaloosa, Ottumwa, Wapello, Washington, Wayland and Winfield.

Calling the meeting to order was Mrs. C. L. Woodburn, local conference chairman and president of the Iowa City Council of Parents and Teachers. Mrs. Frank Kinney, president of Longfellow P.T.A., gave the address of welcome and Mrs. Kane presented the response. Mrs. A. E. Bastron of Ottumwa, retiring district president, was in charge of the business meeting at which were presented reports of district officers, district chairmen and council presidents.

Because Mrs. S. E. Lincoln of Des Moines, first state vice-president, who was to have substituted as speaker of the morning for Mrs. C. C. Collesler, state president, was injured in an automobile accident on her way to the conference, her part in the program was omitted.

Closing the morning session were conferences on "Program Service" with Mrs. Nina Sugg as chairman; "Mental Hygiene" with Prof. Ralph Ojemann of the child welfare station as speaker; "Parent Education" with Afton Smith of the child welfare station as speaker, and "Publicity" with Mrs. Alton as leader assisted by Mrs. Langwith.

Mrs. George W. V. Miller, president of the Horace Mann P.T.A., was in charge of the luncheon served in the church parlors. Speaking at the luncheon were Mrs. E. E. Kolb, Mrs. Vreeland Tharp and Mrs. F. C. Wolbers.

Florence Bradley was in charge of the community singing which opened the afternoon session, and Mrs. M. M. Crayne directed a joint concert of the Iowa City Mothersingers chorus and Scott county Mothersingers chorus.

Mrs. William H. Morgan, lecturer in family relationships, addressed the group on the subject, "Helping Our Children to Go on Their Own." Her talk was followed by an address by Dr. Everett D. Plass, head of the obstetrics and gynecology department of University hospital.

Discussing "Sex Education" Dr. Plass advised parents not "to dodge the issue but to perfectly frank." He suggested methods of sex education and illustrated his speech with examples of the results of lack of such education. Following his address there was a period of discussion and questions.

Jean Metcalf and Catherine Graves of Iowa State college, lend each piece individually and interest.

Probably because New York was already the nation's metropolis in the early 1800's when many of these pieces were made, views in and around the city abound on this historical blue china.

Besides New York views there are elaborate historical scenes like the battle of Bunker Hill. Colleges figured in the decoration too, and among the choicest specimens of Staffordshire ware are several showing views at Harvard, Columbia and Yale.

Some of these scenes are beyond the range of the average antique lover. Rare ones have run into hundreds of dollars, but there are still many which the collector of moderate means can afford, particularly if one has a zest for looking in out-of-the-way places.

History in Chinaware

Bob Jeans, son of Dr. and Mrs. Philip C. Jeans, Black Springs circle, is shown with a collection of historic Staffordshire ware. "Mother is not a collector, you know," Bob said; "these are things which belonged to my great, great grandfather, who was a sea captain, sailing out of Portsmouth, N. H." And Bob added, "It's in the blood." He proved it by showing his own room, which contains many sea treasures.

Song and Dance For Pep Jamboree Not April 1st Joke

Not as an April fool joke, a novel type of advertising for an all-university party was introduced by three sorority women yesterday.

The three advertisers, Rachael Matthews, A2 of Milton, Marion Jacoby, A1 of Park Ridge, II, and Katherine Wood, A2 of Des Moines, began by entering the Sigma Nu house equipped with a sandwich board and a song and dance and urged the fraternity men to go to the Pep Jamboree. Continuing their drive they went to Beta Theta Pi, Delta Tau Delta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Phi Gamma Delta, Delta Upsilon and Phi Kappa Sigma.

Loud bursts of applause followed their performances. They concluded their antics at the Quadrangle at dinner time to the harmony of a group of dormitory songsters.

'The Show Must Go On' Lloyd Keyser Has Spent Last Thirty Years In 'Running Them Through'

Pictured beside one of his two modern Simplex movie projectors is Lloyd Keyser, 522 E. Burlington street, who for 30 years has been running them through. Keyser ran his first picture in 1908 with a hand crank, which he admits is a far cry from the modern projection machine capable of shooting 90 feet of film through each minute. One of the oldest operators in

By LUTHER BOWERS

For 24 years theater-goers in Iowa City have seated themselves in comfortable surroundings, little realizing that in the hot projection booth high up in the back of the auditorium an operator nervously watches his machines to insure the show's going on.

That man at the Strand theater is Lloyd Keyser, 522 E. Burlington street, who came to Iowa City in 1914 and has been "running them through" ever since. His first job as an operator was in 1908 in Sterling, Ill., where he used to crank the film through the machine with one hand and crank up the used film with the other.

Keyser, a small man, laughingly said that in the old days of the hand crank, "I had shoulders like a wrestler." Sometimes, if he was in a hurry to get through, he would crank faster, but if there was no rush, "I'd take it easy."

Keyser first came to the Pastime theater in 1914 when it was Iowa City's finest. He came intending to stay six months—but six months passed into six years. He settled down here with his wife, and "we're still here." For 16 years Keyser has run pictures through at the Strand theater.

In 1914 there was just one machine in the projection booth, so slides were thrown on the screen while the operator changed the films. "I'll never forget the time I upset a stack of slides made up for local advertisers," he mused. "There wasn't much advertising that day."

In the point of service, Keyser modestly admits that he's the only operator in Iowa City who worked before the war, through the war and flu epidemic, and after the war. He is undoubtedly one of the oldest operators in point of service in the state of Iowa—perhaps the veteran of them all.

Projection room fires are a rather common occurrence, but Keyser in 30 years has never had a fire—a remarkable record when one considers that film rolls through the machine at a rate of 90 feet per minute, hour after hour.

Perhaps this record is the result of Keyser's frequent machine check-ups. He does all the mechanical work himself even to replacing worn out or defective parts. Proudly pointing out an intricate mechanism recently replaced, he said, "I'd rather fix my own machines. Then I know they're okay."

Many changes have taken place in the projection room through these 30 years. The hand crank projector has given way to the single power-driven machine, which in turn has been developed and synchronized so the operator now uses two projection machines.

Today, when the film on one reel is nearly gone, a dot flashes on the screen in the upper right hand corner of the picture. Watch for it next time!

The operator then starts the other projector with its new film ready to go. A second or two later, this machine starts and the first machine stops to take on fresh film for the next transfer. These changes are made about every 20 minutes.

Projection equipment is more intricate, hence more costly today. In 1908, machines cost about $200. Now a set of two Simplex projectors cost about $3,500. Additional sound equipment, meters and film accessories mean nearly $10,000 worth of equipment in the modern projection booth.

There was a time when anyone with good arms could crank the film through, but now scientific developments necessitate technical knowledge and skill. Sound meters must be understood, the "voice box" regulated, light intensity adjusted and the complicated machinery kept running. Yes, times have changed.

Yet Keyser has kept abreast of the times. He must have, for he has "never had a breakdown in which my operating was the cause. The audience has never had to leave, and the show has never been stopped for over five minutes."

Once a cam pin broke, but it was defective. In explaining various parts of the machine, he pointed out that a fan acting as an intermittent shutter cuts the film from the screen 16 times a second. He said that, "If there were no shutter, the picture would be a glaring streak of light—the audience couldn't look at it."

Film reels used to be 1,000 feet long; now 2,000 foot films shoot through the machine at 90 feet per minute with 16 separate photographs to each foot!

Keyser has observed that the talkies are less tiresome on the audience, for the dialogue carries one along with the story more easily than the written guide lines. There isn't the strain of connecting the guide lines with the "still" pictures.

So this man, who has seen—and yet not seen more movies than anyone in Iowa City, works six hours each day seven days of the week in the small projection booth. Once before air conditioning, the temperature in that booth reached 108 degrees. "I said Keyser."

The next time you go to the theater, remember the man up in the tiny projection booth, who is working like fury that "the show may go on"—and it has for 30 years!

Name Judges Of Yearly High School Exhibit

Will Hold 8th Graphic, Plastic Arts Show April 8-18

Announcement of the three judges for the eighth annual Iowa high school exhibition of graphic and plastic arts to be held from April 8 to 18 was made yesterday by Prof. Edna Patzig of the graphic and plastic arts department, manager of the exhibition. The exhibition was hung in the fine arts building yesterday and will be judged today before the official opening next week.

The judges will be Harriet M. Cantrill, supervisor of art at Springfield, Ill., Rosmary Ketcham, director of design at the University of Kansas, and Felix Payant, editor of Design, Columbus, Ohio.

All entries will be rated by each of three judges as follows: I—superior; II—excellent; III—good; IV—average or below. The combination of the three ratings will determine the final rating of each entry.

The towns and cities represented in the exhibition are Iowa City, Burlington, Cedar Rapids, Charles City, Clinton, Davenport, Decorah, Des Moines, Dubuque, Ft. Madison, Hampton, Indianola, Keokuk, Manchester, Marshalltown, Mason City, Newton, Ottumwa, Red Oak, Reinbeck, Sac City, Vinton and Waterloo.

No Fool Like April Fool

Campus Pranksters Send Phony Calls And Fake Telegrams

There's no fool like an April Fool, and the Iowa campus seemed to have its share of them yesterday.

Innumerable versions of phony phone calls headed the list of practical jokes, with fake telegrams being read over the wire or wrong numbers being left for someone to call.

The old hat-on-the-string joke was revamped into a fountain pen on a wire lying in front of a local cigar store. Quite a crowd of spectators gathered at different times during the day to have a good laugh at the expense of some unsuspecting pedestrian who tried to pick up the pen.

Special deliveries and telegrams consisting merely of "April Fool" were used by many to exasperate some gullible friend.

And of course clock setting was one way of getting someone's goat. The campus saw some early risers when clocks were set a half-hour ahead, and the victims sleepily crawled out of bed at 6:30 a.m. rather than at the usual 7 o'clock.

2 Iowans Attend Alumni Meeting

Prof. Bruce E. Mahan, executive secretary of the Iowa alumni association, and Prof. F. G. Higbee, director of convocations and former executive secretary, are attending the Silver Anniversary of the American Alumni council at Columbus, Ohio this week.

Professor Mahan will speak and show pictures of Iowa campus scenes to the Iowa alumni group tonight.

Alumni Choose Virgil Hancher

Chicago Man Will Take Office on June 4 For 1 Year

Virgil M. Hancher of Chicago has been elected president of the university of Iowa's alumni association, Prof. Bruce E. Mahan, executive secretary of the association, announced yesterday. He will take office June 4 for a year. Hancher was unopposed for the presidency, due to the withdrawal of the other nominee, W. Earl Hall of Mason City, who declined to take part because of membership on the state board of education.

Hancher was graduated from the university in 1918 and received a law degree here in 1924. He has since practiced law in Chicago. He has served as one of the two vice-presidents of the association during the last year.

Balloting in the 1938 election has been conducted by mail for the past six weeks. Professor Mahan said that names of the other 16 new officers would be announced about April 10.

The singer Patti made her operatic debut at 16 in "Lucia di Lammeoor."

The body is at McGovern's Funeral home.

Defers Action On Restaurants

The proposed ordinance which would place more stringent sanitary regulations upon restaurants and their employees was given its third reading by the city council last night, discussed for more than half an hour and then returned to the ordinance committee for further consideration and study.

After public sentiment has been determined, the council will again consider it at 7:30 p.m. April 15.

FIVE GET AWARDS

Hickerson Wins Billiard Tournament

Recreation center awards presented last night went to Lindy Hickerson, George Semuth, Robert Paukert, LaVerne Brack and Jim Morgan. Hickerson won first place in the senior pocket-billiard tourney, Semuth and Brack were co-winners in the junior free-throw matches, Morgan took first place in the senior free-throw, and Paukert won the senior table-tennis tourney.

The plaques were designed by Clifford Williams, A4 of West Liberty, crafts director. They are plaster - molded, shellacked, and bear a super-imposed gilt winged-insignia with an inscription plate below. The background is covered with lustre-enamel. A permanent mold of liquid lute rubber—a new, flexible substance used in crafts—accurately reproduced the details of the first sculptured plaque. For each succeeding one, Williams poured an equal amount of plaster and water into the mold, which lifted off when the plaster hardened. Eugene Trowbridge, center director, and Williams, are planning a larger variety of plaques and statuettes for coming activities.

Temperature Falls Below 32 Degrees

Iowa City's highest temperature yesterday, 41 degrees, was 12 degrees below normal, according to the hydraulics laboratory report.

The day's low reading, 31 degrees, one degree below freezing, was exactly normal.

Five High School Juniors to Attend Boys State in June

Five juniors from four Iowa City high schools will be guests of the Roy L. Chopek post of the American Legion and its auxiliary at the boys' state in Ft. Des Moines, June 12 to 19.

Boys chosen were Russell Hirt and William Fischer, Iowa City high, Cyril Black, St. Mary's, James Bradley, St. Patrick's and Bill Boiler, University high.

The boys' state, held for the first time, will be under the auspices of the Iowa department of the American Legion. The local legion post will pay the expenses of four boys, and the auxiliary will provide for the fifth.

Boys from all parts of the state will attend to receive first hand experience in governing. State, county and city governments will be organized.

High school juniors ranking in the upper half of their class in scholarship were selected by their classmates to make the trip. B. M. Ricketts was chairman of the legion post committee in charge of arranging for the selection of the boys.

Chapman Wins Speech Contest District Round

I. C. Senior Tops List With Talk on War in Spain

Marvin Chapman, Iowa City high school senior, was named winner by the unanimous vote of the judges in the district round of the annual state extempore contest held last night in the high school auditorium. In the original oratory division, Robert Fine of Burlington took first with "The Wake of Civilization."

Placings and topics in the extempore contest were: Chapman, "The Spanish Civil War," first; Mary Towne, Burlington, "The Armament Race," second; Isadore Katz, Davenport, "German Expansion," third; Harold McConegney, Newton, "United States Naval Question," fourth; William Butler, Muscatine, "The TVA," fifth; William Van Allen, Mt. Original oratory contestants and their topics were: Fine, first; Norris Takowsky, Davenport, "Peacemaker of the World," second; Gene Henry, Mt. Pleasant, "The Limited Way," third; Marion Keiser, Fairfield, "Assassin of Youth," fourth; Clarence Carstens, Newton, "American Liberty, What Now?" fifth; and Edgar Hicks, Iowa City, "This Is Progress," sixth.

An innovation in the extempore competition this year was the rebuttal question asked of each speaker. At the conclusion of the speeches, each contestant was asked an important question pertaining to his topic by another contestant and was given two minutes to state his answer.

Judges were H. J. Temple, Adison Hickman and O. T. Larsen, all of the university speech department.

The state finals of the extempore and original oratory contests will be here April 23.

Music Department to Present New Oratorio, 'Judas Iscariot'

Symphony Orchestra & Chorus Will Take Part in Piece

The dramatic oratorio, "Judas Iscariot," written by an alumnus of the university and dedicated to Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp, head of the music department, will be presented Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the main lounge of Iowa Union under the auspices of the music department.

The oratorio deals with the betrayal of Christ by Judas. It opens with Christ's prophecy that one of His disciples will betray Him and a number of scenes follow which depict incidents in the lives of Christ and Judas.

Both the university chorus and symphony orchestra will take part in the production which was written by Dr. Arthur A. Berdahl of Fresno, Cal. The chorus will alternate between the part of commentator and crowds.

The predominating theme of the oratorio lies in the study of the psychology of the character of Judas. The character has been modeled after the conception created in the Passion Play at Oberammergau. That is— that Judas is inherently a weak person drawn into his crime by the spirit and fever of the mass rather than being a real villain.

The text for the production was drawn from the scripture by the Rev. David A. Johnson.

The principal players include the part of the Saviour to be portrayed by Prof. Herald I. Stark of the music department, tenor; and Judas Iscariot, by Hugh Cockshoot, A4 of Wilton Junction, baritone. Mrs. Annis Stark, soprano, and Margaret Brandt, G of Hastings, Neb., alto, will sing the incidental solo passages. Professor Clapp will direct the performance and Prof. Addison Alspach, also of the music department, is in charge of the chorus.

Dr. Berdahl, the composer, and his wife will arrive in Iowa City Tuesday to be present for the production. They will remain here until Thursday.

Dr. Berdahl was graduated from Augustana college at Sioux Falls, S.D. He came to the university in 1927 as a graduate in composition and in 1931 received an M.A. degree. While studying for his Ph.D. degree, he served as graduate instructor in the department.

Before receiving the degree, he went to the State Teachers college at Fresno, Cal., where he was in charge of the orchestra and the band and taught theory instruction. He received a Ph.D. degree in 1936 and served as instructor on the summer session music staff and conductor of the orchestra. In 1936 he returned to Fresno and organized a Teachers college group for the Fresno chamber of commerce as a nucleus for a civic orchestra. He studied towards his degrees under Professor Clapp.

Gartzke Lists Repairs Made

Headed by a recommendation that repair work be done on eight Iowa City streets, City Engineer Fred E. Gartzke's monthly report was presented to the city council last night.

The streets needing repairs, according to Gartzke, are S. Capitol street, N. Dubuque street, S. Dubuque street, N. Dodge street, S. Madison street, Washington street, Wolf avenue bridge and Iowa avenue.

Besides the regular routine of cleaning dirt from gutters, several culverts were installed, sidewalks were repaired, manholes were raised and paving on several brick streets were leveled during the month, Gartzke said.

At the airport, grading progressed more during the month than in any two months during the winter, although the number of workers was cut from 80 to 34 men.

He also reported that the community building will be ready for occupancy as soon as painting of some of the fixtures is done.

No ground will be available for applications for garden plots in the city's land south of the city dump, according to Gartzke. Lieut. Elmer M. Hay of the 113th cavalry regiment of the national guard, has applied for use of the land as pasture for the unit's horses, he said.

AROUND THE TOWN With TOM JOHNSON

Uncensored Dr. So-and-So allowed me a glance at the college of medicine's closely guarded "Iowa Biopsy" last night. Consequently, I've gained a few scandal items... I'm forgetting about them, though. They're unimportant.

Best feature of the med's razz sheet was the headline, "First Faculty Grades Released." Instructors were graded on (1) Bull, (2) Teaching Ability, (3) Humor, (4) Fairness in Exams, (5) Personality, and (6) Cooperation and Interest...

The marks ranged between "Cond." and "A" ... except for one whose report stated, "Incomplete" — has never reported to class.

I'm in favor of such a sheet for every college here... to be published more than once a year. Once a month would be better.

Profs would probably retaliate, though, by printing the same stuff about the students. That wouldn't be so good, would it?

April Phooey Did you get fooled yesterday? Most Iowa Citians claimed they didn't see a good prank all day... Were disgruntled at most of the schemes... including those annoying fountain pens wired to manholes in the sidewalks...

Good Morning Only a slow clock prevented last night's city council meeting being this morning... When the fatigued aldermen adjourned last night it was about two or three seconds to midnight...

Prof. John F. Reilly nearly suggested (but, not quite) adjourning at 11:28 p.m. when he said, "It's getting near my bedtime..."

Then, however, the touchy restaurateur ordinance came up for discussion... Discussions are either wordy or silent. This one was mostly silence.

It didn't come to a vote... Was sent back to the committee for "further consideration..." That bill's been laying around the city council table almost as long as the anti-lynching bill's been in congressional wastebaskets... And, that's plenty long.

Lenten Season They're telling this at Alabama U., and it doesn't sound so bad... The irate dad writes his colleague daughter, "What have you given up for Lent — going to classes?"

County Receives $2,053 in Fees

Fees of $2,053.17 were collected during the first quarter of 1938, according to a report filed by County Clerk R. N. Miller with County Auditor Ed Sulek yesterday.

Receipts listed were transcripts, $62.25; district court fees, $647.40; probate fees, $896.91; reporter and jury fees due county, $82.46; fines and forfeitures, $300, and sheriff's fees, $64.15.

Police Recover Stolen Sedan

The car belonging to Merle Holland, stolen Thursday night from the national guard armory, was recovered yesterday afternoon by police in the alley between Dubuque and Linn streets north of Benton street.

Two windows were broken out of the sedan.

Farm Bureau Will Hold Meeting Tonight

Plans to complete the Farm bureau membership drive will be made at the regular monthly business meeting of the Johnson county farm bureau board at 7:30 tonight in the farm bureau office.

Tentative plans will also be made for the annual 4-H club show in August.

Judge Carson Fines 11 Traffic Violators

Eleven traffic violators were fined $1 each yesterday by Police Judge Burke N. Carson. Albert Libby, the Cook Nash company, Tom Connell Jr., Louis Shimon, Ray Lewis and Mary Boyington were each fined for failing to observe school stop signs. Fines for using the streets for storage were paid by Dean Dort, Marion Maris and Parker L. Crouch. G. S. Welch and M. L. Aaron were fined for double parking.

Annual Report Filed by Chief

Traffic Violations Lead Year's Recorded Local Arrests

Police Chief W. H. Bender yesterday filed his annual report for the year ending March 31 with City Clerk Grover Watson.

The report showed police made these arrests: intoxication, 392; breaking and entering, 29; robberies, 41; driving while intoxicated, 7; assaults, 3; disturbing the peace, 69; loitering, 18; resisting an officer, 4; liquor nuisance, 1; illegal possession, 9; cars stolen, 48; cars recovered, 46; dogs and cats disposed of, 232; traffic violations, 1,931; juvenile cases, 91.

Auto accidents, 123; petty larceny, 7; illegal license plates, 1; bicycles stolen, 37; bicycles recovered, 38; soliciting without a health permit, 52; destroying a traffic summons, 1; reckless driving, 5; destroying property, 1; lewdness, 2; begging, 2; drinking in a public place, 1; no scavenger's license, 2.

Illegal use of the sidewalks, 3; no registration plates, 2; vagrancy, 9; suicides, 2; intoxication upon public highway, 11; driving without driver's license, 4; driving a car without owner's permission, 1; shop-lifting, 2; gift of beer, 2; violating closing hour on class B permit, 1; nuisances affecting health, 1, and gambling, 3.

Collections by the police departments were cats and dogs, $63.50; car tow-ins, $112.75; and two cars sold for storage, $23. One thousand three transients were lodged in the police station during the year.

Among the strangest things which intelligent citizens do, Patrolman Hohl asserted, is pay thousands of dollars to state legislators to pass laws to govern them; they expend thousands of dollars to train and maintain policemen to see that they obey those laws; they expend vast sums upon courts of law whose primary duty is to punish wrongdoers.

"Then," the speaker said, "citizens break those laws which they have paid for; they attempt to avoid the officers whose salaries are paid by themselves; and if they get a ticket, they try to have it suspended by courts of law brought about by themselves, and which are expected to do their duty by punishing offenders."

Be Fair The speaker discussed the cost of accidents, in money, suffering and lives, to the individual and the state. "Be fair to pedestrians," he urged, "be fair to other drivers, be fair to passengers of your car, and be fair to your family by driving safely."

Sergt. Edgar Faber, also of the ninth district of the state highway patrol, will be the speaker on next week's broadcast. The announcement was made by Don Davis, chief de gare of Forty and Eight, honor legion society which sponsors the broadcasts. Davis introduced Hohl on last night's broadcast.

The weekly broadcasts are under the direction of H. I. Jennings, local highway safety chairman for Forty and Eight and the Legion, and Ellis Crawford, district radio chairman for the two groups.

Sidney Cross Wins Acquittal In Jury Trial

A verdict of "not guilty" was returned yesterday by the jury which heard the trial of Sidney Cross on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

The jury received the case at 3:30 p.m. Thursday and reached a decision at 10:30 p.m. A sealed verdict had been agreed to, and it was read in court at 9 a.m. yesterday.

At the conclusion of the case, Judge James P. Gaffney excused the jury panel for the remainder of the February term which will end Saturday.

Hohl Classifies Factors For Highway Safety Over WSUI

Speaker Urges Drivers To Be Fair To Pedestrians

Discussing factors which affect safe driving on the public highways, Patrolman Richard Hohl of the ninth district of the Iowa highway patrol spoke last night over WSUI on the weekly highway safety broadcast of the American Legion.

Patrolman Hohl classified the factors which play an important part in highway safety under five headings: (1) physical factors; (2) mechanical factors; (3) personal factors; (4) weather and visibility factors; and (5) share-the-road factors.

Under the first classification, Hohl said, come such factors as alignment of the highways, obstructions and surface smoothness, all of which must be carefully judged and their effects taken into consideration by the driver interested in safety on the open road.

Mechanical Factors Mechanical factors, Hohl pointed out, include such things as engine power, steering apparatus and lighting facilities. Physical and mental traits are the important personal factors which play a part in safe driving.

Darkness, fog and rain must be carefully considered, and proper precautions taken to offset the danger of such visibility factors.

The share-the-road factors include proper consideration for pedestrians, cyclists and animals which may be upon the highway, he remarked.

Among the strangest things which intelligent citizens do, Patrolman Hohl asserted, is pay thousands of dollars to state legislators to pass laws to govern them; they expend thousands of dollars to train and maintain policemen to see that they obey those laws; they expend vast sums upon courts of law whose primary duty is to punish wrongdoers.

"Then," the speaker said, "citizens break those laws which they have paid for; they attempt to avoid the officers whose salaries are paid by themselves; and if they get a ticket, they try to have it suspended by courts of law brought about by themselves, and which are expected to do their duty by punishing offenders."

Be Fair The speaker discussed the cost of accidents, in money, suffering and lives, to the individual and the state. "Be fair to pedestrians," he urged, "be fair to other drivers, be fair to passengers of your car, and be fair to your family by driving safely."

Sergt. Edgar Faber, also of the ninth district of the state highway patrol, will be the speaker on next week's broadcast. The announcement was made by Don Davis, chief de gare of Forty and Eight, honor legion society which sponsors the broadcasts. Davis introduced Hohl on last night's broadcast.

The average daily high reading last month was 56.8 degrees, exactly 10 above the normal, 46.8. The daily minimum readings during March averaged 33.6 degrees, as compared with a normal minimum of 26.7 degrees.

The hottest day was March 21 when the mercury registered 84 degrees, and the coldest was March 6 when it dropped to 16. Ten days were described as "fair," 10 as "partly cloudy," and 11 as "cloudy."
