Supreme Court To Test Ruling

Gaffney Denies Plea of Smith For Injunction

Upholds School Board's Purchase, Building In Morningside

Judge James P. Gaffney's decision denying Lewis L. Smith Sr. an injunction to prevent the construction by the city school board of the $725,000 high school building on the Morningside site will be appealed to the state supreme court, Attorney D. C. Nolan said last night. The notice of appeal will be filed with County Clerk R. Neilson Miller today or tomorrow, he said.

The 13-page decision issued by Judge Gaffney yesterday divided the case into three issues, the request for an injunction to prevent the improvement of the Morningside site, the legality of the purchase of 29.1 acres of ground by the board, and whether the plaintiff was guilty of laches in filing his objection to the board's actions. On each proposition the judge held for the board.

Two Other Cases
The cases filed by Smith against the former owners of the property in Morningside purchased by the board, and the William Horrabin Contracting company, will not be tried until the supreme court rules on this case, Attorney Nolan said. "Both cases depend upon the legality of the board's real estate transactions," he explained.

The judge maintained in his decision that the specific request of Smith was for an injunction against the construction of the building and the improvement of the grounds which constitute administrative matters and are ap- plicable through the county superintendent and state superintendent of schools.

"Such an action can only be sustained by alleging and proving fraud, collusion, or mistake, or other illegality in the calling and holding of the special election when the people vote the power to issue bond," the decision says.

Reasons Sufficient
It is the abiding opinion of the court that the reasons set forth in division one are legally sufficient to a complete decision (See DECISION, Page 6)

Japanese Capitalists Offer To Buy Mexican Oil Well Holdings

Interest Lies in Building Pipeline Across Isthmus

MEXICO CITY, April 7 (AP)—Japanese interests have offered to buy into a strategic Mexican oil company, it was disclosed to-night.

Jorge Viescas y Palma, an attorney who said he was the principal stockholder of the Popontia company which he organized two years ago, said Japanese had offered to buy all or part of his holdings.

The company has valuable concessions in Vera Cruz state, just across the Gulf of Mexico from the United States navy station at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

Its concessions are on 253 lots, each about 100 acres, in the vicinity of Minatitlan, Vera Cruz, on the Atlantic ocean side of the Tehuantepec isthmus, the narrowest point of North America.

Tokyo dispatches recently said Japanese promoters were interested in building a pipeline across the 120-mile isthmus, from Salina Cruz on the Pacific coast to Minatitlan, about 600 miles south of Brownsville, Tex.

In previous years engineers have discussed the advisability of a canal across this strategic isthmus. Presumably a pipeline right of way would be of a width sufficient for a good highway system.

Austria Taken Off Preferential Tariff Treatment

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP)

President Roosevelt removed Austria today from the list of nations receiving preferential tariff treatment from the United States.

The president's action, embodied in a letter to the secretary of the treasury, was the second evidence of acceptance by the United States in two days of the actual absorption of Austria by Germany.

Secretary of State Hull informed the German government yesterday the United States would expect Germany to assume responsibility for Austrian debts to this country.

Germany was removed from the preferential tariff list some time ago. Removal of Austria means that products coming from that country must pay the highest American tariffs in effect. Products from other countries, on the other hand, receive tariff reductions negotiated under reciprocal trade agreements with 17 countries.

Austria and Germany are the only countries which do not receive preferential tariffs.

Buckingham and Buckmaster Win Supreme Court Argument

Dinner Closes Annual Events Of Law College

BEN Buckingham of Iowa City and Robert Buckmaster of Duncerton were awarded the decision in the Supreme Court day argument, Chief Justice Carl B. Stiger of the Iowa supreme court announced last night at the banquet which climaxed the 12th annual celebration of the college of law.

Justice Ernest M. Miller of the Iowa supreme court presented plaques to the four contestants in honor of their participation in the arguments. Howard Remley of Anamosa and Morris Drucker of Marshalltown were the members of the opposing team. The court's decision was against a blood test for intoxication.

15 Per Cent Rate

On the capital gains tax, the senate approved a flat 15 per cent rate in place of a graduated scale of rates voted in the house. The house rates were lower on gains realized on assets held for long periods and higher on gains realized over shorter periods.

Taking up the tax revision bill at noon, the senate sped rapidly through general debate and the consideration of committee amendments. Senators said they could not remember when a revenue measure had received such expeditious consideration.

Order French Troops Ready To Protect Senate During Vote On Premier Blum's Powers Bill

PARIS, April 7 (AP)—Troops were ordered held in readiness in Paris garrisons tonight to defend the senate if necessary during the crucial vote on Premier Leon Blum's dictatorial financial powers bill tomorrow. Issuance of the order was disclosed after rioting flared in the streets outside the senate tonight on the eve of what was considered to be certain rejection of Blum's bill by the upper house.

It was given by the permanent secretariat of the senate under constitutional rights conferred upon the president of the senate.

The order, it was learned, was issued in the middle of the afternoon when it became apparent that leftists would attempt to march upon the senate despite a government ban.

The troops, which the president of the senate has the right to requisition whenever a legislative body is threatened, were in readiness in their garrisons tonight in case they were needed during rioting in front of the senate, but were not called.

During the evening, communists, anarchists and socialists estimated as numbering more than 10,000 battled police and mobile guards in a vain attempt to march on Luxembourg palace, the senate building.

Several policemen and demonstrators were injured in the fighting, which followed summary rejection of Blum's bill by the senate finance committee, 25 to 6.

The measure would give Blum

New Clues in Texas Murder Case Lead to Abandoned Mine

Paper Handkerchiefs, Car Tracks Bring Investigation

EL PASO, Tex., April 7 (AP)—Two bloody paper handkerchiefs and car tracks similar to those found near the bodies of Mrs. Weston G. Frome and her daughter, Nancy, sent officers to an abandoned mine near Van Horn tonight in their search for clues in the torture slayings of the Berkley, Cal. tourists.

District Attorney Roy D. Jackson said the car tracks were of the same type of those on the automobile which left the highway six miles east of Van Horn, where the bodies were found.

Officers started a search of the mine shaft in the hope of finding the missing baggage of the Fromes.

Jackson said the bloody paper cleansing tissues found about half a mile from the highway, were of the same type as those carried in the glove compartment of the motor car the mother and daughter were driving.

The new find late today bolstered a dwindling number of clues.

Robert R. Young Wins Out Over Bank Interests

NEW YORK, April 7 (AP)—Robert R. Young, who allegedly got control of the former $2,000,000 Van Sweringen system last spring with $254,000 in cash, by a last minute legal coup today staved off surrender of control of its backbone—the Chesapeake & Ohio.

Young has been battling powerful banking interests—he identified them in federal court as J. P. Morgan and company, General Motors corporation, Morgan, Stanley and company, Guaranty Trust company, and others—for control of the 9,000-mile C. & O. railway.

Earlier today it seemed he had definitely lost his fight when Federal District Court Judge Albert C. Coxe denied Young's application for an injunction against Guaranty Trust company and vacated a previous restraining order against the bank.

Revamp Bill Survives Assaults in the House

Vienna Diocese Paper Urges Catholics To Support Union of Germany, Austria

VIENNA, April 7 (AP)—The Wiener Kirchenblatt, official organ of the Catholic diocese of Vienna, today urged all Catholics to support the union of Austria with Germany in Sunday's plebiscite.

"There should be no doubt for any Austrian," said the paper. It enumerated four duties which should bind every Catholic after the plebiscite.

"It is a self understood matter of vote 'ja' (yes) according to the direction of the church leader appointed by God."

"With this 'ja' however four obligations exist for the period following the election:

Obedience toward the new worldly authority; unbound loyalty cooperation in the development of the fatherland; manifestation of Catholicism in the new situation, and, finally, a daily prayer for the great German reich (nation) and its führer."

(March 27 there was read in all Austrian catholic churches a declaration signed by Theodore Cardinal Innitzer, primate of Austria, and five Catholic bishops.

The prelates said it was their duty "to declare our loyalty as Germans to the German reich" in the plebiscite.

Reorganization Measure Gets 2 Amendments

Opposition Strong; Bill Is Passed by Scant 22-Vote Margin

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP)—By a skimpy 22-vote margin the government reorganization bill survived an attempt to kill it today in the House.

Administration forces immediately followed up that victory by writing two vital amendments into the measure—each a concession to the opposition and each intended to draw more support to the bill on the ballot for final passage.

One would retain for Congress the power to nullify, by a bare majority vote, any order the president might issue for the reshuffling or elimination of government agencies. It was approved, 151 to 113.

The other would exempt the federal education bureau specifically from any reorganization program. It was accepted on a voice vote.

But the first real test of strength between supporters of the bill and an opposition coalition of republicans and rebellious democrats came on a motion by Representative O'Connor (D-NY) to kill the measure, without even throwing it open to amendment, by "striking out the enacting clause."

Without an enacting clause there can't be a bill.

After tellers had counted 169 members for the motion and 191 against, backers of the legislation broke into a wild cheer, hailing the decision as a definite indication that the house would pass the bill ultimately.

Opposition

The opposition merely pointed to the closeness of the totals.

"This is just one part of the fight," O'Connor asserted. "There will not be a reorganization bill."

In the end, the eventual fate of the bill remained a matter of mere speculation: there remained the possibility that action tomorrow on additional amendments would turn the tide either for or against it.

Urging the legislators not to "compromise with principles," O'Connor said that in offering his motion, "I am taking the step which I believe the people of this country desire."

Government Spain Dealt Hard Blow When Insurgents Capture Tremp, Electric Power Center

Fall of Tremp Marks Climax of Week Of Advance

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish frontier) April 7 (AP)—Capture of Tremp, Catalonia's chief electric power center, was hailed by insurgents tonight as a heavy blow to Spanish government resistance in the beleaguered northeastern corner of Spain.

Electric plants at Tremp, some 40 miles north of Lerida, supplied the power for most of Catalonia's war industries. Shutdown of the industrial plants was virtually certain, insurgents said.

Confirmation

(A government communiqué confirmed that Tremp had fallen. Government troops were said to have taken up defensive positions about a mile from Tremp.)

After a week of rapid advances through the western fringes of Catalonia, Insurgent Generalsimmo Francisco Franco's forces now found government resistance stiffened suddenly.

This was true particularly in the southern sector around Tortosa, on the river Ebro near the Mediterranean.

During the evening, communists, anarchists and socialists estimated as numbering more than 10,000 battled police and mobile guards in a vain attempt to march on Luxembourg palace, the senate building.

Several policemen and demonstrators were injured in the fighting, which followed summary rejection of Blum's bill by the senate finance committee, 25 to 6.

Hoover Plans Announces Will Aid In Next Election

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover came home today with the announcement he would "help elect a larger republican congressional representation" in the 1938 political campaign.

He did not elaborate on his plan but said he would take "no part whatever" in the state campaign.

The homecoming marked the end of a tour of many European countries.

Asked to comment on the Roosevelt administration reorganization bill, Mr. Hoover remarked:

"You can't say it's fascist, but it is fair to say that it is in the attitude of fascism."

The former president denied that the Roosevelt measure was similar to the governmental reorganization measure he advocated while chief executive.

Mr. Hoover asserted he had sought "no such power over administrative and civil service offices" as did the current measure.

Mrs. C. Burham Denies Aiding In White Slavery

QUINCY, Ill., April 7 (AP)—Mrs. Clarence Burham, 29, one of four persons on trial in federal court on "white slavery" charges, fainted upon leaving the witness stand today after denying she had aided in bringing girls here from Missouri for immoral purposes.

She testified she worked in the tavern operated by Howard A. Murray, another defendant, since 1936 when she came here from Muscatine, Ia. Mrs. Burham, thrice married and the mother of a nine-year-old child, said her only connection with operation of the place was collection of "percentages" from the girl inmates.

Shakespeare
On the Campus

SIGNIFICANT of the abilities of the dramatic arts group — along technical as well as histrionic lines — is the skilful production of the Shakespearean history presented this week by University theater.

In "King Henry IV," Part I, all the equipment of the new theater has been brought into use for the first time. The most spectacular production of the year, the theater group's interpretation is the epitome of up-to-date and coordinate drama technique.

The seventeen scenes of the play involve frequent changes in settings. For the most part, however, the audience is entirely oblivious to the stage work involved. The revolving stage, used in this production in the United States for the first time, makes this possible, through its approximation of the speed of the old Elizabethan theater.

Wagon stages, trap doors and the fly loft also enable the producers to make the play a living thing and not laborious work in the eyes of the audience.

Highlighting the rapidly moving action are the colorful and elaborate costumes. They serve to make the 14th century the present until the curtain falls for the last time.

The combination of modern equipment with the artistry of the theater group have here made Shakespearean drama a vital thing for the university playgoer. Flawless production, in addition to the excellent dramatic interpretation, are proof of the progressive ability of the university's dramatic arts department.

Last Call
For Prosperity

IN THE MIDST of the administration's numerous headaches, one continues to throb more painfully than all the rest — the failure of the "recession" to take the predicted upturn. The TVA investigation, the Mexican question and even the reorganization bill are secondary issues, for prophets of the new deal see the handwriting on the wall if the present downward trend of business continues. As a result the bill authorizing $1,500,000,000 in loans to private industry is more than another aspirin to the new deal. It is one of a number of new remedies and stimuli prepared to help lift the country out of the present economic bog. It must not fail, for there will be no time to put another far-reaching plan into operation before the 1940 elections.

This time the remedies are no hasty, spur-of-the-moment measures. They are the results of lengthy investigations conducted in a cool, fact-finding manner, and, calculated to soothe a jittery business world.

For all a whole, the economic picture is indeed gloomy. Stock prices are at the lowest levels in nearly three years. Industrial production has decreased nearly a third since last August and is now lower than the 1934 average. Employment figures are well above the ten million mark which, although partly due to seasonal factors, are the highest since April 1935. Commodity prices have fallen and other indices of the economic situation in its entirety are far from reassuring.

The problem of the administration is to stimulate purchasing power and release the flow of capital — to coax back the golden calf, long absent from American economic pasture. To do this not one but several measures have been devised including tax relief, financial reorganization of railroads, direct spending and, ironically but understandably, the adjournment of congress itself.

Heart of the whole program, the RPC loan bill would provide long-time credit for business, loans which cannot be made by banks because of rigorous regulation. The measure answers one of the principle demands made at the little business conference last winter and, through an amendment permitting loans without approval of the interstate commerce commission, it aims to aid in the financial rehabilitation of railroads. In general the policy behind the bill is to provide the necessary business stimulus through providing easy credit without risk to the nation's banks.

Whether the new program will be successful is a question which would have silenced the famous oracle at Delphi. There can be no doubt, however, that it is a final desperate attempt to bring about that upward swing, that trend towards re-employment which would put the new deal on the right side of the political ledger at election time.

The administration could justly "point with pride" to an accomplishment eclipsing such minor weaknesses such as the TVA investigation and various attempts at government reorganization.

DISTRACTED mothers who have long preached the rather dubious theory of potatoes growing in dirty ears will henceforth owe a debt of gratitude to Eldred Bright of Elk, W. Va., in whose nose a grain of corn actually did grow!

Before the advent of four-year-old Eldred into the news columns, this time-honored warning had been considered to have little practical significance but was frequently used because of its picturesque nature. Eldred, however, seems to have been set on proving or disproving the thing once and for all, and with admirable forthrightness began his experiment by pushing a grain of corn up his right nostril.

Two weeks later his horrified mother rushed the young experimenter to the family physician: tiny roots were pushing down from the boy's nose. (When the grain was finally removed, it had sprouted approximately half an inch long.)

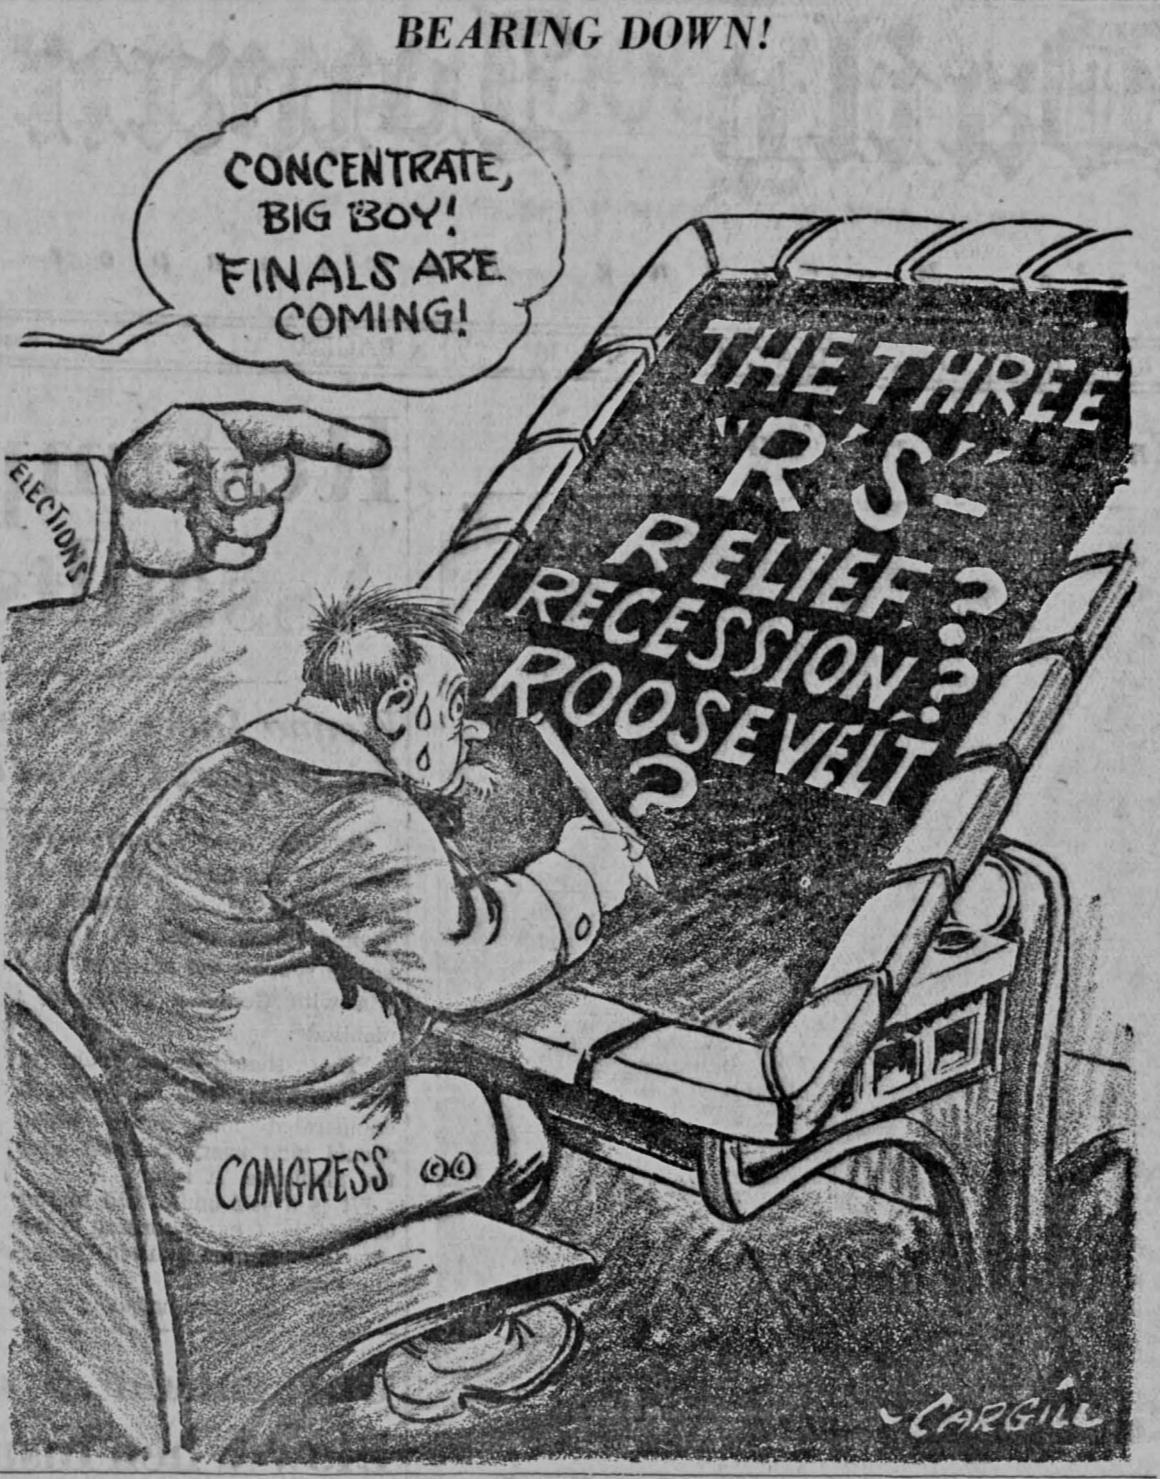

Eldred Bright may never again crash the newspapers, but his name should be cherished through generations to come by mothers who have had one of their pet arguments, hitherto impotent, definitely established through his efforts.

$4,500,000,000 for Recession Tonic in Roosevelt Program

'Prime the Business Pump' Is Cited as Administration Effort

Appropriation Will Be Used for Loans, Relief is Plan

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP) — A Roosevelt program to provide $4,500,000,000 for loans and direct expenditures to relieve unemployment and combat the recession appeared in the making tonight, informed persons said.

They cited these indications of the form to be taken by the administration's new effort to "prime the business pump" and aid the jobless:

1. A high administration authority said the president contemplated asking congress to approve a $1,500,000,000 program of public works loans to cities, states and other political subdivisions. The loans would bear no interest.

2. Chairman Gless (D-Va), of the senate appropriations committee predicted the administration would ask congress to appropriate from $1,250,000,000 and $1,500,000,000 "as a starter" toward meeting next year's relief needs.

3. The administration's bill to authorize the reconstruction finance corporation to make $1,500,000,000 of long-term industrial and public works loans was near the end of its journey through congress. Senator Glass agreed to changes the house made in the senate version of this measure, and this indicated to many observers that the bill would be sent to the White House speedily.

Interest centered on the proposal for non-interest bearing public works loans to cities and states, which would be required to repay them in 50 years at the rate of 2 per cent a year.

Officials said expenditures under this program could be started soon and could furnish badly needed demand for the products of the lagging heavy industries, such as steel.

Senator States Attempts To End Slump

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP) — Senator Duffy (D-Wis) cited today five proposals by which, he said, the government was trying to end the business slump.

The Wisconsin senator enumerated:

1. A proposal to spend $1,500,000 for public works.

2. Senate revisions of the tax structure.

3. A bill to legalize RFC loans to business.

4. Expansion of government insured housing.

5. The slum clearance program.

Duffy, in a radio address, said "This morning the White House announced a proposed program for PWA which would invoke the spending of $1,500,000,000 for useful public works."

Fast Worker! First Lady Buys With Uncanny Speed

NEW YORK, April 7 (AP) — In less time than it takes most women to buy a pair of gloves, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today bought two Easter costumes.

She chose a fair weather outfit, and one to wear should the day be stormy.

Her fair weather hat is a navy blue sailor of shiny straw with a rolled, medium brim and crown, both edged with white piping.

With it goes a navy blue costume suit of sheer silk, with a white blouse and a three-quarter length coat trimmed with a white pique lapel flower.

She'll wear white gloves with it, and carry a white handbag.

The rainy weather outfit is a navy blue straw tricorn beret and a flowered silk print dress under a navy blue wool cape coat.

Mrs. Roosevelt looked at only three hats. The one she didn't take was a Gibson Girl model.

Lost in Capitol Reorganization Talk Draws Negro

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP) — A big Negro, interested in the house reorganization debate, lost his way in the capitol today and wandered into the democratic cloakroom.

Stopped by doorkeepers and informed that only congressmen were permitted in the cloakroom, he backed apologetically out of the door. Then he asked:

"Where are they talking about the government extermination bill?"

Income Jumps 71 Per Cent Increase Over 1932 Low

NEW YORK, April 7 (AP) — Based on national income the average American had $555 of money to spend in 1937 and the average family unit about $2,392, the magazine "Sales Management" estimated today in a survey of the nation's buying power.

It was calculated the American public had an "effective buying income" of $71,525,065,000, a boost of 71 per cent over the $41,760,000,000 of 1932 and seven per cent over the $67,000,000,000 of 1936.

Scout Leaders Hold Discussion

Six scout leaders participated in a round-table discussion at the final session of their training course last night at Henry Sabin school. Gordon L. Kent, senior patrol leader, presided.

Reuben Scharf, scribe, talked on "Merit badges and how a scout is passed." Scharf and Kent then presented pictures of the National Boy Scout jamboree held at Washington, D. C., last summer, nature study and local scouting activities.

Leaders who attended were John Hudacheck, Donald Sullivan, Richard Birdine, Scoutmaster Owen B. Thiel and Clarence Conklin.

Line Crews Begin to Restore Telephone, Lights After Storm

Low Temperatures To Continue, Bureau Forecasts

DES MOINES, April 7 (AP) — Weary line crews late today began to achieve definite gains in the battle to restore telephone and light service to Iowa communities cut off by the two-day spring blizzard.

But winter's April flourish was far from over.

The weather bureau's Iowa temperature forecast ranged from 10 to 20 degrees above zero for tonight. The coldest April 8 in Iowa records was a reading of 20 above in 1928.

Northwestern Bell Telephone company officials lifted their estimate of storm damage in Iowa and Nebraska up past the $200,000 mark. Wire breaks reached 35,000 they said, and the damage was almost equally divided between the states. Approximately 4,000 poles were down in Iowa and another 1,500 were leveled in Nebraska.

Restore Service

Bell officials said they expected to restore service in 60 of the 130 isolated towns by tonight. More than 400 of the 530 Iowa phone circuits broken by the storm were still out of commission late today, they added.

"Ice melted rapidly this afternoon all over the state," they said. "The letup assisted materially in repairing the damage." They fore-

Spain--As American Volunteer Sees It

PERPIGNAN, France, April 7 (AP) — An American who served with the Spanish government army estimated today 9,000 Americans went to Spain to fight against the insurgents and said he knew of only 200 who still were fighting.

All others, he said, either were killed, wounded or had disappeared.

He was John G. Honeycombe, 27, of Los Angeles, Cal., who acted as political commissar for the Washington and Lincoln battalions.

Tells Tragic Story

Honeycombe told the tragic story of the American volunteers after reaching this side of the border in the tattered uniform he said he wore in several vain stands against the Spanish insurgents' sweep to the Mediterranean.

Stopped by doorkeepers and informed that only congressmen were permitted in the cloakroom, he backed apologetically out of the door. Then he asked:

"Where are they talking about the government extermination bill?"

Remnants Caught

In what he called "the Gandesa collapse," Honeycombe said 560 remnants of the Washington battalion were caught in the path of the insurgent army that took the town last Saturday.

"The secret of the insurgent advance," the Californian said,

"is that the international brigades are through and the crack Spanish Lister and Campesino brigades are played out.

"There is nothing left to stop the fascists (insurgents). It should be over soon.

Can't Last

"This cannot last. I have seen more than 200 planes at one time bombing and strafing our lines. That man Franco has everything. The Spaniards don't want to fight. They have nothing to fight with. They are finished."

Honeycombe arrived hungry and exhausted after what he said was four or five days of walking and hitch-hiking to reach the French frontier. Rips in the trousers of his khaki uniform showed shrapnel wounds.

He said he suffered them during the retreat from Belchite after the insurgent offensive struck March 9. The Americans, he said, were driven back under continual airplane strafing beyond Caspe and through Gandesa.

Sent to Hospital

He said he was sent to a hospital, because of shrapnel in his left knee, during part of the retreat but was returned to the lines March 21 and saw action again April 1 near Gandesa.

"That was a complete rout," he said. "Our brigade was forced to take a stand April 2 on heights less than a mile west of Gandesa but we had to evacuate those positions under artillery fire and forests. Caught

In what he called "the Gandesa collapse," Honeycombe said 560 remnants of the Washington battalion were caught in the path of the insurgent army that took the town last Saturday.

"The secret of the insurgent advance," the Californian said,

"is that the international brigades are through and the crack Spanish Lister and Campesino brigades are played out.

"There is nothing left to stop the fascists (insurgents). It should be over soon.

Honeycombe said the main body of Americans was trapped further west of Gandesa and he saw "only 28 men, besides myself, escaping out of the 560."

Hold Front Lines

Honeycombe declared the Washington and Lincoln brigades held front lines in every major action during the fourteen months they have fought in the Spanish war.

Known originally as "battalions of death," he said, they were virtually obliterated as an effective military organization after Gandesa.

"It was horrible," he said. "The whole republican line—those that were left of us—just cracked and ran."

"Those that are left want to go home. I dread the fate of the international brigadiers if they are caught by the enemy."

The last American volunteers, Honeycombe said, were a contingent of 350 that arrived 40 days ago, were given a week's training and were almost wiped out at Gandesa, their first battle.

Fight For Ideals

He said the American volunteers were paid seven pesetas (40 cents) a day.

"But most of us came to Spain to fight for ideals. That's what I came for, but when you see boys you have worked with being slaughtered it shakes your ideals," he said.

Headliners for Every Costume

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP) — Three more senators, including one republican, agreed today to serve on the congressional committee to investigate the TVA, but one remaining vacancy continued to delay organization of the inquiry.

Senator Donahoe (D-Ohio), who is expected to be temporary chairman of the group, said he would not attempt to call an organization meeting until Vice-President Garner had completed the personnel of the committee.

The remaining vacancy was created by the decision of Senator Capper (R-Kan) to reject the appointment offered by Garner.

Informed persons said Garner would appoint Senator Davis (R-Pa) as soon as the situation had "cooled off."

Davis was understood to be willing to serve despite the campaign for reelection which will engage some of his time this summer.

Senators Schwartz (D-Wyo), Brown (D-NH) and Frazier (R-N.D.) already have agreed to serve.

Among the new buttonhole bouquets are strawberries and their leaves. One strawberry is jewel-studded in natural red, the other covered with white pearls. The leaves are gold. This makes a smart clip for buttonhole or neckline.

Never Mind that "stitch in time"

First telephone communication in 24 hours was established on a single line out of Audubon at noon today. The Audubon national guard previously had attempted to get a news message out of that county seat town by amateur radio but failed because of the static.

Without Lights

Westphalia, Irwin and Botna in western Iowa were without lights for more than 30 hours. A new rural electrification wire system was damaged by the high wind-and-sleet combination, most of the poles being forced into 45-degree angle position.

Nineteen other towns were without light service in Audubon, Crawford and Shelby counties for more than 10 hours.

An Audubon telephone company manager said two thirds of the rural lines in that area were out of order.

In central Iowa highway commission plows cleared primary roads but many of the county roads were reported blocked. Driving in many sections of the state continued hazardous.

Barbizons don't need mending

Throw away the sewing kit as far as mending is concerned if you wear Barbizons. They never come apart. Seams are lock-stitched: can't open. The shoulder straps can't pull out. Hems can't rip. Even if you wash them every night, they'll last for months without loss of lustre or figure-flattering lines.

Down The Sports Trail

By PAUL MICKELSON

NEW YORK, April 7 (AP)—Facts, fancies and impressions gleaned from the old sports trailer's notebook after a tour of the spring big league baseball camps.

Most optimistic rookie in the whole southland is Joe "Flash" Gordon, who's out to take over Tony Lazzeri's old second basing job with the New York Yankees. Joe plans to spend his 1938 world series cut on a honeymoon with his college sweetheart. If the Yanks lose, Joe may have a new alibi for standing up a bride at the altar.

Pitcher Spurgeon Chandler, trying a comeback with the Yankees, would like to start against Cleveland for a good reason. The last ball pitched by the former Georgia star in a big league game was to Earl Averill of Cleveland. Earl hit the pitch over the fence. Chandler was jerked and shipped to the Newark farm.

Perhaps the most important players to the success of a team are Pitchers Kendall Chase and Joe Krakauskas of Washington. Ken and Joe must go—and go big—if the Senators hope to get any place. If they flop, it wouldn't surprise the experts to see the Bucky HArry crew touch right close to the bottom.

Connie Mack confesses he hates only one person in the world. In the 1913 world series against the Giants, Connie's boys won four games to one. But on the night of the game his Athletics did lose, Connie received a $2.40 collect telegram from a fan calling him everything for a bum for his strategy in the game. "I still have that telegram," says Connie, "and if I ever find the crank who sent it I'll get my $2.40 back and give him a piece of my mind. After 25 years, I've stored up some pretty fancy words."

Pitchers say Rudy York now is harder to fool than Hank Greenberg. Now that he's getting to play, Rudy advises he's one eight Cherokee Indian with the other seven eighth Scotch and Irish. For some reason, Rudy calls his brother, Lewis, by the handle of "Snookums."

Jacobus Mildly Refutes Gene Sarazen's Charges

Says Hagen Is Logical Choice

NEW YORK, April 7 (AP)—George R. Jacobus, president of the Professional Golfers' association, returned from the south today with a soft denial to Gene Sarazen's charge that politics and favoritism kept him from being captain of the Ryder cup team.

Sarazen, at Augusta, Ga., couched his attack upon Jacobus with announcement of his retirement from cup competition.

"I have known for some time that Sarazen resented not being selected for the Ryder cup captaincy by the P. G. A. but he did not tell me personally that it was the reason for his withdrawal," said Jacobus.

"As a matter of fact he insisted he had played in enough international matches, that it was time the younger players got more chance, and that the trips were either too long or tiresome for him."

Best Qualified

I named Walter Hagen to the captaincy of the 1937 Ryder cup team because I considered him the best qualified and most popular man for the position.

"There was no prejudice against Sarazen, last year or at any other time. Hagen has been the logical man for the captaincy since the cup matches started, just as Francis Ouimet has become a standby as leader of the amateurs in Walker cup competition. I would not hesitate to name Hagen again, under similar circumstances."

Further Plans Discussed For Sports Dinner

Large Crowd Expected For Banquet At Iowa Union

At a meeting of committee chairmen last night, further plans were discussed for the all-university sports dinner, to be held in the main lounge of Iowa Union May 18. Coach David Armbruster, general chairman of the affair, had charge of the meeting.

Tickets for the event will go on sale in a few days. The banquet will be one of the largest ever held at Iowa and the first of its kind sponsored in America. One of the questions confronting the committees was the problem of accommodation. If the main lounge will not be large enough, the River room will be used.

Trophies will be presented to group winners in the various sports in fraternity, Quadrangle, co-op dorm and Town league intramural competition. 376 medal awards will also be made to individual champions.

An effort is being made to secure a noted sports celebrity from radio, screen or the newspaper world as the main speaker for the banquet and plans are being furthered to secure a state-wide broadcast, as well as over WSU.

The program has met with the approval of not only university authorities and students but also Iowa City merchants and officials of other Big Ten schools.

Hundreds of Iowa Teachers Will Attend Conferences Today

S.U.I. Campus Is Setting For 3 Conventions

Day to Be Highlighted With Speeches By Noted Speakers

Today and tomorrow are conference days at the University of Iowa. Hundreds of Iowa teachers—in history and social studies, graphic and plastic arts, and engineers and plant managers will meet at their respective conventions.

Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth, president of Gilbreth, Inc., Montclair, N. J., a noted authority on management, will be the principal speaker at the engineering management conference, which meets for one day only.

The 18th annual two-day conference of the teachers of history and the social studies will open today with addresses by University of Iowa faculty members and several visiting professors. Among them will be Edward S. Corvin, professor of politics at Princeton university, who will talk tonight at 8 o'clock in Old Capitol on "The Adaptation of the Constitution by Interpretation."

Gifford Beal, prominent New York artist, will talk and give art demonstrations before art teachers and supervisors at their conference which continues tomorrow. Today will also mark the formal opening of the annual high school art exhibition which will be on display until April 18.

Beal Canvases Shown Here

The fine arts building will be the meeting place for hundreds of Iowa art instructors, supervisors, and school officials attending the graphic and plastic arts conference and the high school exhibition opening today.

Two nationally known artists, Gifford Beal of New York and Arthur Lismer of Toronto, Canada, arrived yesterday in advance of their appearances at the conference; they visited classes in the art department and gave criticism to students.

Mr. Beal will appear on the conference program tonight at 8 o'clock in the auditorium with a talk and demonstration on the "Steps in Producing a Painting."

Mr. Beal, a member of many important professional organizations, has painted a variety of subjects. Some of his canvases show the vigorous life of the fishermen and laborers along the shore; others show the gaiety and movement of the circus, the stage, and the race track.

He has recorded industrial scenes and railroad yards, crowds of strikers and tragedies at sea. Nineteen of these unusual canvases by Mr. Beal are now on exhibition in the auditorium. The artist will refer to many of the compositions in his performance this evening.

Engineers to Open Conference Today

More than 200 engineers will attend the management conference here today sponsored by the college of engineering, the tri-cities section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the Iowa Manufacturers Association and the Society for the Advancement of Management. Plant managers, supervisors, foremen, industrial engineers and all those interested in better management in industry will come from six different states to participate.

JIM WENT TO THE CELLAR

Last night Jim, our next-door neighbor, went to the cellar and looked over his last year's porch furniture. His appraising eye saw all the scratches and wear given the chairs last year by his three growing boys.

Jim decided that he needed some paint and a new brush; and planned to take that furniture out in the back yard next Saturday afternoon for the annual cleaning-up process.

Curious, but men all over the country are now thinking of paint, and seeds, and outdoor games. And—a new hat, a new suit and some new shirts.

And maybe the women don't feel the urge to buy new things!

And why shouldn't they? Why be content with old things when there is money for new? Merchants are offering the latest goods of all sorts in the advertisements in this newspaper. Go to them as you would to old friends. You can rely upon their descriptions of every article.

Will Appeal Gaffney's School Decision to State Supreme Court

Decision--

in the case. However, the court in other divisions of this decision has adjudicated all pertinent matters in the case."

In considering the validity of the real estate purchases by the board the judge held they were only a collateral to the injunction proceedings, and the attack upon them failed because such a proceeding is not permissible.

The judge interpreted the code section which limits the area a school may take and hold for a school house site to two blocks, and not exceeding five acres for a school playground, to limit the authority of the board only in the condemnation of land for school purposes. His ruling reads:

"The legislature, when it did not limit the area to be acquired by purchase or gift, had a right to assume that members of school boards were wise, prudent and reasonable minded men, and would acquire only such an area of lands as are reasonably necessary for the needs of the district."

Interprets Law

"Assuming that the legislative intent was to limit the area purchased by school boards under section 4361, the school board would still be permitted legally to hold out of 291 acres, the equivalent area of two blocks, exclusive of the street or highway, for a school house site, and not exceeding five acres for a school playground. The plaintiff, having failed to furnish the court with evidence as to the area of two blocks to be applied in this case, the court would be helpless to ascertain and designate the area which should be used by the board."

Judge Gaffney ruled that the school board had proven Smith was guilty of laches, failure to make objections within a prescribed time limit, when he failed to complain of the board's purchases in 1931, 1935 and 1936.

Constructive Notice

The judge held that Smith had received constructive notice of the board's purchases and the special elections to vote bonds for the school board, but stood by and allowed the board to become obligated for $22,000 work upon the building before making a complaint. The judge said:

"Smith could have acted at any time since 1931 and received an adequate remedy. The plaintiff has not acted in the premises with reasonable promptness. He now asks a court of equity to halt the entire project at great loss of money without pleading and proving one legal reason which would justify granting any such relief."

The interests of justice and equity clearly demand a defeat of the plaintiff's relief on the ground of laches. He has failed to plead and prove irreparable injury should the court refuse to grant the relief sought, and the defendants have pleaded and proven irreparable injury if the prayer of the plaintiff's petition were granted."

Conclusion

Judge Gaffney declared that no other political unit in our scheme of government has been given such constitutional and legislative grace as the school corporations. His conclusion says:

"The powers conferred for the management and control of school corporations are plenary and unlimited and rest exclusively in the people themselves in their capacity as electors."

"These powers conferred as they are in the electorate, cause a court of equity to hesitate before exercising its extraordinary powers of injunction to control the administration of school affairs, especially in the absence of a clear showing of fraud or other flagrant wrong."

The judge deplored the lack of interest of the voters. He said:

"There are approximately 8,000 electors in this school corporation, and less than 40 per cent exercised their right of franchise at the special election which authorized a bond issue of great amount, the payment of which will be a powerful burden for many years to come."

"Let the 'charity of my silence' not castigate some 5,000 electors, except to remind them that dictators are the spawn of the lethargy of the people, themselves, in failing to safeguard their rights and liberties."

The order included in the decree dismissed the plaintiff's petition at the plaintiff's cost and denied any relief asked by Smith.

Blum--

the right to decree all steps "judged indispensable to meet the necessities of national defense, protect the holding of the bank of France and rehabilitate the nation's finances and economies."

A flat senate rejection of Blum's bill, at least in its present form, was expected tomorrow.

Although most observers believed he then would resign, the premier had several possible courses open.

He can attempt a compromise. Since the only possible compromise would consist of renouncing blanket financial powers, this course is considered hardly probable.

He can accept senate rejection and take the bill again to the chamber of deputies, hoping a second favorable vote might force the senators to change their minds. The small majority which the measure received yesterday however probably would rule out such a course for it is possible the chamber would refuse to pass the bill a second time.

He can ignore rejection by the senate and draw up a new bill for submission to parliament.

He can resign immediately after the senate vote, although he was not expected to make passage of the bill a question of confidence in his government. This conforms to his reiterated statements the senate should not be given the right officially to vote a cabinet from office.

Occupation strikes meanwhile increased hourly. Twenty-nine metallurgical factories were occupied at the end of the day by more than 5,000 sitdown workers, most of whom demand new collective contracts.

Clarence Day Says That Major Accidents Caused by Drivers' Carelessness and Incompetency

Motorists Must Make Driving a Full-Time Job'

"The major causes of accidents are outright carelessness on the part of drivers," declared Sergt. Clarence B. Day, head of the Cedar Rapids highway patrol station, at the seventh session of the Iowa City traffic school in the city council chambers last night.

Day outlined kinds of carelessness as failure to take driving seriously, driving cars in poor condition, taking chances in passing, and failure to use signals.

Nearly 80 per cent of all traffic deaths, the patrolman said, occur on straight stretches of road.

"Too many people forget all about fair play when they get behind the wheel of the car. They do everything wrong," he said.

Fatalities

He drew a comparison between the fatalities in war and on the highway and said there were more deaths in the last 18 months on highways than in an 18-month period of the World war.

"The responsibility belongs to everyone and until every citizen pledges allegiance, we cannot reduce the present fatality rate," he said.

Traffic laws covering parking, stopping and passing were outlined by Police Judge Burke Carson.

Staten Browning, editor of The Daily Iowan, will be in charge of the discussion on "Accidents Between Intersections" at the eighth session next Thursday night in the city council chambers.

We are all thankful that this weather, which we really subconsciously knew was due us, came this week—almost surely now—it will be a pure and bright EASTER WEEK.

If we can not give service to each one Friday and Saturday, we will carry these bargains over for Monday. But, of course, first come—first choice.

Plane Traffic Closely Guided

Fred B. Flocken Tells University Club Of Air Regulation

"More rules are made as the air traffic gets thicker," Fred B. Flocken, chief weather observer at the municipal airport, told members of the University club at their meeting in the Iowa Union clubrooms yesterday.

"Private pilots are not allowed to land on a controlled airport except under minimum weather conditions established by the department of commerce," he said. He justified the rule by saying that it was made to avoid accidents and prevent interference with regular transport plane operations.

Another rule which he listed was that planes flying east through here must fly at the altitude of even 1,000-feet levels, and those going west, at the odd 1,000-foot levels, with a 1,000-foot clearance between the shifts.

Mr. Flocken said that the old theory for obtaining weather reports through high and low pressure areas is being discarded for a new method, frontal forecasting. There are two fronts, warm and cold, he explained, and as the warm air collides with the cold, "we have weather." Whether the cold or the warm is predominant determines the kind of weather, he said.

An explanation of the weather reports was given by Mr. Flocken. Ceiling is given first. The pilot wants to know how high he can fly and still see the ground, the weather observer said. One way of measuring the ceiling is with a balloon filled with hydrogen, which rises at the rate of 400 feet a minute, he said. The period during which the balloon is visible is timed, and the ceiling thus computed, the club members were told.

There are stations throughout the country that send up an airplane every morning, and the pilot tabulates the temperature, humidity and pressure. A device has been invented which, equipped with a parachute and attached to a balloon, gets the data as the balloon ascends and broadcasts it through a receiving set on the ground, Mr. Flocken said.

Iowa City Digs Itself Out of Worst Sleet Storm in 15 Years

Iowa City Starts Cleaning Up After Worst Storm in 15 Years

Trees, Telephone Poles, And Wires Strewn In City Streets

Iowa Cityans yesterday buttoned up their overcoats against raw winds and near freezing temperatures and began digging out from under the debris left in the wake of the worst sleet storm in the last 15 years.

As other sections of Iowa reported heavy snows and devastating sleet, isolated towns and cities, and treacherous highways, local citizens surveyed streets littered with whole trees, limbs and branches, broken wires dangling from electric and telephone poles, and other poles snapped off or lying prone with thousands of dollars of damage to trees and utility lines and equipment.

Temporary Lines

Main electric lines and most of the secondary lines have been put into temporary condition for use, Roscoe E. Taylor, general manager of the Iowa City Light and Power company, said last night. About 500 individual service lines are still out of order, which will require considerable time to fix.

Thirty men under the direction of 12 linemen are making repairs as rapidly as possible, working late into the night. A few farm lines are in service, but most of the rural lines will need important repairs.

Falling limbs yesterday afternoon were still causing interruptions of service, especially in Corrville, where comparatively little trouble was experienced during the actual storm. Taylor estimated it would take two months to repair all the damage of the storm.

About 20 per cent of the damage to the local telephone system was repaired last night, according to M. R. Petersen, manager of the local telephone exchange. About 250 phones are still out of order, he said, but will be back into service by tonight.

Telephone crews are reestablishing toll line service in all directions, but the line to Solon is the only one now in operation. Emergency crews of men, equipment and trucks were expected last night from St. Paul to reinforce the local crews. They will be put to work on toll lines out of Iowa City.

Extra Men

Forty-seven extra men were employed by the city street department to aid the regular 20 employees in clearing the streets of debris. By tonight Fred Gartzke, superintendent of streets, expects the streets to be well cleared.

The small branches and rubbish are being hauled to the city dump to be burned. The larger limbs and trees will be taken to the county yard where they will be sawed into firewood for the disposal of the social service workers.

Today the street men will be gin trimming trees of the hanging branches and limbs. The damage to trees was so widespread that this job will take some time.

Power was restored to the municipal airport at 7 p.m. yesterday, following a lapse of 36 hours. Teletype service of the air lines and the weather bureau was put back into service at the same time, and the first weather reports since Wednesday morning came over the wires. Plane service to Iowa City was resumed with the arrival of the regular westbound plane at 9:50 p.m. last night.

Highways Open

All main county highways are open to traffic except highway "F" southeast of Solon, reports R. H. Justen, county engineer.

All the county highway employees, numbering 50 to 60, were taken from their regular duties and placed at clearing the highways.

Some of the local roads are still closed, since they were too muddy to carry trucks. The coating of ice on county highways was not dangerous and is practically all gone. Trees, branches and power and phone poles barred highways generally over the county.

No Interference

Rock Island railway officials reported no interference with train schedules and bus lines were running on schedule by noon yesterday. Transcontinental buses are running late because of snow in the neighborhood of Sterling, Ill., and Chicago.

Main highways were reported in condition for travel.

Wintery blasts and freezing temperatures still held Iowa City in their blast last night. Maximum temperature reading was 35 degrees, 21 degrees below normal for the day, and the mercury dropped to a low of 27.

The snow and sleet storm accounted for a total of 1.64 inches of precipitation, with .16 of an inch of it during the past 24 hours.

This heavy moisture fall brought total rainfall since the first of the year to 7.88 inches, 2.46 inches more than normally falls during this period.

AROUND THE TOWN

With

Pep

They're saying tonight's Pep Jamboree will be the best party of the year. Art Kassel had a sell-out at Northwestern recently, and it looks like there'll be another one tonight.

Publicity

Publicity men are working full speed to advertise the New York World's Fair... to be held in 1939.

We've laughed somewhat when the state of New York consented to place an inch-high line of advertising on all their license plates.

We laughed a bit louder when several residents there placed adhesive tape over the blurb—or attached more ads to their plates. They were fined, of course.

But, now look what they've done! They've coerced the New York Giants and the New York Yankees — two top-notch ball clubs, to sail onto the diamond this season, wearing of all things, blue and orange badges... advertising the fair!

How'd you like to see Iowa athletic teams going around carrying advertisements for the new fair or the centennial celebration?

It can't happen here, of course, but who would have believed the proud New York ball clubs would have to?

Legal Coincidence?

Shrewd observers have noticed that Judge James P. Gaffney rendered his important school decision when the state supreme court was in Iowa City...

Electricity

Greatest danger facing Iowa City after the sleet storm was the live wires, ripped from poles, lying on the ground...

Miraculously, not an accident occurred. Thanks, then, to bystanders and repairmen who notified the power company of the danger.

Take the case of 13-year-old Isaac Seal, an eighth-grade school boy who saw a "hot wire" shooting blue sparks when it contacted the interurban tracks near the Law commons...

It was nearly time for the first train to leave, so he ran for a phone and notified the depot.

Fortunately, there were no trains scheduled... More than 150 poles had blocked the tracks.

The young newspaper carrier had the right idea, though...

Safety first...

Work on New School Delayed

Board Awaits Approval Of PWA Officials At Omaha

Progress toward construction of Iowa City's new $725,000 school building is now at a standstill, awaiting final approval of plans from PWA officials at Omaha, Charles S. Galher, secretary of the school board, said yesterday.

Changes in the plans in accordance with PWA recommendations have been made by the architect. Official approval is merely a matter of routine checking.

It is expected the plans will be received in Iowa City within a few days and advertising of the specifications for bids will then be made. It is planned to receive bids on April 30, but this date will be changed unless the plans arrive shortly.
