General Franco Unites Forces For 2 Drives

Barcelona and Tortosa Await Offensives Of Insurgents

HENDAYE, France (At the Spanish Frontier), April 16 (AP)—Spanish insurgents today opened a fresh offensive east of Balaguer, in the center of the long, curving Catalonian front, to crush the outlying defenses of Barcelona.

Aragon troops under the insurgent red and gold started their forward drive some 70 miles west northwest of Barcelona with the objective of meeting other insurgent forces marching slowly on Tortosa and widening the breach in government territory.

Split Yesterday

Government Spain was cut in two yesterday and forces which had speared eastward to the coast turned to the north for assault on Tortosa, 95 miles southwest of Barcelona.

Insurgent dispatches said the Aragon troops suddenly returned to offensive warfare after resisting a series of government assaults lasting more than 75 hours.

Line Shattered

The immediate result of the new drive, these advisers said, was the shattering of the government line in several places, although the exact location of the operations was not given.

One report declared the government troops were "forced to retire from their field base," leaving behind a large number of dead. Two large munition depots were said to have been taken.

Observers said the strategy of the new central drive was to strike quickly before government commanders could reinforce their tired warriors who had been struggling day and night to maintain the western Catalonian defense line.

Front Lines

This front roughly runs south from Camaras, some 20 miles northwest of Lerida, past Balaguer and Vallfogona to Borjas Blancas, 14 miles southeast of Lerida.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco was expected to couple another offensive with the Balaguer drive, this one from Lerida to the general operations along the Lerida-Barcelona road with the advance from the south against Tortosa.

Mrs. Hortense Heuring Speaks To Association on Education

Declares There Is Need Of More Soul In Teaching

Mrs. Hortense Heuring, a South Bend, Ind., Latin teacher, talked to the Classical Association of the midwest and south on what she considered the most crying need, not only of Latin teaching, but of all education today—the need of more soul in teaching.

In her speech, "A Teacher—A Human," she said, "So many teachers are merely imparting knowledge and don't give of themselves."
"Pupils of high school age are coming to us from homes that are often drab and dismal, where parents are often neither kind nor understanding. Many are walking long distances, wearing insufficient clothing, swallowing pride numberless times when in the presence of more fortunate fellows. Some come to their classes with hungry hearts as well as hungry bodies crying for bread. Yet we give them stone."

"How, then can we expect to sell our Latin to boys and girls when we approach them with stern, sour countenances?"

Mrs. Heuring was the first of four speakers on the program yesterday morning. The other speakers were Edgar A. Menk, Ball State Teachers college. "How Can We Keep Latin in the Curriculum"; Clara Berdan, Albert Lea high school, Albert Lea, Minn., "Latin for the Pupil, not the Pupil" (See SPEAKER, page 7).

Italy, Great Britain Sign Pact Patching Up Differences

Rumanian Officials Discover Munitions in Pro-Nazi Plot; May Give Death to Hundreds

Rain Goes And Sun Will Shine For Easter

DES MOINES, April 16 (AP)—Soaking rains in the last 48 hours greatly enhanced prospects of paying for the spring finery which Iowa farm wives and daughters planned to don tomorrow for the Easter parade.

Most encouraging factor of all to agricultural observers was the heavy rains in southwest Iowa, where the drought had been most persistent. Many areas reported the moisture situation is the best since 1934.

The showers continued this evening, but the weather bureau forecast sunshine for all Iowa tomorrow.

Earthquake Felt

EL CENTRO, Cal. (AP)—A slight earthquake of three minutes duration was recorded here last night. No damage was reported.

EASTER CLASH

Jews and Arabs Riot In Holy Land

JERUSALEM, April 16 (AP)—A wave of terrorism resulted in at least 19 deaths today as the Holy Land prepared for Easter.

British authorities said 16 Arabs were killed in a battle between Arab terrorists and British troops after three Jews had been slain in an ambush at Bassa.

Arab sources said 20 Arabs were killed.
The clash between the terrorists and troops occurred at Jenin, ending when the Arabs fled southward toward Transjordan. The troops were aided by armored cars and airplanes.

Center Point Sitdown Strike Ends; Board Meets Demands

CENTER POINT, Ia., April 16 (AP)—The sitdown strike in the Center Point high school ended at 4 p.m. today when the school board agreed to meet every demand of the students. The settlement was reached at a joint meeting of five strikers, five parents and five members of the board.

According to terms of the statement, accepted by all parties, Principal and Coach Alfred Pierce and Supt. F. L. Wagner, central

Papers Warn Members To Prepare March On Bucharest

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 17 (Sunday) (AP)—The ministry of the interior today announced the discovery of a nationwide plot against the government, by the nazi-inclined iron guard political organization.

The ministry said that in a surprise police search which continued throughout the night, arms and munitions depots were found in homes of the lieutenants of Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, party leader.

It also announces discovery of documents in which it was said Codreanu ordered party members to "arm so as to be ready to march toward Bucharest and to create a Rumania of the iron guard legionnaires."

Police were said to have arrested hundreds of Codreanu's sub-leaders, but it was not stated whether the chief of the pro-Nazi party was among them.

Under the new Rumanian constitution, the death penalty may be instituted against offenders of the law which prohibits possession of arms and revolutionary propaganda against a government.

(The intensely anti-Semitic iron guard was outlawed early in 1937. Codreanu then organized a political and social movement known as "all for fatherland" to support it. In the December, 1937, parliamentary elections, the organization received 28 per cent of the votes cast. On Feb. 21, after King Carol proclaimed the new Rumanian constitution, Codreanu agreed to dissolve the "all for fatherland" organization.)

Peaceful Gesture
PRAHA, Czechoslovakia (AP)—President Eduard Benes yesterday held out the hand of reconciliation to Germany and the 3,500,000 Germans within Czechoslovakia's borders.

No special Easter services are planned at the prison, although both men, and their death row "buddy," Walter Rhodes, will probably attend devotions in the penitentiary chapel.

The day will be spent in visits with relatives, both men being allowed a final farewell.

The final work on the double gallows—a knock-down affair kept from one execution to another—was completed today.

Prison officials announced the only change in the execution routine will occur when the condemned are "dressed out" in civilian clothes in a room near their own death cells, instead of in the deputy warden's office as in the past. The change was made at the request of the prisoners.

Penitentes End Bloody Holy Week Rites

New Mexican Fanaticists Guard Self-Torture Secrets From the Curious

SANTA FE, N. M., April 16 (AP)—Deep in the mountains of northern New Mexico tonight the approaching Easter Sunday brought to a close the bloody, exalted rites of the Penitentes.

Protected by guards armed with rocks—rifles in some instances—the "brothers of the blood of Christ" concluded a holy week of self-torture in expiation of their sins, ritualists in a fanatic cult born in the Spanish conquest of the Americas.

Few of the curious were able to witness the rites of flagellation, the crucifixion, the thud of Yucca whips on bare flesh, or the agonizing journey of Los Penitentes to "El Calvario."

A lay order of Catholicism not recognized by the mother church, Penitente rites of Easter holy week are practiced most at night. The curious are belligerently driven away.

This week, however, the "procession of blood" was viewed by some in the north Rio Grande Spanish American Moradas (churches), where a full moon silhouetted the flagellants lashing their bare backs.

Few saw the crucifixion rites—and those who did guarded their identity against the wrath of the Penitente brothers.

F.B.I. Arrests Man Who Wrote Letter Asking $500 From Actress Sonja Henie

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—The justice department reported late today its agents had arrested a man who wrote an extortion letter to Sonja Henie, the movie star.

Officials said the letter was written by Fred Roger Cunningham, under the alias "Joe Cummings."

He demanded $500 from the skater, they said.

The letter was delivered along with Miss Henie's regular "fan mail" and was referred to the federal bureau of investigation.

"On April 16," the department's announcement said, "this individual was located by special agents of the federal bureau of investigation . . . and made a full confession with respect to this case in which he stated that he had written the extortion letter to Miss Sonja Henie and mailed it."

Japanese Threaten New Drive In Impenetrable Shantung Area

Easter Brings Death for Two One Day Closer

FT. MADISON, Ia., April 16 (AP)—Two men who have little more than 50 hours of life remaining looked out of their death row cells in the Iowa state penitentiary here tonight into a dismal spring rain.

Tomorrow most of the world will rejoice in the spirit of Easter, but to Franz Jacobsen and Marlo Heinz Easter Sunday will be just one more spent day—one of the two remaining to them.

Jacobsen, a Davenport and Ottumwa cook, and Heinz, formerly a Dubuque relief worker, are under sentence to die at 5:30 a.m. Tuesday on the prison's double gallows.

No special Easter services are planned at the prison, although both men, and their death row "buddy," Walter Rhodes, will probably attend devotions in the penitentiary chapel.

The day will be spent in visits with relatives, both men being allowed a final farewell.

Reinforcements Rushed To Former Scene Of Defeat

SHANGHAI, April 16 (AP)—Japanese gave new indications today that they now are ready for a tremendous new offensive in their stalemated Shantung drive.

One was a rigid censorship they clamped on all dispatches dealing with military and shipping activities on the north Shantung coast.

Another was the movement of reinforcements down the coast toward Taierchwang, where the Japanese suffered their most disastrous defeat of the nine months old war last week.

These troops were reported between Chuhshien and Jihca, 50 miles north of Lini on the south Shantung front, where the war has been bogged down for a month.

(These developments came as reports persisted in Tokyo that Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye was considering resigning because of a disagreement with army and navy officials over conduct of the war.)

Foreign military observers believe an elaborate demonstration of Japanese military strength should be given as the imperial army, blocked in its drive down the Tientsin-Pukow railway, pushes through eastern Shantung in new drive on battered Taierchwang.

To meet the new threat, Chinese are constructing strong defensive works along the Yi river on both sides of Lini and rushing their own reinforcements into this area.

Arrest Suspect Of Extortion In Kidnap Case

SALT LAKE CITY, April 16 (AP)—Secondo Frank Conti, charged with attempting to extort $25,000 from the family of Peter David Levine, 12, missing from New Rochelle, N. Y., boy, pleaded innocent today when arraigned before a United States commissioner.

The 48-year old Conti told Commissioner Edward D. Dunn he had read the complaint and wished to plead "not guilty as to this complaint puts it all on me."

En route to the commissioner's office Conti told newsmen he was "engineered into this thing by two other fellows."

"I don't know the men except by the names of Chuck and Jack," said Conti, a waiter employed here in a fashionable restaurant. "They called me from the east and claimed they knew all about it (the kidnaping). I only did what they asked me to do. I met them in Denver."

Hearing Wednesday
Bond was set at $5,000, which he was unable to furnish. His hearing was set for next Wednesday.

Conti was arrested in the business district here Friday afternoon, but announcement of his arrest was not made until today.

Daladier Looks To Cooperation With Italy and Great Britain

PARIS, April 16 (AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier today called a cabinet meeting for Wednesday to obtain final approval of his plan to rebuild France's international front by understandings with Italy and Great Britain.

The broad lines of his scheme were confirmed by authoritative spokesmen as:

1. Closer military and diplomatic cooperation with Britain, made possible by establishment of a stable French government and adoption of a conservative

Paves Way To Peace Lineup

Four or Five Power Agreement Now Possible

ROME, April 16 (AP)—Italy and Great Britain tonight signed an agreement which paved the way for a possible four or five-power peace lineup in Europe.

The accord patched up British and Italian African and Mediterranean quarrels which might have led to war during the last three years.

While it was hailed with satisfaction by Premier Benito Mussolini and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in an exchange of telegrams, Italy still must carry out the promise to withdraw her combatants from Spain, during or after the civil war, before it will become fully operative.

Points in the pact, formally signed in Chigi palace by Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano and the Earl of Perth, the British ambassador, included:

1. Withdrawal of all Italian fighters and war materials from Spain at the end of the civil war, if evacuation is not completed earlier.

2. Britain in return agreed to work through the League of Nations toward recognition of Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

3. Italy reassured Britain she not only held no territorial or political aims in Spain but also sought "no privileged economic position" in Spain or Spanish possessions.

4. Italy adhered to the 1936 London naval treaty among Great Britain, the United States and France.

5. Italy agreed to withdraw troops from Libya at the rate of at least 1,000 a week until the peace-time strength of possibly 30,000 men should be reached.

6. Both countries reaffirmed their Suez canal convention of 1888 which guarantees free use of the Suez canal at all times for all powers.

7. Italy reaffirmed guarantees (See PACT, page 7)

G. O. P. Plans Fight Against Pump Priming

Dissenting Democrats Refuse to Follow With Them

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—Republican leaders agreed today to carry a fight to the country against further huge "pump priming" expenditures by the federal government, but democratic critics of the president refused in the main to go along with them.

The Roosevelt opposition within the democratic party determined, however, to join in a vigorous effort to restrict the president's authority over his proposed $4,500,000,000 program of lending and spending to end the depression.

Some republicans said they hoped this effort to "earmark" the purposes for which funds could be used would result in prolonged debate in congress, during which public opinion might register against increased federal spending.

Administration leaders predicted quick approval of the president's recommendations and went ahead with arrangements for committee hearings next week.

The republican national committee announced that John Hamilton, its chairman, would speak over a national (Columbia) radio network at 7 p.m. (CST), Sunday night. He will discuss the question, "Where Are We Bound?" Aides said it would be his first address over a national network since last November 5.

There was no advance indication as to what Hamilton might say, but reporters had no doubt about the probable trend of another address to be delivered by Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, a 1940 republican presidential possibility, over another (Mutual) network at 6 p.m. (CST), Sunday.

Prof. Haskell To Aid Board

DES MOINES, April 16 (AP)—Chairman W. F. Miller of the state board of social welfare announced today that G. D. Haskell of the State University of Iowa faculty would spend the summer months in research work for the board.

Miller pointed out that the original intent was to place the care of dependent children and emergency relief as well as old age assistance, child welfare and aid to the needy blind under supervision of the board.

The present setup, however, includes only the three departments. Haskell's studies would bring the information needed for administration of the enlarged activities, Miller said.

Miller also announced appointment of R. K. Ellis as head of the department of research and statistics. Ellis studied at University of Iowa and is now an instructor at Iowa Wesleyan college.

Claims Italians Shot Down 538 Airships

school that war—even a successful war—is not fun. Its people are patriotic, but they've had enough. America learned the same lesson 20 years ago. If her memory is good and if she has learned as well the good old platitude of profiting from the experience of others, she won't have to be taught again.

Make Way For Baseball

NATIONAL EVENTS are side-tracked. Nothing is important but baseball and every American, from President Roosevelt on down, drops his work to be on hand for the first pitch of the major league season.

Yesterday they were all startled by the news that the great Dizzy Dean had been traded to the Chicago Cubs. This event alone was sufficient to put every fan on his toes, not counting all the long winter trading activity and the spring grapefruit league games.

The Cubs have been entrenching for a neck and neck finish with the New York Giants. Now it appears that anything can happen in the National League.

The New York Yankees, proud world champions of baseball, were picked earlier to repeat with little difficulty, but they have yet to sign Joe DiMaggio and their spring training record is anything but impressive. These facts indicate that the American league race is anything but a cut and dried affair.

While major league baseball is considered a profession and a serious business, it is not without its humor. The Brooklyn Dodgers are still in the National League. In fact, they have defeated the Yankees two days in a row. The Daffiness boys will be in for their share of the laughs along with Dizzy Dean and some of his ex-cubbies on the Cardinal roster.

Baseball undoubtedly has its attractions. It isn't the fastest game in the world, but its thrills lie in its uncertainty and color. A great team wins the pennant year after year, and then suddenly cracks from old age. A great new player like Bob Feller is uncovered. All this adds to our great national pastime and makes it the fascinating sport which it is.

CLIPPED from other COLUMNS

IF YOU DISAGREE, IT'S 'PROPAGANDA'

BY ITS very nature a newspaper office is destined to be a repository for propaganda of all kinds. Literally thousands of mimeographed information sheets, glossy folders, and "magazines with a purpose" tumble into editorial offices from literally hundreds of organizations.

The Spanish civil war has indirectly created propaganda groups that outdo all others in exuberance, in exaggeration, in telling how much horror the other side is responsible for, and so on.

Any editor so foolish as to swallow whole the claims made by such agencies, in behalf of either the Spanish loyalists or the rebels, would obviously be guilty of misrepresentation to his reading public. Occasionally creditable news reports justify the accusations of one side or the other—but not always by any means.

All of this needs to be kept in mind in connection with the statement by the Rev. Joseph B. Code, professor of history at the Catholic University of America, that millions of dollars are being spent—$13,000,000 was his figure—on swing American public opinion to the side of the communist-dominated Spanish leftist government.

It would be equally unfair to accuse the pro-Franco organizations and publications in this country of being subsidized by the fascist powers. There is, of course, the out and out propaganda magazine Spain, which extols the Franco cause, and there are others. But nobody challenges the sincerity of such long established journals as America and Commonwealth in their ardor for Franco's success.

It is the right of these magazines to have their own opinions about the merits of the Spanish war. It is also the right of others to have opposite opinions. The question naturally arises whether Father Code, if he were able to suppress these pro-Franco "propaganda" agencies, would be equally willing to suppress the vehemently pro-rebel journals. As for ourselves, whichever we consider "right," we should strenuously oppose the suppression of either.

—Des Moines Register

Washington World

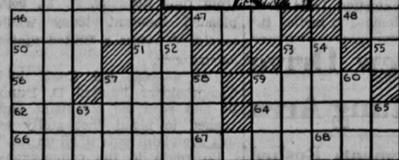

By CHARLES P. STEWART, Central Press Columnist. WASHINGTON, D. C. — The day after the house of representatives virtually chloroformed President Roosevelt's government reorganization plan the New York stock market reacted quite bullishly.

This optimistic tendency has not been well maintained, however. Even at first there seemed to be no particular reason for a favorable stock market response to the representatives' action on government reorganization. Some sorts of legislation can reasonably be expected to bear a relationship toward stock market prices, but not government reorganization legislation.

The short-lived New York market boomlet apparently was speculated on the ground that speculators saw, in the slapping down of the president on the reorganization issue, some promise of his subsequent slapping down on other issues.

But, at second thought, evidently they were not so sure, and the boomlet petered out pretty completely. Yawn Yawnson says the wolf has been at his door so long that the family has converted him into a first-class watchdog.

Tuning In with Betty Harpel

Bob Ripley had a terrible scare one Easter. He butted into a strange Easter celebration at Klona Macedonia. He had gone there to watch the mass marriages, by which all unmarried men in the village are annually required to take a bride.

The natives, learning he was single, tried to force him to take his pick of the village belles. He was in a tight spot until he remembered that the Greek Easter was celebrated later than the western church. His explanation that he had already observed Easter and could not do so again that year made possible his narrow escape from wedlock. He believes in staying at home on Easter now though.

Not Allergy but Primroses Cause of Woman's Eczema

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D. Modern science has put a number of instruments and methods of tremendous power and, hence, of tremendous danger, in the hands of the modern physician. It requires wisdom and common sense to manipulate all the ideas and methods which have accumulated. One of the diagnosticians in a great American clinic was telling me the other day a series of stories about how his department had to employ detective methods to straighten out some of the patients that came to him. Perhaps you would like to hear a few of the stories. A woman of 65, the wife of a banker in a large Pacific coast city, was brought to the clinic and supported into the diagnostician's room by her daughter. She was weak and emaciated, had lost over 30 pounds, and was completely discouraged. Her complaint had been simply that she had an eczema on the palm of her left hand. She had

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Writing a New York column can be so easy! Like today, for instance. There was a story under a Tokyo date line about Isoo Abe, elderly Japanese statesman who was set upon recently by three thugs. I happened to remember that his son-in-law, Dr. Roy Akagi, is advisor to the South Manchuria Railway in New York. He has an office at 62 East 42nd street, just a few blocks away.

So an interview was arranged. For dinner. At one of the hotels. And it wasn't long before your correspondent and this Japanese scholar who has had 30 years in America and has gone through four American universities were deep in discussion about his father-in-law and a subject that is close to millions of Americans, Baseball! For Isoo Abe is the father of baseball in Japan.

He introduced it to the millions of Japanese who play it today on corner lots and well-ordered playgrounds just as millions of American kids play it in Texas and Utah and Georgia.

From 7 o'clock till 20 minutes of midnight your correspondent plied Dr. Akagi with questions about Japanese expansion, his own career, the undeclared Chinese war, the feeling among the rank and file of Japanese concerning America, and vice versa. And this man who has made 650 speeches in three years, who has written books and been a professor at Columbia university, replied:

"When the west, at the point of guns, opened Japan's eyes to the advantages of trade and commerce with foreign powers Japan realized that education was essential to the development of any intelligent people. And so today 99.7 of the children of school age in Japan are actually in school. We think education is the finest cure in the world for economic and social ills.

"As for China, Japan desires only to protect her interests there. The United States has only 2 per cent of her foreign investments in China. But Japan has nearly 92 per cent of her investments in China. We could lose 2 per cent and not feel it, as the United States could but we could not lose 82 per cent of our investments without suffering a paralyzing blow. That is why armed authority is necessary—to protect Japanese investments. When the day comes that China becomes an organized, intelligently governed nation the need for armed authority by any power with interests in China shall have passed away."

Two Orders of Easter Eggs, Please

The Easter bunny had to leave a double order at the home of Prof. and Mrs. Addison Aspach, Coralville, and the weather offers him no excuse. The twins aren't letting rain or clouds scare them indoors until they've pounced upon every hidden egg. Jane and Elizabeth are fashion-wise, as all womankind at Easter, in their blue play suits and red and white checked shirts. But

TIPS ON MAKEUP

Right Compact Solves The Problem

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer
If you select the right compact, half of your makeup problems will be solved.

Among the strikingly-designed new Easter compacts, you can easily find one suited to your needs. But give them a thorough looking-over before you buy and keep in mind these points:

Is it a loose or cake powder compact? Most women prefer the former because they can put Iowa avenue, will spend Easter as guests of Mr. Tiffany's mother, Mrs. Mable Tiffany in Cedar Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cooley, 528 S. Dubuque street, are spending the week end in Waterloo with their son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Lu-Verne Cooley.

Martha Spivey, 321 S. Johnson street, will visit today with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Spivey at Collins.

Marilyn Leighton, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Isaac Leighton, 947 Iowa avenue, is spending the holidays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Donely and their family in Scotland, S. D. She will return home tomorrow night.

their own favorite shade and brand of powder into it. Then they won't start out for the day, wearing one shade of powder, and come home spotted with another.

How large is it? It should be large enough to contain a sizeable powder puff. But it shouldn't be bulky. Incidentally, fluffy, feathery puffs are much more popular than others. They must be replaced more often, however, since they break off easily.

If it's a loose powder compact does it have (1) a sifter or (2) a compartment for the powder? Sifter compacts are generally of lighter weight than those with a compartment for the powder. But the latter have two advantages. They don't require much repacking. (Sifters break easily.) And they generally hold much more powder. The compartment should be outlined in a soft material of some kind—to keep the powder from slipping out of it.

Does the compact contain rouge and lipstick in addition to the powder?

Compacts containing all three are often impractical. The shades are likely to be wrong simply because the salesgirl doesn't make the necessary changes—or doesn't have the necessary variety of supplies to do so. Then the quantity of each cosmetic is apt to be so limited that frequent refills will be necessary.

Compacts containing powder and rouge are more practical. But be sure the rouge is in an entirely separate compartment from the powder.

Flotilla of Fashions for Easter

Short Skirts, Trim Silhouettes Combine to Set Stamp of Smartness

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Fashion Editor

A flotilla of new fashions, sprightly and feminine, will move down American thoroughfares in the Easter parade of 1938.

Short skirts, trim silhouettes, flowered hats and colorful accents will combine to set the stamp of smartness on the costumes of thousands of women.

Because this is a "season of suits" many chic Americans will step out in one of these. A number will have fitted tailored jackets, a shade longer than last year. Some will appear with straighter collarless jackets, others with boleros. But virtually all will have short skirts—12 to 16 inches from the ground.

Their blouses will add more new notes in spring fashions. Soft shirtwaists of handkerchief linen, crisp white lingerie designs and big-sleeved Gibson Girl blouses of crepe will all be there.

Costs—Loose Or Snug

The coats which thousands of women will choose, because they give such all-around service, display new tricks in their designs. Many do not fasten at all, but swing comparatively straight from the shoulder in a smart boxed line; others fit snugly at the waistline with a trim belt.

Redingotes and reapers promise to receive the highest Easter costume vote, though a number of newer designs with softly bloused tops and pleated skirts will be seen in the Easter parade. Hundreds will have no collars at all and will be worn with light contrasting scarfs tucked in smoothly at their "vee" necklines.

Two-piece dresses with tunic tops and pleated skirts, bloused

Gibson Girl dresses, jacket frocks and simple afternoon dresses with softly draped bodies and short sleeves will be worn under the Easter coats. Crepes—flower-printed, polka-dotted or peppered with small light patterns—will make most of them.

Colors—Black, Blue
Black and navy blue (the perennial spring favorite) are outstanding costume colors, while gray, beige and brown (a dark horse) are also scheduled for popularity. White, yellow, copper and corn-flower blue will be used as color accents.

The new 1938 accessories will make this year's Easter Parade one of the most colorful of the past decade. Easter bonnets in a variety of designs such as wide-brimmed sailors, up-rolling Bretons, pillboxes, toques and plateaux will be worn with veils and trimmed with gay flowers.

Lapels and revers will be brightened with a jeweled or floral accent such as a gem-studded silver lyre, a gold heart with two "bleeding" ruby drops, a spray of mimosa or a spicy white carnation.

White or colored doekin gloves in such tones as yellow, copper and cornflower blue will reflect the shade of some other accessory.

Big, roomy, top-handled bags of pigskin, alligator and calfskin in the new accessory shades, and slim opera pumps, will complete the accessory picture.

Furs will add a final luxury note to the colorful parade. New fox jackets with round collarless necklines and twin silver fox scarfs will top many a smart suit or frock if the day is cool.

Bands to Give Benefit Ball

Nine Groups Will Play, Each for 1/2 Hour, Tomorrow

Nine bands will play, each for half an hour at a time, at the Musicians' Benefit ball in the Varsity ballroom tomorrow from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. It will be Iowa Citizens' first chance to dance at one party to the music of each of the local bands.

The bands, listed in the order in which they will play, are Dusty Keaton, Bill Meardon, Vette Kell, Felix Muller, Wayne Putnam, the Avalon, Len Carroll, Bobby Williams and Johnny Ruby.

A clown parade, wending through the business district beginning at 2 p.m. tomorrow, will advertise the dance. Members of the musicians' protective union, local unit no. 45 of the American Federation of Musicians, will be in the parade.

The proceeds from the party will be used as a musicians' sick and death benefit fund. The committee members in charge are John Lindorfer, Eddie Bryan, Bill Bachman and Fred Cooley.

Guests Travel During Dinner

A group of young Iowa Citizens celebrated the holidays with a progressive dinner party last night. They started from Marjory Sidwell's home, 223 Melrose avenue, and ended the evening with dessert and dancing at the home of Betty and Bob Townner, 200 S. Summit street.

During the evening they visited Grace Jean Hicks, 807-Rider street, and Terry Ann Tester, 228 Wolfe avenue, who was assisted in entertaining the guests by Dorothy Wallace, 810 N. Johnson street.

Guests at the dinner were the Towners, Miss Hicks, Miss Tester, Miss Wallace, Miss Sidwell, Patricia O'Brien, Bob Leighton, Bob Merriam, Dick Smith and Kay Rummels.

Jap Army Exercises Caution To Conceal War Experiences

Returned Soldiers Tell No Information Of Reverses

By RELMAN MORIN

TOKYO—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—The Japanese army, for reasons unstated, is exercising extreme caution to prevent returned soldiers from talking about their experiences in China.

It is reported that the men have come back much chastened and a little uncertain about the glories of war.

But owing to the military secrets protection law, plus certain less formal restrictions, they are not openly discussing their sentiments. Certainly no information about reverses, defeats, blunders or unusual casualties has passed the lips of any returned men.

Military hospitals, where the wounded lie are not exactly closed.

All you have to do to get in is to write applications to the war office, the medical affairs board and to the particular hospital you want to visit. You state your nationality and your reason.

Nationality is very important. German and Italian groups—large groups—have been passed through smoothly. Apparently, this is one of the advantages of subscribing to the anti-comintern pact.

Then you have to wait 10 days. The war office replies that you have its permission. The medical affairs board also answers affirmatively but requests notification of the specific day and hour of the visit.

Finally the commandant of the hospital informs you he will be happy to receive you at that time. Of course, you can't go into a ward to talk with the patients.

But you can sit in the commandant's office, chatting with him about this spring's cherry blossoms to your heart's content.

The restrictions are almost as tight for the Japanese themselves.

The BOOK PARADE

Present-Day Realism in Art Springs From Impressionists

Uhde's Preface Reveals Interesting Facts About Artists

"THE IMPRESSIONISTS" with 118 paintings by Manet, Pissarro, Sisley, Monet, Renoir, Gauguin, Degas and Toulouse-Lautrec. (Oxford University Press, New York, 1937, $3.)

Here in one big volume is a collection of the most representative and the finest works of the great progenitors of present-day realism in art. The impressionists were painters who reproduced momentary impressions of their subjects, rather than thorough character studies.

Nevertheless, there was no slapdash art. Some of their paintings are composed of the most intricate details imaginable. Others have an almost photographic quality. Altogether, the impressionist style was fresh and creative, and if the finished products were not always things of beauty, they were at least honest and intensely interesting.

The collection is prefaced with a painstaking and authoritative summation of the impressionist school by Wilhelm Uhde. Included in this introduction are biographical sketches of the artists and an analysis of their art. Here, for instance, the uninformed can learn intimate little anecdotes about the men.

Manet Colored Cheese

If you did not already know, you will be surprised to discover that Edouard Manet started out as a sailor and first exercised his artistic talent to restore a cargo of cheese that had lost its color in transit. Or that Edgar Degas, even when a lonely old man, refused to marry merely because he was afraid that someday his wife might say of one of his pictures: "What you've done there is really pretty."

Or that Paul Gauguin was a bank clerk who studied art on Sundays and who deserted his wife and family to run away to Tahiti. Or that Henri de Toulouse-Lautrec was so short that when he left his pencil in a cafe they called out after him that he had forgotten his walking stick.

They were interesting personalities, but it is their paintings that are the important part of the book.

Rivals Velazquez

There are 46 pictures of Parisian life by Manet—portraits rivaling Velazquez in color and tone, and landscapes that almost equal Corot in sweep and atmospheric truth. Included in the selection are such famous pieces as "The Picnic," "The Piper" and "The Balcony."

"Pissarro's closely observed landscape sections are represented by "Women Gathering Apples" and "The Avenue de l'Opera," among others. Sisley's specialty was river scenes, and included here are such typical works as "Seine Landscape" and "Floods at Port-Marly."

Claude Monet was the most consistent representative of impressionism, the leader of the school, and perhaps the greatest of the entire group. His technique combined logic and passion, and the values of feeling and expression superseded those of color and harmony in his work.

Among his paintings in this volume are "The Bridge Over the Seine at Argenteuil," "Rouen Cathedral," and "The Gare Saint-Lazare."

Cheerful and Sensual

Renoir was cheerful and sensual—he painted flowers, fruit and women, all with solid richness and voluptuous lines. Among his finer works that are included are "Rowers at Lunch" and "La Loge."

Enoch Arden Modern Version Given To Old Story

"CARDBOARD CASTLE" by Percival Christopher Wren. (Houghton Mifflin company, 1938, $2.)

"Cardboard Castle" is a modern Enoch Arden story with a locale of rural England.

Thought to be dead because of the circumstances surrounding his disappearance, "Enoch" returns 18 years later under an assumed name. Unlike his classical predecessor, however, this "Enoch" is no gentleman; he demands that his wife give him social and financial security in return for his secrecy.

Happily remarried with a 14-year-old son, Lady Calderton's castle is indeed turned to cardboard. And she is unable to rebuild without hurting the two men who mean happiness to her.

While not a gentleman, "Enoch" can scarcely be called a villain; he has the law with him and doesn't deliberately try to hurt his wife in his efforts to obtain self-security. So, while the effect on his wife is the same, there is a great psychological distinction which the author brings out in his very sophisticated method of developing the story.

The book is exceedingly well-written. With a meticulous choice of words, Mr. Wren differentiates nicely between the faults and the foibles of his characters, building up an atmosphere that makes the methods of pushing "Enoch" out of the picture seem natural enough.

Great American Novel Becomes Family Instead

"THE GREAT AMERICAN FAMILY" by Lee Shippey. (Houghton Mifflin company, 1938, $2.)

Greg Seymour and Sylvia, his wife, were globe-trotting free-lancers—not a care in the world and a cash surplus of $1,200.

The coming of the stork changed the surplus into a weather-beaten house on the brink of a California canyon. Four return trips caused the typewriter keys to click louder and longer to keep up with the louder and larger family of four boys and one girl.

There was no time to become a temperamental author. Necessity demanded quick money at the expense of fame. But children grew up and the paradox of life turned the planned great American novel into an unplanned great American family only to have the years and the children reverse the process.

When the high points of an active family are reduced to some dozen episodes, it is rather bewildering to reader who has never been a party to the humor and tragedy that make up family life. To him who has, this is an amusing and zestful tale that reflects credit on its author.

'War? When Is It Coming?' Ask The French

By ROY PORTER AP Foreign Service Writer

(This is the last of four articles telling what the "white collar man" abroad is thinking about these days.)

PARIS—The question in the minds of many Frenchmen today is: "When is war coming?" rather than: "Is war coming?"

A great many "white collar" workers believe it may be soon. Their predictions—tempered by the political views of the moment, the trend of international developments and the complexion of the government in power—range from months to years.

Talk of impending war has increased with France's attempt to speed up her armament program. It reached a high point during the tense moments following Hitler's recent speech before the Reichstag, nazification of Austria, and the resignation of former British foreign secretary Anthony Eden.

Frenchmen may talk excitedly of a new rise in the price of newspapers, income tax rates or the increased cost of living. The price of beans may be today's subject; it will be replaced tomorrow by an angry discussion of new subway rates. But underlying all subjects is war—its possibility and nearness.

War Sets Tempo. For example, take Raoul. He is a reserve officer, 38 years old, with a brilliant record in the "Blue Devils." He is also an earnest member of Col. Francois de la Rocque's French social party which he denies vehemently has any connection with European fascist movements.

Raoul is the Paris representative of an American company importing large quantities of silk. He earns better than an average salary and spends part of it for books and maps which he uses for military studies.

"Knows It's Coming." "We know the last war was not really 'a war to end wars,'" Raoul says. "We know that another war is coming. When it comes we want to be ready. We may argue and fight over politics during peace—I've been in several riots myself when communists tried to break up our meetings—but when the enemy is from outside our country, we'll stand together to defend France."

Politically opposite is Georges, 31 years old, an architect married to an American woman who came here to study. Georges is a socialist, an ardent supporter of Leon Blum and the People's Front government but radically opposed to the political opinions of his father, who is a leader of the communist party.

His views of war are fatalistic. He makes no predictions. Ask him to analyze the international situation and he will reply quietly: "We will fight when it is necessary."

But he has encouraged his wife to keep her American citizenship and has made plans to get her and their son out of Europe the moment hostilities begin.

Sees 'Devastating' Conflict. Frantz has still another viewpoint. He is 23, unmarried and devotes a large part of his time to sports.

The last seven years of Frantz's life have not been easy. His family, formerly wealthy, lost a great deal of money through business failures. Frantz, with an excellent classical education but entirely lacking in practical business experience, was forced to find a job. He worked hard and is achieving success.

But his principal worry is that his private business recovery may be interrupted by war. He talks little about internal politics. He belongs to no party.

"Financial insecurity—both of governments and of individuals—is one of the greatest obstacles to war today," Frantz says. "The armament race has cost millions and millions and the pace is getting faster and faster."

"The French government admittedly is in desperate need of funds. The public will undoubtedly subscribe to new national defense loans. But the chain must be broken some time and when the time comes—when the war machines of each nation are ready—the result will be the greatest and most devastating conflict the continent has ever known."

Ernest, a young lawyer and a reserve officer in the tank corps, begins his discussion of the possibility of war with a review of France's diplomatic alliances which he—like many others—believes should not be based on the principle that Germany is the French Republic's eternal enemy.

"France and Germany—together with England—could, if allied, exert a powerful influence in Europe which would preclude all thoughts of war in the near future," Ernest argues.

"I believe in the People's Front government but I also believe France is continuing to commit one of her gravest diplomatic mistakes when she holds to her alliance with Russia. That military assistance pact will, in my opinion, eventually turn out to be one of the motivating forces behind any war which may develop. The possibility of war under the present lineup of nations is granted in advance."

And, like the rest, Ernest himself formed the sentence which is being debated among those of his class today:

"The question now is not 'will there be war?' but rather, 'when is it coming?'"

Blond Austrian Alpine Lads Inspire New Easter Clothes for American Girls

Those blond Austrian mountain lads, who have made many an American girl's heart skip faster, have now inspired some of her new Easter clothes.

Lanz of Salzburg, who began his career as a designer of ski clothes in his native Austrian village, has launched his first American-made collection with togs influenced by the costumes of Tyrolean mountaineers and peasant girls.

The clothes have zip. Some of them are made of rustic linens and rayon suitings, others of cotton prints, whose light grounds are splashed with figures from the picturesque Austrian Tyrol. Among them are "beer wagon prints" patterned with mugs of foaming ale and pretzels and "Tyrolean siesta prints" strewn with cows, milkmaids and boys dozing in haystacks. There is also a "Hansel and Gretel print" brightened with the fairy tale children, gingerbread house and witch.

The rustic linens and rayon suitings in natural color, yellows, greens and blues, make smart clothes for young America to wear to school or to the country. They combine brief boleros with trim frocks, or with strap-top skirts and contrasting blouses. The tricks which accent them are as gay as a Tyrolean fair.

Shoulder straps with cross-pieces like a Tyrolean mountaineer's are made of bright gold braid. Seams are outlined in chains of felt flower appliques. Jackets are fastened with colored plastic flowers or silver buttons and the round felt hats which accompany them are much like an Austrian peasant's. Altogether they make a young and jaunty set of clothes.

Dirndl dresses, inspired by the trim-waisted, full-skirted frocks worn by the buxom Austrian peasant girls, are shown in great numbers. They are made of the gay cotton prints and stripes or of pillow case ticking. Their trim little bodices and square necks are edged with ric-rac braid or white dimity ruffling.

Casual evening frocks follow the same lines, except that their skirts touch the floor. These appear in bright wool challis and silk peppered with red roses, in white pique or printed cottons.

The bright cottons are used again in a series of beach costumes which combine a short, fitted coat (having the fitted body and full skirt of a dirndl) with a brassiere top and shorts made of the same material. Another beach outfit links a printed, short-sleeved shirt with shoulder-strap trousers of natural cotton gabardine cut like those of an Austrian mountaineer.

Reynolds and Bennett to Enter State Penitentiary Tomorrow

Philip S. Reynolds and Orren Bennett, captured Thursday in an attempt to rob the Standard Oil company bulk station, will be taken to Ft. Madison state penitentiary tomorrow to begin serving 25-year and five-year sentences respectively, Police Chief W. H. Bender said yesterday.

Bennett, who pleaded not guilty when arraigned Friday on a charge of robbery with aggravation, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault with intent to commit robbery yesterday morning.

Judge Harold D. Evans sentenced him to five years, the maximum sentence for that offense.

Reynolds pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery with aggravation Friday morning and was immediately given the maximum sentence, 25 years, by Judge Evans.

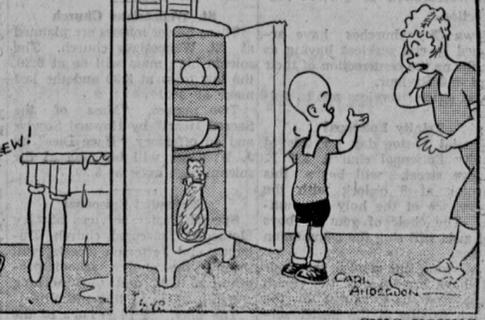

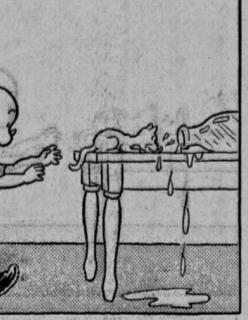

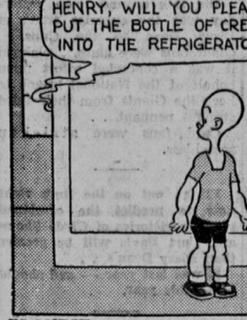

Illinois officials yesterday interviewed the two prisoners in an attempt to connect them with other robberies.

Reynolds was captured by Frank Sponar and Larry Delaney, Standard Oil company employees, who disarmed and severely beat him. Bennett was apprehended later in a stolen car waiting for his companion to return.

John Piper Possesses Iowa City's Only Little, Old-Fashioned Music Box

Music goes 'round and 'round—and it comes out of a 75-year-old music box, the only one of its kind in Iowa City.

John Piper has possession of this unique instrument, which is now quartered in the S.P.C.S. clubrooms.

So old is the music box that its history is vague. The first recorded owner was J. H. Lockwood of Chariton, who finally sold it a few years later to Dr. K. L. Stewart, also of Chariton. After years in his possession, Stewart gave it to Piper, his son-in-law, in 1926.

Piper displayed the music box for a time in both his candy and coffee shops as a novelty attraction, and then moved it to the club rooms, where it still engages the attention of everyone who hears it.

John Lindorfer and M. M. Huyet, owner of Huyet's Music store, supplied the details concerning the mechanism of the music box.

The music box, which is of nickelodeon type, has a character all its own. Even with its 20 inch disc giving amplification, the box emits beautiful, mellow tones, similar to those heard from cigaret or powder puff music boxes.

The cabinet is five feet eight inches high and two and one-half feet wide. It is divided into two compartments—one for the records and the other for the box itself. The disc, pitted through with a series of holes, is placed on a center screw and is clamped down with a horizontal bar.

Four wheels are set along the bar in order to add weight to catch the pithels on the tune wheel prongs beneath. A turnwheel, with prongs controlled by power from a crank, catch outside holes next to two guide rollers and revolve the disc.

The music is produced, strangely enough, by steel prongs—each prong tuned for its individual note.

"The pithchel points protrude down, and as the disc changes shape," explained Huyet, "the pithchels catch a tooth of a steel

AROUND THE TOWN

With TOM JOHNSON

You Can't Beat It!
Big talk around town yesterday was the surprise trade of Dizzy Dean to the Cubs. . . Giant fans were glum. . . claimed it was a concerted effort upon behalf of the National league to keep the Giants from their third straight pennant. . . Card fans were stricken speechless.

I'll go out on the limb right now to predict the combined pitching victories of Clyde Shoun and Curt Davis will be greater than Dizzy Dean's. . . It was last year — and should be so this year.

And, a personal plea to Dizzy Dean, "Don't flop with the Cubs — as those other stars, Chuck Klein and Curt Davis, did when they were traded."

You just can't get away with it. A baseball headline creates as much talk and thought as any other. . . Usually, more so. Hitler, Japan, Italy. . . all are having their last fling — until September, at least — at the headlines. . . From now on in, it'll be baseball. . . and maybe most American's won't be glad!

True! We'll have to endure the primary elections. But, baseball will ease the "torture."

In fact, when Iowa Citizens gather to talk over the news of the day, they'll notice that baseball assumes greater importance. . . is an inch away from the succeeding note. In eighth, sixteenth, and faster time, the distance between notes is proportionately shorter. The wheels along the rod also divide the music into sections or bars," he explained.

The disc records, too, are rather popular. Of the dozen records, the most played are: "I'll Be With You When the Roses Bloom Again," by Edwards; "He Laid Away a Suit of Gray to Wear a Suit of Blue" by Jansen, and "Wedding of Reben and the Maid Song" by Levy.

increasing importance, as the months roll by.

So, we should be grateful for baseball. . . During the winter, Americans were given to talking about Panay incidents, quarantining rabid nation. . . Anschluss. . . seven-billion dollar relief programs. . . Such things, occasionally, are dangerous. Particularly when few know what they're talking about!

Everybody knows about baseball! Or do they? Have you heard about the fellow who once took his best girl to the Yankee stadium to see Babe Ruth play? I'll tell it to you:

The game started. The Yankees and the great Ruth assumed their defensive positions. Ruth trotted far out to his post in right field. . . "There," said the fellow, pointing to the Babe far out near the bleachers, "is Babe Ruth — the greatest ball player who ever lived!"

The girl strained her eyes. "So that's Ruth," she said. "Well, if he's so darn good, why do they put him way out there?"

The United States set a new all-time record for banana eating during the last year, importing 66,586,000 bunches or approximately one-half of the world's trade in bananas. Mexico is the largest exporter of bananas to this country.

Side Rod Break Delays Limited 3 Hours Here

The Rock Island railroad's "Rocky Mountain Limited" was delayed three hours yesterday afternoon when the engine drawing the limited stripped a side rod a mile and a half east of Iowa City.

The breaking of the rod, which connects the drive wheels, necessitated bringing another engine from West Liberty to pull the train westward. No other trains were delayed by the break-down. Jay Eastman, telegraph operator for the railroad, said.
