Britain Raises Income Tax to Balance Budget

Disclose Secret Food Purchase For War Use

Peacetime Expenditures Largest in History For England

LONDON, April 26 (AP) — Great Britain hiked her income tax to a staggering 27 1-2 per cent today to help balance a gun-swollen budget that is the biggest in peacetime history.

Vast, secret food purchases to feed Britain's people for the "early months" of a war were disclosed by Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, who announced to the house of commons that the government needs 944,389,000 pounds ($4,721,990,000) for the year ending March 31, 1939.

The gap between arms expenses and expected income is to be filled by the 2 1-2 per cent income tax increase, which won't hit the little fellow, and by tea and oil duty boosts which will.

Dogged Determination
Sir John, who declared "the load we have to bear" will be carried with the "dogged determination and dauntless courage of the British race," warned that the peak year of defense expenditure would not be reached until next year, possibly the year after.

The income tax of five shillings sixpence to the pound ($1.375 per $5) becomes the highest in 17 years, since the 1921-1922 peak of six shillings of the pound, or 30 per cent.

Total government needs were set at 81,500,000 pounds ($407,500,000) over last year.

Budget Fails to Cover
The budget did not cover the whole of the huge arms bill, the five-year cost of which originally was set at $7,500,000,000, and later estimated unofficially at $11,250,000,000. It provided for $1,226,250,000 for armaments expenditures but left out an extra $450,000,000 which is to be borrowed.

As it presented the budget, the government tried vainly to silence commons critics of the air rearmament lag by promising "maximum production" from all factories that can be turned to plane making within two years.

Brief Opposition
After a brief opposition attack, charging that the budget was not balanced, commons adopted resolution (See BUDGET, page 5)

Radio Operator Reports Clues To Lost Fliers

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — An army radio operator at Point Barrow, Alaska, reported to the war department today that natives at an isolated Alaskan village asserted they saw the splash of a "large object" last August which he suggested might have been the missing plane of the Russian aviator Sigismund Levanovsky.

Levanovsky with several companions left Moscow last Aug. 12 for the United States.

After passing over the North Pole, the flier radioed one of his engines was dead owing to a damaged oil pipe. After that his radio was silent and searchers were unable to find a trace of the plane.

The army report came from Master Sergeant Stanley Morgan who reported the deaths in a crash near Point Barrow of Wiley Post and Will Rogers. The report which Morgan connected with Levanovsky was picked up from natives at the village of Ollikutuk, 140 miles southeast of Point Barrow.

Compromise Tax Revision Bill Wins Approval of Committee

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — A compromise tax revision bill labelled "aid to business" received final approval of a joint senate-house conference committee today.

The committee, which adjusted fundamental differences between senate and house revenue measures, compromised numerous secondary issues and rejected a proposal by Senator Borah (R-Idaho) to make future issues of federal securities taxable.

President Roosevelt has recommended that tax exemptions be removed from future securities and salaries of both the federal and state governments. House members of the conference group argued that the Borah proposal should be eliminated and the president's broader recommendations embodied in a new bill.

The revenue measure, which carries out some administration tax ideas and some proposals advanced by business spokesmen, is expected to raise the $5,330,000,000 asked by the treasury.

Albanian King, Hungarian Bride

Geraldine Apponyi and King Zog are pictured. The two were to be united in marriage at Tirana, the Albanian capital, in a combined Moslem-Catholic ceremony at high noon today.

Animosity Lost at Wedding

TIRANA, Albania, April 26 (AP) — Tribesmen, soldiers and diplomats crowded this tiny capital tonight for the wedding tomorrow of King Ahmed Zog and a fair Hungarian countess with a dash of old Virginia in her blood.

Pierce Ghegs from the north and the barefoot Tosks from the south dropped their ancient animosity and drank from each others' wine skins to the health of Countess Geraldine Apponyi, who is to become Albania's first queen.

The 22-year-old, half-American countess appeared with the king at the officers' club ball. Soldiers of the royal guard rubbed elbows with peasants from the hills in Tirana's noisy bazaar. Chiefs of diplomatic missions, a group of Hungarian noblemen, and a handful of Americans were on hand for the festivities.

Matchmaker Jace Koci, the king's confidant who arranged the first meeting of the sovereign and the countess at a palace ball last new's year's eve, disclosed that Zog's 10-year hunt for the right lady had been a delicate, diplomatic one.

Dr. Wm. M. Hale Appointed Head of Medical Bacteriology

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — You'll still have to swear to your income tax return next year if the senate and house accept a decision of their joint tax conference committee.

The committee rejected today a proposal to eliminate the notarization requirement.

Dr. Hale received a baccalaureate degree in science at the University of New Mexico in 1924 and served as bacteriologist in the state public health service for a year. In 1926 he entered the Yale medical school and three years later was graduated with honors. He is a member of Alpha Omega Alpha, honorary medical fraternity, and Sigma Xi, honorary science research society.

Dr. Hale is the author of several scientific papers. In addition to his teaching at Yale he has directed theses for the Ph.D. degree in bacteriology. He received much of his training under Dr. George Smith, one of the nation's outstanding bacteriologists.

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — A plan to build additional warplane factories in Canada with the aid of American technicians to insure themselves a supply of aircraft in the event of a European war is under serious contemplation by France and Great Britain, it was learned on good authority today.

The "main purpose" of the British mission which landed in the United States yesterday ostensibly "to explore the possibilities of buying American aircraft" was described as being a tour of American factories to determine whether it would be feasible to establish more branch plants in Canada.

Warplanes of American design built in Canada would not be subject to the neutrality law under which shipments of war material can be denied another nation engaged in hostilities.

'Attic' Talent Nan Wood Graham Paints on Glass

By JOHN SELBY
Associated Press Arts Editor
NEW YORK, April 26—This is a story about a talent hidden in an attic, and what happened after it was discovered.

The talent is possessed by the younger sister of Iowa's great painter, Grant Wood. Her name is Nan Wood Graham, and her husband is an arrested tubercular case through the misfortunes of war. The Grahams are therefore nomadic; at present they are trying Iowa again.

Nan Wood Graham is the woman in "American Gothic"; as a reward for allowing her calm beauty to be distorted, her brother promised her a straight portrait; it is done, and hangs in his living room in Iowa City.

Shift Bombers To Sea Bases

Insurgent Planes Mass On Eastern Coast For Big Drive

HENDAYE, France, at the Spanish frontier, April 26 (AP) — Insurgent bombing and combat planes were ordered massed today at new bases along the Spanish east coast to blast holes for land forces driving against government defenses north of Valencia.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco ordered the fleets of warplanes concentrated at his Mallorca island base to support General Miguel Aranda's army, which has encountered stubborn government resistance in the Albocacer-Alcala de Chivert coastal sector.

The Mallorcan air squadrons, under nominal command of General Franco's air ace brother — Major Ramon Franco — have hitherto operated mainly with Admiral Juan Cervera's blockading fleet off the Mediterranean coast.

Henceforth they will use Vinaroz, seaport just south of the Ebro river mouth, as a secondary sea base and Valderrobres, 30 miles to the northwest, as a land base.

Shifting the Mallorcan warplanes to coastal bases more than triples the air strength cooperating with General Aranda's infantry.

Government sources said a fleet of 25 bombers, escorted by 50 fighting planes, rained bombs yesterday on the port of Castellon de la Plana, 25 miles south of the Albocacer — Alcala de Chivert battle lines, where General Aranda has made little forward progress for days.

Morgan Partner 'Acted As My Heart Dictated'

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — Thomas W. Lamont, partner of J. P. Morgan and company, told the securities commission today he "acted as my heart dictated" in putting up $1,082,000 to try to get Richard Whitney out of his "jam."

Lamont lent the money to George Whitney, also a Morgan partner, who used it to enable Richard to restore securities he had taken from the New York stock exchange gratuity fund.

Despite George Whitney's efforts, his brother's brokerage firm collapsed and Richard was sentenced to a prison term for misappropriating customers' securities.

The white-haired Lamont was questioned by Gerhard Gesell, young attorney directing the commission's inquiry into the failure of the Whitney brokerage firm.

President Roosevelt and motor magnate Henry Ford will sit around a conference table for a conference on the business situation today. Washington, April 26 (AP) — Federal, railroad and labor leaders advanced today a five-point "minimum program" for railroad legislation at the present session of congress.

Loans to railroads for the purchase of equipment—with the reconstruction finance corporation taking equipment as security—headed the program.

The conferees also suggested work loans for railroads agreeing to replace men who have been furloughed since October.

The third point was that for 12 months the interstate commerce commission should not be required to certify that loan-seeking railroads can be expected to meet their fixed charges without reorganization.

Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the RFC and Chairman Wheeler (D-Mont), spokesman for the conferees said these loans would not be made, however, unless the railroads could offer adequate security.

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — Nazi spokesmen in Berlin predicted today Konrad Henlein would demand early in June that Sudeten Germans be permitted to vote on whether they desire to remain a part of Czechoslovakia or be joined to greater Germany.

The leader of the nazified Sudeten German party, these spokesmen said, would make his demand just as soon as the communal elections are over.

The elections will begin in Praha May 22 and will be held in the rest of the country between May 29 and June 6.

From a source with excellent connections in high nazi circles, it was learned that Henlein was restrained only by Reichsfuehrer Hitler from proclaiming last Sunday in his Karlovy Vary speech that his movement places itself under the leadership of the fuhrer of Germany.

Such action would have been embarrassing in that acceptance of leadership by Hitler would have meant interference of the reich with the affairs of another nation.

Henlein, therefore, had to content himself with sending a message of greeting to Hitler and at the same time studiously refraining from sending one to President Eduard Benes as chief of the Czechoslovak state.

Joint Statement Gives Backing For President

Hope to Restore Normal Business Conditions By Cooperation

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — Sixteen big businessmen offered President Roosevelt their help today in establishing a system of continuous consultation between government and business for the prevention of over-production and periodic depressions.

In a joint statement they said that all should "resolve to encourage the president in every effort" he shall make to restore confidence and normal business conditions." Significantly, they added, however, that "legislation based upon untried social and economic theories should be avoided."

Noting that Mr. Roosevelt himself had indicated a belief that "America's continued prosperity requires closer cooperation between business and the government," the statement said the "over-production to which he referred would be substantially alleviated if the government engages in continuous consultation with business leaders and encourages them to take the initiative to develop and stabilize their respective industries." It added:

Pledge Cooperation
"We pledge ourselves to aid to the full extent of our ability in such efforts of consultation and cooperation."

Prepared through the initiative of John W. Hanes, "Wall street man" on the securities and exchange commission; Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of General Electric and of Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National bank, the statement also was signed by such men as Charles A. Cannon of Cannon mills, Clarence M. Woolley of American Radiator, Robert H. Cabell of Armour and company and Frederick H. Ecker of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

Hanes took it in person to Mr. Roosevelt just before the latter's semi-weekly press conference. Asked about it, the president told reporters he had only time to read it hurriedly, but that it seemed to be excellent.

Urged Consultation
In fact, it was promptly recalled that Mr. Roosevelt himself urged a system of government-business consultation last winter, in the course of a series of conferences with businessmen on the present depression. He suggested that industry and the government could sit about a council table, gauge future purchasing power and consumer needs and adjust production accordingly.

McLean Picked To Head A. P.

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP) — Robert McLean, long a director of the Associated Press, as was his father before him, became its president today.

He was chosen by the board of directors to succeed the Veteran Frank B. Noyes, president of the Washington Star, who retired yesterday after 38 years as the AP's head.

W. H. Cowles of the Spokane Spokesman — Review was elected first vice-president and Paul Patterson of the Baltimore Sun second vice-president.

The other officers, including the executive board, were re-elected. McLean, tall, spare and 46, had served as first vice-president during the last year.

Asked for comment on his elevation, he replied in one sentence: "I'm not going to start out by breaking any precedents: therefore I would follow the policy long standing of making no statements."

We Can Do Our Part for Peace

FROM THE beginning of time people have been searching for peace. Today, however, the cry of pacifism is louder and stronger than ever before—coming in this country not only from older generations, but also from the youth.

Evidence that American youth realizes the folly of war and the practicality of peace can be seen in the National Peace movement, supported by colleges and universities throughout the country. This week, as National Peace week, is being devoted to concentrated efforts in the support of peace.

More than ever before, the University of Iowa is planning to take part in the nationwide program. Local students are joining with millions of others throughout the country in mass meetings, lectures and debates in the cause of peace.

This desire for peace was responsible for America's entrance into the World War—a war intended to end wars. In the face of the present crucial world problems, however, we can well see that the idea of a war to end wars is a farce. What is important is the concentrated effort of intelligent people who know the futility of wholesale slaughter.

This present peace movement is an important instrument for peace education. On many college campuses the movement has gone so far as to get out of control—and in directions that are none too conducive to peace. But on our own campus such is not the case. The Iowa student body, if anything, has been too lax.

With few exceptions, the university group is unanimous in its advocacy of peace. What is needed, however, is manifested evidence of this support.

There will be a mass meeting at 4 o'clock this afternoon on the front steps of Old Capitol. If you are interested in doing your part for peace, you should be there.

To the Students About Their Mothers

HAVE YOU written your mother yet? Have you personally invited her to come to Iowa City for the week end of Mother's day, April 29 and 30, and May 1? She's already received invitations from Mortar Board and President Gilmore asking her to be present at that time, but it is the personal touch that counts. She may still be waiting to hear from you, asking her to be your guest.

For some of you, it will be your mother's first opportunity to visit the promised land which you entered last fall as a freshman. For others, it will be her last opportunity before you go out into the great unknown of the business world. The rest will want mother to be here just because she is mother. You will want to show her the campus; you'll want to take her around town, and you'll want to introduce her to the friends you've made, to your favorite professor, to the current romantic interest. You will want to take her to the May Frolic with you Friday night so that she may actually see one of the university parties to which she has listened on the radio all year.

Saturday all the mothers, sons and daughters will gather in the Union lounge for dinner. And Sunday there will be a rose waiting for your mother—if you bring her here.

Last year, over 900 mothers came to Iowa City to see their sons and daughters. This year you'll want your mother to be one of them. She wants to come, and the university wants to have her, just as much as you do. So—have you written your mother? Have you told her the program that has been planned for her, the fun you will have together? Have you told her to bring dad along and really make a celebration out of it? Most of all, have you told her how much YOU want her to come? Have you?

Joe DiMaggio Back in Baseball

JOE DIMAGGIO has signed his 1938 contract.

After weeks and months of stubbornly holding out, the star Italian outfielder of the world champion New York Yankees put his name on the dotted line for $25,000—a year's salary for his services as a baseball player.

Joe had asked for $40,000; his boss, Col. Jacob Ruppert, the millionaire brewer, had offered $25,000. Joe insisted he was worth more; Ruppert was unimpressed.

Last week, with the season already under way and his Yankee teammates off to a floundering start, Joe finally capitulated to the colonel's demands. Taking a train east from his San Francisco home, Joe joined his team four days ago.

The love of the game had proved just too much to resist. While he probably felt he was worth more, DIMAGGIO confessed that his desire to play baseball was the only reason he gave in. "Ball playing is my business," he said.

With DIMAGGIO, last of the major league holdouts, safely in the fold, the 16 teams swing into the second week of the season. The Yankees are still well down in the second division. With "Jolting Joe" back in the lineup, baseball fans throughout the country are waiting to see if he can provide the punch to carry them back to the top. It's a great chance for him to prove his worth.

DECLINE OF BREAKFAST

According to delegates to the recent convention of the American Gas association, the modern American breakfast of orange juice, ready-cooked cereal, toast and three-minute eggs is one of the things that is wrong with the gas industry. Too many housewives, it is asserted, prepare breakfast at the table, using electric gadgets.

The passing of the good old-fashioned American breakfast is, of course, to be deplored. This nation was created and nourished by a race who would have scorned the decadent modern matutinal fare. In those golden days an average breakfast consisted of a big bowl of oatmeal or cornmeal mush with sweetening and cream; a thick slab of fried ham or a generous hunk of beefsteak, garnished with a trio of fried eggs and a few ladles of fried spuds; a dish of stewed prunes or green-gage preserves; apple pie, cheese and boiled coffee and sinkers.

The menu varied a bit according to local custom. Codfish cakes, baked beans, fried catfish or fried chicken might be substituted for ham or beefsteak in some localities; side meat and greens were de rigueur in other localities. Buckwheat cakes from a perpetually replenished crock of batter on the back of the stove were standard in certain communities; in others merely optional. Fried mush, scrapple and sausage with fried apples were favorite side dishes.

Truly those were the days when victuals were victuals; but the point that the gas people seem to overlook is that the good old American breakfast was seldom assembled over a gas flame. It was fabricated on a wood or coal burning kitchen range.

No, the American breakfast ain't what it used to be; and so far as the gas industry is concerned—it never was.

Grape Juice Is Recommended For Diet of Anemic Children

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Grape juice is highly recommended as a source of iron, especially for children who are anemic. In a group of children in an orphanage, it was found that if ten ounces of grape juice daily are added to the diet, the blood becomes richer in iron, and signs of anemia disappear. This also prevents secondary anemia which is quite common in children, especially young children who are on an exclusively milk diet.

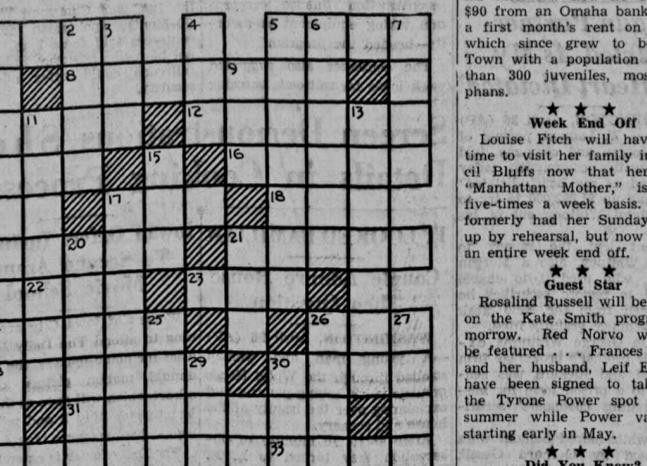

On a diet for children which included fresh vegetables and fruits, with adequate quantities of meat, eggs and milk, it was found that if 10 ounces of grape juice daily were added, the blood increased in iron approximately twice as much as in a group of children who had the same diet but without the grape juice.

As a beverage, pure and simple, grape juice was popular with the children and well tolerated by all.

Washington World

By CHARLES P. STEWART WASHINGTON, D. C.—Uncle Sam's "independent offices and establishments," as they are classified in the Congressional Directory, are getting into an extraordinary number of rumpuses within their respective selves recently. Those setups are variously described as commissions (like the Civil Service Commission), administrations (like the Federal Housing Administration), boards (like the Federal Home Loan Bank Board), authorities (like the Tennessee Valley Authority), corporations (like the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, councils (like the National Emergency Council), committees (like the National Resources Committee) et cetera. There are 75 or 80 of them. Quiet Once, Not Now: Heretofore, however, most of them have been contented to keep comparatively quiet, drawing regular salaries but kicking up no unpleasant commotion. But lately several of them have taken to quarreling, each within its own membership, in a fashion to attract attention, this sort of thing is becoming tiresome. Moreover, it is poor policy on the "independent officers' part. They imperil their jobs by making their uselessness overly apparent. Old Era Fights New: Just what started this epidemic of disagreements is not entirely clear. Perhaps it is due to the fact that some of the numerous commissioners, committees, administrators and authoritarians are left-overs from a more conservative era, while others are up-to-date New Dealers. Clashes between them multiply week by week, anyway. Reorganization: Of course such a state of affairs calls for governmental reorganization, concerning which there has been such an uproar during the current session of congress. No one disputes the necessity for it. The only question is: Who should do the reorganizing? Congress? Or the president?

Tuning In with Betty Harpel

Spring Fever: Hail, spring fever victims! Here's a theme song for you! Making use of musical sound effects simulating birds, frogs, and roosters, Andre Kostelanetz will paint a microphonic picture of spring fever on his "Concerts of American Music" today. "Spring Fever Swing" will embrace portions of "Oh, How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning" and Mendelssohn's "Spring Song." The climax of the presentation will be a swing effect produced by 20 alarm clocks, pitched in as many different registers. Boys' Town: The Rev. E. J. Flanagan, who founded Boys' Town in Nebraska 21 years ago and has practically raised nearly 5,000 boys in the small community, will appear on Edgar Guest's program next Wednesday. Joseph Westerman, mayor of Boys' Town will accompany Father Flanagan to Chicago and will confer with Mayor Edward Kelly and other Chicago officials on problems of modern youth and juvenile delinquency. Father Flanagan will reveal in his interview how he borrowed money to pay the rent on a farm which since grew to be Boys' Town with a population of more than 300 juveniles, mostly orphans.

World Means More to Harshbarger Boys Because of Huge Map in Home

The study of geography takes on added significance for Fritz and Karl Harshbarger, sons of Prof. and Mrs. H. C. Harshbarger, 305 Sunset drive, for places which sound interesting in books can be located on their huge map of the United States at home.

The map, eight by 13 feet, almost covers the east wall in the Harshbarger dining room which one reaches by descending a winding staircase just beyond the front entrance. A free-hand drawing by Mrs. Harshbarger, the map is done in cream color with an outline of blue. Mountain ranges are marked in a deeper shade.

"The map is the boys' map," Mrs. Harshbarger explained. "It eventually will be their trips which will be traced upon it," she said. Perhaps the most interesting thing about it is the fact that each important trip which the Harshbargers and their children have taken is traced on the map.

"Our last important one, of course, was to the east," Mrs. Harshbarger said, "when Professor Harshbarger accepted the Rockefeller foundation fellowship." They were gone all the first semester on this trip. Other trips shown on the map include one through the Black hills in 1934 and a fishing trip into Minnesota.

Each trail is marked in red with a car denoting the travelers, and the year on which the trip was taken is lettered behind it in black. Tiny drawings indicate things seen along the way. For example, near the town of Hyndman, Penn., are two brown bears. "We were told that there were wild ones there," Mrs. Harshbarger explained.

In Pittsburgh the map is dotted with oil wells, in the Black hills is found a herd of buffalo, and Arizona and New Mexico are marked with Indians. Riding cowboys were not forgotten in Oklahoma. The state of Texas holds interest because of its mountain range which even the boys' mother hadn't realized was there, she said.

Although the family has not visited there, Salt lake is marked. The boys feel that it would be an ideal swimming ground. Mrs. Harshbarger explained, "They are quite sure that they could construct a boat which would sail upon it," she added.

"The map is for the children," Mrs. Harshbarger said, "but adults get the most fun out of it." Guests invariably leave the table and go to the map to point out the topic of their conversation on it.

"Our plan is for the boys to trace their own trips on it when they are old enough," their mother remarked. Karl is now six and Fritz will be 10 tomorrow.

In case the topic of conversation or study goes beyond the United States, there is a large globe of the world on a small stand in the southwest corner of the room.

In keeping with the unusual quality of the map itself is the charm of the entire home. From its colorful Mexican pottery and unique Welsh cupboard in the vestibule just off the dining room, to the glass-topped table in the sunporch and the beamed ceiling in the living room, the home reflects individuality.

Equally as charming as the interior of the house are the scenes around it—the flower garden on one side, another garden in the making on the other and the beautiful ravine below.

Longman Talks On Hellenistic, Renaissance Art

Prof. Lester D. Longman, head of the graphic and plastic arts department, traced the development of art from 500 B.C. to the Hellenistic period and from the middle ages to the renaissance period last night in the concluding lecture, "Classical and Renaissance Art," of the special English lecture series.

Using slide illustrations Professor Longman compared the development of Greek art to the art of the middle ages and renaissance period stressing such similarities as the increasing skill in portrait painting, perspective, naturalism, anatomy and children.

Pictures of the works of Greek sculptors demonstrated the increasing tendency toward realism in art from 500 to 400 B.C. The Greeks' idea of beauty resided in the male form, he said.

"The Greeks had a natural beauty rather than a stylized form," Professor Longman said. "Their ideal of human perfection is believed by moderns to set the standards of beauty."

Kiwanis Club Host at Dinner

McGinnis Entertains At Sons and Daughters Dinner Party

Eighty-four Kiwanians and their wives and guests were hosts to 35 sons and daughters of Kiwanians outside Iowa City, at the annual Iowa City Kiwanis Sons and Daughters dinner at 8 p.m. yesterday in the Jefferson hotel.

Harold Dane, club president, said the annual dinner party had been discontinued during recent depression years, but has been resumed as a regular Kiwanis event.

Following the dinner, Leroy "The Great" McGinnis, LI of Iowa City, magician, entertained the guest for more than one-half hour with card tricks, silk handkerchief stunts, disappearing acts and a variety of other tricks.

Dinner guests were led in group singing by Prof. Herald Stark. Prof. Frank L. Mott headed the program committee consisting of Edward S. Rose, George Trotter and Dean Alvin W. Bryan.

The social arrangements committee was Frank Lorenz, Charles O. Ingersoll, Edwin B. Raymond and Prof. Paul L. Sayre.

James Aldous, Dr. Ray V. Smith and Dr. Andrew W. Bennett were in charge of dinner arrangements.

Medical Students Elect John Saar Board President

John W. Saar, M3 of Donnellson, was elected president and Charles Edward Decker, M3 of Iowa City, vice-president of the executive board of the Associated Medical Students at a meeting last night.

Frederick G. Loomis, M2 of Waterloo, was named treasurer and Charles R. Sokel, M2 of Collins, secretary of the organization.

Leaders Study Czech Problem

Britain, France Ponder Reports on Nazi Minority

LONDON, April 26 (AP) — British and French ministers today studied fresh reports on Czechoslovakia's German minority problem in preparation for joint talks on how to keep peace in Europe or insure victory in the event of war.

French Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet will fly to London tomorrow. They will open conferences with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax Thursday — just six months to a day after their predecessors came here on a similar mission.

The growing demands of the Sudeten German (nazi) party in Czechoslovakia, with apparent encouragement from Berlin, made the fate of this central European democracy one of the most urgent questions before the ministers.

Joined with it was the whole issue of German expansion — whether this would have to be met eventually by force or could be checked by diplomacy.

France's defensive alliance with Czechoslovakia made this a subject of vital concern to her especially, but Daladier was cold toward a possible four-power pact linking Germany with Britain, France and Italy to keep peace.

Club Will Have Dinner Dance

Members of the Iowa City Country club will open the season with a semi-formal dinner dance at the clubhouse Thursday, May 5 at 7 p.m.

Prof. and Mrs. H. H. Wade are chairmen of the committee. Other committee members are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Droll, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Tallman and Attorney and Mrs. Herbert Ries.

lutions implementing the tea, oil and income tax increases.

The tea tax increase, from the present four pence to six pence (12 cents) a pound, will hit nearly every home in the land. It becomes effective tomorrow.

Gasoline, which now costs about 37 cents a gallon with a tax of 16 cents, effective tonight. It applies also to heavy oil and light hydrocarbon oils.

Small Taxpayers
Two million small income taxpayers were granted a concession. Everyone in the United Kingdom who earns $750 a year or more pays income tax, but the rates will remain the same for single persons making up to $1,450 and married men with one child earning up to $2,000.

Heavy industries engaged in re-arrangement work likewise were granted a concession, the depreciation allowance they may deduct from total profit being increased from 10 to 20 per cent.

Purchases Secret
The government's food stock purchases—of wheat, whale oil for margarine, and sugar—were made secretly so as not to disturb the market, Sir John said. He did not disclose the amount of stocks on hand.

The income tax increase caused grumbling even among conservatives—off the floor of commons. Politicians predicted the reaction of the public would be bad, and said the budget indicated the government was not planning to order a general election this fall.

must be done in reverse. It is combined in Mrs. Graham's case with a curious feeling for gay color, and a sense of humor which tends to produce lasting smiles rather than belly laughs.

It is likewise a useful talent, for although Mrs. Graham's things, now they are discovered, will be used for ornament, she also can produce screens, decorative panels for bars in non-prohibition states and so forth.

The talent was discovered by Mrs. Grant Wood, who one day was rummaging in the attic of the Wood home place near Cedar Rapids.

"I found a stack of glass sheets," says she, "one of which I examined out of curiosity. I thought the animal leering at me was fascinating, and gathered up the lot, and ran downstairs.

"Look," I said to mother Wood, "See what Nan's done!"

"Yes," said mother Wood, "they don't amount to much. She wasn't serious about them!"

But Mrs. Grant Wood was very serious. She showed people her find, and started her sister-in-law doing more of them. The other day Mrs. Wood came on to New York, and in one day, before they had been formally shown, she found enough people who were as interested as she to keep Mrs. Graham hard at glass painting for as long as she wants to work.

The New York show, hung Tuesday under the sponsorship of the head of one of the big advertising agencies, by the way, includes a set of 12 gay little dolls in national costumes, and a few of Mrs. Graham's animal pictures. (—there would have been more of these last, only people bought them up too quickly.)

Mrs. Wood is enjoying a private laugh out of the furor. It seems that a while back Mrs. Graham modestly suggested to the Cedar Rapids art association that it might permit her to show some of her work on glass. She was, Mrs. Wood says, firmly refused.

Incidentally, the first picture Mrs. Wood turned up in that attic was of an aesthetic pig, done before the birth of Ferdinand, the bull who wanted to smell flowers, but a whole lot like him in spiritual characteristics.

Municipal Indebtedness Slash Is $122,000, City Reports Show

Retire Sewerage Bonds $115,000; Fiscal Receipts Increase

Iowa City slashed its municipal indebtedness $122,000 during the fiscal year ending March 31, according to a statement issued by the city clerk's office.

The municipal indebtedness as of March 31 this year was $802,255.31, compared to $924,222.58 a year ago.

Expenditures amounted to $506,871.12 last year as compared to $487,074.25 for the year 1936-37. Of this increase, $35,000 was for bonds to repair the community building, the report shows.

Aiding in the reduction of indebtedness, according to the statement, was the retirement of sewerage bonds amounting to $115,000. Of this sum, the state's share was about $106,000.

During last year, $506,871.12 in warrants was issued. Of this amount, all but $477.41 has been cashed on March 31, as compared to $432,361 a year ago.

The comparison of expenditures between the years 1936-37 and 1937-38 (with the '36-'37 figure given first, and the '37-'38 figure, last) is as follows: general government, $30,280.95, $23,904.36; protection, life, property, $55,637.35, $62,782.07; health department, $26,128.72, $10,025.77; street department, $52,717.74, $59,140.68; municipal industries, $31,219.59; $76,735.60; general bonds and specials $189,961.23, $222,424.34; miscellaneous, $10,128.67, $51,856.30.

Receipts for the last fiscal year are listed at $444,746.90 as compared to $423,726.97 for the preceding year.

Conference--

reached the president at a time when he was engrossed with the problem of the business recession: planning a conference with Henry Ford for tomorrow, a message to congress on monopoly for Friday and making preparations for putting his new lending-spending effort into operation as quickly as the appropriations are made.

Ford Discussion

He told reporters he expected to discuss general economic questions with the automobile manufacturer. Edsel Ford, now president of the Ford Motor company would attend, he said, together with W. J. Cameron, a Ford spokesman, and Marriner Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board.

Elsewhere, informed persons said that Mr. Roosevelt's proposal for a guaranteed minimum annual wage for automobile workers would be among the subjects discussed. A similar project, requested this week by the Ford Brotherhood, an organization of Ford employees with no outside union connections, was discouraged by Harry Bennett, Ford's chief of personnel.

The president's $4,500,000,000 lending-spending program was under consideration by the house appropriations committee meanwhile. Secretary Ickes urged the committee to approve the $1,000,000,000 item for public works. Some $400,000,000 of that amount, he said, would take care of 2,174 projects on WPA's present approval list.

'Chain Letters'

Rep. Taber (R-NY) republican member of the committee asserted, at the same time, that a "chain letter" propaganda campaign for appropriations had been inspired by Harry Hopkins, director of work relief. His charge followed a statement by Rep. Rayburn (D-Tex) the majority leader, that big corporations were "plotting" to defeat the bill with "a great flood of propaganda."

Hanes, after taking the business men's statement to the White House, called in reporters and told them that he hoped a conference of those who subscribed to declaration could be arranged soon. All of them, he said, were in agreement that Mr. Roosevelt's last "fireside chat" was "good." Their statement, he added, was a "composite" of their views.

States Need

The statement, itself, noted first of all that the fireside chat "stated the need and aspiration of us all, the resumption of normal industry."

To bring that about, it said, "teamwork on the part of government and industry," is required.

"We gather from the president's words that he recognizes that we live under an industrial system in which there must be full opportunity for legitimate profits. This industrial system cannot function unless there is continuous activity and steady production. It is the responsibility and desire of business to maintain that activity to the fullest extent commensurate with sound practices. It is the responsibility of government to protect and encourage the proper functioning of business. The president has indicated in his speech that he fully recognizes this and congress by its recent acts has shown similar recognition."

Different Ways

"Wide but honest differences of opinion exist as to ways and means, but surely no one can doubt that the goal which every citizen desires to reach is to advance the national income to a point where employment and prosperity can be widespread. The effort to attain this goal requires the cooperation of every member of the community."

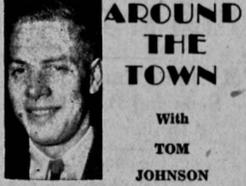

"It seems to us most important that we should all resolve to encourage the president in every effort he shall make to restore confidence and normal business conditions, and to support congress in the position that its legislative program should be directed towards national recovery for employer and employee alike rather than towards the enactment of legislation based upon untried social and economic theories."

After stating the proposal for a system of consultation against over-production, the statement closed thus:

"Let everyone of us work together to move the life of the nation forward."

Get Marriage License

LeRoy E. Grimm, 24, Iowa City, and Hazel Herdlika, 20, Tiffin, yesterday received a marriage license from County Clerk R. Nelson Miller.

AROUND THE TOWN With TOM JOHNSON

It Can't Happen Here

Henry and Edsel Ford will discuss the economic situation at a luncheon Wednesday with President Roosevelt at the White House.—News item.

(Following is a conversation which might take place today—If...)

Henry and Edsel are riding down Pennsylvania avenue, en route to the White House. The first to speak is:

Edsel (excitedly): "Look, dad! The American flag is still flying over the presidential mansion."

Henry (doubtfully): "You wouldn't fool your old father, would you, son? (Then, hopefully...) But tell me, is grass growing in the streets? Herbie said there'd be grass..."

Edsel: "Nope, dad. Not a blade. Maybe he's not letting it grow this year, though..."

(Their car enters the gates to the White House. Another car is just leaving...)

Henry (excitedly): "Edsel! Did you see who was in that car? It looked like John L. Lewis!"

Edsel: "Now, dad. Calm yourself. Anyway, he hasn't beaten us yet..."

(The car arrives at the front entrance. They alight and approach the front door...)

Henry: "Don't bother to knock, son. I've got a key..."

(Inside the White House, F. D. R. has been pecking from a window, watching the visitors approach. He turns to his son, James (snappingly garbed as a colonel of the marines), and says: "Listen to Henry fumble with the door-knob. (Gleefully): He doesn't know we've changed the lock..."

James opens the door. The Fords enter. Henry is blushing.

F. D. R. (drawing a deep breath): "My friends... Welcome. Hello, Henry... and Edsel. This is my son, James..."

Henry: "Hello, Franklin. (Glancing suspiciously at James): Has war been declared?"

F. D. R. (laughing and showing a full set of teeth): "No, Henry. Just on the business recession..."

Henry (maliciously): "So! You admit there is a recession, eh?"

F. D. R. (confidentially): "There has been a slump. But—it's only temporary. I hope..."

Henry (looking around): "Nice place you have here, Franklin. (Then, shrewdly): Intend to stay here long?"

F. D. R.: "Haven't made up my mind yet, Henry. The lease terminates in 1940, but some say there is a possibility of getting a renewal... How's your business, Henry?"

Henry: "I got out several years ago. How is it, Edsel?"

Edsel: "Not so hot, pop."

F. D. R. (triumphantly): "Well, it isn't as bad as the railroads, now, is it?"

Henry: "Now, Franklin. I'm out of business entirely. I don't know how the railroads are... What I want to ask you about is this!"

(He takes from his pocket a crumpled set of legal papers, plainly entitled, "National Labor Relations Board Decision.")

Henry (waving it beneath the president's nose): "What is the meaning of this, Mr. President?"

F. D. R. (taken aback): "Didn't you like it, Henry?"

Henry (annoyed): "Don't call me 'Henry'! And, let me tell you, Mr. Roosevelt. I think you're leading this country into rack and ruin... piling up an unpayable debt... Why, we'll never be able to pay it off..."

F. D. R. (surprised): "Is that the truth, Henry? My advisers never told me that..."

Henry (disgusted): "Aw, Franklin... Why don't you give the country back to the Indians?"

F. D. R. (anxiously): "I've thought of that... But—do you think they'd take it?"

"Of course they'll take it! Come on, let's eat!" The speaker is Mrs. Roosevelt, who has returned unexpectedly from San Francisco. (The group leaves for the dining room.)

James: "Maw's back from the coast."

Edsel (wryly): "Yeah, I see."

Airport Improvement Progress Reported by Engineer Gartzke

Third Runway Is Being Prepared for Asphalt Macadam Surface

Improvement of the Iowa City municipal airport, which has been under way since January, is making definite progress now, according to City Engineer Fred Gartzke.

The northwest-southeast runway is being graded now, preparatory to surfacing with asphalt macadam. The material is expected to arrive shortly.

The new runway will be 2,900 feet long and 100 feet wide, and will comprise the third runway in the enlarged airport. Drainage for the field will also be improved.

About 40 men are working on the project, which is financed by the city and by the WPA. No definite time for completion has been set, Gartzke said.

Additional speculation stemmed from the fact that in March, when Adolf Hitler's Austrian coup found France in the midst of labor troubles which tied up its warplane factories, the French government sent a hurried inquiry to the United States as to whether 500 military airplanes could be purchased.

Due to existing commitments of American warplane makers on contracts with the government, such an order could not be filled, especially on short notice.

As to the chance of expanded warplane production in Canada, significance was attached to Weir's statement that no orders could be placed by the mission, which, he said, would merely "explore" the situation and report back to England.

He added that he and the four men who accompanied him would go to Canada after their tour of the United States.

Canada, which does more flying per capita than any other country in the world, already has a substantial aircraft manufacturing industry. The DeHavilland company of England, which makes planes for the Royal Air force, has a factory at Toronto. A considerable amount of American money is invested in Canadian plane factories.

Among them is the Boeing plant at Vancouver and the Fleet plant at Ft. Erie.

U. W. A. Names Project Heads For Next Year

Project chairmen who will head the various activities sponsored by the University Women's association for the coming school year were announced yesterday by the association planning council.

Those selected included Harriet Ludens, A3 of Morrison, Ill., vocational guidance; Betty Holt, A3 of Iowa City, elections; Genevieve McCulloch, A2 of Cedar Rapids, U. W. A. history; Constance Fenton, C3 of Jewell, point system; Margaret Kuttler, A1 of Davenport, university sign.

Miriam Palmer, A2 of Newton, activity display; Ruth House, A2 of Iowa City, coffee hour; Barbara Lillick, A3 of Iowa City, rest room project and summer broadcast; and Barbara Mueller, A3 of Davenport, freshman lectures and Spinsters Spree.

He addressed a dinner of the royal society of St. George — his first speech since his retirement two months ago. The speech was broadcast to the United States.

If progress toward international peace is to be made, he said, "we must first wish to see the rule of law between nations acknowledged."

Judge Carson Imposes Fines

George Paul, charged with driving while intoxicated, waived preliminary hearing before Police Judge Burke N. Carson yesterday. He posted a $500 bond and waived to the grand jury. Paul was arrested Saturday by highway patrolmen.

Robert McCollister was fined $10 for breaking glass on a highway. Charles Stephens paid $5 and costs for defacing public property. Dudley Huff was fined $1 and costs for driving without brakes.

The Czechoslovak Sokol is said to be the oldest gymnastic society in the world. It has 800,000 members.

Simple As A B C

Here is how they work. The British army produced an effective anti-tank gun, and one afternoon staged a review at which newspaper photographers took all the pictures they wanted.

It was as easy as buying a newspaper to get the anti-tank gun picture—which the spies immediately did and sold to buyers who had not read the morning papers carefully. Pictures are rarely that easy to get, however.

Visitors to British war plane factories were forbidden to carry cameras recently after it was charged that young Englishmen were snapping photographs with miniature cameras supplied to them by a foreign embassy.

The improvement of planes since the World war and the importance they will have in the next war, have made them one of the most coveted objectives of modern spies.

A new long distance mystery bomber strangely vanished into the blue one day recently.

A few days later, holes punched by saboteurs were discovered in the gas tanks of two other new bombers just before they were to be taken up for tests.

But today's espionage scare is not the kind Europe was accustomed to during the war. And despite its dangers, the espionage profession never lacks for recruits.

Dangerous Trade of Espionage Grows in Peril--and in Profit

First Of Two Articles By WILLIAM MCGAFFIN AP Feature Service Writer

LONDON—If some enterprising espionage agent had written a book 25 years ago on "How To Be A Spy" he could publish it today—with few revisions—and still be in step with the times.

The possible spoils are perhaps richer and the technique improved but in the end it's still the human factor that counts.

The perfection of cameras, for instance—especially the miniature, easily concealed type—has given the spy a deadly weapon. Yet the traditional beautiful blonde proved even deadlier in London recently. Miss X, as she is known, helped the secret service trap a band of Englishmen who, she said, had been making photographic copies for a "foreign power" of secret armament plans smuggled out of the arsenal where they worked.

Aided By Beauty Beautiful, she had no trouble winning their confidence. Soon she was helping them with the job. Then, when the time was ripe, she called in the secret service—and four disillusioned young men were arrested. Three were sentenced to jail terms of six, four and three years respectively. The fourth was discharged for lack of evidence.

A nation's beauties are not always on the home team's side. Two handsome noblewomen lost their heads in Germany in one of the most famous cases of recent times for betraying German military secrets.

London, like every other major European capital, is teeming with spies attracted by rearmament activities. They include:

1. Intelligence service experts who go out only for big game.
2. Old-line, thoroughly unrel-

air commodore of the British reserve forces, was acting in fact for both Great Britain and France.

A dispatch from Paris today said Premier Daladier was completing a plan for Anglo-French military and diplomatic cooperation intended to isolate Germany and to make possible joint purchase of war materials.

Additional speculation stemmed from the fact that in March, when Adolf Hitler's Austrian coup found France in the midst of labor troubles which tied up its warplane factories, the French government sent a hurried inquiry to the United States as to whether 500 military airplanes could be purchased.

THEY'RE SKEPTICS Even 'A' Students Are At The Bottom

By The AP Feature Service Ocala Fla.—There's a bunch of students at the University of Miami that's all wet. Even the A pupils are at the bottom. As a class, they're sunk.

They're skeptics.

When someone tells you that fish live under water, you take their word for it, don't you? Not this lot. They go to Silver Springs with their "prof," E. M. Miller, get into bathing suits, don diving helmets and plop overboard, boys, girls, prof and all.

They watch the little, bug-eyed fish swim, just the way the book says they do. They see turtles paddling about and every now and then an alligator. Little alligators, not the big, hungry kind.

And they give some time to the plants that never suffer from drought.

It's a lot more fun than bending over a pickled pickle in the laboratory. "And," adds Prof. Miller, "they learn a lot quicker this way."

Eden Appeals For Rearming

Warns Nation Sacrifices Are Necessary For Democracy

LONDON, April 26 (AP) — Anthony Eden appealed tonight for a "spiritual and material rearmament" of Great Britain to meet the challenge of dictatorships and preserve democratic ideals.

The former foreign secretary, sticking to the stand which cost him his post in the cabinet, warned the nation that if liberty and democracy were to be preserved "sacrifices" must be made to meet the achievements of dictator nations.

He addressed a dinner of the royal society of St. George — his first speech since his retirement two months ago. The speech was broadcast to the United States.

If progress toward international peace is to be made, he said, "we must first wish to see the rule of law between nations acknowledged."

Former Iowa Student Is Accident Victim In New York City

DES MOINES, Ia., April 26 (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Abrams, 22, who was killed today in an automobile accident in New York, N. Y., is a former Des Moines and Pella, Ia., girl, relatives disclosed here tonight. She was a University of Iowa student.

She was the daughter of James H. Cochran, field representative of the Chicago joint land bank. The family lived in Pella before moving here.

Japs Approach Vital Railroad Fighting South

SHANGHAI, April 27 (Wednesday) (AP) — Japanese fighting southward toward the vital railroad junction at Suchow broke through Chinese lines today at Hsianowang, a village southeast of Yihshien, but the Chinese swiftly counterattacked and temporarily plugged the hole.

Despite greatly increased Japanese pressure all along the south Shantung battlefield and continued heavy fighting, relative positions were unchanged, except at Hsianowang.

The break through at this point, however, put the Japanese in position to outflank defenders of Taierchwang if they can continue driving forward. Taierchwang is about 45 miles northeast of Suchow, where the east-west Lunghai railway crosses the Tientsin-Pukow line.

China still has eight arsenals which are making small ammunition for her war with Japan.

Carl Kuehnle Dies at Home

Former President Of Alumni Helped Many Students

Attorney Carl F. Kuehnle, 77, former president of the University Alumni association and a prominent alumnus of the university, died at his home in Denison yesterday morning. Funeral services will be held today at Denison with burial tomorrow at Winetka, Ill.

Attorney Kuehnle received a B.P.H. degree at the university in 1881, an L.L.B. degree in 1882 and an M.A. degree in 1884.

He was a liberal donor to Iowa Delta and contributed to the Delta Tau Delta fraternity. In 1917, he and the late William O. Pinkbine began the annual dinners given in honor of the outstanding men in the university which later became known as the Pinkbine dinners.

Attorney Kuehnle served many times as district director for the Iowa alumni organization in the state and was twice a member of the board of regents—once in 1894 and again in 1904.

Because of his interest in the University of Iowa, he paid the way of more students through the university than any other person.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. L. B. Howard of Winetka, Ill., and a son, Carl F. Kuehnle Jr., president of the Halsted Exchange National bank in Chicago.

Sings 'Cavalleria Rusticana' Lead

Mrs. Carolyn Leland, G of Moline, Ill., soprano, will sing the leading role of Santuzza in the presentation of the Italian opera, "Cavalleria Rusticana," which will be presented for the first time tonight in the dramatic arts building. Mrs. Leland was a soloist with the Augusta college choir for five years and studied for a year at the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago. She is a former member of the Blackhawk Opera company in the Tri-Cities. Other solo roles in the popular one-act melodrama by Mascagni are Hugh Cockshott, A4 of Wilton Junction, Madge Jones, A4 of Cedar Rapids, Thomas Muir, an associate in the music department, Margaret Brandt, G of Hastings, Neb., and Maxine Tipton, G of Carson. The curtain will rise on tonight's performance at 8:15.

Curtain to Rise at 8:15 Tonight On First Presentation of Italian Opera 'Cavalleria Rusticana'

The curtain of the University theater will rise at 8:15 this evening on the opening performance of the Italian opera, "Cavalleria Rusticana," which will be presented under the auspices of the music department tonight and Friday in the dramatic arts building.

Prof. Herald Stark will conduct the university chorus and chamber orchestra in the presentation of Mascagni's one-act melodrama, the first operatic production to be staged under university auspices here since 1927.

Mrs. Carolyn Leland, G of Moline, Ill., will sing the role of Santuzza, the Sicilian girl whose love for Turiddu proves her bane. Thomas Muir tenor, an associate in the music department, will sing the role of the double-suitor, Turiddu.

Maxine Tipton, G of Carson, mezzo-soprano will portray Lola, Turiddu's first love. Hugh Cockshott, A4 of Wilton Junction, will sing the role of Alfio, a wagoner who marries Lola when Turiddu leaves to serve in the army.

Margaret Brandt, G of Hastings, Neb., will play Lucia, Turiddu's mother, in tonight's performance. The role will be sung in the Friday performance by Madge Jones, A4 of Cedar Rapids.

The gripping action of Mascagni's love story reaches its climax with the murder of Turiddu on Easter Sunday morning in the square of the Sicilian village where the story takes place. A bite on the ear, the Sicilian challenge to mortal combat, causes the death struggle between Alfio and Turiddu.

The stage set for the opera, consisting of more than 30 pieces and representing a picturesque Sicilian village scene, was constructed under the direction of Edward Kyvig, G of Iowa City.

Robert Whitehand of the dramatic arts department is the stage director for the production. "Cavalleria Rusticana" will not be presented according to the set pattern of staging used by modern opera but will represent a newer trend in opera style with emphasis upon dramatic content of the story, in addition to musical pattern.

More than 70 persons will take part in the production. The 34-voice university chorus, the university chamber orchestra and an auxiliary choir of 11 voices, which will appear in the church scene, will provide the musical background for the story.

The one pause in the action of the drama will take place when the orchestra, under the direction of Professor Stark, plays the popular intermezzo while the curtain remains raised.

A maximum of 400 seats will be sold for each night's performance. Tickets are now on sale.

Lee Kann Lists $240 Summer Board Project

Students Working Will Be Paid by Meal Accumulation

University students may take advantage of a board accumulation project this summer and earn an actual cash equivalent of $240, Lee H. Kann, manager of the employment bureau, announced yesterday.

This project will employ about 65 men and several women. Starting June 1, it will continue seven days a week through the summer months until the opening of school in September. Sometime during the summer, the department will grant the employee a 10-day vacation.

Students can earn their board while working and accumulate credit which will insure them board for practically the entire school year. The meals will be served in the hospital cafeteria, and are charged off at the rate of three per day, both during the summer and the school year.

Three regular three-hour student jobs are combined and worked by the employee during the summer months. He will work no more than nine hours a day, usually in three hour shifts which are not consecutive.

The plan has proved to be a successful arrangement for students who have funds to care for their room cost during the summer, about $30, and for their registration and room cost for the school year. Estimating board cost at $20 per month, the student can earn an actual cash equivalent of $240.

Students having a heavy class schedule, such as those registered in the college of engineering, medicine or dentistry, have found the plan to be an excellent arrangement.

Mr. Kann also recommends the plan for the entering student. It permits him to become well acquainted with the campus previous to his registration in the university.

View Adamic April Issue of Prefaces Devoted to Book

The April issue of American Prefaces is devoted entirely to a preview of the new book, "My America," Louis Adamic, which will be published in May. A cross section of the book, the preface to "My America," a long section from Adamic's diary and a complete chapter entitled "Of Two Worlds" are included.

Concerning the purpose of the book Mr. Adamic says, "This book is an attempt to draw a partial picture of my America between 1928 and 1938." "My America," concerns itself chiefly with people that have come within the author's experience and observation and who have impressed him as individuals and Americans.

His diary illustrates his interest in people and things. In it he relates incidents concerning millionaires and beggars and the sayings of well known men such as Hoover, O. O. McIntyre and Al Capone. Although he often points out the incongruities of the United States and its people, there is always prevalent the idea of his great liking and respect for the country.

The chapter, "Of Two Worlds," tells how it feels to be torn by conflicting racial and national loyalties. Mr. Adamic especially deals with the reaction of the people in America and his native land, Carniola, to his works. He was both threatened and thanked by the people.

Louis Adamic came to this country in 1913, served in the American army during the World war and became a citizen in 1918. In 1929 he published "Robinson Jeffers: A Portrait." This was followed by "Dynamite" in 1931, "Laughing in the Jungle," 1932, "The Native's Return," 1934, "Grandsons," 1935, "Cradle of Life," 1936 and "The House of Antigua," 1937.

During one of his tours he lectured at the University of Iowa. His book, "Laughing in the Jungle," was at one time included in the freshman English reading of the university.

The sketch on the cover of the American Prefaces was drawn by Richard Gates.

The April issue of American Prefaces is devoted entirely to a preview of the new book, "My America," Louis Adamic, which will be published in May. A cross section of the book, the preface to "My America," a long section from Adamic's diary and a complete chapter entitled "Of Two Worlds" are included.

Concerning the purpose of the book Mr. Adamic says, "This book is an attempt to draw a partial picture of my America between 1928 and 1938." "My America," concerns itself chiefly with people that have come within the author's experience and observation and who have impressed him as individuals and Americans.

His diary illustrates his interest in people and things. In it he relates incidents concerning millionaires and beggars and the sayings of well known men such as Hoover, O. O. McIntyre and Al Capone. Although he often points out the incongruities of the United States and its people, there is always prevalent the idea of his great liking and respect for the country.

The chapter, "Of Two Worlds," tells how it feels to be torn by conflicting racial and national loyalties. Mr. Adamic especially deals with the reaction of the people in America and his native land, Carniola, to his works. He was both threatened and thanked by the people.

Louis Adamic came to this country in 1913, served in the American army during the World war and became a citizen in 1918. In 1929 he published "Robinson Jeffers: A Portrait." This was followed by "Dynamite" in 1931, "Laughing in the Jungle," 1932, "The Native's Return," 1934, "Grandsons," 1935, "Cradle of Life," 1936 and "The House of Antigua," 1937.

During one of his tours he lectured at the University of Iowa. His book, "Laughing in the Jungle," was at one time included in the freshman English reading of the university.

The sketch on the cover of the American Prefaces was drawn by Richard Gates.

Examination Schedule

Second Semester, 1937-1938

Monday, May 23, 8 a. m., to Tuesday, May 31, 4 p. m.

The regular program of class work will be suspended and the following semester-examination program substituted for it. Classes will meet for examination in the rooms in which they have been regularly meeting (except classes in SPECIAL GROUPS, A, B, C, D, E, F, and G, as shown in the form below; and Speech (2), (1), and (4) as shown at "N.B." below.

The Program Committee directs the attention of both students and instructors and professors, to the regulation that there is to be no deviation in the case of any examination, from this Schedule, except as authorized by the Committee on Admission and Classification, on the student's written petition, filed in ample time, supported by the recommendation of the department concerned,—to provide relief from an excessive number of examinations within a single day, or for the purpose of getting through earlier will not be permitted. Students should prepare and deposit such petitions in the offices of the Deans of Men (men) and Women (women).

Each student who is absent from the final meeting of his class as indicated in the Examination Schedule should be reported, on the official grade sheet at the end of the semester, as "Abs." Before this grade mark can be removed he must file with the Committee on Admission and Classification a written petition, with adequate vouchers attached, setting forth in full the necessity of his absence. This petition must include a departmentally signed statement indicating whether, in case the Committee finds the absence excusable, the student has the department's and instructor's permission to take the final examination. If the Committee finds the reason for the absence adequate it will issue to the student a partially prepared special report card (signed by the Secretary, lower left corner) with a form letter explaining to him that he has the Committee's permission, with the departmental consent and at the convenience of the instructor, to take his final examination within one month (or other designated period of time).

If the student takes the examination thus authorized the outcome is to be reported on this card and not on any other card.

In the case of conflicts (within the SPECIAL GROUPS A, B, C, D, E, F, and G) the schedule itself, as presented below, provides a general method of making adjustments.

All classes whose first weekly meetings have occurred as indicated in the rectangles below meet for examination during the periods noted at the top of these columns and on the days noted in the rectangles directly opposite at the left of the double, vertical line.

MONDAY AT 3	TUESDAY AT 3 SPECIAL GROUP G All sections of: Psychology (2) (For rooms see Department Bulletin Boards)

CONFLICTS: In case of conflicting examinations the student should report to the instructor in charge of the first of the two conflicting subjects as listed within the particular SPECIAL GROUP rectangle above which is involved. (Read downward first in left column and then in right column.) The instructor will arrange for you a special examination. Report to him, or her, not later than the regular class hour May 19 or 20; if possible, May 12 or 13.

The first meeting of the class means the first lecture or recitation period in courses having both lectures and recitations, and laboratory periods; or in the case of courses involving only laboratory periods, the first clock-hour of the first weekly meeting. For example, chemistry 21 meets for lectures T Th S at 8. The first regular meeting is, consequently Tuesday at 8,—and the class will meet for examination Tuesday, May 24, 2 p. m., according to the tabular form above. Again, physics (126) meets twice each week, T F, for a three-hour laboratory exercise, 1-4. The period for the examination, is, therefore, Saturday, May 28, 2 p. m.

N. B. All sections of "Principles of Speech" (1), (2) and (4) (Except Section J*) will meet during Examination Week on the days and at the periods designated below. Consult the bulletin board, Room 13 S. H. for room assignments.

Mon., May 24—Section H, 8-10 Speech (1), 8-10	Fri., May 27—Section I, 8-10 Section G, 1-3 Section C, 3-5 Speech (4), 3-5
Tues., May 24—Section A, 1-3 Section E, 3-5	Sat., May 28—Section D, 10-12 Section B, 1-3 Section F, 3-5

*Section J will meet as announced by the instructors.

"ODD" classes, namely those whose first or only weekly meetings occur on Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays, or Saturdays, or which meet "as arranged," will be assigned for examination, as announced to each such class, by the instructor in charge of the class, at one or another of the following periods:

1. From 4 to 6 on any day from May 23 to May 31 inclusive,—Sunday and Memorial Day excepted.
2. Any one of the examination periods assigned, as indicated above, for the examinations in the SPECIAL GROUPS, A, B, C, D, E, F and G, since for such "odd" classes these seven examination periods will be found quite available.

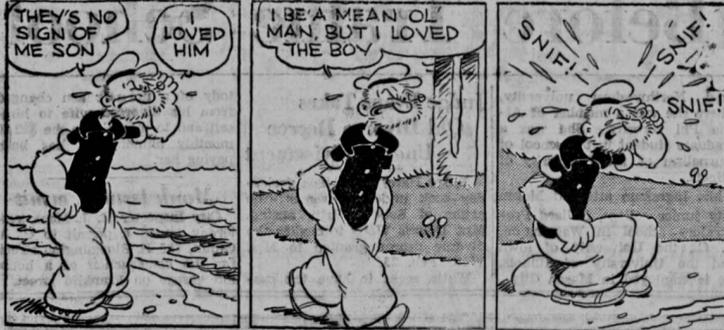

In connection with any such announcement it would doubtless be well for the instructor making the announcement to ascertain whether any member of his class is already under appointment for examination in some other class for the proposed period. To be sure it is possible to have examinations in more than one class at any of these times,—if no student is a member of more than one of these classes.

According to one clause in the formal faculty action providing for a special semester-examination program, "the instructor may use the examination period as he sees fit provided he holds the class for the full period. He may have an oral or a written examination, or both, or neither. He may continue regular work or he may use the time for review, or for any phase of his work which may seem to him desirable at this time.

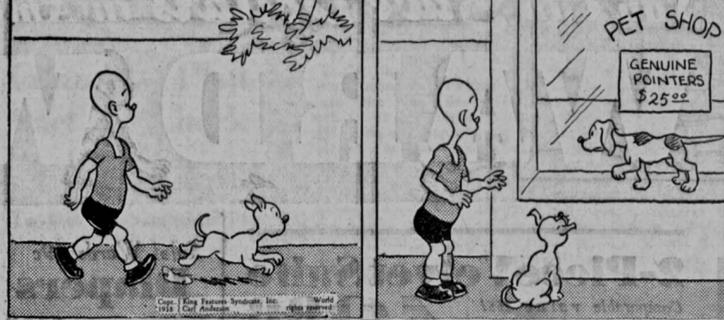

According to another faculty regulation, which is on record as adopted by the faculty, a student absent from the final examination should be reported "Abs.," unless the instructor recognizes that his work up to this examination has been a failure, in which case the final report should be "F."—even though the student may have been absent from the final examination. No examination should be given, subsequently, to such a student until after the absence has been excused by the Committee on Admission and Classification, as shown by a partially filled special report card, signed by the Secretary of the Committee, as indicating that the absence has been excused and that the student is authorized, subject to the consent and at the convenience of the instructor concerned, to take the final examination.

H. C. DORCAS, Secretary, Program Committee.

Gov. Kraschel Remits $1,950 Of Bond Posted for Vinciguerra

Uses Executive Right To Remit Fines And Forfeitures

Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel, using his executive authority to remit fines and forfeitures, yesterday ordered all but $50 of the $2,000 bond posted by Albert Ortale, Des Moines, bondsman for Sebastian Vinciguerra, to be remitted.

Governor Kraschel's order said that upon payment of the $50 by Ortale, he will be exonerated from any liability as surety on the appearance bond posted by Vinciguerra when he was arraigned in the Johnson county district court on a charge of illegal transportation of liquor.

County Attorney Harold W. Vestermark obtained a judgment against Ortale Nov. 9, 1937, after Vinciguerra failed to appear for trial on the liquor charge. When the county attorney attempted to levy an execution on Ortale's property in Des Moines, Ortale immediately appealed the judgment to the governor.

Judge Harold D. Evans has under advisement the action by County Attorney Vestermark to obtain a judgment against T. J. Scalise, Des Moines, for the amount of Vinciguerra's bond. The action questions the legality of a court order approving the bond with Ortale as surety and releasing the bond signed by Scalise.

Vestermark filed information against Vinciguerra charging him with the liquor violation after the car in which he was riding with Millio Millitti was wrecked east of Iowa City.

Sheriff Don McComas allegedly found more than 250 gallons of alcohol in the car. Vinciguerra is now serving a federal sentence in Ft. Leavenworth penitentiary.
