Hess Gets Lead In Oregon Vote

Early Returns Place Martin Far in Arrears

New Dealer Tops Rival In Demo Primary For Governor

PORTLAND, Ore., May 21 (Saturday) (AP) — Returns from 423 precincts of the state's 1,681 gave Henry L. Hess of La Grande 11,264 votes to 9,510 for Governor Charles L. Martin in the democratic contest for nomination as governor.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 20 (AP) — Henry Hess led Governor Charles H. Martin 1,916 votes to 1,849 in incomplete returns tonight from 81 precincts out of a total of 1,681.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 20 (AP) — Governor Charles H. Martin, 74-year-old executive, gained a two to one lead over Henry L. Hess of La Grande, for the democratic nomination for governor in the first returns tonight from Oregon's primary elections.

The early returns did not include eastern Oregon, the home section of Hess, who claimed endorsement from the new deal.

Charles Sprague, Salem newspaper editor, had a large lead in 16 incomplete precincts for the republican nomination as governor.

He polled 792 votes against 186 for Sam Brown of Gervais and 82 for Charles Paine of Eugene, his principal opponents in an eight-man race.

Slayers Given Life Sentences

FORT MADISON, May 20 (AP) — Gene Cooper, 26, Earl Davis, 22, and Kenneth Gaulk, 28, received life sentences in district court here today after they pleaded guilty to the robbery-slaying of Albert Decker, 37, Fort Madison factory worker.

The body of Decker, was found in the Mississippi river north of Keokuk May 7. It was weighted down with two cement filled cans and a brass ball.

The three previously had signed statements admitting they robbed Decker of $400 the night of March 18, beat him with a crank and threw his body into the river.

Davis, of Fort Madison, agreed to drive Decker to St. Louis, Mo., that night, the three admitted. They said Cooper, also of Fort Madison, and Gaulk of Burlington, hid in the back seat until the factory worker got in the car.

The three took Decker to a shack near the river, which Gaulk and Cooper had rented, robbed him, beat him and then threw his weighted body in the Mississippi, they said.

Cattle Feeders Invade Iowa State Campus

AMES, May 20 (AP) — About 1,800 Iowa cattle feeders were on the Iowa State college campus today for the annual "hey day" program during which the animal husbandman announced results of the experiment station's 1937-38 feeding trials.

Results of the tests showed common to medium grades of native steers, rather than choice animals, returned the most profit.

Drop Leaflets Over Japan

Chinese Planes Hold Bloodless 'Air Raid'; Distribute Goodwill Handbills

HANKOW, China, May 20 (AP) — Hankow celebrated today the first flight of Chinese warplanes over Japan proper — a bloodless "air raid" in which the Chinese said leaflets instead of bombs were dropped.

(In Tokyo the newspaper Nichi Nichi said an "unidentified airplane" dropped anti-military leaflets on southernmost Kyushu island and disappeared toward the sea. The newspaper said police confiscated the leaflets before the public were aware of their presence.)

(The Japanese war and navy ministries ridiculed the Chinese announcement of the flight. Imperial headquarters indicated it would make a statement but suddenly changed its plans.) Chinese headquarters said two American-made (Martin) twinengined bombers, each manned by crews of four Chinese, made the flight early today from an unannounced base.

The headquarters, in a communique tonight which called the expedition a "Chinese aerial good will mission to Japan," said the airplanes flew over Kyushu, southwesternmost of Japan's principal islands.

It said they dropped handbills on Nagasaki, 470 miles from Shanghai; Fukuoka, 65 miles northeast of Nagasaki; Sasebo, naval base 30 miles north of Nagasaki, and other cities on the island.

(Americans in Fukuoka reported all was quiet there.) Chinese said they fliers covered 2,500 miles, the longest non-stop flight ever made by Chinese air-

Nippon's Victorious Armies Point Toward Interior China

SHANGHAI, May 21 (Saturday) (AP) — Japanese, having announced complete occupation of Suchow, fusing their conquests in coastal China, intend to turn their armies inland through the nation's heart.

An Associated Press correspondent learned directly from Japanese officers of the central China front that a new campaign destined to carry Japan's armies inland south of the Yellow river already was under way.

The correspondent was the first American newspaper man to reach the war zone behind the Japanese lines since the fall of Nanking last Dec. 13. He was flown there in a Japanese war plane and talked with the general, who insisted that his name not be disclosed — in command of Japanese forces that advanced on Suchow from the south.

Troops Must Surrender The general declared the city was completely occupied and 40 Chinese divisions, surrounded in the Suchow area, faced surrender or annihilation.

Other Japanese sources estimated the trapped Chinese at 35,000 and said 7,000 already had been killed. The Chinese were said to be in retreat toward Siayi, 15 miles to the south; Chulan, 16 miles to the southwest, and Sutsien, 70 miles to the southeast.

In face of jubilant Japanese reports that China's resistance was crumbling, Chinese again today insisted they still were holding Suchow, key to their central front defenses.

Along the important Lunghai railroad, which runs inland from Suchow, Chinese declared Japanese lost 1,000, killed in heavy fighting.

President Wants $23,875,000 To Increase Sea, Air Forces

Fund Will Start Work; $115,000,000 Cost Of Completion

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP) — Congress received a presidential request today that it appropriate $23,875,000 immediately to begin strengthening the nation's sea and air defenses in accordance with the three-day old naval expansion act.

The president outlined the intended uses of the fund as follows in a letter to Speaker Bankhead:

For three new warships, 10 auxiliaries and a fleet of small vessels of great speed and maneuverability, $16,500,000.

For nine patrol planes of the latest type, $3,375,000.

For a rigid airship — the first since the Macon and Akron crashed several years ago — $500,000.

For improvements at navy yards, $3,500,000.

The money, scheduled to be included in the second deficiency appropriation bill now pending before the house appropriations committee, would be sufficient only for a start on the new vessels and the dirigible. Unofficial navy estimates placed their ultimate cost at around $115,000,000.

The warships for which the president asked funds are two light cruisers and an airplane carrier, which probably will cost about $22,000,000 each to complete.

The auxiliaries include a destroyer tender, a large seaplane tender and two small ones, a mine layer, a mine sweeper, two oil tankers and two fleet tugs. The dirigible is to be of 3,000,000 cubic feet. The naval expansion act provides that its total cost shall not be more than $30,000,000.

Governor Urges Building Program

DES MOINES, Ia., May 20 (AP) — Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel today sought through messages to Iowa Senators Gillette and Herring to put the dateline for PWA grants to finance a comprehensive state building program — if the 1939 legislature decides it wants such a program.

The governor did not specify any amount involved in a contemplated building program, but the state comptroller's office estimated building needs at state board of control institutions as well as a proposed state office building could be financed with $10,000,000.

Pedigreed Malaria Mosquitoes Made Useful

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 20 (AP) — Pedigreed strains of mosquitoes, thoroughbreds of a once-deadly family of insects, will be sent into battle against syphilis by University of Tennessee medical school officials.

Dr. Frank L. Roberts, head of the department of preventive medicine, said the school's insectary — one of the most complete and modern in the world wherein from 3,000 to 4,000 mosquitoes are bred monthly — is prepared for the inauguration this fall of a 10-year program of malaria therapy for patients.

"There are about 300 persons at Bolivar state hospital suffering from paresis (softening of the brain), the result of syphilis," Dr. Roberts said.

100 Sudeten Germans Injured In Attack on Czech Soldiers

Diplomats Stop To Argue Over Spanish War

France and Italy Fail To Agree in Pact Of Friendship

LONDON, May 20 — European powers warily shuttled warships and troops in imposing numbers in the vital Mediterranean area tonight while diplomats bickered over the Spanish war.

France and Italy, unable to come to terms in moves for a friendship pact because each backs a different side in Spain, prepared for almost simultaneous maneuvers in their bordering African colonies of Tunisia and Libya.

Diplomats were frankly worried over the rapidly developing, tense situation but refused to express open alarm.

Great Britain hoped all difficulty would be ironed out in a meeting of a subcommittee of the international "hands off Spain" group called for next Thursday.

Significant Developments Significant developments of the day included:

1. King Vittorio Emanuele of Italy left Sicily for Italian Libya to watch army maneuvers near the border of French Tunisia.

2. Seven French cruisers and 18 destroyers anchored off Bizerta, naval base of the French protectorate of Tunisia, for combined maneuvers with the air forces.

3. Four German warships — the pocket battleship Admiral Scheer and the torpedo boats Ilits, Wolf and Tiger — will stop at Gibraltar tomorrow on what officials labeled a routine call.

4. Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, called at the German foreign office because of reports of large German troop movements toward the frontiers.

Routine Training It was reported Sir Neville was assured the movements were only a part of routine training — transference of troops from town barracks to country camps.

This development came at a time when Germany's designs toward Czechoslovakia rank with the Spanish problem among Europe's great worries.

The French and Italian maneuvers in their neighboring colonial possessions coincide with tension over suspension of Italo-French conversation for a friendship pact to parallel the Anglo-Italian Easter pact.

French Dueling Dramatists Leave Field In Anger After 4 Minutes' Fencing

PARIS, May 20 (AP) — The dueling dramatists, Edouard Bourdet and Henry Bernstein, fought for four minutes at swords' points today and came off the field of honor angrier than ever.

Bernstein stabbed Bourdet, director of the state-owned Comedie Francaise, in the right arm with the needle-sharp point of his epee but the injury was slight.

The duel, fought on an estate in suburban Neuilly, ended on a dramatic note for its followers in Paris boulevards and cafes.

The antagonists, unreconciled, left the damp field without shaking hands.

The duelist's code binds both of them to cease the barrages of public letters over the particular incident that led to the challenge but a new flare-up in their long enmity was awaited.

The challenge resulted from Bernstein's withdrawal of his whole repertoire of plays from the Comedie Francaise because of what he regarded as a slight by Bourdet against his play "Judith."

Bourdet, known in the United States for his play "The Captive," publicly accused Bernstein of acting in bad faith. Bernstein, also publicly, accused Bourdet of lying and challenged him to duel.

German News Agency Makes Report Public

Incidents Were Planned And Promoted Says Goering's Paper

BERLIN, May 21 (Saturday) (AP) — Deutsches Nachrichtenburo (official German news agency) today made public a report from Komotau, Czechoslovakia, that approximately 100 Sudeten Germans were injured, more or less seriously, as a result of an attack by Czech soldiers.

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's newspaper national Zeitung of Essen, commenting on reported anti-Sudeten attacks in Czechoslovakia, declared: "These incidents indicated they were planned and promoted by responsible Praha circles for certain reasons. Incidents in towns and villages inhabited by Sudeten Germans, in Praha and other places can not be blamed upon Sudetens."

The commander of the Komotau Gendarmerie emphatically denied the reports. His answer to telephoned inquiries was that they were "pure invention."

German Troops Move Late yesterday reliable sources said German foreign office officials had assured Britain and Czechoslovakia that current German troop movements merely were routine.

The assurances were said to have been given in response to inquiries concerning reported troop movements to Germany's frontiers.

The Deutsches Nachrichtenburo report was carried under a Praha dateline. It said soldiers emerging from side streets suddenly, without reason, attacked market crowds with fists and bayonets.

It added that police refused assistance and only after Gendarmerie arrived could the attackers be driven back to barracks.

Minor scuffles between Czechs and Sudeten Germans have become a daily occurrence in Czechoslovakia. So far, however, police have managed to disperse hostile groups without having to resort to arms.

Henlein Demands Autonomy (Konrad Henlein, Nazi leader of Czechoslovakia's 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans, has been demanding autonomy for the nation's German minority.)

Goering's newspaper demanded that the Czechoslovak government put a stop to this "unbearable terror."

"Not only the Sudeten German populace but the entire German nation is regarding developments of the last few days as unbearable and look upon a continuation of this terror as a planned attempt upon the rights and lives of Sudeten Germans," the paper continued.

It went on to charge the Czechoslovak government with conducting an election campaign by a display of its police force to scare the German element.

'SPENDING FOREVER' Green Cautions Public On Spending

CINCINNATI, May 20 (AP) — President William Green of the American federation of labor declared tonight: "We cannot go on fighting emergency conditions with government spending forever."

"We must find a solution for our unemployment problem," he continued in an address prepared for the A. F. of L.'s first annual trade and union label exposition here.

The Real Problem Of Relief

ALL MAN'S existence has centered about his search for food. He has won battles, dreamed dreams, painted pictures, penned literature, but only after this first and basic need has been met. Thus the problem of hunger—or relief, if you will—is as old as man himself.

This morning legislative groups in both Ohio and Illinois are meeting to search for an answer to the relief problems of their large cities. It has been estimated, for instance, that 17 millions will be necessary to meet relief demands of urban centers in Ohio for the balance of 1938. In Chicago expenditures have been running close to the three-million mark each month.

In Cleveland, Chicago, Dayton and other cities within the region, crowds of hungry persons have gathered to demand food. Here and there sullen sitdown strikes have broken out. Signs saying "Soak the rich and feed the poor," or "Don't starve; fight!" have appeared in street processions. There has been an increasing tendency on the part of relief recipients to look upon the dole as one of their rights, to mutter and grumble as they carried emergency rations of cabbages, prunes and potatoes from surplus commodities depots.

Of course it is hard to be idealistic on an empty stomach. There is nothing more matter-of-fact than going hungry. Hunger does things to the mind. It makes for resentment and savagery and unreasoning hatred. It refuses to think in terms of moderation. It will not be downed.

That the United States cannot and will not knowingly permit anyone to starve within its borders is an undisputed fact. This much is demanded by humanity. But that the government owes any man or woman a living simply because he or she was born under its flag is not true. This doctrine, with all its host of corollaries, is false, and any practices which may encourage its acceptance are unhealthy by just so much as they convey such an impression.

Equally significant is the fact that this vast proletariat of the hungry is a potential threat to our democratic form of government. No matter how scrupulous the present administration, no matter how open minded those on relief, an arrangement whereby the executive is empowered to offer a dole to the group which places him in office is not conducive to good government. Europe today is evidence that nations can eat their way into political slavery, that they can sell their birthright for bread.

Today there is no break in sight, no cessation from the stupendous costs of relief. Harry Hopkins has asked for more WPA jobs in the future. Bills for more direct relief, for added government spending are even now in congress. New deal officials predict that the load will become heavier in the next few months instead of lighter.

Perhaps we can continue in this way one year or five years without complete business breakdown. No one knows exactly how much a courageous nation can take, how much sacrifice its citizens can make. But this relief situation is sapping at the heart of American morale. We can not recover through the doctrine, "The state owes me a living." Relief can be relief in the true sense of the word only when it provides a self-respecting chance for the head of the family to get a permanent job. And this after all is the big question of relief, not the securing of more money to buy more food for more doles.

Summer Days And Fire Prevention

SUMMER DAYS are here. And the American people will soon start a pleasant round of motor-trip, picnics, camping excursions and other forms of outdoor recreation. There are millions of acres of ravished, blackened stump land in this country that once bore magnificent trees—because someone was careless with a campfire. Some of the finest natural garden spots have been turned into ashy wastes—because someone was careless with a cigaret. Animals and human beings have perished in holocausts of raging flame—because someone took a chance with fire.

Almost all states have laws against throwing matches or lighted tobacco from cars. Obey them rigorously. They are sound laws, designed for your protection, and they deserve your cooperation. An excellent practice is to break a match in two between your fingers before dropping it; then you'll know it is really out.

Don't go on a camping trip without the basic tools of fire control—a shovel and a good-sized bucket. If possible, make a rock fire-place for your fire. Under no circumstances build it near brush, dry leaves or other easily inflammable materials. Don't build a large fire—a relatively small one is adequate for all camping needs. And when you are through with it, really put it out. Douse it with water, and shovel over the ashes. Be certain that not a spark is left.

The prevention of fire in the outdoors is its own reward—it guarantees that there will be a beauty spot for you to visit next year.

It's Time For Labor to Cooperate

PERHAPS we're wrong, but we think it is significant that William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, has at last made a labor speech without flinging mud at the rival C.I.O. union group.

In his speech last night at Cincinnati, instead of calling John Lewis and the C.I.O. "communists and radicals and un-American," as he has been doing for the many past months, Green confined himself to setting forth the needs of American labor.

He stressed the necessity of putting more men to work in private industry, of the reduction of government borrowing and spending, of providing for shorter hours and higher wages, and eliminating sweatshop conditions.

He spoke of educating "the American public to use only union-labeled products and union-conducted services, for the union label stands for decency, quality, honor and fair dealing with our fellow men.

These are legitimate and constructive goals. Of course they have been stated before. They will be presented a good many times again before they are finally achieved. But they will not be achieved by warfare between rival labor camps. Green has at last indicated that he is becoming aware of this. Now it's up to John L. Lewis.

SATURN'S JEWEL RING

A poet has likened the moons of Saturn to pearls that thread a silver line of light. His eye must have been at a telescope, and the ring, which notably distinguishes the planet from its less adorned companions in the solar-system, must have been edgewise toward the earth to make the silver line. If he did his star-gazing through a sufficiently powerful telescope he could have seen nine pearls. The giant lens, soon to be set up on the table top of Palomar peak, northeast of San Diego, may settle the controversy over whether there is a 10th.

Since 1905, when the late Prof. W. H. Pickering of Harvard, reported what he believed to be a faint satellite of Saturn, hitherto unaccounted, the textbooks have differed as to the number of the lunar pearls. The Pickering report has never been confirmed. John Miller, an English astronomer, has recently revived interest in a possible 10th.

Miller relies upon Bode's law, propounded by a German astronomer 250 years ago, which established empirically a proportionate relationship among planetary distances from the sun. He contends that the law applies to the distances of the moons of Saturn from their parent body, except for a too long gap stretching from the eighth to the ninth. Between these two outermost moons he suspects the presence of another that would keep the law inviolate. Pickering's observation of more than 30 years ago may yet be vindicated. Saturn may have 10 jewels in its ring. In view of his dark mythological reputation as the devourer of five of his six children, Saturn would seem to be a trifle garish in display.

Shingles Do Not Cause Death When Encircling Entire Body

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

That if shingles meet around the center of the body, it is fatal. I once had a frantic midnight call from a woman who had what she termed "double shingles," and two eruptions, coming around the sides of her chest, had met in the skin in the center of her body and she was sure she was going to die. I would like to record for the benefit of everyone who is interested that she did not, and still is alive and hearty.

Heaven knows where this superstition got started, although it is rather a natural one. Shingles, or herpes zoster, is a condition in which there is an inflammation in the sensory branch of the nerves, especially those that go around the trunk of the body. These nerves have a segmental arrangement, entering the spinal cord at intervals of about an inch, and are distributed to successive layers of skin about a hand's breadth in width clear around one side of the body.

When this inflammation occurs there is a very painful neuralgia of the skin area for a few days, followed by a blistering eruption. It is almost always one sided and encircles the body from the spine to the midriff, just like half a belt. Sometimes it occurs on both sides in the same segment, and the superstition has always been that if it goes clear around the body and meets in the middle, it will be fatal.

This, as I say, is not necessarily true. In fact, I never heard of a case in which death occurred from shingles of any kind. The eruption is entirely on the surface, and there is no involvement of the internal organs or the blood supply so there is no real reason why a fatality should occur, even though it looks as if nature were sawing a woman in half.

Another achievement — which no thoughtful persons may overlook — to the credit of Mussolini and Hitler is that they have successfully abolished from contemporary writings all references to "Sunny Italy" and "Jolly Germany."

Odd Zoo Watchers Are Caged, Monkeys Free By The AP Feature Service MIAMI, Fla.—There is an odd zoo here where the usual status of man and animal is reversed. In it, monkeys—dozens of them—swing through the trees. But human beings who come to watch them are caged in.

The idea of confining spectators came from necessity, says Mrs. Joseph DuMont, an attractive brunette, who runs the strange zoo with her husband. "We started the monkey jungle originally to study the life and habits of the breed known as the Java monkey," she explained. "It was to be a scientific hobby while my husband worked at his regular trade as a commercial artist."

"We acquired this 10-acre 'jungle' and released six of the species. Word got around, and so many visitors came that the avocation soon occupied all our time. People did such foolish things, for they wouldn't believe the monkeys really were wild. We were fearful the whole tribe would gang up on somebody. So we determined to leave the monkeys free and cage in the spectators."

Now the Simians swarm through the trees, chattering gleefully at the human beings fenced in beneath them, or race for the wire netting if food appears in a visitor's hand. Despite their freedom, the monkeys never try to escape because food is plentiful in the zoo.

Mary, a chimpanzee, being closer to the human race than the others, is likewise caged in. She seems to resent this. She places bits of food outside her cage in the hope of luring one of her cousins close enough to seize. "When she catches one," Mrs. DuMont said, "she gives it the beating of its life."

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—For some inexplicable reason I am always confusing Jimmy Dorsey with his brother Tommy. There is no reason for this, except that they are brothers and lead rival bands. They don't look alike and they do not play the same style of music. Tommy heaves generally to the swing line, and some recent polls have placed him higher even than Benny Goodman. Jimmy goes for swing, too, but he also has a liking for a softer, sweeter form of musical expression.

These brothers are an interesting parallel in modern dance bands. Like the Waring, Fred and Tom, they used to be together but in those days they were rewarded with only fair success. Then, about five years ago, they branched out on their own. They are both big time organizations now. Tommy has just completed an engagement at the Paramount theater, in Times Square, and shortly leaves for a tour of the country.

At New Yorker Jimmy, too, is just winding up a big town booking. I sat in on one of his final evenings at the Hotel New Yorker, where he has had a marvelous reception, and in the company was a representative of Jimmy's who knows both brothers from sax to trombone. That's what they play. . . . Jimmy is a "reed" man. . . . He plays the clarinet and the sax. . . . Tommy plays the trombone.

One learns that the Dorsey boys come by their musical inclinations naturally and honestly. . . . Their father was the leader of a band in a Pennsylvania town, where they were born. Tommy is slightly the taller of the two, and a shade lighter in complexion. He wears glasses. Jimmy is darker, on the slender side, and does not wear glasses. He is a golf bug and a crony of Bing Crosby. He and Bing frequently team up in a west coast foursome with Bob Burns and John Montague. . . . Jimmy and Crosby used to play in the same band together. Crosby of course being the vocalist. About the time Tommy is knee deep in his tour Jimmy will be on one too. Tommy goes west but Jimmy heads into the south.

Washington World

By CHARLES P. STEWART WASHINGTON, D. C. — Many folk evidently are puzzled by the state department's acquiescence in Mexico's nationalization of foreign oil properties south of the Rio Grande.

"Suppose," one of my acquaintances remarked to me the other day, "some foreign oil company acquired an acreage of Oklahoma or Texas oil land. So long as that company paid its taxes and complied with our laws generally, how could Uncle Sam find a valid excuse for confiscating its holdings? For that matter, how could Uncle Samuel find an excuse for expropriating a similar domestic owner?"

Sure enough. Uncle Sam could not. But the United States and Mexico are different.

The state department is strictly according to international Hoyle in its position.

Different in U. S. The title-holder to a piece of land in the United States not only owns the surface of it but everything underneath its surface, theoretically down to the earth's center. And theoretically he owns the air above it, indefinitely on up into the firmament. He probably would have difficulty in getting a trespass verdict against an aviator for flying across his place, a mile or two up in the heavens, but he certainly can put a stop to having wires strung across it, only at the height of a telegraph or electric power pole.

That is old English common law, which we inherited.

The government's authority of eminent domain slightly qualifies these personal property rights, but almost inappreciably.

But in Mexico In Mexico it has been an established principle, dating back to the time of the Spanish conquest, that all sub-soil riches are the state's.

When Mexico was Spain's such riches were the crown's.

Oil of course was not recognized in those days, but gold and silver were.

Madrid's royalty had to have the metals dug up, indeed, in order to make them useful.

However, it never ceded its mines to private diggers.

An optimist is a fellow who thinks congress will pass a law making it obligatory for all public officials to pay income tax—without, immediately, passing other law raising congressmen's salaries.

Dent Students Get Honors At Senior Lecture

C. Schneberger Is Given Award—5 Elected To Fraternity

Five senior dental students were elected to Omicron Kappa Upsilon, honorary dental fraternity, and one senior student awarded a certificate from the American Society for the Promotion of Children's Dentistry yesterday morning at the annual senior lecture.

Those elected to Omicron Kappa Upsilon are Maurice S. Rodgers of Onawa, Russell B. Ranney of Armstrong, Russell R. Pardun of Brandon, Robert D. Wyckoff of College Springs and Paul J. Maggio of Boone. Cletus J. Schneberger of Ossian was awarded the certificate from the American Society for the Promotion of Children's Dentistry as the senior showing the most interest and proficiency in preventive dentistry.

Election to Omicron Kappa Upsilon is determined by scholastic ability and character. Faculty members of each component chapter or a committee delegated by them elect the upper 12 per cent of each graduating class.

The fraternity was organized in 1914 by the faculty of the dental school of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. The object of the organization is to encourage scholastic competition and to recognize those who have distinguished themselves by high grade of scholarship.

Mu chapter was organized at the University of Iowa in 1923.

Students in the school of journalism will celebrate their annual Pica-Nic today on the Linden farm about one-and-a-half miles north of Iowa City. The change in location was announced yesterday.

Food and entertainment will be provided free to journalism students and faculty members of the school of journalism. Transportation will be provided.

The chairmen in charge of the Pica-Nic preparations include Margaret Gordon, A4 of Iowa City, food; Wilton Lutwack, A4 of Buffalo, N. Y., invitations and publicity; Luther Bowers, G of Waterloo, transportation, and Tom Johnson, U of Iowa City, location.

Second-Year Math Students to Compete For Annual Prize

Mathematics students will compete for the $25 Lowden prize in mathematics this morning from 8 to 11 o'clock in room 222, physics building.

The competition is conducted annually for university students. The Hon. Frank O. Lowden, a University alumnus of 1885, has established an endowment for this and similar competitions in other departments. It is open to all sophomores who are about to complete the work of the freshman and sophomore years in mathematics.

Prof. John F. Reilly and Prof. Roscoe Woods of the mathematics departments are in charge of the contest.

50 Years Iowa Citizens Honored On Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. August Helm, 309 Melrose avenue, were guests of honor at a dinner celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary last night in Youde's inn. The party was given by their immediate family and intimate friends.

Out-of-town guests were the Helms' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. August Burr, and Mrs. Helm's sister, Mrs. Charles Avey, and her daughter, Elsie Avey, all of Audubon.

Other relatives of the two guests of honor who were present were their son, Carl Helm of Iowa City, and his five sons, Francis, Morris, Walter, Theodore and Carl Dean; their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Maher of Iowa City, and their daughter, Dorothy Minna, and their two grandsons, Donald and Billy Helm, sons of Clarence Helm, the other son, who is not living.

The dinner table was centered with a large wedding cake and decorated with yellow and white candles and flowers.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. Stimmel, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Yoder and their daughter, Shirley Maxine, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Woltschek, Mrs. Marie Sievers, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hartsock, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Manley and the Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Proehl.

Iowa's Leading Ladies of Westlawn

—Daily Iowan Engraving

Miss Cline is president of the student nurses' organization. Her other campus activities include Homecoming committee, Union Board sub-committee and social committee. She was a member of the glee club last year. She recently received Westlawn's annual award for campus activities.

The honor of being president of her class for three consecutive years has been conferred upon Miss Tyler. She was active in the Westlawn broadcasting group and served as a member of the student council. During the last year she has been the official nominating chairman at Westlawn. As a reward for her activities on the campus, Miss Tyler received the university activity seal.

Miss Bevans was chairman of Caps Caprice, nurses' formal, and held the same position for Westlawn's spring party. She has been active in both basketball and tennis. She was a member of the Homecoming committee and was directing chairman of all guest nights at Westlawn.

A five-year student in the school of nursing, Miss Conrad was elected president of the freshman class last year. She is a pledge of Sigma Theta Tau, honorary nursing sorority. During this year she has served on Union Board sub-committee and has also been treasurer of the student nurses' organization.

Precocious Canadian Children Like 'Heavy' Music

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW
NEW YORK (AP) — Bach is heavy musical diet for most adult concert-goers, but Montreal children lap it up. They think nothing of spending a Saturday afternoon listening to an all-Bach program—or to Beethoven and Mozart.

Why all this enthusiasm for the great masters? Perhaps it's because Wilfred Pelletier, one of the conductors for the Metropolitan Opera company, who directs these Montreal concerts, has definite ideas on music for children. Here's the way he conducts their concerts:

He plays the score as it's written; no simplifying. That would ruin it, he thinks. And he doesn't talk down to the children. He addresses them on an adult level.

But he doesn't plunge into the program with his child audience quite unprepared. A talk — the conductor calls it an "initiation" — comes first. He explains what's going on in the overture to "The Flying Dutchman." He tells the children to listen for certain instruments. Or he may get one of the horn players to go over the themes.

That insures the children's at-ention, and increases their interest. Mr. Pelletier reports that they nod and smile at one another when a familiar theme is taken up by first one section of the orchestra, then another.

He lets the children interrupt at any time, too. That's something new in the concert line. If a child wants to, he may even climb up on the stage and toot the tuba—try to, that is. All in the line of musical experience, says Mr. Pelletier.

The series of 10 Saturday afternoon concerts ends with a lot of prize-giving. That's a further way to the children's hearts.

At every concert, each child gets a leaflet containing questions on the music to be played. The youngster must identify instruments, recognize themes. Prizes are given the winners at the close of the symphony season.

What's more, the children are allowed to request numbers. Even Mr. Pelletier is astounded at the "heaviness" of the requests.

"You see?" he says triumphantly. "They like it."

How did he happen to start the children's concerts? (They've been going on for four seasons now.)

"Well," he said, "when I was a youngster in Montreal, there were no children's concerts. In fact, all musical facilities were extremely limited. So I decided to remedy that when I could."

Gilmore Invites '78-'32 Alumni

Sends 5,600 Letters; 8 Events Slated For June 4

Some 5,600 University of Iowa alumni, who left the institution from 5 to 60 years ago, this week will receive letters from President Eugene A. Gilmore urging them to return for class reunions next month.

They are the members of classes from 1878 to 1932, spaced at five-year intervals. It is expected that more than 1,000 of them will be present at some of the events of the 78th commencement program, principally on alumni day June 4.

Eight events, largest number of any day of commencement program, officially have been scheduled for alumni day, commencement officials announced.

The program will begin at 8 a.m. with the alumni and veterans' golf tournament and will end with the second performance of the commencement play that evening.

Among the other events are: university open house with all departments at home, alumni luncheon, class reunions in the afternoon, class and college dinners as arranged by officers, meeting of the alumni association directors at dinner, and evening band concert.

Officials expect alumni to come from points as far distant as New York and California. Commencement begins Wednesday, June 1, and ends with the formal degree-awarding ceremony on the morning of June 6.

May Issue of Palimpsest Will Include Articles by Several Faculty Members

The May issue of Palimpsest, state historical society publication, contains articles by Dr. William J. Petersen and Dr. J. A. Swisher, both of the state historical society, Prof. John E. Briggs of the political science department, Prof. Luella M. Wright of the English department and Marie Haefner, university archivist.

In his article, "Cultural Aspirations," Dr. Petersen traces the early growth of education in Iowa which started with a log cabin school in 1830.

Professor Wright has written the article "Verse in the Newspapers," which points out that the three newspapers west of the Mississippi which were supplying their pioneer subscribers with current news, official news, political affairs and advertising local business had begun to provide a modicum of cultural reading by 1838. "Verse was seldom crowded out by advertising or the publication of the statutes, Professor Wright says. The verse, however, was not used as a mere filler but rather as a humanizing influence among the necessary hardships and conditions of life on the frontier," she writes. Poems of sentiment predominated.

The increase of population that was the result of the immigration which flowed into the territory west of the Mississippi in 1838 is the topic discussed by Miss Haefner in her article "The Census of 1838."

"Municipal Election" written by Dr. Swisher and "A Commonplace Calendar" by Professor Briggs conclude the issue.

MIAMI, Fla.—Sixteen-year-old Maxine Moore of Crowder, Miss., delights in sticking out her tongue these days. She never had seen it before last March 15.

Maxine's jaws, locked together since her infancy, were released by a miracle of modern surgery performed by a young Miami bone specialist, Dr. F. A. Vogt.

Forced to leave school because of weakness resulting from undernourishment, Maxine came here four months ago to visit her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Turner. She had been subsisting on liquids and soft food pushed between her teeth.

Although specialists had failed to loosen Maxine's jaws in intermittent efforts for 13 years, the Turners took her to Dr. Vogt. He studied X-ray pictures of her jaws for almost three months before attempting an operation.

Pupils to Give Three Recitals

Program Offered By Music Club To Be Tomorrow

Three recitals by young music students of Iowa City are scheduled for tomorrow afternoon. The groups to be presented are the Junior Music club, the music club of the sixth grade at University elementary school and the piano pupils of Mrs. C. L. Robbins, 1049 Woodlawn.

Mrs. Wiley Rutledge, 122 E. Church street, will be hostess to the Junior Music club at a guest day recital and tea at 3 p.m. tomorrow at her home.

This Man Was Not Wasting Any Money

DUNN, N. C. (AP) — Gus Gainey was a frugal colored man. He bought an automobile 17 years ago, paying $800 cash. With the machine came five gallons of gas.

After using up the gas Gainey decided the machine was too expensive to operate. He put it under a shed and never drove it again.

It remained under the shed, unused, until his death a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Droll will be hostess at the meeting next Friday.

Former Iowa Citian to Wed At St. Mary's

Will Become Bride of V. M. Vogel at 8 This Morning

In a ceremony this morning, a forerunner of the June wedding season, Dorothy Holoubek, daughter of Mrs. Mary Holoubek, 814 E. Market street, will become the bride of Victor M. Vogel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Vogel of Malcom.

The bridegroom's brother, the Rev. Lawrence Vogel of Ft. Madison, will perform at the 8 o'clock ceremony in St. Mary's church. The Rev. A. J. Schulte will read the nuptial mass.

The bride will be gowned in floor-length white satin cut on princess lines with a short train and a Queen Anne collar of lace. Her finger-tip veil is in three tiers held with a wreath of orange blossoms. She will carry a shower bouquet of white roses and a white pearl rosary, the gift of the bridegroom.

Her maid of honor, her sister, Jeanette, will wear white silk moire with a full skirt and jeweled belt. She will carry a colonial bouquet of white roses and orchid sweet peas with matching flowers in her hair.

The bridesmaids will also wear flowers in their hair to match their bouquets of roses and sweet peas. Elizabeth Vogel of Des Moines, the bridegroom's sister, will wear blue organza with a blue satin sash, and Charlotte Holoubek, the bride's sister, will be in pink.

Attorney Charles Vogel of Grinnell and Louis Vogel of Waterloo will attend the bridegroom. Acolytes will be George Holoubek and Virgil Scherrer.

There will be palms at the church entrance and the altar will be decorated with iris and snapdragons. Zita Fuhrmann, organist, will play the Lohengrin wedding march for a procession, and Mendelssohn's for the recessional. Alex Comerford of Grinnell will sing the Ave Maria.

After the ceremony a breakfast will be served to 50 guests at Youde's inn. Mrs. William P. Mueller will play the violin, accompanied by Catherine Corso. The bride's table, decorated in blue and white, will be centered with a wedding cake.

Among out-of-town guests will be the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Woltman, and Mrs. Anna Krefit of Chicago, Raymond and John Vogel, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Mehlin and Mr. and Mrs. John Bausman, all of Malcom, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Vogel of North Vernon, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Gill of Gillman, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Flanagan of Grinnell and Mr. and Mrs. John Carran of Rock Island, Ill.

Miss Holoubek is a graduate of St. Mary's high school and the university. She is a former campus editor of The Daily Iowan and has been society editor of the South Bend, Ill., paper for four years.

The couple will make their home on a farm near Malcom after a wedding trip in northern Minnesota.

Haney, Rohlena Wed Here Wednesday At Nazarene Parsonage

Married in a ceremony Wednesday afternoon at the Nazarene parsonage were Alys Haney, daughter of O. A. Haney of San Francisco, and Joseph Rohlena, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rohlena of Fairfax. The Rev. C. M. King officiated.

The bride's cousin, Mrs. Claude Sexton, and the bridegroom's brother, Frank Rohlena Jr., attended the couple.

The bride was graduated from Iowa City high school. She has been employed as cashier in the Economy grocery store. Mr. Rohlena is farming near Fairfax, where they will live.

After the wedding ceremony, Mrs. Harlan Alt, sister of the bride, entertained at a reception at her home near North Liberty.

Iowa City Gardeners Await the Annual Flower Show June 2

Iowa Citians are watching the weather with more than usual interest as June 2 approaches, welcoming both the waning spring sunshine and the warm spring rains. For June 2 is flower-show day. Two of the town's enthusiastic gardeners are shown at work on blooms that may win them laurels at the 16th annual show. At the left Mrs. Alvin W. Bryan, 365 Ellis avenue, wields an ambitious hoe. Mrs. Bryan is chairman of the committee in charge of the shadow-box exhibits. The other gardener, Mrs. James W. Jones, 701 Melrose avenue, is co-chairman with Mrs. Harrison H. Gibbs, 529 S. Lucas street, in charge of general arrangements for the flower show. The exhibits will be displayed in the community building. The show is sponsored each year by the garden department of the Iowa City Woman's club.

Cardenas Strives to Create a New Social Order For Mexican Peons Despite Severe Criticism

Momentous things are happening in Mexico—you can tell that by the front page headlines. But it isn't so easy to tell from the day-by-day reports the motives of the men who are making these things happen and the meaning of it all to the people of Mexico—and to the outside world as well. This story, the first of three by a veteran correspondent in Mexico, will give you clearer insight into what's going on below the Rio Grande.

By J. P. McKnight
AP Foreign Service Writer

MEXICO CITY — A shawled Mexican Indian woman, her bare feet tentative on unaccustomed marble floors, carried two scrawny chickens into the Palace of Fine Arts here.

That was her contribution toward payment of the debt President Lazaro Cardenas incurred for Mexico with expropriation several weeks earlier of 17 British and American oil companies valued at $400,000,000.

That was her contribution, as Mexicans like to put it, for "economic independence."

The incident, and the phrase, point up in sharp relief everything Cardenas has been trying to do for his country since he took office three years ago as Mexico's youngest constitutional president.

He has striven consistently to bring to reality the precept of the Mexican revolution "Mexico for Mexicans."

Education of the illiterate Indians, distribution of land to the landless and public works are the prime points in his program to make Mexicans the masters of their own land.

In carrying that program forward, he has stepped sharply on the toes of foreign capital. He has even, some careful observers say, sacrificed his country's economic well being for the achievement of his social aims.

He has stirred up bitter opposition.

As he holds steadily to the course designed to set Mexico's feet in new social paths—likely, his enemies say, to lead the country to economic collapse and communism—the question often is asked:

He is an Indian

"What sort of man is this?"

The best brief answer, perhaps, is that he is an Indian.

Tarascan blood flows in his veins, and helps to explain his vigorous sympathy for Mexico's long oppressed 15,000,000 Indians and mestizos (people of mixed Spanish and Indian blood) his forthright attack upon what he conceives to be the evils of the old regime, his fatalistic disregard for consequences, his native shrewdness in meeting political problems.

His humble birth, 42 years ago in the village of Jiquilpan de Juarez in Michoacan, is revealed, too, in his simple mode of life, his dislike for the capital and his frequent tours of rural districts.

This army-trained "strong man" has gathered around him, to help him carry forward his "six-year plan," ten distinguished chiefly for the fact that they are whole-souled "Cardenistas." Save for that, there is no common denominator for the cabinet.

In it are grouped such contrasts as Gen. Francisco Mujica, secretary of communications and potential 1940 presidential candidate, whose private sympathies are said to be with communism, and Eduardo Suarez, finance minister, suave, cultured international lawyer, who leans to conservatism in politics and finance.

One Potential Rival

Gen. Eduardo Fay, foreign secretary, distinguished representative of the Mexican old school, is balanced in his own department by the youthful, influential under-secretary, Ramon Beteta, Texas-schooled and Cardenas' one-man radical "brain trust."

Technical experts like Agriculture Secretary Jose Parres and Eduardo Villasenor, under-secretary of finance, sit side by side at cabinet sessions with political appointees, distinguished chiefly for their liberal credos, like Gonzalo Vasquez Vela, minister of education.

In the Cardenas cabinet, only one man potentially rivals the president's political power.

He is Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, minister of war, now the leading aspirant to the presidency next elections, whose handling of his still unannounced campaign thus far has been as free from technical errors as his administration of the armed forces.

He is held to be a balance wheel, a middle-of-the-roader—and should his hope of the government party's presidential candidacy be thwarted, a possible leader of a potent opposition.

Small Town Girls Learn Job-Hunting Fails To Be Paradise in New York

By The AP Feature Service

Life in the big city for a little girl is not all it's cracked up to be.

If she has the disposition of an angel, the constitution of a horse, and the nerves of a tight-rope walker, she may land one of the alluring jobs she's read about. But the chances are she'll never draw more than $25 a week. It's no cinch to live in New York on that.

That's the picture Munro Leaf paints in his book of advice for girls who want a career in New York. He backs his statements with equally depressing statistics.

Try Snapshots First

"Listen Little Girl!" warns would-be actresses that 76 per cent of the 1936-'37 theatrical productions were flops, that 8,400 actors are looking for jobs in New York, and that 800 of the employed 1,500 chorus girls are practicing in night clubs, not in Broadway theaters.

If you aspire to become a photographer's model, don't give up your $12 a week job with the local gas company, Leaf urges, until you've submitted some snapshots to learn if you're photogenic.

"Being photogenic is just one of those things," he explains. "You are or you are not."

If you are not, there doesn't seem to be anything you can do about it. If you are, the competition is terrific.

How about brainy girls? You might do worse than try your hand at advertising, says Mr. Leaf. It's a field where youth is important, but ideas more important. Walk in with a good saleable idea, and you're likely to land in a swivel chair.

For "Nice" Girls

Newspaper jobs? Not so good.

No Money for Vacation?

Have Fun Anyway—Writer Suggests Cheap Ways of Enjoying the Summer

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer

If the family pocketbook won't stand the strain of a Scandinavian cruise this summer, and you can't even find a way to go to the mountains or seashore for two weeks, you have lots of company.

A vast proportion of America's 130,000,000 inhabitants are in the same plight, as usual, and what are they going to do about it?

If they are intelligent people, they will arrange "at-home" vacations. They will plan outings that cost little more than the sandwiches. And even if it's a long, hot summer, they'll have fun.

Summer is a grand sports time. You can't afford to join a golf club? It costs money to play tennis? Well, it doesn't cost more than the price of the roller skates to do a little fancy work on a smooth bit of pavement. Bicycling is another cheap sport. You can take your lunch along, and stay away all Sunday afternoon.

The more you can be outdoors the better, as long as you don't get yourself burned to crisp during the intense noonday heat. Buy a beach umbrella—even if you're miles from the ocean—and prop it up in the backyard. The baby can play under it, and you can lurk in its shade and regulate your sun tan.

If you can find any place to swim—a two by four pond is better than nothing—get in for a daily dip. You'll be cool for hours afterward, though the thermometer stays up. And if there just isn't any body of water around, rig up the garden hose, and let everybody get under it in his bathing suit.

The summer was made for picnics. Often the supper hour is the best time for them—it's cooler. If your children are old enough, let them take turns planning the

U-Hi Musicians Gibe Spring Program Enthusiastically Heard by Audience

By CLARA BARATZ

University high school's musicians blended vocal and instrumental talent in a lyrical spring program last night in the high school gymnasium.

Under the direction of Louise M. Turner, vocal groups performed with grace, and the high school band and orchestra dexterously executed the interpretive suggestions of their conductor, Walter L. Haderer. Individual members of both instrumental bodies played obligato passages with ability.

But, the most enthusiastically received performances were given by Lewis Ward, clarinetist, in the second movement, opus 107 of Mozart's Clarinet Concerto, and Robert Roth, cornetist, in Clarke's "Maid of the Mist." Both soloists handled their instruments with the adroitness of experienced musicians. Mozart's dignified classical theme was rendered with almost perfect tonality.

Among the outstanding vocal

Half the society editors in New York are men. If you should land one of the few jobs as a woman reporter, you might earn $50 a week—after three years.

Mr. Leaf reserves school teaching and social work for "nice" girls (maybe beautiful, maybe brainy, too, but primarily with "a center fiber of honest idealism"). And here he's more enthusiastic.

Teachers get long vacations, sabbatical leave, and security. Salaries stack up with business pay checks pretty well. But beginning competition is stiff, of course.

For social workers—boom days. Plenty of case work to do for government agencies.

Blackest of Mr. Leaf's dingy pictures is his description of department store work.

"When you begin to worry about where your next meal is coming from, you might try to get work in a department store," is his comment.

"You will work two nights a year at inventory taking and get just super money or a free meal for it. Five peak weeks a year you will work up to 48 hours, in most cases without extra compensation. And you can never hunt for a better job when you work six days a week from 9:20 to 5:40."

"This all sounds a bit vicious, but I have seen more normally intelligent, calm and placid women knock their nervous systems to hell in department-store selling than in any other job in New York."

President of Friendship Circle

The Friendship circle is a national organization, a branch of the international order of King's Daughters. The local circle was organized in January, 1937. The 25 members of the club meet once a month at an all-day meeting and sew for the children of the convalescent home at 22 E. Bloomington street. A potluck lunch is served at noon.

The state project of the Friendship circle is the King's Daughters boarding home at Ft. Madison. The children's convalescent home is the local project.

Mrs. Jones is also an active member of other clubs—vice-regent of the Pilgrim chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, vice-president of the Presbyterian Women's association and program chairman of the public welfare department of the Iowa City Woman's club.

Collecting antique dishes is a particular hobby of hers. She is also interested in public welfare work and drama and is active in the drama department of the Woman's club.

Mrs. Jones' three daughters are all teachers—Edna Jones at Evans-ton, Ill., Carol at Oskaloosa and Lois at Ft. Dodge.

Indians Invade Iowa City

Mesquakie Children From Tama Pay Visit To University Elementary Pupils

A band of young Mesquakie Indians invaded Iowa City for the second time this year when 27 pupils of the Sac and Fox consolidated school at Tama, 14 of whom were here a month ago, visited the University elementary school pupils at 10:30 a.m. yesterday.

The visitors, boys and girls from the third to eighth grades, live at Tama. The school has 84 pupils from six to 16 years old.

They arrived in the company of H. W. Benedict, principal of the school, Tom Scott, government farm agent, Evelyn Murdoch and Mabel Richardson, instructors. Present also, were George Buffalo, native school fireman, Frank Young Bear, Indian engineer at the Tuberculosis sanitarium for Indians at Tama, Jim Ward, tribesman-policeman, and Susie Poweshiek, Mesquakie cook.

A program consisting of an original play on the care of chickens, by 4-H club girls of the upper grades, a skit on soil conservation and wild life by the third and fourth grade boys, and a presentation of a typical Boy Scout meeting was presented.

Presentations in colorful Indian dress were the opening

Britain Trains School Youths Air Warfare to Bolster Force

LONDON (AP)—British high school youngsters are being trained to be pilots and technicians to strengthen the man-power reserve of the nation in the air.

The air ministry has established at Halton, on the slopes of the Chiltern hills, 30 miles from London, the Royal Air Force No. 1 school of technical training.

Five thousand boys are taking a three-year course in aircraft construction and maintenance. The more promising boys will get a chance to fly.

A steady flow of well-trained pilots, navigators and mechanics might help reduce the Royal Air Force's big accident and death rate, which is widely criticized.

The boys learn mechanical drawing, mathematics, theory of flight, science, geography, history, international relationships, and British political institutions.

The school really is a huge camp. Outside the school itself are workshops where the boys take elementary engineering and learn to handle mechanics' tools.

Then they study gasoline engines, carburetors, ignition systems, and the construction and maintenance of airframes.

A handful of each year's entrants gets cadetships at Cranwell college, where Britain trains her officer-pilots.

Halton is proud of its record. Over 20 former apprentices have reached squadron-leader's rank (equivalent to major's rank in the army), two have commanded squadrons, and five have taken staff appointments.

At school the boys get 25 cents a day the first year, and 37 cents the third year. They don't pay for their training, and there's no entrance fee.

Each graduate must serve 12 years in the R.A.F. If he retires then he gets a $500 bonus. The best men are offered another 12 years service, qualifying for pension.

They get three weeks summer vacation, two weeks at Christmas, and a week at Easter.

Examination Schedule

Second Semester, 1937-1938

Monday, May 23, 8 a.m., to Tuesday, May 31, 4 p.m.

The regular program of class work will be suspended and the following semester-examination program substituted for it. Classes will meet for examination in the rooms in which they have been regularly meeting (except classes in SPECIAL GROUPS, A, B, C, D, E, F, and G, as shown in the form below; and Speech (2), (1), and (4) as shown at "N.B." below).

The Program Committee directs the attention of both students, and instructors and professors, to the regulation that there is to be no deviation in the case of any examination, from this Schedule, except as authorized by the Committee on Admission and Classification, on the student's written petition, filed in ample time, supported by the recommendation of the department concerned, to provide relief from an excessive number of examinations within a single day. Deviation for the purpose of getting through earlier will not be permitted. Students should prepare and deposit such petitions in the offices of the Deans of Men (men) and Women (women).

Each student who is absent from the final meeting of his class as indicated in the Examination Schedule should be reported, on the official grade sheet at the end of the semester, as "Abs." Before this grade mark can be removed he must file with the Committee on Admission and Classification a written petition, with adequate vouchers attached, setting forth in full the necessity of his absence. This petition must include a departmentally signed statement indicating whether, in case the Committee finds the absence excusable, the student has the department's and instructor's permission to take the final examination. If the Committee finds the reason for the absence adequate it will issue to the student a partially prepared special report card (signed by the Secretary, lower left corner) with a form letter explaining to him that he has the Committee's permission, with the departmental consent and at the convenience of the instructor, to take his final examination within one month (or other designated period of time) from the date indicated.

If the student takes the examination thus authorized the outcome is to be reported on this card and not on any other card.

In the case of conflicts (within the SPECIAL GROUPS A, B, C, D, E, F, and G) the schedule itself, as presented below, provides a general method of making adjustments.

All classes whose first weekly meetings have occurred as indicated in the rectangles below meet for examination during the periods noted at the tops of these three columns and on the days noted in the rectangles directly opposite at the left of the double, vertical line.

	8-10 A. M.	10-12 A. M.	2-4 P. M.

CONFLICTS: In case of conflicting examinations the student should report to the instructor in charge of the first of the two conflicting subjects as listed within the particular SPECIAL GROUP rectangle above which is involved. (Read downward first in left column and then in right column.) The instructor will arrange for you a special examination. Report to him, or her, not later than the regular class hour May 19 or 20; if possible, May 12 or 13.

The first meeting of the class means the first lecture or recitation period in courses having both lectures and recitations, and laboratory periods; or in the case of courses involving only laboratory periods, the first clock-hour of the first weekly meeting. For example, chemistry 21 meets for lectures T Th S at 8. The first regular meeting is, consequently, Tuesday at 8—and the class will meet for examination Tuesday, May 24, 2 p.m., according to the tabular form above. Again, physics (126) meets twice each week, T F, for a three-hour laboratory exercise, 1-4. The period for the examination, is, therefore, Saturday, May 28, 2 p.m.

N. B. All sections of "Principles of Speech" (1), (2) and (4) (Except Section J*) will meet during Examination Week on the days and at the periods designated below. Consult the bulletin board, Room 13 S. H. for room assignments.

Mon., May 23—Section H, 8-10
Speech (1), 8-10
Fri., May 27—Section I, 8-10
Section C, 1-3
Section D, 3-5
Speech (4), 3-5
Tue., May 24—Section A, 1-3
Section E, 3-5
Sat., May 28—Section D, 10-12
Section B, 1-3
Section F, 3-5

*Section J will meet as announced by the instructors.

"ODD" classes, namely those whose first or only weekly meetings occur on Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays, or Saturdays, or which meet "as arranged," will be assigned for examination, as announced to each such class, by the instructor in charge of the class, at one or another of the following periods:

- From 4 to 6 on any day from May 23 to May 31 inclusive,—Sunday and Memorial Day excepted.
- Any one of the examination periods assigned, as indicated above, for the examinations in the SPECIAL GROUPS, A, B, C, D, E, F and G, since for such "odd" classes these seven examination periods will be found quite available.

In connection with any such announcement it would doubtless be well for the instructor making the announcement to ascertain whether any member of his class is already under appointment for examination in some other class for the proposed period. To be sure it is possible to have examinations in more than one class at any of these times,—if no student is a member of more than one of these classes.

According to one clause in the formal faculty action providing for a special semester-examination program, "the instructor may use the examination period as he sees fit provided he holds the class for the full period. He may have an oral or a written examination, or both, or neither. He may continue regular work or he may use the time for review, or for any phase of his work which may seem to him desirable at this time.

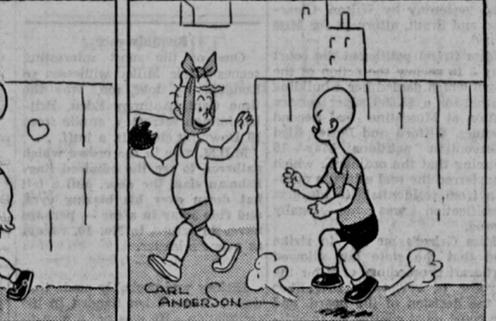

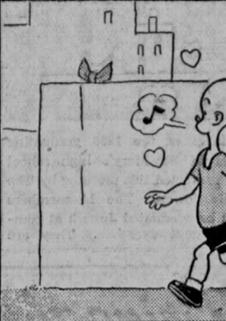

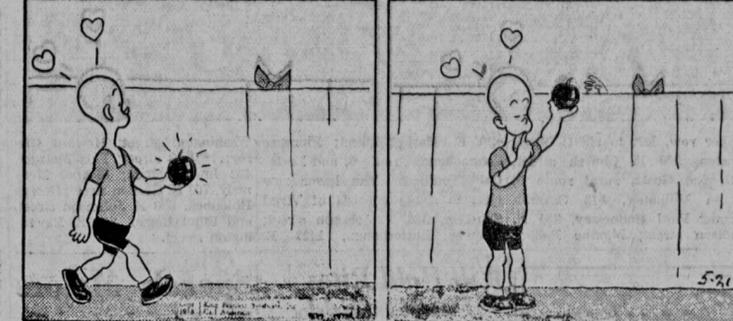

According to another faculty regulation, which is on record as adopted by the faculty, a student absent from the final examination should be reported "Abs.," unless the instructor recognizes that his work up to this examination has been a failure, in which case the final report should be "Fd.,"—even though the student may have been absent from the final examination. No examination should be given, subsequently, to such a student until after the absence has been excused by the Committee on Admission and Classification, as shown by a partially filled special report card, signed by the Secretary of the Committee, as indicating that the absence has been excused and that the student is authorized, subject to the consent and at the convenience of the instructor concerned, to take the final examination.

H. C. DORCAS, Secretary, Program Committee.

ROOM AND BOARD BY GENE AHERN

Motions to Strike Intervention Petitions in Grizel Proceedings Filed in District Court Here

Review of Board Action Denying Building Permit Asked

Motions to strike the intervention petitions of E. J. Gifford, 2101 Muscatine avenue, and Emmet Potter, 911 Second avenue, from the court records in the certiorari proceedings of Della Grizel, 1530 Sheridan avenue, against the city board of adjustment, were filed yesterday by Wilson, Clearman and Brant, attorneys for Miss Grizel.

Miss Grizel petitioned the court May 5 to review the action of the board which denied her a building permit for a $3,500 super service station at Muscatine and Second avenues. Gifford and Potter filed intervention petitions May 16 claiming that the ordinance which transferred the real estate in question from residential to business classification was not legally passed.

Miss Grizel's motions to strike said that the state law allowed certiorari proceedings only for the purpose of reviewing illegalities in the decision of the board, and the court must confine its investigation and findings to the questions raised in the certiorari petition. On this basis the plaintiff asked that the court deny the petitions of intervention because they question the legality of the ordinance.

If the court allows Gifford and Potter to intervene, Miss Grizel's petition asked that the interveners be required to state specifically which ordinances or sections of ordinances are claimed to be void, in what particular the ordinances are void and what improper or illegal actions were committed by the city council or other city officials which caused the ordinances to be void.

A public hearing on a proposed ordinance transferring the east Iowa City lots in question from the business to residential district will be at 8 p.m. Friday.

The city council gave the proposed ordinance its first reading May 6. It is similar to the ordinance which failed to obtain the necessary three-fourths majority by one vote April 15.

At that meeting, property owners whose holdings adjoin the Grizel property voiced their approval of the ordinance, and two attorneys representing the Sinclair Oil company spoke against it. The lots which would be transferred are lot 8 in block 15, lots 1, 2, 3, and 4 in block 7, lot 1 in block 14, and lots 5 and 6 in block 6.

Prof. Camp Will Attend Meeting Of Association

Prof. Marjorie Camp of the women's physical education department will attend a meeting of the Iowa section of the American Camping association today and tomorrow at Camp Hitaga, Cedar Rapids Camp Fire Girl camp, near Troy Mills.

Professor Camp is a member of the board of directors of the American Camping association and will report on the meetings of that body at a recent national convention in New York. She will also give a resume of the results of a committee investigation of the American Youth Hostels association instigated at their request for endorsement by the association.

Mrs. Hugh Carson, 927 Third avenue, and Ruth Sumner, local Girl Scout director, will also attend the meeting. Barbara Joy, director of the Joy Camps at Hazalhurst, Wis., will leave for Camp Hitaga as soon as she returns from the University of Minnesota where she has been conducting a camping course.

P. Hsing Fined $5, Costs for Driving Car Without License

According to police records P. S. Hsing was fined $5 and costs for operating an automobile without a driver's license by Police Judge Burke N. Carson yesterday.

Dudley Huff was fined $3 and costs for speeding. He elected to work out his fine at the city parry.

C. M. Schnoebelen, William Thompson, Cloyce Gray and Mack Bruce were each fined $1 for street storage.

New Deal Group Meets Monday Night At Courthouse Here

Prof. M. F. Carpenter of University high school, Frank J. Krall, county supervisor, and Judge James P. Gaffney will speak at the "New Deal" meeting of the Roosevelt Non-partisan league at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the county courthouse.

The meeting will be "in reply to Thursday's republican rally," it was announced.

AROUND THE TOWN
With TOM JOHNSON

Reminiscence
One of the most interesting scenes Merle Miller witnessed in London, he told me, was the time Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, strode from 10 Downing street in a huff. . . M.D.M. was in the crowd which gathered to see the admired Englishman slam the door, pull a felt hat down over his blazing eyes, and ride away in a car — perhaps never to return to No. 10, except as prime minister.

History was probably made that day. . . when Eden handed in his resignation. He was not a man to bandy words. . . England soon may need such a man.

Christopher Columbus
I'm usually able to answer any and all questions, but, when someone last night phoned: "Which college did Fletcher Henderson graduate from?" I'll admit I was stumped. . . By the way, which college did the Negro orchestra leader attend? I'm asking you. . .

Sillouquy
Little Snow White had been awfully blue. . . She'd even stopped humming her song. . . For she'd left some films at a local drug store. . . And they had been gone for so long. . .

The store hadn't gotten the photographs back. . . From the studio; Snow White was glum. . . But all of a sudden she started to sing: "Someday my prints will come." Anon.

Cooking Lesson
Overheard: "I went to a steak-ry last night. . . I was the steak."

It Pays to Advertise
Chinese airplanes flew 1,000 miles to drop handbills on Nagasaki, Japan, yesterday, and return to their base at Shanghai. . . Handbills, I suppose, are readable, but think how much more interesting (internationally speaking) it would have been to read that the Chinese had dropped bombs. . . The Japs may laugh at handbills, but the Son of Nippon who'd laugh with a steel splinter flying through his chest would be a queer sight indeed. . .

P. Lagomarcino Wins Scholarship

Paul Donald Lagomarcino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lagomarcino, 729 Riverside drive, has been awarded a $200 scholarship to study journalism at Kenyon college, Oberlin, Ohio. He is a former Iowa City resident, and will graduate from Kankakee, Ill., high school this semester.

SPEED DEMON Stagedriver Now Pilots Streamliner

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Ed Hexoc runs a streamline train across the Nevada desert at 95 miles an hour. But that's not his idea of a thrill. For something really exciting Ed looks back to the days he drove a six-horse stage-coach.

He was only 14 when they first trusted him with the reins. By the time he was 19 he was sitting atop a 14-passenger coach, whipping his three teams around the dangerous curves between Lompoc and Los Alamos, Cal. He got $75 a month — "almost as much as a bank president," he recalls.

Now Hexoc is 64 and speed is still in his blood. Southern Pacific officials chose him for a streamliner test run on which he clicked off 117 miles an hour. Ninety-five is his scheduled speed on its trans-Nevada trip.

He will be entitled to retire on a pension at his next birthday but Hexoc intends to stay at the diesel controls until he is 70. He'd fly his own airplane if he could afford it.

"I never had a more exciting or pleasant time than when I drove a stage," he says. "For five solid years I never missed a day — not even Sunday — and I worked 12 hours a day. My daily trip took 10 hours of steady driving."

Will Hold Rites For Mrs. Eddy At 1:30 Sunday

Funeral service for Mrs. Emeline Eddy, 87, who died in the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. Lee Bailey, 312 S. Governor street, Thursday night, will be at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Hohenschuh mortuary. The Rev. Ralph M. Krueger will officiate and burial will be in the Oxford cemetery.

Mrs. Eddy came to Iowa when a child and settled with her family near North Liberty. She later moved to a farm near Oxford. Following her marriage to William Eddy in 1869, they lived on a farm southwest of Oxford. Mr. Eddy, a Civil war veteran, preceded her in death.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Etta Douglas of Des Moines, and Mrs. Bailey of Iowa City; four sons, Allen Eddy of Creston; Clayton Eddy of Hampton; Herbert Eddy of California; and Walter Eddy of Ft. Dodge.

Costly Error Driver Picks Wrong Car to Pass

It was a pleasant spring day for Ed H. Kraus of Des Moines yesterday exactly 9:50 a.m. yesterday. He made the mistake of passing a shiny black car on Burlington street at a fast rate of speed and cut in so quickly that he left a $150 nick in the left front fender of the black sedan.

At the police station he paid a $25 fine to Police Judge Burke N. Carson plus the $150 for the damaged fender. In return, he learned that a careful driver not only knows when to pass but also whom to pass.

Elks Will Hold Dinner, Frolic On Anniversary

The Iowa City Elks' lodge No. 590, will celebrate its 38th anniversary at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at a stag dinner and evening frolic for Elks only in the clubrooms.

The menu will be fried spring chicken, new potatoes in cream, new peas and carrots, lettuce and tomato salad, strawberry short cake, whipped cream, rolls, butter and coffee. Reuben Swartzlander and Herbert J. Reichardt will be caterers.

The entertainment committee is Dr. Jesse Ward, chairman, Claude Reed, Wesley McGinnis, Charles Mott and Harold Hands. Dinner reservations must be in by Monday.

Attends Meeting In Cedar Rapids

Police Chief William H. Bender was in Cedar Rapids yesterday attending a meeting of 25 committeemen in the Iowa Association of Chiefs of Police.

Chief Bender is chairman of the membership and credentials committee.

Farm Group Women To Organize County Farm Bureau Chorus

Johnson county farm bureau women will organize a farm bureau women's chorus at a meeting in C. S. A. hall, 524 N. Johnson street, at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

A trained leader will be present to assist in organizing the chorus. All farm bureau women over 21 years of age are invited to attend and bring a copy of the song, "America the Beautiful." Men are also invited.

Speech Majors To Hold Yearly Party Tonight

University students majoring in speech and dramatic art will have their annual party from 7:30 to 9 tonight in the dramatics arts building. Honorary awards in recognition of student achievement will be presented.

Announcement will be made of the students elected to Purple Mask, the University of Iowa's branch of Collegiate Players, Scarlet Mask, another dramatic arts society, Zeta Phi Eta, national honorary speech sorority and Delta Sigma Rho, honorary forensic fraternity.

Six students who will appear as speakers during the evening are Dorothy Ward, A1 of Iowa City; Max McCullough, A4 of Crawfordville, Ind.; Dorothea Carlson, A4 of Battle Creek; Peter Maroney, G of Portland, Ore.; Marian Galloway, G of Savannah, Ga., and Marcus Bach, G of Iowa City.

Parent-Teacher Society Elects New President

Mrs. Fred Brown was elected president of the Henry Sabin Parent-Teacher association at a meeting yesterday in the schoolhouse.

Other officers elected included Mrs. G. A. Graham, vice-president; Margaret McManus, secretary, and Mrs. Dennis Van Hooser, treasurer.

The business meeting followed the school's annual spring concert under the direction of Phyllis Lehmer.

Pangborn Attends State Meeting

Verne Pangborn of University hospitals will represent the Iowa City Junior Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of state junior chamber directors in Des Moines tonight and Sunday.

H. Dane to Address Retail Coal Dealers Convention in Chicago

H. J. Dane of the Dane Coal company, Iowa City, will speak on "Coal Merchants in the Stoker Business" at the convention and exposition of the American Retail Coal association at Hotel Sherman in Chicago, June 6 to 11.

More than 50,000 visitors from all sections of the country are expected at the exposition. More than 100 coal and coal-accessory establishments will have exhibits. They will show stokers in actual operation under fire, automatic, new and economical controls, new water heating equipment, air conditioning plants, fuel saving equipment, "laundered coal," a complete life sized modern basement and other features.

Like a Hamburger? Mayor Serves 'Em

MT. VERNON, Ind., (AP)—When you walk into a small sandwich shop on West Second street here and order a hamburger, you get real service—the mayor himself "serves 'em up."

Mayor Herman Bray, Mt. Vernon's "head man" four years, has run the little restaurant eight years, but he says the city comes first.

Assault and Battery Charges Withdrawn

Charges of assault and battery brought against Dr. W. B. Keil by Audrey R. Ancaux were dropped by the plaintiff when he appeared before Police Judge Burke N. Carson yesterday.

J. Moon Sentenced To 15 Days in Jail

Jesse Moon was sentenced to 15 days in the Johnson county jail when he was arraigned on a charge of intoxication on the public highway, in Justice of the Peace T. M. Fairchild's court yesterday.

Moon was arrested several days ago by Iowa City police.

Highest Temperature Below Normal Friday

Iowa City's highest temperature yesterday, 73 degrees, was two below normal, according to the hydraulics laboratory weather report.

The low reading was 60 degrees, 10 above normal. Moisture amounted to .01 of an inch. Rainfall since Jan. 1 has been 13.28 inches, 2.63 above normal.

Safety Speaker Urges A Systematic Effort For Reduction

"The aim of the Iowa State Safety council is to have a balanced program of the three E's of safety — engineering, enforcement and education," stated J. N. Hayes, Des Moines, member of the State Safety council in a talk over WSUI on the Highway Safety program at 7:15 p.m. yesterday.

There has been a definite reduction in lives lost over the nation in traffic accidents, but Iowa's record is not satisfactory. The National Safety council report shows that this reduction for the nation has been 1,550 lives for the first three months of 1938.

"The comparative figures for Iowa up to May 19, 154 fatalities for 1937 — 144 for 1938, show a reduction of 10," he said. "We must have a greater reduction in fatalities and accidents in order to keep our place on top," Hayes continued.

He insisted that it is only through systematic effort that we are going to reach our goal. Hayes urged that each citizen should join the county safety council in order to carry on the fight.

"Caution, consideration and courtesy are keystones for safe driving, the same as the realization of individual responsibility." He stressed the need to "Make it your business to be not only a careful driver, but a skillful one."

The Iowa State Safety council was organized in December, 1935. About 50 state-wide organizations were represented at that meeting.

Today there are 63 county safety councils, and the majority are carrying out a definite program of education in traffic, industrial, home, farm and school safety. The major problem of course is traffic, and apparently the efforts put forth to date are beginning to bear fruit.

"In order to obtain any definite degree of reduction in fatalities and accidents we must have the cooperation of every citizen of the state," he mentioned. He recommended that "All weekly and daily newspapers run a death budget similar to the one now running in some Iowa papers."

Hayes showed that we must not only improve our driving habits and sense our individual responsibility in the operation of our cars, but we must also remember our responsibility as pedestrians.

"Keep to the right — there may be a fool coming," was his parting admonition to all motorists.

Next Friday at 7:15 p.m. will be the last number of this series of Highway Safety programs, but a new series will start next fall.

The programs have been in charge of Don Davis, chef de guerre of the local voiture of the Forty and Eight, and have been sponsored by that organization.
