Congress Continues As Senate, House Differ on Measure

Two Chambers Will Again Go Into Session

Deficiency Measure Is Subject of Great Controversy

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—Administration leaders' efforts to bring the historic 75th congress to a close tonight failed when senate and house differed on a comparatively minor issue—a deficiency bill carrying $280,000,000 to eke out the funds of several government agencies.

The two chambers will go into session again tomorrow, when the leaders will make another effort to wind up legislative affairs. They predicted it would be successful.

Before congress knocked off work for the day, the house rebelled against President Roosevelt's leadership on a farm question. It voted 244 to 87, to override his veto of a measure continuing low interest rates on certain loans made on farm land by the federal land banks, and on farm products by land bank commissioners.

The measure would continue an "emergency" rate of 3 1/2 per cent on the former class of loans, and 4 per cent on the latter. Mr. Roosevelt objected that the bill would cost the treasury $208,700,000. Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the majority leader, predicted the senate also would override the veto.

A senate-house conference committee settled today the touchy question of distributing $212,000,000 in benefit payments among farmers, principally growers of cotton, corn and wheat. Each chamber had wanted to divide the money somewhat differently, but the conferees chose the house proposals.

One of the measures passed today by the senate and sent to the White House would set up a system of unemployment compensation for railroad workers. A tax of three per cent of wages up to $300 a month would be collected from railroads to finance this program, which would be administered by the railroad retirement board.

There was still no sign of a movement to revive another railroad measure — liberalizing RFC loans to carriers. Rail unions, angered by the management's effort to cut wages 15 per cent, fought this measure to a standstill.

For a while today it appeared there would be a prolonged senate filibuster on the question of states' rights, but this argument subsided as quickly as it began.

Rebels March On

Spain's insurgents march on and on, widening their corridor to the sea with the capture of Castellon de la Plana and its Mediterranean port, Grao. The loyalist capital, Valencia, filled with many refugees, is the next objective of the forces of Gen. Francisco Franco and his Italian and German allies. Shaded part is territory controlled by the insurgents.

Accident Kills State Official

George A. Huffman Dies Following Memorial Day Crash

DES MOINES, June 15 (AP)—George A. Huffman, 77, state commerce commissioner member, died in a hospital here late tonight of injuries suffered in an automobile accident near Ogden, Memorial day.

Huffman was a candidate in the recent state primary election to succeed himself, but did not receive enough votes for the nomination.

A democrat, he was that party's state chairman in 1897, and had been active in politics since that time.

His wife died June 6 of injuries suffered in the same accident.

The accident occurred when a rear tire blew out. The automobile swerved across the road and hit a driveway, then swerved back and crashed into a telephone pole. Huffman was driving.

Mrs. Huffman was born in Gurd Junction and she and her husband had lived at their home in Des Moines for 30 years. A daughter, Mariam, is an instructor at a Des Moines high school. Huffman and his daughter, who suffered minor injuries, were kept in a Boone hospital for a few days following the accident, but both had been discharged when Mrs. Huffman died there.

Insurgents Seem To Be Attempting Drive to End War

HENDAYE, France (At the Spanish Frontier), June 15 (AP)—Insurgent armies today pressed a double drive against two widely separated Spanish government strongholds in what appeared to be a large scale campaign to end the civil war.

On the Mediterranean coast insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco's columns struck toward refugee-crowded Valencia without slackening their offensive after the fall of Castellon de la Plana gave access to the central coastal plain.

Gov. Moore a Hague Puppet? Princeton Men Object to Possible Award For New Jersey Governor

PRINCETON, N. J., June 15 (AP)—Petitions appeared today on the campus of Princeton university protesting a reported intention of the university to award an honorary degree to Gov. A. Harry Moore at next Tuesday's commencement.

In upper class clubs, and among freshman and sophomore student groups as well as the faculty petitions were distributed bearing the assertion that Moore has done "nothing to deserve academic recognition" and protesting "his connection with and approval of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City."

"As students of Princeton we object to our university's putting its stamp of approval on Mayor Frank Hague by offering his pup-

BACTERIA BAIT Doctors Learn Disease Can Be Prevented

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15 — Peritonitis, the highly fatal abdominal infection, can be prevented, it was reported to the American Medical association today.

The treatment is a new principle — the use of bacteria as bait. Germs are planted at the point where peritonitis is likely to start after an operation. Their presence attracts a rush of phagocytes, the "white tadpoles" which are the body's natural defenses because they eat bacteria.

The phagocytes are trapped for some time at this location, and prevent peritonitis infection from getting a start. The first 2,000 human cases on which this unique treatment was used were described in the scientific exhibit by Bernhard Steinberg, M.D., of the Toledo hospital, Toledo, Ohio. There were two deaths, he said, and the cause of these were questionable.

Toe Dance Missouri Congressman Ridicules Art Bill

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—A former preacher from the Ozarks burlesquing a toe dance in an aisle of the house chamber, ridiculed to death today a resolution to establish a federal bureau of fine arts.

Representative Short (R-Mo.), his voice rising above howls of laughter from the legislators, punctuated his dance exhibition with satiric thrusts at the idea of a government bureau trying to promote art, especially at a time when millions have no jobs.

"Of course," he said, "all we need to do with 12,000,000 people out of work is to teach toe dancing so we can restore prosperity to the poor American farmer or the wage earner."

Again he went up on his toes, his arms spread out in mimicry of the gestures of a ballerina.

Many times, he said, he had listened to a Chopin waltz, a Wagnerian opera, or a Beethoven symphony, "but God knows I have never enjoyed even puccini on an empty stomach. I can't see how anybody could enjoy Mendelssohn with the seat of his pants out."

Turning his satire on WPA, the Missourian added, "Down in my country they have been hiring old maids to teach the mothers how to pin diapers on the babies."

Congressional Leaders Refuse to Consider John L. Lewis' Industrial 'Blacklisting' Bill

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—John L. Lewis marched up Capitol Hill today on behalf of his "blacklisting" bill but he quickly marched down — rebuffed afresh and angrily talking of reprisals against "cowardly congressmen."

As on Monday when his effort to turn on the "heat" met a frigid blast from congress, the CIO leader strode into Speaker Bankhead's office to demand a vote on the measure, but house leaders flatly refused even to allow consideration of the bill.

They stuck to their refusal in the face of the fact that Lewis had brought heavy reinforcements with him — Philip Murray, chairman of the Steel Workers organizing committee, and Sidney Hillman, chairman of the textile workers organizing committee.

Speaker Bankhead told reporters later that he had made up his mind "for fair and sufficient reasons" not to grant the request to adopt procedure which would take the bill from a pigeon hole. He said that some of the original sponsors of the measure thought "it would be unwise at this time" to attempt to pass it.

The legislation could compel corporations who have government contracts amounting to at least $2,000 to accept decisions of the national labor relations board affecting them and to observe stipulated wage-hour standards. If they did not, they could be put on a "blacklist" and denied further federal contracts.

Cholera Dangers Increasing As Yellow River Waters Rise

Bomb 4 More Foreign Ships Near Valencia

British, French Vessels Wrecked by More Rebel Bombs

MADRID, June 15 (AP)—Insurgent air raiders today wrecked four more foreign ships, including two British vessels, in a terrific onslaught on Valencia harbor and the eastern seaboard where refugees were streaming south.

Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president of the university, said, "I will make no statement but will adhere to the university policy of withholding all information on honorary degrees until Tuesday."

Five bombing raids on Valencia left three persons known dead and 20 injured.

Insurgent bombs again found a target in the British freighter Thurston leaving the ship in flames at her dock. The Thurston, last bombed June 7, was believed lost tonight.

The 5,625-ton British steamer Seapharer was holed below the waterline and was slowly sinking. Lloyd's reports from Marseille said the 1,235-ton British steamer Lucky had been bombed and sunk at an unspecified spot in the Mediterranean.

French Ships Victims

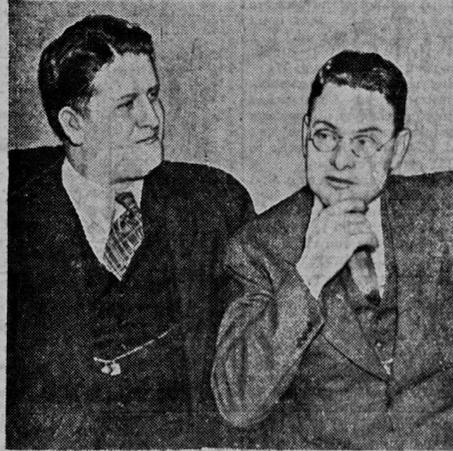

Two French vessels also were victims of the Valencia raids. The freighter Gaulois was sunk and a sailing vessel set afire.

No casualties were suffered aboard the vessels in port because the crews had sufficient time to escape the air attacks.

Government dispatches from Valencia said insurgent warships bombed the coastal highway to captured Castellon de la Plana during the day as refugees struggled southward.

It was estimated 28,000 refugees from Castellon province had poured into Valencia where living facilities were taxed to the utmost and efforts were made to move many of them into less exposed sections further south.

Searchers Fail To Find Child

Hopes Dim for Finding Four-Year Old Lost Five Days

PINE RIVER, Minn., June 15 (AP)—Hopes of finding four year old Richard Harley Ware, lost in dense swampland since Saturday noon, were fading tonight as weary searchers rested.

Four sections of land were covered during the day by volunteers under military organization. Maj. Myrom Lund of the 135th Infantry, who arrived from Ft. Ripley with another group of national guardsmen, was in command.

Bloodhounds were unsuccessful in following a trail uncovered during the morning and no fresh clues were discovered.

An estimated 1,200 men participated in the search today.

Alaskans Resent Hague's Proposal For Red Colony

SEATTLE, June 15 (AP)—Alaskans just about exhausted their vocabularies tonight denouncing the proposal of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, N. J., to send native born American's who do not believe in America's form of government to a camp in the territory.

Former soundoughs here were the first to become indignant.

McCall Adjudged Guilty of Cash Kidnaping; Sentence Deferred

Crime Is Punishable By Death Unless Jury Asks Mercy

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, and Clyde Tolson, assistant director, were slightly bruised in an automobile accident tonight.

They had arrived by air from New York and were driving to the FBI office when an oil truck hit the rear of their car. The impact drove their car into another automobile.

MIAMI, Fla., June 15 (AP)—Franklin Pierce McCall, 21-year-old truck driver, was formally adjudged guilty today of kidnaping little James Bailey Cash Jr. — a crime punishable by death.

Circuit Judge H. F. Atkinson deferred imposing sentence until tomorrow at the request of defense counsel. Court attaches said tonight it was understood Judge Atkinson held the view that a death sentence was mandatory.

Florida statutes provide the electrocution penalty for ransom kidnaping unless a jury recommends life imprisonment. There was no jury because McCall pleaded guilty of abduction at a preliminary hearing yesterday.

Although indicted also for murder, he was tried only on the kidnaping charge after he pleaded innocent of the five-year-old boy's death.

McCall, a minister's son, was the quiet, sturdy, close-lipped

Two Persons Die as Bridge Falls in River

PETERSON, June 15 (AP)—Two persons were drowned and a third narrowly escaped death here late this afternoon when a foot bridge above the dam across the Little Sioux river collapsed, throwing them into the rain swollen stream.

The dead are: Delbert Schultz, 23, a farmer of near Primghar. Elmer Van Heuvelen, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Van Heuvelen of Primghar.

Raymond, 21-year-old brother of Elmer, was the third victim of the accident. He floated to shore on a plank.

H. G. Morrison Jr., of Peterson, a Morningside college athlete, was swept over the dam when he tried to recover the body of Elmer Van Heuvelen. He had seized it, but then lost his grasp because of the rushing waters. Morrison reached shore with difficulty.

Oust Seven Russian Retail Trade Heads For Inefficiency

MOSCOW, June 15 (AP)—Seven heads of the retail trade department were ousted today because housewives too frequently found it impossible to buy the kind of socks and bread they wanted.

They were held responsible for various deficiencies in the stores and markets supplied by the commissariat for home trade — the failure of shops to get ordinary stocks, hitches in the bread supply, furnishing spoiled fruits to retailers, keeping too few restaurants open.

Spanish Officer Says American Volunteers Make Good but Naive, Inexperienced Soldiers

BARCELONA, Spain, June 15 (AP)—Lieutenant Colonel Vladimir Copic, for almost 16 months commander of the 15th international brigade in the Spanish war, uttered as his valedictory tonight the belief that his American volunteers made excellent, if naive and inexperienced, soldiers.

Typical of the American fighters under him, he said, was their action in training, when they would shout and cheer during mock attacks "like children."

"But I like them," continued the quiet, sturdy, close-lipped

Fascist Paper Criticizes U. S.

MILAN, Italy, June 15 (AP)—Premier Mussolini's newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia today declared the United States should halt the sale of bombing planes to all nations if she wants to be consistent.

Il Duce's paper made the suggestion in commenting on the declaration Secretary Hull made June 11 attempting to stop the flow of American-made planes to Japan.

Secretary Hull told Washington reporters the United States government's repeated condemnation of bombings of civilians was directed especially at the manufacturers of military planes and the general American public as well as foreign powers.

A Small Loan— But We're Thankful For Small Favors

WELL, CONGRESS has done it. The wage-hour bill has finally been passed. It took months of heavy, angry argument; the final bill is a much emaciated version of that introduced just one year ago, but the basic details are there. It is, we like to think, a step in the right direction.

Now, of course, there's just one question most of us are asking today. That's—"What will the new law mean to me?" It's not an easy question to answer.

In the first place, the bill means nothing at all to those who are working for most small, purely local firms. It applies only to those industries in interstate commerce. Special exemptions include executives, professional workers, administrative officials, workers in local retailing, fishery, agricultural and dairy enterprises; seamen, aviation employees, local trolley and bus line employees and newspaper workers.

That's a lot of exceptions, too many; yet 2,500,000 workers will be affected by improved working conditions.

Another thing, child labor has been virtually abolished. The children's bureau of the labor department has sole authority to decide whether or not children between 14 and 16 may work in non-hazardous industries. They cannot do so if it interferes with their health or schooling. In cases of mining and other hazardous occupations, the limit is from 16 to 18.

This, too, is important. A rigid 25-cent an hour minimum wage will be fixed for the first year, and a 30-cent level for the second. A maximum work-week of 44 hours will be maintained for the first year, decreasing to 42 during the second and to 40 in the third.

Industrial boards, resembling the 750 NRA code authorities, may determine the speed with which the restrictions can be imposed. These boards may also make exceptions to the bill if the restrictions would cause unemployment, but such cases are not likely to be numerous.

So the United States takes another step in the direction of humanitarianism. Now we're aware that a half dozen other countries have taken the same step, have gone much further in fact, but we're glad for small favors just at first.

bumper crop, her pocketbook swelled into ratio to the bulge of her granaries, and with every prospect for another fine crop this year, Iowa goes her own prosperous way. And we see very little reason why she shouldn't follow that road for a long time yet.

She has the land, good, rich, black dirt, which, given the chance could raise enough crops to feed the rest of the United States. She has the people—the down-to-earth, no-nonsense-allowed salt of the nation. She has but a handful of wealthy—a good sign—and only enough poor to fulfill the Biblical injunction.

Of course there is another side. Sometimes it doesn't rain here as much as it should. Then too, in recent years, a lot of good soil has left Iowa, blown skyward by hot winds, or going down the creeks after a cloudburst. And a lot of farmers are working land which they don't own—which isn't so good.

But right now the drought seems pretty well broken. We're learning about soil conservation. Readjustments in farm prices and interest charges are making it possible for a man who isn't afraid of a lot of hard work to buy his own farm again.

So we say once more that Iowa's a darn good place to live. We know it even before statistics proved it to us. And just let the rains fall and the sun shine and the corn grow, it always will be.

An Editorial That Writes Itself

OCCASIONALLY while we're groping for a subject on which to editorialize, we hear a story that has an editorial point already brought out. Such a story is this one:

Yesterday afternoon a small boy stopped in front of one of the numerous downtown booths selling tickets for tomorrow night's "Bowl of Rice" party. He hesitated a bit, this five-year-old. Then he walked up and dropped three cents in the bowl for that purpose.

"I'll bring two more cents if I can get it," he said.

We don't think we need add our own editorial moral.

THREE modern "Portias" stressed the beauty of forgiveness—the need for mercy before a Seattle jury Monday, but unlike their famous sister in Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice," they were unable to convince the jury of the innocence of young Jack Barth.

Barth was arrested after he was observed rifling the icebox of Dr. C. L. Templeton.

He was accused of stealing two bananas and a very small piece of salami.

"He was hungry," the defense argued. "The quality of mercy is not strained, it droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven."

Laughter from the crowd and the jury box snapped the emotional spell woven by the comely Portias.

"He is innocent," said young Miss Bernice Johnson.

"He is innocent," said young Miss Flora Rosenthal.

WAR GAMES

Thousands of Germans are now playing "Tac-tics," a new militarized kind of chess, a dispatch from Berlin tells us. The new game was produced under army auspices and is said to develop "tactical and strategic thinking" and to "instill qualities of modern leadership."

Chess in the first place was designed as a military game. Several attempts have been made to modernize it—Sir Hiram Maxim attempted it once, not very successfully. But the fact remains that few great generals have been good chess players, and few great chess players have been good for much of anything else.

The trouble is that even the stupidest army is not made up entirely of ivory, and even a martinet is wooden only by figure of speech. Soldiers, unlike pawns, get hungry, and sleepy, and tired, and frightened. Map problems, far more practicable in teaching strategy than any modification of chess, might conceivably produce a general, but never a "Little Corporal." Only the leadership learned with real men, not with chessmen, will win victories with hungry, sleepy, tired and frightened soldiers.

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

Relatives in Radio: Some of the finest radio teams on the air are man and wife teams, or had you noticed? And don't think that private favoritism keeps the husband or wife on the program. It's public demand that does the trick.

Can you think of anyone on the air who would be better opposite Jack Benny than his wife, Mary Livingstone? The same applies to George Burns and Gracie Allen, and to Portland and Fred Allen. They just fit in, and the fact that all of these teams are hubby-wifey ones doesn't harm their popularity at all.

George Jessel and Mrs. Jessel (Norma Talmadge) have teamed up on the air scores of times. Both band leader George Olson and singer Ethel Shutta are well known on the air, and how about Ozzie Nelson and Harriet Hilliard, not to mention Herbie Kay and Dorothy Lamour?

Incidentally, Charlie McCarthy's love affair with "Doty" doesn't seem to bother Herbie Kay. Strange, isn't it?

There are other teams who are extremely popular on the air. Fibber McGee and Molly, Goodman and Jane Ace, Jane Froman and Don Ross, Raymond Paige and Mary York.

On we go! Ruby Keeler has appeared several times on husband Al Jolson's radio show. Edward G. Robinson's wife, Gladys Lloyd, also appears frequently. Buddy Rogers is no more a veteran on the air than his wife, Mary Pickford, who had her own program, "Parties at Pickfair," for a season.

Married couples aren't the only relatives who have had notable success in radio. Louella Parsons has had a star role on "Hollywood Hotel" for several years. Her daughter, Harriet, is rapidly making a name for herself as a network film commentator.

Irene Rich's dramatic success in radio is being repeated by her daughter, Jane, who has already handled parts on several dramatic shows—"Gang Busters" was one.

By GEORGE TUCKER: NEW YORK—Owen Davis is the most prolific playwright of the century. He's credited with about 300 plays. That's some seven-and-a-half million words.

But alongside Frank and Anne Hummert, Davis is a sluggard who just fritters away his time. The Hummerts head an advertising agency and in that capacity, conceive, write, direct and produce 50-odd radio programs. That means something like 75,000 words a week or the equal, in two years, of Davis' lifetime output.

Of course, if you are going to pin us down, the Hummerts don't write every word. They have a staff. But by the time they get through outlining original ideas, editing, revising and polishing, there isn't a word in the scripts that doesn't belong to them.

The Greenwich, Conn., estate of this couple is a pleasant enough place if it weren't that the Hummerts keep it humming so. It's a beehive. There's no croquet, badminton, or bridge going on either. It's work. There are half a dozen secretaries and a small battalion of assistant scriptists around.

The Hummerts use the Alexandrine Dumas method. They hurry around pushing papers at their hired help, saying: "Develop this." Frank grabs a script from another, scans it, says: "How about doing it this way?" And jots down a whole new scene. Anne grabs a completed first draft and starts rewriting. That sort of thing goes on and on until you get exhausted just watching. But what "that sort of thing" puts in the savings account isn't chicken feed.

Frank is from New Orleans; Anne from Baltimore. Both have done their newspaper stint... Anne on the Paris (France) Herald, where she interviewed and became friendly with such international dignitaries as Queen Mary, the former Prince of Wales, Lloyd George and Premier Daladier.

Did Frank meet some interesting people, too? He grins. "I did meet a few, but not exactly the drawing room type like Anne's friends! I rode with the Texas Rangers along the Mexican border for two years. There was, for instance, Bill McDonald, whom President Roosevelt called 'the bravest man in the world.'"

Channel Tunnel For Emergency Usage Discussed by English: LONDON (AP)—Experts are speculating again on the possibility of tunneling the English channel as a consequence of the closer alliance between Britain and France.

By ROBBIN COONS: HOLLYWOOD—It has been months since Garbo coughed in "Camille" and now here we are at the threshold of a new "cough cycle" in pictures. Margaret Sullavan in "Three Comrades," Laise Rainer in "The Toy Wife" are our latest victims of acute bronchial trouble.

In the old silent pictures only one shot of the young wife knitting tiny garments was needed to convey the idea that a little bundle of joy was in the offing. The cinema cough is becoming just as effective a symbol foreshadowing the future. The only danger is that in the "cough cycle" if a heroine bid clear her throat in all innocence, the audiences will cry "Ah, ha!" and reach for their handkerchiefs.

That reminds us, of course, of the revival of "A Farewell to Arms," still after six years one of the better "good cries" of the screen. It comes opportunely, now that Gary Cooper has reached stellar eminence at the box-office, while Helen Hayes, disdaining pictures, has proved that even out of them one can build and keep one's fame.

"A Farewell to Arms," only slightly censored from its pre-Breen warmth and frankness, is still a moving and powerful picture. Frank Borzage, who directed, has yet to top the horrifying pagentry of the Italian retreat, and his skill in tenderly romantic interludes was as notable then as now.

Miss Hayes, even then, could show most of Hollywood's beauties how to act without seeming to, and Cooper in 1932, with this performance, was working up to the interesting ingenious style which now characterizes his every film. Adolphe Menjou's work is still a gem of acting, and the whole thing is singularly undated.

Having seen Borzage's "Three Comrades"—his latest work—but a few days before, we were impressed with the director's fondness for Wagnerian music in his scoring. The ending, in the new picture and the old, is virtually the same, with similar settings—and both Miss Hayes and Miss Sullavan are given tearful farewells to the rising strains of Isolda's Love Death music. But Borzage probably realized that if better music for a "love death" could have been written, Wagner would have written it—and in "Three Comrades," at least, the director omitted the sunburst of pigeons in the fade-out.

Three Persons Get Big Returns on Race: TORONTO, June 11 (AP)—Three persons who combined Tea Jester and Kissin Bug in the daily double at Long Branch races today, received $3,551.65 for their $2 investment. The payoff was the biggest of the Ontario spring racing season and is believed to be a record since the $2 duet was inaugurated.

In the mutuels, Tea Jester, winner of the first race, paid $102.15 for $2, and Kissin Bug, victor in the second, returned $48.15.

AROUND THE TOWN BY MERLE MILLER. Includes a portrait of Merle Miller and a short story titled 'HURRAH FOR FASCISM!'.

HURRAH FOR FASCISM!—(Being an Open Letter to Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City) Dear Frank: You'll pardon me calling you Frank, even though we've never met; but I just know we're going to be good friends. We believe in so many of the same things...

I saw by this week's New Republic—that awful, awful magazine—that you were grooming your pal Gov. A. Harry Moore president of the United States. I think it's a grand idea, and I want you to know you have my support. I'll do all I can to help Governor Moore's election in 1940...

That means that Jewish girl in high school who only studied half as much as I but who always got better grades—and who graduated as valedictorian, while I, a real native American, mind, was just a measly salutatorian. I'll bet if we looked into that, Frank, we'd find out it was some kind of a plot. I'll bet that girl cheated in all her tests. You know how those things are, Frank...

And as for the Negroes, Frank... Well, those fellows like Jesse Owens and Joe Louis certainly hadn't ought to dare out-run or out-fight a real pure-blooded American. What does that make us look like in the eyes of the rest of the world, I ask you, Frank?

And as for people like Paul Robeson, singing out the way he does and daring say those things about Russia... Well, we ought to just let him know he'd better stay over there in Russia and not be coming back here to the United States... We'll show him, we will. Won't we, Frank?

As for those Negroes who get Ph.D.'s and big degrees like that in the colleges we real Americans support, well, it just hadn't ought to be allowed...

Of course, Frank, there are a few folks I know whose blood isn't exactly pure; but you could get that fixed up, couldn't you... Just drop a line to good old Adolf Hitler... He'll tell you how...

And another thing, Frank, don't forget to mention, when you're making up your campaign talks—about how FASCISM will solve our unemployment problems... I mean you'd be building up the army by 15 or 20 millions at least, and that would take care of all those out of work... For special friends, Frank, you might mention that you could do away with income taxes too...

Of course, I hardly need say, that you'd better keep this letter secret for the time being... When you're planning Harry Moore's campaign, just stick to about how you'll get us out of this "recession" and how you'll solve the unemployment problem and how you'll drive the reds out of America—and the C.I.O. ... Oh, you know—just a little of the old stuff.

Then, when you get everything organized, just let me know... I'll be ready to leave on an instant's notice for Jersey City—because surely you'll move the capital there (I mean you wouldn't want to live in that dirty old White House)... I'll bet you'll get along just swell together, Frank... Your very good friend, Merle Miller.

Bartley Youngest Lawyer Passes Bar Examination at 21 After Active University Career

Bill Bartley of Coralville passed the bar examinations yesterday, the youngest man of the more than 80 who came out on top of the heap. Bill, his wife and two children were happy about the whole thing!

Bartley, who was 21 last October, wouldn't have been eligible to take the bar examinations had he been a year younger. He worked his own way through the university, and since four years ago when he married Betty Burkhardt, then an Iowa student, he has also supported his family. The young couple's children are three-year-old Betsy and one-year-old Billy.

Bartley is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha, social fraternity, and Delta Theta Phi, law fraternity. He will be managing editor of the bulletins released by the publications department of the university beginning July 1, the result of

CBS Casting Director Presents Play Of Chinese Suffering in Radio Series

Under the direction of Earle McGill, Columbia Broadcasting system casting director, "The Far East Today," a radio play depicting the suffering of Chinese due to the Japanese invasion, was presented over station WSUI last night at 9 o'clock. This was the first of a series of productions to be directed by Mr. McGill during a two weeks' stay on the campus.

The play, written in New York and sent out to various independent and educational stations throughout the United States, was sponsored by the United Council for Civilian Relief in China. The council, headed by Theodore Roosevelt Jr., is seeking to raise funds to relieve suffering in the far east.

The local program was presented after four rehearsals covering a day and a half. Mr. McGill, known as a fast director, (radio has been said to spend too much time in rehearsals) explained that if the production had been a professional enterprise, rehearsal probably would have started two or three hours before the time

Carr to Speak This Afternoon

Columbia Professor To Lecture on 'Helen Of Troy'

Prof. W. L. Carr of Teachers college, Columbia university, will present a lecture on "Helen of Troy" at 4:10 this afternoon in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Professor Carr is a native Iowan, having been born at Leon. He has just been awarded an honorary LL.D. degree from Drake university, from which he graduated 40 years ago. After teaching at Oberlin college and the University of Michigan he became professor of Latin at Teachers college, Columbia university, in 1930. For several years he was secretary of the Classical association of the middle west and south and was president of the American Classical league from 1931 to 1937.

He is the editor of several Latin text books and the author of several works in the field of philology. Professor Carr's address tonight will be of interest, however, to other than classical specialists.

Students Need Social Numbers

Iowa students who will enter commercial and industrial employment this summer will need social security account numbers, it was announced yesterday by J. C. Hollister, manager of the Day-entrap offices of the Social Security board.

Students should apply in person or by mail to the field office of the board in Davenport, where numbers will be issued without charge, before beginning employment.

It is estimated that about one million students may secure regular or temporary employment in commercial and industrial jobs this summer, Mr. Hollister stated.

The regulation requiring social security numbers applies to all commercial and industrial workers, regardless of whether employment is part-time, temporary or permanent. Wages earned by such workers are regularly reported by their employers and a record is kept by the social security board.

The records will be used in computing the worker's old age insurance benefits when he reaches 65 years of age or dies.

Lapp Gives 1st Talk on Physics

The first of a series of seven lectures on interesting phases of physics was delivered by Prof. C. J. Lapp of the physics department staff in the physics auditorium last night.

Using "The Blue Sky" as a basis for the discussion of the many phenomena of the air about us, Professor Lapp introduced the series of lectures with facts about the atmosphere — its density and temperature, the laws of diminishing pressure which pertain to it, the thickness of the blanket of air which covers the earth and other important facts which are little realized or considered because of the abundance of the atmosphere.

Professor Lapp illustrated many of his points with lantern slides and simple demonstrations which served to clarify his material.

The series will be continued each Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock with next week's topic scheduled to be "The Disintegration of Matter."

Dill Will Give Museum Talks

Prof. Homer Dill, director of the university museums, will present three lectures on topics of interest in the museum field during the summer session.

The first of the three, scheduled for 8 p.m. June 29, is on the topic, "Bird Rookeries of Laysan Island." At 8 p.m. July 5, Professor Dill will discuss "The Wild Animal Life of the Louisiana Gulf Coast," and the third of the series will be presented at 8 p.m. July 27, when Professor Dill describes "An Expedition 800 Miles Into Old Mexico."

All of the lectures will be held in the auditorium of the geology building. In addition, a tour of the university museums will be conducted by Professor Dill at 4 p.m. June 24.

The lectures and tour of the university museums will present many interesting phases of natural life as they pertain to the museum field.

Senior Law Wins Honors

Receives $100 Prize For Essay; Is High In State Bar Exams

This is a lucky week for Ralph J. Schindler, senior law student from Cedar Rapids.

While most seniors were content to successfully pass all examinations and receive their J.D. degrees and to pass the bar exams, this was not sufficient for Schindler. Monday Dean Wiley B. Rutledge announced that Schindler and James D. Hill had won the $100 Nathan Burkan Memorial Competition for the best essay written by a senior law student at Iowa on some phase of the legal aspects of music.

Yesterday when the examining board read the names of those who successfully passed the bar examinations they paused for a moment and then named the student who had received highest honors in the examinations—it was Ralph J. Schindler.

Schindler's essay which won the contest was entitled "Public Performance for Profits of Copyrighted Musical Compositions." He will be associated with a Cedar Rapids law firm.

Peterson Urges Federal Aid For Public Schools of U. S.

Seeks Such Support As Necessary For Education

The public schools of the United States are headed for a tailspin unless the policy of federal support for education is accepted, Prof. Elmer T. Peterson of the college of education declared in the first campus forum in Old Capitol yesterday afternoon.

"Federal support of education is inevitable unless we are willing to contemplate a substantial lowering of our educational activities," Professor Peterson said.

Yesterday's public forum was the first in a series of six being held as part of a course in political forums offered by Prof. Kirk H. Porter of the political science department. Professor Porter presided during the discussion.

Reeves' Bill
Pointing to depression curtailments in governmental services, Professor Peterson emphasized the fact that "education has suffered most severely," and unless federal support is accepted, the educational standards of the various states will be lowered still more.

Professor Peterson considered the Reeves' committee bill now before congress, the bill which would provide a graduated scale of federal grants for public education.

The Iowa educator scored the proposed legislation on the ground that it makes "highly specific allocations to highly specific activities." As a result the federal government would not only exercise federal support over education but also federal control, because of the wide discretionary powers lodged in the United States commissioner of education.

Present federal subsidies for education go only to schools offering vocational, agricultural and home economics training, he said. "The federal government is not however subsidizing reading, writing and arithmetic in the elementary and secondary schools," Professor Peterson charged.

General Aid
Federal support must be general, not specific, he asserted. "The federal government must be recognized as a tax collecting agency as well as a tax-distributing agency. But appropriations for education should be given to states to spend, waste or do with as they please," Professor Peterson maintained.

"Equality is the aim of much of our modern legislation. The demand to equalize educational opportunities appears to be impressive," he said.

Prof. Ethan P. Allen of the political science department will conduct next week's forum on "Pressure Groups and Congress" at 3:10 p.m. Wednesday in room 315, Schaeffer hall.

Indian Lore Authority to Speak At Conference

Regina Flannery, anthropologist of Catholic university of Washington, D. C., who will speak at the child development and parent education conference next week on "How Tribal Customs Affect Child Behavior," will use material gathered in her work among Indian tribes, especially with women of the Apache Indians of New Mexico, Senecas of New York and the primitive Crees of the St. James Bay region of northern Canada.

Miss Flannery has made three expeditions to the tribes, investigating domestic culture among them, paying especial attention to the women and children. Her work

Big 10 Alumni To Give Outing At Cedar Lake

Today With WSUI

A Big Ten outing, to which undergraduates of Big Ten universities are invited, has been arranged for Saturday at 1 p.m. at Cedar Lake near Pevely, Mo., not far from St. Louis.

The outing is sponsored by a new organization of Big Ten alumni in St. Louis, with the purpose of promoting interest in all Big Ten university activities. It is believed that the organization will also be helpful in publicizing and supporting athletic contests between St. Louis universities and members of the Big Ten.

Graduates and undergraduates of Iowa, in addition to those of Chicago, Northwestern, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota and Purdue universities, are invited to the first outing Saturday.

Using "Character Development" as the theme of his lecture, Professor Adams pointed out the basic fundamentals of the development of character, illustrating the various forms of conflict within the psychological individual which lead to a state of imbalance, and the ways in which the individual may form character by resolving that state of imbalance.

Professor Adams will be affiliated with the Child Welfare Research station here until after July 1, when he will return to Duke university to resume his teaching duties there.

New Lab Open For Botanists

A new botanical laboratory, a valuable addition to the botany department and an additional beauty spot on the campus, is available for the courses of the botany department this summer.

The structure is located west of the psychopathic hospital. It consists of three parts—a plant physiology laboratory, a tree-house and a greenhouse. The structure was built according to the design of George L. Horner, university architect.

The laboratory unit has elementary, advanced and research laboratories for physiology students. The plant house unit provides growing material for class work and research. The tree house unit is large enough for taller tropical plants.

The greenhouse is built entirely below the ground except for glass panes and rafters, provides a maximum amount of light, and like the laboratory, is equipped with the latest conveniences.

The new botanical laboratory is a valuable supplement to the facilities of the department.

Professor Talks At 1st-Graduate College Lecture

Donald K. Adams of the psychology department of Duke university presented the first graduate college lecture of the summer in Old Capitol last night.

HOSTESS HINTS

A good rule to follow for summer meals is this: "One hot dish always." This rule can be interpreted in enough ways to give great variety to your meals and still realize the benefits of its dietary advice.

The following meal "patterns" are really ideal for use in summer time.

1. A hot meat dish, cold vegetable salad, bread and butter and a simple dessert.

2. A cold meat platter, a hot creamed or scalloped vegetable, a fruit salad and iced tea.

3. A cold meat, sliced raw vegetables, hot muffins or biscuits, a potato salad, a warm beverage and fruit.

4. A hot scallop of meat and vegetables, a green salad bowl and iced coffee and cookies.

There are really possibilities in these meal patterns. They mean actually cooking just one dish, yet producing a well-balanced dinner that satisfies the family needs.

Numberless quick meat dishes or meat and vegetable scallops that are especially adaptable for these summer menus may be found. They do not take extra work or time or keep the kitchen hot for long hours at a time. Canned meats such as ham, corned beef and Vienna sausage come in handy in these dishes.

Instead of baking ground meats in big meat loaves, they can be made into baked meat balls which require only a fraction of the cooking time of loaves and taste just as good. Cold meats are delicious in combination with hot casserole dishes. A hot ham cooked for hot service at one meal can be made into several tasty hot combination dishes afterwards.

One of the nicest things about all these summer meat purchases besides their convenience is their low cost. In using them there is no need to feel that you are spoiling the budget in sparing yourself work.

This dish will appeal to even the delicate appetite:

Scalloped Ham, Peas and Mushrooms

2 cups cold cubed ham (canned ham or left-over ham)

2 cups cooked peas

1 small can mushrooms (stems and pieces)

3-4 cup corn flakes

1-4 cup butter

1-4 cup flour

2 cups top milk or vegetable stock

Cook peas until tender in small amount of water. Drain and mix with ham and mushrooms. Make white sauce of melted butter, flour and 2 cups of liquid from peas made up to 2 cups with top milk or thin cream. Season to taste and add to meat and vegetables. Place in casserole and top with corn flakes buttered with 2 tablespoons melted butter. Bake 25 minutes at 350 degrees F.

The following recipe will give a "different" taste to ham balls.

Ham Balls With Hot Peaches

1 pound ground ham shank meat

1-2 pound lean pork

1 cup crushed corn flakes

1-2 cup evaporated milk

1 egg

1 tablespoon brown sugar

1-4 teaspoon cloves

Few whole cloves

1 number 2 1-2 can peach halves

2 tablespoons vegetable

Crush the cereal, then measure 1 cup, mix with seasonings and milk, egg and add meat. Mix well and shape into balls that will fit into the cavities of large peach halves. Place balls in flat open baking pan and bake in a 350 degrees F. oven 30 minutes. Place peach halves, cup side up, with a little vegetable in each, in pan in oven during last 10 to 15 minutes of baking. When hot place ham balls on top of each. Place a few whole cloves into peach halves. Serve with creamed new potatoes or peas.

Prenuptials Agents Prepare For John's Wedding

NAHANT, Mass., June 15 (AP)—Secret service men of the White House detail moved quietly through this sea-girt town today in final preparation for President Roosevelt's arrival for the Saturday wedding of his youngest son, John, and Anne Lindsay Clark.

A literally blushing bridegroom met with reporters earlier in the day to struggle, at their behest, through a description of the dress Anne's mother, Mrs. F. Haven Clark, will wear on the wedding day, report plans for solving a somewhat acute housing shortage due to so many Roosevelts being in town on the same day, and reveal that Harvard athletic teams had robbed him of two of his ushers.

Despite all questions, however, John refused to disclose how he and Anne intended to escape from this almost-island town, connected with the mainland only by a causeway, after their wedding reception.

There was continued speculation that their honeymoon trip

Turk Legislator Hits Films Children See

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—A bill, introduced by Dr. Fuat Unay, influential M.P., would prevent Turkish children under 16 from attending the cinema.

The bill says, in effect, that films have a detrimental effect on children because:

- "They distort their brains.
- "They shake their nerves.
- "They suggest adventurous ideas.

"They make girls fond of make-up, jewels, and expensive dresses.

"They convey, prematurely, information about love and love making.

"They inspire violent passions."

Dr. Unay is president of the Turkish Society for the Protection of Children.

Cinema owners plead that most of them will have to shut down if the bill is passed. At least 50 per cent of their patrons, they declare, are children under 16.

McCall--

only defense witness. The state based its case on testimony of federal agents and identification by Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey Cash Sr., of the pajamas found on the child's decomposed body 12 days after he disappeared from his Princeton, Fla., home May 28.

McCall explained he was tempted by visions of the $10,000 ransom. He made no effort to repudiate a 10-page confession introduced by the state.

In a firm but low voice, he gave the following account of the crime: "About 9:30 I went to the home of Hal McLaughlin and then went to J. B. Cash's filling station and saw Mr. and Mrs. Cash inside the store. I asked the time and Mrs. Cash said, 'It's 9:30—time for you to be home in bed.'"

"I left the store and went through an alley in back to the filling station and came through the back door of the house. It was locked and I cut the screen with a knife.

"I had two white pocket handkerchiefs which I took out of my pocket and went up the hall to the door of the bedroom. I went in and picked Skeegie up in my arms and placed two large, white, clean handkerchiefs over his face.

"I went out the back door. He appeared to be sleeping. I carried him in both hands and held the handkerchiefs over his mouth and, I guess, over his nose, but I didn't know it.

"I walked home. It was dark and when I got home I put Skeegie on the bed and shook him and called his name but got no answer.

"I was afraid and tried artificial respiration to try and wake him up. I got cold water from the ice box and bathed his face but he didn't wake up.

"I knew he was dead. He didn't struggle or move. I saw he was dead and didn't know what to do.

"I picked him up and started out the back door. I didn't have any particular place in mind and went through the woods back of the house to the place where the body was found and placed it there.

"Then I went home and got the ransom note."

"I want to make this plea," he said in conclusion. "It was the first time I was ever involved in anything like this. No one else ever had money tempt them that much."

Iowans Star on Broadway

Writer Tells of Careers of Joy Hodges and Anne Rutledge in New York

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK, June 15 (AP)—Along with the mob of juvenile performers that overflowed the Broadway stage in the past season, there also appeared the refreshing sight of a bevy of other new faces and names that scored such successes as to indicate that they should experience little job trouble in the footlight acres.

Most flowery of critical bouquets were tossed at the feet of Uta Hagen, lovely and sensitive young actress who made her Broadway debut in support of Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in Chekhov's "The Sea Gull."

Daughter of a University of Wisconsin professor, Miss Hagen is now getting further experience, always useful to an actress, in the summer theater at Falmouth, Mass.

A bit of charity work rewarded Joy Hodges mightily which explains why she has been winning such cheers for her singing performance in support of George M. Cohan in the musical "T'd Rather Be Right."

Miss Hodges, a Des Moines, Ia., girl, won a movie contract by her singing with a dance band. The contract lapsed, was taken up and Miss Hodges woefully prepared to start out with the dance bands again. But, before she left Hollywood Bing Crosby asked her to sing at a benefit show, which she did. Miss Hart, co-author of "T'd Rather Be Right," happened to see the show and searched her out with a contract accompanying his calling card.

When the cinema folk heard she was to be the feminine lead in George M. Cohan's new musical, they searched her out again and signed her to play one of the leads in the movie, "Merry-Go-Round of 1938," before she came east to begin rehearsals with the man who is playing Franklin D. Roosevelt on the stage.

Two of the new ingenue names that can count it a happy season are Ann Rutledge, who made her Broadway debut by playing her great-grand-uncle namesake in the Abraham Lincoln drama, "Prologue to Glory," and Betty Field, who established herself with her performance of the young and sentimental Barbara Shayne's career demonstrates the rambling route a man make take to become a Broadway success. Shayne went to high school in Washington, D. C., worked in the efficiency department of a Boston department store where he began acting in church theatricals, and then went out to attend summer school at the University of Chicago.

Then he became a newspaper reporter in Florida, and afterwards went to work for the Miami better business bureau. Later he started for Broadway, pairing on the road with a ready-to-wear store in Birmingham and a stock company in Atlanta.

There were at least a dozen additional new faces on Broadway who can look back upon the season with success in their hearts, especially Broderick Crawford for his performance of the half-wit Lenny in "Of Mice and Men," Vera Zorina for her loveliness and dancing in "I Married an Angel," and Julie Hayden for her appearance as the simple Brigid in "Shadow and Substance."

Labor Leaders Plead Guilty KANSAS CITY (AP)—Debnair W. H. (Wally) Mahan, ousted labor leader, and seven lesser figures arrested by police in their investigation of vandalism acts here pleaded guilty unexpectedly yesterday.
