

Britain Mourns As Countess Of Strathmore Dies

Court Mourning Might Prevent State Visit To Continent

LONDON, June 23 (Thursday) (AP) — The Countess of Strathmore, mother of Queen Elizabeth, died early today at her London home. She was 76.

Wife of the Scottish Earl of Strathmore and Kinghorne, the countess had been gravely ill for some time.

Both King George VI and the queen were at her bedside when death came.

The queen had remained in London near her mother during her long illness.

A second daughter, Lady Rose Leveson Gower, arrived only yesterday from her home on the Isle of Man due to the countess' condition.

Born Nina Cavendish-Bentnik, a member of the ducal house of Portland.

She was married in 1881 to the heir of the ancient Scottish earldom which one day was to produce the first commoner queen of Britain since the days of Henry VIII.

When the engagement of their daughter, Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, was announced to the then Duke of York, the earl remarked it was "a true love match" since the Strathmores never had aspired to court circles.

The countess was said to have been happiest when caring for Glamis castle, their Scottish seat where Macbeth is said to have murdered Duncan.

Court circles immediately wondered whether the death of the queen's mother would cause postponement of the state visit to the king and queen are scheduled to pay to France next week.

The royal court is expected to go into mourning which might preclude the visit.

The king and queen, who had been in constant touch with the Strathmore residence, Cumberland mansions, returned to Buckingham palace shortly after her death.

Group Suggests Huge Highway

MINNEAPOLIS, June 22 (AP) — Representatives of the federal government and five states through which the Mississippi river flows today started a movement to promote a highway parkway running from Lake Itasca in Minnesota to the Gulf of Mexico.

The group, meeting at the national planning conference, went on record recommending each state along the route plan its own project and have the federal government coordinate the program.

The originator of the midcontinent highway plan, with federal roads linking up with important state parks, attended the meeting. He is A. P. Greenfelder of St. Louis, member of the Missouri state planning commission.

The meeting was also attended by members of state planning boards, highway departments, the national parks' service and the national resources committee.

The group sponsoring the parkway system represented Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana. Another meeting to consider plans was called for Aug. 20 at Davenport, Ia.

The three day conference had its last business session this morning.

Hope Peace Moves Will Halt Spreading Conflict in Orient

SHANGHAI, June 23 (Thursday) (AP) — New peace moves to halt the spreading Chinese-Japanese warfare were reported under way today.

The reports came as Japanese war planes struck three times at the south China port of Swatow, threatening large scale invasion of south China, and new Japanese-American friction cropped up at Nanking and Shanghai.

Emissaries of the Japanese-sponsored north China provisional government were said to be holding

Joe Louis, the Brown Bomber from Detroit, successfully defended his heavyweight championship against Challenger Max Schmeling of Germany last night, knocking out the Black Uhlan in the first round of their scheduled 15 round battle. The end came after 2:04 minutes in the first round. After Louis had floored Schmeling for the count of three and then again for a one-count, the Bomber crashed the Black Uhlan in the first round of their scheduled 15 round battle. Director MacLean Asks Parents To 'Divvy up' With Children

Analyzes Problems Of Training for Child Welfare Group

The duties of parents in rearing their children, from training them in matters of diet, health and sports to "divvying up" the family radio schedule in order to provide cultural impressions on the youngster, were analyzed by Malcolm MacLean, director of the general college at the University of Minnesota, following the annual dinner of the Iowa conference on child development and parent education in Iowa Union last night.

Despite the fact that culture is considered by some as "a sort of high hat" facile acquaintance with the great classics of literature and history, and by others as relating to "the new common connotations of the word 'personality,'" MacLean maintained that "it is the parent's job to treat the youngster exactly as a gardener treats a plant—to cultivate, fertilize, water and prune at proper times and seasons, and always with a pre-visualized picture of the kind of end-product the parent wants his child to be."

Outspoken Artist Loses Position On Kansas City Faculty

G. O. P. Makes Plans to Tilt With New Deal

DES MOINES, June 22 (AP) — A pre-convention gathering of republican leaders from all sections of Iowa adjourned here tonight with a demand for unified action against the democratic new deal.

The meeting, called by the state advisory platform committee, included several republican candidates for state offices in the November election.

Former Gov. Dan Turner of Corning, Iowa, chairman of the committee, led the group in a closed executive session this afternoon at which platform planks and resolutions were discussed.

Carl Cook, republican state central committee chairman, said the committee would meet here again July 8 at which time it was expected the resolutions would be formulated.

The planks in the party's platform will be definitely decided on at the state convention in Des Moines July 15.

Turner indicated the only platform plank on which the committee expected difficulty were those dealing with a farm program and labor legislation.

President Sends Group to Europe To Study Labor

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 22 (AP) — President Roosevelt dispatched across the Atlantic today a group of nine business, labor, education and government officials to study employer-employee relations in England and Sweden.

The group, to which no chairman was named, will report back to the president, through his labor secretary, within a few months on how labor relations are handled in those two countries.

Letters of instruction to each of the nine directed them to talk with government, industrial and labor leaders, Mr. Roosevelt commenting that "there is a definite need for an impartial report which will adequately portray the real situation."

Convict Francis Black Jr. For Pushing 13-Year-Old Over Cliff

ALPINE, Tex., June 22 (AP) — Francis Marion Black Jr., was found guilty today of pushing 13-year-old Marvin Dale Noblitt to his death from a 400-foot cliff in a $5,000 insurance plot.

Acting swiftly on the state's demand for the death penalty, a shirt-sleeved west Texas jury deliberated less than 30 minutes before voting to send the former University of Kansas student to the electric chair.

The 25-year-old defendant confessed the plot against the boy.

British Ignore Sinking of 2 More Ships; Work Toward Early Operation of Italian Pact

LONDON, June 22 (AP)—The British government calmly ignored the sinking of two more of her merchant ships in the Mediterranean today and continued to canvass the possibilities of a truce in Spain and early operation of her friendship pact with Italy.

Prospects of a Spanish armistice appeared to be dimming, but Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain denied in the house of commons that Italy by current diplomatic negotiations was trying to drive a wedge between Britain and France.

Stop FBI Ace From Printing Nazi Spy Story

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—Federal authorities started action today to prevent publication of articles by Leon G. Turrou, former ace G-man, advertised as the "authentic inside story" of the indictment of 18 members of an alleged German spy ring.

Federal Judge Murray Hulbert signed an order late today directing the New York Post to show cause tomorrow why it should not be restrained from printing the articles, scheduled to begin tomorrow.

The order was obtained by Lamar Hardy, United States attorney here. Department of justice officials in Washington said they wanted to prevent publication of such confidential information.

For many years a star agent of the bureau of investigation, Turrou spent four months investigating the espionage case.

Her attorney, Paul J. Ziegler, said the $6,741 represents notes executed by the actress for her former husband.

Aryans Suffer As Jew Haters Continue Drive

Big Slump in Business Reported by German Shopkeepers

BERLIN, June 22 (AP)—Evidence began to accumulate tonight that the violent anti-Semitic manifestations of the past week were proving a boomerang.

Many Aryan shopkeepers and Aryan employes in Jewish stores say they are economic victims of the Jew-baiters, quite as much as the Jews themselves.

Movie houses in districts where raids have been the order of the day complain of half-empty houses. Not only are Jews staying away, but many Aryans who dislike having the show interrupted and being subjected to inquiry.

One picture house visited by this writer had only 18 patrons, instead of the customary 400. An Aryan barber complained that his daily earnings for haircuts and shaves were cut exactly one half of what they were before the drive started. An Aryan pastry shop owner said he was considering going out of business because he now was operating at a loss.

In Jewish-owned department stores, an overwhelming majority of employes were Aryan or had become such since 1933. These people walk about with long faces, as they see either bankruptcy ahead for their firms or already hold notices in their hands.

Rail Officials Continue Task Of Identifying Dead

MILES CITY, Mont., June 22 (AP)—Milwaukee railroad officials indicated a belief tonight that the final toll of the crash of the line's Olympian Sunday would be 46.

They announced 35 of the 38 bodies recovered had been identified, added four more names to the list of missing, and said they had "good evidence" another person they were unable to name was lost.

Open Minded LaFollette Says East Cordial to Party

MADISON, Wis., June 22 (AP) — Gov. Philip F. LaFollette said today he found eastern states "enthusiastically open minded" toward his new political party, the national progressives of America. The governor returned Saturday from a vacation and speaking tour in the east.

"I was extremely pleased with the cordial enthusiasm given the new party," the governor said, adding that he found sentiment on the eastern seaboard little different from that in the middle west.

"There is unmistakable evidence that people have less and less confidence in this pump priming," LaFollette declared, because many "recognize that we cannot keep indefinitely to a system similar to a dole."

The governor said he talked with approximately 200 liberal leaders in six eastern states. He said there would be NPA state organizations in all New England states within a year.

'PROPAGANDA' Knox Says Machine In Full Operation

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., June 22 (AP) — Frank Knox, republican vice presidential nominee in 1936, told the nation's editors tonight a "propaganda machine, the like of which this country never before has seen" is in full operation in America.

Declaring an effort to muzzle the press must not be allowed "to go unchallenged," Knox said the "propaganda machine" was being used "to fasten blame for the depression on business."

Two Attorneys Shot to Death

Hansen Admits Shooting Result of Decision In Land Case

LOS ANGELES, June 22 (AP) — Two lawyers were shot to death today in a superior court room of the hall of records.

A few minutes later Captain William Penprase said Arthur Emil Hansen, 38, had been taken into custody and had admitted shooting the two attorneys, R. D. McLaughlin and J. Irving Hancock.

Captain Penprase said Hansen told him "everything went red" after Court Commissioner Kurtz Kauffman gave an adverse decision in a land case to which Hansen was a party.

"I walked into the courtroom, saw those attorneys, and everything went red," the officer quoted Hansen.

Commissioner Kauffman narrowly escaped being shot. He had been walking with the two attorneys on the eighth floor but excused himself for a few minutes. As soon as he stepped aside there was a burst of gunfire, McLaughlin and Hancock fell to the floor, and Hansen fled down a corridor.

Captain Penprase said Hansen was captured in the jury room back of the commissioner's office.

Captain Penprase said Hansen was a Wakonda, S. D., farmer. "I regret nothing I did; I had nothing to lose," Captain Penprase quoted Hansen as saying. "When I entered that courtroom and saw those two attorneys who had cheated me out of everything I owned, and who were whispering to harrass me further, I saw red. I'm glad they're dead; they can't hurt anybody else."

Such meetings, he said, have been attended by W. Averell Harriman, chairman of the commerce department's business advisory committee; Walter C. Teagle of Standard Oil of New Jersey, E. R. Stettinius of United States Steel, and Clarence Francis of General Foods. Attending for the government were Thomas Corcoran, a presidential advisor, Leon Henderson, WPA economist, and Frank.

Senator Hatch (D-N.M.) also predicting much better business by fall, meanwhile got behind the frequently heard proposal that the federal government keep always ready a program of public works to be put into operation whenever employment begins to lag. The proposal will be given detailed consideration when the senate unemployment committee meets in the fall, Hatch said.

Only a few hours after the $3,753,000,000 spending-lending bill was signed by President Roosevelt, PWA announced today the first of a series of allotments.

New Allotments Ready to Spur U. S. Industries

Important Conferences With Business Men Preface Grant

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Predictions of better business soon were issued today by administration officials while the lending-spending program's first big scoops full of federal cash were ladled out to hundreds of cities and towns by the public works administration.

"The economic skies are definitely clearing," Secretary of Commerce Roper said. He asserted that business statistics indicated a sharp upturn by fall, if not earlier.

A commerce department survey showed, he said, that wholesale inventories had dropped nine per cent since February, and were 24.5 per cent lower than a year ago.

At the same time, word was passed that administration advisors were taking steps to see that the expected business improvement should not be hampered by the coming investigation of monopolistic practices and concentration of economic power. Jerome Frank, who will represent the securities and exchange commission on the committee of inquiry, disclosed that administration officials have held many conferences with industrial leaders and assured them that no anti-trust "witch hunt" was in prospect.

Such meetings, he said, have been attended by W. Averell Harriman, chairman of the commerce department's business advisory committee; Walter C. Teagle of Standard Oil of New Jersey, E. R. Stettinius of United States Steel, and Clarence Francis of General Foods. Attending for the government were Thomas Corcoran, a presidential advisor, Leon Henderson, WPA economist, and Frank.

A Word Of Thanks From Iowa City

NOW THAT it's over, we'd like to say just a word about yesterday's Daniel Doherty day. It was a grand success; it brought publicity, business and good will to Iowa City.

We don't think it takes a column of type to express our gratitude to the Roy L. Chopek post of the American Legion for bringing their national commander here, for engineering the entire celebration.

We don't think we need add more than just thanks. Thanks also for the golden key which symbolized bringing the new community building back into the hands of the community.

Great Britain Keeps Hoping As War Goes On

HOPE IT SEEMS, more than anywhere else, springs eternal in the British breast.

For news dispatches from London keep predicting a truce soon in Spain with complete removal of all foreign troops before the struggle there is resumed.

As indications that these long-hoped for events will actually take place the British point to the April treaty with Mussolini, who then guaranteed such action on the part of Italy, and to the present conference of the European powers.

The prediction that peace will soon come again to Spain; that Mussolini will withdraw his legions from that country; that in consequence rebel attacks on British shipping will cease, all, no doubt, make very good reading to a British public beginning to ask rather loudly why its government doesn't stand up to Mussolini.

The answer is, of course, that the British government has stood up to Mr. Mussolini as much as it has dared. Earlier in the war the British lion roared loudly until Hitler began to twist its tail. Paradoxically enough, it then stopped roaring.

The British tried bluffing and found Mussolini didn't bluff two cents worth. Last April, when Franco's army was splitting Loyalist Spain in half and appeared to be on the road to an immediate victory, the British tried diplomacy. Mussolini made a whole set of promises, which he undoubtedly would have kept had Franco been immediately victorious.

But Franco met stubborn resistance, and Mussolini had too much at stake in the war not to keep on helping him in spite of promises to withdraw his troops. And then too, promises apparently didn't mean much to Mussolini. Although at home he appears to be a good family man, and no doubt his wife and children like him, internationally his reputation is not so good.

So now the British are trying diplomacy again to end the Spanish war, and expressing rather freely the hope that that result will soon be attained. All the important nations of Europe have in conference the last two days stated their willingness to participate in a plan to reach that goal.

But promises and plans are easily made, just as easily broken and discarded. We expect to see the Spanish war continue, the Italian troops remain in Spain.

A southern church is permitting its members to attend Sunday services wearing beach clothes. However, we understand, the parishioners must bring their own sun-tan lamps.

CLIPPED from other COLUMNS

THE CASE OF FRANK HAGUE

For the benefit of anybody who may have been slightly bewildered in the last couple of weeks at seeing Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City get most of the choice newspaper space most days, we'll set down here what the shouting is all about.

Mayor Hague, as boss of Jersey City, has long touted his town as a place where business is not troubled by labor unions. Last fall the CIO resolved to organize some unions in Jersey City.

First blood was drawn Nov. 29, 1937, when some CIO handbill distributors were grabbed by Jersey City police and beaten up or run out of town. There was a Jersey City ordinance forbidding handbill distribution, but a supreme court decision handed down later in another case made this ordinance unconstitutional.

Since the fracas last November, the CIO and allied or sympathetic communists, socialists, liberals and free-speech enthusiasts have been needling Hague about once a week, sometimes oftener. The battle lines were extended to Newark Saturday evening, June 4, when Norman Thomas, a socialist who doesn't approve of Mr. Stalin, got a permit and tried to make a free-speech in Military park, and was showered with eggs and tomatoes by a mob. Thomas charged that these persons were hoodlums sent over by Hague from Jersey City to break up the Newark show.

The Hague chapter now unfolding has to do with a lawsuit brought by the CIO and the American Civil Liberties union. These organizations are suing in federal court at Newark for an omnibus injunction to forbid Jersey City officials to deny CIO organizers their constitutional rights of free speech, free press and free assembly.

The judge in the case is Judge William Clark, able and respected jurist recently named by the president and the senate for promotion to the third circuit court of appeals.

Chief counsel for Hague's attackers is Morris Ernst, who last week performed the unusual feat of calling the defendant Hague as his own (Ernst's) witness, and in effect cross-examining him. It is Hague's testimony that has been filling so much newspaper space. Hague's testimony has been frank and fearless; no use denying that. He says he is against communism and communists; that the CIO leaders are communists and so is Ernst; that the majority of Jersey City people don't want to be bothered by communist agitators; that communists advocate overthrow of our form of government; that for these reasons Hague's duty as mayor is to deny these troublemakers the rights of free speech, press and assembly. Only safe and sane, "high-class" citizens are entitled to those rights, according to Hague—though the U. S. constitution makes no such distinction.

Fascist Methods We have no desire to suggest how a case in process of trial ought to be decided. But we do want to make a few general remarks on liberty as it is being highlighted by this case of Frank Hague.

We have long believed, and still believe, that American liberty is threatened these days from two angles—the communist or ultra-radical angle, and the fascist or ultra-conservative angle. There is no more civil liberty in Russia than in Germany or Italy. The triumph of either communism or fascism in any country means the death of democracy in that country. Americans will be wise to fight both of these "isms" in their own country.

But it does not do to fight communism with fascist methods, if you want to preserve democracy. And Mayor Hague has been using fascist methods to fight the radicals in Jersey City, according to his own admissions. Slogans designed to inflame the people against communists; slogans calling all who disagree with Hague communists; police nonchalance amounting almost to incitement to riot when any radical or liberal gets up to make a speech—all these things strongly resemble Hitler's tactics when he was building his Nazi power. To believers in American liberty, these things are alarming.

We still believe Hague could settle the most of his radical troubles by setting aside a "Union Square" in Jersey City, out of the main traffic routes, and well policed, where bellyachers of all kinds could speak their minds under permit from the city. Liberty is not a hardy plant. It requires good soil and careful cultivation, or it will die in some period of economic stress. This is a period of economic stress.

Tuning In with Loren Hickerson

Odds and Ends I heard just a bit of the "Original Good Will Hour," under the direction of John J. Anthony, last Sunday night. It's one of those marital relation things that gets all the answer seekers and publicity lovers on the airwaves.

Comes an ot concerning Mr. Anthony. He has reportedly heard the troubles of more than 10,000 persons, and claims that even if nothing substantial in the way of advice is forthcoming, the troubled persons are nevertheless relieved.

"It's an old psychological formula," says Anthony, "to let other persons in on your troubles. Ninety per cent of the people who come to me seem to breathe easier after they've divulged their secret troubles, and feel that someone else is worrying about them."

Janet Cantor's Poem

Remember the days when Eddie Cantor was the regular performer on the Chase and Sanborn hour, with James Wallington, the Rubino and his violin, and the rest of a cast that constantly came forth on Sunday nights with the best program on the air?

Consistently a part of those broadcasts of Eddie's were his talks in favor of highway safety—his little three-minute word pictures that made him famous as the most popular and worthwhile comedian in America.

Well, in the mail today came a poem, by 10-year-old Janet, Eddie's daughter, and it shows a breadth of training that makes the entire Cantor family, I'm sure, much like Eddie.

Here's the poem: Safety first—never last. Always stop when you are asked. To stop at red lights, go at green. Then no accidents will be seen.

Safety first—never last. One should never go too fast. For if one does, then he will be found to pay a penalty.

Safety first—never last. Stop lights never should be passed. For if you go when you should not, You may hurt a little tot.

Safety first—never last. Some day you may be aghast. To see the people speeding by. As if they think that they can fly.

Glen Gray and the Casa Loma orchestra will arrive in Hollywood July 2 to join the George Burns and Gracie Allen broadcast troupe July 4. The Casa Lomas will be featured on the show for five weeks until the program recesses for the summer.

Americans are surprised at the extent of the alleged spying uncovered by federal operations. Details are beginning to leak out since a federal grand jury in New York indicted 18 persons, including three high in the command of the German army. It is apparent that the spies sought to obtain plans of the new U. S. bombers said to be the best in the world. The indictment accused the Nazi officers as being the "brains" of the spy ring. It charged the Germans with operating through agents residing in the U. S. and using members of various steamships plying between Germany and the U. S. as their tools.

officials of the German army—all residents of Germany. Four of the others indicted have been in custody. They are Johanna Hoffman, hairdresser on the liner Europa; Otto H. Voss, who worked at the Seversky airplane plant at Farmingdale, L. I.; Sgt. Guenther Gustav Rummich, who disappeared from his post at Missoula, Mont., and Private Erich Glaser, a naturalized German attached to the Army air corps at Mitchell field. Held in so-called "protective custody" for reasons never made public are Mrs. Kate M. Busch and Miss Santa De Wanger, both of whom are known to have been intimates of Dr. Ignatz T. Griebel, also indicted, and a key witness who has fled to Germany along with Werner Gudenberg and Heinz Spanknobel, other key witnesses in the probe. Mrs. Griebel was arrested as she was about to sail later, but then was released on bail. German officials in Berlin expressed surprise over the indictments and termed them "fantastic."

Clendening Tells How Blondes, Brunettes and Redheads Suntan

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

A "good tan," like everything else in nature (and in life and in business), seems to come to some people without effort, to others by careful strategy, and to some not at all.

Even though we explain this by murmuring the formula "Blondes, brunettes and redheads," still there are puzzling exceptions. There are those who do not look particularly swarthy, who can remain in the sun indefinitely the first day of vacation, and never feel the slightest discomfort. They are the despair of the redhead, who cannot remain out ten minutes without suffering for days.

But there are exceptions to that, too. I know a light red-haired damsel (of about 40 summers) who lives by the side of the ocean in California, the land of sunshine, all summer, is out every day and acquires a pretty good tan, right away. There are a

Bergen Dreads 'Snatch Plot' No Comment From McCarthy

By HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 22 (AP)—You would think that not much could happen to a dummy, but Edgar Bergen lives in continual dread of losing Charlie McCarthy.

That's why Bergen recently hired a bodyguard. Yes, a bodyguard for the world's best known dummy.

One Obsession Friends of Bergen believe this fear is the one obsession in his life and, at times they say, he becomes most unhappy when he thinks of what might happen to him if Charlie were lost or burned or stolen.

It is not violating a confidence to say that without Charlie on his arm or in his lap, Bergen is a different man. Everyone who ever has talked with Bergen or worked with him has commented on his dual personality.

Two Personalities With Charlie, Bergen seems to think differently. When Charlie is there to do half the talking, Bergen's mental faculties are more alert, his comments and answers are quicker and funnier.

Charlie is insured — against fire and theft—but only for a pittance of his worth to the ventriloquist, a mere $1,000. Bergen has tried to replace Charlie. He has had a half dozen other dummies made, alike in every apparent respect to Charlie. But they don't measure up somehow to Charlie's standard.

Lack Charlie's Ability "The other dummies don't have think I'm worth that much?" he asked, hopefully.

"No, I don't," was the abrupt reply. "But I'd rather have you out of work at $3,500 than $2,500."

The trick had its effect and the actor was happy to settle for $1,500 a week.

Ingenuity Tester The limits of an ice rink are a test for the ingenuity of Harry Losee, a dance director who thinks up the numbers for Sonja Henie's pictures. But to him, there are no limits to an ice skater's ability.

Losee says he conceives a dance number, forgetting about the ice and the skates, rehearses it briefly as if it were to be a dance and then puts his people on skates on ice.

Handicaps A dance can have any kind of setting and in the not-so-long ago when dance directors were trying to outdo one another, some fantastic ideas were put on celluloid. A skating number has to be staged on the ice and the settings to put around it are few. Yet Losee has to top previous numbers.

Just at the moment, he is putting Henie and her skaters through an intricate series of steps which, when assembled, will be "Alice in Wonderland," Tweedledum and Tweedledee and the Mad Hatter and the house and all the rest of that court are on skates.

All-University Men's Dinner In Union at 6:30 This Evening

Mark Ellingson to Talk On 'Individualizing Education'

Dinner Speaker

The all-university men's dinner will be held at 6:30 this evening in the main lounge of Iowa Union, with Mark Ellingson, president of the Rochester Athenaeum and Mechanics institute, Rochester, N. Y., as the dinner speaker.

As in the past, the dinner will be integrated with the program of the college of education's conference on secondary education which begins today.

Ellingson will speak on "Individualizing Education" tonight, illustrating his contentions with experiences which have taken place in the Athenaeum. He received his M.A. degree from the University of Rochester and his Ph.D. degree from Ohio State university. He has been connected with his school since 1926, first as instructor in the institution, then as director of curriculum revision, later as supervisor of photographic technique and since 1936 as president.

The school has become well known for its emphasis on individualized education and for its promotion of what has come to be called "anecdotal method" of reporting on progress of pupils.

Tickets for the informal dinner may be had at Iowa Union desk, room 207 at University high school, room W-310 or W-113 in East hall.

A. B. Grimes is general chairman for the dinner. Edward Hardin is in charge of food arrangements, W. W. Osborn of tickets and K. W. Vaughn of publicity.

HOSTESS HINTS

Why not pin a bouquet on the next angel food cake you make for a party? Simply place a jonquil, rose or carnation together with a bit of fern, in a small glass that will fit in the center of the cake; and then carefully lower it into the tube of the cake. This not only makes a lovely food picture but serves as an attractive centerpiece as well.

Here is a delightful ice cream recipe that fairly shouts "Summer is here." LEMON VELVET: Scald two cups milk and two cups coffee cream. Then add three-fourths cup sugar; stir until dissolved and cool. Add three tablespoons grated lemon rind and one-fourth cup lemon juice. Fold in one stiffly-beaten egg white.

Pour mixture into freezing container of modern ice cream freezer, filling it not more than 2-3 full; assemble and cover. Surround with mixture of three parts crushed ice and one part rock salt. Freeze until turning becomes difficult, about 5 to 10 minutes. Then carefully remove cover, lift out dasher and pack ice cream down with a spoon. Replace cover, draw off excess water and replenish ice and salt mixture. Let stand at least one hour before serving. Serves six to eight.

If your cooking equipment doesn't boast a ring mold for making attractive salads and refrigerator desserts, here's the way to make one. Fill a glass jar with crushed ice. Place this jar in the center of a deep round or square pan and pour the mixture to be molded around the jar. Chill. When set, simply remove the jar and invert the mold, first dipping the bottom of the pan in warm water.

The next time custard "curdles" on you, do not despair. Simply drop two or three marshmallows in the curdled custard and stir until they are melted. Then whip the mixture with a rotary egg beater, and in a few minutes the custard will be smooth.

For a delicious, jiffy dessert, try Refrigerator Whip: Into one cup of whipping cream (whipped)

Arthur V. O'Brien, Mrs. Elton Titus, Mrs. Van der Zee, Mrs. Merle Webster, Mrs. C. Whitmore and Helen Williams. Sixty people attended the affair in the clubrooms of Iowa Union.

Dr. Weismann, Alumnus, Weds Alice Hopkins

The Rev. Robert C. Mitchell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, read the single ring service in the home of the bride's parents.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin and lace, fashioned princess style. Her fingertip length veil was held in place by a Juliet cap. She carried a shower bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and swansonia.

A cousin of the bride, Kathryn Merrill, served as bridesmaid. She wore a blue lace dress and a corsage of pink roses and swansonia.

Honored With Surprise Party

Mary Ann Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Montgomery, 308 Kirkwood avenue, was feted at a surprise birthday party in honor of her 14th birthday anniversary last night by a group of 11 friends.

The conference, inaugurated in an effort to provide a stimulus to secondary education in the Mississippi valley, invites administrators and supervisors of secondary schools in this and surrounding states. Attendance is increased by summer school educators on the campus.

As in the past, the program this year is planned to provide a maximum of discussion from the audience. Each speaker will be given a half-day session for presentation and discussion of his material, permitting about half of each session to be used in

Allen Urges Recognition of Pressure Groups by Our Representative System

Pressure groups, responsible for much present-day legislation, should be recognized as facts and used to reflect public opinion, Prof. Ethan P. Allen of the political science department urged in yesterday afternoon's campus forum.

"These organizations represent determined and compact groups who know what they want, and how to get what they want when they want it," he asserted. Prof. Kirk H. Porter of the political science department presided during the forum, held yesterday afternoon in Schaeffer hall and attended by approximately 250 persons.

The pressure group answers a need of the day, and "is apparently based upon a sound analysis of human attitudes toward collective action," Professor Allen said.

Their importance has increased because political parties do not truly reflect public opinion, evidencing some maladjustment in our governmental scheme, he pointed out.

The speaker proposed two remedies, a reorganization of the representative basis, or a "frank recognition of the existence and importance of the pressure groups together with a searching and constant inquiry into their functions and activities. He termed the latter "the more realistic solution."

"Our representative system allows for a formal expression of public opinion no other than once in two years, usually in practice,

Prize for Thesis or Paper on Mental Hygiene

The George Davis Bivin Foundation announces two prizes for graduate theses, dissertations or specially written papers on topics relating to the mental hygiene of the child. It is hoped rather that in the graduate work of the Child Welfare Research station or in the graduate studies of the departments of psychology, education or sociology, a thesis may be submitted which may be judged as making an original contribution of value to this program.

Copies of theses submitted for this award must be in the hands of the committee by Friday, July 15, 1938. Further information may be obtained from the undersigned.

plication on a card provided for the purpose at the registrar's office on or before Monday, July 11.

A Parade—Pageantry and Promptness

About 5,000 Iowa Citizens, Legionnaires and their wives — coming from all Iowa — yesterday afternoon saw one of the biggest parades held here in years. An unusual parade, this one. Doherty Asks All Americans To 'Enlist to Save Democracy'; Speaks to 600 at Local Banquet

Says Smug Indifference Greatest Danger To America

"Democracy is in retreat. Dictatorship is in the ascendency. Every American must enlist in a peace-time battle to save democracy for the world." That was the message Daniel Doherty, national American Legion commander, brought 600 Iowa Citizens, Iowa Legionnaires and Auxiliaries and a state-wide radio audience last night. "We fought in 1918 to make the world safe for democracy," Doherty said. "We cannot let that pledge be a failure in a fifth of a century." Commander Doherty's speech was part of a Dan Doherty Day...

We are direct descendants of a people who loved liberty more than life itself. "Our people, with their deep-rooted convictions of personal liberty and appreciative understanding of democratic processes of government, will not readily submit to any fundamental change," the Massachusetts lawyer said. "Our greatest danger, he thinks, lies in the tendency toward smug indifference and the belief that America will be safe because we entertain that hope." Nationally, Doherty believes, "In the light of the last 12 months, there is need for America to be prepared for what may come. We will not fight an offensive war, but we will protect our citizenry and national integrity." As steps in the "right direction," the Legionnaire pointed to the passage of the bigger Army-and-Navy bills by the 75th congress. "Protection," he declared, "is a necessary part of peace." His own organization Doherty named the "greatest peace organization in America or the world." Generally, during the last year, Doherty found more ac-celebration climaxed by last night's banquet in the community building, during which the building was re-dedicated. America, according to Doherty, has a "birth-right of freedom." Make Changes In City Schools

New signal systems in local public schools to mark the end of classes are part of the improvements being made during this summer's repair program. Chairman V. R. Miller of the grounds and building committee of the Iowa City board of education, announced yesterday. Other changes now underway include the building of new fences on the playgrounds of the Sabin, Lingfellow and Horace Mann schools.

complished legislatively than any other year in the history of the Legion. He pointed to the president's signature on a bill making Nov. 11 a virtual legal holiday and to giving governmental bequests to widows and orphans of deceased veterans. One failure, he said, was congress' refusal to pass the bill that would "take the profit out of war." He added that bill is still ready for passage and may be brought up for consideration at a later session. In conclusion the national commander reviewed recent work of the American Legion in the lines of welfare, aid and community service. Pointing to the community building as an example of what "can be done," Doherty declared, "We Legionnaires work for our community, our state and our nation. Americanism is part of our everyday work." Immediately after Commander Doherty's speech, begun at 9 p.m., he left for his trip east, back to his Massachusetts home. Last night's banquet, for which more than 600 tickets were sold, opened at 6:15 and closed at about 10 p.m. A program of music short speeches, introductions and the brief broadcast of the Louis-Schmeling fight preceded Commander Doherty's speech. Attorney William R. Hart acted as master of ceremonies.

Court Ponders Status of Nuns

DES MOINES, June 22 (AP)—The Iowa state supreme court took under advisement today the question of whether nuns wearing the religious garb of their faith can teach in Iowa public schools after attorneys in the case argued their contentions. The original case was that of Sister Mary Eugene, one of the nuns who taught at the Cosgrove, Ia., consolidated school in Johnson county, against the Cosgrove school board which, in 1936, terminated her salary on advice from Superintendent of Public Instruction Agnes Samuelson. For the sake of determining judicially whether an opinion by former Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor that nuns in religious garb could not legally teach in public schools, attorneys for Sister Mary Eugene sought $550 in unpaid wages. Sister Mary Eugene was upheld in Johnson county district court but then former Attorney General O'Connor and Attorney Truman

S. Stevens of Des Moines intervened in behalf of four Cosgrove taxpayers. All of the issues were argued before the supreme court. Merrill Gilmore and Edward J. Grier of Ottumwa, Ia., represented Sister Mary Eugene. The Iowa City law firm of Wilson, Clearman and Brant was counsel for the school board while O'Connor and Stevens appeared for the intervenors. Originally the case hinged only on the O'Connor opinion that the wearing of religious garb by a public school teacher who turned over her earnings to her order, Sisters of the Humility of Mary of Ottumwa, was in violation of the religious freedom sections of the Iowa constitutions. Sets Building Fire To Get Treatment LIVE OAK, Cal. "I wanted to be some place where I knew I'd get my rheumatism treated," he explained.
