Gov. Kraschel to Meet With Leaders of Strike Groups This Morning

To Negotiate For Settlement Of Controversy

Governor Returning From Vacation To Work Out Solution

NEWTON, Ia., June 30 (AP)—Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel headed toward Iowa tonight to direct at first hand an attempt to settle the prolonged labor controversy at the Maytag Washing Machine Co.

The governor called a meeting of Maytag officials, CIO union leaders and representatives of the back-to-work movement for 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning in his office in Des Moines.

Purpose of the meeting will be to attempt to work out a quick solution to the controversy that has kept 1,400 Maytag employees idle since May 9.

Returns to Iowa
Gov. Kraschel cut short his vacation at Trout Lake, Wis., this afternoon and announced he was returning to Iowa to try to settle the labor controversy. He said he would arrive in Des Moines about midnight tonight.

Announcement that the governor was returning to Des Moines was made this afternoon by G. W. Kirtley, executive assistant to the governor, in the midst of several other developments.

Shortly before the announcement of the governor's impending return, the Jasper county board of supervisors announced it had issued an order prohibiting county relief officials from giving relief aid to families of men barricaded in the closed Maytag plant.

Committee Protests
How many families would be affected was not learned. Between 300 and 350 Maytag employees have been receiving aid, but not all of them are among the several hundred who have been in possession of the plant for a week, relief officials said.

A CIO committee protested against the order to the board of supervisors. When mention was made of possible "trouble" if the order was not rescinded, the county attorney took two members of the committee and two members of the board before the special grand jury, where the conversation that took place in the board room was repeated and the CIO group was warned against any violence as a result of the board's order.

A delegation from the back-to-work advocates conferred with Kirtley this afternoon. They started for Des Moines to discuss with him possible ways of opening the plant, but when they arrived they learned that the governor was enroute home. In view of the meeting tomorrow, the men conferred briefly with Kirtley, and left without making a statement on their conversations.

Justice Dep't. Drops Turrou

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—Justice department officials said tonight Leon Turrou, former G-man who resigned to write of his activities in the recent espionage investigation, had been dismissed.

The dismissal was made effective June 20, the day Turrou quit, although the letter of notification was not actually written until June 25.

Officials said the action was taken on the ground Turrou violated an oath taken in 1935 not to divulge confidential information "to persons not officials entitled thereto."

An agreement was filed in the federal district court in New York today under which Turrou's articles will not be released until after the trial of four persons now under arrest in this country.

Officials said that Turrou and all other federal bureau of investigation officials signed a special oath in 1935 in which they agreed to keep confidential information they obtained.

Presbyterian Conventionites Ask Local Option Control of State Liquor Sales

AMES, Ia., June 30 (AP)—Enactment of a local option law to control sale of liquor in Iowa was urged by delegates to the annual convention of the Iowa synod of the Presbyterian church here today.

The convention adopted a report of its committee on social education and action in which recommendations were made concerning military training at Coe college, double features at theaters, liquor, and marriage laws.

Citing what the members considered evils of the existing state liquor store system, the committee recommended and urged the enactment of a local option law for the state of Iowa, allowing those communities which want no liquor the privilege of being dry; allowing those border and river cities and others whose citizens would prefer to handle the problem of temperance in their own way the privilege of providing for the regulated private retail sale of intoxicants under high local license and strict legal restrictions if they so choose;

"Allowing those towns where the state liquor store plan has proved more capable of accomplishing its intended purpose to keep this plan, and continuing the law against the sale of liquor in the country outside the limits of incorporated towns."

Walsh Flays Vote Buying

Says Anyone Using Federal Funds For Election Is Traitor

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—Senator Walsh (D-Mass), member of the senate campaign funds committee, denounced any political use of relief funds today as dragging "the relief of human misery" down to the level of "gutter politics."

Walsh began his statement by mentioning a recent speech in which Aubrey Williams, deputy WPA administrator, called on relief recipients to keep their "friends" in power.

As a committee member, Walsh said, he would make no comment on this remark, but as a democrat he was "constrained to say" that anyone using federal funds to influence votes was a "traitor to President Roosevelt and the democratic party."

His statement was issued just after the committee had decided to take no further action on the William speech which, earlier in the week, it called "unfortunate."

The committee also approved a questionnaire to be filled out under oath monthly by all senatorial candidates, asking whether they used, or had any knowledge of the use of, federal funds to influence their election.

The committee decided that, lacking specific complaints from any candidate, it could take no action "at this time" on the recent WPA wage increases in Kentucky and Oklahoma, where Senators Barkley and Thomas, administration democrats, are fighting re-election.

From Senator Nye (R-ND), apparently victorious this week in a primary contest for renomination, the committee received an appeal that, regardless of the outcome of the election, it investigate suggestions of voting irregularities. Nye said he had been informed of "repeat voting" in several communities. Earlier in the week he charged misuse of absentee ballots but said today that this was confined to a few counties.

Kansas City Stock Case Head to Court Again After Decision

KANSAS CITY, June 30 (AP)—The Kansas City livestock case which already has brought criticism of the supreme court by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and a sharp reply from Chief Justice Hughes was headed for the high court again tonight.

A three-judge federal court overruled late today a plea of the secretary of agriculture to stay distribution of $586,093 impounded in the case. The ruling, however, permitted the government to carry its fight to the supreme court.

The funds have been impounded since 1933 when Secretary Wallace decreased rates charged by commission houses. The supreme court last April ruled out rates established by Wallace, holding that they were established in a "fatally defective" hearing.

SWING HIGH Perhaps Deficit Will Be Smaller in 1939

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—The upward sweep of stock market prices encouraged treasury officials to hope tonight that next year's deficit might be smaller than they had expected.

The accumulation of that deficit will begin tomorrow, when the fiscal year 1939 begins.

United States, England, France Agree to 45,000-Ton Warships

Scrap Limitations Of 1936 Naval Pact In Answering Japan

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—The United States' hands became free today for the building of 45,000-ton battleships armed with 16-inch guns.

An agreement with Great Britain and France announced in London permits the three governments to build craft, vastly more powerful than anything now afloat. The pact arises from reports that Japan was building huge craft beyond the former treaty limit of 35,000 tons.

As to the United States, construction probably will be started after four 35,000-ton warships, already decided upon, have been laid down. In addition to these four, two other 35,000-ton craft, the North Carolina and the Washington, already are being built.

Through invocation of the "escalator clause" in the 1936 naval treaty, the United States, Britain and France lifted the 35,000 ton limits of that treaty today. Britain, through an announcement in the house of commons by Alfred Duff Cooper, first lord of the admiralty, declared her intention of building two 40,000 ton ships under the 1936 program and of sticking to that limit if other European powers did so.

To officials here this had the appearance of creating two types of fleet, the Pacific and the Atlantic. In the Atlantic the maximum would be 40,000 tons, in the Pacific, 45,000.

F. R. Condemns 'Turning Back Clock of Civilization'

President Tells Educators Fires of Freedom Must Burn Brighter in America

By MARY E. PLUMMER
NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—President Roosevelt condemned the burning of libraries, the exiling of scientists, writers and musicians, and the censoring of news, literature and art in an address today to members of the National Education association at the world's fair site.

Without naming any country, he said such things turn back "the clock of civilization."

Indians Find McCormick's Body, Ending Eight-Day Search For Heir to Publishing Fortune

Sight Body on Cliff Of Lonely Sandia Peak Near Close of Day

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 30 (AP)—The body of Medill McCormick, 21-year-old heir of the McCormick publishing fortune, was located tonight by Sandia Indians on a lonely cliff deep in the heart of the Sandia mountains.

The discovery climaxed a wide-ranging search of the mountains started a week ago when young McCormick and Richard Whitmer, 20-year-old Princeton student, started out on a mountain-climbing expedition. Whitmer's broken body was found last Friday at the base of mile-high Sandia peak.

While positive identification remained to be made, the Simms family and leaders of the long search considered it a "practical certainty" it was young McCormick's body.

The body was found on the opposite side of the peak from which Whitmer's body was discovered, accounting for the long delay in learning of Medill's fate.

The body was in such an inaccessible spot that no attempt will be made to bring it out until daylight tomorrow.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, the boy's mother, immediately went to bed at her palatial ranch home, in a state of nervous and physical prostration.

Mrs. Simms for the past week had clung to the hope her son would be found alive, and even as late as today the family's hope grew he was to be found alive. (See McCORMICK, page 8)

Wall Street Sees Young Broker As Exchange Head

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—Taking Wall street completely by surprise, the New York stock exchange today chose 31-year-old William McChesney Martin Jr. as its first paid president, passing over a list of 200 names which included prominent men in banking, education, business and the law.

Climaxing a months-long drive for internal reform in the nation's number one securities market, in the course of which Martin, a member, had occupied the non-salaried position of chairman of the exchange, and was its acting president, the young St. Louis broker was lifted into office on less than 24 hours notice by a unanimous vote of the governors of the exchange.

To comply with the constitution of the exchange, Martin announced his retirement from the St. Louis brokerage firm of A. G. Edwards & Sons, and arranged to sell his "seat" on the exchange here.

The office of chairman will revert to Charles E. Harding, of the New York firm of Smith, Barney & Co., who becomes "acting" chairman. SEC Commissioner John W. Hanes was formerly a partner in Harding's firm. The nominating committee has the right to suggest a candidate for successor to Martin as chairman, but need not do so. No decision had been reached immediately as to the committee's course.

As president, Martin will receive $48,000 annual salary and become the first such paid head of the market since trading started under the buttonwood tree in Wall street 146 years ago.

New Basis For Parties?

Senator Endorses F. D. R. Attempt To Force Realignment

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—Senator Hatch (D-NM) endorsed today what he said was President Roosevelt's apparent attempt to force a realignment of the nation's two major political parties on a liberal versus conservative basis.

A realignment placing the democratic party in the liberal camp would be welcomed by him, Hatch said.

But Senator King (D-Utah) indicated that the more conservative elements of the democratic party were loath to accept the president's definition of a liberal and would fight to preserve the party as it has been in the past.

The president told a radio audience in a "fireside chat" last week that a liberal was "one who recognizes that the new conditions throughout the world call for new remedies."

Hatch said he favored realignment of the two major parties on a basis of principles and not personalities.

"I hope the republican party nominates true conservatives and the democrats true liberals, so that the issue may be drawn clearly," he added in an interview.

"Of course," he said with a smile, "that may be hard on the republican party, for I think the liberals are going to win in this election."

King said he would refuse to accept a definition of the term "liberal" by any other man.

"I want to make that appraisal myself," he said.

Asks for Probe of Julius Kuhn, Leader of Nazis

Hitler's Representative in Austrian Germany Clarifies Nazi Position There

VIENNA, June 30 (AP)—Joseph Berckel, Chancellor Adolf Hitler's chief representative in Austrian Germany, in an extensive interview today clarified the position of the Nazi government.

These were among the points he made: Kurt Schuschnigg, deposed Austrian chancellor, is not a married man in the eyes of the Nazi regime. (Informed Vienna sources reported June 3 that Schuschnigg and Countess Vera Fugger von Babenhausen had been married with Schuschnigg's brother as proxy, Schuschnigg himself being under detention.)

All the property of members of the Austrian branch of the ancient Hapsburg family, one-time powerful rulers of central Europe, will be confiscated by a decree to be published soon.

Baron Louis Rothschild, of the famous international banking family, is still under arrest, and efforts to reach an agreement regarding his properties are continuing (Baron Rothschild was reported arrested shortly after Germany took over Austria March 13.)

Austria is happy under the Nazi regime, and "former communist workers now are the staunchest defenders of nazism."

While Jewish workers should not on principle be removed from their jobs, still they cannot expect special consideration so long as gentiles are unemployed.

Parliament Says Army Used Secrets Act To Cover Up Deficiencies

Son of Fighting Haugwitz-Reventlows Made Ward in Chancery by His Mother

LONDON, June 20 (AP)—The infant son and heir of the squabbling Haugwitz-Reventlows was reported tonight to have been made a ward in chancery by his mother as his father traveled to London to face a Bow street police court summons.

Two-year-old Lance Haugwitz-Reventlow, under the reported move, would be under control of the court until he reaches 21. Neither his father, Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, nor his mother, Countess Barbara, American-born Woolworth heiress, could make a ruling affecting him without the sanction of the court.

IN PASSING President Got Cinders In His Eyes

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—President Roosevelt had to have some cinders taken out of his eyes on his automobile ride from Hyde Park to New York.

While he stopped to wait for a freight train to roll down the track at a grade crossing, a billow of cinder-laden smoke wafted across his car.

A medical aide applied eye wash.

Dead, Missing Reach 197 In Japanese Storm

TOKYO, July 1 (Friday) (AP)—The government today listed 197 dead or missing and 13 of Japan's main railways disrupted in two days of storm and earthquakes.

A typhoon which had been roaring toward the country's eastern coast veered to the northwest, apparently sparing further damage. Domei (Japanese news agency) said it was possible parliament would be summoned into special session to consider relief measures.

Police check-ups of the damage Wednesday and Thursday recorded 297,379 houses destroyed or damaged, 104 bridges washed out and 177 landslides.

Railroads and telegraph lines were out of order over wide areas, crippling Tokyo's communications with other main cities.

In fear of the typhoon, the majority of liners and larger freighters delayed scheduled departures.

Murder Mystery In Real Life Seen In Hollywood Shooting

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 30 (AP)—King D. Gray, 40, film studio cameraman, was found shot to death in an automobile today in front of the Hollywood post-office under circumstances which police said indicated a possible murder mystery.

Although hundreds of persons had passed the car, it was noon before two men looked closely at the body slumped in the seat and called police. Ambulance Surgeon C. E. Cornell said Gray had been dead from eight to 15 hours.

Police Captain J. J. Jones said there were no powder marks on the coat where the bullet entered and expressed doubt that a man intent on taking his own life would have inflicted such a wound.

He declared for state and local control of schools and their curricula with the federal government supplementing only the resources of the poorer communities.

Earlier, the president made a new declaration against war and reiterated the policy of the good neighbor as a model for the rest of the world in helping lay the cornerstone of the fair's $3,000,000 federal project,

House Defends Privileges In Heated Debate

Commons Say Court Of Inquiry Usurped Rights of Parliament

LONDON, June 30 (AP)—Member after member of England's ancient "mother of parliaments" rose in heated debate today to defend age-old privileges in a clash with the army over the scope of the dread officials' secrets act.

Under a barrage of words directed against it as well as the government, the army was put to rout, at least temporarily.

The tenor of most of the speeches was reflected in a fighting address by Winston Churchill, veteran of several former cabinets, who charged the government and the army with using the official secrets act to cover up deficiencies in the national defense.

Demand Respect
Members of the house of commons demanded respect for high parliamentary rights after the house privileges committee, headed by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain himself, mildly had rebuked an army court of inquiry.

The committee decided the court had usurped commons' privileges by summoning Duncan Sandys, young M.P. and son-in-law of Churchill, to find out how he obtained secret anti-aircraft data, which he charged was unfavorable to the government, at a time when the house itself was probing the broader aspects of the matter.

The army, having cancelled its calling of Sandys, awaited action by a select committee to inquire into whether members of commons are liable under the official secrets act, with which Sandys said he was threatened if he declined to name the source of his information.

Approve Motion
A motion to appoint the select committee was approved without a record vote after long debate.

Churchill, in a scathing attack, indirectly accused War Minister Hore-Belisha of hiding Britain's defense deficiencies behind the secrets act.

"The official secrets act," he said, "was devised to protect the national defense and ought not to be used to shield ministers who may have neglected the national defense."

"It ought not to be used to shield ministers who have a strong personal interest in concealing the truth from the country."

It is a prime duty of members of commons, he said, to "keep up to the mark a government which repeatedly has been found in error and default, which has a bad record in this matter and which has admitted woeful miscalculations and mistakes."

Chinese Moved From Defenses

SHANGHAI, June 30 (AP)—Chinese erected new defense lines today at Kiukiang as the Japanese, driving up the Yangtze river for Hankow, drew tighter their net of men and steel around the Matowchen boom.

Kiukiang is 135 miles down the river from Hankow and 40 miles beyond is the barricade of rock-filled junks and system of defenses which has held the invaders in check.

Chinese military authorities admitted the major Chinese forces had been withdrawn from the defenses to hill positions dominating the Yangtze between the boom and Pengtseih, 15 miles to the southwest.

This was interpreted as indicating the Japanese virtually had completed the occupation of the river barricade.

LITTLE MISTAKES CAN MAKE BIG ACCIDENTS. NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL.

Going to Town

By P. Bert Taylor. If you would live to a ripe old age, just mark these words from a wise old sage. Your eyes and ears play important parts. And this, my friend, is the way it starts. When crossing a street, always look both ways. To the left and right—the good book says; Especially so, in between the blocks. My friend, it will save you many hard knocks. And if you follow my good directions. Take special care at intersections; Speed up a bit, and push your feet. For lagging traffic will block the street. Don't walk in the street when a side-walk is handy. Nor step between cars with your mind on your candy. And don't be a jaywalker in downtown sections. Or on a hospital cot you may have your reflections. Too many pedestrians fill hospital cots. And thousands are buried in cemetery lots. Be alert in traffic—establish a rep. Be a wise pedestrian—just watch your step.

Fiorello LaGuardia Does Not Choose To Run

OF COURSE, it's really none of our business. We mean Fiorello LaGuardia's announcement that he will not be a senatorial candidate this year. Frankly, he admits, he'd like to, but, he adds: Any official in a responsible position who thinks of another office or a coming election is like a one-armed driver of a high-powered car driving full speed with a charming companion. His mind cannot be fully on his work. That's a pretty wise statement. New York should, and probably will, honor LaGuardia's honesty and his wisdom. We're merely mentioning the situation because we wish more politicians would follow in the mayor's footsteps. We wish there were more men in public office thinking of the public. (And, just in passing, LaGuardia's statement will not harm him politically, quite the contrary in fact.) The modern bride is the girl who is amazed to learn her grandmother not only baked her own bread but had to slice it, too!

Annual Fly And Mosquito Battle Claims Our Attention

WHILE THE governments of the world ponder the fates of warring nations, while the people of every nationality discuss and debate the possibilities of war, while college professors are pondering the cause and effects of another war, another battle is going on here at home which should come in for its share of attention. Man's annual battle with the flies and mosquitoes is in full swing again. Although the somewhat cool spring and the ever-present rain have delayed the fly menace to some extent, the damp humidity has been a boon to the mosquito larvae.

New marsh lands have sprung up all over the country, threatening to make 1938 the worst year for mosquitoes in some years. Although the more painful of the two, the mosquito is not to be feared quite as much as the house-fly and his cousins. While the sting of the "skeeter" may cause an uncomfortable irritation for a time, it is the germ-carrying, disease-spreading fly which we must really guard against.

By spraying oil on the surface of stagnant ponds and ditches, by emptying old water containers, and by draining swamps and marshes, the mosquito can be controlled.

The fly, on the other hand, multiplies just as fast, and is much harder to control. Decaying manure piles, open garbage cans, city dumps—all furnish a delightful haven for the flies and their larvae. It is not enough that we should swat that fly or mosquito, we must remove the source of his reinforcements. As in every war, we must all do our part to keep this insect menace under control until the fall frosts postpone the fight for another year.

Our Readers' VIEWPOINT

Editor, The Daily Iowan: Britain, who was so willing in 1914 to "defend Belgium to the last Frenchman," is now willing to defend China to the last American. This pious willingness to "preserve peace" accounts for the British-bent legend that we must eventually fight Japan. That is why Britain cheers us when we join her (Egypt, New Zealand, et al.) in denouncing Japan for spreading the drug traffic in China. Britain, who fought and won the Opium War, which first introduced the drug from India. Britain who built the Singapore naval base with opium taxes. Righteous Britain!

But there is no reason why we should ever fight Japan. With defenses from Alaska, through Hawaii, to the Canal, we are safe from any Asiatic invasion. Besides, Japan is one of our best customers, trading silk, rice, soy beans, and tungsten for our oil, steel and copper. In case of war, we would be without an economic supply of tungsten, so vital to electric lights. For Japan now controls the world's principal supply of this metal. If we were to follow Britain's wise example in Spain, we should be most anxious to please Japan. But we need not bow to dictators, as Britain has done, to maintain peace. Japan would be crippled without American oil, steel, and copper; and she would fall financially without the American market for her silk.

There is no reason why an agreeable exchange cannot be maintained. Despite British efforts, there is no reason why we should ever fight Japan, one of our best neighbors.

Tuning In with Loren Hickerson

SWING OR SWEET? It's still a question... the discussion is even more heated than a short time ago when you heard me say I'd just as soon hear a garbled version of Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony" as listen to swing bands butcher such numbers as "The Spring Song" or "Blue Danube Waltz."

Now even the Bumsteads are harassed with brother Happy and his "cats" that make "wacky!" Swing makes an infinitely funnier comic strip than it does actual entertainment on the air! The slang expressions that pertain to it have almost reached the proportions of our diamond and gridiron vocabulary.

Personally, it would seem that swing is now completely out of hand, is being used as a foil for humorists and not as an entertainment medium at all. Perhaps that exaggerates...

It isn't swing I object to, however. It's the utilization by swing bands of music that was never intended to be swung, and that played as swing, loses all of its original beauty and significance.

And orchestras continue to scream out, with "hot" trumpets and whining clarinets, totally unrecognizable versions of the classics. And I still resent it... I wonder if other people do. It's my opinion that they do. If there must be swing, there are enough poor but talented song writers who can turn the stuff out by the barrel without resorting to opera and really fine music.

And at this point it's well to add that Marek Windheim, former Metropolitan tenor, as guest artist on Feg Murray's program last Sunday, refused to sing an operatic aria.

Instead he turned the tables on swing addicts and gave an operatic treatment to "My Heart Is Taking Lessons." He figured it was time someone gave swingers a taste of their own medicine for butchering opera classics.

Immediately following the broadcast, Windheim was deluged with telegrams and phone calls from opera lovers applauding his stand. Which bears out my original premise that there are people who like sweet music... if opera is sweet.

Don't misunderstand me! Swing, in its place, is all right. I'll not refuse anyone the "pleasure" of hearing a good (or not-so-good) musician improvise music as he goes along—which is swing.

My only belated suggestion is that we draw a line between swing and sweet, and keep it clearly drawn. Whoever chooses may take the swing. I'll stick by the sweet!

Washington World

By CHARLES F. STEWART WASHINGTON — The anti-monopoly investigation has put a burr under the justice department's tail even before the quiz has begun.

The department, for a long time, has had a lot of anti-trust cases under consideration without doing much about any of them. Maybe it realized that there was little it could accomplish under the terms of the present Sherman law or maybe it lacked sufficient evidence to act on. However, it does not appear to have tried very hard, perhaps, for no other reason than pure official dilatoriness.

But it cannot afford to be caught with a big batch of such neglected business on hand now—not with that investigation beginning.

No "Whitewash" Most of the inquirers are administrators, and as the administration is strongly anti-monopoly, undoubtedly they will do their best to do a thorough job. Their chairman, Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, is authority for the assurance that the affair will not be a witch hunt, but it will not be a whitewash either.

On the opposite hand, the administrative investigators probably will refrain, as far as possible, from creating an embarrassing situation for one of the administration's own departments—the justice department. The point is that note quite all of the investigators are administrators.

Clendening Presents Diet Now Used in Disease of Kidneys

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D. Summer months are good ones for the kidney invalid because the skin takes the burden off the kidneys to a certain extent. Some forms of kidney disease have been cured by going to a desert climate such as New Mexico or Arizona or Egypt. Summer climate in the United States closely approximates Egypt, so the nephritic may feel more comfortable at this time.

In the dietetic treatment of kidney disease, the principal considerations are to control the intake of salt, fluid and protein. In some cases the kidney cannot excrete salt or water and dropsy results, and in some cases there is a disturbance of protein nutrition. When the kidney is unable to excrete nitrogen it is fatal that we should cut down the nitrogenous foods in with the diet. This means very largely the protein foods, such as meat, eggs, etc.

Nowadays the salt-free diet, in which no salt whatever is used, is thought to be excessively rigorous and is substituted by a salt-poor diet. It is almost impossible to make up a diet which excludes salt entirely.

In the early phase of treatment of severe nephritis a diet as follows is used, which is as near dry, salt-free and protein-free as is safe to give.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Frank Leavitt, 320 pounds of him, is in the movies again, and the sound stages are groaning—and should be grunting—in welcome. Frank is a big boy from Georgia by way of West 43rd street, New York City, where he was born nearly 47 years ago—June 30, 1891. Even at that early day in his career he loomed big—16 and one-half pounds. He kept on looming. By the time he was 14 he was big enough to fool the U. S. army into letting him join. And that, in a way, was what led him surely into the art of acting—and eventually, therefore, into Hollywood. For he took up wrestling even then, and now—

Champ—in Pictures In Hollywood he has a role in his liking at last. He has played it in real life many times, but there were usually hecklers to dispute the niceties of his performance, even his claims to it. In "The Gladiator," Frank Leavitt is playing the role of UNDISPUTED world's heavyweight wrestling champion, and the novelty is tremendous. Leavitt will grapple for a full reel with his biggest footage to date—with Joe E. Brown. And the outcome of the bout—up to the latest "final" script—was not yet "in the bag." Which also, if the wrestling-baiters can be heeded, has its elements of novelty.

Leavitt stands unique among film actors, new and old. There are actors as bulky, there are even actors who deliberately wear beards off the screen and on. But Leavitt is the only movie actor who expects to be called by his wife's name rather than his own. You'd never think of calling Franchot Tone "Mr. Crawford," or Dick Powell "Mr. Blondell," but Leavitt built his fame as "Mr. Dean." His wife down Georgia way still is known as Doris Dean, and Frank (when he isn't Mr. Dean) as Man Mountain Dean. This, he explains, was due to his wrestling tour of Germany. The name Leavitt—although his family had been Yanks for generations—was suspect in Hitler's Germany. He had to use Dean to get his mat license. As his wife was his manager, anyway, that seemed the right name to use. He had met her in Miami, Fla., while traffic-copping. He had wrestled as well as been wounded during the war, and punctured a kidney in an early match thereafter. The job in traffic served during recuperation.

Doubled For Laughter Mrs. Dean piloted Frank through Germany and England, and it was in London that his talents as an actor—and his beard—were discovered simultaneously. Doubling for Charles Laughton in a brief wrestling sequence for "Henry the Eighth," Frank couldn't keep his false beard on, so grew his own—and kept it. Whether that started it or not, his ring performances have caused certain sports servers to laud him as the greatest of all actors. But until now no studio has given more than passing recognition to his talents. Leavitt may be prevented from capitalizing on his newly won film success. Stern duty calls. He's running for the Georgia legislature, and must hie himself back home to make speeches—and kiss babies—

A New Yorker at Large

By George Tucker

NEW YORK — Sometimes one loses sight of the fact that Manhattan is an island and New York a port, and that this metropolis would not be here if it were not for river and ocean.

But there is one man in this community who never forgets it for a single minute. He is your ship news editor. Every time a vessel passes Quarantine and Sandy Hook, watchers relay the word to him on a ticker next to his desk. Sometimes as many as 20 vessels clear in a couple of hours, and he has to hustle to check on where all are going so that their destinations may be accurately reported to the newspapers.

The big passenger ships are easy; everyone knows where they are going. But most of the clearances are coastwise vessels and empty tankers bound for Texas oil ports and some are cargo ships which, before they return to New York, will visit distant ports which most of us will never see. The ship news editor follows these ships around the world. Every day he receives cables relayed through Lloyds of London giving him the present whereabouts of the ship which cleared the Hook three weeks ago... perhaps at Loureco Marques (that's on the East Coast of Africa), or at Colombo (that's in Ceylon).

It must be an interesting pastime, if you are at all ship-minded, to have the whole mystery of the sea lying in the hollow of your hand. Incidentally, New York is soon to have the 12th annual International Lifeboat races, right here in those not too frightened. He denies that his spectacles are being used to read up on political matters. "What politician," he demands, "ever has to read anything?"

Meanwhile, among his cherished possessions is a tent-like full dress suit. A movie actor never knows when he'll need one, as he told David Loew, his producer, on arrival. Even his best friends don't recognize Jack Oakie since he dropped those 40-odd pounds. He's streamlined himself now to a shadowy 160.

Things to drive the glamor girls and boys bat, Charlie McCarthy, a wooden dummy, Dopey, an animated drawing; Shirley Temple, just a cute kid; and Deanna Durbin... Universal hopes that after "The Rage of Paris" Danielle Darrieux will be able to share some of the burden that has rested on Deanna's young shoulders—so that the "U" will have two meal-tickets.

Why not match two admitted gorillas in a ring, declare the bloodier the world's champion GORILLA? ... It's mean as much... I get a laugh out of those who talk about the "good clean sport" of prize fighting, professional baseball, football games... How good?... Why clean? A couple of republican friends are encouraging a few blades of grass growing in the middle of North Clinton, campuswise... Every one in a while they like to just walk up that way and see it. It's strangely encouraging, I guess.

AROUND THE TOWN

Restive Ravings That Winchell hulabaloo about N. Y.'s Contact forgets Iowa City's "dime delivery," an institution here... Frequently, this boy tells me, he delivers a match-making note from co-ed to co-head... The most surprising task he's done was to carry a downtown husband's message that, "He wasn't comin' home for dinner"... Evidently the hubby never thought of Mr. Bell's little system... Or maybe he did.

A professor I know never arises in the summer before 11... But he has his wife wake him at 8, 9, 10... It's an added enjoyment to sleep, he insists, knowing these hours are ticking off and ignoring them...

Maybe it wasn't a bad idea... Attorney Ed Rate last night gave two poli cand an Ed Korab invention to settle elections before they're voted... A combination hand-shaker-lie-detector, the office-seeker could know how many hands were successfully handled before the ballots were cast...

Attorney Korab is at work on a baby-kissing tester now... To replace the Gallup polls, of course... And Tom Martin's sore thumb is NOT from too many firm hand grips...

A Rockefeller grant?... Why not one to bolster up the neglected art of conversation... It's more important these days, as sort of guarantee... To counter Winchellism, "A conservative is one with both feet planted firmly in the grave."

APOLOGIA — "How to Win Friends and Influence People" is one of the smartest songs I've heard... An Iowa City swing fanster paid $10 for the Decca recording of Maxine Sullivan's "Loch Lomond"... He says he can sell it for twice the price—but better check... Benny Goodman has taken a slip down the de-louisy slide... Who said he could play Brahms?

Like the new music room, just off the women's lounge, better... More light, on days like this... Yesterday had two big laughs... The unsigned post card declaring, "Oh, you, communist, you. Better watch out!" (Better watch out!)... And the G. O. P. blame for the circus fold-up, terming it "new deal."

The nice thing about the NLRB is that all its "illegal" decisions have been upheld by the supreme court... A scout notices this tiny sign tucked leftwise on the Solon road... "CAREFUL — COWS MAY CROSS AT ANY MINUTE."

A church at Grinnell has a lending library, keeps all the latest fiction in the back of the church... Charges four cents daily... That chubby foursome, Attorneys Swisher, Davis, Baldwin, Ries, has more than a theme song in common... It's a grand idea methinks.

A scout suggests no one seems to notice the Brazilian form of fast-picked by the Hitler - Mussolini axis... That little fishing village in Maine wants to be joined to Quebec... It's tired of being an independent country...

I'm recommending "What's Big Business Up To?" in the new Forum... The New Republic interpretation of the Iowa primaries... Mirquis' James Morris Ernest sketch in Scribner's for the month...

There are no fascists in Iowa City? Why not match two admitted gorillas in a ring, declare the bloodier the world's champion GORILLA? ... It's mean as much... I get a laugh out of those who talk about the "good clean sport" of prize fighting, professional baseball, football games... How good?... Why clean?

Hearing Test Methods Taught By Dr. Gardner

The methods employed by hearing tests which have been used on thousands of Iowa school children are being taught by Dr. Warren Gardner, the University of Iowa's clinical psychologist, at Indiana university this summer. Dr. Gardner demonstrates his tests, showing how children who have speech defects because of hearing handicaps may be trained to hear correctly with the use of individually amplified receivers. Dr. Gardner was recently appointed national chairman of the committee of hard-of-hearing children, a unit of the American Society for the Hard-of-hearing. In 1937, as a member of a committee for standardization of group hearing tests, Dr. Gardner discovered that six out of every 100 Iowa school pupils are handicapped by hearing deficiencies.

Writer Tells Her Story

Margaret Ayer Barnes Believes Mass Movements Influence Writing

CHICAGO, June 25 (AP) — Man, a woman and a baby, says Author Margaret Ayer Barnes, are more important than anything else, but she believes an overworked world has tossed such human values out of the window. "The world has been heading for some time," she said, "into a period in which mass movements have become, and therefore seem, much more important than anything that can happen to the individual. "This trend has made the books of many writers, including my own, seem relatively unimportant, people apparently haven't the time to read 300 or 400 pages of what a man and a woman think of each other. What they think is, of course, the root and background of life, but it is overshadowed by this period. "It explains why people prefer now to read about real things. Nothing the fiction writers can concoct could be more exciting than the day to day happenings of these times. "Nevertheless," she asserted, "a brilliant character study of an individual life actually is the most vital thing in literature, and when the world calms down it will again become supremely important. "Mrs. Barnes, who sold the first story she wrote and has marketed all her work ever since, said she couldn't subscribe "to the critical attitude toward the rise of proletarian literature. "A good book," she continued, "can be written about anything. You can write a good novel about a strike in a cotton mill or about the thoughts of a lady walking downstairs—if you write well. "To write a book to teach a lesson, however, invariably impairs the quality of the work. It may be entertaining, moving, helpful to some readers, but it seldom will be art. "In other words, I am interested in any novel that's a good novel. "Many American authors, she ventured, have strayed too far from their origins. In her words: "If writers over the country stayed where they belong, with their roots in the ground, we'd have a more authentic literature and no doubt a much better one. The bulk of this country's population is made up of the great middle class — the people of Kansas City, Seattle, Wichita, Indianapolis. What are those people doing, thinking, dreaming? Their life is, perhaps, the neglected field of American literature. "In a little more than 12 years Margaret Ayer Barnes, the wife of a Chicago lawyer, has become one of the more worthy writers in the United States. Yet, she acknowledges, "I was 39 before I put a line on paper."

HOSTESS HINTS

What for dessert? When this question puzzles you, declare a holiday on the old standby desserts and serve some new ones for a time. For variety serve blueberry torte or orange filled cream puffs.

Blueberry Torte

The inexpensive, light and delicious butter cake that forms a part of this dessert is simply made. And with plenty of fresh berries available in the market now, a berry torte presents no problem. The sweetened berries, tumbling out between layers of butter cake, may have a bit of tartness added by the addition of a few drops of lemon juice. The golden brown meringue on top may be decorated with mounds of sweetened berries or may be left plain. Serve with puffs of fluffy whipped cream. Here is the recipe:

- 1-3 cups cake flour.
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1-4 teaspoon salt
- 1-3 cup butter
- 2-3 cup sugar
- 4 eggs, separated
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1-3 cup milk
- 1-2 cup sugar
- 1-2 cup blueberries
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- Lemon juice

Sift flour, measure and resift three times with baking powder and salt. Cream butter and the two-thirds cup sugar, add egg yolks, and beat until fluffy. Add vanilla. Add flour mixture and milk alternately, beginning and ending with flour and beating until smooth after each addition. Spread in thin layers in bottoms of two well-buttered pans (eight or nine inch) and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 15 minutes. Beat egg whites until fluffy, add the one-half cup sugar gradually, and beat until stiff and smooth; spread over hot cakes and return to an oven reduced to 300 degrees F. for 20 minutes, or until meringue is nicely browned. Cool. Remove from pans. Clean blueberries, mashing about one tablespoon of them; add the one tablespoon of them; add the all together, sprinkling with a few drops of lemon juice. Spread over one layer of the cake and cover the other layer. Chill before cutting. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

Cream Puffs

- 1-2 cup butter
 - 1 cup boiling water
 - 1 cup cake or pastry flour
 - 3 large or 4 small eggs.
- Add butter to boiling water and bring again to a boil. Add flour and cook with vigorous stirring over a low flame until mixture leaves sides of pan and forms a ball — not more than two minutes. Then add whole eggs one by one, beating until smooth after each addition. (An electric mixer gives excellent results.) Drop by heaping teaspoons onto a buttered baking sheet or put through pastry tube. Bake in a quick oven (450 to 475 degrees F.) until puffed to double their size; then reduce heat to 300 degrees F. and bake 20 minutes longer or until golden brown and crisp. Cool and fill with orange filling, made as follows:

- 1 tablespoon butter
 - 1-4 cup flour
 - 1 cup orange juice
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 - 1 teaspoon grated orange rind
 - 1-2 cup sugar
 - 2 eggs, separated
- Melt butter in saucepan, blend

Mayflower May Ride Forever In Harbor That Pilgrims Found

By The AP Feature Service PLYMOUTH, Mass.—The good ship Mayflower—or whatever its name was—may ride the waters of Plymouth harbor again.

It will be only a replica, but it will be sea-going. The Plymouth historical society, anxious to preserve the memory of the tiny craft that crept into this harbor in December, 1620, bearing 102 men and women seeking religious freedom in the new world, has decided to raise funds to construct a sea-worthy duplicate of the famous vessel.

Plans call for a full-sized ship, complete in all known details. It is to take its place near the spot from which the original ship discharged its passengers.

"Better Than History"

The ship is to be built from what Paul W. Bittinger, president of the society, calls "the most authentic available model" which now reposes in Pilgrim Hall, museum dedicated to the first settlers. The model was constructed by R. C. Anderson, vice-president of the English society for nautical research, after extensive investigation in Southampton, England.

Outlining the educational aims of the project, Bittinger said the new Mayflower would enable visitors "to visualize as no history book has ever been able to tell it, the courage and the spiritual character that made possible the hazardous voyage of the Pilgrims from England."

Little is known of the fate of the old ship. History itself, Bittinger said, failed even to specify the name of the vessel that brought the Pilgrims. Gov. William Bradford referred to it as "the bigger ship." Captain John Smith and others called it "the vessel." Some scholars have questioned the use of "Mayflower" as the ship's name. Bittinger said the only authority for the name is contained in an early record of the colony entitled "Allotment of Lands." This record mentions

"the fall of their grounds, which came first over in the Mayflower according as their lots were cast, 1623." Some historians accept the hyphenated version of the name.

Old Ship Untraced Attempts to learn where the original craft was built or what became of her after her visits to the new world have been fruitless. Several "Mayflowers" have been traced, but Bittinger asserted "none has been definitely identified as the Pilgrim's Mayflower." The date for construction of the new ship had not yet been decided upon.

Summer Theater to Produce 3 Comedies, Historical Drama

'The Contrast' Opens S. U. I. Play Season

'Stage Door,' 'The Youngest,' 'Richard of Bordeaux' Listed

Three comedies and a historical drama will be the highlights of University theater's community series for the summer season, Prof. E. C. Mabie, director, announced yesterday.

Opening the play season will be "The Contrast," the early American comedy by Royall Tyler, the evenings of July 11, 12 and 13. The Edna Ferber and George Kaufman comedy, "Stage Door," will be presented the evenings of July 19, 20, 21; "The Youngest" by Philip Barry, the afternoon and evening of July 23, and "Richard of Bordeaux" by Gordon Daviot, Aug. 1, 2 and 3.

"The Contrast" is the first comedy ever produced in America. Given its premiere in 1787 at the John Street theater in New York, it is famous for introducing the comic character, the stage Yankee. It will be directed by Prof. William D. Coder, of the college of the Pacific, Stockton, Cal., a visiting instructor in the dramatic arts department.

Dr. H. Darks Albright of Cornell university, Ithaca, a visiting instructor, is directing "Stage Door," the modern comedy which tells the story of a group of young stage actresses. The play was presented here in the drawing room theater as a student production last winter.

The all-stage high school speech students, will present "The Youngest," Philip Barry's first play. "The Youngest" is a comedy of family life and centers on a story of a youth, who wants to break away from family tradition and become a writer.

The high school actors will be directed by Dr. H. Donald Winbigler of the speech department. Closing the community series, the theater group will present Daviot's modern version of Shakespeare's "Richard II." It will be given a spectacular production on the revolving stage. Prof. Vance M. Morton of the dramatic arts department will be the director.

Summer school students may obtain free reserved tickets to the plays by presenting identification cards at the theater ticket office in room 8-A, Schaeffer hall.

Change Music Room Location In Iowa Union

A change in the location of the Iowa Union music room was announced yesterday. The new location is the room just off the women's lounge in the southeast corner of Iowa Union.

Summer school isn't always a grind, as this picture illustrates. On each Monday and Wednesday evening, some 200 students gather for social dancing classes at the women's gymnasium, half of them beginners and half advanced students. The beginning class meets at 7 p.m., and the advanced class at 8 p.m., and both spend a fruitful hour in learning the latest steps and improving their technique in the popular social pastime. Shown here in the midst of her evening's job of instructing the beginners is Florence Owens, supervisor of physical education at

Lecture Tells Of Life, Work Of Schliemann

Flickinger Describes Work of Leader In German Archaeology

The romantic life and work of Schliemann, the pioneer in German archaeology, became the subject of a lecture on the romance of archaeology presented in Old Capitol yesterday by Prof. Roy C. Flickinger, head of the classical languages department.

Born in Schleswig-Holstein, the son of poor parents, Schliemann owes his achievements solely to his industry, persistency and good fortune at the right moments, according to Professor Flickinger.

A picture book, the cover of which depicted the burning of Troy, created in him the desire to find the ruins of that city and prove false the common conception of the day that Greek mythology had no basis.

His whole pattern of life was moulded to satisfy this desire, and he succeeded, the speaker revealed.

His interests for foreign languages was apparent, even in childhood, and when he died he had mastered 20 languages. In one instance he learned sufficient Turkish in three weeks to do all his personal business transactions; his three weeks vocabulary included 16,000 words.

He went from his native land to Holland, then to Russia, following his ambition to make money to carry out his childhood dream. In Russia he amassed a large fortune and acquired a Russian wife. She cared nothing for archaeology and would not leave Russia. His choice lay between his wife and his ambition — he chose the latter.

In the gold rush in California he made more money and became an American citizen — a fact of which he was always very proud.

Despite his activities as a linguist, Schliemann had never learned Greek. He knew that if he ever began the study of this language which was most essential to him, he would be distracted from the job of making money, which necessarily came first if he was to carry out his dream in the proper manner.

He now had wealth; one final step remained in preparation for his work — he took a trip around the world for background.

Found Hidden City Locating the site of a supposedly mythical city was by no means an easy job, but guided by legend and his unflinching belief in Troy, he started excavations and found his hidden city.

He had expected to find four strata, but found seven instead. He decided that the second from the bottom was the Troy he sought, but modern excavations have uncovered two additional strata and chosen the seventh of the nine layers as being the historical city.

Schliemann had now accomplished his goal; he had proved the mythical city real, and started the interest now shown in archaeology. His methods had been crude; his was the first scientific work done in this field and gross mistakes had been made, by which others prospered.

The German expedition that a few years later excavated the

200 Students Learn Dancing

Summer Residents Get Into Swing Of Things in Classes

If you're eager to get into the swing of things at the University of Iowa, you take the social dancing classes.

That's what about 200 of the summer students are doing. Twice a week for an hour they meet in the large gym at the women's gymnasium and learn elementary and advanced techniques of the dance.

And they've made a good beginning now, with three of the scheduled 10 lessons completed. Florence Owens, a guest instructor in the women's physical education department this summer, is instructor of the beginning dancers, who meet each Monday and Wednesday at 7 p.m. Under Miss Owens' direction, students learn the rudimentary steps. Miss Owens is supervisor of physical education at Duluth, Minn.

The advanced class, which is completely filled with enthusiasts, meets for instruction at 8 p.m. each Monday and Wednesday under the direction of Ruth Anne Riegall of Davenport. Miss Riegall graduated from the university June 6.

Mrs. Vera Marsan plays the piano accompaniment for the lessons of both the beginning and advanced groups.

As students file in at their respective hours on Mondays and Wednesdays, their tickets of admission are punched to signify their presence, and they proceed to climb the stairs to learn to swing it in the modern manner.

The social dancing classes continue to be a popular and instructive pastime for summer school students, as well as for regular session students.

"Federal Crimes and Functions of the F. B. I." is the topic of the first of Boardman's lectures, scheduled for 11 a.m. July 11. Foster Speaks On Affairs In Mexico Today

Nation Oppressed By Unalterable Dogma, He Asserts

Modern Mexico, "one of those contradictory lands where anything can be true and the same thing false," was the topic of a lecture by Dr. O. D. Foster in Old Capitol last night, as he spoke of that country and its modern difficulties.

Revealing early in his lecture that certain concepts of the Mexican people must be borne in mind, Dr. Foster pointed out that the Latin temperament is uncompromising and that there is a struggle there between those who came to the country to "conquer for gold" and those who came to "conquer for God."

The Latins have a natural tendency to exaggerate, he said. All persons there are guilty until proven innocent, the nation is oppressed by unalterable dogma, and never is there a retraction of stands or justifications, all of which form a justifying basis for the modern troubles of the nation.

Lines of Cleavage The speaker revealed that the constitution of 1917, under which the nation functions, makes reference to three lines of cleavage: foreigners, capitalists and the clergy. He pointed out that there are pro-forces and anti-forces in relation to each of these three lines of cleavage.

He discussed the development of the anti-foreign complex in Mexico, and of the anti-capitalist complex, both of which have come about through the attitudes of hostility and exploitation of visitors to the country.

Churches, Dr. Foster said, have been completely dispossessed, and are controlled by the government. Despite this fact, he asserted that from a spiritual standpoint, the religion of the country is the strongest in its history.

Enjoys Liberties The clergy, he said, enjoys greater liberties than it has for many years.

Education also is under the supervision of the state. There is no religion in education, the speaker revealed, for religion is permitted only under the auspices of the church. The schools, despite widespread belief, are not communist in policy.

The four types of schools were mentioned by the speaker: fed-

Chicago Man Will Discuss Promise Of American Politics

Chicago Man Will Discuss Promise Of American Politics

Prof. Thomas V. Smith of the philosophy department of the University of Chicago will address the University of Iowa student body at 8 o'clock tonight, the third speaker to appear on the university's summer series of lectures.

Professor Smith will speak on the west approach to Old Capitol. In case of unfavorable weather, the lecture will be heard in Macbride auditorium.

In addition to his studies as an instructor at the University of Chicago, Professor Smith is a member of the senate of the state of Illinois, and is a candidate for congress as a representative at large.

He will speak tonight about "The Promise of American Politics." At 9 a.m. tomorrow he will lead a round table discussion in the house chamber of Old Capitol on "The New Imperative in Government."

Known as a practical philosopher, with a firm belief in liberalism and democracy, Professor Smith believes that the actions of government are necessarily concerned with right and wrong.

It is his philosophy that the concepts of liberalism and democracy must be strengthened. He advocates a "fraternized" liberty, believes that unless liberty is generalized into fraternity, democracy is not the final formulation for the aspiration of the human spirit.

Common sense, says Professor Smith in the Encyclopedia of Social Sciences, represents "both the beginning and the end of the democratic vista, and democracy as a process stands revealed as the self-improvement through intrinsic forces of common sense itself."

Author of "The Democratic Way of Life," "The Promise of American Politics" and many other works, Professor Smith received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Texas and his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago. He was professor of English literature at Texas Christian university in 1916 and professor of philosophy there the following year. He was instructor of philosophy at the University of Texas before going to the University of Chicago.

He is a member of the American Philosophical association, the American Political Science association, Phi Beta Kappa and Delta Sigma Rho.

Course in Photography And Engraving Offered Newsmen

Visiting Speakers Include Outstanding News Photographers

Staff members from Iowa newspapers will attend a news photography and engraving short course at the University of Iowa, believed to be the first of its kind ever held in the state, July 28, 29 and 30.

Prof. Frank L. Mott, director of the school of journalism, said that the course would be conducted by the school with the cooperation of the extension division, Campus Camera club, and various newspapers and photographic industries.

Visiting speakers will include George Yates, head of the Des Moines Register's photographic staff; Tom Mahoney, associate editor of Look, the picture magazine; Tom Miller, an Iowa graduate now with the Eastman Kodak company of Rochester, N. Y.; and Clifton C. Edom of the Aurora School of Photo-Engraving, Aurora, Mo. Charles Okerbloom of the university art department and Frederick Kent, university photographer, are other speakers.

In conjunction with the short course, a picture contest will be conducted. It will include three classes of competition: news pictures for dailies, news pictures for weeklies, and a general class, open to every amateur photographer. Entries close July 27.

Practically all of the main points of news photography and engraving will be covered during the lectures. Some of them are fundamental photographic problems, such as use of film, lens and developing; getting the he was assigned to the technical laboratory of the bureau.

The short course at the university will attract some 350 police officers, sheriffs, county attorneys and constables from all parts of the state.

Outstanding speakers in widely varying phases of the peace officer's field will be on hand to lead the instruction.

eral schools, extended by the government into new areas; municipal schools, company schools, maintained by such companies as railroads, and mission schools.

Higher Learning The speaker cited the University of Mexico, with its 13,000 students, as the outstanding seat of higher learning in the country.

The university has excellent facilities for law, medicine, engineering, he said, and is perhaps the finest place in the world for the study of Spanish or Latin American history.

The speaker dealt with the land problem in Mexico, which exists mainly of the existence of great quantities of fertile land in inaccessible spots. The present plan of the government, he said, is to restore land to a former "community" arrangement, in which ownership is not individual in nature.

Dr. Foster spoke of the government of Mexico itself, with its over-emphasized graft. He revealed that while the government is subservient to Washington because of reliance upon the American navy, the country does not bow to Moscow, and that Trotsky, the famous communist, is unwelcome there.

"Stay on Good Side" "The government," he said, "is socialistic, capitalistic, militaristic and communist — all of these and none," and he explained that conditions and locations are responsible for the types of government which exist throughout the nation.

The speaker mentioned the Cedillo revolt, pointing out that the contemporary government of Mexico must stay on the good side of the American government if it wishes to stay in power.

He spoke of the oil properties of Mexico, and of the quarrels which are frequent over those properties. "Mexico," he said by way of justification, "is only trying to get back what belongs to her."

Modern improvements which are being made in varied fields in Mexico under the six-year plan were cited by the speaker. Railroad, hard surface road, and waterway systems are improving the transportation facilities; mail, telephone, telegraph and air facilities are making great improvements in the communication field.

Six-Year Plan The education improvements under the six-year plan are on schedule; health and hygiene, he revealed, are the best they have ever been. Distribution of the land is going on normally, the army is the best in Mexico's history, and foreign relations are about the best they have ever been.

Castleman Coasts In With Victory; Leiber, Leslie Lead Hitters

PHILADELPHIA, June 30 (AP)—The New York Giants fired their heaviest batting barrage of the season today, collected 19 hits good for 29 bases, walloped the Phillies 14 to 1 and boosted their National league lead to four full games.

Their scoring spurge was featured by a nine-hit, nine-run rally in the third inning which drove both Claude Passeau and Lefty Al Smith to the showers. After that it was a cinch for Clyde Castleman to breeze in with his third win of the year, a seven-hit performance.

Hank Leiber, belting his seventh homer of the year, along with a pair of doubles and a single, and Sambo Leslie, with two doubles and three singles, paced the Giants' attack. Every batter in the lineup except Second Baseman Aler Kampouris and Castleman hit safely at least once.

Phillies Reported Ready to Move To Athletics' Ball Park

PHILADELPHIA, June 30 (AP)—Gerald P. Nugent, president of the Phillies National league ball club, said today he would have an announcement tomorrow on the reported moving of the Phillies into Shibe park, headquarters of the Athletics of the American league.

It was reported recently that the Phillies would give up their antiquated Baker Bowl under an agreement by which the two teams would share Shibe park. Meanwhile Manager Jimmie Wilson was instructed to have his men move their belongings from Baker Bowl.

If the move is consummated tomorrow today's game with the New York Giants was a farewell party to the old grounds which the Phillies have occupied for 51 years. A doubleheader is scheduled to be played here July 4 with the Boston Bees.

Detroit Golfer Beats Turnesa

National Intercollegiate Tourney at Louisville In Semifinal Round

By KENNETH GREGORY
LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 30 (AP)—At the conclusion of a day of sensational shotmaking, which saw Willie Turnesa, young Holy Cross favorite, fall again in his bid for the crown, the National Intercollegiate Golf tournament today entered the semi-final stage.

Turnesa, 23-year-old member of the Elmsford, N. Y., Turnesas, after going into a 2 up lead through 18 holes of the 36-hole quarter-finals, could not cope with the steadiness of Bob Babbish, University of Detroit sophomore, and fell by the wayside 3 and 2.

Lew W. Oehmig of Chattanooga, Tenn., and the University of Virginia, who tied the Holy Cross senior for medal honors in the qualifying, stepped out take a brilliantly-fought duel from Henry Castillo, Louisiana State sophomore 3 and 1.

Bert McDowell
Louisiana State university, however, placed a representative in the semi-finals as Bert McDowell, a sophomore from Kansas City, came through with surprise 2 and 1 triumph over Bill Barclay, of the University of Michigan.

John P. Burke, a Georgetown university sophomore, Newport, R. I., breezed through easily to the semi-finals with a 12 and 11 decision over Stanley Holditch of Georgia Tech, quarter-finalist last year, whose game collapsed.

In the semi-finals at 36 holes tomorrow, Oehmig plays McDowell and Babbish faces Burke. All four survivors are seeking the college crown for the first time.

Turnesa Falls

After knocking off 77 holes in six under par, starting with the second qualifying round, Turnesa fell victim of Babbish's consistent stroking. Babbish, who barely got into the championship in the playoff, took the lead at the 28th and stayed in front.

Oehmig, the Tennessee state champion, held a half way lead of 3 up over Castillo, but the Louisiana State sophomore quickly evened the count by taking the first three holes of the afternoon round. Oehmig, who was never downed, took a 1 up lead at the 30th and from there built up his winning margin.

Babbish and Burke play tomorrow at 9:45 a.m. and 2 p.m. Oehmig and McDowell start at 10 a.m. and 2:15 p.m.

Allen's Single Scores Pytlak To Win Game

Feller Taken Out In Eighth Inning After Walking Two Batters

CLEVELAND, June 30 (AP)—Johnny Allen, rushed to the aid of Bob Feller, was credited with his eleventh straight victory today when with two out in the ninth he singled to bring home Frankie Pytlak and give Cleveland a 10-9 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The Indians' win gave them the slam-bang series two games to one and kept them three games ahead of the second-place New York Yankees.

Manager Oscar Vitt sent Feller to the showers in the eighth when the Iowa speedball hurler, with Cleveland leading 9-5, walked the first two men. Billy Rogell promptly greeted Allen with a triple, Walker doubled and White, who ran for walker scored the tying run on York's fly.

Harry Eisenstat, third Detroit pitcher, sent the Indians down in order in the last of the eighth and Allen did the same with the Tigers in the ninth. Then Pytlak's triple with two out set the stage for Allen's winning blow.

Mickey Walker In Divorce Suit

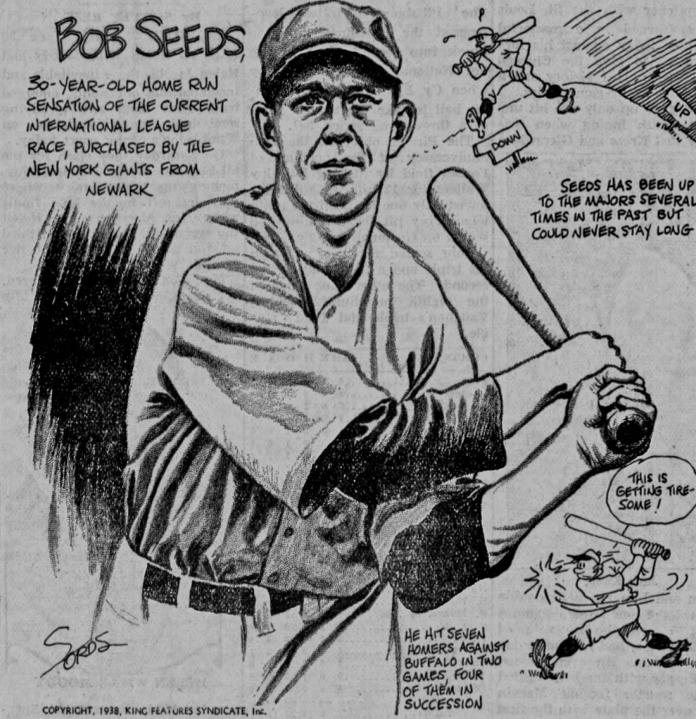

TRENTON, N. J., June 30 (AP)—Edward P. (Mickey) Walker, once holder of the world welterweight and middleweight boxing championships, was sued for divorce today by his second wife, Mrs. Clara Frances Walker of Brooklyn.

In chancery court proceedings, Mrs. Walker charged the erstwhile "toy bulldog" of the prize ring, who operates a beachfront tavern at Keansburg, N. J., with infidelity. She asked the court to award her alimony and custody of their six-year-old child, James J. Walker.

Walker and the former Clarence Frances Hellmers were married in 1931. Mickey's previous marriage ended in a divorce.

U. S. Opposition to Change in Davis Cup Competition Meets With Success

LONDON, June 30 (AP)—United States opposition to changes in the present Davis Cup system met with success today as the International Lawn Tennis Federation, by decisive majorities, defeated two suggestions to put the competition on a biennial basis.

South Africa proposed that play be held only in alternate years. Germany put forward a plan whereby zone competition would be held one year and the inter-zone finals and challenge round the next. Both were supported by Great Britain and argued against by Lawrence A. Baker of Washington, vice-president of the United States Lawn Tennis association, and Julian S. Myrick of New York, who presided over the federation's annual meeting.

Sole concession to the nations which have pointed to the expense of cup play and the strain on players who also compete in the world's major tournaments was the appointment of a committee to study the problems of the crowded European zone, which contributes the majority of the challenging nations.

Germany had offered a secondary suggestion in line with this situation, proposing that teams reaching the European zone semi-finals in one year should be exempt from play in the early rounds the following year. This, however, was also rejected.

Boston Red Sox Again Overcome Washington, 11-1

BOSTON, June 30 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox blasted Jimmy Deshong for 14 hits in six innings today while overwhelming Washington, 11-1, behind the six-hit pitching of Jim Bagby Jr.

Every Soxer hit safely as Jimmy Foxx led the attack with a single, double and triple and pounded in three runs to increase his season's total to 83.

Doc Cramer and Joe Vosmik also collected three hits and Bobby Doerr contributed two. Deshong, after being shelled for five runs in the sixth, gave way to Joe Krakauskas, who held the Soxers to two hits and one run during the remainder of the game.

Shute, Guldahl Top Field In Pro Tourney

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—A field of 120 professionals, led by two-time champion Denny Shute of West Newton, Mass., and two-time U. S. Open champion Ralph Guldahl of Madison, N. J., will tee off on Sunday, July 10, in the first of two 18-hole qualifying rounds for the 1938 Professional Golfers association championship and $15,000 in prize money.

The 63 low scorers in the 36-hole elimination will be eligible for match play in the week-long tournament at the Shawnee country club, Shawnee-on-Deleware, Pa. The 64th place will be filled by Shute who, as defending title-holder, is exempt from the qualifying competition, but is competing with the others for the Alex Smith memorial trophy which goes to the medalist.

Following qualifying play on Sunday and Monday, there will be two 18-hole rounds of match play on Tuesday, with the rest of the matches at 36 holes on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Brooklyn Ace Turns In Best Job This Year As Boston Falls, 5-0

BROOKLYN, June 20 (AP)—Van Lingle Mungo gave up just one hit today—a two-bagger, by Hal Warstler—as he pitched his best game in two seasons in hurling the Dodgers to a 5 to 0 shutout victory over the Boston Bees. He fanned six, and, although he walked eight, he was in full control of the situation at all times. Only two runners got as far as second base, and none passed that station.

His mates backed him up with a ten-hit attack off Jim Turner, scoring two runs in the first and three more in the eighth.

DiMaggio Homers As McCarthymen Take Fifth in Succession

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—Behind the four-hit pitching of big Red Ruffing, the Yankees' homer nutters trampled the Philadelphia Athletics, 7-1, today to stretch their winning streak to five straight.

Joe DiMaggio's 11th homer, with two aboard in the first inning, and Tommy Henrich's eighth, with one on base in the fifth, accounted for five of the Yankee runs.

Ruffing, chalking up his tenth win against three defeats for the season, fanned five and walked only one batter. He retired the first 12 men to face him, and, except for Lou Finney's pinch-homer in the sixth, allowed only one base runner to get as far as second.

Swenson Holds Three Jobs in Net Tourny

W. T. Swenson, former Hawkeye tennis captain who now is a member of the University of Iowa's physical education staff, will fill three official jobs at the Mississippi Valley tennis tournament here July 13-16.

He has been appointed referee of the affair by the board in control. He also holds the same positions that he did a year ago—tournament director and chairman of the tournament committee.

It marks the first time that the administrative control of the eight-year-old tournament has been centered in one man. Swenson, who now is assistant track coach, also has tutored Iowa varsity net teams.

Jack Knott Chucks Four-Hit Game As Chicago White Sox Sweep Series With Browns, 11-1

Down The Sports Trail
By PAUL MICKELSON
NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—In the depths of his current dependency on the big rock at Alcatraz, Mr. Al Capone, the mischievous fellow who got too glib with his income tax returns, can rest assured he's making plenty of enemies for American league ball players this season. For unknowingly, Al opened the flood gates to a swarm of detectives who are haunting the ivory heroes.

Al, a great baseball fan in his heyday, arrived at Comiskey park, Chicago, one sultry afternoon and a few minutes later shook hands with Arthur (the Great) Shires as news photographers had a field day. The picture riled American league magnates, especially President Will Harridge, who concocted a plan to prevent a repetition. Today, Will's plan is operating in full force with full-time hawkshaws and umpires policing the parks.

And now, all is chaos among the good, roistering players of the league who like nothing better than to shake hands with Gus Q. Fan and the folks. If they are caught even saying "hello" to a fan in the stands, players are reported by the pinkertons or umps and are fined from $10 up. What would happen if a player got "mugged" with some Divvy Dan out on parole is too terrible to figure.

Ford Frick, president of the National league, refuses to have his umps serve as detectives around his circuit.

"What Will does is his own business," said Mr. Frick, "but we in the National league think it's part of a ball player's job to talk to the Joe Doakes and fans who pay their way to get into a ball game. That's part of the show in my book. But just think if we did have such a rule in the National! Why, Gabby Hartnett, the league's most famous greeter, wouldn't have a dime coming at the end of the season. Nope, we don't want our players fraternizing on the field but if they want to talk big talk with the spectators, they're welcome."

Parker Advances

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Frankie Parker, the Davis cup player from Beverly Hills, led a general advance yesterday into quarterfinals of the tri-state tennis tournament by taking over a fellow Californian, Hal Hudson of Redlands, 6-1, 6-2.

Pale Hose Batsmen Drive Buck Newsum From Box in Fourth

ST. LOUIS, June 30 (AP)—Jack Knott, who was just another pitcher with the St. Louis Browns, turned in a masterful four-hitter today against his former mates to give the Chicago White Sox an 11-1 victory and a sweep of the four-game series.

Knott gave up only one hit until the eighth inning when singles by Red Kress and Glenn Mc-

Quillen and Don Heffner's double produced the lone Brownie run. Buck Newsum, the Browns' most reliable hurler, had his worst day of the season. He even passed Boze Berger with the bags loaded in the fourth, forcing Marvin Owen over the plate with the first of five runs scored that frame.

Coach Tubbs plans to leave Iowa City about July 16 or 17. He probably will spend most of the time at Isle Royal, a vacation spot in Lake Superior off the northernmost tip of Michigan's upper peninsula.

Bucs Jump To Second Place In National League

PITTSBURGH, June 30 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates leapt from the Cincinnati Reds to plunk into second place in the hot National league race today when Cy Blanton pitched three-hit ball to take the rubber game of a three-game series, 3-1. The Pirates observed the 29th anniversary of the opening of Forbes field by nicking Buckley Walters for 12 hits. Blanton allowed only one hit until the ninth when Frey hit for a double and scored on Goodman's single.

Arlington Park Race Looms As Turf 'Natural'

By EARL HILLIGAN
CHICAGO, June 30 (AP)—Arlington park's $30,000 added classic, to be run July 23, shaped up today as a turf "natural" which may bring order out of the chaos surrounding the season's three year old racing championship.

Yesterday's additions to the many surprise developments of the year were Menow's victory over War Admiral and Lawrin's "empty" victory scored at Hollywood park with Dauber nursing a swollen tendon in the barn. John Hertz, Arlington's executive board chairman, views those situations as "ill winds" which may blow a championship field into the famed Arlington feature.

Menow, Hal Price Headley's colt, won the Massachusetts handicap by nine lengths with the great Admiral finishing out of the money. On the west coast, the anticipated Lawrin-Dauber duel failed to materialize when Dauber was scratched. With Lawrin, Dauber and Menow in a list of classic nominations which also includes the Chief, Stagehand, Fighting Fox, Bull Lea, Cravat and Pasteurized, the classic looks like a great race.

Here are a few reasons why the three year old division has been split asunder more widely than in many years: Lawrin captured the Kentucky Derby, with Dauber a driving second. Dauber won the Preakness and placed second in the Belmont, which was won by Mrs. W. Plunkett Stewart's Pasteurized, with Cravat third. Stagehand defeated the famed Seabiscuit in the rich Santa Anita handicap and then was whipped in the Brooklyn handicap by a stablemate, the Chief.

Old Rivalry To Be Resumed By Americans

Hilda Krahwinkel And Alice Marble Beaten In Semifinal Round

By SCOTTY RESTON
WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 30 (AP)—Helen Willis Moody and Helen Jacobs, those inevitable and incomparable opponents, emerged triumphant from two terrifying semi-final round matches on Wimbledon's center court today. On Saturday they clash for the all-England tennis championship, picking up their rivalry where they left off in the 1935 finals when Mrs. Moody spotted Helen the second a 5-2 lead in the third set and then beat her to win her seventh Wimbledon crown.

Mrs. Moody, her feet blistered, her strength gone, eliminated tall, angular Hilda Krahwinkel Spirling of Germany and Denmark, 12-10, 6-0, after a battle that lasted one hour and 55 minutes.

Alice Marble loses. Miss Jacobs—the girl they didn't seed, the girl who fainted in the clubhouse just before her second round match—beat the co-favorite, Alice Marble of San Francisco, 6-4, 6-4.

Thus American can count almost certainly upon winning both of Wimbledon's singles titles. The women's championship now is in the bag. And there were few tonight who conceded Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin of England any chance against Don Budge in the men's final tomorrow.

But all the drama of this Wimbledon tournament centers on the women's division and the heroic come-backs of America's two Helens.

Nine Times Since 1924 Mrs. Moody has come to this old ivy-fringed center court. Every time she has reached the final. And now, trying for her eighth title—a record if she makes it—she finds herself opposed once more by her Berkeley, Cal., rival.

Miss Jacobs seems to have lived most of her life in the shadow of "Queen Helen." The only time she really managed to beat her, in the 1933 American championship finals, Helen the first was injured. The only other time she seemed certain of beating her—when she got to match point in the ninth game of the 1935 finals—Mrs. Moody produced that same competitive spark which brought her through again today.

Now then, they meet again and Miss Jacobs, admittedly a better player today than she was in 1935 while Mrs. Moody has slowed up, even now is not confident.

"All I hope is I play well," she said tonight. "I saw Mrs. Moody play today and she certainly played well."

Mrs. Moody, on the other hand, takes these battles serenely. When she came off the court today Mrs. George W. Wightman, captain of the American Wightman cup team, met her at the door.

"Why did you keep your sweater on all the time?" she asked. "To be honest, I didn't even know I had it on," Helen answered. It was this sort of concentration that brought her back from what looked like certain defeat by Mme. Spirling, the German girl who is a Dane by marriage.

Men Use Libraries Most, But Women Read Most Fiction

CHICAGO (AP)—Habits of 20,000 public library patrons in Chicago, New York, St. Louis are revealed in a survey just completed by University of Chicago researchers. Here are some of the things they found out:

- 1—Housewives and stenographers are the heaviest readers of fiction.
- 2—Students constitute 45.7 per cent of the library patrons. Clerks, stenographers and housewives come next.
- 3—Sixty-five per cent of the patrons are below 20 years of age and almost 80 per cent below 30.
- 4—Professional persons, clerks, stenographers and students know what kind of book they want before they go to the library. Housewives prefer to search the shelves, 63 per cent of all patrons use the catalogue and six per cent never do.
- 5—Men number approximately 55 per cent of the patrons. They make greater use of books, magazines, newspapers and reference materials within the library than do women.
- 6—A fourth of the patrons depend upon help from librarians.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK R. J. Scott

To Lecture At 8 p.m. Tuesday On Costuming

Marie Linthicum To Speak on Dress Of Elizabethan Period

Marie Channing Linthicum, instructor in Salem college in West Virginia, will present a graduate college lecture at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Miss Linthicum's topic is "Costuming in the Time of Shakespeare." She will speak of the dress of the Elizabethan period, thereby interpreting many obscure passages in Shakespeare's texts.

The speaker is the author of an authoritative book on costuming during the period of which she will speak. She has also written numerous articles on Elizabethan drama and upon Shakespeare.

She is considered by such authorities as Sir E. K. Chambers of Great Britain and Allardyce Nicoll, now of Yale, as eminent in her field.

Miss Linthicum received her B.A. degree from Johns Hopkins university and her Ph.D. from the University of Iowa. As a student here, she received the A.A.U.W. traveling fellowship for study in European galleries, libraries and museums.

Last year she received a grant from the American Philosophical society to study in European libraries.

Miss Linthicum is a summer instructor at Northwestern university.

Hoover's Quicksilver Mine Aids U. S. to Keep Fit for Fighting

Deposit Is Major Source of Metal Vital to Munitions

By SAM JACKSON
AP Feature Service Writer
SAN FRANCISCO — Behind the scenes of European war and intrigue is a quiet struggle for possession of a vitally important war material — quicksilver, or mercury.

The so-called dictator nations have the bulk of the world's supply virtually sewed up.

Among democracies, only the United States bids fair to meet its own needs in case of war. Associated with the nation's preparedness in this direction are the names of former President Herbert Hoover; his brother, Theodore Hoover, and H. W. Gould, a world authority on the liquid metal.

The United States tariff on quicksilver is $19.25 a flask. Other nations admit it free, since they need it as a war material and most of them have no internal supply.

"In every shot fired in war, the original detonation is made by a yellow powder called fulminate of mercury," explains Gould. "No satisfactory substitute has ever been found."

"The reason so many duds were fired by the Germans late in the World war was that they were running short of mercury. A dud is simply a shell in which some substitute is used as a detonator and which doesn't explode."

Quicksilver — the name which mining men prefer to "mercury" — has been mined for 2,900 years at Almaden, Spain. This is by far the richest deposit in the world, the ore running 6 to 7 per cent quicksilver, as against a quarter of 1 per cent for American deposits.

Almaden, in loyalist hands, long has been a goal of the insurgents.

Italy has the second largest deposits of quicksilver and is producing about 80 per cent of the world's supply.

Russia is in the quicksilver race, and Gould has supplied plans for a plant at Nikitovka, on the Don river, which will handle 600 tons of ore a day. The deposit is low grade, however, and the American engineer thinks it "unlikely that Russia can supply its own demands."

American hopes are pinned chiefly to the desolate slopes of Mt. San Benito, 150 miles south of San Francisco. That's the location of the great New Idria mine, which has been worked continuously since 1854 and has yielded close to $40,000,000 worth of quicksilver.

In July, 1936, when it was apparent that civil war was going to cut off the Spanish supply of the metal, the Hoovers and their associates bought the New Idria from a Boston corporation. Theodore Hoover, retired dean of Stanford university's school of mining engineering, is president of the new company, Gould vice-president and general manager.

The former president, while interested in the enterprise, does not hold any corporate office.

Equipped with the highly efficient Gould rotary furnaces, New Idria can handle 400 tons of ore a day and accounts for the bulk of the United States' production of 12,500 flasks of quicksilver a year. The flask is the commercial unit and consists of 76 pounds.

Five levels of the New Idria mine, spaced 100 feet apart, are being worked, and the maze of old tunnels and shafts that have caved in during the mine's long history are being cleaned out and explored.

The metal now is selling at $70 to $72 a flask compared with prices of $40 before the war and $125 at the 1928 high. Because there are only some 10,000 flasks in producers' hands compared with a normal reserve of 100,000, Gould says "the position of the metal is fundamentally very strong."

Lawyers Go On Picnic

Fifty-Three Members At Annual Frolic As Dean Rutledge Speaks

As they do annually, 53 members of the Iowa and Johnson county bar associations last night gathered at the Iowa City Country club for their picnic.

Golf was played in the afternoon, and dinner was served at 6:30 p.m.

After the dinner Karl Kringle, Attorney Paul Toomey, Harold Maycock and Carl Pellinger sang humorous songs, accompanied by Glenna Wessenberg.

Dean Wiley Rutledge of the college of law and Attorney H. M. Havner of Des Moines, former state attorney general, gave brief talks.

Attorney Ed Rate presented "gifts" to many of the guests to conclude the program. Attorney Ingalls Swisher, president of the Johnson County Bar association, presided.

Slightly Warmer Weather Grooms Iowa City People

Slightly higher temperatures came on the wave of heavy precipitation yesterday, but the mercury man continued his conservative policy of sub-normal weather. The high reading was 76 degrees at 11 a.m. when a heavy downpour of rain started, diminishing into a three-hour drizzle.

The lowest mark yesterday was 64 degrees, shortly after midnight. Thursday's high was three degrees above Wednesday's reading, and the mercury is scheduled to rise higher today.

McCormick--

Mrs. Simms went without sleep to stand long vigil in the mountains directing searchers.

While Pooler or Mrs. Cortland Barnes Jr., Medill's sister, would not be quoted, they made it clear they considered the long hunt at an end.

Rumor of discovery of the body seeped out of the mountains late today, but no confirmation could be had from any source.

Confirmation came in a simple statement late tonight at the Simms ranch from Frank C. W. Pooler, United States regional forester.

A party of Indians from Sandia and Isleta Pueblos are to start at dawn into the mountains to lower the body from the cliff and return to Albuquerque.

Pooler's statement said: "While positive identification has not been made, it has been established with practical certainty that a body found early tonight on a cliff north of Sandia peak, is the body of Medill McCormick."

"The discovery was made by an organized crew of Isleta and Sandia Indians, under the leadership of Marion Peace of the United States Indian service, while working in close proximity to a forest service searching party."

"The body was in such an inaccessible spot that it will be impossible to recover it until late Friday."

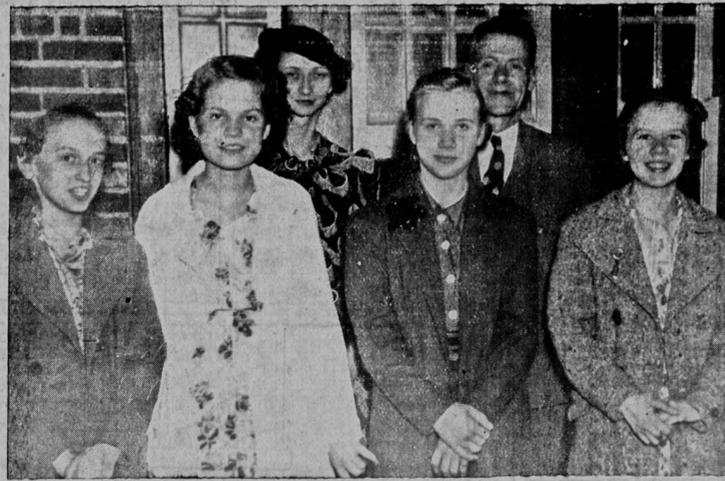

"On the basis of present information, it now seems that Medill McCormick's body was found approximately on the opposite side of the cliff from where the body of Richard Whitmer was recovered last Friday."

Mrs. Anna Krob Dies Following a Stroke
