

F. D. R. May Force Fight Over Policies In Southern States

Writer Raises Possibility Of Wide Invasion

Believes Sen. George Marked for Punitive Action by President

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt's date to speak in Georgia on his way home from the west raises the possibility that he will invade the south extensively to force the party fighting over his new deal policies.

Circumstances under which an invitation to speak Aug. 11 at Barnsville, Ga., was extended and accepted at the White House left little doubt that Senator George is marked for punitive action for failure to come up to new deal standards of liberalism. He was as pointedly excluded from the Barnsville invitation list as his new deal-championing opponent for re-nomination, Lawrence Camp, was played up.

No Commitment
Presumably Mr. Roosevelt made no commitment as to what he would say in Georgia. It might depend on his own appraisal of national political trends during the westward stages of his journey, already featured by his endorsement of Senator Bulkeley in Ohio and Senator Barkley in Kentucky for return to the senate as new deal loyalists.

The democratic primary results in both those states and in Oklahoma, where Sen. Elmer Thomas is scheduled to receive the new deal blessing, will be in before the president reaches Georgia. If at that time he is prepared to speak out against George as definitely as he has interceded for Bulkeley and Barkley, it will be a warning to other southern senators who have incurred administration disfavor.

Flood of Invitations
Mr. Roosevelt is certain now to be flooded with invitations to speak also in South Carolina against Senator Smith, and perhaps to pause in Virginia to wave the new deal banner in the faces of Senators Glass and Byrd.

Nomination: to the house are at stake in Virginia, and there is a liberal versus conservative alignment in at least one contest there. Virginia will have made its primary selections before the president gets back to the east coast, however, so anything he might say there would be for long-range rather than immediate effect.

If it turns out that way, the Georgia date strongly suggests it will, the president's return trip may be more dramatic than his western pilgrimage.

U. S., England Plan to Assist Nazi Refugees

EVAN-LES-BAINS, France, July 8 (AP)—The United States and Great Britain were understood today to have reached a tentative agreement regarding a permanent international committee to assist refugees from greater Germany.

The Anglo-American plan, it was said in well-informed quarters at the 32-nation intergovernmental refugee conference in session here, would provide:

1. That the headquarters of the organization would be in London instead of in Paris, as first suggested.
2. That it remain free of close affiliation with existing refugee groups organized under auspices of the League of Nations.
3. For an American head, providing Washington's permission could be obtained.

Approval of the Anglo-American plan by the intergovernmental conference, which was called by President Roosevelt, would pave the way for possible negotiations with Germany to hasten and systematize emigration of German and Austrian Jews, it was said.

The delegates reported that German officials had tentatively offered to allow Austrian Jews to leave with 20 per cent of their goods.

$494 To Be Nominated

That's the Average Spent by Candidates In Recent State Primary Election

DES MOINES, July 9 (AP)—Candidates for nomination for state offices in the recent primary election spent an average of $494 in their campaign, their reports to the secretary of state showed. Total amount spent was $54,342.28.

Party nominations for United States senator came high, with eight candidates reporting they spent a total of $18,716.35, an average of $2,339.

Reich Wants U. S. Helium

Dr. Eckener Ridicules Ickes for His Stand In Curtailing Exports

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, July 8 (AP)—Dr. Hugo Eckener, veteran German dirigible commander, hinted today that President Roosevelt may yet have a "last word" to say regarding the United States ban on export of helium to Germany, where it is needed for future airship development.

In an address during celebration of the 100th birthday anniversary of Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin, father of lighter-than-air travel, Dr. Eckener ridiculed Secretary Harold L. Ickes for prohibiting export of helium, a non-inflammable gas Germany can get only from the United States.

He suggested the action of the United States secretary of the interior was due to American domestic politics.

Opening a new zeppelin museum here, Frank, blunt Dr. Eckener said: "One cabinet member now has suddenly given the opinion that the helium promised us last year has military importance and therefore cannot be delivered."

"This seems like a joke, for this gentleman is the secretary of the interior, while military experts of the war and navy departments denied its military importance."

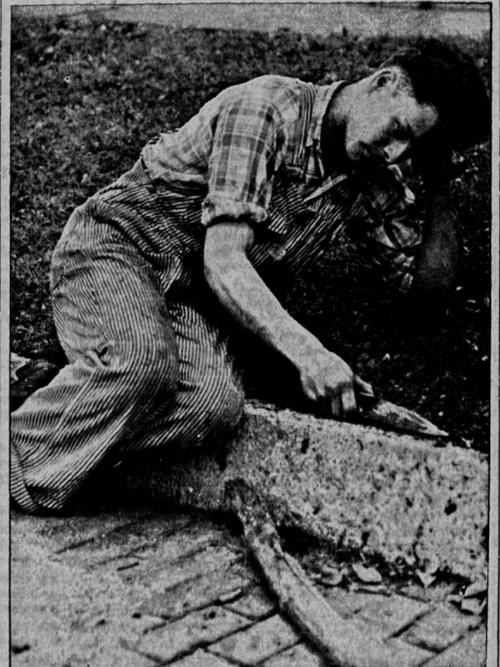

"The last word, however, has not been spoken, as President Roosevelt has assured me."

"There is no doubt we shall get helium because the refusal hits American airship interests, which are dependent upon collaboration with us."

Dr. Eckener stressed the importance of helium to Germany by saying "the last step toward perfection of the airship was taken when the new zeppelin was constructed for helium instead of inflammable gas."

Belgian Widow Sentenced For Eleven Murders

LIEGE, Belgium, July 8 (AP)—Slim, 58-year-old Maria Petitjean Beckers — "the Widow Beckers of Liege" — was convicted today and sentenced to death for 11 poison murders in Belgium's most bizarre criminal case of modern times.

The death sentence was symbolic, however, since capital punishment no longer is carried out in Belgium. The penalty will be commuted to life imprisonment.

Screams of "kill her" went up from a crowd outside the court house when the jury, which heard a month of testimony, filed in to announce its verdict after five hours of deliberation.

The beady-eyed, grim-jawed widow's final statement to the jury was a passionately shouted declaration "I am innocent."

6 Adventurers Conquer Wild Colorado River

LEE'S FERRY, Ariz., July 8 (AP)—Six death-defying adventurers, their food supply exhausted, sailed into this outpost of civilization today — victors over 300 turbulent miles of that menacing river called the Colorado.

Two women botanists and four men, tired but determined, rested here tonight — in beds for the first time in 18 thrill-filled, dangerous days of sailing from Green River, Utah, to this northern Arizona hamlet in untried, homemade, motorless boats.

Tomorrow the battle against twisting currents and rapids will begin anew with their ultimate goal Lake Mead, behind Boulder Dam in Nevada, 666 miles from Green River.

To bespectacled Alzada Clover, 40-year-old University of Michigan botanist, and her tall, athletic-type assistant, Lois Jotter, 25, the voyage to this point was "exciting" but "swell."

The men, Riverman Norman D. Nevills of Mexican Hat, Utah, the leader; Eugene Atkinson, University of Michigan geologist; Don Harris of Soda Springs, Idaho, a U. S. geological survey employe, and Artist-Photographer W. C. Gibson of San Francisco, were jubilant that the first leg was successful.

Kraschel's Agents Suggest He Send Troops to Newton at Once

Notice Served Of Arbitration In Iowa Strike

Moorhead Cautions Picketers Against Unlawful Assembly

NEWTON, July 8 (AP)—State Agents Frank Moorhead and Charles Croghan tonight began service of the notices of Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel's announcement for a final attempt of arbitration settlement of the Maytag company strike.

Moorhead served one notice on E. W. Ford, company attorney. He said others were to be served on A. M. Miller, attorney representing the back to work movement, all CIO officials, George Umbreit, company vice-president, Mayor George Campbell, County Attorney Luther M. Carr, Sheriff Earl Shields and James Rhodes, Newton publisher.

Warns CIO Leaders
Moorhead said that he had been told to warn the CIO leaders that they would be guilty of unlawful picketing if they continued to picket the plant in numbers greater than the three at each gate allowed under the injunction in effect against the union.

He said he believed Sheriff Earl Shields would take applications for the deputy sheriffs decided upon in a proclamation issued by the sheriff and mayor today, but that the sheriff had the power to decide whether they should be sworn into service.

He said the sheriff appeared to be a "greatly relieved man" when he was notified of the governor's move in a conference with the state agents tonight.

Last Attempt
Moorhead said that the governor was not in favor of keeping the plant open and that this would be his last attempt at an arbitration settlement of the difficulties.

He said he believed troops might be dispatched if this effort fails.

He said he understood that Wilbert Allison and Robert Kirkwood two local union officials upon whom the notices were to be served, had gone to Des Moines.

Shortly after Ford had received the governor's notice, he declared:

Open Air Mass Meeting
"We don't know what our position will be until we are advised of the exact questions which are proposed to be arbitrated under the governor's plan."

James Carey, national president of the union, summoned the CIO strikers to an open air mass meeting in Sunset park soon after the governor's pronouncement was made known.

Carey told the group, which included wives and children, that the union had decided to limit the number of pickets to three at each gate.

Chaco Peace Imminent
BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The secretariat of the Chaco peace conference said yesterday a settlement was imminent between Bolivia and Paraguay.

Gov. Kraschel's Statement on Final Try At Settling Maytag Strike Is Released

DES MOINES, July 8 (AP)—Text of Governor Nelson G. Kraschel's statement on his "final" attempt at arbitration in the Maytag strike follows:

"In response to various requests which I have received from law enforcing officers and the court of Jasper county, I am dispatching state agents to Newton with instructions to assist the sheriff in maintaining law and order and to prevent any collection of men or women in groups on the streets of Newton."

"It is my specific instruction that there shall be no unlawful assembly in Newton. "It is clearly revealed that the ordinary processes and orders of court are being executed. Grand jury indictments are being returned, arrests are being made, and those arrested are being lodged in the county jail."

"The greatest concern of those who appeal for aid is over what will happen in the future when and if some of the workers attempt to re-enter the Maytag plant before a peaceful settlement of the controversy has been accomplished. "The terms of re-opening the plant on a peaceful basis are still in bitter dispute.

"In order that every legal means at my command shall be available as an aid of peaceful settlement of this controversy, I am making one final attempt by invoking the provisions of chapter 74 of the Iowa code. This chapter provides for an arbitration board to review the questions in dispute and it provides for the power of subpoena in order that all facts may be drawn from any desired source. Such a board can be functioning within three days and should complete its work within a week.

"This action is my final hope for a peaceful adjudication of the dispute. "During the deliberation of this arbitration board, I am asking all employees of the Maytag plant to maintain peace and order and make no effort to resume operations. I shall expect obedience to my orders during these agents, who will, during the period of arbitration remain in Newton."

Moorhead Says People Desire Plant Opened

Agent Returns After Executive Session To Await Orders

NEWTON, Ia., July 8 (AP)—Frank Moorhead and Charles Croghan, special investigators for Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel, said they suggested to him in Des Moines today that he send Iowa national guard units to Newton immediately.

Moorhead returned here late this afternoon on orders of Governor Kraschel.

Moorhead said the governor sent him back after holding a meeting with the executive council. He declared that the governor ordered him shortly after 4:30 p.m. today to remain in his hotel room here and await further orders.

Want Plant Open
Asked whether possible mobilization of the national guard would mean the continued shutdown of the Maytag plant, he said he told the governor that the majority of people in Newton seemed to want to have the plant open.

Moorhead could give no account of the governor's meeting with the executive council.

At Des Moines, the governor announced he had suggested that a board of arbitration be selected by the Maytag company and the CIO.

Commenting upon Moorhead's recommendation, the governor declared:

Denies Recommendations
"They (state agents) don't make recommendations. They only give me the facts."

The governor at the same time instructed his agents at Newton to "assist the sheriff in maintaining law and order" and to prevent "unlawful assembly."

Meanwhile, tenseness grew hourly in this small industrial community with the report of at least four sporadic disturbances and the arrest of a fifth man on indictments brought by the special country grand jury.

John Evans, a CIO worker, was arrested late this afternoon by city police on a warrant charging kidnaping. Three men are already held in the Jasper county jail on kidnaping or criminal syndicalism charges in connection with the strike.

Picket Lines Grow
Picket lines grew suddenly at the northeast gate of the plant this afternoon after Dr. R. F. Frech, company physician, entered through the lines to get supplies from the company hospital.

The pickets did not attempt to stop the doctor, but increased their lines soon afterward.

Police attempted to run through the picket lines in an automobile with Robert Vance, secretary to Elmer Maytag, president and chairman of the Maytag firm's board.

The pickets stopped the car and shoved it around on the pavement, the three officers who were riding with Vance said. No (See STRIKE, page 6)

Charles W. Gilkey Explains Democracy

Floods Missouri River Goes On Rampage

By The Associated Press
Nebraska farmers already fighting high water along the Missouri river, faced a new threat Friday night as "Big Muddy," fed by recent heavy rains, continued to rise all along the state's boundary.

With farmers reporting "thousands of acres" of rich bottomland wheat and corn fields under water and the river approaching flood stage at many places, a new rise was reported as far north as Bismarck, N. D.

Blair, Neb., bridge officials said the river was still rising there and at the Florence pumping station at Omaha, where flood stage is 21 feet, the stream was at 19.7 feet, up three-tenths of a foot Friday and going higher.

At Rulo, Neb., the stage was 17.53 feet (flood stage is 18 feet) and additional acres were inundated. The rise Friday was 2.4 feet. Observers said the water was the highest since 1881.

Farmers and CCC workers continued to strengthen dikes on the Iowa side with many farms near Pacific Junction and Bartlett almost completely covered with water. Residents said it was the worst flood in 44 years. Several families have abandoned their homes.

Traces Growth Through Years

Speaker Considers Eighteenth Century Rational Democracy

Democracy as "a way of life," a democracy "adventured in faith," must be the democracy of the 20th century, the Rev. Charles W. Gilkey, dean of the University of Chicago chapel, asserted last night as he spoke to a University of Iowa audience on the west approach to Old Capitol.

Democracy is undergirded, he said, by three faiths—faith in the capacity of the common man to become wise and good, faith in the process of discussion leading to settlement by conference and consent rather than by the imposition of force, and faith in the "long look."

Tracing the growth of our modern democracy through past centuries, the speaker considered the rationalistic interpretation of democracy in the 18th century, an interpretation which was rationalistic only in its logic, for it was romantic in its assumptions. That generation, the speaker pointed out, based its early democracy on what has been called the "secular dogma" of the native wisdom and goodness of the common man.

As the democratic concepts changed, the 19th century came to view democracy as a certain kind of political machinery. Then came the 20th century, and the definition of democracy formulated by one of the greatest living novelists, Thomas Mann, who spoke of it as "that form of government and of society which is inspired above every other with the feeling and consciousness of the dignity of man."

Is democracy out of date? "Our fathers would have been greatly (See GILKEY, page 6)

Palestine Race Warfare Complicated by Wave Of Arab Strikes and New Bombing Outrage

JERUSALEM, July 8 (AP)—A wave of Arab strikes spread through Palestine today, complicating the problem of British authorities endeavoring to crush a bloody outbreak of Jewish-Arab guerrilla warfare.

A spontaneous strike movement began immediately after a new incident in a swift series of outrages

—a bomb explosion at Jerusalem's Jaffa gate in which four Arabs were killed and 36 wounded.

Three Jews and a 12-year-old schoolgirl were arrested following the explosion. Arab by-standers alleged the girl threw the bomb, which tore apart a bus filled with Arab countryfolk.

Authorities refused to disclose the girl's identity.

The blast brought total casualties in nine days of rapidly mounting terror to 37 killed and 150 injured. It was the gravest outbreak in recent Palestine history.

Britain massed all available armed forces to combat the crisis. Warships, airplanes, marines, land troops and police were called to emergency duty.

Roosevelt Gives Blessings to New Dealer Senators

ABOARD PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S TRAIN ENROUTE TO OKLAHOMA CITY, July 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt gave his blessings to two new deal senators seeking re-nominations during the day and tonight stopped a few minutes in the home-town of Senator Logan of Kentucky to laud him.

Stopping first at Marietta, Ohio, on his swing to the Pacific coast, Mr. Roosevelt endorsed Sen. Robert Bulkeley, being opposed for the democratic nomination by former Governor George White.

Later at Covington, Ky., he had words of praise for Sen. Alben Barkley, senate floor leader, but tempered his remarks with compliments for Gov. A. B. Chandler, opposing Barkley. Early in the evening at Louisville he commended Senator Barkley's usefulness to the nation without mentioning the name of Chandler.

At Bowling Green, the president said Sen. M. M. Logan, Kentucky's junior senator, had "stood firm" last spring against "dragging the judiciary into a political campaign."

Prior to the announcement of Governor Chandler for the senate seat held by Barkley, there were reports that Logan might resign to accept a position in the judiciary, clearing the way for Chandler's appointment to the senate.

President Roosevelt again took the occasion at Bowling Green to speak in praise of Senator Barkley, citing the latter's experience in national affairs.

Barkley introduced Mr. Roosevelt at Bowling Green and thanked the crowd for their presence at the station for the brief platform appearance of the president.

Senator Barkley boarded the Presidential Special in Ohio. Governor Chandler met Mr. Roosevelt at Cincinnati, across the river from Covington. Barkley accompanied the president as far as Bowling Green. Chandler left the presidential party at Covington.

The president spoke at Latonia race track nearby Covington saying he wanted to "make it definite and clear" that he was "not interfering in any shape, manner or form in the primary campaign in Kentucky."

Arab and Jew Struggle Again In the Holy Land

THE BLOODIEST riots in recent years have broken out in Palestine between the Arabians and the Jews, news dispatches report—riots so serious that Great Britain is mustering all its nearby available forces to quiet them.

It is a strange commentary upon man and the manner in which he conducts his affairs that such a situation should exist today in, of all places, the Holy Land. It is a tangled situation. For Palestine is holy, not only to Christian but to Arab and Jew as well.

In Palestine wandering Jew and nomad Arab met to live under the protectorate of Christian Great Britain. The Jews today, driven from other countries, are coming home to Palestine, putting an economic pressure upon the Arab which he feels to be unfair and which he resents.

Religious antagonism has been the spark of economic and political competition between members of the two races the tinder which have resulted in the recent outbreak.

That the outbreak will be suppressed can be little doubted, for Great Britain has repeatedly proved that she has no equal in the art of forcing peace upon a native population. But it will be an artificial peace at best, and will be so for many years yet to come.

For the religions of men and the pocketbooks of men are two of their most sensitive spots, and when both are endangered, as each group in Palestine today feels them to be endangered by the other, there is little hope for permanent amity.

'First Nighters' Appreciate Opportunity To Witness 'Calvario'

DRAMA CAME to the University of Iowa's experimental theater stage Thursday, and it was thoroughly appreciated. It was the more significant drama because it came from the pen of a member of the university's own dramatic arts department.

There have been whispers that the play is New York material—that it will be successful there. Although its presentation Thursday night was not in finished form, it definitely revealed that skillful writing, combined with skillful directing, can make even a gruesome religious ritual a gripping and interesting plot.

And the author's manner of dealing with the self-sacrificing Penitentes of New Mexico was interesting and gripping. It had its preview audience in dramatic stillness from start to finish. Applause, an important index to the feelings of theatergoers, was loud and prolonged following each act—especially at the end.

Thursday night's presentation of 'Calvario' is just another example of the privileges which come to Iowa Citizens and University of Iowa affiliates—privileges of viewing the embryo works of art of its sons and daughters before anyone else.

And before long, those who saw 'Calvario' may hear of its opening in much larger places than Iowa City. It's an honor to view an outstanding production before anyone else!

A Far Eastern Anniversary Celebration —16 Million Homeless

JULY 7, that was Thursday, was an anniversary, the first of the biggest, costliest, most-hazardous war in the last decade, in the history of the far east. What's happened since July 7, 1937?

A great deal—and nothing. One million Chinese, mostly men, but many women and children, have been killed or wounded; about 16,000,000 Chinese refugees are ragged and homeless; more than $7,000,000,000 worth of property has been destroyed (making our own relief load slip into insignificance). What else?

Not very much. A year ago military experts were predicting China's swift defeat; some observers thought the war would last three months at the most. On its first anniversary the battles are going on with increased intensity.

Japan has won all the big battles, but Chiang Kai-Shek still has a large standing army. They say, those who are watching, that two more trained Chinese take the place of every one who falls. China has an increasing air force, unlimited credit, munitions from abroad, the sympathy of most of the civilized world—barring, of course, those two civilized countries, Italy and Germany.

According to this week's Newsweek magazine, it would take 2,000,000 men working, fighting, killing for nearly a dozen years to make considerable headway into China's interior. This is impossible. No, Japan has not yet won the war.

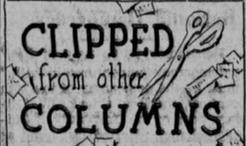

Many, we think, have forgotten or failed to see the peculiar change in human psychology that has occurred in China. Before the war she was divided, ruled by dozens of war lords, big and small. Chiang Kai-Shek was working against hopeless odds in his attempts to unite his people.

Then the war came along. And China today is more united than she has ever been in her civilized history. No, the war's not over. Japan has not won.

Yale and Harvard gave Walt Disney honorary degrees. Princeton, apparently, has skipped him. Maybe Walt should have put a tiger hero in one of those Silly Symphonies.

A New York Yankee fan can't be blamed for thinking the world has gone slightly mad. Not only is his beloved team battling desperately for second place in the American league but Babe Ruth is now loyal to, of all places, Brooklyn!

Japan, we read, now is spending five billion dollars trying to conquer China. And in times like these!

The Countess and the Gent That's the trouble with serial stories. Here, just as we are getting interested, we learn that we shall have to wait a week for the next sizzling installment.

Will the count, scion of one of the continent's proudest families, challenge 'The Gentleman in London' to a duel; or will he 'shoot him down like a dog,' as he seemed on the point of doing at the close of chapter one?

Who is the mysterious London society gentleman? Is he really a personage of high title; or is he just another five-and-ten Kentucky-Colonel prince, like the other one? May he not be one of those strong, silent, self-made men; one of those wealthy young millionaires who retire to Mayfair to get away from the sordid curse of gold and cultivate appreciation of the finer things in life through association with really refined people, who have learned how to keep caviar from rolling off their knives?

What about the papers? Has the count really got them? What sinister secrets do they reveal? And what about the child? Can the count succeed in his avowed purpose of snatching him from his mother's loving arms? Yes, and what about the 5,000,000 berries?

What names did the count call his countess when he received the disillusioning letter from 'someone in English society,' declaring that, 'unless he (the count) first challenged that gentleman to a duel, he could never return to London society again?' What took place at Winfield House, the palatial gilded cage, while the count was away on a business trip? What so shocked the sensibilities of the ex-chauffeur that he, pot haste, wrote the count: 'Winfield Place isn't a suitable place for him (the child) to be brought up?'

And what about the international spies? Aren't there going to be any international spies? If there are, why weren't they introduced in the first chapter? Why? What? When? Where? Who? How much? How come? E. Phillips Oppenheim and Michael Arlen were pikers. We can hardly wait for the next session of the Bow Street Police Court.

Camps, 'White Lists,' Riots and Confusion Aid in Oiling Bund's Propaganda Machine

This is the second of two stories reporting on the activities of the German-American Bund.

By JACK STINNETT AP Feature Service Writer

NEW YORK—No one used to hear much about the Nazis in America—until Fuehrer Fritz Kuhn came along in 1936.

Before then the Bund of the Friends of New Germany had got by for three years under three fuehrers. Then there were changes.

For one thing, the name became the German American Bund. For another, bund publicity started rolling up like a snowball on a down grade.

When bund youth camps aroused suspicion and antagonism, there were hundreds of news stories, as well as court actions and demands for investigations. Bund meetings were marked on occasion by anti-Nazi rioting.

White List Vs. Black Whether or not Kuhn planned it, the publicity surely influenced Nazi sympathizers as well as anti-Nazis. Kuhn, with his own colorful personality, mysterious trips to Germany and incessant demands for investigations to clear the bund's good name, accounted for much of this. One move was to appoint Frank Hague, Jersey City's red-hating mayor.

But when it comes to influencing people, the bund doesn't halt at personal publicity, summer camps and unit meetings—however important these may be. One means of influence is the White List.

As explained to me at bund headquarters, the white list was devised to combat the Black List of Nazi goods. Bund officials say 6,800 retailers and small wholesalers already are on the White List. Bundsmen are supposed to trade exclusively with these "Aryan purveyors of Aryan goods."

With purchases from White List stores, bundsmen get stamps entitling them to a $1.25 rebate for each $50 spent.

"That," says James Wheeler-Hill, the national secretary, "is one of our means of checking up on the bundsmen."

Printed Propaganda Then there is printed propaganda. At headquarters in a shabby, three-story Yorkville building, bund officials plan their editorial campaigns. They say the bund has four weekly papers, published in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and Los Angeles.

The New York paper is the 10-page Deutscher Weckruf & Beobachter. In its attacks on Jews it uses such phrases as "a mixed gang of Jews and nondescript hoodlums," and "abusive lies of Jewish agitators."

A 7-Point Program For general policy, the editors point to a pamphlet on the bund's "purposes and aims," handed to me at the suggestion of Fuehrer Kuhn. The pamphlet makes declarations to:

- 1. Uphold the Constitution. 2. Pledge loyalty to the United States. 3. Defend the good name and honor of Germany. 4. Make America aware of German achievements. 5. Refrain from harmful and ignominious propaganda. 6. "Expose and depose communism, Marxism, internationalism and un-American boycott rackets."

7. Remember always that "only Unity is Strength." The "strength of unity" is a theme for the bund camps.

Bund officials say there are 28 such camps in the country, and that soon there will be 10 more.

"They are similar to Boy Scout camps," says Wheeler-Hill. "Youths are taken there during the summer at a cost of $3 or $4 a week. The bund pays expenses when parents are unable to provide."

It is on weekends, however, that the camps serve the bund best as propaganda mediums. For then they become picnic grounds for adults. Excursion trains and cars bring hundreds to watch the drills, play games, drink beer and listen to band music and speeches.

Crowds as large as 15,000 have been reported on weekends at the two camps near New York.

"Like Church Ushers At these meetings as well as at weekly unit meetings in Yorkville, gray-shirted bundsmen appear. They wear black trousers and black and silver overseas caps. Anti-Nazi call them storm troopers. Wheeler-Hill calls them members of the order committees.

How many are there? "I do not know," Kuhn says. "I can not give out that information," says Wheeler-Hill. "They drill on rooftops. They are trained just like ushers in theaters and churches." Doubtless these committeemen will march at the annual convention of the bund in Washington, D. C., on Labor day. That occasion, says Kuhn, will be the first real demonstration of the organization's strength. But it will be no test for Kuhn. His term as fuehrer runs until 1941.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

By Robbin Coons

NEW YORK—The search for a lady who might be called the toast of New York leads to the Ritz Towered retreat of Vera Zorina, sometime and again-to-be of Hollywood.

Miss Zorina (courtesy Sam Goldwyn, as the program note informs) is the classic-featured Norwegian whose performance and dancing grace are such potent attractions in the S.R.O. musical of Rodgers and Hart, "I Married an Angel." In Hollywood she has been seen thus far only in the "Goldwyn Follies," in a role scarcely suggestive of the furor she could create as a romantic comedienne.

Mr. Goldwyn's courtesy recently was extended to permit Zorina's remaining for the run of the play. It was rather a strain on the Goldwyn courtesy to permit her to do the play at all, but Zorina had promised Producer Dwight Wiman long ago when she was in the London cast of "On Your Toes," and to Mr. Goldwyn a promise is a promise—especially when a show looks like a hit. After Sam first pronounced the famous two words ("im-possible") Zorina hopped into a plane, caught Sam in New York, and convinced him it was possible. Sam thought a girl in pictures ought to stay in pictures. If she wanted the stage, she ought to forget pictures.

"But I could not do that," Zorina says. "I want pictures, but I want the stage and dancing too. I could never give up any of them. I want to go on—there is so much I must learn. I must learn to sing. I must develop as an actress. Some day I must play a serious dramatic role. I must keep on with the ballet. I must—"

But right here I must point out a couple of things myself. The first is that Zorina, wearing a slim-waisted blue peasantish frock, her every gesture a poem in grace, is the kind of interview subject who needn't say a thing. You can just sit and look and study—and you get what I mean. The second is that Zorina, at 21, has attained stardom on the stage, screen, ballet. And not by accident. She was dancing when she was three. She was always dancing always wanted to dance. Little Brigita Hartwig of Christiansund, Norway, grew up in Berlin, studying dancing and arts. She became Vera Zorina when she joined the Ballet Russe, wherein a Russian name is always demanded. But Rodgers and Hart borrowed Brigita for her character name in their musical.

A New York Toast As if a nightly show and the usual matinees and a morning devoted to ballet study were not enough, Zorina has serious plans for painting and sculpture. But as a "toast of New York" she is almost naively delighted. "I have two nice letters from people who want to organize Zorina fan clubs. Isn't that sweet—but what must I do, how should I answer them? I try so hard to answer all who write—I write and write so much that I have no time to write my own family. I am so flattered when my autograph is asked, but I cannot understand this craze for autographs. From the President, and from famous statesmen and writers and musicians, yes—but who dance and act, we come and go so quickly what will our names be worth a few years from now?"

Tuning In

with Loren Hickerson

Swing fans who are still swing fans after hearing "Flat Foot Floogie is a Floy Doy," raise their hands!

Of course the number isn't, strictly speaking, a product of swing. But then it doesn't have to be swung to be terrific.

But watch that song, because it might surprise even those who don't like it.

You've got to hand it to the "For Men Only" program. They get the attractions. Lew Lehr, who used to broadcast that garbled English of his over the Ben Bernie program and who is now known by practically every man, woman and child in America for his famous newscast appearances, will be one of the highlights on the next Wednesday broadcast.

Incidentally, there's a good article about Lew Lehr in the last Liberty.

Casual Observation Probably some of the most beautiful popular music that we've ever known came from stage successes in the old days. When we go to see such movies as "Maytime," "The Firefly," or "Rose Marie," the delightful songs that we hear are almost as popular as they were when they were new.

Now it's a different story. The songs we hear today are motion picture and popular tunes. The latter meaning those numbers which come from neither stage nor screen, but are given to the public by the writers through dance bands on the air, hotels, and records.

Take these numbers that were played most on the air during one recent week, according to statistics.

Five of them came from the movies: "Says My Heart," "You Leave Me Breathless," "You Couldn't Be Cuter," "Lovelight in the Starlight" and "Love Walked In."

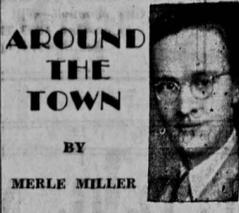

Popular songs included "Cry, Baby, Cry," "Little Lady Make Believe," "Let Me Whisper," "Don't Be That Way," and "I Hadn't Anyone Till You."

The list includes 75 songs altogether and of that number, only two buried toward the bottom were identified as from stage presentations.

They were "Sunday in the Park" from "Pins and Needles" and "Gypsy in My Soul" from "Fifty Fifty." Both shows, peculiarly enough, are amateur productions.

It's really a new era! Herbert Hoover says there remain but two avenues of privacy for men—at their prayers or while fishing. Well, a fellow could, if pressed, contract small-pox.

AROUND THE TOWN

WORDS—FROM A WORD MACHINE... Up at dawn's crack this morning for a run to Clinton and a ride with Chief Jim Farley, whose hand I'll shake, who'll never forget me. (He never forgets anybody.) I've seen a half-dozen crossed fingers hoping the d.a.'s will re-do "Calvario," an over-night rave. And a newspaper man's biggest thrill is when, in confidantials, they needn't say, "and this is off the record, of course."

Why not delicious open-stacks in the libraries, for browsers like us? Quiet humorist—Dean Wiley Rutledge. Rude? They warned me in high school that it wasn't the thing to arrive at lectures late, still worse to leave before they're finished. More Iowa Citizens should have gone to my high school.

They're dusting off the old "Jeffersonian" democratic banner for "Cactus" Jack in 1940—the one the republicans so successfully won Literary Digest elections with. I think Nels Kraschel's stand on the Newton traces is the smartest trick he's done. Iowa's marriages are upping—because Illinois requires a pre-nuptial health exam.

I like four-minute eggs. Cork-tipped cigarettes. Long hair cuts. Rain trickling down my face. Iowa Union's chocolate malteds. Out-dated popular songs.

Who doesn't like back-slapping? EAVESDROPPING: "And I just said, 'There is no such thing as a normal child.'" A Dick Malbaun pal tells me he'll be with RKO starting next month. Catherine Nacke, according to the knowers, is signed up by Paramount.

It was also of a city editor that Irving Cobb remarked, on learning his illness, "Nothing trivial, I hope." I'm suspicious of those who never lose their tempers. NEWSWEEK is taking Time's place in many-a-home. Less anti-administration propaganda, more news.

LOUSY—A two-syllable word for tenors who sing "Trees." Mark Sullivan, David Lawrence, Frank Kent and General Hugh Johnson. Rudyard Kipling's "It."

SUGGESTION—A branch of the D.A.R. in Japan. (They also love their ancestors.) Haim Solomon, a non-Aryan, saved the American Revolution by raising money for the Continental Congress. University janitors are not retired when they're too old. And they do not, usually, retire on their annuities.

What's remarkable about quinquettes? Our cat once had a dozen kittens. The New Yorker is the smartest magazine published. Too many columnists are filling columns when they should be filling wastebaskets. REPARTÉE—Better never than late.

The reason there's been so much campus talk about "liberty" is because that's what most college graduates are at.

Herbert Hoover—who can hardly keep the quiet admiration out of his voice when he mentions Herr Hitler... Charles E. Coughlin—who is a VERY good friend of an automobile manufacturer whose initials are H. F. I know at least two graduates who've nearly completed theses, to discover someone else expostulated similarly, to start again at the bottom. It's one of the wisdoms of modern education—so-called.

There are no novels by Erskine Caldwell in the University library. Only one by Upton Sinclair. Does anyone know why???

"How to Win Friends and Influence People," of which there are innumerable copies, has evidently been chosen as more representative of our day and age.

WAGER—Bill Hart will be the democratic nominee for congressman from this district.

Adolf Hitler, according to defuehrer's pals, is a man of very unique ideas. You bet he is!—especially that one making it a criminal offense to pick out the wrong kind of grandparents!

We now are rapidly approaching the season when many out-of-office politicians discover the awful truth that the letters "ex" are really just an abbreviation of the word "extinct."

Myers' Homer Brings Cincy 7-6 Triumph

CHICAGO, July 8 (AP) — A flurry of home runs brought to a climax by Billy Myers' tenth inning smash enabled the Cincinnati Reds to defeat Chicago's Cubs, 7-6, and end a six-game losing streak today. A five-run ninth inning Cub rally forced the contest into overtime.

Chicago's Five-Run Rally in Ninth Inning Proves of No Avail

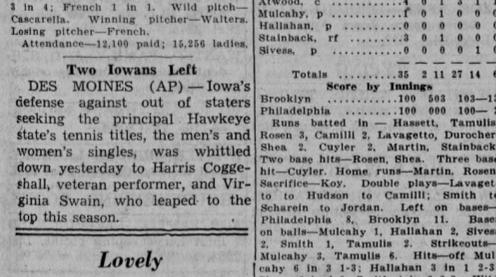

Myers' winning clout off Larry French, the fourth Chicago pitcher, was the sixth of the game. Wally Berger hit two others for the Reds and Ival Goodman one, the 21st of the season. Frank Demaree and Ken O'Dea connected for the Cubs.

Two Towns Left

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa's defense against out of states seeking the principal Hawkeye state's tennis titles, the men's and women's singles, was whittled down yesterday to Harris Coggeshall, veteran performer, and Virginia Swain, who leaped to the top this season.

Lovely to look at is Ginger Rogers in this scene from "Having Wonderful Time." As a city girl, Miss Rogers is whirled into a tempestuous vacation romance by co-star Douglas Fairbanks Jr. Englight Theatre starting today for 4 joyful days!

Whitcombe Is British Titlist

SANDWICH, England, July 8 (AP) — Battered by a gale, half-blinded by flying sand, Reggie Whitcombe won the British open golf championship today and brought the greatest of Great Britain's trophies to the greatest of Great Britain's golfing families.

For 15 years of the record of the three inseparable Whitcombe brothers—Ernest, 48; Charles, 42; and Reggie, 40—has been distinguished. Among them they have won practically every golfing trophy in the empire, but the open always has escaped them.

Today, however, the law of averages finally balanced the Whitcombe books. The first man out, Reggie came from sixth place to first, in the third round this morning, with a 75 that was magnificent under the circumstances, and then followed with a 78 for his winning 72-hole total of 295.

Detroit Splits Doubleheader With Chisox

Pale Hose Lose First, 7-5; Rally in 11th To Win Nightcap, 5-3

DETROIT, July 8 (AP) — The Detroit Tigers and the Chicago White Sox battled through 20 innings of baseball to an even break in a doubleheader today, the Bengals taking the opener, 7-5, in regulation distance and losing the nightcap, 5-3, in 11 innings.

Home runs by Fred Walker, Henry Greenberg and Rudy York aided Detroit in winning the first contest. Greenberg's homer was his 23rd of the year and enabled him to tie Jimmy Foxx, of the Boston Red Sox, for the American league lead.

Red Sox Nose Out New York By 9-8 Score

Dickman Does Well In Relief Role As Yanks Lose Ground

BOSTON, July 8 (AP) — The New York Yankees spotted the Red Sox seven runs in the first three innings today, and then spent the rest of the afternoon in a futile attempt to catch up. The Sox took the game 9-8, ending the Yanks' run of 10 straight without a defeat.

Complete collapse of the Yankees' starting pitcher, Spud Chandler, and the failure of the famed "clutch" hitter, Bill Dickey, to do anything but roll into double plays twice with men on the bases brought about the Yankees' downfall.

HOSTESS HINTS

How often have you wished you could say "Presto Change" and have the meal appear like magic on the dinner table? Such a wish isn't quite as impossible as you think if your refrigerator boasts one of those new hams that are ready to serve just as they come from the market.

The cold dinners that you can create from one of these hams are legion. Try ham, potato salad and horseradish; ham, potato chips and sliced tomatoes; cold sliced ham with pickled peaches and a vegetable salad; cubed ham jellied with celery and olives and sliced to serve with hot rolls and cucumbers in sour cream dressing; piles of ham sandwiches to go with raw carrots, radishes and olives for a porch supper with iced tea and cookies; ham salad to be served in tomato cups with bread and butter sandwiches; a green salad bowl dressed with French dressing and topped with thin slivers of cold ham for a warm noon-day. These are only a few of the "presto" meals that are possible with a ham on hand. And here's some practical advice on slicing ham for table service. When you buy it, ask the dealer to cut it in half. Keep one half wrapped until you have finished the first half. Then you won't be pulling it in and out of the refrigerator so often. It also makes it easier to slice.

Slice the shank half first. Turn the ham on its side, (not on its back) and split it lengthwise along the bone. This forms a big boneless piece that slices into 18 or 20 horseshoe slices. The other side can be boned and then sliced or sliced around the bone. When you get down to the end—save the chunky pieces for salads and sandwiches. The butt half has a more irregular bone, but it is fairly simple to carve around it.

Here are some ham salads that fit this scheme of cold meats beautifully.

Slim Jim Salad

- 1 head lettuce
- 1 bunch watercress
- 1 can white asparagus tips
- 1 bunch radishes
- 2 tablespoons crumbled Roquefort cheese
- Slices of cold ham
- French dressing
- Shred lettuce and mix with cross. Place in bowl and top with asparagus and sliced radishes. Dress with one-half cup French dressing in which the cheese has been crumbled. Cut the sliced ham in long thin slivers and lay over the top. Serve with hot biscuits or rolls and tall glasses of iced coffee for a summer luncheon.

Ham Salad in Tomato Cups

- 6 large tomatoes
- 2 cups diced, cooked ham
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 3 chopped pickles
- 3/4 green pepper
- Mayonnaise
- Remove a slice from the stem end of tomatoes. Mix ham with celery, pickles, green pepper (chopped) and the meaty parts from the tomatoes. Mix with mayonnaise to moisten and heap into tomato shells. Serve on a chop plate on lettuce garnish. Serve six.

Council Will Draft Preliminary City Budget and Tax Levy

Proposed Plan May Be Nearly Identical to One O.K.'d in 1938

City Departments Asking Increases May Be Rejected

At an afternoon session tomorrow—the first of three meetings to be held by the city council on 1939 expenditures—the council will draft the preliminary city budget and tax levy for 1939.

Opinions have been expressed that the requests for increases in the appropriations for several of the city departments, including that of the police department, will not be granted and that the proposed budget will be nearly identical to the one which was approved for 1938.

The 1938 budget allowed for expenditures of $244,498 which necessitated a tax levy of 14.6 mills. An emergency levy of .78 mill was made to provide $9,063 for the city's share of the expense in the airport work done by the WPA.

Police Chief W. H. Bender has recommended to the city council that sufficient additional men be added to the police department to allow the men to work in three eight-hour shifts each day instead of the present 12-hour arrangement.

Should the council include this plan in the proposed budget, it would add $9,000 to the police department appropriation. This would give the police force an additional six patrolmen.

A public hearing will be held by the council July 22 on the proposed budget, and after the hearing the council will pass the budget ordinance. The public hearing on the paving proposal will be held July 18.

The budget which was approved for the 1938 appropriations was consolidated fund, $89,022; grading fund, $3,760; improvement, $750; sewer fund, $6,500; water fund, $16,720; electric light fund, $13,400; fire department and equipment, $25,707; firemen's pension fund, $421; policemen's pension fund, $825;

Cemetery fund, $6,700; sanitary district and garbage disposal, $7,011; bridge maintenance, $7,538; library fund, $15,100; park fund, $7,340; general bond fund, $22,950; Burlington street improvement fund, $1,735; emergency reserve fund, $9,063; and airport fund, $9,957.

Except for minor deviations, this is expected to be followed for the 1939 budget.

AAA Officials Laud Success Of Crop Control

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—A 7,567,000-acre decrease in American farmland planted to cotton prompted AAA officials to declare today that the "effectiveness" of the crop control law had been demonstrated conclusively.

The federal crop reporting board estimated that acres in cultivation on July 1 totaled 26,904,000. This contrasted with 34,471,000 a year ago.

The board said that should abandonment of cotton acreage during the remainder of this season be equal to the 1928-27 average abandonment the acreage for harvest would be the smallest since 1900.

Last year's acreage produced a record crop of 18,945,000 bales and added to the surplus now estimated at 13,000,000 bales. The supply on hand is sufficient to fill normal domestic and export needs for a full year.

Governor Earle To Stand Grand Jury Questioning

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 8 (AP)—Political graft charges hurled during the Pennsylvania primary campaign brought on a grand jury investigation of Gov. George H. Earle's democratic state administration.

Governor Earle and 13 of his associates were named in the charges which have been in and out of the Pennsylvania supreme court for three months.

Judge Paul N. Schaeffer assigned by the state supreme court to conduct the proceedings, said the order for the Dauphin county (Harrisburg) grand jury to proceed would be signed Monday.

The investigation was asked first by Charles J. Margiotti when he was attorney general and also a democratic candidate for governor opposing Earle's choice, Charles Alvin Jones, of Pittsburgh, who won. The governor fired Margiotti, who then took his charges to District Attorney Carl B. Shelley, a republican.

Emerson Address Basis of Service

Ralph Waldo Emerson's divinity school address, delivered at the Harvard Divinity school 100 years ago this month, will be the basis of an informal service at the Unitarian church at 11 a.m. tomorrow.

A special commemorative edition of the address has been published by the American Unitarian association. Anyone who wishes may obtain a copy tomorrow morning, the Rev. Evans A. Worthley said.

Millage Rate In School District Will Be More

Preliminary Survey Of Budget Shows Iowa City Increase

The millage rate of the Iowa City independent school district will be slightly larger during the coming year, according to a preliminary survey of the budget being prepared for Wednesday night's school board meeting.

Public hearing on the budget usually is held at the August meeting of the board.

This year the millage rate was 15.02, and the rate for next year will probably be about 17.5 mills. Last year's budget of $208,340-19 provided for $189,400 to be raised out of taxation. A slight increase is anticipated for the coming year.

A two-mill increase in the levy would increase tax bills about $2 for each $1,000 of assessed valuation.

Fees Collected For 3 Months Total $2,457

In his report for the quarter ending June 30, City Clerk R. N. Miller states that fees collected during the three-month period totaled $2,457.84.

Collections at the clerk's office included $69.36 for transcripts and copies of papers and records; $1,008.77 for district court fees; $1,151.51 for probate fees; $50 for other office fees; $89.50 for report and jury fees due the county, and $88.50 for sheriff's fees.

Bryson Speaks On Discussion As Democracy

"Discussion is democracy!" Prof. Lyman L. Bryson of Teachers college, who spoke yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the speech department, used that supposition as the basis of his lecture.

The speaker dealt with the various important roles which free and open public discussion play in the democratic institution.

A good discussion must be rigorous, earnest and serious, he said, and must permit the opinions of all sides to be expressed.

Sportsmanship is necessary in democracy, the speaker asserted. Professor Bryson urged that factions should fight earnestly in favor of their own opinions, but pointed out that when the opposition triumphs, the loser must accept it manfully.

"In short," the speaker pointed out, "our democratic system of government is built upon the discussion principle, and as long as it is followed in its true style, the result will be sensible, logical and successful."

The proposed amendment would prevent the sale, possession, manufacture, introduction, exchange or transportation of intoxicating liquors.

Gilkey--

surprised," the Rev. Mr. Gilkey said, "to find democracy under such challenge, and so obviously on the defensive, as it is throughout the world today."

Despite the fact that Lord Bryce himself, in the preface to his "Modern Democracies" in 1920, said that democracy would be the coming form of social organization, accepted the world around, 19 nations have gone off the democratic basis in the past 20 years, the speaker revealed.

Five years ago, he asserted, both conservative and radicals believed it was necessary to find something to take the place of democracy.

Nations must not lose sight of their missions, the speaker warned. "There is now," he said, "a doubt of our national mission, which was originally known to be making democracy succeed."

The University of Chicago dean expressed a growing need for a recognition of the importance of public education, because of the faith in the capacity of the common man to become wise and good.

He spoke of the importance of freedom of the press and of assembly, and of civil liberties of individuals and minority groups, if democracy is to succeed, because of the faith in the process of discussion leading to settlement by conference and consent, rather than by the imposition of force.

Lastly, the speaker considered the "long look"—related to its confidence in something in the order and process of history and the universe which is part of what religion means by God.

Democracy is only weakened from within, through a lack of discipline, unwillingness to compromise, complacency and group pressure, the speaker asserted.

Although autocracy is often more efficient for the moment than democracy, in the home and the school and the business world as well as in politics," he said, "democracy believes that in the long run 'good government' is no substitute for self-government, and it puts that faith into practice in all areas of human experience."

Informal Discussion In House Chamber

"Not the Man?"

Prince Frederick ... merely knows Barbara

Interviewed in Wales, whence he had gone from London, Prince Frederick of Prussia, 26, grandson of former Kaiser Wilhelm, denied he was the man whom Count Kurt von Haugwitz-Rentlow allegedly wanted to "shoot like a dog." The prince, employed by a London bank, told the interviewer that he had met Count Kurt and Countess Barbara merely a few times, and that both were very kind to him. According to rumors in London, Countess Barbara, greatly attracted by titles and topmost social personages, had smiled on the prince, but he had responded merely with ordinary courtesies.

one was injured in the disturbance.

Sheriff Earl Shields reported a group of men threw another man affiliated with the back to work movement into an automobile after a scuffle. He said the man suffered no serious injury, however, and the group drove off.

Mayor George Campbell, meanwhile, announced that should Governor Kraschel send troops to Newton he would rescind the proclamation ordering deputization of civilians.

Six to eight men appeared at police headquarters shortly after the mayor and sheriff issued their proclamation, and asked to be enlisted as deputies.

They were turned away with the announcement that they would have to obtain application blanks which were not yet available.

There were about 80 women in the picket lines this afternoon, the first time that women have marched in the demonstration.

Frank E. Wenig, commissioner of conciliation of the U. S. department of labor, who came here from Washington today, met with small groups of union leaders.

Wenig said he planned to interview the entire group of union heads and follow that with interviews of the company representatives to learn their ideas and aims.

He said he would then call them into conference together in an attempt to end the two-month strike.

He declared he believed the 10 per cent wage cut which resulted in the walkout of CIO members was the principal issue in the labor difficulties and that settlement on other points would not be difficult if that was out of the way.

Wenig said that James G. Carey, national president of the C.I.O. unit with which the Maytag local is affiliated, and Wilbert Allison, local union president, went today to Mitchellville to confer with John Connolly Jr., of Des Moines, attorney representing the union.

He said he expected to meet with another union group tonight and that E. W. Ford, company attorney was "standing by" to confer with him when conferences with union men were finished.

Pilot Finds Bison Fine Weathervanes

DENVER (AP)—A new use for the herd of bison which roams the Kaibab Plateau near the Grand Canyon has been discovered by Captain St. Morehouse, an air pilot.

"Bison always head into the wind," declares Morehouse. "They are, in fact, a splendid animated windsock. These animals should not be confused with cattle, who back into the wind. Cows also wave their tails at occasional flies, which is a disconcerting practice for any weathervane, animated or otherwise. Bison do not have this annoying habit."
