Corrigan Gets Applause and Many Offers After Flight

Money-Making Offers Wired Modest Pilot

Dare Devil Flyer Will Return Home Soon, Via Boat

DUBLIN, July 19 (AP)—Douglas G. Corrigan who momentarily revived that era of aviation when devil-may-care young men flew "by the seat of their pants," today received world applause and a vaudeville offer for his trans-Atlantic flight.

The grinning, 31-year-old California mechanic, insisting that the flight in his $900, out-modded "crate" of a plane "wasn't much," busied himself over plans to return to the United States — by boat.

The vaudeville contract, one of many offers to capitalize on the flight, went unsigned.

Meets De Valera
"As soon as I can get steamer passage fixed up I am going home," he said. "I am trying to get a boat where my plane won't have to be dismantled."

Prime Minister Eamon De Valera congratulated Corrigan on the 3,150-mile flight from New York — a journey which the amateur airman insisted (with a twinkle in his eye) resulted from erroneous setting of his compass.

De Valera patted the visitor on the back and heard details of the little "mistake" in direction which landed Corrigan yesterday at Dublin's Baldonnel airfield instead of Long Beach, Cal.

'Big Ones' Get Away, President Gets More Tan

ABOARD U. S. S. HOUSTON, EN ROUTE TO PANAMA, July 19 (AP) — President Roosevelt went after the big fish off Cape San Lucas today, but all he and his party caught were some little fellows and deeper coats of tan.

This was the first day since the fishing excursion started last Monday in Magdalena bay that the big fish have refused to nibble at the presidential bait.

However, Mr. Roosevelt found the smaller catch highly gratifying. It included a striped pargo, a fish found only along this stretch of the Pacific, off the tip of Lower California.

Berlin's Stock Market Climbs

Germany's Finances Poured Into More Frontier Fortresses

BERLIN, July 19 (AP)—Berlin's stock market began to recover only today from a drop which started July 1 and which continued despite good crop prospects and increased activity through military preparedness.

Economists assured the public that stock fluctuations constituted no barometer of the nation's economic status, but were caused by two passing phenomena: liquidation sales by Jewish security holders and by industrial corporations seeking working capital.

Reichsbank shares continued to decline today, but the boerse (stock market) generally closed firm, with mining and industrial shares higher than yesterday.

King, LeBrun Consecrate Military Pact

British King, Queen Visit France, Discuss Defensive Alliance

PARIS, July 19 (AP)—The king of England and the president of France tonight solemnly consecrated the defensive military alliance between the two great empires democracies at a state banquet.

Replying to a welcome by President Albert Le Brun, King George VI declared "It would now be impossible to recall a period in which our relations were more intimate."

Attired in the uniform of a field marshal, symbolic itself of the close military ties between Britain and France, the monarch declared that the two nations had seen their destinies "inevitably drawn together with the passage of centuries."

The king spoke in French. "Same Attachment" "Long and close collaboration has succeeded in proving that we are inspired by the same ideal," he said.

"Our peoples have the same attachment to democratic principles which are best suited to their natural genius, and we have the same belief in benefits of individual liberty."

"We are proud of this political faith which we share with other great nations. . . . In the period in which we live it demands from us all, to a high degree, qualities of courage, wisdom and determination."

England's Queer Composite Plane Will Fly Atlantic

FOYNES, Ireland, July 19 (AP)—Britain's pick-a-back seaplane Mercury was poised here tonight for its first trans-Atlantic flight, a hop to Botwood, Newfoundland tomorrow.

The Mercury is the smaller, faster unit of a unique composite "two in one" aircraft. It takes off from the back of the Maia.

The two machines flew here separately today from Southampton. At the take-off, set for 7 p.m. tomorrow (1 p.m. CST), the two planes will leave the River Shannon locked together, geared by secret devices to operate as one craft.

Japan Begins Push up River

Campaign to Capture Provisional Capital Gets Under Way

SHANGHAI, July 20 (Wednesday) (AP)—Japan's long-awaited "big push" up the Yangtze river against Hankow apparently was under way today.

Terrific aerial bombardment yesterday of Hankow and nearby cities, intensified naval operations, and air raids on Chinese strongholds defending approaches to the provisional capital indicated the campaign had started a new phase.

Dispatches from Hankow quoted Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek as saying the tri-cities of Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang were prepared to withstand whatever onslaughts Japanese unleashed upon them.

Atlantic Flight Off After Flier Smashes Plane

Rumanian Acrobatic Aviator, Alex Papanu, Strikes Stone Wall

NORWALK, Conn., July 19 (AP)—Capt. Alex Papanu, famous Rumanian acrobatic flier, smashed his new airplane and his present chances for a trans-Atlantic flight today, but walked away from the wreckage.

The crash came as his landing wheels struck a stone wall separating two fields at the local airport here. The landing gear was torn off, both propellers smashed, and the twin engines wrecked. The plane, however, did not turn over.

Papanu had circled the airport several times, as he came in to a landing after flying the few miles from New Haven, Conn., where he had previously landed when thick weather prevented him from flying to Hartford, Conn., to get his engines checked.

He was on his way back to Floyd Bennett field, New York, which he left this morning and from which he had intended to start a non-stop flight to Rumania Friday.

Jack Tweed, manager of the New Haven airport, said Captain Papanu took off from the New Haven field at 12:40 p.m. (CST) still with the intention of resuming his flight to Hartford.

Apparently, however, when again in the air he found conditions unfavorable over the Connecticut valley and turned back toward Long Island.

Doctors at National Health Conference Will Discuss Gov't. Role in Medicine

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—A flag of truce figuratively flew over the national health conference today when opposing groups of doctors within the American Medical association agreed to discuss amicably such hot issues as the government's role in medicine.

A serious breach appeared in prospect yesterday when the conference of medical men and other leaders convened to discuss a Roosevelt administration proposal that $850,000,000 of public money be spent yearly in a vast, new health program.

Dr. Irvin Abell, president of the A.M.A., had criticized any centrally-controlled medical program for the whole nation, and urged that medical needs be studied.

Dr. Hugh Cabot of Rochester, Minn., leader of a "new deal" committee of physicians openly opposing some policies of the A.M.A., charged that the medical profession is not meeting the problem of providing adequate medical care, and Dr. Olin West, secretary of the medical association, replied that Dr. Cabot was merely ridiculing the profession.

At today's opening session, however, conciliatory statements came from both groups. Dr. Abell told the conference that "we come not imbued with a controversial spirit" and that "in any efforts which you make for betterment in the health care of the people, you have our whole-hearted co-operation."

Dr. Abell, president of the A.M.A., had criticized any centrally-controlled medical program for the whole nation, and urged that medical needs be studied.

O'Connell Leads in Montana Primary in Early Returns

HELENA, Mont., July 19 (AP)—Congressman Jerry J. O'Connell of Butte took a 3 to 2 lead over his closest rival, Payne Templeton, Helena educator, for the democratic nomination for congress in the first Montana district on the basis of scattered returns early tonight.

Three other candidates were trailing far behind.

Eight precincts of the 413 in the district gave: O'Connell 664; Templeton 390; Maggie Smith Hathaway, Ravalli county, 67; T. Collins, Helena lawyer, 110; Eugene Burris, Anaconda 30.

O'Connell, who demanded an investigation of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City after he had been escorted from the city while attempting to speak without a permit, based his plea for re-nomination on his staunch advocacy of the new deal and the policies of President Roosevelt.

His opponents all expressed themselves as supporters of the new deal.

A light vote was expected for the off-year election, despite a last minute skirmish between O'Connell and Sen. Burton K. Wheeler over the national administration's attitude toward Wheeler, democratic foe of several new deal measures.

National Guard Sets Up Martial Law in Town

Governor's Action Follows Conference With Newton Men

DES MOINES, Ia., July 19 (AP)—Hundreds of mothers, wives, girl friends and curious people gathered on the lawn outside the national guard armory here tonight watching the first battalion assemble and get ready to leave for Newton.

Mobilization took a little longer than expected. The original starting time was set at midnight, but when that time arrived it had been advanced to between 1 and 2 a.m.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 19 (AP)—Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel tonight ordered out a battalion of Iowa national guardsmen and established martial law in Newton.

Adjutant General Charles H. Grahl immediately began mobilization of 250 Des Moines guardsmen. They will arrive in Newton by tomorrow morning, the adjutant general said.

The governor's action in sending troops to the scene of the Maytag Washing Co.'s labor disturbances followed a conference with Mayor George Campbell, Sheriff Earl Shields and Judge Homer A. Fuller.

The plant, reopened yesterday for the first time since May 9 when CIO union workers went out on strike because of a 10 per cent wage reduction, will be closed when the militia takes charge in Newton.

Japan Sends Second Protest To Russia Over Border Incident

Tension Mounts In Tokyo Over Declared Invasion July 11

TOKYO, July 19 (AP)—Japan sent a second protest to Soviet Russia today in mounting tension over a Manchoukuo border incident.

Spanish Rebels Advance Through Gov't. Defenses

HENDAYE, France (At the Spanish Frontier), July 19 (AP)—The mechanically superior Spanish insurgents rolled down the Teruel highway toward the sea today and battered hastily constructed government barricades, 34 miles northwest of Valencia.

Mexico Will Pay

MEXICO CITY (AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas told foreign newspaper correspondents last night that Mexico was pledged to pay within 10 years—in oil—for foreign oil properties expropriated March 18.

Mrs. F.D.R. Jr., Former Ethel Du Pont, Becomes Mother of Seven Pound Boy

PHILADELPHIA, July 19 (AP)—A seven-pound boy, described by his father as "beautiful," was born at the Pennsylvania hospital today to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., wife of the president's third son.

The blushing father personally announced to reporters that both mother and child were "fine." He said he and his wife, the former Ethel du Pont, had not decided on a name for their first-born, the president's eighth grandchild.

Engineer Found Dead

DEATH VALLEY, Cal. (AP)—Dead from thirst, the body of Herman E. Van Thijn, 38, Los Angeles mining engineer, was found yesterday on the hot sands of the Mojave desert.

Find Munitions In Ohio Prison

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 19 (AP)—A cache containing seven bombs and an improvised pistol was discovered in an Ohio penitentiary cell block today after a guard was stabbed in a thwarted break.

Raymond T. Thornton, stabbed in the abdomen with a large, hand-made knife as bullets and clubs balked the flight of two convicts at the prison's main entrance, had a "50-50" chance to recover. Physicians said it might be 48 hours before a crisis occurred.

Police, Pickets Stage Battle In Illinois Strike

NORTH CHICAGO, Ill., July 19 (AP)—A government conciliator strove to restore peace at the Chicago Hardware foundry today in the wake of a mass scale battle between a host of pickets and a driving force of officers.

Fifty policemen and deputies, swinging clubs and firing tear gas, routed at least 300 demonstrators in a relentless attack.

Omaha Officials Ask State's Attorney to Fight Bookmakers

OMAHA, Neb., July 19 (AP)—City Solicitor Harold C. Linahan and Assistant Police Chief Robert Munch asked Attorney General Richard C. Hunter in a letter tonight to start contempt of court proceedings against alleged Omaha horse race bookmakers, arrested in raids yesterday and today.

Omaha authorities said the appeal to Hunter was made "because the city of Omaha feels that you should continue to a final conclusion the (injunction) action which you commenced in district court." Hunter obtained an injunction against bookmaking operations here last spring.

This Business Of Italian "Aryan"

EDITORIALY we've kept pretty quiet about the recent report by a group of Italian newspapers concerning an Aryan racial theory for Italy. Like most newspaper observers we haven't been sure of its meaning.

We aren't yet. But the report in itself has, it seems to us, some enlightening sidelights on fascism as a system.

It makes clearer the face of scholarship in a fascist country. Italy for years has boasted she has no race problem; she has laughed at Germany's seriousness concerning hers. That one suddenly appears, through the work of a group of college professors, is the result of the same kind of fabrication that makes of allegedly "non-Aryan" Goering of Germany an "unblemished Aryan," according to Nazi anthropologists.

Truth, you see, is impossible under fascism. Then, as we hinted, the report marks a complete about-face of Italian thought. Ruth O'Hare McCormick in the New York Times remarks, "On more than one occasion Mussolini has remarked to me that to a Latin the idea of a pure race is childish."

Granting these premises, it seems a little clearer that the bogus report was issued for purely artificial reasons, as perhaps a last resort by a slipping dictator.

And, if you're alert, a number of points bear up this idea. The Spanish civil war, goes into its third year, and Italian troops are weary of dying for a cause that has so little meaning to their personal lives.

Ethiopia is not behaving as she should. She refuses to stay conquered, and Italian troops stationed there have to be constantly replaced by new recruits, the old having been killed in small tribal revolts.

Always there's economics. Despite Il Duce's bare-chested announcement that this year's "wheat crop will be only a little less than normal" and that bread "can be made synthetically," some Italians are hungry. Hungry people are troublesome.

And always there's psychology. Hitler has proven it's good to give the lowliest someone lower to hate. Il Duce's trying anything new.

In all, Italy seems to be a mighty interesting country these days. She bears watching.

In Which History Is Forced To Repeat Itself

ONCE upon a time a certain Italian named Christopher Columbus dreamed of a passage to India which would shorten the long journey and relieve it of many of its dangers. And it is told that this Columbus visited the leading mariners of the day to learn their opinions of his plan for sailing west to reach the east. And it is written that each scholar and mariner in turn scoffed at the idea of such a passage, and laughed at the "crazy mariner" until he was forced to leave his native land and seek a backer of his dream. Finally, it is written, Columbus made such a pest of himself that he was given three little worn out ships by Queen Isabella and King Ferdinand to carry out his plans and fulfill his dream. And so it came to pass that after weeks of suffering and privations that Columbus and his party reached land. True, it was not the India of his dream but it was a land which was destined to become far richer and far greater than his India. And it came to pass that many years after he had completed his unprecedented feat, Columbus was honored by all the world for his fearless journey into the great unknown, in leaky ships and without modern navigation aids to help him.

And in the year 1938 a certain Irishman named Douglas Corrigan applied for permission to fly the Atlantic Ocean in his nine-year-old monoplane. And it came to pass that aviation officials deemed such a flight in this old plane "crazy" and it is written that Corrigan, too, became known as a "crazy mariner." And it is told now that this Corrigan, not daunted by this refusal of his petition, made plans to go forward and carry out his dream secretly. For his flight he purchased 320 gallons of gasoline for his ship and a half a gallon of water and two five-cent boxes of chocolate cookies for himself. And it is now told in the daily chronicles how this "crazy flier" took off on this unheard-of flight and 28 hours later landed in Dublin, Ireland. All this and more has been written by the scribes as they marveled over the feats of this modest young man. And some day it may come to pass that this "crazy flier" may take his place among the great adventurers of all time because he was a man who knew no fear and was called crazy because he had faith in his ship and himself.

European diplomats, according to an overseas dispatch, are confused over present conditions. And who wouldn't be—after trying to talk sense to a gang of dictators.

Scientists say butterflies' legs are 1,600 times more sensitive than human underpinning. We'll have to take their word for it, since no one has ever seen a butterfly use his.

The month of July was named after Julius Caesar. It's easy to understand why. Historians say Julius was pretty hot, too.

WORRIED

Rumors are stirring again that Liechtenstein will be the next territory to be swallowed by Germany. Ever since the nazification of Austria they have been in the air, though Berlin denies them.

This tiny German-speaking country has less than 12,000 inhabitants and no army at all. Only the Rhine separates it from Switzerland, while a lofty spur of the Alps cuts it off from the Austrian Tyrol. It makes use of Swiss money, tariff system, and diplomatic service.

In March, it 85-year-old ruling prince was living quietly in Vienna with his wife, the daughter of a Jewish banker there. After Austria's downfall, he found it wise to hand over his authority to his grand nephew, Franz Joseph.

Liechtenstein has no Nazi party, but shortly after this event the dominant middle class party took the minority workers' party into a united front government. Premier Hoop made a special trip to Berlin seeking reassurances, and he is believed to have sounded out Swiss authorities on the chances of Liechtenstein being admitted to the Swiss federal union if things get too hot.

Liechtenstein is more than a picturesque medieval survival. It is called the "Delaware of Europe," for its 1 per cent maximum income tax has attracted some 1,000 business holding companies, many of them American-controlled.

This might provide the excuse for invasion—to save the country from international finance. Even Hitler could hardly raise the cry of communism against a country where the workers' party gets only 1,200 votes, and calls itself the Fatherland union.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

(Pete Smith, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer short subject commentator, pinch-hits today for Robbin Coons, our Hollywood columnist, who is on vacation.)

By PETE SMITH

HOLLYWOOD — Being a commentator has its compensations. At least, I know I've learned a lot of things. But everybody in Hollywood talks so much, about themselves, that I've never had an opportunity to tell them.

So here goes Peter Gridley Smith, professor of strange facts, giving out with bits of wisdom gleaned during his years in the faculty at old Short Subject College.

I had an operation last month that puts me in the same class as the famous Jonker's Diamond. When they were carving me, I had a doctor and trained nurse in attendance. The Jonker rated the same service when it was cut into smaller pieces.

Robert Montgomery is Hollywood's skeet shooter, but after making "Follow the Arrow," I learned from Howard Hill that I could beat Montgomery to the draw if I used a bow and arrow while he had a regulation skeet gun. The gag being that we place our respective weapons on a table and make a five-yard run for them.

I'd rather, if it had to be, receive a wound from a bullet than an arrow, for the latter penetrates the flesh almost twice as deeply. Speaking of cuts—and operations, I insisted upon taking gas, but I wouldn't have done so in the days of the ancient Egyptians. They simplified the matter by hitting the victim over the head with a mallet. The bigger the head, the bigger the mallet. And I wear a big hat! This must be a fact because I used it in the "Anaesthesia" short!

Only one girl in 500 has a perfect figure. I personally interviewed that many beauties until I discovered Dorothy Belle Dugan as the perfect-figured girl for the lead in "Modeling For Money." Really, I wouldn't have minded if one girl in a million had a perfect figure. Think of all those interviews!

In ancient days the barber was also the surgeon. He always had a red pole in front of his shop. After washing his bandages he would wind them around the red pole to dry. This is how the present barber pole originated, as shown in "Anaesthesia."

Ladies! If your husband wants chicken every night and the family budget won't allow such a wish, just pour boiling water over some tuna fish. You can thank Prudence Penny for that one, which I learned while making "Penny's Party."

Don't let any of your friendly enemies convince you that a boxing match is safe because 16 ounce gloves are being used. Max Baer, who is starred in "Fisticuffs," claims that the blow is much heavier than with a six or eight ounce mitt. Boxers wear them during training to protect their hands—and not the other fellow's feelings.

I've learned to have much more respect for the lowly peanut. To the average person, it's just something to eat in a cocktail bar, so the next drink will taste better. But Dr. Carver, whose work served as the basis for a short, made 145 products from a single peanut!

America's per capita income is twice that of the world's next richest country, Switzerland. Our national debt, per capita, is about half our national yearly income, per capita, $700 and more.

Thomas Mann — critics call him the greatest living thinker—believes, "The Coming Victory of Democracy," that the way to check fascism is to make democracy work. It is also the way to check Bolshevism, he believes.

He's a believer, too, in freedom. But says there must be a reform of the old idea... "Laissez-faire" is dead... "The idea of freedom must be refreshed from an economic point of view," he writes.

The days of "passive liberalism" are gone forever, he writes. He writes, "I call Franklin D. Roosevelt conservative statesman because of the social bent which he gives to democracy. He is a true friend and genuine servant of liberty even when he limits and regulates it socially, for it is by such means that he takes the wind out of the sails of fascism and bolshevism alike... The social renewal of democracy is the presupposition and the guarantee of its victory."

The last war cost 200 billion dollars... That'd have purchased a $3,000 house and piece of ground for every family in the United States, England, Belgium, France, Austria, Hungary, Germany and Italy...

Collective bargaining, unemployment insurance, old-age pensions, minimum wages, maximum hours have been a British custom for 30 years... About two out of 40 millions draw unemployment benefits... About 3,000,000 have been governmentally housed...

The Conservatives in Britain advertise for re-election thus: "Sweeping Away Slums — Slum Dwellers Are Being Rehoused at the Rate of 6,000 a Week..." "Milk at School for 3,000,000 Children..." "Continuous Advances in Both Wages and Employment..."

And Nero wrote editorials while Rome burned... "The purpose of any economic system is to supply the necessities and as many of the comforts as possible to all the people who live under it..." "Rich Man, Poor Man..." "People's League for Economic Security..."

Ours hasn't — YET... (I'll quote sources if you're unbelieving.)

A worker cannot support his family on less than $1,820 a year — by 1929 standards... By the same standards 19,400,000 Americans made less than $1,000 annually...

Eighty-one out of 100 of us make less than $2,000 yearly... Six per cent of the American corporations do 90 per cent of the business...

Tuning In

with Loren Hickerson

WHEREIN WE LOOK AT one of the toughest jobs facing "Big Town" writers and cast each week — giving realism to all the hard characters without resorting to the kind of language uncouth people would ordinarily use, and can't on the radio.

Even ordinary slang words and expressions found every day in the newspapers are frowned upon by the networks. Words like "rat" and "lousy" are considered just a shade indelicate when referring to persons.

So the writers are faced with the problem of making their characters act tough without talking that way. The producer has the problem of choosing a cast that is able to bring thugs and crooks to life by voice and inflection.

The fact that "Big Town" does leave the listener with the impression that he has heard a meaty, helike, fast-moving drama can be laid to the expert staff of scribblers, to the capable directional efforts of Producer Clark Andrews and to the careful and unceasing coaching Edward G. Robinson gives each supporting player during the rehearsals.

Through judicious mixing of sound effects and conversation, the writers keep the story moving at breathless speed. Crooks are given lines that stamp them as villain without the use of a single expletive.

Robinson time after time has used his keen knowledge of psychology to "point up" these lines.

"Make that just a little sweeter," he tells a player. "You think the trap is laid. You're sure we don't suspect a thing. Get all that in your voice... Now, you sense that something has gone wrong. Your voice gets gruffer, but not quickly. The listener must feel it, but don't throw it at him."

Thus he coaches, bringing out each fine nuance of meaning in the words. As more than one member of the cast has said afterward, "Working with Eddie Robinson is as good as a course in dramatics!"

Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes took his most thorough ribbing, on the return from his honeymoon, from the 20 reporters who regularly attend his press conferences. They had taken a sever lacing from their offices when Ickes sneaked off so secretly and successfully to Dublin. So they were laying for the gentleman.

Just an hour before his first conference, after his return, a final okay had been put on a new PWA project of huge proportions. The reporters boned up on the details, knowing that Ickes wouldn't have had time to study it. Then they trooped into his office.

Half a dozen politely queried him about the plan. To each he answered, unsuspectingly, "I don't know yet," or "Sorry, I haven't seen it yet."

Then the news men simply ignored Ickes and interviewed each other, busily taking notes. Ickes looked around perplexed, then grinned. He waited, and finally threw up his hands, and shouted, "All right, men. We're even."

Recently a young American diplomat stationed in Europe had an appointment to visit a European naval air station. He put on his topper and tails and, quite innocently, arrived at the station a day early to see what he could see. The gate man admitted him and sent off for the commanding officer, but the American sauntered off blandly for the water's edge, his eyes photographing all strange details, including some queer, stump-like along the runways where the planes took off. Just then the flustered station commander caught up with him, and ushered him back to the center of the post.

When they returned to the runways, the stump-like businesses were gone. "Oh, secrets," thought the diplomat to himself. So he quietly stepped off the holes where the stumps had been. Back at his office he wrote a description to our war experts. And that's how we found out that some nations are laying mines from airplanes. Those stumps were fastenings to facilitate swift threading of mines onto airplane fuselages as the planes slid down the runways for a takeoff. The idea would be a great time-saver if we ever went to war.

Heart symptoms—Animals on a Vitamin B deficient diet develop a slow heart according to the work of Carter and Drury. The signs of heart failure which accompany neuritis were mentioned above.

Digestive system—Sherman has noted that lack of Vitamin B immediately affects the appetite, and when the vitamin is added the appetite returns with a rush. Cowgill and Gilman found lack of stomach secretions in animals deprived of the vitamin and Sure and Harrison found the pancreas secretion in man diminished. McCarrison reports correction of atony of the colon by means of feeding Vitamin B concentrate.

Siddall has used Vitamin B1 in the toxemia of the expectant mother and believes that it operates by stimulating the pituitary gland. In fact, his experiments indicate that the vitamin is essential for the normal function of the pituitary gland.

On the skin and hair, Lepkovsky has found that in animals Vitamin B will cure a dietary deficiency. It was also found that using crystalline Vitamin B would prevent the natural graying of the hair in rats. It also has the action of restoring normal pigmentation to gray hair. Requiring eight weeks for the change in rats, the process would require five years in man, according to estimate.

Health Hints By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D. Yesterday we referred to Vitamin B as the adult vitamin—the vitamin which advanced medical thought is pointing to as being particularly likely to be deficient in the adult diet. Particular researches which suggest this conclusion are as follows: Nervous system—changes in the peripheral nerves leading to multiple neuritis may be produced according to Wolbach "by means of a diet adequate in all respects except Vitamin B," and this is accompanied by enlargement of the heart, dropsy and atrophy of muscles. These nervous degenerations are the same whether they are actually called human beri-beri, such as is observed in oriental countries from eating milled rice, or in human alcoholic neuritis, or in human neuritis due to digestive disturbances which prevent the full utilization of Vitamin B in the diet. These symptoms are completely cleared up by adding the vitamin to the diet. Heart symptoms—Animals on a Vitamin B deficient diet develop a slow heart according to the work of Carter and Drury. The signs of heart failure which accompany neuritis were mentioned above. Digestive system—Sherman has noted that lack of Vitamin B immediately affects the appetite, and when the vitamin is added the appetite returns with a rush. Yankees' Lead Cut To Half-Game By Oscar Vitt's Men

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—With a curve that snapped and stung like a bull-whip, Mel Harder, the Cleveland Indians' veteran right-hander, beat the Yankees, 5 to 3, with six hits today and cut the champions lead over the Tribe to half a game.

The defeat broke a seven-game winning streak for the Bronx bombers and was their first in the stadium since June 8. They had won 16 straight on their home grounds.

Harder was in command all the way in the opening game of this momentous four-game series. He wavered only twice. In the second, George Selkirk dropped a homer into the right field stands and in the ninth, with Tom Henrich on second, Bill Dickey poled his 18th of the season into the same area.

The Indians started to work on Bump Hadley in the second, when Earl Averill pumped a homer into the right field stands, but they sealed the rotund righthander and won the game in the fourth.

Jeff Heath opened this frame with a hit through short. After Hadley walked Averill, Hal Trosky singled to right and Ken Keltner hit to left. Two runs came in and the Tribe got a third when Rolfe shot Harder's grounder to first and Gehrig's throw to the plate was too late to catch Trosky.

The Indians got their final run in the fifth when Campbell walked and came home on a sacrifice, Heath's single and a fielder's choice.

Meanwhile the Yankees were mesmerized by Harder. They didn't get two hits in an inning until the ninth, which Henrich opened with a double off the right field wall, and seven struck out. Harder's curve was too good. The Yankees hit in the dirt and in the air. When they did catch hold of one, Lynn Lary or Bruce Campbell would come up with a sensational play. It was a discouraging game for the 7,528 fans in the stands.

Detroit Beaten By Senators In 10-Inning Game

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—Rick Ferrell's double in the tenth inning with two mates on base broke a tie today and gave Washington a 4 to 3 decision over Detroit.

Detroit had evened the score in the ninth when White scored on a single by Pete Fox.

The Senators nicked Vernon Kennedy for 14 hits. The Tigers collected six off Rookie Ken Chase and three off Hogsett who relieved Chase in the ninth.

The defeat dropped Detroit into sixth place and moved the idle Chicago White Sox into fifth.

Accepts Bid Bob Lannon to Play In Eastern Game

According to word received yesterday from Shrine headquarters in Providence, R. I., Bob Lannon, Iowa's all-conference end last year, will play an end position on the Shrine College All-Star football team against the Chicago Bears at Providence, Sept. 1. This automatically eliminates him from being able to play with the College All-Stars against the Washington Redskins in Chicago Aug. 31, should he be selected.

Officials of the Providence game, which is sponsored by the Palestine Temple of Providence, said that Lannon had definitely accepted the official invitation. Picked on the all-Big Ten team last year by the Associated Press, Lannon will go from Providence to Syracuse university where he will serve as an end coach under Ossie Solem, former Hawkeye mentor.

Glenn Frank to Give University Lecture Here Friday Night

Lecture Series Will End With Talk by Frank

Former Wisconsin University Head To Lead Round Table

Glenn Frank, who stepped from the editorship of a national magazine to the presidency of the University of Wisconsin and then into a leader's post in the republican party, will close the University of Iowa's summer lecture series here this week end.

He will speak Friday evening on the west front to Old Capitol and will preside at the round table session Saturday morning. Frank is the sixth leader of contemporary thought to visit the university this summer.

After a period as president of Wisconsin marked by considerable turbulence, Frank relinquished the job at Madison. He is now chairman of the republican party committee to draft a platform for the 1940 campaign, a position which he accepted Jan. 6.

Frank has appeared upon numerous occasions as a speaker at the University of Iowa. He first spoke here in February, 1923, when he was editor-in-chief of the Century magazine.

He spoke here in 1924 and 1925 in conjunction with the Commonwealth conference, and appeared in June, 1935, when he was president of the University of Wisconsin.

Considered one of the finest of American speakers, Frank received his B.A., M.A. and LL.D. degrees from Northwestern university. He was assistant to the president of that institution from 1912 to 1916. As an associate of Edward A.

File of Boston, he was busy with research and organization during the next three years. He has been outstanding as a lecturer in the United States and Canada since 1912.

Helen Shay, J. Klein Wed

Wedding Breakfast Served Later For 36 Guests at Union

In a ceremony at St. Patrick's church yesterday morning, Helen Shay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Shay, 123 Madison street, became the bride of John P. Klein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Klein of Keota. The Rev. Patrick J. O'Reilly officiated in the single ring service.

Mrs. William Condon, organist, played the wedding march from Lohengrin as the processional. During the nuptial mass, William Holland sang "Ave Maria" and "O Lord, I Am Not Worthy."

The maid of honor was Mary Wallace. Her brother, R. J. Wallace of Clinton, served the bride-groom as best man.

The bride wore a gown of white lace over white satin fashioned Queen Anne style and with a short train. Her veil was fingertip length and was held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Killarney roses and blue delphinium.

Miss Wallace's gown was of blue lace and net over pink satin, and with it she wore pink shoes and a cartwheel hat. Her flowers were Johanna Hill roses and sweet peas.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served to 36 guests at Iowa Union. Bowls of garden flowers decorated each end of the bride's table, which was centered with a four-tiered bride's cake. Charles Hummer gave several vocal solos preceding the breakfast. He was accompanied at the piano by Mary Ethel Schenck.

The bride's traveling costume was of brown net with a beige jacket. Her hat and shoes were beige.

Mrs. Klein is a graduate of St. Patrick's high school and attended Iowa State Teachers college. She has been employed in the offices of University hospital. Mr. Klein was graduated from Keota high school and attended Drake university.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Keota, where Mr. Klein is associated with the New York Life Insurance company.

Summer Convocation May Be Largest in University History

433 Students Apply To Get Degrees At August 5 Ceremony

Only about two months after the record-breaking June commencement, the University of Iowa may stage its largest summer convocation in history, it appeared yesterday.

For applications for 433 degrees have been filed by men and women who hope to receive their academic awards at the ceremony of Aug. 5, Charles H. Maruth, assistant registrar, announced.

Last year 410 applications were filed and 406 degrees actually awarded, constituting not only an all-time summer record but also a record for the smallest shrinkage between applications and awards.

Included among the applications are those for 345 advanced degrees, 39 more than last year. Of these, 254 seek the master of arts degree, 43 master of science, and 49 doctor of philosophy.

Other applications reported by Mr. Maruth are bachelor of arts, 62; and seven varieties of bachelor of science; commerce, 11; chemical engineering, 5; home economics and physical education, 2 each; liberal arts and medicine, pharmacy, and civil engineering, 1 each. There also are three juris doctor applicants.

The record convocation of last August was caused by the fact that, due to the reorganization of the summer session, only one ceremony was held. In previous years degrees were also awarded in July.

Wirtz to Lead Campus Forum

Group Will Discuss Constitution Relation To Social Progress

With "Constitutional Obstacles to Social Progress" as his topic, W. Willard Wirtz of the college of law will present the explanatory material at the last of the university's campus forum discussions at 3:10 this afternoon in the house chamber of Old Capitol.

Using the recent wages and hours bill as an example, Mr. Wirtz will consider principles and rules that will determine the legality of current legislative enactments.

Constitutional obstacles which face the wages and hours bill, Mr. Wirtz points out, are much the same for any legislation, since the bill is typical of modern legislation.

The past six weeks has brought faculty representatives from various University of Iowa departments to the discussions, in which important contemporary problems have been discussed freely from the floor.

Today's forum, like those of the past several weeks, will be broadcast by WSUI.

Prof. Kirk H. Porter of the political science department, will preside at the meeting.

Women Enter Golf Tourney

Will Play Today In Invitational Meet At West Liberty Club

A group of golfers from the Women's Golf association of the Iowa City Country club will go this morning to West Liberty, where they will be guests of the West Liberty Country club at an invitational tournament.

The golf tournament, which will begin at 10 o'clock, will be followed by a luncheon at noon. The afternoon will be spent in playing bridge.

The Iowa City women who will attend are Mrs. Carl Strub, Mrs. Ralph Parsons, Mrs. Albert Droll, Mrs. Wilbur Tallman, Mrs. Harold Hands, Mrs. Thomas Brown, Mrs. LeRoy Spencer, Mrs. George Koser, Mrs. Jule Kaspar, and Mrs. Jack Swamer.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was admitted to the bar in 1907.

Community Sing, Followed by Dancing Party Will Highlight Sat. Playnight

A community sing, followed by a summer session dancing party, will form the activities of the weekly play night Saturday, W. E. Streit, director of physical education in the Cincinnati public schools and a visiting instructor, has announced.

The river bank in front of the fine arts building will be the scene of the sing at 7:30 p.m., and Len Carroll's orchestra will play for dancing in Iowa Union lounge from 9 to 12 p.m.

Plans are being made to accommodate some 500 persons. Pointing out that in no other art or craft can the unskilled persons come so near to being an artist as he can through singing in a group, Mr. Streit said he will lead the students in 15 or 20 songs.

Interspersed will be such musical features as a piccolo solo by Virginia Simpson of Iowa City high school, baritone horn solo by Douglas Brooks, a male quartet, a 12-piece band under the direction of Paul Dawson, and a marimba solo by Joseph Saetveit.

Tickets for the dance may be obtained at Iowa Union Thursday.

Witnesses Tell Senate Group Of Experiences

Committee on Civil Liberty Investigates Republic Steel Strike

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP) — A tale of "unprovoked" assaults upon women and children, as well as strikers, by mill guards of the Republic Steel corporation was added today to the record of the senate civil liberties committee.

One by one, a long array of witnesses filed before the committee to tell how a strike three years ago at the Berger Manufacturing Co., a Republic plant in Canton, Ohio, was broken by tear gas, clubs and shotguns, wielded in sorties afoot and from fast-moving automobiles.

Company officials, sitting by, objected to certain details of the story and set up the defense that strikers had stoned the guards.

Charles M. White, vice-president of Republic, blamed the whole thing on the local police authorities for not establishing "law and order."

"When a strike occurs today," he said, "it is immediately interpreted as some sort of a political strike and, because there are a lot of folks involved, the men in office can't make up their minds whether they should be on the side of law and order, or whether there are more votes on the side of mob rule."

Play—

which she lived, was well acted, even if Mr. Davee wasn't the dashing young lover that some might have preferred for the delightful Terry.

Peggy Reagan's tragic Kaye Hamilton was excellent. Often the audience wasn't fully aware, I'm afraid, of how fine Miss Reagan's "background" action was, at moments when others were the center of attraction.

Not especially, or sufficiently, gripping was Miss Hamilton's death, however. It might be made so.

Ruth Morgan was Mrs. Orcutt, the "landlady" whose performance, with that of Marjorie Jackson as the not-too-bright servant girl, were just what they were cut out to be.

Let's take a look at a half-dozen or so members of the cast who had to put into five minutes what others were given a much longer time to portray.

I can only briefly mention them: Dorothea Carlson as Mary McCune, repeatedly a high spot, Alene Strauss, Linda Shaw, Coral J. Dubry, James Levang, Rodney Stewart, Louis Garfin and several others.

The glamour of the stage — of waiting for even a small role in a New York production — imbues "Stage Door" with a vivid atmosphere.

It's always there, and easily felt. From the Sunday morning mess of pajamas and banana peels to the flash of electric signs and the noise of traffic outside the club windows, this motif has been carefully preserved in the play.

Direction, lighting, designs and costumes all play an important part in that motif — it isn't just the action of the players. Mr. Albright, Hulton D. Sellman, Arnold S. Gillette and Marian Galaway are therefore deserving of credit.

Forget the heat and the length of the play and go to "Stage Door" for the pure enjoyment of the fun and heart throbs it has in store.

Bose Talks On Turkish Nation

The Turkey of today, "a symbol of hope and confidence for the nations of the Orient," was the topic of yesterday's campus lecture by Dr. Sudhindra Bose.

The speaker dealt with the new leader of Turkey, Kamal Ataturk, associating him with such contemporaries as Lenin in Russia, Mussolini in Italy, Hitler in Germany, Riza Shah Pehlvi in Persia, Sun Yat-sen in China, Gandhi in India, "and perhaps Franklin D. Roosevelt in the United States."

He pointed out that these seven leaders have in common the ability to strike the imagination and awaken the conscience of the plain people. "While Roosevelt and Gandhi and Sun Yat-sen have been men of peace," he said, "the rest have been men of violence."

Dr. Bose discussed Turkey's government, with its liberal constitution and dictatorial style, revealing that Ataturk's force is dependent upon his personal force and not on any office.

"Under Kamal's guidance," he concluded, "the first stage of the Turkish revolution has been effectively completed. The final stage, that of consolidation, is now in progress."

The concluding lecture of the series will be next Tuesday.

Prof. Lapp Will Give 6th Lecture in Series

Prof. C. J. Lapp of the physics department will speak on the subject "Consider the Heavens" at 7 o'clock this evening in the physics auditorium.

Professor Lapp's lecture is the sixth in his series of seven on popular physics subjects.

Following is the telephone conversation in which the governor notified Edward W. Ford, Maytag company counsel, of his decision to declare martial law: "The officers have been bringing these requests to me in various forms. Of course, I have said to them all the time that troops never will come to Newton except to establish martial law. I want to ask you what, if anything, you could or would do to eliminate to remove this danger that might lead to making this action unnecessary."

A. I am completely at a loss. I am all tired out and worn out. Umbreit (George Umbreit, company vice-president) is gone away under the doctor's orders. Fred Maytag Jr., has taken him.

"Do you have any intention of accepting the arbitration board's proposal?"

A. I have been told positively again and again that they could do nothing in that direction because that would be a complete capitulation.

"You realize, don't you, that the terms of that arbitration board recommendation is identical with the proposition you made me 10 days ago when the plant was in the possession of sit-down strikers except for 60 days of wages at the old rate which would mean about $20,000 or one-half week's payroll? You understand that?"

A. Ford agreed.

"You still regard that as too high a price to pay for peace in Newton?"

A. You are not going to force

Federal Judge Alters Verdict In Trust Case

Grants 3 Companies New Trials; Upholds Twelve Convictions

MADISON, Wis., July 19 (AP) — Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone revised sharply today the verdict of a federal court jury which after seven hours' deliberation following a four-month trial, convicted 16 major oil companies and 30 individuals of violating the Sherman Anti-Trust act.

The judge, who spent nearly six months analyzing the evidence after the jury returned its verdict last January, upheld conviction of 12 companies and five executives. He freed one corporation and 10 individuals.

Evidence of participation in the gasoline price-fixing conspiracy on the part of the other defendants — 15 officials and three companies — was so doubtful, the judge said, that he granted them a new trial.
