Government's Drive in Spain Takes Towns

Insurgent Forces' Aerial Attack Fails To Check Advance

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
WITH THE SPANISH GOVERNMENT ARMY ON THE EBRO RIVER FRONT, July 26 (AP)—The government offensive in northeastern Spain today drove a wedge 12 miles deep into insurgent ground.

Pushing west from the Ebro river valley into sandy wastelands over territory left by insurgent troops in their headlong flight, government forces struck from three sides toward Gandesa on a 16-mile front.

Their advance guard tonight passed that town, insurgent military headquarters in the region, without attempting to occupy the city.

Insurgent forces unleashed a savage aerial counterattack against the government's ground forces in an effort to block the offensive and failed to break the movement.

The campaign settled down to a conflict between government infantry and insurgent planes with government troops holding the upper hand so far.

The troops crouched in trenches and under trees as insurgent raiders came overhead, and then resumed the push.

All towns in the path of the offensive on the west bank of the river, including Asco, Mora de Ebro and Benisanet were occupied.

In the triangular area covered by government lines, staff officers said between 5,000 and 6,000 prisoners, all Spanish, were taken. About 2,000 more insurgents wandered in the hills, cut off from the main force.

The main road west from Mora de Ebro, the jumping off place of the offensive, to Gandesa, the immediate objective, was littered with material left by insurgents in their flight.

Today the government forces continued to move up amidst a wreckage of broken trucks, abandoned ammunition, discarded clothing and personal effects.

For five hours I rode with the government troops across the Ebro and along the road to Gandesa with insurgent aerial bombings and machine gunnings making a thunderous roar.

As many as 42 planes came over at one time launching up to 300 bombs in one raid. But most of the explosives fell harmlessly into the sandy earth. Veteran troops described the bombings as some of the most severe in two years of war.

Palestine Bombing Starts New Terrorism in Racial Conflict

British Troops Make Raids to Break Up Guerrilla Bands

HAIFA, Palestine, July 26 (AP)—British troops started extensive raids today to prevent formation of guerrilla bands which authorities feared might broaden the racial conflict between the Holy Land's Arabs and Jews.

The troops made numerous swift raids in the village-dotted hills following the death of 65 persons and injury of 107 when a time bomb exploded yesterday in a Haifa market place.

The bombing appeared to have loosened a new avalanche of terrorism.

A great loss of life was averted today when a time bomb set for 9 a.m. in the crowded Arab vegetable market of Jerusalem was discovered just 15 minutes earlier.

Three members of a terrorist band were killed when the group attacked a detachment of special constables. A 14-year-old Jewish boy and his father were slain in ambush near the Jewish settlement of Mishmar Hayarden on the river Jordan.

Smoke from incendiary fires in the mixed quarter rolled over this Mediterranean port city, which by Monday's tragedy in the market place had become the greatest point of friction between two peoples, each claiming Palestine as its own.

Britain, carrying out her long-troubled League of Nations mandate over the Holy Land, struggled to restore order.

Guns of the battle cruiser Repulse were trained on the lower section of Haifa. Wholesale arrests of suspected terrorists were made. Platoons of marines, soldiers and police shuttled through the disturbed areas in armored cars and fire trucks.

Thousands Gasp at Death Plunge

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
NEW YORK, July 26 (AP)—In a flare-lit scene of hysterical horror, John Ward, 26 and unemployed, leaped to death tonight from a 17th floor hotel ledge to which he had clung, intermittently threatening to jump, for more than 10 hours.

His body landed on 55th street near Fifth avenue amid scattered screams rising from among the thousands who for hours had stood morbidly bemused.

Many women fainted; ambulances screamed into the area to take them away.

The last of half a dozen expeditions to bring Ward down safely was all but completed when, calmly and with no single outcry, he casually stepped from the ledge.

The police — nearly 1,000 of whom had been brought into the fashionable mid-town area to aid in the rescue and in pushing back the curious — had hauled up from the street a stout net of the sort used in loading cargo.

Bookmakers, offering odds of 2-to-1 that Ward would not jump, canvassed for takers — and tonight they paid off.

They had intended to grasp one end at the 16th floor, another at the 18th and thus to enmesh Ward as a butterfly is netted.

Just as the net crept silently upward past the 16th floor, Ward came at last to his decision.

He stood with the right foot half extending from the ledge. He poised a moment then thrust his left foot forward, clear of the ledge, and plummeted downward. First the body dropped head-on; then it began to spin crazily, around and end over end until with a high smash it struck a marquee.

Below, the whole area was alight with photographic flares and noise broke from the crowd, first in a long moan and then in a series of sharp, individual screams.

Peddlers with ice cream, peanuts and cheap binoculars circulated among the open-mouthed spectators who shouted warnings, words of encouragement or derision and wisecracks at the bewildered, moody young man on the ledge.

Ward's last words were heard by Dr. G. C. Presner, a city health department physician, who had talked with him frequently during the day.

"There's no way out of it," Dr. Presner quoted Ward as saying.

"I have been up here many hours trying to convince myself of a reason for living. I've made up my mind."

At that point, Dr. Presner said, Ward glanced upwards a fleet moment and stepped off into space — his body hurtling to meet a shriek that welled up from the crowd below.

"I don't think it was because of fear or shock," Dr. Presner said. "He had made his decision. The poor fellow was irrational during the last half an hour."

Chandler Charges Sen. Logan 'Begged' for Federal Judgeship

Kentucky Governor Talks From Bedroom In Senatorial Fight

FRANKFORT, Ky., July 26 (AP)—Gov. A. B. Chandler charged today that Kentucky's junior Sen. M. M. Logan had "begged" for a federal judgeship early this year.

The charge was hurled in a speech by the governor in his bedroom at the executive mansion and relayed by telephone and loudspeaker to a crowd at Paintsville.

Chandler has been ill since last Friday purportedly from poisoning drinking water and has been conducting his democratic senatorial nomination campaign from his bedside.

Clad in green pajamas the governor read to his distant audience a letter he said had been written by Logan about Jan. 5 of this year to "one of his closest personal friends" whose name was not made public. The letter, in longhand, was written on United States senate stationery bearing Logan's name and over the signature "M. M. Logan."

"Now if the state administration and my friends want to get me out of the senate I will gladly accept appointment to succeed Sutherland," the governor read from the letter. Justice Sutherland had resigned from the U. S. supreme court.

Today the government forces continued to move up amidst a wreckage of broken trucks, abandoned ammunition, discarded clothing and personal effects.

For five hours I rode with the government troops across the Ebro and along the road to Gandesa with insurgent aerial bombings and machine gunnings making a thunderous roar.

British, Italian Planes Land At Horta, Azores

HORTA, Azores, July 26 (AP)—Two trans-Atlantic air rivals, the German catapult seaplane Nordmeer and the British pick-a-back seaplane Mercury, landed here this afternoon after uneventful survey flights from North America.

Two hours and 10 minutes ahead of the Mercury, the German plane arrived from Pt. Washington, N. Y., at 1:20 p.m. Greenwich mean time, (8:20 a.m. EST). The Mercury covered the approximately 1,500 miles from Botwood, Newfoundland, in seven hours and 38 minutes.

ANNIVERSARY F. D. R. Sends Greetings To Neighbors

ABOARD U. S. HOUSTON, IN GALAPAGOS ARCHIPELAGO, July 26 (AP)— From far away Galapagos islands, President Roosevelt today sent greetings to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., neighbors who celebrated the 150th anniversary of New York's ratification of the constitution.

The chief executive acted as honorary chairman of the committee for the celebration.

The Houston anchored tonight in Elizabeth, picturesque cove of Albermarle island, largest of the Galapagos group.

Pennsylvania's Senator Guffey Attacks Courts

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 26 (AP)—United States Sen. Joseph F. Guffey joined Gov. George H. Earle in attacking Pennsylvania's courts tonight as the chief executive met the first open opposition in his legislative fight against a grand jury investigation.

Guffey, arriving at the end of the second day of a special session convened by Earle in his fight, urged in a statement that the general assembly impeach certain unnamed members of the state supreme and superior courts who, he said, had accepted "the equivalent of cash from the house of Morgan."

He said the judges had received "partial gifts of stock."

Guffey, meantime, was subpoenaed, Constable James Grant said, to appear Aug. 8 before the grand jury which has been summoned by Judge Paul N. Schaeffer. It was intimated at the district attorney's office that the summons would not interfere with a voyage to Europe Guffey plans to start in a day or two.

Governor Earle repeatedly has assailed the state supreme court since it approved a grand jury inquiry of charges of blackmail and extortion for political purposes and vote coercion raised against the governor and 13 other high-ranking democrats during the May primary campaign.

The senator's statement climaxed a day of legislative jockeying in which Earle won the early rounds of his battle for laws which would head off the grand jury investigation set to begin here Aug. 8.

Issue Marks Centennial P. O. Officials Say Three-Cent Stamp To Appear Aug. 24

Old Capitol, long a University of Iowa campus tradition, is destined to become the stamp collector's item, for it will appear on the forthcoming three-cent stamp commemorating the 100th anniversary of the Iowa territory.

Announcement was made yesterday by the postoffice department in Washington, D. C. that the Old Capitol view would be used as the stamp design.

The stamp will be purple and will go on sale in Des Moines Aug. 24.

The Iowa centennial committee several weeks ago recommended to the postoffice department that Iowa's Old Capitol be the feature of the commemorative stamp.

A photograph of a painting by Mrs. Benj. F. Shambaugh of Iowa City, showing Old Capitol as it appeared in the territorial days, was submitted with the recommendation.

United States Sen. Clyde L. Herring of Iowa also recommended to Postmaster James A. Farley that Old Capitol be used on the stamp.

Professor Shambaugh, superintendent of the Iowa State Historical society, Prof. Louis Pelzer of the history department and Prof. John E. Briggs of the political science department are members of the centennial committee.

In 1836, a large section of Johnson county was turned over to the United States by the Sac and Fox Indians. In 1838 the settlers assembled to celebrate territorial recognition.

A few months later, the territorial commissioners drove stakes for the capitol site. Congress donated to the Territory of Iowa $20,000 for the capitol building and a section of land on which it was to stand.

Old Capitol was built from stone taken from the site on which the president's home now stands at the head of Clinton street. By the time the first story was completed, the supply of stone at this point was exhausted, and Old Capitol quarry was then established nine miles up the river.

Individual stones of an estimated weight of 8,000 pounds were floated down the river on rafts. The walls of Old Capitol were constructed six feet thick.

In 1857, the seat of government was moved to Des Moines, and Old Capitol passed into the hands of the university.

Japan Pushes Up Yangtze Toward Capital

Gunboats Shell Banks Of River to Flatten Chinese Defenses

SHANGHAI, July 27 (Wednesday) (AP)—Japanese forces pushed up the Yangtze river today from newly-captured Kiukiang toward Hankow, Chinese provisional capital which neutral embassies were reported preparing to evacuate.

Gunboats steaming up the 30-mile stretch to Tienkiachen, where Chinese were expected to make their next stand 105 miles below Hankow, shelled river banks to flatten Chinese defenses.

One Japanese column struck off at right angles to the westward push up the Yangtze in a drive south against Nanchang, main central China air base of the defenders. First objective of this column was Kuling, mountain resort 14 miles south of Kiukiang.

Although Chinese troops were not in Kuling, which has been the refuge of 50 Americans and 100 other foreigners, their retreat up the mountain on which the resort is perched might draw severe fighting to the city's approaches.

From Hankow came dispatches saying American, British, French, Soviet Russian and Italian embassies were making quiet preparations to move to Chungking, 500 air miles deeper into China's interior, between Aug. 1 and Aug. 10.

Japanese declared capture of Kiukiang had broken the Chinese Yangtze line and said it was only a matter of time until defenses collapsed.

UAW Dispute Aired Behind Closed Doors

DETROIT, July 26 (AP)—Homer Martin and the associates he charges conspired with communists to disrupt the CIO United Automobile Workers aired their dispute today behind closed doors at UAW headquarters.

Martin, international union president, marshaled 150 guards into eleventh floor corridors outside union offices to prevent interference as trial of four suspended vice-presidents began.

The UAW executive board room was so closely guarded the "defendants" twice were barred by guards because they lacked "passes" to their own trial.

When an official finally escorted them in, they marched behind a long double file of guards, entered the board room and, simulating a Nazi salute, greeted Martin with, "Heil Hitler."

Maurice Sugar, their attorney, termed "a typical fascist setup" the protective measure taken after opponents of Martin's policies yesterday invaded the UAW headquarters, engaged in fist-cuffs and delayed the trial with a sit-down demonstration.

Anti-Martin men congregated today in a park across a street from the building, and heckled the union president as he went to lunch.

The vice-presidents on trial, who were suspended by Martin June 13, are Richard T. Frankenstein, Wyndham Mortimer, Ed Hall and Walter Wells. A fifth suspended officer, George F. Ades, former secretary-treasurer who already has been tried, removed from office and expelled from membership, accompanied them into the board room.

Britain Appoints Mediator For Czechoslovak-German Quarrel

CHAMBERLAIN SEES MOVE AS MAIN HOPE FOR PREVENTING WAR

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—Great Britain stepped into the explosive Czechoslovak-German quarrel today by appointing an unofficial mediator and assured the world that a European war was farther away.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain put the main hope of dispelling Europe's war clouds in the British mediator's success at solving the Czechoslovak problem, and announced that Viscount Runciman, former member of the cabinet, had been chosen for the post.

He told an intent and sometimes cheering house of commons that if a solution to the dispute between the Czechoslovak government and its autonomy-seeking Germanic and other minorities could be found, "I should feel that the way is open again to further effort in general appeasement."

He declared Britain's policy had contributed to a better atmosphere in Europe and added that "we intend to pursue it."

In his 50-minute address, during the last debate on foreign affairs before parliament recesses Friday for three months, the prime minister also:

Hinted that Britain might yet give some form of aid to China; Held out hope for an early agreement in British-American trade negotiations; Announced that Spanish insurgent authorities had agreed to a British proposal for investigation of bombings of British ships; Gave an implied promise to let the British-Italian friendship pact go into force when foreign fighters, including Italy's, are withdrawn from Spain.

Justice Black Law Dean Asks For Information

By LARRY HAUCK
CLEVELAND, July 26 (AP)—Controversies over a resolution on the "eligibility" of Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black and a critical report of the special committee on administrative law ruffled the serenity of the American Bar association tonight as committees labored to perfect the machinery of justice.

Dean Edward T. Lee of John Marshall law school, Chicago, refused to withdraw his resolution asking the United States supreme court for information on Justice Black's eligibility to serve despite the efforts of two Alabamians—one a "personal friend" of Black—to intervene.

"I am a personal friend of Hugo L. Black and I want to take the floor against this," said Circuit Judge Richard D. Evans of Birmingham, Ala., at a meeting of the resolutions committee. Evans said the supreme court had once refused to rule on Black's eligibility and there was no reason for the association to press the matter.

Marvin Woodall, past president of the Birmingham Bar association, said the resolution was "im pertinent."

Lee said he thought "the bar association owes it to the people to have this question cleared up." Afterward in the hotel corridor outside the committee room an unidentified delegate shouted at Evans and Woodall, "you have insulted Dean Lee."

"We didn't insult the Dean," Evans answered. "Your friend the Dean insulted Justice Black. The resolution, which will not reach the floor before Thursday, questions Black's right to serve because of a constitutional provision that 'no senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time.'"

As the resolutions committee met, Commissioner Jerome N. Frank of the securities and exchange commission, renewed in a forum his attack on the report of the special committee on administrative law, charging it "defamed" Chairman William O. Douglas of the SEC.

Wherein The Blame Apparently Comes Home to Rest

ARE TRAFFIC violators really criminals? This question has never been clearly answered to our knowledge, but with the ease with which many of the traffic tickets can be "fixed" throughout the state, it is our opinion that they aren't considered criminals.

We do not mean to say that "traffic fixing" is common throughout the state—such a statement would not only be false but also very dangerous; however, we do say that we have known of cases of this type.

The fact that only one out of a hundred traffic violations may be "fixed" makes this menace all the more deadly. Because of the scarcity of examples, it is difficult to catch the offenders.

Officer... who is known to be a "right guy" by the speeders, may be popular for a time, but there may come a time when he will wish he had been firmer with the enforcement of the laws.

In a southern state the other day, a coroner's jury found that a man first believed to be a murder victim was killed by a hit-and-run driver. Is there really any difference?

If a hit-and-run driver is a murderer, then isn't the officer who fixed his ticket a week before an accessory to the crime? Or hadn't you ever thought of that?

Villain or Martyr? 'Dizzy' Dean Speaks—Again—in His Behalf

JEROME H. (DIZZY) DEAN, in a recent issue of a popular magazine charges that the St. Louis Cardinals' management, Branch Rickey and Sam Breadon, made him a "pop-off" guy just to attract attention and to lure more fans to the ball park.

Coming at this time—just after his threat to sue the Cards for overworking him—the blast is likely to be taken in stride by the public who have become used to the outbursts of this "temperamental" star.

It is unfortunate, too, if this should happen. Dean has many friends in the sporting world today—he also has many "enemies" due largely to his verbal outbursts. Many sports followers have been forced to admire him for his pitching prowess while disliking him for his personal habits.

If the charges made by Dean against his former bosses are true, then one of the greatest athletes in American baseball has been done a great wrong. Dean, so it seems, may have been forced into this madcap role much as the villains in the heavyweight "rasslin" game are used—to draw a large gate of fans who come in the hopes of seeing the bad man get his just deserts. Dean has made his charges—the defense, Breadon and Rickey, has yet to answer them—in the meantime the jury of public opinion rests the case and turns its attention to one of the hottest pennant races in history.

In Which the Ability Of the Scotch Scientist Is Questioned Severely

THE CLAIMED discovery of the Scotch scientist who announced recently that, contrary to popular belief, opposites do not attract each other in matters of courting and marrying seems to put an entirely different light on the whole institution of matrimony.

According to this savant, we are really attracted in courting and marrying by those who are most like ourselves. If this is true, matrimony at once seems put on a higher plane than it has been assumed to occupy throughout the ages. Humankind's opinion of itself being what it is, what greater compliment could the average person pay his mate than by marrying him or her, as the case may be?

What we cannot understand, however, is why, if the Scotchman is right, marriage was so much more stable an institution in those lavender-scented days when the swain was wont to begin the courtship by groaning to himself and others, "Alas, I'm not half good enough for her." Under the theory of likes attracting likes, he really was setting up the proposition that "She's not half good enough for me," which would seem to have been a poor foundation for matrimonial alliances, that, nevertheless, usually lasted at least until the golden wedding.

And, on the other hand, why all the divorce mills in this present age, when marriage seems to be so largely a matter of mutual concession and implies, if likes attracts likes, the practical ultimate in mutual flattery?

However, the scientist may have based his theory on observations confined to his native Scotland, where, we are led to suppose, no thorough-going Scotchman ever took a lass to wife unless assured she was as like him as possible in the value she would place on a shilling.

The chief handicap in writing gags about stock market booms is the latter seldom last long enough to get the former into print.

THIS HAS ALL THE EARMARKS OF A PERENNIAL CONTROVERSY

One reason for delay in allocating costs on the TVA development, Director David E. Lilienthal told the congressional investigators Saturday, was a conflict of opinion between TVA engineers and the valuation committee appointed to appraise properties at Muscle Shoals. Everything was moving along nicely until it developed that the valuation estimates of the TVA engineers and the valuation committee were sharply at variance.

And right there Mr. Lilienthal put his finger on the factor that will keep the TVA experiment from ever being a satisfactory yardstick for measuring the fairness of commercial power rates. The whole undertaking is too susceptible to sharp differences of opinion on valuations and cost allocations. There is no reliable yardstick for measuring how much of the cost properly should be charged to power production, how much to flood control, how much to fertilizer production, how much to navigation aid, and so on. And it is hard to see where ever can be a reliable yardstick for that purpose.

CHACO PEACE IN SIGHT. PARAGUAY and Bolivia have had a hundred years of trouble over the boundary in the "green hell" of the Chaco. Recently they have had three years of savage warfare, followed by three years of an uneasy truce while mediators attempted to patch things up. The proposed treaty initiated early this month has now been approved by both governments and formally signed by them and by the six mediating countries.

Hitherto attempts of either government to be conciliatory have been met by the threat of revolution from the die-hards. To ensure a permanent settlement (if any), the peace conference wrote into the treaty that it must be approved by both governments and formally signed by them and by the six mediating countries.

This is to be done within 20 days of signing the treaty, that is by Aug. 9—or it is all off. However, the enthusiasm with which news of the treaty was received in the capitals of the two countries augurs well for the outcome.

The Major was on his yacht when the accident occurred, and they hurried to shore. But by time they reached there, an ambulance was backed up to the dock, waiting. How did it get there? By marine telephone service. The Major's yacht is equipped to talk, via telephone, anywhere in the world. And when his thumb was cut off they lifted the receiver and telephoned a hospital.

Tuning In with Loren Hickerson

WE GO TO THE POLLS to vote for various and sundry people, songs and pictures, worthy of fame or oblivion.

To WGN, truly "the people's station," a vote of thanks for consistency in pleasant entertainment.

For a delightfully new and different musical background, dozens of votes to "Tropic Holiday."

To Frank Munn, an eternal spot in radio's hall of fame for his splendid voice, and for the pure delight of his two outstanding programs, Bayer Aspirin and Waltz-time.

AMONG THE SONGS our vote for the current "I Let a Song Go Out of My Heart," "I Hadn't Anyone 'Till You," and "Music, Maestro, Please."

for nonsense and rhythm, we'll take... yes, "The Flat Foot Floogie," it's as catchy a tune as we've heard.

and to the new "A Tiskit, A Taskit," the little bit about the brown and yellow basket—another vote for this humorous but swiny catchtune.

for slow, mellow softness, how about "Little Lady Make Believe?"

AND PERSONALITIES a few million votes to Charlie McCarthy, and should we say Edgar Bergen?

dare we vote for oblivion to most of Charlie's imitators, with the possible exception of Betty Lou?

to the hall of fame we send Walt Disney for "Snow White," and especially for the production's songs that we're still singing. Fame also to the writers of those songs.

Others who will go to the hall by our votes include Milton J. Gross, one of the finest announcers in the business; the thousands of "men behind the scenes," technicians and others, who bring us radio programs each day, year in and year out.

Votes to Jack Benny, radio's outstanding comedian—so voted year after year... and to Mary Livingston and Portland Hoffa, the two most famous wife-stooges on the air—good ones both.

And a last big vote to those who devote their lives to radio and its incomparable service to mankind!

By GEORGE TUCKER NEW YORK — Jascha Heifetz speaking: "This stuff about the cloistered artist secure in his ivory tower is all bunk. To be a success nowadays an artist has to have the nerve of a bullfighter, the digestion of a peasant, the disposition of a nightclub hostess, and the stoicism of a Buddhist monk!"

Well, Heifetz ought to know. He was in St. Petersburg performing for the Czar when the revolution broke out. He reached Ireland just in time to bump into the Sinn Fein uprising. When the Japanese earthquake of 1923 made thousands homeless he was there, and in Tientsin he was compelled to make his way to the concert hall through roads barricaded with barbed wire. In Bombay he gave a recital the day after Gandhi was jailed, and it was not safe for a white man to walk the streets. And recently he completed his 1,350,000th miles of air travel as a touring concert artist.

Jascha, you're a sucker if you don't get one of the big cigarette companies to sign you up, testifying that tobacco alone keeps you from becoming a nervous wreck.

Odd doings in the news these days... Major Bowes loses a finger... A rabbi is arrested by police who mistakenly believe he is peddling ice cream without a license.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

(Jo Swerling, the author, now writing Selznick-International's "Made For Each Other," today taps out an essay for Columnist Robbin Coons, who is on vacation.)

By JO SWERLING HOLLYWOOD — Hospital records of the motion picture colony disclose the awful fact that the majority of nervous breakdowns occur among the gentry whose function it is to provide the scripts.

There are many reasons for this, but the main cause is the Hays office. The common nightmare of writers is a hideous dream in which they run a gauntlet between two lines of malevolent censors who beat them with clubs labeled: "Can't! — Mustn't! — Censorable! — Barred! — Violation of the code! — Against public policy! — Offensive! — Objectionable! — Politically unsound! — Cut! — Eliminate! — Taboo!"

Taboo! Taboo! Taboo! That's the principal reason for a great deal of the lousy product that comes out of Hollywood. (What a joy to be able to use the word "lousy" without fear of red pencil!)

Right from the start, when the idea for a story is germinated, the writer is faced with an infinity of prohibitions — the "don'ts" are endless, fantastic. It has come to a point now where only a picture like "Snow White" has a chance to pass, unscathed, through the censor boards. And even Mr. Disney's innocuous masterpiece had trouble in England.

The list of censor cuts in the arts of production in Hollywood prove conclusively there is practically nothing you can say in a picture any more that won't offend somebody and hence must be eliminated.

AROUND THE TOWN With MERLE MILLER

DES MOINES (Special to The Daily Iowan)—They're here tonight, Iowa's democrats, nearly 3,000 of them, filling three hotels, the restaurants, convening. Deciding. Ready for tomorrow's convention.

The convention platform—and this is a tip from a campusite who's helping draw it up—will refer to Iowa's labor as an instrument of "cooperation, not exploitation." Will favor collective bargaining, the Krascchel handling of the Newton troubles, the farm-to-market road projects Johnson county democrats have so long wanted.

Iowa's democrats are still registered as a minority party... They've never held a majority of the state offices, never been predominant in the national picture until 1936... Party leaders now claim more registered party claimants than republicans.

A delegation of nearly 60 Iowa Citizens meets at 10 p.m. tonight, to discuss tomorrow's convention moves... And this evening while reminiscing with many Iowa Citizens did recall the days when Dr. A. W. Bennett drove a western plains stage coach, was a close friend of "Buffalo Bill," Wild Bill Cody...

And had to come to Des Moines to learn of Iowa City's most unusual clubs, the Spinach Group... The Spinachers meet daily at Reich's, include Leroy Mercer, Dean Lierle, Dr. Peterson, half a dozen others who drop in on occasion... No speeches, just casual male conversation... And the Columbus club is eight Iowa City professional men who keep their identity as secret as possible—although one's now a democratic nominee for first district congressman, another a close contender, a third a district judge.

They meet monthly and have fun—do no "service"—except to themselves, which is, after all, most important... And do hear Ingals Swisher's slated for a convention secretaryship in the morn... And Representative Mercer'll head the Johnson county delegation... Prof. Ross Livingston's on the resolutions committee, is busily composing the state platform...

Health Hints

By Logan Clendening, M.D.

A hopeful demonstration for many who have been exiled from the woods of summer by the presence of poison oak or poison ivy, was that of Dr. Arne E. Ingals of San Francisco at the American Medical association meeting last month.

Poison oak, like poison ivy, produces a resin in the process of growth which causes the skin eruption. Only a small proportion of people are sensitive to it, so it appears to be a form of allergy.

Poison oak is known only in our western states. Dr. Ingals had collected specimens of the bush in all different stages of the annual changes. It differs considerably from spring to fall, the leaves being reddish in the spring, then green, then turning a bright red in the fall. It may grow as a small bush, or in the form of a vine at a height of 20 or 30 feet.

It is not necessary to touch the plant in order to get poisoned. The smoke from a wood fire on which poison oak branches have been thrown, if blown on the hands or face of a sensitive person, will cause the eruption. All parts of the plant contain the irritating resin, and it abounds in young twigs.

Best Treatment In treatment, remember that the irritating substance is an oily resin and that it is best dissolved in alcohol. The severity of an attack of poisoning is dependent to a certain extent on the amount of resin left on the skin. At the first symptoms then, vigorous and repeated washings with soap and water, followed by cleansing of the skin with alcohol or ether, and then re-washing with soap and water, is imperative. Ether soap is also valuable. All sorts of soothing lotions should be tried, calamine lotion or zinc oxide lotion. The watery lotions are better than the saline. If these are not available a baking soda paste can be made and smeared on the affected part.

It was in the department of prevention that Dr. Ingals' exhibit was the most noteworthy. An alcoholic extract of poison oak leaves is prepared. It can be taken by hypodermic dosage, or by mouth, or added to the bath water drop by drop. In these ways an immunity is built up, and exposure need not be feared again.

One man told me he was able to go camping comfortably for the first time in his life after using this extract by mouth. He went on a two weeks' trip in the woods and walked through poison oak and handled it without any harm. Before that, he said, even reading about it made him break out in a rash.

WASHINGTON — Sen. Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, recently democratically renominated, with President Roosevelt's warm approval, is referred to right and left, in the newspapers, as a "silverite."

This is all wrong. Senator Thomas is an inflationist but not necessarily a silverite. The monetization of silver might be one way of inflating. On that ground the Oklahoma senator probably would endorse it qualifiedly. However, he does not consider that that would be the best method. I have talked with him many times and heard him say so.

Sen. Key Pittman of Nevada is our outstanding silverite. I do not know that he is particularly an inflationist but he is an ardent booster for the rights of silver.

Thomas-Pittman In the early days of the Roosevelt administration Senators Thomas and Pittman were pretty good monetary partners.

Thomas, who is not especially interested in silver, perhaps because Oklahoma does not produce much, if any of it, nevertheless was favorable to Pittman's silverism inasmuch as it is a doctrine which promises inflation incidentally. Pittman, who only incidentally is inflationary, wanted something done for silver, which his state does produce in abundance, had an interest accidentally in common with Thomas.

I never believed President Roosevelt to be at all enthusiastically inflationary.

Anyway, he appeared to me to want to split Thomas and Pittman. As a first step he lent himself to a policy of devaluing the dollar, a mildly inflationary step. It was taken and suited Thomas, thus detaching him from Pittman.

But devaluation did not turn out to be as inflationary as Thomas, maybe, had expected. It had some international effect, but very little domestically. It was not pronounced enough, and I suspect that the president did not intend it to be. Consequently Thomas and Pittman began to drift back together, and it became necessary to detach Pittman from Thomas.

Thereupon a program of treasury purchases of silver was adopted—a program which suited Pittman but was no good to Thomas.

Silver-buying has not resulted in any appreciable amount of inflation, either. It was too homeopathic.

The Rev. J. J. Hoffman, pastor of the Lyons Methodist Episcopal church, performed the ceremony in the presence of 40 relatives and friends.

A sister of the bride, Mrs. W. F. Buren, served as matron of honor. Helen Johnson, another sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. The best man was William F. Buren.

Mrs. Speer is a graduate of Lyons high school and attended Seovill schools. She is employed at the Clinton Bridge Works. Mr. Speer was graduated from Clinton high school in 1934 and later attended Wartburg college and the university. He is now employed in the office of Carstensen Freight Lines in Clinton, where the couple will be at home following a short wedding trip.

HOSTESS HINTS

Oranges are an important ingredient of many of the citrus dishes. For this reason and because they contain elements important in the diet, they are front-page food news at any time. You can slice them, eat them "plain" or cook them in a number of tasty ways, some of which follow.

Senorita Salad

- 6 large-size oranges
- 1-3 cup of banana slices
- 1-3 cup apple cubes
- 1-3 cup raisins
- 1-4 cup mayonnaise

Peel oranges, removing skin and membrane down to juicy pulp. Cut in slices. Arrange circles of these slices on individual lettuce-covered plates. Marinate banana and apple with orange juice saved in preparing orange slices. This prevents discoloration. Combine these fruits with raisins and mayonnaise. Place a mound of this mixture in the center of the orange slices. Top each mound with additional mayonnaise and several raisins.

Orange Shortcake With Foamy Sauce

Make your favorite shortcake dough, pat out and cut into large one-fourth inch biscuits. Bake biscuits in pairs, brushing between with melted butter. Bake 12 minutes at 425 degrees F. Place your shortcake on individual plates while still warm and fill with orange segments sprinkled with sugar. Pour sauce over and garnish with orange slices. This amount serves six. Following is the recipe for the sauce.

Foamy Sauce

- 1-2 cups orange juice
- 1-3 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- Few grains salt
- 2 egg yolks, beaten
- 2 egg whites, beaten stiff
- 1-2 cup cream, whipped
- 2 tablespoons powdered sugar

Heat the orange juice in the top of a double boiler. Add sugar blended with cornstarch and salt, and cook until thick. Add the beaten eggs, stirring until creamy. Cool. Fold in beaten whites and cream whipped with sugar.

Orange Crush

- 2-4 cup sugar
- 2-3 cup water
- 2 orange rinds, grated
- 1-4 cup orange juice
- 1-2 teaspoon gelatin
- 1 tablespoon cold water
- 2 cups heavy cream
- 3-4 cup orange juice
- Mint leaves

Cook sugar and water together to 348 degrees F., or until it forms a good syrup. Remove from fire, add grated orange rind, 1-4 cup orange juice, and gelatin which has been soaked 5 minutes in one tablespoon of cold water. Cover and keep warm 30 minutes. Then cool by setting bowl in a pan of ice water or cracked ice. Whip the cream until stiff, then slowly add the orange syrup. Into bottom of refrigerator tray (or mold) pour 3-4 cup orange juice. Freeze without stirring. Serve portions garnished with fresh mint leaves. This recipe serves six.

Orange Salad Dressing

- 3 tablespoons orange juice
- 3 tablespoons grapefruit juice
- 4 tablespoons salad oil
- 1-4 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon powdered sugar

Blend, and shake thoroughly before using. Serve on fruit salads. This dressing is especially good with orange slices, bananas and nuts.

Dill to Present Final Lecture

Prof. Homer R. Dill, director of the university museum, will present his final summer lecture at 8 o'clock tonight in the geology auditorium.

The lecture, fully illustrated with colored slides, is on the topic, "An Expedition 800 Miles Into Old Mexico."

The expedition which will form the lecture topic was made in the spring of 1924 for the purpose of studying tropical fishes and obtaining specimens of Mexican fish and bird life.

Prof. Dill will speak also of the natives of Mexico, and in particular of an uncivilized tribe of Seri Indians which inhabits one of the islands visited by the group.

This evening's lecture is the last in the series of three presented this summer by the museum director.

Seven States, One Country Represented At University High

There are 33 University high school summer speech students, and the group is practically cosmopolitan.

For 13 of those students came to Iowa City from seven other states, and one is here from Berlin, Germany.

The most recent addition to the group was Franz Putzrath of Iowa City, who came only about a month ago from Berlin.

Dick Calvi comes from Mellen, Wis.; George Sawyer from Ann Arbor, Mich.; Grace Foaberg from Minneapolis, Minn., and Jean Neely from Lewiston, Idaho.

Three students joined the group from Illinois, South Dakota, and Missouri.

Phyllis Herman is a product of Freeport, Ruth Johnson of Aledo, and Douglas Baker of Dwight, all of Illinois.

Annette Lanham, Jack Ramsay and Marvin Strunk are members of the group from Missouri, coming from Kansas City, Independence and Cape Girardeau respectively.

The rest of the group covers most of the state of Iowa. The students include Alton Lawrence, Ft. Madison; Dorothy Stock, Lone Tree; Brigham Wheelock, Mapleton; Marjorie MacNamara, Winterset; Bob Ray, Davenport; Gene Barnett, Council Bluffs; Gene Avis Easton, Lohrville; Bill Fry, Coralville; Mary Kuempel, Guttenberg; Bill Van Allen, Mt. ### Lapp to Speak On Electricity

Prof. C. J. Lapp of the physics department will present the last of the department's popular summer lectures at 7 o'clock tonight in the physics auditorium.

Professor Lapp's topic is "Electrical Phases and Cycles," and he will discuss the widely used but little understood principles of alternating electric current.

Almost everyone understands the rules of dry cell electricity, Professor Lapp points out, which acquires its energy from chemical reactions. But almost all electrical current generated today is not of that type.

Through explanation and experimentation, Professor Lapp will illustrate the differences between the two types of current, making more clear the simple principles of the alternating current.

Tonight's lecture concludes a series which has brought before the public such topics as the disintegration of matter, the composition of the atmosphere, the part which physics plays in sports and the transformation of energy.

BISMARCK, N. D. (AP) — A "shortage of help" at the state prison is hampering production of twine that thousands of farmers use for sacking grain.

Women's Club Submits Plan

Group Seeks To Furnish Four Rooms

Proposal Calls For Finishing Suite In Community Building

Representing the Iowa City Woman's club, Mrs. Forrest B. Olsen presented a plan to the city council Monday night whereby her organization would finish and furnish four rooms on the north side of the main floor lobby at the Iowa City community building.

Briefly stating the plan of the club's board, Mrs. Olsen said that the Woman's club would like to finish four rooms on either side of the lobby so as to provide for a committee room and a kitchen. The plan also involves the converting of two middle rooms into a small auditorium in which the club would hold its meetings.

For the finishing of the rooms in the building, the Woman's club would hope to receive the use of the rooms for probably 13 days each month.

Louis F. Mueller, speaking for the community building commission, said that the proposal met with the approval of the commission, but that there was a slight difference of opinion as to the size of the kitchen.

Mueller said the commission believed the kitchen should be larger than that proposed by the women. The council suggested that the kitchen could be enlarged, decreasing the size of the proposed small auditorium, and that the club could use the building's main auditorium for large meetings.

Mrs. Olsen explained that if the small auditorium were provided for, a stage would be erected and the room would be used by the club's drama department. This department includes from 75 to 100 of the club's membership of 283 women, she said.

"This proposal," she said, "has been worked out by the club's board—since the club does not convene during the summer—and as a proposal it is but a hope and a prayer."

"Should we get this plan through," she continued, "it would then have to be brought before the membership sometime in September."

The council left the matter in the hands of the community building commission.

What, No Flat Tires?

Bad Luck Comes All at Once For 'Model T' Driver

"All bad luck comes at once," thought Philip Frank, 914 Iowa avenue, yesterday.

First it was only his broken down model T Ford, but later that same flivver caused him plenty of worry.

Usually he can go from the house to the downtown business section and back with only one flat, but yesterday something funny happened—he didn't get a flat!

Heading back downtown to see if it could happen again, his car stalled and he had to get out and crank it. Hopping out in his carefree way, he started cranking—when bingo, the crank kicked and broke his arm.

The break wasn't serious and was quickly taken care of, but to add to his misery he can't work a board job he has in a downtown cafe, and so his job is gone.

Then too he has to walk now that he can't drive, and the broken arm handicaps him in his work at the university museum.

No job, no work, a broken arm—all tough luck comes at once.

To Leave For Camp Opening

Ten Boy Scout leaders and Scout Executive Owen B. Thiel will leave today for the Iowa City Council Area Boy Scout camp to make preparations for the camp's opening Sunday, the scout executive announced yesterday.

Cubs and their dads will spend a day at Camp Wo-Pe-Na this week end starting Saturday and ending Sunday afternoon.

Twenty-eight scouts are already registered for the first week of the two-week camp session, Thiel said. Camp will open officially at the Rotary club Boy Scout's reservation Sunday.

Request to Construct Memorial Platform Granted by Council

The city council has granted the Iowa City Memorial Day association's request to erect a memorial platform at the site where Memorial day ceremonies in Oakland cemetery are held annually.

The association will pay for the erection of the concrete platform, which will be dedicated to veterans of all wars who are buried in the cemetery.

Imperialism Is Wars' Source Says Dr. Bose

Asserting that "imperialism, in the 20th century, has become the most prolific source of wars—world wars," Dr. Sudhindra Bose, political science lecturer at the University of Iowa, concluded his series of campus lectures yesterday on Oriental contributions to civilization.

"We may rest assured," he told his audience, "that as long as we pursue power politics, the world will always be crowded with the fear of aggression, war, revolution, hunger and death."

"We must not be deluded by hypocritical pretensions of civilization and democracy under this system. All practitioners of might politics are tarred with the same brush."

"In a world of competing imperial systems, there can be no peace!"

The political scientist explained that the doctrine that "might constitutes right" is the essence of power politics—a system which is "dominated by fire and sword, poison and intrigue, though often punctuated with pious phrases and sonorous periods."

"It is a heaven-promising system which gives us hell instead," he asserted.

Present "might" politics are exemplified in European and Japanese imperialism, he revealed. "Although the latter has borrowed the spirit of imperialism from the west, it is suffering from the same infection as are the big nations of Europe," he said.

"The champions of power politics are usually the self-elected civilizers of weak nations with great natural resources. These up-lifters and bearers of other people's burdens go about with an absolute self-sacrifice. As became professional do-gooders, they place themselves squarely around the necks of defenseless people and carry off anything lying loose."

"It is true that some of the imperial possessions bring profits to certain privileged persons, but the share of the plain people, in the scramble for colonies, has been taxes, more taxes, more misery and less security. When a profit and loss account is made up, imperialism emerges as a losing venture."

Pointing out that the existence of colonial empires has led to the establishment of vast armies and navies, Dr. Bose urged that the common people make up their minds as to whether they desire peace through cooperation or war through imperialism.

Publish Czech Nationality Act

Praha, Czechoslovakia, July 26 (AP)—The Czechoslovak government's draft of the nationality laws designed to settle the republic's minorities problems was published tonight with a preamble which promised a "spirit of democracy and humanity."

The proposed law, long awaited by European diplomats who fear the government's dispute with its Germanic minority over the division of government authority will end in an explosion threatening peace, declared Czechoslovakia shows by the statute its willingness to bring the various nationalities in the country together in a spirit of harmony.

Power To Purchase

U. S. Has It But Is Afraid to Use It Is Conclusion of Davies

If purchasing power alone could insure prosperity the nation now would have nothing to worry about and the word "recession" would not have been brought out of the dictionary.

But with purchasing power, there also must be the confidence and the will to utilize it, Prof. George R. Davies of the University of Iowa bureau of business research has pointed out.

"During the past few years there has been an abundance of purchasing power in the nation. Gold reserves have been large, banks have had ample funds, and prices as compared with pre-depression generally have been low."

"Yet recovery at best has been only partial and now in industrial centers depression again prevails, making it obvious that available purchasing power does not insure prosperity," Prof. Davies said.

Fears, which prevent purchasing power from finding its normal channels of circulation, today are aroused by political activities, mounting government debts, labor disturbances, and international disorders.

Then, he declared, those who could afford to expand their standards of living to keep pace with technical progress are deterred. Investment likewise languishes, while unemployment mounts.

Most obvious road to adequate purchasing power is the promotion of business enterprise, although temporarily certain expenditures may help. Business itself may increase purchasing power by lowering prices, but this does not stimulate activity as much as imagined by the average person, according to Prof. Davies.

Hay Fe-Achoo—Fever Victims! Uncle Sam's Going to Aid You

By SIGRID ARNE
AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON—The season is on again for hundreds of benighted souls who spend most of their time sneezing their heads off while normal mortals enjoy themselves getting a sun tan.

We speak of hay fever sufferers. They know what's wrong with them; so do their doctors. But neither knows just why.

If it's any comfort—between sneezes—a pair of scientists here already have laid down the barrage for an attack they hope will drive out the answer to that "why."

A Long, Long Trail

One of the scientists is Dr. Henry Stevens, a Department of Agriculture chemist. The other is Dr. Harry S. Bernton, an allergist, who is working with him.

That sort of team should get at the root of the matter, if the root can be found. For the hay fever sufferer is "allergic" to substances—pollens, molds and dusts—that come from agricultural and woodland plants. But where one hay feverite goes into spasms of sneezes when he's near ragweed another isn't affected by that at all, though he'll sneeze his head off if he's near orchard grass. They're each allergic, but to different things.

So in Dr. Stevens' laboratory, they're hard at work making analyses of agricultural products. What is the chemical component that produces sneezes?

Scientists may not learn the answer until the Bernton-Stevens tests have run their course, and that may take years. But they say this might happen:

When they've reduced the irritants to their chemical components they may discover one element common to all, that may be the villain. If that happens, they'll be on the home stretch. Then they can build an antidote.

Allergies and Relatives

Doctors and chemists have come this far: They know that hay fever, and its related ills—asthma, hives and eczema—are due to pollens or molds floating in the air, to certain foods and drugs, to animal hairs and cosmetics. Some experts suspect that certain cases of

East Is West Corrigan Sticks To Flight Story

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP)—Douglas Corrigan tonight told his American "discoverer" William K. Lawton, Associated Press correspondent at Roosevelt field here, that he'd like "anything they give me" in the way of a welcome when he comes back home.

Corrigan, in a trans-Atlantic interview with Lawton over National Broadcasting company facilities, stuck to his story that flying to Ireland was all a surprise to him.

Lawton, speaking from New York, asked:

"Doug, why is it that in the whole week I saw you in New York at Roosevelt field and we walked around together a little you didn't mention a thing about going to Ireland?"

"No," said Corrigan in reply from London, "It was a surprise to me, too, you know."

Then Lawton went on to say that Mayor LaGuardia had "asked us to find out what kind of a welcome home party you'd like."

"Well," said Corrigan, "I'll like anything they give me."

Lawton: "You are game for most anything, hey Doug?"

Corrigan: "That's right."

Lawton asked the flier about reports he might tour the country in his plane in behalf of the San Francisco exposition and Corrigan replied:

"I haven't heard anything definite on that, although I see that Mayor Rossi sent me an invitation to the celebration, and I hope to accept it if I ever get out that far."

Lawton was the first to interview Corrigan on his nonstop flight from California, days before the "wrong distance" flier took off for Ireland.

Ballard Predicts Wage Cuts In Steel Industry

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—A forecast of wage cuts in the steel industry was made today by Ernest S. Ballard, spokesman for the Inland Steel Co. of Chicago.

Ballard was a witness at a government hearing called by the public contracts board to determine the minimum wages which steel employers must pay while executing government contracts.

Counseling against establishment of a high base rate, Ballard said:

"It is obvious in the face of recently reduced prices and certain other costs of distribution which have been assumed by members of the steel industry," that present wage rates must be subject to adjustment to meet existing conditions.

Imperialism Is Wars' Source Says Dr. Bose
Asserting that "imperialism, in the 20th century, has become the most prolific source of wars—world wars," Dr. Sudhindra Bose, political science lecturer at the University of Iowa, concluded his series of campus lectures yesterday on Oriental contributions to civilization. "We may rest assured," he told his audience, "that as long as we pursue power politics, the world will always be crowded with the fear of aggression, war, revolution, hunger and death." "We must not be deluded by hypocritical pretensions of civilization and democracy under this system. All practitioners of might politics are tarred with the same brush." "In a world of competing imperial systems, there can be no peace!" The political scientist explained that the doctrine that "might constitutes right" is the essence of power politics—a system which is "dominated by fire and sword, poison and intrigue, though often punctuated with pious phrases and sonorous periods." "It is a heaven-promising system which gives us hell instead," he asserted. Present "might" politics are exemplified in European and Japanese imperialism, he revealed. "Although the latter has borrowed the spirit of imperialism from the west, it is suffering from the same infection as are the big nations of Europe," he said. "The champions of power politics are usually the self-elected civilizers of weak nations with great natural resources. These up-lifters and bearers of other people's burdens go about with an absolute self-sacrifice. As became professional do-gooders, they place themselves squarely around the necks of defenseless people and carry off anything lying loose." "It is true that some of the imperial possessions bring profits to certain privileged persons, but the share of the plain people, in the scramble for colonies, has been taxes, more taxes, more misery and less security. When a profit and loss account is made up, imperialism emerges as a losing venture." Pointing out that the existence of colonial empires has led to the establishment of vast armies and navies, Dr. Bose urged that the common people make up their minds as to whether they desire peace through cooperation or war through imperialism.

Power To Purchase
U. S. Has It But Is Afraid to Use It Is Conclusion of Davies
If purchasing power alone could insure prosperity the nation now would have nothing to worry about and the word "recession" would not have been brought out of the dictionary. But with purchasing power, there also must be the confidence and the will to utilize it, Prof. George R. Davies of the University of Iowa bureau of business research has pointed out.
