Largest School Budget, $953,021, Accepted for 1938-39

Lists $742,429 To Construct New Building Operating Expenses Figured at $210,591, Taxes as $204,900

By TOM JOHNSON The $953,021 budget of the city school district for 1938-39—the largest in its history because a modern safe high school is being constructed—was adopted without protest at the board's public hearing in the old administration building last night.

A survey of the official budget reveals that $742,429.61 will be expended from the school house fund for construction of the new building and that $210,591.50 will come from the general fund for operating expenses.

Of this amount $204,900 must be raised by district taxes, and the unofficial estimate of the new millage levy is approximately 17.5 mills. The budget was ordered certified to County Auditor Ed Sulek, who will release the official tax levy. During the last year, $187,786 was raised by taxes, and the levy was 15.2 mills.

Construction Costs The school house fund estimate of expenditures lists as capital outlay, $742,429.61, and debt service (interest on bonds), $10,706.25. The capital outlay is divided into building, equipment and ground improvements, $729,647.11, and sites, $2,076.25.

Estimated Receipts Total receipts for the 1938-39 fiscal year are estimated at $206,120 for the general fund and $389,250 for the school house fund. In the general fund, $191,900 will come from district taxes, $7,000 from tuition, $6,500 from the semi-annual apportionment, $470 from the income on property, and $250 from the sale of supplies.

Income for the school house fund is estimated at $326,250 from the PWA, which offered the grant for 45 per cent of the school's construction cost, and $13,000 from taxes. Grand total of fund receipts will be $545,370.

U. S., Great Britain Agree to Use Isles In Mid-Pacific as Joint Aviation Bases

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—The United States and Great Britain have settled their dispute over mid-Pacific Canton and Enderbury islands by means of a novel "working agreement" to use them jointly as future aviation and communications bases. The question of sovereignty will be held in abeyance for the time being. Secretary of State Hull said tonight the arrangement was somewhat unusual, and suggested it should set an example for settlement of other international disputes.

Japanese Pound at Yangtze River Lines in Effort to Find Weak Spot for Nippon Advance

SHANGHAI, Aug. 11 (Thursday) (AP)—Japanese troops were reported today to have struck at Chinese Yangtze river lines in swift attacks designed to find a weak spot for Japan's advance against Hankow. These exploratory forays were regarded as a prelude to the first decisive battles on the outer fringes of Chinese defenses guarding approaches to the provisional capital.

China's theater of war ... Canton, Hankow doomed? New death and destruction is brought to Canton, great port of Southern China, by Japanese warplanes. Hundreds have been killed. Japanese planes dropped leaflets warning residents that the city was due for bombing attacks on 10 consecutive days.

Wife Supports Former Deputy In Testimony

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 10 (AP)—Francis M. Carroll's wife and friends today supported before a jury trying him for murder the ousted deputy sheriff's story of his whereabouts the night Dr. James G. Littlefield was brutally beaten and strangled. The 43-year old Carroll denied point by point what Paul N. Dwyer, 19, who confessed the slaying and went to prison for life, now claims to be "the true" version—that Carroll slew not only the 67-year old physician but his wife, Lydia, 63, a killing Dwyer also had admitted.

Halt Loyalists At Segre River

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish frontier), Aug. 10 (AP)—Insurgent dispatches from Zaragoza, military headquarters, said today general Franco's troops had "killed or captured" all government soldiers who crossed the Segre river south of Balaguer Monday night in an unheard-of offensive. The insurgent reports said only a few government troops who participated in the crossing of the river were able to hold out against counterattacks.

And On The Subject Of Peace

WITH that grand news from Moscow and Tokyo still in our minds, we remember again those words that President Roosevelt used at San Francisco on July 14, when he declared that 1939 would be a year of "world-wide rejoicing" if it saw "definite steps toward permanent world peace."

Money spent for armaments, he pointed out, will not create permanent wealth, and he concluded that "we fervently hope for the day when other leading nations of the world will realize that their present course must inevitably lead toward a reduction in world armaments."

Those were good words. Unfortunately, though, they seemed to be just that. While the president spoke in San Francisco, in navy dock yards in the east the greatest ship building program in our history was going on. More money was being spent by the United States on war this year than last, and last year's expenditure was much greater than that of the year before.

Permanent peace is more than just so many well-voiced words. The momentum must start with someone, and the United States would seem the logical choice. As Oswald Garrison Villard declares, "The way to disarm is to disarm."

The one nation of the world that cannot be invaded, certainly has never been and is not in danger of being, is the United States. We suggest action, although words are all right as a beginning.

Maybe Dictators Have a Purpose After All

In recent years it has become more and more apparent that democracies are catapulted into wars against the better judgment of their rulers by sheer force of public opinion while dictatorships fight only when the dice are loaded in their favor.

In these observations lies the answer to the Soviet-Japanese "question" which was temporarily settled last night.

As the cards were stacked, neither Russia nor Japan could be sure of victory—Japan because of possible revolution at home and Russia because of the danger of attack by enemies in another quarter.

Yesterday Japan practically sued for peace along the Siberian border. Russia surprised the world and accepted the concessions for peace—at the same time signifying to the world that either she was not quite ready for war or else she expects Japan to be a weaker target at a later date.

Current comment seems to favor Russia in the event of a showdown, but it seems that while Russia knows it could win in the long run she fears that the cost would be too great.

Until Russia feels she has a "cinch," it is almost certain that there will be no more war threats between the Soviet and the Japanese nation.

A Swedish engineer has designed a special aviation motor for stratosphere flying in altitudes from 39,000 to 59,000 feet. The engine is calculated to give the plane a speed of about 465 miles per hour.

General Notices

Library Hours For the three weeks designated as a period of independent study, from Aug. 8 to Aug. 26, the library reading rooms will be open from 8 a.m. until noon, and from 1 to 5 p.m.

The education-philosophy-psychology library will be open from 3 a.m. to 10 p.m. Special hours for other departmental libraries will be posted on the doors. GRACE VAN WORMER, Acting director

Recreational Swimming The pool in the women's gymnasium will be open the following hours for recreational swimming for all women registered for the independent study unit. Monday to Friday—4:30 to 5:30 p.m. Saturday: 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. GLADYS SCOTT

Men May Swim The fieldhouse pool will be open daily from 2 to 5:30 p.m. for recreational swimming for all men registered in the independent study unit. D. A. ARMBRUSTER, Gymnasium Director

Employment Men and women, students or non-students, inclusive of those having other employment, who may be available at any time from Aug. 4 to Sept. 25, are urged to report to the employment bureau in the old dental building. This period causes unusual difficulty in caring for the hospital board jobs which occur at meal times, since they cannot be combined into accumulation schedules. We request the cooperation of the entire student body in caring for these jobs in order that we may retain a maximum number of student jobs during the school year. LEE H. KANN, Manager

University High Exams University high school will hold a series of examinations for pupils entering grades 7 to 12 at the fall term. Pupils who will enroll in grade 7 will report Monday, Aug. 8. Pupils entering grade 9, and those entering grades 8, 10, 11 and 12 for the first time will report Wednesday, Aug. 10. At the time of examination pupils will have an opportunity to register for the fall session, which begins at 9 a.m. Sept. 19.

Examinations for pupils expecting to enter grades 7, 8, 10, 11 and 12 are not entrance examinations, but serve for purposes of classification and guidance. Because it is impossible for University high school to accept all pupils applying for entrance to the ninth grade, examinations will also serve as a means of determining the quality of each candidate applying for admission to this grade. No student who has not been enrolled previously will be considered for admission unless the examinations have been completed. Students who were enrolled in the eighth grade of the school last year will take the examinations for purposes of classification and guidance, not for entrance. All examinations will be held at the high school, with headquarters in the gymnasium. Monday examinations for seventh grade students will begin promptly at 1 p.m. Wednesday examinations will start at 8:30 a.m. Those who take the Wednesday tests must attend both morning and afternoon sessions. WASHINGTON WORLD By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The federal circuit court of appeals at Philadelphia recently rendered a decision which seems to make remarkably good sense in connection with labor disputes. It was a decision, too, which appears to be entirely satisfactory to upholders of the Wagner law and to the National Labor Relations Board.

It was not exactly a decision between labor and capital. Capital's interest was indirectly involved in it, but more properly it was a decision between conflicting labor groups.

Background In this particular case the employing concern was quite willing to bargain collectively with its workers. However, the concern had two opposing factions of workers—the A. F. of L. faction and the C. I. O. faction. The concern could not very well bargain collectively with both of them at once, for, as we know, they are bitter rivals. The C. I. O. claimed to be in a majority and the concern, presumably in good faith, arrived at a collective agreement with them. Thereupon the A. F. of L. adherents of this faction of course had a perfect right to quit, but they also proceeded to picket. This picketing was not specifically a picketing of the employing concern's plant. It was directed rather against the C. I. O. Nevertheless the concern itself was picketed and was seriously embarrassed by it.

Between Two Fires The concern's reasoning was that it was being unfairly victimized by a fight in which it was entirely neutral—but it had to bargain with one group or the other, and it used its best judgment as to which was in a majority.

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

BY GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Much to my surprise I find myself thinking about the tango again today. After that blurb last week I thought I was through with Spanish music awhile. But I just had a long walk with Eddie LeBaron, and LeBaron is synonymous with the tango in this town.

Months ago I wrote that I thought he was the best dancer in town. I meant by this that his dancing was most pleasing to the eye. He used to teach the tango but now he dances only for pleasure, and when I asked him who were the best dancers he had ever danced with he unhesitatingly named Mae Murray, Martha Raye and Ginger Rogers. These were professional names. He preferred not to name his favorite partners in the social world.

"I love the tango," he tells you "and I always will. It is the only dance with a definite motive because it has a beginning and end. It's music is not the most romantic in the world—that is reserved for the Mexican waltz—but it is haunting and it is always melancholy. Have you never observed that the words to a tango are always sad?"

LeBaron was born in Mexico. After being reared in France and Italy he came back to New York and spent four years in a military school. On the coast he organized dance studios and orchestras. He makes all the Spanish-speaking pictures for Monogram, Inc. And his own tango orchestra—well, it has been at the Rainbow Room for 16 months and the Rockefeller's will keep him there until 1941.

Eddie thinks the tango is the easiest of all dances to learn. "If you can walk you can tango," he declares. "And you can learn it in 30 minutes. If you can't learn the tango in half an hour you can't learn it in five years." In his nightly duties as the director of a celebrated orchestra he has learned that every hour of the evening has its peculiar psychology.

"That is a strange thing, but it is true. In the early part of the evening, from eight to 11, we always play in medium tempo, not too slow and not too fast. By 11 o'clock everybody is feeling good and from then till one we go to town. From one to three is the romantic time of night and we play soft dreamy music, lovely old waltzes and throbbing tangos. Sometimes we toss in a rumba, or even a minuet but mostly we hold to the romantic mood. It is best that way. We know this because the applause tells us so."

It is after the three o'clock curfew that LeBaron has his own entertainment. A few clubs play a little later and a nice timing arrangement permits him to arrive at favorite spots for 30 minutes of his beloved tangoing. Then he has something to eat and goes home. His home, by the way, is on top of the 18 Club, in 52nd street, which is the noisiest street in town. But as he seldom arrives there before 5 a.m. the bedlam has ceased.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

BY ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD—Bette Davis has found a Cause. She shouldn't have (Bette says so herself) because when she gets into a thing she gets all excited and won't let go until it's done.

This, as you can see, is a sorry state of affairs for a busy movie actress. And Bette is busy. Trussed up in corset and stays of the Gibson-girl era, she's emoting under physical difficulties through the dramatic morasses of "The Sisters." Her waist is but little larger than a quart milk-bottle, and she can't breathe much but she has to emote just the same. It's tough.

But what matter hardships when Bette has a Cause? She is president of the Tailwagger Foundation of America. This, to put it roughly, is a society dedicated to the more abundant life for dogs.

But let Bette tell about it. Today she's knitting in her dressing room on the set, temporarily out of her strait-jacket and comfortable in sweater and shorts. I storm in. Well, I mean I go in, full of righteous indignation. I am meaning to hurl phrases: " . . . children of the slums . . . one-third of a nation . . . starving Armenians . . ."

But I don't get to the first reel. Miss D. always has that soothing effect on me. Or maybe I'm just ineffectual and never will win friends and influence people.

In the first place, Bette explains that life membership in Tailwaggers costs but $2 per dog member, nothing more asked. And I can see that a movie star can spend two bucks of her so-hard-earned cash on dogdom if she feels like it without being considered thoughtless of the famous "one-third."

"I was just a dog-lover—I have two—and I took good care of mine and knew they were happy and I didn't give a thought to other dogs," Bette explains earnestly. "But then I learned about POUNDS! They're awful!"

Tailwaggers, it seems, saves dogs from pounds. If your dog is lost they find it. And then the society fights legislation it considers unfair to dog-owners. Bette warms up on this point: "It dawned that state bill making rabies inoculation compulsory, charging dog-owners for the shots. You know how that would have worked out—how would anyone know what was really in the shots? Probably water!"

So I ask her about that proposed city ordinance during the local rabies scare—the one to confine dogs in their own back yards. Perspiring freely, Zadok Dumbkopf complains that summer is comfortable when autumn arrives.

Health Hints

By Logan Clendening, M.D.

Sun goggles undoubtedly save a great deal of eye irritation. Those with sensitive eyes—blue and light irises—find them almost necessities. The summer sunshine on motor highway and by beach and shore is not badly irritating. If you think, however, of what the glare of the sun coming through the thin air of the mountain peaks and reflected from the fields of snow will do, you can see that there are possibilities of trouble. The mountain snow field glare would cause a severe conjunctivitis to anyone who was long enough exposed. People vary in sensitivity to this, and inactivity those who would be burned by summer sunlight affect goggles.

Besides the local effect on the conjunctiva, goggles prevent headaches and reflex nervous digestive upsets. I know of two instances where migraine sufferers found that going out in the sun without goggles brought on attacks. Many cases of summer headaches must be of the same variety.

After the light rays at either end of the spectrum were discovered—those invisible to human vision—the invention of glasses to strain out some of these rays has gone on. It is the ultraviolet rays beyond the violet end of the spectrum which cause the conjunctivitis of the unwary mountain climber.

Some abortive attempts at making colored glasses were made by Fieuzel of Paris and Dr. William Thompson of Philadelphia in the 1880's. Thompson had glasses made with an amethyst tint, and since no good formula for making amethyst glass existed, opticians used old window panes, colored amethyst by long exposure to sunlight. Such were the crude beginnings of the modern industry of colored glasses.

Experiments With Colored Lenses But in 1909 the Glass Workers Cataract Committee of Great Britain engaged Sir Isaac Crookes to experiment on adding various metals to the ingredients of glass in order to produce various colored lenses. The committee was so named because they were attempting to prevent a cataract peculiar to glass blowers and considered to be due to infra-red rays.

Tuning In with Loren Hickerson

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS . . . of a successful business man. Came a note recently from Horace Heidt, who presents his Brigadiers each Sunday night over the NBC-Red network.

It included what Heidt believes to be 10 rules for getting along in the business world, and because they seem to me to be the real thing, I pass them on to you.

1. Don't wait for the other fellow to come to you; go to him. 2. In competition with others, always give them the credit of being a little smarter than you are. Then work like the deuce to prove that they aren't.

3. If you have no money and little credit, capitalize your personality. Sometimes it pays to have a nerve. 4. Never admit to anybody—and least of all to yourself—that you are licked.

5. Keep your business troubles to yourself. Nobody likes a calamity howler; besides, he finds scant favor with the bankers. 6. Don't be afraid of dreaming too big dreams. It won't hurt you to figure on owning a railroad, even if you have to compromise on a fillyer.

7. Make friends; but remember that the best of friends will wear out if you use them too frequently. 8. Be square even to the point of finickiness, and you will have mighty little occasion to complain of a crooked world.

9. Take advice but do your own deciding. 10. Don't toady. The world respects the man who stands up on his hind legs and looks it in the eye. Those 10 rules, seems to me, will do anybody a lot of good. Wit . . . Judging by some of the salaries Hollywood stars get, it should be called the golden screen. — Jerry Cooper. The Kidoodlers contend that they know a movie director who puts his heart into all his pictures—even if there isn't a part for her. Don't forget that a lot of men who have made their mark in the world can just about make it on a check.

Ambers-Armstrong Fight Is Postponed By Deluge of Rain

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP)—Before even a single preliminary blow had been struck, rain descended in such sudden and copious quantity at the Polo Grounds tonight that it washed out the 15-round match between Eightweight Champion Lou Ambers of Herkimer, N. Y., and his dusky challenger, Henry Armstrong of Los Angeles.

The elements, adding a climax wallow into a fistie show already hard hit at the box office, knocked the match off the outdoor calendar completely. After a short confab with managers of the principals, Promoter Mike Jacobs announced the bout would be held in Madison Square Garden next Wednesday night, Aug. 7.

Bees Explode Sixteen Hits To Win, 8-2

BOSTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—The weak-hitting Boston Bees exploded a 16-hit attack off five pitchers today to wallop the New York Giants 8 to 2.

Young Dick Errickson Beats Terrymen As Melton Fails Again

Dick Errickson, although tagged for 11 Giant hits, was effective in the pinches in chalking up his second win of the season. The Giants left 13 runners stranded on the bags.

BITS about Sports

By SCOTT FISHER

Reverberations are still being heard regarding Mickey Cochrane's abrupt dismissal as boss at Detroit. The action evidently was a complete surprise to everyone and now that the surprise has worn off, attempts are being made to figure out the reason for the move, all without success.

Iowa City Woman's Club Announces Activities for Year

Program, Committees for New Year Announced in Year Book

Mrs. Olsen, Board Compile Volume To Go to Two Hundred

More than 200 members of the Iowa City Woman's club will receive copies of the annual year book within the next few days.

The year book is a compendium of the activities in which the group will participate during the current year, including also reports of various committees and departments.

The book was compiled through the cooperation of the club president, Mrs. Forest B. Olsen and her executive board; namely, Mrs. Minerva S. Knight, vice-president; Mrs. Isom A. Rankin, recording secretary; Mrs. A. W. Bennett, corresponding secretary; Mrs. C. A. Bowman, treasurer; Kate Donovan, historian; Mrs. C. Woody Thompson, drama department chairman; Mrs. Joseph Howe, garden department; Mrs. R. G. Busby, home department; Mrs. W. H. Cobb, literature department; Mrs. Roy Flickenger, music department; Mrs. Harry Newburn, poetry department; Mrs. George Johnston, public welfare; Mrs. Paul C. Packer, social sciences; Mrs. H. S. Ivie, chairman of the house committee; Mrs. A. C. Trowbridge, program chairman; Mrs. F. D. Ketselen, social committee; Mrs. C. H. Smoke, publicity; Mrs. Petz Laude, year book; Mrs. V. W. Bales, membership.

General meetings of the club will be held at 2:30 on the afternoon of the third Friday of each month with the executive board convening at 1:30 on each general club meeting day. The annual meeting will be called for 2:30 on the third Friday in May.

The first of the nine general meetings scheduled for the coming year will fall on Sept. 16 at 322 N. Clinton street. The garden department will present a program on "Autumn Flower Arrangements" with Prof. J. B. Winger of Ames giving an illustrated talk on "Flower Arrangements."

"Old Furniture and Flint Glass" will be the subject matter for the program planned by the home department for Oct. 21. Mrs. Leigh Wallace will be the speaker at the meeting which will convene at 322 N. Clinton street at 2:30 p.m.

With the Music department in charge of the program the general club will have a luncheon at Iowa Union for the November meeting. It is scheduled for Nov. 18.

The December meeting of the group will be at 322 N. Clinton street under the direction of the Poetry department. The program has not yet been disclosed. The Program and place of the January meeting in the charge of the public welfare department will be announced later. The time is set for 2:30 p.m.

Prof. K. E. Leib of the college of commerce will address the club on "Making Business Work" at the February meeting which the social science department is planning.

The arrangements for the March gathering include a tea for the visiting state officers and for the club women who will be attending the play contest. A program is being planned by the Drama department.

Iowa Union will be the scene of the April meeting, a luncheon planned by the literature department. On the program Mrs. C. S. Williams will give sketches from "The Least of These — in Columbia."

The closing meeting in May will include annual reports, election of officers and miscellaneous business.

Drama Department
"The Children's Theater" has been chosen the theme of the drama department for the coming year. Opening the year's program will be a garden party honoring new members at the home of Mrs. C. A. Bowman, 319 Hutchison avenue. During the year the drama department will meet every two weeks to present skit, playlets and other dramatic enterprise. At the same time they will be working on programs to be given in exchange with Cedar Rapids and Fairfield.

Garden Problems
The garden department will study problems which are confronted by the average gardener and brings in a number of local authorities as speakers on the programs. Their first meeting is the general meeting to which the garden department members will be hostesses.

Subjects such as handicraft, gift suggestions, rug weaving, furniture and glass recipes, style and home decoration will be the projects undertaken by the home department this fall. Their first meeting will be the fall tea at the home of Mrs. Roy Flickenger, 301 N. Capital street.

Modern Books
Approximately 20 modern books will be reviewed at the meetings of the literature department next year. The first meeting, however, will be a Garden party honoring

Postpone Weekly Dancing Parties At High School

The weekly dancing parties, for alumni and students of Iowa City high school, given by the Parent-Teacher association each Thursday, have been postponed for the rest of the summer.

The next party is planned for the first Thursday night in September when Bill Meardon's nine-piece orchestra will again provide music for dancing from 8:30 to 11 p.m.

Legal Fight Two Classes Struggle For '40 Trophy

The laws are at it again! Not so long ago it was announced that the graduating class of the University of Iowa college of law in 1895, winners of the traveling reunion trophy in 1935 for having the largest percentage of its living members on the campus, was determined to do it again in 1940.

But five members of the law class of 1915 were named to a committee in Des Moines at the recent state democratic judicial convention, to take charge of mustering the forces of that class in an effort to have 100 per cent of its living members on the campus in 1940.

Alumni of any particular class of the university return for a reunion every fifth year. Classes graduated in years ending with the digits 0 or 5 will meet in 1940.

Attorney William R. Hart of Iowa City, a graduate of the University of Iowa's 1915 class in law, was one of the members of the committee.

Other members, all attorneys, are Emmett Dulany of Clinton, M. W. O'Reilly of Cedar Rapids, Francis Harrison, of Davenport, and E. P. Cronin of Victor.

Members of the 1895 law class have been presented booklets published by one of the members, including a special invitation to all the class members to return for the 1940 reunion.

It looks like a struggle for the 1940 traveling trophy!

Mrs. De Wees On Visit Here

Mrs. Edgar De Wees of Pasadena, Cal., arrived here Monday for a visit with her two daughters and a brother, Mrs. Robert Spencer, Mrs. A. W. Bennet, and Albert Sidwell.

A fourth sister, Mrs. E. A. Ish of Waterloo, Ind., is expected to arrive Friday. The two visitors will remain until the latter part of the month.

This is the first these four sisters and brother have been together in eight years.

new members at which there will be an open forum on the "Best Book Read This Summer."

A study will be made by the members of the music department of the history of American music, marches, carols, southern music, religious music, operatic music, growth of the opera, and words and music. The first program of the season will be the dinner at the Iowa Union at which the program will include "Tale of Iowa River in Song and Legend."

A New Campus Beauty Spot Lagoons Being Built on Fine Arts Campus Will Be for Skating in Winter

It isn't exactly time to think about ice skating.

But just the same, University of Iowa students will have a place to ice skate come winter time.

You may have noticed the lagoons which are gradually taking form on the west bank of Iowa river, just north of the dramatic arts building.

They are a part of a long-range plan of University of Iowa improvements which will eventually see a completed fine arts colony on the west shore of the river, fully landscaped—a beauty spot for campus, city and state.

The lagoons, two in number, will be used as skating rinks during the winter. In the summer time, the bodies of water, filled with water lilies and other plants, will continue to form a campus beauty spot.

A narrow channel on the west side, near the newly-completed Templin road running north past the fine arts colony, connects the two lagoons.

The irregular walls are composed of the same stone which has been used to build the walls all along Iowa river. Running in and out, the two lagoons cover several hundred yards of territory.

A spot of desolation now, with mounds of earth, a little muddy water and a great many water birds in and about the space, the construction of the two lagoons represents the approaching time when, as funds become available, the fine arts colony and its extensive surroundings will be a complete unit of the University of Iowa.

As part of the same long-range university program, a river dredge, now being prepared for operation just around the river bend north of University high school, will soon begin to remove the mounds of earth between the stone banks of Iowa river.

Friar Leads St. Bernard Dogs of Alps To More Perilous Duties in Himalayas

DARJEELING, India (AP)—Mount Everest, highest peak in the world, and other Himalayan summits, may no longer provide snowy graves for those who attempt to scale them, if experiment of using St. Bernard dogs for rescue work, proves successful.

A number of St. Bernard dogs have passed through here en route to the Augustinian monastery at the summit of the Latsa Pass in Tibet.

Accompanying the dogs is Brother Cyril, an elderly monk, from the famous St. Bernard Kennels in the Alps who will use them in rescue work. The great, powerful animals, that have a distinguished record of saving lives in the Alps, seem to like their new home.

At the Augustinian monastery in Tibet, there is a convent where porters and other travelers are given shelter. The monastery is situated at a height of 16,000 feet. Here the dogs will help the monks in saving passers-by from the perils of the mountains.

Other St. Bernards will be sent to the slopes of Mount Everest and other snow-capped mountains to assist in bringing succor to any climbers who may fall by the way.

Three groups recently began mountain climbing expeditions in the Himalayas. A group of Americans set out to scale Mount Godwin Austen, second highest mountain in the world; a company of Germans hoped to climb Mount Nanga Parbat, 26,629 feet high; while a party of Englishmen aimed to conquer Mount Everest, the "roof of the world."

During the last few years nearly a score of European climbers and native porters have perished in the snows in attempting to scale these Himalayan summits. They might have been saved, the Swiss monks think, if they had sturdy St. Bernard dogs accompanying them.

Long Skirts, And Short Winter Collections Of Paris Designers Shown This Week

PARIS, Aug. 10 (AP)—Old fashioned long crinoline skirts and much shorter ones just covering the knee were two diverse trends in the winter collections of Paris designers shown this past week.

The hem-line of daytime wear inched up to the knee. But for evening wear, designers found inspiration for new fashions in 18th century French painters' depictions of beautiful women exquisitely clad.

Furs and fabrics especially reflected the period's glamor.

The chief colors shown ran the entire range of violets, and also included sulphur yellow, peony pink, guardsman red, olive green, salt water greens, ardoise blues, medium grays, wine reds and black in addition to white and pastels.

Feast Was Fatal

Iowa Citizens Tour 11 Towns Today to Advertise 4-H Show

VFW Drum and Bugle Corps Will Play at Stopping Points

Business Men, Farmers, University Officials on Trip

Iowa Citizens — business men, farmers, university officials—will make an annual tour today, a "good-will" tour which will take them into 11 towns, advertising next week's 4-H club show.

The caravan of travellers will leave from in front of the Press-Citizen building at 7:30 this morning, each wearing a huge straw hat, a custom in the tour.

The Veterans of Foreign War junior drum and bugle corps will go along, and will furnish music at each of the stops.

At noon all of the more than 100 on the trip will stop to eat at Wellman. The dinner will have turkey as the main dish.

At each stop there will be short speeches. County Agent Emmett C. Gardner, who is in charge and responsible for much of the show next week, will speak.

The Johnson county farm bureau and the local chamber of commerce are sponsoring the tour.

Stops will be at Hills, Lone Tree, Downey, West Branch, Solon, North Liberty, Oxford, Tiffin, Wellman, Kalona and Riverside.

The 4-H club show takes place next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Predicts Cool, Fair for Today

But Weatherman Pessimistic On Friday's Temperature

Fair and cooler weather for Iowa City today is the encouraging report from the weather man, although he said tomorrow the temperatures may rise again.

Yesterday's high was 94 at 1:41 p.m., and low was 76 at 8:45 p.m., although the temperature was going down hourly.

Leland Stock To Read for Pageant

President of the Johnson county 4-H club boys—Leland Stock of Lone Tree—will be the reader for the pageant "A Century of Harmony," to be presented next Wednesday at the 4-H club show. The 4-H showing continues through Tuesday and Friday evenings.

Tryouts were held Tuesday afternoon at the farm bureau picnic. The pageant was written by Mrs. Emmett C. Gardner.

Firemen Called To Extinguish Car Fire

Iowa City firemen were called to the corner of College and Capitol streets at 6 a.m. yesterday to extinguish a blaze causing minor damage to an automobile belonging to F. W. Cornell.

Earthquakes Destroy 3 Towns in Ecuador; 35 Shocks in 24 Hrs.

QUITO, Ecuador, Aug. 10 (AP)—A series of earthquakes today destroyed three towns, causing undetermined deaths and injuries, and damaged buildings in Quito, the capital, and Guayaquil, the country's main port and largest city.

The small towns of Sangolqui, Eltingo and Andalaguas were destroyed. In Alangas 35 shocks were felt in 24 hours, levelling the town and causing several deaths and many injuries.

Tells How To Keep Cool

Engineer Gives Six Rules for Summer Comfort at Home

NEW YORK, N. Y.—The hot summer sidewalks of New York are echoing this month to the footfalls of thousands of out-of-town visitors.

East side and west side—from the Battery to Spuyten Duyvel, on the uppermost reaches of the famed Empire State building observation tower, and in the fascinating labyrinths of Rockefeller Center, may be heard once again the tourists' historic lament: "New York is a swell place to visit—but, I wouldn't live here for anything!"

Mostly it's the heat that gets them.

Or, at least, that's their opinion. Actually, the sidewalks of New York are no harder nor hotter than the sidewalks of a hundred Main Streets. It's just that there are more of them in the big city.

Visitors on Parade

Usually, too, visitors like to put their best foot forward in New York and that means the newest pair of shoes—sometimes brand new shoes. It also means a collar and tie and a coat in the heat of the day. And, perhaps most important of all, it means little or no relaxation "at home" after a busy day.

According to heating and ventilating engineers summertime holds no more terror for the resident of New York than it does for the citizen in Ft. Worth, Tex., or Butte, Mont., or Boston, Mass.

It's all in the way you live at home, say the engineers, and they point out that hot, sticky day-times and uncomfortable, sleepless nights are just as common throughout about 75 per cent of the United States—where the temperature reaches 100 degrees or more—as they are in New York.

One advantage, however, which the average out-of-towner has over the average New Yorker is the fact that he can very easily do something about home comfort. With a comparatively small expenditure and very little effort, almost any home can be made comfortable in even the hottest weather.

Rules for Summer Comfort

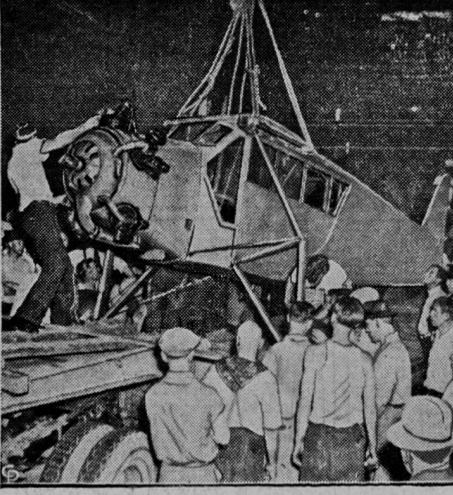

There are six suggestions these experts offer for summertime comfort and coolness in the home.

1. Awnings are the first of their recommendations to keep the radiant heat of the sun from pouring through the windows.
2. Keep the windows shut to keep the house cool. This old and effective custom is better known on Main Street than on Broadway.
3. One of the best and most widely practiced cooling customs, however, is that of insulating side walls and second floor ceiling with a blanket of mineral wool. In already-built homes, granulated mineral wool is blown into the hollow outer walls by forced air pressure, but in new construction, the material is built into the stud and joist spaces in the form of batts or strips.

Attic Is Important

4. An attic fan is also a certain summer solace. To give best results, it should be turned on in the early evening. It will draw as many as 16 changes of air an hour through the house, cooling off the heat-charged furniture and setting up a mild artificial breeze in every room.

5. The attic offers still another cooling possibility. By opening windows at opposite ends, the resulting cross ventilation will reduce the accumulation of still, overheated air above the second floor bedrooms. If the attic is unvented, lacking both windows and louvres, a set of adjustable louvres should be cut into the gable ends.

6. The kitchen, according to a unanimous women's vote, is the warmest room in the house. It can have its share of summer relief without disturbing the three-meals-a-day routine, by having an electric exhaust fan set in a wall or window near the range. It will gently draw off the smoke, odors and heat of cooking and discharge them into the outer air. Care should be taken not to locate the fan directly below a second story window.

Beck Funeral Will Be Today

Prof. Lampe Will Be In Charge of Rites This Afternoon

Funeral service for Mrs. W. E. Beck will be at the Beck residence, 117 E. Davenport street, at 2 o'clock this afternoon with Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, in charge.

Burial will be in Oakland, and the body will be at Beckman's until time of the funeral.

Mrs. Beck died early Tuesday morning at the Beck summer cottage in Cedar Falls.

Board Accepts Resignations Of 3 Teachers at Grade Schools; Offers Contracts for New Year

Virginia Rice Will Become New Music Supervisor

The resignations of three Iowa City public schools system instructors were accepted by the city school board last night, and three new teachers were offered contracts for the coming year.

The teachers who resigned are Hazel Larson, fourth grade, Henry Sabin school; Bertha Ball, first grade, Longfellow school, and Edith Mahon, Henry Sabin and Kirkwood schools kindergarten instructor.

The new instructors will be Virginia Rice of Milton, who succeeds Phyllis Lehmer as supervisor of music in the elementary schools; Mildred Gisel of Andrew, who will replace Miss Larson, and Lola Schoellerman of Lake Park, succeeding Miss Ball.

Miss Rice, who will receive a Bachelor of Music Education degree from Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill., this week, has taught school at Gideon, Mo., Dysart, Guthrie Center and Carroll.

Miss Gisel was graduated from Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls, and attended the university summer session. She had previous teaching experience at Delta and Preston.

Miss Schoellerman has instructed at Finchford, Salix, and Jefferson. She is a graduate of Iowa State Teachers college.

The new books which have been recommended by the class instructors are "A First Course in Algebra" by Stone and Malory; "Elementary Practical Physics" by Black and Davis; "Comprehensive Units in Chemistry," a laboratory manual by Carpenter and Carleton; "Essentials of Biology" by Meier and Shoemaker; "Gregg Shorthand, Functional Methods," two volumes, by Louis Leslie; "Functional Methods, Dictation," (second semester), by Leslie, and "History of Our Country" by Muzzey.

Members of the committee are Dr. W. E. Spence and Prof. Thomas G. Caywood.

Pageant to Close Playground Season

Venetian Lantern Parade To Be Highlight of Event at Horace Mann

To mark the close of the current playground season, ending Saturday, the play directors and children on all of the city playgrounds are combining their efforts in staging a community night entertainment which will feature a Venetian lantern parade.

The program will be presented on the Horace Mann school grounds this evening and is scheduled to begin at 7 o'clock. Fathers and mothers and friends of the children are invited to attend.

An unusual portion of the evening's program will be the parade of illuminated and decorated lanterns made by the youngsters in the craft groups conducted at all three play centers.

The display of these lighted transparencies in a procession is a new playground activity and has never been featured before by any group in Iowa City.

M. E. Trowbridge, playground director, announced that this part of the program will get under way at approximately 8 o'clock and will be the conclusion of the evening's entertainment.

In preparing for the lantern parade the girls and boys have gathered more than one hundred cartons and packing boxes of all shapes and sizes. Designs and sil-

The outside of each box is painted a flat black so that only the illuminated windows will show in the darkness. The interior of each lantern is prepared for illumination and is ready to be fitted with string or a pole for carrying in the procession.

The entertainment preceding the lantern parade will be composed of groups and of individuals selected from all the play centers.
