Roosevelt Emphatic In Asking Senator's Defeat

F. R. Speaks For Camp In Georgia Talk

Calls for Defeat Of Sen. W. F. George In Georgia Primary

BARNESVILLE, Ga., Aug. 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt for the first time called vigorously today for the defeat of a democratic senator he feels does not meet the tests of liberalism—and his challenge was promptly accepted.

Mr. Roosevelt told perspiring and cheering thousands assembled here for a rural electrification celebration he felt Senator Walter F. George should not be returned to the seat he has occupied 16 years and added firmly "I most assuredly would vote for Lawrence Camp" in Georgia's Sept. 14 primary.

Senator on Platform
Senator George sat impassively on the platform through the president's hard hitting speech and at its conclusion walked across to the party chief, shook hands with him and said:

"Mr. Roosevelt, I regret that you have taken this occasion to question my democracy and to attack my public record. I want you to know that I accept the challenge."

In making the young federal district attorney from Atlanta his choice for the office, the chief executive frowned also on the candidacy of former Gov. Eugene Talmadge. He did not mention the fourth man in the race, William G. McRae, Atlanta attorney and Townsend plan advocate.

Was Second Speech
It was the second Georgia speech of the day for the Washington-bound president who is returning from a cross-country vacation and a Pacific fishing cruise. This morning at Athens he received an honorary doctorate of laws from the state university, renewed previous appeals for a sharp improvement in southern economic standards and called for "constant progressive action" in the national government.

Mr. Roosevelt frequently called George "my friend" and said he "is beyond doubt a gentleman and a scholar" and his personal friend, but "I am impelled to make it clear that on most public questions he and I do not speak the same language."

Senator George fought the supreme court reorganization plan, the executive department reorganization and the wage-hour bill as well as some lesser administration proposals.

German Fliers Span Atlantic In 25 Hours

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)—Four German fliers, who had dinner last night in Berlin, dropped in on New York this afternoon to complete in 25 hours aviation's first westward flight between the two cities.

Over 3,942 miles of land and water their 24-passenger Focke-Wulf transport flew to demonstrate, it was explained, the feasibility of air service between Germany and America.

But so unheralded and casual was the flight that it had been under way hours before it came to the public's notice.

By one of aviation's pioneers, Al Williams, the feat was described as "one of the most significant developments in modern flying." He stressed that Alfred Henke, the skipper, and his crew of three had made the trip in a land plane, not a seaplane or flying boat.

A scheduled immediate return trip was postponed because of minor trouble with the cowling and hydraulic propeller brake on the inboard starboard motor. Oil poured from the propeller mounting, and the top of the cowling, loosened by vibration, rattled.

Henke said the motor trouble was minor and that he hoped to get away easier on the return trip, with tail winds speeding his plane homeward, in a couple of days.

Deutsche Lufthansa, the German airline company, said Henke had brought the 19-ton plane over merely to demonstrate the ease with which the flight could be made.

Army of 60,000 Begins Drive Against Great Chinese Air Base

Japanese Trying To Crack Lines Defending Nanchang

SHANGHAI, Aug. 11 (AP)—A Japanese army estimated at 60,000 strong today opened an offensive designed to crack the Chinese lines defending Nanchang, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's greatest air base.

Nanchang, about 90 miles south of the Yangtze river, stands as a threat to the left flank of the Japanese drive upriver toward Hankow.

Fierce fighting raged through the wooded hills between Shaochen and Mahuling, about 70 miles north of Nanchang.

From Mahuling, foreign observers reported the whole panorama of the offensive was visible, with the Japanese showing southward from the gray fringe of the river to widen their valley offensive.

It was believed that the Japanese strategy called for a domination of Nanchang before the river drive could be carried much farther westward from Kiukiang, 135 miles downstream and southeast of Hankow, fell to the Japanese July 26. Since the fall of Kiukiang, the Japanese left wing had advanced southward along the Kiukiang-Nanchang railway for about 12 miles over level terrain.

Now, about 20 miles from the river, the Japanese were out of the shielding range of naval guns and with field artillery faced strong Chinese entrenchments in hills dominating the approach to Nanchang.

Foreign observers reported the continuous flash and roar of big guns as Chinese and Japanese matched artillery. While the thunder of the rival bombardments rolled over the wooded countryside Chinese and Japanese infantry patrols engaged in frequent close range clashes.

From hilltop observation posts, the observers saw a long line of stretcher-bearers walking back from the Japanese front.

Insurgent Army Advances Near Loyalist City

HENDAYE, France (AP)—Insurgent armies in southwest Spain drove today to within range of Cabeza Del Buey, key to the rich government-held Almaden mercury mines.

A pitched battle was reported in progress around the town, 24 miles west of Almaden. It is the last important position between the insurgents' Esremadura front and Almaden. The latter is in the highway running east from Casturea.

Insurgent dispatches told of a general advance while government advisers acknowledged the campaign had moved into the outskirts of Cabeza Del Buey.

The government forces which have fallen back steadily before the insurgent offensive for several weeks, have fortified the town strongly as a main line defense.

Recluse Has Many Millions

Salesman's Six-Weeks Vigil at Home Brings Picturesque Man to Light

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)—Another New York multi-millionaire recluse—as picturesque as the almost legendary Wendel sisters and Ida Wood—came to light today as a persistent young real estate dealer continued a six-weeks vigil outside his house, vainly trying to do business with him.

The new man of mystery is Langley Collyer, reputed landlord of half of New York's waterfront and owner of many other valuable city plots.

His retreat is a battered brownstone house far up Fifth avenue, so decrepit it looks deserted.

The enterprising land dealer, who wants to buy a key piece of property on Long Island, assessed at $125,000, from Collyer, is Maurice Gruber.

"I need the land to go with another piece of property I'm selling," he explained, scanning his knuckles, raw from six weeks of futile banging at Collyer's door (there's no bell).

Helen Worden, New York World-Telegram reporter, related the few known facts about Collyer.

He inherited his fortune, she said, from ancestors as far back as the colonists on the Speedwell, a ship that followed the Mayflower. His father was a doctor.

"Our people owned the first steamboats on the Hudson river," he told her. Regarding a neighborhood legend that in his battered "castle" he had 17 pianos, he told her:

"I have 10 instead of 17—I enjoy playing on different ones."

Jim Replies Answers Charges On His Income

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)—James Roosevelt, in a magazine article entitled "I'm Glad You Asked Me," today made public his income tax returns for the last five years, showing an annual income ranging between $21,714 and $49,167. A total income of $172,978.03 was shown in the five returns.

The president's son invited an investigation of his affairs by "some hard-hitting anti-new deal senator."

"My trouble," he was quoted as saying, "seems to be a mixture of being the son of the president and not failing in business."

Young Roosevelt, who said that what he hated most was having his father "smeared through me," authorized the treasury department to turn over to Walter Davenport, associate editor of Collier's, certified photographic copies of his tax statements which indicated that his annual income never had reached $50,000.

In a recent Saturday Evening Post article, Alva Johnston said Roosevelt's earnings from the insurance business were estimated at somewhere between $250,000 and $2,000,000 a year.

The returns reproduced by Davenport showed Roosevelt's income for the five years in question was as follows:

1933—$21,714.31
1934—$49,167.37
1935—$33,593.37
1936—$44,668.60
1937—$23,834.38
1938—$172,978.03 total.

Minnesota Democrat Gets Okay?

Thomas Gallagher and Postmaster General James A. Farley

Minnesota's tangled three-way race for the governor's chair in November's general election takes on a new aspect following Postmaster General James J. Farley's endorsement of the candidacy of Thomas Gallagher, democratic candidate for governor, during a Duluth appearance. Political circles were puzzled by his action for the reason that it had been generally conceded that the Roosevelt administration would support the re-election of Gov. Elmer A. Benson, who succeeded the late Floyd B. Olson as leader of the state's farmer-labor party. Farley is shown with Gallagher, above.

Airplanes Being Sold On Installments

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)—You can buy an airplane now for a third down and 6 per cent on the balance.

W. W. Brinckerhoff, treasurer of a concern specializing in that business (Aviation Funding corp.) announced tonight that the balance could be paid in 12 installments and that the customary insurance could be obtained.

He estimated that on the lower priced planes the saving would be about $90 over the purchasing system in use heretofore.

Head of Steel Plant Before Senate Group

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The senate civil liberties committee confronted Tom Girdler today with stories of anti-union espionage among employees of his Republic Steel corporation.

The Republic chairman, who had accused the committee of bias and denounced the CIO as violent and dominated by communists, said any labor spying by his subordinates was without his knowledge.

One link in the committee's evidence was an alleged spy's report, pencilled on the reverse side of a Republic declaration that its employees were free to join any labor organization. Chairman LaFollette (Prog-Wis) produced a garage mechanic's affidavit that this report had been found in an automobile traded in by a company police captain. The captain denied on the witness stand, however, that he saw the document before.

Frank Konkowsky, a steel worker, told the committee of having seen a Republic foreman rifling his coat pockets, which contained CIO organization cards. Konkowsky said that a few minutes later he was dismissed.

His testimony was linked with the alleged labor spy report, which told of the same incident and indicated that one Charlie Hanousek, a union member, had informed the company police of Konkowsky's activities. Konkowsky said that during last year's "little steel" strike he saw Hanousek leave the picket line to confer with a company guard. On the other hand, a company police official denied ever having obtained information from Hanousek.

Mediation Board Begins Task Of Settling Dispute

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—The national mediation board assumed the task of settling the deadlocked dispute over a proposed 15 per cent pay cut for $29,000 railroad workers.

As the first step in the biggest job in its history, the members of the government agency conferred with representatives of the nation's major rail lines.

Then they turned to separate parleys with spokesmen for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the united chiefs of 18 other brotherhoods.

Great Britain Gives Hints To Duce, Franco

Further British Plan, Aids French Premier Daladier

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Great Britain has put discreet pressure on Premier Mussolini and insurgent Generalissimo Franco to hasten withdrawal of foreign fighters from Spain's civil war.

Premier Neville Chamberlain's purpose is to aid the French government in an embarrassing situation and further the British plan for isolating the civil war.

With French Premier Edouard Daladier under leftist attack for stopping trans-Pyrenees shipments of arms to government Spain, the British government made these two moves:

Tells Mussolini
(1)—A suggestion to the Italian premier that Italy was sending more troops and material to insurgent Spain were prejudicial to the Anglo-Italian accord which is to be effected upon a "settlement in Spain."

(2)—Advice to Franco that his explanation of delay in accepting the British plan for withdrawal of foreign soldiers was "unsatisfactory." Franco had said "the intricate nature" of the plan caused the delay.

These two moves appeared to put Franco on the spot. If he accepts the British plan he stands to lose valuable help in a critical phase of the war. If he turns it down there is every possibility the French frontier will be opened to a flow of arms to be used against the insurgents.

There was, however, plenty of evidence that the insurgent leader would be able to stall without exhausting British patience.

On the question of approving the withdrawal plan he already had taken a month. He had promised to give "urgent attention" to the matter. The Barcelona government gave its general approval two weeks ago.

When Franco does reach a decision it is thought he will make several time-killing reservations. The Spanish non-intervention committee representing 26 European nations can not finally adopt the plan until all Franco's objections are overcome.

Recent increased Spanish government activity indicating that the war would last through next winter appeared to have made the insurgent generalissimo eager to keep every man and gun he has.

May Effect Truce
There was some hope in London, however, that the winter stalemate might make it possible to effect a truce.

In Britain's suggestion to Mussolini, the fact that the foreign office quoted labor allegations indicated Britain did not wish to risk angering Mussolini.

Italy tonight had not replied to Britain's prodding. In informing the Italian government of the charges both through its London embassy and at Rome, Britain pointed out that France had been "placed in a very embarrassing position."

The allegations were made by a labor member of the parliament, Frederick S. Cocks, on July 29, the day the house of commons went into its summer recess.

Japanese Air Raiders Continue to Exact Heavy Toll of Lives in Wuhan Tri-Cities

HANKOW, China, Aug. 11 (AP)—Japanese air raiders today exacted a heavy toll of dead and injured in a swift attack on the industrial heart of China—the Wuhan tri-cities.

Unofficial estimates said 400 persons were killed or injured.

Three United States mission properties were badly damaged when 27 Japanese planes, heavily loaded, dropped their cargoes on Hanyang and Wuchang at the confluence of the Han and Yangtze rivers.

Only one of the three cities, Hankow, the provisional capital, escaped the attack on the last great central industrial region remaining under Chinese control. Boone university and St. Hilda's

School for Girls, both operated by the American church (Episcopal) mission, were hard hit.

The shower of deadly projectiles damaged the exterior of the residence of the Episcopal mission's Bishop Alfred Alonzo Gilman, a native of North Platte, Neb. The mission's headquarters is in New York City. The bishop and others sheltered there were unharmed.

Complete count of the dead and injured was impossible until rescue workers finished digging in the masses of debris piled up by the Japanese bombs. It was feared the list might be higher when wreckage was cleared from 100 houses and a large school.

It Is Becoming Apparent That Another Game Is Not Worth the Candle

Some weeks ago Japan surprised the sports world by announcing that she would not act as host to the 1940 Olympic games "because of the probable duration of the Chinese war and the cost of financing the games."

If the Tokyo dispatch explains the government's motives, it must mean that Japan is reconciled to at least two years more of war in China—which in itself should be a cause for Chinese jubilation. The longer the war lasts, the more the odds will shift in favor of China.

Perhaps, however, the Tokyo explanation means that Japan will lose or draw in China—will be so economically exhausted in 1940 that the financing of the games would be out of the question. This view is borne out by the surprisingly candid statement of the War Minister Seshiro Itagaki, as quoted in a Tokyo newspaper, admitting that "the nation's blazing patriotic ardor is tending to slow up and wear down" and that the matter of replenishing war supplies is becoming a grave problem.

The Japanese people, even the politicians, are beginning to realize that the Chinese war game is not worth the candle. It is only a question of time before the truth is forced upon the military class of Japan.

Mussolini now demands that the lowly hot dog sandwich be given a high-sounding Italian name. That's o. k. with us as long as he doesn't insist it be eaten with a fork and spoon, like spaghetti.

Maybe There's Nothing To Worry About—Maybe

OF COURSE, we probably shouldn't be worrying. The starving Chinese are with us; America has 13,000,000 unemployed; the national debt is going up at an alarming rate, so they say. Really, we've plenty else to worry about.

But on evenings like this we like to think of things, like little Doug Corrigan, for example. We think he's a great guy; he's got a grand sense of humor, and everyone loves him for being so un-serious at the thing he's done.

But, unless the newspapers are wrong, he hasn't a job yet, and of course, he's not a millionaire.

Now, handshakes and medals and speeches and banquets are fine, but almost everyone likes to eat three meals a day.

We merely mention this because it wasn't many years ago that there were similar parades and cheers in New York and Boston and the rest for a girl who'd just swum the English channel, one Gertrude Ederle. She's broken in health and penniless in New York now. No one wants to help her.

We're just looking ahead, Doug; that's all.

The smart husband, according to the man at the next desk, is cheerful when his wife shows him her newly-purchased dirndl dress. At last, she has bought something easier to pay for than pronouns.

Nowadays strong nations make a "determined effort to gain the co-operation" of weaker ones. In grandpa's day they had a simpler name for it—invasion.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11—The wet-and-dry signs of the times. Therefore Boies was a two-time winner. He did modify the dry law. That having been accomplished, the commonwealth reverted to its normal republicanism and stayed that way until it literally was starved out of it in 1932.

Why It Was: I know why Iowa was republican. It was settled by Union soldiers, and their sons and grandsons inherited their republicanism.

Well, national republicanism was ultra-protectionistic in that era. Cracking high tariffs were its motto. Iowa's republican agriculturists fell for this policy as sound republican doctrine, obvious as it was to any agricultural area's disadvantage. In the long run it is to industry's disadvantage likewise, but agriculture ought to have seen it sooner.

It did not in Iowa or in many another northern agricultural state, stuffed full of Union veterans, who were republicans regardless of consequences.

Consider the position of a state like Iowa!

So far as its domestic requirements were concerned it overproduced and needed foreign markets. Yet it stuck to the theory of high import taxation with a view to developing an overseas demand for its farm products.

A weather observer says we can expect cooled temperatures. Naturally, with so many primary congressional campaigns concluded there's bound to be a decrease in the hot air.

But—Capably Advised: So, in effect, Henry did that, greatly to Franklin's entertainment.

I know a good bit about Iowa. I wasn't born there, as were Henry and Works Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, but for 16 years I grew up in the state; I'm almost a native.

In my day Iowa was rockbound republican territory by approximately 80,000 each election day. To be sure, Horace Boies did serve a couple of democratic terms as governor, but he did so not as a democrat, but as a wet. State-wide prohibition had prevailed. The state was dissatisfied with it. The republicans could not read

OCEANS OF THANKS

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—On the night of the John Warde tragedy I was having dinner with Commander Baylis of the Coast Guard. All through dinner reports on the attempted rescue were communicated to the Commander by telephone. At this time the melancholy young man had been crouching on a hotel ledge for nearly 10 hours, threatening to jump. Thirty-five thousand people milled underneath him in the street. The police were desperately trying to devise some means of frustrating this attempt.

Suddenly Commander Baylis leaped up. "They ought to get a cargo net," he said. "He couldn't get away from a cargo net." He hurried to the telephone and instructed his men where such a net was to be found. Then he came back, and we talked about Warde and about a hundred other things, I guess, from rescue work in the Arctic to tropic cruises.

About 10:15 I said goodnight and walked out into the street. All day people had been saying, "Let's go down and have a look at that fellow on the ledge." But I hadn't gone. I didn't think he would jump anyway, not after waiting that long.

But before I knew it some force was dragging my steps toward the hotel. I took out my police card and stuck it into the band of my hat, so the police would let me through the lines.

And there he was, a tiny object on a far ledge, 17 stories above the sidewalk. He was smoking a cigarette. Suddenly his cigarette described an arc as a cigarette does when it is flipped in the dark. I had been standing there less than two minutes when he jumped. They are saying now that he didn't really jump, that he fell. Jump or fall, what does it matter now? He fell like a plummet, so swiftly that you hardly followed him, until he struck the marquee. But after that it was as if he moved in slow motion, as if it took him five minutes to fall the 20 feet from the marquee to the street.

Meanwhile from windows above the fatal ledge hung long ropes, sailors' ropes to which was attached a great empty net. It was the cargo net, the one recommended by Commander Baylis, and if Warde had waited a few minutes longer he couldn't have got away. It was closing in around him when he jumped. But then, as so often is the case, even a split second can mean a very long time. And to John Warde it was the difference between Now and Forever.

The 'Inside' of the Medical Battle

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE, AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON—GHA has crashed into the national spotlight. To John American this may be nothing more at the moment than a new set of initials but he soon will come to know them as he now does embattled TVA, SEC or CIO.

For GHA—abbreviation for Group Health Association—has become a symbol of warfare over cooperative medicine that promises to command public interest for a much longer time than the fight over NRA of Blue Eagle fame.

And it probably will go to Congress and the United States Supreme Court for final decision.

The Department of Justice's proceedings against the American Medical Association and its affiliated District of Columbia medical society directly aligns, for the first time, the federal government against the doctors' organization which was founded in 1847 and has a membership today of 108,000 of the country's 169,000 physicians.

Threatened Expulsion: In brief, the Department thinks that the A.M.A. and the District society, by threatening the expulsion from the society of doctors who accepted employment with GHA, violated the anti-trust laws because they "attempted to prevent qualified doctors from carrying on their calling."

Socialized, or state, medicine is not the immediate issue. GHA is not a governmental agency. It is a voluntary organization of some 2,600 government employees in Washington which offers medical care and hospital services at $2.20 a month for individuals and $3.30 a month for a member and his, or her, immediate family.

Says Thurman W. Arnold, assistant attorney general, who heads the government's action against the medical societies:

"The Department of Justice emphasizes it is not deciding what are the proper methods of solving the problem of medical economics or whether cooperative health associations have a place among those methods. It simply takes the position that monopoly practices should not be employed to prevent what may be illuminating experiments in this field."

Why GHA Is Opposed: Spokesman, Dr. Morris Fishbein, spokesman, Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association: "The association has never opposed hospital insurance plans but has insisted on arrangements which would maintain the quality of professional service."

Spokesmen of the District medical society say they oppose GHA mainly because its plan to give "unlimited medicine" for $2.20 or $3.30 a month is "economically unsound" and that most previous ventures of this kind have been failures. They point out that the standard group hospitalization plan is different. It is a limited medical service which most doctors approve.

Although GHA is not a governmental agency, it is not going and has operated with substantial government encouragement. Formed in 1937 by employees of the Federal Home Loan Bank board, the association obtained a contribution of $40,000 from the Home Owners Loan Corporation whose directors are members of the board.

The directors said they considered this a justified investment since research showed sick leaves in Washington were costing HOLC $100,000 yearly. Medical society men charge such associations encourage malingering or fake illnesses. Group Health members have voted to pay back the HOLC grant; payment has not started. The organization, with a yearly income of about $87,000, claims to be paying its own way.

The District society complained to members of Congress that the $40,000 "subsidy" was a dangerous invasion of medicine by a governmental agency which had neither the authority nor the capacity to function in that field.

The society contends that medical standards are bound to be lowered and that state regimentation of medicine becomes possible if "Tom, Dick and Harry" among the governmental agencies decide to determine the method of administering to the sick.

Some members of congress demanded an investigation of HOLC's "excursion into medicine" but no definite action was taken. When GHA placed two District society doctors on its staff, the society brought proceedings against them. One resigned from GHA; the other remained in the cooperative group and was expelled from the society.

President Deplored Stand: About this time, GHA got "moral support" from President Roosevelt. At a press conference the President indicated he did not approve of the medical society's procedure against the government employees' association. He was reported as saying he thought it deplorable for the society to oppose steps looking to better medical care. Mr. Roosevelt replied in the negative when asked if he considered GHA a plan to socialize medicine.

Assistant Attorney-General Arnold has said that the door would be left open for agreement at any stage of the proceedings. The American Medical Association, however, has intimated that it accepted the government's challenge to fight it out in the courts.

"Until the courts have spoken, physicians need have no fear as to the legality of the service which they render," was the association's answer to Arnold's "open door" overture.

Meanwhile, the District medical society is working out a program of its own for medical care at reduced costs in the national capital which society officials say has been in preparation for some months.

After the scene Leif, the gangling giant, cooled off. He stood in front of a huge electric fan, a procedure guaranteed to give the average guy pneumonia. "Never hurts me," said Leif. "It's the only way I can cool off."

Leif Erikson. I saw him work up a terrific sweat battling with his screen father, Akim Tamiroff, in "Escape from Yesterday." After the scene Leif, the gangling giant, cooled off. He stood in front of a huge electric fan, a procedure guaranteed to give the average guy pneumonia. "Never hurts me," said Leif. "It's the only way I can cool off."

Leif and the missus (Frances Farmer) have kissed and made up with Paramount, after all those things they said in New York about pictures—which shows how easily Hollywood forgives, or how fond it is of being snipped in the nose.

While Leif was battling Tamiroff, I talked to Akim, he being represented in the fray by stuntman Duke Greene as usual. Akim thinks he reaches his "high point" in the Crosby picture, "Paris Honeymoon," and rejoices because in "The World's Applause" with Raft he gets to wear six different make-ups. . . .

Whitney Bourne, who invariably wears slacks or evening dress, with no in-between styles, dolled up for a preview and got mobbed—the fans thought she was Dietrich!

Pat O'Brien plays a priest for the first time in "Angels With Dirty Faces," and it's a role not unlike that which hopped up the career of Spencer Tracy in "San Francisco." . . . Cagney's the gangster who gets the hot seat in the end, and after this death he goes into "Each Dawn I Die."

Ronald Colman couldn't be talked into personal-appearing for the finale of a benefit concert at the Bowl, beneficiary the Los Angeles orchestra. . . . Said Ronnie: "People who come to a concert shouldn't have to listen to a lousy actor!" AROUND THE TOWN

With MERLE MILLER

INSIDE EUROPE! (From Europe's 'Powder Keg')—Today's words are not my own; they're more authentic. . . . They're words from Czechoslovakia, uncensored words, whose source I can't reveal. . . . But Doubting Thomases may read the handwritten letter. . . .

It came by air-mail, because, "the regular mail goes through Germany, and there might be curious people and the letter would never arrive as a letter I wrote to a cousin of mine in Switzerland. . . . By air the mail goes direct."

"The situation is a serious as it was before. . . . The Sudeten Germans ask impossible things. Things they can never get. They want autonomy. If they would get it, so the other minorities, too, would want the same. . . . As an example they give Switzerland, but there is a great difference.

"In Switzerland there are three nations—the French, Italians, Germans. In Czechoslovakia there are Serbs, Slovaks, Rumanians, Germans, Poles and Hungarians. . . . There are 200,000 Jews, twice as many as the Poles. . . . These too could ask for autonomy. . . .

"But they don't ask for it. Imagine such a small country having six governments and having six states in one. . . . And in each of these states, there would be new minorities, because not one of these six is purely German or Hungarian or any of the other nationalities. . . .

"It is well-known how the German's act with minorities in the Reich. You can imagine what this would mean for them. . . . The Germans say they are oppressed, that they have no rights, no liberty. . . . I will give you some examples. . . .

"Before 1918 there lived in the Monarchy some 10 million Czechs and Slovaks and some other millions of people of different races. . . . They had but one university and two technical schools. . . .

"The three and one-half millions of the Sudetens NOW have one university and two technical schools. The Czechs did not have, before 1918, any kinds of special schools. . . . The Germans have all of these schools, as they had in 1918. . . .

"They have more newspapers than they had before. . . . They have their theaters, churches, schools and political parties. . . . If not all in greater number, at least in the number they had before 1918. . . . They speak and write in the German language. . . .

"In MOST other countries the Germans have ABSOLUTELY NO RIGHTS, especially in TYROL." (Ed. Note—Which, of course, belongs to Adolf's friend, Mussolini.)

"A very characteristic example of minority treatment is this. In Gerany, at Breslan, are now great festivities of the German gymnasts. . . . From the Czechoslovakian government were permitted 30,000 Germans to participate. . . . From Poland were permitted not more than 300 Germans. . . . That is typical.

"In Czechoslovakia we have no concentration camps, no imprisonment of innocent people. . . . We have butter, eggs, greens, cotton and wool enough. . . . In Germany none of those things. . . .

"In the last weeks, nearly every day, COME GERMAN soldiers, groups of two and three men, over the Czechoslovakian borders, asking for asylum. . . . They relate that life is terrible in Germany, that they cannot endure it any longer and that if their comrades are not afraid, there will come lots of others over the border. "THEY SAY THEY WILL FIGHT FOR CZECHOSLOVAKIA."

"A lot of Sudetens went this year for work in Germany. . . . They had been promised splendid salaries and food. . . . But after a very short time, they returned home, because of the spendid salaries and food they saw nothing. . . .

"They say that it's much more better to be unemployed in Czechoslovakia than to be working in Germany. . . . And the unemployed in Czechoslovakia is very badly off because he has nearly nothing on which to live. . . .

"Just a few days ago happened the following—One of the Sudetens who went for work in Germany, and was not contented and said so, was beaten by the Germans and thrown, terribly wounded, half-dead, over the wall of a cemetery on Czechoslovakian ground. . . .

"I think you too have had occasion to learn of the Nazis at work in America, as told in the newspapers. . . . And wherever you look, where trouble is—Spain, Palestine, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Austria—you can be sure that the author is the 'peaceful' German nation.

"Surely you must not think that what I write is invented. . . . Every word can be proved. . . . And I could write page after page, a whole book of things the Germans are doing. . . . The Czech people do not want these things. . . .

"We do not want to become a nation of murderers and tyrants (as the German propaganda proclaims every day to the world), but a quiet, modest, industrious and peaceful people. . . . We want to stay, as we are, a DEMOCRACY."

The letter was signed, "sincerely," as I believe it was written. . . . —M.D.M.

Young Girls Revolt: BIRMINGHAM (AP)—The younger girls of this English manufacturing center refused jobs in a metal factory because they objected to having their silk stockings and suede shoes splashed. The firm sent buses 20 miles to get old age pensioners to do the work.

Would Retire Early: LONDON (AP)—H. T. Hancock has resigned from Gerrard's Cross council as a protest against meetings started at 8:30 p.m. "We should meet earlier and get away respectfully," he said.

He's Starting Early: ARCADIA, Cal. (AP)—Although only 15 years old, Jack Holloway, a high school senior, has written 20 serious musical compositions, including a full symphony.

JUST NOTES: . . . about anything that happens to come to mind.

Did you ever think what television would do to comedy? Imagine what fun it would be to watch some of these hilarious broadcasts, the ones that the studio audience go wild about and that you, in front of your radio, try to visualize.

While television might mean the making of some comedians who are funnier to see than hear, think what it would do to those who are much funnier to hear than see.

At any rate, the coming of television will mean that the radio game is going to be even tougher than now. . . . It's a great and promising field for those who will accept nothing less than perfection in fidelity of both sound and picture.

Imagine seeing a free demonstration of Harpo Marx's pantomimes, Grouche's mustache, or Eddie Cantor's rolling eyes!

And you could even have Shirley Temple, if you wanted her and she happened to be broadcasting.

And think of the dials that would be tuned to glamorous Dorothy Lamour, when she sings those songs as only Charlie McCarthy's "Dottie" can sing them.

And wouldn't it be swell to see Dorothy appearing in person with husband Herbie Kay in a carefully prepared television broadcast?

The American Twins' association is having a two-day annual convention in Chicago Aug. 26, and the Stroud twins, Clarence and Claud, are going.

Monty Stratton Easily Defeats Detroit, 13 to 1

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—With Monty Stratton pitching four-hit ball, Chicago's White Sox, aided by some sloppy Tiger fielding, pounced on three Detroit hurlers for 12 hits today and won, 13 to 1.

The Sox scored all their runs in two big innings, counting seven times in the third and six in the eighth.

An error and weird fielding led to the first Sox outburst. With two on and one out, Roxie Lawson made a bad throw to second on Boze Berger's easy roller. Then he collided with Rudy Roy when the next batter, Marv Owen, hit in front of the plate.

City Tennis Tourney Moves into Finals

Last Round Of Junior Events Carded Today

Other Divisions Will Conclude Competition In Meet Tomorrow

With seven quarter-final and semifinal matches completed yesterday, play in the Iowa City tennis tournament enters the final stages this morning when Ben Merritt and Kay Rummells take the court at 8:30 in the match for the junior boys' doubles title.

Rummells won his way to the finals of the singles when he scored a mild upset by defeating Schmidt in a prolonged three-set affair, 6-3, 2-6, 7-5. Rummells outdistanced his rival to win Schmidt double faulting several times at critical moments in the final set.

Longest match of the day yesterday was the men's singles encounter between Dale Hatch and John Ebert, Hatch finally coming out on top, 7-5, 3-6, 6-3. The match was marked by several brilliant rallies on the part of both players with Hatch scoring a number of points on passing shots at the net that Ebert was unable to reach.

Newsom, Tietje Beat Tribe In Doubleheader

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 11 (AP)—With Buck Newsom and Les Tietje hurling fine ball, the Browns took a double header from the Cleveland Indians today, 8 to 7 and 8 to 2.

Newsom achieved his twelfth victory of the year in the opener, allowing only five hits. His wildness nearly cost him the game, however, the important part of his 30th birthday celebration.

In the nightcap, Tietje held the Indians to three hits until the ninth when three more safeties collected Cleveland's only runs.

'Guess I'm Done' Says Grove After Failure Yesterday

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11 (AP)—"I suppose this is my finish," said Bob "Lefty" Grove, Red Sox pitcher, as he left late today for Boston to have the club physician examine his arm, "dead" for the second time this season.

Grove lasted only two innings against the Athletics and went off the mound with the score 1-0 against him. The A's won 5-3.

In the dressing room, Lefty sorrowfully said his arm felt as "lifeless as a board." He went direct to Boston while his teammates went to Washington.

MINNEAPOLIS Golf Star Usurps Marion Miley As Western Champion

BY EARL HILLIGAN
CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—Freckle-faced Patty Berg made another record-garnering entry in her fairway championship diary today.

The little Minneapolis star, after three years as runner-up in the event, captured the Women's Western Golf association derby for the first time, completing the 72 holes in 308 strokes.

Her four day march to the title opened with a sensational 73, a tournament record for a single round. She followed with cards of 78, 75 and today's final 82 for an aggregate which clipped a single stroke off the tournament mark set last summer by Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky.

Miss Berg's 54-hole total of 226 strokes enabled her to start today's final round with a 13-stroke margin over her closest rival—and the big lead enabled her to coast home to victory. She finished 10 strokes under Miss Miley, the second place holder and winner of the long grid from 1935 to through 1937. Miss Miley had a 78 today.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill, Kansas City, finished with a brilliant 76, for a 321 aggregate and third place. Fourth finisher was Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis, at 322, with an 83 final round.

Eleanor Dudley of Chicago was fifth with 326, followed by Eilama Williams of Chicago at 327 and Dorothy Traug, San Francisco star, at 329. Edith Estabrooks of Dubuque, Ia., former state champion, needed 88 strokes today for a 330 total.

Thingumabob Fatally Injured at Saratoga

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 11 (AP)—Tragedy hushed the roar of the crowd at Saratoga today when Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson's unbeaten two-year-old Thingumabob was destroyed after breaking its right front leg in the 26th running of the Sanford stakes, won by Birch Rod.

Thingumabob, winner of the $45,000 Arlington futurity at Chicago, July 30, went to the post a 1 to 4 choice. The race brought not only the death of the favorite but the disqualification of Ariel Toy for shutting off Thingumabob at the far turn.

Newark Is Leading League Everywhere Except in Buffalo

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 11 (AP)—Newark's Bears lead the International league pennant race by 12 1-2 games today except in the standings of the Buffalo Times.

Because the Times is "against monopolies," News Editor Joseph Cumminskey ordered the "big bad Bears" dropped from the standings.

The Bears have led the league since the start of the season. Cumminskey explained:

"Once there were three little bears—a mamma bear, a daddy bear and a baby bear. And once there were 20 Newark Bears. And they were big bad bears. They ate everything in the league. Times are hard and we figure someone else should have a bite once in a while, so we kicked Newark out of the league. Who wouldn't? Besides, I'm against monopolies."

A's Grab 2nd Straight From Red Sox, 5-3

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Athletics made it two straight over the Boston Red Sox today with a 5 to 3 victory behind the six-hit pitching of George Caster.

A four-run rally in the fifth, featured by Bob Johnson's 23rd homer of the year with two aboard, put the game on ice, but Lefty Grove, who pitched only the first two innings, was charged with the loss after giving up a run in the second from which the Sox never recovered.

Joe Vosmik's homer in the eighth brought in all the Sox runs.

Grove complained his arm felt "tired" and "bothered" him.

Yankees Down Senators, 9 to 6 On Five Blows

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Yankees were handed another game by the Washington Senators today. Although they collected only five hits to the Nats' 17, Gehrig and company posted a 9 to 6 decision to boost their American league lead over the five-game mark.

Nine bases on balls by the three Washington pitchers, a costly er-

for Buddy Lewis and Joe DiMaggio's 21st homer of the year, with two mates aboard in the third inning, enabled the Yanks to breeze in with the victory.

HOSTESS HINTS

Simple breakfast menu variations which require only a little extra planning will give the family fresh enthusiasm for the morning meal. Start the meal with a choice of appetizers. Change the method of serving the eggs, and introduce a new bread or muffin.

For orange and grapefruit juices, substitute apricot, pear, pineapple, apple, plum or prune juice. Vary them with cubed or sliced fresh fruits or sauces made of cooked dried figs, prunes or apricots.

Instead of serving just one kind of ready-cooked cereal, serve two kinds, so there will be a choice for weak appetites. Top the cereals with brown, maple or powdered sugar mixed with a little cinnamon, honey, candied or fresh fruit.

Try mixing boiled rice hominy, grits, or cornmeal mush with packaged breakfast foods. Always reheat prepared, boxed cereals for five minutes in a moderate oven. And be careful to serve toast, waffles and pancakes as soon as they are made.

Here are some other suggestions for interesting breakfast dishes: Mix prunes and raisins with apple sauce and serve them cold.

Put dates, nuts, raisins or jelly in biscuits or muffins.

Bake an omelet in a ring mold. Unmold and fill with creamed dried beef, codfish, ham, eggs or mushrooms.

Drop eggs into two-inch toast boxes. Sprinkle with a little parsley, cheese and diced bacon. Bake until the eggs are set.

Spread a rich biscuit dough with butter, brown sugar and cinnamon. Roll it up and fit it into a greased ring mold. Bake. Serve hot with plenty of butter.

Cover rice or hominy cakes or fried mush with poached or scrambled eggs.

Serve sausage (cakes or links) on freshly made cornbread. Make French griddle cakes by dipping freshly made toast into a batter and browning the toast on a hot greased griddle. Top with honey or maple sugar and butter.

For an unusually filling breakfast, try a platter of broiled foods. Broil together link sausages, tomato slices and bananas; or ham slices, rice cakes and pineapple rings; or sweet potato cakes, apple rings and bacon strips.

As a special Sunday morning breakfast, serve sour cream waffles made from the following recipe.

Sour Cream Waffles
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1-2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
1-2 pint sour cream
1-2 cup milk
3 eggs

Sift all dry ingredients together. Add the liquids, then the well-beaten eggs. Mix thoroughly and bake.

Soliloquy Got Them
LIVERPOOL (AP)—Six university professors defeated six students in a spelling bee here by 29 points to 13. A university vice-chancellor and the team-captain tripped on "soliloquy."

Oldster Gets Lonely
BELGRADE (AP)—Explaining "I am not made for a life of solitude," Vasilije Pavlovic, 90, has just married a woman 40 years his junior after six weeks' acquaintance.

Newlyweds to Live Here

Mr. and Mrs. Arny Jorgensen, above, who were married Sunday in a Danish ceremony at the Danish Lutheran church in Newell, will arrive here this week end to make their home in Iowa City. They are completing a wedding trip in northern Minnesota.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. Jorgensen, father of the groom, who read the vows in the Danish language. A Danish wedding cake centered the table at the reception.

The bride is a graduate of Newell high school and attended Buena Vista college at Storm Lake. Mr. Jorgensen, also a graduate of Newell high school, attended the University of Iowa.

The program places emphasis upon the interpretation of the world's happenings.

Evening Musicale
Mrs. George Schulz - Behrend will present the "Evening Musicale" program at 7:30 this evening.

Shows History of Harvesting

Here is how they cut grain in Iowa 80 years ago. One man drove the reaper while another raked off the grain, ready to be tied into bundles. This old-time reaper is one of the scores of pioneer reapers, binders, plows, threshing machines and other early farm implements to be exhibited in a pioneer farming display at the Iowa Centennial State Fair, opening here Aug. 26. The display will show the history of harvesting from the sickle to the combine; the history of the plow from the days of oxen and the crooked stick to the modern multiple-plow tractor equipment. An interesting feature will be an old horse-powered threshing machine. Every department of the Centennial State Fair will have numerous Centennial features of historical interest, fair officials have announced.

Going Home Rodriguez Leaves For Panama City

Guillermo Rodriguez is returning home to Panama today—and taking with him a B. A. degree, earned in three years from the college of engineering.

Rodriguez will take the Rocket to Chicago this morning, and from there go to New Orleans to sail August 17 on the liner "Contessa" for Panama City.

When Rodriguez came to the United States in the spring of 1935 he spoke very little English. "I didn't have much trouble getting along," he says now. "Everyone was friendly; I hate to be leaving all these friends behind since I'll never see them again for years."

Although there is no definite job awaiting him, Rodriguez feels there is plenty of opportunity for engineers in Panama, and much sanitary engineering is being done.

While at Iowa Rodriguez was active in campus activities. He took part in freshman conferences and activities of the International club. He was president of that organization this summer.

This spring he was elected to Tau Beta Pi, engineering honorary scholastic fraternity.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—The Milwaukee police department has a new unit—the bug-swatting detail.

It was organized one night recently after a horde of flies, mosquitoes and other bugs swooped into the $4,500,000 screenless jail and began nibbling on the prisoners locked in their cells.

The prisoners set up such a bedlam that four officers were armed with fly swatters and sent to patrol the halls.

American Legion Parade Unit Will Stop in Iowa City Aug. 27

$25,000 Flotilla Going to Los Angeles National Convention

Sent by Mississippi Department of Legion; Will Lead Parade

Iowa City is to get a preview of America's biggest parade. American Legion officials were notified last night that the $25,000 motorized flotilla that will lead the national Legion parade at Los Angeles, Sept. 22, will stop in Iowa City Aug. 27 en route to the coast.

The parade unit, representing the Mississippi department of the American Legion, is traveling 5,750 miles overland from Jackson, Miss., to the scene of the nation's most spectacular show and return.

For enrolling more members in proportion than any other state, the Mississippi Legion department won the coveted honor of leading the national parade and is sparing no effort or expense to eclipse all previous parade glamor. The parade caravan consists of a pilot car five expensively decorated floats and a service vehicle.

Walter Lee, grand chef passe, of the Mississippi 40 and 8, in general charge of the parade unit, informed local officials the Legion floats would be exhibited here exactly as they are to appear in the van of the national parade.

One of the attractions, is "Miss American Legion," beautiful brunette lass who took New York by storm at the Legion convention last year. She is Elaine Russell of Vicksburg, escort of the Mississippi caravan, who will convey greetings to local officials from the governor and Legion dignitaries of Mississippi.

The Mississippi state government alone is appropriating $25,000 for the caravan. The first float is symbolic of "peace" as the general theme of the national parade. Others represent themes and scenes of the picturesque South, epitomized by Mississippi's own colorful history, industry culture and recreational pursuits.

The caravan will leave Jackson, Miss., Aug. 21, traveling 5,700 miles across 11 states to Los Angeles. The return will be by the more direct route of U. S. Highway 80.

Professors Will Go on Vacation

Later the journalism professor will go to his home in St. Joseph, Mo., and Professor McCalliard will go to North Carolina for a time.

Peter Rabbit Must Beware!

IOWA CITY LEADS THE PARADE!

Daily Iowan Engraving

American Legion and 40 and 8 delegates were back in Iowa City yesterday, bringing back souvenirs and memories of all kinds. They'd led the parade because Roy L. Chopek post enrolled more men during the last year than any other post of its size in the state. The huge sign—Membership 214 per cent—testifies to that. And another part of the parade, probably its most popular unit, was the university R.O.T.C. Scottish Highlanders whose appearance the local post sponsored in Davenport. The 40 and 8, an honorary American Legion organization, was also well represented by Iowa Citizens, who are posing before the headquarters in Davenport. (The pictures were furnished by Don Davis.)

Groups Meet To Join Unions

Defense Uses Living Models In Dwyer Case

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 11 (AP)—With live models, the defense staged a weight-lifting show before an amused courtroom today trying to prove Paul N. Dwyer, 19, was not too frail to have carried the body of the man he accused Francis M. Carroll of having murdered. Then Clyde R. Court adjourned until tomorrow for rebuttal testimony.

Walker, who is visiting at Clear Lake, will not be present at this morning's meetings. City Clerk Grover Watson will present the delinquent accounts.

Niagara Falls Holds Secrets

Death Mysteries Puzzle Police At Honeymoon Site

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 11 (AP)—Roaring Niagara Falls and its rapids, where police say four women may have perished in two weeks, produced three new mysteries today.

Strangest was Patrolman Sam Rhodes' report that he saw a man about 35 years old, heavily built, wading across the perilous brink of the falls toward tiny Robinson island.

Rhodes, knowing that the rocks are slippery and the current treacherous, ran to a better vantage point, but the man had disappeared.

Another patrolman and a state reservation employee, tied to a rope, made the dangerous crossing to the heavily wooded island. They reported they found only footprints going around the muddy edges of Robinson island and adjacent Bird islands.

Chief of Police Tracy G. Levee of the reservation police said the man might have waded back to shore during the few moments he was invisible to Rhodes, or might have been swept to death over the falls. There was no clue to his identity.

Meanwhile, police in neighboring Niagara Falls, Ont., were investigating another puzzling case.

Constable J. A. Brooks said police had searched the region for John R. Sutherland, 20, a college student, of Butler, Pa. Sutherland, he said, disappeared Tuesday night from a tourist home.

Today's third case was reported by two tourists who last night saw a woman standing near the top of the falls. When they looked again she was gone. Nearby they found a purse which contained an automobile license issued, police said, to a Wellsville, N. Y., woman.

Two women's bodies have been recovered within the last two weeks below the falls.

Annual Report Shows 441,396 Volumes At Disposal of Students

There were 13,252 more books available for use of the University of Iowa students last year than during the previous year, the annual report of Grace Van Wormer, acting director of the university library, discloses.

A grand total of 441,396 volumes were at the disposal of students during the period from July 1, 1937, to July 1, 1938, the director's report reveals.

Of the 13,000 increase in numbers, 633 books were received through exchange with other libraries, while 3,458 came as gifts to the university.

Fifty-one new periodicals subscriptions were placed during the past year, Miss Wormer said, bringing the total of periodicals received by the library to 3,368.

Of this number, 1,638 were received by subscription, and the others came as gifts and exchanges. A staff of 55 employees has headed the library setup during the past year, the annual report shows.

Of this number, 43 are librarians of professional rank, five of sub-professional rank, and seven are clerical helpers.

In addition, a total of 139 student helpers, working part-time, assisted with the functions of the library.

The circulation of the library last year, Miss Wormer's report discloses, was 711,404, an increase of 21,372 over the previous year. Patrons of the campus course and dormitory libraries totaled 63,443.

The establishment of a new departmental library in the fine arts building, was listed as the outstanding accomplishment in the system during the past year. The new department opened in September, 1937.

An outstanding change during the year was an alteration program carried out in Macbride hall. One floor, filled with old shelves, was removed and replaced with two floors equipped with standard steel shelves.

The project provided expansion space for about 35,000 volumes, relieving congestion in the book stacks in that building.

During the year, Miss Wormer said, 714 freshmen were given instruction in the use of the library in connection with the first year courses in English.

An interesting gift of the past year was a set of bound volumes of Lyceum magazine, presented by Mrs. Keith Vawter of Marion. The set includes magazines from November, 1902, through December, 1922.

Only two other libraries, the library of Congress and the St. Louis public library, have similar sets.
