Collective Bargaining Aids Industrial Peace

F. R.'s Board In England Makes Report

Says Labor Relations Improved by Spirit Of Mutual Tolerance

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (AP)—President Roosevelt's commission on labor relations in Great Britain reported today that widespread collective bargaining there, conducted in a spirit of mutual tolerance and forbearance, had made strikes few and strike violence a rarity.

To this the chief executive attached a statement that he found "the most salient" feature of the commission's analysis to be "the cooperative spirit coupled with restraint which is shown by those who represent employers and employees" in Great Britain.

An Accepted Fact
"Collective bargaining is an accepted fact," he added, "and because of this, the machinery which carries it out is functioning."

The commission repeatedly stressed the point that the principle of collective bargaining as a deterrent of industrial strife had reached the maximum of its effectiveness in instances in which strong unions bargained on an industry-wide basis with strong associations of employers.

"Finally and most important," it said, "the acceptance and general practice of collective bargaining on an industry basis places upon the employers and workers organizations, because of the sheer numbers of men and the magnitude of the interests involved, a peculiarly heavy responsibility calculated by its very nature to call for patience, understanding, and a desire to make and keep agreements and to achieve industrial peace."

Strikes Rare
It declared at another point "that in those industries where collective bargaining between national unions and national associations of employers has long been established, strikes have been rare and in a few instances non-existent (with the exception of the general strike in 1926), since the very beginnings of the collective bargaining arrangements."

Mr. Roosevelt appointed the commission nearly three months ago to clear up what he considered to be misinformation in this country about the operation of the British laws. As far back as a year earlier, it was recalled, he advised reporters to look into the British situation, particularly from the standpoint of responsibility of employers and unions.

His action was considered especially significant, in view of the current agitation for revision of the Wagner labor relations act. The publication of the report was the more eagerly awaited since the president, nearly a fortnight ago, indicated that the time had come to make clarifying changes in that law.

A. F. of L. Represented
The American Federation of Labor was represented on the commission by Robert Watt, but the Committee for Industrial Organization, strenuously opposing amendments to the Wagner act, declined to participate. John L. Lewis asserted bluntly that the CIO could "not sanction such an enterprise."

What use Mr. Roosevelt intended to make of the report in connection with the coming discussion of the Wagner act he did not so much as intimate, but in his accompanying statement he noted that an analysis of conditions in Sweden would be forthcoming shortly.

"Experiences of other countries, very naturally, have been different from our own," he said, "but they should be considered and studied as we analyze our own problems."

There are no laws to compel collective bargaining, the report said, but in low-wage industries where unionism is ineffective, the government may set up trade boards to determine minimum standards.

As for the closed shop, the report said: "Except among the seamen and firemen in the shipping industry closed shop agreements are exceptional, and do not appear to be seriously sought for." In some industries, however, there is virtually a closed shop in practice.

Chicago's 'Dewey', His Work

How police wrecked bookie places; Thomas Courtney, inset above, and thrown thousands of customers of the horse parlors into a panic. His campaign has aroused church and reform organizations which demand more such campaigns. On the other hand, opponents hint that Courtney hopes his actions will react in his favor against his political foe, Mayor Edward J. Kelly, in the 1939 Democratic mayoralty race.

Officers Scour Roads for Trail Of Robbers of Hedrick Bank

Escaped With $1,000 Or More; One Bandit May Have Been Hit

DES MOINES, Sept. 1 (AP)—A hurriedly mobilized network of Iowa highway patrolmen, state agents and local officials scoured southeast and central Iowa roads for the trail of two youthful masked robbers who today held up the Hedrick Savings bank and escaped with between $1,000 and $1,500.

The state bureau of investigation expressed the opinion the fleeing robbers were using two cars and that more than two men were involved in the robbery and getaway plans.

One of the robbers may have been hit by a shot fired by C. G. Miller, bank cashier, the bureau said. One of the bandits fired back from the fleeing car but failed to hit either Miller, the other employee or three customers in the bank at the time.

The bureau listed one of the cars as bearing Iowa license plates 78-747 and the other as having Illinois plates 127104.

Mrs. Thelma Heitsman, assistant cashier of the Hedrick bank, said the two men, between 21 and 23 years old, entered the bank about 1:45 p.m. and said:

"This is a stickup."
The men were armed with revolvers, one a .32 caliber and the other a .38, the bank officials added.

"The robbers ordered everyone except Mrs. Heitsman and Mrs. Mary Caldwell, a customer, to lie down on the floor," the assistant cashier continued.

"They gave me a bag and told me to put the money into it," she said. "Mrs. Caldwell, an elderly woman, was allowed to sit in a chair. I gave them the currency, all in $20, $10, $5 and $1 bills.

War Babies French Youths Begin Army Life

PARIS, Sept. 1 (AP)—Tens of thousands of young conscripts—World War "Armistice babies" born in 1918—set out today for frontier training grounds, starting a movement which in four days will swell France's standing army temporarily to 825,000 men.

They were part of the fall half of the new conscript class which numbers 125,000. By the overlap between them and conscripts completing the two-year training period, France's army will be swelled far beyond its normal strength of 700,000—at a time of crisis between Germany and Czechoslovakia.

It will be a month or six weeks in the normal course of events before the army will release the seasoned half-class.

This half-class will be kept on duty until the 125,000 raw conscripts, reporting to the colors today and for the next three days, are "acclimated" to army life.

Laughing, joking youths boarded trains at Paris' east station and left for the Maginot line area.

Nothing in their gay farewells gave any indication that this year's call was any more serious than those of other years.

Families and friends who saw them off, however, carried newspapers which published dispatches from Berlin "confirming" previously published reports that the German conscript class which had been scheduled for release this month would be held under arms for at least three months more.

Education in a Nazi Nation National Socialist Party Takes Over Schools In German Austria Sept. 19

VIENNA, Sept. 1 (AP)—Religious and other private schools of German Austria will be closed Sept. 19, it was announced today, and the state and the national socialist (nazi) party will take over the education of youth.

The newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter, making the announcement, said the closed schools would be replaced by a "German upper school" for boys and girls. This, the newspaper said, would be the predominating type of higher school for German Austria.

The order will take effect, at beginning of the next school term, Sept. 29.

The "German upper school" will have eight grades, the announcement said. In the sixth grade boys will have a choice between a more mathematical or a more linguistic education. English will be the principal foreign language taught. Both courses will permit entrance to universities.

The upper school for girls also will have two sections, one stressing household matters and the other more general education. English will be an important subject in both sections.

The gymnasias emphasizing Greek and Latin will be reduced in number. Co-education also will be almost completely abandoned. Boys and girls will attend separate schools, except in smaller towns lacking facilities for separation. More attention will be paid to physical training.

Special provisions are to be made for Jews. In Vienna they will be given 14 grammar schools and one higher school. Special attention will be given to fitting Jewish children for emigration, it was said.

Most private schools in German Austria have been owned by Catholic orders. Others belonged to Protestants and there were some secular schools, which had no church connections.

The announcement followed upon a speech at Stuttgart yesterday by Joseph Buerckel, Reichsfuehrer Hitler's chief deputy for German Austria.

Navy Announces Plans to Form Squadron of 14 Newest Ships For Maneuvers in Atlantic

War Scare in Europe May Be Reason For Unexpected Move

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (AP)—The navy unexpectedly announced today that a "temporary" Atlantic squadron of 14 of its newest war-craft would be formed immediately.

Without explanation, a formal announcement said seven 10,000-ton light cruisers and seven destroyers would comprise the force, effective Sept. 6. Rear Admiral Forde A. Todd was designated commander.

The nation has had no organized Atlantic force since the fleet was concentrated in the Pacific in the midst of the 1931-32 Sino-Japanese crisis.

Canal Defense
The order for the new squadron, issued by Rear Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of operations, hinted a recent revision of defense strategy and stirred immediate speculation as to whether Europe's tension over the German-Czech dispute was involved.

From naval officials came only the comment that the force was formed "in preparation for fleet problem 20 and to visit such ports as are designated."

To work out this problem, involving defense of the Panama Canal against a simulated trans-Atlantic attack, the main fleet of approximately 150 warships is scheduled to engage in war games in the Atlantic early next year. It has not left the Pacific since 1934, when the armada was reviewed at New York by President Roosevelt.

Advised by Leahy
Admiral Leahy told a congressional committee last February that the fleet "should not be divided between the oceans." He said provision for an "adequate" Atlantic defense force would double the cost of the billion-dollar, ten-year fleet expansion program which congress approved in May.

Vessels of the new squadron already had been assigned to the main fleet. All were completed recently on the Atlantic coast and some are still on "shakedown" cruises. Admiral Todd had been designated commander of cruiser division eight.

Officials shed no light on the question of whether the new squadron would remain on the east coast after the fleet returns to the Pacific next May.

In addition to the new squadron, the navy has three of its older battleships, a demilitarized battleship, two new aircraft carriers and 16 older destroyers on the Atlantic coast.

Rejects Note Mexico Refuses Hull's Request

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 1 (AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas served notice today that Mexico would reject Secretary Hull's request that expropriation of American-owned farm lands without immediate compensation be halted.

The government will continue its agrarian program, the president said firmly in a message opening a new session congress, adding that the expropriated foreign oil industry would receive payment only for actual investments in Mexico.

The president said his reply to Hull's note of Aug. 25 would be a reaffirmation of policies already set forth in his "Mexico for Mexicans" program.

Those policies were elaborated Aug. 3 when Mexico, replying to Hull's first note of July 23, said flatly she did not intend to halt reforms because she lacked money to pay for expropriated properties.

Hull in the July 23 note declared uncompensated seizure of American-owned farm lands constituted "confiscation."

GEE, SUCCESS! Professor Says Flunks Not Final

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 (AP)—If you flunk in college this year, don't get discouraged. You might be a success in business.

This counsel came today from Dr. Samuel N. Stevens, dean of the university college at Northwestern university. His explanation:

"Any student who discovers his own abilities early takes a good head start in the race for business and professional success. The stiff jolt of flunking frequently jars the student into finding out exactly what his abilities are and where they will take him."

The doctor's views were based on research under his supervision at the personnel institute, which tests prospective employees for jobs in industry.

Pyle Testifies
DES MOINES (AP)—Myron Pyle, one of the 12 Maytag Co. employees discharged when the Newton washing machine plant was reopened Aug. 4, went on the witness stand last night for the National Labor Relations Board.

Hitler Rejects Part Of Czech's Plan for Peace

Star Witness at Hines Trial

Defense Throws Spotlight On Dixie Davis, Hope Dare Trysts

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP)—The defense today threw a blazing spotlight on the semi-clandestine trysts of Hope Dare and J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, the state's star witness in the policy racket trial of Tammany District Leader James J. Hines.

Chief Defense Counsel Lloyd Paul Stryker charged that District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey permitted Davis to visit the red-haired showgirl as an "inducement" to turn state's evidence against Hines as a co-conspirator in the multi-million-dollar Dutch Schultz policy racket.

With such hammering emphasis that Prosecutor Dewey sprang up again and again to protest against repetition—complaining that "the witness has already answered"—Stryker brought out that Davis made his excursions to Hope Dare's apartment while he was a some-time prisoner in the Tombs.

"The dapper erstwhile 'kid moutheater' of the Schultz mob, squirming and reddening under Stryker's search into his private life, protested that while he was a married man he had not lived with his wife for three years.

Davis insisted that during the visits to Miss Dare's apartment he was never alone in the same room with her.

"Detectives were always present," he said.

The witness said he was released from the Tombs on a court order to permit him to see his doctor, and that on "about 80 or 90" such sorties from the gloomy old Tombs the physician had electrically burned out half his tonsils.

Besides detectives, he said, Miss Dare's mother was always present when he stopped at her apartment to change his clothes.

"Did her mother always know when you were coming so as to be there to chaperone these visits?" asked Stryker.

Henlein Flies Home With New Proposals

Der Fuehrer Said To Have Refused Truce In Negotiations

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, Sept. 1 (AP)—High Nazi sources tonight reported Konrad Henlein, leader of Czechoslovakia's Germanic minority, had departed by plane for home bearing Adolf Hitler's rejection of an important part of Czech peace plans but carrying new counter-proposals.

Hitler was understood to have rejected the part of Premier Milan Hodza's "Plan No. 3" calling for a three-month truce in Czechoslovak-German negotiations to permit passions of the contending parties to cool down.

The Reichsfuehrer's position, reached after a long conference with Henlein and highest Nazi officials, was said to be that a more prompt solution of the danger-fraught Sudeten minority question was desirable.

What counter-proposals Henlein carried with him to Czechoslovakia remained a mystery.

Henderson Confers
Conferring with Hitler and Henlein at the Reichsfuehrer's Bavarian mountain retreat were Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels and Rudolf Hess, deputy Nazi party leader—the top of the Nazi hierarchy.

At the same time Britain's ambassador to Germany, Sir Neville Henderson, was tackling the same Czech-German problem with Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop at Sonnenberg, the latter's country home near Berlin.

Henderson, fresh from conferences with the British cabinet in London, was believed to have laid before the foreign minister Britain's latest expressions for maintenance of peace in central Europe.

Reliable sources said von Ribbentrop would come to Berchtesgaden tomorrow when a conference of even greater importance than today's will be held.

Henlein to Return
It was understood Henlein would return for the next meeting after quickly laying Hitler's counter-proposals before Czech officials.

The Sudeten "little Fuehrer" wore no uniform when he arrived here today for his meeting with Hitler, the fourth this year.

Henlein's adjutant said the present visit was at the suggestion of Viscount Runciman, Britain's unofficial mediator in the central European quarrel, who wished to push a peaceful settlement of the trouble.

THE INTERNATIONAL SITUATION At a Glance

By The Associated Press
BERCHTESGADEN, Germany—Reichsfuehrer Hitler, top aide and Konrad Henlein, Sudeten Feuehrer, in momentous meeting, weigh Czechoslovakia's autonomy proposals for 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans.

LONDON—Viscount Runciman, British mediator, authoritatively reported to have appealed to Hitler through Henlein for peace and approval of further Czechoslovak-Sudeten negotiations.

PARIS—Overlap of incoming and outgoing conscripts boosts French army to 825,000 in crisis.

ROME—Italy orders exodus of Jews who came to Italy since World war; number estimated at more than 10,000.

MEXICO CITY—President Cardenas serves notice Mexico will reject United States request to halt expropriation without immediate compensation of American-owned lands.

TOKYO—Japan counts at least 34 deaths, scores injured or missing and vast property damage as toll of typhoon.

HENDAYE—Wintny weather hails Ebro river fighting in northern Spain; insurgent and government forces jab at each other near Madrid and in southwest.

SHANGHAI—Japanese report progress in Yangtze and Yellow river drives; unconfirmed Chinese reports tell of big Japanese defeat southeast of Hankow.

Name Iowa's Healthiest Twins, Champion Project Teams

DES MOINES, Sept. 1 (AP)—Marilyn and Marianne Rinehart, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Rinehart, near Huxley, tonight were named Iowa's healthiest twins.

The winning pair, who are 25 months old, scored an average of 97.58 to win the dual health title at the Iowa State Fair today over 14 other pairs of contestants.

The victors' father is a farmer. Mrs. S. E. Lincoln of Des Moines, in charge of the contest, said Marilyn, who weighs 25 and 3-8 pounds, scored 97.39, while her sister, who tips the scales at 23 and 7-8 pounds, scored 97.77.

Iowa's healthiest baby boy and baby girl will be announced tomorrow, the last day of the fair.

Climaxing four days of State Fair demonstrations in which teams from all Iowa counties participated, representatives from East Pottawattamie, Webster, Scott and Washington counties tonight were named state champions in their project divisions.

The winning teams will represent Iowa in the contests at the National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago, Ill., next fall.

In the home furnishing division, the east Pottawattamie county demonstrators, Leona Bently and Virginia Killian, were named champions. The Sac county team was runner-up.

The Webster county team, Marjanna Schwendeman and Phyllis Williams, took the home efficiency championship. Teams from Johnson, Montgomery and Woodbury counties were named reserve champions.

In the clothing division, Maxine Peters and Ruth Hamann of Scott county were named champions. Audubon, Hardin and Cherokee county teams were named reserve champions.

Maurita Darnell, Mildred Meyer of Washington county were members of the winning nutrition team. Franklin, Warren and Des Moines county teams were reserve champions.

Judging of the estimated million dollars worth of livestock which competed for $80,000 in prizes in the show rings was completed late today.

A tabulation showed Iowan livestock breeders won slightly less than half of the individual championships among the more than 60 purple ribbon winners in the open classes.

Iowans showed only two of the top animals selected in the open classes today.

Financially, the 1938 Fair was an assured success.

Through yesterday, Wednesday, financial returns aggregated approximately $303,700, or about $28,000 ahead of the same period last year.

On Thursday of the 1937 Fair, officials said, the revenue amounted to approximately $25,000, and that much or more was expected when today's returns are counted.

Keep Your Shirt On, Europe!

THE WORLD watches tensely while the fuse on a bomb burns shorter in central Europe. It's a bomb that may—or may not—explode any minute.

Because we think that your opinion—wielded along with that of your fellow citizens—has a definite effect on the actions of those politicians who are said to be responsible for beginning wars, we beg to bring to your attention again some pertinent facts in words and figures.

We think you should remember what Col. P. S. Bond, C.E., said about the professional army man's attitude to the next war. "I might say that, speaking from our professional and not from a humanitarian point of view," he states, "we should look with enthusiasm to the next great war. We have developed the interesting warfare of today from a state of crude combat with clubs; we have made it a highly refined and delicate, if excruciating art. In the next war we will start right, from the beginning, and it will be a wonderful fight."

While Germany's army and navy are maneuvering dangerously equipped with genuine ammunition, and England and American navies are preparing for exercises, it is not inopportune to remember another statement made by Colonel Bond.

"In a technical way we have been able to simulate conditions, such as artillery and rifle fire," he said, "but the most important condition in war is an enemy opposite us filled with a desire and equipped with means to kill us, and we have found it extraordinarily difficult to provide a safe and satisfactory substitute for that enemy in time of peace. One attempt was the sham battle which was in vogue as late as when I was a cadet. Its name is a sufficient commentary upon it. There was one European government—I think it was Russia—which attempted to give a touch of realism to the sham battle. It was announced that one ball cartridge would be issued in each 1,000 blank cartridges, the idea being that each soldier would believe he was opposite that thousandth cartridge and this would induce him to take the cover of the ground and otherwise act naturally, the same as if an enemy were really shooting at him. The idea was not a bad one. The men do not take the matter seriously in time of peace."

And while you're wondering about the expense of Roosevelt's "pump priming" remember that the net money cost of war to all the belligerents in the last World War was $186,000,000,000.

And if this weren't enough to increase your repugnance for war, we would add these figures:

10,004,771 men died fighting in that last war.

20,297,551 were known wounded.

In addition there are nearly 3,000,000 listed as prisoners or missing who are actually dead, 6,000,000 who perished from Spanish influenza, another million of Austrian and Serbian civilians who died of starvation, disease and privation, and it was reported that nearly all Polish children under the age of six died of starvation.

Such horrors as these can not be too magnified. We'd like to shout that which a mild voice allows us only to whisper: Keep your shirt on, Europe.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Item here recently on Frances Dee's secret and unusually fine test for the role of THAT heroine in THAT book had her fans jubilant. The Deefor-Scarlett campaign is under way — but write Selznick, not me.

Wallace Beery and Mickey Rooney are "Stablemates" in title only. Kay Francis says she's going to leave the lots when she gets married and won't be back for a long time, if then.

Hollywood thinks Ariane Borg, the little French girl, had her nerve telling those reporters she drew $70,000 here for doing nothing. The argument's always the same: "We gotta pay 'em to find out if they've got anything."

As Billy Wilkerson in the Hollywood Reporter put it, Henry Ford can spend thousands experimenting on a new gadget and toss it in the ashcan and nobody thinks anything of it — but let Hollywood spend a little experimenting on a personality and it's NEWS.

But on the other hand there's Deanna Durbin, passed up by Metro but a sensation at the U. And Bing Crosby, turned down plenty before his Paramount click.

And Gable, a reject until the fans howled for him. And Taylor, skipped by Goldwyn but saved by the fans for Metro.

Patience A. Virtue One of the five pictures Nelson Eddy hears he's to do after "Sweethearts" is "I Married an Angel." That's funny, because five years ago Eddy was brought to Hollywood to do that very musical comedy which today, because it's a stage hit, will become a movie.

They were afraid to do it as a picture then because of the "angel" angle. Now, whether they like it or not — and they do — they've a hit on their hands, and Eddy will play it at last.

But the angel won't have wings. She'll be merely a very angelic human.

One of the popular new dances is the Lambeth walk, which is described as smooth and restful. Just the thing for the WPA worker after a hard day of leaning on the shovel in a park.

Six air-conditioning machines were installed in the courtroom for the Hines policy-racket trial. Pretty big job for six machines.

THE role of "Lucky" in the Hopalong Cassidy westerns is just that. Jimmy Ellison played it first, went on to bigger things. Russell Hayden's doing it now. Hayden was a laboratory worker at Paramount, friend of Jimmy's when Ellison introduced him to Harry Sherman, Hopalong producer, and Sherman hired him as business manager. When Ellison left the "Cassidy's" they put Hayden in his "Lucky" role. And then Hayden introduced his fiancée, June Clayton, to Sherman. From a small part in one Hopalong she was promoted to feminine lead in the next — and she's clicked.

Remember Joe Frisco? Joan Crawford should be a big box-office in "The Shining Hour." She'll have help from Margaret Sullivan, Robert Montgomery and Melvyn Douglas! Joe Frisco, the one-time vaude headliner, is doing his old turns at the Seven Seas, cocktail house.

Terry Kilburn (of "Lord Jeff") may play Tiny Tim to Lionel Barrymore's Scrooge in "The Christmas Carol." Robert Preston, the radio operator in "King of Alcatraz," is a Bing Crosby discovery. His mother, at the photograph record company in which Bing's interested, suggested Bing might like to see her boy act at the Pasadena playhouse.

Bing said to himself, "Oh, well, we've got to do this," and sent a scout who came back raving. Scout — brother Everett Crosby signed Preston, sold him to Paramount.

Health Hints

By Logan Clendening, M.D.

In preparing a child for the opening of school, we have emphasized in previous articles this week the importance of protection against contagious diseases.

But, of course, the conscientious parents will think of many other things in connection with the physical welfare of the child that will need to be considered when it is faced with the extra responsibilities and burdens of school life.

The eyes and the ears will be put under strain in school such as they never had in the irresponsible days of early childhood.

Pope wrote, "Explore the thought, explain the asking eye," and this might well be a motto for teachers. They must think of how much the child sees if they are to explain his behavior.

One of the teacher members of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness learned that the department of psychology of one of our state universities was giving Intelligence Quotient tests to a group of school children. He found that they had not taken any steps to investigate the vision of the children and asked that he might do so.

He found that of 300 children under investigation, 25 had vision sufficiently defective to see inaccurately the material used in the I. Q. tests. All 25 had been given low I. Q. ratings, as might be expected.

Poor Vision Limits Work

Poor vision may limit excellency in school work in many ways. Wherever possible, parents should be assured by their oculist that the child's vision is efficient before starting school work.

While school hygiene workers do attempt to make an examination of the scholars' eyes; this is often done in a slipshod manner and is based entirely on whether the child can read 20/20 on a Luellen chart.

Tests made under consistent standards of lighting are not attempted. I understand there is being constructed in one of our natural history museums a hall of animal behavior where the public may see how the world looks to different animals. For instance, a dog having no color discrimination, sees everything as a pale gray.

We should think of the school child in this way, and project ourselves into his consciousness. Then we may be able to understand some of his deficiencies as a scholar.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

G. R.: "Does swimming have any effect upon a person who has had scarlet fever? I had this disease when I was seven years old; I am now 21. I have been kept from this form of exercise because of the idea that it may affect sight and hearing. Are such people more susceptible to mastoid and sinus trouble?"

Answer: These ideas are entirely erroneous. Scarlet fever, if it is going to affect the ears or eyes, does so within a week or ten days at the most, of the eruption. It does not create any predisposition to mastoid or sinus disease, except just at the time of the eruption.

Scores were injured in a stampede from a movie theater in San Luis Potosi, Mexico. Maybe you saw that picture, too.

BE LITTLE HAMILTON Thus the argument of the Republican element which disagrees with Chairman Hamilton.

Hamilton, after all, is not regarded by competent Republican politicians as a manager of any consequence. Certainly he never will direct another G. O. P. campaign. Consequently what he says now is of small importance in its bearing on his party's policy in the comparatively near future.

Plenty of influential Republicans are more than willing to bid for anti-New Deal Democrats by offering them almost anything they insist on.

For example, they are prepared to get in line on states' rights. They always have been large tariff-ites. They're inclined to yield on that point. They're ready to nominate erstwhile Democrats upon Republican tickets. To prevent the New Dealers from gaining control of the northern Negro vote they're disposed to continue suppression of the southern Negro vote.

READY TO ACQUIESCE In short, Republicanism stands by to acquiesce in nearly anything that promises to entice anti-New Deal Democratic voters.

It wouldn't go so far as to sacrifice its name—Republican. But there is not much it would hesitate to do short of that. Hamilton wouldn't. He's a G.O.P. stand-patter. But sensible Republican politicians would. And Hamilton soon is to be wished into the background.

So Says the American Press

(Editor's Note: These editorials do not necessarily represent The Daily Iowan's point of view but are reprinted to show another aspect of American thought as presented by the press.)

The political spotlight turns to the free state as word goes out from Hyde Park that President Roosevelt, himself, personally, will make a Labor Day appearance in Maryland.

Of all the purge parties featuring the late summer of 1938, this to us is the most entertaining, for the reason that the two men involved represent a contest of real talent that can't be found in the three other events that are coming to climax in Georgia, South Carolina and New York.

Hot though those in races be, the entries, with the exception of the scholarly George of Georgia, are not of the class that Maryland provides. Camp and Talmadge, Georgia, Cotton Ed Smith and Olin Johnston, South Carolina, O'Connor and Fay, New York, are not of the Man of War breed. But Tydings and Lewis are. Two thoroughbreds matched.

No more scintillating speaker has graced the U. S. Senate in the last couple of decades than Tydings. His "Julip Time in Vermont" masterpiece three years ago this month, in which he tangled with pork-barrellers over a flood-control bill, was worthy of the late Senator John Sharp Williams.

Ability here. And ability of similar sort in his opponent, whose record of actual legislative accomplishment is greater and more consistent than Tydings' and runs back to years before Franklin D. Roosevelt was a name in national affairs. And as an orator, like Tydings, Lewis is handy with the rapier, not dependent on the ball-bat.

So, in this most dramatic of summer performances, replete with interest anywhere you look, for sheer excitement on the home stretch keep your eyes on Maryland.

As for Tydings, he's his own man. No fear about his being anybody's robot. That has been demonstrated. And as for Lewis, on his record no one should lose any sleep about his becoming a ventriloquist's assistant. That has been demonstrated too.

The "It Davey" who told Co-

Washington World

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 — Republican National Chairman John Hamilton, while welcoming anti-New Deal Democrats to the G.O.P. fold, has made it clear that his policy is to receive them only as converts to Republicanism.

They mustn't come in, he explains, with any idea of diluting the Republican party.

However, this attitude is more or less personal to Hamilton. I meet a considerable number of Republicans who hold that their party must make concessions.

Their reasoning is that, until the New Deal's advent, orthodox Republicans and orthodox Democrats had no important issue between them. Now there is an issue (in fact, many issues) between New Dealers on one side and anti-New Dealers on the other side.

By anti-New Dealers they mean Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats. The New Dealers, they say, can afford to be exclusive, being in a plurality over the various groups of "antis." But a plurality is not necessarily a majority-over-all.

If the disunited anti groups can be consolidated, maybe their consolidation will prove to be predominant over its opposition.

BE LITTLE HAMILTON Thus the argument of the Republican element which disagrees with Chairman Hamilton.

Hamilton, after all, is not regarded by competent Republican politicians as a manager of any consequence. Certainly he never will direct another G. O. P. campaign. Consequently what he says now is of small importance in its bearing on his party's policy in the comparatively near future.

Plenty of influential Republicans are more than willing to bid for anti-New Deal Democrats by offering them almost anything they insist on.

For example, they are prepared to get in line on states' rights. They always have been large tariff-ites. They're inclined to yield on that point. They're ready to nominate erstwhile Democrats upon Republican tickets. To prevent the New Dealers from gaining control of the northern Negro vote they're disposed to continue suppression of the southern Negro vote.

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER NEW YORK — It was about 4:30 in the afternoon and the young man whose face had been sunburned the color of champagne said, "Here, I'll show you. It's easy as pie." He selected a record and placed it on the phonograph.

He paused a moment to catch the tempo and then slipped into three minutes of a shuffling-tandance that was lazily reminiscent of some half-forgotten Memphis street scene.

"You see?" cried Fred Astaire, "that's the Yam. You just get lazy. Then you do this (tap-tap-a-tap-a-tap), and this. You can't miss. That's Irving Berlin's Yam."

It was nice seeing Fred Astaire after so long a time away from his old haunts. He was well turned out in a blue double-breasted suit, turned calf shoes, a blue shirt, with socks and tie to match. He and Mrs. Astaire were back for three or four days on a little visit, the last 12 hours of which were spent in a boat off Montauk, fishing. They like to fish.

To amplify this Fred had some photographs along. Not studio portraits. He produced them sort of apologetically, but he needn't have. They disclosed the young man on a wharf standing next to a 210 lb. Marlin swordfish which had been hoisted by a boom. Fred took him in Mexican waters.

"Took me nearly three hours," he exulted. "I fouled-hooked him. It usually takes an hour and a half to get a gaff into one of these fellows, but this one wouldn't quit. We were astonished to find, on getting him to the boat, that he had been hooked lightly in the side. I guess they have more chance to fight when they are hooked that way. I don't understand why he didn't get away."

Fred Astaire does heavy duty aboard salt water yaws when the studios give him time off. But not much of this sweet liberty remains. Perhaps you noticed that Irene Castle McLaughlin was a recent arrival in Hollywood.

That wasn't just a chance arrival. She is there for consultation purposes on a picture that is to portray the life story of Vernon and Irene Castle. Remember the Castles? They were the first great dancing favorites in America. They were the war vogue. Vernon Castle, ex-walter turned dancer, was the most celebrated dancer of his time.

Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers are going to parallel their romance on the screen. Fred is pleased with this assignment. I don't blame him. If you know the real story of the Castles you will understand how genuinely moving a cinema can be adapted from the romantic and heart-break episodes of their careers, a story that unfolds like the verses of a romantic ballad.

They won't have to change any of the facts to make it a good story. Only, they will change them. They always do. In real life Vernon Castle became an aviator, and was killed. In real life Irene and Vernon Castle were married — and divorced. But they epitomized ballroom dancing and the hearts of all who saw them.

I'm certainly glad Fred Astaire is going to play Vernon Castle. I can't think of another single name that belongs.

Pulled His Sister From Railroad Tracks MASON CITY (AP) — Lyman Way, 12, is Mason City's hero because he ran onto a railroad bridge and rescued his sister, Georgina, 6, who stood frozen with fright in the path of an oncoming train.

Trainmen found Lyman and his sister squatting on the edge of the trestle, unhurt. Lyman had grasped Georgina by the neck and forced her to sit down with him as the train sped past.

Cross your fingers until Sunday's column appears. It's out of my line, but the pre-season build-up the football team has terrific, the best ever. From way back when we won a game.

AROUND THE TOWN

With MERLE MILLER

Idle Thoughts While Daydreaming How can Iowa City have so many attractive matrons? It isn't fair. Mrs. Dean Lierle, Mrs. Frank Williams are two that pop into my mind direct off.

"Fast Company" is a good enough wisecracking mystery. Nearly 50 localites attended the all-star fracas. Wouldn't the university have something if it could welcome some of the German-Italian refugee minds—the cream of the countries? . . .

Every once in a while I meet someone interesting who doesn't know Norman Douglas "South Wind," which alarms me. They'd just started the "Lambeth Walk" at my first — only — visit to the London Trocadero. (An American — Sheila Barnett — introduced it to a surprised England.) . . .

Bing Crosby's been particularly good these last two broadcasts. . . Nauseating — That jitterbug display in the week's Life. . . That rumor is silly — and false. . . It asserts that Coralville has been granted permission — when and if money is available in the fed treasury — to build a $5,000,000 lake-dam project. . . At least none of Iowa's congressmen knows it. . .

The Howard Bovens are back. I met them in England, looking well, and they're looking better now. . . He'll be on the comm college faculty. . . And Dean Riewon is much better, I'm happy to report. . .

Yesterday was local moving day; all your best friends probably did. . . Why do feminine ones wear low-heeled shoes? . . . A laud to the Stewarts, Zella White and George, for their "international house" try. . . If it works, it should be the one stuffed shirtless campus quarter. . .

The fellow with the cynical smile asked the young Ph.D. just starting out. . . "What'd you want to be, head of your department or independent?" . . . After a week of over-numerous movies, I'm wondering if Will Hays is vacationing. . . Or isn't he very fast on the uptake with the slightly under-handed crack? . . .

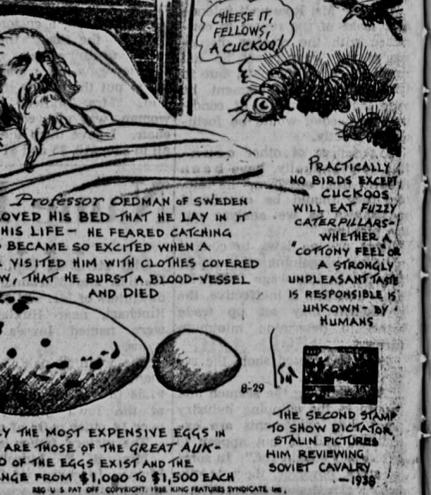

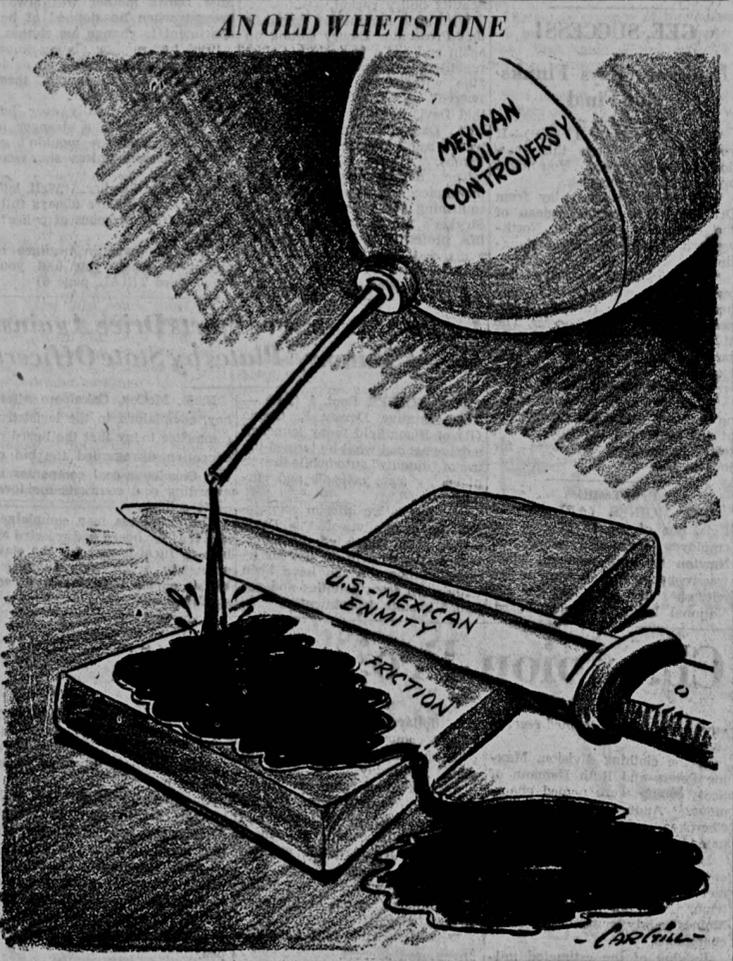

And I didn't know before that "Night Must Fall" probably played more local return engagements than any other talking pic. . .

Jim Farley's men yesterday delivered a verbose, hurt epistle from the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, Inc., which I appear to have labeled by saying, "We could stop the war in China by merely refusing our scrap iron for a month to the aggressor Japs." . . . Which still goes. . .

The ISISC letter avers, "It's true that the Japanese have been large buyers of scrap iron in the United States, but it doesn't necessarily follow that these purchases were for munitions. . .

"Japan is extending her railway, laying pipelines, building earthquake — proof structures of structural steel or steel reinforced concrete." . . .

AAL, of which, of course, has nothing to do with the duration. . . And so apologies to the ISISC, Inc.; some of my best friends are scrap ironers. . . I just said if we wouldn't like to

Little Hawks Hold Punting, Passing Drills

Iowa City's Little Hawk griders went through two drills yesterday in preparation for the hard season to come. The morning drill was limited to 30 men, while the whole squad reported for the afternoon session. Assistant Coach Fran Meriten returned yesterday to help Coach Herb Cormack whip his team into shape before the opening game.

Punting and passing continued to occupy the greatest share of time, with intervals of blocking and tackling filling out the day's program. Joe McGinnis, co-captain, and Jay Walden, co-captain, and Jay Walden again carried most of the punting. Co-Captain Ted McLaughlin and Bob Buckley stood out in the passing department.

Coach Cormack chose two teams from his 44-man squad to participate in signal formation drill. Wright, Fetig, Maher, Beck, Hirt, Crumley and Walsh made up the front wall of one team, while McGinnis, Walden, McLaughlin and Lewis were in the backfield. The opposing line included Parker, Hanson, Caywood, Gay and Crosssett, with Heacock, Graham, Stoner and Buckley in the backfield.

Several former Hawkeye football men were spectators at the practice session yesterday, getting a preview of the 1938 Little Hawk edition.

Freddie Miller Gets Decision in Match With Johnny King

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Sept. 1 (AP) — Freddie Miller, former world featherweight champion from Cincinnati, outpointed Johnny King, British Empire bantamweight titleholder, in a 10-round bout tonight.

King's faster and more accurate punching enabled him to establish a lead in the early rounds. Toward the end of the third Miller, after absorbing a barrage of right upper cuts and left jabs, was hanging on to avoid a knockdown. But in the fifth the American rallied and began punching with something like his old-time skill.

Miller almost had King down in this round, but the bell saved the Englishman. Freddie gave the Briton a boxing lesson in the seventh, then faded somewhat in the last two rounds as King staged a grandstand finish.

Jimmy Foxx Returns to Form As Boston Sox Take Second From St. Louis Browns, 5-3

Foxx Gets Homer Number 39; Fritsch Ostermueller Wins

BOSTON, Sept. 1 (AP)—With Jimmy Foxx' 39th homer signaling a return to hitting form, the Boston Red Sox took the odd game of the three-game series from the St. Louis Browns today, 5 to 3.

Ostermueller led 5-1 going into the ninth, having allowed only five hits up to then, one being Ralph Kress' homer in the second. With one out in the final frame, however, Ostermueller walked Heffner and Pitcher Buck Newsom sent the runner to third with a double—his third hit of the day. Oestie got Pinch Hitter McQuillen on a pop foul, but McQuinn doubled home two runs. Joe Heving then came in to relieve the southpaw and fanned Buster Mills for the final out.

Cubs Get Baker

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs today purchased William T. Baker, 25-year-old catcher, from the Indianapolis club of the American Association. He will join the team next spring.

Baker, a six-foot, 200-pounder, is a right hander and is hitting .317.

Chicago Bears Trounce College All-Stars by 26 to 14 Score; Whizzer White Is Outstanding

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 1 (AP)—The Chicago Bears packed too much power for the College All-Stars and scored a 26-14 victory in the Shrine charity game before 20,000 at Brown field tonight.

The Bears, paced by Ray Nolting and Bert Johnson, crowded all of their scoring in the first two touchdowns in the fourth period.

Byron (Whizzer) White of the All-Stars stole the show, however, with a dazzling display of fancy stepping. White led the All-Stars to the heights they reached in the second half.

White carried 11 times in all for a net gain of 60 yards and completed three of six passes for 32 yards.

The former Colorado All-American scored the All-Stars' first touchdown, climaxing a 74-yard drive with a four-yard scoring run.

Yankees Play Without Three First Stringers

NEW YORKERS LOSE TWO STRAIGHT FOR 1ST TIME SINCE JUNE

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP)—Monte Pearson, who pitched a no-hitter his last time out, didn't even come close today. The Detroit Tigers clubbed him for four runs in the fourth inning and coasted in with a 6 to 3 victory over the crippled Yankees.

The win gave the Tigers the current series two games to one, and marked the first time since June 22 that the Yankees have lost two games in a row.

Pearson, tagged for ten hits, had his personal winning streak snapped at 10 straight and was charged with his sixth setback against 13 victories for the year. The defeat sliced the Yankees' American league lead to 13 games over the Boston Red Sox.

Minus regular third baseman Red Killebrew, Catcher Bill Dickey, and Left-Fielder George Selkirk, all of whom were sidelined with assorted ailments, the Yankees showed little of their customary power. Only Tommy Henrich, latest of the long-range wall-poppers in the Yankee lineup, was up to the usual form with his 21st homer of the year.

Helen Mattes Becomes Bride

Wed at St. Patrick's To Theodore Bauer; Are Iowa Graduates

Married yesterday morning in the St. Patrick's church were Helen Mattes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Mattes, 516 E. Burlington street, and Dr. Theodore Bauer, son of Mrs. Charles A. Bauer, 308 N. Clinton street, and the late Mr. Bauer.

The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edward Collins of Davenport, a cousin of the bride, in the presence of 150 guests. Attending the couple were Mary Collins of Dubuque and Bernard Sheridan of Iowa City.

The bride wore a gown of aqua chiffon velvet, fashioned with a short train. Her aqua finger-tip length veil fell from a matching Juliet cap. Her flowers were orchids.

Miss Collins wore a princess style gown of American beauty color with matching Juliet cap. Her corsage was of gladioli, white roses and baby's breath.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to 45 guests at the Hotel Jefferson. Later the couple left for San Francisco, Cal., where they will reside. For her traveling costume the bride wore a leaf green costume suit with fur trim. Her accessories were of luggage tan.

The bride is a graduate of St. Patrick's high school and the university. Dr. Bauer is a graduate of St. Mary's high school and of the university college of medicine. Since the completion of his internship in public health in New York Dr. Bauer has been with the United States public health service in Washington, D. C. He is now being transferred to San Francisco.

Kid's Day Centennial Fair Will Offer Treat

DES MOINES, Sept. 1, Special.—A second free children's day for the Iowa Centennial State Fair—to be held Friday, Sept. 2—was announced here this morning by exposition officials.

All boys and girls under 15 years of age will be admitted to the exposition free of charge all day Friday, and a special reduced price of 5 cents for all midway shows and rides until 6 p.m. will be in effect for youngsters.

"We want to give the children an opportunity for a last holiday before the opening of schools next week," Secretary A. R. Corey said today.

Nearly 30,000 youngsters were guests of the fair on the first children's day last Friday, and a like number is expected to take advantage of tomorrow's free admission.

When a Trailer Is Not a Building

YARMOUTH, N. S. (AP)—The Yarmouth town council has an unusual problem facing it: William Pennell has applied for sewer and water connections to a trailer in which he is making his home and which he plans to adopt as a permanent residence.

A trailer, however, is not a building and under town by-laws cannot be given permanent sewer and water connections.

Higbee Book Will Appear

Principles of engineering drawing which he has used in teaching for the past two years now have been incorporated into a text book by Prof. F. G. Higbee, head of that department in the University of Iowa engineering college.

Entitled "Drawing Board Geometry," the book will come from the press this fall. It probably will be adopted by numerous institutions for use in classes.

Each principle is discussed on a page and is illustrated upon the opposite page. The book is furnished with spiral binding to aid in the ease of handling in classes.

Thinks 'W' in Name Must Stand for 'Woe'

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—W. H. Irwin, 63-year-old farmer, wonders what is going to happen to him next. He has just had a needle removed from his side and he doesn't know how it got there.

A few of the other things that have happened to him: he lost a finger in a saw mill, he lost the hearing in one ear when he fell off a ladder, he swallowed a shingle nail, and he had two operations.

Neia Ersland Will Marry M. W. Kestler

Wedding Will Be Sunday at Home Of Bride's Mother

Mrs. Irma Ersland, 816 N. Duquesne street, is announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Neia Ersland, to Meredith Wayne Kestler, son of Dr. and Mrs. Roy C. Kestler of Humeston.

The wedding will take place Sunday at 4 p.m. in the home of the bride's mother. The Rev. Evans A. Worthley, pastor of the Unitarian church, will officiate at the wedding ceremony.

Miss Ersland, a graduate of Iowa City high school, has attended the university and has been employed in the offices of the Sidwell Dairy company.

Mr. Kestler will be a senior in the university college of dentistry this year. He is affiliated with Delta Sigma Delta fraternity and has been employed at the Williams Iowa Supply company.

The couple will make their home on Bloom Terrace. Last night Miss Ersland was guest of honor at a surprise party in her home. Audrey Peters served as hostess.

Miss Ersland was the recipient of many gifts for use in the kitchen of her new home. Guests at the party were Ruth Ludvigson, Margaret Chittenden, Marguerite Kessel, Elaine Murray, Mary Grim, Luella Memler, Mrs. Beverly Kirby, Ruby Brown, Dorothy Sheets, Alice Burton, Gwen Davis, Maxine Kale and Elizabeth Stapleton.

Guests to Arrive

HOSTESS HINTS

Now that grapes can be found in the markets you'll be wanting to use them in making a galaxy of taste-tempting dishes.

Refreshing beverages may be made in a jiffy from grape juice. Gelatin and frozen desserts, too, are delicious with the added touch of grape flavoring. So why not prepare your own grape juice? Here's a good method:

Wash your grapes well and remove them from their stems. Heat in a double boiler until the juice can be pressed out easily. Press with a wooden spoon and pour into a jelly bag to drain. Boil the juice for two minutes and then pour it into hot sterilized jars and seal them immediately.

Now is the time, too, to prepare spiced grapes to serve with your Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners.

Select firm, ripe grapes. Wash them well and remove them from their stems. Carefully remove the skins from the pulp, reserving both. Simmer the pulp until it is soft, then press it through a strainer and discard the seeds. Measure skins and pulp. To each five pounds of the grape mixture add five cups of granulated sugar, two cups of vinegar, one tablespoon of cinnamon, two teaspoons of cloves and one teaspoon of nutmeg. Include a fourth of a cup of lemon juice, one tablespoon of grated orange rind and a fourth of a cup of teaspoon of salt.

Combine all the ingredients, including the grape pulp and skins, and simmer until the combina-

Italy Orders Out All Jews Who Came Since World War

Ethiopia May Be Refuge For Group

Cabinet Decree Gives Jews Six Months To Leave Country

ROME, Sept. 1 (AP)—The Italian government today ordered all Jews who have established themselves in Italy since the World war to get out of the country within six months.

The order was contained in a decree which was approved at a cabinet meeting over which Premier Benito Mussolini presided.

It applies to Italy's north African colony of Libya and the Aegean Isles, but not to Italian East Africa — Eritrea, Italian Somaliland and Ethiopia.

This omission presumably leaves Ethiopia, which Italy annexed May 9, 1936, open to the banished Jews if they are not able to get into any other country.

10,000 Affected

Definite information on the number affected will not be known until results of a recent census of Jews is published, but estimates placed the figure at more than 10,000. Many Jews entered Italy shortly after the World war and their number was augmented after Germany annexed Austria on March 13.

Italy's total Jewish population has been estimated at about 44,000. The decree ordered out those who have settled in the country since Jan. 1, 1919, generally regarded as the date on which the country passed from a wartime to a peacetime basis.

Revokes Citizenship

The order also revoked Italian citizenship conferred on Jews since Jan. 1, 1919, and prohibited additional Jews from settling in Italy. It provided that if those affected did not leave Italy voluntarily within the six-month period they would be expelled, "following the penalties fixed by law."

Other actions taken by the cabinet were:

War veterans who served in the Austrian army were accorded the same pensions as Italian World war veterans. This was interpreted as designed to win greater loyalty from the Germanic population of the South Tyrol, which Italy received from Austria after the World war.

The government was given full power to make any use of its desires of any industrial or commercial establishment in the event of full or partial mobilization.

Desire Birth Increase

In the campaign for boosting the birth rate, the ratio of women employed in public and private offices was limited to one for every 10 men, except in special cases, and promotion of men in the civil service was made dependent on their marital status.

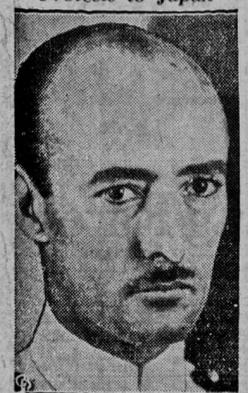

The decree banishing the Jews, whom it defined as those born "of both parents of the Hebrew race regardless of religion", said nothing about the disposition of property of those affected.

Unless special provisions are made, however, they will not be able to take much of their property with them. Under present laws, capital with the exception of a small amount for travelling expenses may not be taken from Italy by those leaving the country.

Yawn Yawson is now working on a combination lawn mower and snow shovel. This, he hopes, will cut down the borrowing going on in his neighborhood exactly in half.

In timbered regions where there are bob-whites, density of the bird is closely related to timber-cutting, game experts say.

Protests to Japan

Commander Clarence Conlon, his gunboat imperiled Lieutenant Commander Clarence Conlon is in command of the U. S. gunboat Monocacy which was imperiled by Yangtze river mines, although the Japanese refuse to let her move downstream toward Shanghai. Commander Conlon registered a protest with the Japanese consulate after mines had exploded dangerously close to the vessel.

While the world feared the outcome of the present German-Czechoslovakian question, another move, by Italy, draws the attention of political observers. Italy ejected 50 French peasant families from farm lands they owned inside Italy and immediately began preparations for frontier fortifications in the Chastillon valley. The peasants poured into the frontier town of Isola.

Report Japan Defeated On Yangtze Front

SHANGHAI, Sept. 2 (Friday) (AP) — Chinese military commanders reported today that Japanese forces had been defeated on Yangtze valley fronts in the bloodiest fighting of recent months.

Counterattacking westward from Juichang, about 100 miles southeast of Hankow, the Chinese said their fighters inflicted 4,000 casualties on the invaders attempting to advance toward the Yangsin river.

A second counterattack southward from Juichang was said to have resulted in the recapture of Anshan, keypoint for a Japanese attack on Teian, on the Nanchang-Kiukiang railway.

On the north bank of the Yangtze river, the Chinese said they fought the Japanese to a standstill in a fierce hand-to-hand encounter at Twangmei, 20 miles north of Kiukiang, base of the Japanese Yangtze valley operations 135 miles below Hankow, China's provisional capital which the invaders hope to reach before winter sets in.

Japanese reported earlier that their offensives were "progressing" on both the Yangtze and Yellow river fronts.

The football season cannot be far away. A sure indication is the manner in which baseball managers are being fired right and left.

Of the 167,935,000 acres comprising the land area of Texas, about one-fifth is covered with forest growth.

Two Hundred Million People Can't Be Wrong!

IT IS THE Man Who Runs Your Favorite Motion Picture Theatre Speaking: "Yes," he says, "I have heard almost everyone that patronizes my theatre on the subject of screen entertainment. Within the space of a couple of minutes I have heard the same picture enthusiastically applauded and severely criticized, the same stars praised and 'panned.'"

"I have come to the conclusion that while the picture that will please everybody, everywhere, will probably never be made, motion pictures, by and large, hit a mighty high average of pleasure-giving. Take any individual picture—and you will find that most people who see it will get a lot of enjoyment out of it.

"Yes, sir, 200,000,000 people can't be wrong and there are at least that many the world over who go to the movies every week. Why? Well, motion pictures can give more happiness to more people at a lot less cost than most anything else the mind of man was ever responsible for. People can go for little money to a comfortable restful theatre—cool in summer and warm in winter—relax, put themselves at peace with the world, sit in quiet darkness and get out of their own lives into another world for two thrilling hours. 'An escape from reality,' psychologists call it, and a mighty pleasant thing too, in much more comfortable surroundings than most of us enjoy in our own homes. The 'movies' have come a long way since I have been in the business and so have motion picture theatres. Sometimes I wonder why there isn't more 'Oh-ing' and 'Ah-ing' at some of the remarkable things that I show on my screen but when I think it over, the answer is easy.

"Today people take the motion picture for granted—just as they take the telephone—and automobile.

"Motion pictures have ceased to be a novelty to be marveled at and have become an entertainment—the greatest the world has ever known."

Next year, the "movies" will be fifty years old—fifty years since that October 6th in 1889 when Mr. Edison first revealed the miracle of pictures that moved.

And every week, in the United States and Canada alone, over eighty-eight million people go to the "movies"—sharing romance, excitement, dreams, love and laughter and a kinship with the far corners of the earth.

The motion picture producer is thoroughly conscious of his responsibility. He realizes the compact he holds with the hundreds of millions of people he must entertain—the obligation which is placed upon him by the unique way in which the motion picture has become a part of the daily life of the people... its influence on the thoughts and actions of millions. He knows that the motion picture cannot stand still, that it must move forward to greater and greater accomplishments.

The Man Who Runs Your Favorite Theatre will show you—in the list of the pictures which are coming this fall—proof, if proof be needed, that the motion picture is moving steadily forward.

To provide the finest array of productions ever released, the Motion Picture Industry has mobilized all its skill, all its imagination, all its resources.

Great stories, splendidly produced... love-filled romance, stirring drama, gay adventure, hilarious comedy, tuneful musicals—star-studded casts filled with your favorites and new faces, new talents, for which the world has been searched. One after another, week after week, these fine pictures are coming to the screen of your favorite theatre.

Entertainment, relaxation, freedom from care are yours in overflowing measure, brought to you by the supreme efforts of the Motion Picture Industry to make this fall season one you will never forget.

Canadians Will Help Americans Celebrate Capt. Perry's One-Man Victory over British Squadron

By the AP Feature Service
PUT-IN-BAY, Ohio—Americans and a group of representative Canadians are meeting on those emerald islands near the western end of Lake Erie, the Bass Islands, to honor the memory of Oliver Hazard Perry.

It was on September 10, 1813, that Perry, a naval captain from Newport, R. I., just 27 years old, whipped a whole squadron of His British Majesty's navy. It was the first time in history that such a force of British ships had surrendered in its entirety.

An Empire in Itself

By that defeat of Capt. Robert H. Barclay, a gallant hero who had lost an arm fighting under Lord Nelson at Trafalgar, Perry won for the young New World nation an empire in itself; territory now included in western Pennsylvania, northern Ohio, northern Illinois, all of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. The victory also gave the United States control of the Great Lakes.

At Put-in-Bay, the little town on South Bass Island named after the harbor where Perry kept vigil while the British coasted down from Malden on the Canadian shore, rises a 317-foot shaft of New England granite, the Perry Memorial. In its base rest the bodies of six officers killed in the battle of 1813—three Americans and three British.

The Battle of Lake Erie was fought about eight miles northwest of Put-in-Bay, just off the island called West Sister, but to the Bass Islands clings the fame of the conflict and the legends of the men who died in it.

A One-Man Battle

Time has obliterated the names of the heroes of the battle besides Perry. That's not altogether improper. If there ever was a one-man fight, it was this one waged by the tall, pale, young American officer. He not only built a fleet in the wilderness at Erie, Pa. (then called Presque Isle). He also sailed in command of it against a gallant enemy. And it was he who won the victory when the day was all but lost.

Perry went into battle with nine vessels. But, with the exception of the brigs Lawrence, which he commanded, and the Niagara, commanded by Capt. Jesse D. Elliott, they would scarcely rate as fishing smacks today. Each of these brigs carried 20 guns. The most carried by any other American craft in the battle was four. Three of the ships had only one gun each.

Barclay commanded six ships: two, the Detroit and the Queen Charlotte, ranking with the American brigs. He had a third brig, the 14-gun Lady Prevost, a 10-gun ship and two others of three guns each.

When the battle opened, Perry forced the Lawrence into the thick of the fight. For nearly three hours he took the combined fire of the two heaviest British ships, Captain Elliott, for a reason never explained, failed to bring up his ship. The small American vessels were doing their feeble best.

Ship a Shambles

Perry's ship was soon a shambles. Of his crew of 100, 22 lay dead, 61 were wounded. Only 14 men were able to stand. Only one man still could be fired. Perry himself, with the help of the chaplain and the purser, fired the last shot.

Taking his 12-year-old brother, Alexander, Perry boarded a small boat and started for the Niagara, half-a-mile distant. Enveloped in his battle flag, which carried the phrase of the dying Capt. James Lawrence on the U. S. Frigate Chesapeake, "Don't Give up the Ship," Perry stood straight in the open boat, a fine target for the British, until his men pulled him down.

When they reached the Niagara,

Senate Race In California Takes Shape

Election Results Indicate Bancroft Republican Winner

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1 (AP)—A straightaway race between a liberal democratic pension champion and a conservative republican new deal critic for the California senatorship next November appeared in prospect for primary election returns tonight.

A three-sided battle for the governorship also seemed to be in the making, with a progressive party contender standing between a conservative republican and a pro-new deal, pension-minded democrat.

In the wake of Sen. William Gibbs McAdoo's defeat for re-nomination by Sheridan Downey, advocate of the $30-a-week pension plan, attention turned to the race between Philip Bancroft, militant farmer, and Ray L. Riley, veteran state official, for the republican senatorial nomination.

Bancroft, a critic of administration on policies, slowly lengthened his lead as the tabulation of returns neared completion. In 11,555 out of 12,438 precincts Bancroft had 267,285 and Riley 261,155. The unreported precincts were widely scattered.

It appeared doubtful whether stalwart liberal Culbert L. Olson, democratic nominee for governor, had won also the progressive party nomination. Raymond L. Haight, progressive party leader, claimed victory.

The progressive totals in 9,129 precincts gave Haight 3,737 and Olson 2,684. An Olson progressive victory there would have eliminated Haight from the November race.

On the count from 11,660 precincts Downey rolled up 472,718 votes to 339,692 for McAdoo and 81,488 for Preston.

Perry took the command from Captain Elliot. He found the brig virtually unharmed. Only two of her crew were wounded, none had been killed. With his battle flag again flying, Perry sailed the Niagara straight between the heavy vessels of the British fleet, pouring broadsides into them at half-pistol range. The Detroit and the Charlotte were soon helpless, their sails cut to shreds, their decks covered with dead and dying. Eight minutes after Perry sailed at them, the British hoisted a white handkerchief on a pike at the rear of the Charlotte. The fleet has surrendered—the first time in world history that a British squadron had fallen in entirety.

On the day after the battle, men of both fleets joined to bury their dead. The vanquished Barclay, wounded twice in the Erie fighting, was supported by Perry, "my generous enemy," as Barclay called him. The two men became fast friends.

Because historians agree that Ohio did the lion's share for the Union in the War of 1812, that state is sponsoring today's celebration, through a special act of Congress. The resolution provides for a formal dedication of the Perry Memorial as a national monument and national park under the national park service. Nine states built the memorial—Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Wisconsin, New York, Rhode Island, Kentucky and Massachusetts.

Egg Diet Man Got the Best of Them at Fair

DES MOINES, Sept. 1 (AP)—Tom Denholm, state fair race track officer, saw a man who he thought was showing unusual affection toward a prize hen in the poultry building today.

As the man stroked the hen's feathery coat, Denholm noticed he had an egg in his hand. The man, who Denholm said gave his name as Gerald L. Holsey, 37, of Ottumwa, was searched by Denholm.

Inside Holsey's pockets, Denholm said he found two dozen eggs which Denholm admitted taking from the nest's of prize winning poultry.

"My doctor told me I had to go on an egg diet," Holsey was quoted by Denholm as saying. "When I saw those five eggs I just couldn't resist temptation."

Holsey was turned over to Enoch Nichols, chief of the fair grounds police, who ordered him held in the city jail for investigation by Inspector of Detectives Jack Brophy.

Holsey was still in jail tonight. He wasn't however, on an egg diet. They serve soup at the jail.

Weather Halts Fighting on Ebro Front in Spain

HENDAYE, France (At the Spanish Frontier), Sept. 1 (AP)—Cold winds and driving rain were reported today to have halted fighting on the Ebro river front of the Spanish civil war, marking the end of summer operations in South Catalonia.

Where government and insurgent troops were fighting in sweltering heat a week ago, water froze in trenches overnight. Dispatches from each side said limited artillery duels in the Pandos mountains south of Gaudes and in the Gaeta peaks to the north were the only actions.

"Safety Plane" in Nearly Vertical Takeoff

Kropf's "safety plane" gives a demonstration. Designed for the greatest possible safety in the air, Emil Kropf's "safety plane" stands on its tail in a nearly vertical takeoff during a demonstration at Bendix, N. J. Kropf, well-known German stunt flyer, claims the plane can land and take off from as small a space as an autogiro. The plane has a top speed of 130 miles an hour but can fly 20 miles an hour.

other shirt off, just your undershirt?"

"She may have worn a morning gown," Davis snapped. "She was not in negligee."

"And you just in your undershirt?"

"And my pants on," Davis amended firmly.

With a dramatic flourish, Stryker then exhibited an enlarged newspaper photograph of a scantily-clad man and woman standing close together at the window of an apartment.

"Is that a picture of you and someone else?" asked Stryker. He handed the photograph to Davis.

"The witness studied it with a grimace. 'I really can't tell, sir,' he said. 'I am sure I don't have that stomach. I don't know — it might be — it is very indistinct.'"

"Indistinct or not," Stryker snapped, "can you recognize who it is?"

"It is very indistinct," Davis repeated feebly. "I couldn't recognize either Hope or myself."

The French language, we read, contains more slang phrases than any other. That shouldn't worry any 100-per cent patriotic American since it's easily apparent we are rapidly catching up.

Men Burned In Gas Explosion

MUSCATINE, Sept. 1 (AP)—Three employees of the Stokely Bros. Canning company were burned when a gas torch exploded at the plant late today.

Clyde Gabriel, Jr., 17, was burned about the face and body and had to be carried from the plant. James Phillips, 21, and Arthur Hill, 31, suffered second degree burns. All are in a hospital here.

FARMERS FIGHT RAIN WITH DYNAMITE

BLAST—Four hundred pounds of dynamite cleaned out this 900 foot long drainage ditch in Illinois which could no longer carry the run-off from excessive rains this summer.

CLOGGED—Six years of drought had silted up the ditch until it was almost useless. The 2,000 acres of corn for which it formed the outlet were suffering from too much moisture and crop losses were threatened in some sections.

FLOWING—The blast set off by du Pont field men straightened out the ditch and cleaned it to a depth of 3 feet. With the prospect of years of heavy rainfall facing the corn belt, the farmers' problem is now not drought but drainage.

has 26,000 miles of main drainage ditches and probably twice as much more of lateral ditches. Estimates indicate that over half of these ditches need cleaning.

During the drought years the drainage ditches in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Kentucky and Arkansas became clogged because drainage was not needed and no attention was paid to the outlets. The ditches cannot carry off the seepage from the tile drainage systems. Worse than useless, these ditches must be cleaned out to cope with the expected excess rainfall, government experts say.

Damage to the corn crop and other crops from this condition is evident in some areas. Crops in the low spots may be drowned out and without the controlled soil moisture which these drainage ditches were designed to provide, deterioration of the plants with reduced yields is likely to result.

AFRAID TO MARRY

HELEN WEISHER

CHAPTER 5
"I HOPED I would see you," said Ronald Birrell, as Judy paused near the library door, which the attorney had just closed behind him. "I think that was why I came, instead of waiting until morning to give your father the papers I brought."

"Why did you want to see me?" she asked, aware of the gleaming gold of her lounging pajamas and mules. "I ran away at noon."
"Maybe that was why, I like a good fight. Are you busy now?"
"Well—hardly!" she glanced at her attire and laughed.
"Then will you take a spin up the river or around the park? I have a car downstairs."
"If you'll give me five minutes to dress."
"Good, I'll wait in the car."
"No, wait in the drawing room, or here in the den. I gather you don't want to go back to the library."
He shook his head. "I've said good night once."

Thus, 10 minutes later, wearing a sheer wine-colored woolen frock and a warm gray jacket and a beret whose style had cost very much, and whose material practically nothing, Judy slipped into the long roadster.
"Nice car," she observed.
"I got it second-hand. I've always wanted a car. When I was a youngster, running barefooted in the hills, I used to get a glimpse of one going along the roads now and then, and I made up my mind if I ever had the money..." He stopped and laughed. "Skip it, please."
"But I want to hear."
"Maybe some other time." The car was passing Central park where the trees waved together, their wet leaves cool and distant in the fog. Suddenly a boat horn pierced the silence. Judy started. She almost had forgotten. Craig was going out on that boat... going away. Oh, what right had she to be here in a car with a strange man while Craig sailed out of port with a girl she never had seen? If she could turn back the hands of the clock, tear away all the hours between now and last Thursday night...

"You aren't listening to a word I'm saying," came Ronald Birrell's voice.
"I'm sorry, I was thinking. I wish that time could retreat."
"How far back would you have it go?"
"To last Thursday night at half-past 10."
"Why then?"
"I made a mistake."
The boat horn came again, louder. It must be turning its sound on in full force as the ship swung out of its berth into the river.
Ronald Birrell's words were studied when he spoke. "I'm mighty sorry about this Craig Denby's marriage, if it mattered to you. I can't believe it did."
"Why not?" Judy asked.
"I can't think any man would choose another girl if there were the remotest chance that you were interested."
"He didn't think there was. I have been saying no for such a long time, you see."
Ronald Birrell nodded gravely. "People do that. The contrariness of human nature. But maybe you were wiser than you thought."
"Why?"
"You hadn't met me yet." His grin removed all egotism from the words.
Judy smiled, too. "And now that I have?"
"You are running off to Europe to play with the counts and the dukes."
She didn't answer. She wouldn't let anyone know that she was staying in town, hunting a job. Maybe some day, when she was successful, she would drop into the legal offices and tell Ronald.
"Playing is one way to pass time," she murmured.
"I'd hate it." He stepped on the gas and the speedometer flew across the 50 mark, to 55, 60 and 65. "I want to accomplish something."
"I used to. My father put his foot down."
"But it isn't too late! How old are you? Twenty-one? That's infancy. I'm 24, nearly 25."
"That's young to have come so far," Judy reminded him. "Don't you know you have one of the choice legal berths in this city?"

"I do." He said it so humbly she looked at him in surprise. All the gay arrogance and sureness were gone. "That's why I want to make good so badly."
They rode along the park. They turned at Ninety-sixth street, and swung across to the river. Its broad bosom was quiet, except where the raindrops dotted it. Here and there a river barge swung a green lantern. And Ronald began to talk.
He mentioned a log cabin, scrupulously clean and barren, and a mother who once had taught a term of school, married, had one child, and died.
"So my father married again," the voice went on. "A girl who never got beyond the fourth grade. And I started out for myself, when I was about 12."
"Where did you live?"
"Here and there, on that farm and this. Then I came to a college, with a prep school, and the president took me in, let me fix the furnace and care for the lawn and go to school. I stayed there until I finished high school and a year of college."
"But Princeton," prompted Judy. "How did you manage it?"
"Working, saving money, one thing and another. Life's fun, Judy Rogers. Dare it to come on. Smile and meet it. It can't lick you unless you want it to."

Judy sensed that he was talking, not so much to relieve her mind from her worries, as to make her understand his background, though he would have sworn it was the other reason. They were worlds apart—Park avenue and the mountains of the south where people lived in one-room cabins too often. Judy had visited in the long, rambling, beautiful homes of the southern cities and shared their luxury and wealth, and now and then someone had suggested a trip into the backwoods. She never had entered one of the far cabins—only the nicely arranged ones by the road. Yet here was a boy who came from one of them, who wanted her to understand. Here was a boy who might some day be great in the legal world.
"What did you see in Denby?" he broke into her reverie.
"You're too inquisitive. But we had known each other so long. He was part of my world..."
Part of my world—
The words hung in the air, separating them.
"I understand. He was a good scout. I played football against his team one year. I remember him."
"What year?" Judy asked. When he named it, she was silent. Craig had been a junior at Harvard that term. And she had done with someone else to a fraternity tea where Craig had joined her presently. He had proposed that day. He had done it after house parties, and during house parties; at the beach in the summer; at the club, at Lake Placid, and in the warm blue waters of Miami. In fact, her life these last few years had been protected by those words: "Judy, when are you going to marry me?"
But Craig could turn away, almost overnight. Love was thin and fragile. It never lasted. She hated the boy at her side because he wasn't Craig.
"Why are you bothering about me?" she asked him, merely to talk.
He slowed down the car, stopped, took out a wallet. From it he extracted a picture. It was Judy's face, caught on a newspaper page, that smiled back at her, creases in the sheet.
"I cut it out two or three years ago. I liked the tilt of your nose. Sort of carried it as a talisman. Then you came along in the flesh."
This boy could be persistent. He could be thrillingly masterful, too, she perceived. Suddenly she was afraid. She didn't want him to have her picture. Almost mechanically she ripped the paper in two. Then she stared aghast at the harm she had done.
"All right, Miss Judy Rogers," he was saying. "But you'll have to pay for the damage." Then he put his arms around her and pressed his mouth against her lips.

Girl Loses 3 Limbs But Finds Happiness

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Clover Kerr, 20-year-old high school girl, is walking, working and smiling despite the loss of both legs and her right arm in a traffic accident last year.
She has artificial legs and is fairly skilful in the use of her remaining arm. She has been typing radio programs and inspiring parties and welfare activities for cripples and invalids.

When Lincoln was inaugurated five former presidents were still living. They were Van Buren, Tyler, Fillmore, Pierce and Buchanan.

City's Eighth Annual 'Kick-Off' Dinner Will Be Friday

Service Clubs, County Farm, Community Groups Participate

75 Dinners Already Scheduled; Expect 100 To Be Held

Local service clubs, Johnson county farm organizations and groups from surrounding communities will take part in Iowa City's eighth annual "kick-off" dinner at 6:30 p.m. next Friday at Iowa Union, Harry Johnson, executive assistant of the University Alumni association, announced last night.

Ladies will be especially invited to take part in this year's dinner, it was announced last night after a meeting with local service club representatives.

Next week's dinner — expected to have the largest attendance in history — will feature a 30-minute radio show, to be broadcast by WMT at Cedar Rapids and Waterloo, KRNT in Des Moines, KMA in Shenandoah and WSUI in Iowa City. Station WHO will broadcast a recording of the dinner program from 9:30 to 10 p.m.

Representatives working to make the Iowa City "kick-off" dinner a success include C. O. Ingersoll, chamber of commerce; Dale Welt, junior chamber of commerce; B. M. Ricketts, American Legion; Dr. O. E. Schlanbusch, Lions club; H. J. Dane, Kiwanis, and Jack Swamer, Rotary.

Iowa City's dinner will be one of an anticipated 100, Bruce E. Mahan, executive secretary of the extension division of the university, said last night. By this morning 75 dinners have already been scheduled.

Tickets for next Friday's dinner here will go on sale today at Whetstone's and Racine's and will sell for 60 cents each.

August Popular As 47 Couples Obtain Marriage Licenses

August, 1938, proved a popular month for marriage planning couples in Johnson county, Clerk R. N. Miller of the district court revealed yesterday.

Forty-seven licenses were issued last month by the Johnson county district court, an increase of 13 over the same month for last year. The total was only two less than the ever popular month of June, Clerk Miller stated.

Youth Held In County Jail

Found by Posse; Accused of Choking Mrs. Leonard Novak

Being held in the Johnson county jail this morning, 19-year-old John Lewandowski of New York has refused to talk about himself, see newspaper men or pose for pictures.

He is accused of choking Mrs. Leonard Novak, a farm woman of near Cosgrove; and charges will probably be filed by the Novaks.

Lewandowski, who allegedly choked Mrs. Novak in her kitchen Wednesday morning, was not captured until yesterday morning, when he was found on the Novak farm by Sheriff Don McComas and a posse of about 50 neighboring farmers.

He said he had been hiding under straw and hay on the farm.

Quarion Addresses Rotary Club About Radio Broadcasting

W. B. Quarion of radio station WMT discussed program balance, one of the most difficult problems of radio work, before members of the Iowa City Rotary club at their regular meeting in the Jefferson hotel yesterday noon.

The difficulties encountered in planning programs to suit all listeners were presented by the guest speaker, and surveys to ascertain the types of programs interesting to the majority of listeners were explained.

Dean Lonzo Jones and Rotarian Walter O'Dell of Cedar Rapids were among the guests at the luncheon.

F. R. Approves $46,518 Grant

PWA Funds To Be Used for Surfacing Roads in County

A PWA grant of $46,518 to be used in surfacing 57 miles of roads in Johnson county has been approved by President Roosevelt, it was announced in Washington, D. C., yesterday.

The grant represents 45 per cent of the $103,000 project, the balance of approximately $56,000 to be paid by the county.

The road surfacing will be under contract before the end of the year, and the entire program will be completed in 1939, County Engineer R. H. Justen stated.

Council Will Discuss Plans For 4 Sidewalk Projects Tonight

Date for Hearing Will Be Set If Plans Are Approved

At 8 o'clock tonight the Iowa City council will discuss plans and specifications for four Iowa City sidewalk projects submitted by Fred E. Gartzke, city engineer.

The project includes a new sidewalk on the west side of Van Buren street from the north end of the footbridge 160 feet to the Rock Island lines' track and beyond for 50 feet to the walk now in place. A replacement will be made by the city where the walk was damaged when Ralston creek was built.

New walks will be constructed from the sidewalk in place on the creek bridge on the south side of Muscatine avenue to the curb line on the west side of Rundell street, along the east side of Clinton street; from the sidewalk in place 40 feet north of the north side of Harrison street to the present walk 60 feet south of the south side of Court street and the west side of Seventh avenue in front of lots 16, 17 and 20 between Center street and Muscatine avenue.

A date for a public hearing will be set if the plans are approved by the council.

'Love Potion' Used by Arab?

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 1 (AP) — Assistant United States Attorney Henry G. Morris asserted tonight a "powerful love potion" figured in the recent episode of a 17-year-old Missouri girl with an Arabian youth.

Morris said a small bottle of the liquid, which has a "strong and exotic fragrance" was left by the girl at her Neosho, Mo., home when she eloped to Bentonville, Ark., with Nijib Toonie, 27-year-old Arab who came to America seeking a wife.

Morris said the vial was found by the mother of the former Doris Hisaw, and forwarded to the girl's father, Otis Hisaw, who turned it over to federal authorities.

Agents of the federal bureau of investigation have been asked to prevent the newlyweds from sailing for Iraq. The girl's father obtained a warrant charging Toonie and his brother, Kemal, 23, with violation of the Mann act.

Both parents said they feared Doris would be placed in an Arabian harem.

Morris said the two Arabs and the girl planned to sail tomorrow on the Normandie.

Cool Week End Predicted for City

Iowa City can look forward to a cool week end, the weather man thought last night, meanwhile predicting cloudy skies and continued cool temperatures for today.

At 1 o'clock, with the thermometer falling, the mercury stood at 62 degrees.

Yesterday's high was 85 at 2:41 p.m., and the low was 57 at 4:41 and 5:41 a.m.

3 Legionnaires To Go to L. A.

National Convention Will Open on Coast September 22

Three Iowa City Legionnaires will attend the national American Legion convention opening in Los Angeles Sept. 22, Commander B. M. Ricketts of the Roy L. Chopek post announced last night.

More may decide to attend before the convention opens, he said.

Horrabin Firm Given Contract

Those who have already announced they plan to go are Delmer Sample, George Zeitamel and Jack Kennedy, Commander Ricketts said.

It was announced yesterday that a $37,000 contract was issued to the Horrabin Contracting company of Iowa City for paving 57 city blocks in Wellman.

The project, sponsored by the PWA and the city, will start next week. Penetration macadam material will be used.

GROUNDING

Lindberghs Stopped On Flight to Praha

*OLMUETZ, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 1 (AP) — Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, flying toward Praha from Rumania on a European aerial jaunt, were held up by fog today and made an unscheduled landing at this Moravian city.

Lindbergh introduced himself to surprised soldiers and then to the mayor of Olmuetz who rushed out to escort the pair to a hotel where a large crowd gathered.

Col. Lindbergh telephoned the American minister in Praha, Wilbur J. Carr, that he expected to reach there tomorrow.

They had left Cluj, Rumania, this morning.

Kangaroo goat ... freak of nature

You can't tell by looking at this picture whether this goat is coming or going. The animal really is walking forward on its hind legs while its front ones point in the opposite direction. Born on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Andrade of Bryte, Cal., with its front leg joints turned the wrong way, the goat has learned to get around in this unusual manner. It is nearly four months old.

Tornadoes, high winds and hail storms caused more than $2,500,000 damage in Kansas during June, 1938, S. D. Flora, federal meteorologist, estimates.
