Develop Method of Conserving Oil Supply

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
AP Science Writer
MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 6 (AP)—A new process of making gasoline from gases will reduce the nation's consumption of crude oil 625,000,000 barrels of crude oil a year and extend known oil supplies 150 per cent, two Chicago oil chemists declared today.

The new method, developed by the Universal Oil Products company of Chicago, is one of "catalytic polymerization" or combining the ethane, propane and butane gases from oil wells and refineries into a gasoline with an anti-knock rating of 80, well suited for either automobile or airplane use.

Prof. D. N. Ipatieff and A. V. Grosse, who made the discovery, told the American chemical society meeting here that they now can obtain, from 40 barrels of crude oil as much gasoline as formerly was extracted from 100 barrels—a 150 per cent increase.

"Other oil firms throughout the country will be licensed to use the process and when it is applied throughout the industry it will result in a saving of 625,000,000 barrels of crude oil annually, or 62 per cent of the total oil produced last year," Dr. Gustav Egloff, research director of the company, added.

"This development gives the United States an added advantage in the event of any future war," Dr. Egloff declared, since, with the emphasis now being placed on mechanization of armies, fuel will be a more important factor than armaments.

"At the present time countries such as Germany, Italy and France are spending a total of about $300,000,000 in their desperate nationalistic programs to conserve oil by subsidizing consumers in the use of substitutes such as compressed gas, alcohol and wood," he said.

Meizner Will Direct Red Cross Drive

Campaign Will Begin Nov. 11

Half of Funds To Be Used in County For Local Relief

Walter Meizner, former University of Iowa student and a local insurance salesman, will direct the Johnson county Red Cross campaign beginning Nov. 11 and continuing through Thanksgiving, Don Davis, chairman of the Red Cross board, announced last night.

Meizner was selected at a meeting of the board at the city hall last night. Complete plans for the annual campaign will not be made until next month's board meeting.

As last year, half of the money collected during the campaign will be used for national relief purposes and the remaining half will stay in Johnson county to be used for local relief work.

In last year's campaign—and Davis said the same procedure may be followed this year—two ward captains in each of the city's five wards canvassed all Iowa City residences and principal university buildings.

Booths will be erected in business places and university buildings.

It was decided at last night's meeting that toothbrushes will be bought by the board for distribution to Johnson county rural and town school children to promote oral hygiene.

A first-aid kit will be given to every school with a qualified first-aid attendant.

Army Controls Marseille Port; War Strategy

PARIS, Sept. 6 (AP)—The French government tonight ordered the army to take over the great Mediterranean port of Marseille, control point for communications with its North African reservoir of troops and raw materials for war.

The decree provided for the move has been drafted almost since the beginning of the Marseille dockworkers' "week-end" strike movement early in July.

It was put into effect, however, only as numbers of reserves were called to the colors to strengthen the garrisons of fortifications on the German border.

While the move ostensibly was made to assure ordinary operation of the port, it was considered a strategic necessity to make sure of uninterrupted communication with North Africa should war come as a result of the crisis over Czechoslovakia.

The decree itself is based on the law for "general organization of the nation in time of war," published July 11.

It followed closely upon cancellation of vacations for French governors of North African possessions.

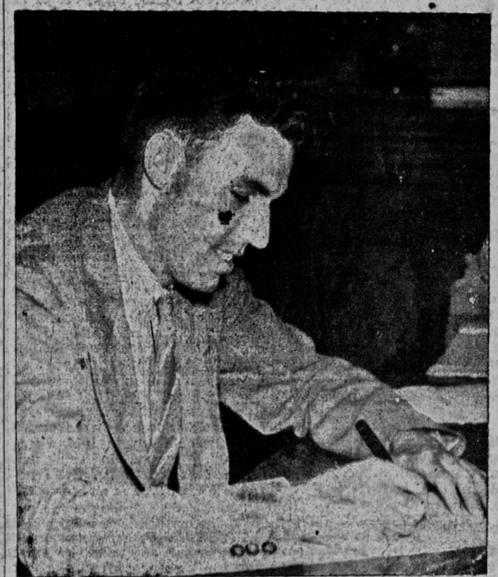

Chilean Socialists Raided by Police Following Uprising

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 6 (AP)—National socialist centers in Santiago and throughout Chile were raided today in police efforts to trace ramifications of yesterday's abortive Putsch in which at least 61 persons were killed.

Cardinal Lays in State

NEW YORK (AP)—The body of Patrick Cardinal Hayes lay in state last night before the high altar of St. Patrick's cathedral, where it will remain until the funeral Friday, after being viewed by more than 10,000 persons at the cardinalate during the day.

Ohio Governor, Social Security Officials Argue Over Politics

Director Accuses Davey of Attempting To Control Suffrage

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (AP)—Governor Martin L. Davey and social security board officials accused each other of playing politics today in a hot exchange over the way Ohio administers old age pensions.

First, Frank Bane, the board's executive director, asserted the state's old-age assistance program did not measure up to federal requirements because it was "permeated from top to bottom with partisan politics."

Bane said evidence "clearly indicated" that Davey tried to "control the suffrage of the aged and infirm—people who are largely dependent on old age assistance for their very existence."

Then Davey, in a letter made public here, charged the board with playing "dirty politics" and defied it to shut off federal grants to Ohio.

The board had called a hearing today to determine whether to suspend old age grants, but because Ohio officials did not appear it heard only the charges of its own witnesses.

The governor said he had ordered his subordinates to stay away. His counter-accusations were made in a letter flown here late today by John A. Kent of his secretary.

Davey said that three days before last month's primary in which he was defeated for re-nomination, the board charged Henry J. Berroddin, chief of the division of aid for the aged for the state public welfare department, with using the division to further Davey's candidacy.

He called this an "unprovoked political blast, intended to scare 140,000 helpless old people in Ohio into voting against myself on the threat of taking away from them half of their old age pensions."

LAST PEARLS

Peggy Fears Pawning Jewels to Eat

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6 (AP)—Peggy Fears, once of the Folies and estranged wife of A. C. Blumenthal, said today she was "down to my last string of pearls" and would begin a singing engagement tonight at a Hollywood club.

"I've been pawning and selling my jewelry to eat," she said, "but a string of pearls is hard to get rid of—at the right price."

She said Blumenthal was $70,000 behind in payments of the settlement they made when they separated.

'Kick-off' Dinner Inaugurates Football Season

Event Features Talks by Team Members, Various Iowa Coaches Friday

Featuring a series of short talks by members of the University of Iowa football team and various Iowa coaches, and serving the purpose of inaugurating the 1938 Iowa football season, the seventh annual "Kick-Off" dinner will be given Friday evening in the Iowa Union.

Three hundred alumni, students, townspeople and newspapermen are expected to attend this dinner which has been designated as the "key" dinner.

The program, starting at 6:30, will be broadcast by radio stations WSUL, WMT and KRNT, with a re-broadcast of the program planned by radio station WHO later in the evening.

Part of the program will honor the memory of the late Clyde Williams, one of the greatest athletes ever to represent the university. Williams, whose exploits as quarterback and captain of the 1900 Iowa team which brought the university its first Western conference football title, was known as an outstanding field general and a brilliant runner.

After graduating from the university, Williams coached Iowa State college teams with marked success. The Iowa State athletic field has been named in his honor. In celebrating the occasion, the five members of that conference championship team residing in Iowa have been invited to attend the dinner.

Ernie Nevers, backfield coach, will be interviewed by Bill Brown, WHO sports editor; Pat Boland, line coach, will answer a few questions regarding the ability of his line; Athletic Director "Dad" Schroeder and Coach Iri Tubbs will speak as well as selected members of the varsity squad.

With amiable Bruce Mahan as master of ceremonies to introduce the speakers, a record crowd is expected. This year, ladies have been especially invited to attend the dinner and their presence is expected to set a new record in attendance.

Tickets for the dinner may be secured at Whetstone's and Racine's number 1.

Jitterbug Judge Acquits 2 Music Makers After Quarrel on Chicago Street Corner

CHICAGO, Sept. 6 (AP)—A pair of minstrels gave a little swing today and — lo — the court house doors opened wide.

Before Police Magistrate Frank Pavak of suburban Berwyn appeared the Negro music makers, Asa Marini, and Porter Taylor. They were charged with disorderly conduct as a result of a street corner quarrel. Asked for an explanation, Asa took it on the upbeat:

"Your Honor, I was playing my violin in the key of E flat. Porter went right on playing his guitar in the key of F. So we got to arguing pretty loud and loud."

"Did you get the arrangement straightened out so you both play in the same key?" interposed the judge.

"With new-found harmony, the defendants swung into a hot number. The satisfied magistrate ruled in effect:

"Beat it out, boys." They did.

CRASH LANDING Daredevil's Stunt Most Undaredevilish

MACON, Ga., Sept. 3 (AP)—Floyd Stimson, veteran of more than 1,000 parachute jumps, nursed a cut chin today and talked about the perils of pedestrians.

He hurt himself tripping on a concrete paving at the airport.

"Why that's the first time I've lost any blood in years," mourned Stimson, "and I've been doing what most people call 'daredevil' stunts for I don't know how long."

Senator McCarran Takes Lead In Nevada Voting

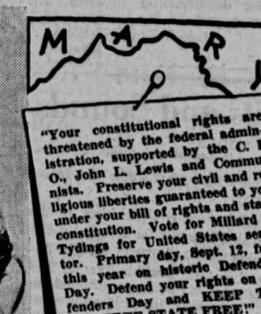

RENO, Nev., Sept. 6 (AP)—Senator Pat McCarran, who opposed President Roosevelt's supreme court and governmental reorganization measures, drew steadily away from two "100 per cent new deal" opponents tonight as returns from the Nevada primary election rolled in.

The democratic senator held better than a three-to-one lead over Albert Hilliard, Reno attorney, his closest adversary. Returns from 98 precincts of the state's 262 gave McCarran 3,062; Hilliard 871; and Dr. John Worden, Carson City, 165.

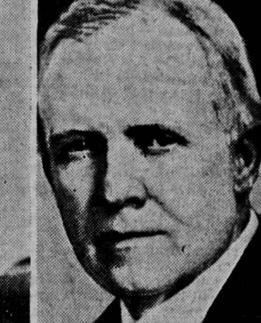

A bitter fight for the senatorial nomination as well as gubernatorial brought out a heavy democratic vote. A total of 35,326 voters registered as democrats.

Senator Counters, Attacking New Deal Election Influences

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (AP)—Senator Tydings of Maryland fought back today against the administration's campaign to unseat him, charging that federal officials had tried to influence the votes of federal workers.

Tydings filed his charges with the senate campaign expenditures committee. Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex.) said the committee would consider the complaint at a meeting Thursday. At the same time it will hear from investigators it sent to Maryland several weeks ago at the request of Representative Lewis, Tydings' rival. The Maryland primary will be held Monday.

"It is notorious," Tydings told the committee, "that the collector of internal revenue of Maryland called in the non-civil service employees, during office hours, and told them that he was for Lewis, my opponent, and reading a statement, indicated by that statement that their tenure of office in the future would be influenced by who was nominated."

At Upper Marlboro, Md., Hampton Magruder, the revenue collector, accused Tydings of "falsehood."

"I have not, and don't intend to, tell my employees in my office how they shall vote," he said.

Tydings made four other specific complaints in response to a committee questionnaire which asked him to report any instances of coercion of federal employees.

In reply to other questions he reported campaign contributions totalling $37,024.25 as of Aug. 29. He said his campaign committee had spent $35,957.64, in addition to $11,869.98 of unpaid bills and $520 of personal expenditures.

French, Germans Watch Border

STRING - WENDEL (On the Maginot Line in France), Sept. 6 (AP)—The reinforced armies of France and Germany, their exact strengths closely guarded secrets, stood watch over the border zones tonight, waiting the outcome of the Czechoslovak crisis.

The German policy of "protection" of the Sudeten German minority in Czechoslovak, and France's pledge to fight for the Czech and Slovak republic if it is invaded, led the two nations to take military measures unparalleled in recent years.

The French even went so far as to mine a number of railroad and highway bridges along their frontier zone.

This precaution caused loud laughter from the Germans talking to Frenchmen from behind high wire barricades which mark the frontier at Rosebruck near Forbach.

"We have no intentions of attacking France," a husky German customs guard at Rosebruck said. "But we are taking plenty of defensive precautions."

Hitler Talks of Culture; Silent On Czech Crisis at Nazi Rally

Says Germany Immune to Any War Blockade

NURNBERG, Germany, Sept. 6 (AP)—Adolf Hitler, in a 50-minute address on German culture, tonight said the cultural realm was the only one left in which foreign opponents of the Nazi regime hoped successfully to attack.

He denied vigorously that Nazism aimed at establishing a new religion or performed "cultic rites."

The address was preceded by his report read at the opening of the tenth annual party rally in which he kept silent on Czechoslovakia and made few references to foreign affairs except to declare Germany now so strong she would prove immune to any war-time blockade.

"The idea of blockading Germany can even now be buried as an entirely ineffective weapon," he asserted.

The Czechoslovak negotiations were brought to Nurnberg, however, by Konrad Henlein, the Sudeten German leader, who arrived in the afternoon. He was closest first with the German minister to Czechoslovakia, Ernst Eisenlohr, and then with Hitler.

In his culture address the Fuehrer asserted:

"We aren't building cultic homes, but people's halls. "We aren't constructing cultic groves, but sports arenas and play-grounds."

"We aren't performing cultic rites, but organizing popular demonstrations," he shouted.

"Men who would reveal to us the mystic of the life beyond aren't tolerated in our midst."

Hitler spoke rapidly with nervous quick gestures to an opera house audience comprising diplomats, members of the cabinet and high party leaders, rectors of all German universities and technological institutes, artists, musicians, scientists and technicians. Also in the audience was United States Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson.

The Reichsfuehrer ridiculed foreign nations for being so reserved about taking outside German Jews into their fold.

"Why, if they are such pioneers of art, aren't the Jews welcomed elsewhere?" he asked amid loud laughter among his followers.

"Criticism from the Jewish-Marxist international democratic circles is not only indecisive but immaterial," he added of the warfare in the cultural realm.

"We national socialists are concerned solely about what our own people think of our art."

Before the Fuehrer spoke, Alfred Rosenberg, head of the Nazi party's foreign political division and chairman of the evening, took sharp issue with Pope Pius' recent observations on the race question, but without mentioning him by name.

"Racial science was not discovered by preaching priests," he said. "They therefore are scarcely competent to sit in judgment on it."

Senator Tydings of Maryland fought back today against the administration's campaign to unseat him, charging that federal officials had tried to influence the votes of federal workers.

Now Is The Time to Take Our Position

THERE has been a great deal of speculation over the way the United States would react in case of another world war. European dispatches reek with confidence that the United States will be drawn into a war on the side of England and France against Italy and Germany if and when the war comes.

This, to us, seems a little premature on the part of the speakers. While there are many Americans with British, Welch, Scotch and Irish blood in their veins, it is doubtful if our allegiance to our mother country calls for blood support in time of battle.

Many of our customs, our manners, our dress, our religions, and our languages have come to us from Europe — especially England — but it is outrageous for England to expect the United States to pull her chestnuts out of the fire again.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—Some of these characters for further use in movie people don't have to worry about any balmy old-age pension scheme. Most of them would swap the hope of thirty-every-

Thursday like this — snap! — just for a one-way ticket into a healthy active movie "family series."

Once he's in, he's as hard to get off the payroll as a relative with the inside dope on the producer. And these comfortable niches, the equivalent of life-time berths for actors, are multiplying as the weeks go by.

The Jones Family has kept Jed Prouty and Spring Byington busy for three years now — and they're both free to take outside pictures when they come. Lewis Stone has a lifetime assignment in Judge Hardy, and that Hardy family will never be complete if Mickey Rooney leaves it, or Cecilia Parker either.

The Gleasons — Jimmy, Lucile, and Russell — have just put forth another family in "The Highbines." It's a first, may be a series. And the popularity of the Beebes in the Crosby film, "Sing You Sinners," argues for a continuation of that group to include Mamma Elizabeth Patterson and Brothers Bing, Fred MacMurray and Donald O'Connor.

Where they haven't families in this new studio craze, they have the equivalent in what amounts to old-time serial stuff — with a difference. The old serials of the late Pearl White's era were two-reelers, each episode leaving its heroine dangling from a cliff or caught in the mangle at the laundry or facing some such fate worse than death.

Today's are features, telling their story at one sitting, but saving the

Health Hints

By Logan Clendening, M.D.

We have been having an epidemic of ringworm on the hands in our neighborhood lately. There are several varieties of ringworm, one of which is known popularly as athlete's foot. When it gets on the hands, it is far more troublesome, because it is very contagious and the hands convey it everywhere.

Its appearance is quite characteristic — that eruption of little blisters which appear suddenly, mostly on the thin skin between the fingers, and which itch so abominably. The cause is microscopic vegetable fungus which can be picked up and which insinuates itself under the skin.

Our neighborhood epidemic started in the golf club and was prolonged and stubborn. Every golf player in the locker house had it and it kept going around and around. It would appear to be under control on one hand, and then the next thing one knew it was all over the other.

So we decided the most important element in its spread was reinfection and we took steps to prevent that. First, the handle of every golf club was treated. The fungus loves leather, and might light on a moist golf club handle and live very comfortably waiting for a piece of human skin to clamp down on it and pick up a few shreds.

The golf club handles were wiped with pure formaldehyde and then wrapped in newspaper bandages. This was done five consecutive days.

Nail brushes must also be regarded as reservoirs of reinfection and treated accordingly. They should be allowed to stand in a strong solution of cresol. Or plunged in practically boiling water for a second or two — not long enough to soften the bristles but long enough to kill the fungus.

In treating the eruption itself, an important point to remember is that the condition is very stubborn and treatment must be kept up sometimes for weeks. Perhaps the best of all the applications is Whitfield's ointment, the efficiency of which depends largely on the salicylic acid it contains. It should be rubbed in thoroughly twice a day for a least a week.

Do not be deceived, if after the first one or two applications the eruption subsides. You may think you have it licked, but if you leave it alone it will break out again.

Other preparations to use for killing off the fungus are tincture of iodine and mercurochrome.

Sudeten Germans Have Never Been Part of the German Nation

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP)—The Sudeten Germans of Czechoslovakia, for whose "protection" many in Europe fear Adolf Hitler may resort to armed force, never have been a part of the modern German state.

But neither have they been willing citizens of the Czechoslovak republic, to which the World War settlement allotted them. Restive ever since that settlement, their claims have come to be Europe's greatest anxiety since Hitler and his Suedeten lieutenant, Konrad Henlein, rose to power.

The Sudeten Germans assert nearly all the 3,500,000 German-speaking citizens of Czechoslovakia follow their banners.

They are a Germanic people who have lived for centuries around the horseshoe which now is the German-Czechoslovak border land. Both Germans and Czechs assert they were there first. Germans say they came even before the Slavic migrations of the fifth and sixth centuries; Czechs say the Germans came merely as colonists.

Washington World

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — If a general war breaks out in Europe about now, Americans will have a much clearer idea of the calamity's proportions than they did in 1914.

When Archduke Francis Ferdinand was assassinated at Sarajevo, having personally spent several years in old world countries and being somewhat familiar with the ticklishness of the situation amongst them, the tragedy struck me as news of capital importance.

But I couldn't persuade the managing editor of the San Francisco newspaper I then was working for to issue an extra edition. He said he might have been willing to do so if the Austrian emperor's son had been "bumped off," but he did not consider it worth while for a mere nephew, even though next in line for the throne.

Shortly afterward Austria sent to Serbia her ultimatum — virtually the initial declaration of the world conflict's beginning. The Berlin correspondent of one of our big American news associations cabled 139 words on the subject to his New York headquarters office, and promptly was rebuked from New York for "over-filing Serbia."

ANOTHER STORY NOW Today if there should be a good central European political assassination and if an American correspondent on the scene cabled as few as 1,139 words concerning it, he would be rebuked, or maybe fired, for "under-filing."

And "WOULD WE GET OUT EXTRAS!" Yes, sir, this time we are European-war conscious.

NEUTRAL THEN Another thing: In 1914 we were pretty neutral, not only officially, but as a people. Perhaps, we very mildly were pro-ally, but not much so.

Then Germany jumped on little Belgium and we began to get a pro-underdog complex, but THAT was not violent.

Next Germany started to sink some of our blockade runners. Next the Kaiser sank the Lusitania, with a lot of our nationals aboard, greatly aggravating German-American relations. Personally I always thought that our folk ought to have kept off the Lusitania, except as they took their chances. I took mine when, in 1915, I was swishing around in belligerent ships, in war-torn waters. I accepted my own risk and so recognized it.

ANGLO-GERMAN I thought, and still think, that Britain jammed war in 1914 about as much down Germany's throat as Germany jammed it down Britain's.

And it was an Anglo-German war. Other participants were only incidental. Maybe there was a small balance against Germany, but not a heavy one.

NOW IT'S HITLER This time is different. Hitler IS Germany and it's Germany's fault that he is. I don't believe that any American, or German-American, except some "bund" enthusiast, is Hitleristic.

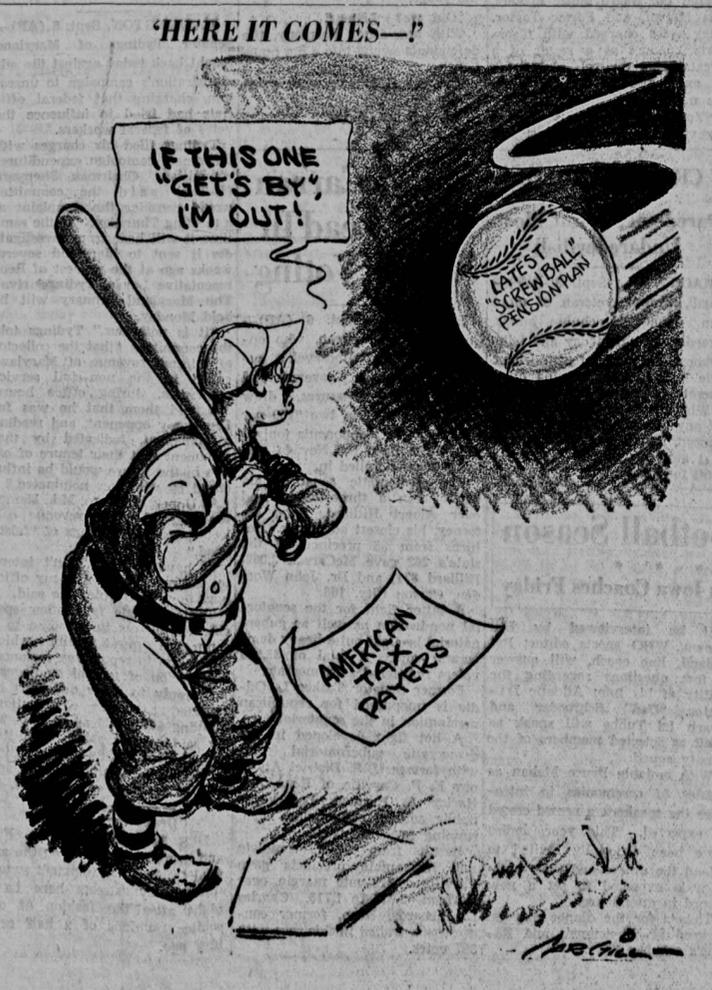

And I don't believe that there are any Fascists to speak of. As to Communists? — phooey!

THE NEW LINEUP But let a fresh war start? It would divide itself into a clash between: 1. The despotisms — Germany, Italy and Japan.

2. A question — Russia. 3. Democracy — The U.S.A., Britain and its dependencies, and maybe most of Latin America, plus half of Spain. 4. China? Problematic. A nice mess!

An Ohioan suggests the Rocky mountain peaks be leveled off to make transcontinental air travel safer. And dump the dirt into the Grand Canyon, perhaps, to fill up that hole?

Tribe Wins 8th In Row; Feller Hurls Shutout

DETROIT, Sept. 6 (AP)—Bobby Feller's four-hit pitching performance stretched Cleveland's winning streak to eight games today as the Indians blanked the Detroit Tigers 6 to 0 in the first of a two game series here.

Feller drove two Cleveland runs across the plate with a pair of singles. He struck out six Tigers and walked five. Only one Detroit runner reached third base.

The Indians bunched hits off Harry Eisenstat, Detroit hurler, in the second and eighth innings to score all their runs. Three hits and an error by Billy Roebell accounted for two runs in the second, and five hits including a double by Rollie Hemsley, the only extra-base blow of the game, sent four runs home in the eighth.

Three Homers Aid Terrymen Capture Game

Kampouris Singles To Drive in Seeds With Winning Run

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP)—The Giants battled uphill all the way today to take a 10-inning, 6-5 decision over the Boston Bees, with Mel Ott, Joe Moore and Alex Kampouris cast in the heroes' roles.

The Bees, picking up a run each in the second and fourth off Hal Schumacher, held a 2-0 lead going into the last of the seventh. Kampouris cut that in half with a homer against the left field upper deck, and Moore made it 2-2 all an inning later with another four-bagger.

With Dick Coffman on the mound for New York, the Bees pushed over three runs in the first of the tenth on two singles, a sacrifice, a wild pitch and two errors. But that was when the Giants really began to rally. With one out George Myatt drew a pass. Harry Danning's fourth hit sent him to second, and Ott then tied the score with his 33rd homer of the season.

Bob Seeds, a pinch-hitter, walked; Johnny McCarthy singled; Hitchcock's error on Bill Cissell's grounder filled the bases, and Kampouris drove home Seeds with the winning run as he slashed a single off Stripp's glove.

Davis Blanks Cincinnati, 8-0

Cardinals Pound Out Seventeen Blows In One-Sided Victory

CINCINNATI, Sept. 6 (AP)—Curt Davis pitched five hit shut-out ball today while his St. Louis mates were hammering out 17 to defeat Cincinnati 8 to 0 and stretch the gap between the Reds and idle Pittsburgh Pirates to four and one-half games.

Ray Davis held the Gashouse gang to one hit through the first three frames, but was touched for runs in the fourth and fifth frames and gave up 13 safeties before he was replaced by Johnny Vander Meer two-thirds of the way through the eighth, after three more Cards had tallied.

"Double No-Hit Johnny" retired the side but gave way to a pinch-hitter. Joe Cascarella hurled the ninth and was touched for three runs on four hits and the only walk of the contest.

Aside from their five safeties, the Reds hit only five balls into the outfield, First Baseman Johnny Mize himself accounting for 16 putouts.

Tickets Mailed To Nearly 14,000 Fans

Enroute to all persons who placed their orders up to last Saturday, 13,700 football tickets, the first consignment to leave the University of Iowa, yesterday were mailed by the department of athletics, Charles Galther, business manager, announced.

Included were 7,900 tickets for the homecoming game with Wisconsin Oct. 8 while the others were about evenly divided between the three other home games and the U. C. L. A. affair, he said.

No tickets for the three Big Ten road games were included, since these have not yet been received from Chicago, Minnesota, and Indiana.

Galther declared that the advance ticket sales to date are larger than at a corresponding date in past years. He attributes this mainly to the fact that Iowa's homecoming is a week earlier than ever before and also that the Hawkeye home schedule, with its four major games, is exceptionally attractive.

City High Footballers Hold First Scrimmages of Season In Practices

Cormack Finds New Punter In Dave Wright

Featuring scrimmage sessions for the first time this season, Iowa City's Little Hawk gridgers were sent through long, strenuous drills yesterday and Monday by Coach Herb Cormack.

Co-captain Ted McLaughlin, half-back, and Ted Lewis, blasting junior fullback, tore loose for long gains in the scrimmages. Exceptional line smashing and passing was in evidence, despite the fact that the Hawkeyes have held only a few practices so far this season.

The possibility of another punting "find" was uncorked when Coach Cormack gave Dave Wright, center, his turn in the booting drill. Wright, who seems slated for the first string pivot post, got off some lengthy kicks, and, with more practice, should be able to augment the kicking department for the Little Hawks. Co-captain Joe McGinnis, who did a share of the punting for Cormack last year, is also rounding into form in the booting drills.

In yesterday's scrimmage Cormack played Wright at center; Jack Fetig and Stewart Mueller at guards; Jack Hirt and Bob Caywood at tackles with Clarence Crumley and Kenny Walsh at ends. In the backfield were McGinnis, McLaughlin, Lewis and Herman Miller.

Parker, center; Moore and White, guards; B. Bothell and Maher, tackles and Swanner and Voechlers, ends, made up the front wall of the opposing team. The backfield was composed of Graham, Crosset, Davis and Gay.

Herman Miller, star place-kicker of last year's eleven, will be kept on the sidelines for a few days with a leg injury sustained in practice Monday.

College All-Stars Renew Rivalry With N. Y. Giants in Charity Contest Tonight

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP)—An all-star array of eastern college football players meet the New York Giants for the third straight year under the auspices of the Herald-Tribune fresh air fund tomorrow night with 45,000 spectators expected to watch the battle under the Polo grounds lights.

Although the Giants won the first two clashes, 12-2 in 1936 and 14-7 last year, the pros are considered no better than an even choice to whip the collegians gathered together by Andy Kerr, the canny Scot from Colgate. The Giants, with about a 10-pound edge in weight, will present approximately the same lineup which just managed to stave off a closing period rally by the all-stars last year.

The collegians have a much more impressive line than a year ago. Frank Souchak of Pittsburgh and John Druze of Fordham at the ends; John Mellus of Villanova and Charles Trol of Princeton at tackles; Ed Franco of Fordham and Joe Drellis of Towson, the guards, and Alex Wojciehowicz of Fordham at center making the all-star line a formidable array.

In the starting backfield will be John Michelsen at quarter, Andy Stopper of Villanova and Al Hesserberg of Yale at the halfback posts and Bill Stapulis of Pitt at fullback. Franco, all-American guard and Michelsen are co-captains.

Coach Steven Owen is undecided upon his starting lineup because there is some uncertainty regarding Nello (Flash) Falaschi's condition. The sensational new blocking quarterback from Santa Clara

Tennis Star's Mother Confined to Hospital

BERKELEY, Cal., Sept. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Eula Hull Jacobs, mother of Helen Jacobs, international tennis star, was confined to a hospital today by injuries received in an automobile accident here late Friday.

Pitcher Bought By Cubs for Delivery Before '39 Season

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 6 (AP)—The Los Angeles baseball club announced today the sale of Glen (Rip) Russell, 24-year-old right-handed first baseman, to the Chicago Cubs for an unnamed sum of cash and several players to be delivered before the 1939 season opens. He has been batting .308.

The Angels also announced the sale to the Cubs of Ed Carnett, left-handed pitcher, who with Russell will be delivered after the current Pacific Coast league season ends.

Carnett has pitched infrequently this season. He won 15 and lost 6 games with Tulsa in the Texas league last year.

NO HITTER

Fans Seven In 4-0 Victory

ATLANTA, Sept. 6 (AP)—Woodrow Rich, rookie righthander of Little Rock, pitched a no-hit, no-run game against the Atlanta Crackers of the Southern association, while his teammates scored four runs.

The performance, in which Rich overcame the "Cracker complex" that has dogged him all season, was in the first game of a doubleheader.

In the southern all-star game here July 7, the Crackers made seven runs in one inning off Rich. Rich struck out seven batters and allowed only two bases on balls.

He was opposed by Pete Stein, rookie recently recalled from Gadsden in the Southeastern league by Atlanta. Stein allowed 9 hits.

BITS About Sports

By J. DENNIS SULLIVAN

Mike Howard—one time Olympic, later top-notch professional wrestler and now serving as University wrestling coach—is busy these days planning a campaign for the approaching season.

Mike comes of the old school. He competed in the days when wrestlers wrestled. Such, unfortunately, is not the case today. He who moans loudest, groans most pathetically or is capable of the funniest faces is declared champion. What a far cry from the tradition-laden past of the wrestling game, and small wonder Mike labels the current professional crop, "clowns."

Rookie Wins First Start For Senators

Rene Montegudo In 7-5 Triumph; Whiffs Nine, Walks Three

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (AP)—The Washington Senators unveiled a new pitching prospect today, 22-year-old Rene Montegudo, and he hurled them to a 7 to 5 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

Montegudo, a stubby Cuban up from Trenton of the Eastern league, was nicked for 14 hits but proved effective in the pinches. He fanned Jimmy Foxx with the bases loaded in the eighth and struck out nine altogether. Foxx previously had hit his fortieth home run.

The Senators pounded on Jack Wilson for two runs in the first inning when Al Simmons tripled to score Buddy Lewis and Cecil Travis. They added two more in the second.

Foxx' homer, a tremendous drive into the left field bleachers reduced the gap to 4 to 1 in the fourth, and Sox tied it up in the fifth on four singles and an error.

The Nats regained the lead at 5 to 4 in the seventh when Buddy Myer doubled to score Cecil Travis, who also had doubled, but Boston again tied it up in the eighth on four successive singles.

An error by Pinky Higgins, a sacrifice, two walks and a single by Travis scored the winning runs for Washington in the eighth.

Boston filled the bases with two down in the ninth, but Montegudo forced Wilson to fly to West and end the game.

Mickelson Looks 'Em Over

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP)—Putting two and two together — and getting four — as the sports tract speeds down the merry, dizzy September stretch:

Don Budge, the man who reclaimed our Davis Cup after a decade of losses last year and then kept it safe at Germantown yesterday, is the strangest of all competitors. Always an athlete does his best at home. Not our unconquerable red head. Though he hasn't been beaten in a championship match in two years of hard campaigning that have carried him almost around the world, Budge never has played his great game on this side of the pond.

Landis to Abdicate?

Rumors — stronger ones this time — again are current that Kenesaw Mountain Landis will abdicate as boss of baseball. So far the big league nabobs insist they've heard nothing of it. The best guess is the old judge will stay on for years yet. When he does quit, you can be sure he won't be succeeded by one man. From a very reliable source comes the information that when Landis leaves, his job will be held by a big league commission of three. The majors don't want another czar.

Should Cincinnati win the pennant and then pull the biggest upset in baseball by whipping the murderous Yankees, what a spot for a Landis retirement. He would have seen the game through a cycle from a crooked Cincinnati-White Sox series to a straight Yankee-red classic. He could walk out muttering: "Gentlemen, this is where I came in."

At the start of the baseball year, every wise man of baseball figured the Yankees would win after a hard fight. But the McCarthy gang seems even better. How much is debatable. At Philadelphia Friday night, I talked with Eucky Harris and Al Simmons of the Senators. No, they didn't think the 1938 Yankees were as good as those 10 years ago but the more they talked, the more they thought of McCarthy's latest edition. Finally, they agreed the pitching and infield was better, the outfield weaker. Pittsburgh or Cincinnati, says Manager Harris, hasn't a chance in the world against the Yankees.

Harris' job is one of baseball's toughest. On Friday, Simmons hit his 20th homer of the season. Such a total wouldn't get a mention in New York or Detroit. At Washington, Al's great feat broke the home run record for a Washington player.

A Real Test

The college all-stars are cleaning up on most fronts against the pros. It doesn't mean a thing in the comparison of college vs pro football. A real test would be a game between the pro all-stars and the college all-stars. If Arch Ward, Chicago Tribune sports editor who started it all, wants a real show that would be it. And heaven help the collegians!

Return Check To Mrs. Moody

U. S. L. T. A. Says Helen Entitled To Expense Money

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP)—The United States Lawn Tennis association, through the chairman of the Wightman Cup committee, Julian Myrick, today returned the check for $1,309.45 sent in by Mrs. Helen Will Moody when she announced her withdrawal from the national singles championship at Forest Hills.

The check represented Mrs. Moody's expenses for her trip to England with the Wightman Cup team. When she sent it to the U.S.L.T.A., on Aug. 23, she wrote a "severe attack of neuritis" had prevented her getting into shape "to play in such competition as offered by Forest Hills."

Myrick replied: "The committee has instructed me to return this check to you as the expenses allowed were a proper charge against the event and your representing us in the British championship. Similar amounts were allowed other members of the team. You represented the country in both events and are certainly entitled to have had your expenses paid by the association."

Dodgers Rally to Whip Philadelphia; Vito Tamulis Winner in 6 to 4 Contest

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6 (AP)—Vito Tamulis, chunky Dodger southpaw, settled down after a bad start today to pitch Brooklyn to a 6-4 victory over the Phillies, who were shut out with three hits through the last eight innings.

Brooklyn got away to a one-run lead in the first, off Wild Bill Hallahan, only to have the Phils score four in their half on four hits including Martin's double, and two errors.

The Dodgers put on a four-hit attack of their own in the second, which drove Hallahan from the mound and put Brooklyn in front to stay. They added their final tally off Claude Passeau in the eighth.

Tamulis walked but two and fanned five for his ninth victory, all of them scored since he came to Brooklyn from the Browns.

Injury Will Bench Phelps for 10 Days

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6 (AP)—Examination today showed that Babe Phelps, regular catcher for the Brooklyn Dodgers, had broken the ring finger of his right hand in the nightcap of yesterday's doubleheader with the Bees in Boston. Phelps will be out for 10 days or two weeks, according to Trainer Eddie Froelich. It was Phelps' third fracture of the year on the same hand.

Representatives of four sports, two of whom competed on Hawkeye teams more than a quarter of a century ago, are among the recent new members of the University of Iowa's alumni "I" club.

Back in 1909, A. H. Kohl of Mason City successfully combined track and baseball, an unusual combination since both are spring sports. Dr. T. R. Gittins, now a Sioux City eye and ear specialist, was a baseball letter-winner of 1911.

Arnold N. Bender of Northwood, track and cross country runner between 1923 and 1926, is another two-sport man to join; while Dr. Ed Vana of Marshalltown, wrestling in 1921 and 1922, is a new member.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 6 (AP)—Morton Cooper, star right handed pitcher, and Harold Epps, outfielder, both of whom have been on option with the Houston club of the Texas league this season, were recalled today by the St. Louis Cardinals.

Cooper, who whiffed 195 men in 185 innings this year and has a record of 13 victories and 9 defeats, and Epps, who has been hitting at a .316 clip, are expected to join the National league team here Thursday.

New Students Get Booklets

Announcements Tell Of Freshman Week Plans, Opportunities

Prospective freshmen who have signified their intention of entering the University of Iowa this month now are receiving the official announcement booklets of the 1938 freshman week.

It is expected that the number of new students will approach 1,500. All of them in the colleges of liberal arts, engineering, and pharmacy will report Monday, Sept. 19.

The booklet lists the "timetable" program, showing the events of Sept. 19 to 26 and giving other definite information about steps the new students must take before they are ready to attend classes.

Among the advantages of the week pointed out are the opportunity to learn about the university, nature of the courses, confer with special advisors, become acquainted with recreation facilities, make friends, become adjusted to the new environment and meet upper-classmen and faculty members.

Magic Glass Works Miracles For Dark Corners

It's done with mirrors.

Just as stage magicians have utilized mirrors for more than a century to work apparent miracles, so the modern homemaker today can use mirrors to work magic in the home.

Dark corners and rooms with cheerless outlooks can be given astonishing beauty and charm by the use of the new glass and mirror partitions which have recently appeared on the market.

Both decorative and practical, the new glass partitions are being greeted with enthusiasm by architects. Use of these glass wall installations to replace the ordinary type of partition will frequently reclaim many dreary rooms with northern exposures and gloomy corners for sunny living.

One of the most popular types of the new glass partitions, known as louvrex because of its resemblance to the louvre boards of a venetian blind, is adaptable to a variety of interesting treatments. Made in three finishes that vary in their degree of translucency, the glass will help to solve all sorts of window and wall problems.

Ingenuity in reclaiming a northern room with outlook on the service entrance of another house was shown in a remodeled home recently put on exhibition in New York. In this room a large section of louvrex glass was set into the wall and surrounded with a trellis to hold potted plants. Thus, light was brought into the room and the feeling of the out-of-doors created, although the unattractive adjacent view was completely eliminated.

In the bathroom of the same home a satin finish type of louvrex was used to achieve privacy as well as light.

Wary Farmer Shoots Friends Bearing Gift

CHICAGO (AP) — Three men robbed George Popp, 77, of $5,000 at his farm a year ago and last November Popp and his two sons battled would-be kidnapers and finally routed them with a shotgun.

The Popp has always kept a shotgun handy since then, and they used it the other day as three men drove onto the farm and got out.

Fortunately none of the shots hit the men because, as Popp explained to police later, they were friends from Evanston bringing him a gift—a watchdog.

Actions for Court Must Be Filed By Friday, Miller Says

Friday will be the last day for filing actions to be heard during the September term of the Johnson county district court, opening Sept. 19, according to Clerk R. N. Miller.

Tomorrow will be the last day for obtaining service on actions filed for the ensuing term, he said.

The September session will be in charge of Judge James P. Gaffney. Grand jurors have been ordered to report on the opening day. Petit jurors will report Sept. 26.

Former Clerk Testifies In Racket Trial

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP) — "Big Harry" Schoenhaus, the former post office clerk who became financial secretary of the $20,000,000-year-Dutch Schultz policy racket, took his place uneasily in the witness chair in supreme court today and swore that James J. Hines was on the Dutchman's payroll at $500 a week and more for three years. He himself made a number of payments to Hines, Schoenhaus said.

Moreover, he testified, the Schultz mob at the behest of the veteran Tammany district leader, contributed $30,000 to the campaign chest used in 1933 to elect William Copeland Dodge as district attorney of New York county.

A big man with a little voice tinged with hoarseness, Schoenhaus completed in about an hour his tale of Schultz's connivings, his intimations, his ultimate control of the independent policy banks and the introduction of Hines as protector and political front.

His testimony paralleled stories told on the witness stand by George Weinberg, business manager of the Schultz mob, and J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, the gang's lawyer. They, like Schoenhaus, were indicted with Hines on policy racket charges, pleaded guilty and turned state's evidence.

Show How Rocks Are Exploded by Sun Rays

CHICAGO (AP) — Arabian desert exhibits showing how rocks are exploded by rays of the sun have been set up at the Field museum here.

Henry W. Nichols, chief curator of geology, explained that rocks in dry desert air or in the rare atmosphere around mountain tops are frequently shattered by insulation, or rapid heating by sun rays. The breaking action follows when the rocks are cooled rapidly at night.

Mexican cooking is highly seasoned.

HOSTESS HINTS

Like favorite soups that are going to be worn again this season, soups will be enhanced with new accessories and trimmings. A gay garish sometimes is the making of a piping hot plate of soup.

There are, of course, certain soup traditions — the custom of serving thin lemon and hard-cooked egg slices in black bean soup... or sprinkling grated cheese on onion.

Simple Tricks
But there are innumerable individual touches that can be used to pretty up a plainer soup or improve an exotic one.

Take the simple trick of serving crumpled, crisp bacon (hot) on broths, chowders and cream soups. Bacon, you know, is a universal food-blender.

Try floating thin lemon slices, sparsely sprinkled with paprika and minced parsley in any soup that does not contain milk or cream.

Dress up vegetable soups by using some whole vegetables into cubes, or other interesting shapes. Brown a few mushrooms in bacon fat or butter and add them to clear or cream mushroom soup.

And have you ever used popcorn in soups? A few of these feathery kernels will spruce up a plain corn, cream of corn or corn chowder. For added zip sprinkle them with grated cheese and paprika. Don't use cheese popped corn. Its flavor is likely to be too strong.

Grated cheese mixed with chili sauce or catsup adds a delightful flavor to many kinds of soup.

And try sprinkling cheese over your next oyster stew. There's a taste surprise for you.

Cheese Stunts

Cheese balls and cheesy crutons are just the garnish for many a favorite soup.

To make cheese balls: Shape grated cheese mixed with a little butter into small balls, roll them in parsley and put a couple of the balls to each cup of broth. Or you might roll the balls in flour and brown them quickly in fat.

Prepare cheesy crutons this way: Mix one-third of a cup of butter, four tablespoons of cream cheese, two-thirds of a cup of flour and a little salt into a stiff dough, then roll it very thin. Sprinkle it with chopped parsley, paprika and celery salt and cut it into small shapes... diamonds, squares, or whatever strikes your fancy. Bake the crutons until they are well-browned. (About three minutes.) Drop several into each portion of soup.

For a novel touch for fish or meat soups fashion tiny balls of cooked fish or meat, roll them in flour and brown them. Two or three will be plenty for each serving.

Egg balls are "tops" in clear soups. They're made this way: Mix two hard-cooked egg yolks, one teaspoon of melted butter, a little salt, paprika and celery salt. Shape into balls about a fourth of an inch in diameter and serve plain, or rolled in minced parsley.

Japanese Down Second Civilian Passenger Plane

SHANGHAI, Sept. 7 (Wednesday) (AP) — A Japanese army communique today said a second Eurasia line passenger airplane was shot down Tuesday afternoon 30 miles southwest of Hankow by Japanese army aviators.

The statement did not mention who was aboard the plane or its fate, but said the Japanese fliers "considered the craft to be hostile plane operating in the zone of hostilities."

(Three Japanese pursuit planes machine-gunned down a transport of the German-Chinese operated Eurasia line Monday at Liuchow, Kwangsi province. None of its nine occupants were injured. Fourteen lost their lives Aug. 24 when Japanese aviators attacked a plane of the Chinese and American-owned China National Aviation corporation near Canton.)

The largest number of Civil war widows on the pension roll was 304,373 in 1912.

AFRAID TO MARRY

HELEN WELSHIMER

CHAPTER 8

JUDY DID NOT speak to Ronald Birrell. When she glanced up, having decided to do so, he was gone. Vanished completely as though, one moment before, his long strides had not been carrying him down the street.

It was just as well, Judy decided. It was better that she keep her solitary banner waving bravely. She did not want sympathy or pity. "Not that he would give me much of either," she reflected ruefully. "He thinks I should fly the Star Spangled Banner because I'm on my own. And I—I don't much care what he thinks."

It was that same evening that Craig and his bride came back to New York. Judy saw the girl's picture in the society section of one of the most prominent newspapers the next morning. It was not a sensational story this time—merely a quiet announcement that Mr. and Mrs. Craig Denby had returned from their honeymoon and would be at home at a strange address. So Craig was vacating his apartment?

Judy walked down to an automat for dinner, thinking about that. She had had tea with him before the great fireplace in the old rooms, while the logs snapped, and the servant who had been with him since childhood moved noiselessly here and there. She had been part of group games who had come back to the living room to talk, after the theater, and eat the delectable cheese or chicken sandwiches, prepared by an elderly, comfortable cook, who did not mind working late because she had so little to do at any time.

That was ended, completely. "Try remembering not to think back, Judy Rogers," she reminded herself, slipping a nickel into a slot, turning a crank, and watching a thick white cup fill with steaming hot chocolate at the automat.

In order to divert her thoughts from Craig, she tried to think of Ronald Birrell.

"He would think I'm eating where I should," the musing went on. "I don't care—the chocolate's good."

But she dreamed all night long that she was making the old, gay rounds—Twenty-One, the Starlight Roof of the Waldorf, the St. Regis, Pierre's. She thought she was laughing too lightly, too gaily. And she wakened to find the dull gray morning light coming into the dull gray hotel room. It was better when the lights were on. Three round lamps, a table, four shelves of books, prints and cushions of her own had been salvaged and brought along. There was a bright rug, too, and she had ornaments and bowls and candleholders gathered from here and there. It was early, so she took a quick shower, slipped into a warm bathrobe, and put a few last touches on a sketch on the desk. More and more, the last few days, as she watched the designer at the dress manufacturer's, she had felt an urge to create, too. She held up the completed costume. She liked it. Some day soon, she might have an opportunity to show it to her employer. If he liked it, it would mean a raise. Or maybe a chance to try a design now and then.

At last she put on a gay red frock which had been one of her favorites and started to work. There were buyers. She paraded before them in a blue frock, a black one, a brown, a blue, a white evening dress that followed simple sports line, another blue. . . . And all the while Craig Denby was wondering about Judy as he went through the habitual routine of landing, customs, and riding up town to the new expensive hotel suite which he had taken for a month or so. Today he would see about dismantling his old apartment. He must find a permanent place to live. Marriage was more inconvenient than he had thought at first. But Mary . . .

He smiled at the girl whom he had married. He had not been sorry for a minute. Judy was right. You recognized love when it came. Suppose he had not gone away for that week-end party, and had not met the dark-eyed girl with the throaty contralto? But he had.

"I love you, Mary," he told her again. She laughed a little tremulously. "I love you, too," she said. "Oh, darling, isn't life fun?"

Spanish Count Dies in Florida

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 6 (AP)—The Count of Covadonga, once heir to the crown of Spain, died today of hemophilia, hereditary blood disease that causes profuse bleeding, after an automobile accident and his companion in the car, Mildred Gaydon, a nightclub entertainer, was charged with manslaughter.

She was released on her own recognizance. Peace Justice Thomas S. Ferguson issued the warrant on an affidavit signed by W. F. Shields, a deputy constable. Mildred Gaydon, 25, brown-haired and grey-eyed, went as she was being booked but later regained her composure. An inquest was set for Friday.

The girl said the steering gear of her old sedan failed as she swerved to avoid a truck and she and the count were trapped inside for 15 minutes after striking the

"With you it is hilarious," he agreed. "Silly! But I'm glad you came along."

For so long a time Craig always had called Judy when he first returned from a trip, that he mechanically reached for the telephone in their suite. When the operator told him that the Rogers' telephone was disconnected, his brows drew together. He glanced through the directory, found Marjorie Barton's number, and made another call.

"Marjorie, this is Craig Denby. I thought you might be in Ethiopia or New Guinea. But I took a chance."

"Craig—congratulations! I know Mary, and she's a darling. When may I expect you for dinner? I'll get a party together."

There was more of that, and then Craig said: "Marjorie, where can I reach Judy?"

"Hadn't you heard that she was going abroad?"

"No." He wondered why he felt so disappointed. Old friendship, of course. But he did want to see Judy. He wanted Mary to meet her. He wanted them to like each other. "When did she sail?"

"Judy made her plans so suddenly, I wasn't there," Marjorie's calm voice was answering.

"I'll call her father. He'll know."

"Sorry, Craig, but he's in the west. The Rogers have left the city for a year or so, it seems."

So Craig sent Judy a cable in care of her mother that evening, and the cable came back stating that she was not there. He again telephoned Marjorie and received an evasive answer. Judy was being cockeyed, according to Marjorie's viewpoint, but if that was the way she wanted things, that was the way they would be. Marjorie would not let her down. She was worried, though. She wanted to find Judy. That note had been so final.

"Why not drop over?" Marjorie asked Craig. "A few people are here. Mary should know them."

One of the people was Ronald Birrell.

"You don't know Judy Rogers," Marjorie told him, "but she's my best friend and Craig and Judy were fond of each other for a long time. Not fond enough, though. Craig was married recently and he is bringing his bride to see me."

"What happened to Judy Rogers?" asked Ronald, as though the girl were a name, nothing more. "When her father lost his money, where did she go?"

"Abroad," answered Marjorie, loyalty not failing. It was natural that Judy's name should arise, a little later, when Craig and Mary arrived. Everyone had been unusually fond of Judy. She was missed now.

"Say, I know I saw her on the street the other day," one young man volunteered. "If it wasn't Judy, it was a dead ringer for her. Are you sure she's in Europe, Marjorie?"

"Boats run both ways. Maybe she's back."

Meantime, Judy, unaware that her whereabouts was a matter of discussion up at Marjorie's, had decided that she was prospering enough to venture to get in touch with someone. Marjorie could be trusted. She would telephone her. A pay telephone booth was in the drug store at the corner, so she went into it. There was danger of eavesdropping and discovery if she talked from the hotel. She had a quarter changed to nickels. She and Marjorie might talk a long time.

She dialed the familiar number. She waited.

Marjorie and Craig had been talking together in a small den near the main drawing room. Talking about Judy. Marjorie, summoned to the reception room as the bell began to chime, turned to Craig.

"Will you take it please? I'm not here."

Thus, when Craig said: "The Barton apartment" in a voice as closely resembling a butler's as he could command, it was Judy whom he heard say: "Miss Marjorie Barton, please."

He forgot his role. "Judy, where are you?" he shouted.

Judy's heart became a trapeze. There wasn't any world except the four walls of the telephone booth, and Craig's voice saying, over and over: "Judy, where are you?"

Nearly 600 Return to Classes at Two Parochial Schools

First Day Shows St. Patrick's With Increase in Enrollment

Late Enrollments Expected to Raise St. Mary's Figure

Nearly 600 Iowa City boys and girls yesterday morning made their annual exodus to the two parochial schools—St. Patrick's and St. Mary's, bringing slightly increased enrollment in the former and a slight drop in the latter's registration.

Probably the St. Mary's figure will be brought up today with additional late enrollments, authorities said.

St. Pat's figures reached 330, compared to 320 last year, while St. Mary's had 265 in attendance the first day, as compared with 275 last year.

The city's public schools will not open until next Monday, although registration in the high school will take place all this week, Superintendent Iver A. Opstad announced.

Seniors registered yesterday;

juniors will register today, sophomores, Thursday and freshmen, Friday.

Registration hours at the high school are from 8:30 until noon and from 1 until 5.

Those who did not register at the regular time will be allowed to enroll Saturday from 1 until 3 p.m., Superintendent Opstad said.

Saturday morning Superintendent Opstad will hold a meeting for all public school teachers. The meeting will be at 10 a.m. in the high school auditorium.

Probably the St. Mary's figure will be brought up today with additional late enrollments, authorities said.

Gaffney Talks At Riverside

Democratic Nominee Gives Labor Day Address Before 300

In a Labor day address that flayed "those who hold out deceptive promises and only tend to make evil worse," Judge James P. Gaffney, democratic candidate for congress, spoke to 300 persons at Riverside Monday.

"One finds too many agitators constantly urging the array in hateful manner, class against class," Judge Gaffney said.

The democratic nominee began his address by stating that agitators falsely define the "relative rights and the mutual duties of capital and labor, stressing that capital cannot do without labor, nor labor without capital."

"God himself was rich, and he became poor," Judge Gaffney stated.

"There has been too much hue and cry of 'too much government interference with business and industry,' but the record discloses that in the dark period of the spring of 1933, the banks of the country and private capital were unable to give the necessary financial support to business and industry." The government, of course, did interfere, but it was a wholesome interference, and the help by federal government given to railroads, to the insurance companies, to the banks, to big and little business, was done to save the capitalistic system of this country.

"The prime purpose of the legislation will make for healthier, happier children, a happier laboring class, and stimulate production and greater purchasing power," Gaffney concluded.

tions of all school zone regulations will be tried in police court.

Chief Bender asks that parents of school children cooperate in eliminating traffic accidents by instructing them in regard to crossing streets.

Students using bicycles should equip them with headlights, a rearview reflector and a horn. Cycles should not be ridden on downtown sidewalks. Riders should observe regular automobile traffic restrictions.

Assault Charge Filed in Court

Man Accused Of Attacking, Choking Cosgrove Woman

A charge of assault with intent to commit rape was filed yesterday against John Lewandowski by County Attorney Harold V. Vestmark in Johnson county district court.

Lewandowski, a native of New York City, had been employed on the Leonard Novak farm southeast of Cosgrove for several months. He is accused of attacking and choking Mrs. Novak on the morning of Aug. 30. Sheriff Don McComas arrested him Sept. 1 after a posse of about 50 had searched for him since noon the day before. Bail has been set at $2,500.

Martin Traces Labor's History

Republican Candidate Speaks to 2,000 At Keokuk Picnic

Growth of organized labor in this nation from the industrial revolution down to the present date was traced by Attorney Thomas E. Martin, Iowa City, republican nominee for United States congressman from the first Iowa district, at a Labor day picnic at Peter's Grove in Keokuk Monday.

The gathering was sponsored by the Trades and Labor Assembly of that city. Nearly 2,000 persons were present, despite heavy thundershowers.

Dr. Husa Gets Chairmanship Of Research Group

Dr. William H. Husa, former Iowa City resident, has been elected chairman of the National Conference of Pharmaceutical Research. He will succeed Dr. George D. Deal of Mellon Institute, Pittsburgh, Pa.

A book—"Fighting Disease With Drugs," an annual survey of research in pharmacy—is sponsored by the research conference. Dr. Husa has published more than 75 papers dealing with pharmaceutical research and teaching.

He is the author of several books, one of which is used widely in colleges of pharmacy and which was selected by a national board for the library of every professional pharmacist.

Serving as sectional chairman of practical pharmacy and dispensing at the recent meeting of the American Pharmaceutical Association, Dr. Husa conducted a symposium on professional pharmacy that was of such interest that members requested that a similar symposium be arranged for the next annual meeting.

Dr. Husa is the head of the pharmacy department at the University of Florida.

Light Company Files Petition For Franchise

A petition for a franchise to erect, use and maintain poles, wires, cables, conduits and other fixtures and appliances for the purpose of conducting electricity for lighting, power and heating purposes in the southeast portion of Lincoln township has been filed with the Iowa State Commerce commission by the Eastern Iowa Light and Power cooperative of Davenport.

The wires would run across a corner of the township into Muscatine county.

Hearing on the petition will be held in Des Moines Sept. 27. Objections to granting of the franchise must be in writing, filed in triplicate with the commission at least five days before the hearing. Objectors should be represented at the hearing, the commission suggested.

Johnson County Gets $1,050 From Carrier Taxes

Johnson county's share of the ton-mile tax money from the state commerce commission last month for maintenance and repair of highways over which licensed motor carriers operate was $1,050.52.

The 99 counties in the state received $32,958.21—collected from certificated motor carriers operating over regular routes or between fixed termini during the month.

Iowa county's share was $901.52, Washington county's $169.87.
