REPORT BRITISH WARNING TO NAZIS

Rumor McNutt Asked to Resign

F. R. Opposes Commissioner To Philippines

Say President Had Words With Indiana Political Leader

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—The Washington Star said in a copyrighted story today that word was circulating in army and other administration quarters that President Roosevelt had called for the resignation of Paul V. McNutt from the $18,000-a-year post of high commissioner to the Philippines.

The paper said the president and McNutt, who has been proposed by his friend for the democratic presidential nomination in 1940, had exchanged views with some heat since the Indiana democratic state convention renominated Sen. Frederick Van Nuys.

Van Nuys, who opposed the president's court reorganization bill last year, had seemed certain to fail of renomination, the Star said, until Gov. M. Clifford Townsend suddenly announced that he had assured the senator that no organization obstacles would be placed in his path.

Man Dies After Jumping From Third Story

Glenn Rinehart, 33-year-old Cedar Rapids man, died in University hospital at 1:55 p.m. yesterday as the result of injuries sustained after he jumped from a third story window of the hospital.

No reason for his action could be learned last night from hospital authorities. He had been in the hospital for about a month, but the nature of his illness was not disclosed.

Two Iowa City Boys Being Held At Des Moines

Two Iowa City boys, one of them a Negro, are being held in the Des Moines city jail pending investigation of stories they told of breaking into an Iowa City store last Wednesday night.

Local police have no report of a store here being entered last Wednesday. The boys also confessed to entering the home of Mrs. W. Neeley of Des Moines.

Rabbi Mannheimer Installed as Chaplain Of Masonic Lodges

DES MOINES, Sept. 10 (AP)—Rabbi Eugene Mannheimer of Des Moines Saturday night was installed as grand chaplain of the Masonic lodges of Iowa.

En Route President's Train On Way to Rochester

ABOARD PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S TRAIN, en route to Rochester, Minn., Sept. 10 (AP)—President Roosevelt kept in close touch with the international situation today while traveling to the bedside of his son, James.

Small crowds gathered at Collinwood, a Cleveland suburb, and at other points along the route, but the chief executive made no appearances. Mr. Roosevelt left the summer White House at Hyde Park, N. Y., last midnight.

Maryland Vote Will Be Test Of New Deal

BALTIMORE, Sept. 10 (AP)—Maryland's bitter new deal-test primary roared into its finish drive today as President Roosevelt urged speed on approval of two PWA bridge projects in the state.

One bridge, over the Susquehanna river at Harve De Grace, is near the estate of Senator Millard E. Tydings, whose defeat the president has sought.

Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex.) revealed a new charge by Lewis, that Frank S. Revell, district immigration commissioner here, was aiding Tydings' campaign in Anne Arundel county.

Sheppard also said investigators had been sent to confer with Hampton Magruder, Maryland collector of internal revenue, who Tydings said had urged more than 100 federal workers under him to support Lewis.

Earlier the committee reported its opinion that Mrs. Maude A. Toulson, Salisbury, Md., postmistress, had violated the federal law by working for Lewis. Lewis forced sympathy for Mrs. Toulson had brightened their outlook in the area, the pivotal eastern shore on which Mr. Roosevelt spoke Monday for Lewis.

Japanese Report Advances

SHANGHAI (AP)—The Japanese yesterday reported two sweeping advances toward the Peiping-Hankow railway, which they hope to cut north of Hankow, Chinese military capital, as a major tactic in their effort to capture the city.

World's State Described In Letter to Peru

Hull Says Lawlessness Vs. Fair Play Is Nations' Problem

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Secretary Hull declared in a letter made public tonight that the issue of lawlessness versus fair play confronted the whole world, and that no nation could avoid a part in the responsibility of determining which should prevail.

Although not mentioning the crisis between Germany and Czechoslovakia, he said: "Events in other parts of the world have emphasized recently the extent to which some nations have wavered from the orderly and friendly relations which should prevail between neighbors."

Publication of the secretary of state's remarks, in a letter of acceptance to Peru's invitation to attend the eighth Pan-American conference at Lima on December 8, preceded by only two days Adolf Hitler's long-awaited foreign affairs speech at Nurnberg, Germany.

"The nations of the world are faced," Hull wrote, "with the issue of determining whether relations shall be characterized by international anarchy and lawlessness or by principles of fair play, justice and order under law. No nation and no government can avoid the issue; neither can any nation avoid participation, willing or not, in the responsibility of determining which course of action shall prevail."

"The grave problems confronting the world today afford the American republics, united by a common ideal, an opportunity to set an example to the world, through the creation of new bonds of solidarity and friendship."

President Roosevelt May Call Officials To Scan State-Federal Tax Duplications

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—President Roosevelt may call state officials to a conference on the question of dividing up the sources of taxation and reducing overlapping levies by other means, it was said in treasury circles today.

The conference was discussed as a possibility, not a certainty. Although about as far as ever from a solution of the problem of overlapping taxes, treasury experts said they were greatly concerned with the revenue difficulties of the 49 competing tax

Testimony Backfired

Milton Bernard (above), former accountant for the Schultz racketeers combination, a state witness at trial of Hines in New York City (turned on Dewey, barked a virtual accusation that signature "J. Hines" on a racket check was not on cancelled voucher. Bernard later confessed inability to remember any names on back of the check.

Stryker Moves For Mistrial In Hines Case

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—The immediate outcome of the trial of James J. Hines, veteran Tammany district leader, on policy racket charges hung in doubt tonight as Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora weighed a defense motion for a mistrial, based on a question asked an important defense witness by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey.

The move by Defense Attorney Lloyd Paul Stryker climaxed a controversial session, in which Lyon Boston, lawyer and former assistant district attorney under William C. Dodge, testified Dodge assisted him in 1934 to investigate the policy racket with special emphasis on any possible connection Hines might have with it.

Stryker's assistant, Harold Shapiro, said outside of court no memorandum would be submitted on the motion since "it is so plain that no memorandum is needed."

Officers Return Couple to Iowa From Chicago

OSKALOOSA, Sept. 10 (AP)—Officers late today returned Mr. and Mrs. William McDonald, both 25, to Iowa from Chicago, where they were arrested Thursday, and tonight were questioning them in connection with bank robberies at Hedrick and North English.

The attorney general's office in Des Moines previously had announced the McDonalds were implicated in the two holdups in statements signed by Richard Ringer, 23, and Louis Burry, 21.

While state agents questioned McDonald in the Mahaska county jail here, Sheriff Earl Tremmel of Keokuk county questioned his wife, Norma, in the county jail at Sigourney.

Officers Find 2 Runaway Youths

Jack Ward, 13, and Bob Bleakly, 14, both of Des Moines, will be returned to their homes today when their fathers pick them up at the Iowa City police department.

Czech President Extends Olive Branch

Benes Offers Germany Friendship in Broadcast Appeal for Peace

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 10 (AP)—President Eduard Benes held out the hand of friendship tonight to Nazi Germany and appealed for peace in a broadcast warning that any clashes in the Sudeten German - Czechoslovak dispute might threaten the peace of all Europe.

He pleaded with the people to "be calm" and pledged the government to work for justice for all nationalities.

"If imperialist powers were to enter into relations between the nationalities," he said, "a regrettable shadow would be thrown over the future of cooperation among them."

Students End Days of Play As Time for Opening of Public Schools' Fall Term Arrives

2,200 Boys, Girls To Return to Classes; Several Teachers New

By tomorrow morning the last ball bat will be put away; the last vacation book forgotten, the last summer swim finished.

Tomorrow morning 2,200 Iowa City boys and girls, from kindergartners to 12th graders, will begin the 1938-39 school year. An enrollment of about 725 is expected at the high school.

High school classes will not begin formally until Tuesday morning, and probably most elementary schools will also be dismissed early tomorrow.

The school buildings of the city will be in a better condition than they have been for several years—although this will probably be the last year high school students will report to the old building. The new building in east Iowa City is expected to be ready for occupancy by the next school year.

Several new teachers will be on the staff during the coming year. Superintendent Iver A. Opstad yesterday announced the appointment of Marion Ross for three years fifth and sixth grade teacher at Longfellow, as principal of Lincoln school, succeeding Cordelia Ahrens, who has headed the school for eight years.

Miss Ahrens will begin new duties as seventh grade teacher in the junior high school. She takes the place of Perry Rawland, who resigned to continue studying industrial arts at Ohio State university.

In the high school tomorrow will open with an assembly at 9 a.m., followed by 10-minute periods for the rest of the morning. Regular class work will begin at 8:40 a.m. Tuesday.

Elementary school buildings have been generally improved during the summer; fences have been erected, ceilings re-plastered, walls painted and general repairs made.

Enrollment figures probably will not be complete until the end of the week, Superintendent Iver A. A. Opstad has said.

Referring to the government's newest proposals to meet the Sudeten German demands, which included among other things self-governing districts, Benes declared:

"These are elaborated in order to give to the state what belongs to the state and to the nationalities what belongs to the nationalities. At the same time we are endeavoring to guarantee the individual against the whole, minority against majority and freedom of thought and national rights."

"This applies to Czechs, Germans, Slovaks, Hungarians, Ruthenians and Poles. Our democratic conditions make us proceed in this manner."

Speaking also just two days before Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany closes the Nazi party congress in Nurnberg with an important address, Benes emphasized that Czechoslovakia wanted peace and would do all she could to promote faith and good will among nations.

International house, the University of Iowa's newest step toward greater between-nations understanding, will be open and ready for occupancy next Saturday, it was announced yesterday.

It is expected that 10 foreign and two American students will make their homes at the house, recently donated by Prof. George W. Stewart and Dr. Zella White Stewart as a residence for university students from foreign lands.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Saetveit have been named by the board of directors to manage International house. Mrs. Hannah Saetveit, the former's mother, will also make her home there.

Mr. Saetveit is working for his Ph.D. degree at the university. Holder of a graduate assistantship in the psychology department, he has directed the choir of the First Presbyterian church for a number of years.

Mrs. Saetveit is well known in Iowa City in musical circles. She has accompanied the University of Iowa chorus, in addition to Iowa City high school musicians at state and regional contests.

The Cosmopolitan club, university organization with members from all parts of the world, will meet at International house. No meals, except those served to the club, will be served there.

The living rooms of the house have been nicely furnished through unsolicited gifts, it is reported. The house, however, is still in need of articles of furniture, among them three floor lamps, two dozen folding chairs, four cards tables, a set of dishes, blankets, bedroom rugs, a folding screen, a magazine table, subscriptions to magazines and phonograph records. Persons subscribing to foreign magazines are urged to bring used copies to the house.

Ambassador Has Met With Principal Nazi Leaders, Report Says

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Reuters (British news agency) dispatches from Prague tonight said unconfirmed reports from a German source asserted two persons had been wounded at Karlovy Vary after a dispute between a German Heineleinist and a Sudeten German social democrat.

The follower of Nazi-supported Konrad Henlein was said to have been arrested. A crowd of 12,000 then demonstrated before the prison.

Police firing into the crowd wounded two unidentified persons, the dispatches said.

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Great Britain has warned Adolf Hitler himself that British neutrality cannot be counted on if Germany should start a major war over Czechoslovakia, it was reported in authoritative quarters tonight.

A British semi-official statement issued tonight declared that as a result of contacts made by Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador, at the Nazi party congress at Nurnberg, Germany, this week, "there is every reason to feel assured the views of the British government 'have been fully conveyed in the proper quarter.'"

Britain had feared her stand was not being impressed upon Hitler himself, and that, uninformed of the British attitude, he might chart a more aggressive course than otherwise in his eagerly-awaited foreign policy address at Nurnberg Monday.

Leaves No Doubt
Tonight's statement, however, left little doubt the Fuehrer now knows where the British government stands. It was evident Sir Neville was convinced that the Germans now know he is not bluffing, and that it is no longer necessary for him to see Chancellor Hitler personally to drive this fact home.

The statement said: "It was stated tonight in authoritative quarters that during his visit to Nurnberg the British ambassador has had valuable opportunities of meeting with the principal German leaders."

"He has not either had or sought any interview with Herr Hitler other than the courtesy meeting during the diplomatic reception, but this is not supposed to have been an occasion of anything more than a general conversation, nor indeed was this necessary."

Contacted Leader
"Having obtained a full report of the contacts he has made, there is every reason for the British ministers to feel assured that the views of his majesty's government have been fully conveyed in the proper quarter."

Sir Neville's principal contacts were with Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, whom he saw only yesterday, and Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, "second man" of the Nazi Reich.

Before the report came late today there had been doubt expressed in high quarters that the British envoy would be able to convince von Ribbentrop, and through him, Hitler, of the serious danger of British intervention if force were applied against Czechoslovakia.

No further public move by the Chamberlain government was expected before Monday's crucial cabinet session.

Nazis Proclaim Germany Invincible
NURNBERG, Germany, Sept. 10 (AP)—Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering and Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler today proclaimed Germany united, invincible and determined to protect her Germanic brethren — the Sudeten Germans of Czechoslovakia.

Goering: "We consider ourselves the masters of events that are unavoidable. We do not want to harm anybody. No nation loves peace more than we do. But we will not stand for injury inflicted upon our German brethren."

Opening Game Pep Meeting Will Honor Iowa Team Sept. 21

By JOHN MOONEY
Daily Iowan Editor

In keeping with the slogan — "It's Iowa's Year" — which is spreading like wildfire throughout Iowa City, The Daily Iowan will present its second annual opening game pep meeting Wednesday evening Sept. 21 as the Iowa team leaves for its opening game with U.C.L.A.

permeated the entire city. In traditional fashion, this gala pep fest will be centered around a huge bon-fire. Pep officials have pledged whole-hearted cooperation in the construction of this fire and it is expected to surpass even the efforts of last year's Daily Iowan bon-fire which was termed by old-timers "the best fire ever burned for an out-of-town game."

Plans call for the fire to have a packing box initiated with the crest of the contributing group — whether fraternity, sorority, dormitory or town group.

The team will leave from the interurban station across from Old Iowa field, and the program will be held on the field prior to the team's leaving for Cedar Rapids.

Coach Irl Tubbs, Athletic Director "Dad" Schroeder, Freshman Coach Waddie Davis, a former Iowa captain, heads of the local service organizations, Mayor Myron J. Walker, and several prominent local friends of the university have been contacted and will probably give short speeches.

Prof. Harry G. Barnes of the speech department has signified his willingness to incorporate the pep meeting in the annual Freshman week program in order to make sure the freshmen get off on the right spirit in Iowa pep.

Negotiations are underway to get one of the Iowa radio stations to re-broadcast the proceedings, but as yet nothing definite has been learned as to their intentions.

The highest in years over prospects for the coming season and the purpose of this pep meeting is to demonstrate Iowa City's loyalty to the team BEFORE the game is won. If Iowa should defeat U. C. L. A. in this game, there will be plenty of back-slapping and congratulating — the problem now is to let the team know that the city and university are with it BEFORE the game ever is played.

Prof. Charles B. Righter, whose Iowa band set the tempo for last year's send-off, has been contacted and will probably be able to present at least part of a unit for the ceremonies. It may be possible to secure the presence of the university's colorful Scottish Highlanders to lead a torchlight parade down to the Iowa field.

"It's Iowa's Year"—and town and gown alike have pledged support to prove their confidence and loyalty to the coach and the team.

Hitler: "Germany will stand united, come what may... When Providence takes me from my people I will hand to the next Fuehrer a country welded by iron bonds."

That 'Legion City' Idea

SURELY a lot can be said for that "Legion City" that Iowa City school children are starting. It's purpose is admirable — to teach the principles of municipal government, all the way from the police department to the duties of the mayor.

The whole tends toward what's a rather vital problem of ours — namely, training a more intelligent electorate.

We hope the day will soon come when the idea extends to national and state governments as well, with boys acting as presidents and governors and congressmen. Then they'll probably know a little better how such officials ought to act, what they ought to do. And select men who'll do the right acts when they become voters.

'Purging' In for Two Defeats

UNLESS all previous indications are wrong, the Roosevelt "purge"—so-called—is in for two major defeats this week. The primaries in Maryland tomorrow and in Georgia Wednesday seem to point toward rather tidy victories for Millard Tydings and Senator George.

All of which proves that state political machines are stronger than national political ties, that local prejudices mean more than national trends, that Will Hays was right.

In politics, he once said, "things don't happen. They are made to happen."

Which reminds us. A voter we know was talking on the street corner yesterday, and we heard him say, "Let's see now, who is running for the senate?"

Great Oaks From Little Acorns; An Experiment

NEXT WEEK END, one of the University of Iowa's newest experiments will begin—truly an experiment in international understanding.

Because next week end, International house, 19 Evans street, will be opened, ready for occupancy. Its occupants will total about 12. Two of them will be American students at Iowa; the rest will be foreign students.

They will live together during the school year, in an atmosphere of congenial understanding. We can look with interest and enthusiasm toward the rather insignificant, but far-reaching results of such an experiment. We can, at this time, only surmise what beneficial understandings may be gained by such an enterprise.

But we do think that nine months of association between representatives of far-flung nations, including our own, can mean only a greater mutual understanding between those representatives of the fundamental kinship between men, regardless of color, race or creed!

The name in itself is significant—International house. The name embodies the broad and commendable principles which are the basis of its existence.

In these times of international distrust, such an experiment as that which will begin next week, no matter how isolated it may be in its relationship to international problems as a whole, is a step in the right direction.

WASHINGTON WORLD

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C. — No-body seems to care a nickel's worth what the Republicans are doing.

Heaven knows that this has been a red-hot, not to say a vitriolic campaign thus far, but only one party has figured in it noticeably. That is to say, only one party label, the Democratic, has been mentioned as of any consequence.

Politically speaking, this year's primaries are tests to determine whether New Deal or anti-New Deal Democrats really ARE Democrats.

The Republican primaries are inconsequential.

In most states and districts the G.O.P. nominees expect to be licked in November by so-called Democrats of one brand or the other. Consequently the Republican primaries have been pretty flat affairs. Rival Republicans scarcely can be counted on to fight very hard for the privilege of being wallpopped a few weeks hence at the polls.

CANT IDENTIFY THEM

It's a funny situation. I have seen plenty of campaigns in which the Democrats knew in advance that they would be beaten in general, but they always have been sure of winning a sufficient number of balliwicks to preserve their party integrity.

Now the Republicans realize that they are in a fair way to be wiped practically off the political map—save, possibly, in Maine and Vermont.

But wiped off by whom? Not by any opposition party that they accurately can identify. A Republican with a few exceptions, is a Republican. But what's a Democrat? Lord only knows. He may be a New Dealer, who certainly isn't a Republican. He may be an anti-New Dealer Democrat, who assuredly isn't a Republican, but who isn't a Democrat either, if Franklin D. Roosevelt is one.

Either way one puts it the Democratic candidate (whether a pro" or an "anti" New Dealer) appears to be in a majority over his Republican opponent.

And now, on the strength of California's primary, it appears that a third kind of Democrat is to be reckoned with—a "funny money" Democrat—pooh-poohed by the Republicans and referred to as "Utopian" by President Roosevelt.

This "funny money" complex is liable to spread.

A LOT OF FACTIONALISM

Old-time Democracy is fairly well holding its own. However, it isn't doing much better than to maintain a balance of power, nor is it likely to do more than that.

The New Dealers hate the old-time Democrats almost worse than the Republicans and the old-time Democrats reciprocate. Still, the New Deal Democrats hate the Democratic "funny-money" complex as much as the Republicans do. Ditto the old-time Democrats.

The whole thing is so jumbled in the primaries as to mean nothing at all.

For example: Representative David J. Lewis, Maryland New Deal Democratic senatorial candidate, says he isn't the communists' choice for the nomination. The communistic organization says he is.

The primaries over, the inter-party fight will begin.

But which party is which? Democrats voting for Republicans! Republicans voting for Democrats! Communists voting for a candidate who declares he isn't a communist! A "funny-money" candidate running on an anti-"funny-money" ticket!

Make some sense out of that.

A San Diego man charged with intoxication told the judge he was celebrating his divorce, obtained 25 years ago. Sounds as if it might be permanent.

Health Hints

By Logan Clendening, M.D.

In many of the inquiries I receive, as well as in discussions with people on the subject of sickness and health, I discern an attitude of mind which is a sort of belief in magic. I realize these people would be very much surprised at it if it were announced to them bluntly, but at least there is a lack of understanding of the fundamental principles on which treatment in modern medicine is based.

The modern scientific physician judges the problem of a sick person, not by rule of thumb, not by empiricism, and not by applying some dogma set down in a textbook, but by applying the principles of anatomy, physiology, pathology and bacteriology.

Our knowledge is today wonderfully complete. There are, it is true, some fields of the unknown, but for practical purposes there never was a time in the world's history when such a large body of intricate and dependable information was available.

I am going to try, in the articles during the next week or two, to give my readers this viewpoint and to state in simple language the fundamental conceptions of modern medicine. In following this, I believe that the reader will gain a far clearer conception of what he really wants to know from his doctor.

First, let us get a general philosophic view of man so far as his body is in relation to his universe. He is an animal differing only in inventiveness, mental resource and adaptability, from other animals.

The human organism is adapted to the use of the other products of the earth to furnish him energy through the functions of digestion, respiration, circulation and metabolism. It is adapted also to the reproduction of its own kind.

It is adapted as no other animal's is, to long-range planning, to discovering the secrets of the universe, to turning them to its own uses, to living life by reason—in short, to what we call thinking.

On all of these levels the body is liable to get into trouble. All over the world enemies lie in wait for it—themselves unconsciously preying on it in the never ending struggle for existence.

Germs, parasites, poisons, heat, cold, fire, automobiles, poor and deficient food, are among the tangible forces that are arrayed against the smooth workings of that wonderful mechanism.

The very processes of reproduction themselves may turn against it.

Ambition may carry a man to the sky and then fling him crushed and formless to the earth.

Furthermore, these wonderful processes wear down in the course of time. A hundred years from now there will be scarcely a score of the present inhabitants of the earth carrying on at all. Professor Pearl gives a hundred years as the upper limit of the span of human life. All will have ceased functioning through some inherent degeneration of the organs. In some, the hereditary nature of the material will have hastened this, so, quite unfairly but quite remorselessly, they will have been carried off long before the others.

AROUND THE TOWN

With MERLE MILLER

WITH MALICE TOWARD MANY

(Selected Venom)

That "Most Over-Rated People in America" game in Sept. Scribner's has all sorts of possibilities. In certain homes I know it's been extended—and narrowed. For example, consider the possibilities of "Most Over-Rated People in Iowa City," "Most Over-Rated in the University of Iowa" and in the "Johnson County Courthouse."

I have several submitted lists that would make interesting if slightly libelous reading.

For my part, I'll stick to the national scene, choosing Charlie McCarthy as the prize radio over-ratee. (He's good—but not that good—and getting a bit tiresome besides.) But put in W. Bernie a close second. (That Winchell feud was good—a decade ago.)

Orson Welles rates the prize theater hiss. His radio shows begin to have a queer musty, too Wellesish air. And besides he's really 26. And I didn't like "Julius Caesar."

The Dionne Q's are in the III bracket. (Dogs do it too.) Let's put Albert Einstein next. (I know a man who knew a man who'd read his theory—but he didn't understand it.)

Literarily let's put M. Mitchell first. (Not that I read the claptrap.) With Jim Farrell second. (Did you ever hear the one about the traveling salesman and—Yes, Farrell wrote it.)

GROUP V... Let's start off with Sinclair Lewis. (He's the author of "Prodigal Parents," isn't he?... Why doesn't someone print his intellectual obituary—or let him write it?... And he topped it off, marrying D. Thompson.) Alf Landon ought to come right along in there too. (Now, let's see, what was he?)... And don't forget Admiral Byrd. (Just call him "Admiral Dick.")

Next, please... Major Bowes (hurry and ring that gong)... Boake Carter. (We all seem to be agreed on that.)

Bring Joe Louis up for the next hiss (Gorillas can be champs... One is... And put Glenn Frank in before I forget. (He's one who poses as a "liberal" but is too familiar with the National Association of Manufacturers for my thin blood.)

Gov. George Earle comes in here. (I once thought he might be president in 1940.)... Bruce Barton. (A political Dale Carnegie.)

Hey, don't forget Paul McNutt (Only I see Indiana's taking care of that silver-haired political daddy of nobody in particular.)

EDUCATIONAL (What no Iowa nominees?... Nicholas Murray Butler. (He must look under his bed every night for "communists"... Does he sleep in green nightgowns?... Isn't he cute?)

Thomas Dewey (see above for C. McCarthy)... J. Edgar Hoover. (Just another teller of bed-time tales.)

TUNING IN

By Loren Hickerson

WOODEN-HEADED... Charles McCarthy, the erstwhile ne'er-do-well who monopolizes Sunday evening radio channels, is highly rated in a recent Liberty for his performance in "Letter of Introduction," soon to be screened in Iowa City.

It's reported that Edgar Bergen also appears in the picture.

If I should try enumerating 10 of the funniest radio programs I've heard in the last 18 months, at least nine of them would be McCarthy's.

But I humbly suggest that, while not losing sight of Charlie, we consider Bergen occasionally.

For while Bergen is appreciated by all, no doubt, it's usually Charlie McC. who's regarded as the genius.

And you'll remember a recent item in the newspapers regarding the church worship hour, set behind an hour, so that the congregation might hear Charlie.

Yet there isn't a church in the country who wouldn't frown upon at least three-fourths of Charlie's tactics, and a good fifth of his jokes.

And to reiterate the recent notation of a columnist, they're having difficulty in finding Sunday night artists who are willing to even attempt to buck the McCarthy program.

The little rascal probably sells more coffee than any of his predecessors on the Chase and Sanborn hour, long famous for presenting the outstanding entertainment features of current time.

Such as Eddie Cantor... then Major Bowes, with his original amateur hour... both tops as advertising mediums.

And Charlie McCarthy carries on... after scarcely two years on the air, he's known the nation over for his rollicking, good-natured humor. It's a rise phenomenal for even the most gracious and talented actress of them all, regardless of a block-head like McCarthy.

There are those who say they'll be tuning in Chase and Sanborn at 7 o'clock tonight to hear Nelson Eddy sing; others who want to hear the Strouds, and still others who like Dorothy Lamour or the particular guest star of the evening.

Believe it or not, I think they're all pushovers for McCarthy, the program's real star!

And while we're making a day of it, we may as well devote a moment or two to Major Bowes, whose "All Right" was originally as well known as Charlie's "It's this way Bergen."

Radio and movie fans, you'll know from all movie magazines and newspaper cartoons, are nuts when it comes to showering affection on their favorite radio and screen personalities.

The Major has recently received gavels and carvings fashioned out of practically everything from sea shells to peach pits.

Some of the gifts have come from high officials... among those received within the last few weeks is one carved out of a plank from the S. S. Leviathan... another made from a board taken from the porch of the late President. William. McKinley's home.

A set of tiny animal figures carved from peach pits reached the Major, as did a similar set made from clam and sea shells.

SUNDAY THRILL

You'll experience it too, when you hear the three trumpeters on Horace Heidt's program following the American Album of Familiar Music over NBC tonight.

Those three players, in addition to the three flutists in Phil Spitalny's all-girl band, are the tops of the jazz world. Don't you agree?

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Merle Oberon may be a glammer gal to you, but to me—and to Merle—she's just a lady behind the eight-ball.

She peeped cautiously around that spheroid today to tell me about it. She made a pretty picture doing it, too, but here was a movie queen to whom appearances were as nothing. For the moment at least. She was concerned.

"It's taxes," she said, explaining that worried look.

"I don't know what I'm going to do," she added.

Well, I've heard movie stars on taxes before, and—

"But my case," said Merle, "is different. Really it is—listen..."

A year ago Merle Oberon, whose change in personality from an "exotic siren" to a wholesome screen lass made Sam Goldwyn hanker after her services, signed a contract. She thought she was getting places.

Eight months straight she works for Goldwyn, drawing down a neat $200,000—this is just my guess—for making two pictures. Then she crosses the water to England and works eight months for Alexander Korda. But before she can cross she has to settle up with Uncle Sam. When she lands on the other side John Bull is ready with a due bill.

"I'm afraid," said Merle, "I'm not only working for nothing, but I'm going to be in debt. I hate being in debt. The contract has four more years to go, and it was ridiculous of me to sign it but I've always hated figures and I hadn't any idea it was going to turn out this way. Oh, Mr. Goldwyn and Mr. Korda are most sympathetic, and they're trying to work out something, but I don't see how it can be done. After all, I'm getting money working in America and this government isn't going to give up its share. And I'm a British subject, so the English government isn't going to give up any."

Merle is right when she says she doesn't know about "figgers." It had just dawned on her, all this tax business, and she'd figured that the U.S.A. wanted about 70 per cent and England another 70 per cent of her American earnings—just 140 per cent all told—and she'd checked with her tax agent and found it wasn't so bad as that. It's about 55 per cent in American taxes and 60 per cent in British. And with deductions—Merle hadn't suspected those either—it may not be that bad.

"But so many people think picture people are rolling in wealth," she said, "it's embarrassing. I get hundreds of appeals for money and I can't do anything about them, except for certain set charities. And I'm living very simply—as simply as a movie person can. I don't entertain—at least as much as an actress is expected to. Very occasionally I give a small dinner party for twelve, but that's all. I don't spend much for clothes, but of course if a picture person has no wardrobe she's considered eccentric."

"When I work in England, the British government takes a large share of that salary. On the balance I have to live the year around and keep my house, but I don't have anything left over to save. That's what worries me—because I can't complain of being uncomfortable now—but what am I going to do about old age?"

Saving for Trips to Fair NEW YORK—Several hundred banking institutions operating in 58 states have established New York World's Fair 1939 Savings Clubs to enable individuals and families to finance without hardship a trip to the Exposition next year. Many banks plan to inaugurate in coming October these World's Fair clubs which are run for 25 weeks. Weekly deposits in already established clubs range from 50 cents to $10.

Lessons in Safety NEW YORK—The many and diverse agencies which cooperate to increase the safety and speed of travel by air are to be presented in new and dramatic fashion in the Aviation Building at the New York World's Fair 1939. The exhibits will tell the tremendous progress man has made in flight and indicate the advancement surely to come in "The World of Tomorrow."

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Perhaps you noticed a young woman in a Mid-dy's jacket down on the docks when those two naval destroyers were at anchor in the Hudson recently—I mean the U.S.S. Texas and the Wyoming which put into port here at the conclusion of the Midshipmen's cruise.

She piqued your imagination, really, for she was communicating via semaphore with the signal officer aboard the Texas, and she accomplished this chore with such precise sureness that I inquired after her. I was standing with Midshipman James Elsom, of Chicago, at the time and he said, "Yes, she's very good at that. If you want some information on her I'll be glad to dig it up for you."

"That'll be swell," I told him. "I certainly will be glad to have it."

Next morning the Texas and the Wyoming sailed with the tide, and three days later came this communication from my midshipman correspondent:

"That story about the girl who was so absorbed in signaling proved more interesting than I thought. I'll start at the beginning. She first came aboard a navy ship on May 13, 1927, on the Texas, and since that time she has been on 75 ships. The navy is her hobby. She refuses to marry because she doesn't want to bore a civilian, with constant chatter about the navy, and a navy man would want a rest from it."

"Her name is Elizabeth Kling. She wears a jumper similar to that of a sailor's. Naval officers have spoken to her about wearing a uniform that is too regulation, so now she has altered the sparks on her rating badge to make it non-regulation."

"She has a very wonderful scrap book, accumulated over a period of years, which contains thousands of items and stories about the navy. And she has also received letters, from the Secretary of Navy down to second class seamen."

"For awhile she was wearing the rating of a signalman second class, but someone advised her they thought she didn't know quite enough to rate second class, so she busted herself down to signalman third. She wears two 'hash' marks (service stripes), each indicating four years service. Next May 13 she will have had 12 years service and she will add a third stripe."

"She never goes out with men—is always with her mother, and spends her spare time as a dancing instructor."

"The Texas is her favorite ship. While we were in New York she was aboard three of the four days. She always salutes the flag when she comes aboard and also the officer of the deck. On each visit she was equipped with a Texas library card which someone had procured for her."

"And that's about all. When we left New York she was down at the Battery signaling semaphore. She certainly seems fascinated by the navy and especially the signal corps."

"Oh, yes, she has appeared on the 'Hobby' hour and several articles about her have been published in magazines. Hope this will be of some use to you."

(Ans.: Dear Jim, if you ever tire of the navy you ought to try news reporting. It ought to be a pipe for a guy that can dig up information the way you can. Thanks.)

Pirates Stage Rally in Eighth to Down Cards

Todd Clouts Homer, Triple

Chases Five Runs Home to Lead Mats In Needed Victory

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 10 (AP) — A big eighth inning which produced eight runs gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 14 to 7 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals today to increase their lead in the National League pennant race to 4 1-2 games over Chicago and Cincinnati.

The pennant-hungry Pirates fell on three Cardinal hurlers for five singles, a double by Johnny Rizzo, and a triple by Al Todd with the bases filled in rallying for the victory.

To win the Pirates overcame a 6-run advantage which the Cards piled up in the early innings before Pie Traynor called on ace, Mace Brown, who held the St. Louisians hitless during the last four innings. Brown got credit for the victory, his 15th of the season.

Todd packed the big Pirate bat. Besides accounting for three runs with his triple in the eighth, he also drove the ball into the left field bleachers for a home run in the fourth, scoring behind Lee Handley.

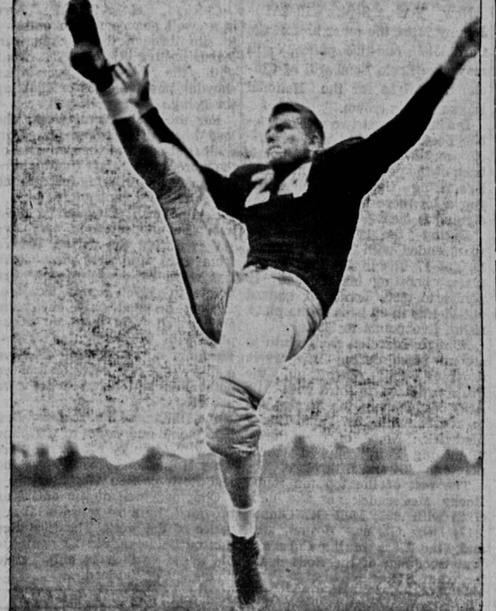

Max Macon, the second of the five Cardinal hurlers, was charged with the defeat. Bill McGee started for the Redbirds, but was replaced after walking the first man up in the seventh. Ray Harrell, Bob Weiland and Clyde Shoun followed Macon, with Shoun alone showing effectiveness.

Johnny Mize, who has increased his batting average from .264 to better than .330 in the last two months, hit his 25th home run of the season with two mates on in the third.

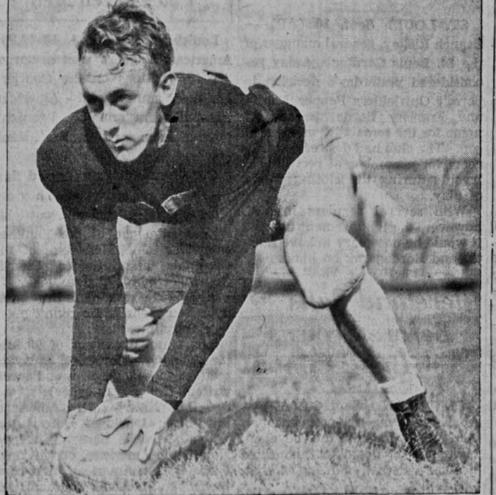

The Cards got off to an early start in the first with three runs on two passes by Russ Bauers, the Pirate starting hurler, two singles and an infield out.

A pass, Handley's triple and Todd's home run accounted for three runs in the fourth, and Lloyd Waner's triple with the bases loaded gave the Pirates three more in the sixth.

Nile Kinnick Boots One

Erwin Prasse Looks Coastward

Prasse and Kinnick May Be Cast in New Roles This Fall

Two men who played plenty of ball for the University of Iowa Hawkeyes last year, Nile Kinnick of Omaha and Erwin Prasse of Chicago, will be in action again this fall but probably not in the same positions where they gained attention in 1937.

Prasse yesterday worked out in the center position as Coach Irl Tubbs started a search for a pivot man to replace the graduated Dick Anderson and Fred Lindenmeyer. The Chicago husky, an end last year, practiced passing the ball during his summer vacation. Although he has never played the position before, it is believed he has the inside track because of his heavier weight and natural ability. The spelmores who are still very much in the running are Bruno Andruska of Chicago and Jack Edling of Moorhead, Minn., but these men are not considered heavy enough for regular work during the coming "suicide schedule."

Prasse is the only Iowa athlete who now is in the running for nine letters. Last year he won awards as an end in football, guard in basketball and second baseman in baseball.

No Iowa fan will soon forget the deeds of Nile Kinnick last year. The Nebraska youth was selected on many all-conference teams, chosen by many critics as the most valuable freshman in the Big Ten, led the Hawkeyes in ground-gaining, did a fine job of leading the team from the quarterback post, and had the nation's best punting average of 43 yards per boot.

But, with the wealth of backfield material reporting yesterday, Tubbs shifted his shifty ball carrier to a wing back post where he showed exceptional promise. No prediction can yet be made, of course, as to who the crafty Iowa mentor will have in his starting backfield but it is likely that Mike Enich, 212-pound steamroller from Boone, will get the signal-calling berth and Kinnick will play the season at a wingback.

AFRAID TO MARRY

HELEN WELSHIMER

CHAPTER 12
JUDY DISCOVERED, to her surprise, that she was singing under her breath as she drew her bath, brushed her chestnut hair until it shone, dusted her face with powder, outlined her lips with deeper scarlet to match the velvet dinner frock she chose.

Tonight she felt like Judy Rogers, the popular heiress, about to go some place, with—Craig.

At thought of that name she put the silver-backed brush down very carefully. Must it come before her always to dim whatever unimportant pleasure offered? Why hadn't she guessed, in those other years, that life would hold no savor when he did not meet her?

She had been so afraid to trust love.

"But I was right," she mused out loud. "Craig didn't love me. Or if he did, he got over it. It's foolish to be so hurt over something that you understand so well. I know love doesn't last! And I always knew it, so why don't I get better?"

The wide brown eyes in the mirror couldn't tell her. So she picked up the brush and began to arrange her hair.

Mechanically she turned the dial on the radio. Every room in the hotel had one, a little box that made part of a table.

She paid no heed to the program until she heard an announcer say: "Ladies and gentlemen of Radio-land, we have the pleasure this evening of listening to Miss Mary Banner, who is singing for you from the..."

Mary Banner. The accompanist played a few bars of music. Then a sweet, low voice began to sing. It was natural, plaintive, pleading. It did not lilt. It cried a little.

Judy listened in perplexity. The voice wasn't happy! Why, the girl should have exulted. She had Craig. What more did she ask of life?

She had been promoted, too. Here she was, doing a solo number, when bits had been her share before. Judy wondered from where Mary Banner was singing. The station signed off and she could not learn. She noticed the number on the dial. Tomorrow night she would tune in on this program early.

She gathered up her brief case that was part of the dinner frock, an evening bag that her mother had paid a ridiculous price to obtain for her as a Christmas present one year, gloves and a real lace handkerchief. She was ready before her telephone rang.

"You didn't run away," Ronald greeted her. "I was afraid you would."

"I never thought about it," she answered, the party mood fitting over her. She had felt that mood in the old days—felt it sliding over her shoulders, adjusting itself at the waist, just like a dress.

It had been a long time since she had worn it.

They took a taxicab far up the river where the water looked cold and gray in the autumn night. They swung across the slim steel bridge which carried them to the Jersey side where a famous night spot lifted its bright lights to the sky above the Palisades.

They laughed, talked, ate, applauded the floor show, and became old friends for the space of three hours.

Then Ronald severed the spell.

"Judy, I think you should tell Marjorie Barton where you live."

"You've talked about me to her?" Judy was on the defensive in an instant.

"No, but she has mentioned you to me. I know she is frightfully worried. I made no sign that I knew you. That night you telephoned her apartment—"

"Yes?" Judy breathed. So he knew about the night that Craig had answered the telephone.

"When you hung up, Craig Denby tried to get the station from which you made the call. I heard he did it, hours later, but it was a drug store so it meant nothing. I was there, you see, when the Denbys came."

The swing band was throwing music toward the sky, recklessly, brazenly, bewitchingly, and the moon shone through the windows of the club, shedding white light that was banished by the electrical blaze. For Judy the spell had ended. She was dining with Ronald Birrell, the red-headed young attorney who was the newest member of the famous law firm which had handled her father's business. That was all. She should not have come. Well, she had made a mistake. At least, she could thank him for a good dinner, and go home.

She stood up. "It was a lovely evening until now. No one we know has seen us. Suppose we pretend it didn't happen?"

He stood up, too. "I couldn't do that."

"Why not?"

"I want to remember it. And you."

They were in a cab, crossing the George Washington bridge, when he spoke again.

"I don't want to interfere but I think you should see Marjorie Barton. She's desperately worried."

"And then she will want me for a house party, and somebody else will have a week-end of shooting and hunting and after that there will be the Thanksgiving holidays on someone's estate, and I'll be a party girl—someone for whom everyone feels sorry and asks around. I can't repay them. I'll be a parasite. Remember, Ronald Birrell, you warned me of the dangers of my easy life!"

"You'll not be a parasite. I'm not afraid of that. But I think your friends have a right to know where you are. You are real. You won't go under."

"You believe that?" Judy asked.

"I'll tell you what I'll do. I won't tell Marjorie my address but I'll go to see her. Now—tonight."

Judy did give Marjorie her address. Listening to her genuine entreaties, realizing how much worry she had caused, Judy relented.

"After all, darling, it isn't fair to shoot off like a comet and leave us wondering if you landed on Mars or are holding on to the tail end of a meteor," Marjorie complained. "Work if you will."

"If I must," Judy corrected. "—but keep in touch with some of us."

Judy laughed and solemnly gave the name of her hotel. "It's second-rate and shabby but it's home at the moment."

Ronald excused himself and went out on the terrace. Marjorie spoke reproachfully. "He never made the slightest sign that he knew you! I think he was mean, but I suppose the implication is that the lad can be trusted. He's been squirreling Abbey Boling hither and yon of late."

"Abbey Boling?"

"No, you don't know her. She isn't in the Social Register. But she's capital personified. She has 87 new hats a season or something like it. And she's buying a count."

"Oh, that girl!"

"That's the way to talk! I saw Ronald at the theater with her the other night. The count's boat docks next week."

"She's phoney and Ronald is real. He couldn't like her," Judy insisted.

"Men are strange. Whoever thought Craig would like Mary? Or that Mary would leave Craig so soon?"

American Legion Backs Formation of Boys' Town in City

16 Boys Meet at Mayor's Office, Form Temporary 'Government'

Legion to Discuss Sponsoring of Group At Meeting Monday

This business of city government, well, Iowa City boys mean to understand it. They're not so sure of their elders do; in fact, they're pretty certain a lot of them do not.

So by next week at this time more than a hundred Iowa City boys—and probably a few girls too—will have started "boys town" functioning, complete with a permanent mayor (permanent for this school term at least), a city council, city clerk, police court and, most important, POLICEMEN.

At tomorrow night's meeting of the Roy L. Chopek post of the American Legion, Commander B. M. Ricketts will bring up the idea, with a view to the Legion post's sponsoring it.

Commander Ricketts assured yesterday's group of 16 boys who formulated some of the plans that the suggestion would be readily accepted by the American Legion.

Yesterday morning's formation group met in Mayor Myron J. Walker's office in the city hall, and Mayor Walker was there to answer questions about "parliamentary" rules for conducting a meeting.

Out of a list of five nominees yesterday, Noel Thoen, son of Dr. and Mrs. Erling Thoen, was named "acting mayor," and Bobby Blue was selected as acting secretary.

The boys present signed a pledge yesterday morning, one that all members of the "Legion City" will sign.

"We hereby pledge ourselves to support the constitution of the United States, the constitution of the state of Iowa, and further bind ourselves to obey the laws of the United States, the state of Iowa and the city of Iowa City and such laws as may be enacted by this organization to the end that we may in the future be better citizens of our country, state and city."

Boys decided yesterday that they'll need some policemen to enforce the ordinances that the council will pass. (Some of the ordinances will probably be sent to the regular city council, along with a few suggestions for adult legislation, perhaps.)

That's why the boys are looking for older fellows—the age limit has been set at 17. They want the biggest, huskiest boy for the police chief.

Chicagoan Visits University Radio Station's Studios

Don Milone, head of the sound department of NBC's Chicago studios, was a visitor at the studios of radio station WSUI Friday.

Mr. Milone is associated in Chicago with Robert Graham of Iowa City, who left the university last December to accept a position in the sound department of NBC's studios in Chicago.

Milone received a B. A. degree from Notre Dame and a Juris Doctor degree from De Pauw university. Graham graduated from the University of Iowa in 1937.
