Here's the Dope on the Iowa-U.C.L.A. Game

(Note: The following highlights of the Iowa-U. C. L. A. game were sent by John Mooney, Daily Iowan editor, direct from the Los Angeles stadium. Mooney flew to California Wednesday evening on a United Mailliner to cover the game. You'll find his story of the Alabama-Southern California game on the sports page today.)

Particular point are a little hazy, but all were agreed that had Kinnick held the ball, it would have been a touchback and the Hawks wouldn't have lost that first score.

The Bruins' famed passing attack did little damage to the Iowans. Iowa completed four passes to the Bruins' one or two.

Aside from a few bruises, the Iowans were in good shape after a night's rest. Russell Busk, reserve quarterback, was given treatment for an injured right leg last night, but he was scarcely limping today.

It won't be long Now

WED rather hoped the cloud would pass in Europe and that war wouldn't come along, but we've lost courage this morning. There's little hope but that soon after Oct. 1 the nations of Europe will be killing and destroying.

And, considering these words from Washington—"The crisis in Europe is providing the impetus for a quietly efficient American militarization program the like of which has not been seen since 1917"—we don't doubt that we'll be in it before long. Maybe one of the ships of Standard Oil will be sunk or one of our cruising bombers struck by an enemy submarine.

We don't know just how it will happen, but we're rather certain it will.

And when it does, logic will be lost in hate and the facts burned in emotion. And perhaps half a century from now bespectacled historians will be able to tell the world how and why it happened.

When the time arrives, we think several facts will be authenticated:

(1) That the Chamberlain policy of "realism" toward dictatorship, probably well meant in its fundamentals, encouraged the power drunkenness of Germany's Fuehrer.

(2) That the premier of France, a second-rate follower of the Chamberlain lead, helped provoke the conflict by his own country's complete lack of policy toward the Hitler ambitions — at least until it was too late.

(3) That internationally as well as nationally, eternal vigilance is the price of liberty, meaning that those "absolute pacifists" of England and France and, yes, the United States who believe that each country can stand smug in its own safety probably do the cause of peace more harm than any other single group.

Hitler and Mussolini as well could have been stopped before they began—had the democracies of the world stood firmly by their beliefs and protection of the world's weaklings.

(4) That statesmen, not bargainers, are the world's only hope of permanent peace. We're thinking here particularly of the men who, at the end of the World war, were out to punish the German nation because it was over-ambitious. Until a year ago it was generally accepted fact, then, that Germany had won the war; but if her dictator succeeds in his present ambitions, that assumption probably will be false.

(5) And that in nations, as in people, strength is better than weakness—when it is applied in the right channels.

Those are merely random observations; they may be wrong. Maybe wars are essentials anyway. Maybe it's a good thing to go back every quarter century and start rebuilding the world. Maybe civilization should never have started. Maybe we'd be better off if all of us were still hanging from trees by our tails.

Maybe—aw, nuts, this is what comes from reading too many headlines about the state of Europe today. Maybe we shouldn't worry. Maybe it'll come out all right—maybe.

Official scorekeepers in the American league are glad the season is almost ended. The Cleveland team the other day took a recruit named Mlekovsky.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — All I know about Gunga Din is what Kipling told me. He's a better man than I am, or something like that—and he goes on for several verses. If you feel the same way, you'll be as happy as I am to realize that RKO is spending about $1,250,000 to expand and elaborate on Kipling's hero.

It's taking time, but George Stevens ought to have a real and thunderous adventure yarn when he winds it all up soon. Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur did the first screen play, (and will be billed first for the writing.) and Joel Sayre and Fred Guiol (to be billed second) did the one they're using in the main. Guiol, who was a Hal Roach director of pie-hurling when George Stevens was cutting his movie teeth on a Roach camera, is working with a second unit to speed up production.

Stevens works with the principals—Victor McLaglen, Cary Grant, Doug Fairbanks Jr., Sam Jaffe and Joan Fontaine—while Guiol directs "connecting scenes" with mobs and lesser players.

Sam Jaffe, the stage actor who played the Grand Lama in the movie "Lost Horizon," plays the title role. Gunga Din (you're supposed to say it Goong-a-Deen) was a little Hindu water-carrier, or bhisti, who served the British army, refused to testify against soldier comrades in a court martial, and in consequence was kicked out on his diaper. But Queen Victoria is supposed to have investigated, found the little fellow quite a hero, awarded him her Cross, and feted him regally on his visit to London. His name wasn't really Gunga Din, and he's a legendary figure by now.

On account of him, RKO sent its forces for seven sweltering weeks to location at Lone Pine, which is in the High Sierras—the "high" referring, in July and August, to the temperatures which went up to 114 degrees some days. They sent along, besides the stars, all the 34 authentic Hindus hereabouts who hold Screen Actors Guild cards, plus Mexicans, Hawaiians, Filipinos and Arabians who could wear sheets and turbans and make-up and thus simulate Hindus.

The story they've woven around the little bhisti has for heavier the thugs (you're supposed to say it tugs although our English word hails from it). The thugs were organized, secret religious assassins who still flourished in India in the period of the story, 1885 or '90, and raised merry Ned with Her Majesty's loyal troops. These pleasant people, posing as pilgrims or travelers, enjoyed nothing better than a nice strangling party, so you can imagine what happens when McLaglen et al set out to cure them of their evil ways.

Sam Jaffe, the slight but great Broadway actor, was second choice for the title role. RKO first wanted Sabu, the "Elephant Boy" and more recently to be seen in "Drums." But Sabu is contracted to Alexander Korda, who had his own idea about terms.

To RKO's ultimate offer, Korda cabled that he would accept. He would be glad to let RKO have Sabu for that price—plus the loan of Ginger Rogers.

Sam Jaffe is playing Gunga Din—and I for one think the picture will be the better for it.

Texas Imports Quail AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—To make hunting better, Texas has contracted for 6,000 bobwhite quail and has an option to obtain 4,000 more this year for "planting" in depleted areas of the state. The quail will come from Mexico.

Health Hints By Logan Clendening, M. D.

I am starting this week a series of articles taking up the health and disorders of the body systematically. I shall treat in turn all the systems of the body—digestive, respiratory, circulatory, blood, bones, skin, nervous system. Anyone who wishes to save these articles will have a complete handbook, written in simple language, of physiology, hygiene and medical treatment.

From time to time, as important discoveries are announced, I will interrupt the series to discuss them, so that we can keep our medical science up-to-date.

Looking at the body as a whole, we can say that it is an organism designed to convert food and air into energy and into tissue. How the energy is expended, or what the body does with the tissue after it is formed, is not part of our concern as physiologists. That belongs to philosophy.

Since the body converts food into energy we should begin with the system which prepares the food for that conversion—the digestive system.

It is a remarkable machine—the digestive system which changes food mechanically and chemically into a suitable form.

TUNING IN

By Loren Hickerson

FALL RADIO SHOWS seem to be never ending.

"Ask-it-Basket" is the latest question-and-answer brain child... will it never end? It starts Oct. 5, and Jim McWilliams, host of the new show, is reported as the original question and answer man.

Personally, I could do with several frozen less "question and answer" shows on the air.

Dave Elman's "Hobby Lobby" leaves the air tonight, and Jack Benny moves into the spot next week. The final "Hobby Lobby" will be heard at 9:30, while Benny's broadcast will air at 6 o'clock each Sunday.

In order to finish things off in a big way, Elman will present two master minds tonight — George Platt, who teaches roosters to roller skate, and Rube Goldberg. Another brainy hobbiest will appear... she teaches young ladies to blush... I'll take vanilla!

The same gang will be back with Benny — Mary Livingstone, Andy Devine, tenor Kenny Baker and Phil Harris and his orchestra.

Don't forget that daylight time is off again, and your favorite shows tune in an hour later than during the summer.

HORACE HEIDT'S broadcast tonight comes from Omaha, where he'll present Father Flanagan's boys' choir for the first time on the air. In passing, "Boys' Town" has made Father Flanagan and the boys famous throughout America and continues to break box office records.

ZAZU PITTS will be the first guest star (where have I heard that before) on Tommy Riggs and Betty-Lou's new variety show which appears for the first time next Saturday at 7 o'clock.

(P. S. I thought Betty Lou was pretty bad at times, but I heard "Baby Snooks" Brice the other night.)

HARRY VON ZELL has resigned for the announcing on "Town Hall Tonight" and "We, the People." "Town Hall" will be back Oct. 5, and "We, the People" begins once more next Tuesday.

Von Zell is more than just an announcer, by the way: He's Allen's chief stooge and heckler, and has an important part in the Mighty Allen Art Player productions.

Can't Discriminate Against Uniformed Men LONG BEACH, Cal. (AP)—Barring a man in naval uniform from a dance can be a serious business here.

The municipal court has issued warrants for the arrest of two dance hall operators who are accused of telling sailors to go home and get into civilian clothes. The charge: discrimination.

The mechanical change is brought about first by the teeth, partly by the tongue and partly by the churning movements of the stomach and intestine.

Washington World

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The dominating primaries being out of the way, the congressional campaign now narrows down to a fight between democrats and republicans for senatorial, representative and gubernatorial victories in November. National interest centers on the senators.

He left it in the smoking car of a train that pulled out of the Chambers street station at 5:40 p.m. and your correspondent, alertly grasping the situation, ran after him to no avail. So the case reposed for a while in our possession and it is a fascinating repository of the most stimulating and intriguing literary bric-a-brac you are likely to encounter in a month of commuting from Manhattan.

It contains, among other things, a most interesting assortment of biographical data on celebrities, voluminous notes set down in longhand which are somewhat hard to read (he writes almost as badly as I do) and a sheaf of articles torn from such publications as the Saturday Evening Post, Ken, and Collier's.

There was, for instance, a newspaper account of the now celebrated brawl between Ernest Hemingway and Max Eastman, two authors whose opinions of one another and a difference in political convictions led to a most exciting impasse in a publisher's office last season. With this was a copy of that rather breezy appraisal of the late O. O. McIntyre published in a national weekly shortly before the Man from Gallipolis, Ohio, died. Also there was a dissertation on George S. Kaufman's amazing proclivities for making money on a street that has been aptly titled Rue Regret, meaning Broadway.

There were some two dozen telegrams, some of them vastly humorous and all read by your correspondent, and, lastly, there were character studies of three people, two men and a girl, probably intended for some work of fiction, for they were stationed on a rubber plantation in the tropics, and all lived happily together. It does not suggest a triangle. I must hasten to add, nor is it one of Noel Coward's little arrangements which he styles "Design for Living." Further than this I do not feel authorized to go. The man no doubt will reclaim his property, and he might resent my giving away his plot if he decides to complete his story.

I suppose I should experience some winge of conscience for prying into this gentleman's papers. (I had to find the owner's name, you know.) But the only emotion that stirs me is a mingled one of excitement and interest. Having this case in possession imposed no hardship, but, as temporary guardian, so to speak, I felt justified in perusing each paper to the fullest, and I may as well add that I enjoyed every minute of it. Indeed, I was keenly disappointed when I came to the end, as one is always disappointed when a good book comes to an end.

Most of the articles I had previously read. But after they are returned, I suppose I shall be condemned to months, maybe years, of peering into magazines looking for three characters on a rubber plantation—two men and a woman, in the strangest predicament you can imagine. It's a swell idea, and I hope it clicks.

I certainly have enjoyed the preview.

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—If the party who left a large brief-case, crammed with manuscript clippings and notes, on an Erie commuters train last night will communicate with this department I'll explain where he may get it back.

He left it in the smoking car of a train that pulled out of the Chambers street station at 5:40 p.m. and your correspondent, alertly grasping the situation, ran after him to no avail. So the case reposed for a while in our possession and it is a fascinating repository of the most stimulating and intriguing literary bric-a-brac you are likely to encounter in a month of commuting from Manhattan.

It contains, among other things, a most interesting assortment of biographical data on celebrities, voluminous notes set down in longhand which are somewhat hard to read (he writes almost as badly as I do) and a sheaf of articles torn from such publications as the Saturday Evening Post, Ken, and Collier's.

There was, for instance, a newspaper account of the now celebrated brawl between Ernest Hemingway and Max Eastman, two authors whose opinions of one another and a difference in political convictions led to a most exciting impasse in a publisher's office last season. With this was a copy of that rather breezy appraisal of the late O. O. McIntyre published in a national weekly shortly before the Man from Gallipolis, Ohio, died. Also there was a dissertation on George S. Kaufman's amazing proclivities for making money on a street that has been aptly titled Rue Regret, meaning Broadway.

There were some two dozen telegrams, some of them vastly humorous and all read by your correspondent, and, lastly, there were character studies of three people, two men and a girl, probably intended for some work of fiction, for they were stationed on a rubber plantation in the tropics, and all lived happily together. It does not suggest a triangle. I must hasten to add, nor is it one of Noel Coward's little arrangements which he styles "Design for Living." Further than this I do not feel authorized to go. The man no doubt will reclaim his property, and he might resent my giving away his plot if he decides to complete his story.

I suppose I should experience some winge of conscience for prying into this gentleman's papers. (I had to find the owner's name, you know.) But the only emotion that stirs me is a mingled one of excitement and interest. Having this case in possession imposed no hardship, but, as temporary guardian, so to speak, I felt justified in perusing each paper to the fullest, and I may as well add that I enjoyed every minute of it. Indeed, I was keenly disappointed when I came to the end, as one is always disappointed when a good book comes to an end.

Most of the articles I had previously read. But after they are returned, I suppose I shall be condemned to months, maybe years, of peering into magazines looking for three characters on a rubber plantation—two men and a woman, in the strangest predicament you can imagine. It's a swell idea, and I hope it clicks.

I certainly have enjoyed the preview.

When you're thinking that this is a pretty dull world and nothing ever happens, don't be too sure! Walter Good, G of Kalamazoo, Mich., who likes to fly model airplanes as a hobby, suddenly found himself the winner of an air trip from Michigan to California and back again. It happened at the national junior air races in Akron, where Walter's plane made a world's record. The next moment, almost, the University of Iowa student found himself talking to Dorothy Lamour, famous film star as the above picture testifies. . .

A Surprise Trip Ends—

Here Walter (left) is being congratulated by Captain Gurney, United Airlines official, as he steps from the plane that brought him to Burbank, Cal., at the expense of Scripps-Howard newspapers, who sponsored the national junior air races in which his model plane set a new world's record for flying. On the right is Bud Chapman, who flew to Akron, Ohio, to accompany the young graduate assistant of the University of Iowa physics department to Hollywood, where he was the guest of Paramount pictures.

Yes, It's Fred MacMurray

When Walter visited Hollywood after setting a new world-record time mark in model airplane flying, he visited the stars too. Here, Walter is shown with Fred MacMurray and Bud Chapman (right) of Southern California, another youthful "flyer." MacMurray, who will star in Paramount's forthcoming technical "Men With Wings," had a great time with the two boys in his underground rifle range beneath his California home.

Model Builder Hob-Nobs With Movie Stars

Iowa Faculty Member Won Trip After National Junior Air Races

Walter Good, 117 N. Van Buren street, came back to the university of Iowa last week end, after a summer which ended with a surprise trip to Hollywood; a summer which earned for him a world's record in one of the most unique fields of combined science and sport—model airplane flying.

Only 22 years old, Walter holds a graduate assistantship in the physics department. His twin brother, Bill, holds a similar position in the physics department at the University of Illinois. The two brothers cooperate in the airplane ventures, Bill handling the radio phases of the work.

A product of Kalamazoo, Mich., Walter has tinkered more or less constantly with model airplanes since 1927, but it was only this summer that he got the chance to hob-nob with several of Hollywood's top bracket stars as a result of his hobby.

It all began with a contest for model airplanes, followed by another contest, Walter has competed in six during the summer. But the one which brought him his world's record, and the one which led to his unexpected United Airlines trip to Hollywood, was the final one of the six—the national junior air races in Akron, Ohio.

This business of flying model airplanes is the business of a scientist. Earlier this summer, Walter won the national championship for the radio-controlled model at the national model airplane contest held at Detroit.

His radio-controlled model plane is powered with a small gasoline engine and has a wing spread of eight feet. It carries two midjet radio receivers and the maneuvers of the model in the air may be controlled by the operator on the ground.

The fun really began Sept. 2—the final day of the Akron junior races. After three days of varied flying in some 10 divisions, Walter's plane made a 24-minute, world record-breaking flight for gasoline-engined model planes.

Ironically enough, the record breaking flight followed a disqualified flight of more than an hour which saw his plane travel 23 miles from Akron to Canton, soaring on one air current after another, where it landed unceremoniously in a garden.

The rules require the gasoline motor which launches the plane to be cut off after 30 seconds, allowing the plane to glide only on billowing air. The motor's running seconds over the time limit spoiled the original attempt.

Following the record flight, a gentleman approached Walter, offered congratulations and asked about arrangements for a flight to Hollywood.

By LOREN HICKERSON

Until that moment, Walter had not known that besides the cash prizes, the winner of the national contest was the winner of a trip to the world's motion picture capitol.

The gentleman was Edward Churchill, one of Paramount studio's publicity directors, and the man in charge of publicity for Paramount's newest technical film, "Men With Wings," starring Fred MacMurray, Ray Milland and the new Louise Campbell.

Then Walter was introduced to Bud Chapman, a lad of 16 who had won the Southern California model plane contest, with an airplane trip to Akron, where he was to meet the winner of the national contest and accompany him back to Hollywood at the expense of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, sponsors of the national meet.

Things happened very quickly. The trio went first to Cleveland, where they attended the national air races; then, at 3 a.m. Sept.

6, they took off for Burbank airport, California.

The next week was one 99 per cent of the population of the United States doesn't even bother to dream about. He became the guest of Paramount studios and watched the motion picture business in action. He visited in the MacMurray home, dined with Reginald Denny, watched Dorothy Lamour at work on the set of "St. Louis Blues," and just missed a Charlie McCarthy radio broadcast because he was busy looking over the United States navy's "Saratoga," giant airplane carrier.

With a studio car at his disposal, Walter, accompanied by young Chapman, saw myriads of the sights Paramount studios can offer. He met and talked with such stars as Gail Patrick, Wallace Beery, Lloyd Nolan.

The return trip, via Salt Lake City and Chicago, landed him in home town Kalamazoo Sept. 13. Last Saturday he came to Iowa City.

An enthusiastic "aviator" through and through, what Walter would like to know is whether there's anybody around to discuss model airplanes with him!

4,600 Owners in This County To Share Homestead Credits

About 4,600 owners of homesteads in Johnson county will be sharing in the homestead credits on the second half of the real estate property tax, it was announced yesterday. Nearly 2,400 Iowa City residents are members of this group.

State officials announced yesterday in Des Moines that homestead tax allocations for the latter half of this year for Johnson county amount to $94,950. The Johnson county allocation for the first half was slightly over $92,000.

To receive homestead credits the applicant must own and live on his homestead in Johnson county. Credits are based on a 25 mill rate and are allowed on valuations as high as $2,500. The highest amount of credit any homestead owner may receive is $62.50 or 25 mills of $2,500.

Persons with property whose valuations exceed $2,500 receive the full credit on the first $2,500 and remit the regular tax rate on the remainder.

Taxpayers of Johnson county who have been paying their bills for the latter half at the county treasurer's office and who are eligible for homestead tax credits have been receiving credits in the form of deductions from their tax bills.

The Johnson county treasurer is expecting a check tomorrow for $94,950 in reimbursement for credits allowed on the tax bills of the some 4,600 taxpayers.

Legion City Has 50 Members

Organization Articles Passed

Committee to Ask Sponsors' Approval Of Proposed Plan

Articles of organization for "The Legion City" were adopted yesterday by the 50 Iowa City school boys and girls who have signed membership pledges in the organization at meetings in the city council chambers.

The acting mayor of "The Legion City," Noel Thoen, delegated Bruce Knowles, Leo Cortimiglia and Dorothy Gilpin as a committee to present the proposed articles to the American Legion organization which is aiding the organization of the youth group.

The desire to learn more of the functions of the existing local government and the development of good citizens are the purposes of the creation of "The Legion City," according to the preamble to the articles.

Pupils Eligible
Qualifications for membership in the city, set out in article 2, are that any pupil attending any school within the city limits of Iowa City who has not reached the age of 18 is eligible for citizenship in the city and may become a registered voter by signing the membership pledge.

To correspond with the Iowa City government, each school will form a unit similar to the wards in Iowa City. These units will be the smallest political division in "The Legion City."

At elections which will be held the first week in October and again in February, the voters of the youth group will select a mayor and a legislative unit consisting of an alderman from each school.

Appoint Officers
The mayor and the council will appoint a police judge, city clerk, chief of police, police force, city solicitor and city defense attorney.

The police judge will hear all cases in which a violation of "The Legion City" laws is charged. The city solicitor will prosecute these cases and the city defense attorney will represent the accused.

Be sure to keep a package of all-bran in the family pantry, for it can be utilized in so many different ways.

For instance, when you're making candy, cake or cookies and you don't have a nutmeg in the house, don't mind it at all. Just go to the cupboard and take down your package of all-bran. Add the desired quantity, and notice how the crunchy bits add a crisp note and nutty flavor to your dish.

Other recipes including bran in the ingredients following:

- Trilbys
3-4 cup fat
1 cup brown sugar
2 cups all-bran
1-2 cup sour milk or buttermilk
2 1-2 cups flour
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-2 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder

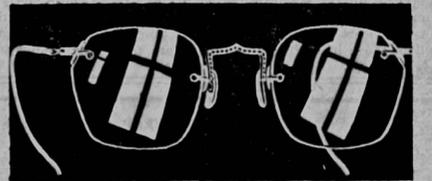

Cream fat and sugar thoroughly; add egg and beat well. Stir in all-bran, orange rind, orange juice and milk. Sift flour with baking powder, salt and soda; add to first mixture and stir until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 30 minutes.

Budge Defeats Pal, Gene Mako, in National Tennis Finals

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 24 (AP)—Donald Budge, making probably his farewell appearance in the big stadium here, scored a light-hearted victory over his old pal Gene Mako in the final of the national tennis championships today. The scores were 6-3, 6-8, 6-2, 6-1.

The triumph, which was never in doubt, completed the redhead's sweep of the world's major tournaments this season—the Australian, French, British and American. This record has not been approached before.

Another California star, Alice Marble, joined Budge as a two-time champion here as she overwhelmed Nancy Wynne of Australia, 6-0, 6-3, in an unexciting women's final. Miss Marble, winner also in 1936, completely outclassed the tall visitor, who was so nervous she could not control the simplest strokes.

The men's final was something of an anti-climax for the crowd of 14,000. Mako realized he didn't have a chance of beating the super-player who has been his doubles partner since their school days, and so did the crowd after the first few games. Gene just did the best he could, and that was remarkably good at times.

The lone thrill came when Mako captured the second set, 8-6. He played some brilliant tennis to do it. Skeptics whispered that Budge merely demonstrated his affection in losing the set, but it didn't look that way.

For the most part Budge was a dream of a player. His service almost stood Mako on his head, and his blazing drives always sought the lines. Budge was so good, in fact, that he was able to make 18 more errors than his steady opponent and still win.

Moore and Buhler Lead Avalanche To Win Over Huskies

By JAY VESSELS
MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 24 (AP)—Minnesota's Golden Gophers hurled another sharp challenge to the football world today, defeating the Washington Huskies, 15 to 0, before 50,000 persons in a game closely fought for the first half only.

The Gophers had a bad scare in the opening period and missed a great chance for scoring in the next quarter. Finally with a minute of the first half play remaining a field goal sent Coach Bernie Bierman's outfit into a lead which they augmented by touchdowns in each of the last two periods.

When the mighty golden clad squad got going they were unstoppable. They broke up Washington's aerial game, stopped its fleet backs and blocked one kick that led to the final score.

Pass interceptions paved the way for the first score, a field goal by Quarterback George Faust, and brought the first touchdown when Tackle Bob Johnson snatched Halfback Jimmy Johnston's short forward and raced 85 yards to count.

Winning decisively, the Gophers flashed a cagey crew of ball hawks who recovered two costly Washington fumbles and speared the Huskies' passes with deadly consistency.

They presented a spectacular backfield star in Wilbur Moore whose hard running included dashes of 31, 16, 12 and 10 yards. He grabbed a Washington pass in the second period to set up the successful field goal bid.

Fullback Larry Buhler pressed Moore for honors, running 30 yards on one tackle drive and then singlehandedly blasting through to the second touchdown by slashing 15 yards to the Washington seven and then charging over two plays later.

The turning point of the game came late in the third period after Washington finally got its attack functioning and used a forward, a lateral and terrific line smashes to rush to the Minnesota 23 where it was a first down.

On the first play, Jimmy Johnston shot a forward diagonally across the line of scrimmage. Tackle Bob Johnson, who had just come into the game and had not yet been slowed up by the hot weather, leaped high, speared the pigskin and thundered up the field.

First one Husky player and then another was cut down as Johnson headed straight for the pay off counter. Finally, only Jimmy Johnston had to be beaten and John Mariucci, stocky end, dumped him with a perfect block on the 10 yard line. This made it 9 to 0. Johnson, the hero, later was hurt and left the game.

Ohio U. Trips Illini, 6 to 0

Costly Fumble In Third Period Leads To Stunning Upset

URBANA, Ill., Sept. 24 (AP)—A one-time pupil taught the old master at Memorial stadium today when a smartly coached Ohio University eleven upset the favored University of Illinois, 6 to 0, before 20,000 spectators.

Don Peden, a great football player for Robert Zuppke almost two decades ago, led his charges back to the Illinois campus and saw John Montgomery, his 145-pound senior quarterback from Bellefontaine, Ohio, spark a sturdy defensive team to a fine victory.

Montgomery was the punter, passer, runner and defensive star for the Ohioans.

Montgomery's pass to James Snyder, right halfback, permitted the Ohio team to snatch its precious six points shortly after the second half started. An Illinois fumble was recovered by an Ohio lineman, W. Parker, and Montgomery took careful aim and fired a 10-yard pass to Snyder who ran 15 yards for the only touchdown.

Montgomery missed the try for point.

The desperate Illini tried again and again at the stubborn Ohio line, ran the ends and hurled passes to all corners of the field, but Ohio turned back threat after threat, finally halting Illinois on the eight-yard line.

The Ohio only first down came as a result of an Illinois penalty. The Illini gained 205 yards and Ohio gained 59.

COLISEUM, LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 24—A modern Ulysses, Herky Mosley, wheeling Alabama's wooden horse against the House of Troy today routed the defenders, sacked the citadel and left the city with a 19 to 7 victory.

For the Trojans, the one bright spot of the day came late in the final period when Charlie Boswell juggled a punt, dropped it, and Howard Stoeker, Mason City, Ia., tackle, fell on it for a first and goal on the one yard line. On the next play of the game Oliver Day plunged over center for the only Trojan touchdown. Gaspar kicked the extra point.

For the invaders, it was all Herky Mosley. Herky passed and kicked with the best of them and was the spark plug of the attack. He was directly responsible for two of three Alabama markers, tossing touchdown passes to Slemmons and Blackwell. The other marker came in the fourth quarter when Hughes leaped high in the air to intercept Day's pass and race the 20 yards for the score.

As for the Trojans, they were weak in the kicking and passing departments and the line was outchained and out-fought by the powerful boys from 'Bama.

A crowd of 65,000 witnessed the season's opener for the two teams.

Jayhawks Eke Narrow Triumph Over Longhorns

THE LINEUPS

LAWRENCE, Kan., Sept. 24 (AP)—The University of Texas Longhorns spotted the University of Kansas Jayhawks 19 points in a torrid football game here today, then were robbed of a tie by a placekick that zoomed outside the uprights in the final 45 seconds of play. The score was Kansas 19; Texas 18.

Ten thousand spectators were treated to every variety of passing, running and kicking.

The Jayhawks, with Sophomore Ralph Miller and Veteran Max Replogle, unleashed an offense strange to Kansas teams and piled 12 points in the first period and seven in the second to take a 19 to 0 halftime lead.

Then it was the Texans' turn, and with sturdy Beefus Bryan and supercharger Wallace Lawson alternating, Coach Dana X. Bible's pupils uncorked a dazzling array of shovel passes, long forwards, laterals, and running plays to score once in the third and twice in the final quarter.

Bears Hard Pressed To Beat Gaels

BERKELEY, Cal., Sept. 24 (AP)—Beaten and befuddled for three periods, University of California's coast conference and Rose Bowl champions of a year ago opened their 1938 football campaign today with a smashing 12-7 victory over the St. Mary's Gaels.

More than 50,000 fans saw the Bears come from behind with two power drives in the final quarter and turn apparent defeat into a thrill-filled victory.

The Gaels dominated the play for most of the first three periods, went into a 7-0 lead a few minutes after the second period opened and missed two field goals tries.

Until the last minute of play, the result was in doubt, the Bears trailing by a point. At this stage of the contest a poor punt, with the ball slithering off the foot of Jerry Dowd, Gael captain and center, set the stage for the winning touchdown.

California put the ball in play on its own 45-yard marker. Straight power thrusts, after fake spins, with Halfbacks Vic Bottani and Louis Smith and Fullback Dave Anderson alternating at packing the ball, brought the Bears down the field without a halt.

Patty, Like the River, Rolls On

Caps Sub-Par Game by Capturing Crown; Mrs. Page Victim

CHICAGO, Sept. 24 (AP)—De-termined little Patty Berg won the Women's National Golf championship today — and a place among the sport's all-time greats. Climaxing the most amazing burst of sub-par golf the 42-year-old tournament ever has witnessed, the Minnesota marvel captured her first national crown by overwhelming the defending champion, Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill, N. C., 6 and 5.

Revenge
Just a year ago, Patty had bowed in the finals to Mrs. Page, by a 7 and 6 margin. Today Miss Berg amply avenged that defeat. Going into the final match with a record of having played her last 42 holes in eight under par, Miss Berg uncorked a game which sent her into command during the morning round and made the match a rout which ended on the 31st green.

No Chance
The imperturbable Mrs. Page, herself holder of a brilliant five-year golf record, didn't have a chance against Miss Berg's amazing game today. All even after nine holes, the Minneapolis star won the 10th with a par four, led two up at 12, lost the 13th through a wild tee shot, then came back to go two up at the 14th and stubbornly hold that margin to the intermission point.

Miss Berg's putting gave her an edge during the first 18 holes. She had only 31 putts and no three-putt greens as Mrs. Page three-putted three greens and needed four on another. Straight Fours

In the afternoon, Miss Berg carded straight fours on the first eight holes, finishing the 27 with a lead of five holes. She picked up three birdies and was over par only once to four the out nine holes in 37, two under par. She won the 21st with a birdie, halved the next two, then won the 24th and 25th with a display of iron play and accuracy.

Six Up
After two halves, Miss Berg went six up at the 28th with a birdie three after dropping a 15-foot putt. She won the next hole as Mrs. Page needed four to reach the green, then lost the 30th as she put her second in a trap. Then the Minnesota ace matched Mrs. Page's birdie with one of her own, making a great chip shot to within four feet of the cup and dropping her putt to end the duel.

Starting with the last nine of her Wednesday afternoon match, Miss Berg compiled a record of 73 straight holes played in 11 under par, a performance ranked by tourney officials as the greatest scoring streak in the championship's history. She played the first round today in 40-39-79, even par, and was three under par for the final 13 holes. Mrs. Page was five over par for the distance.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 24 (AP)—Mountaineer hope of opening the 1938 football season with a staggering upset collapsed today as the rebuilt forces of Joek Sutherland's Pittsburgh Panthers crushed West Virginia, 19 to 0, before 35,000 spectators.

Picking up from where they left off last year as the national ranked No. 1 college team, the Panthers drove over touchdowns in the second, third and fourth periods without resorting to a single bit of third famed Scotch trickery. The Mountaineers were held to a total net gain of two first downs and 73 yards.

Sutherland's "dream backfield" of Marshal Goldberg, Hal Stebbins, Dick Cassiano and Johnny Chickeneo, failed to riddle the Mountaineer defense works at will but it was more than enough. Goldberg scored two of the touchdowns, bucking over each time from the two-yard stripe. The third Panther touchdown came in a freakish way as the ball squirted from Frank Goodell's arms on the goal line into those of Joe Rettinger, one of Sutherland's second stringers who played a fine game.

The Mountaineers were in a deep hole almost constantly from the opening kick-off to the finish. So strong was Pitt's defense for the first half that the Mountaineers' net gain was exactly zero. For half of the final period, Sutherland played a full sophomore team.

Purdue Beats Detroit, 19 to 6

Score Three Times In Last Half In Potent Assaults

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Sept. 24 (AP)—Purdue's Boilermakers suddenly came to life in the last half of their football inaugural with the University of Detroit in midsummer heat today and rushed across three touchdowns to win, 19 to 6, before 21,000 spectators.

A blazing sun that boosted the temperature to 82 degrees made it impossible for either team to keep the same eleven on the field more than a few minutes at a time.

After almost three quarters without a score, sudden offensive fireworks brought three touchdowns in less than seven minutes. Detroit seized a break on a Purdue fumble to push across the first, but Purdue came right back to tally twice in four minutes, one marker coming on a 58-yard run by Jack Brown of Indianapolis and the other on a 29 yard pass from Mike Byelene of Massillon, Ohio, to Jack Krause of Hammond, Ind.

Byelene, a sophomore, gave indications he may be the man to fill the shoes of Cecil Isbell, star of last year's Boilermakers.

The two teams were even on first downs but Purdue had a 293 to 154-yard advantage in ground gained.

'Wee' Davey Pitches 'Em

Little 'Thunderbolt' Leads Mates To Win Over Centenary

FORT WORTH, Sept. 24 (AP)—Wee Davey O'Brien, Texas Christian's 150-pound thunderbolt, pitched a couple of poisonous passes — one for 65 yards, the other for 47 — that buried Centenary's Gents, 13-0, in the southwest's top curtain-raiser today.

Handcuffed by a strapping Centenary line that wouldn't budge in the clinches, it took O'Brien's aerial wizardry to hit pay dirt.

Early Attack
The little fellow started his barrage 10 minutes after the kick-off before a crowd of 10,000. The Christians scored on a third down heave that O'Brien sailed 32 yards before rangy Don Looney, end, speared it on the Centenary 36.

On the Way
Only Weenie Bynum, the Gents' courageous halfback, stood between Looney and a touchdown and he sidestepped the Gent with a dead stop and shuffle that left him in the clear. O'Brien booted the extra point. O'Brien booted the extra point. Midway of the second period O'Brien sent a "clothesline" heave to Johnny Hall that the halfback bagged 47 yards away on the Centenary three-yard line.

Tough Line
Connie Sparks, 200-pound sophomore fullback, burrowed through the line for the score. O'Brien's attempt at conversion failed.

No farther than Texas Christian's 40-yard line did Centenary travel against the invincible horned frog line led by the roving Ki Aldrich.

The Christians found the going tough through the Gent line and had to complete 13 of 26 passes for 259 yards in aerial gains to move around. Only 91 yards were picked up on the ground.

Gabby Homers To Pace Mates In 9 to 3 Win

Victory Is 15th In Last 18 Starts For Chicago Club

CHICAGO, Sept. 24 (AP)—Chicago's Cubs continued their furious stretch pursuit of Pittsburgh's National league leaders today by routing the St. Louis Cardinals, 9-3.

Victory, the Cubs' 15th in their last 18 complete games, enabled them to remain two games behind the Pirates who defeated Cincinnati.

Chicago started blasting away early and wound up with 15 hits, including Gabby Hartnett's eighth homer, as the Cards paraded four pitchers to the mound. Lonnie Warneke, St. Louis starting hurler, lasted until the fifth when Stan Hack's single, triples by Billy Herman and Carl Reynolds, and Hartnett's homer accounted for four runs.

Herman also collected three singles and was the chief explosive in the Cub barrage of hits. Johnny Mize, with a perfect day of four singles, led the futile St. Louis reprisal of 11 hits.

The Cards scored their only runs in the sixth. Vance Page, making his first start since spraining his foot Sept. 7, complained of the injury and after singles by Stu Marlin, Joe Medwick and Mize, was replaced by Larry French. Mickey Owen batted for Don Padgett and crashed out a two-run triple. Charley Root immediately replaced French and checked the Cards the rest of the way.

Page was credited with the win, his fifth since coming to the Cubs from Indianapolis last month.

Beavers Trapped
CORVALLIS, Ore., (AP)—Withstanding a threatening Oregon State drive in the first quarter, Idaho defeated the Beavers here yesterday, 13 to 0, by engineering two touchdowns in the last half. The game did not affect the Beaver's coast conference standing.

Metz Leads Field in First Day's Play of Open Tourney

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 24 (AP)—Dick Metz, forced to play second fiddle to Ralph Guldahl in the U. S. open championship, played a full symphony over the Penway golf club's back nine today for a three-under-par 67 that gave him the lead at the end of the first round of the 108-hole, $13,500 Westchester open golf tournament.

Rolling over what most of the contestants considered the toughest half of the course in 32, the good-looking pro from Lake Forest, Ill., gained a two-stroke lead over a field that includes practically all the big names in professional golf and few crack amateurs.

Tied for second place at 69 were Paul Runyan, P. G. A. champion from the near-by metropolitan club; Billy Burke, of Cleveland, U. S. open champion in 1931, and lanky Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J. Yesterday, when 80 second-rounders played their opening rounds, only 27 broke 80. Of today's 177 starters there were 119 with scores of 79 or better. Qualified for tomorrow's second 18 hole round were 164 players who shot 80 or better in the two sections of first-round competition. Yesterday three players led the way with 72's. Today, in addition to Metz, Runyan, Burke and Ghezzi two players posted par 70's, nine more had 71's, and 20 came in with 72's.

The par-shooters were Jug McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., and Leon Pettigrew of Flushing, N. Y. The 71's included Squire Gene Sarazen, Harry Cooper and Ed Dudley, and in the flock of 72's were Guldahl, Byron Nelson, Jimmy Thomson, Johnny Revolta, Wilkie Goggin and amateur Frank Strafaci.

A Formality Just a Few More Now Fellas

BROOKLYN, Sept. 24 (AP)—Lefty Vito Tamulis' tossed a six-hitter today and pitched the Dodgers to an 8 to 1 victory over the Phillies.

His mates backed him up with an 11-hit attack off Rookie Tom Lanning and the veteran Al Smith. A three-run outburst in the first inning, and another in the fourth were more than enough for the Dodgers to win. It was Tamulis' 11th victory of the year.

Johnny Hudson paced the Dodger attack with three singles, driving in one run and scoring two others.

Giants Take Third With Double Win

BOSTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—The New York Giants climbed into sole possession of third place in the National league today by sweeping a doubleheader from the Bees, 9 to 8, and 2 to 1.

They won each game in the ninth inning. In the opener, the Bees outburled the New Yorkers, five errors to three, and that was the margin of victory for the Giants, since Dick Erickson's misplay, sandwiched by singles by Alex Karpouris and George Myatt, sent the winning run across in the final chapter.

Corsairs Two Games Ahead; Beat Redlegs

Russ Bauers Allows Cincinnati But 6 Hits, Wins 4 to 1

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 24 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates preserved their slender two-game advantage in the National league pennant race proceedings today by whipping the Cincinnati Reds 4 to 1 behind Russ Bauers' sparkling six-hit pitching.

While the big scoreboard in left field carried an inning-by-inning report of Chicago's triumph over St. Louis, the Buccaners bore down heavily after singles by Billy Myers and Wally Berger and a fly into deep center by Ernie Lombardi.

Gus Suhr

bardi gave the visitors their only run in the first frame.

The Pirates pranced into the lead in the second inning with three runs, two of them charged directly to sloppy play and added the clincher in the eighth with another unearned marker.

Arky Vaughan started the trouble by drawing a base on balls off Johnny Vander Meer, went to second on Gus Suhr's single and moved on to third when Pepp Young forced Suhr. Lee Handley hit a handle hit to right and Lombardi dropped the throw at the plate permitting Vaughan to score. Al Todd singled in Young from second and he and Handley advanced to second and third on a passed ball, placing "the Jeep" in position to score on Bauer's long fly to left. The bases were filled again on a walk and an error before "Double No-Hit" Johnny got the Pirates out.

In the eighth with two out, Myers batted Lloyd Waner's brother, Brother Paul walked and Rizzo singled to give the Pirates their final run.

Cincinnati dropped back into fourth place as a result of the loss and New York's victory over the Boston Bees.

Boston Beats Champions, 7-6

Ruffing Loses 7th Game of Year; Loss Is 7th in 8 Starts

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 (AP)—Jimmy Foxx made the Yankees' homecoming to Yankee stadium an unpleasant one today. The slugging "double-x" connected with a 400-foot homer in the ninth inning—his 48th of the season—to give the Boston Red Sox a 7 to 6 victory over the pennant winners.

The blow broke a tie and handed Red Ruffing his seventh defeat of the year, compared to 21 victories. Jim Bagby, who relieved Joe Heving in the sixth and pitched two-hit shutout ball the rest of the way, was the winner.

The Sox collected 11 hits off Ruffing, but nine of them came in the first four innings, when the Bostonians tagged big Red for six runs. The Yanks came back in the middle frames, scoring two in the fourth on Bill Dickey's 27th homer of the season, and three in the fifth on four hits, including a triple by Ruffing and a double by Frank Crosetti.

The defeat was the Yanks' seventh in their last eight starts, one of the most dismal streaks the Bronx bombers have "enjoyed" since Joe McCarthy became their manager back in 1931.

Badgers In Lengthy Drill

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 24 (AP)—Coach Harry Stuhldreher sent his University of Wisconsin football team through two hours of offensive scrimmage against the freshmen and the varsity ran bog-wild, smashing over 19 touchdowns, and 11 conversions.

Tigers Claw Indians, 7-6

DETROIT, Sept. 24 (AP)—Mel Harder's index finger went numb after he held the Detroit Tigers in check for six innings today, and the Tigers hammered his successors for six runs in a 7 to 6 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

With the Indians leading 6 to 1, Harder walked George Tebbets and threw three balls to Mark Christman in the Detroit seventh before he complained of the numbness and left the game. Al Milnar replaced him and allowed two walks and a pinch single by Roy Cullenbine. Then Willis Hudlin came in, to be greeted by Chet Laabs' double and Charlie Gehring's 19th home run of the season which sent Detroit into the lead.

Rhode Island's Really Such a Small State, Too

The Wandering Vales Have Been in Every Other State in Their 122,000 Miles of Travel

Thousands of hills in 47 states must have been rather astonished to find six wandering Vales at their feet during the past nine years. Meandering over 122,000 miles of territory during the past nine years, the seemingly never-stay-puts at least have come to rest in Iowa City—for the time being. (Meaning until Monday.)

The Vales are Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Vale and their children, Dixie Jean, 7; Richard Francis, 5; Betty Lou, 3½, and William, 2. In a home built trailer they have visited every state in the union except Rhode Island.

Even within Iowa City, the nomads refuse to stay put. Today they visited several parking places but have yet to find one they like. They will remain in Iowa City until Monday, however, they say.

Said to be the world's largest and best equipped trailer, their "home" is 29 feet long and contains all the modern electrical gadgets, from lights to waffle irons, electric fans and a radio. Electrical power is supplied by a one and a half horse-power gasoline motor driving a 110-volt, 1,000-watt generator.

Equipment includes a full-sized gasoline range which keeps their automatic hot water supply system ever ready for use. The system can be attached either to the city supply or can operate upon its own reserve, sufficient for several days' use by the entire family, including Saturday night baths.

The two younger children were born in the trailer and the older pair at hospitals in cities where the family happened to be. Only the eldest has ever had the measles or the whooping cough. Their education is supervised by their mother.

In the way of entertainment, the Vales never tire of sightseeing. Originally from Springfield, Mo., they say they have no intention of settling down. Why should they? Besides the kitchen equipment, the trailer includes a compartment in which the head of the family keeps power tools, a simplified chemical outfit, radio testers and tools and a pair of experimental radio sets.

There is plenty of room. Mr. and Mrs. Vale have a full-sized bed; the children use a double-deck sanitary cot. Even the family black cat has its place.

The children have all the usual tricycles, wagons and paraphernalia any normal child accumulates. And on wash day they cause no more trouble than the usual kids, while mother is busy with the full-sized electric washer.

But the trailer does not quite satisfy Mr. Vale as yet. Next year, he says, he's going to tear it down and build a bigger and better one — 40 feet long!

Above are pictured Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Vale and their children, Dixie Jean, 7; Richard Francis, 5; Betty Lou, 3 1-2, and William, 2. Stopping in Iowa City until Monday in what is said to be the world's largest and best equipped trailer, the Vales plan to continue their travels over the nation, which has already taken them more than 122,000 miles. Originally hailing from Springfield, Mo., the family stoutly upholds the advantages of a nomadic life over a stationary residence. The trailer is equipped with every modern convenience—even to the full size electric washing machine seen above.

Royal Warrant Holders Keep Eye on Imposters

WINDSOR, England (AP)—So jealous of its prerogatives is the Royal Warrant Holders' Association here that it has an official who makes the rounds to see that the warrants, or coats of arms, are displayed only by people entitled to them. "Warrants are personal things," says H. F. Barber, who keeps tab for the association. "Most people think that when they buy a business they buy the warrant, too, but the warrant is made out to the man whose name is on it and the new owners have no right to display it."

Three years of patronage from the royal family, whom Barber calls "The Royals," is necessary before a proprietor can claim a warrant. "And even then," says Barber, "he must have a spotlessly clean business record."

Plan Funeral For Tomorrow

P. E. McClenahan Died in Accident At Dodgeville, Wis.

Funeral service for P. E. McClenahan of Iowa City, who was fatally injured in an automobile accident at Dodgeville, Wis., will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow. The Rev. Edwin E. Voigt will officiate.

A verdict of "accidental death due to the negligence of the driver of the truck which collided with the car in which Mr. McClenahan was riding" was returned by a coroner's jury at Dodgeville Friday. The driver of the truck was not ordered held by the jury.

The Iowa City man was formerly state superintendent of public instruction.

The solar system is the assemblage of asteroids, comets, meteoric materials and planets, with their attendant satellites, which form a family of objects intimately connected with the sun and practically isolated from the other stars.

October 31 Is Date Set For 4-H Banquet

The annual 4-H club banquet sponsored by Iowa City merchants and Johnson county farmers will be held the evening of October 31 in the Iowa City community building, it was announced last night.

The 900-pound calf purchased from Dale Burr by the retail trade division of the chamber of commerce and the county republican and democratic organizations will be served at the banquet.

Net proceeds of the banquet will be given the boys and girls' 4-H organizations.

Make Game of Traffic

CHICAGO (AP)—First grade pupils of a Chicago public school are making a game of safety precautions. A street corner has been chalked out on the class room floor. Miss Genevieve E. Dwyer, the teacher, plays traffic officer. As she displays signs reading "stop," "get ready" and "go" a traffic signal flashes its red, yellow and green lights. The children make their street crossings accordingly.

Anne McPhee Attends Meet In New Jersey

Anne McPhee, G of Newton, Mass., graduate advisor of the university Y.W.C.A., will leave this morning for East Orange, N. J., where she will participate in a conference on plans for religious meetings in large state universities.

Miss McPhee represents the committee at the University of Iowa, of which Dean Francis M. Dawson of the college of engineering is the chairman, under whose directions plans are being made for Religious Emphasis week here late in October.

The committee is composed of students and faculty members at the University of Iowa. The local conference will feature outstanding religious leaders from other points, and will convene Oct. 29. The New Jersey conference will be held tomorrow and Tuesday.

Prof. Barnes Returns Home After Conclave

Prof. Ralph M. Barnes of the college of engineering returned today from Washington, D. C., where he attended the Seventh International Management Congress.

Professor Barnes presented a paper before the production division of the Congress and showed motion pictures, at a general session, giving the results of research work being carried on in the field of industrial engineering at the University of Iowa.

Two thousand engineers and managers from the United States and 21 foreign nations attended the Congress.

On his way east, Professor Barnes spent several days at the Toledo and Newark, Ohio, plants of the Owens-Illinois Glass company, where he consulted with industrial engineers of the company concerning their manufacturing methods.

Seven recent Iowa engineering graduates are now employed as industrial engineers with the Owens-Illinois Glass company.

When the moon is full, the sun, earth and moon are nearly in line, and we have the greatest tides, called the spring tides.

Social Groups to Submit Candidates For 6 Posts on University Social Committee

Six University of Iowa students, three juniors and three seniors, will be named this fall to the Social committee, headed by Dean Ewen M. MacEwen of the college of medicine, chairman.

Letters to the presidents of the campus' various social groups have announced that each group is invited to nominate any student whom it considers qualified to serve in the capacity of committee member.

The nominee's name, with the following information, should be submitted, according to the chairman, to the Iowa Union desk not later than Oct. 3:

1. Grade point average (no nominee will be considered if the average is less than 2.)
2. A picture of the nominee.
3. The campus activities of the nominee.
4. The reason each group considers the nominee a suitable candidate.

WSUI Begins Fall Program

Station WSUI will inaugurate the first of its new fall program series at 8 a.m. tomorrow, when President Eugene A. Gilmore and Prof. M. Willard Lampe, head of the school of religion, appear on the first broadcast of "Morning Chapel," the program which will open each of WSUI's six weekly broadcasting days.

The new program, a 15-minute religious inspiration period, lists outstanding speakers on its first week's schedule.

The Rev. Ilon T. Jones, pastor of the first Presbyterian church and president of the Iowa City Ministerial association, will appear Tuesday morning.

Prof. William H. Morgan, head of the student religious activities at the University of Iowa, appears on the broadcast Wednesday.

The Rev. E. W. Neuzil, Catholic minister of the St. Wendeslaus church, will appear Thursday morning. Prof. Moses Jung, Jewish member of the school of religion, is scheduled to appear Friday.

The first week's series of programs will end Saturday morning when the Rev. L. A. Owen of the Congregational church and president of the Inter-faith Fellowship group, appears.

Prof. Feigl To Address Group

Prof. Herbert Feigl of the philosophy department will address the first of the Jewish new year services at 7 o'clock tonight in the American Legion building, 204 S. Gilbert street.

The services, all of which will be addressed by members of the University of Iowa faculty, will be continued tomorrow and next week.

Additional new year services will be observed at 9 a.m. tomorrow. The Day of Atonement will be celebrated with services at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 4 and at 6:30 a.m. Oct. 5. All Jewish students are invited to attend the services.

AFRAID TO MARRY

HELEN WELSHIMER

CHAPTER 24

QUIETLY JUDY answered the intruder. "No, I'm not Abbey Boland. I'm in her employ, though."

"Which is her room?" "Whose room?" Her hands were tired and she dropped them. The man didn't seem to mind.

"You know. The heartbreaker. The count—Count Philippe Alexis von Gunderfeld. Got a present for him, something pretty." He waved his gun. "Right through his jousy heart. That's where he'll get it."

"You don't like him much, do you?" Judy asked, playing for time to think.

"Not at all. Know what his family did? Took our land—swallowed it up with taxes, wrung blood from our souls—"

"There followed such a tirade of the whole Von Gunderfeld family that Judy gasped.

"That's only part of what I think of them," the loquacious gunman ended.

"But the count is poor. His family needs a new bath tub so he's trying to get some money."

"You bet he's poor and he's staying poor." His laughter, diabolic, yet quiet, shuddered in the night wind.

"Don't get me wrong, sister. He didn't steal a girl of mine. No, he bids for money. Like this Boland dame. But I owe his clan a bullet."

There was a noise somewhere. The man swung over the railing. Before he dropped, he said: "I know his room. I'll get him yet."

Plainly the man was a fanatic. He had a real or fancied grudge against the Von Gunderfelds.

Maybe it had been handed down from one generation to another. Meantime, the count, sleeping peacefully, was probably in more danger than he ever had been in his romantic, roving career.

Action must be quick. Judy paused, one hand on the bell that would summon the maid.

That would mean lights, voices, excitement. When the din ended the interloper, still at large and now aware of the signal, would come back to mark two victims.

It would be wiser to warn Count Philippe privately. Then he would be on the alert and she would have done her duty and could go to sleep.

But how should she warn him? There was a telephone connection between all rooms in the many winged mansion, but at this hour no servant operated it.

That was out. Abby would be cross if she were awakened at this hour. She might tell Ronald. . . . She wanted to tell Ronald. No, she must put him from her life, not rely on him again.

Better to see the count himself. As it was, there was nothing to do but forget the whole matter, summon someone and waste priceless seconds entrusting that person with the secret, or knock on Count Philippe's door. She chose the latter plan.

The wide hall was carpeted. The white doors were closed. Night lights burned dimly in their recesses. It was fortunate she knew in which room his grace, his highness, whatever you called a count, had been placed.

She knocked. No sound. She knocked a little louder. She heard someone turning sleepily. The third time she beat a swift staccato message on the closed door.

"Who's there?" Count Philippe was awakened thoroughly, judging from that tone.

"Hurry, meet me in the den. It's Judy Rogers."

"Judy! Hold everything!" She spoke in a stage whisper, hoping he would hear. "Don't turn on—the light. And hurry!"

It was a matter of seconds until he opened the door. To Judy it seemed to be long minutes. She reached beyond him and closed the door. Her knees felt weak. Now that the count had come to her without being stopped by a shot, she was feeling faint and wobbly.

He noticed and reached out a supporting arm. He made no sign that he was curious as to why she had summoned him at the crack of dawn. In a moment Judy withdrew from the arm. She felt better.

"I'm sorry," she said, and tried to smile. "I had to get you out of that room. You were about to be shot."

"Shot?" His eyebrows flew upward in wonderment. "I may deserve it but who would do it?"

"An old tenant of your family's. I saw him on the balcony flourishing a gun, and he told me about it. He's hunting you now. You can't go back to that room. If you'll wait, I'll go to my room and ring for the butler to move you."

"I'll stroll along, just for the walk." Count Philippe lounged against the wall while Judy entered her own room and rang the butler. She came back to the door, to wait with him.

She wasn't prepared for the searching glance of his dark eyes. "Judy, why did you summon me—warn me, I mean? Why didn't you let the bozo shoot me? That would have been the end of the Von Gunderfelds and plenty of people would enjoy burning the family crest."

"This is America. We don't let people be murdered in their beds when we know about it."

"It was more than that. You had a reason for coming. Judy, you don't realize it yourself?" He was silent, eyes still probing hers. "You know, you and I could have been happy together. We could have laughed a lot, and sang, and traveled, if—"

He shrugged his thin shoulders. "Never mind. We can't, you know."

The supreme egotism of the man destroyed any fear for his safety that Judy had experienced. She moved away.

"If I had not lost my money, you mean, don't you? I'm sorry to disillusion you but your charm hasn't made its usual impression."

The count laughed softly, his armor of self-confidence undented. "I never had a chance to try, you know."

Judy faced him, cheeks flaming, head high. "If you want to throw away your dowry and your bride why not be man enough to say so? Why go crawling around for hidden means?"

"But I don't want to! I've no intention of doing so. You rapped at my door tonight. I was willing to die. I am glad to be alive, but the move, my dear lady, was yours."

He looked so foolish in his bathrobe with his dark hair rumpled and his mustache bristling, that Judy relented.

"Here comes the butler. And now—good night!" She did not open her door, though. Abby's voice came floating to them. "Rather public for a meeting, don't you think? Sorry to intrude. Three people make a convention, I know, but all the talking wakened me. May I join you?"

"Certainly, my dear Abby." The count put his arm around her. "Miss Rogers wakened me suddenly from my slumbers with a story of a maniac who wanted to shoot me. She saw him on the balcony. I'm afraid Miss Rogers was having a touch of nightmare."

Abby examined his face carefully, then apparently decided to believe him. She was scornful as she gazed at Judy.

"What did you see, Miss Rogers?" Judy repeated the story. It sounded silly and improbable now. Maybe they both thought she had dreamed it.

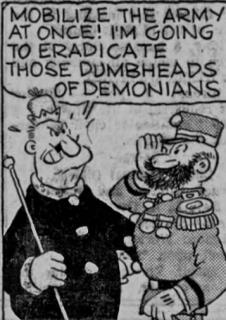

Abby gave the butler instructions to have a housemaid prepare another room. She spoke to Judy: "I trust you aren't afraid to retire, Miss Rogers?"
