Sorority Girls Compete For Winning Total

A Badge for Every Person in Iowa City Is 1938 Objective

Alpha Xi Delta, Alpha Delta Pi and Chi Omega sororities will begin a competitive sale of the 1938 Homecoming badge at 7 a.m. Tuesday, Dean R. A. Kuever of the college of pharmacy, chairman of badge committee, announces today.

With Betty Coffin, A2 of Farmington, as captain of the Alpha Xi Deltas, Gwen Tudor, A3 of Olin, of the Alpha Delta Pi group and Alice Erickson, C4 of Roland, of the Chi Omegas, this week will see thousands of students and townspeople alike wearing the official insignia of Homecomers as a result of the sale.

"A badge for every student and for every member of every family in Iowa City" is the slogan adopted for the sale.

Chairman Kuever points out: "The wearing of this Homecoming badge gives every one in Iowa City an opportunity to contribute to the welcoming of the guests to the university and the city to have a part in the biggest celebration that is held during the year."

The designer of the 1938 badge is Richard F. Gates, G of Iowa City.

Gates received his B.A. degree from the University of Iowa last June. He is now a graduate assistant in the graphic and plastic arts department.

Gates' design, which is pictured today, represents two returning graduates of the classes of 1911 and 1912, talking things over at the university's annual get-together.

In his work in the graphic and plastic arts department, the badge designer has done considerable mural work under the supervision of Prof. Grant Wood.

Gates' design was chosen from 25 submitted by five judges: Alice Davis and Ruth Wilkinson of the art department, Prof. George Haskell of the college of commerce, Prof. Rollin M. Perkins of the college of law and Dean Kuever—all members of the badge committee.

The design contest opened Feb. 1 and closed May 15.

As in past years, the badge will cost only 10 cents. From Tuesday to Saturday, members of the selling sororities will canvass city and campus alike.

Proceeds of the badge sale, which have been used for Homecoming expenses for the past 14 years, will finance such events as smokers, receptions, the corn monument which is being erected at the end of Iowa avenue, decorations for university buildings, stunts, lighting equipment and entertainment.

In addition, part of the funds will be used to defray expenses of the University of Iowa's band trip to Chicago Oct. 15. Substantial contributions have been made in the past to various other projects, including the floodlights which illuminate Old Capitol tower.

In the 14 years of the Homecoming sale, 229,320 of the Homecoming emblems have been sold. This year, a total of 17,628 were sold with Chi Omega sorority selling first place in sales.

In the past, the badge designs representing many coming games. Old Capitol tower was pictured twice. The badge bore a likeness of Rex Tubbs. Even Rex, of the Iowa team, wore the badge several years.

Dean Kuever reported from such far-flung places as Kennewick, Wash., and Mont., have sent the Homecoming many requests daily from Iowa states.

MEN IN BLUE

Army Officers Fail To Get Uniforms

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—A war department ultimatum requiring all officers on duty in the continental United States to have new style blue dress uniforms expired today with its demand unfulfilled.

Hundreds of officers do not yet possess the new garb. They blamed the tailors and the tailors blamed makers of gold braid. The word was passed, however, that no drastic action was contemplated immediately. Post commanders have been authorized to grant a few days of grace.

Europe Faces Bill for Arms

France Proposes To Tax Foreigners To Pay for Mobilization

PARIS, Oct. 1 (AP)—Coming out of their war scare, European nations are suddenly confronted by the realization that it has cost them many millions of dollars. The question beginning to bob up now is, "Who is going to foot the bill?"

The unique proposal has been advanced in France that foreign residents and businesses be subjected to a special tax over a period of years to meet the expense of mobilization.

The proposal has been put forward by a group in the chamber of deputies. At all events, the government is understood to be drawing up a special financing bill to cope with the situation.

France's share of the general expense is expected to run into hundreds of millions of francs. Britain having mobilized her fleet and special sections of her army is similarly under a burden running into high figures.

In like situations are Germany, Czechoslovakia and some other smaller countries which took special military measures.

An idea of the tremendous cost entailed can be derived from the fact that a survey of budgets and complementary information recently gave rise to an authoritative statement that the world was spending $14,000,000,000 yearly on armaments even before the war scare arose.

Millions of reservists were called to the colors in various countries involved during the crisis. France alone is estimated to have called up more than 1,000,000 men to supplement her standing forces of about 700,000.

Germany was popularly reported to have had 2,000,000 men under arms even before the crisis started. Britain called up a relatively small number of men but spent large sums in concentrating her fleet and sending it to strategic points.

Czechoslovakia's mobilization brought new troops to the colors by the hundreds of thousands. Even such countries as Norway, Belgium and Denmark either called up reservists or held over-

Conference Of Educators To Start Thursday

Oldest Meeting Of School Officers To Run Through Friday

The 25th annual conference on school administration and supervision will open here Thursday and continue through Friday.

The conference is sponsored by the faculty of the college of education and the university extension division and is the oldest held for public school officers. Its opening will inaugurate a series of meetings that will include conferences to be held at various times throughout the year for teachers in all departments.

The Thursday morning program will be preceded by registration and continue with demonstrations in the university experimental schools.

The rest of the morning will be given over to discussion groups and conferences in elementary and secondary education.

The Thursday afternoon session will be held in the senate chamber of Old Capitol with Prof. F. C. Ensign, acting dean of the college of education, presiding.

The chemistry auditorium will be the meeting place for the conference in the evening, with the remainder of its meetings in the senate chamber on Friday.

Administrative and supervisory officers and members of the board of education will be entertained at a luncheon in the river room at Iowa Union Friday noon. President E. A. Gilmore will address the guests.

Play Broadcast Claimed Risky

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—The federal communications commission is up in the air again over a question of radio censorship.

This time a complaint that a broadcast of a Eugene O'Neill play contained improper language revived the thorny subject, which a Mae West skit last brought to the forefront.

Mr. and Mrs. George Peterson of Minneapolis objected, commissioner T. A. M. Craven said, because in O'Neill's Pulitzer-prize play "Beyond the Horizon" broadcast July 23, "the word of God was taken in vain."

The commission split over what should be done about the matter, Craven related, finally voting four to one to hold a hearing on the question of renewing the license of station WTON, Minneapolis.

Asserting renewals usually are granted without hearings, Craven said the commission's action was "fraught with danger" and was taken over his objections.

Less than a year ago Miss West, Luxon screen star, brought a wave of complaints down on the

Sale by Drink Issue in Next House Session

DES MOINES, Oct. 1 (AP)—Sale of hard liquor by the drink appeared today as a question certain to come before the legislature to be elected next month by Iowa voters.

Dwight James, Des Moines attorney, said he has been instructed by the Iowa Tavern Owners' association to prepare an "acceptable" liquor-by-the-drink bill.

Other questions expected to come before the 1939 legislature, but which have not figured to any extent yet as issues in the pre-election campaign are:

1. Compulsory physical examination for marriage license applicants.
2. State wage-hour legislation.
3. Compulsory arbitration in labor disputes.
4. Amendment of the cigarette tax law to check "bootlegging."
5. The integrated bar.
6. Governmental reorganization.
7. Civil service for state employees.
8. Capital punishment.
9. Teachers' pensions.
10. Truck tax law revision.
11. Farm-to-market roads.

Japanese Bomb Lutheran Girls' School in China

SINYANG, China, Oct. 1 (AP)—The American United Lutheran Mission's Girl school in this Peiping-Hankow railway town was damaged and two Chinese caretakers were wounded fatally Wednesday when Japanese warplanes dropped 12 bombs in the school's compound.

The damage to property was estimated at $40,000.

Sinyang is the objective of a Japanese drive through south Honan province, the invaders seeking to cut the railway here in their effort to take Hankow, more than 100 miles south.

Members of the Lutheran mission who were in residences near the bombed compound and who escaped injury were:

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hovik, Northfield, Minn.; Reidman Dahlin, Fargo, N. D.; Miss Aajoth Foskark, Dwight, N. D.; Miss Christine Johnson, Chicago; and Hans Nesse, St. Paul, Minn.

German Army In Sudetenland As Berlin Heils

BERLIN, Oct. 1 (AP)—German troops marched into Sudetenland today behind evacuating Czechoslovak soldiery and citizenry as Reichsfuehrer Hitler returned from Munich to Berlin and received a conqueror's welcome.

It was a bloodless conquest which brought 500,000 Heiling Berliners to the streets to salute the fuhrer.

German army headquarters announced that troops under command of Col. Gen. Ritter Von Leeb had crossed into Sudetenland at 2 p.m. (7 a.m. C. S. T.), completing the first troop movement across the border.

The main body entering Czechoslovakia consisted of an estimated 30,000 soldiers. They penetrated the first zone of Sudetenland to be occupied under the terms of the four-power Munich accord.

Then they marched and rode through the villages and valleys of the mountainous, forested southwest corner of the Czechoslovakia of yesterday.

Previously, the advance guard had moved into Czechoslovakia shortly after midnight last night.

An army communique issued at 7 p.m. (noon CST) said the objective of the first day's advance was the Moldau river, about seven miles into the Sudetenland fringe near Krumau.

"German troops designated for entry into zone one," the communique said, "marched into this territory this afternoon on schedule. They were received jubilantly by the liberated population. The head of the German marching column is a day's objective."

Meanwhile, the man directing this peaceful occasion received his second great tribute of the year from the Berlin populace. The roar was deafening when the fuhrer stepped onto the famed balcony of the chancellery to face the packed crowd in Wilhelmplatz. Beside him stood Konrad Henlein, "little fuhrer" of the Sudeten Germans, the minority now being joined to the third Reich.

Czechoslovakia Has Held Teschen Silesia Since World War

WARSAW, Oct. 1 (AP)—The government announced today that Czechoslovakia had capitulated fully to Poland's ultimatum demanding cession of Teschen Silesia and that Teschen itself would be delivered to Poland by 2 p.m. Sunday (7 a.m. CST).

Czechoslovakia apparently accepted the Polish demands just a few moments before expiration of a deadline Warsaw had set in an ultimatum threatening invasion of the area, which has been Czechoslovakia's since 1919.

As a result of the capitulation, Poland will receive within the next 10 days an area of about 300 square miles with a population of about 100,000 Poles.

Crowds Cheer
Crowds poured into the streets of all Polish towns today to cheer, wave flags and demonstrate their joy at the acceptance by Czechoslovakia of Poland's territorial demands.

Continuous celebrations took place all over the country, but were most enthusiastic in villages and towns adjoining the Czechoslovak border.

In Polish Teschen, where the Olso river has divided the town between Poland and Czechoslovakia for 20 years, all white and red goods disappeared from the shops.

Everybody wanted to have a Polish flag for tomorrow, when Polish troops will start across the bridge to occupy the Czechoslovak part of the town. Barricades erected by the Czechoslovaks on the bridge already had been removed, and a Czech general was on the scene to superintend withdrawal of the Prague government's troops.

Troops Withdrawn
(A dispatch from Prague said Czechoslovak troops already were being withdrawn.)

Popular demonstrations broke loose shortly after 2 p.m. (1 a.m., C.S.T.) when the government announced Czechoslovakia's surrender.

Remaining parts of the Teschen and Freistadt districts would be evacuated by Oct. 10.

Questions concerning delimitation of further territories and a plebiscite are to be settled by agreement between the two governments, it was announced.

A further settlement included the release of Poles in the Czechoslovak army and of Polish political prisoners from Czechoslovak jails.

Czech Reports Sudetens Begin Reign of Terror

PRAGUE, Oct. 1 (AP)—An employe of the official Czechoslovak tourist office tonight reported Sudeten free corps members had started a reign of terror in the Karlsbad region of western Czechoslovakia which is to be ceded to Germany.

Declaring he had been forced to flee Karlsbad this afternoon, the tourist office employe said that the Sudetens had gained control of the famous SPA and that fleeing Czechoslovaks are being fired on by machine guns mounted on Karlsbad buildings.

A traveler reported he ran into a machine gun ambush outside the resort city which resulted in two out of six persons in his car being injured.

East of Karlsbad Sudeten free corps men were reported to have derailed a train carrying refugees from Sudetenland into the interior of Czechoslovakia. A jammed switch caused the train to plow into the roadbed.

'Peace Without Justice Is Tyranny'

Either to condemn or to condone what has happened in Europe these last few days is not our task this morning. We cannot know what price was paid for peace, what promises were made, what the future will be.

We cannot, moreover, be optimistic or hopeful. We cannot foresee a permanent peace in Europe. We cannot greet with anything but sorrow any agreement that appears to depend entirely on the whims of one man.

We cannot, of course, be sure; but we must be realistic. We would like to believe the promise of Adolf Hitler on Monday that "The Sudetenland is the last territorial demand I have to make in Europe."

But we must instead recall that in March, 1936, this same man promised, "We have no territorial demands to make in Europe."

We must remember his declaration of 1934, "I reject the contention of the Austrian government that any intervention against the Austrian state has been undertaken or planned by the Reich."

And that earlier, in May 1933, he pledged, "We regard European nations around us as established facts."

No, we cannot place much credence in the promises of the man we heard shouting hate from Berlin on Monday. Neither can we agree to war.

We have never seen it or lived through it; but we know. We have heard from the men who did know, have talked to those whose lives were ruined because of it. We have seen photographs of those who died. And we want none of it.

That is why we have a touch of optimism this morning. We believe the people of the world agree with us. That's the reason for the peace of this week, the peace at the probable price of freedom and respect and integrity.

The greatest blow has come, of course, to those already nearly defunct organizations of peace pledged to the doctrine of "Collective security." Their theory has fallen completely.

And yet there is hope for it. Since the nations of the world are revulsed by war, there is a chance—a chance that those countries which want and must have law and order internationally will band together behind law and order, will demand peace on righteous terms, will declare for justice.

The United States is one of those nations; it must, in the future, stand actively behind movements for honor and for honorable peace.

Our conclusion for this morning has already been written, and much better than we could. William Allen White wrote it once several years ago, "Peace without justice," he said, "is tyranny." Also it is impermanent.

Instead of making the roads safer for drivers, perhaps we ought to try to make the drivers safer for the roads.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Short-short story: This dialogue comes from the American version of "Dawn Patrol," an anti-war war picture.

Courtney (Errol Flynn): "And that comparison goes for the whole war, Donny—a big noisy, rather silly game. Here we are—going at it hammer and tongs—and we don't really know why—or what it's all about. And I'll bet you our friends over there—the enemy—feel exactly the same way."

"Some day it will end—just as suddenly as it started—and we'll all go home. . . . until some other bunch of monkeys sitting around a long table pushes us into another war."

And this dialogue comes from the for-British-consumption version of the same scene: Courtney (Errol Flynn): "And that comparison goes for the whole war, Donny—a big noisy game—but it hadn't been for the war, we wouldn't have had this flying corps coming along as it is. All of us here are pioneers—but it's growing up, my boy. Our equipment's improving every day and we're the feeling they're behind us back home. . . . It makes us proud, doesn't it? . . . All through the centuries the instant old Britain's in any kind of trouble, every kid—every lad—is up and at 'em just like you—ready to give 'em—give—give to give to them."

That's all. But will Flynn consent to the necessary war-glorifying in the British version? He's been obdurate thus far.

"Teddy" said it, all right. My impression is that he simply couldn't endure a war which he wasn't in on, and was prepared to say anything to commit us to it. Doubtless he honestly was in error.

However, wouldn't one have thought that such a Briton as Runciman would have been aware that he was quoting an inaccurately? It spoiled my interview, anyhow.

And ever since then I've had my fingers crossed on European statesmen's utterances. In the pre-World War era a traveler could go almost anywhere on earth without a lot of ridiculous formalities.

It was in approximately 1908 that I needed to journey from London to Constantinople (now Istanbul), so I chased down to the U. S. Embassy, to ask if I had to have a passport.

"Yes, sir," replied First Secretary Phillips. "Even in this present-day civilized world two countries remain so benighted that a visitor has to have a passport—Turkey and Russia."

A civilized world—in pre-war days!—only two backward countries excepted! Now, darned if you don't nearly have to have something resembling a passport, here in the U. S. A., to cross a state line, through a "port of entry," with an automobile!

As to Air Raids—Air raids are funny things. During the last war I had an office nearby a little London "pub" called the Temple restaurant.

Suddenly an alarmist rushed in. A Zeppelin was approaching! It already was over the suburb of Croydon, dropping explosives. One of the bunch burst into loud, semi-inarticulate cries, begging for his drink in a hurry—a trifle ahead of the legal limit.

The first thought was that he was so unnerved as to require an instant stimulant. Investigation proved that that wasn't the situation's urgency, however.

In fact, he lived at Croydon. His family was there. He wanted to get home to protect, as far as he could, his wife and little ones. But he wouldn't go without his "licker."

Washington World

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Whenever a few European countries get into an exceedingly bitter battle among themselves they are none too particular as to the validity of the reasons they give why the United States should enlist on one side or the other.

Back in the early days of the last world war, before we went into it, it happened that I was an American news correspondent in London. It chanced that I framed a date for a talk with Lord Runciman, recently prominent as a would-be mediator between Germany and Czechoslovakia.

At that time he was plain Walter Runciman, but he was president of the Board of Trade, a cabinet job roughly comparable to our commerce secretary's, plus some of the functions of our treasury secretary's. Anyway, he was an important official, presumably full up to the neck of authentic information.

In the course of this interview, "We don't exactly contend," said Walter, "that the United States should join the Allies. Yet I do remind you that Germany has violated the Treaty of Belgium—to which your country was a signatory."

"Oh, no, Mr. Runciman," I countered. "We never signed the Treaty of Belgium. Very few Americans ever heard of it."

"But," rejoined Walter, slightly nonplussed, "your own ex-President Theodore Roosevelt has stated that you signed it."

"I know it," I had to admit, "but, to say the least, he was mistaken."

"Teddy" said it, all right. My impression is that he simply couldn't endure a war which he wasn't in on, and was prepared to say anything to commit us to it. Doubtless he honestly was in error.

However, wouldn't one have thought that such a Briton as Runciman would have been aware that he was quoting an inaccurately? It spoiled my interview, anyhow.

Win Bitter Intra-State Game; Reserves Wear Out Marquette

Weiss and Schmitz Star for Badgers In 14th Game of Series

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 1 (AP)—Wisconsin's formidable reserve strength wore down a fighting Marquette university football team today and the Badgers scored a 27 to 0 victory in the 14th renewal of a bitter intra-state rivalry.

After Marquette received a 15-yard penalty for holding early in the first period, the Wisconsin team marched into their opponents' territory with Roy Bellin, halfback, contributing one run of 25 yards and several shorter sprints. The attack stalled on Marquette's 38. Late in the period, starting from the 45, Bellin, Weiss and Schmitz drove to Marquette's four yard stripe but the Hilltoppers stiffened. Wisconsin threw three successive incomplete passes from midfield, and Marquette had possession as the quarter ended. Score: Marquette 0; Wisconsin 0.

Recovery of Leysenaar's fumble by Lynn Hovland, guard, on Marquette's 30 set the stage for Wisconsin's first touchdown. Bellin went over from the five yard line through his right tackle. Hovland kicked the extra point, and Coach Harry Stuhldreher sent in a complete new team.

The Hilltoppers filled the air with passes after one heave by Norman Woods, halfback, to Leysenaar netted 40 yards. Wisconsin finally bored into Marquette territory but was unable to score as the half ended. Score: Marquette 0; Wisconsin 7.

The Wisconsin first string went back in after the half and climaxed a sustained drive with a second touchdown. Weiss went over from the four yard line, but Hovland's kick for extra point was wide.

Wisconsin's reserves again went into the game and advanced deep into Marquette's area on fine runs by Halfback Anthony Gradisnik and Fullback George Paskvan. Although the Hilltoppers held on down on their own nine yard line, Ralph Moeller, Badger end, recovered Leysenaar's fumble on the next play and the Badgers were two feet from the goal line as the quarter ended with the score: Marquette 0; Wisconsin 13.

Paskvan scored a touchdown on the first play of the fourth quarter and Ed Hartman, quarterback, kicked the extra point, giving Wisconsin a 20-0 lead. Midway in the period Referee James Masker was temporarily dazed in a collision with players. After a time-out period in which Masker recovered, John Tennant, Wisconsin halfback, rove 17 yards through the Marquette line for the Badgers' fourth touchdown. Hartman kicked the extra point. John Maltuch, speedy Marquette halfback, sparked a Hilltop drive late in the quarter, but the game ended with the Badgers again on the offensive. Wisconsin 27; Marquette 0.

Gophers Win Again; Blast Huskers, 16-7

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 1 (AP)—Minnesota's Golden Gophers whipped a stubborn Nebraska football team today, 16 to 7, rolling up a commanding 14 point margin on two powerful touchdowns in the first half. Nebraska scored early in the third period on a fluke play when Halfback Jack Todd picked a loose ball off a Minnesota player's fingers to race 91 yards for a touchdown. The attendance was approximately 55,000.

The Gophers lost no time in launching a power offensive which counted a touchdown seven plays after the opening kickoff. Moore, Buhler and Christiansen on running plays carried the ball to the Nebraska eight yard line, from where Moore counted on a dash through left tackle. Bell place-kicked the extra point. Score: Minnesota 7; Nebraska 0.

Dodd slipped around end for a first down to the 30, but the Nebraska attack bogged down almost immediately and Minnesota got into motion effectively again only to be interrupted on a bad center pass that resulted in loss of the ball. The Gophers held the ball again, however, on the Nebraska 49 as a result of Frank's interception of Phelps' pass as the period ended. Minnesota 7; Nebraska 0.

Minnesota took the ensuing kickoff and again moved powerfully down the field.

Michigan Ends Four Years Of Drouth, Wins

Beats Mich. State Decisively Before 85,000 Fans, 14-0

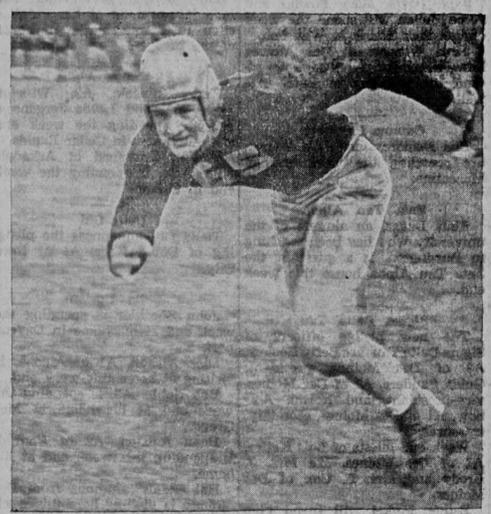

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 1 (AP)—University of Michigan hit the football comeback trail today by vanquishing Michigan State, 14 to 0, in a fiercely contested struggle before 82,500 fans.

Michigan partisans hailed the victory, achieved through sustained touchdown marches in the second and fourth periods, as the end of four years of groping in the gridiron wilderness.

Paul Kromer, 19-year-old sophomore halfback from Lorain, O., scored both the touchdowns on line plunges, to crown with success Coach Herbert Orrin (Fritz) Crisler's debut as Michigan coach. Crisler was reported to have discarded the "pass, punt and prayer" system that kept Michigan at the football heights for years, but in the final analysis, it was that same, sound, conservative style of play that gave Michigan its first victory over its intra-state rival since 1933.

The game was decided in the line, with Michigan's veterans presenting a stone wall that forced State to take to the air for its only major gains.

So effective was Michigan's ground defense that State had a net gain of only 25 yards from rushing, compared to Michigan's 188.

Joe Moore, above, 185 pound junior from Ida Grove, is putting in a determined bid for a starting position in the lineup of the Homecoming game against Wisconsin next Saturday. Joe has shown well in the past week's practice sessions and bids fair to develop into an outstanding end before he finishes his collegiate competition. At the present time the battle for the flank position is heated with several candidates being used in the positions.

Wilbur Nead, above, standing 5 feet, 10 inches and weighing 210 pounds, a tackle from Gilman, Nead, a squatly and very strong aggressive linesman saw action regularly last year. He also captained the University wrestling team in 1938. And shot

Frank Balazs Injured in Intra Squad Game

First String In 27-7 Win

Coach Tubbs held a preview of the Homecoming show yesterday as he sent a probable starting team onto the field against a picked squad of second and third string men in an intra-squad game that was won by the first stringers by a score of 27-7.

Frank Balazs, spark plug of the varsity backfield, was injured in the closing moments of the contest and may not recuperate in time to take part in the Homecoming game against Wisconsin.

His position, in the event his injury proves serious enough to keep him from the game, may be taken over by Jerry Niles, hard smashing fullback from Clinton who flashes improvement with every drill.

Taken as a whole, the first string looked none too impressive in yesterday's game. Eddie McLain, playing in the second team backfield, and Jerry Niles, also with the reserves, provided what little there was to shout about. Niles was passing with deadly accuracy and smacking the line with telling effect while McLain, playing a smart game, ripped off several long runs and handled himself like a veteran.

Henry Luebecke, giant tackle, was reduced to the status of a pigmy yesterday, the reserves paying little heed to his size and less to his reputation as they ran over his position several times for long gains, once for a touchdown.

Ray Murphy, sophomore prospect from New York, demonstrated that his play of the past several days wasn't a flash in the pan by playing a bang-up game of ball. Murphy has a deceptive stride, a high stepping ground eating lunge that has the tacklers fooled. He may see quite a lot of service before the season has run its course.

Manush Considers Contracts From Major Leagues

Art Manush of Burlington, co-captain of the Iowa baseball team, is considering offers from five major league clubs, he revealed here tonight. Manush said he has been offered contracts by the New York Yankees, Brooklyn Dodgers, Chicago White Sox, Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals.

The Iowa leftfielder, one of the leading hitters on the team that rose to a Big Ten co-championship last spring, has not decided whether he will accept any offer. He has one year of competition left here.

Quist Upsets Budge In Semifinal Play

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1 (AP)—Adrian Quist of Australia defeated J. Donald Budge, holder of all the world's leading tennis prizes, here today in the semifinals of the annual Pacific southwest championships. The scores were 7-5, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3. Without detracting from the amazing performance of the Australian, Budge appeared greatly off form.

'The Sky's the Limit, Boys!' 'I Don't Care What You Do Tonight'—Gabby, As Cubs Clinch Pennant

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1 (AP)—It's good the baseball season is practically over because visiting players at Sportsman park would have to use the attic for a dressing room.

About all the pennant-winning Chicago Cubs left were the walls and steel lockers—and they wouldn't be there tonight if the Cubs could have budgeted them.

Gabby Hartnett, red-faced pilot of the Cubs, led the celebration with a hearty shout: "The sky's the limit, boys—anything you want!"

Pirate Flag Hopes Fade When Weaver, Ex-Pirate, Beats Bucs

only as far as the second inning, when he was relieved by Bob Klinger. Klinger failed to retire a man, and the Pirate pitching parade was on. Before the barrage of hits had ended the game, Cy Blanton, Mace Brown, and Bill Swift saw action. Brown was the losing pitcher.

Walter started out like an easy master of the Bucs. Over the first three innings, he didn't allow a batter to reach first as his mates rushed over three runs in the second and another in the third to take a 4-0 lead.

Lombardi, who all but clinched the National league batting championship with four hits in five chances today, opened the second inning rally with a single. Lew Riggs followed with a single and out went Lucas. Klinger walked Harry Craft to load the bases. Richardson scored Lombardi with a single and Myers, getting his first of four hits, drove in Riggs and Craft. In the third, Craft's triple scored McCormick, whose double was Rizzo's first gift to the Reds.

The Pirates got to Walters for five runs in the fourth, batting clear around before Weaver came in.

The Reds went ahead in their half of the fourth, Myers teeing off Brown with a double, and scoring as Rizzo dropped McCormick's drive for the first of three Pirate errors. McCormick who reached second trotted home on Lombardi's single.

In the fifth, Craft singled and came home on Myers' triple. In the eighth, the Reds put the game in close storage with two hits, good for two runs.

Pennant Toll Man Dies Hearing That Cubs Win

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—Charles Campinose, 43, collapsed and died today a few moments after the Chicago Cubs won the National league pennant by beating St. Louis. He and his wife, Florence, had been listening to a radio broadcast of the game before he was stricken with a heart attack.

Ohio State Scores in Fourth Quarter to Beat Hoosiers 6-0

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—Minnesota and Ohio State, national and Big Ten championship contenders, marched on today—each hurdling obstacles they failed a year ago.

Minnesota's power swept aside Nebraska, a team it bowed to in 1937, the score was 16 to 7. At Columbus, O., Indiana tried hard to duplicate its surprise win of last year and out-did the Buckeyes at everything but the final score, which was 6 to 0 for Ohio State.

A 70 yard drive ending in a 10 yard pass from one sophomore to another—Jimmy Sexton and Don Scott—brought the winning touchdown in the last quarter. Indiana, meanwhile, out-gained the Buckeyes 16 first downs to 6 and registered a total of 310 yards gained to 180 by Ohio.

It was the first conference game of the Big Ten season. Michigan, making its debut under Fritz Crisler coaching regime, knocked down Michigan State, its chief tormenter of the last four years, 14-0, before 82,500 persons. Illinois came back after a surprise licking to wallop De Paul of Chicago, 44-7.

Wisconsin showed plenty of reserve power in disposing of Marquette in its opener, 27-0, while Northwestern combined running with a tricky passing attack to defeat Kansas State, 21-0. Chicago, twice within two yards of a touchdown, lacked the final punch and finally settled for a scoreless tie with Bradley Tech. Notre Dame used 81 men to blast Kansas, 52-0.

Veteran Charlie Root on Hill As Chicago Captures Nightcap; Drop First Game by 4-3 Score

Irish Rout Jayhawkers Run Wild to Pile Up 50-0 Score; Denison Boy Stars

SOUTH END, Ind., Oct. 1 (AP)—Notre Dame's 51st football team, sparked by a classy sophomore and powered by almost a score of hard running ball carriers, rolled over Kansas, 52 to 0, today.

Opening their second half-century of football, the Irish scored in every period to rout the Jayhawkers and give promise of producing one of the strongest running games in recent Notre Dame gridiron history.

Something of a rarity in the Irish system, a first-year star, played a brilliant role in the triumph. Bob Saggaw of Denison, Iowa, six-foot sophomore, broke away for the longest touchdown run of the afternoon, 51 yards, and otherwise gave a brilliant account of himself at a school where it has been usual for sophomores to warm the bench their first season and hope for action in the second.

Wilson Hands In Resignation To Phillies

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1 (AP)—Jimmy Wilson resigned today as manager of the Philadelphia National league club, declaring his action was for the "best interests of all concerned."

"I have not been approached by anybody," he said, "but I have an idea I can be of value to several clubs and probably will make some connection during the world series."

His letter of resignation, handed to Club President Gerald Nugent one day before the Phillies close the season in the cellar, said "the time I spent with the club has been pleasant."

Broncs Win
PALO ALTO, Cal., Oct. 1 (AP)—Santa Clara, champion of the Sugar Bowl the last two years, opened its 1938 bid for national football recognition today with a 22 to 0 victory over Stanford university.

Power of Former Years Absent As Buckeyes Eke Win

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 1 (AP)—Ohio State's gridders, hardly the "scarlet scourge" of former years, took a long step toward the western conference title today by defeating the Hoosiers of Indiana 6 to 0 before 67,397 fans, a record opening day throng.

The Bucks, outgained through the air and on the ground by the lighter and faster Hoosiers, credited their victory to a couple of sophomores, and a couple of breaks which halted Indiana thrusts in the shadow of the goal posts.

Gabby's Injury May Keep Him From Starting in Series

By GAYLE TALBOT
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 1 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs, crippled but courageous, sewed up their third National league pennant in seven years by plastering the St. Louis Cardinals, 10 to 3, in the second game of a wild-eyed double header here today while their last rivals, the Pittsburgh Pirates, were bowing in Cincinnati.

The victory, scored in a 17-hit attack on four St. Louis pitchers, placed Gabby Hartnett's scrappers two full games ahead of the Pirates and placed tomorrow's concluding game in the light of an exhibition. It climaxed a pennant surge which saw the Cubs, standing fourth only two months ago, win 21 of their last 25 games, and out game the opposition.

When Charlie Root, 39-year-old veteran of 13 campaigns with the Cubs, forced Lynn Meyer of the Cards to pop up for the final out in the ninth inning, his exuberant teammates rushed to the mound and hoisted him upon their shoulders and carried him in triumph to the clubhouse. Root hurled a masterful ball, allowing only two scratch hits in the last six innings after he had got off to a shaky start.

The victory was won with Manager Gabby Hartnett, the champions' slugging catcher, moping in the dugout, nursing a pair of fingers damaged by foul tips. He charged out only once to beef at Umpire Dolly Stark, who didn't think that Demaree had been hit by a pitched ball.

It was doubtful Hartnett would be ready to play in the opening game against the New York Yankees next Wednesday at Wrigley field in Chicago. The index finger of his right hand was blue and badly swollen. However, he bellowed, "I'll get into that series if they have to fit me for crutches."

They were mournful souls for a time today, after Johnny Mize, poled a homer over the right-field pavilion in the eighth inning of the first game to beat them, 4-3. That left them desperate for a victory, as the score of the Pirates' game in Cincinnati had not yet been posted.

Child Study Club Hears Prof. Youtz

"The more richly equipped an adult is mentally and spiritually, all things being equal, the more successful as a parent he is." These words taken from Dorothy Canfield Fisher's "Parents are People" formed the keynote of the round table discussion led by Prof. May Pardee Youtz at the opening meeting of the Child Study club yesterday afternoon. A luncheon was served at 12:15, followed by the program.

Professor Youtz said that too often parents became so absorbed in the care and training of their children that they submerge their cultural interests in education. A portion of the speech was devoted to establish the fact that the ability to learn does not stop after adolescence or the first few years of adult life. The faculty of rapid learning decreases somewhat, but such a loss is made up in the enrichment of experience. Professor Youtz concluded her address by saying that the women of the home are, after all, individuals and should be given some time for intellectual pursuit.

HOSTESS HINTS

Do you want to serve something different at your open house? Cool as a glacier, coffee cream punch makes a debut in a snowy white dress as the star of refreshments. Floating islands of whipped cream melt deliciously with chocolate ice cream atop fragrant iced coffee to cool you off and pep you up.

It's simple, like all good things, but remember to make iced coffee double-strength (two tablespoons of coffee to each cup of water) and pour the hot coffee immediately over lots of ice. It's a knockout, this coffee punch, so try this recipe.

Coffee Cream Punch

1 quart freshly brewed coffee
1 quart chocolate ice cream
1-4 teaspoon almond flavoring
1-2 pint whipping cream

Nutmeg

Chill the coffee and pour into a punch bowl. Add one-half of the chocolate ice cream and stir until it is partially melted. Add the almond flavoring to the cream and whip until stiff. Place the whipped cream and the remaining ice cream alternately on top of the first mixture. Sprinkle the cream lightly with the nutmeg. Serves 12 to 15.

CHAPTER 30
 THE BOLANDS had a dog, a long-haired Dachshund, which belonged to Abbey. Now and then the dog was permitted in the house but no one paid much attention to him. Judy remembered him that Christmas morning, and asked the stable man if she might take him for a walk.

Ronald, amused, liking dogs, seconded the motion. They walked through the white woods. Sometimes they were together. More often single file with the dog going ahead, grateful for attention. They said little. Maybe Ronald's hand helped Judy over a fallen log. Maybe he laughed as she cleared it of her own volition.

They sat on a stile and talked while the clear blue air grew darker with the swift coming of December night. Ronald mentioned a case which he must try, one which had been Page One news for weeks. He went into the intricacies of law, and Judy, understanding little of it, listened eagerly, eyes shining. He asked her advice about some modest apartment into which he was moving. He mentioned a play he had seen, a book he had read. Finally, he broke off to say: "Judy, it rests me to talk to you. You're the best listener I've ever found."

"Is that a compliment?" "Decidedly! Most women want to tell you how they have shone, where they have been. They don't understand that a man pre-supposes that. He wants an audience."

(Sit in the gallery and applaud, Judy. He'll talk a while longer then!) But there was one question she wanted to ask, and presently she did: "Ronald, where did your people hail from? How did they get into the mountains?"

He laughed. "So that puzzles you, too?" They were Scotch-Irish. Somewhere around 1600, when a good king, James, sat on the English throne, he issued a command that the weavers of his kingdom had to bear heavy taxation unless they lived in merrie England. So the Scotch-Irish had to migrate—couldn't live on what was left when James had passed the crown for the income tax.

"My great grandfather—remove him enough times to get the lineage clear—was the younger son of an earl. He had gone into business—been almost ostracized because of it—so he came to America with the others. And they crossed to the mountains. His strain married and, well, we're mountaineers, that's all."

For no accountable reason Judy felt better. She called herself a snob for rejoicing that Ronald had known breeding and prestige somewhere in his lineage. After all, the native Scotch-Irish people were as clean, as fine, as morally sound, as any group that ever had taken ship to the brave new world.

"Let's not go home for a long time," Ronald was saying with the gay independence of a small boy. "I'm hungry. Could you eat dinner?"

They found a small tea room in the heart of the white forest, and the proprietor offered to have his wife prepare dinner since tea and toast did not satisfy the two hungry callers.

There was a slice of ham, a golden brown color. There were hot biscuits and honey, home fried potatoes, cottage cheese, a salad of crisp lettuce, tomatoes and cucumbers, and a mince pie for dessert. The dog fed lavishly, too.

In the moonlight they started to retrace their path, but the forest was dark and they had to hunt the main road. They were trudging along, humming a snatch of one carol, now another, when a car drew up.

Abbey's voice called: "Say, you two wanderers! How about a lift?"

"It would be great!" Ronald answered. "I'd adore it," sang Judy, wondering if it were truth or kindness that prompted Ronald's answer. "Can you take your magnificent pet?"

Already the chauffeur had opened the door, however, so the dog could ride with him.

The count was in the car. He said little. Abbey talked constantly, her voice a provocative, lilting stream of velvet words. In some way she pulled her tones down an octave, made them low. Much later in the evening, when the household was assembled downstairs, yawning, bored, trying to chatter over unimportant events, Count Phillippe sought out Judy.

"You're wholesome. I don't need to pretend. I'm taking the 11:10 to the city for a few days."

"Yes?" Why did he tell her? "Abbey and I have quarreled. Oh, not seriously. She thinks so, though. I'll stay away until she relents. Then I'll be back."

"If she doesn't relent?" "One always takes that chance. If not—" He shrugged his shoulders.

"But it's almost time for the wedding!" Had the two principals quarreled over Ronald—Ronald who had been so young and happy in the white woods today?

"That's why she'll come to terms! I don't like having my affianced wife conducting secrets with young attorneys. I told her so. And she denied it. After the wedding that is different! You are suggesting, aren't you, Miss Rogers, that I fear there will be no wedding? I fear nothing of the sort!"

"But you can't—I mean you are perfectly disgusting..." Judy was floundering in her words when Abbey, icy-eyed, velvet-voiced, came along. She said nothing but her chin went a little higher. Judy felt a pang of sympathy for her, another pang of contempt.

It was two days later that Abbey announced that her dog was missing. Since Abbey had paid such little attention to the animal, Judy was amused at her sudden concern. She had little time to think about it. Marie, the maid, who had been ill, returned and Coralee had been dismissed. She told Judy before leaving that she would return to Danceland.

"I'll get you a job as soon as I get one myself," Judy promised. "I want to meet your family, too." She hated to see the girl leave. In some strange way she found her to the outside world.

Late the next day Abbey made her astounding declaration. She did it in the presence of her father, the chauffeur, the gardener, the assistant gardener, the housekeeper—Judy did not look beyond them. Everyone was here. "I've had detectives tracing Boris!"—Boris was the dog—"and we have found him."

"Oh, I'm glad!" breathed Judy, whole-heartedly. The interruption was ignored. "He had been taken from home and sold, but we spy out through advertising and investigation where he was. I have reason to believe that the party who stole him is in my employ. The dog fancier, who bought him, said a girl brought him. She had his license with her."

There was a low hum of conversation. Abbey ignored it, her brows wide and serene, her voice breaking a little. "I'm so sorry, but I have every reason to believe it was—it was... If that person will speak up, we'll let the matter drop." There was silence.

Then Abbey turned to Judy: "Miss Rogers, did you sell my dog?" "I sell your dog?" If Abbey had asked Judy if she had confiscated the Hope diamond, ordered the sun to turn purple, or decided to walk on her head through Times square, she could not have been more amazed. Then anger asserted itself, tinged with contemptuous amusement. "Of course I didn't sell Boris! It would be contemptible! And I think I deserve an apology."

"You may have one—when we know the truth. You are dismissed." Court adjourned. The seed of suspicion planted in every mind. If she left, it would be taken as a sign of guilt. But how could she stay with doubt watching her from every pair of eyes? Mr. Boland interrupted: "Abbey, you can't mean that! I beg your pardon most humbly, Miss Rogers!"

First Blaze in 31 Days Causes Little Damage to Station

Following a siege of quiet during September the Iowa City fire department responded yesterday at 7:25 a. m. to a call from Jack Cudill's filling station at 800 S. Dubuque street.

The first fire of the new month caused little damage to one of the gas pumps in front of the station. It was easily extinguished with chemical tanks. Mr. Cudill said the origin of the fire was unknown.

Although all has been quiet on the fire front for the past month Fire Chief James J. Clark anticipates more action with the approach of cold weather and cautions citizens of Iowa City to check their heating systems before winter firing.

PLANS FOR THE FUTURE— Or Where Do I Go From Here—

Things are always happening to me. . . There I was, just settling down for a long winter's nap. . . And then College Humor pops up. . . College Humor pops up with a pink questionnaire. . .

It was all right for a while. . . Where I was born I knew, how long I've been a college communist (the reason for the business of questioning. . . they're to have a feature on columns.) I'm never allowed to forget. . . But then this hit my eye, "What are your plans for the future?" It asked. . . Which stopped me. . .

That was four days ago, and here I sit still trying to figure it out. . . To tell the truth I hadn't realized I had a future before. . . Just one clock tick. . . You never know what'll happen after the next clock tick; that's what I always say. . .

And then College Humor has to come along. . . Well, let's see — plans for the future. . . etc. . . etc. . .

First, of course, there're those two novels, one on college life. (I'm calling it the University of Wiscandia. . . And then titling it "Shadow-Boxing". . . There'll have to be a couple of chapters on the Greeks.)

And the one about the family of 12 that's my mother's and that helped build Iowa. (Originally enough, autobiographical. . . I think I'll call that, "Forget Not Yet." . . (Which sounds something like Gone With the Wind) . . .

NBCS? I've plans for radio. . . The H. V. Kallenborn of 1948 is none too high a goal, probably. . . Informed, unprejudiced accounts of the world-at-large, the world-at-small.

In New York they're looking for another O. O. McIntyre, and W. Winchell has to die some day soon. He's been overworking lately. . . And over in Washington, even Jay Franklin could be a bit more enthusiastic. . . And as for Raymond

Clapper, he's no Ph.D. . .

Washington The book on Washington could come along here anywhere. . . Is it as unromantic as they say? . . . Are there men in politics with both intelligence and integrity or either? . . . Is democracy or Democracy worth worrying about? . . . I'll answer the questions.

Probably about then I'll hurry over to Europe for that foreign correspondence. . . With the sensitiveness of Vincent Sheean, the understanding of Vincent Sheean and the humanity of Negley Farson. . .

The Guggenheim fellowship next. . . that's for two years—or 10—in Russia. . . And finding out personally the answers to a few questions.

Is it the hope or despair of economics? . . . I don't know—yet.

I thought it'd be fun, too, if I could get out to Hollywood for a few years. . . I couldn't do much worse. . .

I plan to make a small fortune early, so that I, like Johnny Case, can retire early. . . I want to catch up on my lost sleep. . .

I'm looking forward to reading all the 10,000 best books and seeing the rest of the world first-hand. . .

Degrees There are all those degrees too. . . What do you study after a Ph.D.? . .

And, I'm young yet. . . That's only the beginning. . .

S. U. I. Of course, meantime, College Humor, there's the University of Iowa. . . That threatens to keep me busy for some years to come. . . If I get the military and phys ed requirements completed, I'll let you know. . . We can go on from there —if I get my beard untangled. . .

Hoping this answers your question, I remain, Your Iowa City Correspondent, Merle Miller.

CHEAP ELECTRICITY

to chase away rub-a-dub day

Every woman who has washed clothes in the old tub with the old board is thankful for her electric washing machine. Wash day meant long hours of hard toil with many aches and pains until cheap electricity came along. Today, the housewife tosses her clothes in the electric washer and lets electricity do all of the tiresome back-breaking work.

Did you know that you could wash an entire laundry for five persons for only a few cents worth of electricity? It's true . . . because electricity is cheap.

First Blaze in 31 Days Causes Little Damage to Station

Following a siege of quiet during September the Iowa City fire department responded yesterday at 7:25 a.m. to a call from Jack Cudill's filling station at 800 S. Dubuque street.

The first fire of the new month caused little damage to one of the gas pumps in front of the station. It was easily extinguished with chemical tanks. Mr. Cudill said the origin of the fire was unknown.

Although all has been quiet on the fire front for the past month Fire Chief James J. Clark anticipates more action with the approach of cold weather and cautions citizens of Iowa City to check their heating systems before winter firing.

A six-day week of 28-hour days is the goal of the research of University of Chicago's Bruce Richardson and Dr. Nathaniel Kleitman. To make the study they secluded themselves in a Kentucky cave away from changes in illumination, temperature and sound, tried to adjust themselves to the change in living schedule. Result: One could, the other couldn't.

DON'T LET TENSION "GET" YOUR NERVES!

Collie

Rough-coated Collie's ancestry is as old as sheep-herding itself. Name from Anglo-Saxon "col" meaning black. Scotch called them "colley dogs" after the black-faced "colley" sheep they tended. Noted for acute hearing, extraordinary homing sense devotion to duty.

He's giving his nerves a rest . . .

and so is he

THIS Collie dog has a nervous system that is remarkably similar to yours. Like yours it is delicate, complicated. But here is where a big difference comes in: The dog can spring into flashing action—and then relax, while man's nature makes him unkind to his nerves. All too often, we work too hard, worry too much, are fatigued or sleepless from strain. Nerves cry for rest, but we do not hear. Don't let tension

"get" your nerves. Give your nerves a frequent rest—take time for a Camel. Camels help you to remember that you need a brief bit of leisure, for they are mild and mellow, a supremely enjoyable cigarette, made from costlier tobaccos. Smokers find that "LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL" puts more joy into living, and that Camel's costlier tobaccos are mild and soothing to their nerves.

There's more joy in living when you "Let up—light up a Camel"

RALPH GULDAHL (right), golf champion, reveals an "inside" story. "I've learned to ease up now and again—to take time for a Camel. It's the little breaks in daily nerve tension that help to keep a fellow on top. Smoking a Camel gives me a feeling of well-being. Here is a cigarette that is soothing to my nerves!"

MISS OLLIE TUCKER (left), office manager, says: "I can't afford to get nervous. My method is to let up, and light up a Camel. It's a grand way to smooth out tense nerves. I smoke Camels a lot. They're so mild and flavory. Camels are soothing to my nerves. Most of my friends who seem always at ease prefer Camels."

DID YOU KNOW:

That there are 26 different types of American-grown tobacco, by U. S. government standards? That Camel buyers study soil conditions, weather, local curing methods? They know where the choice grades are. It is a recognized fact in the tobacco trade that
