Homecoming Mass Meeting Tonight at Old Capitol

Rules Augment Previous Anti- Jewish Decree

Parade Units Will Meet On West Approach

Event Will Launch 27th Homecoming With Music, Talks

With Donald Mallet, director of the housing service, as master of ceremonies, the largest mass meeting of the University of Iowa year will gather shortly after 7:30 tonight on the west approach to Old Capitol.

With the event, the university's 27th Homecoming will begin.

Many of those who will participate were named last night by Prof. Harry G. Barnes, of the speech department, chairman of the program committee.

President Eugene A. Gilmore will speak, as will Mayor Myron J. Walker of Iowa City. Prof. Karl Leib of the commerce department, chairman of the athletic board, will speak. Prof. E. G. Schroeder, head of the physical education division, will also appear.

Coach Irl Tubbs is scheduled to appear on the program. James Brockway of Muscatine, a University of Iowa alumnus who played with the Hawkeyes in 1900, will also participate, in addition to other representatives of the alumni group.

Four parades, beginning at widely separated points in Iowa City, will move off shortly before 7:30, arriving together at Old Capitol at 7:35, when the mass meeting program will begin.

WSUI will carry a broadcast of the proceedings beginning at 7:30.

Headed by detachments of the University of Iowa band, each led by a drum major, and the Scottish Highlanders, the parade groups will gather at the Sigma Nu fraternity on north Dubuque street, at Washington street park, before Delta Upsilon fraternity and at the Quadrangle.

The Quadrangle parade will move off toward Old Capitol at precisely 7:30, marching according to the mapped diagram to the scene of the meeting.

The Delta Upsilon group will begin their march to Old Capitol at 7:18 1-2 p.m., the Sigma Nu group at 7:22 1-2 p.m., and the Washington street park group at 7:24 1-2 p.m.

All students and townspeople are urged to go to their nearest parade centers before the hour of that parade's departure.

Upon arrival at Old Capitol, the program will begin. The band and Scottish Highlanders will start the show with a colorful musical display. The band will feature Iowa songs throughout the parade and during the mass meeting.

Only in case of unfavorable weather will the affair be held indoors — at the armory. It will begin at 7:30, without the preliminary parades.

De Valera To Ask Plebiscite

DUBLIN, Oct. 6 (AP)—An informed source today disclosed Prime Minister Eamon De Valera had seized the moment following upon the Munich settlement of Czechoslovakia's minority problem to raise in London the question of the existent partition of Ireland.

Ireland's prime minister stopped at No. 10 Downing street on his way home from Geneva Oct. 4 to talk with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain who was fresh from Munich where partition of Czechoslovakia was agreed.

It was learned De Valera indicated Ireland felt the time was opportune for a plebiscite in parts of northern Ireland's six counties which are under the jurisdiction of the Belfast parliament and a governor appointed by the king.

Government circles in Dublin predicted that four of the six counties now cut off from the Dublin government would vote for Dublin if such a plebiscite were held.

Tell, New York-born De Valera was understood to have emphasized to Chamberlain that Ireland could not be left out of any general settlement of the minority problems of Europe.

Brown Offers Benes Position As Professor

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 6 (AP)—Czechoslovakia's resigned president, Dr. Eduard Benes, has been offered a visiting professorship at Brown university, Dr. Henry M. Wriston, head of the school, said tonight.

Dr. Wriston said the university had offered Benes, who resigned as his nation's leader Wednesday, a position as visiting professor of international relations. The university also offered to pay Benes' traveling expenses, Dr. Wriston said.

The offer, Dr. Wriston explained, was made through Stephen Dugan, director of the Institute of International Education, who cabled to Benes from New York.

Czechs Strive To Weld State

Slovaks Win Unity; Tisot Is New Head; He Will Back Prague

PRAGUE, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Czechoslovak government launched a determined program today to build a more unified republic by binding together Czechs and Slovaks remaining within its narrow borders.

The first step came with the appointment of Dr. Joseph Tisot, vice president of the Slovak people's party, as "prime minister for Slovakia" in the new Prague government.

His appointment, granting the Slovaks autonomy within the frame work of the Czechoslovak government, was requested by the Slovak people's party which formed a coalition with two other Slovak political groups—the nationalists and agrarians.

Reaffirm Independence
The Slovaks, holding their congress at Zilina, reaffirmed their independence by promised cooperation with the Czechs in an effort to maintain the republic.

Dr. Tisot, moving quickly to obtain the equal representation of his followers in Prague as promised by Premier Jan Syrovky, nominated two members of his party for Slovak ministerial posts. They were Martin Sokol and Karl Sider.

He will propose the nomination of additional ministers for special duties to fulfill the aims of the Prague government to produce unity among the nation's Czechs and Slovaks.

The Czech half of the republic—the old kingdom of Bohemia—meanwhile was almost in a state of siege from slowly encircling German domination.

Faces Prospects

The prospects faced tonight by Bohemia, as a result of a decision of the International Sudetenland commission at Berlin last night, were:

1—The occupation of a fifth zone which gave to the Germans a major portion of the famed Moravian gateway fortifications once pronounced by a French military commission as "stronger than the Maginot line."

2—Virtual isolation, since rail communications and highways would be barred by German control under the commission plan.

3—The loss of many coal mines and industries under the fifth zone agreement which the Czechs characterized as "summarily approved without asking us."

4—The loss of telephone connections with the outside world. Telegraph and radio would be the only communications left.

The predicament of thousands of non-Nazi Germans, social democrats and communists who fled Sudetenland to the interior of Czechoslovakia was growing serious.

Scenes bordering on panic were enacted in Prague as the German circle drew slowly around the capital.

Jews were striving to leave the country but were afraid of being caught in the Sudeten areas.

Alpha Xi Delta Group Remains In Badge Lead

Alpha D Pi Ranks Second, Chi Omega Third, Says Kuever

The Alpha Xi Deltas were still the leaders last night, as the third day's totals of the annual Homecoming badge sale contest were announced by Dean R. A. Kuever of the college of pharmacy, chairman of the badge committee.

Alpha Delta Pi, leaders the first day, were still in second place, with the Chi Omegas third.

A total of 1,320 badges were sold yesterday. Although the A D PIs were still in second place, that organization yesterday sold 508 badges, while the Alpha Xi Deltas were slightly behind with a total of 491 for the day.

The sale will continue today.

and plastic arts department, designed this year's badge. "His design was selected from 25 which were submitted between Feb. 1 and May 15.

Proceeds from the badge, which costs only 10 cents, go for various Homecoming expenses, including the corn monument and entertainment for the thousands of guests who come to the city for the event.

Mayor Myron J. Walker of Iowa City said of the sale yesterday: "Every student, Iowa City resident and visitor who wears a Homecoming badge has signified his loyalty to Iowa's team and to the capable men who are in charge of that team."

"The badge is a symbol that its bearer is a part of Homecoming. We hope that every visitor will get into the spirit of the season and feel at all times that Iowa City is his second home, and each visit will recall pleasant days spent on the campus."

The badge sale will continue until Saturday afternoon. Betty Coffin, A2 of Farmington, is captain of the Alpha Xi Delta group; Alice Erickson, C4 of Roland, captains the Chi Omegas, and Gwen Tudor, A3 of Olin, is leader of the Alpha Delta Pi group.

Strikers Await Peace Meeting

SIoux CITY, Oct. 6 (AP)—Quiet prevailed in the Swift packing house strike here tonight as both sides awaited a peace conference to be held tomorrow.

Company executives and union representatives agreed to the meeting today. The conference will be the third since the week old strike began. Two earlier meetings ended in disagreement, C.I.O. union's demands for recognition of a grievance committee and the dismissal of 154 employees of the company.

Other important phases of the situation today were the inauguration of a "back to work" movement by former employees of the plant and the arrival of B. J. Weidner of Minneapolis, regional director of the national labor relations board, and that a hearing would be held here Oct. 17 on charges of the union that the Swift company had violated the Wagner labor law.

Meanwhile the entire city police force was put on 12-hour shifts today. Chief Ray Mahr said the move was necessary to provide the city with adequate protection while 16 men were stationed at the Swift plant.

Police this afternoon removed a union car, usually stationed in front of the main gate, and replaced it with a squad car. All was quiet at the strike scene tonight and the number of pickets was greatly reduced.

New York May Hear Roosevelt; No Other State

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt was represented today by an authoritative source as having decided to make no campaign speeches in any state with the possible exception of New York, where a test of extraordinary importance is in prospect.

This disclosure was made after a democratic delegation from Pennsylvania called on the president here at the summer White House.

Pennsylvania Secretary of State David Lawrence, a member of that group, made a similar report, adding that Mr. Roosevelt had not been asked to speak in Pennsylvania.

State Officials To See Game

Dignitaries, Alumni, Politicians Arriving For Homecoming

High state officials, candidates for election next month, and prominent alumni will be among the official guests at Iowa's 27th Homecoming tomorrow.

Prof. Bruce E. Mahan, official host, announced yesterday that some 225 persons had accepted the invitation of the university to attend the football game between Iowa and Wisconsin Saturday afternoon.

Governor Nelson G. Krasschel will head a group of officers which includes Lieut. Gov. John K. Valentine, Robert E. O'Brien, secretary of state; John H. Mitchell, attorney general; and C. W. Storms, state auditor.

United States Senator Guy M. Gillette will be present, as will Congressmen William S. Jacobson, John W. Gwynne, Lloyd Thurston, Cassius C. Dowell, and Fred C. Gilchrist.

All of the members of the state board of education and the finance committee of the board, headed by President George T. Baker, have accepted the invitation. President Clarence A. Dykstra of the University of Wisconsin and President Charles E. Friley of Iowa State college will be the university's guests.

Six justices of the Iowa supreme court, 29 state senators, and 61 state representatives will attend. The roster also includes numerous candidates for the legislature as well as aspirants for state and national offices.

Among the other guests will be Harry M. Green, Iowa highway commissioner; Agnes Samuelson, superintendent of public instruction; Charles H. Grahl, adjutant general; Dr. Walter L. Biering of the state board of health, and M. P. Conway of the state commerce commission.

France Wants Russia as Ally

PARIS, Oct. 6 (AP)—Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet intimated tonight before the foreign affairs committee of the chamber of deputies that France still wants the Soviet Union's big army on her side despite any agreement she may reach with Germany.

Bonnet said he "hoped" Russia would join the rejected international guarantee of what is left of Czechoslovakia. Committee members said he expressed the stand of the French government.

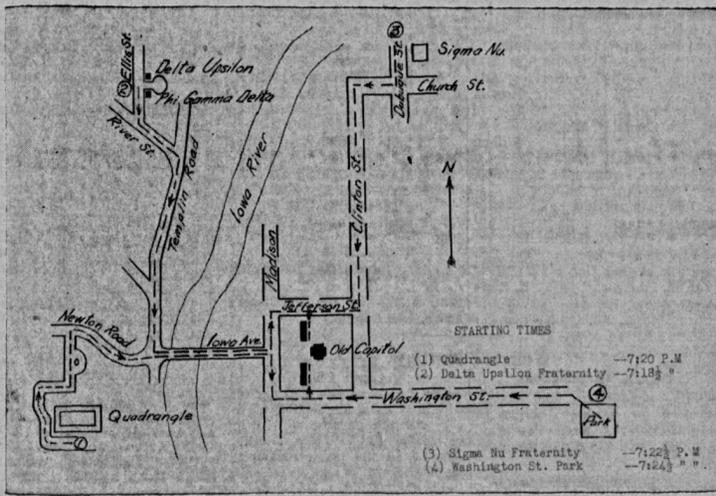

Reichsfuehrer Hitler has been reported insistently opposed to Russian participation in the guarantee.

It appeared, however, that the French and British governments had ruled against exclusion of Russia.

The reading of a telegram from Hitler to former Premier Pierre Etienne Flandin caused an uproar at another point in the committee meeting.

The Fuehrer thanked Flandin for his efforts toward "complete collaboration between France and Germany."

Tonight's Line of March

The line of march of tonight's four parades, which will converge for a giant mass meeting west of Old Capitol, is pictured above. Students and townspeople will go to the nearest of the four spots where parades will begin, pa-radings to Old Capitol to the marches of University of Iowa bandsmen and Scottish Highlanders. The times of departure are as follows: Sigma Nu group, 7:22 1/2 p.m.; Washington street park, 7:24 1/2 p.m.; Delta Upsilon, 7:18 1/2 p.m., and Quadrangle, 7:20 p.m. A rousing program, with Donald Mallet as master of ceremonies, will launch the Homecoming season at the close of the parades.

Plebiscites May Be Discarded

Newsman Ask Official Probe Of U. S. Labor

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—A recommendation for the appointment of a special commission to investigate domestic labor conditions in the hope of bringing peace to labor's factions was made today to President Roosevelt by Heywood Brown and Morris Watson of the American Newspaper guild, who reported he was giving the matter consideration.

Brown said the commission might make a study of labor conditions at home similar to that made recently by a special finding committee in Great Britain and Sweden.

Like that which investigated abroad, the proposed new group would make no recommendations, Brown said, but it might contribute materially to labor peace by making known facts on the present situation.

Besides reporting on organized labor, the commission would study the problems of unorganized workers. Farmers would be consulted to ascertain whether their interests paralleled those of labor.

Brown said he mentioned to Mr. Roosevelt several persons as possible members of the special commission, involving Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York; Gen. Hugh S. Johnson; Jonathan Daniels, North Carolina editor; Edward F. McGrady, former assistant secretary of labor; Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.); William Allen White, Kansas editor, and J. M. Patterson, publisher of the New York Daily News.

He added that creation of a special commission would avoid the necessity for a peace gesture by either the American Federation of Labor or the Committee for Industrial Organization.

A complete picture of the present labor situation, he said, "is a necessary prelude to any kind of unity in the labor movement."

It was possible, the columnist added, that legislation might be initiated after the committee reports. Such legislation could be drafted by some member of congress who had analyzed the commission report, he said.

Brown and Watson talked with newspapermen in the presence of Stephen Early, White House secretary. Early commented that a fact-finding commission might make a report which would be of considerable value.

HALT DEATH Kansas City Observes Traffic Record

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 6 (AP)—Every traffic light in the city remained on red for a minute at 7 o'clock here tonight. Automobile and street car traffic paused for that minute in quiet observance of Kansas City's second consecutive year without a traffic accident fatal to an elementary school child.

OIL Tanker Explodes
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The Standard Oil company tanker E. J. Bullock sank in the Gulf of Mexico near the dry Tortugas late yesterday less than two hours after an explosion set the 435-foot vessel afire.

German-Czech Officials Make Much Headway

BERLIN, Oct. 6 (AP)—Both German and Czechoslovak sources indicated tonight their countries might settle the issue of Sudetenland areas with mixed populations without resorting to a plebiscite.

The question of the mixed areas is the next to be solved in the progressive realization of the terms of the four-power Munich accord.

That accord marked out four zones in Czechoslovakia to be occupied by tomorrow by German troops—and the last of the zones was in process of occupation today.

It also empowered the international commission now functioning in Berlin to determine the remaining territory of preponderantly German character to be occupied by German soldiers by next Monday.

The commission defined this area last night and it was estimated that it and the four zones granted at Munich would give Germany approximately 5,000 square miles.

The next step for the international commission under the Munich accord would be to determine territories which would vote in a plebiscite for union with Germany or for staying with Czechoslovakia.

But so favorably have negotiations progressed since yesterday's resignation of Eduard Benes as president of Czechoslovakia that prospects brightened every hour for settling the question of the mixed areas without the necessity of a plebiscite.

It was stated emphatically that no threat of any kind had been issued on the part of Germany to compel action by the commission favorable to her.

The commission, it was said, was proceeding on the basis of the Munich agreement and Germany had done nothing to exceed what was conceded there.

On the contrary, one Nazi spokesman said, "We would be fools to disturb an all-around European understanding now in the process of making by haggling over this or that village or this or that rural district."

The Czechoslovaks protested at using the 1910 population figures for delimiting the fifth zone.

Explosion Kills 151
TOKYO (AP)—A coal mine explosion at Yubari, Hokkaido, northernmost main island of Japan, was believed yesterday to have taken 151 lives.

Limit Participation In National Affairs, Business, Marriage

ROME, Oct. 7 (Friday) (AP)—The fascist grand council ended a midnight session early today by issuing a sweeping series of regulations limiting the participation of Jews in Italy's national life.

After a four and a half hour session devoted largely to racial questions, fascism's supreme policy-making body banned all marriages between Italians and "African, Semitic and other races."

Civilian and military employees of the state were forbidden to marry "foreign women of whatever race," and other Italians were required to have the interior ministry's permission before contracting any foreign marriage.

The council declared "world Hebrewism, especially after the abolition of masonry, has been the inspirer of anti-fascism in all fields."

"Hebrewism abroad or among Italian exiles has been in some periods like 1924 and 1925 and during the Ethiopian war unanimously hostile to fascism."

The grand council prohibited Italian Jews from:

1. Enrollment in the fascist party.
2. Owning or managing business firms of any sort employing more than 100 persons.
3. Owning more than 50 hectares (123.5 acres) of land.
4. Entering Italy's military services in peace or wartime.

Excluded from the anti-Jewish regulations were relatives of soldiers killed in the Libyan, World, Ethiopian or Spanish wars. Also exempt were families of war veterans or volunteers, and of Italians who were killed or wounded fighting for the fascist cause including the march on Fiume in 1919.

The grand council declared the decrees would apply to Italians both of whose parents were Jews, or whose father was Jewish and mother Aryan as well as those whose parents professed the Jewish religion whatever their race.

It announced that additional provisions would be made public later regulating the activities of Jews in professions such as law, medicine and engineering.

Broadening the anti-Jewish program which Italy first announced Sept. 1, the grand council offered Jews the prospect of seeking sanctuary in Ethiopia saying that it "did not exclude the possibility of conceding controlled zones of Ethiopia, even deflecting such emigrations from Palestine."

Six weeks ago Premier Mussolini's regime ordered all Jews who have settled in Italy since Jan. 1, 1919, shortly after close of the World war, to leave Italy within six months.

Census figures released two days ago said there were approximately 70,000 Jews in Italy.

Jews already have been excluded from state-recognized schools, universities and other educational bodies.

Public Enemy Dies
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) (Friday)—Sardonic Adam Richetti, a forgotten man of the big time public enemies, died in Missouri's lethal gas chamber early today for the part he played in Kansas City's union station massacre of 1933.

Arrest Two
OTTAWA, Ill. (AP)—Two men were arrested yesterday and were held in La Salle county jail for questioning about the $60,000 robbery of two bank messengers Wednesday.

Good Cheer In the News

WHAT with all the unhappy news that comes over the wires every night, it's an occasional pleasure to discover something cheerful in the news on occasion. For example, last night every traffic light in Kansas City showed red for a full minute. Kansas City had just concluded its second consecutive year without a traffic accident fatal to an elementary school child. That's good news according to anyone's definition.

Letters To The Editor

Editor, The Daily Iowan: HOMECOMING is a queer religion to an old graduate. Each year we make the same sort of pilgrimage to Iowa City. Each year, instead of putting a dime in the collection box, we shove a piece of pasteboard into an usher's hand and watch him tear our offering brutally in two. And we like it.

There isn't such a lot we have in common today, but that day is just the other side of your diploma. After you've graduated you'll wonder why, when you were in school, you couldn't quite understand why returning grads were so downright funny. Most of us who come back are a little gray at the temples and every time we laugh we scare up a wrinkle or two. Some of those wrinkles and lots of those laughs had their beginnings back in the early 20's. The day a bunch of Elmer Cornstasles from Iowa went down east and planted cleats instead of corn in the Yale bowl. The result wasn't corn flakes, but Iowa 6, Yale 0. In Iowa City some of the boys built a bonfire (a very weak word) on the corner of Clinton and Washington. And the ancestors of the present-day jitterbugs had a dance on the street. The following Monday a couple of conscientious professors tried to hold classes. The phrase "holding the bag" was coined for them.

If some of the alums were as interested in case history as most doctors are they could probably trace that touch of arthritis to the day in 1929 when Bill Glasgow and company dedicated the new Iowa stadium. Iowa tied Illinois 7-7. It rained for days and nights that afternoon. Instead of filing out of the stadium we dripped out—like the new drip coffee.

What I've been trying to say and somehow haven't been able to, is that once Iowa gets in your blood (and it does) it will never run out on you. You'll be back every year just like we are. Be tolerant of us this week end. Some of us will be dashing from place to place like stray dogs. Others of us will want to stand a long time in the same place and look at things which seem pretty drab to you who see them every day. They used to be drab to us. Our actions now are all a part of the ghost story of coming back, ridiculous, yet thrilling.

Believe me when I tell you that Iowa river is at no place quite like it is where it rolls under the Iowa avenue bridge. And the display of lights on Chicago's Boul Michigan will never do the same by your sentiments as the shafts of light and shadow that fall around Old Capitol late at night.

Sincerely, Erik Isgrig.

If it's true that back seat drivers cause many accidents, it's just as well they didn't have automobiles in King Solomon's day.

Shops for Ponies; Purchases Elephants: CHICAGO (AP)—Louis Meitus went out to buy five shetland ponies for his children and brought back two elephants and six horses. He heard that a circus was selling out at auction up in Sheboygan, Wis. Though he set out to buy shetland ponies, the elephants caught his eye. One of the horses did a special "football" act and the other five looked quite clever. So Mr. Meitus forgot the shetlands, brought home the elephants and horses. He said he would put on shows for "poor kids." He said, "I'm having more fun than I've had for years."

Refuses to Stop Crickets' Chirping: WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP)—Crickets can chirp to their hearts content in any Waukegan home so far as Corporation Counsel George S. McGaughey is concerned. Citizens petitioned the city council to do something about the horde of crickets chirping in parlors, bedrooms and kitchens. The council passed the buck to McGaughey and he came back with a ruling to the effect that no law can stop them.

One of the early season football gains not seen in the tabulated sports page results: Hitler—first down on the Czech's 40-yard line, ten yards to go.

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The recent crisis in Europe seemed to be a "breather" for the communists in New York. People didn't go around taunting them while the USSR was closely allied with Britain and France in the Czech affair. During this period of indecision abroad I had occasion to attend a Red meeting, and I was surprised to find them looking like anybody else. They wore suits of clothes, with ties and collars, and even shoes. Then a man with a sweater and a mass of wavy red hair got up and made a speech. I couldn't understand what he was talking about, but I did gather that the Fascists must be destroyed before the world revolution could successfully be brought about.

After the speech a motion picture was shown and it told a story of oppression in czarist days. The only trouble was that the grand dukes were such fine looking fellows that the poor oppressed underdog looked like a thug. Too, he was a very bad actor, and the meeting wound up with everybody cheering for the grand dukes.

Later I attended a meeting for the Czechs in Madison Square Garden, and the thought occurred that if the Czechs had all these New York patriots at home they wouldn't need help from the Allies to fight their battles. There were many communists attending this meeting too, all cheering loudly for the little beleaguered state and casting dark looks in the direction of Yorkville, which is the German neighborhood in Manhattan. For a while I thought they might mistake East River for the Rhine, but after awhile everybody agreed that the Czechs should be helped and, amid much hissing for Herr Hitler, everybody went home.

On the way home I dropped by a nightclub in Greenwich Village just as a white-headed gentleman came in. He was an impressive figure, and by the way he took to the rumba music I recognized him instantly. By their bocha-ing ye shall know them, you know. It was former President Machado of Cuba, out for a little Latin exercising. The former executive, who was flushed from his capitol a few years back like a wild pigeon, is one of New York's foremost exponents of the tango and the rumba. He is a tireless dancer and can dance the night through (in fact, he frequently does) without sign of fatigue.

Which reminds me that probably the best informal dancer in New York is a former machine gunner in the German army. But he is an American citizen now and insists nothing could induce him to return to Europe. Why? "I like this freedom over here," he says. "Never saw anything like it before."

Our ex-gunner now makes his living selling insurance, and he sells lots of it. He has never danced professionally and doesn't expect to, although he has had opportunities to go on the stage. "I dance for fun because I like it, and my wife, she is the best dancer, for me, that I ever saw."

His wife is a petite American girl from Cleveland, with grey, laughing eyes and dark hair. The only Fatherland he's interested in, she says, is THIS one. To which he supplements a firm "Yes." He didn't even say, "Ja."

HOLLYWOOD — Everybody knows you can't keep a good Barrymore down, but the transformation of John, the youngest, strikes me as the most amazing coup in that amazing family. Just a few years ago John, the big romantic star, was as particular about his profile as even Claudette Colbert, who had an entire set for "Tovarich" rebuilt rather than make an entrance showing the "wrong" side of her face. Don't know that John ever had sets rebuilt, but he was plenty demanding, living up to his professional status as a "great lover."

Barrymore went into a skid when the years made great-loving rather ridiculous for him, but he has skidded up again—by turning on the comedy at which he was always best, and by throwing his profile out the window. To realize how far he's thrown it, see "Hold That Coed" and then see—or remember—the John of such lyrically love-dovey silent pieces as "Eternal Love," "The Beloved Rogue" and "Don Juan!"

Corrigan's in the right place, making a movie based on his life. Hollywood has been shooting pictures backwards for years—and its critics still say it does things the wrong way. . . . Reminds me, there was a movie once that actually did go the wrong way. . . . Started at the end, with the hero's funeral, and went back from there. . . . Fine picture, too, "The Power and the Glory," and Spencer Tracy was every bit the actor he is today—but it didn't make a penny's worth at the pay-windows.

Eddie Cantor's going to make pictures for RKO and Metro—and it was only months ago that Zanuck (20th Century-Fox) and Cantor were protesting undying affection at the big Cantor testimonial banquet. . . . They made one picture together, then phooey! . . . Story trouble—same as Eddie had with Sam Goldwyn.

Bert Leeds — he's Herbert I. Leeds in the screen credits—is one boy who knew what he wanted and went after it. A cutter at Warner's for five years, he tired of promises of a directing job and switched lots. . . . Twentieth gave him a "Jones Family" to do, and after that "Island in the Sky," Jane Withers' "Keep Smiling," then the Quintuplet feature, and now "Arizona Wildcat," again with Jane—all in less than a year.

Wonder what was in Nancy Carroll's thoughts the other evening. . . . Saw her leaving a preview in which she'd done a minor role, and she walked alone through the autographic lanes—with NO takers! All the kids were watching for the exit of Virginia Bruce, the STAR.

They're tearing down and rebuilding the old "U" lot. . . . Spending a million on new stages and offices, tearing down the relics of Hollywood's beginnings. . . . Sentimentalists are weeping quietly—because here practically all of Hollywood's once great and now great have worked, one time or another. . . . Me, I'm glad. . . . Of all the lots in town, this one has been the most depressing, a regular romping ground for movie ghosts.

New Chemical Formula Found To Explain Sex

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

AP Science Editor STATE COLLEGE, Penn., Oct. 6—A new chemical formula to explain the puzzling origin of sex hormones was announced today by Pennsylvania State college.

The formula, as yet only a prediction, upset old ideas about sex. It forecasts that both men and women get their sex hormones from cortin, a well-known product of the adrenal glands, two cap-shaped bodies above the kidneys which have no apparent connection with sex.

Sex hormones are the chemicals which cause the difference between masculine and feminine voices, good looks and personalities; regulate reproduction, and indirectly affect general health.

When first discovered, there were supposed to be two, one male, the other female, both from sex glands. The male hormone would cause combs to grow on hens. Everything seemed simple.

Then it was discovered that these hormones did not act except under stimulation of an entirely non-sex hormone made by the pituitary gland at the base of the brain.

That complication was nothing compared to what happened afterward, especially in the last two or three years. A bewildering variety of sex hormones has come to light. Men make female hormones and vice versa. Women make male hormones that no man produces.

Untangling this has become almost critical, because each of these chemical products, although only slightly different from its fellows, has some specific action on a human being's welfare.

One of the leaders in uncovering this sex maze is Dr. Russell E. Marker, associate professor of organic chemistry at Penn State. He notes that all these sex substances are chemicals made of four rings of atoms. Their similarities render fairly certain the nature of the "mother" substance of them all.

Doctor Marker thinks he has found this "parent" in cortin. Cortin is essential to life. It regulates the salts, sodium and potassium in the tissues. It too has the "four ring" structure.

who was just a little stock girl at Paramount when Nancy was a movie queen. . . . I don't know what Nancy was thinking, but I do know that she held her head up and smiled while she thought it—and it seemed to me that a girl who can do that has licked Hollywood.

TUNING IN

By Loren Hickerson

MAX REINHARDT . . . is pioneering again this season, this time on the radio front, with an experimental theater of the air embodied in a commercial program. Original air plays will have a permanent 18-minute spot on the Texaco Star Theater, which opened Wednesday night with Adolph Menjou, fresh from a smashing success in "Letter of Introduction," as master of ceremonies. Talent for the shows will be drawn from Reinhardt's Workshop. Guest stars from screen and stage have the leading roles. "I hope this project will lead to elimination of those unsatisfying condensations of plays and movies," says Reinhardt. "The art of producing plays exclusively for radio must be developed or air dramatics will wane in popularity and expire. "The trend toward brevity in entertainment has reached its apex in radio. Audiences of yore sat enthralled through nine hours of a stage play; the age of restlessness cut them down to the present three; came two-hour movies, then one and one-half. And now, radio's half-hour and 15-minute plays. "The basic need is writers for a new, original form of radio drama. At the Workshop I am not interested in the terrific task of trying to adapt old writers in the stage and screen field to this new form of playwriting. I am developing new writers—and new actors—who have not written or had dramatic training in the other fields. "The road to perfecting a genuine theater of the air is beset with difficulties. One of the first is the speed with which rehearsals must be accomplished. In overcoming this, I have the assistance of Bill Bacher, producer of the Star Theater. Bill is a member of the Workshop faculty, and my good friend. "Another phase which is occupying us greatly at the moment is the best method of introducing montage in radio plays. Montage is the indication of lapses of time as, in movies, the period of the World War passing is shown by marching columns, exploding bombs and roaring guns. How to work that with sound only is a nice problem. "Crowd noises are another thorn in our side. We must figure out how to blend them in better, keeping the voices of the principals distinct at the same time. The preceding paragraphs are a part of the story of Max Reinhardt himself—the famous Viennese showman and actor who has not aged with the times. New York was not bought from the Indians with cash, but with merchandise, research reveals. The Dutch probably gave 'em some policy slips. Television sets are offered at low prices. Now I suppose we'll be seeing yellow baskets as well as hearing about 'em, not to mention mulberry bushes.

NOT FUNNY . . . But worth repeating is the story of Joe DuMond, NBC's Josh Higgins, who en route to Des Moines to confer with Governor Nelson G. Kraschel, found a square post, a carpet nailed around it, labeled "back scratcher for tired motorists." The story behind it interested him so much that he made it the subject of one of his philosophic broadcasts.

PROF. JOHN T. . . . Fredrick, former affiliate of the University of Iowa, relaxes at his home each Sunday afternoon to hear himself broadcast. Aired as a live show by CBS each Tuesday, his "Of Men and Books" is transcribed and aired by WBBM on Sundays.

THE FILES SHOW Jack Benny is showing "clips" from his new "Artists and Models" picture to friends in the projection room of his new home. A new "Odditorium" on Broadway is nearly completed under the supervision of Robert L. Ripley.

In addition to working on Fred Allen's "Town Hall Tonight," Harry Van Zell will announce four other commercials this winter.

GRACIE ALLEN . . . Who'll be on the air at 6:30 tonight, is sticking her neck out.

"Turn about is fair play and what's sauce for the goose is poison to some people whose name I don't care to mention," said Gracie following her tremendous success as an artist. As a result of her successful invasion into the art field, Gracie has opened wide the gates of radio to the art world.

Therefore, she's invited Willie Nele, eminent art critic and painter, to become a radio star on the Burns and Allen program tonight. Nele, who is coming because Gracie was unable to locate Michaelangelo in the Manhattan phone book, will give a definite exposition of the Allen Surrealist art which last week upset the entire art world. He wants to get even for what Gracie did to his fellow artists.

Mrs. Pelzer Announces Opening of National Art Contests

Western Union And Art League Offer Prizes

Contests Are Free; End Oct. 24, Dec. 30 For Artist, Student

Two art contests for art students and amateur artists were announced yesterday by Mrs. Louis Pelzer, 127 Fernon avenue, local director of American Art week.

For the first time since 1845, when America's first telegraph company was organized, the public will have the opportunity to design headings for telegram blanks.

To encourage youthful artists and stimulate an interest in the coming World's Fairs in New York and San Francisco in 1939, the Western Union Telegraph company is offering $350 in cash prizes for headings suitable for the two special souvenir telegrams.

For High Schools

In addition, the American Artist Professional League announces a poster contest for high school students of the entire country for American Art week.

In the telegram art division, two contests will be held simultaneously, one for the New York heading and one for San Francisco with the following prizes in each contest: first, $100; second, $50, and third, $25.

Both contests are open to any art student or amateur artist, and no entry fees are required. Entry blanks setting forth the contest rules are available to anyone except employees of the telegraph company without charge at any Western Union office.

The contests are now open, closing Dec. 30.

No Restrictions

Except for mechanical requirements, there are no restrictions upon contestants other than the limits of the designer's imagination, it is announced. The winning headings will join the long list of special headings inaugurated in 1912 when the telegraph company first began the practice of using individual decorated headings for special occasions.

In the poster contest, high school students are invited to create posters on the subject of art, particularly American art, for American Art week in Iowa.

Rules are these: 1. Lettering required consists of the words, "American Art Week, Nov. 1-7."

2. Posters may be 16x20 inches or 20x24 inches, executed in any medium or choice of colors.

3. Final date for receiving posters is Oct. 24.

4. Posters will be given to art teachers or school superintendents for consideration of a faculty committee.

A prize of $100 is to be awarded the winner of all posters submitted in New York. This national prize will be given the winner selected by a jury of prominent artists.

Award Offered
A state award, consisting of a complete oil painting set, will be made to the designer of the best

Prof. Barnes Talks to Group Of Engineers

Prof. Ralph M. Barnes of the college of engineering gave a talk on "The Young Engineer and His Profession" Wednesday evening at the opening meeting of the junior division of the Tri-Cities section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

The meeting was held in the Rock Island Arsenal auditorium. Although the membership of the group includes men from many different schools, a considerable number are from Iowa.

The Tri-Cities junior division of the A. S. M. E. is one of the most active in the United States. The group holds 20 meetings of its own during the winter months and joins with the senior division for its monthly meeting.

Co. Association Meets to Plan Year's Program

Officers of the Johnson county Rural Teachers' association and township leaders will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., County Superintendent Frank J. Snider stated last night.

At the meeting plans will be made for activities sponsored by the association. Dates will be set for the annual declamatory contest which will be held before Thanksgiving, the county spelling contest and the Bible story contest, Snider stated.

The teachers will also discuss plans for a professional reading circle.

Speech Group Announces Six New Members

Zeta Phi Eta, honorary speech sorority, pledged six new members yesterday.

They are Beverly Barnes, A2 of Colman, S. D.; Patricia Sleezer, A2 of Freeport, Ill.; Dorothea Guenther, A2 of Davenport; Dorothy Ward, A2 of Iowa City; Marian Whinnery, A3 of Iowa City; and Mrs. Otis Curry, Dr. Loretta Wagner is the faculty advisor.

Officers of the sorority are Kathryn Hausen, A4 of Villisca, president; Edith Leahy, A4 of Pt. Washington, N. Y., vice president; and Laura Lankford, A3 of Washington, D. C., treasurer.

state poster. The award will be made Nov. 8.

The three best posters from each school judged by a faculty committee will be sent to Mrs. Pelzer. Iowa City's posters will then be exhibited in Iowa City before being submitted to the state jury.

A special jury for the selection of the state winner of the state-wide competition is being appointed. All posters will be judged the week of Nov. 1 and will be part of the art week display.

The winning poster will then be sent to New York as Iowa's contribution in the national competition.

Charm Bracelets This Year's Tops For Feminine Jewelry Accessories

Dangling from many a college girl's wrist these days are tinkling charm bracelets. Or else, she's wearing a charm necklace. Almost every girl includes one or the other among her accessories, and if she has the time and desire, she starts making one of her own, collecting and attaching to it all of the odd charms she can find.

Uncle Sam can not exactly accuse Arline Dubinsky, A2 of Davenport, Sigma Delta Tau, of hoarding gold but Miss Dubinsky's unique charm bracelet places her definitely on the gold standard. A tiny gold radio, heart, hammer, motion picture camera, spangle spelling l-o-v-e, whistle, cuff link, love lock, sorority crest, tea pot, and slipper comprise the bracelet.

The toe of the slipper is set with a diamond and the little tea pot comes from Eddie Cantor's Antique shop in Hollywood. In every sense of the word, "it's worth its weight in gold."

Helen Ries, A3 of Iowa City, Pi Beta Phi, is collecting shoes for her charm bracelet although she has included a ring and a two-blade penknife. The tiny penknife formerly belonged to Miss Ries' grandmother.

Such bracelets and necklaces add to the enhancement of a lady's charms. A week, a month, a year from today, who knows what will be added to them.

College of Dentistry Alumni Opens Thirtieth Meeting Here

Many Iowa Towns To Be Represented At Dental Building

The alumni association of the college of dentistry will open its 30th meeting here today and practitioners from all over the state will attend.

The meeting will be held in the dental building with today's program as follows:

9 a.m.—Registration.

9:30—Welcome by President Eugene A. Gilmore.

10 a.m.—"Valuable and Interesting Methods of Oral Diagnosis" discussed by Dr. A. P. Atkins and

Dr. O. E. Hoffman of Des Moines.

12 noon—Luncheon and business meeting at Youde's Inn.

1:30 p.m.—A continuation of the discussion by Dr. Atkins and Dr. Hoffman.

3:30 p.m.—"Some Legal Aspects of the Practice of Dentistry" by Prof. Mason Ladd of the college of law.

Officers of the association are Dr. George D. Reid of Cedar Rapids, president; Dr. D. L. Crisinger of Iowa City, vice-president; Dr. George S. Easton of Iowa City, secretary, and Dr. Joseph F. Schoen of Blairtown, treasurer.

Members of the executive committee are Dr. H. H. Ozanne of Des Moines, chairman; Dr. John H. Kelly of Cedar Rapids and Dr. Paul H. Belding of Waucoma.

Steal Minister's Car

Homecoming Dance Tonight First All-University Party

Chaperons Named; Frankie Trumber To Play for Gala Event

Homecoming festivities will be at their height tonight when Union Board entertains at the first all-university party, the annual Homecoming Party, in the main lounge of Iowa Union. "King of the Sax," Frankie Trumber and his orchestra will furnish the music for dancing from 9 to 12 p.m.

In keeping with the informality of the party, university women will wear street-length dresses.

Chaperoning the party will be Prof. and Mrs. George Haskell, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore M. Rehder, Dean and Mrs. R. A. Kuever, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Petersen and Dr. and Mrs. Earle Smith.

Committee Named

The committee in charge includes George Prichard, A3 of Onawa, chairman; Ruth House of Iowa City, Frank Brandon of St. Davids, Pa., Robert Omsundson of Forest City, and Beth Browning of Iowa City, all A3; Ben Stephens of Cambridge, Ill., and Constance Fenton of Jewell, both C4; JoAnn Oppenheimer, A4 of Marshalltown; Carl Burnside, P4 of Shenandoah; Michael Murray, L3 of Logan; Arnold Oosterhuis, D4 of Sheldon; Harlan Bass, E4 of Waterloo, and Frank Bauer, M4 of Shenandoah.

Alpha Xi Delta's Betty Coffin, A2 of Farmington, has chosen teal blue in a light weight wool frock with a pleated skirt and brown belt to wear to the party. She will be escorted by Wilford Burt, A4 of Marshalltown.

Doris Teagarden, A3 of Corydon, Alpha Chi Omega, will wear a black ensemble of crepe and satin. The draped neckline is accented with a rhinestone clip. She will go to the party with Theodore Landsberg, P4 of Sac City.

Accompanying Geraldine Cochran of the Alpha Delta Pi house, A4 of Tipton, will be Alfred Beardmore, L1 of Charles City. Miss Cochran's dress is of teal blue heavy silk crepe trimmed with large buttons.

Black velvet is the choice made by Lella Wegerslev, C3 of Minneapolis, Minn., Chi Omega. Her dirndl frock features lace collar and cuffs. Richard Healy, C4 of Iowa City, will accompany her.

Delta Delta Delta's Constance Kucheman, A2 of Bellevue, will wear a teal blue silk frock trimmed in gold. She will go to the party with Ralph McDowell, A2 of Lake Park.

Mildred Fitzgerald, A4 of Pittsburg, Pa., Delta Gamma, will go dancing with Frank Baker, A4 of Bancroft. She has chosen wine-colored accessories to wear with her teal blue silk dress, fashioned with a full skirt, short puffed sleeves, and a V-neckline.

Jane Anderson, A4 of Cedar Rapids, Currier Hall, will be attired in a light wool frock of teal blue. White collar and cuffs trim the princess style dress which features black buttons extending from the collar to hem. Ray Scott, an alumnus from Cedar Rapids, will be her escort.

Neva Simonsen
Yellow flowers at the waistline and sleeves accentuate the brown silk dress which Neva Simonsen, A2 of Davenport, Gamma Phi Beta, will wear when she attends the affair with Bob McGregor, A1 of Cedar Rapids.

Kappa Alpha Theta's Eleanor Bjorklund, A2 of Oelwein, will wear a black velvet ensemble with a black and gold silk top and black velvet bolero. William Rienow, C4 of Iowa City, will attend the party with Miss Bjorklund.

Puffed sleeves with net insets and a full skirt are the features of the black silk frock which Mary Virginia Steck, A4 of Los Angeles, Kappa Kappa Gamma, will wear. She will be escorted by Ray Walters, A4 of Rockford, Ill.

Helen Bliss, A4 of Mt. Airy, Eastlawn, will wear a dark brown crepe dress, made on princess lines. Orange and green embroidery trim it. Her escort will be Earl Antes, M2 of West Union.

Red buttons contrast the black velveteen dress which Joanne Barth, N3 of Panora, Westlawn, will wear. She will go to the party with Thomas Hannon, A4 of Schenectady, N. Y.

Jean McIntosh, A4 of Wellman, from the Pi Beta Phi house, will wear a light blue flannel dress trimmed with red rickrack trim and wooden buttons. Jack Dale, A4 of Davenport, will be her escort.

Milt Alman, D4 of Fairfield, will escort Maxyne Tenenbaum, A2 of Waterloo, Sigma Delta Tau. She will wear a two-piece costume frock of brown velvet trimmed with gold buttons.

Sally Larson
A full-skirted wine velveteen dress with a square neckline is the choice of Sally Larson, A2 of Onawa, who will go to the party with Howard Thompson, A2 of Davenport. Miss Larson is a Zeta Tau Alpha pledge.

Portia Showers, A4 of Iowa City, Phi Mu, will wear silver accessories with her black satin gown. George Cashman, C4 of Hartley, will attend the party with her.

Georgia Gaddis, A1 of Ft. Madison, will wear a gold trimmed black crepe dress. Lowell Chally, A4 of Marathon, will serve as her escort.

Natural colored linen will trim the brown velveteen frock of Eileen Youngdahl, G of Sioux Falls, S. D., Clinton place. Edwin Gumburg, G of Minneapolis, Minn., will escort her.

Gayle Mead, A1 of Eagle Grove, Wilson house, will go to the party with Ralph Burton, A1 of Webster City. Her dress is green and brown plaid wool, made dirndl style.

G. O. P. to Have Open House

Open house for the republican party will be held during Homecoming at their headquarters in suite 503 at the Jefferson hotel, Chairman R. J. Phelps stated yesterday.

The headquarters were opened Oct. 1.

WSUI to Start Forum Series

Under the direction of Prof. A. Craig Baird of the speech department, WSUI will broadcast the first of a new series of informal discussions featuring contemporary affairs this afternoon at 3 o'clock on the "Forensic Forum" program.

"What Does An Anglo-American Alliance Involve?" That is the question to be considered in this afternoon's broadcast.

Those participating are Samuel Arkoff of Fort Dodge; John Gil-lotti, A2 of Des Moines; Oscar Serben, A3 of Collins; James W. R. Brown, A3 of Ruthven; Loren Hickerson, A3 of Iowa City; Anthony Paciotti, A4 of Virginia, Minn., and Paul Thorgren, A3 of Boone.

This is the second year the weekly "Forensic Forum" program has been heard on the air.

Crosetti and Di Maggio Homer; Yanks Maul Dean, Cubs 6-3

Italians' Homers Turn Certain Victory Into a Tragic Defeat After Dean Pitches Heart Out

'Diz' Master of Situation Until Crosetti's Hit; Gomez' Win Breaks Series Record; Wins Sixth Series Game

By PAUL MICKELSON
WRIGLEY FIELD, Chicago, Oct. 6 (AP)—Dizzy Dean, pitching his heart and arm out with every curve ball he threw, had one foot in the hall of world series immortality today when the almost stark reality of the most murderous home run bats in baseball history wiped him and his gallant effort from glory to crushing defeat.

Only four outs away from scoring as superb and glamorous a comeback as the game of heart throbs and heart aches ever produced, the gallant Dizzy Dean was denied an unforgettable triumph when the home run bats of first Frank Crosetti and then great Joe DiMaggio arched balls out of the lot.

The two crushing blows dropped Dizzy and his Cub mates to the brink of series elimination giving the New York Yankees their second straight game, 6-3. "Nothing Ball"

This was the story book picture that 42,108 shivering fans, their hearts in their throats, never will forget:

So complete a master was Diz and his "nothing" ball that he reached the start of the eighth inning with only two singles and a cheap double, caused by a Cub infield mixup, against him. He stood out there like he used to when he was at his zenith. The Cubs had given him a 3-2 lead over Lefty Gomez, the Yankee southpaw who never had lost a world series game.

Every fan in the park stirred uneasily as the first man, George Selkirk, looped a single to right field for the fourth Yankee hit but they sat back in their seats again as Joe Gordon forced him at second, and in turn, was forced by Myril Hoag, pinch-hitting for the apparently beaten Gomez. It looked like Diz was in.

Then, up stepped the man who had robbed the Cubs in yesterday's opener with his miracle plays around second—Frank Crosetti. Not much cause for alarm in Crosetti. He had hit only nine home runs all year with the Yankees, who don't call a man a home run knocker until he gets at least 20.

Frankie, probably, had no idea of a homer, but he wanted to get on base—anyway. As Hoag bothered Diz with gestures as if to steal, Crosetti picked and pecked away, hitting five fouls and running the count to 3 and 2. Diz, though his arm ached, put everything he had on that last pitch. It came in fast and chest high and then—bang! The ball arched high like a harmless fly to leftfielder Carl Reynolds but on it went to barely clear the red brick wall for a home run.

That was the big story of this thrilling world series battle but there was still another home run blow—by DiMaggio—to seal the doom of courageous Dizzy and his mates. In the ninth, Tommy Henrich, the Horatio Alger boy of the Then DiMaggio, hitless yesterday and held to a mere single in three times at bat, stalked up to the plate and smashed Dean's first pitch over the left field wall. It was a tremendous blow, clearing the 35-foot barrier by 15 feet and bouncing against a yellow house across the street.

As the Yankee bench went wild and tossed their bats out onto the field, Manager Gabby Hartnett and Dean knew the curtain to a great drama had fallen. Dean was taken out and he trudged off the field, head down.

Intramural Touch Football To Start Wednesday, Beebe Says

Hillcrest, Quad, Fraternities And Dorms to Compete

Intramural athletes will begin another season's competition in the increasingly popular sport of touch football, next week, when fraternity, Quadrangle, Hillcrest and cooperative dorm teams swing into action in their respective leagues.

Inter-fraternity competition will begin next Tuesday, and play among the co-ops will get under way Wednesday, according to Dr. Fred Beebe of the men's physical education department, who last night explained this year's intramural program at a meeting of Quad, Hillcrest and co-op representatives.

The program, it was explained by Beebe, will be even more extensive than last year, with over 40 teams competing in the various leagues.

Six teams will compete for the Hillcrest championship, eight squads will comprise the upper and lower Quadrangle divisions, the coops, numbering seven, will all be represented in inter-dorm struggles, while about 20 fraternities will have entrants in Greek #### letter leagues. Later, winners in the four groups will be brought together to determine the all-university championship.

The rules of the game, according to Beebe, have undergone a few changes since last year, the most important one being that the line-up will consist of six men instead of seven.

Jimmy Roosevelt Sees Yanks Win; He's a Cub Fan

CHICAGO, Oct. 6 (AP)—James Roosevelt, who saw the Yankees whip the Cubs in the second game of the world series, arranged to leave at 10:30 p.m. (CST) tonight (via Northwestern railroad's "Challenger" train) for the Pacific coast.

The president's son, recuperating from an operation at the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., will rest at the ranch of Walter P. Murphy, Chicago railroad equipment man, near Hollister, Cal.

A Cub fan, Roosevelt said he believed Chicago still had a chance to win the series despite two defeats because "it is the underdog that always steals the bacon in sports events."

Wisconsin Ace

Bill Schmitz, above, a junior among the senior backfield of Wisconsin's Badgers, stands 5 feet 10 inches and weighs 180 pounds. He is a hometown boy from Madison, and does a great deal of the ball carrying for the Badgers. Schmitz is also a capable punter and passer and the Hawkeyes certainly would not miss him if he were kept out of the game.

Big Ten Briefs

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 6—Coach Harry Stuhldreher announced tonight he would have a squad of 34 University of Wisconsin football players to throw against the University of Iowa in the Hawkeyes' Homecoming game Saturday. The team will train for Davenport tomorrow morning and practice there tomorrow afternoon, going on to Iowa City Saturday.

Sixteen lettermen are included in the 12 seniors, eight juniors and 14 freshmen. Wisconsin's starting lineup is expected to be the same as against Marquette with the possible exception of Tony Gradisnik in place of Billy Schmitz at left half.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 6 (AP)—Coach Francis A. Schmidt eased up on his intensive passing drill today and sent Ohio State university's football squads through a hard session of running plays. Frank Zadowny, back in uniform after two days' absence because of a cut lip, and Don Scott ripped a freshman line apart. Zookie Zuchegno, 165-pound speedster, worked in the fullback position and might get an assignment in the game with Southern California here Saturday.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 6 (AP)—Defensive tactics continued to share the practice program of Minnesota's Gophers today as Coach Bernie Bierman directed his squad through a two-hour workout. Bierman left a sick bed to supervise the last intensive workout of the Gophers for Purdue. Offense also came in for considerable attention, with both Gopher backfield combinations running the ball. Purdue will arrive in Minneapolis Friday morning.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 6 (AP)—A light workout today ended the University of Michigan's drill in preparation for its football game here Saturday with the University of Chicago. Capt. Fred Janke and Bill Smith, first string tackles injured in last Saturday's victory over Michigan State, did not participate in the workout, but Coach Fritz Crisler said they would be in the lineup against the Maroons.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 6 (AP)—Coach Lynn Waldorf stressed defensive maneuvers today as Northwestern tapered off for Saturday's game with Drake. He said virtually the same eleven which started against Kansas State would operate this week, the possible exception being Tom Eby, veteran end who returned to the squad after an absence caused by an ankle injury.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6 (AP)—Work (See BIG 10, page 5)

Badger Flash

Howie Weiss, above, a senior, is one of Wisconsin's threats in the backfield. This man with his passing and running was quite a thorn in the side of the Hawkeyes last year. He scored one of the Badger touchdowns against the Marquette Hilltoppers last week and will be out to repeat it if he can. Weiss plays fullback on the Badger team.

Squad in Good Physical Shape For Wisconsin Game; Add Final Touches to Defense, Offense

Tabbs Paces Hawkeyes Through Hard Workout; Stresses Passing, Defensive And Offensive Before Dismissal

After a week of the toughest kind of work, the Iowa footballers received orders to ease up yesterday and indulged in a comparatively light drill in preparation for the Homecoming game tomorrow afternoon.

With the exception of Frank Balazs, who will be on the sideline with an injured knee, the squad finished the training grind in good shape and should be in top physical condition for the Wisconsin game.

Look Good
The team again looked good in last night's drill, displaying a good pass defense while at the same time flashing a fair passing attack.

The running attack, with Kinnick in the tailback position appears to be the speediest, fastest breaking offense an Iowa team has boasted in some time. What the backfield lacks in power it seems to more than compensate for in speed.

Right Flank?
The starting lineup, with the exception of the right flank post where either Prasse or Pettit may start, seems to be set. It is almost certain that the line will be composed of Fred Smith, left end, Jim Kelley and Henry Luebecke at the tackles, Chuck Brady and Bob Allen holding down the guard slots and Bruno Andruska at center.

In the backfield, Nile Kinnick will take over for the injured Balazs in the tailback position. Jerry Niles and Jack Elcherly at the halves while Mike Enich will bark the signals.

Underdog
As game time nears, it appears that Iowa will once again be the underdog. The role is familiar to most of the players and some of them feel that it is high time to cast it aside for one more becoming.

There is but one man on the squad, Jim Kelley, who has ever participated in a winning game against Big Ten competition. Jim was on the 1935 team that handed a beating to Illinois. Since that time victories have been few and far between.

Powerhouse
If the Hawkeyes are to get out of the lowly brackets they will have to do it the hard way. Wisconsin will invade Iowa City with one of the strongest teams the Badgers have had in quite some time. Many enthusiastic Badger fans insist that this team is a powerhouse, some going so far as to claim the best balanced backfield in the country.

Weiss and Schmitz
Although their claim may be a trifle on the sunny side, the fact remains that Howie Weiss and Bill Schmitz would go a long way in justifying their claims.

There isn't much those two can't do with a football. They run, pass, kick and snatch passes. That just about takes care of anything it's possible to do on the gridiron.

Purdue
LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 6 (AP)—Thirty-six Purdue football players left here tonight for Minneapolis, where Purdue and Minnesota will meet Saturday in the first Big Ten game of the season for each.

City High Meets Franklin at Rapids Tonight

Heavy Firing in Big Ten 'Ivy' League, Big Six Also Swing Into Action This Week End

By BILL BONI
NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP)—The general tightening of battle lines along the national football front this week end is reflected most clearly in the programs on tap in the principal conferences.

Heaviest intra-league firing is to take place within Big Ten confines, with eight of the conference teams playing each other. Minnesota's league debut against Purdue ranks as the No. 1 clash. The Gophers are co-favorites with Ohio State, and, by taking the Bollermakers into camp, can draw even with the Bucks, who are down for an inter-sectional game with Southern California.

The other Big Ten duels will pit comebacking Michigan against Chicago; Indiana, bouncing back from its disappointing defeat by Ohio State, against Illinois, and promising Wisconsin against untested Iowa. Northwestern, the other member, shouldn't have much trouble with Drake.

Behind the Big Ten in attractiveness of program come the Big Six and the east's Ivy league, the former with favored Nebraska tackling Iowa State and Kansas State meeting Missouri; the latter with games between Cornell and Harvard, Dartmouth and Princeton, and Yale and Pennsylvania.

Cornell's power was shown briefly in its defeat of Colgate, while Dartmouth, in its first big game, probably will ruin Princeton's standing as only unbeaten member of the Big Three. Columbia, the seventh Ivy leaguer, meanwhile, will be out to reverse last year's 21-18 beating by Army. With Alabama and Louisiana State facing keen outside com-

At Last! Helen Keller to See Football Game

ROCHESTER, Minn., Oct. 6 (AP)—For the first time in 35 years Helen Keller will "see" a football game Saturday.

The famed blind author and lecturer here, for a checkup at the Mayo clinic following an operation some months ago, will attend the Minnesota-Purdue game at Minneapolis. She will be accompanied by her companion, Polly Thompson, and Rochester friends.

Miss Keller last attended a football game when she was a student at Radcliffe college where she was graduated in 1904. Following Saturday's game she will leave for Seattle.

Little Hawks Will Try to Stop Franklin Ace Back, Al Eddy

Two Creighton Players Out Of Aggies Game
Parlor City Back Main Cog in Hawklet Defeat Last Year

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 6 (AP)—Gloom pervaded the Creighton football camp tonight following the last hard scrimmage in preparation for a game Saturday night with the Oklahoma Aggies.

Dr. William Dendinger, team physician, informed Coach Mariche Schwartz senior Halfback Billy Ziesel, sophomore Fullback Ray Scott and sophomore Guard Eldred Arch, will not be able to play.

Stop Al Eddy!
That's the cry at City High as the Red and White eleven prepares to meet the strong Franklin team at Cedar Rapids in League park tonight. Eddy is Franklin's speedy backfield ace who was the main cog in the latter's 13-0 victory over the Hawklets last year.

Coach Cormack has spent the week drilling his men in defensive formations intended to stop the speedy cut-backs of the Parlor City quarterback.

But defense wasn't the only thing to come in for attention during the week's practice. Offensive plays and formations were reviewed and the team will use a new formation in the game with Franklin. Cormack taught them the formation early in the year but has not used it so far.

Franklin has another tough team although it has split its first two games. The tough West Waterloo outfit downed the Cedar Rapids club last Friday.

City high will employ a strong running attack built around the fast running of Ted McLaughlin and the power drives of Miller, Lewis and Walden. Walden will start the game at full but Miller will see plenty of service as he is the better tackler. McGinnis will handle the passing and kicking.

The outcome of the game will depend upon Iowa City's line. Last week the Red and White front wall outcharged the Clinton line and led the Little Hawks to victory.

Jones Sends Cornhuskers Through Light Practice; Ames in Good Shape

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 6 (AP)—With two men—Guard Bill Pfeiff and End Leo Hann—already on the hospital list, Coach Biff Jones took no chances on further injuries to his University of Nebraska football squad today. He put his first string through dummy scrimmage on Iowa State plays, preparatory to Saturday's game here.

AMES, Oct. 6 (AP)—With the freshmen lined up in Nebraska array, the Iowa State Cyclones today ended preparations for the football game at Lincoln Saturday with a light drill.

Coach Jim Yeager reported his squad was in "marvelous" physical condition and said he believed the Cyclones would start a tougher team than the current Big Six champions can muster.

NORMAN, Okla., Oct. 6 (AP)—Seeking its second victory over Texas in 19 years, the University of Oklahoma football squad, 38 strong, will leave for Dallas tomorrow.

Coach Tom Stidham devoted today's workout to defense against Texas pass formations and running plays but permitted no contact work.

Lawrence, Kan., Oct. 6 (AP)

The University of Kansas spent almost its entire football practice session today in dummy scrimmage against formations of Washburn college. Coach Adrian Lindsey concentrated his efforts on bolstering a pass defense.

MANHATTAN, Kan., Oct. 6 (AP)—Kansas State gridmen showed an improved long pass defense in today's workout, but offensive aerial efforts were weakened by ineffective receiving.

Quarterbacks Jack Blanke and Fullback Bob Briggs did much of the passing.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 6 (AP)—After a light defense workout against Kansas State plays, Coach Don Faurot announced today the probable Missouri starting lineup for Saturday's Big Six conference opener against the Wildcats at Manhattan.

It includes Dickenson and Moss, ends; Wetzel and Haas, tackles; Waldorf and Pickett, guards; Kinnick, center; Christian and Starmer, halfbacks; Faurot, quarterback and Robb, fullback.

LEFTY GOMEZ, WITH FIVE WORLD SERIES VICTORIES AND NO DEFEATS, SHARES A RECORD WITH JACK COONBS, AND HERB PENWICK—ONE MORE VICTORY WITHOUT DEFEAT WILL GIVE GOMEZ SOLE POSSESSION OF THE RECORD

U-High Grid Team and West Liberty to Play

Blues In For A Tough Game

Opposition No Snap, Have Fast Line And Wide-Open Attack

Probable starting lineups:

W. Liberty	Pos.	U-High
Thompson	LE. (co-c)	Krogh
Howard	LT	Morgan
Pike	LG	Brender
Nettleman	C	Boiler
Nauman	RT	Beye
Phelps	RG	Larew
Wilson	RE	Rarick
Compton	QB	Bridenstine
Bridger	HB	Carson
Moylan	HB	Hightshoe
Lane	FB	Burns

Coach Brechler's U-High eleven with two victories already under their belt will attempt to make it three when it meets the highly touted West Liberty eleven at 7:45 tonight.

Brechler has been working his men hard all week in an effort to get them at their peak for this first conference game. He admits that he doesn't know the real extent of the power of his squad, but it is expected to be given a real test in tonight's contest.

It seems that the two lines are quite evenly matched, with the local line having a slight weight advantage. However the speed of their opponents' forward wall more than offsets this weight advantage.

One thing is certain and that is that the Blues will have to exert themselves more in this game than they have in the two previous games against Kalona and St. Pat's. The fact that the local quartet of backs have scored six times in their first two games indicates they have the offensive ability, but for the first time this season they will be up against a backfield that is considered throughout the conference as being most versatile.

Tonight's encounter is certain to be a battle of backfields, and the team that takes advantages of all its scoring opportunities will probably come out the winner.

Brechler intends to start the same lineup that ran rough shod over Kalona and St. Pat's. His high scoring backfield of Bridenstine at quarter, Burns at full, and Carson and Hightshoe at the halves will remain intact. As in previous games, the locals will use Carson and Hightshoe for their sweeping end runs and off-tackle slants, while Burns will do the passing and plunging. As usual Morgan will drop back from his tackle position to do the punting.

In the line the Blues will have Krogh, Rarick and McAlister available for duty, while Morgan, Larew and Pelzer will alternate at the tackle positions. Beye and Brender will be stationed at the guards. Boiler will hold down the center position.

The West Liberty offense is of the same type used by St. Pat's and this should prove to be somewhat of an advantage to the Blues. A snappy shift which Rockne made famous during his reign at Notre Dame will be employed by West Liberty.

Mixing both forward and lateral passes with their running plays, the West Liberty warriors present an attack that only the most alert team can stop, and unless the U-High boys snap out of their listlessness there is certain to be trouble ahead.

BITS about Sports

By J. DENNIS SULLIVAN

It has long been a mystery to me why American league hitting is so far superior to that in the senior loop. Both leagues use the same kind of bats, ball players—regardless of league affiliation—have but two arms and two legs, still the senior organization continues to black jack the National leaguers in these fall classics. Each year it is much the same story. The best twirlers in the National loop parade to the mound, and, with few exceptions, fail to last the route when the American leaguers unleash their power attack.

Even the great Dean failed to make the grade yesterday when the Yankees turned on the heat. He seemed to be pitching masterfully, yet, most of the fans failed to register surprise when the Beer Bangers started walloping the ball out of the playing field.

That sort of thing is always looked for and always expected. The Cubs have a good ball club. It would be foolish to say they didn't. Yet, when the chips are on the table, they aren't as good as the Yanks.

The difference lies in the ability of the American leaguers to blast the ball for long, extra base hits. And that is what fans me.

Both leagues recruit their players from the same minor leagues, often from the same teams. That being the case, why is it that the junior circuit manages to come up with the long range hitters? Why doesn't a National league scout come across some of these batting phenoms?

Since the palmy days of Hack Wilson there hasn't been one player in the National league that could hit the ball with anything approximating the power that a dozen players in the junior organization do today. There are two or three sluggers performing currently in the American league that compile between them as the entire first division of the National league.

Surely, managers in the parent loop are aware of this situation. They must know that the American league can't be pushed off the throne with powder puffs. That being the case, why not scour the minors for long range hitting talent? It must be there as the American leaguers continue to bring such clouters into the fold every spring.

Until this is done, until the National league brings up some long range clouters the series will continue to be a farce. It isn't because of inferior ball playing in the older loop but simply because they have no home run clouters that can compare in any way with a host of sluggers wearing American league regalia.

St. Pat's Plays West Branch's Strong Gridders

Faced with the probability that this afternoon another dark blot will be added to their dreary early season record, St. Patrick's fighting Irish travel to West Branch to make their stand against one of the Little Six's toughest elevens.

The outlook for the Green is cloudy indeed, for in spite of the Irish reputation for dogged stands against heavy odds, the records of the two teams indicate that West Branch will trounce the Irish easily and thoroughly.

St. Pat's hasn't won a game so far this year. They tied a weak Wellman team in their opener, with neither team able to score. The next week they dropped one to West Chester 18-0 and last Friday they were humiliated by U-high 20-0. West Branch, on the other hand, appears to have one of the better teams in this section. They took their game last week in easy fashion, plowing through Wilton Junction for four touchdowns while Wilton failed to break into the scoring column.

The Irish, however, undaunted by the West Branch record, have spent the week trying to develop their potential scoring power and with the passing possibilities present in the backfield combination of Rohner, White, Bradley and Jack Fitzpatrick they are always dangerous.

'Threw Out'-Dizzy

'Dead Tired' at End Of Game, Complains About Pain In Arm

By CHARLES DUNKLEY CHICAGO, Oct. 6 (AP)—"I threw myself out."

With these words Dizzy Dean told the story of his gallant pitching in the chill of Wrigley field today with the Yankees lambasting him for two home runs, after he had them in check with his marvelous cunning until the eighth inning.

Dean appeared to be crushed over the disaster. His face had a weary expression. He was drawn and dead tired. He complained that his right arm pained him severely from the sixth inning and said it felt as if a piece of bone was sticking out of his shoulder.

Larry French, Cub lefthander, came to the clubhouse, walked silently across the room to where Dean was standing and threw his arms around him. No word was spoken; none was needed.

"I threw myself out," Dean moaned. "I had them beat 3 to 2 until Crosetti hit his homer. Those things just happen and you can't help it. Those first two runs should never have scored. The Yankees were the luckiest ball club in the last two days that I ever saw."

Dean dragged his tired body across the room and, sitting down on a table in the rubbing room, looked back over the game.

"That hurts," he reflected. "I can understand now how the Yankees won the American league pennant. They're lucky. "I gave them all I had—that's all I could do."

Homeruns and Heartaches

Second Game of Series Provides Both Comedy and Tragedy

CHICAGO, Oct. 6 (AP)—From homers and heartaches to comedy and tragedy, baseball's biggest show had everything today.

For seven and two-thirds innings, Dizzy Dean shackled the vaunted New York power. Then the Yankee bats boomed and Old Diz walked slowly from the field, taking one fleeting glance at the distant left field wall. And in the Yankee dressing room, Joe McCarthy pointed to his heart and said: "That guy," he said slowly, "has it there."

Circus There were all the elements of a thrilling three-ring circus in today's spectacle in sharp contrast to the Yank's matter-of-fact victory Wednesday. Lou Gehrig stepped out of the box four times on one occasion, drawing a bel-low from Dean; infielders Hack and Jurgis did a second inning tumbling act on Joe Gordon's slow roller that drew groans from Cub partisans. The sun suddenly beamed down brilliantly, taking some edge off the chill winds. The throng of 42,108 saw a real show, even though thousands of fans carried away a tragic picture of a great hearted athlete bowing in defeat.

Money Player Frank Crosetti is on his way toward honors as the greatest "money" player in the series. When the chips were down yesterday he came through spectacularly aided; when he and his mates trailed today, his home run sent the Yanks further toward a third straight world's championship. And Frankie received a riotous reception in the Yank dugout when he raced in after spearing a liner for the final out.

Suspense The game had its elements of suspense almost before it was well under way. In the second inning Umpire Sears held up his hand, started toward the boxes along first base line and the spectators craned their necks, probably expecting to see at least a fight. All "Ziggy" did was close a field gate that had been left open. Seconds later Joe Marty called for time, raced in toward the Cub dugout—and obtained sun glasses.

Stan Hack Hitting Well In Series Play; Gomez Clowns

By The Associated Press Some series pickups from field and stands: Stan Hack, in his first seven times at bat in the two games, had five singles and hit into two double plays. On his eighth trip, he fanned. The crowd had a laugh in the fourth. Lefty Gomez grounded to Herman, who relayed to Collins for the out. In a single motion, Collins caught the ball and relayed it to Lefty, who made a nice one-handed stab and kept on trotting to his place on the hill.

The blankets, in which scores of bleacherites had sat huddled before game time, came off when the sun peeked through the clouds early in the contest. It was a cosmopolitan crowd in the huge open stands in center field. . . . priests, mailmen, laborers sat side by side, taking food from carriers ranging from spacious valise to an old fashioned dinner pail. . . .

Coach Clark Shaughnessy indicated he may start Herbert Flack at right tackle instead of Hugh Rendleman and said John Davenport and Bob Meyer would see considerable service in the backfield. The squad will hold its last workout at Ann Arbor tomorrow.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 6 (AP)

Freshmen using Indiana passing plays gained little yardage as Coach Bob Zuppke sent his University of Illinois squad through its last hard workout for the Indiana game Saturday.

Jay Wardley, veteran halfback who was injured last year but gave no indication of the ailment in last week's game, will start in the backfield Saturday.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 6 (AP) — Coach Bo McMillin put Indiana university's football squad through a last-minute rehearsal of plays today and then picked 36 players to leave here early tomorrow for Champaign, Ill., where Indiana is to meet Illinois Saturday. The Hoosiers will stop at Danville, Ill., for a workout and overnight stay.

Ken Pettit, End

When Ken Pettit, above, left his home town of Logan, and came to the University of Iowa in search of a place in the football hall of fame, he brought with him a record which included a post on an Iowa all-state high school football team. The coaches saw Pettit and decided he might make a better end than a back so Ken started to serve as a flankman with the freshman squad. This year Pettit is a sophomore and he is still at end.

Dolphin Show Plans Are Made

New Show To Be Best Yet

The committees for the production of the Dolphin show were released for publication yesterday as the club members completed most of the arrangements for the water pageant.

The work on the background goes on daily, scenery props are erected, wiring is in the process of construction and the plans for the 20 thrilling acts are gone over and over in order to put over "The Dolphin Follies" in a manner in which Iowa water shows have never been presented before.

The drill teams work daily practicing the intricate and graceful formations for which the show is already noted. Reports are that some of the most startling formations ever given will be reeled off before the eyes of the audiences on the evenings of Oct. 27, 28, and 29.

This year's comedy is expected to top anything which has been shown in previous years while the daring circus performances are to be different than any of those which have been a feature of previous productions.

With the "Follies" opening on the eve of Dad's Day, a record throng is expected. A huge number of alumni and students who will be in a holiday mood will boost the attendance up as it has never totaled previously.

The town people in other years have made up a good share of the audience and are expected to come in large numbers to this year's presentation.

Those Dolphin swimmers who make up the committees for this year's show are the following:

General production manager — Bob Lowery.

Assistant general production manager—William Decker.

Publicity and advertising—Banford Cochrane, chairman, Albert Johann.

Scenery — Carl Ahlgren and Tom Saluri, co-chairmen, Curt Nelson.

Lighting—Bob Sebastian, chairman, Harry Zweifel, Merlin Armbruster.

Art — William Stipe, chairman, Russel Murphy.

Stoddard Asks Agencies to Cooperate to Fight Delinquency

Says Problem Is Prevention, Not Cure, Though It Is Slow

Defines Two Types Of Delinquents And Suggests Remedies

By JOHN VON LACKUM JR. "Delinquency in Iowa City can be combated only by the collaboration of social agencies in the city," declared Dean George D. Stoddard of the University of Iowa graduate college in an address before members of the Co-ordinating Council of social agencies last night.

"While remedies at their best are slow, costly and dubious as to results of the work to reduce this delinquency," the speaker added, "we must turn to prevention, rather than cure of the problem."

Two Types

Dean Stoddard recognizes two types of delinquents, one which is the victim of community forces and the other which is mentally deficient and would be delinquent in any surrounding. The community, through its social agencies, can help both kinds through guidance, education and environmental improvement.

Delinquency due to community forces can be eradicated through improved housing, wholesome recreational opportunities, bettered public health conditions and doing away with various basic social and economic disabilities.

Technical workers alone, however, the dean cited, can aid the other class. These people can not work efficiently as individuals but need the moral and financial support of the townspeople.

Dr. J. D. Boyd, in the discussion that followed, stated that the social organizations of the city must make the community conscious of its obligation to the successful outcome of the existing program.

Summarizing Work

He added that the co-ordinating council will have accomplished its purpose if it does no more than to serve as a clearing house to investigate, interpret, and suggest methods of attack for the problem.

Mrs. Minerva Knight, speaking for the group appointed by the public welfare committee of the local women's club to work for the establishment of a public health unit in Johnson county, summarized their work to date and asked the assistance of the council in backing their next move.

The adjustment committee will meet soon to consider the feasibility of having in Iowa City, first, a visiting teacher, and second, a social planning board; results of their findings will be discussed at the next council meeting.

Groups in Council

Groups participating in the council, with their representatives, follow:

The Episcopal church, Mrs. N. C. Meier; the Catholic Daughters of America, Mrs. J. C. Gartner; the Presbyterian church, Mrs. C. A. Bowman; the Christian church, Attorney Arthur O. Luff; the Baptist church, Roy Warner; the Methodist church, Rev. Edwin E. Voigt; the Congregational church, Mrs. J. D. Boyd; the English Lutheran church, A. C. Cahill; Child Study club, Mrs. C. J. Lapp; East Lucas club, Mrs. L. C. Fitzpatrick; Iowa City's Woman's club, Kate Donovan; I.O.O.F., Elmer Menece; Johnson County Farm bureau, E. C. Gardner; St. Mary's P.T.A., Mrs. Bruce Mahan; Girl Scout council, Mrs. Ben Whitebook; Moose lodge, E. Ruby; Knights of Pythias, G. F. Ramsey; Manville Heights club, Mrs. J. J. Ostiel; League of Women Voters, Mrs. Evans A. Worthley; Johnson County Medical society, J. D. Boyd; Social Service League board, Mrs. Minerva Knight; P.T.A. council, Mrs. Woodburn; Child Conservation club, Mrs. Harry Hines; Lions club, Dr. W. B. Kell; Red Cross, Mrs. J. Van der Zee; Altrusa club, Pauline Kelly; St. Chamber of Commerce, C. A. Bowman; Kings Daughters, Mrs. L. C. Jones; Recreation board, Mrs. Arthur O'Brien; Boy Scouts, Elmer Hills; and, the American Legion, representative not yet chosen.

The council, with the Rev. Edwin E. Voigt as its president, voted to meet each month hereafter.

Kappa Phi To Have Waterways Program Motif

"Waterways" will be the basic theme for programs given throughout the year by the members of Kappa Phi, Methodist girls sorority.

At the first meeting of the year Wednesday night, various plans were discussed for the ensuing year, and arrangements were made for the rushing period.

The officers of Kappa Phi are Martha Bell, A4 of Mt. Pleasant, president; Madelyn Pedrick, A3 of Douds, vice-president; June Griswold, A4 of Cooper, secretary; Betty Rugen, A2 of Glenview, Ill., treasurer; Margaret Lang, A4 of Wilton Junction, personal chairman; Corinne Hastings, A2 of Paton, program chairman; Virginia Asbury, A2 of New Baden, Ill., social chairman; Nancy Patton, A4 of Davenport, music chairman, and Grendythe Rosenmund, A2 of Muscatine, art chairman.

They Look to Iowa City's Welfare

These are four of those who are helping make the Iowa City Co-ordinating council a vital community force, shaping its policy at last night's meeting. They are Dean George Stoddard, who spoke at the meeting; Mrs. Minerva Knight, representing the social service league board, and Mrs. Jessie B. Gordon, public librarian and one of the workers in the movement. The Rev. Edwin Voigt, standing, is the council's president.

Out-of-Town Couples Granted Licenses To Marry by Co. Clerk

Two marriage licenses were granted and one divorce petition was filed in the Johnson county clerk's office yesterday.

The licenses were given to James R. Bridge, 23, of Moline and Florence L. Burr, 21, of West Liberty, and Augustus C. Kreth and Charlotte M. Miller of Wellman. The latter couple gave their ages as legal.

Glenn W. Bell filed a divorce petition against Mariam E. Bell, charging cruel and inhuman treatment. They were married Nov. 16, 1933 in Rock Island. Attorney Will J. Hayek is the counsel for Mr. Bell.

Muste Speaker For Religious Week Program

Once Labor Leader, Reform Theologian Now Heads Temple

A native of the Netherlands, famed for his zeal and for his writings in the cause of labor, Abraham J. Muste will be another of the speakers here during Religious Emphasis Week, Oct. 28 to Nov. 4.

Schooled mainly in reform theology, Mr. Muste has held Reformed Congregational pulpits and is now director of Labor Temple, Presbyterian meeting place for workers of all faiths, in seething 14th street, New York, N. Y. He has been identified with this work since May, 1937.

Before accepting the directorship of Labor Temple Mr. Muste had been associated with varied occupations other than his work from the pulpit.

From 1921 to 1933 he was head of Brookwood Labor college, which he organized. While he was secretary of the Amalgamated Textile Workers, he was jailed for "agitating."

He has recently become less radical, saying that "The church, weak and imperfect as it may be, exists, and it seems to me that after the example of Jesus, we have to take our place within it and work from that point."

Lampe Heads Finance Group

Prof. M. Willard Lampe, head of the school of religion, is the new chairman of the finance committee for Religious Emphasis week.

Other members of the committee include Prof. William H. Morgan, head of university religious activities; Mrs. Emory W. Lane, and Prof. Howard Bowen of the college of commerce.

Returns From Visit

Mrs. Sam C. Smith, Clinton place, 322 N. Clinton street, has returned from a two weeks vacation in the east, where she visited her son, Carleton D. Smith in Washington, D. C. From Washington she went to Boston, to visit her son, Courtney, and her daughter, Florence.

Luncheon Will Be Given For Rotary Founder

P. K. Wright of Iowa Falls, district Rotary governor, spoke to the local Rotary club yesterday noon at the Jefferson hotel on the accomplishments of Rotary clubs in strife-ridden countries in Europe. He suggested that each of the 81 clubs in his district should strive to better fulfill the Rotary slogan, "He profits most who serves best."

President J. J. Swanner announced that Attorney Paul P. Harris, founder of Rotary, Rufus Chapin, treasurer, and Harvey Kindall, business and advertising manager of "The Rotarian" magazine will attend a luncheon of the club at the Jefferson tomorrow noon. Later the visitors will attend the Homecoming football game.

University Libraries

The following books of general interest are a selection from recent additions to the University library.

Fourteen day books: "Your Home and You" by J. C. Bossard; "Thrice a Stranger" by Vera Brittain; "Resources of Southern Libraries" by R. B. Downs; "Argentine Meat and the British Market" by S. G. Hansen; "Evangelism and Change" by E. H. Huges; "Agricultural Revolution in Norfolk" by Naomi Riches.

"The Mediaeval Universities" by Nathan Schachner; "Social Saga of Two Cities" by C. F. Schmid; "Britain and the Dictators" by R. W. Seton-Watson; "The Pageant of Cuba" by Hudson Strode; "Environment, Race, and Migration" by Griffith Taylor; "Our Country, Our People, and Theirs" by M. E. Tracy; "Southern Negroes 1861-1865" by B. I. Wiley.

Estimate 300 Registered at 25th Education Conference Meeting

School Administrators, Supervisors End Sessions Today

An estimated 300 persons were registered last night for the 25th annual conference of school administrators and supervisors which ends here today.

Dr. I. L. Kandel of Teachers college, Columbia university, was the main speaker at both of yesterday's sessions. His address to the evening was a discussion of "The Main Issue," which he defined as the need for educators to awaken to their task of giving a new meaning to the democratic ideal.

Phi Delta Kappa were hosts at an informal smoker on the sun porch of Iowa Union following last evening's meeting.

Publications of the college of education and extension division were on display at the university elementary school, as well as an exhibit of visual education materials.

Today's program is as follows: 9 a.m.—"Determining Some Specifics of the Language Curriculum"—Prof. H. A. Greene.

9:45 a.m.—"Educational Implications of a Cultural Approach to Human Nature"—Prof. James B. Stroud.

10:30 a.m.—"How I Would Organize an Elementary School"—

Dr. H. G. Otto, director of education at the Kellogg Foundation, Battle Creek, Mich.

12 noon—Luncheon in the River room, Iowa Union. Prof. Bruce E. Mahan, director of the university of Iowa extension division, presiding.

Address by President E. A. Gilmore.

2 p.m.—"Keeping the Public Informed"—Prof. E. T. Peterson.

2:30 p.m.—"Marking the Century in Iowa Education"—Prof. F. C. Ensign.

3 p.m.—"Educational Development in the Michigan Health Project"—Dr. Otto.

Seals Elect 13 New Probates

Thirteen new probates were named to Seals club, women's honorary swimming organization, following try-outs Wednesday and last night in the pool of the women's gymnasium.

Roberta Nichols, A4 of West Liberty, president of the organization, announced the new members last night.

They are Margaret Schmithals, Betty Pentland, Martha Shell, Virginia Shrauger, Betty Hughes, Jane Fink, Muriel Strate, Margaret Ann Hunter, Eloise Kellogg, Kay Hrusovar, Ilseget Weber, Lorraine Pressler and Ruth Summy.

The Army Becomes the Navy

The army is getting ready to take to the water! Because the University of Iowa is one of the few midwestern schools near water, and because it's felt they should take advantage of the fact, R. O. T. C. members of the university's athletic department are preparing a flotilla of five barges which will go "steaming" down the river tomorrow. Manned by Pontoniers, military organization, the barges will be flag-bedecked, named after honorary cadet colonels of past (and the present) years. Shown above is the "Catherine," being prepared for the pageant by Pontoniers. An R. O. T. C. officer looks on.

Each Speaker Will Give Two Talks at Meet

Edith Woolsey To Speak on Use Of Reference Material

Each of the visiting speakers at the university's 13th annual conference for mathematics teachers here Oct. 14 and 15 will give two addresses, according to details of the program announced yesterday.

H. C. Christofferson of Miami university of Oxford, Ohio, will talk on "Geometry, a Pattern of Clear Thinking," and "Functional Thinking in Mathematics."

The laboratory approach to geometry and the use of the pantograph and planimeter in teaching ratio and proportion will be discussed by Henrietta Terry of the University of Illinois high school at Urbana.

Edith Woolsey of Sanford junior high school of Minneapolis will talk on use of reference material and visual aids in teaching.

Iowa Directory Published Soon

A 1938 - 39 University of Iowa student directory will be published by the university in a few weeks.

The directory will include the names, classifications, home addresses, and telephone numbers of students and faculty members. Other features of the book are student organizations and their presidents, chaperons and house mothers in student houses, a directory of university buildings, the university calendar, a map of Iowa City and a chart of transportation facilities.

Also included are lists of office telephones, Saturday class students, University high school, elementary and pre-school students, and a directory of the university hospital.

In order to permit the greatest possible accuracy in the publication, officials have urged all students to check their names, addresses and telephone numbers with the office of university publications, room W-9 East hall immediately. They may reach the office by dialing extension 8311.

This fall Goucher college will celebrate the 50th anniversary of its founding.

Alumni And Friends Will Be Entertained

Professor and Mrs. Ensign to Entertain Week End Guests

The band strikes up a march and all the alumni and football fans from miles around start marching into the city. Iowa City hosts and hostesses start making up extra beds for friends they expect and don't expect, and the pantry shelves are being filled in case some classmate just "drops in."

Among the many out-of-town guests in Iowa City this week end will be Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Gordon of Moline, Ill., who are being entertained at the home of Prof. and Mrs. Forest C. Ensign, 10 Bella Vista place.

Prof. and Mrs. F. D. Francis, 529 E. College street, are expecting a week end guest Mr. and Mrs. F. Dickson of Montezuma.

There will be a houseful at the George Keller home, 221 E. Lucas street. Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Kenefick and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Crab, all of Eagle Grove, are to arrive today and will stay through the week end.

Jeannette Holdorf of Toronto will be entertained at the Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hands residence, 414 Iowa avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Koza, 15 Prospect place, will entertain at a luncheon immediately preceding the football game tomorrow. # These Things Are Happening On Campuses

DEROIT, Mich. (ACP)—Something new in football formations is promised University of Detroit football fans this fall with the announcement of Coach Gus Dorais that the huddle has been abandoned for offensive plays and called into being for defensive plays.

Dorais' quarterbacks will call signals in the good old-fashioned way when his eleven is in possession of the ball, for Gus believes that this type of play makes the game more interesting for the spectators.

But before each play is begun by Detroit's opponents, the Titans will huddle to determine which defensive formation to use, a style of play little used on U. S. college grids.

BALTIMORE, Md. (ACP)—Textbook germs have long been the problem of health-minded college librarians and students, but their fears are now proven unfounded.

Baltimore City college's Arthur H. Bryan, after many experiments, gives the textbooks a pretty clean bill of health. Most of the germs he found in textbooks are of the harmless variety, but old and dilapidated volumes are most to be feared. He recommends sunning old books to destroy harmful germs.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (ACP)—Ordinary people have nothing on geniuses when it comes to insanity, much though popular beliefs may lead you to believe otherwise.

Authority for this "don't you believe it" item is Harvard university's Dr. E. M. East, who, after a great deal of careful research, proclaims:

"We ordinary people realize that we are not geniuses, and we invent a reason for not making the grade that is soothing our egos. Our nervous systems are sound and healthy. We are mediocrities because we are well-balanced and do things like other people. All we needed to make us geniuses was an inherited or acquired mental taint, something that would have made our actions eccentric."

LANSING, Mich. (ACP)—Quizzed college professors and proponents of frequent tests to jolt laggard students were themselves given a jolt recently by Michigan State college's Dr. Victor H. Noll.

In reporting the results of his researches on the effectiveness of quizzes, Dr. Noll has revealed that "There is no evidence to support the common belief among instructors that written tests as commonly used motivate learning or increase total achievement in college classes."

"The results of the study indicate unequivocally that students in a class where no quizzes of any sort were used, other than a mid-term and final examination show consistently, though not substantially, higher average achievement than is shown by students in classes where occasional written quizzes were given."

Searching for a reason for his startling results, Dr. Noll said: "It may be that when students have occasional quizzes they feel more secure and therefore take the longer examinations less seriously."

NEW YORK CITY (ACP)—"Kill the referee" and "hang the umpire" after the present season will be cat-calls of the past for eastern gridiron fans if officials of the Eastern Intercollegiate association have anything to say about it.

E.I.A. leaders have this year instituted a scouting system on football officials that will by the end of the year cut the number of approved officials in half, thereby improving the quality of the offi-

Rigid Tests on Equipment Make Air Transportation Safe Travel

(Editor's note: This is the last in a series of articles run in observance of National Air Travel week.)

The dependability of air transportation as a safe method of travel has been something that has been assured by the government, the manufacturers and the air lines themselves. Rigid tests as to structural strength and characteristics are conducted on every plane and engine before it is approved by the government for the air line use. The manufacturer likewise conducts positive tests on the new equipment he builds before submitting it to the government for final testing. Once a plane is delivered to an air line, the system itself makes individual tests to incorporate its own ideas about passenger comfort. By the time the plane is placed in a regular air transport schedule, it is the most perfect piece of equipment conceived by man.

The modern transport plane is kept in brand new condition by constant attention. At frequent intervals a plane is routed to the line's main overhaul and repair depot for complete overhaul and inspection to supplement the periodic service and inspection given at the completion of each flight. Every 2,000 hours the airplane is completely dismantled for microscopic inspection of every single part.

Carry Passengers

Ground transportation of passengers between downtown sections and air terminals is a problem that has been defeated by the air lines with the swift and comfortable limousine travel provided for the past several years. Downtown offices have grown from corners in hotel lobbies to large commodious accommodations where passengers find comfortable quarters to inquire about schedules, make reservations, and arrange details of a trip. The air lines have done much among themselves to expediate interline flights by employing high speed communications between key points throughout the country.

The greatest single tribute that has been paid to the safety and efficiency of air transportation since its birth has been its recognition by insurance underwriting and giving each official more games to work.

Asa S. Bushnell, E.I.A. football commissioner, in describing the ideal officials, said: "The ideal official is the one who notices everything but is seldom noticed himself; who is considerate and courteous without sacrificing firmness; who cooperates fully with fellow-officials; who is physically able to be in the right place at the right time; who knows what the rules say and what the rules mean."

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio (ACP)—An extension of the ordinary college student health plan calling for student health insurance has been tried here at Antioch college and has been found practicable.

Instituted more than three years ago, the health insurance plan provides that in addition to the regular medical and infirmary service there is available to students emergency hospitalization and consultation with outside specialists.

Said Antioch's President A. D. Henderson of the project: "This plan has the double object of ensuring that Antioch students, especially when they are away from the campus on their cooperative jobs, will not delay calling in adequate medical care in emergency, and that through the pooling of group resources the individual will not be forced out of school by the financial burden of emergency illness."

ers, who today consider air travel as safe a form of travel as other methods of transportation. Whereas the original air traveler of ten years back was a poor risk, today the air traveler can fly from coast - to - coast and have five thousand dollars coverage for a dollar. A passenger on a 500 to 700 miles flight is covered with the same five thousand dollar insurance policy for only twenty - five cents.

200 Seats Daily

The air lines have not failed in their effort to keep pace with passenger traffic demands. Today between certain of the major cities there are as high as 200 seats available daily, an example being that between two large cities where there were only 30 seats a day offered for sale ten years ago, the planes now have 395 seats offered daily.

Approximately 3500 men, women and children are flying over the air lines of the United States every twenty - four hours. These same lines also carry during the average twenty - four hour period 12 tons of air express and 29 tons of air mail. Of the 12,000 persons employed by the airlines today about 700 of these are pilots, a like number co - pilots, 3,300 mechanics and riggers, 2,500 other hangar and field personnel, 300 hostesses, 125 stewards, and 4,000 office workers besides the top - flight executives. The air lines each day fly 223,000 miles over about 64,000 miles of approved routes.

Horizon Bright

Amazing as this development has been during the past ten years, air transportation's horizon is today brighter than ever before as it turns into the second decade. It can be truthfully said that the air line business has this year outgrown its infancy. Best testimonial is the fact that the air lines have had the benefit of government appraisal and aid in the past and are now supervised as to rates, routes, policies, expansions, mergers, equipment, etc. by a single group, the newly created Civil Aeronautics Authority. Aviation has won the same type of recognition under the CAA as the steamships have under the Maritime Commission and as the railroads have under the Interstate Commerce Commission. It is fitting that the nation's first Air Travel week comes simultaneously with the setting up of the Civil Aeronautics Authority by the federal government to supervise and develop air transportation.

Proposal Well Received

The proposal to bring national attention to the Tenth Year Jubilee of air transportation, immediately received not only the endorsement of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, the National Aeronautic association and the Association of State Aviation Officials, but the endorsement of the 21 scheduled airlines in the United States, and it has already been highly commended by the new Civil Aeronautics Authority. Harold Cray, vice president of United Air Lines, was named chairman of the special committee of the Air Transport association to head the plans for the nine day commemoration. Other members of the committee include Paul H. Brattain, vice president of Eastern Air Lines; Charles A. Rheinsrom, vice president of American Airlines; J. B. Walker, vice president of Transcontinental and Western Air; D. D. Walker, general traffic manager of Chicago and Southern Airlines; Charles E. Beard, vice president of Braniff Airways, and Victor Chenea, general traffic manager of Pan American Airways.

Take Part

All forces of domestic air transportation and all associations interested in the development of aviation are expected to take part in this movement to make the public conscious of the tremendous strides which have been made in speed, economy, comfort, convenience, security, and reliability of air travel during the past decade.

As air transportation pauses to mark the entrance into a new decade, it has even more astonishing developments in sight for the next few years. Preliminary tests conducted with four - engine transports carrying from 30 to 40 passengers indicate that by 1939 or 1940, the air traveling public will be offered even longer non - stop flights and schedules. The air lines are definitely bent without fanfare, working toward the installation of a proven system for the landing of air transport planes by flight instruments and a curved radio beam. Flying at even higher altitudes in the sub - stratosphere is in store for the near future. Prophecies do not fit particularly in the usual review of a ten year development, but aviation's development is no ordinary one—as the past ten years have proven.

Trans - Atlantic Next

With trans - Atlantic service in the offing, it is not difficult to peer into the crystal wall of the future and see people speeding off to London or Paris for week-ends trips just as they are flying to Bermuda and Honolulu today —or on to a two week's vacation trip to Asia or a tour of Europe or South America. In fact, the idea of some day making a flying trip around the globe on regularly scheduled lines is not altogether visionary, so rapid has been the growth of international and national air transport, in both speed and comfort of the passenger service.

Miller Ends Study of Ancient Fossils

Results Will Enable Better Classification of Rock Formations

More accurate identification and dating of ancient beds of limestone and shale laid down in seas that covered vast areas of North America during the geologic Devonian Period, or Age of Fishes, are now possible as a result of researches conducted by Prof. Arthur K. Miller, of the geology department at the University of Iowa, according to a report made public by the Geological Society of America.

Aided by funds from the Penrose Bequest of the Geological Society and from the Wagner Free Institute of Science, Professor Miller has completed the classification and description of specimens representing all known North American Devonian ammonoids, prehistoric shellfish resembling the present-day chambered nautilus of the southern seas.

Results of this research are set forth in a special paper, "Devonian Ammonoids of America," published by the Geological Society. Since each of the hundreds of specimens described represents a type of ammonoid characteristic of one particular group or series of the multitudinous layers of limestone and shale laid down in the seas of Devonian time, from 285,000,000 to 325,000,000 years ago, it serves as an unerring index or identification tag to that series.

Knowledge of the complete collection and the series in which they are found will enable geologists to identify and place in their correct order beds which have been forced out of their normal sequence by great earth disturbances, as well as to correlate beds belonging to the same series even though they are found only as remnants in widely separated sections of the continent.

Professor Miller points out that ammonoids have long been one of science's best indicators of the passage of geologic time. For untold millions of years they swam swiftly through the warm waters of the ancient seas that alternately advanced and retreated across North America, or they crawled along the bottom with the aid of the tentacles which they also used to grasp prey.

During this immense span of time they evolved gradually from relatively simple forms, probably with long, cone-shaped shells, into extremely complex forms, with many-chambered spiral shells, often intricately ornamented with lines indicating the gradual growth of the animal.

Growth of an individual ammonoid, it is explained, resembled that of the chambered nautilus. The animal began life in a single-chambered shell. As it grew, new and increasingly large chambers were formed, and the animal moved forward in them, occupying each of the chambers in turn.

Shells of mature ammonoids representing a late stage of evolution were always spiral in shape, the animal living in the foremost chamber.

It is further explained that when ammonoids died on Devonian sea bottoms they were buried in mud and lime, which later hardened into the beds of shale and limestone in which their fossil remains are now found. Through study of their gradual evolution, represented by the fossils, geologists have been able to date successive beds or strata of rock laid down in seas through many millions of years of late Paleozoic and Mesozoic time.

Professor Miller states that ammonoids were abundant in European seas as far back in the geologic past as the Devonian period, and that their fossils are widely used abroad to identify rock strata of that period.

In North America, however, they have been little used in studying Devonian rocks, first, because they are not abundant in such rocks except in New York and nearby states, and secondly because the literature concerning them is widely scattered and not readily available to students.

Publication of his study of Devonian ammonoids, Professor Miller states, "is intended to overcome the latter of these handicaps to the use of ammonoids for the correlation of American Devonian strata; also, it is hoped that this study will stimulate a search for more and better ammonoids in the Devonian rocks of America and that the other handicap to their use for stratigraphic purposes will thereby be lessened."

AFRAID TO MARRY

HELEN WELSHIMER

CHAPTER 34

YOU CAN DO many things while your heart is breaking. You can eat, you can sleep, you can smile and gesture and talk. Sometimes you can do it so well that no one guesses that you are a mariolette, performing on a lot of invisible strings.

That was the way it was with Judy during the next few days. Once more she was acclaimed. Those same reporters who had been so quick to seize her picture when she had been connected with the Danceland story, welcomed the opportunity to herald the design contest. They told the public that she would be an assistant to Cordelli. They discovered her hotel address, printed it, and telephone calls, notes, invitations, flowers from old friends who had not known where she was, came in.

Judy was too tired at night to think. Now then a crooked smile and the flash of a pair of gray eyes would puncture a dream, and she would wake, remembering.

Judy had a pile of clippings of her own venture. She paid no attention to her father's come-back, though the stories sometimes linked that event with her own success. He had pushed her away when she had needed him. She would not go home.

She did move, though. This time she chose an apartment in an old red brick house in the lower twenties, east of Fifth avenue. She had the top floor rooms—a great, beamed living room with a fireplace that was flanked by bookshelves, dormer windows that opened on the street, a smaller bedroom, and a kitchenette. She had given the bedroom suite, the chaise lounge, the desk and lounging chairs of her own room at the apartment, as a gift, so she sent for them with no twinge of conscience.

Coralie came over and helped her cushions, hang prints and draperies, arrange furniture.

When everything was ready, Judy went down the street to a flower stand and bought lavishly—purple violets whose blooming was limited to a night; fragile yellow roses; an armful of old-fashioned flowers. She bought candles, too. She had a home.

Not a place to stay until it was time to join her mother in some hotel abroad. Not a room in an American hotel where she could remain until her credit was exhausted. Not a bed in somebody's house for a span of days. A home.

A home, work, peace—these were the crying needs of the human heart and they were hers. She did not mention love, though she knew that the term waited, just out of reach. She must work, work, work—

The bell which announced visitors rang, and she pressed the button which released the great front door, four flights down. She leaned over the railing, looking into the dim well of the stairs, and said: "Who is it, please?"

"The Press!" a cheerful voice answered.

"In battle formation. We want pictures."

"Pictures? Why?"

"Editor's orders. The public wants to see how you're doing."

"The public doesn't care a hoot! You pack up those picture-taking boxes and right about face—" She laughed as she said it.

"Too late, honey! We're in. Nice way to talk to a lot of people who want to give you a house warming."

There were five young men in the group, two of them reporters, three of them cameramen.

They came in. They took pictures, and Judy entered the spirit of it.

There was one tall boy, with rust-brown hair and gray eyes oddly like Ronald's. He was the merriest of the group.

"You haven't had a house warming?" he asked. "That will never do! I move we undo that damage at once. Peter, there's a delicate chicken and ham and potato salad—you know the menu, Jimmy?"

He gave orders, and presently Judy and the five were facing a table filled with food.

It was all so gay, so comfortable, so informal that she relaxed.

◆In that Park avenue world you dressed for every party. You wore one frock to a tea, and rushed home to change to a dinner or dance ensemble.

Judy sat in a deep chair as the logs burned in the fireplace. One of the reporters had known a firewood station, at the edge of Greenwich Village, where a quarter would buy enough timber to keep the fire going for a couple of evenings.

"You'll learn," he explained. "Never buy green wood, either. It doesn't burn."

Suddenly someone gave a whistle of complete surprise.

"The count!"

"It's nearly 10 o'clock!"

"Goodby, Judy, we'll see you often!"

"The count?" she repeated.

"Not Count Philippe Alexis von Gunderfeld?"

"The same. Do you know him?"

They were putting on coats, adjusting cameras and papers.

"Very slightly. What has he done?"

"He's marrying a pretty widow this evening and sailing away on her yacht through the wintry waters to Bermuda."

"Mrs. Bedford?" asked Judy.

"Yeah! Where did you learn so much?"

"I heard something about it."

"There was an heiress but that popped, and he and the widow Bedford seem made for each other. The Boland child is making eyes at the attorney in the Griffith Steel jamboree." The boy who resembled Ronald said that. His name was Bob Cushing and he gripped Judy's hand as he left. He was a special assignment man.

"I want to see you soon—and often."

Later Judy wondered why he had come along that night. She did not know then that he had been at Toni's, one of the newspaper hangouts, when the four others came in, wondering where and why to find Judy Rogers before they went after the count.

Through much telephoning around they obtained her address. With a loose evening on his hands, Bob Cushing decided to join the party.

He had seen Judy's pictures and liked the tilt of her nose, the upward slant of her laughing eyes. Here was a girl who could take what life dished out! He would like to know her.

However, he wanted to see Count Philippe before he sailed so he could not remain with Judy when his conferees left. He held her hand a second in leaving and his amused eyes surveyed the remains of the feast.

"There's enough for breakfast and dinner tomorrow night. If you'll wait, I'll drop by and help with the dishes."

Judy did not think he would. She was amazed the next evening when his shining head appeared on the stairs, in answer to her release of the door catch.

"I came, you see," he said. "I even brought some tea towels. I didn't think you had any."

"You wrote the kindest story about me that anyone ever did," she greeted him. "I'm so grateful I'll try you two eggs and a rasher of bacon. You gave me credit for being a person, with a desire to earn my way, instead of something that glitters in reflected light."

Bob Cushing was not writing a book. He had no wish to do a play. He might delve into biography some day. He took life as it came, laughed a great deal more than most people of his age or profession, and fell a little in love with Judy.

But he did not mention it, and she divined it in small things, only. He sent her a flower a day in a small red box—one morning a snow white camellia; another, when he had just been paid, a purple orchid; once a nosegay of sweet peas.

He introduced her to others of his own group who welcomed her eagerly. She was busy with her work. Cordelli was considerate and appreciative. Her home was real, rafter and wall and hearth. She was a person in her own right.

It was Bob who gave her the next news of Ronald.

Demo Congressional Candidate Defends New Deal Farm Aid

Maintaining that "an adequate cash income to the farmers of the nation is the basis of the nation's real prosperity," Judge James P. Gaffney, democratic candidate for congress from the first district of Iowa, defended the new deal's agricultural program in an address at the Dutch Creek picnic in Washington, Ia., yesterday afternoon.

"When the farmers are happy and prosperous," stated Judge Gaffney, "industry, business and labor are likewise happy and prosperous. The present administration in Washington, D. C., for the first time in the history of this nation, has not only given real encouragement to agriculture, but substantial aid."

After revealing the rise in farm prices, Judge Gaffney declared "the farmers are not going to vote against their own interests this fall, but will sustain in office men identified with and favorable to their program. The farmer would sooner receive $904, 000,000 cash income from the sale of pork and pork products in 1938, than $445,000,000 in 1932."

Judge Gaffney concluded his speech with a plea for peace, enumerating the horrors of war and pledging "to do all within my power to enact legislation as will end, in so far as this country is concerned, wars of aggression, if I am elected to congress."

Homecoming Music Concert To Take Place

The music department will present a Homecoming program tomorrow at 10 a.m. in north music hall. The program will be broadcast over station WSUI.

Prof. Philip G. Clapp, pianist, head of the music department; Prof. Hans Muenzer, violinist, and Prof. Hans Koebel, cellist, and newest instructor in the music department, will be participants in the program.

The program to be presented is as follows: Sonata in F major, opus 6 Strauss (first and second movements) Allegro con brio Andante ma non troppo Intermezzo from Goyescas

Granados Professor Koebel, cello Professor Clapp, piano Trio in B major, opus 8 Brahms Allegro con brio Scherzo Adagio Allegro Professor Muenzer, violin Professor Koebel, cello Professor Clapp, piano

Cigarette Permit At Grid Games Granted Echols

J. E. Echols of Des Moines has been granted permission to sell cigarettes and cigarette papers, tubes and wrappers at the football stadium by the Johnson county board of supervisors, it was stated last night.

This is the first time that a permit to sell cigarettes in the Iowa stadium has been issued, according to Ed Sulek, county auditor.

Scout Leaders Re-elect Head

Mrs. Hugh Carson was re-elected president of the Girl Scout Leaders association at a meeting of the group last night in the Scout headquarters. Other officers elected included Mrs. Kenneth Brinkhous, vice-president, and Anna Fisher, secretary. Mrs. Helen B. MacMahon was renominated as representative of the association to the Girl Scout council.

AROUND THE TOWN

With MERLE MILLER

THE OLD GRAD RETURNS To Be Subtitled "Only Yesterday"

Seventy seems an impressive age at first. But the old grad knew it wasn't. He didn't feel any older now than that other day he'd lighted his pipe on the Old Capitol steps. And that was nearly 50 years ago.

He stooped to light it now and creaked only a little as he bent over.

The whole thing didn't seem to have changed much. Only 30 years, although a lot can happen to a man—and a university—in 30 years.

They said it was more beautiful now, the art buildings across the river, that big new union, the fieldhouse, the football stadium and all those. But, hell, those aren't a university.

Some of the old faces were still around. That was the main thing. Professor Shambaugh (Wonder if they still call him "Benny"?). Sammy Sloan, Clara Daley. He'd known them, long years.

And here he was back again. Why, it seemed only yesterday.

He remembered what they'd said in history class then, about the eternal search for happiness. He hadn't known what it meant then. He still didn't, not for sure.

But it had something to do with a warm room, a radio and someone to sit with and read to, until it was time to go to bed. It was all connected up with the children and their coming back and his working harder so they could.

He'd wanted them to know the privileges he hadn't. Now he wasn't so sure he'd been right.

Heaven knows he hadn't been a success, not like some of them. But he'd always liked what he'd been doing, and he never left one job until there was a better one, and he loved his family, his friends and his community.

Who said he hadn't been a success? . . .

It seemed sort of nice, just sitting there on Old Capitol steps, not worrying about anything.

Not that he did much worrying. The fascists and the nazis and the democrats didn't worry him much. When he was in school they'd worried about free silver, Russian czars and German kaisers.

It had all come out all right. It probably always would.

It didn't seem so different, just watching them pass. The girls were a lot of them smoking, and they talked loud. But he remembered how shocked they'd been when they first wore bloomers in the women's basketball games.

It was good for people to be shocked. They got over it.

He heard them talking, and they seemed happy. He was glad of that. There was too much talk about this "lost generation" business.

They said we'd lost our reason to explore, that there were no more new frontiers. That made him mad.

What was that Professor Stewart had told him about the boy who was making top grades in physics, that one in chemistry? Those boys who were experimenting, trying to change their generation's ways of living as much as Daniel Boone and Kit Carson had changed life for theirs.

No frontiers, hell.

There were a lot of problems to decide, but they'd be decided. He knew. The kids didn't think they were unlucky. That was the main thing.

Well, he guessed he'd have to get started. They were having that meeting in Old Capitol with Dr. Mahan. He'd go.

His overcoat looked a little shabby as he got up. But that didn't matter. He wasn't unhappy. He liked too many things, the way the sun shone just over Old Capitol tower as he looked.

And there they were, shouting and waving their arms and worrying about the football team, about beating Wisconsin. Just as if the football game had much of anything to do with Homecoming.

Any fool knew it was only an excuse for coming back.

Only $75 Lost Due to Flames

Fire Chief Clark To Announce to Council Sept. Fire Damages

Property loss due to fire amounts to only $75 for all of Iowa City during September, it is stated in the monthly fire report to be submitted to the city council meeting tonight by Fire Chief James J. Clark.

The single loss was incurred by the burning of a motorcycle valued at $600. The damage was covered by insurance.

Not a single building was damaged by fire during the entire past month, and only nine alarms were sent to the fire department.

Iowa Stamps Sought Here S. U. I. Perforation Makes Them Rare To Many Collectors

Iowa Territorial Centennial stamps, bearing the picture of Old Capitol and perforated with the letters SUI when used on University of Iowa mail, now are reported to be much in demand by collectors.

From Texas has come information to university officials that the stamps are eagerly sought after and are described as being at a premium.

It seems that the interest is caused by the fact that the Old Capitol structure is now the University of Iowa's administration building and the perforations are symbolic of the university. It is the first time a building in a university has been pictured on a government stamp.

Some 50 million of the three-cent stamps were authorized by postal authorities and the first ones put on sale Aug. 24 in Des Moines. The university has purchased thousands of them and most of the

Fire Department Will Show Latest Methods at Night Drill

Fire Chief James J. Clark yesterday announced plans for a fire demonstration to be held under artificial lights at the city hall Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Held in observance of annual fire prevention week the drill will feature a complete fire-fighting demonstration by platoons number one and two, under the direction of Assistant Chiefs Ray Morgan and Albert Dolezal.

Platoon number one, in charge of the ladder detail, will give an exhibition of ascending a building, raising fire equipment and the use of cellar and fog nozzles. Assistant Chief Morgan will also don a gas mask and stage a rescue from the second floor of the firehouse.

The second platoon is to give a showing of the operation of hose equipment. Hoses are to be connected to hydrants and different types of nozzles employed. The repairing of broken hose while still under pressure will also be demonstrated.

Lighting facilities for the exhibition will be furnished by an independent dynamo serving as a source of power for floodlights.

Fire Chief Clark stated that a complete fire inspection tour will be held in the Iowa City downtown district during fire prevention week.

Roof-Fire Damages I. C. Store Slightly

A roof-fire was reported at 10:45 a.m. yesterday by I. C. Nickles, proprietor of the Self-Serve grocery store at 812 S. Summit street.

The fire, caused by chimney sparks, was quickly extinguished by the firemen. Only slight damage resulted from the blaze, it was stated.

John H. Stout, Iowa City Man, Believed Safe

John H. Stout, 38, who had been missing since Sept. 26, is allegedly living in Waterloo, according to a report received by the local sheriff's office last night.

A friend of Stout, formerly employed by the Swaner Farms dairy, received a letter from him asking for possessions to be sent to Waterloo, declared Preston Koser, deputy sheriff.

An unofficial report, also received at the sheriff's office, stated that Stout's family has joined him.

Stouts formerly resided at 1029 N. Dodge street.
