

New Human Deafness Cure Seen

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 — A new method of correcting human deafness is developing from studies of the hearing of baby opossums, Prof. Olof Larsell of the University of Oregon, said today. He told the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology of his findings regarding the reactions of the tiny animals to sounds of varying pitch and loudness. They show that deafness is in many cases an inability to hear ordinary spoken words of music because of an insensitivity of the cochlea, or sound-receiver in the ear, to sound in that range. Lower or higher notes may be perfectly audible. The cochlea, which is a snail-like bone inside the ear drum, is apparently arranged like a flight of stairs, the various parts of which are sensitive only to sounds within a very definite range, Professor Larsell said. Experiments with the opossums showed that they heard very high-pitched sounds, such as the squeak of the mother, within a few hours after birth. Ability to hear other sounds developed as the cells of the cochlea developed, while the animal was growing to maturity. If a part of the cochlea was injured the animal became completely deaf to sounds which were received by that part of the hearing organ, and Dr. Larsell found that each section of it was sensitive only to a certain pitch. It was also found possible to examine the cochlea of the living animal under a microscope and predict the range of sound which it would not be able to hear. Thus, Dr. Larsell's colleagues pointed out, the degree of deafness in a human being may be determined by examination of the cochlea, after the method is developed, and steps may be taken to correct it. The human hearing organ is sometimes injured at birth, or later in accidents, and deafness results. Actually, it was suggested, all that may be needed is a hearing device which will magnify just the small range of sound which the person cannot hear.

German Army Guards Sudeten German Land

National Title Revamped To 'Sudetenland'

Foreign Officials Declare Real Work Just Beginning Now

By LOUIS F. LOCHNER
BERLIN, Oct. 10 (AP)—The German army tonight had complete control of all Sudeten German territory awarded from Czechoslovakia by the Munich four-power accord and decisions of the international commission sitting in Berlin. "Within 10 days the national change of title to Sudetenland was accomplished," Dienst Aus Deutschland observed, "and nowhere were there incidents worth mentioning, although the atmosphere had become decidedly heated through events preceding." Dienst Aus Deutschland reflects the general attitude of both official and unofficial Germany.

Attacks on Cardinal Innitzer Regretted By German Government; Attackers Will Be Sent to Concentration Camps

VIENNA, Oct. 10 (AP)—Joseph Buerckel, Chancellor Adolf Hitler's commissioner for Austria, was understood to have returned to Vienna today intent upon sending to concentration camps persons responsible for Nazi attacks upon 62-year-old Theodore Cardinal Innitzer. The attacks are "deeply regretted" in official Germany, it was said. The agency Dienst Aus Deutschland in an inspired article from Berlin said Buerckel had "taken most vigorous action" against demonstrations including that Saturday night, when the cardinal was cut by flying glass in the stoning of his palace in St. Stephen's square by Nazi mobs.

Dienst Aus Deutschland said: "Incidents in Vienna in the course of which demonstrations were made against Cardinal Innitzer are deeply regretted in official German circles. "Reich Commissar Buerckel has taken most vigorous action against the provocative demonstrations. "He has taken the guilty parties severely to account and has announced that after undergoing punishment inflicted by the courts they will be given time to reflect upon their conduct in a concentration camp. "Authorities meanwhile are investigating whether and to what extent provocative elements, acting upon foreign instigation, may have been at work creating these incidents."

Juniors Will Select First Popularity King and Queen

Those Who Qualify Will Be Nominated From Picked Group

For the first time, undergraduate members of the junior class of the University of Iowa will choose a popularity king and queen, to be presented at the forthcoming Pica Ball. Plans for the choice were announced yesterday by John Evans, A3 of North English, editor of the 1940 Hawkeye, which is sponsoring the contest. Fraternities, sororities, dormitories and town groups are turning in nominations of their outstanding junior members, including a record of their grade point, activities, reasons for nominations and pictures of the various candidates.

Last of Nominations

The last of these nominations will have been received by 2 o'clock this afternoon. At 4:30 this afternoon at a meeting in Union Board room in Iowa Union, a committee of faculty and student officials will choose approximately 10 men and 10 women, most qualified as final nominees for the honor of being elected honorary queen and king of the junior class. This committee is composed of Assistant Dean of Men Lonzo Jones; Prof. George Haskell of the college of commerce; Prof. Clara Daley of the history department; Helen Reich, hostess at Iowa Union; Al Sorenson, A4 of Ames, president of A.F.L. honorary senior men's organization; Phyllis Wassam, A4 of Iowa City, president of Mortar Board, honorary senior women's organization; Jane O'Mera, A4 of Cedar Rapids, president of women's Pan-Hellenic organization.

Al Johann, A4 of Des Moines, president of the interfraternity council; Barbara Mueller, A4 of Davenport, president of University Women's association; F. G. Loomis, M3 of Waterloo, president of the Quadrangle, and Marjorie Moberg, P4 of Geneseo, Ill., president of Currier hall. The Daily Iowan will announce the final nominees tomorrow, chosen by the committee on a merit basis. The king and queen will be chosen by the juniors themselves. They will receive numbered ballots. Twenty Die As Plane Becomes Disabled in Fog

SOEST, Germany, Oct. 10 (AP)—Twenty persons were killed today when a Belgian airliner lost a wing in mid-air and plummeted to earth in flames near this Ruhr valley community in northwestern Germany. The victims were 16 German passengers, including two women and three children, and four Belgian crew members. Rescue parties searched tonight for some of the bodies, said by an eyewitness to have hurtled from the plane after it became disabled while flying through fog and rain on its regular Brussels-Essen-Berlin run. "I was standing in front of my house when suddenly I saw the plane through the west," one eyewitness said. "I saw something fall from the plane, then flames enveloped it."

One-Day Truce Agreed Upon

Confer in Effort To Prevent Violence In Swift & Co. Strike

SIoux CITY, Oct. 10 (AP)—A one-day truce in the Swift & Co. packing house strike here to prevent possible violence resulting from back-to-work movements was agreed on late today at a conference among company officials and city and county authorities. Meeting with Mayor David F. Loepp, Public Safety Commissioner Harold Sturgeon, Sheriff W. R. Tice and County Attorney Maurice Rawlings, officials of the strikebound plant agreed that they would "discourage" any back-to-work movement, at least until 9 a.m. Wednesday. Representing Swift & Co. at the parley at which the truce was arranged were E. F. Kaderabek, plant manager, and Frank L. Horton, company attorney from Chicago.

Bulgaria Army Chief Is Slain

SOPIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 10 (AP)—The chief of staff of the Bulgarian army, Major General Peyeff, was shot to death in a Sofia street today by a two-gun assassin who then tried to kill himself. General Peyeff, 55, died enroute to a hospital. He had six bullet wounds. His adjutant, Major Stoyanoff, also was struck by one of the dozen shots fired and was hospitalized in a serious condition. The shots were fired by a man who gave his name as Stoll Kiroff, 33. He was expected to die from self-inflicted wounds. Rumors that Kiroff was a former official and political conspirator who was recently released from jail were discredited by police. They were investigating, however, the possibility that the assassin belonged to "Imro," a terrorist organization which played an important role formerly in Bulgarian politics. General Peyeff apparently was well liked in the army because he seemed entirely disinterested in politics. The Bulgarian press feared the murder might start a feud similar to the Macedonian terror which rocked the country several years ago. Eye-witnesses said the slayer held a pistol in each hand, firing a stream of shots from each. Major Stoyanoff wheeled around and flung himself in front of his chief. A special session of the cabinet was called tonight.

Germany Lays Down Program To Czech State

PRAGUE, Oct. 10 (AP)—Germany was reported in informed circles today to have launched a campaign of pressure upon Czechoslovakia aimed at reducing the republic to the status of a vassal of the Nazi state. Berlin, whose armies already have completed occupation of the fifth zone of territory ceded by Czechoslovakia, was said to have hinted it would forego a further military advance only on condition that Czechoslovakia end its alliances with Russia and France.

Roosevelt's Appointees to Court Dissent From Mooney Decision

Spotlighted in New York's Bribe-Sifting Probe

Photographed at different phases of New York's probe of alleged official corruption in Brooklyn, are these three men. Left, Francis F. X. Geoghan, Brooklyn's District

Attorney, whose office is under fire, is shown arriving for conference with Governor Lehman. Inset, is Police Commissioner Lewis Valentine, also at the Governor's mansion. Right, Isadore Juffe, defendant in Brooklyn racket case, as he appeared before the Grand Jury. It was Juffe's charges of bribery that started the wholesale investigations.

Supreme Court Denies Review Of Noted Case

Justices Black and Reed Dissent Publicly; Labor Wins 3 Verdicts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—President Roosevelt's two appointees to the supreme court have tried in vain to persuade the tribunal that it should review a lower court decision against Thomas J. Mooney, the labor leader who has been fighting for 20 years against his conviction of complicity in a famous bombing. This was disclosed today when the court, with Justices Black and Reed dissenting, refused Mooney's request that it review the decision announced last Oct. 31 by the California supreme court. To some legal minds this meant that Mooney had lost his last chance of being saved by the high court from the life sentence after being convicted of complicity in the 1916 Preparedness day bombing at San Francisco. Will File Writ However, counsel for the imprisoned man obtained permission from Chief Justice Hughes to file a petition for a writ of habeas corpus within the next 20 days. The court denied a similar petition three years ago. Mooney, told of the court action, pinned his remaining hopes for freedom on the California election in November. Culbert L. Olson, the democratic candidate for governor, has expressed the intention of pardoning him if elected. Justices Black and Reed noted their dissent to the court's order publicly, a rare procedure, but they made no comment. The Mooney case was among approximately 300 which accumulated during the court's four-month summer recess and were considered for review. Labor Favored In four cases involving the national labor relations board, three of the orders were in line with the board's wishes and the fourth was to the contrary. The board was granted reviews of two adverse lower court decisions. An employer's request for review of another decision, favoring the board, was denied. The board failed, however, in its effort to prevent review of a federal circuit court permitting it to withdraw litigation against the Ford Motor company for amendment of procedure. Reviews granted the board concerned: 1—A board contention that men who strike during a labor dispute retain their status of employees even though they were under contract not to strike. The seventh circuit court at Chicago ruled against the board on this issue in a case involving the Columbia Enameling and Stamping company of Terre Haute, Ind. 2—A decision by the sixth circuit court denying enforcement of a board order to reinstate employees of the Sands Manufacturing company of Cleveland. A review was denied the Memphis Furniture Manufacturing company, which had made an unsuccessful attack in a lower court on the labor board's authority to order reinstatement of 13 employees. Agrees to Review In some of its other orders the court: Agreed to review a lower court order that $586,000 of impounded funds be turned over to livestock commission men at Kansas City. The money represents the difference between rates fixed by Secretary Wallace and higher ones actually charged by the commission men. It was impounded during litigation which resulted in Wallace's rate-fixing order being declared invalid by the supreme court. Now the secretary is trying to have the money returned to farmers. Denied reviews of state court convictions of Anna Marie Hehn, under sentence of death for murder at Cincinnati, Ohio, and of Charles (Lucky) Luciano and five others for operation of a vice-ringing in New York City. Government Forces Rally HENDAYE, France (AP)—The Spanish government rallied its forces on the Ebro front yesterday in an effort to regain ground lost over the week end.

Government To Raise Loan Rate To Corn Growers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—A government forecast that the American corn crop would total 2,459,316,000 bushels this year prompted officials to say today that the government loan rate to growers was virtually sure to be 61 cents a bushel. Such a rate would be the maximum permitted under the crop control law, which provides for price - bolstering loans to farmers. The 61-cent figure would be four cents more than the rate the department indicated several weeks ago it was prepared to establish.

Lady Astor Denies Lindbergh Declared Airforce Inefficient

BURGLARS BUNDLE Ignore Combination Of Cashless Safe

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 10 (AP)—These two burglars like to do things the hard way. They broke into the offices of an oil company, and sought out the office safe. On the front was posted a typewritten notice giving the lock combination. Ignoring the figures which it helpfully listed, the burglars knocked the knob from the box, which contained only papers.

Declares Lindbergh Not Her Party Guest During London Visit

LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Daily Herald, labor paper, today quoted American-born Lady Astor as declaring a "complete lie" the report Col. Charles A. Lindbergh pronounced the Soviet air force inefficient during a visit at her home. "Colonel Lindbergh has not dined with us since he returned from Russia and in fact I have never given a dinner party for him," the newspaper quoted her. "It is a complete lie, too, that Colonel Lindbergh has ever made any sort of pronouncement about the Russian air force or about anything else during a dinner party at my house or in my house at all." Col. Lindbergh was denounced by 11 Soviet airmen in a letter published in Moscow today. They asserted he was a guest in Lady Astor's home when he made statements derogatory of Soviet aviation and may have encouraged influential conservative circles to urge Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to go ahead with his agreement to permit Adolf Hitler to dismember Czechoslovakia. Colonel Lindbergh refused comment this afternoon when he landed in Rotterdam en route from Paris to Berlin. With Mrs. Lindbergh he left Le Bourget airport, Paris, at 2:25 p.m. (8:25 a.m., CST) and landed at Waalhaven airport, Rotterdam, shortly before 5 p.m. (11:00 a.m., CST). A Berlin dispatch said bad weather prevented the pilot from getting through to Berlin where he was expected to attend the annual session of the Lillenthal Society for Aerial Research opening there Wednesday.

Heated Debates Abound As Labor Groups Discuss Peace

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 10 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor, determined to make no peace terms "with dictatorship or communist leadership," was aroused by a heated debate today, as Danile J. Tobin threatened to lead the Teamsters' union out of organized labor's fold. Tobin demanded that a resolutions committee report assailing John L. Lewis be sent back to the A. F. of L. executive council. The president of the International Teamsters' union shouted that if the convention did not take definite steps to rebuild the labor movement "we will try to build our own home—the Teamsters' union." "What was the C. I. O. reply? The very next day the chairman of the C. I. O. announced he was calling a convention in Pittsburgh to establish a permanent C. I. O. movement. "Who is the culprit now?" No One Weary Green said no one of the federation was "so weary of the fight" as to make an "unconditional surrender." Gaining the floor again, Tobin said no one had asked for "unconditional surrender." Then Green and Tobin agreed to let bygones be bygones and the vote was taken. R. M. Burr, representing the American Ann Arbor Central Trades and Labor council, offered the only dissenting vote. Matthew Woll, chairman of the resolutions committee, led the fight against Lewis as he read a formal report that blamed the C. I. O. boss for most of the troubles on the labor front. The report ended with an invitation to the C. I. O. rank and file and all unorganized workers to come into the A. F. of L. as "the house of labor." Before Convention Standing before the convention, Woll waved the council's recommendation and thundered: "The one question confronting our representatives at every turn is the paramount question of the power and arrogance and the overweening pride of one man. Confronted with such an issue there is no solution, until the adherents of that man deprive him of his authority or he voluntarily steps aside."

Reviews Granted the board concerned:

1—A board contention that men who strike during a labor dispute retain their status of employees even though they were under contract not to strike. The seventh circuit court at Chicago ruled against the board on this issue in a case involving the Columbia Enameling and Stamping company of Terre Haute, Ind. 2—A decision by the sixth circuit court denying enforcement of a board order to reinstate employees of the Sands Manufacturing company of Cleveland. Writer Barred From Country

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Evelyn John St. Loe Strachey, British writer on communism and one-time object of a deportation proceeding in this country, was barred from entry in the United States tonight by immigration officials. They ordered him held aboard the Normandie overnight and instructed the French line to deliver him tomorrow morning to Ellis island for appearance before a special board of inquiry. The hearing will determine whether he shall be allowed a temporary permit to enter. The immigration officers said Strachey "was in possession of a passport but did not have a valid passport visa."

It's A Dangerous Thing

"In our efforts to provide security for all of the American people, let us not allow ourselves to be misled by those who advocate short cuts to Utopia or fantastic financial schemes."

A little economics is, evidently, a dangerous thing.

It caused a country practitioner in California to envision an economic Utopia for all Americans over 60; it caused, at one time, nearly 5,000,000 old people to subscribe — and with financial support — to his scheme.

It has caused Californians this spring to vote for those who would provide every man and woman in the state over 50 with $30-every-Thursday.

It caused Huey Long to promise to make "every man a king." Now from California the $30-every-Thursday plan is spreading. It is being promoted by organizations or political candidates in Alabama, Colorado, Florida, Tennessee, Wisconsin and probably other states.

And in Iowa, in the first congressional district, to be sure, there are candidates secretly promising support for the older Townsend plan of $200 monthly payments.

The matter of old-age pensions has, in short, become a national menace.

It has become, for some, a source of private income. It is reported that Willis Allen, chairman of the California organization, is collecting for his group $2,400 a day in small contributions from old people who hope to benefit from the proposed system.

Two hundred thousand Californians have joined the movement, and a congressional and gubernatorial candidate who favors the plan have been nominated.

If it passes — and barring a change in the election winds it no doubt will — there is every chance that the state of California may be bankrupt next year at this time.

We refer those interested in the plan to the report published by the Committee on Old Age Security of the Twentieth Century Fund.

The committee declared it had been forced to conclude that, however laudable the objectives of any such movement, "it is not economically possible to provide pensions of $200 a month to persons over 60 without drastically lowering the standard of living of the remainder of the population and disrupting the nation's economic machinery."

It held, moreover, that there would be a wave of bankruptcies in the United States, that the idea would neither increase nor decrease total purchasing power.

"It would merely take a substantial part of the income now earned by people under 60 and hand it to those over 60. The younger would have less, while the older would have more."

And meanwhile elderly persons the nation over hope in vain, and men with small motives profit.

We're reminded of a remark by our economics professor — a man who should know whereof he speaks because he has spent his life studying financial problems:

"If I can teach you one thing about our economic system, let it be simply that it is an exceedingly complicated affair; so you can thus avoid simple panaceas that will solve our economic problems simply."

"It can't be done."

The Princeton mathematician who demonstrated how a chess game could last forever is over-optimistic. Doesn't he know the kibitzers never would allow that?

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—It develops that a body can't even go after a little local color without being hauled in by protective societies and having hot broth forced down one's throat.

There was a girl about 22 years old living in an abandoned shack which was made out of piano boxes up on some off-shoot of the Bronx. It was obvious that anyone living there must be in trying circumstances. And when it became known that a young girl was attempting to wrest an existence under such conditions a wave of pity lapped against the front steps of one of the benevolent organizations of the city and forthwith a committee of well-meaning and kind ladies called on her.

"But I don't want any help," protested the girl. "My dear," soothed the motherly spokeswoman, "of course you do. There, there now, Dear, don't cry. We intend to see that you have everything you need."

"But I have everything I want. I am all right here."

"You poor, brave, dear thing," cooed the ladies in chorus, "just come along with us now, that's a dear!"

"Listen," cried the now-exasperated lass, "I'm writing a book. I have a perfectly good home in Westchester. My father is a doctor. He was here this afternoon. Furthermore, I have a bank account of my own with $3,000 in it. I like it here, and you are distracting me. I appreciate your motives in coming here, but you will be doing me a greater favor if you will kindly go away and let me alone."

"They went. . . . But what a HUFF they went in."

Meanwhile, two of our Katharines have come cluck-cluck, clucking back to the avenue. . . . They would be Miss Cornell and Miss Locke. . . . Miss Locke is to play Ophelia opposite Maurice Evans in Hamlet. . . . And Miss Cornell is to star in a new play with a Biblical setting. . . . It's title is "Herod and Mariamne."

"This play requires a great deal of understanding of those times," Miss Cornell believes, hence all this preparatory study. . . . And there's no time to be lost between rehearsals, because her husband is her director. . . . Guthrie McClintic, to whom Miss Cornell has been wedded 17 years, directs all her plays. . . . (Q) "Is he temperamental, Miss Cornell?" . . . (A) "Of course he is temperamental."

(Q) "Are you glad to be back?" . . . (A) "Martha's Vineyard was wonderful, but I am glad to be back. I have so much work to do this year."

(Q) "Well what about Guthrie? Is he a considerate director?" . . . (A) "My husband is a very wonderful director. . . . He brings out the very best in me. . . . I wouldn't want anyone in the theater to direct me but my husband."

Which seems to take care of that. Meanwhile Miss Locke is frantically attempting to find a suitable apartment. . . . She wants one not too far away from the theater, and one not too close to the midtown distractions. . . . She's the dark-headed little girl who gave such an amazing performance last season in "Having Wonderful Time." Now she's to have the dangerously difficult role of Ophelia against Maurice Evans' Hamlet. Evans is believed by many to be the finest Shakespearean actor on the English stage. New York went overboard on him last year, hence his reappearance on the Rialto this season.

Personal nomination: Best radio show on the air is "Information Please," heard every Tuesday evening. It's impromptu. It has wit and whimsy to spare.

HOLLYWOOD—Safe bet: there were plenty of red faces in town after the preview of "There Goes My Heart."

For one reason or another, Hal Roach had trouble getting a feminine lead for his comedy. He wanted Carole Lombard, tried for Constance Bennett, Barbara Stanwyck, several other girls.

No soap, so today, fans, we give you that beautiful, ingratiating, stellar comedienne: Virginia Bruce!

The girls who didn't take it must have read the first few pages of the script, tossed it aside. The first sequences of the picture are unpromising. They ask you to care (again) about the doings of another "richest girl" who wants to get away from her rich-rick grandpa and have some fun. This is known as the Barbara Hutton formula, tried and true, and the pictures, like its predecessors, puts a playful reporter (Fredric March) on her trail. It follows through, in matters of plot, with little variation, but it impresses, for all that, as one of the sprightliest, brightest and most hilarious comedies of the year.

When the heiress (Miss Bruce) runs away from grandpa's yacht and gets a job in one of his chain department stores—incognito, of course—the film brightens, perhaps because that's where Patsy Kelly comes in.

Anyway, under Norman Z. McLeod's lively direction, "There Goes My Heart" is garnished with as clever and laugh-provoking incident and situation as you'd hope to find in ten comedies. Samples: Patsy, employed as a vibrator demonstrator in the store, carries on sales-haranguing while being shaken, gets out of the machine and can't lose the jitters; Patsy and Virginia, cooking by electricity and lacking a quarter to keep the juice coming, plug in on the Great White Way (alternating current!).

March is forceful and amusing as the reporter, and Eugene Pallette and Alan Mowbray have great moments. Gratifying as Miss Bruce's comedy is, it's Patsy Kelly's that will rock the theaters. Also present, in the familiar-face bracket: Nancy Carroll, as the "heavy," and Arthur Lake. Present effectively, but without screen credit: Harry Langdon, one-time silent star comic, as the wistful parson.

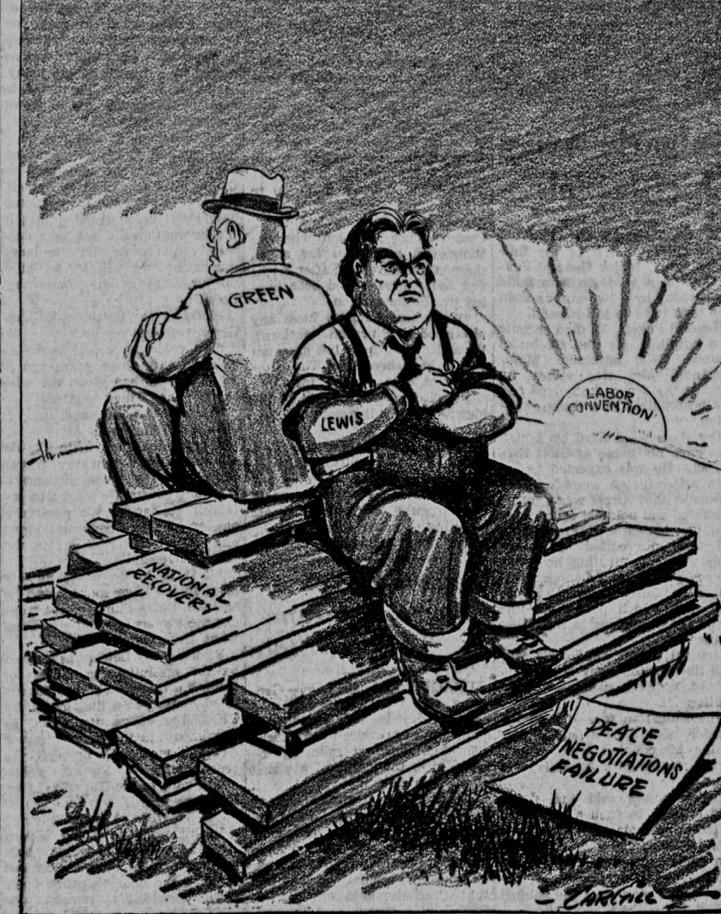

"Youth Takes a Fling" is a mostly pleasant if improbable trifle about a Kansas farm boy who years for the sea and a New York store model who yearns for the boy. Joel McCrea is so in love with the sea that he can't see Andrea Leeds, a bit of casting which stretches belief right there. But Dorothea Kent and Frank Jenks teamed for comedy, maneuver things around to help Andrea get her man, and the lightness of touch distinguishing the Joe Pasternak productions (all the Deanna Durbin) is usually apparent.

The Ritz Brothers, hard-working jitterburgs of comedy, are best taken in small doses. If you don't agree, there's a jam session awaiting you in "Straight, Place and Show."

The Ritzes take on a race horse, maneuver through a ho-humish romance between Phyllis Brooks and Richard Arlen, and practically tear themselves to pieces in the frenzied pursuit of laughs. The result, generally, is so sparsely amusing that the occasional pause while Ethel Merman scrapes a torch song over her slightly brassy vocal cords is a delight.

"UNFINISHED BUSINESS"

TUNING IN

By Loren Hickerson

WAR MEMORIES The above picture was taken over 20 years ago at Faucaucourt, France, of Robert M. Burt on the airfield of the reckless third pursuit group, whose nucleus was formed from the survivors of the Lafayette Escadrille.

Two days after this picture was taken, the then speedy French Spad was riddled with bullets when Burt, a second lieutenant, was jumped upon by eight Fokkers.

The young pilot dived 10,000 feet and finally, his propeller shot off and hot oil spurting into the cockpit, crashed into a deep shell hole in No Man's Land.

That night, under hissing star shells and raked by continuous machine gun fire, Burt crawled safely to the American lines.

Burt, now famous as a writer of Jimmie Allen, returned to the air last night with a new aviation story titled "Captain Midnight."

BENNY GOODMAN . . . And his swingsters will broadcast their next program from Chicago at 8:30 tonight, where they are currently making appearances at the Trianon and Aragon ballrooms.

"Memphis Blues" will be featured by the killer diller and Martha Tilton's number is to be "Oh Boy." "Gandy Dancers," "Small Fry," "All the World is Waiting for the Sunrise" and "Swanee River" are among the other tunes to be swung by Goodman and the boys.

It'll be good if you like it! FOR MEN ONLY . . . Tonight will feature Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., noted diplomat and former governor aristocratically speaking, as if he had made it himself. At that, though, he's an accident.

The late Joseph Chamberlain, his father, was the accumulator of the initial fortune. He became a statesman of formidable proportions. Still, he had the "trade" aroma clinging around him. He figured that his oldest son, Austen, was the chap to succeed him and become a REAL aristocrat.

Neville, he calculated, was to become the family's business man, keeping the Chamberlain aristocracy in the foreground. By some strange freak of fate,

Neville is the bird who has to bear the aristocratic burden. He has to wear a frock coat and a plug hat and act "tony."

He isn't adapted to it. When I saw him, in world war times, he was midding informal.

Debating diplomatic issues (which he knows nothing about), I'm prepared to believe that Neville is at a disadvantage at centers like Munich.

But when it comes to world economics? Neville Chamberlain has got some education. Has a bonehead like Hitler got any?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS W. W.: "My hands have been irritated and have itched and swollen. A young man in a drug store said it looked like acid in the blood. After a couple of weeks of relief it flared up again, and there were some irritations on my feet and instep at the same time. A blood test showed nothing."

Answer: I will hazard a guess that it is ringworm. Treat it with Whitfield's Ointment. Anybody who tells a person with a skin eruption that it is due to acid is doing them no favor. "Acid" in the blood never causes a skin eruption.

Health Hints

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

The blood is the only tissue in the body which function without a nucleus. Sometimes, when there has been a loss of blood, or when there is a disturbance of blood formation, the body's demand for blood cells results in a number of young nucleated red cells being thrown into the blood stream. It is like a country exhausted in war when the youths and boys are called to the colors because not enough adults remain.

The blood cells, then, originate in the bone marrow, are given out when mature into the blood stream, and finally are destroyed in the spleen and sent to the liver to be made into bile. This is a complicated and far-flung system but, to remember the origin and fate of the red cells is to facilitate understanding of the anemias.

Recalls Damage Suit I remember a damage suit which was solved in favor of the insurance company on that very ground. A woman applied for sick benefit insurance on the grounds of hemorrhage. One smart inspector got suspicious and had the blood stains on the gauze examined and proved they were caused by chicken blood. The red cells were nucleated.

The red cells are the only cells

Iowa Dolphin Fraternity Will Present Annual Water Pageant

New Show Expected To Be Greatest; At Pool, Oct. 27-29

When the Iowa chapter of the Dolphin fraternity puts on its annual show Oct. 27-29, there will be a host of members from the various other conference schools attending.

To promote interest in the show and for reasons of expansion, members of the other institutions were invited to witness the showing of "The Dolphin Follies of 1939" as week end guests of the Iowa Dolphins.

Last year, many swimmers from the other universities came to see the Iowa chapter's exhibition in order to put on similar water pageants in their own pools.

Purdue, which puts on a display almost as large as the Iowa production, has put on but two pageants in the history of its club, one of which was given in their old pool, and the other which was produced in the new better equipped natatorium. Iowa, incidentally, has put on a water show for every one of the 19 years of the club's existence.

With increased facilities and a better knowledge of handling a production of this kind, the Iowa Dolphins have improved their presentations until the show has become a model for all the other Dolphin chapters.

Among the schools who will probably send representatives are Chicago, which has put on two water carnivals; Illinois, which has also given three, and Michigan, which puts on more of a water exhibition instead of the pageant - exhibition combination characteristic of the other schools.

The returns from the ticket sales of the Iowa aquatic shows are used to send the varsity swimmers to the national swimming meets and to send members of the squad to the Florida exhibition during the Christmas season.

One of the things which the visitors will be watching will be the under-water swimming. This will be one of the more difficult stunts which the Iowa swimmers put on.

Starting at one end of the pool the men of the drill team will swim the entire distance under water, a distance of 50 yards. This will be hard work for the swimmers, for it requires from a minute to a minute and a half to traverse the full distance. However, the presentation is really worth the effort for with lights outlining the bodies of the under-water performers, the act will be very effective.

Picture the huge pool lighted by powerful 5000-watt flood lamps from the windows down near the tank. The ghostly bodies going gliding through the beams of light, elusive, uncanny, seeming to be in one certain spot but actually in another. Gaily colored balloons tied to the swimmers' waists bobbing along on the surface of the water to indicate their positions as they slide along in the glowing water.

Huskies Black, Also "Blue" After Defeat

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 10 (AP)—It was blue Monday in the University of Nebraska football camp as a result of the 8-7 reverse at the hands of Iowa State last Saturday and disclosure that five of Coach Biff Jones' ball carriers spent the week end in the hospital.

Quarterback George Porter, suffering from internal injuries, appeared the most seriously hurt and is likely to be out of the picture for a week or two. Half-back Herman Rohrig and Roy Petch were released from the hospital today but it was doubtful whether they could see action against Indiana next Saturday. Still confined were Edsel Wibbels, halfback, injured last Saturday, and Halfback Marvin Plock, nursing a leg injury incurred in the Minnesota game Oct. 1.

They Eat!
AMES (AP)—Yesterday was a happy day for the regulars on the Iowa State college football team who were first excused from practice, then seated at a supervised training table for their first "house" meal under the new Big Six ruling.

Around the Circuit With the Professor

By PAUL MICKELSON
NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Unaccustomed as he is to handing out compliments for fear they'll return to roost in his burly whiskers, the old professor was in such a merry mood today he couldn't resist a few words of praise for his lads in the Monday morning class for football coaches. After listening to alibis of ball players in the world series the professor was glad to get back where he could hear professional weepers.

Why Celebrate?
Professor: I give you credit. You guys can cry louder and weep harder than all the ball players—the Cubs. But we must get on with our work. Hey! Who's passing cigars back there?
Red Dawson, Tulane: Professor, I cannot tell a lie. A new cheer leader, scaling seven pounds, was born at my house. It's our first and I'm setting up smokes for the house.

Professor: I'll take a box of snuff instead of that cigar. And now will Sergeant-at-arms Sutherland kindly remove William Vanquisher Slyker from the front bench. He hasn't won a game since...

Great Stuff
Bill Slyker, Evansville college: Hold it, professor! My name today is William Victorious Slyker. Don't you read the papers? Don't you know my aces not only scored a point for the first time since 1936 but won a game? Professor, we licked Wabash, 27-0, Saturday. I wouldn't swap my bunch now for the whole Pittsburgh team. Hold me back!

What's This?
Professor: Indeed, this is too much. Hurry up with that snuff. What's this business coming to? Jimmy Kitts, Rice: Darned if I know. Our great ball club has been licked twice in a row by a total of four points.

Bernie Moore, LSU: Professor, Dawson and Slyker are no more proud of their kids than I. Our game against Rice was a great one. Our line was magnificent and Cotton Milner—professor, he was great.

Professor: So far, we've had celebrations. Okay, doctor, give it to us.

Jock Sutherland, Pittsburgh: We beat Duquesne but we got the breaks and turned them into advantage. I'm worried. We got to play Wisconsin and any team that can score 31 points against Iowa must have something.

Clipper Smith, Duquesne; no alibis. A great team won, because Pitt is great.

Professor: Now if Jock could only get more than one team. Bernie Bierman, Minnesota: We fiddled while Purdue burned us up that first half with a great center line. They outplayed us badly but we got the breaks and then hung on in the second half. I wouldn't have bet a nickel at half-time that we'd score.

And How!
Mal Elward, Purdue: Minnesota's attack was powerhouse. I could use some of those backs. Anybody could.

Professor: I see where Tennessee got some revenge.

Bob Neyland, Tennessee: We waited two years and got it but until the closing minutes of the final quarter it looked like we were going to have to wait still longer for it.

Jack Meagher, Auburn: Looks like I'll have to call on the WPA for help in developing a scoring punch. At that, we might have got a tie except for some tough breaks.

Light Session as Hawks Drill For Maroons; Cripples Return

Intramurals Open Today Fraternity Group In Touch Football League Contests

Those forgotten men of sports, the intramural athletes, will return to the public eye this afternoon when fraternity touch football teams swing into action along a six field battlefield.

Headlining tonight's battles will be games between Phi Delta Theta, one of last year's sectional champs in the fraternity division, and Theta Tau, and between another last year sectional winner, Phi Kappa Psi, and Theta Xi. Other contests tonight are between Alpha Chi Sigma and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Alpha Sigma Phi and Phi Epsilon Pi, Alpha Tau Omega and Sigma Chi, and Delta Chi and Phi Gamma Delta. The games are scheduled for 4:10 this afternoon and will be carried on simultaneously on six gridirons located behind the fieldhouse.

Shift
Tomorrow afternoon the scene will shift to competition in the Quadrangle league and later in the week teams in the fraternity B division, as well as those in the Cooperative and Hillcrest leagues will be called to the fray.

Indications are that intramural competition will be much keener than last year, according to Dr. Fred Beebe of the men's physical education department, especially in the fraternity divisions, as 56 frats are to be represented this year as against only 30 last year. Plans are also being made for a town league, to be composed of groups living in private houses. Such groups wishing to compete are asked to report to Dr. Beebe before Thursday noon.

The complete schedule for the fraternity A league is as follows:

- Oct. 11
Field 1—Phi Delta Theta-Theta Tau.
Field 2—Alpha Chi Sigma-Sigma Alpha Epsilon.
Field 3—Alpha Sigma Phi-Phi Epsilon Pi.
Field 4—Phi Kappa Psi-Theta Xi.
Field 5—Alpha Tau Omega-Sigma Chi.
Field 6—Delta Chi-Phi Gamma Delta.

- Oct. 13
Field 1—Delta Upsilon-Triangle.
Field 2—Beta Theta Pi-Sigma Nu.
Field 3—Delta Tau Delta - Pi Kappa Alpha.
Oct. 18
Field 1—Phi Delta Theta-Sigma Alpha Epsilon.
Field 2—Theta Tau-Phi Epsilon Pi.
Field 3—Alpha Chi Sigma - Alpha Sigma Phi.
Field 4—Phi Kappa Psi-Sigma Chi.
Field 5—Theta Xi-Phi Gamma Delta.
Field 6—Alpha Tau Omega-Delta Chi.

- Oct. 20
Field 1—Delta Upsilon-Sigma Nu.
Field 2—Triangle-Pi Kappa Alpha.
Field 3—Beta Theta Pi-Delta Tau Delta.
Oct. 25
Field 1—Phi Delta Theta-Phi Epsilon Pi.
Field 2—Sigma Alpha Epsilon-Alpha Sigma Phi.
Field 3—Theta Tau-Alpha Chi Sigma.
Field 4—Phi Kappa Psi-Phi Gamma Delta.
Field 5—Sigma Chi-Delta Chi.
Field 6—Theta Xi-Alpha Tau Omega.

- Oct. 27
Field 1—Delta Upsilon-Pi Kappa Alpha.
Field 2—Sigma Nu-Delta Tau Delta.

Examination Today To Determine If Balazs Will Start

Mike Enich, sophomore who figured prominently in early season dope to be one of Iowa's better backs, has been moved into the center position in one of Coach Tubbs' moves to strengthen the squad for the Chicago game, Saturday.

Other changes were made, some of them a startling nature as Tubbs sought a combination to carry out his "explosive" theory of football. Ham Snider and Wilbur Nead were moved up to the first string to replace Henry Luebecke and Jim Kelley in the line.

Luebecke and Kelley spent their time on the third string in the abbreviated dummy scrimmage session. Bruno Andruska, starting center in the Wisconsin game, was performing on the second string as the Hawkeyes went through their paces in preparation for the Maroon game.

With the exception of "Red" Olson, who was in the hospital suffering with a boil which has caused him considerable pain for the past several days, the men injured in Saturday's game were in uniform, seemingly completely recovered from the effects of the minor casualties that swept them from the Wisconsin game.

Frank Balazs, admittedly the spark plug of the team, was to be examined today to determine whether or not he would be able to make the Chicago trip. Without Balazs, the Hawkeyes seem to lack a scoring punch. His smashing plunges into the line seem to constitute Iowa's lone scoring threat.

His absence in the lineup Saturday, doubtless hurt the Hawks chances, not, however, for three touchdowns worth. It is to be hoped that his presence in the lineup next Saturday will make a great deal of difference in Iowa's offense. It may be that Frank's presence will give the team more confidence, more spirit than it possessed against the Badgers. If not, the unthinkable could quite easily come to pass and Iowa's string of defeats be extended. If so, a lot of people are going to lose faith in the law of averages.

- Nov. 1
Field 3—Triangle-Beta Theta Pi.
Nov. 1
Field 1—Sigma Alpha Epsilon-Theta Tau.
Field 2—Phi Epsilon Pi-Alpha Chi Sigma.
Field 3—Phi Delta Theta-Alpha Sigma Phi.
Field 4—Sigma Chi-Theta Xi.
Field 5—Phi Gamma Delta-Alpha Tau Omega.
Field 6—Phi Kappa Psi-Delta Chi.

- Nov. 3
Field 1—Sigma Nu-Triangle.
Field 2—Pi Kappa Alpha-Beta Theta Pi.
Field 3—Delta Upsilon-Delta Tau Delta.
Nov. 8
Field 1—Phi Gamma Delta-Sigma Chi.
Field 2—Delta Chi-Theta Xi.
Field 3—Phi Kappa Psi-Alpha Tau Omega.
Field 4—Phi Epsilon Pi-Sigma Alpha Epsilon.
Field 5—Alpha Sigma Phi-Theta Tau.
Field 6—Phi Delta Theta-Alpha Chi Sigma.

- Nov. 1
Field 1—Pi Kappa Alpha-Sigma Nu.
Field 2—Delta Tau Delta-Triangle.
Field 3—Delta Upsilon - Beta Theta Pi.

Conference Teams Ready

Shaughnessy Drives Maroons Through Long Drill for Iowa Game

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 10 (AP)—Coach Lynn Waldorf gave the Northwestern squad a brief tackling drill today, then worked the first team against Ohio State plays as presented by the freshmen. He said he was pleased with the Wildcats' improved down-field blocking, which permitted several long runs against Drake, but admonished the squad on its poor tackling.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10 (AP)—Chicago's Maroons returned from their Michigan drubbing to an arduous afternoon on the midway today as Coach Clark Shaughnessy drove them through a long drill for Saturday's game with Iowa. Signal sessions and wind sprints occupied the varsity for almost two hours as the reserves scrimmaged.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 10 (AP)—Injuries struck the University of Illinois football squad as it began preparations today for Saturday's battle with Notre Dame.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 10 (AP)—Michigan opened four days of brisk work aimed at bringing the little brown jug back from Minnesota with an impressive offensive and defensive drill today. The big Wolverines, who meet the Gophers Saturday with a record of having permitted the opposition only 50 yards in rushing gains in two games, were at full strength with the return to action of Capt. Fred Janke and Bill Smith, veteran tackles recently laid up with knee injuries.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 10 (AP)—Minnesota today heard of Michigan's prowess from Scout Dallas Ward, who warned the Gophers that the Wolverines were a vastly superior team over that which met the Gophers last year. He said that improvement would be necessary in the Gopher ranks to win over the Crisler men here Saturday. The varsity players who saw action against Purdue listened today to an outline of the Michigan play against Chicago and saw pictures of the Purdue game of last Saturday, while the reserves held a short scrimmage with the freshmen.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 10 (AP)—A long drill on ground plays occupied Ohio State university's football team today. Esco Sarkinen, 195-pound end, and Ed Hofmayer, 194-pound lineman, were expected to figure prominently in the starting lineup against Northwestern this week because of their good work in Saturday's game with Southern California.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 10 (AP)—Indiana university's hapless Hoosiers, smarting under two Big Ten grid setbacks, went through a brisk drill today in which fundamentals, especially blocking, received considerable attention.

Mentor Bo McMillin counted 12 injured players, several of them regulars who will be out of the Nebraska tilt Saturday at Lincoln.

BULLETIN

CLEVELAND, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Cleveland News says the Cleveland Indians and the St. Louis Browns are reported ready to make one of the biggest trades in recent baseball history. Cleveland officials refused comment.

The report was that the Tribe would give Pitchers Dennis Galehouse and Willis Hudlin, Outfielder Earl Averill, Second Baseman Sammy Hale and an unidentified infielder plus $100,000 for Pitcher Chuck Newson, Infielders Harland Clark, Ralph Kress and Don Heffner, and Outfielder Roy Bell.

Hornsby Signs As Manager Of Oriole Club

BALTIMORE, Oct. 10 (AP)—Rogers Hornsby, the man who held almost every "most" or "highest" title in major league baseball signed on as manager of the Baltimore Orioles of the International league tonight.

John Ogden, general manager, in announcing the deal said there had been several weeks of dickering. Ogden declined to reveal the terms but it was reported Hornsby, at one time one of the highest paid players, will receive $10,000.

But even ten thousand is a "most" for Hornsby in the minor league. Travis Jackson of Jersey City has hitherto been considered too money man with a reported $9,000.

Cormack Excuses First String From Drill; Sophs to Play C. R.

Here's News! Ruppert Loses; But Not Ball Game

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Jacob Ruppert, owner of the world's champion Yankees, struck out today in the supreme court—at a cost of $637,291.

The brewer, through his attorneys, informed the court that in pre-prohibition days he lent money to saloon keepers for the purchase of equipment. Because of "the prohibition situation" in 1918, certain of these loans had to be written off the books.

Ruppert sought to deduct $1,382,471 from his 1918 income as bad debt.

Amonson's Squad In Good Shape for Game With McKinley High

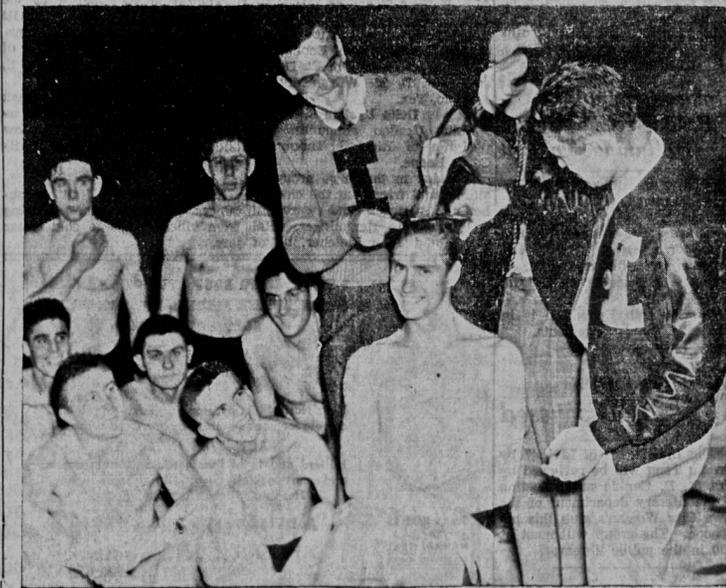

Giving his men light drills on new plays, Coach Herb Cormack excused his first string from practice held last night and concentrated on developing his reserve strength.

Cormack sent his second string against the sophomores in a long scrimmage. The sophomore eleven were put on the defense in their first long defensive drill of the season.

Coach Amonson has scheduled a game at Cedar Rapids Saturday with the McKinley soph eleven. Amonson has not chosen the first string eleven as yet, but has been driving his men hard during the past week and has them in fairly good shape.

The sophs will rely upon a passing attack supplemented by a ground game.

Shakeup
CHICAGO (AP)—The crestfallen Chicago Cubs returned from the world series wars yesterday to face a threat of a sweeping shake-up. Manager Gabby Hartnett, disappointed by the team's sorry showing against the New York Yankees, confirmed reports that he contemplated a new blood transfusion in an effort to build the club's strength.

Jack O'Mahoney gets a free haircut when Francis Heydt, wearing "I" sweater, Bob Lowry and Capt. Ray Walters, varsity swimmers, snip off his locks in following the tradition that all freshman swimming candidates must clip off their hair. O'Mahoney failed to have his hair cut within the time designated by the varsity and therefore suffered the penalty of having the varsity swimmers whack away as they wished. Jack pleaded a special "date," but the scissors of the upperclassmen were hungry and his hair went the way of all freshmen's. Carl Ahlgren, wearing glasses, failed to have his thatching trimmed and suffered a similar fate.

Witschi to Speak at Opening Pan-American League Meeting

International House To Give Programs Once Every Month

Prof. Emil Witschi will present the opening program of the Pan-American league Friday at 3 p.m. when the group meets at the International house, according to an announcement by Mrs. J. J. Hinman, program chairman.

Professor Witschi, who will discuss a trip through Mexico, will illustrate his lecture with slides. Other programs which will be presented during the rest of the year at International house, where the meetings will take place the first Friday of every month, are also being announced.

At a second meeting of the group, Prof. Ilse Laas of the Romance languages department, will discuss "Looking Forward to the Future of the Indian Woman in Mexico." Professor Laas recently returned from a trip in Mexico. "The Botany of Latin America" will be discussed by Prof. George Martin of the botany department at another meeting of the group. Also presenting a program will be Prof. E. K. Mapes of the Romance languages department. Professor Mapes will address the group on "Pan - American Literature."

Scheduled for one program is a talk by Mrs. F. H. Rohner. Mrs. Rohner will give "A Woman of Chile Looks at a Woman of the United States." "Latin Music" will form the theme for another program. At Christmas time the league will entertain the residents of the International house at a tea. At this time the students will each present the Christmas customs of their countries.

Women Voters League Plans To Discuss Civic Water Issue

Bowen Advises Club Economic Regions Answer World Need

Tentative plans for a public meeting to discuss the Iowa City water department issue were made at the first fall session of the local League of Women Voters yesterday afternoon at the home of Dr. Zella White Stewart, 1010 Woodlawn.

Committees appointed by the president, Mrs. Homer V. Cherrington, to make arrangements included time and place, Mrs. P. C. Jeans, Mrs. Elmer Hills and Mrs. C. H. McCloy; program, Mrs. C. E. Seashore, Mrs. Avery Lambert and Mrs. Frank Stromsten. The telephone chairman will be Mrs. T. L. Jahn.

Following the business meeting Prof. Howard Bowen of the college of commerce led a group discussion on "Recent International Events and American Economic Policy."

"The way to help Czechoslovakia is for the United States to give the Czechs something to compensate for the territory which they lost. From the purely economic view point the ideal plan would be favorable trade agreements," asserted Professor Bowen.

Two changes seem to have resulted from the recent settlement of the Czech crisis, according to Professor Bowen. Namely, there has been a transfer of territory, and Hitler has had the way opened to him for economic penetration into the Danubian basin.

Assuming that these are true, Professor Bowen believes that the trend toward an economic districting of the entire world with five or possibly six large nations dominating the situation in their respective regions.

"The ideal plan would be, of course, free world trade," he said. Shifting the discussion to the western hemisphere he then considered the possibility of the United States as the leading power in an economic district including the Latin American countries.

"We have strong competition in South America," he pointed out, citing recent policies which several European powers have been developing on that continent.

In answer to a question concerning the future of Great Britain, Professor Bowen who spent the last summer in that country, stated that he believed England was facing a difficult time regardless of how the international situation stood.

"There is a possibility of a labor government coming into power," he said. "However, the greatest difficulty lies in the fact the labor party has no leader who can assume the prime ministership," he added.

In Professor Bowen's mind, the fate of Europe lies in Russia's hands. If Russia can work with England and France, if she proves strong and dependable, the odds are against Germany, and collective security will win. On the other

Prominent Oriental Speaker Will Address Religious Meet In Iowa City Week of Oct. 29

'Relations' To Be Subject of Dr. Koo, Chinese Ex-Official

Dr. T. Z. Koo, Shanghai, China, for nine years an official in the administrative department of the Chinese Railway service, well-known Oriental speaker, is one of those who will participate in Religious Emphasis week in Iowa City Oct. 29 to Nov. 4.

"I can think of no personality in all Asia whose message and influence would be more helpful just at this time," said John R. Mott, international Y. M. C. A. leader, concerning Dr. Koo. "He is one of the most lucid, convincing and impressive Oriental speakers whom I have ever heard."

"No matter what kind of gathering it may be which he is called upon to address, invariably he makes a deeply satisfying and inspiring impression. The archbishop of Canterbury told me not long since that Koo had impressed him in some respects, as the ablest Oriental whom he had ever met."

Dr. Koo is now secretary of the World's Student Christian federation, Shanghai, China. He was formerly on the staff of the national committee of the Young Men's Christian association of China.

In 1925 Dr. Koo was a member of the second opium conference called in Switzerland by the League of Nations, being one of the three chosen, through 34 organizations, to represent the Chinese people as a whole.

Dr. Koo attended St. John's university in Shanghai. His work there and his various positions and activities since then have especially qualified him to speak upon the subjects of "International Relations," "Race Relations" and "The Meaning of Christian Faith."

Religious Leaders To Speak Often

Magnitude of the program of the University of Iowa's religious emphasis week, Oct. 29 to Nov. 4, was indicated yesterday when officials revealed that the speakers and leaders would fill 225 major engagements.

Each of the 15 speakers will be scheduled for not more than three major engagements daily, but in addition they will have numerous individual interviews with students and will conduct small group meetings.

Details of the program, announced yesterday, show that there will be a general public meeting each evening. Each noon a faculty luncheon will be held. Interviews with individual students will meet classes in special fields, such as sociology, philosophy and international relations.

Speakers will address Iowa City service clubs at noon luncheons and meetings will be held in the public schools. The aim of the committee is to make the activities of the week available to university students and faculty and Iowa City townspeople.

International and worldwide experience is included in the background of some of the speakers. E. Stanley Jones of Lucknow, India, is known as a friend of Gandhi and Tagore, and has travelled and preached in South America, China, Korea, Malaya, South Africa and Australia. T. Z. Koo of Shanghai, China, is a secretary of the World's Student Christian federation.

The Creighton University R. O. T. C. has issued orders that all members must appear with inch-and-a-half haircuts.

U. S. Negro colleges graduated 2,500 students last June.

Old Capitol Bell Tolls

The first bell ever to toll in Iowa's historic Old Capitol pealed forth at the Iowa - Wisconsin game Saturday. As the University of Iowa band formed a scarlet and golden outline of Old Capitol on the green field, one of the cheer leaders, Bruce Morrow, D4 of Council Bluffs, tolled the bell

T. R. Simkins Will Lecture On Fiberglas

To Speak for First Meeting of Chemical Society Tomorrow

T. R. Simkins, assistant to the director of the industrial and structural products laboratory of the Owens-Illinois Glass company, will speak at the season's first meeting of the Iowa section of the American Chemical society tomorrow evening.

The subject of his discussion will be the "Development and General Application of Fiberglas." He will be heard in the chemistry auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

This lecture will be illustrated with movies of the process. It is not a technical lecture and is designed to be of interest to the general public.

Fiberglas, or spun glass, is of importance in several fields. Its greatest commercial use is in chemical filtration and electrical insulation.

It is probable that glass was first drawn into coarse fibers by ancient Venetian glass workers, but it was not used purely as a textile until 1893, when Michael Owens spun enough glass for a gown for Princess Eulalia and Georgia Cayven, an actress.

During the World war, however, it was first used commercially. Early in 1930, spun glass was used for air filters and later as insulating material.

Publishers, Foundrymen And Math. Teachers to Meet Here

Expect 500 Visitors; Speakers to Discuss Vocational Problems

Newspaper publishers, mathematics teachers, and foundrymen all will meet at the University of Iowa Friday and Saturday, each for a conference on professional problems.

It is the first time in many years that three conferences have been scheduled for the same week. The affairs will bring nearly 500 visitors to the campus.

Publishers and editors from weekly newspapers will attend the short course on profitable publishing, with talks by 13 speakers on circulation promotion, getting national advertising, revenue sources, and newspaper overhead. Some of the speakers will be Maurice Crabbe of the Eagle Grove Eagle; D. E. Dewel, Kossuth County Advance; W. K. Rogers, Mt. Pleasant News; W. N. Kuene-man, Grinnell Herald-Register, and Leon S. Barnes, Northwood Anchor.

Mathematics teachers from colleges and high schools will hear talks by Prof. H. C. Christofferson of Miami University of Ohio; Henrietta Terry, University of Illinois high school at Champaign, and Edith Woolsey, Sanford junior high school of Minneapolis, Minn.

Foundrymen from firms in four states will speak at their annual session conducted by the college of engineering. Speakers will be present from Iowa, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Gaffney Traces Deficit Story

Johnson county's Young Democratic organization was revived last night, speeches given, officers elected and plans made for the week until the Nov. 8 election.

Judge James P. Gaffney, congressional candidate, presented the national picture; Fred Krachel, Governor Nels G. Krachel's son, that of the state, and Attorney Will J. Jackson, county central committee chairman, spoke for the senior democratic organization.

Richard Bireline was elected president and Attorney Arthur Left, secretary-treasurer. Attorney F. B. Olsen, candidate for the district court, spoke briefly, and several county candidates were introduced.

Tracing the story of the national deficit, Judge Gaffney declared, "We hear a lot of objection and false statements on every hand with reference to our national debt."

"But the facts are there: 'Of the 3 1/2 billion dollars of debt there were six billion dollars old war debt and five billions of dollars created by the former administration."

"Of the balance of 16 1/2 billions, the veterans of the World war were paid two billion on their adjusted compensation certificates. Four to five billions are in proprietary interests recoverable by the government."

"There has been a profit of two billions on devaluation of gold, and there remains approximately three billion dollars in cash in the general fund. So that there has been spent by this administration five to 10 billions of dollars. And for what? In every community in this country there is evidence of permanent improvement secured."

Judge Gaffney declared, the administration has spent only five billions to feed, clothe and shelter men, women and children who had no employment or other source of revenue, "when we spent 51 billions of dollars in a World war, out of which we got nothing but loss of human life and untold human suffering."

Fred Krachel dealt primarily with state issues as seen by Iowa's youth.

"Youth," he declared, "has a greater stake in public affairs than ever before in the history of our nation."

He dismissed "harping critics" who have "no plan or program of their own" and declared, "The people of Iowa are still intelligent and forward-looking."

"Iowa has," he said, "made more progress in social legislation during the last six years than at any time in its history."

The governor's son pointed out advances in child welfare legislation, old-age pensions, aid to the blind, unemployment compensation.

And along with human conservation, he said, there has been a general promotion of public conservation of public resources. "I propose," he concluded, "not to go backward but to sail ahead. Let's do sail ahead."

Plans to Attend Traffic School

Patrolman Ham Will Register for 12-Day Session at Evanston

Patrolman Lawrence Ham will attend a 12-day session of the Northwestern university traffic school opening Oct. 17 at Evanston.

The course of instruction is considered one of the finest of its kind in this country. All phases of traffic management, safety regulation and modern police methods are illustrated for the classes by leading instructors of the field.

Mayor Myron J. Walker expressed the belief that the course would do much for the representative and the Iowa City police department in the way of solving local traffic problems.

Recorder Lists $936 Collected For 3 Months

The quarterly report of County Recorder R. J. Jones, filed yesterday, shows that collections at his office for the last three months have amounted to $936.45. Collections included $129.90 for recording deeds, $214.60 for real estate mortgages, $405 for chattel mortgages, $63.15 for releases, 50 cents for dangerous weapon permits and revocations and $123.30 in other fees.

Joe Raim Of Solon Selected Again As Head

Joe Raim of Solon was re-elected chairman of the Johnson County Agricultural Conservation yesterday morning at a meeting of delegates in the farm bureau office.

Mr. Raim who is president of the Johnson County Farm bureau has served as chairman of the association since the resignation last spring of M. F. Sullivan.

Other officers of all of whom were re-elected yesterday include: Vice chairman — Ray E. Smalley Union township.

Third member of committee — Dale F. Anderson Madison township.

First alternate — Emil Meyer, Lincoln township.

Second alternate — Joe Buchmayer, Newport.

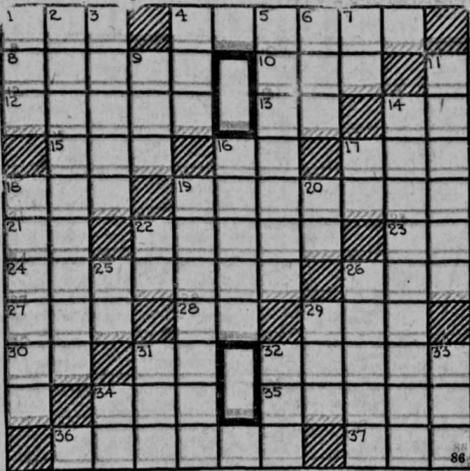

Treasurer — John O'Connor, Fremont township.

Secretary — County Agent Emmett C. Gardner.

L. T. Crawford, paving contractor, was awarded the contract for the construction and repair of sidewalks by the Iowa City council last night.

Mr. Crawford underbid all contractors competing for the project.

Steel Picture To Be Shown

Will Be Presented With Sound Effects, Music, Technicolor

A motion picture, "Steel—Man's Servant," in sound and technicolor, will be presented Wednesday, Oct. 19, in the chemistry auditorium under the sponsorship of the college of engineering of the University of Iowa.

There will be three showings during the day, occurring at 1:10 p.m., 4:10 p.m., and 7 p.m.

The picture, filmed by the United States Steel corporation, tells the thrilling drama of steel making from the ore mine to the finished product. The actors who play the leading roles are men who actually make steel, and they were allowed no rehearsals.

In addition, the story is narrated by the famous radio and motion picture commentator, Edwin C. Hill. The musical score was composed especially for the picture and is played by an orchestra of selected musicians under the direction of Robert Armstrong.

The purpose of "Steel—Man's Servant" is to acquaint the public with the little known wonders of one of our greatest industries, to instruct as well as entertain, to show the world of activity which precedes the making of safer and cheaper automobiles and other servants of man, the construction of great bridges and buildings, and the manufacture of countless products, from tacks to streamlined trains.

The equipment, direction and technique used in making this picture were the same as those used in making a Hollywood feature production, with the operations of steel-making explained in an instructing and entertaining manner by Mr. Hill.

It took a crew of 21 photographers, electricians, and technicians 10 weeks to complete the work.

Miller to Speak On Europe At Men's Meeting

Merle Miller, A3 of Marshalltown, who returned last summer from four months of study in England and a trip through western Europe, will speak to Phi Tau Theta, Methodist men's club, at its regular meeting tomorrow night at the Methodist student center.

Miller's subject, "The Choice Before Us," deals with the European situation.

All men students who are interested in this topic or in joining Phi Tau Theta are invited to attend this meeting, which will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m.

Crowd Goes to Pump So Store Does, Too

WEST JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP) —The village pump had always gathered a crowd of loafers, even on the coldest winter days, so owners of the Gillivan hardware store extended their place to put the pump inside.

The loafers still gather at the pump and the hardware business has picked up.

The equipment included a motor-generator powerful enough to illuminate a city of 15,000 homes, which supplied current for huge flood lights.

The University of Kentucky has recently established a department of social work.

Police Assess Twelve Fines

Monday Court Tries Traffic Offenders, Student Loiterers

Although the 1938 Homecoming is listed strictly as a closed incident, several celebrators carried their merriment through Monday and accounted for most of the 14 cases listed on the police docket yesterday.

Three persons were tried for intoxication. Harry D. Shiflet of Muscatine, arrested for drinking on a public street, and Berthel Robinson of Iowa City, guilty of intoxication, forfeited their $10 bonds. Roy Stephens of Iowa City was fined $2 and costs.

William Carson was arrested for attempting to defraud a cab driver and fined $2. E. E. Moorman of Iowa City was assessed $1 for parking with his left wheel to the curb.

Mrs. Kenneth Applebee was fined $6 for driving without a license, but $4 of the fine was suspended. Matthew R. Faber of Remsen forfeited his $10 bond on a charge of prohibitive passing, and Henry Cosgrove Walsh, a student, forfeited a $5 bond when charged with blocking traffic. The Jarney case against Randall Hickman was discharged.

Two students were arrested for loitering. Richard Franklin Deming was assessed $5 and costs and Tony Paciotti was charged $2 and costs. John Hill and Bill Morrison, students, were fined $5 and costs for resisting an officer and reckless driving, respectively.

Paul Garner, also a student, was fined $10 plus costs for illegal passing.

Charles Turek paid his tuition at Washington University with four bags of silver dollars.

AFRAID TO MARRY

CHAPTER 37

BOB AND Marjorie had been gone for an hour when Ronald telephoned. The spring tone of the air had yielded to rain and great drops were falling rhythmically on the dormer windows. Judy was certain that it would be Ronald's voice that would say "Judy" when she picked up the phone.

"I wanted to wait for you," he said, "but I had an engagement uptown. Some day maybe I can show you how grateful I was for your trust and hospitality tonight."

"You've shown me long before this how important faith is," Judy answered. "Was everything all right? Did your visitor find his way up the mountainside to the fourth floor?"

Ronald hesitated. "He didn't come."

"Oh, I'm sorry."

"It doesn't matter. Maybe it's better."

Judy spoke quickly. "Ronald, isn't there any way that I can help? I'm not afraid, you know."

"Just keep on believing in me, won't you, Judy? That counts most." His voice was troubled.

"Ronald, your friends are with you en masse. You know that!" She emphasized her words to force them into his consciousness.

"If you are, I won't miss those who are dropping out," he answered.

He did not ask her to meet him for lunch. There was no suggestion of dinner. Alone in the quiet room, with the dead telephone in her hand, Judy felt a heart-sick pang because she had refused his invitation that day he was so tired. But there had been Abbey—where was she now? How was she taking this?

Ronald's flowers came in the morning. There was a cool green box, and in the green misty paper within there were old-fashioned flowers—marigolds, jonquils, pinks, pansies, violets and yellow roses. There were enough for a low vase and two bowls.

Sorting them, before she drank her fruit juice and coffee, Judy remembered that Bob's flowers had stopped. She stood still, hands filled with blossoms, trying to remember when that last small red box had made its morning appearance. Until now she had not missed it.

You could let one man glide out of your life and never know his ship was speeding down the harbor until someone told you about it. Yet, if another man turned a corner—oh, any corner—and walked a block out of your path, you knew it and your heart trailed him feverishly.

What was love? Was it only chemistry, a divine chemistry, that made one person infinitely dear?

The clock was striking 8:30 and she was due at 8, so she hurried. She would call Ronald later and thank him for the flowers.

But it was late afternoon when she did. Ronald was not in. He would call her, the secretary said. She asked Judy to wait a moment, and presently the warm tones of Mr. Heaton came flowing across the wire.

"Judy, your father is anxious to have an interview with you," he explained. "Could you make it at my office some time tomorrow?"

"Is it important?" Judy asked. "Couldn't he write me?"

"Judy, you mustn't be too hard on him. He's had a great worry on his shoulders. He's done a monumental feat in making such a swift comeback. You have a father of whom to be proud."

A father who gave my governesses checks to buy me dolls that could walk and dolls that could talk; a father who sent me to the best schools and camps but never once took me hiking because he liked being with me; no, that wasn't quite fair. Before Sarita had come along, when she was only six or seven, he had taken her fishing and told her stories.

After that he had changed. Oh, a woman could do a great deal to a man, especially a man who was not strong enough to follow the way he charted when his eyes were wide and his path clear!

She might have weakened but Mr. Heaton was saying:

"People are talking, Judy. They wonder why you have broken your relations with your parents. Your father is deeply hurt. Sarita is being censured, and that pains your father greatly."

Not, am I lonely? Am I hurt? Sarita is being censured. The moment was gone. Mr. Heaton had lost his case with his own last argument. Judy smiled a little. Not a happy smile. Not a young smile. An old tragic, cynical lifting of the lips. Mr. Heaton was a lawyer. He should have known better than to overlead his case.

"Won't you tell my father that I'm well and happy and fairly successful? I appreciate his interest—but I mustn't trouble him."

She hung up.

Judy had been able to obtain a job for Coralee Myers in the fitting department. Coralee, deeply grateful, came by as Judy sat at the desk.

"Miss Rogers, are you ill?" she asked quickly.

"No, I'm fine. I was just thinking how nice it must be to have a family." She smiled wanly.

Coralee hesitated. "You've always said you wanted to meet mine. Would you come out some night for dinner?"

"I'd love to. How soon?"

"Tomorrow night?"

"I'll be waiting for it to be tomorrow."

Coralee hesitated. "Our house is poor, you know. My father has a queer kind of job. He can do it at home while his leg heals. He's a penman. I mean he does fancy writing for diplomas and things for some company." She was apologetic and proud both.

"That's splendid," Judy said gently. Men who couldn't make an intelligible scrawl, but who had gone through a process of training to achieve that scrawl, wrote their names on limitless checks. Coralee's father could cross his t's and round his o's and had no papers of his own on which to put the perfect copy.

In a burst of sympathy for Coralee Judy went shopping when she left the studio. She knew how many small children there were in that New Jersey household.

She bought a yellow sweater, two strands of beads, some dolls and an electric train and a box of candy. She asked to have the packages delivered to the studio the next day as she could go directly home from work with Coralee. But on the subway she remembered that the poor are proud.

The Myers family was offering its hospitality, graciously and happily. If she came with her arms filled with largesse which could not be repaid with a pork chop and a baked potato, they would be hurt.

There was no way to explain to them that they were giving her more than she brought them. That they let her share a home, that they taught her that families did live together. She would take the candy to them, and cancel the rest of the order.

Some friends had invited Judy to join them at the theater that evening, and she was nearly ready when her doorbell rang.

Thinking that the people were early, she went to the button which released the door. The bell rang again. Apparently the latch had not released. She pressed hard, and went into the hall to look down but behind her came the insistent ringing.

Oh, of course! She was stupid. They were waiting for her to talk through the speaking tube, something she seldom did. She said: "Yes?"

A strange masculine voice answered: "Is Ronald Birrell there?"

Before she could answer, the voice came more quickly: "Is this Abbey Boland?"

Community Chest Plans Ready

Headquarters Located at Hotel; Iowa City Divided Into 8 Groups

Final Instructions To Be Given All Solicitors At Organization Dinner

Headquarters for the 1938 community chest drive are now open in room 203 at the Jefferson hotel, stated Roscoe E. Taylor, general director, last night.

Solicitors will attend an organization dinner meeting next Monday in the dining room of Hotel Jefferson at 6:30 p.m. to receive final instructions for the campaign from Director Taylor.

Cards, with data concerning prospective contributors, will be issued to the solicitors who will begin their work Tuesday, Oct. 18.

Iowa City is divided into eight groups on basis of employment, the following men heading the various divisions: Prof. Mason Ladd, university; Elmer F. Lenthe, business man; Dr. Avery E. Lambert, University hospital; F. S. Orr, public schools; Mrs. Edwin B. Kurtz, residential; George F. Trotter, national firms; W. Fred Roberson, professional men, and E. J. Liechty, employes. W. T. Hageboeck is publicity director.

The drive supports six civil and public enterprises, including the Boy and Girl Scouts, recreation center, city rest room, social service, and unemployment relief.

The quota for this year's drive has been set at $19,890.

Pfennig To Be Made Manager

Pioneer Appointed To Higher Position By United Air Lines

United Air Line's designation of R. E. "Dick" Pfennig as operations manager of the New York - Denver division of the coast - to - coast air service is a promotion for a pioneer of air transportation whose connection with scheduled operations dates back to the original air mail service between Washington, D. C., and New York in 1918.

Pfennig's first interest in aviation was in 1917 when he took a position with the Sturtevant Company of Boston, which built at least one airplane. After a few months he became associated with the Standard Aeronautical Corporation of Elizabeth, N. J., assuming charge of the motor work in the experimental department.

A year after Pfennig participated in the inauguration of air mail service by the Post Office department between New York and Washington. When the first coast - to - coast air mail service was planned, he flew with a company test pilot over what is now the New York - Chicago - Pacific Coast airway. In 1926 when the Post Office awarded a mail contract to National Air Transport, a predecessor unit of United Air Lines, for the Chicago - Dallas run and Chicago - New York routes, Pfennig left an automobile wheel business with which he was connected in Boston to become field manager of the new airline at Kansas City. In 1928 he was made superintendent of the Southwest division, and in September 1930 he was advanced to the position of superintendent of the Eastern division. One year later he came to Chicago as general superintendent of the N. A. T. division.

After United Air Lines absorbed the predecessor units and embarked in the air passenger business on a larger scale than ever, Pfennig was put in charge of passenger service for United, and conceived and placed in operation many of the service features, including those found on present-day sleeper planes, that have contributed to the new era of comfort and attractiveness of service aloft.

In his new capacity Pfennig will be in charge of operations over 1700 miles of airway, over which United flies the heaviest traffic ton - miles of any long-distance air carrier in the world.

The 315 women who passed tests for policemen in New York City had 361 college degrees and four Phi Beta Kappa keys.

Oberlin College has rescinded its rule that all town bills must be paid before a student is graduated.

WSUI to Run New Program

Charles Sener To Direct Wednesday Night's Broadcast

Alpha Phi Omega, an honorary service fraternity composed of university men who have at some time been connected with the Boy Scouts of America, will begin a series of bi-monthly broadcasts tomorrow at 9 p.m. over station WSUI.

The programs are being planned in conjunction with the Iowa City Area Boy Scout Council, according to an announcement made by Hills Hauser, president of the fraternity. The program consists of rendering service to the student body and faculty of the university, to the youth of the community and to members of the fraternity.

The Wednesday night broadcast will be directed by Charles Sener, El of Chicago. Members of the cast include: Alan Wicks, G of Valley City, N. D.; William O. Wright, E3 of Uniontown, Pa., and Wayne Mahana, a member of the Henry Sabin P. T. A. Boy Scout troop.

Thompson Will Go to Moline

Jack W. Thompson, city editor of the Iowa City Press-Citizen, will leave soon to enter the employment of the Moline Dispatch, where he was formerly employed. Members of the city council last night signed a resolution bidding him good-by and wishing him good luck.

AROUND THE TOWN

With MERLE MILLER

ON OUTGROWING YOUTH

The current crop of articles attacking the "younger generation" are with us again. There are six on the newsstands now, condemning us for every crime from voting for Franklin Roosevelt to "losing our ambition" to not being able to find jobs.

It's not new, really; but the news ones seem particularly vicious.

There's always been — and will no doubt continue to be — a certain condescension on the part of the aging. A belief that wisdom increases with age, which it doesn't, not willingly. And that there's a certain chemical process which comes at the age of 21 allowing us to leave our pledgeship and become active citizens of the United States.

And yet we can be hanged for murders before that time. We can carry rifles and die in wars which we had no part in making. We can be held morally responsible for all our acts.

But after we're 21, they think we're wiser. If we have ideas before that time, they're dismissed with a shrug. "You're young yet," they say. "You'll outgrow it."

The trouble being, then, that frequently we do.

Certainly before that time we could not have done worse than elect Warren Harding president of the United States, than to choose Jimmy Walker as the mayor of our largest city, than to re-choose "Big Bill" Thompson to head Chicago.

It wasn't the youth of America who went wildly — and quite unintelligently mad — over those two national bores Doug Corrigan and Charles Lindbergh. We have, rather, hastened their approach to the limbo of forgotten men.

We would never vote for prohibition.

We wouldn't censor a movie or ban a book. We'd never condemn a fellow whose ideas differ from our own. We seldom find ourselves satisfied with the "status quo." And we're more likely to be inquisitive of rather than to dismiss suggestions for change.

Most of us are likely to look longingly toward 1958 rather than toward 1888. And we're interested more in the immediate future than in far-flung Utopias.

In a word, we're not encouraged. Not dismayed.

And, just in passing, we're not likely to condemn an educational system because we don't like the scores of its football team. We're more likely to think that's unimportant.

We may, we agree, outgrow some of our ideas. But that's what we're afraid of. Sometimes we even think the younger we are, the better our opinions.

We may be wrong; we frequently are; we admit it. That too is a peculiar characteristic of youth.

We're seldom smug, you see, rarely self-satisfied and not often completely content.

Not once can you hear any large group of us saying, "What's the use?" If we think the elders've made a mess of it, we're willing to take over and do our part.

We only wonder why we have to wait until 21, an age at which, we sometimes think, decay has already set in.

You haven't heard us worrying so much about the politicians who are "mortgaging our future." We've placed more credence in the economists than in the diehards. The former haven't been worried.

You don't hear us condemning politicians as a whole or looking moon-eyed toward dictatorship. If we don't like the present state of politics, we know how to change it. Except we can't until we're 21.

We haven't been supporting Sheridan Downey in California or Community Chorus Launches Third Year of Organization

Mrs. Bowen Directs Members of Group At Initial Practice

The Iowa City community chorus, sponsored by the recreational center, launched its third year last night at the Unitarian church, when the initial practice session was held and tentative plans for the year were formulated.

Most of the 38 members of the chorus attended the meeting last night, prompting Mrs. Howard Bowen, director, to estimate that the group would nearly double its membership of last season. The chorus was formed in 1936 by Mrs. Bowen, but Mrs. Paul Olson directed it last year in her absence. Returning again, Mrs. Bowen plans to have two concerts during the season, one before Christmas and another in June.

The next rehearsal will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m., and all who are interested are invited to attend. Following last night's meeting, the group adjourned to the home of Mrs. Bowen for refreshments.

AT 52, TOO ROUGH FOR FOOTBALL AT YALE!

THE ONE and only "Heff," sometimes called "the greatest football player of all time," highlights his fifty years (yes, we said fifty!) on the gridiron, compares modern and old-time football tactics, and rates the great post-war stars. You'll enjoy every line of this story from the man who says he was barred—at 52—from scrimmaging the Yale Varsity—because he was too rough! Don't miss it! It's on page 14 of your Post this week.

Nobody Put Me on My Back

by W. W. (Pudge)

HEFFELFINGER

with GEORGE TREVOR

"I'M HEADIN' WEST!"

THAT DARK NIGHT, when he ran away from home and his merciless father, Ray Talcott had but one thought: I'll head West! I'll grow up there; get tough and come back with a gun! A lonely, desperate youngster bound for the Indian country of the 70's:

Sashay along with him and meet his partner, Springtime, the cow puncher; and Doctor Antelope; Maribel, the artful sneak-thief; sly, foxy old Uncle Coon; and some of the most picturesque rogues and plainsmen that ever crossed sagebrush.

BITTER CREEK

by JAMES BOYD

Author of "Drums," "Roll River" and "Long Hunt"

ALSO "I SWEAR I'LL LOVE NO ONE!"

To gain one hour of society, Alice Gower stole a dress from the shop where she modeled, walked right into an exclusive Washington cafe and waited for something to happen. It did. Read A Little Number in Pique, by JOSEPH HERGESHEIMER.

HOW TO LIVE IN U.S. ON $7 A YEAR. Ben Lucien Burman tells you in Shanty Boat Coming Down, the story of a strangely primitive life right here in America which few of us have ever explored... Also a short story of Near East intrigue by Arthur Tuckerman; a swell fox-hunting story by Robert Murphy; a backstage yarn about a Noodler (guitar-player to you) by Horatio Winslow... Articles, editorials, poetry and cartoons.
