

50,000 Thrown Out Of Work As New Law Takes Effect

New Problem Confronts Bill Administrators

Scattered Shutdowns Termed Temporary By Elmer Andrews

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Scattered shutdowns estimated to have thrown more than 50,000 persons out of work raised a problem for administrators of the new wage and hour law today within a few hours after it had gone into effect.

Administrator Elmer F. Andrews expressed hope that the plant closings were temporary, however, and said most interstate industries were complying "wholeheartedly" with the 25 cents an hour minimum wage and 44-hour work week decreed for them by the new statute.

Mostly in South "I can't see anything to get excited about," the former New York state industrial commissioner told reporters.

Most of the scattered shutdowns and layoffs of employees were reported in the south, where wage rates lower than in the north have helped to bring in industries in the past. Many southern members of congress were among the stoutest foes of the legislation while it was under consideration.

Representatives of the pecan-shelling industry, seeking exemption from the statute, informed Andrews that the law compelled them to suspend operations because they could not afford to pay employees 25 cents an hour. One of them said the average wage in the industry was 10 to 15 cents an hour.

Many Close J. Seligman, of San Antonio, Tex., president of the National Pecan Shellers of America, reported that every pecan-shelling plant in the south had closed because of the wage-hour law. Another industry spokesman said plants in and around Chicago were closed. Seligman estimated 50,000 workers were involved.

These representatives discussed with the administrator and his legal aides the possibility that the industry might be exempt from the statute on the grounds that many plans were in the "area of production," a region in which congress provided for exemption of agricultural and horticultural products.

Andrews referred the problem to Calvert Magruder, his chief legal counsel. The administrator intimated that a decision might be expected within a week but he declined to discuss the merits of the case.

Sokol Resolution Passed to Expel Jews Who Entered Czechoslovakia After 1914

PRAGUE, Oct. 24 (AP)—A legislation official said all applications were being given careful consideration. Affidavits were being sent by Jews in the United States to help relatives or even persons of the same name, but not related.

Concern among Jews was heightened by two factors: 1. The Sokol resolution which had the approval of one cabinet member.

2. That feeling was mounting against them not only as a result of closer Czechoslovak-German relations, but also because a large number of Jews were among thousands of refugees in the vicinity of the capital.

'Spy Plots in U. S. Financed by German Relief Funds,' Testifies Guenther in Espionage Trial

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Testimony that Nazi Germany allegedly financed spy plots in the United States with money from German winter relief funds created a stir late today in the federal court trial of pretty, red-haired Johanna (Jenni) Hoffmann, 26, and two men co-defendants on espionage charges.

The witness, Guenther Gustav Rumrich, 32, United States army deserter and confessed spy, said the information came to him from Karl Schluefer, the spy ring's alleged "contact man."

Electric Eye Finds Human Eyeball Like Battery

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 24 (AP)—Human eyes are powerful electric batteries.

This discovery, showing that each eyeball is an independent battery, was announced to the National Academy of sciences today by Dr. Walter R. Miles, Yale university psychologist.

Each eye produces a current averaging a thousandth of a volt, an electrical energy equal to that of the heart beats which make the recordings of electrocardiographs. Numerous eyes, Dr. Miles found, average one four-hundredth of a volt; one gave two-hundredths of a volt.

The Yale experiments show that the electric potential of an eye varies with at least some diseases, both eye troubles and general. But Dr. Miles said it was not yet possible to say whether the electrical variations would be useful for eye troubles.

The fact that eyes produce electricity has been known to science since 1860, when it was discovered in frogs, but the source of this electric power, its variations and especially its high power in human beings, are new.

Scientists for a time thought that the movement of eye muscles was the source of this current, but Dr. Miles showed the academy today that a person with a glass eye, although able to move the eye with regular ocular muscles, gave off no current from his artificial optic.

The eyeball, like any ordinary battery, has two poles. The front of the eye, at the pupil, is positive; the back of the eyeball is negative. This Dr. Miles demonstrated by pasting fine electrodes on the flesh beside the eyes and having his experimenters roll their eyes from side to side, or up and down.

Attempt to Settle 26-Day Strike At Swift & Co.

SIOUX CITY, Oct. 24 (AP)—The twelfth negotiation conference between company and union officials to attempt to settle the 26-day old strike at the Swift and company plant here probably will be held within the next 36 hours.

Adjutant General Charles H. Grah, commander of the national guard units here, this evening declared, "Both sides have various matters under consideration. There probably will be a meeting within 36 hours."

U. S. Sets New Health Record

Dr. Thomas Parran Prophesies Lowest Death Rate in History

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH AP Science Writer

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 24—The people of the United States have been healthier during the past six months than at any time in history.

Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon-general of the United States public health service and director of the country's largest medical service and research organization, declared that unless something unforeseen, such as an epidemic, occurs the nation will have in 1938 the lowest death rate ever known.

His observations were made just before the opening tomorrow of the 67th annual meeting of the American Public Health association, which is expected to bring approximately 5,000 physicians, surgeons, nurses, hygienists and social service workers together. The association is made up of workers concerned with the prevention and control of epidemics, supervision of water supplies, and other health problems of the entire nation.

The death rate from all diseases during the first half of 1938 decreased eight and one-half per cent from the 1937 rate, Dr. Parran declared, being only 11 deaths for every 1,000 persons. "Although this decrease in the mortality rate is reflected in nearly all the important causes of death, about 60 per cent of the decline is accounted for by the decline in the number of influenza and pneumonia victims," he said. Deaths from flu dropped 65 per cent and pneumonia 25 per cent.

Stimulation of the present widespread campaigns against cancer, syphilis, gonorrhea, tuberculosis and pneumonia were expected to receive stimulating emphasis during the week's meeting.

ABSENCES

Traced to WPA Jobs; Boys Sent Back

HAZLETON, Pa., Oct. 24 (AP)—Truant Officer William Teuthold reported to school officials today that checking on the absence of a score of boys from the high school led to the discovery they were working on WPA jobs.

The officer ordered the boys back to school and threatened to arrest their parents under the compulsory attendance laws.

Another group of boys unsuccessfully applied to school officials for leaves of absence for two weeks to take WPA jobs.

To 'Divide And Rule'—Japan's Plans in China?

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Some officials here express the belief that Japan's intentions toward China may be summed up in the old Roman slogan of "divide and rule."

They think Japan will set up a puppet government at Canton which she occupied on Friday. She will then have three puppet governments in China—the so-called provisional government at Peiping for North China, the "reformed" government at Nanking for Central China, and the Canton government for South China. Japan's program, it is thought here, is to make them separate governments and keep them apart, thus blocking the movement toward Chinese unity. Experts believe one of the causes of the present Sino-Japanese war was Japan's desire to stop the unification of China. She considered a united China a danger to her.

Officials consider the Japanese occupation of Hankow only a matter of a short time. Japan, they believe, will go a short distance farther and then consolidate her lines. From then on, they think, Japan will let the Chinese decide whether there is to be further fighting. Japan will rest at that point and seek to draw the profits from her undertaking.

She will sternly wipe out any opposition by Chinese behind her lines. She will send out fast expeditions whenever necessary to cope with guerrilla fighters.

The new offer agrees to plebiscites in economically important and strategic disputes, cities and towns which mean much to Hungary and which she previously had demanded outright.

Should the Czechoslovak government accept the proposals, its troops would have to evacuate some 10,000 square kilometers (3,861 square miles) of "undisputed area" on Nov. 1.

Francisco on Offensive HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish frontier) (AP)—General Franco's insurgent armies staged a surprise offensive on the Madrid front yesterday and claimed to have pushed back government lines in the Clempozuelos sector.

Apparently inexhaustible supply of spy-plot tales, Rumrich described a fantastic "20-years-after" scheme to avenge Germany against the United States for Allied bombings during the World war.

In his sixth day as a key witness for the government, Rumrich testified, Erich Glaser, 28, former United States army private, one of the three defendants on trial, was motivated by boyhood terror in joining the conspiracy.

Japan Expects Momentary Fall Of Chinese Military Capital

'Seen' Is Believin'

He didn't think it was real, so Bob Sandler, A3 of Des Moines, president of Pi Epsilon Pi, national Pep fraternity, had to prove to Dorothy Bell, A1 of Des Moines, that his beard was 100 per cent all wool. Proclamation Czech Delegation Tells League Of Hungarians' Bombings

Men of Iowa—IT'S MEN'S WEEK!

This year, and each succeeding year, the week preceding Dad's day will be set aside as Men's week on the University of Iowa campus. Tradition is to be established! The men will participate—for the benefit of the men, and to enable the men of this campus to cooperate in a united effort to instill some pep and spirit into the student body as a whole.

The spirit on the Iowa campus is at a low ebb. It is up to the men to raise it from that lowly status to a higher plane, and Men's week is an excellent opportunity for men to show their spirit.

Let's unite in a common effort to establish this Men's week tradition by observing the following rules:

- 1. Don't shave until Friday after the pep meeting.
2. Don't wear neckties on the campus.
3. Don't wear suit coats on the campus.
4. Dirty shirts are in accord.
5. See as little as possible of University of Iowa women.

Friday night at the Dad's day pep meeting there will be four contests for outstanding beards, with excellent prizes donated by local merchants for the longest beard, the heaviest beard, the lightest beard and the most unique beard.

Well men, are you mice or are you men? We shall see! We shall see!

Set Up Martial Law; Japanese Continue Drive

HANKOW, Oct. 24 (AP)—Martial law prevailing in Hankow tonight as invading Japanese drove to within 20 miles of this provisional capital. Chinese expected severe fighting tomorrow.

General Kuo Chan, defense commissioner, said regulations included a death penalty against anyone endangering a foreigner's life.

Despite the proximity of the enemy, there were no signs of panic. The general asserted the Chinese still had strong defense lines, which the Japanese may reach tomorrow, east and north of here.

Chinese reported that in the last three days their shore batteries along the Yangtze river had sunk one and damaged three Japanese warships.

Most junks evacuating refugees left Hankow last night loaded with passengers, but about 400,000 Chinese and more than 1,000 foreigners remained.

BIRDS BUM RIDE Canaries Seek Refuge In Midocean

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—About 2,000 canaries hitch-hiked an overnight ride on the Grace liner Santa Rosa on their mass flight from Tortugas to Crooked island in the Caribbean sea last week, passengers said on their arrival today.

The birds were described as exhausted when they descended on their mid-ocean refuge in a fluttering cloud. So much so, that bolder ones readily accepted indulgent passenger's invitations to the dining salon.

But after a night's perch aboard the cruise ship, they were off at dawn, like good early birds.

Hall Ridicules Coal Charges

MASON CITY, Oct. 24 (AP)—The claim that the state board of education awarded University of Iowa coal contracts to the lowest bidders on Iowa coal because of threatened litigation is "childish," W. Earl Hall, board member, said today.

The board Saturday bought Iowa coal, after rejecting bids submitted at an earlier meeting because the low bids were for Illinois coal. Under the Iowa coal preference law of 1937, the board is obligated to use the home product if possible.

Two Oskaloosa coal companies protested against the board's rejection of the earlier bids. The Oskaloosa companies contended they should have had the contract on the grounds they were low bidders on Iowa coal.

"The contention of Otto Muntz, former chairman of the greater Iowa commission, that his threatened litigation against the board was a factor in the action taken is childish," Hall asserted.

"Mr. Muntz," Hall added, "is also contending that the board saves $25,000 by buying Iowa coal. The fact is that it will be paying at least $7,000 additional."

Hall said, however, that in awarding the contracts to the lowest bidders on Iowa coal, the board was "following the only course possible under the law."

12 Hercules Plant Buildings Demolished By Powder Blast

COLUMBUS, Kas., Oct. 24 (AP) A prairie fire touched off the Hercules powder plant near here today and demolished 12 buildings in a series of spectacular explosions, but the 50 workers had time to get out safely.

Report Chinese Troops Fleeing From Hankow

Defense Crumbling As Motorized Units Advance Relentlessly

SHANGHAI, Oct. 25 (Tuesday) (AP)—A Japanese armored car unit from Hwangpei, 20 miles north of Hankow, reached the Peiping-Hankow railway today and, advancing down the railway, reached a position only four miles from the Chinese military capital's outer defense works.

Word of the advance was relayed from the front by Domei, Japanese news agency.

Spokesmen for the Japanese forces said they expected the fall of the former provisional capital at any moment.

Japanese dispatches said Hankow defense was crumbling and that the city was being evacuated on a huge scale as the Chinese, virtually ceased opposition.

Japanese fliers reported Chinese troops in flight west of Hankow. Three Chinese warships, an estimated 2,000 junks and 200 motorboats, all packed with Chinese soldiers, were proceeding at full speed presumably toward Ichang, nearly 400 miles upstream from Hankow, the air men said.

Japanese army and naval units were racing to be the first to enter the city.

Terrorist Bands Said To Provoke Riots; 200 Men Captured

GENEVA, Oct. 24 (AP)—Czechoslovakia's delegation to the League of Nations charged Hungarian airplanes had dropped bombs today in Ruthenia, easternmost part of Czechoslovakia.

The declaration added that Hungarian terrorist bands provoked riots in other parts of Ruthenia and in eastern Slovakia, and said the planes also dropped manifestos calling upon the people to revolt.

"At Borzava railroad station near Berehovo, Hungarian terrorists attacked the railroad buildings, halted the train," the Czechoslovak communique went on. "The head conductor was killed when he attempted to defend himself. A Turpanian policeman and a sergeant of troops who were called were killed in the subsequent action."

"The intervention of police and irregular army brought a cleanup of the frontier zone. In the forest to the east of Berehovo more than 200 men were captured. Seventeen men of the group which attacked the Borzava railway station were arrested. Two of them were Hungarian military cadets. All prisoners admitted their Hungarian origin."

Earlier Japan boycotted the session of the League of Nations mandate commission which began hearing reports on the administration of mandated territories.

The absence of the Japanese delegate was taken as an indication Japan intends to sever all connections with Geneva, although she has not formally done so, she withdrew from the league after her Manchurian conquest, but continued her membership in some of the league's non-political bodies. Recently China raised the issue of sanctions against Japan as a result of the war in China.

Prior to the occupation of Hwangpei the Japanese captured Likiatzi, 30 miles northeast of Hankow. In taking the two points, the Japanese said they had surrounded ten Chinese divisions near Macheng, 60 miles northeast of Hankow. The Japanese said their aircraft were bombing and machine-gunning these enemy.

Japanese army spokesmen said the Chinese had lost heavily before their alleged cessation of resistance. The Japanese said their advancing forces found the countryside roadways covered with thousands of Chinese who had died before Japanese air and military attacks.

Couple Confess Beating Girl To Death to 'Cast Out Devil'

HOUGHTON, Mich., Oct. 24 (AP)—Religious fanaticism was blamed today for the weird slaying of a 19-year-old girl, but Prosecutor Frank C. Condon prepared to press murder charges against a couple who confessed, he said, that they beat her to death with a poker and flat iron.

The victim was Miss Marian Doyle, whose body with skull crushed and neck broken, was found Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Pichette, in nearby Dollar Bay, where she was employed as a housekeeper.

Prosecutor Condon said that Pichette, 35-year-old WPA worker, and his wife had made partially incoherent confessions that they killed the girl to "cast out a devil" that had invaded their home.

Pichette claimed supernatural powers as a "Messiah," but Prosecutor Condon said the self-styled "Son of Jehovah" was "more sane than he pretends to be."

Collective Security

Or War! THE DEMOCRACIES, who have turned the other cheek, have again been rewarded with another lusty whack.

Yesterday's headlines shrieked of an attack on a British gunboat by Japanese bombers and of another "incident" involving the United States in the Sino-Japanese aggression.

The President Coolidge, American Dollar liner, was refused clearance from Japanese-dominated Shanghai yesterday until a cargo of silver valued at more than $4,000,000 was unloaded. The shipment was consigned to a New York bank, but the Japanese considered it their "property."

Meanwhile, bombs from six Japanese planes damaged the British gunboat, Sandpiper. Luckily, no one was hurt.

The fact remains! A British war vessel was attacked and bombed by a power supposedly at peace with Great Britain, while this same power refused to permit an American vessel with a cargo consigned to an American corporation to sail until the cargo was left behind.

A long time ago, when we were in the first grade at school, the teacher told us that one and one were two and two and two were four. We have never forgotten that simple arithmetical progression.

Perhaps that is why, this morning, we are wondering just how many more incidents it will take to make a major conflagration.

The fascist dictatorships continually seem a friendly hand held out by the democracies. Germany has declared her "distrust" of Great Britain and France, even after they aided and abetted the Nazi dismemberment of Czechoslovakia. Italy has insisted her legions will remain in Spain until the Loyalists are conquered. Japan has repeatedly proffered a hand of apology to the democracies for unprovoked assaults, while the other hand prepared further aggressions.

In every case the democracies have sublimated any healthy impulse they might have had toward active resentment, for fear the fascists might be affronted. Great Britain was the chief force in preventing a proposed oil embargo against the Italians during the Ethiopian conquest from ever becoming a reality.

Later, Great Britain and France gave in on point after point during the Spanish discussions and more recently on the Czechoslovakian question. The United States, too, has indirectly aided the fascist march toward power through vacillating, fascist-aiding "neutrality" and "isolation."

The time has come, we believe, for the democracies to awaken to the Frankensteinian monster they have helped to foster. Today there is no question but that the fascists are on the offensive in world affairs. Time and again it is fascist provocation which has provided the nucleus of incident after incident, crisis after crisis. Where is this going to end, and WHEN?

There can be only one answer. Suppose a bandit were caught by the police and slaughtering, by long-suffering police. What would happen? would the police hang their heads in abashment while he cursed them for interference and promised to provide bigger and better victims in the future? Or would they resort to combined force, if necessary, to end his threat to the well-being of the community?

This leads us to another elementary lesson. A bundle of sticks, we are told, is harder to break than any stick by itself. Likewise, the whole of the democracies are greater than individual nations in the hands of doddering individuals who proclaim "peace during our time" while they stand with one foot in the grave. Were these nations to stand together as one unit for peace and democracy, fascist aggressors would be forced to listen to the voice of reason.

With every retreat by the democracies there has come a corresponding advance by the fascists. It is time for the democracies to band together, to stand firmly and unflinchingly in the face of fascist bluffs, to prove to the world that they are nations of men, and not groups of frightened mice.

This collective action, needless to say, would not necessarily involve military force. Nor would it involve the United States or any other nation as a single "policeman" over the recalcitrant fascists.

The combined armies and navies of the democracies are vastly superior to those of the fascist. Their economic resources cannot be compared to the synthetic foods and materials of the fascists. Their morale, born of a desire to live rather than a command to kill, is far higher than that of the fascists. The mere threat of collective action, backed by actual steps toward such action, would probably be enough to force Italy, Japan and Germany to think before they attempted to foist their reigns of terror yet further this long-degraded, world-opinion.

A bundle of sticks is not so easily broken as each separate faggot. United we stand, divided we fall! We could go on endlessly, repeating axioms such as these.

But the important thing is, for collective security we must have collective action!

Religion

The Modern Way

A vital religion is essential not only to give you happiness, but more important, to give you the morale without which no great achievement was ever realized.—President Eugene A. Gilmore, University Vesper Service.

With the coming of 15 outstanding men in the field of religion to the campus, students, faculty and townspeople will have an unusual opportunity to hear, to study and to evaluate religion at its highest. These men who will spend a week or so on campus are the "common touch." They are authorities not because they preach religion but because they have put it into practice in their own lives and have found that it works.

They come with the hope that they can help us to evaluate religion, life and all its problems and out of this evaluation find the way to more significant living.

We should be proud to be host to such distinguished guests. May we show our appreciation by considering what they have to say with open minds. Just as we would not pass judgment on the value of modern medicine without consulting its best authorities, neither should we pass judgment on the worth of religion until we know what it can mean to us as shown by those who are recognized leaders in the field.

The new upstart coliffure being what it is, a good many of the gals are going to win—or lose—by a neck.

Mayor Ralph C. Mitchell of Independence, Kan., is an expert at crocheting. He's not the only city executive, however, who has gone in for a little fancy work.

CLIPPED from other COLUMNS

THOSE COMING IN PEACE OCTOBER is the month of color and beauty in the temperate zones. The iron-wood wears a deep stain of scarlet. Woodbine flames along the fences and the sumac is deep carmine. All the lush forests burn with colors of beauty. It seems a paradox that thousands of individuals living in the midst of such natural loveliness should look upon this season as one tinged with fright.

This is the time of year when the varying hare dons his whitened coat and the antlers of the buck are hard and polished. The wild duck takes to the air from the marsh with a flight, long and curvously beautiful. But into this pattern of beauty come the sound of the dog running in full cry, the voices of hunters—and that final, fatal crack.

With this in mind we learned with interest of a sign posted over a wide area of woodland in Vermont. It reads: "These 50 acres of forest are for the free enjoyment of those coming in peace. Hunters and fishers will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law."

"How Far Yon Little Scandal Throws its Beans?"

TUNING IN

By Loren Hickerson

TONIGHT will see Benny Goodman, the king of swing, convert Kate Smith, the queen of the ballad singers, into a "solid sender" when the famed star gets in the groove on the Benny Goodman swing school at 8:30 tonight over the Columbia network.

Hollywood is breathing again. It's going to keep on making pictures. Even big pictures. If things had turned out differently at Munich, they'd have turned out sourly in Hollywood. Other industries—steel, food-stuffs, materials—might have enjoyed a temporary boom in the holocaust, but the movies would have taken a tailspin.

They'd have had to stick to their knitting only in a minorly colossal way. They'd have had to make little pictures for sale to domestic audiences only. They couldn't have expected foreigners to leave their bombproof shelters to ogle a screen.

There would have been no helping the "colossals" already made. "Marie Antoinette" wouldn't have had her expected boost from Europe. ("But we'll get it all back from Europe," was the stock Metro answer to "Marie's" big budget.)

"Gunga Din," calculated to cash in heavily through the British Empire, would have gone out with two strikes against it. "If I Were King," made for international appeal, would have taken a cut of at least one-third in anticipated revenues.

"Men With Wings," high-budgeted, would have turned pale, under its technicolor, just like producers all over Hollywood during the war jitters.

During that scare many a "big one" was taken off the ready-to-shoot list and put back on the shelf. Frank Lloyd had planned "Ruler of the Seas," a story of a big shipping family, but he substituted "Big Steel" as his next.

"The Light That Failed" has been on and off the schedule for several years. During the war talk it was off again—cost too much for the American market to bear alone. Peace—it's on again. "Beau Geste," "The Irish Sweepstakes," "Knights of the Roundtable"—British appeal subjects that couldn't have been undertaken but for Munich. They're all definitely on now.

"Hotel Imperial," so-called jinx picture because of its history, is on again with Isa Miranda, the Italian star who didn't make "Zaza." Marlene Dietrich started for "Hotel Imperial," walked out of the lobby. Margaret Sullivan was to take over, broke her arm. Isa was next—but if Italy had gone with Hitler on a bombing party, Isa would have been out.

Garbo and Dietrich, whose pictures generally rely on the foreign markets to show their best returns, might have been missing stars in a war season, or at least have been seen in less costly vehicles. Garbo probably wouldn't have had her "Madame Curie" but she'll have it now. Peace, it's wonderful.

Hollywood has been idling along all summer, waiting for the end and waiting for that; the gov-

A Man ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — In a mood of sharp-eyed clairvoyancy, almost indeed as if he were some ghost reporter taking notes on future events, E. Phillips Oppenheim has written a novel whose action so closely parallels the recent European crisis that it leaves your heart ticking like a taxicab meter.

This is "The Spymaster," now being serialized by a great national weekly, and the parallel between fact and fiction is so striking, especially when you consider that it was written months ago, that I am obeying the impulse to outline it for you and let you see how solidly Oppenheim scored.

This is a story of counterespionage with the totalitarian states, Germany and Italy, on the brink of war with England. So eager are they to set the drums rolling that they can scarcely conceal their impatience, believing as they do, that the empire is in no condition to wage a grueling war.

Is not this the opinion expressed recently by many of Great Britain's highest executives? In his recent and moving broadcast to the empire Prime Minister Chamberlain said: "I am myself a man of peace to the depths of my soul."

In Mr. Oppenheim's novel the prime minister declared: "You know I am a man of peace." Before the four powers met at Munich many rumors were abroad that Italy, at the zero hour, would jilt Hitler, leaving Germany like a forlorn bride at the altar, as she did in 1914.

The prime minister in "The Spymaster," in a conversation with a trusted advisor, says: "I do not think that these two nations were ever made to be allies. I don't think they would ever be able to fight a winning war against the empire. The people who as a nation are giving us the most trouble are disposed to follow the man they worship like a crazed mob, but then, after all, he has led them only to easy victories and all the time he hopes their vanity with fantastic and bombastic addresses. I don't even believe that the Italian people themselves want another war. The Germans do, of course, and they will probably get it in time."

The parallel becomes even more impressive when one remembers those urgent voices which said: sometime war will come, and since it seems to be inevitable, why not fight it now rather than give Germany additional time to gird and strengthen herself?

In the Oppenheim novel the representative of His Majesty's government observes: "If these two troublesome countries really carry out what seems to be their present intention, I think it will be, in the end, a great blessing for us all. If Germany were to wait another 10 years I don't think that we could ever complete. If she starts this trouble now—well, in the long run, I should say that her present ruler is making as wicked a mistake as the Kaiser did in '14."

That's the set-up. That's what Mr. Oppenheim wrote nearly a year ago. How it will end I am unable to guess, as the story is current and I have followed it only up to the present installment. But so far it's a perfect parallel, and, if I may be permitted to express an opinion, it is also darned good reading.

THE FILES SHOW . . . Brewster Morgan, producer of "Hollywood Hotel," has lined up six radio plays for William Powell, new master of ceremonies on the show. The organ selections are "Tovarich," which will head the university's community play series soon, "Of Human Bondage," "Trouble in Paradise," "Death Takes a Holiday," (remember the Fredric March movie?) "Tourney's End" and "By Candlelight."

BENNY GOODMAN again—this time to tell you that in addition to Kate Smith tonight, he'll present Hughes Panassie, world's greatest authority on swing music. Panassie is president of the French Hot clubs, author of the book, "Hot Jazz," which has become the swing Bible, and editor of the "Hot Jazz" magazine.

Goodman, Kate Smith and Panassie will hold a swing symposium on the air and Goodman will be made honorary president of the Hot Record society.

HOT STUFF! 4 was announced yesterday. Dean Francis M. Dawson of the college of engineering, chairman of the general committee, said that Prof. Norbert C. Hoff of the University of Notre Dame philosophy department will serve as a Catholic representative. He is former president of Carroll college of Helena, Mont.

The Jewish representative will be Max Kadushin, a rabbi who is director of the Hillel foundation at the University of Wisconsin. In addition to these speakers, 15 other men and women will come to the university to fill some 225 varied engagements.

The trouble with most investigations of communism and fascism is that they end with no dies.

Health Hints

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

The first law of thermodynamics—that's what the physicists call it. It was discovered by a brewer's son who churned water.

This is perhaps an unnecessarily dramatic way of describing James Prescott Joule, but it is quite accurate. The first law of thermodynamics states that heat energy is convertible into mechanical energy. He proved it by rigging up a paddle wheel in a box of water. He took the temperature of the water before and after he had churned it, and he found that the temperature had increased; that, in fact, the mechanical energy had been transformed into heat.

The mechanical work the body does conforms closely to this rule. In the muscle, heat produced by the burning of sugar, by its union with oxygen, is converted into mechanical energy—the movement of the muscle.

This is the main function of carbohydrate foods—the sugars and starches that are derived from vegetables, fruits, cereals and bread. Before being absorbed into the blood they are all changed in the digestive system into sugars, as sugars are stored in the liver (some storage in the muscles themselves) and are ready to be converted into energy. About half of all our food intake should be carbohydrate.

Learned from Diabetes We have learned a great deal about the mechanism of this process and we have learned it from the study of a disease—diabetes. The muscle may be compared to a gasoline engine. The gasoline is represented by the sugar. Sugar and oxygen are brought together just as gasoline vapor and air are brought together in the carburetor. The mixture requires a spark in each case. In the muscle the spark is caused by a substance produced in the pancreas, insulin.

We said yesterday that there was a disorder, a disease, known for every food element. The disease of carbohydrate nutrition is diabetes. In diabetes there is a decrease of the amount of insulin. The sugar is there in the muscles, in the blood, but not enough insulin. So the sugar remains free in the blood until it reaches the kidneys, where it flows off in the urine.

When the body is thus made to starve in the midst of plenty, it tries to obtain energy by using up its own fat and protein tissue. Thus the untreated diabetic loses weight. Highly Satisfactory The treatment of diabetes is highly satisfactory today. Even in severe diabetes the ability to utilize sugar is not entirely lost. In most cases the patient can use at least half as much as normally. Therefore, the only treatment is to reduce the amount of carbohydrate in the diet. The concentrated and sweet carbohydrate foods should be removed entirely—table sugar, candy, candy, ice cream and other "deserts," bread, crackers, molasses, waffles, wheat cakes and sweet fruits. The five, and sometimes 10, percent vegetables can be eaten in proper amounts, almost always enough to satisfy the appetite. These vegetables are those which contain five and 10 percent carbohydrate—the green vegetables, spinach, lettuce, cucumbers, etc., and sauerkraut, tomatoes, celery, cabbage, leeks, string beans, pumpkin, turnip, squash, beets, onions, carrots, mushrooms. In severe cases it is always possible to replace insulin, which is now available in crystalline form.

Little Hawks Scrimmage For Wilson Game

Team Displays More Pep as New Week Of Practice Begins

Giving his boys hard scrimmage, Coach Herb Cormack began preparations for the Little Hawks' battle with the tough Wilson high team at Cedar Rapids Thursday evening.

The varsity ran through the reserves with ease last night but the second string made many good plays during the scrimmage.

In his first string Cormack used Walsh and Crumley at ends, Beck, Mueller and Caywood alternating at tackles, Hirt, Pettig and White doing guard work and Wright at center. McGinnis was in at fullback, Buckley at quarter, Miller, Walden and McLaughlin changing off at halves.

The team showed some of the zip and pep that was so noticeably absent in City high's victory over Dubuque Friday night. Blocking was spotty though it was fast and clean when the boys were clicking.

Hammering Herman Miller showed good form shooting through the reserve line on off-tackle splices and center smashes. Buckley and McGinnis handled the passing in good style though the latter did get off some bad ones.

Net Tournney Starts Today

More Than Sixty Participants Will Swing Into Action

The all university tennis tournament, originally scheduled for Monday, gets under way today at the reserve library courts. Over 60 players are entered in the tournament.

Starting at 3:15, seven matches are scheduled: Jess Upp—Hoyt Carrier, John Paulus—Joe Park, Bob Shaver—James Wilson, Lew-Jolly—Bob Jensen, Jim Hoak—John Davis, Bob Harder—Dave Foerster, William Crowell—Dan Isaacson.

The other seven matches on today's schedule will start at 4:15 and include: Bob McGregor—Jim Bristol, Bill Best—Fred Stage, Steve Fouchek—Joe Ferrel, Willard Evans—John West, Earl Crain—John Roberts, Bob Wolfenweber—Darrell Huff, O. Tucker—Ralph Kosbau.

The draw sheets for the tournament are posted at the courts.

West Branch Next For Blue Gridders

The U - High gridders were given a light workout yesterday as they began preparations for the invasion of West Branch Friday afternoon.

More than pleased with the great blocking that his warriors exhibited in their overwhelming victory over Mt. Vernon Friday, Coach Brechler gave his attention to signal drill and mastering of a few new plays in yesterday's short session.

The locals will go to West Branch seeking revenge for last year's 6-0 beating handed them there. Besides this the Blues will be pitted against one of their old team mates, Leo Tesar, who is the star fullback on the West Branch team. Tesar's great line plunging has been a large factor in the successful season that West Branch has enjoyed this year, and it can be depended upon that he will be out to cause his former team mates all the trouble he can.

BITS about Sports

By J. DENNIS SULLIVAN

Henry Luebecke, Chuck Irvine, Carl Conrad and Joe Moore certainly looked good in yesterday's practice session as the Hawkeyes settled down to intensive work for the Purdue game Saturday.

A "new play" called — bounce The Daily Iowan sports representatives — look particularly good. It wouldn't be at all surprising if it didn't develop into the best play of the year — from a strictly Hawkeye viewpoint.

The "play" goes something like this: A reporter stands around the practice field for perhaps 15 or 20 minutes — if he can stand it that long — then he's grasped, none too gently and definitely firmly, by the arms, legs or whatever part of his anatomy offers itself, and conducted from the premises. It's a "honey," but I've been wondering why it hasn't been used on some of Iowa's grid opponents prior to yesterday's performance.

A "play" with such potentialities shouldn't be hidden from the general public which pays its hard-earned money each Saturday to see the Hawkeyes perform. If Luebecke and his companions are one-half as effective against the Boilermakers as they were against us — John Mooney, Daily Iowan editor, and myself — they should be a cinch to take the Purdue waterboy out of every play.

And, after all, who can deny that it would add color to the Iowa team? When it comes right down to the facts, blocking and tackling are such a bother and aren't nearly as effective as tossing newspaper men off the practice field and not nearly as spectacular. Think how much more entertaining it would be to watch the four mentioned above toss spectators from the stadium than to sit through 60 minutes of the brand of football dished up by the Iowans in the Colgate game. I, for one, will go on record as saying it would outdraw anything the Hawkeyes could possibly present the remainder of this sad season.

It seems hardly fair that the coaching staff — which must have had some knowledge of this play — waited until this late date to spring it. Perhaps our own and lost record would be much more favorable had it been used against U. C. L. A., Wisconsin and Colgate instead of selfishly withholding such a magnificent offensive maneuver for a couple of newsmen who didn't even have the ball when they were taken out of the play. At any rate, if no longer can be truthfully said that Luebecke failed to take the opposition out of a play — if Mooney and I can be called opposition — as we were certainly taken out; taken out with considerably more dispatch than any of their grid opponents to date.

Iowa Trackmen Compete Today In Discus Event

One of the most important events of the University of Iowa's fall track program, the Dutton discus throw, will take place this afternoon.

The Dutton competition, a biennial affair, was won last fall by Phil Strom and Bill Leuz last spring. Tomorrow night will find university men competing in the Rotary club javelin throw, an event which dates back to 1924.

The winner last spring, Carl Ryerson, holds the record with a heave of 180-9.

Michigan Fears Zuppke's Aerial Antics

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 24 (AP)—Given a scare by Yale's success in completing passes, Michigan went through a drill against aerials as preparations opened today for the game here with Illinois Saturday.

Coach Fritz Crisler said he was unimpressed by the 15 to 13 win over the Elis at New Haven, asserting that "Now that my boys didn't have the field day they expected, perhaps they will get down to work." The lineup that took the field against Yale was kept intact today.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 24 (AP)—One possible change in the Minnesota starting lineup for the Northwestern game appeared today as Coach Bernie Bierman continued to use Allen Rork at right tackle in place of Charlie Schultz.

Rork, a veteran guard who was transferred to tackle only this season, has been working out the first team for more than a week.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 24 (AP)—Indiana university's football team, beaten for the third time this season by Kansas State last Saturday, began building a defense today against formations of Wisconsin's Badgers, whom the Hoosiers will meet Saturday at Madison.

Coach Bo McMillin used Ray Dumke of St. Joseph, Mich., at fullback in place of Eddie Herbert of Gary.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 24 (AP)—Purdue gridders who shared in a 13-to-7 football victory over Wisconsin last Saturday went through a limbering up session today while reserves scrimmaged. The Boilermakers will play at Iowa this week end. In the Wisconsin game, tackle and Co-Captain Joe Mihail was kicked in the face and his injury required several stitches, but he was expected to be back in action within a week.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 24 (AP)—University of Wisconsin football players today received their first vacation since the start of the season. Half of Coach Harry Stuhldreher's squad is nursing bruises and strains, and spirits are at a low for the season after the defeat from Purdue Saturday. Preparations for the homecoming game next Saturday with Indiana begin tomorrow.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 24 (AP)—Northwestern's undefeated, unscored upon Wildcats ran signals and perfected their offensive timing today as drills began for Saturday's all important Big Ten clash with Minnesota's defending champions.

Coach Lynn Waldorf praised the line's performance against Illinois Saturday and said the entire team was "getting a good conception of defense," something he has shown considerable concern about since the start of the season.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (AP)—The Chicago Maroons, soundly whipped in three Big Ten engagements in which their foes rolled up 114 points, began preparations today for De Pauw, the first of three successive non-conference assignments. Coach Clark Shaugnessy ordered only a light workout for the regulars and said there was a possibility Big Mort Goodstein, who has been used at fullback, might be shifted to left tackle to strengthen the line.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 24 (AP)—Mel Brewer, regular Illinois quarterback this season until a knee injury forced him out of action, returned to the lineup today as a guard when numerous injuries forced Coach Bob Zuppke to juggle his lineup.

Dolphin Show Next Thurs.

Twenty Acts To Be Presented During Course of Evening

Next Thursday evening the doors of the fieldhouse will be thrown open for the first showing of the Dolphin club's annual water carnival. The presentation is called the "Dolphin Follies of 1938" and is scheduled for a three-night run.

Billed as the greatest show ever given by the club in its 19 years, there are 20 acts to be reeled off in the course of the evening. The attendance is expected to far surpass the total, 2500, which viewed last year's production.

The scenery and lighting are to be superior to anything which the dolphins have ever exhibited. Benefiting from past experience along these lines, new lighting effects have been devised to give the scenery life which it has never before shown. A blending of floodlamps of all colors, both above and below water, will light the canvas backdrop, which is painted to represent marine life, and give the "sea denizens" a life-like appearance. The queen's throne, reflecting the spirit of the scenery, is to be a huge seashell from which she and her attendants will preside over the carnival.

The various clown acts are expected to cause the spectators to literally "roll in the aisles." The "Follies Dance" will be given by a group of swimmers dressed in mermaid costumes with all the trimmings. The flat-footed dancing sextet probably is the funniest performing group ever to throw a hoof in any of the long list of carnivals. The clog dance to be given by George Poulos and Jack O'Mahoney, one short and the other extremely tall, is sure for a good laugh.

Many a one in the audience will be reminded of the styles which were once "the thing" on the beaches when he sees swimming suits worn in the show that date from 1890 down to 1920—those with the skirts on which went down past the knees and which were further equipped with modest stockings.

Three drill teams will put on a feature act of the show in an exhibition of coordinated grace in the water. The freshman swimmers will present the "Fountain of Youth" in which water will rise 16 feet in the air while colored lights flash on and off.

The varsity performers are to give a demonstration of group speed swimming using all the recognized strokes. Their high dive from the platform near the ceiling of the pool will probably furnish the spectators their biggest "chill" of the carnival. The men will leave their perches in half-second intervals with "spots" trained on them as they make the terrifying plunge.

The "White Shadow" drillmen are scheduled to get the "ahs" of the audience while going through their routines coated with a luminous grease. In addition to the luminous grease, the men will be equipped with small lights attached to their wrists and chests. Much of the time, of course, they will perform in utter darkness.

In addition to the fancy diving, trapeze acts and under-water swimming, there will be numerous other acts which are to be announced next week by members of the committees.

Professor Paul Mickelson and His Pupils In Their Monday Class Discuss the Games

Getchell's Boner In Carnegie-Notre Dame Game Foremost Point

By PAUL MICKELSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—It was like old home week in the old professor's Monday morning classroom for college football coaches today. All the bewhiskered old man's fair-haired boys sat in or near the favorite seats, my beeping about decisions and giving each other the needle in professional style. In honor of the somewhat rare occasion, the professor wore his famed red vest and had Tulane's Red Dawson pass around some of his exclusive Mankato cider.

Professor: What is so rare as a field day for football favorites? Even Evansville won again and the wolves are 8 1/2 years away from Dana Bible down in Texas. And Bernie Bierman had a day off. Hey! Elmer, I thought you and Bill weren't speaking since Referee Johnny-on-the-spot Getchell got mixed up on those downs?

Getchell's Fault Bill Kern, Carnegie Tech: It wasn't Elmer's fault, professor, but it was Getchell's. Getchell told Friedlander it was third down when it was fourth, my boys tried to run the ball over and lost it on downs on our 47-yard line. It took the heart right out of my boys, professor. We never would have run the ball on fourth down with 11 minutes to play, a wind in our face, against a major opponent and the score tied. Give me another swig of that cider, Red.

Elmer Layden, Notre Dame: Our tackling was poor and our fumbling awful. As to the controversy between Kern and Getchell, professor, I merely point out to you, sir, that we have never received five downs to make 10 yards. Why should Tech?

Professor: I'm for authority, first and last. Getchell made a mistake, admits it, and let's not be too hard on him. He is going to work the next T. C. U. game?

Paddy Driscoll, Marquette: Professor, I've no quarrel with Getchell or anybody but a flock of blind men could work at T. C. U. game and it'd still be T. C. U. Wow, professor, I'm a believer. I saw Pitt a week ago and I think this T. C. U. gang is probably the only team in the country that could give Pitt a battle. Pitt's line is a little faster but not as big. And that Davey O'Brien! Professor, the fellow's a wonder. Our soph center, Ray Apolskis, was still in there. Watch him, boys.

The Irish Dutch Meyer, T. C. U.: Yes, professor, the Irish are a great race, especially the O'Briens. If we didn't have five southwest teams laying for us every Saturday until December, I might be able to enjoy myself. Baylor has a boy named Patterson, who pitches strikes, too.

Stub Allison, California: With Washington, the toughest club we've faced, out of the way, professor, I think we have a slim chance for the Pacific coast title. I thought we were licked until Vic Bottari saw something and got a chance to work it in the third period.

Jimmy Phelan, Washington: Well, we lost to the 1938 champs, professor. There's nobody in this league that can beat Cal. Aside from ends, I think California compares favorably with Minnesota.

Bernie Bierman, Minnesota: Please leave us out of it. We have Northwestern Saturday and,

First Girl Sports Reporter Finds Grid Session Rather Involved; Wouldn't Care For Regular Beat

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This space is turned over to Maxine Reams, society reporter, who pinch-hits for the forcibly ejected Daily Iowan sports representatives.)

By MAXINE REAMS Daily Iowan Society Reporter Monday, Oct. 24

Dear Diary:—I had more fun today—I watched a football practice. I was standing on the sidewalk peeping through the canvas they had all around the field when all the fellows came out.

Before anything else started, they all went through a series of reducing exercises—deep-knee-bending, bicycling, etc. I'd think it would be awfully hard with all the clothes they had on.

Some of them were wearing the funniest outfits. The trousers were more or less on the "dirndl" style—gathered at the waist and gartered at the knee. They had on barge-style, high-topped shoes with cleats on the bottom — sort of like Alpine boots. Their hose were made of a variety of lengths and colors, but the prevailing mode was in some new knee-length woolens.

On top, they wore some kind of sweater—jersey, I think, with long sleeves and crew necks with padded shoulders. They had on some off-the-face hats — "helmets" I think they call them.

There were five or six of the fellows wearing masks or something. They looked hideous. I still can't figure out whether they were just playing "guess who?" or merely trying to scare the other boys. I'd sure run the other way if I saw one of them coming at me.

Some other fellows were sitting on a bench. They were wearing some hooded things—sort of like these cellophane rain caps all the girls wear on rainy days—only they were more like slip-over sweaters and had patch pockets at the waist.

And I saw something else I can't figure out. Some of the fellows had on some things that looked like kitchen aprons—only they were padded like quilted lounging robes — and sort of tattle-tale gray in color. The same fellows wore contrasting sweaters.

After the exercises they chose up sides — eleven men on a side — and they lined up with seven men in front and four behind. The two groups of seven were facing each other with the ball in the middle. Then one of the fellows would sort of stand on his head and throw the ball back from between his legs to another fellow. Then the two lines of seven would start pushing and shoving and sticking their hands in each other's faces, and the fellow who had the ball would run behind another fellow or two until someone grabbed him and he fell down. Then they'd all pile up in a heap. In a few minutes they'd get up again, and they'd put the ball back in the middle, and start all over.

And they were very polite about it, too. I thought they were really having a fight, but every boy would help the others up, and tell them how sorry he was if he had hurt them, and pat them on the back, and then they'd start fighting again. It was like a wrestling match only they didn't have any gongs. If they do that every night, I don't see how they stay in one piece long enough to have anything left when they get into a real game.

Every once in a while, one of the fellows would run backwards and throw the ball over the heads of all the others. Then someone would knock it down and they'd go right back where they started. Looked like they were playing keep-away — only when somebody would catch the ball they'd take it away from him and start all over again.

I was worn out when they finally quit. Imagine going through a beating like that for almost two hours. I don't think I'd want to go again, but it was fun this once. But I have to go to bed now. G'night, diary.

Touchballers Resume Play

Starting another week of intramural competition, touchballers yesterday battled through four games in the B league of the Greek letter division.

Phi Epsilon Pi took the closest game on the day's program by edging out Sigma Alpha Epsilon by the margin of one field goal, 3-0. In another close one, Phi Epsilon Kappa nosed out Beta Theta Pi, 26-20, while Delta Upsilon triumphed Phi Kappa Psi, 21-8 and Phi Delta Theta outplayed Phi Kappa Sigma, 18-7. Theta Tau forfeited to Alpha Chi Sigma.

professor, they're tough on Gophers.

Bob Zuppke, Illinois: I'm glad that Northwestern game is over, professor. I don't know what a car of juggernauts is but they say Northwestern rolled over us like one and I don't want any more rides. Our boys will do better later.

Marvelous Passing Fritz Crisler, Michigan: The whole Yale team played like all-Americas behind the most marvelous passing attack I've ever seen. I'm proud of the way my boys came back, especially proud of Captain Janke and Ralph Heinikinen.

Ducky Pond, Yale: So am I proud. My boys, especially Captain Bill Platt, Charlie Miller and Bud Humphrey, never let down.

Local H.S. Launches Project

Series of Six Events Planned By Music Dept.

Mothers in Charge Of 90 I. C. Districts; Meeting Tomorrow

This week the Music auxiliary of the Iowa City high school will launch a new project in the form of a series of six varied concerts which will be presented throughout the year by the members of the high school music department. Tickets for this concert series will go on sale next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Extensive plans are being made for the campaign. Iowa City has been divided into 90 regions with a mother of a music student in charge of each division. Mrs. L. F. Swartley is in charge of the sales.

Tomorrow at 2:15 p.m. there will be an important general meeting of all the mothers who are taking part in the drive. They will meet in the council chambers of the city hall.

The six concerts in the series include a cantata, "The Rose Maiden" (Frederick H. Cowen), a band and orchestra concert, a small ensemble program, a band concert, a vocal presentation and an orchestra concert.

Endorse Music Project

All residents of Iowa City except those who have arrived here within the last few months are familiar with the outstanding record which has been made by the music organizations of the Iowa City schools. The beginning of organized instrumental music as a definite part of the school curriculum was made 11 years ago. From the humble beginning of that time it has grown and developed until the performances of the band, orchestra and various ensembles have approached the better professional organizations in quality. The results produced have been a revelation to everyone who has become acquainted with them. Twenty years ago no one would have believed that high school bands and orchestras could be developed to the point where the state and national contests have shown many of them to be. These contests have furnished the motivation for the work and practice which have produced the high standards of performance exhibited in them.

Honors have been brought to our high school and city so frequently during the last five years by the music organizations and soloists that they have come to be expected. In the 1937 national contest in Columbus the Iowa City high school representatives won highest honors in 26 events, and last May in the regional contest at Minneapolis they won highest honors in all events.

We are proud of these achievements and the boys and girls who made them. We are enthusiastic about the teachers who made them possible. But there is another group of people to whom we owe a debt of gratitude and without whose work it would not have been possible to achieve the fine results obtained. The Music auxiliary, composed of parents of the pupils in the music organizations, has done yeoman service in raising money for expenses for the contest trips. This year the parents are sponsoring a ticket sale for a high school concert course in order to raise money to continue sending representatives to the district and regional contests. These concerts promise to maintain the high standards of the past and will furnish more than

As president of the University, I am pleased to express my appreciation for the valuable work of the music department of the city schools and to commend the efforts of those who support this activity. Good music has a high cultural value which coordinates it with the objectives of the University and of those concerned with higher education. Not only are the technicians valuable to those who acquire them, but the sense of artistic appreciation is something which is never lost and so tends always to improve the attitude of its possessor toward the higher things of life.

Linton Wells, Famous Adventurer-Explorer, Speaks Tonight

'Latin America' To Be Topic Of Discussion

First Lecturer

Linton Wells, above, famous world correspondent to newspapers and radio, will open the 1938-39 university lecture series at 8 o'clock tonight in Iowa Union. His subject is "Latin America - Today and Tomorrow."

Roving Reporter To Open New Lecture Series of 1938-'39

Linton Wells, ace newspaper correspondent and radio's roving reporter, will speak before the general public tonight at 8 o'clock in the main lounge of Iowa Union. He will open the 1938-39 university lecture series with "Latin America - Today and Tomorrow" as his subject.

Wells, whose work in reporting the Italo-Ethiopian war stamped him as one of the great reporters of the day, began his career as a correspondent and staff writer for newspapers, syndicates and magazines in 1911. He was then 19 years old.

Since that time he has served with the International News Service, the Associated Press, the New York Herald-Tribune and other newspapers and press associations.

He was seriously injured in line of duty in the Japanese earthquake of 1923, and became the first aerial stowaway in the first round-the-world flight in 1924. When the Prince of Wales toured Canada and the United States that same year, Linton Wells was a member of the party.

Two years later, he established a record for circumnavigating the world and made the first flight in history over eastern Russia and Siberia.

Wells' record as a war correspondent began with the Chinese revolutions of 1912-1915 and extended through the Mexican campaigns of 1916, the post-war troubles in Asia, Minor and Siberia, and the war of Abd El Krim against Spanish and French forces in Morocco.

He has been given commissions as a lieutenant in the Chinese republican army, a major in Carranza's Mexican forces and a colonel in the Nicaraguan air force, besides having been decorated a dozen times by foreign governments.

He is also the author of several books, the latest of which is the current best-seller "Blood on the Moon."

Wells is vitally interested in South America and is a keen student of relationships between the Americas. In his lecture here tonight he will discuss various phases of Inter-American relations.

Admission to the lecture is by ticket. Any tickets which remain today will be available to the general public and may be secured at the Iowa Union desk.

One hundred ninety-two models were entered in the Rockefeller center competition for a design for a bronze panel to be placed above the entrance of the Associated Press building.

First prize was won by Isamu Noguchi, an American-born Japanese. Mr. Noguchi's panel, dramatizing the modern facilities of the press, comprises the figures of five men molded into close unity. Camera, Telephone, Wirephoto, Teletype and the reporter's pad and pencil make clear the function of each man. In the lower right hand corner is an abstract figure symbolizing mankind in the focus of the news.

Judges for the competition were John Gregory, sculptor and president of the National Sculptor's society; Holger Cahill, national director of the Federal Art project; Lloyd Stratton, assistant general manager of the Associated Press; Walter K. Christian Mission Secretary To Return to Life in India

By JEAN WITMER

Leaving the United States December 2, Eunice Jones, secretary of the Christian Mission group which is coming next week to the University of Iowa for Religious Emphasis week, will have to readjust herself to the life in India which she knew before she came to this country five years ago.

Miss Jones will return to a more interesting and exciting life than the most fabulous day-dream of an American coed. Bazaars to which the natives come on elephant-back, lakes which allegedly have goddesses that demand one human sacrifice a year, and a rajah who sends his elephant over for Miss Jones to ride are within her experience.

She will return to India after five years of study in the United States. A degree in English from the American university in Washington, D. C., and an additional year in business school are behind her as she travels over our country as secretary of the group.

Miss Jones' high school education was at a school in the Himalaya mountains in the village of Neih Tal, the site of the lake where the goddess reigns supreme.

From there she went to Rome for eight months of study. Her first vivid experience with Americans occurred here, when she overheard an American tourist exclaiming over the Roman Coliseum, "What an interesting building! Why didn't they finish it?"

In India, Miss Jones said, the food is at one extreme or the other . . . either very flat or very peppery. Curry and rice are the main dishes and all sweetmeats are served on leaves. Tea is the main beverage, as all water must be boiled before it can be used.

If a person should wear American-styled clothes in India, her position would be similar to that of an American lady wearing Vogue dresses three years in advance.

Eunice will leave from New York and go home by way of England. When she arrives in India she will serve her father as secretary and try to adjust herself from a typical American coed to the customs of her native land.

Three More Firms 100% Considerable Work Still Remains In Community Drive

Three more firms have been added to the list of organizations 100 per cent in their subscription to the 1938 Iowa City Community Chest campaign, Roscoe E. Taylor, general chairman of the drive, announced last night.

These firms, including the Skelly Oil company, Sinclair Oil company, and the Saltzman Furniture company, will be presented certificates of Loyalty, as have 12 other firms to date.

Taylor expressed hope that solicitors would take advantage of the present good weather and make all their contacts so that follow up work can be completed. Considerable work remains to be done in the University hospital, university and business divisions where contacts are harder to make.

The residential division comes the nearest to making their quota of $1,225, and according to their director will reach that goal soon. The employe group was the only group to report yesterday, their total now being $1,250.25, with not all returns in as yet.

While a number of solicitors had been unable to begin work until this week, well over the last estimated report of $1,000 has been subscribed to the chest.

Jugoslavia has now decided to compete for winter sports and great ski centers have been established at Ljubljana, Bled, Kranjska Gora and on Mount Orjen, where snow flies from October till May.

HOSTESS HINTS

Whenever we smell burning leaves, feel the chilly evenings, and see the autumn haze under the trees we think of bright fireplaces, cosy Sunday evening suppers with old friends with whom to laugh and reminisce. Cider and doughnuts, polished red apples, and nuts to crack or burn in the fire as friendship tokens — all dear traditions of fall.

Here are some suggestions for refreshments — an important part of the good-fellow feeling at informal suppers any evening.

Scrambled Eggs With Sausage
1-2 cup diced sausage
4 eggs
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon celery salt
1-8 teaspoon paprika

Place sausages in a hot frying pan. Cook for five minutes with frequent stirring with a fork. Add the rest of the ingredients mixed together. Cook slowly, turning constantly with fork, until thick and creamy.

Chocolate Nut Waffles
2 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 cup granulated sugar
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-4 cup cocoa
3 egg yolks
1-2 cups milk
1-2 cup shortening melted
1-2 cup broken pecans
3 egg whites, beaten
Mix ingredients. Bake waffles and serve them hot with creamy sauce.

Creamy Sauce
1-3 cup butter
1-2 cups confectioners sugar
1-2 cup cream
1-4 cup boiling water

Professor Shocked By Paris Habits

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Women smoked cigarettes and men made love in public 30 years ago, judging by the diary of the late Frank L. Haller, former regent of the University of Nebraska.

The diary dug from its hiding place and given to the university library, describes Haller's visit to a Parisian sidewalk cafe where "women smoked cigarettes and the fellow even kissed his partner's arm, halfway up between the wrist and elbow."

Five in One Family Are at Same College

DALLAS, Texas (AP) — Establishing a new record at Southern Methodist university, five sons and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. O'Beirne of Dallas are attending the institution this year.

Three of the children are freshmen, one a sophomore and another a junior. Another daughter expects to attend SMU when she completes high school. Still another is an SMU graduate.

Sieverding Congratulates Local American Legion Post No. 17

Membership Drive Brings In Record List of 191 New Men

Dr. George Maresh Announces Goal Of 400 New Members

"Fine work gentlemen. Your campaign should be extended throughout the country," declared State Commander Vic Sieverding as he congratulated the members of the local Roy L. Chopek American Legion post 17 on the results of their past week's membership drive.

Meeting for dinner in the community building at 7 p.m. the local post presented the state commander with a record list of 191 new paid members. Drive Leader Dr. George Maresh stated, however, that the campaign would be on until Nov. 11 and that the ultimate goal was 400 members.

Compliments Officials
Commander Sieverding complimented the officials on "taking a definite step toward placing the Iowa branch of the American Legion in its rightful place with regard to the other states." The present Iowa membership includes only about 40 per cent of the eligible men.

Regarding civic work carried on by the organization the speaker pointed out that "the democracy of tomorrow depended on the youth of today" and that all child welfare work should be encouraged "to the fullest extent."

He also explained that it would be necessary for the modern American youth to be schooled in democracy even as the boys of Italy and Germany are being taught the principles and virtues of their dictator governments.

To Defend Principles
With reference to the position of the American Legion in the United States, Commander Sieverding stated it to be of vital importance since it stood ready as an organized vigilant body prepared to defend the principles of Americanism.

"The outlying branches of the Legion program cover every stratum of society and therefore they influence the whole of society," he asserted.

During the program Lou Clark, past department vice commander, introduced visiting legionnaires to the assembly. Other officials present were Ben Nichols, district commander, B. M. Ricketts, post commander and Dr. John Voss, entertainment chairman.

Concluding the meeting Mayor Myron J. Walker addressed the legion members in behalf of Navy Day, Thursday. In his talk he outlined the history and progress of the American navy and its significance as a "first line of defense."

AROUND THE TOWN

With MERLE MILLER

NO SIGNIFICANCE

—I'm happy to say—

Of that rare minority who deal for what seems to me music at its best, ought to know about Norman Ross morningly, 7-8, WTAM . . . The only un-oily morning voice in radio. . . Also the 11:30 to midnight half-hour WENR does in the night hours.

And did you hear the story Deems Taylor told between halves of the Philharmonic Sunday afternoon? . . .

A young German boy who had been raised by Swedish foster-parents returned to their home in Sweden. . . They were playing a recording by Richard Tauber, a Jew. . . And the boy plugged his ears so that he would not hear. . .

The next day they played another Tauber record, not telling him who it was. . . The boy loved it and praised it. . . Then they told him who the singer was. . .

When a few minutes later they found him in the garden, he was weeping, weeping because he had dared enjoy the music of a Jew. . .

Ed Gunberg, who has quite the most delightful (and convincing) pros for the Nazi scheme, believes the Reich goes forward these days, in the literary way. . .

The idea's to abandon the defeatists — and the smut admirers — to return to an earthy kind of folk literature. . . Rotvaag's "Giants in the Earth," for example, is one of the most-admired of American-published works. . .

The Nazis heartily subscribe to American Prefaces (It's in the Heidelberg library where Ed spent most of a year) principally because it's the spokesman of the middle west, promotes the idea of "regionalism." . . That's the Nazi idea, a literature for every region.

And Grant Wood's paintings are also admired, not, of course, for political reasons. . .

Now that Lindbergh has been given a Hitler medal, friends are wondering if it's really worth much more than what the Russians tried to hang on him. . .

Those Freddie Martin Sunday evening hours are, in passing, the best popular music on the air. . .

I can't tell yet, but, no kidding, the Pica Ball musical org will probably be judged the year's best. . . From my own prejudiced stand point, of course. . .

It's still one of the thrilling, the Margaret Sullivan emoting in "Three Comrades" — which I dropped in on again yesterday afternoon. . .

The Book Shop's teasing Linton Wells this aft. . . And Martini, for the autograph pushers, will arrive at 12:55 p.m. tomorrow, Rock Island. . . And the publicity man reports "he'll be glad to greet all his fans."

In a political science class yesterday there was a one-question surprise test about a subject everyone's mentioning these days. . . "Define fascism," it asked. . . Not one of the 35 could do it. . .

By the by, that low, sickening thud you hear is the flop of the late Iowa "Men's Week." . . by yesterday afternoon not even the committee members remembered it was on. . .

Nice idea, though. . . Nice for high schools. . .

Topics Of

The Day

(Editor's Note: This column will appear on and off and will deal with various issues in and about town. All readers are invited to voice their opinions through this column.)

Today's topic is: What do you think is the matter with the Iowa football team?

Dean Travis, A3 of Allerton—"The team lacks the backing of the student body. I think the coach and the material are okay, but the players have too much work to do for self support."

Mary Dee Schultz, A2, Center Point—"We need a new coaching staff. There was no blocking at all in the games I've seen."

Zona Hill, A1, Cedar Rapids—"There seems to be an utter lack of school spirit."

Pete Hahn, A4, Eau Claire, Wis.—"There's no zip or snap to the team. At times they seem sort of lackadaisical—not giving a hoot whether they win or not. Personally I can't see why everything goes wrong. Maybe Iowa is jinxed. The material is good enough."

Everett Taylor, A1, Ruthven—"I don't think it's the boys. It's the training—or lack of it."

Darrell Kiddie, A2, Des Moines—"It doesn't look to me as if the football players are the stars they are supposed to be."

Howard Schmoebelann, Princess Cafe—"There must be something wrong with the coaching, or they wouldn't have a man play his heart out during the week and play only a few minutes on Saturday. That would cause anybody to lose all spirit—taking punishment and not getting into the game. It's not the men—that's for sure."

Bill Cody, A1, Denver, Colo.—"School spirit is not all it should be. The individuals seem to be good men."

Richard Witt, A2, Shell Rock—"The team appears to be poorly drilled in fundamentals—blocking and tackling. The strategy and field generalship is also at fault."

"Blondie" Blecha, 918 East Jefferson street—"Fraternity boys drove Howard Jones out. Why don't the 'I' men bring him back? Jones was okay and so was Ossie Solem. Solem and Jones coached teams are winning ball games."

"Iowa has the material, the coaching isn't as bad as it is made out to be. It is something else, and I believe that the rotten political tie — up in the athletic department is the cause of it all. That's what was wrong at Michigan. They tried it on Jock Sutherland at Pitt—but he wouldn't have stood for it. Iowa needs a new athletic regime."

Robert Coen, C3, Iowa City—"Iowa needs more guys to tell them what they need. I'm calling a meeting of the Monday morning quarter backs."

John Paulus, A2, Iowa City—"One man should have authority. The coach should be athletic director."

More than 20,000 balloons were released at the opening kick-off of the Minnesota-Michigan football fracas.

How to start a football argument

JUST tell somebody that football today is downright soft compared with the game in the 90's. You'll have "Pudge" Heffelfinger, all-time All-American guard, to back you up on page 16 of this week's Post. Barred (at 52!) from playing against Yale because he was too rough, "Pudge" tells why old-timers wouldn't stoop to tackling a dummy, and what modern stars rank with football's great.

ALSO . . . "I HAVE JUST THE RIGHT HUSBAND FOR YOU!" Lucia had it all planned out. But Agnes Burke Hale shows you how even a Splendid Executive Wife doesn't always guess right . . . "I GOT FED UP WITH MURDER." Arthur Train speaking, as he concludes My Day in Court, the colorful account of his experiences in New York's old Criminal Courts Building. Here's his own story of how he went from prosecuting criminals to writing about them. . . QUEER NURSEMAIDS these South Africans have! Tame baboons! In The Human Taint, you'll learn what happened when wild and tame baboon met—with a young child's life at stake. By William J.
